The Cambridge Poets

BROWNING MRS. BROWNING BURNS BYRON CHAUCER ' DRYDEN ENGLISH AND SCOTTISH } HELEN CHILD SARGENT POPULAR BALLADS HOLMES KEATS LONGFELLOW LOWELL MILTON POPE SCOTT SHAKESPEARE SHELLEY SPENSER TENNYSON WHITTIER WORDSWORTH

Edited by HORACE E. SCUDDER HARRIET WATERS PRESTON W. E. HENLEY PAUL E. MORE F. N. ROBINSON GEORGE R. NOYES George L. Kittredge HORACE E. SCUDDER HORACE E. SCUDDER HORACE E. SCUDDER HORACE E. SCUDDER HARRIS FRANCIS FLETCHER HENRY W. BOYNTON HORACE E. SCUDDER W. A. NEILSON GEORGE E. WOODBERRY R. E. NEIL DODGE WILLIAM J. ROLFE HORACE E SCUDDER A. J. GEORGE

The Acropolis

HOUGHTON MIFFLIN COMPANY BOSTON

Cambridge Edition

The Riverside Press Cambridge

COPYRIGHT, 1905, BY HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN AND CO. COPYRIGHT, 1933, BY PAUL ELMER MORE ALL RIGHTS RESERVED

> The Liberside Press CAMBRIDGE MASSACHUSETTS PRINTED IN THE U S A

EDITOR'S NOTE

THE text of Byron's poetry here presented was prepared some seven or eight years ago, and the notes written, before the new seven-volume edition published by Mr. Murray (grandson of the John Murray who was Byron's friend and original publisher) was on the market. It seemed advisable, however, to hold the manuscript until the completion of this elaborate work, in order that the new material taken by Mr Ernest Hartley Coleridge from various MSS might be included Mr Coleridge's text is based on the edition of 1831, and where possible has been collated with the original autographs. By the present editor the edition of 1832-33 was adopted as the more desirable guide The words are with few exceptions the same in both sources, but there is considerable valiance in the use of capitals and italics, the advantage being in favor of the later publication Byron, it is known, was perfectly reckless in these matters, and the printed texts represent the taste of Murray's advisers rather than that of the poet With the exception of marking the è in ed when pronounced, and other minor alterations, the present text conforms in respect to spelling, capitals, and italics with that of 1832-33. The usage is inconsistent, if not freakish, but there is some profit, perhaps, in thus preserving the The punctuation was a more difficult atmosphere and emphasis of the author's age problem Byron himself was content to sprinkle his page with dashes, and Murray's printer put in points and commas where he chose Since the old punctuation did not at all emanate from the poet, and since it is often annoying, not to say misleading, no scruple has been felt in altering it as far as was desired The task was difficult and unsatisfactory, for the long sentences and loose grammar of Byron made a complete change to the modern system impracticable The result is a somewhat arbitrary compromise, but offers to the reader, it is hoped, fewer obstacles than he will meet in any other edition.

After the completion of the new Murray edition the manuscript of the present text was compared with that word for word, and advantage was taken of the very few corrections based on the MSS accessible to Mr Colendge In general it may be said that this collation confirmed the present editor in his opinion that the edition of 1832-33 is a better guide than that of 1831. But it would be ungenerous to slur over the obligation to that monumental undertaking, and in particular acknowledgment is due (and, in each specific case, given) for the new material there for the first time printed

In the arrangement of the poems two things were aimed at — chronology and convenience. An absolute ordering in accordance with chronology is practically impossible; it would necessitate, for instance, the insertion of a mass of stuff between the two parts of Childe Harold, and would result in other obvious absurdities A compromise was therefore adopted. The poems are arranged in groups, — Childe Harold, Shorter Poems, Satires, Tales, Italian Poems, Dramas, Don Juan, — and these groups are placed in general chronological sequence. In this way it is easy to perceive how Byron's manner passed from genre to genre as his genius developed Within each group the poems follow strictly the date of composition, or, when this is unknown, the date of publication

The notes, owing to the size of the volume, are confined to such points as are necessary for rendering the text intelligible Byron was already well annotated, and large use has been made of the traditional matter handed down from the editions published immediately after the poet's death. The language of these notes has been adopted, or adapted, without scruple. Some assistance, too, has been derived from the investigations of Mr. Coleridge, yet with all these helps no slight amount of labor has been expended by the present editor in the pursuit of accuracy and serviceability. Almost all of Byron's own notes have been taken over. But the long excursions, which were appended to Childe Harold and some of the other poems, have been omitted These were, in part, the work of Hobhouse, and for the rest belong with Byron's prose works rather than with his verse. They would only increase the bulk of the volume without adding appreciably to its value.

In both the body of the book and the notes, all matter not proceeding from Byron himself is inclosed in square brackets.

P. E. M.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

IOGRAPHICAL SKETCH	NI X1
CHILDE HAROLD'S PILGRIMAGE	1
SHORTER POEMS.
HOURS OF IDLENESS
ON THE DEATH OF A YOUNG LADY
The F	84
To D	85 85
EPITAPH ON A FRIEND	85
A FRAGMENT. WHEN TO THEIR	00
A FRAGMENT. 'WHEN, TO THEIR AIRY HALL, MY FATHERS' VOICE'.	85
ON LEAVING NEWSTEAD ABBEY .	86
LINES WRITTEN IN 'LETTERS TO AN ITALIAN NUN AND AN ENGLISH
GENTLEMAN BY J. J ROUSSEAU
FOUNDED ON FACTS'	86
Adrian's Address to his Soul when
DTING	87
TRANSLATION FROM CATLLEUS AD
LESBIAM	87
TRANSLATION OF THE EPITAPH ON VIRGIL AND TIBULLUS	87
IMITATION OF TIBULLUS	87
TRANSLATION FROM CATULLUS .	87
IMITATED FROM CATULIUS	88
TRANSLATION FROM HORACE	88
FROM ANACREON	88
FROM ANACREON .	83
FROM THE PROMETHEUS VINCTUS OF
Æschylus	89
TO EMMA. To M S G.	89 90
TO CAROLINE	90
TO CAROLINE	90
TO CAROLINE	91
TO CAROLINE	91
STANZAS TO A LADY, WITH T POEMS
OF UAMOENS	92
THE FIRST KISS OF LOVE . ON A CHANGE OF MASTERS AT A	92
UN A CHANGE OF MASTERS AT A	0
GREAT PUBLIC SCHOOL . To the Duke of Dorset .	90 93
FRAGMENT WRITTEN SHORTLY AFTER	50
THE MARRIAGE OF MISS CHAWORTH	95
GRANTA - A MEDLEY	95
ON A DISTANT VIEW OF THE VIL-LAGE AND SCHOOL OF HARPOW ON
THE HILL	93
	97
To Woman	97 97
TO MARY, ON RECEIVING HER PIC-	31
TURE	98
To Lesbia	98
LINES ADDRESSED TO A YOUNG LADY	99
Love's Last Adieu	99

	PACE
Damætas	100
To MARION	100
TO A LADY	101
OSCAR OF ALVA	101
The Episode of Nisus and Eurya-
LUS	105
TRANSLATION FROM THE MEDEA OF
EURIPIDES	111
THOUGHTS SUGGESTED BY A COLLEGE
EXAMINATION	111
TO A BEAUTIFUL QUARER	112
THE CORNELIAN	113
AN OCCASIONAL PROLOGUE ON THE DEATH OF MR FOX	113
ON THE DEATH OF MR FOX	114
The Tear	114
REPLY TO SOME VERSES OF J M. B.
PIGOT, ESQ, ON THE CRUELTY OF
HIS MISTRESS	115
TO THE SIGHING STREPHON	116
To Eliza	116
LACHIN Y GAIR	117
TO BOMANCE	118
Answer to Some Elegant Verses Elegy on Newstead Abbey	118
ELEON ON NEWSTEAD ABBEY	119
CHILDISH BECOLLECTIONS	122
ANSWER TO A REALITIEUR POEM EN-
CHILDISH RECOLLECTIONS ANSWER TO A BEAUTIFUL POEM, EN- TITLED 'THE COMMON LOT'	127
REMEMBRANCE
TO A LADY WHO DESCRIPTED THE	128
TO A LADY WHO PRESENTED THE	128
TO A LADY WHO PRESENTED THE AUTHOR WITH THE VELVET BAND
TO A LADY WHO PRESENTED THE AUTHOR WITH THE VELVET BAND WHICH BOUND HER TRESSFS	128 128
To a LADY WHO PRESENTED THE AUTHOR WITH THE VELVET BAND WHICH BOUND HER TRESSFS LINES ADDRESSED TO THE REV J. T.	128
TO A LADY WHO PRESENTED THE AUTHOR WITH THE VELVET BAND WHICH BOUND HER TRESSFS LINES ADDRESSED TO THE REV J. T. BECHER	128 128
TO A LADY WHO PRESENTED THE AUTHOR WITH THE VELVET BAND WHICH BOUND HER TRESSFS LINES ADDRESSED TO THE REV J. T. BECHER	128 128 129
TO A LADY WHO PRESENTED THE AUTHOR WITH THE VELVET BAND WHICH BOUND HER TRESSFS LINES ADDRESSED TO THE REV J. T. BECHER	128 128 129 131
TO A LADY WHO PRESENTED THE AUTHOR WITH THE VELVET BAND WHICH BOUND HER TRESSFS LINES ADDRESSED TO THE REV J. T. BECHER	128 128 129 131 132
TO A LADY WHO PRESENTED THE AUTHOR WITH THE VELVET BAND WHICH BOUND HER TRESSFS LINES ADDRESSED TO THE REV J. T. BECHER THE DEATH OF CALMAR AND ORLA L'AMITIE EST L'AMOUR SANS AILES THE PRAYER OF NATURE. TO EDWARD NOEL LONG, ESO.	128 128 129 131 132 133
To a Lady who presented the Author with the Velvet Band which bound her Tressfs Lines addressed to the Rev J. T. Becher The Death of Calmar and Orla L'Amtie est L'Amour sans Alles The Prayer of Nature. To Edward Noel Long, Esq. To a Lady	128 128 129 131 132 133 134
To a LADY WHO PRESENTED THE AUTHOR WITH THE VELVET BAND WHICH BOUND HER TRESSFS LINES ADDRESSED TO THE REV J. T. BECHER THE DEATH OF CALMAR AND ORLA L'AMITIE EST L'AMOUR SANS AILES THE PRAYER OF NATURE. TO EDWARD NOEL LONG, ESQ. TO A LADY 'I WOULD I WERE A CARFLESS CHUD'	128 128 129 131 132 133
TO A LADY WHO PRESENTED THE AUTHOR WITH THE VELVET BAND WHICH BOUND HER TRESSFS LINES ADDRESSED TO THE REV J. T. BECHER THE DEATH OF CALMAR AND ORLA L'AMITIE EST L'AMOUR SANS AILES THE PRAYER OF NATURE TO EDWARD NOEL LONG, ESO. TO A LADY. 'I WOULD I WERE A CARFLESS CHILD' 'WE. I ROVED A YOUNG HIGH-	128 129 131 132 133 134 135
TO A LADY WHO PRESENTED THE AUTHOR WITH THE VELVET BAND WHICH BOUND HER TRESSFS LINES ADDRESSED TO THE REV J. T. BECHER THE DEATH OF CALMAR AND ORLA L'AMTHE EST L'AMOUR SANS ALLES THE PRAYER OF NATURE. TO EDWARD NOEL LONG, ESQ. TO A LADY. 'I WOULD I WERE A CARFLESS CHILD' 'WEL I ROVED A YOUNG HIGH- LANDER'	128 128 129 131 132 133 134 135
To a LADY WHO PRESENTED THE AUTHOR WITH THE VELVET BAND WHICH BOUND HER TRESSFS LINES ADDRESSED TO THE REV J. T. BECHER THE DEATH OF CALMAR AND ORLA L'AMITIE EST L'AMOUR SANS AILES THE PRAYER OF NATURE. TO EDWARD NOEL LONG, ESQ. TO A LADY. 'I WOULD I WERE A CARFLESS CHILD' 'WEL I ROVED A YOUNG HIGH- LANDER' TO GEORGE, EARL DELAWARE	128 128 129 131 132 133 134 135 135 135
TO A LADY WHO PRESENTED THE AUTHOR WITH THE VELVET BAND WHICH BOUND HER TRESSFS LINES ADDRESSED TO THE REV J. T. BECHER THE DEATH OF CALMAR AND ORLA L'AMITIE EST L'AMOUR SANS AILES THE PRAYER OF NATURE TO EDWARD NOEL LONG, ESO. TO A LADY. 'I WOULD I WERE A CARFLESS CHILD' 'WE. I ROVED A YOUNG HIGH- LANDER' TO GEORGE, EARL DELAWARE TO THE EARL OF CLARE	128 128 129 131 132 133 134 135
To a Lady who presented the Author with the Velvet Band which bound her Tressfs Lines addressed to the Rev J. T. Becher The Death of Calmar and Orla L'Amitie est l'Amour sans Ailes The Drayer of Nature. To Edward Noel Long, Esq. To a Lady. 'I would I were a Carfless child' 'Wf. I roved a young High- LANDER' To George, Earl Delawarr To the Earl of Clare Lines written beneath an Elm in	128 129 131 132 133 134 135 135 136 137
TO A LADY WHO PRESENTED THE AUTHOR WITH THE VELVET BAND WHICH BOUND HER TRESSFS LINES ADDRESSED TO THE REV J. T. BECHER THE DEATH OF CALMAR AND ORLA L'AMITIE EST L'AMOUR SANS AILES THE PRAYER OF NATURE TO EDWARD NOEL LONG, ESO. TO A LADY. 'I WOULD I WERE A CARFLESS CHILD' 'WE. I ROVED A YOUNG HIGH- LANDER' TO GEORGE, EARL DELAWARE TO THE EARL OF CLARE	128 128 129 131 132 133 134 135 135 135
To a Lady who presented the Author with the Velvet Band which bound her Tressfs Lines addressed to the Rev J. T. Becher The Death of Calmar and Oria L'Amitie est l'Amour sans Ailes The Death of Calmar and Oria L'Amitie est l'Amour sans Ailes The Death of Calmar and Oria 'I would I were a Carfless Child' 'Weil I roved a young High- Lander' To feorge, Earl Delaware To the Earl of Clare Lines written beneath an Elm in the Churchyard of Harrow	128 129 131 132 133 134 135 135 136 137
To a Lady who presented the Author with the Velvet Band which bound her Tressfs Lines addressed to the Rev J. T. Becher The Death of Calmar and Orla L'Amitie est L'Amour sans Ailes The Death of Calmar and Orla L'Amitie est L'Amour sans Ailes The Drayer of Nature. To Edward Noel Long, Esq. To a Lady 'I would I were a carfless child' 'Wf. I roved a young High- LANDER' To George, Earl Delawarr To the Earl of Clare Lines written beneath an Elm in the Churchyard of Harrow MISCELLANEOUS POEMS	128 129 131 132 133 134 135 135 136 137 138
TO A LADY WHO PRESENTED THE AUTHOR WITH THE VELVET BAND WHICH BOUND HER TRESSFS LINES ADDRESSED TO THE REV J. T. BECHER THE DEATH OF CALMAR AND ORLA L'AMITIE EST L'AMOUR SANS AILES THE PRAYER OF NATURE. TO EDWARD NOEL LONG, ESQ. TO A LADY. 'I WOULD I WERE A CARFLESS CHILD' 'WH_I ROVED A YOUNG HIGH- LANDER' TO GEORGE, EARL DELAWARE TO THE EARL OF CLARE LINES WRITTEN BENEATH AN ELM IN THE CHURCHYARD OF HARROW MISCELLANEOUS POEMS TRANSLATION FROM ANACREON	128 129 131 132 133 134 135 135 136 137
To a Lady who presented the Author with the Velvet Band which bound her Tressfs Lines addressed to the Rev J. T. Becher The Death of Calmar and Oria L'Amitie est l'Amour sans Ailes The Death of Calmar and Oria L'Amitie est l'Amour sans Ailes The Death of Calmar and Oria L'Amitie est l'Amour sans Ailes The Death of Calmar and Oria L'Amitie est l'Amour sans Ailes To a Lady 'I would I were a Carfless Child' 'Weil. I roved a young High- Lander' To file Earl Delaware To the Earl Delaware Lines written beneath an Elm in the Churchyard of Harrow MISCELLANEOUS POEMS Translation from Anacheon O'Sian's Address to the Sin in	128 128 129 131 132 133 134 135 136 137 138 139
TO A LADY WHO PRESENTED THE AUTHOR WITH THE VELVET BAND WHICH BOUND HER TRESSFS LINES ADDRESSED TO THE RESY J. T. BECHER THE DEATH OF CALMAR AND ORLA L'AMITIE EST L'AMOUR SANS ALLES THE PRAYER OF NATURE. TO EDWARD NOEL LONG, ESQ. TO A LADY. 'I WOULD I WERE A CARFLESS CHILD' 'WEL. I ROVED A YOUNG HIGH- LANDER' TO GEOBGE, EARL DELAWARR TO THE EARL OF CLARE LINES WRITTEN BENEATH AN ELM IN THE CHURCHYARD OF HARROW MISCELLANEOUS POEMS TRANSLATION FROM ANACREON O BIAN'S ADDRESS TO THE SUN IN 'CARTHON'	128 129 131 132 133 134 135 135 136 137 138
TO A LADY WHO PRESENTED THE AUTHOR WITH THE VELVET BAND WHICH BOUND HER TRESSFS LINES ADDRESSED TO THE REV J. T. BECHER THE DEATH OF CALMAR AND ORLA L'AMTHE EST L'AMOUR SANS ALLES THE PRAYER OF NATURE. TO EDWARD NOEL LONG, ESQ. 'I WOULD I WERE A CARFLESS CHILD' 'WEL I ROVED A YOUNG HIGH- LANDER' TO GEORGE, EARL DELAWARR TO THE EARL OF CLARE LINES WRITTEN BENEATH AN ELM IN THE CHURCHYARD OF HARROW MISCELLANEOUS POEMS TRANSLATION FROM ANACREON O'SIAN'S ADDRESS TO THE SUN IN 'CARTHON' A VERSION OF OSSIAN'S ADDRESS TO	128 128 129 131 132 133 134 135 135 136 137 138 139 139
To a Lady who presented the Author with the Velvet Band which bound her Tressfs Lines addressed to the Rev J. T. Becher The Death of Calmar and Oria L'Amitie est l'Amour sans Ailes The Death of Calmar and Oria L'Amitie est l'Amour sans Ailes The Death of Calmar and Oria L'Amitie est l'Amour sans Ailes The Death of Calmar and Oria L'Amitie est l'Amour sans Ailes To the Calmar of Nature Landee Lines written beneath an Elm in the Churchyard of Harrow MISCELLANEOUS POEMS Translation from Anacreon O'SIAN'S Address to the Sun in 'Carthon' A Virsion of Ossian's Address to the Sus	128 128 129 131 132 133 134 135 135 136 137 138 139 139 140
TO A LADY WHO PRESENTED THE AUTHOR WITH THE VELVET BAND WHICH BOUND HER TRESSFS LINES ADDRESSED TO THE REV J. T. BECHER THE DEATH OF CALMAR AND ORLA L'AMITIE EST L'AMOUR SANS ALLES THE PRAYER OF NATURE. TO EDWARD NOEL LONG, ESQ. TO A LADY. 'I WOULD I WERE A CARFLESS CHILD' 'WEL. I ROVED A YOUNG HIGH- LANDER' TO GEOBGE, EARL DELAWARR TO THE EARL OF CLARE LINES WRITTEN BENEATH AN ELM IN THE CHURCHYARD OF HARROW MISCELLANEOUS POEMS TRANSLATION FROM ANACREON O BIAN'S ADDRESS TO THE SUN IN 'CARTHON' A VIRSION OF OSSIAN'S ADDRESS TO THE SUN	128 128 129 131 132 133 134 135 135 136 137 138 139 140 140
TO A LADY WHO PRESENTED THE AUTHOR WITH THE VELVET BAND WHICH BOUND HER TRESSFS LINES ADDRESSED TO THE REV J. T. BECHER THE DEATH OF CALMAR AND ORIA L'AMITIE EST L'AMOUR SANS AILES THE PRAYER OF NATURE TO EDWARD NOEL LONG, ESO. TO A LADY 'I WOULD I WERE A CARFLESS CHILD' 'WH. I ROVED A YOUNG HIGH- LANDER' TO GEORGE, EARL DELAWARE TO THE EARL OF CLARE LINES WRITTEN BENEATH AN ELM IN THE CHURCHYARD OF HARROW MISCELLANEOUS POEMS TRANSLATION FROM ANACREON O SIAN'S ADDRESS TO THE SUN IN 'CARTHON' A VIRSION OF OSSIAN'S ADDRESS TO THE SUN PIONUS AMORIS TO A KNOT OF UNCENEROUS CRITICS	128 128 129 131 132 133 134 135 135 136 137 138 139 140 140
TO A LADY WHO PRESENTED THE AUTHOR WITH THE VELVET BAND WHICH BOUND HER TRESSFS LINES ADDRESSED TO THE REV J. T. BECHER THE DEATH OF CALMAR AND ORIA L'AMITIE EST L'AMOUR SANS AILES THE PRAYER OF NATURE TO EDWARD NOEL LONG, ESO. TO A LADY. 'I WOULD I WERE A CARFLESS CHILD' 'WH. I ROVED A YOUNG HIGH- LANDER' TO GEORGE, EARL DELAWARE TO THE EARL OF CLARE LINES WRITTEN BENEATH AN ELM IN THE CHURCHYARD OF HARROW MISCELLANEOUS POEMS TRANSLATION FROM ANACREON O SIAN': ADDRESS TO THE SUN IN 'CARTHON' A VIRSION OF OSJAN'S ADDRESS TO THE SUN PIONUS AMONIS TO A KNOT OF UNGENEROUS CRITICS SOLILOQUY OF A BARD IN THE COUN-	128 128 129 131 132 133 134 135 135 136 137 138 139 140 140 141
TO A LADY WHO PRESENTED THE AUTHOR WITH THE VELVET BAND WHICH BOUND HER TRESSFS LINES ADDRESSED TO THE REV J. T. BECHER THE DEATH OF CALMAR AND ORIA L'AMITIE EST L'AMOUR SANS AILES THE PRAYER OF NATURE TO EDWARD NOEL LONG, ESO. TO A LADY 'I WOULD I WERE A CARFLESS CHILD' 'WH. I ROVED A YOUNG HIGH- LANDER' TO GEORGE, EARL DELAWARE TO THE EARL OF CLARE LINES WRITTEN BENEATH AN ELM IN THE CHURCHYARD OF HARROW MISCELLANEOUS POEMS TRANSLATION FROM ANACREON O SIAN'S ADDRESS TO THE SUN IN 'CARTHON' A VIRSION OF OSSIAN'S ADDRESS TO THE SUN PIONUS AMORIS TO A KNOT OF UNCENEROUS CRITICS	128 128 129 131 132 133 134 135 135 136 137 138 139 140 140

CONTENTS

	143
STANZAS TO JESSY	143
STANZAS TO JESSY EGOTISM. A LETTER TO J. T. BECHER	144
QUERIES TO CASUISTS	145
	145
TO A VAIN LADY	146
TO ANNE	147
TO THE SAME	147
TO THE AUTHOR OF A SONNET BE-GINNING, "SAD IS MY VERSE," YOU
SAY, "AND YET NO TEAR"	147
ON FINDING A FAN	148
FAREWELL TO THE MUSE	148
TO AN OAK AT NEWSTEAD	149
ON REVISITING HARROW	150
	120
SUNG. DREEZE OF THE MIGHT, LIC.	150
	151
FAREWELL! IF EVER FONDEST
	151
BRIGHT BE THE PLACE OF THY 151
	151
THERE WAS A TIME, I NEED NOT NAME'	150
NAME	152
AND WILT THOU WEEP WHEN I AM	152
LOW?'	$152 \\ 152$
	$152 \\ 153$
LINES INSCRIBED UPON A CUP FORMED	100
Entry Comments	153
FROM A DRULL	100
INSCRIPTION ON THE MONUMENT OF A NEWFOUNDLAND DOG	154
	154
To a LADY, ON BEING ASKED MY	TOX
REASON FOR QUITTING ENGLAND IN
THE SPRING	155
	155
STANZAS TO A LADY ON LEAVING
ENGLAND	1.76
LANES TO MR. HODGSON.	156
LINES WRITTEN IN AN ALBUM, AT MALTA	157
TO FLORENCE	157
STANZAS COMPOSED DURING A THUN-
DER-STORM	158
STANZAS WRITTEN IN PASSING THE
AMBRACIAN GULF	159
'THE SPELL IS BROKE, THE CHARM IS FLOWN'.
IS FLOWN'.	159
THE GIRL OF CADIZ	159
WRITTEN AFTER SWIMMING FROM
SESTOS TO ABYDOS	160
'MAID OF ATHENS, ERF WE PART'	160
FRAGMENT FROM THE 'MONK OF	101
ATHOS'	161
LINES WRITTEN BENEATH A PICTURE	161
SUBSTITUTE FOR AN EPITAPH	101
TRANSLATION OF THE FAMOUS GREEK	161
WAR SONG, Δεύτε παίδες των Έλλ γνων
THANSLATION OF THE BOMATCONG.	161 161
Malus and a marking to make bound	161
Μπένω μεσ' το περιβόλι, 'Ωραιστάτη Χαγδή
TRANSLATION OF THE ROMAIC SONG, Μπένω μεσ' τὸ περιβόλι, Ἱραιοτάτη Χαγδή LINES WRITTEN IN THE TRAVELLERS' BOOK AT OPEROTYPIC	161 162
BOOK AT URCHOMENUS	161 162 162
ON PARTING	161 162 162 162
BOOK AT URCHOMENUS	161 162 162

NEWSTEAD ABBEY	164
EPISTLE TO A FRIEND	164
TO THYRZA	165
'AWAY, AWAY, YE NOTES OF WOE!'	165
'ONE STRUGGLE MORE, AND I AM	100
FREE' · · · · · ·	166
	166
'AND THOU ART DEAD, AS YOUNG
AND FAIR	167
LINES TO A DADI WEETING.	168
'IF SOMETIMES IN THE HAUNTS OF
MEN'	168
ON A CORNELIAN HEART WHICH WAS BROKEN	168
'THE CHAIN I GAVE'.	168
LINES WRITTEN ON A BLANK LEAF OF THE 'PLEASURES OF MEMORY'
OF THE 'PLEASURES OF MEMORY'	169
ADDRESS SPOKEN AT THE OPENING OF	100
DRURY-LANE THEATRE	169
PARENTHETICAL ADDRESS
VERSION AND A SERVICE AND A SE	170
VERSES FOUND IN A SUMMER-HOUSE
AT HALES-OWEN	171
'REMEMBER THEE! REMEMBER!' .	171
TO TIME	171
TRANSLATION OF A ROMAIC LOVE
Song	172
'THOU ART NOT FALSE, BUT THOU
ART FICKLE'	172
ON BEING ASKED WHAT WAS THE
'ORIGIN OF LOVE'	173
ON THE QUOTATION, 'AND MY TRUE	110
ON THE QUOINTION, AND MY TRUE	173
FAITH CAN ALTER NEVER,' ETC.
To the Hon. Mrs. George LAMB .	173
[LA REVANCHE]	174
'REMEMBER HIM WHOM PASSION'S
POWER'	174
POWER'	174
POWER'
POWER'	174
POWER'	174 175
POWER'. IMPROMPTU, IN REPLY TO A FRIEND SONNET, TO GENEVRA SONNET, TO THE SAME FROM THE PORTUGUESE. 'TU MI	174 175
POWER'. IMPROMPTU, IN REPLY TO A FRIEND SONNET, TO GENEVRA SONNET, TO THE SAME FROM THE PORTUGUESE. 'TU MI	174 175 175 175
POWER'. IMPROMPTU, IN REPLY TO A FRIEND SONNET, TO GENEVRA SONNET, TO THE SAME FROM THE PORTUGUESE. 'TU MI CHAMAS' THE DEVIL'S DRIVE	174 175 175 175 175
POWER'. IMPROMPTU, IN REPLY TO A FRIEND SONNET, TO GENEVRA SONNET, TO THE SAME FROM THE PORTUGUESE. 'TU MI CHAMAS' THE DEVIL'S DRIVE [LOVE AND GOLD]	174 175 175 175 175 175 179
POWER'. IMPROMPTU, IN REPLY TO A FRIEND SONNET, TO GENEVRA SONNET, TO THE SAME FROM THE PORTUGUESE. 'TU MI CHAMAS'. THE DEVIL'S DRIVE [LOVE AND GOLD] ODE TO NAPOLEON BUONAPARTE	174 175 175 175 175
POWER'. IMPROMPTU, IN REPLY TO A FRIEND SONNET, TO GENEVRA SONNET, TO THE SAME FROM THE PORTUGUESE. 'TU MI CHAMAS'. THE DEVIL'S DRIVE [LOVE AND GOLD] ODE TO NAPOLEON BUONAPARTE STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'I SPEAK NOT,'	174 175 175 175 175 179 180
POWER'. IMPROMPTU, IN REPLY TO A FRIEND SONNET, TO GENEVRA SONNET, TO THE SAME FROM THE PORTUGUESE. 'TU MI CHAMAS' THE DEVIL'S DRIVE [LOVE AND GOLD] ODE TO NAPOLEON BUONAPARTE STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'I SPEAK NOT,' ETC.	174 175 175 175 175 175 179
POWER'. IMPROMPTU, IN REPLY TO A FRIEND SONNET, TO GENEVRA SONNET, TO THE SAME FROM THE PORTUGUESE. 'TU MI CHAMAS' THE DEVIL'S DRIVE [LOVE AND GOLD] ODE TO NAPOLEON BUONAPARTE STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'I SPEAK NOT,' ETC.	174 175 175 175 175 179 180 182
POWER'. IMPROMPTU, IN REPLY TO A FRIEND SONNET, TO GENEVRA SONNET, TO THE SAME FROM THE PORTUGUESE. 'TU MI CHAMAS'. THE DEVIL'S DRIVE [LOVE AND GOLD] ODE TO NAPOLEON BUONAPARTE STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'I SPEAK NOT,' ETC. ADDRESS INTENDED TO BE RECITED AT THE CALEDONIAN MEETING.	174 175 175 175 175 179 180
POWER'. IMPROMPTU, IN REPLY TO A FRIEND SONNET, TO GENEVRA SONNET, TO THE SAME FROM THE PORTUGUESE. 'TU MI CHAMAS' THE DEVIL'S DRIVE [LOVE AND GOLD] 'ODE TO NAFOLEON BUONAPARTE STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'I SPEAK NOT,' ETC. ADDRESS INTENDED TO BE RECITED AT THE CALEDONIAN MKETING. CONDOLATORY ADDRESS TO SARAH	174 175 175 175 175 179 180 182 182
POWER'. IMPROMPTU, IN REPLY TO A FRIEND SONNET, TO GENEVRA SONNET, TO THE SAME FROM THE PORTUGUESE. 'TU MI CHAMAS'. THE DEVIL'S DRIVE [LOVE AND GOLD] ODE TO NAPOLEON BUONAPARTE STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'I SPEAK NOT,' ETC. ADDRESS INTENDED TO BE RECITED AT THE CALEDONIAN MEETING. CONDOLATORY ADDRESS TO SARAH COUNTESS OF JERSEY.	174 175 175 175 175 179 180 182
POWER'. IMPROMPTU, IN REPLY TO A FRIEND SONNET, TO GENEVRA SONNET, TO THE SAME FROM THE PORTUGUESE. 'TU MI CHAMAS'. THE DEVIL'S DRIVE [LOVE AND GOLD] ODE TO NAPOLEON BUONAPARTE STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'I SPEAK NOT,' ETC. ADDRESS INTENDED TO BE RECITED AT THE CALEDONIAN MEETING. CONDOLATORY ADDRESS TO SARAH COUNTESS OF JERSEY. ELECIAC STANZAS ON THE DEATH OF	174 175 175 175 175 179 180 182 182 182
POWER'. IMPROMPTU, IN REPLY TO A FRIEND SONNET, TO GENEVRA SONNET, TO THE SAME FROM THE PORTUGUESE. 'TU MI CHAMAS'. THE DEVIL'S DRIVE [LOVE AND GOLD] ODE TO NAPOLEON BUONAPARTE STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'I SPEAK NOT,' ETC. ADDRESS INTENDED TO BE RECITED AT THE CALEDONIAN MEETING. CONDOLATORY ADDRESS TO SARAH COUNTESS OF JERSEY. ELECIAC STANZAS ON THE DEATH OF	174 175 175 175 179 180 182 182 182 183
POWER'. IMPROMPTU, IN REPLY TO A FRIEND SONNET, TO GENEVRA SONNET, TO THE SAME FROM THE PORTUGUESE. 'TU MI CHAMAS'. THE DEVIL'S DRIVE [LOVE AND GOLD] ODE TO NAPOLEON BUONAPARTE STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'I SPEAK NOT,' ETC. ADDRESS INTENDED TO BE RECITED AT THE CALEDONIAN MEETING. CONDOLATORY ADDRESS TO SARAH COUNTESS OF JERSEY. ELECIAC STANZAS ON THE DEATH OF	174 175 175 175 175 179 180 182 182 182
POWER'. IMPROMPTU, IN REPLY TO A FRIEND SONNET, TO GENEVRA SONNET, TO THE SAME FROM THE PORTUGUESE. 'TU MI CHAMAS'. THE DEVIL'S DRIVE [LOVE AND GOLD] 'DE TO NAPOLEON BUONAPARTE STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'I SPEAK NOT,' ETC. ADDRESS INTENDED TO BE RECITED AT THE CALEDONIAN MEETING. CONDOLATORY ADDRESS TO SARAH COUNTESS OF JERSEY. ELEGIAC STANZAS ON THE DEATH OF SIR PETER PARKER, BART. JULIAN [A FRAGMENT] TO BEISHAZZAB	174 175 175 175 179 180 182 182 182 183
POWER'. IMPROMPTU, IN REPLY TO A FRIEND SONNET, TO GENEVRA SONNET, TO THE SAME FROM THE PORTUGUESE. 'TU MI CHAMAS'. THE DEVIL'S DRIVE [LOVE AND GOLD] CODE TO NAPOLEON BUONAPARTE STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'I SPEAK NOT,' ETC. ADDRESS INTENDED TO BE RECITED AT THE CALEDONIAN MEETING. CONDOLATORY ADDRESS TO SARAH COUNTESS OF JERSEY. ELECIAC STANZAS ON THE DEATH OF SIE PETER PARKER, BART. JULIAN [A FRAGMENT] TO BEISHAZZAR	174 175 175 175 175 179 180 182 182 182 183 183
POWER'. IMPROMPTU, IN REPLY TO A FRIEND SONNET, TO GENEVRA SONNET, TO THE SAME FROM THE PORTUGUESE. 'TU MI CHAMAS'. THE DEVIL'S DRIVE [LOVE AND GOLD] 'DE TO NAPOLEON BUONAPARTE STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'I SPEAK NOT,' ETC. ADDRESS INTENDED TO BE RECITED AT THE CALEDONIAN MEETING. CONDOLATORY ADDRESS TO SARAH COUNTESS OF JERSEY. ELEGIAC STANZAS ON THE DEATH OF SIE PETER PARKER, BART. JULIAN [A FRAGMENT] TO BELSHAZZAR STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'THERE'S NOT	174 175 175 175 175 179 180 182 182 182 183 183 183 184 185
POWER'. IMPROMPTU, IN REPLY TO A FRIEND SONNET, TO GENEVRA SONNET, TO THE SAME FROM THE PORTUGUESE. 'TU MI CHAMAS'. THE DEVIL'S DRIVE [LOVE AND GOLD] 'DE TO NAPOLEON BUONAPARTE STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'I SPEAK NOT,' ETC. ADDRESS INTENDED TO BE RECITED AT THE CALEDONIAN MEETING. CONDOLATORY ADDRESS TO SARAH COUNTESS OF JERSEY. ELEGIAC STANZAS ON THE DEATH OF SIE PETER PARKER, BART. JULIAN [A FRAGMENT] TO BELSHAZZAR STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'THERE'S NOT	174 175 175 175 175 179 180 182 182 182 183 183
POWER'. IMPROMPTU, IN REPLY TO A FRIEND SONNET, TO GENEVRA SONNET, TO THE SAME FROM THE PORTUGUESE. 'TU MI CHAMAS'. THE DEVIL'S DRIVE [LOVE AND GOLD] 'DE TO NAPOLEON BUONAPARTE STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'I SPEAK NOT,' ETC. ADDRESS INTENDED TO BE RECITED AT THE CALEDONIAN MEETING. CONDOLATORY ADDRESS TO SARAH COUNTESS OF JERSEY. ELEGIAC STANZAS ON THE DEATH OF SIR PETER PARKER, BART. JULIAN [A FRACMENT] TO BELSHAZZAR STANZAS FOR MUSIC 'THERE'S NOT A JOY,' ETC. STANZAS 'L HEARD THY FATE WITH	174 175 175 175 175 179 180 182 182 182 183 183 183 184 185
POWER'. IMPROMPTU, IN REPLY TO A FRIEND SONNET, TO GENEVRA SONNET, TO THE SAME FROM THE PORTUGUESE. 'TU MI CHAMAS'. THE DEVIL'S DRIVE [LOVE AND GOLD] ODE TO NAPOLEON BUONAPARTE STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'I SPEAK NOT,' ETC. ADDRESS INTENDED TO BE RECITED AT THE CALEDONIAN MEETING. CONDOLATORY ADDRESS TO SARAH COUNTESS OF JERSEY. ELEGIAC STANZAS ON THE DEATH OF SIR PETER PARKER, BART. JULIAN [A FRAGMENT] TO BELSHAZZAR STANZAS FOR MUSIC 'THERE'S NOT A JOY,' ETC. STANZAS, 'I HEARD THY FATE WITH- OUT A TEAB'.	$\begin{array}{c} 174\\ 175\\ 175\\ 175\\ 175\\ 179\\ 180\\ 182\\ 182\\ 182\\ 183\\ 183\\ 183\\ 184\\ 185\\ 185\\ 185\\ 186\end{array}$
POWER'. IMPROMPTU, IN REPLY TO A FRIEND SONNET, TO GENEVRA SONNET, TO THE SAME FROM THE PORTUGUESE. 'TU MI CHAMAS'. THE DEVIL'S DRIVE [LOVE AND GOLD] 'DE TO NAPOLEON BUONAPARTE STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'I SPEAK NOT,' ETC. ADDRESS INTENDED TO BE RECITED AT THE CALEDONIAN MEETING. CONDOLATORY ADDRESS TO SARAH COUNDESS OF JERSEY. ELEGIAC STANZAS ON THE DEATH OF SIR PETER PARKER, BART. JULIAN [A FRACMENT] TO BELSHAZZAR STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'THERE'S NOT A JOY,' ETC. STANZAS. 'I HEARD THY FATE WITH- OUT A TEAR'. NAPOLEON'S FAREWELL	$\begin{array}{c} 174\\ 175\\ 175\\ 175\\ 175\\ 175\\ 179\\ 180\\ 182\\ 182\\ 182\\ 183\\ 183\\ 184\\ 185\\ 185\\ 185\\ 185\\ 186\\ 186\end{array}$
POWER'. IMPROMPTU, IN REPLY TO A FRIEND SONNET, TO GENEVRA SONNET, TO THE SAME FROM THE PORTUGUESE. 'TU MI CHAMAS'. THE DEVIL'S DRIVE [LOVE AND GOLD] ODE TO NAPOLEON BUONAPARTE STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'I SPEAK NOT,' ETC. ADDRESS INTENDED TO BE RECITED AT THE CALEDONIAN MEETING. CONDOLATORY ADDRESS TO SARAH COUNTESS OF JERSEY. ELECIAC STANZAS ON THE DEATH OF SIR PETER PARKER, BART. JULIAN [A FRAGMENT] TO BELSHAZZAR STANZAS FOR MUSIC 'THERE'S NOT A JOY,' ETC. STANZAS, 'I HEARD THY FATE WITH- OUT A TEAB'. NAPOLEON'S FAREWELL FROM THE FRENCH.	174 175 175 175 175 179 180 182 182 183 183 184 185 185 186 186 186
POWER'. IMPROMPTU, IN REPLY TO A FRIEND SONNET, TO GENEVRA SONNET, TO THE SAME FROM THE PORTUGUESE. 'TU MI CHAMAS'. THE DEVIL'S DRIVE [LOVE AND GOLD] ODE TO NAPOLEON BUONAPARTE STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'I SPEAK NOT,' ETC. ADDRESS INTENDED TO BE RECITED AT THE CALEDONIAN MEETING. CONDOLATORY ADDRESS TO SARAH COUNTESS OF JERSEY. ELECIAC STANZAS ON THE DEATH OF SIR PETER PARKER, BART. JULIAN [A FRAGMENT] TO BELSHAZZAR STANZAS FOR MUSIC 'THERE'S NOT A JOY,' ETC. STANZAS, 'I HEARD THY FATE WITH- OUT A TEAB'. NAPOLEON'S FAREWELL FROM THE FRENCH.	$\begin{array}{c} 174\\ 175\\ 175\\ 175\\ 175\\ 175\\ 179\\ 180\\ 182\\ 182\\ 182\\ 183\\ 183\\ 184\\ 185\\ 185\\ 185\\ 185\\ 186\\ 186\end{array}$
POWER'. IMPROMPTU, IN REPLY TO A FRIEND SONNET, TO GENEVRA SONNET, TO THE SAME FROM THE PORTUGUESE. 'TU MI CHAMAS'. THE DEVIL'S DRIVE [LOVE AND GOLD] 'DE TO NAPOLEON BUONAPARTE STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'I SPEAK NOT,' ETC. ADDRESS INTENDED TO BE RECITED AT THE CALEDONIAN MKETING. CONDOLATORY ADDRESS TO SARAH COUNDESS OF JERSEY. ELEGIAC STANZAS ON THE DEATH OF SIR PETER PARKER, BART. JULIAN [A FRAGMENT] TO BELSHAZZAR 'TANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'THERE WITH- OUT A TEAR'. NAPOLEON'S FAREWELL FROM THE FRENCH. ODE FROM THE FRENCH.	$174 \\ 175 \\ 175 \\ 175 \\ 175 \\ 179 \\ 180 \\ 182 \\ 183 \\ 183 \\ 183 \\ 184 \\ 185 \\ 185 \\ 186 \\ 186 \\ 186 \\ 186 \\ 187 $
POWER'. IMPROMPTU, IN REPLY TO A FRIEND SONNET, TO GENEVRA SONNET, TO THE SAME FROM THE PORTUGUESE. 'TU MI CHAMAS'. THE DEVIL'S DRIVE [LOVE AND GOLD] 'DE TO NAPOLEON BUONAPARTE STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'I SPEAK NOT,' ETC. ADDRESS INTENDED TO BE RECITED AT THE CALEDONIAN MKETING. CONDOLATORY ADDRESS TO SARAH COUNDESS OF JERSEY. ELEGIAC STANZAS ON THE DEATH OF SIR PETER PARKER, BART. JULIAN [A FRAGMENT] TO BELSHAZZAR 'TANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'THERE WITH- OUT A TEAR'. NAPOLEON'S FAREWELL FROM THE FRENCH. ODE FROM THE FRENCH.	174 175 175 175 175 179 180 182 182 183 183 184 185 185 186 186 186
POWER'. IMPROMPTU, IN REPLY TO A FRIEND SONNET, TO GENEVRA SONNET, TO THE SAME FROM THE PORTUGUESE. 'TU MI CHAMAS'. THE DEVIL'S DRIVE [LOVE AND GOLD] CDE TO NAPOLEON BUONAPARTE STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'I SPEAK NOT,' ETC. ADDRESS INTENDED TO BE RECITED AT THE CALEDONIAN MEETING. CONDOLATORY ADDRESS TO SARAH COUNTESS OF JERSEY. ELECIAC STANZAS ON THE DEATH OF SIE PETER PARKER, BART. JULIAN [A FRACMENT] TO BEISHAZZAR STANZAS FOR MUSIC 'THERE'S NOT A JOY,' ETC. STANZAS FOR MUSIC 'THERE'S ON DE FROM THE FRENCH STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'THERE BE NOME OF BEAUTY'S DAUGHTERS' ON_THE STAR OF 'THE LEGION OF	174 175 175 175 175 175 179 180 182 182 183 183 184 185 185 186 186 186 186 187 188
POWER'. IMPROMPTU, IN REPLY TO A FRIEND SONNET, TO GENEVRA SONNET, TO THE SAME FROM THE PORTUGUESE. 'TU MI CHAMAS'. THE DEVIL'S DRIVE [LOVE AND GOLD] 'DE TO NAPOLEON BUONAPARTE STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'I SPEAK NOT,' ETC. ADDRESS INTENDED TO BE RECITED AT THE CALEDONIAN MKETING. CONDOLATORY ADDRESS TO SARAH COUNTESS OF JERSEY. ELEGIAC STANZAS ON THE DEATH OF SIR PETER PARKER, BART. JULIAN [A FRAGMENT] TO BELSHAZZAR STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'THERE'S NOT A JOY,' ETC. STANZAS, 'I HEARD THY FATE WITH- OUT A TEAR'. NAPOLEON'S FAREWELL FROM THE FRENCH. ODE FROM THE FRENCH STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'THERE'S NAPOLEON'S FAREWELL STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'THERE'S ON THE STAR OF 'THE LEGION OF HONOUR'.	174 175 175 175 175 179 180 182 183 183 183 184 185 186 186 186 186 186 187 188 188
POWER'. IMPROMPTU, IN REPLY TO A FRIEND SONNET, TO GENEVRA SONNET, TO THE SAME FROM THE PORTUGUESE. 'TU MI CHAMAS'. THE DEVIL'S DRIVE [LOVE AND GOLD] CDE TO NAPOLEON BUONAPARTE STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'I SPEAK NOT,' ETC. ADDRESS INTENDED TO BE RECITED AT THE CALEDONIAN MEETING. CONDOLATORY ADDRESS TO SARAH COUNTESS OF JERSEY. ELECIAC STANZAS ON THE DEATH OF SIE PETER PARKER, BART. JULIAN [A FRACMENT] TO BEISHAZZAR STANZAS FOR MUSIC 'THERE'S NOT A JOY,' ETC. STANZAS FOR MUSIC 'THERE'S ON DE FROM THE FRENCH STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'THERE BE NOME OF BEAUTY'S DAUGHTERS' ON_THE STAR OF 'THE LEGION OF	174 175 175 175 175 175 179 180 182 182 183 183 184 185 185 186 186 186 186 187 188

CONTENTS

٦.

PROMETHEUS	191
A FRAGMENT. 'COULD I REMOUNT,'	101
	101
ETC. SONNET TO LAKE LEMAN MONODY ON THE DEATH OF THE RIGHT HON. R. B. SHERIDAN A VERY MOURNFUL BALLAD ON THE SIEGE AND CONQUEST OF ALHAMA TRANSLATION FROM VITOPETUL	191
SONNET TO LAKE LEMAN	192
MONODY ON THE DEATH OF THE
RIGHT HON. R. B. SHERIDAN	192
A VERY MOURNFUL BALLAD ON THE
SIEGE AND CONCUEST OF ALHAMA	194
TRANSLATION FROM VITTORELLI .
THAT SHALLON FROM THIOREDUI.	195
VENICE	196
On Sam Rogers	196
THE DUEL	197
STANZAS TO THE PO SONNET ON THE NUPTIALS OF THE	198
SONNET ON THE NUPPLALS OF THE MARQUIS ANTONIO CAVALLI WITH DIALOUS THIORIO OAVALLI WITH
THE COUNTESS CLELIA RASPONI OF
RAVENNA	199
SONNET TO THE PRINCE REGENT ON
THE REPEAL OF LORD EDWARD FITZGERALD'S FORFEITURE
FITZGEBALD'S FORFEITURE	199
STANZAS 'COULD LOVE FOR EVER'	199
ODE TO A LADY WHORE LOWED WAS	100
STANZAS. 'COULD LOVE FOR EVER' ODE TO A LADY WHOSE LOVER WAS KILLED BY A BALL, WHICH AT THE KILLED BY A BALL, WHICH AT THE
SAME TIME SHIVEPED A POPTRATE
NEXT HIS HEART THE IRISH AVATAR	200
THE IRISH AVATAR	201
STANZAS WRITTEN ON THE ROAD BE-	201
TWEEN FLORENCE AND PISA	001
TWEEN FLORENCE AND FISA	204
Stanzas to a Hindoo Air	204
To —	205
TO THE COUNTESS OF BLESSINGTON	205
ARISTOMENES	205
[LOVE AND DEATH]	205
LAST WORDS ON GREECE	205
LAST WORDS ON TREECE
	-00
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY-
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR	206
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY-
On this Day I complete my Thirty- sixth Year
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR	206
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR	206 207
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR DOMESTIC PIECES. FARE THEE WELL	206
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR DOMESTIC PIECES. FARE THEE WELL	206 207 208
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR DOMESTIC PIECES. FARE THEE WELL	206 207 208 209
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR DOMESTIC PIECES. FARE THEE WELL	206 207 208 209 210
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR	206 207 208 209
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR DOMESTIC PIECES. FARE THEE WELL A SKETCH. STANZAS TO AUGUSTA STANZAS TO AUGUSTA EPISTLE TO AUGUSTA LINES ON HEARING THAT LADY BY-	206 207 208 209 210 210
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR DOMESTIC PIECES. FARE THEE WELL A SKETCH. STANZAS TO AUGUSTA STANZAS TO AUGUSTA EPISTLE TO AUGUSTA EPISTLE TO AUGUSTA LINES ON HEARING THAT LADY BY- RON WAS ILL	206 207 208 209 210 210 212
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR DOMESTIC PIECES. FARE THEE WELL A SKETCH. STANZAS TO AUGUSTA STANZAS TO AUGUSTA EPISTLE TO AUGUSTA LINES ON HEARING THAT LADY BY-	206 207 208 209 210 210
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR DOMESTIC PIECES. FARE THEE WELL A SKETCH. STANZAS TO AUGUSTA STANZAS TO AUGUSTA EPISTLE TO AUGUSTA EPISTLE TO AUGUSTA LINES ON HEARING THAT LADY BY- RON WAS ILL	206 207 208 209 210 210 212
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR DOMESTIC PIECES. FARE THEE WELL A SKETCH. STANZAS TO AUGUSTA STANZAS TO AUGUSTA EPISTLE TO AUGUSTA LINES ON HEARING THAT LADY BY- RON WAS ILL THE DREAM	206 207 208 209 210 210 212
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR	206 207 208 209 210 210 212 213
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR	206 207 208 209 210 210 212
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR	206 207 208 209 210 210 212 213
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR	206 207 208 209 210 210 212 213 213 216
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR	206 207 208 209 210 210 212 213 214 216
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR	206 207 208 209 210 210 212 213 214 216 216 217
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR	206 207 208 209 210 210 212 213 214 216 217 217
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR DOMESTIC PIECES. FARE THEE WELL A SKETCH. STANZAS TO AUGUSTA STANZAS TO AUGUSTA EPISTLE TO AUGUSTA LINES ON HEARING THAT LADY BY- RON WAS ILL THE DREAM HEBREW MELODIES. SHE WALKS IN BEAUTY' 'THE HARP THE MONARCH MINSTREL SWEET' 'IF THAT HIGH WORLD' 'THE WILD GAZELLE' 'O'L' WEEP FOR THOSE'	206 207 208 209 210 210 212 213 214 216 216 217 217 217
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR	206 207 208 209 210 210 212 213 214 216 217 217 217 217
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR	206 207 208 209 210 210 212 213 214 216 216 217 217 217
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR	206 207 208 209 210 210 212 213 216 216 217 217 217 217 217 218
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR DOMESTIC PIECES. FARE THEE WELL A SKETCH. STANZAS TO AUGUSTA STANZAS TO AUGUSTA EPISTLE TO AUGUSTA LINES ON HEARING THAT LADY BY- RON WAS ILL THE DREAM HEBREW MELODIES. 'SHE WALKS IN BEAUTY' 'THE HARP THE MONARCH MINSTREL SWEPT' 'IF THAT HIGH WORLD' 'THE WILD GAZELLE' 'OH! WEEP FOR THOSE' 'ON JORDAN'S BANKS' JEPHTHA'S DAUGHTER 'OH! SNATCH'D AWAY IN BEAUTY'S BLOOM'	206 207 208 209 210 210 212 213 216 216 217 217 217 217 217 218
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR DOMESTIC PIECES. FARE THEE WELL A SKETCH. STANZAS TO AUGUSTA STANZAS TO AUGUSTA EPISTLE TO AUGUSTA LINES ON HEARING THAT LADY BY- RON WAS ILL THE DREAM HEBREW MELODIES. 'SHE WALKS IN BEAUTY' 'THE HARP THE MONARCH MINSTREL SWEPT' 'IF THAT HIGH WORLD' 'THE WILD GAZELLE' 'OH! WEEP FOR THOSE' 'ON JORDAN'S BANKS' JEPHTHA'S DAUGHTER 'OH! SNATCH'D AWAY IN BEAUTY'S BLOOM'	206 207 208 209 210 210 212 213 214 216 217 217 217 217 218 218
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR	206 207 208 209 210 210 212 213 216 216 217 217 217 217 217 218 218 218
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR DOMESTIC PIECES. FARE THEE WELL A SKETCH. STANZAS TO AUGUSTA STANZAS TO AUGUSTA EPISTLE TO AUGUSTA LINES ON HEARING THAT LADY BY- RON WAS ILL THE DREAM HEBREW MELODIES. 'SHE WALKS IN BEAUTY' 'THE HARP THE MONARCH MINSTREL SWET'. 'IF THAT HIGH WORLD'. 'THE WILD GAZELE' 'ON JORDAN'S BANKS' JEPHTHA'S DAUGHTER 'OH! WEEP FOR THOSE'. 'ON JORDAN'S BANKS' JEPHTHA'S DAUGHTER 'OH! SNATCH'D AWAY IN BEAUTY'S BLOOM' 'MY SOUL IS DARK'	206 207 208 209 210 210 212 213 214 216 217 217 217 217 217 218 218 218 218
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR	206 207 208 209 210 210 212 213 216 216 217 217 217 217 217 218 218 218
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR	206 207 208 210 210 212 213 216 216 217 217 217 217 217 218 218 218 218 218 218
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR	206 207 208 209 210 210 212 213 216 216 217 217 217 217 217 218 218 218 218 218 218 219
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR	206 207 208 210 210 212 213 216 216 217 217 217 217 217 218 218 218 218 218 218
ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY- SIXTH YEAR	206 207 208 209 210 210 212 213 216 216 217 217 217 217 217 218 218 218 218 218 218 219

 WHEN COLDNESS WRAPS THIS SUF- FERING CLAY' VISION OF BELSHAZZAR. 'SUN OF THE SLEEPLESS' 'WERE MY BOSOM AS FALSL AS THOU DEEN ST IT TO BE'. HEROD'S LAMENT FOR MARIANNE ON THE DAY OF THE DESTRUCTION OF JERUSALEM BY TITUS. BY THE RIVERS OF BABYLON WE SAT DOWN AND WEFT THE DESTRUCTION OF SENNACHERIB 'A SPIRIT PASS'D BEFORE ME.' FROM JOB 'IN THE VALLEY OF WATERS'. 'STANZAS FOR MUSIC. 'THEY SAY THAT HOPE IS HAPPINESS' 	220 220 221 221 221 221 221 222 222 222
EPHEMERAL VERSES.
EPIGRAM ON AN OLD LADY WHO HAD
Some Curious Notions Respect-
ING THE SOUL	223
[To DIVES (WILLIAM BECKFORD). A
FRAGMENT]	225
EPITAPH ON JOHN ADAMS, OF SOUTH-
WELL .	224
FAREWELL PETITION TO J. C. H , Esq. OH HOW I WISH THAT AN EMBARGO'	224
OH HOW I WISH THAT AN EMBARGO'	225
LOUTH, NATURE, AND RELENTING
JOVE'	225
GOOD PLATS ARE SCARCE	225
'WHAT NEWS, WHAT NEWS? QUEEN ORRACA'	225
	ن ن ن
AN ODE TO THE FRAMERS OF THE FRAME BILL	225
[R. C DALLAS]	226
OH YOU, WHO IN ALL NAMES CAN
TICKLE THE TOWN'	226
'WHEN THURLOW THIS DAMN'D NON-
SENSE SENT?	226
To LORD THURLOW	227
ANSWER TO'S PROFESSIONS OF
AFFECTION	227
FRAGMENT OF AN EPISTLE TO THOMAS MOORE	227
WINDSOR POETICS	224
ON A ROYAL VISIT TO THE VAULTS
ICH DIEN	228
'HERE'S TO HER WHO LONG'	228
'ONCE FAIRLY SET OUT ON HIS PARTY
OF PLEASURE'	228
'IN THIS BELOVED MARBLE VIEW' .	229
AND DOST THOU ASK THE REASON OF MY SADNESS?
OF MY SADNESS	229
As THE LIBERTY LADS O'ER THE SEA'	229
SO WE'LL CO NO MONT & DOWN ?	229
SO WE'LL GO NO MORE A ROVING' I READ THE "CHRISTABEL"'	$\frac{229}{230}$
TO HOOK THE READER. VOIT JOEN
MURRAY'	230
GOD MADDENS HIM WHOM 'T IS HIS
WILL TO LOSE'	230
MY BOAT IS ON THE SHORE	230
'NO INFANT SOTHEBY, WHOSE DAUNT-
LESS HEAD'	23
DEAR DOCTOR, I HAVE READ YOUR PLAY'	00
PLAY'	23

CONTENTS

'My dear Mr. Murray' 232 (E Nihilo Nihil, or an Epigram	Journal in Cephalonia 2 Song to the Suliotes
BEWITCHED]	SATIRES. LNGLISH BARDS AND SCOTCH RE- VIEWERS
"HERE'S A HAPPY NEW YEAR! BUT WITH REASON"	SECULARE ET ANNUS HAUD MIRA- BILIS
New Song to the Tune of 'Whare hae ye been a'day,' etc. 235 'Would you go to the House by the true gate'. 326 'You ask ford a''Volume of Non- sense''	TALES, CHIEFLY ORIENTAL. 310 THE GLAOUR 323 THE BRIDE OF ABYDOS 323 THE CORSAIR 337 LARA 366 THE SIEGE OF CORINTH 384 PARISINA 396 THE PRISONER OF CHILLON 402 MAZEPPA 406 THE ISLAND; OR, CHRISTIAN AND 415
AND DIRTY' 236 'THE BRAZIERS, IT SEEMS, ARE PRE-	ITALIAN POEMS. THE LAMENT OF TASSO 436
PARING TO PAS'	THE LAMENT OF TASSO 430 BEPPO 440 ODE ON VENICE 452 THE PROPHECY OF DANTE 455 THE MORGANTE MAGGIORE OF PULCI 465 FRANCESCA OF RIMINI FRANCESCA OF RIMINI 476
⁴ BRAVE CHAMPIONS! GO ON WITH THE FARCE'	DRAMAS. MANFRED
EPIGRAMS	DON JUAN
THE NEW VICAR OF BRAY	NOTES 1001
MARTIAL. LIB I. EPIG. I 239 THE CONQUEST	INDEX OF FIRST LINES , 1047
Impromptu	INDEX OF TITLES 1 1

x

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

THE main events of our poet's life are so well known that they may be rehearsed here with the utmost brevity. George Gordon was born in London, January 22, 1788 His mother's family, the Gordons, whose name he took owing to the will of a maternal ancestor, was Scottish but of French extraction. His father, Captain Byron, belonged to an ancient noble family which came to England with William the Conqueror. The poet's pride of ancestry was always one of the strongest traits of his character, mingled as it was, as in his hero Marino Faliero, with sincere republican feelings The boy was born with a club foot, and this slight deformity had much to do with the waywardness of his disposition. Captain Byron soon dissipated most of his wife's fortune and then left her m liberty. In 1790 she removed to Aberdeen with her child, and the poet's early recollections were thus colored by his life in the Scottish Highlands. His first schooling was at Aberdeen, and later he was sent to Harrow. Meanwhile, the death of the old Lord Byron at Newstead Abbey gave him the title, at the age of ten, in default of nearer heirs This fifth Lord Byron, whom the poet succeeded, left him, besides the title, a disagreeable family feud. He had, under suspicious circumstances, killed his neighbor and kinsman, Mr Chaworth, in a duel. The poet afterwards was to fall in love with Chaworth's grandniece, the Mary whose name occurs so often throughout the poems The brother of the fifth baron was the poet's grandfather, the celebrated Admiral John Byron, a bold but unfortunate seaman whose narrative of a shipwreck formed the groundwork of the great description in the second canto of Don Juan.

From Harrow Byron went to Trinity College, Cambridge, where he led a reckless and defiant hife Like many a better man and worse poet, he left without taking a degree. His drinking cup, made of a human skull, and his savage pets were notorious His days were now passed chiefly at Newstead and in London On coming of age he presented himself at the House of Lords, and even thought of taking up a political career The report of his speeches later on and his cleverness as a pamphleteer suggest that, had he persisted, he might have made his mark in this field But the spirit of adventure seized him June 11, 1809, he left London with his friend Hobhouse and for two years traveled, passing through Portugal and Spain, where he was much impressed by the results of the Peninsular War, and wandering extensively in Greece and the Levant. He returned to England in July of 1811, with his head full of romantic notions The first two cantos of Childe Harold and the Oriental Tales were the product of his travels, and immediately raised him into astonishing popularity. His life in London was now a union of social dissipation and feverish work January 2, 1815, came his unfortunate marriage with Miss Milbanke, who, after the lapse of a year, separated from him, taking with her their infant daughter, Augusta Ada Into the causes and mysteries of the divorce we may not enter Byron was wild and his wife was a prude; it would seem that nothing more should need be said.

The public violently, and to a certain extent rightly, sided with Lady Byron, and the poet found it necessary to quit England. He sailed April 25, 1816, never to see his native land again. His greatest comfort seems to have been the loyal affection of his half-sister, Lady Augusta Leigh-Byron journeyed to Switzerland by way of the Rhine, and there, on the banks of Lake Geneva, joined Shelley and Mary Wollstoneeraft Godwin, with whom he was associated at intervals for a number of years. With the Shelleys was Jane Clairmont, a relative of Mary's, who became the mother of Byron's natural daughter Allegra In the autumn of 1816 Byron made a tour through the Alps and then went down to Vence. Here his life for a while assumed a character of mad dissipation which is only too faithfully reflected in his letters. His salvation, if satiety and innate repugnance were not sufficient, came from an alliance formed after the Italian fashion of the day with the Countess Guiccioli, who remained a faithful companion to him during all the rest of his stay in Italy. Very soon, however, Byron began to interest himself in the revolutionary movements then stirring in Greece. At last he resolved to stake his fortune (the large income from his pen) and his life on that cause. On the 14th of July, 1823, he sailed for Greece, and at Missolonghi put himself at the head of the republican forces. Death seemed to envy the noblest of his acts. April 19, 1824, he died, honored and lamented by those about him. His body was carried to England and buried near Newstead, in the church of Hucknall-Torkard.

Much that might throw light on Byron's works is here omitted, and, despite all that has been written on the subject, there is still room and need for a sympathetic study of his character For one thing the basis of his character was undoubtedly a proud sincerity, yet his acts and words wore often the appearance of sham To discriminate between that sincerity and that sham, and to show how they were related, would be as rich an exercise of psychology as a man might desire But for an introduction to Byron's works there would seem to be still greater need of some discussion of the poems themselves and of the qualities which have made them, for almost a century, the object of opprobrium and of equally extravagant laudation. Manifestly the elements of his genius are diverse, to a certain extent even contradictory; and to this fact are due in part the extraordinary unevenness of his own work and the curious divergence of opinion regarding him.

In a word, the two master traits of Byron's genius are the revolutionary spirit and classical art. He was both of his age and apart from it, and if, in the following pages, an attempt is made to throw the composite nature of his genius into relief by contrasting him with the men who were more purely the product of the times, with Shelley in particular, this is not done through a feeling of narrow rivalry, but because in no other way may we so easily prepare ourselves for a right understanding, and hence a right enjoyment, of his work. On one side of his character he was drawn toward the romantic spirit of the day, but on the other side his sympathies, conscious and unconscious, threw him back upon the more classical models of the past By classical is meant a certain predominance of the intellect over the emotions, and a reliance on broad effects rather than on subtle impressions; these two characteristics working harmoniously together and being subservient to human interest. And here straightway we may seem to run counter to a well-established criticism of Byron. It will be remembered that Matthew Arnold has quoted and judiciously enlarged upon Goethe's saying, 'The moment he reflects, he is a child.' The dictum is perfectly true, but more often he is a child because he fails to reflect at all. Predominance of intellect does not necessarily imply true wisdom; for in reality an impulsive, restless activity of mind seems often to militate against calm reflection. It implies in Byron rather keenness of wit, pungency of criticism whether sound or false, precision and unity of conception. So, in the English Bards, the ruinous criticism of Wordsworth, ' that mild apostate from poetic rule,' is the expression of an irresistible mental impulse, but it is hardly reflection. When the poet came to reflect on his satire, he wisely added the comment, 'unjust.' When in Childe Harold he describes Gibbon as 'sapping a solemn creed with solemn sneer,' he displays astonishing intellectual force in summing up the effect of a huge work in one sharp memorable phrase, such as can scarcely be paralleled from the poetry of his age. And in this case he is by chance right; reflection could not modify or improve the judgment.

In its larger effect this predominance of mtellect causes simplicity and tangibility of design Thus, on reading Manfred, we feel that a single and very definite idea has been grasped and held throughout: and we in turn receive a single and definite impression which we readily carry away and reproduce in memory. But turn to Shelley's Prometheus Unbound and mark the difference. However much the ordinary reader may admire this drama, it is doubtful whether he could give any satisfactory account of its central idea, for the reason that this idea has been diverted and refracted through the medium of a wayward imagination and is after all an illusion of the senses. Love, all-embracing vietorious love, is in a sense the motive of the poem, yet the most superficial analysis will show this to be an emotion or vague state of feeling, rather than a distinct conception of the intellect. The inconsistencies bewilder the reader, although, on a rapid perusal, they may escape his critical detection Love is the theme, yet the speeches are full of the gall of hatred: in words Prometheus may forgive his enemy, but the animus of the poem is unrelenting bitterness.

Yet the predominance of intellect, which forms so important a factor in classical art, is far from excluding all emotion. On the contrary, the simple elemental passions naturally provoke intense activity of mind. They almost inevitably, moreover, lead to an art that depends on broad effects instead of subtle and vague impressions The passion of Byron is good evidence of this tendency He himself somewhere remarks that his genius was eloquent rather than poetical, and in a sense this observation is true. His language has a marvelous sweep and force that carry the reader on through a sustained emotion, but in detail it is prosaic in comparison with the iridescent style of Shelley or of Keats. Marino Fahero, one of Byron's less important works, may be cited as a fair example of his eloquence and concentrated passion The theme of the drama is perfectly simple, -the conflict in Marino's breast between aristocratic pride and the love of liberty (predominant characteristics, be it observed, of the poet himself); and about this conflict the whole action of the play revolves, without any minor issues to dissipate the effect. The mind is held gripped to one emotion and one thought; we seem to hear the mighty pleading of a Demosthenes There is no poem of Shelley's (with the possible exception of The Cenci, where he resorts to monstrous and illegitimate means) which begins to leave on the mind so distinct and powerful an impression as this, yet the whole drama contains perhaps not a single line of the illusive charm to be found in passages on every page of Shelley's We know from Byron's letters and prefaces that he made a conscious effort to works he, as he himself calls it, classical in this respect Had his genus possessed also the subtle grace of the more romantic writers, he would have been classical in a still higher and broader sense; for the greatest poets, the true classics, Homer as well as Shakespeare, have embraced both gifts As it is, we are left to contrast the vigorous, though incomplete, art of Byron with the wayward and often effeminate style of his rivals And in this we are justified by the known hostility of Byron to the tendencies of his age and by the utterances of the romantic writers, from whom a volume of quotations might be culled showing that they deliberately look on poetry as a vehicle for the emotions and imaginations of the heart alone

It was in no mood of mere carping at the present that Byron condemned the romantic spirit, and waged continuous, if often indiscreet, warfare for Milton and Dryden and Pope. His indifference to Shakespeare (if we may believe his critical statements; in reality no writer was ever more steeped in Shakespearian language) proves the sincerity of his opinion, however it may expose the narrowness of his judgment He perceived clearly a real kinship, on one side of his genius, with the writers of Queen Anne, and was unflagging in his efforts to follow them as models. He was saved from their aridity by the revolutionary spirit, which was equally strong within him, and which he acknowledged by partially condemning himself with his contemporaries

Were the subject not too technical, the radical difference between these two classes of poets might be shown by a study of their respective use of metaphor. Poetry hardly exists without metaphor. Besides the formal simile, there is in verse the more pervasive use of metaphorical language, by which the whole world of animate and inanimate nature is brought into kinship with the human soul, so that our inner life is enlarged and exalted by a feeling of universal dominion. The classical metaphor is simple and intellectual; through its means the vague is fixed and presented clearly to the mind by comparison with the more definite, the more complex by comparison with the simple, the abstract with the concrete, the emotional with the sensuous. Its rival, the romantic metaphor, appeals to the fancy by the very opposite method. It would be easy to take the Prometheus Unbound and show how Shelley persistently relaxes the mind by vague and abstract similes. The moments are said to crawl like 'death-worms;' spring is compared with the 'memory of a dream,' with 'genius,' or 'joy which riseth up as from the earth;' the rushing avalanche is likened to 'thought by thought . . . piled up, till some great truth is loosened, and the nations echo round.' In the famous and exquisitely beautiful singing-metaphor of that poem we have in miniature a complete picture of the romantic poet's art -

> 'Meanwhile thy spirit lifts its pinions In music's most screne dominions; Catching the winds that fan that happy heaven. And we sail on, away, afar, Without a course, without a star, But by the instinct of sweet music driven.'

Perhaps nowhere could a more perfect expression of this wayward and delicate spirit of romance be found, unless in that brief phrase of A Winter's Tale: ---

'a wild dedication of yourselves To unpath'd waters, undream'd shores.'

Take away this subtle and baffling overgrowth of reverie, and the sturdier metaphor of the classical poets remains. Individual comparisons of this vague character may no doubt be cited from Byron (they are not altogether wanting even in Homer), but they are in him distinctly exceptions In general the poetic medium in which he works has an intellectual solidity akin to the older masters.

Poetry is the most perfect instrument of expression granted us in our need of self-utterance, and it is something to have learned in what way this instrument is shaped to the hand of a strong poet But this is not all. How does he deal with the great themes of literature? How does he stand toward nature and man? And here too we shall find a real contrast between Byron and his contemporaries

There is a scene in Mrs Gaskell's Cranford which to me has always seemed to set forth one of the aims of the romantic nature-poet in a charming light. It is the bewitching chapter where the ladies visit old Mr. Holbrook, the bachelor, and he, musing after dinner in the garden, quotes and comments on Tennyson: —

' "' The cedar spreads his dark-green layers of shade '

Capital term — layers! Wonderful man ! . . . Why, when I saw the review of his poems in Blackwood, I set off within an hour, and walked seven miles to Misselton (for the horses were not in the way) and ordered them. Now, what colour are ash-buds in March?"

'Is the man going mad ? thought I He is very like Don Quinote.

"What colour are they, I say?" repeated he vehemently

"I am sure I don't know, sir," said I, with the meekness of ignorance

"I knew you did n't No more did I — an old fool that I am !— till this young man comes and tells me. Black as ash-buds in March And I 've lived all my life in the country; more shame for me not to know Black they are jet-black, madam "'

Excellent botany, no doubt, and very dainty verse; but I cannot think the fame of the great masters of song depends on such trivialities as this Black as ash-buds in March, — one might read all the famous epics of history without acquiring this curious bit of information. There is a good deal of this petty, prying nature-cult in Keats and Shelley, along with inspiration of a more solid or mystical quality And it is Wordsworth who chants over the small celandine: —

'Since the day I found thee out, Little flower ! - I 'll make a stir, Like a great astronomer.'

Some kinship of spirit, some haunting echo of the revolutionary cry, binds us very close to the singers of that age, and we are perforce influenced by their attitude toward the outer world It would be a matter of curious inquiry to search out the advent of this nature-worship into poetry, and to trace it down through succeeding writers Its growth and culmination are in a way coincident with the revolutionary period to which Byron belongs, and, like most uniovations of the kind, it denotes both an enlargement and a loss of spiritual life The peculiar form of religious enthusiasm developed in the Middle Ages had wrought out its own idealism The soul of the individual man seemed to the Christian of that day, as it were, the centre of the world, about which the divine drama of salvation revolved; and on the stand taken by the individual in this drama depended his eternal life. A man's personality became of vast importance in the universal scheme of things, and a new and justifiable egotism of intense activity was born There was necessarily an element of anguish in this thought of personal importance and insecurity, but on the whole, while faith lasted, it was overbalanced by feelings of joy and peace; for, after all, salvation was within reach. The idealism of such a period found its aim in the perfecting of a man's soul, and humanity in the life of its individual members was the one theme of surpassing interest. The new humanism which came in with the Kenaissance modified, but did not entirely displant, this ideal; the faith of the earlier ages remained for a long time intact. But by the closing years of the eighteenth century the ancient illusion of man's personal value in the universe had been rudely shattered; his anchor of faith had been rent away. Then began the readjustment, which is still in progress and is still the cause of so much unrest and tribulation In place of the individual there arose a new ideal of humanity as a whole, - a very pretty theory for philosophers, but in no wise comforting for the homeless soul of man trained by centuries of introspection to deem himself the chosen vessel of grace. There was a season of revolt. The individual, still bearing his burden of self-importance, and seeing now no restrictive laws to bind him, gave himself to all the wild vagaries of the revolutionary period. Nor is it a matter of chance that Voltaire, the father of modern scepticism, and Rousseau, the first of romantic natureworshipers, had worked together to this end. It was under this stimulus that those who were unable to silence the inner need amidst the turmoil of action turned to the visible world, seeking there the comfort of an idealism not attainable in the vague abstraction of humanity. The individual found a new solace in reverse, which seemed to make him one with the wide and beneficent realm of nature. The flattering trust in his own eternal personality was undermined, the unsubdued egotism born of the old faith left him solitary amid mankind; he turned for companionship to the new world whose kinship to himself was so newly discovered: —

> 'Then stirs the feeling infinite, so felt In solitude where we are least alone, A truth, which through our being then doth melt And purifies from self · it is a tone, The soul and source of music, which makes known Eternal harmony, and sheds a charm, Like to the fabled Cytherea's zone, Binding all things with beauty, — 't would disarm The spectre Death, had he substantial power to harm.'

An eternal harmony did indeed spring from this new source of music; it was a calculable gain, a new created idealism in poetry. But we should not shut our eyes to the conconitant danger and loss. In this soothing absorption into nature the poet was too apt to forget that, after all, the highest and noblest theme must forever be the struggle of the human soul; he was too ready to substitute vague reverie for honest thought, or to lose his deeper sympathy with man in the eager pursuit of minute phenomena. We are all familiar with the travestied nature-cult that is sapping the vitals of literature to-day. Wordsworth has made a stir over the small celandine and Tennyson has discovered that ash-buds are black in March; the present generation must, for orginality, examine the fields with a botanist's lens, while the poor reader, who retains any use of his intellect, is too often reminded of the poet Gray's shrewd witticism, that he learned botany to save himself the labor of thinking. If for no other reason, it is wholesome to point out how Byron in his treatment of nature shows the same breadth and mental scope, the same human sympathy, as characterize his classical use of metaphor.

There is a curious passage in one of Franklm's letters, where the philosopher attempts to prove by experiment that the perception of form is remembered more distinctly than the perception of color. It may very well be that his explanation of this phenomenon is not strictly scientific, but the fact is indisputable. Form and motion of form are clearly defined, intelligible, so to speak; color is illusive and impressionistic. So, it will be remembered, the Greeks were preeminent in their imitation of form; the Renaissance artists excelled in color. Distinctions of this kind are, to be sure, a matter of degree only, but none the less significant for that. Now there are descriptions in Byron of gorgeous coloring, notably in certain stanzas of the Haidée episode; but even here the colors are sharply defined, and there is little of the blending, iridescent light of romance. In general he dwells on form and action in his representation of nature, whereas his contemporaries, and notably Shelley, revel in various colors and shifting tints.

It is curious, in fact, that many who are prone to dignify emotional reverie as thought would ascribe such predominance of intellect to shallowness, just as they would deem the breadth of Byron's natural description to be due to narrowness of observation. You will indeed find in Byron no poems on the small celandine, or the daisy, or the cuckoo, or the nightingale, or the west wind; but you may find pictures of mountains reared like the palaces of nature, of the free bounding ocean, of tempest on sea and storm among the Alps, of the solitary pure woods, of placed Lake Leman, — of all the greater, sublimer aspects of nature, such as can hardly be paralleled elsewhere in English literature.

Byron was too much a child of his age to escape the longing for mystic fellowship with nature which came in with the century and still in milder form troubles mankind. But even here there are in him a firmness and a directness of utterance which distinguish his work from the rhapsodies of the purely romantic writers Let us by all means retain as a precious and late-won possession this sense of communion with the fair outlying world, but let us at the same time beware of loosening our grip on realities. There is no better palliative for the insidious relaxing sentimentality that lurks in this brooding contemplation than certain well-known passages of Childe Harold, such as —

> 'l live not in myself, but I become Portion of that around me; '

or,

or,

"There is a pleasure in the pathless woods," Clear, placed Leman' thy contrasted lake."

Here again it is the classic element in Byron's art that saves him from shadowy, meaningless words; and he is assisted also by his intense human passions and personality. It has been said that the preponderance of human interest is an essential feature of the classical spirit; and it would have been easy to show that, along with predominance of intellect and breadth, this human interest is everywhere present in Byron's work. But the human element—the egotism, if you choose—is so universally recognized in his character that any detailed exposition of its presence in his poetry may seem superfluous. Only in his treatment of nature, perhaps, ought special attention to be called to this trait, for here most of all he differs .rom certain of the romantic writers. It is well to remember that now and always 'the proper study of mankind is man' We need still to reflect on the wise admonition of St Augustine. 'And men go abroad to gaze at the lofty mountains, and the great waves of the sea, and the wide flowing rivers, and the circle of ocean, and the revolutions of the stars, - and pass themselves, the crowning wonder, by.' This genume human interest distinguished Byron from the pseudo-classical writers as well, who would etherealize predominance of intellect into inanimate abstractions, -- from those thin-blooded poets of the eighteenth century whose art depended on a liberal distribution of capital letters.

At bottom Byron's sympathy is not with nature, but with man, and in the expression of this sympathy he displays the sturdy strength of classical art. Théophile Gautier, in his study of Villon, has a clever appeal for the minor bards. 'The most highly vaunted passages of the poets,' he says, 'are ordinarily commonplaces Ten verses of Byron on love, on the brevity of life, or on some other subject equally new, will find more admirres than the strangest vision of Jean Paul or of Hoffmann. This is because very many have been or are in love, and a still greater number are fearful of death ; but very few, even in dreams, have beheld the fantastic images of the German story-tellers pass before them.' Gautier himself, as one of the 'fantastics,' may be prejudiced in their favor, but his characterization of Byron is eminently right. It is a fact that the great poets, the classic poets, deal very much with commonplaces, but Gautier should know his Horace well enough to remember that nothing is more difficult than the art of giving to these commonplaces an individual stamp.

Here again it may be wise to turn for a while from the romantic poets who search out the wayward, obscure emotions of the heart to one who treated almost exclusively those simple, fundamental passions which are most compatible with predominance of intellect and breadth of expression. It is said that Byron could never get outside of himself; and this, to a certain extent, is true. He lacked the dramatic art; but, on the other hand, his own human passions were so strong, his hfe was so vigorous, that from personal experience he was able to accomplish more than most others whose sympathies might be wider. His range is by no means universal, and yet what masterly pictures he has drawn of love and hate, of patriotism, honor, disdain, sarcasm, revenge, remorse, despair, awe, and mockery ! If he had touched the passion of love alone, he would still be worthy of study. It is wholesome now and then to descend from the breathless heights where Cythna dwells, and linger by the sea with Haidée, the pure and innocent child of nature. Love in Byron is commonly the beast that enslaves and degrades, or it is the instinctive attraction of youth uncorrupted by the world, that sumple self-surrender, unquestioning and unpolluted, which to the aged sight of the wise Goethe and the subtle Renan seemed, after all was said, the best and truest thing in life Other poets in search of love's mystic shadow have philosophized with Plato or scaled the empyrean with Dante, but rarely in these excursions have they avoided the perils of unreality or self-deception, of inanity or morbidness. There is at least a certain safety in seeing in love the simple animal passion, pure or perverted as the case may be.

And this brings us to the vexed question of Byron's morality It is not necessary to extenuate his shortcomings in this matter, and yet the evil of his work has been much exaggerated. His aggressive free-thinking, which so shocked his contemporaries, can scarcely do more than elicit a smile to-day; the grossly sensual passages in his poems are few, and these are more outspoken than seductive; his sneers are mostly for cant and hypocrisy, which, God knows, deserved such lashing then even as they do now. And withal his mind was right; he never deceived himself. Many times he alludes to the ruin of his own life, and always he puts his finger upon the real source of the evil, his lack of self-restraint and his revolt from conventions. There is something manly and pathetic at once, not without strange foreboding of what was to come, in these lines from Childe Harold.—

'If my fame should be, as my fortunes are, Of hasty growth and blight, and dull Oblivion bar

'My name from out the temple where the dead Are honour'd by the nations — let it be, And light the laurels on a loftner head ! And be the Spartan's epitaph on me, "Sparta hath many a worthier son than he." Meantime I seek no sympathies, nor need, The thorns which I have reap'd are of the tree I planted, — they have torn me — and I bleed
I should have known what fruit would spring from such a seed.'

In his Epistle to Augusta, perhaps the noblest of all his shorter poems, he more explicitly mentions the evil that brought about his ruin :---

'I have been cunning in mine overthrow, The careful pilot of my proper woe.

'Mine were my faults, and mine be their reward. My whole life was a contest, since the day That gave me being, gave me that which marr'd The gift, — a fate, or will, that walk'd astray.' One cannot but recall, by way of contrast, the words of Mrs. Shelley in regard to her exalted companion. 'In all Shelley did,' she says, 'he, at the time of doing it, believed himself justified to his own conscience' This, surely, is the inner falsehood, more deadly, as Plato affirmed, than the spoken he; and one needs but a little of the Platonic doctrine to believe that in this glozing of evil hes the veritable danger to morals. There is no such insidious disease in Byron's mind.

The errors of Byron, both in conduct and in art, were in fact largely due to the revolutionary spirit which so easily passes into licentiousness. Classical art should result in self-restraint and harmony of form, but to this Byron never attained except spasmodically, almost by accident it should seem. So far he is classical that he almost universally displays predominance of intellect, breadth of treatment, and human interest; but side by side with this principle of limitation runs the other spirit of revolt, producing at times that extraordinary incongruity of effect which has so baffled his later audience. The world, after manifold struggles, had begun to throw off the mednæval ideals. Faith in the infinite and eternal value of the human person, with all its earthly desires and ambitions, with its responsibility to a jealous God, had been rudely shaken; nor had that deeper faith taken hold of the mind wherein this laboring, grasping earthly self is seen to be but a shadow, an obscuration, of something vastly greater hidden in the secret places of the heart. Behef in the divine right of rulers had been burst as an insubstantial bubble, but in the late-born ideal of a humanity bound in brotherhood and striving upward together the individual was very slow to feel the drawing of the new ties; he had revolted from the past, and still felt himself homeless and unattached in the shadowy ideals of the future. In such an age Byron was born, a man of superabundant physical vigor which at any time would have ill brooked restraint, and of mental impetuosity which had by nature something of the tiger in it. He was led at first by the very spirit of the age to glory in physical and mental license and to exaggerate his impatience of restraint; and only by the hard experience of life did he learn, or partly learn, the lesson of moderation. Inevitably his poetry too often reflected his temperament in its lack of discipline

No one can be more conscious of these deficiencies than the present writer, whose task it has been to read through Byron's works with an editor's questioning eye His language is often — very often — slipshod, made obscure by interminable anacoluthons, disfigured by frequent lapses into bad grammar The thought and style of certain poems — The Prophecy of Dante, for instance — are so cheap as to render the reading of them a labor of necessity. Yet all this hardly affects his importance for us. We are not likely to learn bad grammar from him, and his dull poems are easily passed over. He wrote, to use his own words, as the tiger leaps; and if he missed his aim, there was no retrieving the failure. We call this lack of artistic conscience, and so it is; but in this at least he followed only too well the guidance of his age. And then, if he often failed, he sometimes hit the mark. There are passages — more than that, there are whole poems — wherein his classical method has dominated the license of revolt sufficiently to achieve almost perfect harmony of form, while retaining the full vigor of his imperious inspiration.

But the inner character of his work was affected even more than his art by the new leaven, and this free expression of the revolutionary spirit lends to some of his poeins a psychological interest even beyond their intrinsic value. It is curious, for instance, to compare the effect on the mature mind of Manfred's eloquence and sombre misanthropy with the impression left from a first reading of that drama many years ago What carried away the young enthusiast with passionate sympathy now leaves the reader cold or even provokes a smile. Such platitudes as this: — 'They who know the most Must mourn the deepest o'er the fatal truth, The Tree of Knowledge is not that of Lıfe,' such profundities as 'the gulf of my unfathomed thought,' do not now seem quite the utterances of apocalyptic wisdom. A more critical taste, too, while feeling the superb rush and abandon of the lyrical stanzas, cannot pass lightly over a tame conclusion like — 'now wither !' But, however cold Manfred's rhetoric may leave us, we are compelled to admit another and perhaps more enduring value in the poem. Its psychological interest is not easily exaggerated and becomes clear only as we pass out of immediate sympathy with the writer.

Much has been said concerning the relation between Manfred and Faust, and Byron has more than once been accused of plaguarizing the idea of his poem from the great German As a matter of fact certain ideas of a philosophical cast were probably inspired directly by a recollection of Faust. This talk of the 'tree of Knowledge and the tree of Life,' this pretension to profundities of ineffable science, have about them all the insincerity of borrowed inspiration. But the true theme of Manfred is not a philosophical question; the real poem, as Byron himself asserted, came not from reading, but was the immediate outcome of his own life, and Byron's life was the very impersonation of the revolutionary idea, the idea of reckless individual revolt which we have hardly yet outgrown. It is because Manfred more than almost any other English poem expresses the longings and ambitions, the revolt and the tragic failure of this idea, that its interest is still so great and must always remain great in any historical survey of literature. Where better can we read the desire of detachment, the longing of the individual to throw off the bonds of social law and make for himself a life apart from the world's life, than in Manfred's boastful words:

[^]My pang shall find a voice. From my youth upwards My spirit walk'd not with the souls of men'?

Equally strong is the expression of self-centred pride When Manfred rebukes the Spirit who claims dominion over his soul, he cries out scornfully: --

'Back to thy hell ! Thou hast no power upon me, that I feel; Thou never shalt possess me, that I know : What I have done is done.'

It is in such words as these that we recognize the vast difference between Manfred and Faust, not to mention Marlowe's Dr. Faustus. Of similar nature and growing directly from the revolutionary ideal of personal unrestraint is the longing for union with one kindred soul, — a longing which seems at once impossible and impious, yet inevitable. This is Manfred's love for Astarte, the love of a soul that has violated common human attachments in its loneliness and throws itself with guilty passionateness into one sacrilegions desire of union. And the same loneliness, self-created and still intolerable, speaks in the yearning cry after a more intimate absorption into nature: —

* I said, with men, and with the thoughts of men, I held but slight communion, but instead, My joy was in the Wilderness, to breathe The difficult air of the iced mountain's top,' etc

And at the last comes the inevitable despair, the necessary failure, expressed in Manfred by the vain prayer of oblivion from self. In the end this solitary pride and isolation, this morbid exaltation of our personal existence, become a greation of Frankenstein, from whose oppression we long for deliverance. To the Spirits who offer him dominion and all the joys of the senses the smitten and defiant soul can only cry out for forgetfulness. —

> 'Oblivion, self-oblivion — Can ye not wring from out the hidden realms Ye offer so profusely what I ask ?'

It is the perfect and ever memorable tragedy of the spirit of revolution, of individual isolation, of unrestraint, of limitless desires, which found in Byron side by side with his classic intelligence its most authentic utterance.

But to do anything like justice to the psychology of Byron would require a separate study in itself; and if the subject is here passed lightly over, this is because it seems, on the whole, less important to-day than the analysis of his art. Every one recognizes at a glance the tormented personality and the revolutionary leaven in Byron's spirit; not every one, perhaps, would comprehend immediately the extraordinary result produced by the union of these with his classical method, — a result so peculiar as alone to lend permanent interest to his work And this interest is heightened by the rapid change and development in his character.

There are, in fact, four pretty clearly defined periods in his life, although as always these overlap one another to a certain extent. First we see the youthful satirist lashing friend and foe with savage bitterness, as if his egregious egotism could find relief only in baying at the world. Then follows a second phase of revolt, taking pleasure in melodramatic isolation from society, exulting in moody revenge and unutterable mysteries, stalking before the world in gorgeous Oriental disguise Out of this extravagance grows the Byron of the later Childe Harold, who would unburden his soul of its self-engendered torture in solitary communion with nature, and would find relief from the vulgar cant of the present in pensive reflection on the grandeurs of the older days. And last of all, when even these fail hum, the self-mocking Don Juan, with his strange mingling of sweet and bitter, infinitely heavy-hearted at bottom, who cries out in the end: —

'Now . . . Imagination droops her pinion, And the sad truth that hovers o'er my desk Turns what was once romantic to burlesque.

'And if I laugh at any mortal thing, 'T is that I may not weep; and if I weep, 'T is that our nature cannot always bring Itself to apathy.'

He was saved, indeed, from the final silence of apathy by an early death. Yet it may at least be said that for one brief moment, — when, after escaping the vexations of his ruined domestic life, he wrote his Episile to Augusta from the solutides of Switzerland, — Byron caught, dim and distorted it may be, a glimpse of divine wisdom, which, if pursued, might have rendered him great among the wisest. But some Nemesis of fate, some error of will, swept him back into the bondage from which he never entirely escaped. As it was he wrung from the tragedy of his own life the irony and pathos of Don Juan, a poem which in its own sphere is so easily supreme that this achievement alone would nk him great among the strongest, if not among the wisest

P. E. M.

CHILDE HAROLD'S PILGRIMAGE

A ROMAUNT

In reading Childe Harold one should remember that it is really two, or even three, poeme written at quite different periods in Byron's poetical development. The first and second cantos represent the time of his early travels, when he was comparatively unskilled as a poet and unversed in the world. The stanzas begin with an awkward attempt to imitate the archaic language of Spenser, and there is an equally awkward confusion of the poet himself and his hero, who are neither wholly merged together nor vet fully distinguished. Nevertheless it is of these two cantos that By1on uttered the famous remark. 'I awoke one morning and found myself famous' Canto I was begun at Joannina in Albama, October 31, 1809, and Canto II. was finished at Smyrna, March 28, 1810. They were published in March, 1812. Between that date and the writing of the third canto came Byron's life in London, and the composition of the Oriental Tales ; there came also his marriage and the fatal rupture It was, indeed, during the first months of his melancholy exple that he returned to Childe Harold Canto III. was completed at Diodati, on Lake Geneva, in July, 1810, and was published the same year To compare these stanzas with those of the earlier cantos is to see how much Byron had grown in depth of feeling and in technical skill The poem gains in force by the frankness with which the poet now speaks in his own person With the first line, 'Is thy face like thy mother's, my fair child,' we feel that we have come to the true Byron The fourth canto, though published separately, is in the same tone as the third It was written at Venice between June of 1817 and January of 1818, and was published immediately As with most of his works the poem suffered manifold changes while going through the press, and later editions brought other alterations. The stanzas to 'Ianthe' (Lady Charlotte Harley) had been written in 1812, but were first printed in 1814 as a dedication to the seventh edition of Cantos I. and II.]

L'univers est une espèce de livre, dont on n'a lu que la première page quand on n'a vu que son pays. J'en ai feuilleté un assez grand nombre, que j'ai trouvé également manvaises Cet examen ne m'a point été infructuenx Je haissais ma patrie. Toutes les impertinences des peuples divers, parmi lesquels j'ai vécu, m'ont réconcilié avec elle Quand je n'aurais tiré d'autre bénéfice de mes voyages que celuilà, je n'en regretterais ni les frais ni les fatigrues — Le Cosmopolite.

PREFACE

[TO THE FIRST AND SECOND CANTOS]

The following poem was written, for the most part, amidst the scenes which it attempts to describe. It was begun in Albania; and the parts relative to Spain and Portugal were composed from the author's observations in those countries. Thus much it may be necessary to state for the correctness of the descriptions. The scenes attempted to be sketched are in Spain, Portugal, Epirus, Acarnania, and Greece. There, for the present, the poem stops its reception will determine whether the author may venture to conduct his readers to the capital of the East, through Ionia and Phrygia these two cantos are merely experimental

A fictitious character is introduced for the sake of giving some connection to the piece; which, however, makes no pretension to regularity. It has been suggested to me by friends, on whose opinions I set a high value, that in this fictutious character, Childe Harold, I may incur the suspicion of having intended some real personage this I beg leave, once for all, to disclaim — Harold is the child of imagination, for the purpose I have stated. In some very trivial particulars, and those merely local, there might be grounds for such a notion; but in the main points, I should hope, none whatever.

It is almost superfluous to mention that the appellation 'Childe,' as 'Childe Waters,' 'Childe Childers,' etc., is used as more consonant with the old structure of versification which I have adopted. The 'Good Night,' in the beginning of the first canto, was suggested by Lord Maxwell's Good Night, in the Border Minstrelsy, edited by Mr. Scott.

With the different poems which have been published on Spanish subjects, there may be found some slight coincidence in the first part, which treats of the Peninsula, but it can only be casual; as, with the exception of a few concluding stanzas, the whole of this poem was written in the Levant.

The stanza of Spenser, according to one of our most successful poets, admits of every variety. Dr. Beattie makes the following observation: 'Not long ago I began a poem in the style and stanza of Spenser, in which I propose to give full scope to my inclination, and be either droll or pathetic, descriptive or sentimental, tender or satirical, as the humour strikes me : for, if I mistake not, the measure which I have adopted admits equally of all these kinds of composition' Strengthened in my opinion by such authority, and by the example of some in the highest order of Italian poets, I shall make no apology for attempts at similar variations in the following composition, satisfied that, if they are unsuccessful, their failure must be in the execution, rather than in the design sanctioned by the practice of Ariosto, Thomson, and Beattie.

LONDON, February, 1812.

ADDITION TO THE PREFACE

I have now waited till almost all our periodical journals have distributed their usual portion of criticism. To the justice of the generality of their criticisms I have nothing to object it would ill become me to quarrel with their very slight degree of censure, when, perhaps, if they had been less kind they had been more candid Returning, therefore, to all and each my best thanks for their liberality, on one point alone shall I venture an observation. Amongst the many objections justly urged to the very indifferent character of the 'vagrant Childe' (whom, notwithstanding many hints to the contrary, I still maintain to be a fictitious personage), it has been stated, that, besides the anachronism, he is very unknightly, as the times of the knights were times of love, honour, and so forth. Now, it so happens that the good old times, when 'l'amour du bon vieux tems, l'amour antique ' flourished, were the most profligate of all possible centuries. Those who have any doubts on this subject may consult Sainte-Palaye, passim, and more particularly vol ii. p. 69. The vows of chivalry were no better kept than any other vows whatsoever, and the songs of the Troubadours were not ore decent, and certainly were much less refined, than those of Ovid The ' cours d'amour. parlemens d'amour, ou de courtoisie et de gentillesse ' had much more of love than of courtesy or gentleness. See Roland on the same subject with Sainte-Palaye. Whatever other objection may be urged to that most unamiable personage Childe Harold, he was so far perfectly knightly in his attributes - 'No waiter, but a knight templar' By the by, I fear that Sir Tristrem and Sir Lancelot were no better than they should be, although very poetical personages and true knights 'sans peur,' though not 'sans reproche.' If the story of the institution of the 'Garter' be not a fable, the knights of that order have for several centuries borne the badge of a Countess of Salisbury, of indifferent memory. So much for chivalry. Burke need not have regretted that its days are over, though Marie-Antoinette was quite as chaste as most of those in whose honours lances were shivered, and knights unhorsed.

Before the days of Bayard, and down to those of Sir Joseph Banks (the most chaste and celebrated of ancient and modern times), few exceptions will be found to this statement, and I fear a little investigation will teach us not to regret these monstrous mummeries of the middle ages.

I now leave Childe Harold to live his day. such as he is; it had been more agreeable, and certainly more easy, to have drawn an amiable character. It had been easy to varnish over his faults, to make him do more and express less, but he never was intended as an example, further than to show that early perversion of mind and morals leads to satiety of past pleasures and disappointment in new ones and that even the beauties of nature and the stimulus of travel (except ambition, the most powerful of all excitements) are lost on a soul so constituted, or rather misdirected. Had I proceeded with the poem, this character would have deepened as he drew to the close; for the outline which I once meant to fill up for him was, with some exceptions, the sketch of a modern Timon. perhaps a poetical Zeluco.

LONDON, 1813.

TO IANTHE

- Nor in those climes where I have late been straying,
- Though Beauty long hath there been matchless deem'd;
- Not in those visions to the heart displaying
- Forms which it sighs but to have only dream'd.

- Hath aught like thee in truth or fancy seem'd
- Nor, having seen thee, shall I vainly seek
- To paint those charms which varied as they beam'd:
- To such as see thee not my words were weak;
- Fo those who gaze on thee what language could they speak?
 - Ah ! may'st thou ever be what now thou art,

Nor unbeseem the promise of thy spring,

- As fair in form, as warm yet pure in heart,
- Love's image upon earth without his wing,

And guileless beyond Hope's imagining !

- And surely she who now so fondly rears
- Thy youth, in thee, thus hourly brightening,

Beholds the rainbow of her future years,

- Before whose heavenly hues all sorrow disappears.
 - Young Peri of the West ! 't is well for me
 - My years already doubly number thine;
 - My loveless eye unmoved may gaze on thee, 21
 - And safely view thy ripening beauties shine;
 - Happy, I ne'er shall see them in decline;
 - Happier, that while all younger hearts shall bleed,
 - Mine shall escape the doom thine eyes assign
 - To those whose admiration shall succeed,
- But mix'd with pangs to Love's even loveliest hours decreed.
 - Oh! let that eye, which, wild as the Gazelle's,
 - Now brightly bold or beautifully shy,
 - Wins as it wanders, dazzles where it dwells, 30
 - Glance o'er this page, nor to my verse deny
 - That smile for which my breast might vainly sigh
 - Could I to thee be ever more than friend.
 - This much, dear maid, accord; nor question why

- To one so young my strain I would commend,
- But bid me with my wreath one matchless lily blend.
 - Such is thy name with this my verse entwined;
 - And long as kinder eyes a look shall cast
 - On Harold's page, Ianthe's here enshrined
 - Shall thus be first beheld, forgotten last[•] 40
 - My days once number'd, should this homage past
 - Attract thy fairy fingers near the lyre
 - Of him who hail'd thee, loveliest as thou wast,
 - Such is the most my memory may desire; -
- Though more than Hope can claim, could Friendship less require?

CANTO THE FIRST

I

- OH, thou ! in Hellas deem'd of heavenly birth,
- Muse ! form'd or fabled at the minstrel's will !
- Since shamed full oft by later lyres on earth,
- Mine dares not call thee from thy sacred hill.
- Yet there I've wander'd by thy vaunted rill;
- Yes ! sigh'd o'er Delphi's long-deserted shrine,
- Where, save that feeble fountain, all is still;
- Nor mote my shell awake the weary Nine
- To grace so plain a tale, this lowly lay of mine.

II

- Whilome in Albion's isle there dwelt a youth,
- Who ne in virtue's ways did take delight; But spent his days in riot most uncouth,
- And vex'd with mirth the drowsy ear of Night.
- Ah me! in sooth he was a shameless wight,
- Sore given to revel and ungodly glee;

Few earthly things found favour in his sight

Save concubines and carnal companie,

And flaunting wassailers of high and low degree.

III

- Childe Harold was he hight:-but whence his name
- And lineage long, it suits me not to say; 20
- Suffice it, that perchance they were of fame,
- And had been glorious in another day:
- But one sad losel soils a name for aye,
- However mighty in the olden time;
- Nor all that heralds rake from coffin'd clay,
- Nor florid prose, nor honey'd lies of rhyme,

Can blazon evil deeds or consecrate a crime.

IV

- Childe Harold basked him in the noontide sun,
- Disporting there like any other fly,
- Nor deem'd before his little day was done 30
- One blast might chill him into misery.
- But long ere scarce a third of his pass'd by,

Worse than adversity the Childe befell,---

- He felt the fulness of satiety;
- Then loathed he in his native land to dwell,
- Which seem'd to him more lone than Eremite's sad cell.

v

For he through Sin's long labyrinth had run,

Nor made atonement when he did amiss;

- Had sigh'd to many though he loved but one,
- And that loved one, alas ! could ne'er be his. 40
- Ah, happy she ! to 'scape from him whose kiss
- Had been pollution unto aught so chaste;
- Who soon had left her charms for vulgar bliss,
- And spoil'd her goodly lands to gild his waste,
- Nor calm domestic peace had ever deign'd to taste

VI

- And now Childe Harold was sore sick at heart,
- And from his fellow bacchanals would flee;
- 'T is said, at times the sullen tear would start,
- But Pride congeal'd the drop within his ee.
- Apart he stalk'd in joyless reverie, 5
- And from his native land resolved to go, And visit scorching climes beyond the sea;
- With pleasure drugg'd, he almost long'd for woe,
- And e'en for change of scene would seek the shades below.

VII

- The Childe departed from his father's hall:
- It was a vast and venerable pile;
- So old, it seemed only not to fall,
- Yet strength was pillar'd in each massy aisle.

Monastic dome! condemn'd to uses vile! Where Superstition once had made her den, 60

- Now Paphian girls were known to sing and smile;
- And monks might deem their time w come agen,
- If ancient tales say true nor wrong these holy men.

VIII

- Yet oft-times in his maddest mirthful mood
- Strange pangs would flash along Childe Harold's brow,
- As if the memory of some daily feud
- Or disappointed passion lurk'd below:
- But this none knew, nor haply cared to know;
- For his was not that open, artless soul
- That feels relief by bidding sorrow flow, Nor sought he friend to counsel or condole, 7¹
- Whate'er this grief mote be which he could not control.

IX

And none did love h'; though to hali and bower

He gather'd revellers from far and ne ,

He knew them flatt'rers of the festal hour, The heartless parasites of present cheer.

- Yea ! none did love him not his lemans dear —
- But pomp and power alone are woman's care,
- And where these are light Eros finds a feere;
- Maidens, like moths, are ever caught by glare, ⁸⁰
- And Mammon wins his way where Seraphs might despair.

х

- Childe Harold had a mother, not forgot
- Though parting from that mother he did shun;
- A sister whom he loved, but saw her not Before his weary pilgrimage begun:
- If friends he had, he bade adieu to none.
- Yet deem not thence his breast a breast of steel:
- Ye, who have known what 't is to dote upon

A few dear objects, will in sadness feel

Such partings break the heart they fondly hope to heal. 90

XI

- His house, his home, his heritage, his lands,
- The laughing dames in whom he did delight,
- Whose large blue eyes, fair locks, and snowy hands,

Might shake the samtship of an anchorite,

- And long had fed his youthful appetite,
- His goblets brimm'd with every costly wine,

And all that mote to luxury invite,

- Without a sigh he left, to cross the brine
- And traverse Paynim shores and pass Earth's central line.

XII

- The sails were fill'd, and fair the light winds blew,
- As glad to waft him from his native home;
- And fast the white rocks faded from his view,
- And soon were lost in circumambient foam.
- And then, it may be, of his wish to roam

Repented he, but in his bosom slept

- The silent thought, nor from his hps did come
- One word of wail, whilst others sate and wept
- And to the reckless gales unmanly moaning kept

хш

But when the sun was sinking in the sea

- He seized his harp, which he at times could string
- And strike, albeit with untaught melody,
- When deem'd he no strange ear was listening.

And now his fingers o'er it he did fling,

And tuned his farewell in the dim twilight; ---

While flew the vessel on her snowy wing,

- And fleeting shores receded from his sight,
- Thus to the elements he pour'd his last 'Good Night.'

I

- 'ADIEU, adieu ! my native shore Fades o'er the waters blue,
 - The Night-winds sigh, the breakers roar, And shricks the wild sea-mew.
 - Yon Sun that sets upon the sea
 - We follow in his flight,
- Farewell awhile to him and thee, My native Land - Good Night!

2

- 'A few short hours and He will rise To give the Morrow birth , And I shall hal the main and skies,
 - But not my mother Earth Deserted is my own good hall,
 - Its hearth is desolate, Wild weeds are gathering on the wall; My dog howls at the gate.

130

140

3

- Come hither, hither, my little page! Why dost thou weep and wail? Or dost thou dread the billows' rage, Or tremble at the gale?
 - But dash the tear-drop from thine eye; Our ship is swift and strong,
 - Our fleetest falcon scarce can fly More merrily along.' --

4

'Let winds be shrill, let waves roll high, I fear not wave nor wind; Yet marvel not, Sir Childe, that I Am sorrowful in mind: For I have from my father gone, A mother whom I love, And have no friend, save these alone, But thee — and one above.

5

150

'My father bless'd me fervently, Yet did not much complain; But sorely will my mother sigh Till I come back again.'-'Enough, enough, my hitle lad ! Such tears become thime eye; If I thy guileless bosom had, Mine own would not be dry. --

6

Come hither, hither, my staunch yeoman, Why dost thou look so pale?
Or dost thou dread a French foeman? 160 Or shiver at the gale?' Deem'st thou I tremble for my life? Sir Childe, I 'm not so weak; But thinking on an absent wife Will blanch a faithful cheek.

7

My spouse and boys dwell near thy hall, Along the bordering lake, And when they on their father call, What answer shall she make?'--'Enough, enough, my yeoman good, Thy grief let none gamsay; But I, who am of hghter mood, Will laugh to flee away.

8

'For who would trust the seeming sighs Of wife or paramour? Fresh feres will dry the bright blue eyes We late saw streaming o'er. For pleasures past I do not grieve, Nor perils gathering near; My greatest grief is that I leave No thing that claims a tear.

9

⁴ And now I 'm in the world alone, Upon the wide, wide sea; But why should I for others groan, When none will sigh for me ⁹ Perchance my dog will whine in vain, Till fed by stranger hands; But long ere I come back again He'd tear me where he stands.

10

With thee, my bark, I 'll swiftly go Athwart the foaming brnne; Nor care what land thou bear'st me to, So not again to mine Welcome, welcome, ye dark blue waves! And when you fail my sight, Welcome, ye deserts, and ye caves! My native land — Good Night!' XIV

On, on the vessel flies, the land is gone, And winds are rude in Biscay's sleepless bav.

- Four days are sped, but with the fifth,
- New shores descried make every bosom gay;
- And Cintra's mountain greets them on their way,
- And Tagus dashing onward to the deep, His fabled golden tribute bent to pay;
- And soon on board the Lusian pilots leap,

And steer 'twixt fertile shores where yet few rustics reap.

xv

- Oh, Christ ! it is a goodly sight to see
- What Heaven hath done for this delicious land,
- What fruits of fragrance blush on every tree,
- What goodly prospects o'er the hills expand ! 210
- But man would mar them with an impious hand !
- And when the Almighty lifts his fiercest scourge
- 'Gainst those who most transgress his high command,
- With treble vengeance will his hot shafts urge
- Gaul's locust host, and earth from fellest foemen purge.

XVI

What beauties doth Lisboa first unfold !

Her image floating on that noble tide,

- Which poets vamly pave with sands of gold,
- But now whereon a thousand keels did ride
- Of mighty strength, since Albion was allied 220

And to the Lusians did her aid afford, — A nation swoln with ignorance and pride, Who lick yet loathe the hand that waves the sword To save them from the wrath of Gaul's unsparing lord.

XVII

But whose entereth within this town,

That, sheening far, celestial seems to be,

Disconsolate will wander up and down 'Mid many things unsightly to strange ee For hut and palace show like filthily; The dingy denizens are rear'd in dirt: 230 Ne personage of high or mean degree

Doth care for cleanness of surtout or shirt,

Though shent with Egypt's plague, unkempt, unwash'd, unhurt

XVIII

Poor, paltry slaves ! yet born 'midst noblest scenes —

Why, Nature, waste thy wonders on such men?

Lo ! Cintra's glorious Eden intervenes

In variegated maze of mount and glen.

Ah me! what hand can pencil guide, or pen,

To follow half on which the eye dilates

Through views more dazzling unto mortal ken 240

- Than those whereof such things the bard relates,
- Who to the awe-struck world unlock'd Elysium's gates ?

XIX

- The horrid crags by toppling convent crown'd,
- The cork-trees hoar that clothe the shaggy steep,
- The mountain-moss by scorching skies imbrown'd,
- The sunken glen whose sunless shrubs must weep,

The tender azure of the unruffled deep,

The orange tints that gild the greenest hough,

The torrents that from cliff to valley leap, The vine on high, the willow branch below,

Mix'd in one mighty scene, with varied beauty glow 251

XX

Then slowly climb the many-winding way,

And frequent turn to linger as you go,

- From loftier rocks new loveliness survey,
- And rest ye at 'Our Lady's house of woe;'
- Where frugal monks their little relics show,
- And sundry legends to the stranger tell:

Here impious men have punish'd been, and lo !

Deep in yon cave Honorius long did dwell, in hope to merit Heaven by making earth

a Hell. 260

XXI

- And here and there, as up the crags you spring,
- Mark many rude-carved crosses near the path;

Yet deem not these devotion's offering -

- These are memorials frail of murderous wrath:
- For wheresoe'er the shrieking victim hath
- Pour'd forth his blood beneath the assassin's knife,
- Some hand erects a cross of mouldering lath;
- And grove and glen with thousand such are rife
- Throughout this purple land where law secures not life.

XXII

On sloping mounds, or in the vale beneath,

- Are domes where whilome kings did make repair; 271
- But now the wild flowers round them only breathe;
- Yet rum'd splendour still is lingering there.
- And yonder towers the Prince's palace fair:
- There thou too, Vathek ! England's wealthiest son,
- Once form'd thy Paradise, as not aware
- When wanton Wealth her mightiest deeds hath done,
- Meek Peace voluptuous lures was ever wont to shun.

XXIII

- Here didst thou dwell, here schemes of pleasure plan,
- Beneath yon mountain's ever beauteous brow; 280
- But now, as if a thing unblest by Man,
- Thy fairy dwelling is as lone as thou !

Here giant weeds a passage scarce allow To halls deserted, portals gaping wide — Fresh lessons to the thinking bosom, how Vain are the pleasaunces on earth supplied,

Swept into wrecks anon by Time's ungentle tide !

XXIV

Behold the hall where chiefs were late convened !

Oh, dome displeasing unto British eye! With diadem hight foolscap, lo! a fiend, A little fiend that scoffs incessantly, 291 There sits in parchment robe array'd, and by

- His side is hung a seal and sable scroll,
- Where blazon'd glare names known to chivalry,

And sundry signatures adorn the roll,

Whereat the Urchin points, and laughs with all his soul.

xxv

Convention is the dwarfish demon styled

- That foll'd the knights in Marialva's dome.
- Of brains (if brains they had) he them beguiled,
- And turn'd a nation's shallow joy to gloom. 300
- Here Folly dash'd to earth the victor's plume,
- And Policy regain'd what arms had lost.
- For chiefs like ours in vain may laurels bloom !
- Woe to the conquiring, not the conquer'd host,
- Since baffled Triumph droops on Lusitania's coast !

XXVI

And ever since that martial synod met, Britannia sickens, Cintra ! at thy name;

And folks in office at the mention fret,

- And fain would blush, if blush they could, for shame.
- How will posterity the deed proclaim ' 310
- Will not our own and fellow-nations sneer,
- To view these champions cheated of their fame,

By foes in fight o'erthrown, yet victors here,

Where Scorn her finger points through many a coming year?

XXVII

So deem'd the Childe, as o'er the mountains he Did take his way in solitary guise.

Sweet was the scene, yet soon he thought to flee,

- More restless than the swallow in the skies;
- Though here awhile he learn'd to moralize,

For Meditation fix'd at times on him; 320 And conscious Reason whisper'd to despise

- His early youth misspent in maddest whim;
- But as he gazed on truth his aching eyes grew dim.

XXVIII

- To horse ! to horse ! he quits, for ever quits
- A scene of peace, though soothing to his soul;

Agam he rouses from his moping fits,

- But seeks not now the harlot and the bowl.
- Onward he flies, nor fix'd as yet the goal Where he shall rest him on his pilgrimage;
- And o'er him many changing scenes must roll, 330
- Ere toil his thirst for travel can assuage,
- Or he shall calm his breast, or learn experience sage.

XXIX

- Yet Mafra shall one moment claim delay, Where dwelt of yore the Lusians' luck-
- less queen; And church and court did mingle their array,
- And mass and revel were alternate seen, ---
- Lordlings and freres, ill-sorted fry I ween!
- But here the Babylonian whore hath built
- A dome, where flaunts she in such glorious sheen,
- That men forget the blood which she hath spilt, 340
- And bow the knee to Pomp that loves to varnish guilt.

xxx

- O'er vales that teem with fruits, romantic hills
- (Oh, that such hills upheld a freeborn race !),
- Whereon to gaze the eye with joya ce fills,

- Childe Harold wends through many a pleasant place.
- Though sluggards deem it but a foolish chase,
- And marvel men should quit their easy chair,
- The toilsome way, and long, long league to trace,
- Oh ! there is sweetness in the mountam air,
- And life that bloated Ease can never hope to share. 350

XXXI

- More bleak to view the hills at length recede,
- And, less luxuriant, smoother vales extend,
- Immense horizon-bounded plains succeed !
- Far as the eye discerns, withouten end,
- Spain's realms appear whereon her shepherds tend
- Flocks whose rich fleece right well the trader knows --
- Now must the pastor's arm his lambs defend,
- For Spain is compass'd by unyielding foes,
- And all must shield their all, or share Subjection's woes.

XXXII

Where Lusitania and her Sister meet, 360

- Deem ye what bounds the rival realms divide ?
- Or ere the jealous Queens of Nations greet,
- Doth Tayo interpose his mighty tide?
- Or dark Sierras rise in craggy pride?
- Or fence of art, like China's vasty wall? —
- Ne barrier wall, ne river deep and wide,
- Ne horrid crags, nor mountains dark and tall,
- Rise like the rocks that part Hispania's land from Gaul:

XXXIII

- But these between a silver streamlet glides,
- And scarce a name distinguisheth the brook, 370
- Though rival kingdoms press its verdant sides.

- Here leans the idle shepherd on his crook,
- And vacant on the rippling waves doth look,
- That peaceful still 'twixt bitterest foemen flow,
- For proud each peasant as the noblest duke:
- Well doth the Spanish hind the difference know
- 'Twixt him and Lusian slave, the lowest of the low.

XXXIV

- But ere the minghing bounds have far been pass'd,
- Dark Guadiana rolls his power along
- In sullen billows, murmuring and vast,
- So noted ancient roundelays among 381
- Whilome upon his banks did legions throng
- Of Moor and Knight, in mailed splendour drest:
- Here ceased the swift their race, here sunk the strong,
- The Paynim turban and the Christian crest
- Mix'd on the bleeding stream, by floating hosts oppress'd

XXXV

- Oh, lovely Spain ! renown'd, romantic land !
- Where is that standard which Pelagio bore,
- When Cava's traitor-sire first call'd the band
- That dyed thy mountain streams with gothic gore ? 390
- Where are those bloody banners which of yore
- Waved o'er thy sons, victorious to the gale,
- And drove at last the spoilers to their shore?
- Red gleam'd the cross, and waned the crescent pale.
- While Afric's echoes thrill'd with Moorish matrons' wail.

XXXVI

- Teems not each ditty with the glorious tale ?
- Ah ! such, alas, the hero's amplest fate !

- When granite moulders and when records fail.
- A peasant's plaint prolongs his dubious date.
- Pride ' bend thine eye from heaven to thine estate,
- See how the Mighty shrink into a song !
- Can Volume, Pillar, Pile, preserve thee great?
- Or must thou trust Tradition's simple tongue,

When Flattery sleeps with thee and History does thee wrong?

XXXVII

Awake, ye sons of Spain ! awake ! advance!

Lo, Chivalry, your ancient goddess, cries;

But wields not, as of old, her thursty lance,

- Nor shakes her crimson plumage in the skies:
- Now on the smoke of blazing bolts she flies,
- And speaks in thunder through you engine's roar! 410
- In every peal she calls, 'Awake! arise!' Say, 15 her voice more feeble than of yore,
- When her war-song was heard on Andalusia's shore ?

XXXVIII

- Hark! heard you not those hoofs of dreadful note?
- Sounds not the clang of conflict on the heath?
- Saw ye not whom the reeking sabre smote:
- Nor saved your brethren ere they sank beneath
- Tyrants and Tyrants' slaves ? the fires of Death,
- The bale-fires flash on high; from rock to rock
- Each volley tells that thousands cease to breathe; 420

Death rides upon the sulphury Siroc,

Red Battle stamps his foot, and Nations feel the shock.

XXXIX

- Lo! where the Giant on the mountain stands.
- His blood-red tresses deep'ning in the sun,

- With death-shot glowing in his fiery hands,
- And eye that scorcheth all it glares upon, ---

Restless it rolls, now fix'd, and now anon Flashing afar, — and at his iron feet

- Destruction cowers to mark what deeds are done:
- For on this morn three potent Nations meet.
- To shed before his Shrine the blood he deems most sweet.

XI.

- By Heaven ! it is a splendid sight to see (For one who hath no friend, no brother there)
- Their rival scarfs of mix'd embroidery,
- Their various arms that glitter in the air !
- What gallant War-hounds rouse them from their lair,
- And gnash their fangs, loud yelling for the prey !
- All join the chase, but few the triumph share;
- The Grave shall bear the chiefest prize awav.
- And Havoc scarce for joy can number their array 440

XLI

Three hosts combine to offer sacrifice;

- Three tongues prefer strange orisons on high;
- Three gaudy standards flout the pale blue skies:
- The shouts are France, Spain, Albion, Victory !
- The foe, the victim, and the fond ally
- That fights for all, but ever fights in vain.
- Are met as if at home they could not die —
- To feed the crow, on Talavera's plan,
- And fertilize the field that each pretends to gain

λLII

- There shall they rot, Ambition's honour'd fools !
- Yes, Honour decks the turf that wraps their clay !
- Vain Sophistry! in these behold the tools,

The broken tools, that tyrants cast away By myriads, when they dare to pave their

- way With human hearts — to what ? — a
- dream alone. Can despots compass aught that hails their sway?
- Or call with truth one span of earth their own,
- Save that wherein at last they crumble bone by bone?

XLIII

Oh, Albuera, glorious field of grief!

- As o'er thy plain the Pilgrim prick'd his steed, 460
- Who could foresee thee, in a space so brief,
- A scene where mingling foes should boast and bleed !
- Peace to the perish'd ! may the warrior's meed
- And tears of triumph their reward prolong '
- Till others fall where other chieftains lead,
- Thy name shall circle round the gaping throng,
- And shine in worthless lays, the theme of transient song

XLIV

- Enough of Battle's minions! let them play
- Their game of lives, and barter breath for fame, —
- Fame that will scarce re-animate their clay, 470
- Though thousands fall to deck some single name.
- In sooth 't were sad to thwart their noble aim
- Who strik:, blest hirelings! for their country's good,
- And die, that living might have proved her shame;
- Perish'd, perchance, in some domestic feud,
- Or in a narrower sphere wild Rapine's path pursued.

XLV

Full swiftly Harold wends his lonely way Where proud Sevilla triumphs unsubdued;

- Yet is she free the spoiler's wished-for prey '
- Soon, soon shall Conquest's fiery foot intrude, 450
- Blackening her lovely domes with traces rude.

Inevitable hour ! 'Gamst fate to strive

- Where Desolation plants her famish'd brood
- Is vain, or Ihon, Tyre might yet survive,
- And Virtue vanquish all, and Murder cease to thrive.

XLVI

But all unconscious of the coming doom,

- The feast, the song, the revel here abounds;
- Strange modes of merriment the hours consume,
- Nor bleed these patriots with their country's wounds;
- Nor here War's clarion, but Love's rebeck sounds; 490
- Here Folly still his votaries inthralls;
- And young-eyed Lewdness walks ber midnight rounds
- Girt with the silent crimes of Capitals,
- Still to the last kind Vice clings to the tott'ring walls

XLVII

- Not so the rustic; with his trembling mate
- He lurks, nor casts his heavy eye afar,
- Lest he should view his vineyard desolate,
- Blasted below the dun hot breath of war.
- No more beneath soft Eve's consenting star
- Fandango twirls his jocund castanet: 500
- Ah, monarchs ' could ye taste the mirth ye mar,
- Not in the toils of Glory would ye fret;
- The hoarse dull drum would sleep, and Man be happy yet '

XLVIII

- How carols now the lusty muleteer ?
- Of love, romance, devotion is his lay,
- As whilome he was wont the leagues to cheer,
- His quick bells wildly jingling on the way?
- No! as he speeds, he chants 'Vivā el Rev !'

And checks his song to execrate Godoy,

- The royal wittol Charles, and curse the day
- When first Spain's queen beheld the black-eyed boy,
- And gore-faced Treason sprung from her adulterate joy.

XLIX

- On yon long, level plain, at distance crown'd
- With crags, whereon those Moorish turrets rest,
- Wide-scatter'd hoof-marks dint the wounded ground;
- And, scathed by fire, the greensward's darken'd vest
- Tells that the foe was Andalusia's guest:
- Here was the camp, the watch-flame, and the host,
- Here the bold peasant storm'd the dragon's nest;
- Still does he mark it with triumphant boast, 520
- And points to yonder cliffs which oft were won and lost.

L

And whomsoe'er along the path you meet Bears in his cap the badge of crimson

- hue,
- Which tells you whom to shun and whom to greet.
- Woe to the man that walks in public view
- Without of loyalty this token true !
- Sharp is the knife, and sudden is the stroke;
- And sorely would the Gallic forman rue,
- If subtle poniards, wrapt beneath the cloke,
- Could blunt the sabre's edge or clear the cannon's smoke. 530

LI

- At every turn Morena's dusky height
- Sustains aloft the battery's iron load;
- And, far as mortal eye can compass sight,
- The mountain-howitzer, the broken road,
- The bristling palisade, the fosse o'erflow'd,
- The station'd bands, the never-vacant watch,
- The magazine in rocky durance stow'd,

- The holster'd steed beneath the shed of thatch,
- The ball-piled pyramid, the ever-blazing match,

LII

- Portend the deeds to come: but he whose nod 540
- Has tumbled feebler despots from their sway,
- A moment pauseth ere he lifts the rod;
- A little moment deigneth to delay:
- Soon will his legions sweep through these their way;
- The West must own the Scourger of the world.
- Ah Spain ! how sad will be thy reckoning-day,
- When soars Gaul's Vulture, with his wings unfurl'd,
- And thou shalt view thy sons in crowds to Hades hurl'd.

LIII

- And must they fall? the young, the proud, the brave,
- To swell one bloated Chief's unwholesome reign? 550
- No step between submission and a grave? The rise of rapine and the fall of Spain?
- And doth the Power that man adores ordain
- Their doom, nor heed the suppliant's appeal?

Is all that desperate Valour acts in vain? And Counsel sage, and patriotic Zeal,

The Veteran's skill, Youth's fire, and Manhood's heart of steel?

LIV

Is it for this the Spanish maid, aroused,

Hangs on the willow her unstrung guitar, And, all unsex'd, the anlace hath es-

- poused, 560 Sung the loud song, and dared the deed of war?
- And she, whom once the semblance of a scar
- Appall'd, an owlet's larum chill'd with dread,
- Now views the column-scattering bay'net jar,
- The falchion flash, and o'er the yet warm dead
- Stalks with Minerva's step where Mars might quake to tread.

LV

- Ye who shall marvel when you hear her tale,
- Oh! had you known her in her softer hour,
- Mark'd her black eye that mocks her coal-black veil,
- Heard her light, lively tones in Lady's bower, 570
- Seen her long locks that foil the painter's power,
- Her fairy form, with more than female grace,
- Scarce would you deem that Saragoza's tower
- Beheld her smile in Danger's Gorgon face,
- Thin the closed ranks, and lead in Glory's fearful chase.

LVI

- Her lover sinks she sheds no ill-timed tear;
- Her chief is slain she fills his fatal post;
- Her fellows flee she checks their base career;
- The foe retires she heads the sallying host
- Who can appease like her a lover's ghost? 580
- Who can avenge so well a leader's fall? What maid retrieve when man's flush'd
- hope is lost?
- Who hang so fiercely on the flying Gaul,
- Foul'd by a woman's hand, before a batter'd wall?

LVII

- Yet are Spain's maids no race of Amazons,
- But form'd for all the witching arts of love
- Though thus in arms they emulate her sons,

And in the horrid phalanx dare to move,

- 'T is but the tender fierceness of the dove,
- Pecking the hand that hovers o'er her mate: 590
- In softness as in firmness far above Remotei females, famed for sickening prate;
- Her mind is nobler sure, her charms perchance as great.

LVIII

- The seal Love's dimpling finger hath impress'd
- Denotes how soft that chin which bears his touch;
- Her hps, whose kisses pout to leave their nest,
- Bid man be valuant ere he merit such:
- Her glance how wildly beautiful ' how much
- Hath Phœbus woo'd in vain to spoil her cheek,
- Which glows yet smoother from his amorous elutch ! 600
- Who round the North for paler dames would seek?
- How poor their forms appear! how languid, wan, and weak!

LIX

- Match me, ye climes which poets love to laud;
- Match me, ye harams of the land where now
- I strike my strain, far distant, to applaud
- Beauties that ev'n a cynic must avow -
- Match me those Houries, whom ye scarce allow
- To taste the gale lest Love should ride the wind,
- With Spain's dark-glancing daughters deign to know,
- There your wise Prophet's paradise we find, 610
- His black-eyed maids of Heaven, angelically kind.

$\mathbf{L}\mathbf{X}$

- Oh, thou Parnassus whom I now survey !
- Not in the phrensy of a dreamer's eye,
- Not in the fabled landscape of a lay,
- But soaring snow-clad through thy native sky,
- In the wild pomp of mountain majesty !
- What marvel if I thus essay to sing?
- The humblest of thy pilgrims passing by
- Would gladly woo thine Echoes with his string,
- Though from thy heights no more one Muse will wave her wing. 620

LXI

- Oft have I dream'd of Thee, whose glorious name
- Who knows not, knows not man's divinest lore;

And now I view thee, 't 15, alas! with shame

That I in feeblest accents must adore.

When I recount thy worshippers of yore I tremble, and can only bend the knee;

- Nor raise my voice, nor vainly dare to
- soar,

But gaze beneath thy cloudy canopy

In silent joy to think at last I look on Thee !

LXII

Happier in this than mightiest bards have been. 630

Whose fate to distant homes confined their lot,

- Shall I unmoved behold the hallow'd scene,
- Which others rave of though they know it not?

Though here no more Apollo haunts his grot,

And thou, the Muses' seat, art now their grave,

Some gentle spirit still pervades the spot, Sighs in the gale, keeps silence in the cave,

And glides with glassy foot o'er you melodious wave.

LXIII

Of thee hereafter. — Ev'n amidst my strain

I turn'd aside to pay my homage here; 640

Forgot the land, the sons, the maids of Spain,

Her fate, to every freeborn bosom dear;

- And hail'd thee, not perchance without a tear.
- Now to my theme but from thy holy haunt
- Let me some remnant, some memorial bear;
- Yield me one leaf of Daphne's deathless plant,
- Nor let thy votary's hope be deem'd an idle vaunt.

LXIV

But ne'er didst thou, fair Mount, when Greece was young,

See round thy giant base a brighter choir;

Nor e'er did Delphi, when her priestess sung 650

The Pythian hymn with more than mortal fire,

Behold a train more fitting to inspire

The song of love than Andalusia's maids, Nurst in the glowing lap of soft desire:

- Ah! that to these were given such peaceful shades
- As Greece can still bestow, though Glory fly her glades.

LXV

- Fair is proud Seville; let her country boast
- Her strength, her wealth, her site of ancient days;
- But Cadız, rising on the distant coast,
- Calls forth a sweeter though ignoble praise. 660
- Ah, Vice, how soft are thy voluptuous ways!
- While boyish blood is mantling, who can 'scape

The fascination of thy magic gaze?

A Cherub-hydra round us dost thou gape,

And mould to every taste thy dear delusive shape.

LXVI

- When Paphos fell by time accursèd Time !
- The Queen who conquers all must yield to thee —
- The Pleasures fied, but sought as warm a clime;
- And Venus, constant to her native sea,
- To nought else constant, hither deign'd to flee; 670
- And fix'd her shrine within these walls of white:
- Though not to one dome circumscribeth she

Her worship, but, devoted to her rite,

A thousand altars rise, for ever blazing bright.

LXVII

From morn till night, from night till startled Morn

Peeps blushing on the revel's laughing crew,

The song is heard, the rosy garland worn; Devices quaint and frolics ever new

Tread on each other's kibes A long adieu He bids to sober joy that here sojourns: 680 Nought interrupts the riot, though in lieu

Of true devotion monkish incense burns, And love and prayer unite, or rule the hour by turns.

LXVIII

The Sabbath comes, a day of blessed rest; What hallows it upon this Christian shore? Lo! it is sacred to a solemin feast;

- Hark! heard you not the forest-monarch's roar?
- Crashing the lance, he snuffs the spouting gore
- Of man and steed, o'erthrown beneath his horn;
- The throng'd arena shakes with shouts for more; 690
- Yells the mad crowd o'er entrails freshly torn,
- Nor shrinks the female eye, nor ev'n affects to mourn

LXIX

The seventh day this, the jubilee of man. London, light well thou know'st the day

- of prayer:
- Then thy spruce citizen, wash'd artisan,
- And smug apprentice gulp their weekly air;
- Thy coach of hackney, whiskey, one-horse chair,
- And humblest gig through sundry suburbs whirl;
- To Hampstead, Brentford, Harrow make repair;
- Till the tired jade the wheel forgets to hurl, 700
- Provoking envious gibe from each pedestrian churl.

LXX

- Some o'er thy Thamis row the ribbon'd fair,
- Others along the safer turnpike fly;
- Some Richmond-hill ascend, some scud to Ware,
- And many to the steep of Highgate hie
- Ask ye, Bœotian shades, the reason why?
- 'T is to the worship of the solemn Horn, Grasp'd in the holy hand of Mystery,
- In whose dread name both men and maids are sworn.
- And consecrate the oath with draught, and dance till morn. 710

LXXI

All have their fooleries; not alike are thine,

Fair Cadiz, rising o'er the dark blue sea ! Soon as the matin bell proclaimeth nine, Thy saint adorers count the rosary.

- Much is the VIRGIN teased to shrive them free
- (Well do I ween the only virgin there)
- From crimes as numerous as her beadsmen be;
- Then to the crowded circus forth they fare;
- Young, old, high, low, at once the same diversion share

LXXII

- The lists are oped, the spacious area clear'd, 720
- Thousands on thousands piled are seated round;
- Long ere the first loud trumpet's note is heard,
- Ne vacant space for lated wight is found.
- Here dons, grandees, but chiefly dames abound,
- Skill'd in the ogle of a roguish eye,
- Yet ever well included to heal the wound;
- None through their cold disdam are doom'd to die,
- As moon-struck bards complain, by Love's sad archery

LXXIII

- Hush'd is the din of tongues; on gallant steeds,
- With milk-white crest, gold spur, and light poised lance, 736
- Four cavaliers prepare for venturous deeds,
- And lowly bending to the lists advance;
- Rich are their scarfs, their chargers featly prance:
- If in the dangerous game they shine today,
- The crowd's loud shout and ladies' lovely glance,

Best prize of better acts, they bear away. And all that kings or chiefs e'er gain their toils repay.

LXXIV

In costly sheen and gaudy cloak array'd, But all afoot, the light-limb'd Matadore Stands in the centre, eager to invade 740 The lord of lowing herds; but not before The ground with cautious tread is traversed o'er,

Lest aught unseen should lurk to thw t his speed:

His arms a dart, he fights aloof, nor more

- Can man achieve without the friendly steed ---
- Alas! too oft condemn'd for him to bear and bleed.

LXXV

Thrice sounds the clarion; lo ! the signal falls,

The den expands, and Expectation mute

Gapes round the silent circle's peopled walls.

- Bounds with one lashing spring the mighty brute, 750
- And, wildly staring, spurns with sounding foot
- The sand, nor blindly rushes on his foe:
- Here, there, he points his threatening front, to suit

His first attack, wide waving to and fro

His angry tail; red rolls his eye's dilated glow.

LXXVI

Sudden he stops; his eye is fix'd: away,

- Away, thou heedless boy ! prepare the spear:
- Now is thy time, to perish, or display
- The skill that yet may check his mad career
- With well-timed croupe the nimble coursers veer; 760
- On foams the bull, but not unscathed he goes;
- Streams from his flank the crimson torrent clear:
- He flies, he wheels, distracted with his throes;
- Dart follows dart; lance, lance; loud bellowings speak his woes.

LXXVII

Agam he comes; nor dart nor lance avail, Nor the wild plunging of the tortured horse;

Though man and man's avenging arms assail,

Vain are his weapons, vainer is his force

- One gallant steed is stretch'd a mangled corse;
- Another, hideous sight ! unseam'd appears, 770
- His gory chest unveils life's panting source;

- Though death-struck, still his feeble frame he rears;
- Staggering, but stemming all, his lord unharm'd he bears.

LXXVIII

- Foil'd, bleeding, breathless, furious to the last,
- Full in the centre stands the bull at bay,
- Mid wounds, and clinging darts, and lances brast,
- And foes disabled in the brutal fray:
- And now the Matadores around him play, Shake the red cloak, and poise the ready brand:
- Once more through all he bursts his thundering way -- 780
- Vain rage! the mantle quits the conynge hand.
- Wraps his fierce eye—'tis past—he sinks upon the sand !

LXXIX

- Where his vast neck just mingles with the spine,
- Sheathed in his form the deadly weapon lies.

He stops, he starts, disdaining to decline; Slowly he falls amidst triumphant cries, Without a groan, without a struggle dies

- The decorated car appears, on high
- The corse is piled sweet sight for vulgar eyes;
- Four steeds that spurn the rein, as swift as shy, 790
- Hurl the dark bulk along, scarce seen in dashing by.

LXXX

Such the ungentle sport that oft invites

- The Spanish maid, and cheers the Spanish swain;
- Nurtured in blood betimes, his heart delights
- In vengeance, gloating on another's pain.
- What private feuds the troubled village stain !
- Though now one phalanx'd host should meet the foe,
- Enough, alas, in humble homes remain
- To meditate 'gainst friends the secret blow,
- For some slight cause of wrath, whence life's warm stream must flow. 800

LXXXI

- But Jealousy has fled : his bars, his bolts.
- His wither'd centinel, Duenna sage !
- And all whereat the generous soul revolts,
- Which the stern dotard deem'd he could encage,
- Have pass'd to darkness with the vanish'd age.
- Who late so free as Spanish girls were seen
- (Ere War uprose in his volcanic rage),
- With braided tresses bounding o'er the green,
- While on the gay dance shone Night's loverloving Queen ?

LXXXII

- On! many a time and oft had Harold loved, 810
- Or dream'd he loved, since Rapture is a dream;
- But now his wayward bosom was unmoved,
- For not yet had he drunk of Lethe's stream;
- And lately had he learn'd with truth to deem
- Love has no gift so grateful as his wings.
- How fair, how young, how soft soe'er he seem
- Full from the fount of Joy's delicious springs
- Some bitter o'er the flowers its bubbling venom flings

LXXXIII

- Yet to the beauteous form he was not blund,
- Though now it moved him as it moves the wise $20

Not that Philosophy on such a mind

- E'er deign'd to bend her chastely-awful eyes
- But Passion raves itself to rest, or flies,
- And Vice, that digs her own voluptuous tomb,
- Had burned long his hopes, no more to rise
- Pleasure s pall'd victim ' life-abhorring gloom
- Wrote on his faded brow curst Cain's unresting doom

LXXXIV

- Still he beheld, nor mingled with the throng;
- But view'd them not with misanthropic hate.
- Fam would he now have join'd the dance, the song; $30
- But who may smile that sinks beneath his fate ?
- Nought that he saw his sadness could abate.
- Yet once he struggled 'gainst the demon's sway,
- And as in Beauty's bower he pensive sate,

Pour'd forth this unpremeditated lay,

To charms as fair as those that soothed his happier day.

TO INEZ

I

Nay, smile not at my sullen brow;

Alas ' I cannot smile again:

Yet Heaven avert that ever thou Shouldst weep, and haply weep in vain. 840

2

And dost thou ask what secret woe I bear, corroding joy and youth ⁹ And wilt thou vainly seek to know

A pang, ev'n thou mus. fail to soothe ?

3

It is not love, it is not hate,

Nor low Ambition's honours lost, That bids me loathe my present state,

And fly from all I prized the most:

ŧ.

It is that weariness which springs From all I meet, or hear, or see;

To me no pleasure Beauty brings, Thine eyes have scarce a charm for me.

5

It is that settled, ceaseless gloom The fabled Hebrew wanderer bore; That will not look beyond the tomb, But cannot hope for rest before.

6

What Exile from himself can flee? To zones, though more and more remote,

Still, still pursues, where-e'er I be, The blight of life — the demon Thought.

•

Yet others rapt in pleasure seem, And taste of all that I forsake: 361

8<c

88o

Oh, may they still of transport dream. And ne'er, at least like me, awake !

8

Through many a clime 't is mine to go, With many a retrospection curst; And all my solace is to know, Whate'er betides, I've known the worst.

)

What is that worst? Nay do not ask — In pity from the search forbear. 870 Smile on, nor venture to unmask

Man's heart, and view the Hell that's there.

LXXXV

- Adıeu, fair Cadiz! yea, a long adieu!
- Who may forget how well thy walls have stood ?
- When all were changing thou alone wert true,
- First to be free and last to be subdued.
- And if amidst a scene, a shock so rude.
- Some native blood was seen thy streets to dye.
- A traitor only fell beneath the feud:
- Here all were noble, save Nobility;
- None hugg'd a conqueror's chain, save fallen Chivalry !

LXXXVI

- Such be the sons of Spain, and strange her fate !
- They fight for freedom who were never free,

A Kingless people for a nerveless state;

- Her vassals combat when their chieftains flee,
- True to the veriest slaves of Treachery;
- Fond of a land which gave them nought but life,
- Pride points the path that leads to Liberty;

Back to the struggle, baffled in the strife,

War, war is still the cry, 'War even to the knife!' 890

LXXXVII

- Ye who would more of Spain and Spanlards know,
- Go, read whate'er is writ of bloodiest strife;
- Whate'er keen Vengeance urged on foreign foe
- Can act, is acting there against man's life:
- From flashing scimitar to secret knife,

- War mouldeth there each weapon to his need —
- So may he guard the sister and the wife,
- So may he make each curst oppressor bleed,
- So may such foes deserve the most remorseless deed ! 899

LXXXVIII

Flows there a tear of pity for the dead ? Look o'er the ravage of the reeking plan; Look on the hands with female slaughter

- red; Then to the dogs resign the unburied slam.
- Then to the vulture let each corse remam;
- Albeit unworthy of the prey-bird's maw,
- Let their bleach'd bones and blood's unbleaching stain
- Long mark the battle-field with hideous awe.

Thus only may our sons conceive the scenes we saw !

LXXXIX

Nor yet, alas, the dreadful work is done; Fresh legions pour adown the Pyrenees;

It deepens still, the work is scarce begun,

- Nor mortal eye the distant end foresees.
- Fall'n nations gaze on Spain; if freed, she frees
- More than her fell Pizarros once enchain'd
- Strange retribution ! now Columbia's ease
- Repairs the wrongs that Quito's sons sustain'd,
- While o'er the parent clime prowls Murder unrestrain'd.

xc

- Not all the blood at Talavera shed,
- Not all the marvels of Barossa's fight,
- Not Albuera lavish of the dead, 92c
- Have won for Spain her well-asserted right.
- When shall her Olive-Branch be free from blight?
- When shall she breathe her from the blushing toil?
- How many a doubtful day shall sink in night,

Ere the Frank robber turn hum from his spoil,

And Freedom's stranger-tree grow native of the soil !

XCI

- And thou, my friend since unavailing woe
- Bursts from my heart and mingles with the strain —
- Had the sword laid thee with the mighty low,
- Pride might forbid e'en Friendship to complam; 930
- But thus unlaurel'd to descend in vain,
- By all forgotten, save the lonely breast,
- And mix unbleeding with the boasted slam,
- While Glory crowns so many a meaner crest ?
- What hadst thou done to sink so peacefully to rest?

XCII

- Oh, known the earliest, and esteem'd the most '
- Dear to a heart where nought was left so dear !
- Though to my hopeless days forever lost,
- In dreams deny me not to see thee here !
- And Morn in secret shall renew the tear 940
- Of Consciousness awaking to her woes,

And Fancy hover o'er thy bloodless bier,

- Till my frail frame return to whence it rose,
- And mourn'd and mourner lie united in repose.

XCIII

Here is one fytte of Harold's pilgrimage: Ye who of hum may further seek to know, Shall find some tidings in a future page, If he that rhymeth now may scribble moe. Is this too much? stern Critic, say not so:

- Patience ! and ye shall hear what he beheld
- In other lands, where he was doom'd to go:
- Lands that contain the monuments of Eld,
- Ere Greece and Grecian arts by barbarous hands were quell'd.

CANTO THE SECOND

I

- COME, blue-eyed maid of heaven !- but thou, alas,
- Didst never yet one mortal song inspire --
- Goddess of Wisdom ! here thy temple was,
- And 1s, despite of war and wasting fire,
- And years, that bade thy worship to expure
- But worse than steel, and flame, and ages slow,
- Is the dread sceptre and dominion dire
- Of men who never telt the sacred glow
- That thoughts of thee and thine on polish'd breasts bestow.

I.

- Ancient of days! august Athena! where,
- Where are thy men of might? thy grand in soul?
- Gone glimmering through the dream of things that were
- First in the race that led to Glory's goal,
- They won, and pass'd away is this the whole?
- A schoolboy's tale, the wonder of an hour '
- The warrior's weapon and the sophist's stole
- Are sought in vain, and o'er each mouldering tower,
- Dim with the mist of years, gray flits the shade of power

ш

- Son of the morning, rise ! approach you here !
- Come but molest not yon defenceless urn: 20
- Look on this spot a nation's sepulchre!
- Abode of gods, whose shrines no longer burn
- Even gods must yield, religions take their turn;
- 'T was Jove's, 't is Mahomet's, and other creeds
- Will rise with other years, till man shall learn

Vainly his incense soars, his victum bleeds, ---

Poor child of Doubt and Death, whose hope is built on reeds.

IV

- Bound to the earth, he lifts his eye to heaven —
- Is 't not enough, unhappy thing, to know Thou art? Is this a boon so kindly
- given,
- That, being, thou wouldst be again, and go,
- Thou know'st not, reck'st not to what region, so
- On earth no more, but mingled with the skies?
- Still wilt thou dream on future joy and woe?
- Regard and weigh yon dust before it flies,
- That little urn saith more than thousand homilies.

v

- Or burst the vanish'd Hero's lofty mound;
- Far on the solitary shore he sleeps:
- He fell, and falling nations mourn'd around;
- But now not one of saddening thousands weeps, 40
- Nor warlike worshipper his vigil keeps
- Where demi-gods appear'd, as records tell.
- Remove yon skull from out the scatter'd heaps:
- Is that a temple where a God may dwell?
- Why ev'n the worm at last disdains her shatter'd cell !

VI

Look on its broken arch, its ruin'd wall, Its chambers desolate, and portals foul: Yes, this was once Ambition's airy hall,

- The dome of Thought, the palace of the Soul
- Behold through each lack-lustre, eyeless
- The gay recess of Wisdom and of Wit
- And Passion's host, that never brook'd control:

Can all saint, sage, or sophist ever writ,

People this lonely tower, this tenement refit?

VII

Well didst thou speak, Athena's wisest son!

- 'All that we know is, nothing can be known.'
 - Why should we shrink from what we cannot shun?
 - Each hath his pang, but feeble sufferers groan
 - With brain-born dreams of evil all their own.
 - Pursue what Chance or Fate proclaimeth best; 6c

Peace waits us on the shores of Acheron: There no forced banquet claims the sated guest, But Silence spreads the couch of ever welcome rest.

vIII

Yet if, as holiest men have deem'd, there be

A land of souls beyond that sable shore,

To shame the doctrine of the Sadducee

And sophists, madly vain of dubious lore:

- How sweet it were in concert to adore
- With those who made our mortal labours light!
- To hear each voice we fear'd to hear no more! 70
- Behold each mighty shade reveal'd to sight,
- The Bactrian, Samian sage, and all who taught the right !

IX

- There, thou ! whose love and life, together fied,
- Have left me here to love and live m vain —
- Twined with my heart, and can I deem thee dead,
- When busy Memory flashes on my brain?
- Well I will dream that we may meet again,
- And woo the vision to my vacant breast: If aught of young Remembrance then remain,

80

Be as it may Futurity's behest,

For me't were bliss enough to know thy spirit blest !

х

Here let me sit upon this massy stone,

The marble column's yet unshaken base;

- Here, son of Saturn, was thy fav'rite throne.
- Mightnest of many such! Hence let me trace
- The latent grandeur of thy dwellingplace
- It may not be · nor ev'n can Fancy's eye
- Restore what Time hath labour'd to de-
- Yet these proud pillars claim no passing sigh;
- Unmoved the Moslem sits, the light Greek carols by. 90
 - XI

But who, of all the plunderers of yon fane On high, where Pallas linger'd, loath to

- flee
- The latest relic of her ancient reign, -
- The last, the worst, dull spoiler, who was he?

Blush, Caledonia, such thy son could be!

- England, I joy no child he was of thme.
- Thy free-born men should spare what once was free;
- Yet they could violate each saddening shrine,
- And bear these altars o'er the long-reluctant brine.

XII

- But most the modern Pict's ignoble boast, 100
- To rive what Goth, and Turk, and Time hath spared:
- Cold as the crags upon his native coast,
- His mind as barren and his heart as hard,
- Is he whose head conceived, whose hand prepared,
- Aught to displace Athena's poor remains:
- Her sons too weak the sacred shrine to guard,
- Yet felt some portion of their mother's pains,
- And never knew, till then, the weight of Despots' chains.

\mathbf{XIII}

- What! shall it e'er be said by British tongue,
- Albion was happy in Athena's tears? 110 Though in thy me the slaves her bosom wrung,
- Tell not the deed to blushing Europe's ears;

- The ocean queen, the free Britannia, bears The last poor plunder from a bleeding land:
- Yes, she, whose gen'rous aid her name endears,
- Tore down those remnants with a harpy's hand,
- Which envious Eld forbore, and tyrants left to stand.

XIV

- Where was thine Egis, Pallas, that appall'd
- Stern Alaric and Havoc on their way?
- Where Peleus' son? whom Hell in vain enthrall'd, 120
- His shade from Hades upon that dread day
- Bursting to light in terrible array !
- What' could not Pluto spare the chief once more,
- To scare a second robber from his prey? Idly he wander'd on the Stygian shore,
- Nor now preserved the walls he loved to shield before.

xv

- Cold is the heart, fair Greece, that looks on thee,
- Nor feels as lovers o'er the dust they loved;

Dull is the eye that will not weep to see

- Thy walls defaced, thy mouldering shrines removed
- By British hands, which it had best behoved
- To guard those relics ne'er to be restored.
- Curst be the hour when from their isle they roved,

And once again thy hapless bosom gored,

And snatch'd thy shrinking Gods to northern climes abhorr'd !

XVI

- But where is Harold ? shall I then forget
- To urge the gloomy wanderer o'er the wave?
- Little reck'd he of all that men regret;
- No loved-one now in feign'd lament could rave;
- No friend the parting hand extended gave, 140
- Ere the cold stranger pass'd to other climes:

- Hard is his heart whom charms may not enslave;
- But Harold felt not as in other times,
- And left without a sigh the land of war and crimes

XV11

He that has sail'd upon the dark blue sea

- Has view'd at times, I ween, a full fair sight;
- When the fresh breeze is fair as breeze may be,
- The white sail set, the gallant frigate tight;
- Masts, spires, and strand retiring to the right,
- The glorious main expanding o'er the bow, 150
- The convoy spread like wild swans in their flight,
- The dullest sailer wearing bravely now,
- So gaily curl the waves before each dashing prow.

XVIII

And oh, the little warlike world within !

- The well-reeved guns, the netted canopy, The hoarse command, the busy humming
- din,
- When, at a word, the tops are mann'd on high:
- Hark, to the Boatswain's call, the cheering cry !
- While through the seaman's hand the tackle glides;
- Or schoolboy Midshipman that, standing by, 160

Strains his shrill pipe as good or ill betides,

And well the docile crew that skilful urchin guides.

XIX

White is the glassy deck, without a stain, Where on the watch the staid Lieutenant

- walks: Look on that part which sacred doth re-
- main
- For the lone chieftain, who majestic stalks,
- Silent and fear'd by all-not oft he talks
- With aught beneath him, if he would preserve
- That strict restraint, which, broken, ever balks

- Conquest and Fame but Britons rarely swerve 170
- From law, however stern, which tends their strength to nerve.

хx

- Blow! swiftly blow, thou keel-compelling gale !
- Till the broad sun withdraws his lessening ray;
- Then must the pennant-bearer slacken sail,
- That lagging barks may make their lazy way
- Ah, grievance sore and listless dull delay,
- To waste on sluggish hulks the sweetest breeze !
- What leagues are lost before the dawn of day,

Thus loitering pensive on the willing seas, The flapping sail haul'd down to halt for logs like these ! 180

XXI

- The moon is up; by Heaven, a lovely eve!
- Long streams of light o'er dancing waves expand;
- Now lads on shore may sigh, and maids believe —
- Such be our fate when we return to land !
- Meantime some rude Arion's restless hand
- Wakes the brisk harmony that sailors love;
- A circle there of merry listeners stand,
- Or to some well-known measure featly move,
- Thoughtless, as if on shore they still were free to rove.

XXII

- Through Calpe's straits survey the steepy shore; 199
- Europe and Afric on each other gaze, Lands of the dark-eyed Maid and dusky

Moor Alike beheld beneath pale Hecate's blaze: How softly on the Spanish shore she plays, Disclosing rock and slope and forest brown.

Distinct, though darkening with her waning phase;

But Mauritania's giant-shadows frown,

From mountain-cliff to coast descending sombre down.

$\chi\chi_{III}$

'T is night, when Meditation bids us feel

We once have loved, though love is at an end;

- The heart, lone mourner of its battied zeal,
- Though friendless now, will dream it had a friend.
- Who with the weight of years would wish to bend,
- When Youth itself survives young Love and Joy ?

Alas, when mingling souls forget to blend, Death hath but little left him to destroy !

Ah, happy years ! once more who would not be a boy ?

XXIV

Thus bending o'er the vessel's laving side,

To gaze on Dian's wave-reflected sphere,

- The soul forgets her schemes of Hope and Pride, 210
- And flies unconscious o'er each backward year.

None are so desolate but something dear, Dearer than self, possesses or possess'd

- A thought, and claims the homage of a tear,
- A flashing pang ' of which the weary breast
- Would still, albeit in vain, the heavy heart divest.

xxv

To sit on rocks, to muse o'er flood and fell,

To slowly trace the forest's shady scene,

- Where things that own not man's dominion dwell,
- And mortal foot hath ne'er or rarely been; 220
- To climb the trackless mountain all unseen,
- With the wild flock that never needs a fold;
- Alone o'er steeps and foaming falls to lean;

This is not solitude, 't is but to hold

Converse with Nature's charms and view her stores unroll'd.

XXVI

- But 'midst the crowd, the hum, the shock of men,
- To hear, to see, to feel, and to possess,
- And roam along, the world's tred denizen,
- With none who bless us, none whom we can bless;
- Minions of splendour shrinking from distress ! 230
- None that, with kindred consciousness endued,
- If we were not would seem to smile the less,
- Of all that flatter'd, follow'd, sought, and sued;

This is to be alone; this, this is solitude !

XXVII

More blest the life of godly eremite,

Such as on lonely Athos may be seen,

Watching at eve upon the giant height,

- Which looks o'er waves so blue, skies so serene,
- That he who there at such an hour hath been

Will wistful linger on that hallow'd spot;

- Then slowly tear hun from the witching scene, 241
- Sigh forth one wish that such had been his lot,
- Then turn to hate a world he had almost forgot

XXVIII

Pass we the long, unvarying course, the track

Oft tood, that never leaves a trace behind;

- Pass we the calm, the gale, the change, the tack,
- And each well known caprice of wave and wind;
- Pass we the joys and sorrows sailors find, Coop'd in their winged sea-girt citadel;
- The foul, the fair, the contrary, the kind,
- As breezes rise and fall and billows swell,

Till on some jocund morn — lo, land ! and all is well 252

XIX

- But not in silence pass Calypso's isles,
- The sister tenants of the middle deep;
- There for the wearv still a haven smiles,
- Though the fair goddess long hath ceased to weep

And o'er her cliffs a fruitless watch to keep

For him who dared prefer a mortal bride: Here, too, his boy essay'd the dreadful leap

- Stern Mentor urged from high to yonder tide; 200
- While thus of both bereft, the nymph-queen doubly sigh'd.

XXX

Her reign 15 past, her gentle glories gone: But trust not this; too easy youth, beware !

A mortal sovereign holds her dangerous throne,

And thou may'st find a new Calypso there.

Sweet Florence, could another ever share

This wayward, loveless heart, it would be thine:

But, check'd by every tie, I may not dare To cast a worthless offering at thy shrine,

Nor ask so dear a breast to feel one pang for mine. 270

XXXI

- Thus Harold deem'd, as on that lady's eye
- He look'd and met its beam without a thought,

Save Admiration glancing harmless by:

Love kept aloof, albeit not far remote,

- Who knew his votary often lost and caught,
- But knew him as his worshipper no more; And ne'er again the boy his bosom sought:

Since now he vainly urged him to adore,

Well deem'd the little God his ancient sway was o'er.

XXXII

- Fair Florence found, in sooth with some amaze, 280
- One who, 't was said, still sigh'd to all he saw,
- Withstand, unmoved, the lustre of her gaze,
- Which others hail'd with real or mimic awe,
- Their hope, their doom, their punishment, their law,
- All that gay Beauty from her bondsmen claims:
- And much she marvell'd that a youth so raw

- Nor felt, nor feign'd at least, the oft-told flames,
- Which, though sometimes they frown, yet rarely anger dames.

XXXIII

- Little knew she that seeming marble heart,
- Now mask'd in silence or withheld by pride, 290

Was not unskilful in the spoiler's art,

- And spread its snares licentious far and wide;
- Nor from the base pursuit had turn'd aside,

As long as aught was worthy to pursue:

- But Harold on such arts no more relied;
- And had he doted on those eyes so blue,

Yet never would he join the lovers' whin. ing crew.

XXXIV

- Not much he kens, I ween, of woman's breast,
- Who thinks that wanton thing is won by sighs;
- What careth she for hearts when once possess'd? 300
- Do proper homage to thine idol's eyes,
- But not too humbly or she will despise
- Thee and thy suit, though told in moving tropes
- Disguise ev'n tenderness if thou art wise,
- Brisk Confidence still best with woman copes;
- Pique her and soothe in turn, soon Passion crowns thy hopes.

XXXV

- 'T is an old lesson; Time approves it true,
- And those who know it best, deplore it most;

When all is won that all desire to woo,

- The paltry prize is hardly worth the cost: 310
- Youth wasted, minds degraded, honour lost,
- These are thy fruits, successful Passion, these !
- If, kindly cruel, early Hope is crost,

Still to the last it rankles, a disease,

Not to be cured when Love itself forgets to please.

XXXVI

Away! nor let me loiter in my song, For we have many a mountam-path to tread,

And many a varied shore to sail along, By pensive Sadness, not by Fiction, led, — Chines, fair withal as ever mortal head Imagined in its little schemes of thought;

Or e'er m new Utopias were ared, 322

To teach man what he might be, or he ought,

If that corrupted thing could ever such be taught

XXXVII

Dear Nature is the kindest mother still, Though alway changing, in her aspect mild;

- From her bare bosom let me take my fill, Her never-wean'd, though not her fayour'd child
- Oh, she is fairest in her features wild,
- Where nothing polish'd dares pollute her path ' 330

To me by day or night she ever smiled,

Though I have mark'd her when none other hath,

And sought her more and more, and loved her best in wrath

XXXVIII

Land of Albama, where Iskander rose,

- Theme of the young, and beacon of the wise,
- And he, his namesake, whose off-baffled foes
- Shrunk from his deeds of chivalrous emprize

Land of Albama, let me bend mine eyes On thee, thou rugged nurse of savage men!

The cross descends, thy minarets arise,

And the pale crescent sparkles in the glen, 341

Through many a cypress grove within each city's ken.

XXXIX

- Childe Harold sail'd, and pass'd the barren spot
- Where sad Penelope o'erlook'd the wave;
- And onward view'd the mount, not yet forgot,
- The lover's refuge, and the Lesbian's grave.

Dark Sappho, could not verse immortal save

That breast imbued with such immortal fire?

Could she not live who lite eternal gave? If life eternal may await the lyre, 350

That only Heaven to which Earth's children may aspire

١L

'T was on a Grecian autumn's gentle eve Childe Harold hail'd Leucadia's cape afar,

- A spot he long'd to see, nor cared to leave:
- Oft did he mark the scenes of v ish'd war,
- Actium, Lepanto, fatal Trafalgar,
- Mark them unmoved, for he would not delight
- (Born beneath some remote inglorious star)

In themes of bloody fray or gallant fight,

But loathed the bravo's trade and laugh'd at marshal wight 360

XLI

But when he saw the evening star above Leucadua's far-projecting rock of woe,

- And hail'd the last resort of fruitless love,
- He telt, or deem'd he felt, no common glow
- And as the stately vessel glided slow
- Beneath the shadow of that ancient mount,

He watch'd the billows' melancholy flow;

- And, sunk albeit in thought as he was wont,
- More placed seem'd his eye and smooth his pallid front.

XLII

- Morn dawns; and with it stern Albania's hills, 370
- Dark Suli's rocks, and Pindus' inland peak,
- Robed half in mist, bedew'd with snowy rills,

Arrav'd in many a dun and purple streak.

Arise; and, as the clouds along them break,

Disclose the dwelling of the mountaineer. Here roams the wolf, the eagle whets his beak, Birds, beasts of prey, and wilder men appear,

And gathering storms around convulse the closing year.

XLIII

- Now Harold felt himself at length alone,
- And bade to Christian tongues a long adieu; 380

Now he adventured on a shore unknown,

- Which all admire but many dread to view:
- His breast was arm'd 'gainst fate, his wants were few;
- Peril he sought not, but ne'er shrank to meet:
- The scene was savage, but the scene was new:
- This made the ceaseless toil of travel sweet,
- Beat back keen winter's blast, and welcomed summer's heat.

XLIV

- Here the red cross (for still the cross is here.
- Though sadly scoff'd at by the circumcised)
- Forgets that pride to pamper'd priesthood dear, -- 390

Churchman and votary alike despised.

- Foul Superstition ! howsoe'er disguised,
- Idol, saint, virgin, prophet, crescent, cross,

For whatsoever symbol thou art prized, Thou sacerdotal gain, but general loss !

Who from true worship's gold can separate thy dross ?

XLV

- Ambracia's gulf behold, where once was lost
- A world for woman, lovely, harmless thing '

In yonder rippling bay, their naval host

- Did many a Roman chief and Asian king 400
- To doubtful conflict, certain slaughter bring.
- Look where the second Cæsar's trophies rose,
- Now, like the hands that rear'd them, withering !

Imperial anarchs, doubling human woes !

GOD, was thy globe ordain'd for such to win and lose?

XLVI

- From the dark barriers of that rugged clime,
- Ev'n to the centre of Illyria's vales,
- Childe Harold pass'd o'er many a mount sublime,
- Through lands scarce noticed in historic tales;

Yet in famed Attica such lovely dales 410

- Are rarely seen; nor can fair Tempe boast
- A charm they know not; loved Parnassus fails,
- Though classic ground and consecrated most,
- To match some spots that lurk within this lowering coast.

XLVII

He pass'd bleak Pindus, Acherusia's lake,

And left the prunal city of the land, And onwards did his further journey take

- To greet Albama's chief, whose dread command
- Is lawless law; for with a bloody hand
- He sways a nation, turbulent and bold:
- Yet here and there some daring mountain-band 421
- Disdam his power, and from their rocky hold
- Hurl their defiance far, nor yield, unless to gold.

XLVIII

Monastic Zitza, from thy shady brow,

- Thou small, but favour'd spot of holy ground !
- Where'er we gaze, around, above, below, What rainbow tints, what magic charms are found '
- Rock, river, forest, mountain, all abound,
- And bluest skies that harmonise the whole;
- Beneath, the distant torrent's rushing sound 430
- Tells where the volumed cataract doth roll
- Between those hanging rocks, that shock yet please the soul.

XLIX

- Amidst the grove that crowns yon tuftea hill,
- Which, were it not for many a mountain mgh

Rising in lofty ranks, and loftier still Might well itself be deem'd of dignity, The convent's white walls glisten fair on high:

Here dwells the caloyer, nor rude is he, Nor niggard of his cheei, the passer by

- Is welcome still, nor heedless will he flee
- From hence, if he delight kind Nature's sheen to see.

L

- Here in the sultriest season let him rest,
- Fresh is the green beneath those aged trees;
- Here winds of gentlest wing will fan his breast,
- From heaven itself he may inhale the breeze.
- The plain is far beneath oh ! let him seize
- Pure pleasure while he can; the scorchmg ray
- Here pierceth not, impregnate with disease:
- Then let his length the lostering pilgrum lay,
- And gaze, untired, the moin, the noon, the eve away. 430

LI

Dusky and huge, enlarging on the sight, Nature's volcanic amphitheatre,

Chimæra's alps extend from left to right

Beneath, a living valley seems to stir;

Flocks play, trees wave, streams flow, the mountain-fir

Noddmg above; behold black Acheron, Once consecrated to the sepulchre ! Pluto, if this be hell I look upon,

Close shamed Elysium's gates, my shade shall seek for none. (59

LII

Ne city's towers pollute the lovely view; Unseen is Yanina, though not remote,

- Veil'd by the screen of hills; here men are few,
- Scanty the hamlet, rare the lonely cot
- But, peering down each precipice, the goat
- Browseth; and, pensive o'er his scatter'd flock,
- The little shepherd in his white capote

Doth lean his boyish form along the rock, Or in his cave awaits the tempest's shortlived shock

1.111

Oh ' where, Dodona, is thine aged grove, Prophetic fount, and oracle divine? 470 What valley echo'd the response of Jove ? What trace remaineth of the Thunderer's shume?

All, all forgotten --- and shall man repine

- That his trail bonds to fleeting life are broke "
- Cease, fool, the fate of gods may well be thme !
- Wouldst thou survive the marble or the oak,
- When nations, tongues, and worlds must sink beneath the stroke?

L۱

Epirus' bounds recede and mountains fail; Tired of up-gazing still, the wearied eye Reposes gladly on as smooth a vale 480 As ever Spring yelad in grassy dye.

- Ev'n on a plain no humble beauties he,
- Where some bold river breaks the long expanse,
- And woods along the banks are waving high,
- Whose shadows in the glassy waters dance,
- Or with the moonbeam sleep in midnight's solemn trance

LV

The sun had sunk behind vast Tomerit,

And Laos wide and fierce came roaring by:

The shades of wonted night were gathermg vet,

- When, down the steep banks winding warily, 490
- Childe Harold saw, like meteors in the sky,
- The gluttering minarets of Tepalen,
- Whose walls o'erlook the stream; and drawing mgh,
- He heard the busy hum of warrior-men
- Swelling the breeze that sigh'd along the lengthening glen

LVI

- He pass'd the sacred Haram's silent tower,
- And underneath the wide o'erarching gate

- Survey'd the dwelling of this chief of power,
- Where all around proclaim'd his high estate.
- Amidst no common pomp the despot sate, 500
- While busy preparation shook the court, Slaves, eunuchs, soldiers, guests, and santons wait;

Within, a palace, and without, a fort:

Here men of every clime appear to make resort.

lvii

Richly caparison'd, a ready row

Of armed horse and many a warlike store

- Circled the wide extending court below;
- Above, strange groups adorn'd the corridor;
- And oft-times through the area's echoing door
- Some high-capp'd Tartar spurr'd his steed away: 510
- The Turk, the Greek, the Albanian, and the Moor,
- Here mingled in their many-hued array,
- While the deep war-drum's sound announced the close of day.

LVIII

The wild Albanian kirtled to his knee,

- With shawl-girt head and ornamented gun,
- And gold-embroider'd garments fair to see;
- The crimson-scarfèd men of Macedon;
- The Delhi with his cap of terror on,
- And crooked glaive; the lively, supple Greek;

And swarthy Nubia's mutilated son; 520

The bearded Turk, that rarely deigns to speak,

Master of all around, too potent to be meek,

LIX

Are mix'd conspicuous: some recline in groups,

Scanning the motley scene that varies round;

- There some grave Moslem to devotion stoops;
- And some that smoke, and some that play, are found;
- Here the Albanian proudly treads the gro d;

- Half-whispering there the Greek is heard to prate;
- Hark ! from the mosque the nightly solemn sound,
- The Muezzin's call doth shake the minaret, 530
- 'There is no god but God !-- to prayer -lo ! God is great !'

LX

Just at this season Ramazani's fast

- Through the long day its penance did maintain;
- But when the lingering twilight hour was past,

Revel and feast assumed the rule again

- Now all was bustle, and the menial train Prepared and spread the plenteous board within;
- The vacant gallery now seem'd made in vain,
- But from the chambers came the 'nglung din,
- As page and slave anon were passing out and in. 540

LXI

Here woman's voice is never heard: apart, And scarce permitted, guarded, veil'd, to move,

She yields to one her person and her heart. Tamed to her cage, nor feels a wish to rove:

For, not unhappy in her master's love,

And joyful in a mother's gentlest cares,

Blest cares ! all other feelings far above ' Herself more sweetly rears the babe she bears,

Who never quits the breast no meaner passion shares

LXII

In marble-paved pavilion, where a spring 550

Of living water from the centre rose,

- Whose bubbling did a genial freshness fling,
- And soft voluptuous couches breathed repose,

ALI reclined, a man of war and woes.

- Yet in his lineaments ye cannot trace,
- While Gentleness her milder radiance throws

Along that aged venerable face,

The deeds that lurk beneath and stain him with disgrace.

28

LXIII

- It is not that yon hoary lengthening beard Ill suits the passions which belong to youth: 560
- youth; 560 Love conquers age — so Hafiz hath averr'd,
- So sings the Teian, and he sings in sooth ---
- But crimes that scorn the tender voice of Ruth,
- Beseeming all men ill but most the man
- In years, have mark'd him with a tiger's tooth:
- Blood follows blood, and, through their mortal span,
- In bloodier acts conclude those who with blood began

LXIV

- 'Mid many things most new to ear and eye
- The pilgrim rested here his weary feet,

And gazed around on Moslem luxury,

- Till quickly wearied with that spacious seat
- Of Wealth and Wantonness, the choice retreat
- Of sated Grandeur from the city's noise:
- And were it humbler it in sooth were sweet:
- But Peace abhorreth artificial joys,
- And Pleasure, leagued with Pomp, the zest of both destroys.

LXV

- Fierce are Albania's children, yet they lack
- Not virtues, were those virtues more mature.
- Where is the foe that ever saw their back? 579
- Who can so well the toil of war endure?
- Their native fastnesses not more secure
- Than they in doubtful time of troublous need;
- Their wrath how deadly! but their friendship sure,
- When Gratitude or Valour bids them bleed,
- Unshaken rushing on where'er their chief may lead.

LXVI

- Childe Harold saw them in their chieftain's tower,
- Thronging to war in splendour and success;

- And after view'd them, when, within their power.
- Himself awhile the victim of distress, That saddening hour when bad men hotlier press; 590
- But these did shelter him beneath their roof.
- When less barbarians would have cheer'd him less,
- And fellow-countrymen have stood aloof —
- In aught that tries the heart how few withstand the proof !

LXVII

- It chanced that adverse winds once drove his bark
- Full on the coast of Suli's shaggy shore,
- When all around was desolate and dark;
- To land was perilous, to sojourn, more;
- Yet for a while the mariners forbore,
- Dubious to trust where treachery might lurk: 600
- At length they ventured forth, though doubting sore
- That those who loathe alike the Frank and Turk
- Might once again renew their ancient butcher-work.

LXVIII

- Vain fear ' the Suliotes stretch'd the welcome hand,
- Led them o'er rocks and past the dangerous swamp,
- Kinder than polish'd slaves though not so bland,
- And piled the hearth, and wrung their garments damp,
- And fill'd the bowl, and trimm'd the cheerful lamp,
- And spread their fare, though homely, all they had:
- Such conduct bears Philanthropy's rare stamp — 610
- To rest the weary and to soothe the sad,
- Doth lesson happier men, and shames at least the bad.

LXIX

- It came to pass that when he did address Himself to quit at length this mountainland,
- Combined marauders, half-way, barr'd egress,

And wasted far and near with glaive and brand:

And therefore did he take a trusty band

To traverse Acarnania's forest wide,

In war well season'd, and with labours tann'd.

Till he did greet white Achelous' tide,

And from his further bank Ætolia's wolds espied. 621

LXX

Where lone Utraikey forms its circling cove.

And weary waves retire to gleam at rest,

- How brown the foliage of the green hill's rove,
- Nodding at midnight o'er the calm bay's breast.
- As winds come lightly whispering from the west,
- Kissing, not ruffling, the blue deep's serene: -
- Here Harold was received a welcome guest;

Nor did he pass unmoved the gentle scene,

For many a joy could he from Night's soft presence glean. 630

LXXI

- On the smooth shore the night-fires brightly blazed,
- The feast was done, the red wine circling fast.

And he that unawares had there ygazed

- With gaping wonderment had stared aghast;
- For ere night's midmost, stillest hour was past,

The native revels of the troop began;

Each Palikar his sabre from him cast,

- And bounding hand in hand, man link'd to man,
- Yelling their uncouth durge, long daunced the kirtled clan.

LXXII

Childe Harold at a little distance stood, And view'd, but not displeased, the revelrie, 641

- Nor hated harmless mirth, however rude:
- In sooth, it was no vulgar sight to see
- Their barbarous, yet their not indecent, glee,
- And, as the flames along their faces gleam'd,

- Their gestures nimble, dark eyes flashing free,
- The long wild locks that to their girdles stream'd.

While thus in concert they this lay half sang, half scream'd: --

Tambourgi! Tambourgi! thy 'larum afar Gives hope to the valiant and promise of war ; All the sons of the mountains arise at the 651 note, Chimariot, Illyrian, and dark Suliote!

Oh! who is more brave than a dark Suliote, In his snowy camese and his shaggy capote?

To the wolf and the vulture he leaves his wild flock,

And descends to the plain like the stream from the rock.

3

Shall the sons of Chimari, who never forgive

The fault of a friend, bid an enemy live?

Let those guns so unerring such vengeance forego?

What mark is so fair as the breast of a foe? 660

Macedonia sends forth her invincible race ;

For a time they abandon the cave and the chase

But those scarfs of blood-red shall be redder. before

The sabre is sheathed and the battle is o'er.

5

Then the pirates of Parga that dwell by the waves,

And teach the pale Franks what it is to be slaves,

Shall leave on the beach the long galley and oar, And track to his covert the captive on shore.

I ask not the pleasures that riches supply, My sabre shall win what the feeble must buy; Shall win the young bride with her long flowing

hair. 671

And many a maid from her mother shall tear.

I love the fair face of the maid in her youth,

Her caresses shall lull me, her music shall soothe.

Let her bring from the chamber her many-toned lyre,

And sing us a song on the fall of her sire.

Remember the moment when Previsa fell. The shrieks of the conquer'd, the conquerors' yell;

- The roofs that we fired, and the plunder we shared,
- The wealthy we slaughter'd, the lovely we spared. 680

)

- I talk not of mercy, I talk not of fear,
- He neither must know who would serve the Vizier:
- Since the days of our prophet the Crescent ne'er saw

A chief ever glorious like All Pashaw.

10

Dark Muchtar his son to the Danube is sped.

- Let the yellow-hair'd Gaours view his horsetail with dread,
- When his Delhis come dashing in blood o'er the banks,
- How few shall escape from the Muscovite ranks!

II

Selictar, unsheathe then our chief's scimitar :

- Tambourgi, thy 'larum gives promise of war; Ye mountains, that see us descend to the
- shore, 691
- Shall view us as victors, or view us no more !

LXXIII

Fair Greece, sad relic of departed worth !

- Immortal, though no more; though fallen, great !
- Who now shall lead thy scatter'd children forth.
- And long accustom'd bondage uncreate ?
- Not such thy sons who whilome did await,

The hopeless warriors of a willing doom,

In bleak Thermopylæ's sepulchral strait —

Oh ! who that gallant spirit shall resume,

Leap from Eurotas' banks, and call thee from the tomb? 701

LXXIV

pirit of freedom ! when on Phyle's brow Thou sat'st with Thrasybulus and his train.

- Couldst thou forbode the dismal hour which now
- Dims the green beauties of thine Attic plain?
- Not thirty tyrants now enforce the chain, But every carle can lord it o'er thy land; Nor rise thy sons, but idly rail in vain,
- Trembling beneath the scourge of Turkish hand,
- From birth till death enslaved; in word, in deed, unmann'd.

LXXV

- In all save form alone, how changed ! and who
- That marks the fire still sparkling in each eye,
- Who but would deem their bosoms burn'd anew

With thy unquenched beam, lost Liberty ! And many dream withal the hour is nigh

That gives them back their fathers' heintage

For foreign arms and aid they fondly sigh, Nor solely dare encounter hostile rage,

Or tear their name defiled from Slavery's mournful page.

LXXVI

Hereditary bondsmen ! know ye not 720 Who would be free themselves must strike the blow ?

By their right arms the conquest must be wrought?

Will Gaul or Muscovite redress ye? no!

- True, they may lay your proud despoilers low,
- But not for you will Freedom's altars flame
- Shades of the Helots, triumph o'er your foe '
- Greece, change thy lords, thy state is still the same;
- Thy glorious day is o'er, but not thine years of shame.

LXXVII

The city won for Allah from the Giaour,

- The Graour from Othman's race again may wrest; 730
- And the Serai's impenetrable tower
- Receive the fiery Frank, her former guest;
- Or Wahab's rebel brood, who dared divest

The prophet's tomb of all its pious spoil,

- May wind their path of blood along the West;
- But ne'er will freedom seek this fated soil,
- But slave succeed to slave through years of endless toil.

LXXVIII

- Yet mark their mirth ere lenten days begin,
- That penance which their holy rites propare

To shrive from man his weight of mortal sin 740

By daily abstinence and nightly prayer;

But ere his sackcloth garb Repentance wear,

Some days of joyaunce are decreed to all,

To take of pleasaunce each his secret share,

In motley robe to dance at masking ball, And join the mimic train of merry Carnival.

LXXIX

- And whose more rife with merriment than thine,
- Oh Stamboul, once the empress of their reign?
- Though turbans now pollute Sophia's shrine,

And Greece her very altars eyes in vain;

- (Alas, her woes will still pervade my strain!) 751
- Gay were her minstrels once, for free her throng,
- All felt the common joy they now must feign,
- Nor oft I've seen such sight nor heard such song,
- As woo'd the eye and thrill'd the Bosphorus along.

LXXX

- Loud was the lightsome tumult on the shore,
- Oft Music changed but never ceased her tone,
- And timely echo'd back the measured oar,
- And rippling waters made a pleasant moan:
- The Queen of tides on high consenting shone, 760
- And when a transient breeze swept o'er the wave,
- T was, as if darting from her heavenly throne,
- A brighter glance her form reflected gave,
- Till sparkling billows seem'd to light the banks they lave.

LXXXI

- GI ced many a light calque along the foam,
- Danced on the shore the daughters of the land,

- Ne thought had man or maid of rest home,
- While many a languid eye and thrilling hand
- Exchanged the look few bosoms may withstand,
- Or gently prest, return'd the pressure still: 779
- Oh Love! young Love! bound in thy rosy band,
- Let sage or cynic prattle as he will,

These hours, and only these, redeem Life's years of ill !

LXXXII

- But, midst the throng in erry masquerade,
- Lurk there no hearts that throb with secret pain,
- Even through the closest searment half betray'd?
- To such the gentle murmurs of the main Seem to re-echo all they mourn in vain;
- To such the gladness of the gamesome crowd
- Is source of wayward thought and stern disdain: 780
- How do they loathe the laughter idly loud,
- And long to change the robe of revel for the shroud !

LXXXIII

- This must he feel, the true-born son of Greece,
- If Greece one true-born patriot still can boast, —
- Not such as prate of war but skulk peace,
- The bondsman's peace, who sighs for all he lost,
- Yet with smooth smile his tyrant can accost,
- And wield the slavish sickle, not the sword:
- Ah, Greece, they love thee least who owe thee most —
- Their birth, their blood, and that subl' e record 790
- Of hero sires who shame thy now degenerated horde !

LXXXIV

When riseth Lacedæmon's hardihood,

When Thebes Epaminondas rears again,

- When Athe ' children are with hearts endued,
- When Grecian mothers shall give birth to men,
- Then may'st thou be restored, but not till then.
- A thousand years scarce serve to form a state;
- An hour may lay it in the dust; and when
- Can man its shatter'd splendour renovate,
- Recall its virtues back and vanquish Time and Fate?

LXXXV

And yet how lovely in thine age of woe,

- Land of lost gods and godlike men, art thou !
- Thy vales of evergreen, thy hills of snow,
- Proclam thee Nature's varied favourite now;
- Thy fanes, thy temples to thy surface bow,

Commingling slowly with heroic earth,

Broke by the share of every rustic plough

(So perish monuments of mortal birth,

So perish all in turn, save well-recorded Worth); sog

LXXXVI

- Save where some solitary column mourns Above its prostrate brethren of the cave; Save where Tritoma's airy shrine adorns Colonna's cliff, and gleams along the wave:
- Save o'er some warrior's half-forgotten grave,
- Where the gray stones and unmolested grass

Ages, but not oblivion, feebly brave,

While strangers only not regardless pass,

Lingering like me, perchance, to gaze, and sigh ' Alas !'

LXXXVII

- Yet are thy skies blue, thy crags as wild;
- weet are thy groves, d verdant are thy fields, S20

Thine olive ripe as when Minerva smiled,

And still his honied wealth Hymettus yields;

- There the blithe bee his fragrant fortre builds,
- The freeborn wanderer of thy mountamair;

Apollo still thy iong, long summer gilds, Still in his beam Mendeh's marbles glare;

Art, Glory, Freedom fail, but Nature still is fair.

LXXXVIII

Where'er we tread 't is haunted, holy ground;

No earth of thine is lost in vulgar mould,

- But one vast realm of wonder spreads around, $30
- And all the Muse's tales seem truly told,
- Till the sense aches with gazing to behold
- The scenes our earliest dreams have dwelt upon:
- Each hill and dale, each deepening glen and wold
- Defies the power which crush'd thy temples gone:
- Age shakes Athena's tower but spares gray Marathon.

I XXXIX

- The sun, the soil, but not the slave, the same;
- Unchanged in all except its toreign lord —
- Preserves alike its bounds and boundless fame
- The Battle-field, where Persia's victim horde 840
- First bow'd beneath the brunt of Hell' 'sword,

As on the morn to distant Glory dear,

When Marathon became a magic word,

- Which utter'd, to the hearer's eye appear
- The camp, the host, the fight, the conqueror's career,

xc

The flying Mede, his shaftless broken bow;

The fiery Greek, his red pursuing spear;

- Mountains above, Earth's, Ocean's plain below:
- Death in the front, Destruction in the rear!
- Such was the scene what now remaineth here? 8

- What sacred trophy marks the hallow'd ground,
- Recording Freedom's smile and Asia's tear?

The rifled urn, the violated mound,

The dust thy courser's hoof, rude stranger, spurns around.

XCI

Yet to the remnants of thy splendour past

Shall pilgrims, pensive, but unwearied, throng;

Long shall the voyager, with th' Ionian blast,

Hail the bright clime of battle and of song;

- Long shall thme annals and immortal tongue
- Fill with thy fame the youth of many a shore; 860

Boast of the aged ! lesson of the young ! Which sages venerate and bards adore,

As Pallas and the Muse unveil their awful lore.

XCII

- The parted bosom clings to wonted home,
- If aught that's kindred cheer the welcome hearth:

He that is lonely, hither let him roam,

And gaze complacent on congenial earth.

Greece is no lightsome land of social mirth;

But he whom Sadness sootheth may abide,

- And scarce regret the region of his birth,
- When wandering slow by Delphi's sacred side, 871

Or gazing o'er the plains where Greek and Persian died.

xcm

Let such approach this consecrated land, And pass in peace along the magic waste; But spare its relics — let no busy hand

Dut spare its renes -- let no busy hand

- Deface the scenes, already how defaced ! Not for such purpose were these altars placed;
- Revere the remnants nations once revered.
- So may our country's name be undisgraced,
- So may'st thou prosper where thy youth was rear'd, 880
- By every honest joy of love and life endear'd!

XCIV

- For thee, who thus in too protracted song
- Hast soothed thine idlesse with inglorious lays,
- Soon shall thy voice be lost amid the throng
- Of louder minstrels in these later days:
- To such resign the strife for fading bays;
- Ill may such contest now the spirit move
- Which heeds nor keen reproach nor partial praise,
- Since cold each kinder heart that might approve,
- And none are left to please when none are left to love. 890

XCV

- Thou too art gone, thou loved and lovely one !
- Whom youth and youth's affections bound to me;
- Who did for me what none beside have done,
- Nor shrank from one albeit unworthy thee.
- What is my being ? thou hast ceased to be !
- Nor staid to welcome here thy wanderer home,
- Who mourns o'er hours which we no more shall see ---
- Would they had never been, or were to come !
- Would he had ne'er return'd to find fresh cause to roam !

XCVI

Oh, ever loving, lovely, and beloved ! 900 How selfish Sorrow ponders on the past, And clings to thoughts now better far

- removed ! Put Time shall toop the shadow from me
- But Time shall tear thy shadow from me last.
- All thou couldst have of mine, stern Death, thou hast, —
- The parent, friend, and now the more than friend;
- Ne'er yet for one thine arrows flew so fast,
- And grief with grief continuing still to blend,
- Hath snatch'd the little joy that life had yet to lend.

34

XCVII

- Then must I plunge again into the crowd,
- And follow all that Peace disdains to seek? 910
- Where Revel calls, and Laughter, vamly loud,
- False to the heart, distorts the hollow cheek,
- To leave the flagging spirit doubly weak !
- Still o'er the features, which perforce they cheer,
- To feign the pleasure or conceal the pique,

Smiles form the channel of a future tear,

Or raise the writhing lip with ill-dissembled sneer

XCVIII

- What is the worst of woes that wait on age?
- What stamps the wrinkle deeper on the brow?
- To view each loved one blotted from life's page, 920
- And be alone on earth, as I am now.
- Before the Chastener humbly let me bow,
- O'er hearts divided and o'er hopes destroy'd
- Roll on, vain days ! full reckless may ye flow,
- Since Time hath reft whate'er my soul enjoy'd,
- And with the ills of Eld mine earlier years alloy'd.

CANTO THE THIRD

Afin que cette application vous forçât de penser à autre chose il n v a en vérité de remède que celui-là et le temps — Lettre du Rou de Prusse à D'Alembert, Sept 7, 1776.

I

- Is thy face like thy mother's, my fair child,
- ADA, sole daughter of my house and heart?
- When last I saw thy young blue eyes they smiled,
- And then we parted, not as now we part,

But with a hope ---

Awaking with a start, The waters heave around me, and on high The winds lift up their voices: I depart, Whither I know not; but the hour's gone by,

When Albion's lessening shores could grieve or glad mme eye

11

Once more upon the waters, yet once more! 10

And the waves bound beneath measa steed That knows his rider. Welcome to their roar!

- Swift be their guidance wheresoe'er it lead !
- Though the stram'd mast should quiver as a reed,
- And the rent canvass fluttering strew the gale.

Still must I on; for I am as a weed,

- Flung from the rock on Ocean's foam to sail
- Where'er the surge may sweep, the tempest's breath prevail

III

In my youth's summer I did sing of One,

The wandering outlaw of his own dark mind; 20

- Again I seize the theme, then but begun, And bear it with me, as the rushing wind
- Bears the cloud onwards: in that Tale I find
- The furrows of long thought, and driedup tears,
- Which, ebbing, leave a sterile track behmd,

O'er which all heavily the journeying years

Plod the last sands of hfe, — where not a flower appears.

IV

- Since my young days of passion joy, or pain,
- Perchance my heart and harp have lost a string,

And both may jar; it may be that in vain

- I would essay as I have sung to sing 31 Yet, though a dreary strain, to this I cling,
- So that it wean me from the weary dream Of selfish grief or gladness — so it fling
- Forgetfulness around me it shall seen.
- To me, though to none else, a not ungrateful theme

He, who grown aged in this world of woe, In deeds, not years, piercing the depths of life,

- So that no wonder waits him; nor below Can love, or sorrow, fame, ambituon, strife.
- Cut to his heart again with the keen knife Of silent, sharp endurance: he can tell
- Why thought seeks refuge in lone caves, yet rife
- With arry images, and shapes which dwell Still unimpair'd, though old, in the soul's haunted cell.

VI

- "T is to create, and in creating live
- A being more intense, that we endow
- With form our fancy, gaming as we give The life we image, even as I do now.
- What am I? Nothing: but not so art thou, 50
- Soul of my thought! with whom I traverse earth,
- Invisible but gazing, as I glow
- Mix'd with thy spirit, blended with thy birth,
- And feeling still with thee in my crush'd feelings' dearth.

VII

- Yet must I think less wildly: I have thought
- Too long and darkly, till my brain became,

In its own eddy boiling and o'erwrought,

A whirling gulf of phantasy and flame:

- And thus, untaught in youth my heart to tame,
- My springs of life were poison'd. 'T is too late! 60
- Yet am I changed; though still enough the same
- In strength to bear what time can not abate,
- And feed on bitter fruits without accusing Fate

VIII

- Something too much of this: but now 't is past,
- And the spell closes with its silent seal.
- Long absent HAROLD re-appears at last, -
- He of the breast which fain no more would feel.

- Wrung with the wounds which kill not but ne'er heal;
- Yet Time, who changes all, had alter'd him
- In soul and aspect as in age: years steal Fire from the mind as vigour from the lumb.
- And life's enchanted cup but sparkles near the brim.

IX

- His had been quaff'd too quickly, and he found
- The dregs were wormwood; but he fill'd again,
- And from a purer fount, on holier ground,
- And deem'd its spring perpetual but in vam !
- Still round him clung invisibly a chain
- Which gall'd for ever, fettering though unseen,
- And heavy though it clank'd not; worn with pain,
- Which pined although it spoke not, d grew keen, so
- Entering with every step he took through many a scene.

х

Secure in guarded coldness, he had mix'd Again in fancied safety with his kind,

And deem'd his spirit now so firmly fix'd

And sheathed with an invulnerable mind,

- That, if no joy, no sorrow lurk'd behind; And he, as one, might 'midst the many stand
- Unheeded, searching through the crowd to find

Fit speculation, such as in strange land

He found in wonder-works of God and Nature's hand. 90

XI

- But who can view the ripen'd rose nor seek
- To wear it? who can curiously behold
- The smoothness and the sheen of beauty's cheek,
- Nor feel the heart can never all grow old?
- Who can contemplate Fame through clouds unfold
- The star which rises o'er her steep, n climb?

v

Harold, once more within the vortex, roll'd

On with the giddy circle, chasing Time, Yet with a nobler aim than in his youth's fond prime.

хп

But soon he knew himself the most unfit Of men to herd with Man, with whom he held

Little in common; - untaught to submit

- His thoughts to others, though his soul was quell'd
- In youth by his own thoughts; still uncompell'd,

He would not yield dominion of his mind

To spirits against whom his own rebell'd;

- Proud though in desolation; which could find
- A life within itself, to breathe without mankind

$\mathbf{X}\mathbf{I}\mathbf{I}\mathbf{I}$

Where rose the mountains, there to him were friends;

- Where roll'd the ocean, thereon was his home;
- Where a blue sky, and glowing clime, ex-
- He had the passion and the power to roam;

The desert, forest, cavern, breaker's foam, Were unto him companionship; they spake

A mutual language, clearer than the tome

Of his land's tongue, which he would oft forsake

For Nature's pages glass'd by sunbeams on the lake.

XIV

- Like the Chaldean he could watch the stars,
- Till he had peopled them with beings bright
- As their own beams; and earth, and earth-born jars, 120
- And human frailties, were forgotten quite

Could he have kept his spirit to that flight He had been happy; but this clay will

- sink
- Its spark immortal, envying it the light
- To which it mounts, as if to break the link
- That keeps us from yon heaven which woos us to its brink.

xv

But in Man's dwellings he became a thing Restless and worn, and stern and wearisome.

- Droop'd as a wild-born falcon with clipt wing,
- To whom the boundless air alone were home

Then came his fit again, which to o'ercome, As eagerly the barr'd-up bird will beat

- His breast and beak against his wiry dome
- Till the blood tinge his plumage, so the heat
- Of his impeded soul would through hic bosom eat.

XVI

Self-exiled Harold wanders forth again,

With nought of hope left, but with less of gloom;

The very knowledge that he hved in vain, That all was over on this side the tomb, Had made Despar a smilingness assume,

- Which, though 't were wild, as on the plunder'd wreck 141
- When marmers would madly meet them doom
- With draughts intemperate on the sinking deck, --
- Did yet inspire a cheer which he forbore to check.

XVII

Stop !-- for thy tread is on an Empire's dust !

An Earthquake's spoil is sepulchred below !

Is the spot mark'd with no colossal bust, Nor column trophied for triumphal show?

- None; but the moral's truth tells simpler so.
- As the ground was before, thus let it be; --- 150
- How that red rain hath made the harvest grow !
- And is this all the world has gained by thee,
- Thou first and last of fields, king-making Victory?

XVIII

- And Harold stands upon this place of skulls,
- The grave of France, the deadly Waterloo!

How in an hour the power which gave annuls

Its gifts, transferring fame as fleeting too! In 'pride of place' here last the eagle

- flew, Then tore with bloody talon the rent
- plain,
- Pierced by the shaft of banded nations through; 160

Ambition's life and labours all were vain;

He wears the shatter'd links of the world's broken chain.

XIX

- Fit retribution ! Gaul may champ the bit
- And foam in fetters; but is Earth more free?

Did nations combat to make One submit; Or league to teach all kmgs true sovereignty ? What! shall reviving Thraldom again be

- The patch'd-up idol of enlighten'd days ?
- Shall we, who struck the Lion down, shall we
- Pay the Wolf homage ? proffering lowly gaze
- And servile knees to thrones? No; prove before ye praise!

XX

- If not, o'er one fallen despot boast no more!
- In vain fair cheeks were furrow'd with hot tears
- For Europe's flowers long rooted up before
- The trampler of her vineyards; in vain years
- Of death, depopulation, bondage, fears, Have all been borne, and broken by the accord
- Of roused-up millions: all that most endears
- Glory, is when the myrtle wreathes a sword

Such as Harmodius drew on Athens' tyrant lord. 180

XXI

There was a sound of revelry by night, And Belgrum's capital had gather'd then Her Beauty and her Chivalry, and bright The lamps shone o'er fair women and brave men:

- A thousand hearts beat happily; and when
- Music arose with its voluptuous swell,
- Soft eyes look'd love to eyes which spake agam,
- And all went merry as a marriage-bell; --
- But hush ! hark ! a deep sound strikes like a rising knell !

$\mathbf{X}\mathbf{X}\mathbf{I}\mathbf{I}$

- Did ye not hear it ? --- No; 't was but the wind, 190
- Or the car rattling o'er the stony street;
- On with the dance! let joy be unconfined;
- No sleep till morn, when Youth and Pleasure meet
- To chase the glowing Hours with flying feet —
- But hark !--- that heavy sound breaks in once more
- As if the clouds its echo would repeat;
- And nearer, clearer, deadlier than before !
- Arm ! Arm ! it is it is the cannon's opening roar !

XXIII

- Withm a window'd niche of that high hall
- Sate Brunswick's fated chieftain; he did hear 200
- That sound the first amidst the festival, And caught its tone with Death's prophetic ear;
- And when they smiled because he deem'd it near,
- His heart more truly knew that peal too well
- Which stretch'd his father on a bloody bier,
- And roused the vengeance blood alone could quell:
- He rush'd into the field, and, foremost fighting, fell.

XXIV

- Ah! then and there was hurrying to and fro,
- And gathering tears, and tremblings of distress,
- And cheeks all pale, which but an hour ago 210
- Blush'd at the praise of their own loveliness:

- And there were sudden partings, such as press
- The life from out young hearts, and choking sighs
- Which ne'er might be repeated, who could guess
- If ever more should meet those mutual eves.
- Since upon night so sweet such awful morn could rise '

XXV

- And there was mounting in hot haste. the steed,
- The mustering squadron, and the clattering car,
- Went pouring torward with impetuous speed, 219

And swiftly forming in the ranks of war; And the deep thunder peal on peal afar; And near, the beat of the alarming drum Roused up the soldier ere the morning

- star; While throng'd the citizens with terror dumb.
- Or whispering, with white hips • The foe ! They come ' they come ''

XXVI

- And wild and high the 'Cameron's gathering' rose !
- The war-note of Lochiel, which Albyn's hills
- Have heard, and heard too have her Saxon foes -
- How in the noon of night that pibroch thrills,
- Savage and shrill ! But with the breath which fills 230
- Their mountain-pipe, so fill the mountaineers
- With the fierce native daring which instils

The sturring memory of a thousand years,

And Evan's, Donald's fame rings in each clansman's ears !

XXVII

- And Ardennes waves above them her green leaves,
- Dewy with nature's tear-drops, as they pass,

Grieving, if aught inaximate e'er grieves, Over the unreturning brave, — alas!

Ere evening to be trodden like the grass

Which now beneath them, but above shall grow 240

In its next verdure, when this fiery mass Of hving valour, rolling on the toe

And burning with high hope, shall moulder cold and low.

уулл

Last noon beheld them full of lusty life,

- Last eve in Beauty's circle proudly gay, The midnight brought the signal-sound
- of strife,
- The morn the marshalling in arms, the day
- Battle's magnineently-stein array !
- The thunder-clouds close o'er it, which when rent
- The earth is cover'd thick with other clay, 250
- Which her own clay shall cover, heap'd and pent,
- Ruler and horse, friend, foe, in one red burial blent !

XXIX

- Their praise is hymn'd by loftier harps than mine;
- Yet one I would select from that proud throng,
- Partly because they blend me with his line,
- And partly that I did his sire some wrong,
- And partly that bright names will hallow song;
- And his was of the bravest, and when shower'd
- The death-bolts deadhest the thinn'd files along,
- Even where the thickest of war's tempest lower'd, 260
- They reach'd no nobler breast than thine, young, gallant Howard !

XXX

- There have been tears and breaking hearts for thee,
- And mme were nothing, had I such to give;
- But when I stood beneath the fresh green tree,
- Which living waves where thou didst cease to live,
- And saw around me the wide field revive
- With fruits and fertile promise, and the Spring

Come forth her work of gladness to contrive,

With all her reckless birds upon the wing, I turn'd from all she brought to those she could not bring. 270

XXXI

I turn'd to thee, to thousands, of whom each

And one as all a ghastly gap did make

In his own kind and kindred, whom to teach

Forgetfulness were mercy for their sake;

The Archangel's trump, not Glory's, must awake

Those whom they thirst for; though the sound of Fame

May for a moment soothe, it cannot slake The fever of vain longing, and the name

So honour'd but assumes a stronger, bitterer claim.

XXXII

- They mourn, but smile at length; and, smiling, mourn: 280
- The tree will wither long before it fall;
- The hull drives on, though mast and sail be torn;
- The roof-tree sinks, but moulders on the hall

In massy hoariness; the run'd wall

Stands when its wind-worn battlements are gone;

The bars survive the captive they enthral,

The day drags through though storms keep out the sun;

And thus the heart will break, yet brokenly live on:

XXXIII

Even as a broken mirror, which the glass

In every fragment multiplies; and makes

A thousand images of one that was, 291

- The same, and still the more, the more it breaks;
- And thus the heart will do which not forsakes,
- Living in shatter'd guise, and still, and cold,
- And bloodless, with its sleepless sorrow aches,
- Yet withers on till all without is old,

Showing no visible sign, for such things are untold.

XXXIV

There is a very life in our despair,

Vitality of poison, a quick root

Which feeds these deadly branches: for it were 300

As nothing did we die; but Life will suit Itself to Sorrow's most detested fruit,

- Lake to the apples on the Dead Sea's shore,
- All ashes to the taste. Did man compute

Existence by enjoyment, and count o'er

Such hours 'gainst years of life, --- say, would he name threescore ?

XXXV

The Psalmist number'd out the years of man:

They are enough, and if thy tale be true, Thou, who didst grudge him even that fleeting span, 309 More than enough, thou fatal Waterloo!

Millions of tongues record thee, and anew

- Their children's lips shall echo them, and say —
- 'Here, where the sword united nations drew,
- Our countrymen were warring on that day !'
- And this is much, and all which will not pass away.

XXXVI

There sunk the greatest, nor the worst of men,

Whose spirit antithetically mixt

One moment of the mightiest, and again On little objects with like firmness fixt,

- Extreme in all things ! hadst thou been betwixt, 320
- Thy throne had still been thine, or never been;
- For daring made thy rise as fall: thou seek'st
- Even now to re-assume the imperial mien,

And shake again the world, the Thunderer of the scene !

XXXVII

- Conqueror and captive of the earth t thou !
- She trembles at thee still, and thy wild name
- Was ne'er more bruited in men's minds than now

-

- That thou art nothing, save the jest of Fame,
- Who woo'd thee once, thy vassal, and became
- The flatterer of thy fierceness, till thou wert 330

A god unto thyself; nor less the same To the astounded kingdoms all inert,

Who deem'd thee for a time whate'er thou didst assert.

XXXVIII

- Oh, more or less than man in high or low,
- Battling with nations, flying from the field;
- Now making monarchs' necks thy footstool, now
- More than thy meanest soldier taught to yield:
- An empire thou couldst crush, command, rebuild,
- But govern not thy pettiest passion, nor,
- However deeply in men's spirits skill'd,
- Look through thme own, nor curb the lust of war, 341
- Nor learn that tempted Fate will leave the loftiest star.

XXXIX

- Yet well thy soul hath brook'd the turning tide
- With that untaught innate philosophy,
- Which, be it wisdom, coldness, or deep pride,
- Is gall and wormwood to an enemy.
- When the whole host of hatred stood hard by,
- To watch and mock thee shrinking, thou hast smiled
- With a sedate and all-enduring eye;
- When Fortune fied her spoil'd and favourite child, 350
- He stood unbow'd beneath the ills upon him piled

٢L

Sager than in thy fortunes; for in them

- Ambition steel'd thee on too far to show That just habitual scorn, which could contemn
- Men and their thoughts; 't was wise to feel, not so
- To wear it ever on thy lip and brow,
- And spurn the instruments thou wert to use

- Till they were turn'd unto thine overthrow:
- 'T is but a worthless world to win or lose,
- So hath it proved to thee and all such lot who choose. 360

XLI

- If, like a tower upon a headlong rock,
- Thou hadst been made to stand or fall alone,
- Such scorn of man had help'd to brave the shock;
- But men's thoughts were the steps which paved thy throne,

Their admiration thy best weapon shone;

The part of Philip's son was thine, not then

(Unless aside thy purple had been thrown) Like stern Diogenes to mock at men;

For sceptred cynics earth were far too wide a den

XLII

But quiet to quick bosoms is a hell, 370

- And there hath been thy bane; there is a fire
- And motion of the soul which will not dwell
- In its own narrow being, but aspire
- Beyond the fitting medium of desire;
- And, but once kindled, quenchless evermore,

Preys upon high adventure, nor can tire Of aught but rest; a fever at the core,

Fatal to him who bears, to all who ever bore.

XLIII

- This makes the madmen who have made men mad
- By their contagion, Conquerors and Kings, 380
- Founders of sects and systems, to whom add
- Sophists, Bards, Statesmen, all unquiet things
- Which stir too strongly the soul's secret springs,
- And are themselves the fools to those they fool;

Envied, yet how unenviable ! what stings Are theirs ! One breast laid open were a

- school
- Which would unteack mankind the lust to shine or rule.

XLIV

Their breath is agitation, and their life A storm whereon they ride, to sink at last;

And yet so nursed and bigoted to strife,

That should their days, surviving perils past, 391

Melt to calm twilight, they feel overcast

With sorrow and supmeness, and so die;

- Even as a flame unfed which runs to waste
- With its own flickering, or a sword laid by,
- Which eats into itself and rusts ingloriously.

XLV

- He who ascends to mountain-tops, shall find
- The loftiest peaks most wrapt in clouds and snow;
- He who surpasses or subdues mankind,

Must look down on the hate of those below. 400

Though high above the sun of glory glow, And far beneath the earth and ocean spread.

Round him are icy rocks, and loudly blow Contending tempests on his naked head,

And thus reward the toils which to those summits led.

XLVI

Away with these ! true Wisdom's world will be

Within its own creation, or in thine,

Maternal Nature ! for who teems like thee,

Thus on the banks of thy majestic Rhine?

There Harold gazes on a work divine,

- A blending of all beauties, streams and dells, 411
- Fruit, foliage, crag, wood, cornfield, mountain, vine,
- And chiefless castles breathing stern farewells
- From gray but leafy walls, where Ruin greenly dwells

XLVII

- And there they stand, as stands a lofty mind,
- Worn, but unstooping to the baser crowd,
- All tenantless, save to the crannying wind,

- Or holding dark communion with the cloud
- There was a day when they were young and proud,
- Banners on high, and battles pass'd below, 420
- But they who fought are in a bloody shroud,
- And those which waved are shredless dust ere now,
- And the bleak battlements shall bear no future blow.

XLVIII

- Beneath these battlements, within those walls,
- Power dwelt amidst her passions; in proud state

Each robber chief upheld his armèd halls, Doing his evil will, nor less elate

Than mightner heroes of a longer date.

- What want these outlaws conquerors should have,
- But History's purchased page to call them great?

A wider space, an ornamented grave ?

Their hopes were not less warm, their souls were full as brave.

XLIX

In their baronial feuds and single fields,

- What deeds of prowess unrecorded died And Love, which lent a blazon to their
- shields
- With emblems well devised by amorous pride,
- Through all the mail of iron hearts would glide:
- But still their flame was fierceness, and drew on

Keen contest and destruction near allied;

- And many a tower for some fair mischief won, 440
- Saw the discolour'd Rhine beneath its ruin run.
 - L

But Thou, exulting and abounding river ! Making thy waves a blessing as they flow Through banks whose beauty would endure for ever,

- Could man but leave thy bright creation so,
- Nor its fair promise from the surface mew

With the sharp scythe of conflict, — then to see

- Thy valley of sweet waters, were to know Earth paved like Heaven; and to seem such to me.
- Even now what wants thy stream? that it should Lethe be. 450

- A thousand battles have assail'd thy banks,
- But these and half their fame have pass'd away,
- And Slaughter heap'd on high his weltering ranks;
- Their very graves are gone, and what are they?
- Thy tide wash'd down the blood of yesterday, .
- And all was stainless, and on thy clear stream
- Glass'd with its dancing light the sunny ray;
- But o'er the blacken'd memory's blighting dream
- Thy waves would vainly roll, all sweeping as they seem.

LII

Thus Harold inly said, and pass'd along, Yet not insensibly to all which here $_{461}$ Awoke the jocund birds to early song

- In glens which might have made even exile dear.
- Though on his brow were graven lines austere,
- And tranquil sternness which had ta'en the place
- Of feelings fierier far but less severe,
- Joy was not always absent from his face,
- But o'er it in such scenes would steal with transient trace.

LIII

- Nor was all love shut from him, though his days
- Of passion had consumed themselves to dust. 470

It is in vain that we would coldly gaze

On such as smile upon us; the heart must

- Leap kindly back to kindness, though disgust
- Hath wean'd it from all wordlings: thus ho felt,

- For there was soft remembrance, and sweet trust
- In one fond breast to which his own would melt,
- And in its tenderer hour on that his bosom dwelt.

LIV

- And he had learn'd to love (I know not why,
- For this in such as him seems strange of mood) 479

The helpless looks of blooming infancy,

Even m its earliest nurture; what subdued, To change like this, a mind so far imbued With scorn of man, it little boots to know; But thus it was; and though in solitude

- Small power the nipp'd affections have to grow,
- In him this glow'd when all beside had ceased to glow.

LV

And there was one soft breast, as hath been said,

Which unto his was bound by stronger ties Than the church links withal; and, though

- unwed, That love was pure, and, far above dis
 - guise, 490

Had stood the test of mortal enmities

Still undivided, and cemented more

- By peril, dreaded most in female eyes;
- But this was firm, and from a foreign shore Well to that heart might his these absent greetings pour !

I

The castled crag of Drachenfels Frowns o'er the wide and winding Rhine, Whose breast of waters broadly swells Between the banks which bear the vine; And hills all rich with blosson'd trees, 500 And fields which promise corn and wine, And scatter'd cities crowning these, Whose far white walls along them shine, Have strew'd a seene, which I should see With double joy wert thou with me.

2

And peasant girls, with deep blue eyes And hands which offer early flowers, Walk smiling o'er this paradise; Above, the frequent fendal towers Through green leaves lift their walls of gray; And many a rock which steeply lowers, 511 And noble arch in proud decay, Lock o'er this vale of vintage-bowers;

LI

But one thing want these banks of Rhine,-Thy gentle hand to clasp in mine !

I send the lilies given to me; Though long before thy hand they touch, I know that they must wither'd be, But yet reject them not as such ; For I have cherish'd them as dear, 520 Because they yet may meet thine eye, And guide thy soul to mine even here, When thou behold'st them, drooping nigh, And know'st them gather'd by the Rhine, And offer'd from my heart to thine !

The river nobly foams and flows, The charm of this enchanted ground, And all its thousand turns disclose Some fresher beanty varying round The haughtiest breast its wish might 530 bound Through life to dwell delighted here; Nor could on earth a spot be found To nature and to me so dear, Could thy dear eyes in following mine Still sweeten more these banks of Rhine!

LVI

By Coblentz, on a rise of gentle ground,

There is a small and simple pyramid,

Crowning the summit of the verdant mound;

Beneath its base are heroes' ashes hid,

Our enemy's, - but let not that forbid

- Honour to Marceau ' o'er whose early tomb
- Tears, big tears, gush'd from the rough soldier's lid,

Lamenting and yet envying such a doom,

Falling for France whose rights he battled to resume.

LVII

- Brief, brave, and glorious was his young career, ----
- His mourners were two hosts, his friends and foes;
- And fitly may the stranger lungering here

Pray for his gallant spirit's bright repose;

- For he was Freedom's champion, one of those,
- The few in number, who had not o'erstept

The charter to chastise which she bestows

On such as wield her weapons; he had kept

The whiteness of his soul, and thus men o'er him wept.

LVIII

- Here Ehrenbreitstein, with her shatter'd wall
- Black with the miner's blast, upon her height
- Yet shows of what she was, when shell and ball
- Rebounding idly on her strength did light, -
- A tower of victory! from whence the flight
- Of baffled foes was watch'd along the plain:
- But Peace destroy'd what War could never blight, 560
- And laid t lose proud roofs bare to Summer's ram.
- On which the iron shower for years had pour'd in vain

LIX

- Adieu to thee, fair Rhine ! How long delighted
- The stranger fain would linger on his way!
- Thine is a scene alike where souls united
- Or lonely Contemplation thus might stray;
- And could the ceaseless vultures cease to prey
- On self-condemning bosoms, it were here. Where Nature, nor too sombre nor too gay,

Wild but not rude, awful yet not austere,

Is to the mellow Earth as Autumn to the year.

571

LX

Adieu to thee again ! a vain adieu !

There can be no farewell to scene like thine;

The mind is colour'd by thy every hue;

- And if reluctantly the eyes resign
- Their cherish'd gaze upon thee, lovely Rhine,
- 'T is with the thankful glance of parting praise;
- More mighty spots may rise, more glaring shine.

But none unite in one attaching maze

The brilliant, fair, and soft, - the glories of old days, 58c

LXI

The negligently grand, the fruitful bloom Of coming ripeness, the white city's sheen,

14

- The rolling stream, the precipice's gloom,
- The forest's growth, and Gothic walls between,
- The wild rocks shaped as they had turrets been
- In mockery of man's art; and these withal
- A race of faces happy as the scene,

Whose fertile bounties here extend to all,

Still springing o'er thy banks, though Empires near them fall.

LXII

- But these recede. Above me are the Alps, 590
- The palaces of Nature, whose vast walls Have pinnacled in clouds their snowy scalps,

And throned Eternity in icy halls

Of cold sublimity, where forms and falls The avalanche — the thunder bolt of snow!

- All that expands the spirit, yet appals,
- Gather around these summits, as to show How Earth may pierce to Heaven, yet leave vain man below.

LXIII

- But ere these matchless heights I dare to scan,
- There is a spot should not be pass'd in vain, — 600
- Morat! the proud, the patriot field! where man

May gaze on ghastly trophies of the slain,

- Nor blush for those who conquer'd on that plam;
- Here Burgundy bequeath'd his tombless host,

A bony heap, through ages to remain,

Themselves their monument; — the Stygian coast

Unsepulchred they roam'd, and shriek'd e ch wandering ghost.

LXIV

- While Waterloo with Cannæ's carnage vies,
- Morat and Marathon twin names shall stand;

They were true Glory's stainless victories,

Won by the unambitious heart and hand 611

Of a proud, brotherly, and civic band,

All unbought champions in no princely cause

Of vice-entail'd Corruption; they no land Doom'd to bewail the blasphemy of laws Making kings' rights divine, by some Dracome clause.

LXV

- By a lone wall a lonelier column rears
- A gray and grief-worn aspect of old days;
- 'T is the last remnant of the wreck of years,
- And looks as with the wild-bewildered gaze 620
- Of one to stone converted by amaze,
- Yet still with consciousness; and there it stands

Making a marvel that it not decays,

When the coeval pride of human hands,

Levell'd Aventicum, hath strew'd her subject lands.

LXVI

- And there oh ! sweet and sacred be the name ! —
- Julia, the daughter, the devoted, gave
- Her youth to Heaven; her heart, beneath a claim
- Nearest to Heaven's, broke o'er a father's grave.
- Justice is sworn 'gainst tears, and hers would crave 630
- The life she hved in; but the judge was just,
- And then she died on him she could not save.
- Their tomb was simple, and without a bust,
- And held within their urn one mind, one heart, one dust.

LXVII

- But these are deeds which should not pass away,
- And names that must not wither, though the earth
- Forgets her empires with a just decay,
- The enslavers and the enslaved, their death and birth;

The high, the mountain-majesty of worth Should be, and shall, survivor of its woe, 64a

- And from its immortality look forth
- In the sun's face, like yonder Alpine snow,

Imperishably pure beyond all things below

LXVIII

- Lake Leman woos me with its crystal face,
- The mirror where the stars and mountains view

The stillness of their aspect in each trace

- Its clear depth yields of their far height and hue.
- There is too much of man here, to look through
- With a fit mind the might which I behold;
- But soon in me shall Loneliness renew

Thoughts hid, but not less cherish'd than of old, 651

Ere mingling with the herd had penn'd me in their fold.

LXIX

To fly from, need not be to hate, mankind:

All are not fit with them to stir and toil,

Nor is it discontent to keep the mind

- Deep in its fountain, lest it overboil
- In the hot throng, where we become the spoil
- Of our infection, till too late and long
- We may deplore and struggle with the coil,
- In wretched interchange of wrong for wrong 660
- Midst a contentious world, striving where none are strong.

LXX

- There, in a moment, we may plunge our years
- In fatal penitence, and in the blight
- Of our own soul turn all our blood to tears,
- And colour things to come with hues of Night;
- The race of life becomes a hopeless flight
- To those that walk in darkness: on the sea.
- The boldest steer but where their ports invite,

But there are wanderers o'er Eternity

Whose bark drives on and on, and anchor'd ne'er shall be. 670

LXXI

Is it not better, then, to be alone, And love Earth only for its earthly sake? By the blue rushing of the arrowy Rhone. Or the pure bosom of its nursing lake,

- Which feeds it as a mother who doth make
- A fair but froward infant her own care, Kissing its cries away as these awake; — Is it not better thus our lives to wear,
- Than join the crushing crowd, doom'd to inflict or bear?

LXXII

I live not in myself, but I become 680 Portion of that around me; and to me High mountains are a feeling, but the hum

Of human cities torture: I can see

Nothing to loathe in nature, save to be

A link reluctant in a fleshly chain,

- Class'd among creatures, when the soul can flee,
- And with the sky, the peak, the heaving plain
- Of ocean, or the stars, mingle, and not in vam

LXXIII

And thus I am absorb'd, and this is life:

I look upon the peopled desert past, 690 As on a place of agony and strife,

- Where, for some sin, to sorrow I was cast,
- To act and suffer, but remount at last
- With a fresh pinion; which I feel to spring,
- Though young, yet waxing vigorous, as the blast
- Which it would cope with, on delighted wing,
- Spurning the clay-cold bonds which round our being cling.

LXXIV

And when at length the mind shall be all free

From what it hates in this degraded form,

Reft of its carnal life, save what shall be 700

Existent happier in the fly and worm, — When elements to elements conform.

And dust is as it should be, shall I not

- Feel all I see, less dazzling, but more warm?
- The bodiless thought? the Spirit of each spot?
- Of which, even now, I share at times the immortal lot?

LXXV

- Are not the mountains, waves, and skies, a part
- Of me and of my soul, as I of them?
- Is not the love of these deep in my heart
- With a pure passion ? should I not contemn 710
- All objects, if compared with these ? and stem
- A tide of suffering, rather than forego
- Such feelings for the hard and worldly phlegm
- Of those whose eyes are only turn'd below,
- Gazing upon the ground, with thoughts which dare not glow?

LXXVI

But this is not my theme; and I return To that which is immediate, and require Those who find contemplation in the urn, To look on One whose dust was once all fire,

A native of the land where I respire 720 The clear air for a while (a passing guest, Where he became a being) whose desire

- Was to be glorious; 't was a foolish quest,
- The which to gain and keep he sacrificed all rest.

LXXVII

Here the self-torturing sophist, wild Rousseau,

The apostle of affliction, he who threw

- Enchantment over passion, and from woe
- Wrung overwhelming eloquence, first drew
- The breath which made him wretched; yet he knew
- How to make madness beautiful, and cast 73C
- O'er erring deeds and thoughts a heavenly hue
- Of words, like sunbeams, dazzling as they past
- The eyes, which o'er them shed tears feelingly and fast

LXXVIII

His love was passion's essence — as a tree On fire by lightning; with ethereal flame Kindled he was, and blasted; for to be Thus, and enamour'd, were in him the same. But his was not the love of living dame, Nor of the dead who rise upon our dreams, But of ideal beauty, which became 740In him existence, and o'erflowing teems

Along his burning page, distemper'd though it seems.

LXXIX

- This breathed itself to life in Julie, this Invested her with all that's wild and sweet;
- This hallow'd, too, the memorable kiss
- Which every morn his fever'd lip would greet,
- From hers who but with friendship his would meet;
- But to that gentle touch, through brain and breast
- Flash'd the thrill'd spirit's love-devouring heat;
- In that absorbing sigh perchance more blest 750
- Than vulgar minds may be with all they seek possest.

LXXX

- His life was one long war with self-sought foes,
- Or friends by him self-barish'd; for his mind
- Had grown Suspicion's sanctuary, and chose,
- For its own cruel sacrifice, the kind
- 'Gainst whom he raged with fury strange and blind
- But he was phrensied, wherefore, who may know?
- Since cause might be which skill could never find;
- But he was phrensied by disease or woe
- To that worst pitch of all, which wears a reasoning show. 760

LXXXI

- For then he was inspired, and from him came,
- As from the Pythian's mystic cave of yore,
- Those oracles which set the world in flame,
- Nor ceased to burn till kingdoms were no more:
- Did he not this for France, which lay be fore
- Bow'd to the inborn tyranny of years?

Broken and trembling to the yoke she bore,

Till by the voice of him and his compeers Roused up to too much wrath, which follows o'ergrown fears?

LXXXII

- They made themselves a fearful monument ! 770
- The wreck of old opinions, things which grew,
- Breathed from the birth of time: the veil they rent,
- And what behind it lay, all earth shall view.
- But good with ill they also overthrew,
- Leaving but ruins, wherewith to rebuild

Upon the same foundation, and renew

- Dungeons and thrones, which the same hour re-fill'd
- As heretofore because ambition was selfwill'd

LXXXIII

- But this will not endure, nor be endured;
- Mankind have felt their strength, and made it felt ! 780
- They might have used it better, but, allured
- By their new vigour, sternly have they dealt
- On one another; pity ceased to melt
- With her once natural charities. But they,
- Who in oppression's darkness caved had dwelt,
- They were not eagles, nourish'd with the day;
- What marvel then, at times, if they mistook their prey?

LXXXIV

- What deep wounds ever closed without a scar?
- The heart's bleed longest, and but heal to wear
- That which disfigures it; and they who war 790
- With their own hopes and have been vanquish'd, bear
- Silence, but not submission. In his lair
- Fix'd Passion holds his breath, until the hour
- Which shall atone for years; none need despair:

- It came, it cometh, and will come, the power
- To punish or forgive in one we shall be slower.

LXXXV

- Clear, placid Leman ' thy contrasted lake, With the wild world I dwelt in, is a
- thing Which warns me with its stillness to forsake
- Earth's troubled waters for a purer spring. 800
- This quiet sail is as a noiseless wing
- To waft me from distraction; once I loved
- Torn ocean's roar, but thy soft murmuring
- Sounds sweet as if a Sister's voice reproved,
- That I with stern delights should e'er have been so moved.

LXXXVI

- It is the hush of night, and all between
- Thy margin and the mountains, dusk, yet clear,
- Mellow'd and mingling, yet distinctly seen,
- Save darken'd Jura, whose capt heights appear
- Precipitously steep; and drawing near,
- There breathes a living fragrance from the shore, 811
- Of flowers yet fresh with childhood; on the ear
- Drops the light drip of the suspended oar,
- Or chirps the grasshopper one good-night carol more; —

LXXXVII

- He is an evening reveller, who makes
- His life an infancy, and sings his fill; -
- At intervals, some bird from out the brakes
- Starts into voice a moment, then is still.
- There seems a floating whisper on the hill,
- But that is fancy, for the starlight dews
- All silently their tears of love instil, 821 Weeping themselves away, till they infuse
- Deep into Nature's breast the spirit of her hues.

LXXXVIII

Ye stars, which are the poetry of heaven !

- If in your bright leaves we would read the fate
- Of men and empires, 't is to be forgiven,

That in our aspirations to be great,

Our destinies o'erleap their mortal state, And claim a kindred with you; for ye are

A beauty and a mystery, and create 830

In us such love and reverence from afar

That fortune, fame, power, life, have named themselves a star.

LXXXIX

- All heaven and earth are still though not in sleep,
- But breathless, as we grow when feeling most;
- And silent, as we stand in thoughts too deep: —
- All heaven and earth are still. From the high host
- Of stars to the lull'd lake and mountaincoast,
- All is concentred in a life intense,

Where not a beam nor air nor leaf is lost, But hath a part of being, and a sense $40

Of that which is of all Creator and defence

$\mathbf{x}\mathbf{c}$

Then stirs the feeling infinite, so felt

In solutude where we are least alone;

- A truth, which through our being then doth melt
- And purifies from self: it is a tone,
- The soul and source of music, which makes known

Eternal harmony, and sheds a charm,

Like to the fabled Cytherea's zone,

- Binding all things with beauty; —'t would disarm
- The spectre Death, had he substantial power to harm. 850

XCI

Not vainly did the early Persian make

His altar the high places and the peak

Of earth-o'ergazing mountains, and thus take

A fit and unwall'd temple, there to seek

- The Spirit, in whose honour shrines are weak
- Uprear'd of human hands. Come, and compare

- Columns and idol-dwellings, Goth or Greek,
- With Nature's realms of worship, earth and air,
- Nor fix on fond abodes to circumscribe thy pray'r !

XCII

- The sky is changed ! and such a change ! Oh mght, 860
- And storm, and darkness, ye are wondrous strong,
- Yet lovely in your strength, as is the light
- Of a dark eye in woman ! Far along,
- From peak to peak the rattling crags among,
- Leaps the live thunder ! Not from one lone cloud,
- But every mountain now hath found a tongue,
- And Jura answers, through her misty shroud,
- Back to the joyous Alps who call to her aloud !

XCIII

- And this is in the night. Most glorious might '
- Thou wert not sent for slumber! let me be 870
- A sharer in thy fierce and far delight,
- A portion of the tempest and of thee !
- How the lit lake shines, a phosphoric sea,
- And the big rain comes dancing to the earth !
- And now again 't is black, and now, the glee
- Of the loud hills shakes with its mountain-mirth,
- As if they did rejoice o'er a young earthquake's birth.

XCIV

- Now, where the swift Rhone cleaves his way between
- Heights which appear as lovers who have parted
- In hate, whose mining depths so intervene $$$0
- That they can meet no more, though broken-hearted !

Though in their souls, which thus each other thwarted,

Love was the very root of the fond rage

- Which blighted their life's bloom and then departed —
- Itself expired, but leaving them an age
- Of years all winters, war within themselves to wage: ---

xcv

- Now, where the quick Rhone thus hath cleft his way,
- The mightiest of the storms hath ta'en his stand:
- For here, not one, but many, make their play,
- And fling their thunder-bolts from hand to hand, 890
- Flashing and cast around. Of all the band,
- The brightest through these parted hills hath fork'd

His lightnings, as if he did understand,

That in such gaps as desolation work'd,

There the hot shaft should blast whatever therein lurk'd.

XCVI

- Sky, mountains, river, winds, lake, lightnings ! ye,
- With night, and clouds, and thunder, and a soul
- To make these felt and feeling, well may be
- Things that have made me watchful; the far roll
- Of your departing voices, is the knoll 900
- Of what in me is sleepless, if I rest.
- But where of ye, oh tempests, is the goal?
- Are ye like those within the human breast,
- Or do ye find at length, like eagles, some high nest?

xcvii

Could I embody and unbosom now

- That which is most within me, could I wreak
- My thoughts upon expression, and thus throw
- Soul, heart, mind, passions, feelings, strong or weak,
- All that I would have sought, and all I seek,
- Bear, know, feel and yet breathe into one word, 910
- And that one word were Lightning, I would speak;

But as it is, I live and die unheard,

With a most voiceless thought, sheathing it as a sword.

XCVIII

- The morn is up again, the dewy morn,
- With breath all incense and with cheek all bloom,
- Laughing the clouds away with playful scorn,
- And living as if earth contain'd no tomb, —

And glowing into day. We may resume The march of our existence; and thus I, Still on thy shores, fair Leman! may find room 920

And food for meditation, nor pass by

Much that may give us pause if ponder'd fittingly.

XCIX

- Clarens, sweet Clarens, birthplace of deep Love!
- Thine air is the young breath of passionate thought,
- Thy trees take root in Love; the snows above,
- The very Glaciers have his colours caught,
- And sunset into rose-hues sees them wrought
- By rays which sleep there lovingly: the rocks,
- The permanent crags, tell here of Love, who sought
- In them a refuge from the worldly shocks, 930
- Which stir and sting the soul with hope that woos, then mocks.

С

- Clarens! by heavenly feet thy paths are trod, ---
- Undying Love's, who here ascends a throne
- To which the steps are mountains; where the god

Is a pervading life and light, — so shown Not on those summits solely, nor alone

In the still cave and forest; o'er the flower

His eye is sparkling and his breath hath blown,

His soft and summer breath, whose tender power

Passes the strength of storms in their most desolate hour. 940 CI

- All things are here of him; from the black pines
- Which are his shade on high, and the loud roar
- Of torrents where he listeneth, to the vines
- Which slope his green path downward to the shore,
- Where the bow'd waters meet him, and adore,
- Kissing his feet with murmurs; and the wood,
- The covert of old trees with trunks all hoar,
- But light leaves, young as joy, stands where it stood,
- Offering to him and his a populous soltude, —

CII

- A populous solitude of bees and birds, 950
- And fary-form'd and many-colour'd things,
- Who worship him with notes more sweet than words,
- And innocently open their glad wings,
- Fearless and full of life: the gush of springs,
- And fall of lofty fountains, and the bend
- Of stirring branches, and the bud which brings
- The swiftest thought of beauty, here extend,
- Mingling, and made by Love, unto one mighty end.

CIII

- He who hath loved not, here would learn that lore,
- And make his heart a spirit; he who knows 960

That tender mystery, will love the more,

- For this is Love's recess, where vain men's woes
- And the world's waste have driven him far from those,
- For 't is his nature to advance or die;
- He stands not still, but or decays or grows
- Into a boundless blessing, which may vie With the immortal lights in its eternity !

CIV

- 'T was not for fiction chose Rousseau this spot,
- Peopling it with affections; but he found

- It was the scene which passion must allot To the mind's purified beings; 't was the
- ground 971 Where early Love his Psyche's zone un-
- bound,

And hallow'd it with loveliness 'T is lone,

- And wonderful, and deep, and hath a sound,
- And sense, and sight of sweetness; here the Rhone
- Hath spread himself a couch, the Alps have rear'd a throne.

cv

- Lausanne and Ferney, ye have been the abodes
- Of names which unto you bequeath'd a name;
- Mortals, who sought and found, by dangerous roads,
- A path to perpetuity of fame . 980
- They were gigantic minds, and their steep aim

Was, Titan-like, on daring doubts to pile

- Thoughts which should call down thunder and the flame
- Of Heaven, again assail'd, if Heaven the while
- On man and man's research could deign do more than smile.

CVI

The one was fire and fickleness, a child,

- Most mutable in wishes, but in mind
- A wit as various, gay, grave, sage, or wild, —
- Historian, bard, philosopher, combined.
- He multiplied himself among mankind,
- The Proteus of their talents; but his own
- Breathed most in ridicule, which, as the wind, 992
- Blew where it listed, laying all things prone, —
- Now to o'erthrow a fool, and now to shake a throne.

CVII

- The other, deep and slow, exhausting thought,
- And hiving wisdom with each studious year,
- In meditation dwelt, with learning wrought,
- And shaped his weapon with an edge severe.

- Sapping a solemn creed with solemn sneer;
- The lord of irony, that master-spell,
- Which stung his foes to wrath which grew from fear,
- And doom'd him to the zealot's ready Hell,
- Which answers to all doubts so eloquently well.

CVIII

- Yet, peace be with their ashes for by them,
- If mented, the penalty is paid;
- It is not ours to judge, far less condemn;
- The hour must come when such things shall be made
- Known unto all, or hope and dread allay'd

By slumber, on one pillow, - in the dust,

Which, thus much we are sure, must lie decay'd; 1010

And when it shall revive, as is our trust,

T will be to be forgiven, or suffer what is just.

CIX

- But let me quit man's works again to read
- H18 Maker's, spread around me, and suspend
- This page, which from my reveries I feed

Until it seems prolonging without end.

- The clouds above me to the white Alps tend,
- And I must pierce them, and survey whate'er

May be permitted, as my steps I bend

- To their most great and growing region, where 1020
- The earth to her embrace compels the powers of air

СХ

Italia! too, Italia! looking on thee,

Full flashes on the soul the light of ages,

Since the fierce Carthaginian almost won thee,

To the last halo of the chiefs and sages

Who glorify thy consecrated pages;

- Thou wert the throne and grave of empires; still
- The fount, at which the panting mind assuages

- Her thirst of knowledge, quaffing there her fill,
- Flows from the eternal source of Rome's imperial hill. 1030

CXI

- Thus far have I proceeded in a theme
- Renew'd with no kind auspices: --- to feel
- We are not what we have been, and to deem
- We are not what we should be, and to steel
- The heart against itself; and to conceal,
- With a proud caution, love, or hate, or aught, -
- Passion or feeling, purpose, grief, or zeal, ---

Which is the tyrant spirit of our thought,

Is a stern task of soul; — no matter — it is taught.

CXII

And for these words, thus woven into song, 1040

It may be that they are a harmless wile, — The colouring of the scenes which fleet

- along,
- Which I would seize, in passing, to beguile
- My breast, or that of others, for a while. Fame is the thirst of youth, — but I am not
- So young as to regard men's frown or smile

As loss or guerdon of a glorious lot;

I stood and stand alone, — remember'd or forgot.

CXIII

- I have not loved the world, nor the world me;
- I have not flatter'd its rank breath, nor bow'd 1050
- To its idolatries a patient knee,
- Nor coin'd my cheek to smiles, nor cried aloud
- In worship of an echo, in the crowd
- They could not deem me one of such: I stood
- Among them, but not of them; in a shroud
- Of thoughts which were not their thoughts, and still could,
- Had I not filed my mind, which thus itself subdued.

CXIV

- I have not loved the world, nor the world me, —
- But let us part fair foes; I do believe,
- Though I have found them not, that there may be 1000
- Words which are things, hopes which will not deceive,
- And virtues which are merciful nor weave
- Snares for the failing: I would also deem
- O'er others' griefs that some sincerely grieve;
- That two, or one, are almost what they seem,
- That goodness is no name and happiness no dream.

cxv

- My daughter ! with thy name this song begun —
- My daughter ! with thy name thus much shall end —
- I see thee not, I hear thee not, but none
- Can be so wrapt in thee; thou art the friend 1070
- To whom the shadows of far years extend:
- Albeit my brow thou never shouldst behold,
- My voice shall with thy future visions blend,
- And reach into thy heart, when mine is cold, —
- A token and a tone even from thy father's mould.

CXVI

To aid thy mind's development, to watch Thy dawn of little joys, to sit and see

Almost thy very growth, to view thee catch

Knowledge of objects, wonders yet to thee!

To hold thee lightly on a gentle knee,

- This, it should seem, was not reserved for me;

Yet this was in my nature: — as it is,

I know not what is there, yet something like to this.

CXVII

- Yet, though dull Hate as duty should be taught,
- I know that thou wilt love me; though my name

- Should be shut from thee, as a spell still fraught
- With desolation, and a broken claim;
- Though the grave closed between us, 't were the same,
- I know that thou wilt love me; though to drain 1090
- My blood from out thy being were an aim
- And an attainment, all would be in vain, —
- Still thou wouldst love me, still that more than life retain.

CXVIII

- The child of love, though born in bitterness
- And nurtured in convulsion, of thy sire
- These were the elements, and thine no less.
- As yet such are around thee, but thy fire
- Shall be more temper'd and thy hope far higher.
- Sweet be thy cradled slumbers ! O'er the sea,
- And from the mountains where I now respire, 1100
- Fain would I waft such blessing upon thee,
- As, with a sigh, I deem thou mightst have been to me !

CANTO THE FOURTH

Visto ho Toscana, Lombardia, Romagna, Quel Monte che divide, e quel che serra Italia, e un mare e l'altro, che la bagna. AElosro, Satura un.

VENICE, January 2, 1818.

TO JOHN HOBHOUSE, ESQ., A. M, F. R. S., &C

My dear Hobhouse, --

After an interval of eight years between the composition of the first and last cantos of Childe Harold, the conclusion of the poem is about to be submitted to the public. In parting with so old a friend, it is not extraordinary that I should recur to one still older and better, — to one who has beheld the birth and death of the other, and to whom I am far more indebted for the social advantages of an enlightened friendship, than — though not ungrateful — I can, or could be, to Childe Harold, for any public favour reflected through the poem on the poet, — to one, whom I have known long, and accompanied far, whom I have found wakeful over my sickness and kind in my sorrow, glad in my prosperity and firm in my adversity, true in counsel and trusty in peril, — to a friend often tried and never found wanting, — to yourself.

In so doing, I recur from fiction to truth, and in dedicating to you, in its complete or at least concluded state, a poetical work which is the longest, the most thoughtful and comprehensive of my compositions, I wish to do honour to myself by the record of many years' intimacy with a man of learning, of talent, of steadiness, and of honour. It is not for minds like ours to give or to receive flattery, yet the praises of succerity have ever been permitted to the voice of friendship; and it is not for you, nor even for others, but to relieve a heart which has not elsewhere, or lately, been so much accustomed to the encounter of good-will as to withstand the shock firmly, that I thus attempt to commemorate your good qualities, or rather the advantages which I have derived from their exertion Even the recurrence of the date of this letter, the anniversary of the most unfortunate day of my past existence, but which cannot poison my future while I retain the resource of your friendship and of my own faculties, will henceforth have a more agreeable recollection for both, masmuch as it will remind us of this my attempt to thank you for an indefatigable regard, such as few men have experienced, and no one could experience without thinking better of his species and of himself.

It has been our fortune to traverse together, at various periods, the countries of chivalry, history, and fable-Spain, Greece, Asia Minor, and Italy, and what Athens and Constantinople were to us a few years ago, Venice and Rome have been more recently. The poem also, or the pilgrim, or both, have accompanied me from first to last; and perhaps it may be a pardonable vanity which induces me to reflect with complacency on a composition which in some degree connects me with the spot where it was produced, and the objects it would fain describe; and however unworthy it may be deemed of those magical and memorable abodes, however short it may fall of our distant conceptions and immediate impressions, yet as a mark of respect for what is venerable and of feeling for what is glorious, it has been to me a source of pleasure in the production, and I part with it with a kind of regret which I hardly suspected that events could have left me for imaginary objects.

With regard to the conduct of the last canto, there will be found less of the pilgrim than in any of the preceding, and that little slightly, if at all, separated from the author speaking

The fact is, that I had bein his own person come weary of drawing a line which every one seemed determined not to perceive. Like the Chinese in Goldsmith's Citizen of the World. whom nobody would believe to be a Chinese, it was in vain that I asserted, and imagined that I had drawn, a distinction between the author and the pilgrim; and the very anxiety to preserve this difference, and disappointment at finding it unavailing, so far crushed my efforts in the composition, that I determined to abandon it altogether - and have done so. The opinions which have been, or may be, formed on that subject, are now a matter of indifference, the work is to depend on itself, and not on the writer, and the author, who has no resources in his own mind beyond the reputation. transient or permanent, which is to arise from his literary efforts, deserves the fate of authors.

In the course of the following canto it was my intention, either in the text or in the notes, to have touched upon the present state of Italian literature, and perhaps of manners. But the text, within the limits I proposed, I soon found hardly sufficient for the labyrinth of external objects, and the consequent reflections, and for the whole of the notes, excepting a few of the shortest, I am indebted to yourself, and these were necessarily limited to the elucidation of the text

It is also a delicate, and no very grateful task, to dissert upon the literature and manners of a nation so dissimilar, and requires an attention and impartiality which would induce us - though perhaps no inattentive observers, nor ignorant of the language or customs of the people amongst whom we have recently abode - to distrust, or at least defer our judgment, and more narrowly examine our information. The state of literary, as well as political party, appears to run, or to have run, so high, that for a stranger to steer impartially between them is next to impossible. It may be enough, then, at least for my purpose, to quote from their own beautiful language - 'Mi pare che in un paese tutto poetico, che vanta la lingua la più nobile ed insieme la più dolce, tutte tutte le vie diverse si possono tentare, e che sınche la patria dı Alfieri e di Monti non ha perduto l'antico valore, in tutte essa dovrebbe essere la prima.' Italy has great names still : Canova, Monti, Ugo, Foscolo, Pindemonte, Visconti, Morelli, Cicognara, Albrizzi, Mezzofanti, Mai, Mustoxidi, Aglietti, and Vacca, will secure to the present generation an honourable place in most of the departments of Art, Science, and Belles Lettres, and in some the very highest; Europe — the World — has but one Canova

It has been somewhere said by Alfieri, that 'La pianta uomo nasce più robusta in Italia che in qualunque altra terra — e che gli stessi atroci delitti che vi si commettono ne sono una prova.' Without subscribing to the latter part of his proposition, a dangerous doctrine, the truth of which may be disputed on better grounds, namely, that the Italians are in no respect more ferocious than their neighbours, that man must be wilfully blind, or ignorantly heedless, who is not struck with the extraordinary capacity of this people, or, if such a word be admissible, their capabilities, the facility of their acquisitions, the rapidity of their conceptions. the fire of their genius, their sense of beauty, and, amidst all the disadvantages of repeated revolutions, the desolation of battles, and the despair of ages, their still unquenched 'longing after immortality,'- the immor-And when we ourtality of independence selves, in riding round the walls of Rome, heard the simple lament of the labourers' chorus, 'Roma! Roma! Roma! Roma non è più come era prima,' it was difficult not to contrast this melancholy dirge with the bacchanal roar of the songs of exultation still yelled from the London taverns, over the carnage of Mont St Jean, and the betrayal of Genoa, of Italy, of France, and of the world, by men whose conduct you yourself have exposed in a work worthy of the better days of our history. For me, -

> 'Non movero mai corda Ove la turba di sue ciance assorda '

What Italy has gained by the late transfer of nations, it were useless for Englishmen to enquire, till it becomes ascertaned that England has acquired something more than a permanent army and a suspended Habeas Corpus it is enough for them to look at home. For what they have done abroad, and especially in the South, 'Verily they will have their reward,' and at no very distant period.

Wishing you, my dear Hobhouse, a safe and agreeable return to that country whose real welfare can be dearer to none than to yourself, I dedicate to you this poem in its completed state; and repeat once more how truly I am ever,

Your obliged And affectionate friend, Byron.

r

I STOOD in Venice on the Bridge of Sighs, A palace and a prison on each hand;

- I saw from out the wave her structures
- As from the stroke of the enchanter's wand:
- A thousand years their cloudy wings expand

Around me, and a dying Glory smiles

O'er the far times, when many a subject land

Look'd to the winged Lion's marble piles, Where Venice sate in state, throned on her hundred isles !

п

- She looks a sea Cybele, fresh from ocean, 10
- Rising with her tiara of proud towers
- At airy distance, with majestic motion,
- A ruler of the waters and their powers
- And such she was; -- her daughters had their dowers
- From spoils of nations, and the exhaustless East
- Pour'd in her lap all gems in sparkling showers:

In purple was she robed, and of her feast

Monarchs partook, and deem'd their dignity increased.

III

In Venice Tasso's echoes are no more, 19 And silent rows the songless gondolier;

Her palaces are crumbling to the shore,

- And music meets not always now the ear; Those days are gone but Beauty still is
- Those days are gone, but Beauty still is here,
- States fall, arts fade, but Nature doth not die,
- Nor yet forget how Venuce once was dear,
- The pleasant place of all festivity,

IV

But unto us she hath a spell beyond

- Her name in story, and her long array
- Of mighty shadows, whose dim forms despond 30

Above the dogeless city's vanish'd sway: Ours is a trophy which will not decay

- With the Rialto; Shylock and the Moor
- And Pierre can not be swept or worn away,
- The keystones of the arch ! though all were o'er,

For us repeopled were the solitary shore.

v

The beings of the mind are not of clay; Essentially immortal, they create And multiply in us a brighter ray

The revel of the earth, the masque of Italy !

- And more beloved existence. That which Fate 40
- Prohibits to dull life in this our state Of mortal bondage, by these spirits sup-
- plied, Fırst exiles, then replaces what we hate; Watering the heart whose early flowers have died,
- And with a fresher growth replenishing the void.

Such is the refuge of our youth and age,

- The first from Hope, the last from Vacancy;
- And this worn feeling peoples many a page,
- And, may be, that which grows beneath mine eye.
- Yet there are things whose strong reality
- Outshines our fairy-land; in shape and hues 51
- More beautiful than our fantastic sky,
- And the strange constellations which the Muse
- O'er her wild universe is skilful to diffuse:

VII

- I saw or dream'd of such, but let them go, —
- They came like truth, and disappear'd like dreams;
- And whatsoe'er they were are now but so.
- I could replace them if I would; still teems
- My mind with many a form which aptly seems
- Such as I sought for, and at moments found: 60

Let these toogo, for waking Reason deems Such over-weening phantasies unsound,

And other voices speak and other sights surround.

VIII

- I've taught me other tongues, and m strange eyes
- Have made me not a stranger to the mind
- Which is itself, no changes bring surprise;
- Nor is it harsh to make, nor hard to find
- A country with ay, or without mankind;

- Yet was I born where men are proud to be,
- Not without cause; and should I leave behind 70

The inviolate island of the sage and free, And seek me out a nome by a remoter sea,

\mathbf{IX}

- Perhaps I loved it well; and should I lay
- My ashes in a soil which is not mine,
- My spirit shall resume it if we may
- Unbodied choose a sanctuary I twine
- My hopes of being remember'd in my line
- With my land's language: if too fond and far
- These aspirations in their scope incline, —
- If my fame should be, as my fortunes are, 80
- Of hasty growth and blight, and dull Oblivion bar

х

- My name from out the temple where the dead
- Are honour'd by the nations let it be,
- And light the laurels on a loftier head !
- And be the Spartan's epitaph on me,
- 'Sparta hath many a worthier son than he.'
 - Meantime I seek no sympathies, nor need;
 - The thorns which I have reap'd are of the tree
 - I planted, they have torn me and 1 bleed:
- I should have known what fruit would spring from such a seed. 90

XI

The spouseless Adriatic mourns her lord; And annual marriage now no more renew'd,

- The Bucentaur lies rotting unrestored,
- Neglected garment of her widowhood !
- St. Mark yet sees his lion where he stood
- Stand, but in mockery of his wither'd power,
- Over the proud Place where an Emperor sued,
- And monarchs gazed and envied in the hour
- When Venice was a queen with an unequall'd dower.

vı

XII

- The Suabian sued, and now the Austrian reigns — 100
- An Emperor tramples where an Emperor knelt;
- Kingdoms are shrunk to provinces, and chains
- Clank over sceptred cities; nations melt
- From power's high pinnacle, when they have felt
- The sunshine for a while, and downward go
- Like lauwine loosen'd from the mountain's belt; --
- Oh, for one hour of blind old Dandolo,
- Th' octogenarian chief, Byzantium's conquering foe !

$\mathbf{x}\mathbf{m}$

- Before St. Mark still glow his steeds of brass,
- Their gilded collars glittering in the sun; 110
- But 15 not Doria's menace come to pass?
- Are they not bridled ? Venice, lost and won,
- Her thirteen hundred years of freedom done,
- Sinks, like a sea-weed, into whence she rose !
- Better be whelm'd beneath the waves, and shun,
- Even in destruction's depth, her foreign foes,
- From whom submission wrings an infamous repose.

XIV

In youth she was all glory, a new Tyre,

Her very by-word sprung from victory,

- The 'Planter of the Lion,' which through fire 120
- And blood she bore o'er subject earth and sea;
- Though making many slaves, herself still free,
- And Europe's bulwark 'gainst the Ottomite; —
- Witness Troy's rival, Candia ! Vouch it, ye
- Immortal waves that saw Lepanto's fight!
- For ye are names no time nor tyranny can blight.

xv

- Statues of glass all shiver'd the long file
- Of her dead Doges are declined to dust;
- But where they dwelt, the vast and sumptuous pile
- Bespeaks the pageant of their splendid trust; 130
- Their sceptre broken, and their sword in rust,
- Have yielded to the stranger: empty halls,
- Thin streets, and foreign aspects, such as must
- Too oft remind her who and what enthralls,
- Have flung a desolate cloud o'er Venice' lovely walls.

XVI

When Athens' armies fell at Syracuse,

- And fetter'd thousands bore the yoke of war,
- Redemption rose up in the Attic Muse,
- Her voice their only ransom from afar:
- See! as they chant the tragic hymn, the car 140

Of the o'ermaster'd victor stops, the reins Fall from his hands — his idle scimitar

- Starts from its belt he rends his captive's chains,
- And bids him thank the bard for freedom and his strams.

XVII

- Thus, Venice, if no stronger claim were thine,
- Were all thy proud historic deeds forgot,
- Thy choral memory of the Bard divine,
- Thy love of Tasso, should have out the knot
- Which ties thee to thy tyrants; and thy lot
- Is shameful to the nations, most of all, 150
- Albion, to thee: the Ocean queen should not

Abandon Ocean's children; in the fall

Of Venice think of thine, despite thy watery wall.

XVIII

I loved her from my boyhood; she to me Was as a fairy city of the heart,

- Rising like water-columns from the sea, Of joy the sojourn, and of wealth the mart:
- And Otway, Radcliffe, Schiller, Shakspeare's art,
- Had stamp'd her image in me; and even so.
- Although I found her thus, we did not part, 160

Perchance even dearer in her day of woe

Than when she was a boast, a marvel, and a show.

XIX

I can repeople with the past — and of

- The present there is still for eye and thought,
- And meditation chasten'd down, enough,
- And more, it may be, than I hoped or sought;
- And of the happiest moments which were wrought
- Within the web of my existence, some
- From thee, fair Venice, have their colours caught.
- There are some feelings Time cannot benumb, 170
- Nor Torture shake, or mine would now be cold and dumb.

XX

- But from their nature will the tannen grow
- Loftiest on loftiest and least shelter'd rocks,

Rooted in barrenness, where nought below

- Of soil supports them 'gainst the Alpine shocks
- Of eddying storms; yet springs the trunk, and mocks
- The howling tempest, till its height and frame
- Are worthy of the mountains from whose blocks

Of bleak, gray granite into life it came,

And grew a giant tree; — the mind may grow the same. 180

λXI

Existence may be borne, and the deep root Of life and sufferance make its firm abode In bare and desolated bosoms mute

The camel labours with the heaviest load,

And the wolf dies in silence, - not bestow'd In vain should such example be; if they, Things of ignoble or of savage mood,

Endure and shrink not, we of nobler clay May temper it to bear, — it is but for a day.

XXII

- All suffering doth destroy, or is destroy'd 190
- Even by the sufferer; and, in each event,
- Ends: Some, with hope replenish'd and rebuoy'd,
- Return to whence they came with like intent,
- And weave their web again; some, bow'd and bent,
- Wax gray and ghastly, withering ere their time,
- And perish with the reed on which they leant;
- Some seek devotion, toil, war, good or crime,
- According as their souls were form'd to sink or climb.

XXIII

- But ever and anon of griefs subdued
- There comes a token like a scorpion's sting, 200
- Scarce seen, but with fresh bitterness imbued;
- And slight withal may be the things which bring
- Back on the heart the weight which it would fing
- Aside for ever. it may be a sound, -
- A tone of music, summer's eve, or spring,
- A flower, the wind, the ocean, which shall wound,
- Striking the electric chain wherewith we are darkly bound;

XXIV

- And how and why we know not, nor can trace
- Home to its cloud this lightning of the mind,
- But feel the shock renew'd, nor can efface 210
- The blight and blackening which it leaves behind,

Which out of things familiar, undesign'd,

- When least we deem of such, calls up to view
- The spectres whom no exorcism can bind,

The cold — the changed — perchance the dead — anew,

The mourn'd, the loved, the lost — too many ! — yet how few !

XXV

- But my soul wanders; I demand it back
- To meditate amongst decay, and stand
- A ruin amidst ruins; there to track
- Fall'n states and buried greatness, o'er a land 220
- Which was the mightiest in its old command,

And is the loveliest, and must ever be

- The master-mould of Nature's heavenly hand,
- Wherein were cast the heroic and the free,
- The beautiful, the brave the lords of earth and sea,

XXVI

The commonwealth of kings, the men of Rome !

And even since, and now, fair Italy,

Thou art the garden of the world, the home 228

Of all Art yields, and Nature can decree; Even in thy desert, what is like to thee? Thy very weeds are beautiful, thy waste More rich than other climes' fertility;

Thy wreck a glory, and thy ruin graced With an immaculate charm which cannot be defaced.

XXVII

The moon is up, and yet it is not night — Sunset divides the sky with her, a sea Of glory streams along the Alpine height Of blue Friuli's mountains; Heaven is free From clouds, but of all colours seems to be

Melted to one vast Iris of the West, 240

Where the Day joins the past Eternity;

- While, on the other hand, meek Dian's crest
- Floats through the azure air, an island of the blest !

XXVIII

A single star is at her side, and reigns

- With her o'er half the lovely heaven; but still
- Yon sunny sea heaves brightly, and remains

- Roll'd o'er the peak of the far Rhætian hill,
- As Day and Night contending were, until Nature reclaim'd her order. gently flows The deep-dyed Brenta, where their hues instil 250
- The odorous purple of a new-born rose,
- Which streams upon her stream, and glass'd within it glows,

XXIX

Fill'd with the face of heaven, which from afar

Comes down upon the waters; all its hues, From the rich sunset to the rising star,

Their magical variety diffuse.

- And now they change; a paler shadow strews
- Its mantle o'er the mountains; parting day
- Dies like the dolphin, whom each pang imbues

With a new colour as it gasps away, 260 The last still loveliest, till — 't is gone — and all is gray.

$\mathbf{X}\mathbf{X}\mathbf{X}$

There is a tomb in Arqua; — rear'd in air,

Pillar'd in their sarcophagus, repose

The bones of Laura's lover. here repair

Many familiar with his well-sung woes,

The pilgrims of his genius. He arose

- To raise a language, and his land reclaim From the dull yoke of her barbaric foes;
- Watering the tree which bears his lady's name
- With his melodious tears, he gave himself to fame 270

XXXI

- They keep his dust in Arqua where he died,
- The mountain-village where his latter days
- Went down the vale of years; and 't is their pride ---
- An honest pride, and let it be their praise —
- To offer to the passing stranger's gaze
- His mansion and his sepulchre; both plain
- And venerably simple, such as raise

A feeling more accordant with his strain Than if a pyramid form'd his monumental fane.

XXXII

- And the soft quiet hamlet where he dwelt 280
- Is one of that complexion which seems made

For those who their mortality have felt,

- And sought a refuge from their hopes decay'd
- In the deep umbrage of a green hill's shade,

Which shows a distant prospect far away Of busy cities, now in vain display'd

For they can lure no further; and the ray Of a bright sun can make sufficient holiday,

XXXIII

- Developing the mountains, leaves, and flowers,
- And shining in the brawling brook, where-by, 290
- Clear as its current, glide the sauntering hours
- With a calm languor, which, though to the eve
- Idlesse it seem, hath its morality.
- If from society we learn to live,
- 'T is solitude should teach us how to die;

It hath no flatterers; vanity can give

No hollow aid; alone — man with his God must strive:

XXXIV

Or, it may be. with demons, who impair The strength of better thoughts, and seek their prey

- In melancholy bosoms, such as were 300 Of moody texture from their earliest day
- And loved to dwell in darkness and dismay,
- Deeming themselves predestined to a doom

Which is not of the pangs that pass away;

- Making the sun like blood, the earth a tomb,
- The tomb a hell, and hell itself a murkier gloom.

XXXV

Ferrara, in thy wide and grass-grown streets,

Whose symmetry was not for solitude.

- There seems as 't were a curse upon the seats
- Of former sovereigns, and the antique brood 310

- Of Este, which for many an age made good
- Its strength within thy walls, and was of yore

Patron or tyrant, as the changing mood

- Of petty power impell'd, of those who wore
- The wreath which Dante's brow alone had worn before.

XXXVI

And Tasso 1s their glory and their shame:

Hark to his strain and then survey his

- cell ! And see how dearly earn'd Torquato's fame.
- And where Alfonso bade his poet dwell.
- The miserable despot could not quell 320
- The insulted mind he sought to quench, and blend
- With the surrounding maniacs, in the hell
- Where he had plunged it. Glory without end

Scatter'd the clouds away, and on that name attend

XXXVII

- The tears and praises of all time; while thine
- Would rot in its oblivion in the sink
- Of worthless dust which from thy boasted line

Is shaken into nothing - but the link

- Thou formest in his fortunes bids u. think
- Of thy poor malice, naming thee with scorn 330
- Alfonso ! how thy ducal pageants shrink From thee ! if in another station born,
- Scarce fit to be the slave of him thou madest to mourn. —

XXXVIII

- Thou ' form'd to eat, and be despised, and die,
- Even as the beasts that perish, save that thou
- Hadst a more splendid trough and wider sty;
- He ' with a glory round his furrow'd brow,
- Which emanated then, and dazzles now,

In face of all his foes, the Cruscan quire,

And Boileau, whose rash envy could allow 349

- No strain which shamed his country's creaking lyre,
- That whetstone of the teeth monotony in wire !

XXXIX

- Peace to Torquato's injured shade ! 't was his
- In life and death to be the mark where Wrong
- Aim'd with her poison'd arrows, but to miss.
- Oh, victor unsurpass'd in modern song !
- Each year brings forth its millions; but how long
- The tide of generations shall roll on,
- And not the whole combined and countless throng
- Compose a mind like thine? Though all in one 350
- Condensed their scatter'd rays, they would not form a sun.

XL

Great as thou art, yet parallel'd by those,

- Thy countrymen, before thee born to shine.
- The Bards of Hell and Chivalry: first rose
- The Tuscan father's comedy divine;
- Then, not unequal to the Florentine
- The southern Scott, the minstrel who call'd forth
- A new creation with his magic line,
- And, like the Ariosto of the North,
- Sang ladye-love and war, romance and knightly worth. 360

XLI

The lightning rent from Ariosto's bust

The iron crown of laurel's mimic'd leaves;

Nor was the ominous element unjust,

- For the true laurel-wreath which Glory weaves
- Is of the tree no bolt of thunder cleaves, And the false semblance but disgraced his brow;
- Yet still, if fondly Superstition grieves,

Know, that the lightning sanctifies below Whate'er it strikes; — yon head is doubly sacred now.

\mathbf{X} LII

Italia ! oh, Italia ! thou who hast 370 The fatal gift of beauty, which became

- A funeral dower of present woes and past,
- On thy sweet brow is sorrow plough'd by shame,
- And annals graved in characters of flame.
- Oh, God ' that thou wert in thy nakedness
- Less lovely or more powerful, and couldst claim
- Thy right, and awe the robbers back, who press
- To shed thy blood and drink the tears of thy distress;

XLIII

- Then mightst thou more appal; or, less desired,
- Be homely and be peaceful, undeplored
- For thy destructive charms; then, still untired, 381
- Would not be seen the armèd torrents pour'd
- Down the deep Alps; nor would the hostile horde
- Of many-nation'd spoilers from the Po
- Quaff blood and water; nor the stranger's sword
- Be thy sad weapon of defence, and so,
- Victor or vanquish'd, thou the slave of friend or foe.

XLIV

- Wandering in youth, I traced the path of him,
- The Roman friend of Rome's least-mortal mind,
- The friend of Tully. As my bark did skim 390
- The bright blue waters with a fanning wind,

Came Megara before me, and behind

- Ægina lay, Piræus on the right,
- And Corinth on the left; I lay reclined
- Along the prow, and saw all these unite

In run, even as he had seen the desolate sight; ---

XLV

For Time hath not rebuilt them, but uprear'd

Barbaric dwellings on their shatter'd site,

- Which only make more mourn'd and more endear'd
- The few last rays of their far-scatter'd light 400

- And the crush'd relics of their vanish'd might
- The Roman saw these tombs in his own age,

These sepulchres of cities which excite Sad wonder, and his yet surviving page

The moral lesson bears, drawn from such pilgrimage.

XLVI

That page is now before me, and on mine His country's run added to the mass

- Of perish'd states he mourn'd in their decline,
- And I in desolation. All that was
- Of then destruction is, and now, alas ' 410
- Rome Rome imperial, bows her to the storm,
- In the same dust and blackness, and we pass

The skeleton of her Titanic form,

Wrecks of another world whose ashes still are warm.

XLVII

Yet, Italy ! through every other land

- Thy wrongs should ring, and shall, from side to side;
- Mother of Arts, as once of arms; thy hand
- Was then our guardian, and is still our guide;

Parent of our Religion, whom the wide

Nations have knelt to for the keys of heaven! 420

Europe, repentant of her parricide,

- Shall yet redeem thee, and, all backward driven,
- Roll the barbarian tide, and sue to be forgiven.

XLVIII

But Arno wins us to the fair white walls, Where the Etrurian Athens claims and keeps

A softer feeling for her fairy halls.

- Girt by her theatre of hills, she reaps
- Her corn and wine and oil, and Plenty leaps

To laughing life with her redundant horn.

Along the banks where smiling Arno sweeps 430

Was modern Luxury of Commerce born,

And buried Learning rose, redeem'd to a new morn.

XLIX

- There, too, the Goddess loves in stone, and fills
- The air around with beauty. We inhale
- The ambrosial aspect, which, beheld, instils

Part of its immortality; the veil

- Of heaven is half undrawn; within the pale
- We stand, and in that form and face behold
- What mind can make when Nature's self would fail;

And to the fond idolaters of old 440

Envy the innate flash which such a soul could mould.

L

- We gaze and turn away, and know not where,
- Dazzled and drunk with beauty, till the heart
- Reels with its fulness; there for ever there —

Chain'd to the chariot of triumphal Art,

We stand as captives and would not depart

- Away ! -- there need no words nor terms precise,
- The paltry jargon of the marble mart
- Where Pedantry gulls Folly we have eyes:
- Blood, pulse, and breast confirm the Dardan Shepherd's prize. 450

LI

Appear'dst thou not to Paris in this guise?

Or to more deeply blest Anchises ? or,

- In all thy perfect goddess-ship, when lies Before thee thy own vanquish'd Lord of War?
- And gazing in thy face as toward a star,
- Laid on thy lap, his eyes to thee upturn, Feeding on thy sweet cheek; while thy lips are

With lava kisses melting while they burn,

Shower'd on his eyelids, brow, and mouth, as from an urn !

LII

Glowing and circumfused in speechless love, 460

Their full divinity inadequate

That feeling to express or to improve,

- The gods become as mortals, and man's fate
- Has moments like their brightest; but the weight
- Of earth recoils upon us; let it go !

We can recall such visions, and create,

- From what has been or might be, things which grow
- Into thy statue's form and look like gods below.

LIII

I leave to learned fingers and wise hands, The artist and his ape, to teach and tell

- How well his connoisseurship understands
- The graceful bend and the voluptuous swell:
- Let these describe the undescribable;
- I would not their vile breath should crisp the stream
- Wherem that image shall for ever dwell,
- The unruffled mirror of the loveliest dream
- That ever left the sky on the deep soul to beam.

LIV

In Santa Croce's holy precucts lie

Ashes which make it holier, dust which

Even in itself an immortality, 480

Though there were nothing save the past, and this,

The particle of those sublimities

Which have relapsed to chaos: here repose

Angelo's, Alfieri's bones, and his,

The starry Galileo, with his woes;

Here Machiavelli's earth return'd to whence it rose.

LV

- These are four minds, which, like the elements,
- Might furnish forth creation. Italy !
- Time, which hath wrong'd thee with ten thousand rents
- Of thme imperial garment, shall deny,
- And hath denied, to every other sky 491 Spirits which soar from run: — thy decay Is still impregnate with divinity,

Which gilds it with revivifying ray;

Such as the great of yore, Canova is today. LVI

- But where repose the all Etruscan three ---
- Dante, and Petrarch, and, scarce less th they,
- The Bard of Prose, creative spirit, he
- Of the Hundred Tales of love where did they lay
- Their bones, distinguish'd from our common clay 500
- In death as life? Are they resolved to dust,
- And have their country's marbles nought to say ?
- Could not her quarries furnish forth one bust?
- Did they not to her breast their filial earth mtrust?

LVII

Ungrateful Florence ! Dante sleeps afar,

- Like Scipio, buried by the upbraiding shore;
- Thy factions, in their worse than civil war,
- Proscribed the bard whose name for evermore
- Their children's children would in vain adore
- With the remorse of ages; and the crown 510
- Which Petrarch's laureate brow supremely wore,

Upon a far and foreign soil had grown,

His life, his fame, his grave, though rifled — not thine own.

LVIII

Boccaccio to his parent earth bequeath'd His dust; and lies it not her Great

- among, With many a sweet and solemn requiem breathed
- O'er him who form'd the Tuscan's siren tongue ?
- That music in itself, whose sounds are song,
- The poetry of speech? No; even his tomb
- Uptorn must bear the hyæna bigot's wrong, 520
- No more amidst the meaner dead find room,
- Nor claim a passing sigh, because it told for whom '

LIX

- And Santa Croce wants their mighty dust, --
- Yet for this want more noted, as of vore
- The Cæsar's pageant, shorn of Brutus' bust,
- Did but of Rome's best Son remind her more.
- Happier Ravenna! on thy hoary shore,
- Fortress of falling empire, honour'd sleeps
- The immortal exile; Arqua, too, her store
- Of tuneful relics proudly claims and keeps, 530
- While Florence vainly begs her banish'd dead, and weeps.

LX

What is her pyramid of precious stones,

Of porphyry, jasper, agate, and all hues

- Of gem and marble, to encrust the bones
- Of merchant-dukes? The momentary dews
- Which, sparkling to the twilight stars, infuse
- Freshness in the green turf that wraps the dead,
- Whose names are mausoleums of the Muse,
- Are gently prest with far more reverent tread
- Than ever paced the slab which paves the princely head. 540

LXI

- There be more things to greet the heart and eyes
- In Arno's dome of Art's most princely shrine,
- Where Sculpture with her rainbow sister vies;
- There be more marvels yet -- but not for mme;
- For I have been accustom'd to entwine
- My thoughts with Nature rather in the fields,
- Than Art in galleries though a work divine
- Calls for my spirit's homage, yet it yields
- Less than it feels, because the weapon which it wields

LXII

Is of another temper, and I roam By Thrasimene's lake, in the defiles

- Fatal to Roman rashness, more at home; For there the Carthaginian's warlike
- wiles
- Come back before me, as his skill beguiles
- The host between the mountains and the shore,
- Where Courage falls in her despairing files,
- And torrents, swoll'n to rivers with their gore,

Reek through the sultry plain with legions scatter'd o'er,

LXIII

Like to a forest fell'd by mountain winds; And such the storm of battle on this day,

- And such the frenzy, whose convulsion blinds 561
- To all save carnage, that, beneath the fray,

An earthquake reel'd unheededly away ! None felt stern Nature rocking at his feet,

And yawning forth a grave for those who lay

Upon their bucklers for a winding sheet; Such is the absorbing hate when warring nations meet!

LXIV

The Earth to them was as a rolling bark Which bore them to Eternity; they saw The Ocean round, but had no time to mark

- The motions of their vessel; Nature's law,
- In them suspended, reck'd not of the awe Which reigns when mountains tremble,
- and the birds Plunge in the clouds for refuge and with-
- draw From their down-toppling nests; and bellowing herds
- Stumble o'er heaving plains, and man's dread hath no words.

LXV

Far other scene is Thrasimene now;

Her lake a sheet of silver, and her plain Rent by no ravage save the gentle plough; Her aged trees rise thick as once the slam 580

- Lay where their roots are; but a brook hath ta'en —
- A little rill of scanty stream and bed —
- A name of blood from that day's sanguine rain;
- And Sangumetto tells ye where the dead
- Made the earth wet and turn'd the unwilling waters red.

LXVI

But thou, Clitumnus, in thy sweetest wave

Of the most living crystal that was e'er

- The haunt of river nymph, to gaze and lave
- Her limbs where nothing hid them, thou dost rear
- Thy grassy banks whereon the milkwhite steer 590

Grazes, - the purest god of gentle waters,

- And most serene of aspect, and most clear!
- Surely that stream was unprofaned by slaughters —
- A mirror and a bath for Beauty's youngest daughters !

LXVII

And on thy happy shore a Temple still,

Of small and delicate proportion, keeps, Upon a mild declivity of hill,

Its memory of thee; beneath it sweeps

- Thy current's calmness; oft from out it leaps
- The finny darter with the glittering scales, 600
- Who dwells and revels in thy glassy deeps;
- While, chance, some scatter'd water-hly sails
- Down where the shallower wave still tells its bubbling tales.

LXVIII

Pass not unblest the Gennus of the place ! If through the air a zeyhyr more serene Win to the brow, 't is his; and if ye trace Along his margin a more eloquent green, If on the heart the freshness of the scene Sprinkle its coolness, and from the dry dust

Of weary life a moment lave it clean 610 With Nature's baptism, — 't is to him ye must Pay orisons for this suspension of disgust

LXIX

The roar of waters! — from the headlong height

Velino cleaves the wave-worn precipice;

- The fall of waters ! rapid as the light
- The flashing mass toams shaking the abyss;
- The hell of waters ! where they howl and hiss,
- And boil in endless torture; while the sweat

Of their great agony, wrung out from this

- Their Phlegethon, curls round the rocks of jet 620
- That gird the gulf around, in pitiless horror set,

LXX

- And mounts in spray the skies, and thence again
- Returns in an unceasing shower, which round,

With its unemptied cloud of gentle rain, Is an eternal April to the ground,

Making it all one emerald. — how profound

The gulf ! and how the giant element

- From rock to rock leaps with delirious bound,
- Crushing the cliffs, which, downward worn and rent
- With his fierce footsteps, yield in chasms a fearful vent 630

LXXI

To the broad column which rolls on, and shows

More like the fountain of an infant sea

Torn from the womb of mountains by the throes

Of a new world, than only thus to be

- Parent of rivers, which flow gushingly,
- Lo, where it comes like an eternity,
- As if to sweep down all things in its track, Charming the eye with dread — a matchless cataract.

LXXII

Horribly beautiful ! but on the verge,

- From side to side, beneath the glittering morn, 641
- An Iris sits, amidst the infernal surge, Like Hope upon a death-bed, and, unworn

- Its steady dyes while all around is torn
- By the distracted waters, bears serene
- Its brilliant hues with all their beams unshorn;
- Resembling, 'mid the torture of the scene,
- Love watching Madness with unalterable mien.

LXXIII

Once more upon the woody Apennine,

- The infant Alps, which had I not before Gazed on their mightuer parents, where
- the pine 651 Sits on more shaggy summits, and where roar
- The thundering lauwine might be worshipp'd more;
- But I have seen the soaring Jungfrau rear
- Her never-trodden snow, and seen the hoar
- Glaciers of bleak Mont Blanc both far and near,
- And in Chimari heard the thunder-hills of fear,

LXXIV

- Th' Acroceraunian mountains of old name;
- And on Parnassus seen the eagles fly
- Like spirits of the spot, as 't were for fame, 660
- For still they soar'd unutterably high:

I've look'd on Ida with a Trojan's eye;

Athos, Olympus, Ætna, Atlas, made

- These hills seem things of lesser dignity, All, save the lone Soracte's height, dis-
- play'd of now in snow which asks the lyric P.
- Not now in snow, which asks the lyric Roman's aid

LXXV

- For our remembrance, and from out the plain
- Heaves like a long-swept wave about to break,
- And on the curl hangs pausing Not in vain 669

May he, who will, his recollections rake, And quote in classic raptures, and awake The hills with Latian echoes; I abhorr'd Too much, to conquer for the poet's sake,

- The drill'd dull lesson, forced down word by word
- In y repugnant youth, with pleasure to record

LXXVI

- Aught that recalls the daily drug which turn'd
- My sickening memory; and, though Time hath taught
- My mind to meditate what then it learn'd,
- Yet such the fix'd inveteracy wrought
- By the impatience of my early thought,
- That, with the freshness wearing out before 681
- My mind could relish what it might have sought,
- If free to choose, I cannot now restore
- Its health; but what it then detested, still abhor.

LXXVII

- Then farewell, Horace; whom I hated so,
- Not for thy faults, but mine; it is a curse
- To understand, not feel thy lyric flow,
- To comprehend, but never love thy verse, Although no deeper Moralist rehearse
- Our little life, nor Bard prescribe his art, 600
- Nor livelier Satirist the conscience pierce, Awakening without wounding the touch'd heart; —
- Yet fare thee well upon Soracte's ridge we part.

LXXVIII

Oh Rome, my country ! city of the soul ! The orphans of the heart must turn to thee,

- Lone mother of dead empires, and control
- In their shut breasts their petty misery.
- What are our woes and sufferance? Come and see
- The cypress, hear the owl, and plod your way
- O'er steps of broken thrones and temples, Ye ! 700
- Whose agonies are evils of a day -

A world is at our feet as fragile as our clay.

LXXIX

The Niobe of nations ' there she stands,

Childless and crownless, in her voiceless woe;

An empty urn within her wither'd hands, Whose holy dust was scatter'd long ago:

The Scipios' tomb contains no ashes now;

The very sepulchres lie tenantless	LXXXIII
Of their heroic dwellers; - dost thou flow,	Oh thou, whose chariot roll'd on Fortune's wheel,
Old Tiber, through a marble wilderness? Rise, with thy yellow waves, and mantle	Triumphant Sylla ! thou, who didst sub-
her distress ! 711	Thy country's foes ere thou wouldst
LXXX	pause to feel The wrath of thy own wrongs, or reap
The Goth, the Christian, Time, War,	the due
Flood, and Fire,	Of hoarded vengeance till thine eagles flew
Have dealt upon the seven-hill'd city's pride;	O'er prostrate Asia; — thou, who with thy frown
She saw her glories star by star expire,	Annihilated senates — Roman, too,
And up the steep barbarian monarchs ride	With all thy vices, for thou didst lay down
Where the car climb'd the capitol; far and wide	With an atoning smile a more than earthly crown,
Temple and tower went down, nor left a site: —	LXXXIV
Chaos of ruins ! who shall trace the void,	The dictatorial wreath, — couldst thou
O'er the dim fragments cast a lunar light,	divine To what would one day derindle that
And say, 'here was, or is,' where all is doubly night? 720	To what would one day dwindle that which made doubly hight? 720	Thee more than mortal? and that so
LXXXI	supine 759
The double night of ages, and of her,	By aught than Romans Rome should Night's daughter, Ignorance, hath wrapt	thus be laid ?
and wrap	She who was named Eternal, and array'd
All round us; we but feel our way to err: The ocean hath his chart, the stars their	Her warriors but to conquer — she who veil'd
map,	Earth with her haughty shadow, and dis-
And Knowledge spreads them on her	play'd,
ample lap;	Until the o'er-canopied horizon fail'd,
But Rome is as the desert where we steer	Her rushing wings - Oh, she who was
Stumbling o'er recollections; now we clap	Almighty hail'd !
Our hands, and cry 'Eureka!' it is clear —	LXXXV
When but some false mirage of ruin rises	Sylla was first of victors; but our own near.	The sagest of usurpers, Cromwell; he Too swept off senates while he hew'd the
LXXXII	throne 759
Alas, the lofty city! and alas, 730	Down to a block — immortal rebel! See
The trebly hundred triumphs ! and the day	What crimes it costs to be a moment free
When Brutus made the dagger's edge	And famous through all ages! but be- neath surpass	His fate the moral lurks of destiny;
The conqueror's sword in bearing fame	His day of double victory and death
away!	Beheld him win two realms, and, happier.
Alas, for Tully's voice, and Virgil's lay,	yield his breath.
And Livy's pictured page! — but these	LXXXVI shall be Her resurrection; all beside — decay.	The third of the same moon whose for-
Alas, for Earth, for never shall we see	mer course
That brightness in her eye she bore when	Had all but crown'd him, on the self-
Rome was free !	same day

- Deposed him gently from his throne of force,
- And laid him with the earth's preceding clay
- And show'd not Fortune thus how fame and sway, 70
- And all we deem delightful and consume
- Our souls to compass through each arduous way,
- Are 10 her eyes less happy than the tomb?
- Were they but so in man's, how different were his doom !

LXXXVII

And thou, dread statue, yet existent in

- The austerest torm of naked majesty !
- Thou who beheldest, 'mid the assassins' din,
- At thy bathed base the bloody Cæsar lie, Folding his robe in dying dignity,
- An offering to thine altar from the queen 780
- Of gods and men, great Nemesis ! did he die,
- And thou, too, perish, Pompey? have ye been
- Victors of countless kings, or puppets of a scene?

LXXXVIII

- And thou, the thunder-stricken nurse of Rome '
- She-wolf. whose brazen-imaged dugs impart
- The milk of conquest yet within the dome
- Where, as a monument of antique art,
- Thou standest; mother of the mighty heart,
- Which the great founder suck'd from thy wild teat,
- Scorch'd by the Roman Jove's ethereal dart, 790
- And thy limbs black with lightning dost thou yet
- Guard thine immortal cubs, nor thy fond charge forget?

LXXXIX

- Thou dost; but all thy foster-babes are dead -
- The men of iron, and the world hath rear'd

- Cities from out their sepulchres. Men bled
- In imitation of the things they fear'd
- And fought and conquer'd, and the same course steer'd,
- At apish distance; but as yet none have, Nor could the same supremacy have near'd,
- Save one vain man, who is not in the grave, 800
- But vanquish'd by himself, to his own slaves a slave —

xc

The fool of false dominion — and a kind Of bastard Cæsar, following him of old

With steps unequal; for the Roman's mind

Was modell'd in a less terrestrial mould, With passions fiercer, yet a judgment cold, And an immortal instinct which redeem'd The frailties of a heart sc soft, yet bold, Alcides with the distaff now he seem'd

At Cleopatra's feet, — and now himself he beam'd, 810

XCI

- And came and saw and conquer'd ! But the man
- Who would have tamed his eagles down to flee,
- Like a train'd falcon, in the Gallic van,
- Which he, in sooth, long led to victory,
- With a deaf heart which never seem'd to be

A listener to itself, was strangely framed; With but one weakest weakness — vanity,

- Coquettish in ambition still he aim'd -
- At what? can be avouch or answer what be claim'd? —

XCII

- And would be all or nothing nor could wait 820
- For the sure grave to level him; few years
- Had fix'd him with the Cæsars in his fate, On whom we tread. For this the con-
- queror rears The arch of triumph ' and for this the tears
- And blood of earth flow on as they have flow'd,
- An universal deluge, which appears

Without an ark for wretched man's abode.

And ebbs but to reflow ! - Renew thy rainbow, God !

XCIII

What from this barren being do we reap? Our senses narrow, and our reason frail,

- Life short, and truth a gem which loves the deep, 831
- And all things weigh'd in custom's falsest scale;
- Opinion an omninotence, --- whose veil
- Mantles the earth with darkness, until right
- And wrong are accidents, and men grow pale
- Lest their own judgments should become too bright,
- And their free thoughts be crimes, and earth have too much light.

XCIV

And thus they plod in sluggish misery,

- Rotting from sire to son, and age to age,
- Proud of their trampled nature, and so die, 840

Bequeathing their hereditary rage

- To the new race of inborn slaves, who wage
- War for their chains, and rather than be free,

Bleed gladiator-like, and still engage

Within the same arena where they see

Their fellows fall before, like leaves of the same tree

xcv

- I speak not of men's creeds they rest between
- Man and his Maker but of things allow'd,
- Averr'd, and known and daily, hourly seen —
- The yoke that is upon us doubly bow'd
- And the intent of tyranny avow'd, 851
- The educt of Earth's rulers, who are grown
- The apes of him who humbled once the proud
- And shook them from their slumbers on the throne;
- Too glorious, were this all his mighty arm had done.

xcvi

Can tyrants but by tyrants conquer'd be, And Freedom find no champion and no ehild Such as Columbia saw arise when she

- Sprung forth a Pallas, arm'd and undefiled ?
- Or must such minds be nourish'd in the wild, 860
- Deep in the unpruned forest, 'midst the roar
- Of cataracts, where nursing Nature smuled
- On infant Washington? Has Earth nc more
- Such seeds within her breast, or Europe no such shore?

XCVII

- But France got drunk with blood to vomit crime,
- And fatal have her Saturnalia been
- To Freedom's cause, in every age and clime;
- Because the deadly days which we have seen,
- And vile Ambition, that built up between 869
- Man and his hopes an adamantine wall,
- And the base pageant last upon the scene,
- Are grown the pretext for the eternal thrall
- Which nips life's tree, and dooms man's worst his second fall.

XCVIII

- Yet, Freedom, yet thy banner, torn but flying,
- Streams like the thunder-storm against the wind;
- Thy trumpet voice, though broken now and dying,
- The loudest still the tempest leaves behind.
- Thy tree hath lost its blossoms, and the rind,
- Chopp'd by the axe, looks rough and little worth,
- But the sap lasts, and still the seed we find 88a
- Sown deep, even in the bosom of the North;
- So shall a better spring less bitter fruit bring forth

XCIX

There is a stern round tower of other days,

Firm as a fortress, with its fence of stone.

Such as an army's baffled strength delays, Standing with half its battlements alone, And with two thousand years of 1vy grown,

The garland of eternity, where wave

- The green leaves over all by time o'erthrown; —
- What was this tower of strength? within its cave
- What treasure lay so lock'd, so hid? A woman's grave.

But who was she, the lady of the dead,

- Tomb'd in a palace? Was she chaste and fair?
- Worthy a king's or more a Roman's bed?
- What race of chiefs and heroes did she bear?
- What daughter of her beauties was the her?
- How lived, how loved, how died she? Was she not
- So honour'd and conspicuously there,
- Where meaner relics must not dare to rot, Placed to commemorate a more than mortal lot?

000

CI

- Was she as those who love their lords, or they
- Who love the lords of others ? such have been

Even in the olden time, Rome's annals say. Was she a matron of Cornelia's mien,

Or the light air of Egypt's graceful queen,

Profuse of joy — or 'gainst it did she war, Inveterate in virtue ? Did she lean

- To the soft side of the heart, or wisely
- bar
- Love from amongst her griefs ? for such the affections are.

CII

- Perchance she died in youth. it may be, bow'd
- With woes far heavier than the ponderous tomb
- That weigh'd upon her gentle dust, a cloud

Might gather o'er her beauty, and a gloom

In her dark eye, prophetic of the doom

Heaven gives its favourites -- early death; vet shed

A sunset charm around her, and illume With hectic light, the Hesperus of the dead.

Of her consuming cheek the autumnal leaflike red.

CIII

- Perchance she died in age surviving all,
- Charms, kundred, children with the silver gray 020
- On her long tresses, which might yet recall.
- It may be, still a something of the day
- When they were braided, and her proud array
- And lovely form were envied, praised, and eyed
- By Rome But whither would Conjecture stray?
- Thus much alone we know Metella died.
- The wealthiest Roman's wife. Behold his love or pride !

CIV

I know not why, but standing thus by thee.

It seems as if I had thine inmate known,

- Thou tomb ! and other days come back on me 930
- With recollected music, though the tone
- Is changed and solemn, like the cloudy groan
- Of dying thunder on the distant wind;

Yet could I seat me by this ivied stone

Till I had bodied forth the heated mind

Forms from the floating wreck which Ruin leaves behind;

CV

And from the planks, far shatter'd o'er the rocks,

Built me a little bark of hope, once more

- To battle with the ocean and the shocks
- Of the loud breakers, and the ceaseless roar 040

Which rushes on the solitary shore Where all lies founder'd that was ever

- dear.
- But could I gather from the wave-worn store
- Enough for my rude boat, where should I steer?
- There woos no home, nor hope, nor life, save what is here.

CVI

- Then let the winds howl on ! their harmony
- Shall henceforth be my music, and the night
- The sound shall temper with the owlets' cry,
- As I now hear them, in the fading light
- Dim o'er the bird of darkness' native site, 950
- Answering each other on the Palatine,
- With their large eyes all glistening gray and bright,

And sailing pinions. Upon such a shrine

What are our petty griefs? — let me not number mine.

CVII

- Cypress and ivy, weed and wallflower grown
- Matted and mass'd together, hillocks heap'd
- On what were chambers, arch crush'd, column strown
- In fragments, choked up vaults, and frescos steep'd
- In subterranean damps where the owl peep'd,
- Pronounce who can; for all that Learning reap'd
 - rom her research hath been, that these are walls —
- ehold the Imperial Mount ! 't is thus the mighty falls.

CVIII

There is the moral of all human tales;

- 'T is but the same rehearsal of the past,
- First Freedom and then Glory when that fails,
- Wealth, vice, corruption, barbarism at last.
- And History, with all her volumes vast,
- Hath but one page, 't is better written here
- Where gorgeous Tyranny hath thus amass'd 970
- All treasures, all delights, that eye or ear,
- eert, soul could seek, tongue ask. Away with words, draw near,

CIX

- Admire, exult despise laugh, weep, — for here
- There is such matter for all feeling:— Man '

Thou pendulum betwixt a smile and tear, Ages and realms are crowded m this span, This mountain, whose obliterated plan

- The pyramid of empires pinnacled,
- Of Glory's gewgaws shining in the van
- Till the sun's rays with added flame were fill'd ! 980
- Where are its golden roofs? where those who dared to build?

cx

- Tully was not so eloquent as thou.
- Thou nameless column with the buried
- What are the laurels of the Cæsar's brow?
- Crown me with ivy from his dwellingplace.
- Whose arch or pillar meets e the face,
- Titus' or Trajan's? No 't is that of Time:

Triumph, arch, pillar, all he doth displace Scoffing; and apostolic statues climb

To crush the imperial urn whose ashes slept sublime, 990

CXI

- Buried in air, the deep blue sky of Rome, And looking to the stars. They had contain'd
- A spirit which with these would find a home,
- The last of those who o'er the whole earth reign'd,
- The Roman globe, for after none sustain'd
- But yielded back his conquests: he was more
- Than a mere Alexander, and, unstain'd

His sovereign virtues — still we Trajan'a name adore.

CXII

- Where is the rock of Triumph, the high place
- Where Rome embraced her heroes? where the steep

With household blood and wine, serenely wore

- Tarpeian, fittest goal of Treason's race, The promontory whence the Traitor's
- Leap
- Cured all ambition? Did the conquerors heap
- Their spoils here? Yes; and in yon field below,
- A thousand years of silenced factions sleep —
- The Forum, where the immortal accents glow,
- And still the eloquent air breathes burns with Cicero !

CXIII

- The field of freedom, faction, fame, and blood:
- Here a proud people's passions were exhaled, 1010
- From the first hour of empire in the bud
- To that when further worlds to conquer fail'd;
- But long before had Freedom's face been veil'd,
- And Anarchy assumed her attributes;
- Till every lawless soldier who assail'd
- Trod on the trembling senate's slavish mutes,
- Or raised the venal voice of baser prostitutes.

CXIV

- Then turn we to her latest tribune's name,
- From her ten thousand tyrants turn to thee,
- Redeemer of dark centuries of shame -
- The friend of Petrarch hope of Italy -
- Rienzi! last of Romans! While the tree
- Of freedom's wither'd trunk puts forth a leaf,
- Even for thy tomb a garland let it be --
- The forum's champion, and the people's chief -
- Her new-born Numa thou with reign, alas, too brief.

$\mathbf{C}\mathbf{X}\mathbf{V}$

Egeria, sweet creation of some heart

Which found no mortal resting-place so fair 1028

As thine ideal breast ! whate'er thou art Or wert, — a young Aurora of the air,

The nympholepsy of some fond despair; Or, it might be, a beauty of the earth.

- Who found a more than common votary there
- Too much adoring; whatsoe'er thy birth,
- Thou wert a beautiful thought, and softly bodied forth.

CXVI

The mosses of thy fountain still are sprinkled

With thine Elysian water-drops; the face

- Of thy cave-guarded spring, with years unwrinkled,
- Reflects the meek-eyed genius of the place,
- Whose green, wild margin now no more erase 1040
- Art's works; nor must the delicate waters sleep,
- Prison'd in marble; bubbling from the base
- Of the cleft statue, with a gentle leap

The rill runs o'er, and round, fern, flowers, and ivy creep,

CXVII

Fantastically tangled The green hills

- Are clothed with early blossoms, through the grass
- The quick-eyed lizard rustles, and the bills
- Of summer-birds sing welcome as ye pass;
- Flowers fresh in hue, and many in their class,
- Implore the pausing step, and with their dyes 1050
- Dance in the soft breeze in a fairy mass;
- The sweetness of the violet's deep blue eyes,
- Kiss'd by the breath of heaven, seems colour'd by its skies.

CXVIII

- Here didst thou dwell, in this enchanted cover,
- Egeria ! thy all heavenly bosom beating
- For the far footsteps of thy mortal lover
- The purple Midnight veil'd that mystic meeting

With her most starry canopy; and seating Thyself by thine adorer, what befell?

This cave was surely shaped out for the greeting Of an enamour'd Goddess, and the cell Haunted by holy Love — the earliest oracle !

CXIX

- And didst thou not, thy breast to his replying,
- Blend a celestial with a human heart;
- And Love, which dies as it was born, in sighing,
- Share with immortal transports? Could thine art
- Make them indeed immortal, and impart

The purity of heaven to earthly joys,

Expel the venom and not blunt the dart — The dull satiety which all destroys —

And root from out the soul the deadly weed which cloys? 1071

cxx

Alas ! our young affections run to waste, Or water but the desert; whence arise

- But weeds of dark luxuriance, tares of haste,
- Rank at the core, though tempting to the eyes,
- Flowers whose wild odours breathe but agonies,
- And trees whose gums are poison; such the plants
- Which spring beneath her steps as Passion flies
- O'er the world's wilderness, and vainly pants
- For some celestial fruit forbidden to our wants. 1080

CXXI

- Oh Love! no habitant of earth thou art --
- An unseen seraph, we believe in thee,
- A faith whose martyrs are the broken heart,
- But never yet hath seen, nor e'er shall see
- The naked eye, thy form, as it should be;
- The mind hath made thee, as it peopled heaven,
- Even with its own desiring phantasy,
- And to a thought such shape and image given,
- As haunts the unquench'd soul parch'd wearied — wrung — and riven. 1089

CXXII

Of its own beauty is the mind diseased,

- And fevers into false creation: where, Where are the forms the sculptor's soul hath seized ? —
- In him alone Can Nature show so fair? Where are the charms and virtues which we dare
- Conceive m boyhood and pursue as men, The unreach'd Paradise of our despair,
- Which o'er-informs the pencil and the pen,
- And overpowers the page where it would bloom again?

CXXIII

- Who loves, raves 't is youth's frenzy. but the cure
- Is bitterer still. As charm by charm unwinds 1100
- Which robed our idols, and we see too sure
- Nor worth nor beauty dwells from out the mmd's
- Ideal shape of such; yet still it binds
- The fatal spell, and still it draws us on,
- Reaping the whirlwind from the oftsown winds;
- The stubborn heart, its alchemy begun,
- Seems ever near the prize, wealthiest when most undone.

CXXIV

- We wither from our youth, we gasp away -
- Sick sick; unfound the boon unslaked the thirst,
- Though to the last, in verge of our decay,
- Some phantom lures, such as we sought at first —
- But all too late, --- so are we doubly curst
- Love, fame, ambition, avarice 't is the same,
- Each idle, and all ill, and none the worst —

For all are meteors with a different name,

And Death the sable smoke where vanishes the flame.

CXXV

- Few none find what they love or could have loved,
- Though accident, blind contact, and the strong
- Necessity of loving, have removed

Antipathies - but to recur, ere long, 1129 Envenom'd with irrevocable wrong; And Circumstance, that unspiritual god And miscreator, makes and helps along Our coming evils with a crutch-like rod, Whose touch turns Hope to dust, - the dust we all have trod. CXXVI Our life is a false nature, 't is not in The harmony of things, - this hard decree, This uneradicable taunt of sin, This boundless upas, this all-blasting tree Whose root is earth, whose leaves and 1130 branches be The skies which rain their plagues on men like dew ---Disease, death, bondage - all the woes we see -And worse, the woes we see not - which throb through The immedicable soul, with heart-aches ever new. CXXVII Yet let us ponder boldly; 't is a base Abandonment of reason to resign Our right of thought, our last and only place Of refuge — this, at least, shall still be mine. Though from our birth the faculty divine Is chain'd and tortured - cabin'd, cribb'd, confined. And bred in darkness, lest the truth should shine Too brightly on the unprepared mind,

The beam pours in, for time and skill will couch the blind.

CXXVIII

Arches on arches ! as it were that Rome, Collecting the chief trophies of her lme, Would build up all her triumphs in one

- dome, --
- Her Coliseum stands; the moonbeams shine

As 't were its natural torches, for divine

- Should be the light which streams here, to illume
- This long-explored but still exhaustless mine 1150

Of contemplation; and the azure gloom

Of an Italian night, where the deep skies assume

CXXIX

- Hues which have words and speak to ye of heaven,
- Floats o'er this vast and wondrous monument,
- And shadows forth its glory. There is given
- Unto the things of earth, which Time hath bent,
- A spirit's feeling; and where he hath leant
- His hand, but broke his scythe, there is a power
- And magne in the run'd battlement,
- For which the palace of the present hour 1160
- Must yield its pomp and wait till ages are its dower.

CXXX

Oh, Time! the beautifier of the dead,

- Adorner of the ruin, comforter
- And only healer when the heart hath bled--
- Time ! the corrector where our judgments err,

The test of truth, love, - sole philosopher,

For all besides are sophists, from thy thrift

Which never loses though it doth defer-Time, the avenger ! unto thee I lift

My hands and eyes and heart, and crave of thee a gift: 1170

CXXXI

- Amidst this wreck, where thou hast made a shrine
- And temple more divinely desolate,
- Among thy mightier offerings here are mine,
- Runs of years though few, yet full of fate: —
- If thou hast ever seen me too elate,
- Hear me not; but if calmly I have borne Good, and reserved my pride against the hate
- Which shall not whelm me, let me not have worn
- This iron in my soul in vain shall they not mourn?

CXXXII

And thou, who never yet of human wrong

Left the unbalanced scale, great Nemesis!

- Here, where the ancient paid thee homage long -
- Thou, who didst call the Furies from the abyss,
- And round Orestes bade them howl and hiss
- For that unnatural retribution just,
- Had it but been from hands less near in this
- Thy former realm, I call thee from the dust!
- Dost thou not hear my heart? Awake ! thou shalt, and must.

CXXXIII

- It is not that I may not have incurr'd
- For my ancestral faults or mine the wound 1190
- I bleed withal, and, had it been conferr'd
- With a just weapon, it had flow'd unbound;
- But now my blood shall not sink in the ground;

To thee I do devote it - thou shalt take

- The vengeance, which shall yet be sought and found,
- Which if I have not taken for the sake-
- But let that pass—I sleep, but thou shalt yet awake.

CXXXIV

- And if my voice break forth, 't is not that now
- I shrink from what is suffer'd; let him speak
- Who hath beheld decline upon my brow, 1200
- Or seen my mind's convulsion leave it weak.
- But in this page a record will I seek.
- Not in the air shall these my words disperse,
- Though I be ashes; a far hour shall wreak
- The deep prophetic fulness of this verse,
- And pile on human heads the mountain of my curse!

CXXXV

- That curse shall be Forgiveness. Have I not —
- Hear me, my mother Earth ! behold it, Heaven !---
- Have I not had to wrestle with my lot?
- Have I not suffer'd things to be foriven? 1210

- Have I not had my brain sear'd, my heart riven,
- Hopes sapp'd, name blighted, Life's life lied away?
- And only not to desperation driven,
- Because not altogether of such clay
- As rots into the souls of those whom I survey.

CXXXVI

From mighty wrongs to petty perfidy

- Have I not seen what human things could do?
- From the loud roar of foaming calumny
- To the small whisper of the as paltry few, 1219
- And subtler venom of the reptile crew,
- The Janus glance of whose significant eye, Learning to he with silence, would seem true,
- And without utterance, save the shrug or sigh,
- Deal round to happy fools its speechless obloquy.

CXXXVII

- But I have lived, and have not lived in vain:
- My mind may lose its force, my blood its fire,
- And my frame perish even in conquering pain;
- But there is that within me which shall tire
- Torture and Time, and breathe when I expire;
- Something unearthly which they deem not of, 1230
- Like the remember'd tone of a mute lyre, Shall on their soften'd spirits sink, and move
- In hearts all rocky now the late remorse of love.

CXXXVIII

- The seal is set. Now welcome, thou dread power !
- Nameless, yet thus omnipotent, which here
- Walk'st in the shadow of the midnight hour
- With a deep awe, yet all distinct from fear;
- Thy haunts are ever where the dead walls rear
- Their vy mantles, and the solemn scene

Derives from thee a sense so deep and clear 1240

That we become a part of what has been, And grow unto the spot, all-seeing but unseen.

CXXXIX

And here the buzz of eager nations ran, In murmur'd pity or loud-roar'd applause, As man was slaughter'd by his fellow man. And wherefore slaughter'd ? wherefore, but because

Such were the bloody Circus' genial laws,

- And the imperial pleasure. Wherefore not?
- What matters where we fall to fill the maws
- Of worms on battle-plains or listed spot? 1250
- Both are but theatres where the chief actors rot.

CXL

I see before me the Gladiator lie:

He leans upon his hand — his manly brow

- Consents to death, but conquers agony,
- And his droop'd head sinks gradually low —
- And through his side the last drops, ebbing slow
- From the red gash, fall heavy, one by one,
- Like the first of a thunder-shower; and now
- The arena swims around him he is gone,
- Ere ceased the inhuman shout which hail'd the wretch who won 1260

CXLI

He heard it, but he heeded not — his eyes

- Were with his heart and that was far away;
- He reck'd not of the life he lost nor prize,
- But where his rude hut by the Danube lay,
- There were his young barbarians all at play,
- There was their Dacian mother he, their sire,
- Butcher'd to make a Roman holiday -
- All this rush'd with his blood. Shall he expire
- And unaverged? Arise ! ye Goths, and glut your ire !

CXLII

But here, where Murder breathed her bloody steam; 1270

- And here, where buzzing nations choked the ways,
- And roar'd or murmur'd like a mountain stream
- Dashing or winding as its torrent strays;
- Here, where the Roman millions' blame or praise
- Was death or life, the playthings of a crowd,
- My voice sounds much, and fall the stars' faint rays
- On the arena void seats crush'd walls bow'd —

And galleries, where my steps seem echoes strangely loud.

CXLIII

- A ruin yet what ruin ! From its mass Walls, palaces, half-cities, have been rear'd;
- Yet oft the enormous skeleton ye pass,
- And marvel where the spoil could have appear'd.
- Hath it indeed been plunder'd, or but clear'd?
- Alas! developed, opens the decay,
- When the colossal fabric's form is near'd.
- It will not bear the brightness of the day,
- Which streams too much on all years, man, have reft away.

CXLIV

But when the rising moon begins to climb Its topmost arch and gently pauses there;

- When the stars twinkle through the loops of time, 1290
- And the low night-breeze waves along the air
- The garland forest, which the gray walls wear
- Like laurels on the bald first Cæsar's head;
- When the light shines serene but doth not glare,

Then in this magic circle raise the dead:

Heroes have trod this spot—'t is on their dust ye tread

CXLV

• While stands the Collseum, Rome shall stand;

When falls the Coliseum, Rome shall fall;

- And when Rome falls the World.' From our own land
- Thus spake the pilgrims o'er this mighty wall 1300
- In Saxon times, which we are wont to call Ancient; and these three mortal things are still
- On their foundations, and unalter'd all;
- Rome and her Rum past Redemption's skill,
- The World, the same wide den of thieves, or what ye will.

CXLVI

Simple, erect, severe, austere, sublime ---

- Shrine of all saints and temple of all gods, From Jove to Jesus — spared and blest
- by time;
- Looking tranquillity, while falls or nods Arch, empire, each thing round thee, and
- man plods 1310 His way through thorns to ashes —
- glorious dome !
- Shalt thou not last? Time's scythe and tyrants' rods

Shiver upon thee — sanctuary and home

Of art and piety — Pantheon ! — pride of Rome !

CXLVII

Relic of nobler days and noblest arts !

Despoil'd, yet perfect, with thy circle spreads

A holiness appealing to all hearts -

To art a model; and to him who treads

Rome for the sake of ages, Glory sheds Her light through thy sole aperture; to those 1320 Who worship, here are altars for their beads;

And they who feel for genius may repose

Their eyes on honour'd forms whose busts around them close.

CXLVIII

- There is a dungeon, in whose dim drear light
- What do I gaze on ? Nothing: Look again !
- Two forms are slowly shadow'd on my sight —

Two insulated phantoms of the brain:

It is not so; I see them full and plain — An old man, and a female young and fair, Fresh as a nursing mother, in whose vein

- The blood is nectar; but what doth she there, r331
- With her unmantled neck, and bosom white and bare ?

CXLIX

- Full swells the deep pure fountain of young life,
- Where on the heart and from the heart we took
- Our first and sweetest nurture, when the wife,
- Blest into mother, in the unocent look
- Or even the piping cry of hps that brook
- No pain and small suspense, a joy perceives
- Man knows not, when from out its cradled nook
- She sees her little bud put forth its leaves — 1340
- What may the fruit be yet ? I know not, Cam was Eve's.

CL

But here youth offers to old age the food,

The milk of his own gift: - it is her

- sire To whom she renders back the debt of blood
- Born with her birth. No; he shall not expire
- While in those warm and lovely veins the fire
- Of health and holy feeling can provide
- Great Nature's Nile, whose deep stream rises higher
- Than Egypt's river: -- from that gentle side
- Drink, drink and live, old man! Heaven's realm holds no such tide. 1350

CLI

The starry fable of the milky way

- Has not thy story's purity; it is
- A constellation of a sweeter ray,
- And sacred Nature triumphs more in this
- Reverse of her decree than in the abyss
- Where sparkle distant worlds Oh, holiest nurse !
- No drop of that clear stream its way shall miss
- To thy sire's heart, replenishing its source
- With life, as our freed souls rejoin the universe.

CLII

Turn to the Mole which Hadrian rear'd on high, ¹³⁶⁰

Imperial munic of old Egypt's piles,

Colossal copyist of deformity,

- Whose travell'd phantasy from the far Nile's
- Enormous model doom'd the artist's toils
- To build for grants, and for his vain earth,
- His shrunken ashes, raise this dome. How smiles
- The gazer's eye with philosophic murth,

To view the huge design which sprung from such a birth !

CLIII

- But lo, the dome, the vast and wondrous dome
- To which Diana's marvel was a cell, 1370
- Christ's mighty shrine above his martyr's tomb !
- I have beheld the Ephesian's miracle —
- Its columns strew the wilderness, and dwell
- The hyæna and the jackal in their shade;
- I have beheld Sophia's bright roofs swell
- Their gluttering mass i' the sun, and have survey'd
- Its sanctuary the while the usurping Moslem pray'd;

CLIV

But thou, of temples old or altars new, Standest alone, with nothing like to thee — Worthiest of God, the holy and the true. Since Zion's desolation, when that He 13³¹ Forsook his former city, what could be, Of earthly structures, in his honour piled Of a sublimer aspect? Majesty,

- Power, Glory, Strength, and Beauty, all are aisled
- In this eternal ark of worship undefiled.

CLV

Enter: its grandeur overwhelms thee not; And why? it is not lessen'd; but thy mind,

Expanded by the genius of the spot, Has grown colossal, and can only find '390 A fit abode wherein appear enshrined Thy hopes of immortality; and thou Shalt one day, if found worthy, so defined,

See thy God face to face as thou dost now

His Holy of Holies, nor be blasted by his brow.

CLVI

- Thou movest but increasing with the advance,
- Like climbing some great Alp, which still doth rise,
- Deceived by its gigantic elegance;
- Vastness which grows, but grows to harmonise —
- All musical in its immensities; 1400
- Rich marbles, richer painting, shrines where flame
- The lamps of gold, and haughty dome which vies
- In air with Earth's chief structures, though their frame

Sits on the firm-set ground — and this the clouds must claim.

CLVII

- Thou seest not all; but piecemeal thou must break
- To separate contemplation the great whole;
- And as the ocean many bays will make,
- That ask the eye so here condense thy soul
- To more immediate objects, and control
- Thy thoughts until thy mind hath got by heart 1410
- Its eloquent proportions, and unroll In mighty graduations, part by part,
- The glory which at once upon thee did not dart,

CLVIII

- Not by its fault but thine. Our outward sense
- Is but of gradual grasp: and as it is
- That what we have of feeling most intense
- Outstrips our faint expression; even so this
- Outshining and o'erwhelming edifice
- Fools our fond gaze, and greatest of the great
- Defies at first our Nature's littleness, 1420
- Till, growing with its growth, we thus dilate
- Our spirits to the size of that they contemplate.

CLIX

- Then pause, and be enlighten'd; there is more
- In such a survey than the sating gaze

- Of wonder pleased, or awe which would adore
- The worship of the place, or the mere praise
- Of art and its great masters, who could raise
- What former time, nor skill, nor thought could plan;

The fountain of sublimity displays

- Its depth, and thence may draw the mind of man 1430
- Its golden sands, and learn what great conceptions can.

CLX

Or, turning to the Vatican, go see

Laocoon's torture dignifying pain ---

- A father's love and mortal's agony
- With an immortal's patience blending Vain
- The struggle; vain, against the coiling strain
- And grupe and deepening of the dragon's grasp,
- The old man's clench; the long envenom'd chain

Rivets the living links, the enormous asp Enforces pang on pang, and stifles gasp on gasp. 1440

CLXI

Or view the Lord of the unerring bow, The God of life and poesy and light, — The Sun in human limbs array'd, and brow All radiant from his triumph in the fight; The shaft hath just been shot — the arrow bright

With an immortal's vengeance; in his eye And nostril beautiful disdam and might And majesty flash their full lightnings by Developing in that one glance the Deity.

CLXII

- But in his delicate form a dream of Love, 1450
- Shaped by some solitary nymph, whose breast
- Long'd for a deathless lover from above
- And madden'd in that vision are exprest
- All that ideal beauty ever bless'd
- The mind with in its most unearthly mood,
- When each conception was a heavenly guest —

A ray of immortality — and stood,

Starlıke, around, until they gather'd to a god !

CLXIII

And if it be Prometheus stole from Heaven 1459

The fire which we endure, it was repaid By him to whom the energy was given

- Which this poetic marble hath array'd
- With an eternal glory which, if made
- By human hands, is not of human thought;
- And Time himself hath hallow'd it, nor laid
- One ringlet in the dust; nor hath it caught
- A tinge of years, but breathes the flame with which 't was wrought.

CLXIV

But where is he, the Pilgrum of my song, The being who upheld it through the past?

Methinks he cometh late and tarries long.

- He is no more these breathings are his last; 1471
- His wanderings done, his visions ebbing fast.

And he himself as nothing: - If he was

- Aught but a phantasy, and could be class'd
- With forms which live and suffer let that pass —
- His shadow fades away into Destruction's mass,

CLXV

- Which gathers shadow, substance, life, and all
- That we inherit in its mortal shroud,
- And spreads the dim and universal pall

Through which all things grow phantoms.

and the cloud 1480 Between us sinks and all which ever glow'd,

Till Glory's self is twilight, and displays A melancholy halo scarce allow'd

- To hover on the verge of darkness; rays
- Sadder than saddest night, for they distract the gaze,

CLXVI

And send us prying into the abyss,

To gather what we shall be when the frame

- Shall be resolved to something less than this
- Its wretched essence; and to dream of fame,
- And wipe the dust from off the idle name 1490
- We never more shall hear, but never more,
- Oh, happier thought! can we be made the same:

It is enough in sooth that once we bore

These fardels of the heart — the heart whose sweat was gore.

CLXVII

- Hark ! forth from the abyss a voice proceeds,
- A long low distant murmur of dread sound,
- Such as arises when a nation bleeds

With some deep and immedicable wound;

- Through storm and darkness yawns the rending ground;
- The gulf is thick with phantoms, but the chief 1500
- Seems royal still, though with her head discrown'd;
- And pale, but lovely, with maternal grief
- She clasps a babe to whom her breast yields no relief.

CLXVIII

- Scion of chiefs and monarchs, where art thou?
- Fond hope of many nations, art thou dead?
- Could not the grave forget thee, and lay low
- Some less majestic, less beloved head?
- In the sad midnight, while thy heart still bled,
- The mother of a moment, o'er thy boy,
- Death hush'd that pang for ever; with thee fied
- The present happiness and promised joy
- Which fill'd the imperial isles so full it seem'd to cloy.

CLXIX

- Peasants bring forth in safety. Can it be,
- Oh thou that wert so happy, so adored !
- Those who weep not for kings shall weep for thee,

- And Freedom's heart, grown heavy, cease to hoard
- Her many griefs for ONE; for she had pour'd
- Her orisons for thee, and o'er thy head
- Beheld her Iris. Thou, too, lonely lord,
- And desolate consort vamly wert thou wed ! 1520
- The husband of a year! the father of the dead!

CLXX

- Of sackcloth was thy wedding garment made;
- Thy bridal's fruit is ashes; in the dust
- The fair-hair'd Daughter of the Isles is laid,
- The love of millions! How we did intrust
- Futurity to her ! and, though it must
- Darken above our bones, yet fondly deem'd
- Our children should obey her child, and bless'd
- Her and her hoped-for seed, whose promise seem'd
- Like stars to shepherds' eyes: 't was but a meteor beam'd. 1530

CLXXI

- Woe unto us, not her; for she sleeps well:
- The fickle reek of popular breath, the tongue
- Of hollow counsel, the false oracle,
- Which from the birth of monarchy hath rung
- Its knell in princely ears till the o'erstung
- Nations have arm'd in madness, the strange fate
- Which tumbles mightiest sovereigns, and hath flung
- Against their blind omnipotence a weight Within the opposing scale which crushes
 - soon or late, —

CLXXII

- These might have been her destiny; but no, 1540
- Our hearts deny it: and so young, so fair,
- Good without effort, great without a foe:
- But now a bride and mother and now there !

- How many ties did that stern moment tear!
- From thy Sire's to his humblest subject's breast
- Is link'd the electric chain of that despair,
- Whose shock was as an earthquake's, and opprest
- The land which loved thee so that none could love thee best.

CLXXIII

Lo, Nemi ! navell'd in the woody hills

- So far, that the uprooting wind which tears 1550
- The oak from his foundation, and which spills
- The ocean o'er its boundary, and bears
- Its foam against the skies, reluctant spares
- The oval mirror of thy glassy lake; -
- And, calm as cherish'd hate, its surface wears
- A deep cold settled aspect nought can shake,
- All coil'd into itself and round, as sleeps the snake.

CLXXIV

And near Albano's scarce divided waves Shine from a sister valley; and afar

- The Tiber winds, and the broad ocean laves 1560
- The Latian coast where sprung the Epic war,
- 'Arms and the Man,' whose re-ascending star
- Rose o'er an empire: but beneath thy right
- Tully reposed from Rome; and where yon bar
- Of girdling mountains intercepts the sight
- The Sabine farm was till'd, the weary bard's delight.

CLXXV

- But I forget. My Pilgrim's shrine is won,
- And he and I must part so let it be:
- His task and mine alike are nearly done;
- Yet once more let us look upon the sea; The midland ocean breaks on him and
- me, 1571
- And from the Alban Mount we now behold

- Our friend of youth, that ocean, which when we
- Beheld it last by Calpe's rock unfold
- Those waves, we follow'd on till the dark Euxine roll'd

CLXXVI

- Upon the blue Symplegades. Long years —
- Long, though not very many since have done
- Their work on both; some suffering and some tears
- Have left us nearly where we had begun: Yet not in vain our mortal race hath
- run; 1580 We have had our reward, and it is here, —
- That we can yet feel gladden'd by the
- sun, And reap from earth, sea, joy almost as dear
- As if there were no man to trouble what is clear.

CLXXVII

- Oh that the Desert were my dwellingplace,
- With one fair Spirit for my minister, That I might all forget the human race, And, hating no one, love but only her ! Ye Elements, in whose ennobling stir I feel myself exalted, can ye not 1590
- Accord me such a being [?] Do I err In deeming such inhabit many a spot,
- Though with them to converse can rarely be our lot?

CLXXVIII

- There is a pleasure in the pathless woods There is a rapture on the lonely shore,
- There is society where none intrudes,
- By the deep Sea, and music in its roar.
- I love not Man the less, but Nature more,
- From these our interviews, in which I steal 1599

From all I may be or have been before, To mingle with the Universe, and feel

What I can ne'er express, yet can not all conceal.

CLXXIX

- Roll on, thou deep and dark blue Ocean, roll !
- Ten thousand fleets sweep over thee in vain;

- Man marks the earth with ruin, his control
- Stops with the shore; upon the watery plain
- The wrecks are all thy deed, nor doth remain

A shadow of man's ravage, save his own,

- When, for a moment, like a drop of rain, He sinks into thy depths with bubbling groan, rore
- Without a grave, unknell'd, uncoffin'd, and unknown.

CLXXX

- His steps are not upon thy paths, thy fields
- Are not a spoil for him, thou dost arise
- And shake him from thee; the vile strength he wields
- For earth's destruction thou dost all despise,

Spurning him from thy bosom to the skies, And send'st him, shivering in thy playful spray

- And howling, to his Gods, where haply hes
- His petty hope in some near port or bay, And dashest him again to earth: — there let him lay. 1620

CLXXXI

The armaments which thunderstrike the walls

Of rock-built cities, bidding nations quake

And monarchs tremble in their capitals,

The oak leviathans, whose huge ribs make

Their clay creator the vain title take

Of lord of thee and arbiter of war, ---

These are thy toys, and, as the snowy flake.

They melt into thy yeast of waves, which mar

Alike the Armada's pride or spoils of Trafalgar.

CLXXXII

- Thy shores are empires, changed in all save thee — 1630
- Assyria, Greece, Rome, Carthage, what are they?
- Thy waters wash'd them power while they were free,
- And many a tyrant since; their shores obey

- The stranger, slave, or savage; their decay
- Has dried up realms to deserts not so thou,
- Unchangeable save to thy wild waves' play;
- Time writes no wrinkle on thme azure brow;
- Such as creation's dawn beheld, thou rollest now.

CLXXXIII

- Thou glorious mirror, where the Almighty's form
- Glasses itself in tempests; in all time,
- Calm or convulsed in breeze, or gale, or storm, ¹⁶⁴¹
- Icing the pole, or in the torrid clime
- Dark-heaving; boundless, endless, and sublime -
- The image of Eternity the throne
- Of the Invisible; even from out thy slime
- The monsters of the deep are made; each zone
- Obeys thee; thou goest forth, dread, fathomless, alone.

CLXXXIV

- And I have loved thee, Ocean ! and my joy
- Of youthful sports was on thy breast to be
- Borne, like thy bubbles, onward. From a boy 1650
- I wanton'd with thy breakers they to me

Were a delight; and if the freshening sea

Made them a terror — 't was a pleasing fear,

For I was as it were a child of thee,

And trusted to thy billows far and near,

And laid my hand upon thy mane — as I do here.

CLXXXV

- My task is done my song hath ceased my theme
- Has died into an echo; it is fit
- The spell should break of this protracted dream.
- The torch shall be extinguish'd which hath lit 1660
- My midnight lamp and what is writ, is writ, —

Would it were worthier ! but I am not now That which I have been — and my visions	Ye, who have traced the Pilgrim to the scene
flit Less palpably before me — and the glow	Which is his last, if in your memories dwell
Vhich in my spirit dwelt is fluttering,	A thought which once was his, if on ye
faint, and low.	swell 1670 A single recollection, not in vain
CLXXXVI	He wore his sandal-shoon and scallop-
Farewell! a word that must be, and hath	shell;
been —	Farewell! with him alone may rest the pain,
A cound which makes us lingen Not	If each there were - with you the moral of

A sound which makes us Imger; - yet -farewell !

٦

If such there were — with you, the moral of his strain !

SHORTER POEMS

It has seemed advisable to the present editor to change the order in which Byron's works have always been printed, and to bring together in one general section all the Shorter Poems. This arrangement, it is believed, will facilitate considerably the use of the volume in reference. Nor is any real offence committed against the chronological ordering of the works, desirable as that may be for obvious reasons. As these miscellaneous and occasional pieces were written in many cases while the composition of the longer poems was in process, any absolute arrangement by dates is, indeed, impossible. Here we have, in this section, a continuous and personal record in verse, so to speak, of Byron's life. The greatness and versatility of his lyrical powers are also made more apparent by the coup d'œil thus afforded.]

HOURS OF IDLENESS

A SERIES OF POEMS, ORIGINAL AND TRANSLATED

[The title Hours of Idleness is really applied to a miscellaneous collection of Byron's juvenile poems His first book, Fugitive Pieces, was printed anonymously by S. and J. Ridge, of Newark, in 1806 This edition, which contained thirty-eight pieces, was soon suppressed, and only a single copy, in the possession of Mr H. Buxton Forman, is known to exist A second edition, containing forty-eight poems and entitled Poems on Various Occasions, was printed by the same firm in the next year. Again in the same year this firm published Byron's Hours of Idleness, with his name now attached This volume included nineteen from the Fuguive Pieces, eight from the Poems on Various Occasions, and twelve now first printed, - thirty-nine in all A fourth edition was issued, in 1808, by the same house, under the title Poems Original and Translated. containing thirty-eight pieces. The name, Hours of Idleness, first made famous by the review in the Edurburgh, has in all later editions been attached to the general collection of Byron's earlier poems.]

> Virginibus puerisque canto — HORACE, lib 111 Ode 1 Μήτ άρ με μάλ aivee, μήτε τι νείκει — HOMER, Iliad × 249. He whistled as he went, for want of thought - DRYDEN

> > то

THE RIGHT HONOURABLE FREDERICK, EARL OF CARLISLE KNIGHT OF THE GARTER, ETC, ETC THE SECOND EDITION OF THESE POEMS IS INSCRIBED BY HIS OBLIGED WARD AND AFFECTIONATE KINSMAN THE AUTHOR

PREFACE

In submitting to the public eye the following collection, I have not only to combat the difficulties that writers of verse generally encounter, but may incur the charge of presumption for obtruding myself on the world, when, without doubt, I might be, at my age, more usefully employed

These productions are the fruits of the lighter hours of a young man who has lately completed his nimeteenth year. As they bear the internal evidence of a boyish mind, this is, perhaps, unnecessary information. Some few were written during the disadvantages of illness and depression of spirits. under the former influence, Childish Recollections, in particular, were This consideration, though it cancomposed not excite the voice of praise, may at least arrest the arm of censure. A considerable portion of these poems has been privately printed, at the request and for the perusal of my friends. I am sensible that the partial and trequently injudicious admiration of a social citcle is not the criterion by which poetical genus is to be estimated, yet, 'to do greatly ' we must 'date greatly, ' and I have bazarded my reputation and feelings in publishing this volume. 'I have passed the Rubicon,' and must stand or fall by the 'cast of the die.' In the latter event, I shall submit without a murmur; for, though not without solicitude for the fate of these effusions, my expectations are by no means sanguine. It is probable that I may have dared much and done little; for, in the words of Cowper, 'it is one thing to write what may please our friends, who, because they are such are apt to be a little biassed in our favour, and another to write what may please everybody, because they who have no connection, or even knowledge of the author, will be sure to find fault if they can.' To the truth of this, however, I do not wholly subscribe, on the contrary, I feel convinced that these trifles will not be treated with injustice. Their merit, if they possess any, will be liberally allowed;

ON THE DEATH OF A YOUNG LADY

COUSIN TO THE AUTHOR, AND VERY DEAR TO HIM

['My first dash into poetry was as early as 1800. It was the ebulliton of a passion for my first cousin, Margaret Parker.' — Diary, 1821. In a note, however, he says he was fourteen when the poem was composed.]

- HUSH'D are the winds, and still the evening gloom,
 - Not e'en a zephyr wanders through the grove,
- Whilst I return, to view my Margaret's tomb,

And scatter flowers on the dust I love.

Within this narrow cell reclines her clay, That clay, where once such animation beam'd; their numerous faults, on the other hand, cannot expect that favour which has been denied to others of maturer years, decided character, and far greater ability.

I have not aimed at exclusive originality, still less have I studied any particular model for unitation. some translations are given, of which many are paraphrastic In the original pieces there may appear a casual coincidence with authors whose works I have been accustomed to read, but I have not been guilty of intentional plagiarism. To produce anything entirely new, in an age so fertile in rhyme, would be an Heiculean task, as every subject has already been treated to its utmost extent. Poetry, however, is not my primary vocation; to divert the dull moments of indisposition, or the monotony of a vacant hour, urged me 'to this sin :' little can be expected from so unpromising a muse. My wreath, scanty as it must be, is all I shall derive from these productions, and I shall never attempt to replace its fading leaves, or pluck a single additional sprig from groves where I am, at Though accustomed, in my best, an intruder younger days, to rove a careless mountaineer on the Highlands of Scotland, I have not, of late years, had the benefit of such pure air, or so elevated a residence, as might enable me to enter the lists with genuine bards, who have enjoyed both these advantages. But they derive considerable fame, and a few not less profit, from their productions; while I shall explate my rashness as an interloper, certainly without the latter, and in all probability with a very slight share of the former.

- The King of Terrors seized her as his prey,
 - Not worth, nor beauty, have her life redeem'd.
- Oh! could that King of Terrors pity feel,
- Or Heaven reverse the dread decrees of fate !
- Not here the mourner would his grief reveal,
 - Not here the muse her virtues would relate
- But wherefore weep? Her matchless spirit soars
 - Beyond where splendid shines the orb of day;
- And weeping angels lead her to those _____ bowers
 - Where endless pleasures virtue's deeds repay.

And shall presumptuous mortals Heaven arraign,

And, madly, godlike Providence accuse?

Ah! no, far fly from me attempts so vam; — I'll ne'er submission to my God refuse.

- Yet is remembrance of those virtues dear,
- Yet fresh the memory of that beauteous face;
- Still they call forth my warm affection's tear,
 - Still in my heart retain their wonted place.

1802.

TO E----

[To the son of one of By1on's tenants at Newstead]

LET Folly smile, to view the names Of thee and me in friendship twined;

Yet Virtue will have greater claims To love, than rank with vice combined.

And though unequal is thy fate, Since title deck'd my higher birth '

Yet envy not this gaudy state; Thine is the pride of modest worth.

Our souls at least congenial meet, Nor can thy lot my rank disgrace;

Our intercourse is not less sweet,

Since worth of rank supplies the place. November, 1802.

TO D-----

[To George John, fifth Earl Delawarr.]

In thee, I fondly hoped to clasp

A friend, whom death alone could sever; Till envy, with malignant grasp,

Detach'd thee from my breast for ever.

True, she has forced thee from my breast, Yet in my heart thou keep'st thy seat;

There, there thine image still must rest, Until that heart shall cease to beat.

And, when the grave restores her dead, When life again to dust is given,

On thy dear breast I 'll lay my head — Without thee, where would be my heaven? February, 1803.

EPITAPH ON A FRIEND

'Αστηρ πριν μεν έλαμπες ενι ζωοίσιν έφος -- LABETIUS. [Quoted from Plato's epigram]

OH, Friend, for ever loved, for ever dear ! What fruitless tears have bathed thy hon-

- our'd bier ! What sighs re-echo'd to thy parting breath,
- Whilst thou wast struggling in the pangs of death !

Could tears retard the tyrant in his course; Could sighs avert his dart's releatless force; Could youth and virtue claim a short delay, Or beauty charm the spectre from his prey; Thou still hadst hved to bless my aching

- sight,
- Thy comrade's honour and thy friend's delight.

If yet thy gentle spirit hover nigh

The spot where now thy mouldering ashes lie, Here wilt thou read, recorded on my heart, A grief too deep to trust the sculptor's art.

No marble marks thy couch of lowly sleep,

But living statues there are seen to weep;

Affliction's semblance bends not o'er thy tomb,

Affliction's self deplores thy youthful doom.

- What though thy sire lament his failing line,
- A father's sorrows cannot equal mine !
- Though none, like thee, his dying hour will cheer,
- Yet other offspring soothe his anguish here:
- But, who with me shall hold thy former place?
- Thine image, what new friendship can efface?
- Ah, none ! a father's tears will cease to flow,

Time will assuage an infant brother's woe; To all, save one, is consolation known,

While solitary friendship sighs alone.

1803.

A FRAGMENT

WHEN, to their airy hall, my fathers' voice Shall call my spirit, joyful in their choice;

- When, poised upon the gale, my form shall ride,
- Or, dark m mist, descend the mountains side;
- Oh! may my shade behold no sculptured ur

- Fo mark the spot where earth to earth returns !
- No lengthen'd scroll, no praise-encumber'd stone;
- My epitaph shall be my name alone;

If that with honour fail to crown my clay, Oh may no other fame my deeds repay ! That, only that, shall single out the spot; By that remember'd, or with that forgot.

1803.

ON LEAVING NEWSTEAD ABBEY

'Why dost thou build the hall, son of the winged days' Thou lookest from thy tower to-day: yet a few years, and the blast of the desert comes, it howls in thy empty court.'---Ossian.

- THROUGH thy battlements, Newstead, the hollow winds whistle;
 - Thou, the hall of my fathers, art gone to decay;
- In thy once smiling garden, the hemlock and thistle
 - Have choked up the rose which late bloom'd in the way.
- Of the mail-cover'd Barons, who proudly to battle
 - Led their vassals from Europe to Palestine's plam,
- The escutcheon and shield, which with every blast rattle,
 - Are the only sad vestiges now that remain.
- No more doth old Robert, with harp-stringing numbers,

Raise a flame in the breast for the warlaurell'd wreath;

Near Askalon's towers, John of Horistan slumbers,

Unnerved is the hand of his minstrel by death

- Paul and Hubert, too, sleep in the valley of Cressy;
 - For the safety of Edward and England they fell:
- My fathers ! the tears of your country redress ye;
 - How you fought, how you died, still her annals can tell.

- On Marston, with Rupert, 'gainst traitors contending,
 - Four brothers enrich'd with their blood the bleak field;
- For the rights of a monarch their country defending,
 - Till death their attachment to royalty seal'd. 20
- Shades of heroes, farewell ! your descendant, departing
 - From the seat of his ancestors, bids you adieu !
- Abroad, or at home, your remembrance imparting
 - New courage, he'll think upon glory and you.
- Though a tear dim his eye at this sad separation,
 - 'T is nature, not fear, that excites his regret;
- Far distant he goes, with the same emulation,
 - The fame of his fathers he ne'er can forget.
- That fame, and that memory, still will he cherish;
 - He vows that he ne'er will disgrace your renown: 30
- Like you will he live, or like you will he perish;
 - When decay'd, may he mingle his dust with your own ! 1803.

LINES

WRITTEN IN 'LETTERS TO AN ITALIAN NUN AND AN ENGLISH GENTLEMAN: BY J. J. ROUSSEAU: FOUNDED ON FACTS'

'AwAY, away, your flattering arts May now betray some simpler hearts; And you will smile at their believing, And they shall weep at your deceiving.'

ANSWER TO THE FOREGOING, ADDRESSED TO MISS -----

DEAR, simple girl, those flattering arts, From which thou 'dst guard frail female hearts, Exist but in imagination,

36

Mere phantoms of thine own creation; For he who views that witching grace, That perfect form, that lovely face, With eyes admiring, oh, believe me, He never wishes to deceive thee! Once in thy polish'd mirror glance, Thou'lt there descry that elegance, Which from our sex demands such praises, But envy in the other raises: Then he who tells thee of thy beauty, Believe me, only does his duty: Ah! fly not from the candid youth; It is not flattery, —'t is truth.

July, 1804.

ADRIAN'S ADDRESS TO HIS SOUL WHEN DYING

Animula ' vagula, blandula, Hospes comesque corporis, Quæ nunc abibis in loca — Pallidula, rigida, nudula, Nec, ut soles, dabis jocos ?

AH! gentle, fleeting, wav'ring sprite, Friend and associate of this clay! To what unknown region borne, Wilt thou now wing thy distant flight? No more with wonted humour gay, But pallid, cheerless, and forlorn. 1806.

TRANSLATION FROM CATULLUS

AD LESBIAM

[Catullus's translation of the famous ode of Sappho.]

EQUAL to Jove that youth must be ---Greater than Jove he seems to me -Who, free from Jealousy's alarms, Securely views thy matchless charms That cheek, which ever dimpling glows, That mouth, from whence such music flows, To him, alike, are always known, Reserved for him, and him alone. Ah, Lesbia ! though 't is death to me, I cannot choose but look on thee; But at the sight my senses fly; I needs must gaze, but, gazing, die; Whilst trembling with a thousand fears, Parch'd to the throat my tongue adheres, My pulse beats quick, my breath heaves short,

My limbs deny their slight support,

Cold dews my pallid face o'erspread, With deadly languor droops my head, My ears with tingling echoes ring, And life itself is on the wing; My eyes refuse the cheering light, Their orbs are veil'd in starless might: Such pangs my nature sinks beneath, And feels a temporary death.

TRANSLATION OF THE EPITAPH ON VIRGIL AND TIBULLUS

BY DOMITIUS MARSUS

HE who sublime in epic numbers roll'd, And he who struck the softer lyre of love, By Death's unequal hand alike controll'd, Fit comrades in Elysian regions move.

IMITATION OF TIBULLUS

Sulpicia ad Cerinthum. - Lib. 4

CRUEL Cerinthus ! does the fell disease Which racks my breast your fickle bosom please ?

Alas! I wish'd but to o'ercome the pain, That I might live for love and you again: But now I scarcely shall bewail my fate; By death alone I can avoid your hate.

TRANSLATION FROM CATULLUS

Lugete, Veneres, Cupidinesque, etc.

YE Cupids, droop each little head, Nor let your wings with joy be spread, My Lesbia's favourite bird is dead,

Whom dearer than her eyes she loved: For he was gentle, and so true,

Obedient to her call he flew,

No fear, no wild alarm he knew,

But lightly o'er her bosom moved.

And softly fluttering here and there, He never sought to cleave the air, But chirup'd oft, and, free from care,

Tuned to her ear his grateful strain. Now having pass'd the gloomy bourne From whence he never can return, His death and Lesbia's grief I mourn,

Who sighs, alas ! but sighs in vain.

Oh ! curst be thou, devouring grave ! Whose jaws eternal victums crave, From whom no earthly power can save,

For thou hast ta'en the bird away: From thee my Lesbia's eyes o'erflow, Her swollen cheeks with weeping glow; Thou art the cause of all her woe, Becent table of bird's decay.

Receptacle of life's decay.

IMITATED FROM CATULLUS

TO ELLEN

[An imitation of 'Mellitos oculos tuos, Juventi']

OH! might I kiss those eyes of fire, A million scarce would quench desire: Still would I steep my hps m bliss, And dwell an age on every kiss; Nor then my soul should sated be, Still would I kiss and cling to thee: Nought should my kiss from thine dissever; Still would we kiss, and kiss for ever, E'en though the numbers did exceed The yellow harvest's countless seed. To part would be a vain endeavour: Could I desist? — ah! never — never ! November 16, 1806

TRANSLATION FROM HORACE

Justum et tenacem propositi virum, etc

THE man of firm and noble soul No factious clamours can control; No threat'ning tyrant's darkling brow Can swerve him from his just intent: Gales the warring waves which plough, By Auster on the billows spent, To curb the Adriatic main, Would awe his fix'd determined mind in vain. Ay, and the red right arm of Jove, Hurtling his lightnings from above, With all his terrors there unfurl'd, He would, unmoved, unawed behold. The flames of an expiring world, Again in crashing chaos roll'd, In vast promiseuous ruin hurl'd, Might light his glorious funeral pile: Still dauntless midst the wreck of earth he 'd smile.

FROM ANACREON

Θελω λέγειν Ατρείδας, κ. τ λ.

I WISH to tune my quivering lyre To deeds of fame and notes of fire; To echo, from its rising swell, How heroes fought and nations fell, When Atreus' sons advanced to war, Or Tyrian Cadmus roved afar; But still, to martial strains unknown, My lyre recurs to love alone. Fired with the hope of future fame. I seek some nobler hero's name; The dying chords are strung anew, To war, to war, my harp is due. With glowing strings, the epic stram To Jove's great son I raise again; Alcides and his glorious deeds, Beneath whose arm the Hydra bleeds All, all in vain; my wayward lyre Wakes silver notes of soft desire. Adieu, ye chiefs renown'd in arms ! Adieu the clang of war's alarms ! To other deeds my soul is strung, And sweeter notes shall now be sung; My harp shall all its powers reveal, To tell the tale my heart must feel; Love, Love alone, my lyre shall claim, In songs of bliss and sighs of flame

FROM ANACREON

Μεσονυκτίοις ποθ ώραις, κ τ λ

'T was now the hour when Night had driven Her car half round yon sable heaven; Bootes, only, seem'd to roll His arctic charge around the pole; While mortals, lost in gentle sleep, Forgot to smile, or ceased to weep. At this lone hour the Paphian boy, Descending from the realms of joy, Quick to my gate directs his course, And knocks with all his little force τo My visions fled, alarm'd I rose, -'What stranger breaks my blest repose?' 'Alas '' replies the wily child, In faltering accents sweetly mild, ' A hapless infant here I roam, Far from my dear maternal home. Oh, shield me from the wintry blast ! The nightly storm is pouring fast.

No prowling robber lingers here. A wandering baby who can fear ?' 20 I heard his seeming artless tale, I heard his sighs upon the gale \cdot My breast was never pity's foe, But felt for all the baby's woe. I drew the bar, and by the light Young Love, the infant, met my sight; His bow across his shoulders flung, And thence his fatal quiver hung (Ah! little did I think the dart Would rankle soon within my heart). 30 With care I tend my weary guest, His little fingers chill my breast; His glossy curls, his azure wing, Which droop with nightly showers, I wring; His shivering limbs the embers warm; And now reviving from the storm, Scarce had he felt his wonted glow, Than swift he seized his slender bow: -'I fain would know, my gentle host,' He cried, 'if this its strength has lost; 40 I fear, relax'd with midnight dews, The strings their former aid refuse.' With poison tipt, his arrow flies, Deep in my tortured heart it lies; Then loud the joyous urchin laugh'd: -'My bow can still impel the shaft· 'T is firmly fix'd, thy sighs reveal it; Say, courteous host, canst thou not feel it?'

FROM THE PROMETHEUS VINC-TUS OF ÆSCHYLUS

Μηδαμ' ό πάντα νέμων, κ τ λ

GREAT Jove, to whose almighty throne Both gods and mortals homage pay, Ne'er may my soul thy power disown, Thy dread behests ne'er disobey. Oft shall the sacred victim fall In sea-girt Oceau's mossy hall; My voice shall raise no impious strain 'Gainst him who rules the sky and azure main.

How different now thy joyless fate, Since first Hesione thy bride, When placed aloft in godlike state, The blushing beauty by thy side, Thou sat'st, while reverend Ocean smiled, And mirthful strains the hours beguiled, The Nymphs and Tritons danced around, Nor yet thy doom was fix'd, nor Jove relentless frown'd.

HARROW, December 1, 1804.

TO EMMA

SINCE now the hour is come at last, When you must quit your anxious lover: Since now our dream of bliss is past, One pang, my girl, and all is over. Alas ! that pang will be severe, Which bids us part to meet no more; Which tears me far from one so dear, Departing for a distant shore Well ! we have pass'd some happy hours, And joy will mingle with our tears; 10 When thinking on these ancient towers, The shelter of our infant years; Where from this Gothic casement's height, We view'd the lake, the park, the dell, And still, though tears obstruct our sight, We lingering look a last farewell, O'er fields through which we used to run, And spend the hours in childish play; O'er shades where, when our race was done, Reposing on my breast you lay; 20 Whilst I, admiring, too remiss, Forgot to scare the hovering flies, Yet envied every fly the kiss It dared to give your slumbering eyes: See still the little painted bark, In which I row'd you o'er the lake; See there, high waving o'er the park, The elm I clamber'd for your sake. These times are past — our joys are gone, You leave me, leave this happy vale; 30 These scenes I must retrace alone: Without thee what will they avail? Who can conceive, who has not proved, The anguish of a last embrace? When, torn from all you fondly loved, You bid a long adieu to peace. This is the deepest of our woes, For this these tears our cheeks be dew; This is of love the final close, Oh, God ! the fondest, last adieu ! 10

TO M. S. G.	TO CAROLINE
WHENE'ER I view those lips of thine, Their hue invites my fervent kiss; Yet I forego that bliss divine, Alas, it were unhallow'd bliss!	THINK'ST thou I saw thy beauteous eyes, Suffused in tears, implore to stay; And heard unmoved thy plenteous sighs, Which said far more than words can say?
Whene'er I dream of that pure breast, How could I dwell upon its snows ! Yet is the daring wish repress'd, For that — would banish its repose.	Though keen the grief thy tears exprest, When love and hope lay both o'erthrown; Yet still, my girl, this bleeding breast Throbb'd with deep sorrow as thine own.
A glance from thy soul-searching eye Can raise with hope, depress with fear;	But when our cheeks with anguish glow'd, When thy sweet lips were join'd to mine, The tears that from my eyelids flow'd Were lost in those which fell from thine.
Yet I conceal my love — and why? I would not force a painful tear. I ne'er have told my love, yet thou	Thou couldst not feel my burning cheek, Thy gushing tears had quench'd its flame; And as thy tongue essay'd to speak, In sighs alone it breathed my name.
Hast seen my ardent flame too well; And shall I plead my passion now, To make thy bosom's heaven a hell? No! for thou never canst be mine,	And yet, my girl, we weep in vain, In vain our fate in sighs deplore; Remembrance only can remain, — But that will make us weep the more.
United by the priest's decree: By any ties but those divine, Mine, my beloved, thou ne'er shalt be. 20	Again, thou best beloved, adieu ! Ah ! if thou canst, o'ercome regret; Nor let thy mmd past joys review, — Our only hope is to forget !
Then let the secret fire consume, Let it consume, thou shalt not know: With joy I court a certain doom, Rather than spread its guilty glow.	1805. TO CAROLINE
I will not ease my tortured heart, By driving dove-eyed peace from thine;	You say you love, and yet your eye No symptom of that love conveys; You say you love, yet know not why, Your cheek no sign of love betrays.
Rather than such a sting impart, Each thought presumptuous I resign.	Ah ! did that breast with ardour glow, With me alone it joy could know, Or feel with me the listless woe,
Yes! yield those lips, for which I'd brave	Which racks my heart when far from thee.
More than I here shall dare to tell; 30 Thy innocence and mine to save, — I bid thee now a last farewell	Whene'er we meet my blushes rise, And mantle through my purpled cheek; But yet no blush to mine replies, Nor e'en your eyes your love bespeak.
Yes! yield that breast, to seek despair, And hope no more thy soft embrace; Which to obtain my soul would dare, All, all reproach — but thy disgrace.	Your voice alone declares your flame, And though so sweet it breathes my namo, Our passions still are not the same; Alas ! you can not love like me.
At least from guilt shalt thou be free, No matron shall thy shame reprove; Though cureless pangs may prey on me, No martyr shalt thou be to love. 40	For e'en your lip seems steep'd in snow, And though so oft it meets my kiss, It burns with no responsive glow, Nor melts like mine in dewy bliss. 20

 Ah ! what are words to love hke mune, Though utter'd by a voice hke thine, I still in murnurs must repine, And think that love can ne'er be true, Which meets me with no joyous sign, Without a sigh which bids adheu; — How different is my love from thine, How keen my grief when leaving you. Your image fills my anxious breast, Till day declines adown the West; 30 And when at night I sink to rest, In dreams your fancied form I view. 'T is then your breast, no longer cold, With equal ardour seems to burn, While close your arms around me fold, Your lips my kiss with warmth return. Ab ! would these joyous moments last; Vain HOFE ! the gay delusion 's past, That voice ! — ah, no, 't is but the blast Which echoes through the neighbouring grove. 40 But when awake, your lips I seek, And clasp enraptured all your charms, So chill 's the pressure of your cheek, I fold a statue in my arms. If thus, when to my heart embraced, No pleasure m your eyes is traced, You may be prudent, fair, and chaste, But ah ! my girl, you do not love. 	 That the time must arrive, when, no longer retaining Their auburn, those locks must wave thin to the breeze, When a few silver hairs of those tresses remaining Prove nature a prey to decay and disease. 'T is this, my beloved, which spreads gloom o'er my features, Though I ne'er shall presume to arraign the decree, Which God has proclaim'd as the fate of his creatures, In the death which one day will deprive you of me. Mistake not, sweet sceptic, the cause of emotion, No doubt can the mind of your lover invade; He worships each look with such faithful devoton, A smile can enchant, or a tear can dissuade. But as death, my beloved, soon or late shall o'ertake us, And our breasts, which alive with such sympathy glow, Will sleep in the grave till the blast shall awake us, When calling the dead, m earth's bosom laid low, —
 TO CAROLINE WHEN I hear you express an affection so warm, Ne'er think, my beloved, that I do not believe; For your hp would the soul of suspicion disarm, And your eye beams a ray which can never deceive Yet, still, this fond bosom regrets, while adoring, That love, hke the leaf, must fall into the sear; That age will come on, when remembrance, deploring, Contemplates the scenes of her youth with a tear; 	 Oh! then let us drain, while we may, draughts of pleasure, Which from passion like ours may unceasingly flow; Let us pass round the cup of love's bliss in full measure, And quaff the contents as our nectar below. 1805. TO CAROLINE OH when shall the grave hide for ever my sorrow? Oh when shall my soul wing her flight from this clay? The present is hell, and the coming to-morrow But brings, with new torture, the curse of to-day.

 From my eye flows no tear, from my lips flow no curses, I blast not the fiends who have hurl'd me from bliss; For poor is the soul which bewailing re- hearses Its querulous grief, when in anguish like this. 	 Who blames it but the envious fool, The old and disappointed maid; Or pupil of the prudish school, In single sorrow doom'd to fade ? Then read, dear girl ! with feeling read, For thou wilt ne'er be one of those; To thee in vain I shall not plead In pity for the poet's woes.
 Was my eye, 'stead of tears, with red fury flakes bright'ning, Would my lips breathe a flame which no stream could assuage, On our foes should my glance launch in vengeance its lightning, With transport my tongue give a loose to its rage 	He was in sooth a genuine bard, His was no faint fictitious flame; Like his, may love be thy reward, But not thy hapless fate the same. THE FIRST KISS OF LOVE
But now tears and curses, alike unavail-	Α Βάρβιτος δὲ χορδαῖς *Ερωτα μοῦνον ήχει - ΑΝΑCREON
ing, Would add to the souls of our tyrants delight; Could they view us our sad separation be- wailing, Their merciless hearts would rejoice at the sight.	Away with your fictions of flimsy romance, Those tissues of falsehood which folly has wove ! Give me the mild beam of the soul-breath- ing glance, Or the rapture which dwells on the first
 Yet still, though we bend with a feign'd resignation, Life beams not for us with one ray that can cheer; Love and hope upon earth bring no more consolation, In the grave is our hope, for in life is our fear. 	kiss of love. Ye rhymers, whose bosoms with phantasy glow, Whose pastoral passions are made for the grove; From what blest inspiration your sonnets would flow, Could you ever have tasted the first kiss
Oh ! when, my adored, in the tomb will they place me, Since, in life, love and friendship for ever are fled ? If again in the mansion of death I embrace thee,	of love ! If Apollo should e'er his assistance refuse, Or the Nine be disposed from your service to rove, Invoke them no more, bid adieu to the muse, And try the effect of the first kiss of love.
Perhaps they will leave unmolested the dead. 1805	I hate you, ye cold compositions of art ! Though prudes may condemn me, and bigots reprove,
STANZAS TO A LADY	I court the effusions that spring from the heart, of love.

move:

cal themes,

Which throbs with delight to the first kiss

Your shepherds, your flocks, those fantasti-

Perhaps may amuse, yet they never can

STANZAS TO A LADY

WITH THE POEMS OF CAMOENS

- THIS votive pledge of fond esteem, Perhaps, dear girl! for me thou'lt prize;
- It sings of Love's enchanting dream, A theme we never can despise.

- Arcadia displays but a region of dreams; What are visions like these to the first kiss ot love ?
- Oh! cease to affirm that man, since his birth,
 - From Adam till now, has with wretchedness strove;
- Some portion of paradise still is on earth,
- And Eden revives in the first kiss of love.
- When age chills the blood, when our pleasures are past —
 - For years fleet away with the wings of the dove —
- The dearest remembrance will still be the last,
 - Our sweetest memorial the first kiss of love.

December 23, 1806.

ON A CHANGE OF MASTERS AT A GREAT PUBLIC SCHOOL

[In March, 1805, Dr. Drury retired from his stutation of head-master at Harrow and was succeeded by Dr. Butler. Byron, before his departure for Greece, in 1809, became reconciled with Dr. Butler]

- WHERE are those honours, Ida ! once your own,
- When Probus filled your magisterial throne? As ancient Rome, fast falling to disgrace,
- Hail'd a barbarian in her Cæsar's place,
- So you, degenerate, share as hard a fate,
- And seat Pomposus where your Probus sate.
- Of narrow brain, yet of a narrower soul, Pomposus holds you in his harsh control; Pomposus, by no social virtue sway'd,
- With florid jargon, and with vain parade;
- With noisy nonsense, and new-fangled rules Such as were ne'er before enforced in
- schools.
- Mistaking pedantry for learning's laws,
- He governs, sanction'd but by self-applause
- With him the same dire fate attending Rome,
- Ill-fated Ida! soon must stamp your doom: Like her o'erthrown, for ever lost to fame,
- No trace of science left you, but the name.
 - July, 1805.

TO THE DUKE OF DORSET

DORSET! whose early steps with mine have stray'd,

Exploring every path of Ida's glade; Whom still affection taught me to defend, And made me less a tyrant than a friend.

- Though the harsh custom of our youthful band
- Bade thee obey, and gave me to command,
- Thee, on whose head a few short years will shower
- The gift of riches and the pride of power; E'en now a name illustrious is thine own,
- Renown'd in rank, not far beneath the throne.
- Yet, Dorset, let not this seduce thy soul
- To shun fair science, or evade control,
- Though passive tutors, fearful to dispraise
- The titled child whose future breath may raise,
- View ducal errors with indulgent eyes,
- And wink at faults they tremble to chastise. When youthful parasites, who bend the knee

To wealth, their golden idol, not to thee, — And even in simple boyhood's opening

- dawn
- Some slaves are found to flatter and to fawn, — 20
- When these declare, 'that pomp alone should wait

On one by birth predestined to be great;

- That books were only meant for drudging fools,
- That gallant spirits scorn the common rules;'
- Believe them not; they point the path to shame,

And seek to blast the honours of thy name. Turn to the few in Ida's early throng,

- Whose souls disdain not to condemn the wrong;
- Or if, amidst the comrades of thy youth,
- None dare to raise the sterner voice of truth, 30
- Ask thine own heart; 't will bid thee, boy, forbear;
- For well I know that virtue lingers there.
 - Yes ' I have mark'd thee many a passing day,
- But now new scenes invite me far away;
- Yes! I have mark'd within that generous mind
- A soul, if well matured, to bless mankind.

- Ah! though myself, by nature haughty, wild,
- Whom Indiscretion hail'd her favourite child;
- Though every error stamps me for her own,
- And dooms my fall, I fam would fall alone;
- Though my proud heart no precept now can tame, 4¹
- I love the virtues which I cannot claim.
 - 'T is not enough, with other sons of power,

To gleam the lambent meteor of an hour;

- To swell some peerage page in feeble pride, With long-drawn names that grace no page beside:
- Then share with titled crowds the common lot -

In life just gazed at, in the grave forgot;

- While naught divides thee from the vulgar dead
- Except the dull cold stone that hides thy head, 50
- The mouldering 'scutcheon, or the herald's roll,

That well-emblazon'd but neglected scroll,

Where lords, unhonour'd, in the tomb may find

One spot, to leave a worthless name behind. There sleep, unnoticed as the gloomy vaults

There steep, unifolded as the groonly values That veil their dust, their follies, and their faults,

- A race, with old armorial lists o'erspread, In records destined never to be read.
- Fain would I view thee, with prophetic eyes,

Exalted more among the good and wise, 60 A glorious and a long career pursue,

As first in rank, the first in talent too:

Spurn every vice, each little meanness shun;

Not Fortune's minion, but her noblest son Turn to the annals of a former day;

- Bright are the deeds thine earlier sires display.
- One, though a courtier, lived a man of worth,
- And call'd, proud boast ! the British drama forth.
- Another view, not less renown'd for wit; 69 Alike for courts, and camps, or senates fit; Bold in the field, and favour'd by the Nine; In every splendid part ordain'd to shine;

Far, far distinguish'd from the gluttering throng,

The pride of princes, and the boast of song.

- Such were thy fathers; thus preserve their name,
- Not heir to titles only, but to fame.
- The hour draws nigh, a few brief days will close
- To me, this little scene of joys and woes;

Each knell of Time now warns me to resign Shades where Hope, Peace, and Friendship

- all were mine:
- Hope, that could vary like the rainbow's hue,

And gild their pinions as the moments flew; Peace, that reflection never frown'd away,

- By dreams of ill to cloud some future day;
- Friendship, whose truth let childhood only tell,

Alas! they love not long, who love so well. To these adieu! nor let me lunger o'er

- Scenes hail'd, as exiles hail their native shore,
- Receding slowly through the dark-blue deep, 89

Beheld by eyes that mourn yet cannot weep. Dorset, farewell ! I will not ask one part

- Of sad remembrance in so young a heart;
- The coming morrow from thy youthful mind
- Will sweep my name, nor leave a trace behind.

And yet, perhaps, in some maturer year,

- Since chance has thrown us in the self-same sphere,
- Since the same senate, nay, the same debate,
- May one day claim our suffrage for the state,

We hence may meet, and pass each other by, With faint regard, or cold and distant eye. For me, in future, neither friend nor foe, 101

A stranger to thyself, thy weal or woe,

With thee no more again I hope to trace The recollection of our early race;

- No more, as once, in social hours rejoice,
- Or hear, unless in crowds, thy well-known voice.
- Still, if the wishes of a heart untaught
- To veil those feelings which perchance it ought,
- If these, but let me cease the lengthen'd strain, —
- Oh! if these wishes are not breathed in vain, 110

The guardian scraph who directs thy fate

Will leave thee glorious, as he found thee great.

1805.

FRAGMENT WRITTEN SHORTLY AFTER THE MAR- RIAGE OF MISS CHAWORTH	Now from the soporific scene I'll turn mine eye, as night grows later, To view, unheeded and unseen, The studious sons of Alma Mater.
[Miss Chaworth was married to John Mus-	There, in apartments small and damp, ters, Esq., in August, 1805. Byron in his later	The candidate for college prizes 30
poems often refers to his love for 'Mary' as	Sits poring by the midnight lamp;
having influenced his whole life.]	Goes late to bed, yet early rises.
HILLS of Annesley ! bleak and barren,	He surely well deserves to gain them,
Where my thoughtless childhood stray'd,	With all the honours of his college,
How the northern tempests, warring,	Who, striving hardly to obtain them,
Howl above thy tufted shade !	Thus seeks unprofitable knowledge:
Now no more, the hours beguiling, Former favourite haunts I see; Now no more my Mary smiling Makes ye seem a heaven to me. 1805.	Who sacrifices hours of rest To scan precisely metres Attic; Or agitates his anxious breast In solving problems mathematic: 40
GRANTA — A MEDLEY 'Αργυρεαις λόγχαισι μάχου καὶ πάντα κρατήσεις.	Who reads false quantities in Seale, Or puzzles o'er the deep triangle; Deprived of many a wholesome meal; In barbarous Latin doom'd to wrangle:
Он! could Le Sage's demon's gift	Renouncing every pleasing page
Be realized at my desire,	From authors of historic use;
This mght my trembling form he 'd lift	Preferring to the letter'd sage,
To place it on St. Mary's spire.	The square of the hypothenuse.
Then would, unroof'd, old Granta's halls	Still, harmless are these occupations,
Pedantic inmates full display;	That hurt none but the hapless student,
Fellows who dream on lawn or stalls,	Compared with other recreations 51
The price of venal votes to pay.	Which bring together the imprudent,
Then would I view each rival wight,	Whose daring revels shock the sight,
Petty and Palmerston survey;	When vice and infamy combine,
Who canvass there with all their might,	When drunkenness and dice mvite,
Against the next elective day.	As every sense is steep'd in wine.
Lo ! candidates and voters lie All lull'd in sleep, a goodly number: A race renown'd for piety, Whose conscience won't disturb their slumber.	Not so the methodistic crew, Who plans of reformation lay: In humble attitude they sue, And for the sins of others pray, 60
Lord H——, indeed, may not demur;	Forgetting that their pride of spirit,
Fellows are sage reflecting men:	Their exultation in their trial,
They know preferment can occur	Detracts most largely from the merit
But very seldom, — now and then. 20	Of all their boasted self-denial.
They know the Chancellor has got Some pretty livings in disposal; Each hopes that one may be his lot, And therefore smiles on his proposal.	'T is morn' — from these I turn my sight. What scene is this which meets the eye? A numerous crowd, array'd in white, Across the green in numbers fly.

HOURS OF IDLENESS

Loud rings in air the chapel bell; 'T is hush'd: — what sounds are these I hear? 7° The organ's soft celestial swell Rolls deeply on the list'ning ear.	Where science first dawn'd on the powers of reflection, And friendships were form'd, too roman- tic to last;
To this is join'd the sacred song, The royal minstrel's hallow'd strain; Though he who hears the music long Will never wish to hear again.	Where fancy yet joys to retrace the re- semblance Of comrades, in friendship and mischief allied; How welcome to me your ne'er fading re- membrance,
Our choir would scarcely be excused, Even as a band of raw beginners; All mercy now must be refused	Which rests in the bosom, though hope is denied !
To such a set of croaking sinners. So If David, when his toils were ended, Had heard these blockheads sing before	Again I revisit the hills where we sported, The streams where we swam, and the fields where we fought; The school where, loud warn'd by the bell.
To us his psalms had ne'er descended, — In furious mood he would have tore 'em.	To pore o'er the precepts by pedagogues taught.
The luckless Israelites, when taken By some inhuman tyrant's order, Were ask'd to sing, by joy forsaken, On Babyloman river's border. Oh ! had they sung in notes like these, Inspired by stratagem or fear, They might have set their hearts at	Again I behold where for hours I have pon- der'd, As reclining, at eve, on yon tombstone I lay; Or round the steep brow of the churchyard I wander'd, To catch the last gleam of the sun's set- ting ray.
ease, The devil a soul had stay'd to hear. But if I scribble longer now, The deuce a soul will stay to read: My pen is blunt, my ink is low; 'T is almost time to stop, indeed. Therefore, farewell, old Granta's spires ! No more, like Cleofas, I fly; No more thy theme my muse inspires: The reader 's tired, and so am I. October 28, 1806.	 I once more view the room, with spectators surrounded, Where, as Zanga, I trod on Alonzo o'erthrown; While, to swell my young pride, such applauses resounded, I fancied that Mossop himself was outshone: 20 Or, as Lear, I pour'd forth the deep imprecation, By my daughters of kingdom and reason
ON A DISTANT VIEW OF THE VILLAGE AND SCHOOL OF HARROW ON THE HILL Oh' multi preservices referant si Jupiter annos VIRGIL YE scenes of my childhood, whose loved recollection Embitters the present, compared with the past;	deprived; Till, fired by loud plaudits and self-adulation, I regarded myself as a Garrick revived. Ye dreams of my boyhood, how much I re- gret you! Unfaded your memory dwells in my breast; Though sad and deserted, I ne'er can for- get you: Your pleasures may still be in fancy pog- sest.

To Ida full oft may remembrance restore me,

While fate shall the shades of the future unroll ! 30

Since darkness o'ershadows the prospect before me,

More dear is the beam of the past to my soul.

But if, through the course of the years which await me,

Some new scene of pleasure should open to view,

- I will say, while with rapture the thought shall elate me,
 - 'Oh, such were the days which my infancy knew !'

1806.

TO M-----

OH! did those eyes, instead of fire, With bright but mild affection shine, Though they might kindle less desire, Love, more than mortal, would be thine.

For thou art form'd so heavenly fair, Howe'er those orbs may wildly beam,

We must admire, but still despair;

That fatal glance forbids esteem.

When Nature stamp'd thy beauteous birth,

So much perfection in thee shone,

She fear'd that, too divine for earth,

The skies might claim thee for their own:

Therefore, to guard her dearest work, Lest angels might dispute the prize, She bade a secret lightning lurk Within those once celestial eyes

These might the boldest sylph appal, When gleaming with meridian blaze; Thy beauty must enrapture all; But who can dare thine ardent gaze?

'T is said that Berenice's hair In stars adorns the vault of heaven; But they would ne'er permit thee there, Thou wouldst so far outshine the seven.

For did those eyes as planets roll, Thy sister-lights would scarce appe : E'en suns, which systems now control,

Would twinkle dumly through their sphere.

November 7, 1806.

TO ₩OMAN

WOMAN ! experience might have told me, That all must love thee who behold thee: Surely experience might have taught Thy firmest promises are nought But, placed m all thy charms before me, All I forget, but to adore thee. Oh memory ! thou choicest blessing When join'd with hope, when still possessmg;

But how much cursed by every lover When hope is fied and passion's over. Woman, that fair and fond deceiver, How prompt are striplings to believe her' How throbs the pulse when first we view The eye that rolls in glossy blue, Or sparkles black, or mildly throws A beam from under hazel brows ! How quick we credit every oath, And hear her plight the willing troth ! Fondly we hope 't will last for aye, When, lo ! she changes in a day This record will for ever stand, 'Woman, thy vows are traced in sand.'

TO M. S. G

WHEN I dream that you love me, you'll surely forgive;

Extend not your anger to sleep;

For in visions alone your affection can live, --

I rise, and it leaves me to weep.

Then, Morpheus ! envelope my faculties fast,

Shed o'er me your languor benign;

Should the dream of to-night but resemble the last,

What rapture celestial is mine !

They tell us that slumber, the sister of death,

Mortality's emblem is given;

- To fate how I long to resign my frail breath,
 - If this be a foretaste of heaven!

Ah! frown not, sweet lady, unbend your soft brow,

Nor deem me too happy in this;

- If I sin in my dream, I atone for it now, Thus doom'd but to gaze upon bliss.
- Though in visions, sweet lady, perhaps you may smile,

Oh, think not my penance deficient !

When dreams of your presence my slumbers beguile,

To awake will be torture sufficient.

TO MARY

ON RECEIVING HER PICTURE

[The 'Mary' of this poem is not to be confounded with the heiress of Annesley, or 'Mary' of Aberdeen]

THIS faint resemblance of thy charms, Though strong as mortal art could give,

My constant heart of fear disarms, Revives my hopes, and bids me live.

Here I can trace the locks of gold

Which round thy snowy forehead wave, The cheeks which sprung from beauty's mould,

The lips which made me beauty's slave.

Here I can trace — ah, no ' that eye, Whose azure floats in liquid fire, Must all the painter's art defy,

And bid him from the task retire.

Here I behold its beauteous hue; But where's the beam so sweetly straying,

Which gave a lustre to its blue, Like Luna o'er the ocean playing?

Sweet copy ! far more dear to me, Lifeless, unfeeling as thou art,

Than all the living forms could be, Save her who placed thee next my heart.

She placed it, sad, with needless fear, Lest time might shake my wavering soul,

Unconscious that her image there Held every sense in fast control.

- Through hours, through years, through time, 't will cheer ;
- My hope in gloomy moments raise;
- In life's last conflict 't will appear, And meet my fond expiring gaze.

TO LESBIA

[The Lesbia of this poem is Julia Leacroft.]

LESBIA ! since far from you I 've ranged, Our souls with fond affection glow not; You say 't is I, not you, have changed,

I'd tell you why, - but yet I know not.

Your polish'd brow no cares have crost; And, Lesbua ! we are not much older, Since, trembling, first my heart I lost, Or told my love, with hope grown bolder.

Sixteen was then our utmost age, Two years have lingering past away, love ! And now new thoughts our minds engage, At least I feel disposed to stray, love !

'T is I that am alone to blame, I, that am guilty of love's treason; Since your sweet breast is still the same, Caprice must be my only reason.

I do not, love ! suspect your truth, With jealous doubt my bosom heaves not; Warm was the passion of my youth, One trace of dark deceit it leaves not. 20

No, no, my flame was not pretended, For, oh! I loved you most sincerely; And—though our dream at last is ended – My bosom still esteems you dearly.

No more we meet in yonder bowers; Absence has made me prone to roving; But older, firmer hearts than ours Have found monotony in loving.

Your cheek's soft bloom is unimpair'd, 29 New beauties still are daily bright'ning, Your eye for conquest beams prepared, The forge of love's resistless lightning

Arm'd thus, to make their bosoms bleed, Many will throng to sigh like me, love ! More constant they may prove, indeed; Fonder, alas ! they ne'er can be, love ! [1806.]

30

LINES ADDRESSED TO A YOUNG LADY

As the author was discharging his pistols in a garden, two ladies passing near the spot were alarmed by the sound of a bullet hissing near them; to one of whom the following stanzas were addressed the next morning [The occurrence took place at Southwell, and the beautiful lady to whom the lines were addressed was Miss Houson]

DOUBTLESS, sweet girl ! the hissing lead, Wafting destruction o'er thy charms,

And hurtling o'er thy lovely head, Has fill'd that breast with fond alarms.

Surely some envious demon's force, Vex'd to behold such beauty here,

Impell'd the bullet's viewless course, Diverted from its first career.

Yes ' in that nearly fatal hour The ball obey'd some hell-born guide; 10

But Heaven, with interposing power, In pity turn'd the death aside.

Yet, as perchance one trembling tear Upon that thrilling bosom fell;

Which I, th' unconscious cause of fear, Extracted from its glistening cell.

Say, what dire penance can atone For such an outrage done to thee? Arraign'd before thy beauty's throne, What punishment wilt thou decree?

Might I perform the judge's part, The sentence I should scarce deplore; It only would restore a heart Which but belong'd to thee before.

The least atonement I can make Is to become no longer free; Henceforth I breathe but for thy sake, Thou shalt be all in all to me.

But thou, perhaps, may'st now reject Such explation of my guilt. Come then, some other mode elect;

Let it be death, or what thou wilt.

Choose then, relentless ' and I swear Nought shall thy dread decree prevent; Yet hold — one httle word forbear ! Let it be aught but banishment. LOVE'S LAST ADIEU

'Aei, δ' ἀεί με φεύγει. - ANACREON

- THE roses of love glad the garden of life, Though nurtured 'mid weeds dropping_ pestilent dew,
- Till time crops the leaves with unmerciful knife,
 - Or prunes them for ever, in love's last adieu !
- In vain with endearments we soothe the sad heart,

In vain do we vow for an age to be true; The chance of an hour may command us to part,

Or death disunite us in love's last adieu !

- Still Hope, breathing peace through the grief-swollen breast,
 - Will whisper, 'Our meeting we yet may renew.'
- With this dream of deceit half our sorrow's represt,

Nor taste we the poison of love's last adieu!

- Oh! mark you yon pair: in the sunshine of youth
 - Love twined round their childhood his flow'rs as they grew;
- They flourish awhile in the season of truth, Till chill'd by the winter of love's last adieu !
- Sweet lady! why thus doth a tear steal its way
 - Down a cheek which outrivals thy bosom in hue?
- Yet why do I ask ? to distraction a prey, Thy reason has perish'd with love's last adien ! 20
- Oh! who is yon misanthrope, shunning mankind?

From cities to caves of the forest he flew:

- There, raving, he howls his complaint to the wind;
 - The mountains reverberate love's last adieu '
- Now hate rules a heart which in love's easy chains
 - Once passion's tumultuous blandishments knew:

HOURS OF IDLENESS

Despair now inflames the dark tide of his veins;

He ponders in frenzy on love's last adieu !

- How he envies the wretch with a soul wrapt in steel !
 - His pleasures are scarce, yet his troubles are few, 30
- Who laughs at the pang that he never can feel,
 - And dreads not the anguish of love's last adieu !
- Youth flies, life decays, even hope 1s o'ercast;
 - No more with love's former devotion we sue:
- He spreads his young wing, he retires with the blast;
 - The shroud of affection is love's last adieu !
- In this life of probation for rapture divine, Astrea declares that some penance is due;
- From him who has worshipp'd at love's gentle shrine,
 - The atonement is ample in love's last adueu ! 40
- Who kneels to the god, on his altar of light Must myrtle and cypress alternately strew:
- His myrtle, an emblem of purest delight; His cypress, the garland of love's last adieu!

DAMÆTAS

[Moore applies these lines to Byron himself. E. H. Coleridge with more probability regards them as a saturical sketch of some acquaintance.]

In law an infant and in years a boy,

In mind a slave to every vicious joy;

- From every sense of shame and virtue wean'd;
- In lies an adept, in deceit a fiend;
- Versed in hypocrisy while yet a child;
- Fickle as wind, of inclinations wild;
- Woman his dupe, his heedless friend a tool; Old in the world, though scarcely broke from school;

Damætas ran through all the maze of sin, And found the goal when others just begin.

Even still conflicting passions shake his soul,

- And bid him drain the dregs of pleasure's bowl;
- But, pall'd with vice, he breaks his former cham,
- And what was once his bliss appears his bane

TO MARION

[To Harriet Maltby, who was 'cold, silent and reserved 'on meeting the poet.]

MARION, why that pensive brow? What disgust to life hast thou? Change that discontented air; Frowns become not one so fair. 'T is not love disturbs thy rest, Love 's a stranger to thy breast; He in dimpling smiles appears, Or mourns in sweetly timid tears, Or bends the languid eyelid down, But shuns the cold forbidding frown. ۲c Then resume thy former fire, Some will love, and all admire; While that icy aspect chills us, Nought but cool indifference thrills us. Wouldst thou wandering hearts beguile, Smile at least, or seem to smile. Eves like thine were never meant To hide their orbs in dark restraint; Spite of all thou fain wouldst say, Still in truant beams they play. 20 Thy lips - but here my modest Muse Her impulse chaste must needs refuse. She blushes, curt'sies, frowns - in short she Dreads lest the subject should transport me; And flying off in search of reason, Brings prudence back in proper season. All I shall therefore say (whate'er I think, is neither here nor there) Is, that such lips, of looks endearing, Were form'd for better things than sneering. 30 Of soothing compliments divested, Advice at least 's disinterested; Such is my artless song to thee, From all the flow of flattery free; Counsel like mine is as a brother's. My heart is given to some others; That is to say, unskill'd to cozen, It shares itself among a dozen

Marion, adieu ! oh, pr'ythee slight not

This warning, though it may delight not; And, lest my precepts be displeasing To those who think remonstrance teasing, At once I'll tell thee our opinion Concerning woman's soft dominion: Howe'er we gaze with admiration On eyes of blue or lips carnation, Howe'er the flowing locks attract us, Howe'er those beauties may distract us, Still fickle, we are prone to rove, These cannot fix our souls to love: 50 It is not too severe a stricture To say they form a pretty picture; But wouldst thou see the secret chain Which binds us in your humble train, To hail you queens of all creation, Know, in a word, 't is ANIMATION.

January 10, 1807.

TO A LADY

WHO PRESENTED TO THE AUTHOR A LOCK OF HAIR BRAIDED WITH HIS OWN, AND APPOINTED A NIGHT IN DECEMBER TO MEET HIM IN THE GARDEN

[This poem is addressed to the 'Mary' of the lines beginning, 'This faint resemblance of thy charms']

THESE locks, which fondly thus entwine, In firmer chains our hearts confine Than all th' unmeaning protestations Which swell with nonsense love orations. Our love is fix'd, I think we've proved it, Nor time, nor place, nor art have moved it; Then wherefore should we sigh and whine, With groundless jealousy repine, With silly whims and fancies frantic, Merely to make our love romantic? Why should you weep like Lydia Languish, And fret with self-created anguish? Or doom the lover you have chosen, On winter nights to sigh half frozen; In leafless shades to sue for pardon, Only because the scene 's a garden? For gardens seem, by one consent (Since Shakspeare set the precedent, Since Juliet first declared her passion), To form the place of assignation. 20 Oh! would some modern muse inspire, And seat her by a sea-coal fire; Or had the bard at Christmas written, And laid the scene of love in Britain, He surely, in commiseration,

Had changed the place of declaration. In Italy I've no objection, Warm nights are proper for reflection; But here our climate is so rigid, That love itself is rather frigid: Think on our chilly situation, And curb this rage for imitation. Then let us meet, as oft we 've done, Beneath the influence of the sun; Or, if at midnight I must meet you, Within your mansion let me greet you: There we can love for hours together, Much better, in such snowy weather, Than placed in all th' Arcadian groves That ever witness'd rural loves; Then, if my passion fail to please, Next night I'll be content to freeze; No more I'll give a loose to laughter, But curse my fate for ever after.

OSCAR OF ALVA

A TALE

['The catastrophe of this tale was suggested by the story of Jeronymo and Lorenzo, in the first volume of Schiller's Armenian, or the Ghost-Seer It also bears some resemblance to a scene in the third act of Macbeth.' — BYRON, Note]

How sweetly shines through azure skies, The lamp of heaven on Lora's shore;

Where Alva's hoary turrets rise, And hear the din of arms no more.

But often has yon rolling moon On Alva's casques of silver play'd; And view'd, at midnight's silent noon, Her chiefs in gleaning mail array'd:

And on the crimson'd rocks beneath, Which scowl o'er ocean's sullen flow, Pale in the scatter'd ranks of death, She saw the gasping warrior low;

While many an eye which ne'er again Could mark the rising orb of day, Turn'd feebly from the gory plain, Beheld in death her fading ray.

Once to those eyes the lamp of Love, They blest her dear propitious light; But now she glimmer'd from above, A sad, funereal torch of night.

Faded is Alva's noble race, And gray her towers are seen afar; No more her heroes urge the chase, Or roll the crimson tide of war.	But Oscar own'd a hero's soul, Hisdarkeyeshone through beams of truth; Allan had early learn'd control, And smooth his words had been from youth.
But who was last of Alva's clan?	Both, both were brave the Saxon spear
Why grows the moss on Alva's stone?	Was shiver'd oft beneath their steel; 74
Her towers resound no steps of man,	And Oscar's bosom scorn'd to fear,
They echo to the gale alone.	But Oscar's bosom knew to feel;
And when that gale is fierce and high,	While Allan's soul belied his form,
A sound is heard in yonder hall; 30	Unworthy with such charms to dwell:
It rises hoarsely through the sky,	Keen as the lightning of the storm,
And vibrates o'er the mouldering wall.	On foes his deadly vengeance fell.
Yes, when the eddying tempest sighs,	From high Southannon's distant tower
It shakes the shield of Oscar brave;	Arrived a young and noble dame;
But there no more his banners rise,	With Kenneth's lands to form her dower,
No more his plumes of sable wave.	Glenalvon's blue-eyed daughter came; a
Fair shone the sun on Oscar's birth,	And Oscar claim'd the beauteous bride,
When Angus hail'd his eldest born;	And Angus on his Oscar smiled;
The vassals round their chieftain's hearth	It soothed the father's feudal pride
Crowd to applaud the happy morn. 40	Thus to obtain Glenalvon's child.
They feast upon the mountain deer,	Hark to the pibroch's pleasing note !
The pibroch raised its piercing note;	Hark to the swelling nuptial song !
To gladden more their highland cheer,	In joyous strains the voices float,
The strains in martial numbers float.	And still the choral peal prolong.
And they who heard the war-notes wild,	See how the heroes' blood-red plumes
Hoped that one day the pibroch's strain	Assembled wave in Alva's hall;
Should play before the hero's child,	Each youth his varied plaid assumes,
While he should lead the tartan train.	Attending on their chieftain's call.
Another year is quickly past,	It is not war their aid demands,
And Angus hails another son; 50	The pibroch plays the song of peace;
His natal day is like the last,	To Oscar's nuptials throng the bands,
Nor soon the jocund feast was done.	Nor yet the sounds of pleasure cease.
Taught by their sire to bend the bow,	But where is Oscar? sure 't is late:
On Alva's dusky hills of wind,	Is this a bridegroom's ardent flame?
The boys in childhood chased the roe,	While thronging guests and ladies wait,
And left their hounds in speed behind.	Nor Oscar nor his brother came.
But ere their years of youth are o'er, They mingle in the ranks of war; They lightly wheel the bright claymore, And send the whistling arrow far. 60	At length young Allan join'd the bride: 'Why comes not Oscar,' Angus said: 'Is he not here?' the youth replied; 'With me he roved not o'er the glade:
Dark was the flow of Oscar's hair, Wildly it stream'd along the gale; But Allan's locks were bright and fair, And pensive seem'd his cheek, and pale.	'Perchance forgetful of the day, 'T is his to chase the bounding roe; Or ocean's waves prolong his stay; Yet Oscar's bark is seldom slow.'

'Oh no !' the anguish'd sire rejoin'd,	Days roll'd along, the orb of light
'Nor chase nor wave my boy delay; 110	Again had run his destined race;
Would he to Mora seem unkind ?	No Oscar bless'd his father's sight,
Would aught to her impede his way?	And sorrow left a fainter trace.
'Oh search, ye chiefs ! oh search around !	For youthful Allan still remain'd,
Allan, with these through Alva fly;	And now his father's only joy;
Till Oscar, till my son is found,	And Mora's heart was quickly gain'd,
Haste, haste, nor dare attempt reply.'	For beauty crown'd the fair-hair'd boy.
All is confusion — through the vale	She thought that Oscar low was laid, ¹⁶
The name of Oscar hoarsely rings,	And Allan's face was wondrous fair;
It rises on the murmuring gale,	If Oscar lived, some other maid
Till night expands her dusky wings. 120	Had claim'd his faithless bosom's care.
It breaks the stillness of the night,	And Angus said, if one year more
But echoes through her shades in vain;	In fruitless hope was pass'd away,
It sounds through morning's misty light,	His fondest scruples should be o'er,
But Oscar comes not o'er the plain.	And he would name their nuptial day.
Three days, three sleepless nights, the Chief For Oscar search'd each mountain cave; Then hope is lost; in boundless grief, His locks in gray-torn ringlets wave.	Slow roll'd the moons, but blest at last Arrived the dearly destined morn; 170 The year of anxious trembling past, What smiles the lovers' cheeks adorn !
•Oscar ! my son ! — thou God of Heaven;	Hark to the pibroch's pleasing note !
Restore the prop of sinking age ! 130	Hark to the swelling nuptial song !
Or if that hope no more is given,	In joyous strains the voices float,
Yield his assassin to my rage.	And still the choral peal prolong.
'Yes, on some desert rocky shore	Again the clan, in festive crowd,
My Oscar's whiten'd bones must lie;	Throng through the gate of Alva's hall;
Then grant, thou God ! I ask no more,	The sounds of mirth re-echo loud,
With him his frantic sire may die !	And all their former joy recall. 18c
'Yet he may live, — away, despair !	But who is he, whose darken'd brow
Be calm, my soul ! he yet may live;	Glooms in the midst of general mirth?
T' arraign my fate, my voice forbear !	Before his eyes' far fiercer glow
O God ! my impious prayer forgive. 140	The blue flames curdle o'er the hearth.
What, if he live for me no more,	Dark is the robe which wraps his form,
I sink forgotten in the dust,	And tall his plume of gory red;
The hope of Alva's age is o'er;	His voice is like the rising storm,
Alas ! can pangs like these be just?'	But light and trackless is his tread.
Thus did the hapless parent mourn, Till Time, who soothes severest woe, Had bade serenity return, And made the tear-drop cease to flow.	'T is noon of night, the pledge goes round, The bridegroom's health is deeply quaff'd; 190 With shouts the vaulted roofs resound, And all combine to hail the draught.
For still some latent hope survived	Sudden the stranger-chief arose,
That Oscar might once more appear;	And all the clamorous crowd are hush'd;
His hope now droop'd and now revived,	And Angus' cheek with wonder glows,
Till Time had told a tedious year	And Mora's tender bosom blush'd.

'Old man !' he cried, 'this pledge is done; Thou saw'st 't was duly drunk by me: It hail'd the nuptials of thy son; Now will I claim a pledge from thee. 200	 'And is it thus a brother hails A brother's fond remembrance here? If thus affection's strength prevails, What might we not expect from fear?' Roused by the sneer, he raised the bowl,
While all around is mirth and joy,	Would Oscar now could share our
To bless thy Allan's happy lot,	mirth !'
Say, hadst thou ne'er another boy?	Internal fear appall'd his soul;
Say, why should Oscar be forgot?'	He said, and dash'd the cup to earth.
 Alas !' the hapless sire replied,	 'T is he! I hear my murderer's voice!'
The big tear starting as he spoke, When Oscar left my hall, or died,	Loud shrieks a darkly gleaming form; 'A murderer's voice!' the roof replies, 251
This aged heart was almost broke.	And deeply swells the bursting storm.
'Thrice has the earth revolved her course	The tapers wink, the chieftains shrink,
Since Oscar's form has bless'd my sight;	The stranger's gone, — amidst the crew
And Allan is my last resource, 211	A form was seen in tartan green,
Since martial Oscar's death or flight.'	And tall the shade terrific grew.
'T is well,' replied the stranger stern, And fiercely flash'd his rolling eye: Thy Oscar's fate I fain would learn; Perhaps the hero did not die.	His waist was bound with a broad belt round, His plume of sable stream'd on high; But his breast was bare, with the red wounds there, 210
¹ Perchance, if those whom most he loved	And fix'd was the glare of his glassy eye.
Would call, thy Oscar might return;	And thrice he smiled, with his eye so wild,
Perchance the chief has only roved;	On Angus bending low the knee;
For him thy Beltane yet may burn. 220	And thrice he frown'd on a chief on the
² Fill high the bowl the table round,	ground,
 We will not claim the pledge by stealth: With wine let every cup be crown'd;	 Whom shivering crowds with horror see. The bolts loud roll from pole to pole,
Pledge me departed Oscar's health.' With all my soul,' old Angus said,	The thunders through the welkin ring, And the gleaming form, through the mist
And fill'd his gobiet to the brim; 'Here 's to my boy ! alive or dead,	of the storm, Was borne on high by the whirlwind's
I ne'er shall find a son like him.'	wing.
'Bravely, old man, this health has sped;	Cold was the feast, the revel ceased, —
But why does Allan trembling stand ? 230	Who lies upon the stony floor ? 270
Come, drink remembrance of the dead,	Oblivion press'd old Angus' breast,
And raise thy cup with firmer hand '	At length his life-pulse throbs once more.
The crimson glow of Allan's face	'Away, away ! let the leech essay
Was turn'd at once to ghastly hue;	To pour the light on Allan's eyes:'
The drops of death each other chase	His sand is done, his race is run;
Adown in agounzing dew.	Oh, never more shall Allan rise !
Thrice did he raise the goblet high,	But Oscar's breast is cold as clay,
And thrice his lips refused to taste;	His locks are lifted by the gale;
For thrice he caught the stranger's eye	And Allan's barbed arrow lay

On his with deadly fury placed 240 With him in dark Glentanar's vale. 280

And whence the dreadful stranger came, Or who, no mortal wight can tell;	Well skill'd in fight the quivering lance to wield,
But no one doubts the form of flame, For Alva's sons knew Oscar well.	Or pour his arrows through th' embattled field:
Ambition nerved young Allan's hand, Exulting demons wing'd his dart; While Envy waved her burning brand,	From Ida torn, he left his sylvan cave, And sought a foreign home, a distant grave. To watch the movements of the Daunian host,
And pour'd her venom round his heart.	With him Euryalus sustains the post; No loveher mien adorn'd the ranks of Troy,
Swift is the shaft from Allan's bow; Whose streaming life-blood stains his side? 290	And beardless bloom yet graced the gallant boy; ¹⁰ Though few the seasons of his youthful life,
Dark Oscar's sable crest is low, The dart has drunk his vital tide.	As yet a novice in the martial strife, 'T was his, with beauty, valour's gifts to share —
And Mora's eye could Allan move, She bade his wounded prile rebel; Alas! that eyes which beam'd with love	A soul heroic, as his form was fair These burn with one pure flame of generous love;
Should urge the soul to deeds of hell.	In peace, in war, united still they move; Friendship and glory form their joint re-
Lo ! seest thou not a lonely tomb Which rises o'er a warrior dead ? It glummers through the twilight gloom; Oh ! that is Allan's nuptial bed. 300	ward; And now combined they hold their nightly guard.
Far, distant far, the noble grave	'What god,' exclaim'd the first, 'instils this fire?
Which held his clan's great ashes stood; And o'er his corse no banners wave, For they were stain'd with kindred blood.	Or, in itself a god, what great desire? 20 My labouring soul, with anxious thought oppress'd, Abhors this station of inglorious rest;
What minstrel gray, what hoary bard, Shall Allan's deeds on harp-strings raise? The song is glory's chief reward, But who can strike a murderer's praise?	The love of fame with this can ill accord, Be 't mine to seek for glory with my sword. Seest thou yon camp, with torches twin- kling dim,
Unstrung, untouch'd, the harp must stand,	Where drunken slumbers wrap each lazy hmb?
No minstrel dare the theme awake; 310 Guilt would benumb his palsied hand,	Where confidence and ease the watch dis- dain,
His harp in shuddering chords would break.	And drowsy Silence holds her sable reign? Then hear my thought: — In deep and sul-
No lyre of fame, no hallow'd verse, Shall sound his glories high in air:	len grief Our troops and leaders mourn their absent chief: 30
A dying father's bitter curse, A brother's death-groan echoes there.	Now could the gifts and promised prize be thine (The deed, the danger, and the fame be
THE PRICE OF MANA AND	mine), Were this decreed, beneath yon rising
THE EPISODE OF NISUS AND EURYALUS	mound, Methinks, an easy path perchance were
A PARAPHRASE FROM THE ÆNEID, LIB. IX	found;

NISUS, the guardi of the portal, stood, Eager to gild his arms with hostile blood;

- L
- b •

- t 0
- е
- е
- g
- e
- Which past, I speed my way to Pallas' walls, And lead Æneas from Evander's halls.'

With equal ardour fired and warlıke joy, His glowing friend address'd the Dardan boy.—

- 'These deeds, my Nisus, shalt thou dare alone?
- Must all the fame, the peril, be thine own? Am I by thee despised and left afar, 4¹
- As one unfit to share the toils of war? Not thus his son the great Opheltes taught; Not thus my sire in Argive combats fought;
- Not thus, when Ilion fell by heavenly hate, I track'd Æneas through the walks of fate:
- Thou know'st my deeds, my breast devoid of fear,
- And hostile life-drops dum my gory spear.
- Here is a soul with hope immortal burns,
- And life, ignoble life, for glory spurns. 50 Fame, fame is cheaply earn'd by fleeting breath:

The price of honour is the sleep of death.'

Then Nisus, — 'Calm thy bosom's fond alarms,

- Thy heart beats fiercely to the din of arms.
- More dear thy worth and valour than my own,

I swear by him who fills Olympus' throne ! So may I triumph, as I speak the truth,

- And clasp again the comrade of my youth !
- But should I fall, and he who dares ad-
- vance Through hostile legions must abide by
- chance, 60 If some Rutulian arm, with adverse blow,
- It some Kutulian arm, with adverse blow,
- Should lay the friend, who ever loved thee, low,
- Live thou such beauties I would fain preserve —
- Thy budding years a lengthen'd term deserve.

When humbled in the dust, let some one be

- Whose gentle eyes will shed one tear for me;
- Whose manly arm may snatch me back by force,
- Or wealth redeem from foes my captive corse;
- Or, if my destiny these last deny,
- If in the spoiler's power my ashes lie, 70
- Thy pious care may raise a simple tomb,
- To mark thy love, and signalize my doom
- Why should thy doting wretched mother weep
- Her only boy, reclined in endless sleep?

- Who, for thy sake, the tempest's fury dared,
- Who, for thy sake, war's deadly peril shared,
- Who braved what woman never braved before,
- And left her native for the Latian shore.'
- 'In vain you damp the ardour of my soul.'
- Replied Euryalus; 'it scorns control ! 80
- Hence, let us haste !' -- their brother guards arose,
- Roused by their call, nor court again repose;
- The pair, buoy'd up on Hope's exulting wing,
- Their stations leave and speed to seek the king.
 - Now o'er the earth a solemn stillness ran,
- And lull'd alike the cares of brute and man;
- Save where the Dardan leaders nightly hold
- Alternate converse, and their plans unfold.
- On one great point the council are agreed,
- An instant message to their prince decreed; Each lean'd upon the lance he well could wield,
- And poised with easy arm his ancient shield;
- When Nisus and his friend their leave request
- To offer something to their high behest.
- With anxious tremors, yet unawed by fear,

The faithful pair before the throne appear:

- Iulus greets them; at his kind command,
- The elder first address'd the hoary band.
 - 'With patience' (thus Hyrtacides began),
- Attend, nor judge from youth our humble plan.
- Where yonder beacons half-expiring beam,
- Our slumbering foes of future conquest dream,
- Nor heed that we a secret path have traced, Between the ocean and the portal placed,
- Beneath the covert of the blackening smoke Whose shade securely our design will cloak !
- If you, ye chiefs, and fortune will allow,
- We'll bend our course to yonder mountain's brow,

Where Pallas' walls at distance meet the sight,	Saved from Arisba's stately domes o'er- thrown;
Seen o'er the glade, when not obscured by night.	My sire secured them on that fatal day, Nor left such bowls an Argive robber's
Then shall Æneas in his pride return,	prey.
While hostile matrons raise their offspring's	Two massy tripods, also, shall be thine;
urn;	Two talents polish'd from the glittering
And Latian spoils and purpled heaps of	mine; 150
dead	An ancient cup, which Tyrian Dido gave,
Shall mark the havoc of our hero's tread	While yet our vessels press'd the Punic
Such is our purpose, not unknown the way;	wave But when the hostile chiefs at length bow
Where yonder torrent's devious waters	down,
stray, Oft have we seen, when hunting by the	When great Æneas wears Hesperia's crown,
stream,	The casque, the buckler, and the fiery steed
The distant spires above the valleys gleam.'	Which Turnus guides with more than mor- tal speed,
Mature in years, for sober wisdom famed,	Are thine; no envious lot shall then be cast,
Moved by the speech, Alethes here ex-	I pledge my word, irrevocably past:
claun'd, — 120	Nay more, twelve slaves, and twice six cap-
'Ye parent gods ' who rule the fate of	tive dames
Troy,	To soothe thy softer hours with amorous
Still dwells the Dardan spirit in the boy;	flames, 160
When minds like these in striplings thus ye	And all the realms which now the Latins raise,	sway,
Yours is the godlike act, be yours the praise;	The labours of to-night shall well repay.
In gallant youth my fainting hopes revive,	But thou, my generous youth, whose tender years
And Ilion's wonted glories still survive '	Are near my own, whose worth my heart
Then in his warm embrace the boys he	reveres,
press'd,	Henceforth affection, sweetly thus begun,
And, quivering, stram'd them to his aged	Shall join our bosoms and our souls in one.
breast;	Without thy aid no glory shall be mine;
With tears the burning cheek of each be-	Without thy dear advice, no great design;
dew'd,	Alike through life esteem'd, thou godlike
And, sobbing, thus his first discourse re- new'd:	boy, In war my bulwark, and in peace my joy.'
'What gift, my countrymen, what martial	In war my butwark, and m peace my joy.
prize	To him Euryalus 'No day shall shame
Can we bestow, which you may not de-	The rising glories which from this I claim.
spise?	Fortune may favour, or the skies may
Our deities the first best boon have given —	frown,
Internal virtues are the gift of Heaven.	But valour, spite of fate, obtains renown.
What poor rewards can bless your deeds on	Yet, ere from hence our eager steps depart, earth, Doubtloss amout such young availed worth	One boon I beg, the nearest to my heart.
Doubtless awart such young, exalted worth. Æneas and Ascanius shall combine	My mother, sprung from Priam's royal line, Like thine ennobled, hardly less divine,
To yield applause far, far surpassing mine.'	Nor Troy nor king Acestes' realms restrain
Iulus then 'By all the powers above !	Her feeble age from dangers of the main;
By those Penates who my country love! 140	Alone she came, all selfish fears above, 181
By hoary Vesta's sacred fane, I swear,	A bright example of maternal love.
My hopes are all in you, ye generous pair !	Unknown the secret enterprise I brave,
Restore my father to my grateful sight,	Lest grief should bend my parent to the
And all my sorrows yield to one delight.	grave,

Nisus ! two silver goblets are thine own, From this alone no fond adieus I seek,

- No fainting mother's lips have press'd my cheek;
- By gloomy night and thy right hand I vow Her parting tears would shake my purpose now.
- Do thou, my prince, her failing age sustain, In thee her much-loved child may live again: 100 Her dying hours with pious conduct bless,

- Assist her wants, relieve her fond distress:
- So dear a hope must all my soul inflame,

To rise in glory, or to fall in fame.'

Struck with a filial care so deeply felt, In tears at once the Trojan warriors melt.

Faster than all, Iulus' eyes o'erflow;

- Such love was his, and such had been his woe 'All thou hast ask'd, receive,' the prince
- replied; 'Nor this alone, but many a gift beside. 200
- To cheer thy mother's years shall be my aım,
- Creusa's style but wanting to the dame.

Fortune an adverse wayward course may run,

- But bless'd thy mother in so dear a son.
- Now, by my life ! my sire's most sacred oath -
- To thee I pledge my full, my firmest troth,

All the rewards which once to thee were vow'd.

- If thou shouldst fall, on her shall be bestow'd.'
- Thus spoke the weeping prince, then forth to view
- A gleaming falchion from the sheath he drew; 210
- Lycaon's utmost skill had graced the steel, For friends to envy and for foes to feel.
- A tawny hide, the Moorish lion's spoil,

Slain 'midst the forest in the hunter's toil,

Mnestheus to guard the elder youth bestows.

And old Alethes' casque defends his brows.

Arm'd, thence they go, while all th' ascembled train

To aid their cause implore the gods in vain. More than a boy, in wisdom and in grace,

Iulus holds amidst the chiefs his place: 220 His prayer he sends; but what can prayers avail,

Lost in the murmurs of the sighing gale !

The trench is pass'd, and, favour'd by the night,

Through sleeping foes they wheel their wary flight.

- When shall the sleep of many a foe be o'er?
- Alas, some slumber who shall wake no more !
- Charlots and bridles, mix'd with arms, are seen;
- And flowing flasks, and scatter'd troops between:
- Bacchus and Mars to rule the camp combine;
- A mingled chaos this of war and wine. 230
- 'Now,' cries the first, 'for deeds of blood prepare,

With me the conquest and the labour share, Here lies our path; lest any hand arise,

- Watch thou, while many a dreaming chief tain dies:
- I'll carve our passage through the heedless foe.
- And clear thy road with many a deadly blow.'
- His whispering accents then the youth repress'd,

And pierced proud Rhamues through his panting breast.

Stretch'd at his ease, th' incautious king reposed;

Debauch, and not fatigue, his eyes had closed:

To Turnus dear, a prophet and a prince,

His omens more than augur's skill evince:

But he, who thus foretold the fate of all,

Could not avert his own untimely fall.

Next Remus' armour-bearer, hapless, fell

And three unhappy slaves the carnage swell:

The charioteer along his courser's sides

Expires, the steel his sever'd neck divides; And, last, his lord is number'd with the dead:

Bounding convulsive, flies the gasping head: From the swoll'n veins the blackening tor-

- rents pour;
- Stam'd is the couch and earth with clotting rore
- Young Lamyrus and Lamus next expire,
- And gay Serranus, fill'd with youthful fire; Half the long night in childish games was pass'd;
- Lull'd by the potent grape, he slept at last.
- Ah ! happier far, had he the morn survey'd

And till Aurora's dawn his skill display'd.

In slaughter'd fold, the keepers lost m sleep,

His hungry fangs a lion thus may steep.

'Mid the sad flock at dead of night he Just at this hour a band of Latian horse prowls. To Turnus' camp pursue their destined With murder glutted, and in carnage rolls: course: Insatiate still, through teeming herds he While the slow foot their tardy march deroams: lav. In seas of gore the lordly tyrant foams. The knights, impatient, spur along the way: Three hundred mail-clad men, by Volscens Nor less the other's deadly vengeance led, 201 came. To Turnus with their master's promise But falls on feeble crowds without a name. sped: His wound unconscious Fadus scarce can Now they approach the trench, and view the walls. feel. Yet wakeful Rhæsus sees the threatening When, on the left, a light reflection falls; steel; The plunder'd helmet, through the waning His coward breast behind a jar he hides, night, Sheds forth a silver radiance, glancing And vainly in the weak defence confides; Full in his heart the falchion search'd his bright. Volscens with question loud the pair veins. The reeking weapon bears alternate stains; alarms: 'Stand, stragglers ! stand ! why early thus Through wine and blood, commingling as in arms? they flow. From whence, to whom ?'- He meets One feeble spirit seeks the shades below. Now where Messapus dwelt they bend their with no reply; Trusting the covert of the night, they fly: way, Whose fires emit a faint and trembling ray: The thicket's depth with hurried pace they There, unconfined, behold each grazing steed, tread. Unwatch'd, unheeded, on the herbage feed. While round the wood the hostile squadron Brave Nisus here arrests his comrade's arm, spread. Too flush'd with carnage, and with conquest warm: With brakes entangled, scarce a path be-280 'Hence let us haste, the dangerous path is tween, Dreary and dark appears the sylvan scene. pass'd; Full foes enough to-night have breathed Euryalus his heavy spoils impede, their last: The boughs and winding turns his steps Soon will the day those eastern clouds mislead; adorn; But Nisus scours along the forest's maze Now let us speed, nor tempt the rising To where Latinus' steeds in safety graze, Then backward o'er the plain his eyes exmorn.' tend, What silver arms with various art em-On every side they seek his absent friend. 'O God ! my boy,' he cries, 'of me bereft, boss'd. What bowls and mantles in confusion toss'd In what impending perils art thou left !' Listening he runs - above the waving trees They leave regardless ! yet one glittering prize Tumultuous voices swell the passing breeze; Attracts the younger hero's wandering eves; The war-cry rises, thundering hoofs around The gilded harness Rhamnes' coursers felt, Wake the dark echoes of the trembling The gems which stud the monarch's golden ground Again he turns, of footsteps hears the noise; belt: This from the pallid corse was quickly torn, The sound elates, the sight his hope destroys: Once by a line of former chieftains worn. The hapless boy a ruffian train surround, Th' exulting boy the studded girdle wears,

Messapus' helm his head in triumph bears;

Then from the tents their cautious steps

To seek the vale where safer paths extend.

they bend,

- While lengthening shades his weary way confound; 330
- Him with loud shouts the furious knights pursue,
- Struggling in vain, a captive to the crew.

- What can his friend 'gainst thronging numbers dare ?
- Ah! must he rush his comrade's fate to share?

What force, what aid, what stratagem essay, Back to redeem the Latian spoiler's prey? His life a votive ransom nobly give,

Or die with him for whom he wish'd to live?

Poising with strength his lifted lance on high, 339

On Luna's orb he cast his frenzied eye: --

'Goddess serene, transcending every star ! Queen of the sky, whose beams are seen afar !

By night heaven owns thy sway, by day the grove,

When, as chaste Dian, here thou deign'st to rove;

If e'er myself or sire have sought to grace

Thine altars with the produce of the chase, Speed, speed my dart to pierce yon vaunt-

ing crowd,

To free my friend, and scatter far the proud '

Thus having said, the hissing dart he flung; Through parted shades the hurtling weapon sung; 350

The thirsty point in Sulmo's entrails lay,

Transfix'd his heart, and stretch'd him on the clay:

He sobs, he dies, — the troop in wild amaze,

Unconscious whence the death, with horror gaze:

While pale they stare, through Tagus' temples riven,

A second shaft with equal force is driven.

Fierce Volscens rolls around his lowering eyes;

Veil'd by the night, secure the Trojan lies.

Burning with wrath, he view'd his soldiers fall:

- 'Thou youth accurst, thy life shall pay for all!' 360
- Quick from the sheath his flaming glaive he drew,

And, raging, on the boy defenceless flew.

Nisus no more the blackening shade conceals,

- Forth, forth, he starts, and all his love reveals;
- Aghast, confused, his fears to madness rise,

And pour these accents, shrieking as he flies:

- 'Me, me, --- your vengeance hurl on me alone;
- Here sheathe the steel, my blood is all your own.
- Ye starry spheres ! thou conscious Heaven ! attest !

- He could not durst not lo ! the guile confest ! 370
- All, all was mine, his early fate suspend; He only loved too well his hapless friend:
- Spare, spare, ye chiefs ! from him your rage remove;
- His fault was friendship, all his crime was love.'

He pray'd m vain; the dark assassin's sword Pierced the fair side, the snowy bosom gored;

Lowly to earth inclines his plume-clad crest, And sangume torrents mantle o'er his breast. As some young rose, whose blossom scents

the air, 379 Languid in death, expires beneath the share;

Or crimson poppy, sinking with the shower, Decliming gently, falls a fading flower;

Thus, sweetly drooping, bends his lovely head,

And lingering beauty hovers round the dead.

But fiery Nisus stems the battle's tide, Revenge his leader, and despair his guide:

Kevenge his leader, and despatr his guide;

Volscens he seeks amidst the gathering host, Volscens must soon appease his conrade's ghost:

- Steel, flashing, pours on steel, foe crowds on foe;
- Rage nerves his arm, fate gleams in every blow; 390
- In vain beneath unnumber'd wounds he bleeds,
- Nor wounds, nor death, distracted Nisus heeds;

In viewless circles wheel'd, his falchion flies,

Nor quits the hero's grasp till Volscens dies: Deep in his throat its end the weapon found,

The tyrant's soul fled groaning through the wound.

Thus Nisus all his fond affection proved --

Dying, revenged the fate of him he loved;

Then on his bosom sought his wonted place,

And death was heavenly in his friend's embrace.

Celestial pair, if aught my verse can claim,

Wafted on Time's broad pinion, yours is fame '

Ages on ages shall your fate admire,

- No future day shall see your names expire,
- While stands the Capitol, immortal dome !
- And vanquish'd millions hail their empress, Rome !

TRANSLATION FROM THE MEDEA OF EURIPIDES Έρωτες ὑπὲρ μὲν ἅγαν, κ. τ. λ	Ah, hapless dame ! no sire bewails, No friend thy wretched fate deplores, No kindred voice with rapture hails Thy steps within a stranger's doors.
WHEN fierce conflicting passions urge The breast where love is wont to glow, What mind can stem the stormy suige Which rolls the tide of human woe? The hope of praise, the dread of shame, Can rouse the tortured breast no more; The wild desire, the guilty flame, Absorbs each wish it felt before.	Perish the fiend whose iron heart, To fair affection's truth unknown, Bids her he fondly loved depart, Unptied, helpless, and alone; Who ne'er unlocks with silver key The milder treasures of his soul, — May such a friend be far from me, And ocean's storms between us roll!
But if affection gently thrills The soul by purer dreams possest, 10 The pleasing balm of mortal ills In love can soothe the aching breast: If thus thou comest in disguise, Fair Venus ! from thy native heaven, What heart unfeeling would despise The sweetest boon the gods have given ? But never from thy golden bow May I beneath the shaft expire ! Whose creeping venom, sure and slow, Awakes an all-consuming fire: 20 Ye racking doubts ! ye jealous fears ! With others wage internal war; Repentance, source of future tears,	 THOUGHTS SUGGESTED BY A COLLEGE EXAMINATION HIGH in the midst, surrounded by his peers, MAGNUS his ample front sublime uprears: Placed on his chair of state, he seems a god, While Sophs and Freshmen tremble at his nod As all around sit wrapt in speechless gloom, His voice in thunder shakes the sounding dome; Denouncing dire reproach to luckless fools,
From me be ever distant far ! May no distracting thoughts destroy The holy calm of sacred love ! May all the hours be wing'd with joy, Which hover faithful hearts above ! Fair Venus, on thy myrtle shrine May I with some fair lover sigh, Whose heart may mingle pure with mine — With me to live, with me to die ! My native soil ! beloved before, Now dearer as my peaceful home, Ne'er may I quit thy rocky shore, A hapless banish'd wretch to roam ! This very day, this very hour, May I resign this fleeting breath; Nor quit my silent humble bower, A doom to me far worse than death. 40 Have I not heard the exile's sigh ? And seen the exile's silent tear, Through distant climes condemn'd to fly, A pensive, weary wanderer here ?	 Unskill'd to plod in mathematic rules. Happy the youth in Euclid's axioms tried, Though little versed in any art beside; 10 Who, scarcely skill'd an English line to pen, Scans Attic metres with a critic's ken. What though he knows not how his fathers bled. When civil discord piled the fields with dead, When Edward bade his conquering bands advance, Or Henry trampled on the crest of France; Though marvelling at the name of Magna Charta, Yet well he recollects the laws of Sparta; Can tell what edicts sage Lycurgus made, While Blackstone's on the shelf neglected laid; 20 Of Greeian dramas vaunts the deathless fame, Of Avon's bard remembering sc ce the name.

Such is the youth whose scientific pate Class-honours, medals, fellowships, await; Or even, perhaps, the declamation prize, If to such glorious height he lifts his eyes. But lo! no common orator can hope The envied silver cup within his scope.

Not that our heads much eloquence require,

- Th' ATHENIAN'S glowing style, or Tully's fire. 30
- A manner clear or warm is useless, since We do not try by speaking to convince.

Be other orators of pleasing proud:

We speak to please ourselves, not move the crowd:

Our gravity prefers the muttering tone,

A proper mixture of the squeak and groan: No borrow'd grace of action must be seen; The slightest motion would displease the Dean,

Whilst every staring graduate would prate Against what he could never imitate 40

The man who hopes t' obtain the promised cup

Must in one posture stand, and ne'er look up;

Nor stop, but rattle over every word -

No matter what, so it can not be heard.

Thus let him hurry on, nor think to rest:

Who speaks the fastest 's sure to speak the best;

Who utters most within the shortest space May safely hope to win the wordy race.

The sons of science these, who, thus repaid, 49

Linger in ease in Granta's sluggish shade; Where on Cam's sedgy banks supine they he,

Unknown, unhonour'd live, unwept for die

Dull as the pictures which adorn their halls,

They think all learning fix'd within their walls:

In manners rude, in foolish forms precise,

All modern arts affecting to despise;

- Yet prizing Bentley's, Brunck's, or Porson's note,
- More than the verse on which the critic wrote:

Vain as their honours, heavy as their ale,

Sad as their wit, and tedious as their tale;

- To friendship dead, though not untaught to feel 61
- When Self and Church demand a bigot zeal.

With eager haste they court the lord of power,

Whether 't is Pitt or Petty rules the hour; To hum, with suppliant similes, they bend the head,

- While distant mitres to their eyes are spread.
- But should a storm o'erwhelm him with disgrace,
- They'd fly to seek the next who fill'd his place
- Such are the men who learning's treasures guard !

Such is their practice, such is their reward!

- This much, at least, we may presume to say-
- The premium can't exceed the price they pay. 1806.

TO A BEAUTIFUL QUAKER

SWEET girl ! though only once we met, That meeting I shall ne'er forget; And though we ne'er may meet again, Remembrance will thy form retain. I would not say, 'I love,' but still My senses struggle with my will: In vain, to drive thee from my breast, My thoughts are more and more represt; In vain I check the rising sighs, Another to the last replies: Perhaps this is not love, but yet Our meeting I can ne'er forget

What though we never silence broke, Our eyes a sweeter language spoke. The tongue in flattering falsehood deals, And tells a tale it never feels; Deceit the guilty lips impart, And hush the mandates of the heart: But soul's interpreters, the eyes, Spurn such restraint and scorn disguise. 2c As thus our glances oft conversed, And all our bosoms felt, rehearsed, No spirit, from within, reproved us, Say rather, ''t was the spirit moved us.' Though what they utter'd I repress, Yet I conceive thou 'lt partly guess; For as on thee my memory ponders, Perchance to me thine also wanders. This for myself, at least. I 'll say, Thy form appears through night, through day:

10

Awake, with it my fancy teems; In sleep, it smiles in fleeting dreams; The vision charms the hours away, And bids me curse Aurora's ray For breaking slumbers of delight Which make me wish for endless night: Since, oh ! whate'er my future fate, Shall joy or woe my steps await, Tempted by love, by storms beset, Thine image I can ne'er forget.

Alas ! again no more we meet, No more our former looks repeat; Then let me breathe this parting prayer, The dictate of my bosom's care: 'May Heaven so guard my lovely quaker, That anguish never can o'ertake her; That peace and virtue ne'er forsake her, But bliss be aye her heart's partaker ! Oh, may the happy mortal, fated To be by dearest ties related, 50 For her each hour new joys discover, And lose the husband in the lover ! May that fair bosom never know What 't is to feel the restless woe Which stings the soul with vain regret, Of him who never can forget !'

August, 1806.

THE CORNELIAN

[The cornelian was given him by the Cambridge chorister, Edleston]

No specious splendour of this stone Endears it to my memory ever;

With lustre only once it shone, And blushes modest as the giver.

Some, vho can sneer at friendship's ties, Have, for my weakness, oft reproved me:

Yet still the simple gift I prize, — For I am sure the giver loved me.

He offer'd it with downcast look,

As fearful that I might refuse it; I told him when the gift 1 took,

My only fear should be to lose it.

This pledge attentively I view'd, And sparkling as I held it near, Methought one drop the stone bedew'd, And ever since I 've loved a tear. Still, to adorn his humble youth,

Nor wealth nor birth their treasures yield; But he who seeks the flowers of truth, Must guit the garden for the field. 20

'T is not the plant uprear'd in sloth, Which beauty shows, and sheds perfume; The flowers which yield the most of both In Nature's wild luxuriance bloom.

Had Fortune aided Nature's care, For once forgetting to be blind, His would have been an ample share, If well proportion'd to his mind

But had the goddess clearly seen, His form had fix'd her fickle breast; 30 Her countless hoards would his have been, And none remain'd to give the rest.

AN OCCASIONAL PROLOGUE

DELIVERED PREVIOUS TO THE PER-FORMANCE OF 'THE WHEEL OF FOR-TUNE' AT A PRIVATE THEATRE

[This prologue was written by Byron, between stages, on his way from Harrowgate to Southwell, in 1806, where he took part in private theatricals.]

SINCE the refinement of this polish'd age Has swept immoral raillery from the stage; Since taste has now expunged licentious wit, Which stamp'd disgrace on all an author writ;

- Since now to please with purer scenes we seek,
- Nor dare to call the blush from Beauty's cheek;

Oh! let the modest Muse some pity claim. And meet indulgence, though she find not fame.

Still, not for her alone we wish respect, Others appear more conscious of defect: rc To-night no veteran Rosci you behold, In all the arts of scenic action old;

No Cooke, no Kemble, can salute you here. No Siddons draw the sympathetic tear; To-night you throng to witness the début Of embryo actors, to the Drama new.

Here, then, our almost unfledged wings w try;

Clip not our pinions ere the birds can fly Failing in this our first attempt to soar,

 Drooping, alas ! we fall to rise no more. 20 Not one poor trembler only fear betrays, Who hopes, yet almost dreads, to meet your praise, But all our dramatis personæ wait In fond suspense this crisis of their fate. No venal views our progress can retard, Your generous plaudits are our sole reward; For these, each Hero all his power displays, Each timid Heroine shrinks before your gaze. Surely the last will some protection find; None to the softer sex can prove unkind While Youth and Beauty form the female shield, 31 The sternest censor to the fair must yield. Yet, should our feeble efforts nought avail, Should, after all, our best endeavours fail, 	 Pity her dewy wings before him spread, For noble spirits 'war not with the dead:' His friends, in tears, a last sad requiem gave, As all his errors slumber'd in the grave. He sunk, an Atlas bending 'neath the weight Of cares o'erwhelming our conflicting state- When, lo ! a Hercules in Fox appear'd, Who for a time the ruin'd fabric rear'd. 20 He, too, is fall'n, who Britam's loss supplied, With him our fast-reviving hopes have died; Not one great people only raise his urn, All Europe's far-extended regions mourn 'These feelings wide, let sense and truth unclue, To give the palm where Justice points its due;'
Still let some mercy in your bosoms live, And, if you can't applaud, at least forgive.	Yet let not canker'd Calumny assail, Or round our statesman wind her gloomy veil
ON THE DEATH OF MR. FOX THE FOLLOWING ILLIBERAL IMPROMPTU APPEARED IN A MORNING PAPER [The 'illiberal impromptu' appeared in the Morning Post, and Byron's reply, which was written at Southwell, October, 1806, appeared in the Morning Chronicle]	 Fox ! o'er whose corse a mourning world must weep, Whose dear remains in honour'd marble sleep; 30 For whom, at last, e'en hostile nations groan, While friends and foes alike his talents own; Fox shall in Britain's future annals shine, Nor e'en to PITT the patriot's palm resign;
'OUR nation's foes lament on Fox's death, But bless the hour when PITT resign'd his breath: These feelings wide, let sense and truth unclue,	Which Envy, wearing Candour's sacred mask, For Pitt, and Pitt alone, has dared to ask
We give the palm where Justice points its due.'	THE TEAR
TO WHICH THE AUTHOR OF THESE PIECES SENT THE FOLLOWING REPLY	O lachrymarum fons, tenero sacros Ducentum ortus ex anımo; quater Felix 'ın imo qui scatentem Pectore te, pia Nympha, sensit — Grav.
OH factious viper ! whose envenom'd tooth Would mangle still the dead, perverting truth; What though our 'nation's foes' lament the fate, With generous feeling, of the good and	 WHEN Friendship or Love our sympathies move, When Truth in a glance should appear, The lips may beguile with a dimple or smile, But the test of affection 's a Tear.
great, Shall dastard tongues essay to blast the name 9 Of him whose meed exists in endless fame ? When PITT expired in plenitude of power, Though ill success obscured his dying hour,	Too oft is a smile but the hypoente's wile To mask detestation or fear; Give me the soft sigh, whilst the soul-tell- ing eye Is dimm'd for a time with a Tear

Mild Charity's glow, to us mortals below, Shows the soul from barbarity clear; 10 Compassion will melt where this virtue is felt, And its dew 18 diffused in a Tear. The man doom'd to sail with the blast of the gale, Through billows Atlantic to steer, As he bends o'er the wave which may soon be his grave,	 When my soul wings her flight to the regions of night, And my corse shall recline on its bier, As ye pass by the tomb where my ashes consume, Oh ! moisten their dust with a Tear. May no marble bestow the splendour of woe, Which the children of vanity rear; No fiction of fame shall blazon my me;
The green sparkles bright with a Tear.	All I ask — all I wish — 15 a Tear.
The soldier braves death for a fanciful	October 26, 1806.
wreath	REPLY TO SOME VERSES OF
In Glory's romantic career; But he raises the foe when in battle laid low, And bathes every wound with a Tear. 20	J. M. B PIGOT, ESO., ON THE CRUELTY OF HIS MISTRESS WHY, Pigot, complain of this damsel's dis-
If with high-bounding pride he return to his bride, Renouncing the gore-crimson'd spear, All his toils are repaid when, embracing	dain, Why thus m despair do you fret? For months you may try, yet, believe me, a sigh Will never obtain a coquette.
the maid, From her eyelid he kisses the Tear.	Would you teach her to love? for a time seem to rove;
Sweet scene of my youth ! seat of Friend- ship and Truth, Where love chased each fast-fleeting year,	At first she may frown in a pet; But leave her awhile, she shortly will smile, And then you may hiss your coquette.
Loth to leave thee, I mourn'd, for a last	For such are the airs of these fanciful fairs,
look I turn'd,	They think all our homage a debt: ¹⁰
But thy spire was scarce seen through a	Yet a partial neglect soon takes an effect,
Tear	And humbles the proudest coquette.
Though my vows I can pour to my Mary	Dissemble your pain, and lengthen your
no more,	chain,
My Mary to Love once so dear, 30°	And seem her hauteur to regret;
In the shade of her bower I remember the	If again you shall sigh, she no more will hour	deny
She rewarded those vows with a Tear.	That yours is the rosy coquette.
By another possest, may she live ever blest!	If still, from false pride, your pangs she derude,
Her name still my heart must revere:	This whimsical virgin forget;
With a sigh I resign what I once thought	Some other admire, who will melt with
was mine,	your fire,
And forgive her deceit with a Tear.	And laugh at the little coquette. 20
Ye friends of my heart, ere from you I de-	For me, I adore some twenty or more,
part,	And love them most dearly; but yet,
This hope to my breast is most near	Though my heart they enthral, I 'd abandon
If again we shall meet m this rural retreat,	them all,
May we meet, as we part, with a Tear.	Did they act like your blooming coquette.

No longer repine, adopt this design,

- And break through her slight-woven net;
- Away with despair, no longer forbear To fly from the captious coquette.
- Then quit her, my friend ! your bosom defend,
- Ere quite with her snares you're beset; Lest your deep-wounded heart, when m
 - censed by the smart, 31 Should lead you to curse the coquette. October 27, 1806.

TO THE SIGHING STREPHON

- YOUR pardon, my friend, if my rhymes did offend,
- Your pardon, a thousand times o'er;
- From friendship I strove your pangs to remove,

But I swear I will do so no more

- Since your beautiful maid your flame has repaid,
 - No more I your folly regret;
- She's now most divine, and I bow at the shrine

Of this quickly reformed coquette

- Yet still, I must own, I should never nave known
 - From your verses, what else she deserved;
- Your pain seem'd so great, I pitied your fate,

As your fair was so devilish reserved

Since the balm-breathing kiss of this magical miss

Can such wonderful transports produce; Since the 'world you forget, when your hps once have met,' My counsel will get but abuse

You say, when 'I rove, I know nothing of love:'

'T is true, I am given to range:

If I rightly remember, I've loved a good number, 19

Yet there's pleasure, at least, in a change.

i will not advance, by the rules of romance, To humour a whimsical fair: Though a smile may delight, yet a frown won't affright,

Or drive me to dreadful despair.

- While my blood is thus warm I ne'er shall reform,
 - To mix in the Platonists' school;
- Of this I am sure, was my passion so pure, Thy mistress would think me a fool. 28
- And 1f I should shun every woman for one, Whose image must fill my whole breast —

Whom I must prefer, and sigh but for her ----What an insult 't would be to the rest :

Now, Strephon, good bye; 1 cannot deny Your passion appears most absurd;

Such love as you plead is pure love indeed, For it only consists in the word.

TO ELIZA

[Miss Elizabeth Pigot.]

- ELIZA, what fools are the Mussulman sect, Who to woman deny the soul's future existence;
- Could they see thee, Eliza, they'd own their defect,

And this doctrine would meet with a general resistance.

- Had their prophet possess'd half an atom of sense,
 - He ne'er would have women from para dise driven;
- Instead of his hours, a flimsy pretence,
 - With women alone he had peopled his heaven.
- Yet still, to increase your calamities more Not content with depriving your bodies of spirit,
- He allots one poor husband to share amongst four ! ---

With souls you'd dispense, but this last who could bear it?

- His religion to please neither party is made. On husbands 't is hard, to the wives most uncivil;
- Still I can't contradict, what so oft has been said,
 - 'Though women are angels, yet wedlock's the devil '

- This terrible truth even Scripture has told, Ye Benedicks ! hear me, and listen with rapture;
- If a glimpse of redemption you wish to behold,
 - Of St. Matt. read the second and twentieth chapter. 20
- 'T is surely enough upon earth to be vex'd With wives who eternal confusion are spreading;
- 'But in Heaven' (so runs the Evangelist's Text)
 - 'We neither have giving in marriage, or wedding.'
- From this we suppose (as indeed well we may),
- That should Saints after death with their spouses put up more,
- And wives, as in life, aim at absolute sway, All Heaven would ring with the conjugal uproar.
- Distraction and discord would follow in course,
 - Nor Matthew nor Mark nor St. Paul can deny it, 30
- The only expedient is general divorce, To prevent universal disturbance and riot.
- But though husband and wife shall at length be disjoin'd,
 - Yet woman and man ne'er were meant to dissever;
- Our chains once dissolved and our hearts unconfined,
 - We'll love without bonds, but we'll love you for ever.
- Though souls are denied you by fools and by rakes,
 - Should you own it yourselves, I would even then doubt you;
- Your nature so much of celestial partakes, The Garden of Eden would wither without you. 40
 - SOUTHWELL, October 9, 1806.

LACHIN Y GAIR

Away, ye gay 1 dscapes, ye gardens of roses!

In you let the minions of luxury rove;

- Restore me the rocks where the snow-flake reposes,
 - Though still they are sacred to freedom and love.
- Yet, Caledonia, beloved are thy mountains,
- Round their white summits though elements war;
- Though cataracts foam 'stead of smoothflowing fountains,
 - I sigh for the valley of dark Loch na Garr.
- Ah! there my young footsteps in infancy wander'd;
 - My cap was the bonnet, my cloak was the plaid; ro
- On chieftains long perish'd my memory ponder'd,
 - As daily I strode through the pine-cover'd glade:
- I sought not my home till the day's dying glory
 - Gave place to the rays of the bright polar star;
- For fancy was cheer'd by traditional story, Disclosed by the natives of dark Loch na Garr.
- 'Shades of the dead ! have I not heard your voices
 - Rise on the night-rolling breath of the gale ?'
- Surely the soul of the hero rejoices,
 - And rides on the wind, o'er his own Highland vale. 20
- Round Loch na Garr while the stormy mist gathers,

Winter presides in his cold icy car:

- Clouds there encircle the forms of my fathers;
 - They dwell in the tempests of dark Loch na Garr.
- 'Ill-starr'd, though brave, did no visions foreboding
 - Tell you that fate had forsaken your cause?'
- Ah! were you destined to die at Culloden,
- Victory crown'd not your fall with applause:
- Still were you happy in death's earthy slumber,
 - You rest with your clan in the caves of Braemar; 30

20

The pibroch resounds, to the piper's loud number,

Your deeds on the echoes of dark Loch na Garr

Years have roll'd on, Loch na Garr, since I left you,

Years must elapse ere I tread you again: Nature of verdure and flow'rs has bereft you,

- Yet still are you dearer than Albion's plain.
- England ! thy beauties are tame and domestic
- To one who has roved on the mountains afar:
- Oh for the crags that are wild and majestic ! The steep frowning glories of dark Loch na Garr !

TO ROMANCE

PARENT of golden dreams, Romance ! Auspicious queen of childish joys,

Who lead'st along, in airy dance, Thy votive train of girls and boys;

At length, in spells no longer bound,

I break the fetters of my youth; No more I tread thy mystic round,

But leave thy realms for those of Truth

And yet 't is hard to quit the dreams Which haunt the unsuspicious soul,

Where every nymph a goddess seems, Whose eyes through rays immortal roll;

While Fancy holds her boundless reign, And all assume a varied hue;

When virgins seem no longer vain, And even woman's smiles are true

And must we own thee but a name, And from thy hall of clouds descend?

Nor find a sylph in every dame, A Pylades in every friend ?

But leave at once thy realms of air To mingling bands of fairy elves;

Confess that woman's false as fair, And friends have feeling for — themselves?

With shame I own I 've felt thy sway, Repentant, now thy reign is o'er;

No more thy precepts I obey, No more on fancied pinions soar.

Fond fool ! to love a sparkling eye, And think that eye to truth was dear; 30

- To trust a passing wanton's sigh, And melt beneath a wanton's tear !
- Romance ! disgusted with deceit, Far from thy motley court I fly,
- Where Affectation holds her seat, And sickly Sensibility;
- Whose silly tears can never flow For any pangs excepting thine;
- Who turns aside from real woe, To steep in dew thy gaudy shrine.
- Now join with sable Sympathy, With cypress crown'd, array'd in weeds,

40

- Who heaves with thee her simple sigh, Whose breast for every bosom bleeds;
- And call thy sylvan female choir, To mourn a swain for ever gone,

Who once could glow with equal fire, But bends not now before thy throne

- Ye genial nymphs, whose ready tears On all occasions swiftly flow,
- Whose bosoms heave with fancied fears, With fancied flames and phrensy glow;

Say, will you mourn my absent name, A postate from your gentle train? An infant bard at least may claim

From you a sympathetic strain.

Adieu, fond race ! a long adieu ! The hour of fate is hovering nigh;

- E'en now the gulf appears in view, Where unlamented you must lie: 60 Oblivion's blackening lake is seen,
- Convulsed by gales you cannot weather; Where you, and eke your gentle queen,

Alas ! must perish altogether.

ANSWER TO SOME ELEGANT VERSES

SENT BY A FRIEND TO THE AUTHOR, COMPLAINING THAT ONE OF HIS DE-SCRIPTIONS WAS RATHER TOO WARMLY DRAWN

'But if any old lady, knight, priest, or physician, Should condemn me for printing a second edition, if good Madam Squuttum my work should abuse, May I venture to give her a smack of my nuse?' Anstrar, New Bath Guide.

CANDOUR compels me, BECHER ! to commend

The verse which blends the censor with the friend.

- She would have fallen, though she ne'er had Your strong yet just reproof extorts applause read For me, I fain would please the chosen From me, the heedless and imprudent cause. few, Whose souls, to feeling and to nature For this wild error which pervades my stram. true, Will spare the childish verse, and not de-I sue for pardon, - must I sue in vain? The wise sometimes from Wisdom's ways stroy depart: The light effusions of a heedless boy. Can youth then hush the dictates of the Of fancied laurels I shall ne'er be proud: heart? Precepts of prudence curb, but can't conprize, trol. Their sneers or censures I alike despise. The fierce emotions of the flowing soul. 10 When Love's delirium haunts the glowing November 26, 1806. mind, Limping Decorum lingers far behind: Vainly the dotard mends her prudish pace, ELEGY ON NEWSTEAD ABBEY Outstript and vanquish'd in the mental chase. 'It is the voice of years that are gone ' they The young, the old, have worn the chains of love; NEWSTEAD ' fast-falling, once-resplendent Let those they ne'er confined my lay redome ! prove: Religion's shrine ! repentant HENRY'S Let those whose souls contemn the pleasing pride ! power Of warriors, monks, and dames the clois-Their censures on the hapless victim shower. Oh! how I hate the nerveless, frigid ter'd tomb, Whose pensive shades around thy ruins song, The ceaseless echo of the rhyming throng, glide, Whose labour'd lines in chilling numbers Hail to thy pile ' more honour'd in thy flow, To paint a pang the author ne'er can fall Than modern mansions in their pillar'd know ! The artless Helicon I boast is youth; state; Proudly majestic frowns thy vaulted hall, My lyre, the heart, my muse, the simple truth. Far be't from me the 'virgin's mind' to No mail-clad serfs, obedient to their lord, 'taint : Seduction's dread is here no slight remand; straint. Or gay assemble round the festive board The maid whose virgin breast is void of guile, Whose wishes dimple in a modest smile, band. Whose downcast eye disdams the wanton Else might inspiring Fancy's magic eye leer, Retrace their progress through the lapse Firm in her virtue's strength, yet not seof time, vere —
 - She whom a conscious grace shall thus refine
 - Will ne'er be 'tainted' by a strain of mine.
 - But for the nymph whose premature destres
 - Torment her bosom with unholy fires,
 - No net to snare her willing heart is spread;

40 I seek not glory from the senseless crowd;

Their warmest plaudits I would scarcely roll before me with all their deeds.' - OSSIAN.

- Scowling defiance on the blasts of fate.
- In grim array the crimson cross de-
- Their chief's retainers, an immortal
- Marking each ardent youth, ordain'd to die,
 - A votive pilgrim in Judea's clime.
- But not from thee, dark pile ! departs the chief;
 - His feudal realm in other regions lay:

In thee the wounded conscience courts re- lief, Returng from the garish blaze of day. 20	The heralds of a warrior's haughty reign, High crested banners wave thy walls within.
 Yes ! in thy gloomy cells and shades pro- found The monk abjured a world he ne'er could view; Or blood-stain'd guilt repenting solace found, Or innocence from stern oppression flew. 	Of changing sentinels the distant hum, The mirth of feasts, the clang of bur- mish'd arms, The braying trumpet and the hoarser drum, Unite in concert with increased alarms. An abbey once, a regal fortress now,
A monarch bade thee from that wild arise, Where Sherwood's outlaws once were wont to prowl; And Superstition's crimes, of various dyes, Sought shelter in the priest's protecting cowl.	Encircled by insulting rebel powers, War's dread machines o'erhang thy thr ening brow, And dart destruction in sulphureous showers. 60
Where now the grass exhales a mulky dew, ²⁹ The humid pall of life-extinguish'd clay, In sainted fame the sacred fathers grew, Nor raised their pious voices but to pray.	 Ah, vain defence ! the hostile traitor's siege, Though oft repulsed, by guile o'ercomes the brave; His thronging foes oppress the faithful hege, Rebelhon's reeking standards o'er him wave.
 Where now the bats their wavering wings extend Soon as the gloaming spreads her waning shade, The choir did oft their mingling vespers blend, Or matin orisons to Mary paid. 	Not unavenged the raging baron yields; The blood of traitors smears the purple plam; Unconquer'd still, his falchion there he wields. And days of glory yet for him remain
Years roll on years; to ages, ages yield; Abbots to abbots, in a line, succeed: Religion's charter their protecting shield Till royal sacrilege their doom de- creed. 40	Still in that hour the warrior wish'd to strew Self-gather'd laurels on a self-sought grave; 7° But Charles' protecting genius hither flew, The monarch's friend, the monarch's
One holy HENRY rear'd the Gothic walls, And bade the pious inmates rest in peace; Another HENRY the kind gift recalls, And bids devotion's hallow'd echoes cease.	hope, to save. Trembling, she snatch'd him from th' un- equal strife, In other fields the torrent to repel;
Vain is each threat or supplicating prayer; He drives them exiles from their blest abode, To roam a dreary world in deep despair —	For nobler combats, here, reserved his life, To lead the band where godlike FALK- LAND fell
No friend, no home, no refuge, but their God. Hark how the hall, resounding to the	From thee, poor pile ! to lawless plunder given, While dying groans their painful requiem sound, strain, Shakes with the martial music's novel din !	Far different incense now ascends to heaven, Such victims wallow on the gory ground.

There many a pale and ruthless robber's Hope cheers with wonted smiles the peacecorse. ful realm. Noisome and ghast, defiles thy sacred And heals the bleeding wounds of wearied sod: hate. O'er mingling man, and horse commix'd with horse, The gloomy tenants, Newstead ! of thy Corruption's heap, the savage spoilers cells, trod. Howling, resign their violated nest; Again the master on his tenure dwells, Graves, long with rank and sighing weeds Enjoy'd, from absence, with enraptured o'erspread, zest. Ransack'd, resign perforce their mortal mould Vassals, within thy hospitable pale, From ruffian fangs escape not e'en the dead, Loudly carousing, bless their lord's re-Raked from repose in search for buried turn: gold. Culture again adorns the gladdening vale. And matrons, once lamenting, cease to Hush'd is the harp, unstrung the warlike mourn. 120 lyre, The minstrel's palsied hand reclines in A thousand songs on tuneful echo float, death; Unwonted foliage mantles o'er the trees; No more he strikes the quivering chords And hark! the horns proclaim a mellow with fire. note, Or sings the glories of the martial wreath. The hunters' cry hangs lengthening on the breeze. At length the sated murderers, gorged with Beneath their coursers' hoofs the valleys prey, Retire; the clamour of the fight is o'er; shake Silence again resumes her awful sway, What fears, what anxious hopes, attend And sable Horror guards the massy the chase! The dying stag seeks refuge in the Lake; door. Exulting shouts announce the finish'd Here Desolation holds her dreary court: race What satellites declare her dismal reign ! Shrieking their dirge, ill-omen'd birds re-Ah happy days ' too happy to endure ! sort. Such simple sports our plain forefathers To flit their vigils in the hoary fane 100 knew: 130 No splendid vices glitter'd to allure; Soon a new morn's restoring beams dispel Their joys were many, as their cares were The clouds of anarchy from Britain's few. skies: The fierce usurper seeks his native hell, From these descending, sons to sires suc-And Nature triumphs as the tyrant dies ceed; Time steals along, and Death uprears his With storms she welcomes his expiring dart: Another chief impels the foaming steed, groans; Whirlwinds, responsive, greet his labour-Another crowd pursue the panting hart ing breath; Newstead ! what saddening change of Earth shudders as her caves receive his bones, scene is thine ! Loathing the offering of so dark a death. Thy yawning arch betokens slow decay; The last and youngest of a noble line The legal ruler now resumes the helm, Now holds thy mouldering turrets in his He guides through gentle seas the prow of state, 110 sway. 140

Deserted now, he scans thy gray worn towers;	When love was bliss, and Beauty form'd our heaven;
Thy vaults where dead of feudal ages sleep;	Or, dear to youth, portrays each childish scene,
Thy cloisters, pervious to the wintry show- ers;	Those fairy bowers, where all in turn have been
These, these he views, and views them but to weep	As when through clouds that pour the sum- mer storm
Yet are his tears no emblem of regret: Cherish'd affection only bids them flow; Pride, hope, and love forbid him to forget, But warm his bosom with impassion'd glow	The orb of day unveils his distant form, Gilds with famt beams the crystal dews of rain, And dunly twinkles o'er the watery plain; Thus, while the future dark and cheerless gleams,
5	The sun of memory, glowing through my
Yet he prefers thee to the gilded domes Or gewgaw grottos of the vamly great; Yet lingers 'mid thy damp and mossy tombs,	dreams, Though sunk the radiance of his former blaze,
Nor breathes a murmur 'gainst the will of fate. 152	To scenes far distant points his paler rays; Still rules my senses with unbounded sway, The past confounding with the present day.
Haply thy sun, emerging, yet may shine, Thee to irraduate with meridian ray; Hours splendid as the past may still be	Oft does my heart indulge the rising thought,
thine, And bless thy future as thy former day.	Which still recurs, unlook'd for and un- sought;
And pless my future as thy former day.	My soul to Fancy's fond suggestion yields, And roams romantic o'er her airy fields.
CHILDISH RECOLLECTIONS	Scenes of my youth, developed, crowd to view, 31
'I cannot but remember such things were, And were most dear to me.' — Macbeth.	To which I long have bade a last adieu ! Seats of delight, inspiring youthful themes
WHEN slow Disease, with all her host of pains,	Friends lost to me for aye, except in dreams Some who in marble prematurely sleep,
Chills the warm tide which flows along the vems;	Whose forms I now remember but to weep Some who yet urge the same scholastic
When Health, affrighted, spreads her rosy wing,	course Of early science, future fame the source;
And flies with every changing gale of spring;	Who, still contending in the studious race, In quick rotation fill the senior place. 40
Not to the aching frame alone confined, Unyielding pangs assail the drooping mind. What grasly forms, the spectre-train of	These with a thousand visions now unite, To dazzle, though they please, my aching sight.
woe, Bid shuddering Nature shrink beneath the blow,	IDA ! blest spot, where Science holds her reign,
With Resignation wage relentless strife, While Hope retires appall'd, and clings to	How joyous once I join'd thy youthfu train !
life. ¹⁰ Yet less the pang when, through the tedious hour,	Bright in idea gleams thy lofty spire, Again I mingle with thy playful quire; Our tricks of mischief, every childish game
Remembrance sheds around her genial power,	Unchanged by time or distance, seem the same;
Calls back the vanish'd days to rapture given,	Through winding paths along the glade, l trace

The social smile of every welcome face; 50 My wonted haunts, my scenes of joy and	She hush'd her young resentment, and for- gave;
woe, Each early boyish friend, or youthful foe, Our feuds dissolved, but not my friendship past: —	Or, if my muse a pedant's portrait drew, POMPOSUS' virtues are but known to few: I never fear'd the young usurper's nod, yi And he who wields must sometimes feel the
I bless the former, and forgive the last.	rod.
Hours of my youth ! when, nurtured in my breast,	If since on Granta's failings, known to all Who share the converse of a college hall,
To love a stranger, friendship made me blest;—	She sometimes trifled in a lighter strain, 'T is past, and thus she will not sin again,
Friendship, the dear peculiar bond of youth, When every artless bosom throbs with truth,	Soon must her early scng for ever cease, And all may rail when I shall rest in peace.
Untaught by worldly wisdom how to feign And check each impulse with prudential	Here first remember'd be the joyous band,
When all we feel, our honest souls dis- close —	Who hail'd me chief, obedient to com- mand; 100 Who jom'd with me in every house sport
In love to friends, in open hate to foes;	Who jom'd with me in every boyish sport— Their first adviser, and their last resort;
No varnish'd tales the lips of youth repeat,	Nor shrunk beneath the upstart pedant's
No dear-bought knowledge purchased by decent	frown, Or all the sable glories of his gown;
Hypocrisy, the gift of lengthen'd years,	Who, thus transplanted from his father's
Matured by age, the garb of prudence wears.	school —
When now the boy is ripen'd into man, His careful sire chalks forth some wary	Unfit to govern, ignorant of rule — Succeeded him, whom all unite to praise,
plan;	The dear preceptor of my early days,
Instructs his son from candour's path to	PROBUS, the pride of science, and the boast,
shrink, Smoothly to speak, and cautiously to think;	To IDA now, alas! for ever lost 110 With him, for years, we search'd the classic
Still to assent, and never to deny — 71	page,
A patron's praise can well reward the he And who, when Fortune's warning voice is	And fear'd the master, though we loved the sage:
heard,	Retired at last, his small yet peaceful seat
Would lose his opening prospects for a word?	From learning's labour is the blest retreat. POMPOSUS fills his magisterial chair;
Although against that word his heart rebel, And truth indignant all his bosom swell	POMPOSUS governs, — but, my muse, for- bear
Away with themes like this ! not mine the task	Contempt, in silence, be the pedant's lot; His name and precepts be alike forgot; No more his mention shall my verse de-
From flattering friends to tear the hateful mask;	grade, — To him my tribute is already paid. 120
Let keener bards delight in satire's sting,
My fancy soars not on Detraction's wing so Once, and but once, she aim'd a deadly blow,	High, through those elms, with hoary branches crown'd,
To hurl defiance on a secret foe,	Fair IDA's bower adorns the landscape
But when that foe, from feeling or from	round;
shame, The cause unknown, yet still to me the	There Science, from her favour'd seat, surveys
same,	The vale where rural Nature claims her
Warn'd by some friendly hint, perchance,	praise; To her awhile resigns her youthful train.
retired, With this submission all her rage expired.	Who move in joy, and dance along the
From dreaded pangs that feeble foe to save,	plain;

- In scatter'd groups each favour'd haunt pursue;
- Repeat old pastimes and discover new;
- Flush'd with his rays, beneath the noontide sun
- In rival bands between the wickets run, 130 Drive o'er the sward the ball with active force.
- Or chase with nimble feet its rapid course. But these with slower steps direct their way
- Where Brent's cool waves in limpid currents stray;
- While yonder few search out some green retreat,
- And arbours shade them from the summer heat.
- Others, again, a pert and lively crew,
- Some rough and thoughtless stranger placed in view,
- With frolic quaint their antic jests expose, And tease the grumbling rustic as he goes; Nor rest with this, but many a passing fray Tradition treasures for a future day: 142
- 'T was here the gather'd swains for vengeance fought,
- And here we earn'd the conquest dearly bought;
- Here have we fled before superior might,
- And here renew'd the wild tumultuous fight '
- While thus our souls with early passions swell,
- In lingering tones resounds the distant bell;
- Th' allotted hour of daily sport is o'er,
- And Learning beckons from her temple's door.
- No splendid tablets grace her simple hall,
- But ruder records fill the dusky wall; There, deeply carved, behold ! each tyro's
- name
- Secures its owner's academic fame;
- Here mingling view the names of sire and son —
- The one long graved, the other just begun. These shall survive alike when son and sire Beneath one common stroke of fate expire:

Perhaps their last memorial these alone,

- Denied in death a monumental stone, 100
- Whilst to the gale in mournful cadence wave
- The sighing weeds that hide their nameless grave.
- And here my name, and many an early friend's,

- Along the wall in lengthen'd line extends.
- Though still our deeds amuse the youthful race,
- Who tread our steps and fill our former place,
- Who young obey'd their lords in silent awe, Whose nod commanded and whose voice was law;
- And now, in turn, possess the reins of power,
- To rule the little tyrants of an hour; 170
- Though sometimes with the tales of ancient day
- They pass the dreary winter's eve away -
- 'And thus our former rulers stemm'd the tide,
- And thus they dealt the combat side by side;
- Just in this place the mouldering walls they scaled,
- Nor bolts nor bars against their strength avail'd;
- Here PROBUS came, the rising fray to quell,
- And here he falter'd forth his last farewell,
- And here one night abroad they dared to roam,
- While bold POMPOSUS bravely stay'd at home;' r80
- While thus they speak, the hour must soon arrive,
- When names of these, like ours, alone survive:
- Yet a few years, one general wreck will whelm
- The faint remembrance of our fairy realm.
 - Dear honest race ! though now we meet no more,
- One last long look on what we were before-
- Our first kind greetings, and our last adieu —
- Drew tears from eyes unused to weep with you.
- Through splendid circles, fashion's gaudy world,
- Where folly's glaring standard waves unfurl'd, 100
- I plunged to drown in noise my fond regret, And all I sought or hoped was to forget.
- Vain wish ! if chance some well-remember'd face,
- Some old companion of my early race,

Advanced to claim his friend with honest joy,

My eyes, my heart, proclaim'd me still a boy.	I hear - I wake - and in the sound re- joice:
The glittering scene, the fluttering groups around,	I hear again, — but ah ! no brother's voice. A hermit, 'midst of crowds, I fain must
Were quite forgotten when my friend was found;	stay Alone, though thousand pilgrims fill the
The smiles of beauty (for, alas! I've	way; While these a thousand kindred wreaths
What 't is to bend before Love's mighty	entwine, throne) — 200 The smiles of beauty, though those smiles	I cannot call one single blossom mine: What then remains? in solitude to groan,
were dear, Could hardly charm me, when that friend	To mix in friendship, or to sigh alone. 240 Thus must I cling to some endearing hand, was near:	And none more dear than IDA's social band.
My thoughts bewilder'd in the fond surprise, The woods of IDA danced before my eyes;	ALONZO ! best and dearest of my friends,
I saw the sprightly wand'rers pour along, I saw and join'd again the joyous throng;	Thy name ennobles him who thus com- mends:
Panting, again I traced her lofty grove,	From this fond tribute thou canst gam no praise,
And friendship's feelings triumphed over love.	The praise is his who now that tribute pays.
Yet, why should I alone with such de-	Oh ! in the promise of thy early youth, If hope anticipate the words of truth, light 209 Retrace the circuit of my former flight ?	Some loftier bard shall sing thy glorious name,
Is there no cause beyond the common claum	To build his own upon thy deathless fame Friend of my heart, and foremost of the
Endear'd to all in childhood's very name? Ah ! sure some stronger impulse vibrates	list 251
here, Which whispers friendship will be doubly	Of those with whom I lived supremely blest,
dear To one, who thus for kindred hearts must	Oft have we drain'd the font of ancient lore,
roani	Though drinking deeply, thirsting still the more.
And seek abroad the love denied at home. Those hearts, dear IDA, have I found in	Yet, when confinement's lungering hour was thee — A home, a world, a paradise to me.	done, Our sports, our studies, and our souls were
Stern Death forbade my orphan youth to share	one: Together we impell'd the flying ball;
The tender guidance of a father's care 220	Together waited in our tutor's hall; Together join'd in cricket's manly toil,
Can rank, or e'en a guardian's name, supply The love which glistens in a father's eye?	Or shared the produce of the river's spoil;
For this can wealth or title's sound atone, Made, by a parent's early loss, my own?	Or, plunging from the green declining shore,
What brother springs a brother's love to seek?	Our pliant limbs the buoyant billows bore; In every element, unchanged, the same,
What sister's gentle kiss has prest my cheek?	All, all that brothers should be, but the name.
For me how dull the vacant moments rise,	Nor yet are you forgot, my joeund boy !
To no fond bosom lunk'd by kindred ties! Oft in the progress of some fleeting dream	DAVUS, the harbinger of childish joy;
Fraternal smiles collected round me seem; While still the visions to my heart are	For ever foremost in the ranks of fun, The laughing herald of the harmless pun;
prest, 231 The voice of love will murmur in my rest:	Yet with a breast of such materials made -

Candid and liberal, with a heart of steel 271 wield, In danger's path, though not untaught to feel. Still I remember, in the factious strife, A cry of horror burst from every tongue, Whilst I, in combat with another foe, ceit: Fought on, unconscious of th' impending blow; smile, Your arm, brave boy, arrested his career burn, hand, spurn. Or all the labours of a grateful lay? deed, adore; -LYCUS! on me thy claims are justly great: Thy milder virtues could my muse relate, To thee alone, unrivall'd, would belong scene, The feeble efforts of my lengthen'd song. fit, A Spartan firmness with Athenian wit: run; Though yet in embryo these perfections shine, year. thine. Where learning nurtures the superior mind, fined ! To soothe a youthful rival's early pride Though Cleon's candour would the palm When time at length matures thy growing years, How wilt thou tower above thy fellow divide, peers ! Prudence and sense, a spirit bold and free, Shall fair EURYALUS pass by unsung, dear. tear ! part, urn, And palpitate, responsive to the sound. Envy dissolved our ties, and not our will: well ! so still. A heart untainted, we in thee behold: twined, 310

The rustic's musket aim'd against my life: High poised in air the massy weapon hung,

Forward you sprung, insensible to fear; 280 Disarm'd and batfled by your conquering

The grovelling savage roll'd upon the sand. An act like this, can simple thanks repay?

Oh no! whene'er my breast forgets the

That instant, DAVUS, it deserves to bleed.

- Well canst thou boast, to lead in senates

LYCUS! thy father's fame will soon be

What may we hope from genius thus re-

With honour's soul, united beam in thee. 300

From ancient lineage, not unworthy, sprung? What though one sad dissension bade us

Thy name is yet embalm'd within my heart; Yet at the mention does that heart rebound,

We once were friends, - I'll think we are

A form unmatch'd in nature's partial mould,

Yet not the senate's thunder thou shalt

Nor seek for glory in the tented field;

To minds of ruder texture these be given --

Thy soul shall nearer soar its native heaven.

Haply, in polish'd courts might be thy seat, But that thy tongue could never forge de-

The courtier's supple bow and sneering

The flow of compliment, the slippery wile,

Would make that breast with indignation

And all the gluttering snares to tempt thee

Domestic happiness will stamp thy fate; Sacred to love, unclouded e'er by hate;

The world admire thee, and thy friends

Ambition's slave alone would toil for more.

Now last, but nearest, of the social band, See honest, open, generous CLEON stand;

With scarce one speck to cloud the pleasing

No vice degrades that purest soul serene.

On the same day our studious race begun,

On the same day our studious race was

Thus side by side we pass'd our first career, Thus side by side we strove for many a

At last, concluded our scholastic life,

We neither conquer'd in the classic strife:

As speakers each supports an equal name,

And crowds allow to both a partial fame:

Yet candour's self compels me now to own Justice awards it to my friend alone. 340

Oh ! friends regretted, scenes for ever

Remembrance hails you with her warmest

Drooping, she bends o'er pensive Fancy's

To trace the hours which never can return; Yet with the retrospection loves to dwell,

And soothe the sorrows of her last fare-

Yet greets the triumph of my boyish mind,

As infant laurels round my head were

 When PROBUS' praise repaid my lyric song, Or placed me higher in the studious throng; Or when my first harangue received applause, 35¹ His sage instruction the primeval cause, What gratitude to him my soul possest, What gratitude to him my soul possest, While hope of dawning honours fill'd my breast! For all my humble fame, to him alone The praise is due, who made that fame my own. Oh ! could I soar above these feeble lays, These young effusions of my early days, To him my muse her noblest strain would give: The song might perish, but the theme might live. 360 Yet why for him the needless verse essay? His honour'd name requires no vain display. By every son of grateful IDA blest, It finds an echo m each youthful breast; A fame beyond the glories of the proud, Or all the plaudits of the venal crowd. IDA ! not yet exhausted is the theme, Nor closed the progress of my youthful dream. How many a friend deserves the grateful strain ! What scenes of childhood still unsung re- main ! 370 Yet let me hush this echo of the past, This parting song, the dearest and the last; And brood in secret o'er those hours of joy, To me a silent and a sweet employ, While future hope and fear alike unknown, I think with pleasure on the past alone; Yes, to the past alone my heart confine, And chase the phantom of what once was mine. 	 Are swept for ever from this busy world; Revolve the fleeting moments of your youth, While Care as yet withheld her venom'd tooth; 390 Say, if remembrance days like these endears Beyond the rapture of succeeding years? Say, can ambthon's fever'd dream bestow So sweet a balm to soothe your hours of woe? Can treasures, hoarded for some thankless son, Can royal smiles, or wreaths by slaughter won, Can stars or ermine, man's maturer toys (For glittering baubles are not left to boys), Recall one scene so much beloved to view, As those where Youth her garland twined for you? 400 Ah, no ! amidst the gloomy calm of age You turn with faltering hand life's varied page; Peruse the record of your days on earth, Unsullied only where it marks your birth; Still lingering pause above each checker'd leaf, And blot with tears the sable lines of grief, Where Passion o'er the theme her mantle threw, Or weeping Virtue sigh'd a faint adieu; But bless the scroll which fairer words adorn, Traced by the rosy finger of the morn, 410 When Friendship bow'd before the shrine of truth, And Love, without his pinion, smiled on youth.
 IDA ! still o'er thy hills in joy preside, And proudly steer through time's eventful tide; 380 Still may thy blooming sons thy name re- vere, Smile in thy bower, but quit thee with a tear; — That tear, perhaps, the fondest which will flow, O'er their last scene of happiness below. Tell me, ye hoary few, who glide along, The feeble veterans of some former throng, Whose friends, like autumn leaves by tem- pests whirl'd, 	ANSWER TO A BEAUTIFUL POEM, ENTITLED 'THE COM- MON LOT' [By James Montgomery, author of The Wanderer in Switzerland.] MONTGOMERY ! true, the common lot Of mortals lies in Lethe's wave; Yet some shall never be forgot, Some shall exist beyond the grave. 'Unknown the region of his birth,' The hero rolls the tide of war;

Yet not unknown his martial worth, Chill'd by misfortune's wintry blast, My dawn of life is overcast, Which glares a meteor from afar. Love, Hope, and Joy, alike adieu !---Would I could add Remembrance too! His joy or grief, his weal or woe, Perchance may 'scape the page of fame; 1806. Yet nations now unborn will know 11 The record of his deathless name. TO A LADY The patriot's and the poet's frame WHO PRESENTED THE AUTHOR WITH Must share the common tomb of all: THE VELVET BAND WHICH BOUND HER Their glory will not sleep the same; TRESSES That will arise, though empires fall. THIS Band, which bound thy yellow hair, The lustre of a beauty's eye Is mine, sweet girl! thy pledge of love; Assumes the ghastly stare of death; It claims my warmest, dearest care, The fair, the brave, the good must die, Like relics left of saints above. And sink the yawning grave beneath. 20 Oh ! I will wear it next my heart; Once more the speaking eye revives, "T will bind my soul in bonds to thee; Still beaming through the lover's strain; From me again 't will ne'er depart, For Petrarch's Laura still survives: But mingle in the grave with me. She died, but ne'er will die agam. The dew I gather from thy lip The rolling seasons pass away, Is not so dear to me as this; And Time, untiring, waves his wing; That I but for a moment sip, Whilst honour's laurels ne'er decay, And banquet on a transient bliss: But bloom in fresh, unfading spring. This will recall each youthful scene, All, all must sleep in grim repose, E'en when our lives are on the wane: The leaves of Love will still be green Collected in the silent tomb; 30 The old and young, with friends and foes, When Memory bids them bud again. Festering alike in shrouds, consume. Oh ! little lock of golden hue, The mouldering marble lasts its day, In gently waving ringlet curl'd, By the dear head on which you grow, Yet falls at length an useless fane; I would not lose you for a world To ruin's ruthless fangs a prey, The wrecks of pillar'd pride remain. Not though a thousand more adorn What, though the sculpture be destroy'd, The polish'd brow where once you shone, Like rays which gild a cloudless morn, From dark oblivion meant to guard; Beneath Columbia's fervid zone. A bright renown shall be enjoy'd By those whose virtues claim reward. 40 1806. Then do not say the common lot LINES Of all lies deep in Lethe's wave; Some few who ne'er will be forgot ADDRESSED TO THE REV. J. T. BECHER, Shall burst the bondage of the grave. ON HIS ADVISING THE AUTHOR TO MIX 1806. MORE WITH SOCIETY DEAR Becher, you tell me to mix with REMEMBRANCE mankind; I cannot deny such a precept is wise; But retirement accords with the tone of my

'T is done ! — I saw it in my dreams: No more with Hope the future beams, My days of happiness are few; mind, I will not descend to a world I despise.

- Did the senate or camp my exertions require,
- Ambition might prompt me at once to go forth;
- When infancy's years of probation expire, Perchance I may strive to distinguish my birth.
- The fire in the cavern of Etna conceal'd, Still mantles unseen in its secret recess; ro
- At length, in a volume terrific reveal'd, No torrent can quench it, no bounds can repress.
- Oh! thus, the desire in my bosom for fame
 - Bids me live but to hope for posterity's praise:
- Could I soar with the phœnix on pimons of flame,
 - With him I would wish to expire in the blaze.
- For the life of a Fox, of a Chatham the death,
 - What censure, what danger, what woe would I brave !
- Their lives did not end when they yielded their breath,
 - Their glory illumines the gloom of their grave 20
- Yet why should I mingle in Fashion's full herd?
 - Why crouch to her leaders, or cringe to her rules?
- Why bend to the proud, or applaud the absurd?
 - Why search for delight in the friendship of fools?
- I have tasted the sweets and the bitters of love;
 - In friendship I early was taught to believe;
- My passion the matrons of prudence 1eprove;
 - I have found that a friend may profess, yet deceive.
- Io me what is wealth ? it may pass in an hour,
 - If tyrants prevail or if Fortune should frown; 30

- To me what is title ?- the phantom of power;
 - To me what is fashion ? I seek but renown

Deceit is a stranger as yet to my soul,

- I still am unpractised to varnish the truth:
- Then why should I live in a nateful control?
 - Why waste upon folly the days of my youth?

1806.

THE DEATH OF CALMAR AND ORLA

AN IMITATION OF MACPHERSON'S OSSIAN

[Byron states that the story of this Imitation, 'though considerably varied in the catastrophe, is taken from "Nisus and Euryalus."' Like Goethe and others of the period, Byron was an admirer of Ossian, although he was early acquainted with the true nature of these rhapsodies.]

DEAR are the days of youth ! Age dwells on their remembrance through the mist of time In the twilight he recalls the sumy hours of morn. He lifts his spear with trembling hand. 'Not thus feebly did I raise the steel before my fathers !' Past is the race of herces ! But their fame rises on the harp; their souls ride on the wings of the wind; they hear the sound through the sighs of the storm, and rejoice in their hall of clouds ! Such is Calmar. The gray stone marks his narrow house. He looks down from eddying tempests he rolls his form in the whirlwind, and hovers on the blast of the mountain.

In Morven dwelt the chief, a beam of war to Fingal. His steps in the field were marked in blood. Lochlin's sons had fied before his angry spear: but mild was the eye of Calmar; soft was the flow of his yellow locks: they streamed like the meteor of the night No maid was the sigh of his soul: his thoughts were given to friendship, — to dark-haired Orla, destroyer of heroes ! Equal were their swords in battle; but fierce was the pride of Orla: — gentle alone to Calmar Together they dwelt in the cave of Onthona.

From Lochlin, Swaran bounded o'er the blue waves. Erin's sons fell beneath his might. Fingal roused his chiefs to combat. Their ships cover the ocean. Their hosts throng on the green hills. They come to the aid of Erin.

Night rose in clouds. Darkness veils the armies but the blazing oaks gleam through the valley. The sons of Lochlin slept: their dreams were of blood. They lift the spear in thought, and Fingal flies. Not so the host of Morven. To watch was the post of Orla. Calmar stood by his side. Their spears were in their hands. Fingal called his chiefs they stood around The king was in the midst. Gray were his locks, but strong was the arm of the king. Age withered not his powers. 'Sons of Morven,' said the hero, 'to-morrow we meet the foe. But where is Cuthullin, the shield of Erin ? He rests in the halls of Tura; he knows not of our coming Who will speed through Lochlin to the hero, and call the chief to arms? The path is by the swords of foes; but many are my heroes. They are thunderbolts of war. Špeak, ye chiefs ! Who will arise ?'

'Son of Trenmor ! mine be the deed,' said dark-haired Orla, 'and mine alone What is death to me? I love the sleep of the mighty, but little is the danger. The sons of Lochlin dream I will seek car-borne Cuthullun. If I fall, raise the song of bards; and lay me by the stream of Lubar.' - ' And shalt thou fall alone?' said fair-haired Calmar. 'Wilt thou leave thy friend afar? Chief of Oithona! not feeble is my arm in fight Could I see thee die, and not lift the spear? No, Orla! ours has been the chase of the roebuck, and the feast of shells; ours be the path of danger: ours has been the cave of Oithona; ours be the narrow dwelling on the banks of Lubar.'-'Calmar,' said the chief of Oithona, 'why should thy yellow locks be darkened in the dust of Erm? Let me fall alone. My father dwells in his hall of air: he will rejoice in his boy; but the blue-eyed Mora spreads the feast for her son in Morven She listens to the steps of the hunter on the heath, and thinks it is the tread of Calmar. Let her not say, "Calmar has fallen by the steel of Lochlin: he died with gloomy Orla, the chief of the dark brow." Why should tears dim the azure eye of Mora? Why should her voice curse Orla, the destroyer of Calmar? Live, Calmar! Live to raise my stone of moss; live to revenge me in the blood of Lochlin. Join the song of bards above my grave. Sweet will be the song of death to Orla, from the voice of Calmar. My ghost shall smile on the notes of praise.' — 'Orla,' said the son of Mora, 'could I raise the song of death to my friend? Could I give his fame to the winds? No, my heart would speak in sighs: faint and broken are the sounds of sorrow. Orla' our souls shall hear the song together. One cloud shall be ours on high: the bards will mingle the names of Orla and Calmar'

They guit the circle of the chiefs. Their steps are to the host of Lochlin. The dying blaze of oak dim-twinkles through the night. The northern star points the path to Tura. Swaran, the king, rests on his lonely hill. Here the troops are mixed: they frown in sleep, their shields beneath their heads. Their swords gleam at distance in heaps. The fires are faint; their embers fail in smoke. All is hushed; but the gale sighs on the rocks above. Lightly wheel the heroes through the slumbering band. Half the journey is past, when Mathon, resting on his shield, meets the eye of Orla. It rolls in flame, and glistens through the shade. His spear 1s raised on high. 'Why dost thou bend thy brow, chief of Oithona ?' said fair-haired Calmar: 'we are in the midst of foes. Is this a time for delay?' 'It is a time for vengeance,' said Orla of the gloomy brow. 'Mathon of Lochlin sleeps: seest thou his spear? Its point is dim with the gore of my father. The blood of Mathon shall reek on mine; but shall I slay him sleeping, son of Mora? No! he shall feel his wound my fame shall not soar on the blood of slumber. Rise, Mathon, rise! The son of Connal calls; thy life is his; rise to combat' Mathon starts from sleep; but did he rise alone? No: the gathering chiefs bound on the plain. 'Fly! Calmar, fly !' said dark-haired Orla. 'Mathon is mine. I shall die in joy: but Lochlin crowds around. Fly through the shade of night.' Orla turns. The helm of Mathon is cleft; his shield falls from his arm. he shudders in his blood. He rolls by the side of the blazing oak. Strumon sees him fall: his wrath rises: his weapon glitters on the head of Orla: but a spear pierced his eye His brain gushes through the wound, and foams on the spear of Calmar. As roll the waves of the ocean on two mighty barks of the North, so pour the men of Lochlm on the chiefs. As, breaking the surge in foam, proudly steer the barks of the North, so rise the chiefs of Morven on the scattered crests of Lochlm. The dun of arms came to the ear of Fingal He strikes his shield; his sons throng around; the people pour along the heath. Ryno bounds in joy. Ossian stalks m his arms. Oscar shakes the spear The eagle wing of Fillan floats on the wind. Dreadful is the clang of death ! many are the widows of Lochlin! Morven prevails in its strength.

Morn glummers on the hills: no living foe is seen; but the sleepers are many; grim they lie on Erm. The breeze of ocean lifts their locks; yet they do not awake. The hawks scream above their prey

Whose yellow locks wave o'er the breast of a chief? Bright as the gold of the stranger, they mingle with the dark hair of his friend 'T is Calmar. he lies on the bosom of Orla. Theirs is one stream of blod. Fierce is the look of the gloomy Orla. He breathes not; but his eye is still a flame. It glares in death unclosed. His hand is grasped in Calmar's; but Calmar lives! he hves, though low. 'Rise,' said the king, 'rise, son of Mora: 't is mine to heal the wounds of herces. Calmar may yet bound on the hills of Morven'

'Never more shall Calmar chase the deer of Morven with Orla,' said the hero. 'What were the chase to me alone? Who would share the spoils of battle with Calmar? Orla is at rest! Rough was thy soul, Orla' yet soft to me as the dew of morn. It glared on others in lightning: to me a silver beam of night. Bear my sword to blue-eyed Mora; let it hang in my empty hall. It is not pure from blood: but it could not save Orla. Lay me with my friend. Raise the song when I am dark!'

They are laid by the stream of Lubar. Four gray stones mark the dwelling of Orla and Calmar When Swaran was bound, our sails rose on the blue waves The winds gave our barks to Morven: — the bards raised the song.

What form rises on the roar of clouds? Whose dark ghost gleams on the red streams of tempests? His voice rolls on the thunder. 'T is Orla, the brown chief of Oithona. He was unmatched in war. Peace to thy soul, Orla ! thy fame will not perish. Nor thme, Calmar! Lovely wast thou, son of blue-eyed Mora; but not harmless was thy sword. It hangs in thy cave. The ghosts of Lochlin shirek around its steel. Hear thy praise, Calmar! It dwells on the voice of the mighty. Thy name shakes on the echoes of Morven. Then raise thy fair locks, son of Mora. Spread them on the arch of the rambow; and smile through the tears of the storm '

L'AMITIÉ EST L'AMOUR SANS AILES

WHY should my anxious breast repine, Because my youth is fled?

Days of delight may still be mine; Affection is not dead.

In tracing back the years of youth,

One firm record, one lasting truth

Celestial consolation brings;

Bear it, ye breezes, to the seat

Where first my heart responsive beat, — 'Friendship is Love without his wings!' is Through few, but deeply chequer'd years, What moments have been mine !

Now half obscured by clouds of tears, Now bright in rays divine;

Howe'er my future doom be cast,

My soul, enraptured with the past, To one idea fondly clings;

Friendship ' that thought is all thine own, Worth worlds of bliss, that thought alone --

'Friendship is Love without his wings !' 2c

Where yonder yew-trees lightly wave Their branches on the gale,

Unheeded heaves a simple grave, Which tells the common tale;

Round this unconscious schoolboys stray, Till the dull knell of childish play

From yonder studious mansion rings;

But here whene'er my footsteps move,

My silent tears too plainly prove,

'Friendship is Love without his wings !' 30

Oh, Love ! before thy glowing shrine

My early vows were paid; My hopes, my dreams, my heart was thine,

But these are now decay'd;

For thine are pinions like the wind,

No trace of thee remains behind,

Except, alas! thy jealous stings

Away, away ! delusive power, Simple and young, I dare not feign; Thou shalt not haunt my coming hour; Mme be the rude yet heartfelt stram, Unless, indeed, without thy wings. 'Friendship is Love without his wings !' 40 December 29, 1806. Seat of my youth ! thy distant spire Recalls each scene of joy; THE PRAYER OF NATURE My bosom glows with former fire, ---In mind again a boy. Thy grove of elms, thy verdant hill, FATHER of Light! great God of Heaven! Thy every path delights me still, Hear'st thou the accents of despair? Each flower a double fragrance flings; Can guilt like man's be e'er forgiven? Again, as once, in converse gay, Can vice atone for crimes by prayer? Each dear associate seems to say, 'Friendship is Love without his wings !' 50 Father of Light, on thee I call ! Thou seest my soul is dark within; My Lycus ! wherefore dost thou weep? Thou who canst mark the sparrow's fall, Thy falling tears restrain; Avert from me the death of sin. Affection for a time may sleep, But, oh, 't will wake again. No shrine I seek, to sects unknown; Think, think, my friend, when next we meet, Oh, point to me the path of truth ! Our long-wish d interview, how sweet ! Thy dread omnipotence I own; From this my hope of rapture springs; Spare, yet amend, the faults of youth. While youthful hearts thus fondly swell, Absence, my friend, can only tell, Let bigots rear a gloomy fane, 'Friendship is Love without his wings !' 60 Let superstition hail the pile, Let priests, to spread their sable reign, In one, and one alone, deceived, With tales of mystic rites begule. Did I my error mourn ? No — from oppressive bonds relieved, Shall man confine his Maker's sway I left the wretch to scorn. To Gothic domes of mouldering stone? Thy temple is the face of day; I turn'd to those my childhood knew, With feelings warm, with bosoms true, Earth, ocean, heaven, thy boundless throne. Twined with my heart's according strings; Shall man condemn his race to hell, And till those vital chords shall break, Unless they bend in pompous form? For none but these my breast shall wake Tell us that all, for one who fell, Friendship, the power deprived of wings ! Must perish in the mingling storm? Ye few ! my soul, my life is yours, 71 Shall each pretend to reach the skies, My memory and my hope; Your worth a lasting love ensures, Yet doom his brother to expire, Unfetter'd in its scope; Whose soul a different hope supplies, From smooth decent and terror sprung, Or doctrines less severe inspire ? With aspect fair and honey'd tongue, Shall these, by creeds they can't expound, Let Adulation wait on kings; With joy elate, by snares beset, Prepare a fancied bliss or woe? We, we, my friends, can ne'er forget, Shall reptiles, grovelling on the ground, Their great Creator's purpose know? 'Friendship 1s Love without his wings !' 30 Fictions and dreams inspire the bard Shall those who live for self alone, Whose years float on in daily crime – Who rolls the epic song; Friendship and Truth be my reward -Shall they by Faith for guilt atone, To me no bays belong; And live beyond the bounds of Time? If laurell'd Fame but dwells with lies, Me the enchantress ever flies. Father ! no prophet's laws I seek, -Whose heart and not whose fancy sings; Thy laws in Nature's works appear; -

10

21

30

I own myself corrupt and weak, Yet will I pray, for thou wilt hear ! 40	Or if, in melancholy mood, Some lurking envious fear intrade,
Thou who canst guide the wandering star Through trackless realms of æther's space; Who calm'st the elemental war, Whose hand from pole to pole I trace: — Thou, who in wisdom placed me here, Who, when thou wilt, canst take me hence, Ah ! whilst I tread this earthly sphere, Extend to me thy wide defence.	To check my bosom's fondest thought, And interrupt the golden dream, I crush the fiend with malice fraught, And still indulge my wonted theme Although we ne'er again can trace, In Granta's vale, the pedant's lore; 20 Nor through the groves of Ida chase Our raptured visions as before; Though Y outh has flown on rosy pinion, And Manhood claims his stern dominion — Age will not every hope destroy, But yield some hours of sober joy.
To Thee, my God, to thee I call! Whatever weal or woe bettle, 50 By thy command I use or fall, In thy protection I confide.	Yes, I will hope that Time's broad wing Will shed around some dews of spring. But if his scythe must sweep the flowers Which bloom among the fairy bowers, 30 Where smiling Youth delights to dwell And hearts with cash, making well
If, when this dust to dust 's restored, My soul shall float on airy wing, How shall thy glorious name adored Inspire her feeble voice to sing !	And hearts with early rapture swell, If frowning Age, with cold control, Confines the current of the soul, Congeals the tear of Pity's eye,
 But, if this fleeting spirit share With clay the grave's eternal bed, While hife yet throbs I raise my prayer, Though doom'd no more to quit the dead. To Thee I breathe my humble strain, Grateful for all thy mercies past, And hope, my God, to thee again Theorem to fice more flue at least 	Or checks the sympathetic sigh, Or hears unmoved misfortune's groan, And bids me feel for self alone; Oh, may my bosom never learn To soothe its wonted heedless flow; Still, still despise the censor stern, But ne'er forget another's woe. Yes, as you knew me in the days O'er which Remembrance yet delays, Still may I rove, untutor'd, wild, And orn in orgo at heart a child
 This erring life may fly at last. December 29, 1806 TO EDWARD NOEL LONG, ESQ. Nil ego contulerim jucundo sanus amico HOBAGE DEAR LONG, in this sequester'd scene, While all around in slumber lie, 	And even in age at heart a child. Though now on airy visions borne, To you my soul is still the same. Oft has it been my fate to mourn, And all my former joys are tame. But, hence ! ye hours of sable hue ! Your frowns are gone, my sorrows o'er: By every bliss my childhood knew, I'll think upon your shade no more. Thus, when the whirlwind's rage is past,
The joyous days which ours have been Come rolling fresh on Fancy's eye; Thus if amidst the gathering storm, While clouds the darken'd noon deform, Yon heaven assumes a varied glow, I hall the sky's celestial bow Which spreads the sign of future peace And bids the war of tempests cease. Ah ! though the present brings but pain, I think those days may come again;	And caves their sullen roar enclose, We heed no more the wintry blast, When lull'd by zephyr to repose. Full often has my infant Muse Attuned to love her languid lyre; But now without a theme to choose, The strains in stolen sighs expire My youthful nymphs, alas! are flown; E is a wife, and C a mother,

70

And Carolina sighs alone,

And Mary's given to another; And Cora's eye which roll'd on me,

Can now no more my love recall In truth, dear LONG, 't was time to flee;

For Cora's eye will shine on all And though the sun, with genial rays, His beams alike to all displays,

And every lady's eye's a sun, These last should be confined to one. The soul's meridian don't become her, Whose sun displays a general summer ! Thus famt is every former flame,

And passion's self is now a name.

As, when the ebbing flames are low,

The aid, which once improved their light so

And bade them burn with fiercer glow, Now quenches all their sparks in night; Thus has it been with passion's fires,

As many a boy and girl remembers,

While all the force of love expires, Extinguish'd with the dying embers.

But now, dear LONG, 't is midnight's noon, And clouds obscure the watery moon, Whose beautes I shall not rehearse, Described m every stripling's verse; For why should I the path go o'er Which every bard has trod before ' Yet ere yon silver lamp of night

Has thrice perform'd her stated round, Has thrice retraced her path of light,

And chased away the gloom profound, I trust that we, my gentle friend, Shall see her rolling orbit wend Above the dear-loved peaceful seat Which once contain'd our youth's retreat, And then with those our childhood knew, We'll mingle in the festive crew; While many a tale of former day Shall wing the laughing hours away, And all the flow of souls shall pour The sacred intellectual shower, Nor cease till Luna's waning horn Scarce glimmers through the mist of morn.

TO A LADY

[Mrs. Chaworth Musters, the 'Mary' of many poems.]

OH ! had my fate been join'd with thine, As once this pledge appear'd a token, These follies had not then been mine, For then my peace had not been broken.

To thee these early faults I owe, To thee, the wise and old reproving: They know my sms, but do not know 'T was thine to break the bonds of loving For once my soul, like thine, was pure, And all its rising fires could smother; ic But now thy vows no more endure, Bestow'd by thee upon another Perhaps his peace I could destroy, And spoil the blisses that await him; Yet let my rival smile in joy, For thy dear sake I cannot hate him. Ah ! since thy angel form 1s gone, My heart no more can rest with any; But what it sought in thee alone, Attempts, alas ! to find in many. 20 Then fare thee well, deceitful maid ! 'T were vam and fruitless to regret thee; Nor Hope, nor Memory yield their aid, But Pride may teach me to forget thee Yet all this giddy waste of years, This tiresome round of palling pleasures; These varied loves, these matron's fears, These thoughtless strains to passion's measures -If thou wert mme, had all been hush'd: --This cheek now pale from early riot, 30 With passion's hectic ne'er had flush'd, But bloom'd in calm domestic quiet. Yes, once the rural scene was sweet, For Nature seem'd to smile before thee; And once my breast abhorr'd decert, -For then it beat but to adore thee. But now I seek for other joys: To think would drive my soul to madness; In thoughtless throngs and empty noise, I conquer half my bosom's sadness 40

Yet, even in these a thought will steal, In spite of every vam endeavour; And fiends might pity what I feel, —

To know that thou art lost for ever.

- I arose with the dawn; with my dog as my guide,
 - From mountain to mountain I bounded along;
- I breasted the billows of Dee's rushing tide,
- And heard at a distance the Highlander's song:
- At eve, on my heath-cover'd couch of repose,
 - No dreams, save of Mary, were spread to my view;

And warm to the skies my devotions arose, For the first of my prayers was a blessing on you.

- I left my bleak home, and my visions are gone;
 - The mountains are vanish'd, my youth is no more;
- As the last of my race, I must wither alone, And delight but in days I have witness'd before:
- Ah ! splendour has raised, but embitter'd, my lot;
 - More dear were the scenes which my infancy knew: 30
- 'Though my hopes may have fail'd, yet they are not forgot;
 - Though cold is my heart, still it lingers with you.
- When I see some dark hill point its crest to the sky,
 - I think of the rocks that o'ershadow Colbleen;
- When I see the soft blue of a love-speaking eye,
- I think of those eyes that endear'd the rude scene;
- When, haply, some light-waving locks 1 behold,

That faintly resemble my Mary's in hue,

- I think on the long flowing ringlets of gold, The locks that were sacred to beauty, and you. 40
- Yet the day may arrive when the mountains once more
- Shall rise to my sight in their mantles of snow;
- But while these soar above me, unchanged as before,
 - Will Mary be there to receive me? ah, no !

- Adieu, then, ye hills where my childhood was bred !
- Thou sweet flowing Dee, to thy waters adieu !
- No home in the forest shall shelter my head,
 - Ah, Mary ! what home could be mine but with you ?

TO GEORGE, EARL DELAWARR

- OH yes, I will own we were dear to each other;
 - The friendships of childhood, though fleeting, are true;
- The love which you felt was the love of a brother,
 - Nor less the affection I cherish'd for you.
- But Friendship can vary her gentle dominion,
 - The attachment of years in a moment expires;
- Like Love, too, she moves on a swift-waving pinion,
 - But glows not, like Love, with unquenchable fires.
- Full oft have we wander'd through Ida together,
 - And bless'd were the scenes of our youth, I allow:
- In the spring of our life, how serene is the weather !
 - But winter's rude tempests are gathering now.
- No more with affection shall memory blending,
 - The wonted delights of our childhood retrace:
- When pride steels the bosom, the heart is unbending,
 - And what would be justice appears a disgrace.
- However, dear George, for I still must esteem you —
- The few whom I love I can never upbraid -
- The chance which has lost may in future redeem you,
 - Repentance will cancel the vow you have made. 20

I will not complain, and though chill'd is	The measure of our youth is full,
affection,	Life's evening dream is dark and dull,
With me no corroding resentment shall	And we may meet — ah ! never !
live:	As when one parent spring supplies
My bosom is calm'd by the simple reflection,	Two streams which from one fountain rise,
That both may be wrong, and that both	Together join'd in vain; 2 ⁻
should forgive.	How soon, diverging from their source,
You knew that my soul, that my heart, my	Each, murmuring, seeks another course, existence,	Till ningled in the main !
If danger demanded, were wholly your	Our vital streams of weal or woe,
own;	Though near, alas ! distinctly flow,
You knew me unalter'd by years or by dis-	Nor mingle as before:
tance, Devoted to love and to friendship alone.	Now swift or slow, now black or clear, Till death's unfathom'd gulf appear, And both shall quit the shore 3-
 You knew, — but away with the vam retrospection ! The bond of affection no longer endures; Too late you may droop o'er the fond recollection, 31 And sigh for the friend who was formerly yours. 	Our souls, my friend ' which once supplied One wish, nor breathed a thought beside, Now flow in different channels. Disdaming humbler rural sports, 'T is yours to mix in polish'd courts, And shine in fashion's annals;
 For the present, we part, — I will hope not for ever; For time and regret will restore you at last: To forget our dissension we both should endeavour, I ask no atonement but days like the past. 	'T is mine to waste on love my time, Or vent my reveries m rhyme, Without the aid of reason; For sense and reason (critics know it) Have quitted every amorous poet, Nor left a thought to seize on
TO THE EARL OF CLARE Tu semper amoris Sis menior, et cari comitis ne absce lat iniago Val. FLAC, Argonaul, iv. 36	Poor LITTLE ' sweet, melodious bard ! Of late esteem'd it monstrous hard That he, who sang before all, — He who the lore of love expanded, — By dire reviewers should be branded, As void of wit and moral
FRIEND of my youth! when young we roved	And yet, while Beauty's praise is thine,
Like striplings, mutually beloved,	Harmonious favourite of the Nine ! 5c
With friendship's purest glow;	Repine not at thy lot.
The bliss which wing'd those rosy hours,	Thy soothing lays may still be read,
Was such as pleasure seldom showers	When persecution's arm is dead,
On mortals here below	And critics are forgot.
The recollection seems alone Dearer than all the joys I 've known, When distant far from you: Though pain, 't is still a pleasing pain To trace those days and hours again, And sigh again, adieu !	Still I must yield those worthies merit,Who chasten, with unsparing spirit,Bad rhymes, and those who write them;And though myself may be the nextBy critic sarcasm to be vext,I really will not fight them.
My pensive memory lingers o'er	Perhaps they would do quite as well
Those scenes to be enjoy'd no more,	To break the rudely sounding shell
Those scenes regretted ever,	Of such a young beginner:

He who offends at pert nineteen, Ere thirty may become, I ween, A very harden'd sinner	Where now alone I muse, who off have trod, With those I loved, thy soft and verdant sod;
Now, Clare, I must return to you, And, sure, apologies are due; Accept then my concession. In truth, dear Clare, in fancy's flight I soar along from left to right; My muse admires digression	 With those who, scatter'd far, perchance deplore, Like me, the happy scenes they knew before Oh ! as I trace again thy winding hill, Mine eyes admire, my heart adores thee still,
I think I said 't would be your fate To add one star to royal state; — May regal smiles attend you ! And should a noble monarch reign, You will not seek his smiles in vain, If worth can recommend you	Thou drooping Elm ! beneath whose boughs I lay, And frequent mused the twilight hours away; Where, as they once were wont, my limbs recline, But, ah ! without the thoughts which then were mine:
Yet since in danger courts abound, Where specious rivals glitter round, so From snares may saints preserve you; And grant your love or friendship ne'er From any claim a kindred care, But those who best deserve you !	How do thy branches, moaning to the blast, Invite the bosom to recall the past, And seem to whisper, as they gently swell, 'Take, while thou canst, a lingering, last farewell !' When fate shall chill at length this
Not for a moment may you stray From truth's secure, unerring way ! May no delights decoy ! O'er roses may your footsteps move, Your smiles be ever smiles of love, Your tears be tears of joy ! 90	fever'd breast, And calm its cares and passions into rest, Oft have I thought, 't would soothe my dying hour, — If aught may soothe when life resigns her power, — 20 To know some humbler grave, some narrow
Oh! if you wish that happiness Your coming days and years may bless, And virtues crown your brow; Be still as you were wont to be, Spotless as you 've been known to me, — Be still as you are now	cell, Would hide my bosom where it loved to dwell With this foud dream, methinks, 't were sweet to die — And here it linger'd, here my heart might
And though some trifing share of praise, To cheer my last declining days, To me were doubly dear; Whilst blessing your beloved name, I'd waive at once a poet's fame, To prove a prophet here. 1807.	he; Here might I sleep where all my hopes arose, Scene of my youth and couch of my repose; For ever stretch'd beneath this mantling shade, Press'd by the turf where once my child- hood play'd; Wrapt by the soil that veils the spot I loved, Murd's math the couth of a much are fact
LINES WRITTEN BENEATH AN ELM IN THE CHURCHYARD OF HARROW	Mux'd with the earth o'er which my foot- steps moved; 30 Blest by the tongues that charm'd my youthful ear, Mourn'd by the few my soul acknowledged
SPOT of my youth ! whose hoary branches sigh,	here; Deplored by those in early days allied,
Swept by the breeze that fans thy cloud- less sky;	And unremember'd by the world beside September 2, 1807.

MISCELLANEOUS POEMS

TRANSLATION FROM ANA-CREON

Eis þóðov — Ode 5

[First printed in Edition of 1898 from a manuscript in possession of Mr. Murray.]

MINGLE with the genial bowl The Rose, the flow'ret of the Soul, The Rose and Grape together quaff'd, How doubly sweet will be the draught ! With Roses crown our jovial brows, While every cheek with Laughter glows; While Smiles and Songs, with Wine incite, To wing our moments with Delight. Rose by far the fairest birth, Which Spring and Nature cull from Earth-Rose whose sweetest perfume given, Breathes our thoughts from Earth to Heaven -Rose whom the Derties above, From Jove to Hebe, dearly love, When Cytherea's blooming Boy Flies lightly through the dance of Joy, With him the Graces then combine, And rosy wreaths their locks entwine. Then will I sing divinely crown'd, With dusky leaves my temples bound -Lyæus! in thy bowers of pleasure, 1'll wake a wildly thrilling measure. There will my gentle Girl and I Along the mazes sportive fly, Will bend before thy potent throne — Rose, Wine, and Beauty, all my own.

1805.

OSSIAN'S ADDRESS TO THE SUN IN 'CARTHON'

[This essay in turning 'Ossian' into verse is another instance of the influence of that rhapsodist on our poet It was first printed in Edition of 1898 from a manuscript in possession of Mr. Murray]

- OH! thou that roll'st above thy glorious Fire,
- Round as the shield which graced my godlike Sire,
- Whence are the beams, O Sun ! thy endless blaze,
- Which far eclipse each minor Glory's rays?

Forth in thy Beauty here thou deign'st to shine !

- Night quits her car, the twinkling stars decline;
- Pallid and cold the Moon descends to cave Her sinking beams beneath the Western wave;
- But thou still mov'st alone, of light the Source — 9

Who can o'ertake thee in thy fiery course ? Oaks of the mountains fall, the rocks decay, Weigh'd down with years the hills dissolve away.

A certain space to yonder Moon is given,

- She rises, smiles, and then is lost in Heaven. Ocean in sullen murmurs ebbs and flows,
- Put the brack hears unchanged for an
- But thy bright beam unchanged for ever glows '
- When Earth is darken'd with tempestuous skies,
- When Thunder shakes the sphere and Lightning flies,
- Thy face, O Sun, no rolling blasts deform,
- Thou look'st from clouds and laughest at the Storm. 20
- To Ossian, Orb of Light ! thou look'st in vain,

Nor canst thou glad his aged eyes again,

- Whether thy locks in Orient Beauty stream, Or glimmer through the West with fainter gleam —
- But thou, perhaps, like me with age must bend;

Thy season o'er, thy days will find their end, No more yon azure vault with rays adorn,

Lull'd in the clouds, nor hear the voice of Morn

Exult, O Sun, in all thy youthful strength ! Age, dark unlovely Age, appears at length,

- As gleams the moonbeam through the broken cloud
- While mountain vapours spread their misty shroud —

The Northern tempest howls along at last,

- And wayworn strangers shrink amid the blast.
- Thou rolling Sun who gild'st those rising towers,
- Fair dudst thou shine upon my earlier hours ! I hail'd with smiles the cheering rays of Morn,
- My breast by no tumultuous Passion torn -

Now hateful are thy beams which wake no more

The sense of joy which thrill'd my breast before;

Welcome thou cloudy veil of mightly skies, To thy bright canopy the mourner flies,

Once bright, thy Silence lull'd my frame to rest,

And Sleep my soul with gentle visions blest; Now wakeful Grief disdains her mild controul.

Dark is the night, but darker is my Soul

Ye warring Winds of Heav'n your fury urge,

To me congenial sounds your wintry Dirge

Swift as your wings my happier days have past,

Keen as your storms is Sorrow's chilling blast; 50

To Tempests thus _xposed my Fate has been,

Piercing like yours, like yours, alas : unseen. 1805.

A VERSION OF OSSIAN'S AD-DRESS TO THE SUN

FROM THE POEM 'CARTHON'

[These lines were published by Mr Pierre la Rose in the Atlantic Monthly, December, 1898 They were found by him written in Byron's hand in the poet's copy of Ossian deposited in the Harvard University Library.]

O THOU ! who rollest in yon azure field,

Round as the orb of my forefathers' shield, Whence are thy beams? From what eternal store

Dost thou, O Sun! thy vast effulgence pour?

In awful grandeur, when thou movest on high,

The stars start back and hide them in the sky;

The pale Moon sickens in thy brightening blaze,

And in the western wave avoids thy gaze. Alone thou shinest forth — for who can rise Companion of thy splendour in the skies ! To The mountain oaks are seen to fall away — Mountains themselves by length of years decay —

With ebbs and flows is the rough Ocean tost; In heaven the Moon is for a season lost, But thou, amidst the fulness of thy joy,

The same art ever, blazing in the sky !

- When tempests wrap the world from pole to pole,
- When vivid lightnings flash and thunders roll,

Thou far above their utmost fury borne,

Look'st forth in beauty, laughing them to scorn. 20

But vainly now on me thy beauties blaze — Ossian no longer can enraptured gaze !

Whether at morn, in lucid lustre gay,

On eastern clouds thy vellow tresses play,

- Or else at eve, in radiant glory drest,
- Thou tremblest at the portals of the west,
- I see no more ! But thou mayest fail at length,
- Like Ossian lose thy beauty and thy strength,
- Like him but for a season in thy sphere
- To shine with splendour, then to disappear ! 30
- Thy years shall have an end, and thou no more

Bright through the world enlivening radiance pour,

- But sleep within thy clouds, and fail to rise,
- Heedless when Morning calls thee to the skies !
- Then now exult, O Sun ! and gaily shine,
- While Youth and Strength and Beauty all are thme.
- For Age is dark, unlovely, as the light
- Shed by the Moon when clouds deform the night,
- Glimmering uncertain as they hurry past.
- Loud o'ei the plain is heard the northern blast, 40
- Mists shroud the hills, and 'neath the growing gloom,
- The weary traveller shrinks and sighs for home.

1806.

PIGNUS AMORIS

[First printed in Edition of 1898 from a manuscript in possession of Mr. Murray]

As by the fix'd decrees of Heaven,

'T is vain to hope that Joy can last; The dearest boon that Life has given,

To me is — visions of the past.

For these this toy of blushing hue	To Wation's matter alter twee
T prize with seel haf and	To Fiction's motley altar turn.
1 prize with zeal before unknown,	Who joyful in the fond address
It tells me of a Friend I knew,	Her favour'd worshippers will bless:
Who loved me for myself alone.	And lo! she holds a magic glass,
	Where Images reflected pass,
It tells me what how few can say	Bent on your knees the Boon receive Thorseh all the second the second is
	This will assist you to deceive —
Recorded in my heart 't will lay,	The glittering gift was made for you,
It tells me mine was once a Friend.	Now hold it up to public view;
	Lest evil unforeseen betide,
Through many a weary day gone by,	A Mask each canker'd brow shall hide
With time the gift is dearer grown;	(Whilst Truth my sole desire is nigh, and still I view in Memory's eye Prepared the danger to defy),
That teardrop sparkle through my own.	'There is the Maid's perverted name,
	And there the Poet's guilty Flame,
and heartless Age perhaps will smile,	Gloaming a deep phosphoric fire,
Or wonder whence those feelings sprung;	Threatening - but ere it spreads, retire.'
et let not sterner souls revile,	Says Truth 'Up Virgins, do not fear!
For Both were open, Both were young. 20	The Comet rolls its Influence here;
	'T is Scandal's Mirror you perceive, and Youth is sure the only time,	These dazzling Meteors but deceive -
When Pleasure blends no base alloy;	Approach and touch - Nay do not turn,
Then Life is blest without a crime,	It blazes there but will not burn '
And Innocence resides with Joy.	At once the shivering Mirror flies,
	Teeming no more with varnish'd Lies;
et those reprove my feeble Soul,	The baffled friends of Fiction start,
Who laugh to scorn Affection's name;	Too late desiring to depart -
Thile these impose a harsh controul,	Truth poising high Ithuriel's spear
All will forgive who feel the same
All will forgive who feel the same	Bids every Fiend unmask'd appear,
	The vizard tears from every face,
Then still I wear my simple toy, With pious care from wreck I'll save it;	And dooms them to a dire disgrace.
With pious care from wreck I'll save it;	For ere they compass their escape, nd this will form a dear employ 31	Each takes perforce a native shape —
For dear I was to him who gave it.	The Leader of the wrathful Band,
8	Behold a portly Female stand !
? 1806.
	She raves, impell'd by private pique,
	This mean unjust revenge to seek;
O A KNOT OF UNGENEROUS	From vice to save this virtuous Age,
CRITICS	Thus does she vent indecent rage !
	What child has she of promise fair,
First printed in Edition of 1898 from a anuscript in possession of Mr Murray.]	Who claims a fostering Mother's care?
	Whose Innocence requires defence,
AIL on, Rail on, ye heartless Crew !	Or forms at least a smooth pretence,
Iv strains were never meant for you;	Thus to disturb a harmless Boy,
emorseless Rancour still reveal,	His humble hope, and peace annoy?
and damn the verse you cannot feel.	She need not fear the amorous rhyme,
nvoke those kindred passions' aid,	Love will not tempt her future time,
Vhose baleful stings your breasts pervade;	For her his wings have ceased to spread,
trush, if you can, the hopes of youth,	No more he flutters round her head;
rampling regardless on the Truth	Her day's Meridian now is past,
ruth's Records you consult in vain,	The clouds of Age her Sun o'ercast;
he will not blast her native strain; 10	To her the strain was never sent,
he will assist her votary's cause,	For feeling Souls alone 't was meant —
His will at least be her applause.	I he verse she seized, unask'd, unbade.
His will at least be her applause, Your prayer the gentle Power will spurn.	The verse she seized, unask'd, unbade, And damn'd, ere yet the whole was read

Yes! for one single erring verse, Pronounced an unrelenting Curse; 70 Yes ! at a first and transient view, Condemn'd a heart she never knew. Can such a verdict then decide, Which springs from disappointed pride? Without a wondrous share of Wit, To judge is such a Matron fit? The rest of the censorious throng Who to this zealous Band belong To her a general homage pay, And right or wrong her wish obey: 80 Why should I point my pen of steel To break 'such flies upon the wheel'? With minds to Truth and Sense unknown. Who dare not call their words their own. Rail on, Rail on, ye heartless Crew! Your Leader's grand design pursue: Secure behind her ample shield, Yours is the harvest of the field. My path with thorns you cannot strew, Nay more, my warmest thanks are due; 90 When such as you revile my Name, Bright beams the rising Sun of Fame, Chasing the shades of envious night, Outshining every critic Light. Such, such as you will serve to show Each radiant tint with higher glow. Vam is the feeble cheerless toil Your efforts on yourselves recoil; Then Glory still for me you raise, Yours is the Censure, mine the Praise. 100 December 1, 1806.

SOLILOQUY OF A BARD IN THE COUNTRY

[First printed in Edition of 1898 from a manuscript in possession of Mr. Murray]

'T was now the noon of night, and all was still,

Except a hapless Rhymer and his quill.

In vain he calls each Muse in order down,

- Like other females, these will sometimes frown:
- He frets, he fumes, and ceasing to invoke The Nine, in anguish'd accents thus he spoke: Ah what avails it thus to waste my time,
- To roll in Epic, or to rave in Rhyme? What worth is some few partial readers' praise, 9

If ancient Virgins croaking censures raise? Where few attend, 't is useless to indite; 'Where few can read, 't is folly sure to write;

Where none but girls and striplings dare admire. And Critics rise in every country Squire -But yet this last my candid Muse admits, When Peers are Poets, Squires may well be Wits: When schoolboys vent their amorous flames in verse, Matrons may sure their characters asperse; And if a little parson joins the train, And echoes back his Patron's voice again -Though not delighted, yet I must forgive, Parsons as well as other folks must live: -From rage he rails not, rather say from dread. He does not speak for Virtue, but for bread; And this we know is in his Patron's giving, For Parsons cannot eat without a Living. The Matron knows I love the Sex too well, Even unprovok'd aggression to repel What though from private pique her anger grew, And bade her blast a heart she never knew? What though, she said, for one light heedless line, That Wilmot's verse was far more pure than mine ! In wars like these I neither fight nor fly, When dames accuse 't is bootless to deny; Hers be the harvest of the martial field. I can't attack, when Beauty forms the shield. But when a pert Physician loudly cries, Who hunts for scandal and who lives by lies, A walking register of daily news, Train'd to invent and skilful to abuse - 40 For arts like these at bounteous tables fed, When S- condemns a book he never read: Declaring with a coxcomb's native air. The moral's shocking, though the rhymes are fair;-Ah! must he rise unpunish'd from the feast, Nor lash'd by vengeance into truth at least? Such lenity were more than Man's indeed ! Those who condemn, should surely deign to read. Yet must I spare - nor thus my pen degrade, I quite forgot that scandal was his trade. For food and raiment thus the coxcomb rails.

For those who fear his physic, like his tales . Why should his harmless censure seem offence?	While jealous pangs our Souls perplex, No passion prompts you to relieve.
Still let him eat, although at my expense, And join the herd to Sense and Truth unknown, Who dare not call their very thoughts their	 From Love, or Pity, ne'er you fall. By you, no mutual Flame is felt, 'T is Vanity, which rules you all, Desire alone which makes you melt.
own, And share with these applause, a godlike bribe, In short, do anything, except prescribe ; — For though in garb of Galen he appears, His practice is not equal to his years — 60 Without improvement since he first began, A young Physician, though an ancient Man Now let me cease — Physician, Parson, Dame, Still urge your task, and if you can, defame; The humble offerings of my Muse destroy,	 I will not say no souls are yours, Aye, ye have Souls, and dark ones too, Souls to contrive those smiling lures, To snare our simple hearts for you. Yet shall you never bind me fast, Long to adore such brittle toys, I'll rove along, from first to last, And change whene'er my fancy cloys. Oh ! I should be a baby fool, To sigh the dupe of female art — To sigh the dupe of female art —
And crush, oh! noble conquest! crush a Boy. What though some silly girls have loved	Woman ! perhaps thou hast a Soul, But where have Demons hid thy Heart? January, 1807.
the strain, And kindly bade me tune my Lyre again; What though some feeling, or some partial few, Nay, Men of Taste and Reputation too, 70 Have deign'd to praise the firstlings of my Muse — If you your sanction to the theme refuse, If you your great protection still withdraw, Whose Praise is Glory, and whose Voice is law, Soon must I fall an unresisting foe, A hapless victim yielding to the blow. Thus Pope by Curl and Dennis was de- stroy'd, Thus Gray and Mason yield to furious Loyd; From Dryden, Milbourne tears the palm away, And thus I fall, though meaner far than they ⁸⁰ As in the field of combat, side by side, A Fabius and some noble Roman died. December, 1806. TO —— [First printed in Edition of 1898 from a manuscript in possession of Mr. Murray.]
Oн ! well I know your subtle Sex, Frail daughters of the wanton Eve, —	So dearly wreathed with mine alone, That Destiny's relentless knife At once must sever both, or none.

144 MISCELLANE	COUS POEMS
There is a Form on which these eyes Have fondly gazed with such delight — By day, that Form their joy supplies, And Dreams restore it, through the night.	For could I through my days again live, I'd pass them in the same employment. That is to say, with some exception,
There is a Voice whose tones inspire Such soften'd feelings in my breast, 10 I would not hear a Seraph Choir,	For though I will not make confession, I've seen too much of man's deception 11 Ever again to trust profession.
Unless that voice could join the rest.	Some sage Mammas with gesture haughty, Pronounce me quite a youthful Sinner-
There is a Face whose Blushes tell Affection's tale upon the cheek, But pallid at our fond farewell,	But Daughters say, 'although he's naughty, You must not check a Young Beginner !'
Proclams more love than words can speak.	I've loved, and many damsels know it — But whom I don't intend to mention, As certain stanzas also show it,
There is a Lip, which mine has prest, But none had ever prest before;	Some say deserving Reprehension. 20
It vow'd to make me sweetly blest, That mine alone should press it more. 20	Some ancient Dames, of virtue fiery (Unless Report does much belie them), Have lately made a sharp Enquiry,
There is a Bosom all my own, Has pillow'd oft this aching head,	And much it grieves me to deny them.
A Mouth which similes on me alone, An Eye, whose tears with mine are shed.	Two whom I loved had eyes of Blue, To which I hope you 've no objection; The Rest had eyes of darker Hue —
There are two Hearts whose movements thrill,	Each Nymph, of course, was all perfec- tion.
In unison so closely sweet, That Pulse to Pulse responsive still They Both must heave, or cease to beat.	But here I'll close my chaste Description, Nor say the deeds of animosity; 30 For silence is the best prescription,
There are two Souls, whose equal flow In gentle stream so calmly run, 30	To physic idle curiosity.
That when they part — they part? — ah no ! They cannot part — those Souls are One	Of Friends I 've known a goodly Hundred — For finding one in each acquaintance, By some deceived, by others plunder'd, Friendship, to me, was not Repentance.
EGOTISM. A LETTER TO J. T BECHER Έαυτον βύρων αξιδει	At School I thought like other Children; Instead of Brans, a fine Ingredient, Romance, my youthful Head bewildering, To Sense had made me disobedient. 40
[First printed in Edition of 1898 from a manuscript at Newstead]	A victim, nearly from affection,
IF fate should seal my Death to-morrow (Though much I hope she will postpone	To certain very precious scheming, The still remaining recollection Has cured my boyish soul of Dreaming.
i 've held a share of Joy and Sorrow, Enough for Ten ; and here I own it.	By Heaven ! I rather would forswear The Earth, and all the joys reserved
['ve lived, as many other men live, And yet, I think, with more enjoy- ment:	me, Than dare again the specious Snare, From which my Fate and Heaven pre- served me.

Still I possess some Friends who love me	THE ADIEU
In each a much esteem'd and true one; The Wealth of Worlds shall never move me	WRITTEN UNDER THE IMPRESSION THA1 THE AUTHOR WOULD SOON DIE
To quit their Friendship, for a new one. But Becher ! you 're a reverend pastor, Now take it in consideration, Whether for penance I should fast, or Pray for my sins in explation	ADIEU, thou Hill ! where early joy Spread roses o'er my brow; Where Science seeks each lottering boy With knowledge to endow. Adieu, my youthful friends or foes, Partners of former blass or woes;
I own myself the child of Folly , But not so wucked as they make me — I soon must due of melancholy, If Female smiles should e'er forsake me	No more through Ida's paths we stray; Soon must I share the gloomy cell, Whose ever-slumbering inmates dwell Unconscious of the day.
Philosophers have never doubted, 61 That Ladies' Lips were made for kisses ' For Love ' I could not live without it, For such a cursed place as This is	Adieu, ye hoary Regal Fanes, Ye spires of Granta's vale, Where Learning robed in sable reigns, And Melancholy pale Ye comrades of the jovial hour,
Say, Becher, I shall be forgiven ' If you don't warrant my salvation, I must resign all Hopes of Heaven ' For, Fauth, I can't withstand Temptation.	Ye tenants of the classic bower, On Cama's verdant margin placed, Adieu ! while memory still is mine, For, offerings on Oblivion's shrine, These scenes must be effaced.
P S. — These were written between one and two, after midnight . I have not cor- rected , or revised . Yours, BYRON.	Adieu, ye mountains of the clime Where grew my youthful years; Where Loch na Garr in snows sublime His giant summit rears. Why did my childhood wander forth
QUERIES TO CASUISTS	From you, ye regions of the North, With sons of pride to roam ? Why did I quit my Highland cave,
[First printed in Edition of 1898 from a manuscript at Newstead.]	Marr's dusky heath, and Dee's clear wave,
THE Moralists tell us that Loving is Sin- ning,	To seek a Sotheron home? 36
And always are prating about and about	Hall of my Sires! a long farewell — Yet why to thee adieu?
But as Love of Existence itself's the be- ginning,	Thy vaults will echo back my knell, Thy towers my tomb will view:
Say, what would Existence itself be with- out it ?	The faltering tongue which sung thy fall And former glories of thy Hall, Forgets its wonted simple note —
They argue the point with much furious Invective,	But yet the Lyre retains the strings, And sometimes, on Æolian wings,
Though perhaps 't were no difficult task to confute it;	In dying strains may float. 4°
But if Venus and Hymen should once prove defective, Pray who would there be to defend or dispute it?	Fields, which surround yon rustic cot, While yet I linger here, Adieu ! you are not now forgot, To retrospection dear.

Streamlet ! along whose ripping surge,	The meed of Pity will be shed
My youthful limbs were wont to urge	In dew-drops o'er my narrow bed,
At noontide heat their phant course:	By nightly skies and storms alone;
Plunging with ardour from the shore,	No mortal eye will deign to steep
Thy springs will lave these limbs no more,	With tears the dark sepulchral deep
Deprived of active force. 50	Which hides a name unknown.
And shall I here forget the scene,	Forget this world, my restless sprite,
Still nearest to my breast?	Turn, turn thy thoughts to Heaven:
Rocks rise, and rivers roll between	There must thou soon direct thy flight,
The spot which passion blest;	If errors are forgiven.
Yet, Mary, all thy beauties seem	To bigots and to sects unknown,
Fresh as in Love's bewitching dream,	Bow down beneath the Almighty's Throne.
To me in smiles display'd:	To Him address thy trembling prayer:
Fill slow disease resigns his prey	He who is merciful and just,
To Death, the parent of decay,	Will not reject a child of dust,
Thine image cannot fade. 60	Although his meanest care.
And thou, my Friend ! whose gentle love	Father of Light ! to Thee I call,
Yet thrills my bosom's chords,	My soul is dark within:
How much thy friendship was above	Thou, who canst mark the sparrow's fall,
Description's power of words !	Avert the death of sin.
Still uear my breast thy gift I wear,	Thou, who canst guide the wandering star,
Which sparkled once with Feeling's tear,	Who calm'st the elemental war,
Of Love the pure, the sacred gem;	Whose mantle is yon boundless sky,
Our souls were equal, and our lot	My thoughts, my words, my crimes for-
In that dear moment quite forgot;	give;
Let Pride alone condemn !	And, since I soon must cease to live,
70	Instruct me how to die.
All, all is dark and cheerless now ! No smile of Love's deceit Can warm my vens with wonted glow, Can bid Life's pulses beat Not e'en the hope of future fame Can wake my fant, exhausted frame, Or crown with fancied wreaths my head. Mine is a short inglorous race — To humble in the dust my face, And mingle with the dead. So Oh Fame ! thou goddess of my heart;	 1807. [First published, 1832.] TO A VAIN LADY [Miss Anne Houson.] AH, heedless girl ! why thus disclose What ne'er was meant for other ears ? Why thus destroy thine own repose And dig the source of future tears ?
On him who gams thy praise, Pointless must fall the Spectre's dart, Consumed in Glory's blaze; But me she beckons from the earth, My name obscure, unmark'd my birth, My life a short and vulgar dream: Lost in the dull, ignoble crowd, My hopes recline within a shroud, My fate is Lethe's stream. When I repose beneath the sod, Unheeded in the clay, Where once my playful footsteps trod, Where now my head must lay;	 Oh, thou wilt weep, imprudent maid, While lurking envious foes will smile, For all the follies thou hast said Of those who spoke but to beguile. Vain girl ! thy ling'ring woes are nigh. If thou behev'st what striplings say: ro Oh, from the deep temptation fly, Nor fall the specious spoiler's prey. Dost thou repeat, in childish boast, The words man utters to deceive ? Thy peace, thy hope, thy all is lost, If thou canst venture to believe.

IO

 With beauty like yours, oh, how vain the contention, Thus lowly I sue for forgiveness before you; — At once to conclude such a fruitless dissension, Be false, my sweet Anne, when I cease to adore you! January 16, 1807. [First published, 1832.]
TO THE SAME OH say not, sweet Anne, that the Fates have decreed The heart which adores you should wish to dissever; Such Fates were to me most unkind ones indeed, — To bear me from love and from beauty for ever. Your frowns, lovely girl, are the Fates which alone Could bid me from fond admiration re- fram; By these, every hope, every wish were o'erthrown, Till smles should restore me to rapture agam.
As the ivy and oak, in the forest entwined, The rage of the tempest united must weather, My love and my life were by nature de- sign'd To flourish alike, or to perish together. Then say not. sweet Anne, that the Fates have decreed Your lover should bid you a lasting adieu; Till Fate can ordain that his bosom shall bleed, His soul, his existence, are centred in you 1807. [First published, 1832.]
TO THE AUTHOR OF A SON- NET BEGINNING, "SAD IS MY VERSE," YOU SAY, "AND YET NO TEAR"' THY verse is 'sad' enough, no doubt: A devilish deal more sad than witty i Why we should weep I can't find out, Unless for thee we weep in pity.

Yet there is one I pity more;

And much, alas! I think he needs it: For he, I 'm sure, will suffer sore,

Who, to his own misfortune, reads it.

- Thy rhymes, without the aid of magic, May once be read — but never after:
- Yet their effect's by no means tragic, Although by far too dull for laughter.
- But would you make our bosoms bleed, And of no common pang complam —
- If you would make us weep indeed, Tell us you'll read them o'er agam. March 8, 1807. [First published, 1832.]

ON FINDING A FAN

[Belonging to the same Anne Houson.]

- In one who felt as once he felt, This might, perhaps, have fann'd the
- flame; But now his heart no more will melt, Because that heart is not the same.

As when the ebbing flames are low, The aid which once improved their light

- And bade them burn with fiercer glow, Now quenches all their blaze in night,
- Thus has it been with passion's fires As many a boy and girl remembers —

While every hope of love expires, Extinguish'd with the dying embers.

The first, though not a spark survive, Some careful hand may teach to burn; The last, alas ! can ne'er survive, No touch can bid its warmth return

Or, if it chance to wake again, Not always doom'd its heat to smother, It sheds (so wayward fates ordain)

Its former warmth around another. 1807. [First published, 1832.]

FAREWELL TO THE MUSE

- THOU Power ' who hast ruled me through infancy's days,
 - Young offspring of Fancy, 't is time we should part:

- Then rise on the gale this the last of my lays,
 - The coldest effusion which springs from my heart.
- This bosom, responsive to rapture no more, Shall hush thy wild notes, nor implore thee to sing;
- The feelings of childhood, which taught thee to soar,

Are wafted far distant on Apathy's wing.

- Though simple the themes of my rude flowmg Lyre,
 - Yet even these themes are departed for ever;
- No more beam the eyes which my dream could inspire,
 - My visions are flown, to return, -- alas, never !
- When drain'd is the nectar which gladdens the bowl,
- How vam is the effort delight to prolong!
- When cold is the beauty which dwelt in my soul,
 - What magic of Fancy can lengthen my song?
- Can the hps sing of Love in the desert alone, Of kisses and smiles which they now must resign ?
- Or dwell with delight on the hours that are flown?
 - Ah, no! for those hours can no longer be mine. 20
- Can they speak of the friends that I lived but to love?

Ah, surely affection ennobles the strain ! But how can my numbers in sympathy move, When I scarcely can hope to behold them

Can I sing of the deeds which my Fathers have done, again?

- And raise my loud harp to the fame of my Sires?
- For glories like theirs, oh, how faint is my tone !

For Heroes' exploits how unequal my fires!

- Untouch'd, then, my Lyre shall reply to the blast
 - 'T is hush'd, and my feeble endeavours are o'er: 30

And those who have heard it will pardon the past,

When they know that its murmurs shall vibrate no more.

- And soon shall its wild erring notes be forgot,
 - Since early affection and love are o'ercast.
- Oh! blest had my fate been, and happy my lot,
 - Had the first strain of love been the dearest, the last.
- Farewell, my young Muse ! since we now can ne'er meet;
- If our songs have been languid, they surely are few:
- Let us hope that the present at least will be sweet —
 - The present which seals our eternal Adieu. 40

1807. [First published, 1832.]

TO AN OAK AT NEWSTEAD

- Young Oak! when I planted thee deep in the ground,
 - I hoped that thy days would be longer than mine;
- That thy dark-waving branches would flourish around,
 - And 1vy thy trunk with its mantle entwine
- Such, such was my hope, when, in infancy's years,
 - On the land of my fathers I rear'd thee with pride:
- They are past, and I water thy stem with my tears, —
 - Thy decay not the weeds that surround thee can hide.
- I left thee, my Oak, and, since that fatal hour, A stranger has dwelt in the hall of my sire;
- Till manhood shall crown me, not mine is the power,
 - But his, whose neglect may have bade thee expire.
- Oh! hardy thou wert even now little care Might revive thy young head, and thy wounds gently heal:

- But thou wert not fated affection to share -
 - For who could suppose that a Stranger would feel?
- Ah, droop not, my Oak ! lift thy head for a while;
- Ere twice round yon Glory this planet shall run,
- The hand of thy Master will teach thee to smile,
- When Infancy's years of probation are done. 20
- Oh, hve then, my Oak ! tow'r aloft from the weeds,
 - That clog thy young growth and assist thy decay,
- For still in thy bosom are life's early seeds,
 - And still may thy branches their beauty display.
- Oh! yet, if maturity's years may be thine,
 - Though I shall lie low in the cavern of death,
- On thy leaves yet the day-beam of ages may shine,
 - Uninjured by time or the rude winter's breath
- For centuries still may thy boughs lightly wave
- O'er the corse of thy lord in thy canopy laid; 30
- While the branches thus gratefully shelter his grave,
 - The chief who survives may recline in thy shade.
- And as he, with his boys, shall revisit this spot,
- He will tell them in whispers more softly to tread.
- Oh! surely, by these I shall ne'er be forgot.
 - Remembrance still hallows the dust of the dead.
- And here, will they say, when in life's glowing prime,
- Perhaps he has pour'd forth his young simple lay,

And here must he sleep, till the moments of time 39 Are lost in the hours of Eternity's day.

1807. [First published, 1832.]

ON REVISITING HARROW

HERE once engaged the stranger's view Young Friendship's record simply traced; Few were her words, — but yet, though few,

Resentment's hand the line defaced.

Deeply she cut — but not erased, The characters were still so plann, That Friendship once return'd and gazed, — Till Memory hail'd the words again.

Repentance placed them as before, Forgiveness join'd her gentle name; So fair the unscription seem'd once more, That Friendship thought it still the same

Thus might the Record now have been; But, ah, in spite of Hope's endeavour

Or Friendship's tears, Pride rush'd between,

And blotted out the line for ever. September, 1807. [First published, 1830.]

TO MY SON

[The poet once told Lady Byron that he had two natural children, and one of these may possibly have been the subject of this poem; but in all likelihood it is purely fictitous.]

THOSE flaxen locks, those eyes of blue, Bright as thy mother's in their hue; Those rosy lips, whose dimples play And smile to steal the heart away, Recall a scene of former joy, And touch thy father's heart, my Boy!

And thou canst lisp a father's name — Ah, William, were thine own the same, — No self-reproach — but, let me cease — My care for thee shall purchase peace; 10 Thy mother's shade shall smile in joy, And pardon all the past, my Boy!

Her lowly grave the turf has prest, And thou hast known a stranger's breast; Derision sneers upon thy birth, And yields thee scarce a name on earth; Yet shall not these one hope destroy, — A Father's heart is thine, my Boy !

Why, let the world unfeeling frown, Must I fond Nature's claim disown ? Ah, no — though moralists reprove, I hail thee, dearest child of love, Fair cherub, pledge of youth and joy — A Father guards thy birth, my Boy !

Oh, 't will be sweet in thee to trace, Ere age has wrinkled o'er my face, Ere half my glass of life is run, At once a brother and a son; And all my wane of years employ In justice done to thee, my Boy!

Although so young thy heedless sire, Youth will not damp parental fire; And, wert thou still less dear to me, While Helen's form revives in thee, The breast, which beat to former joy, Will ne'er desert its pledge, my Boy! 1807. [First published, 1830.] 30

SONG

[First published in the Edition of 1898 from a manuscript in the possession of the Earl of Lovelace]

BREEZE of the night in gentler sighs More softly murmur o'er the pillow;

For Slumber seals my Fanny's eyes, And Peace must never shun her pillow.

Or breathe those sweet Æolian strains Stolen from celestial spheres above,

To charm her ear while some remains, And soothe her soul to dreams of love.

But Breeze of night again forbear, In softest murmurs only sigh;

Let not a Zephyr's pinion dare To lift those auburn locks on high.

Chill is thy Breath thou breeze of night ! Oh ! ruffle not those hds of Snow;

For only Morning's cheering light May wake the beam that lurks below.

Blest be that lip and azure eye! Sweet Fanny, hallow'd be thy Sleep! Those lips shall never vent a sigh,

Those eyes may never wake to weep. February 23, 1808.

TO HARRIET

[First published in Edition of 1898 from a manuscript in possession of Mr. Murray]

HARRIET! To see such Circumspection In Ladies I have no objection Concerning what they read; An ancient Maid's a sage adviser, Like her, you will be much the wiser, In word, as well as Deed.

But Harriet, I don't wish to flatter, And really think 't would make the matter More perfect if not quite, If other Ladies when they preach, Would certain Damsels also teach More cautiously to write.

'FAREWELL! IF EVER FONDEST PRAYER'

FAREWELL ! if ever fondest prayer For other's weal avail'd on high, Mine will not all be lost in air, But waft thy name beyond the sky 'T were vain to speak, to weep, to sigh. Oh ! more than tears of blood can tell, When wrung from guilt's expiring eye, Are in that word - Farewell !- Farewell!

These lips are mute, these eyes are dry; But in my breast and in my brain,

Awake the pangs that pass not by, The thought that ne'er shall sleep again.

My soul nor deigns nor dares complain, Though grief and passion there rebel:

I only know we loved in vain ---I only feel — Farewell ! — Farewell !

1808. [First published, 1814.]

BRIGHT BE THE PLACE OF THY SOUL'

BRIGHT be the place of thy soul ! No loveher spirit than thine E'er burst from its mortal control, In the orbs of the blessed to shine.

On earth thou wert all but divine, As thy soul shall immortally be; And our sorrow may cease to repine, When we know that thy God is with thee.

Light be the turf of thy tomb! May its verdure like emeralds be: There should not be the shadow of gloom In aught that reminds us of thee.

Young flowers and an evergreen tree May spring from the spot of thy rest: But nor cypress nor yew let us see;

For why should we mourn for the blest? 1808. [First published, 1815.]

'WHEN WE TWO PARTED'

WHEN we two parted In silence and tears, Half broken-hearted To sever for years, Pale grew thy cheek and cold, Colder thy kiss; Truly that hour foretold Sorrow to this

The dew of the morning Sunk chill on my brow -It felt like the warning Of what I feel now. Thy vows are all broken, And light is thy fame; I hear thy name spoken, And share in its shame.

They name thee before me, A knell to mme ear; A shudder comes o'er me – Why wert thou so dear? They know not I knew thee, Who knew thee too well:-Long, long shall I rue thee, Too deeply to tell.

In secret we met — In silence I grieve That thy heart could forget, Thy spirit deceive. If I should meet thee After long years, How should I greet thee ? -With silence and tears.

1808. [First published, 1816.]

•THERE WAS A TIME, I NEED NOT NAME'

THERE was a time, I need not name, Since it will ne'er forgotten be, When all our feelings were the same

As still my soul hath been to thee.

And from that hour when first thy tongue Confess'd a love which equall'd mine,

Though many a grief my heart hath wrung, Unknown and thus unfelt by thine,

None, none hath sunk so deep as this — To think how all that love hath flown;

Transient as every faithless kiss, But transient in thy breast alone.

And yet my heart some solace knew, When late I heard thy lips declare, In accents once imagined true, Remembrance of the days that were.

Yes; my adored, yet most unkind ! Though thou wilt never love again, To me 't is doubly sweet to find Remembrance of that love remain.

Yes ' 't is a glorious thought to me, Nor longer shall my soul repine,

Whate'er thou art or e'er shalt be, Thou hast been dearly, solely mine. June 10, 1808. [First published, 1809.]

'AND WILT THOU WEEP WHEN I AM LOW?'

AND wilt thou weep when I am low? Sweet lady! speak those words again: Yet if they grieve thee, say not so — I would not give that bosom pain.

My heart is sad, my hopes are gone, My blood runs coldly through my breast; And when I perish, thou alone Wilt sigh above my place of rest.

And yet, methinks, a gleam of peace Doth through my cloud of anguish shine; And for awhile my sorrows cease, To know thy heart hath felt for mine.

Oh lady ! blessed be that tear — It falls for one who cannot weep; Such precious drops are doubly dear To those whose eyes no tear may steep.

Sweet lady ! once my heart was warm With every feeling soft as thine;

But beauty's self hath ceased to charm A wretch created to repme.

Yet wilt thou weep when I am low? Sweet lady! speak those words again;

Yet if they grieve thee, say not so — I would not give that bosom pain. August 12, 1808. [First published, 1809.]

'REMIND ME NOT, REMIND ME NOT'

REMIND me not, remind me not, Of those beloved, those vanish'd hours, When all my soul was given to thee; Hours that may never be forgot, Till time unnerves our vital powers, And thou and I shall cease to be.

Can I forget — canst thou forget, When playing with thy golden hair, Howquick thyfluttering heart did move?

Oh ! by my soul, I see thee yet, With eyes so languid, breast so fair, And lips, though silent, breathing love.

When thus reclining on my breast, Those eyes threw back a glance so sweet, As half reproach'd yet raised desire,

And still we near and nearer prest, And still our glowing lips would meet, As if in kisses to expire.

And then those pensive eyes would close, And bid their lids each other seek, Veiling the azure orbs below;

While their long lashes' darken'd gloss Seem'd stealing o'er thy brilliant cheek, Like raven's plumage smooth'd on snow

I dreamt last night our love return'd, And, sooth to say, that very dream Was sweeter in its phantasy,

Than if for other hearts I burn'd, For eyes that ne'er like thine could beam In rapture's wild reality. 30

Then tell me not, remind me not, Of hours which, though for ever gone, Can still a pleasing dream restore,

Till thou and I shall be forgot, And senseless as the mouldering stone Which tells that we shall be no more. August 13, 1808. [First published, 1809.]	And those, and those alone, may claim The prostituted name of friend. 40 Such is the common lot of man:
TO A YOUTHFUL FRIEND	Can we then 'scape from folly free ? Can we reverse the general plan, Nor be what all in turn must be ?
Few years have pass'd since thou and I	No; for myself, so dark my fate
Were firmest friends, at least in name,	Through every turn of life hath been,
And childhood's gay succerity	Man and the world so much I hate,
Preserved our feelings long the same.	I care not when I quit the scene.
But now, like me, too well thou know'st	But thou, with spirit frail and light,
What trifles oft the heart recall;	Wilt shine awhile, and pass away; 5°
And those who once have loved the most	As glow-worms sparkle through the night,
Too soon forget they loved at all.	But dare not stand the test of day.
And such the change the heart displays,	Alas! whenever folly calls
So frail is early friendship's reign, 10	Where parasites and princes meet
A month's brief lapse, perhaps a day's,	(For cherish'd first in royal halls,
Will view thy mind estranged again.	The welcome vices kindly greet),
If so, it never shall be mine	Ev'n now thou 'rt nightly seen to add
To mourn the loss of such a heart;	One insect to the fluttering crowd;
The fault was Nature's fault, not thme,	And still thy trifting heart is glad
Which made thee fickle as thou art.	To join the vain, and court the proud. 60
As rolls the ocean's changing tide,	There dost thou ghde from fair to fair,
So human feelings ebb and flow;	Still sumpering on with eager haste,
And who would in a breast confide,	As flies along the gay parterre,
Where stormy passions ever glow? 20	That taint the flowers they scarcely taste
It boots not that, together bred,	But say, what nymph will prize the flame
Our childish days were days of joy:	Which seems, as marshy vapours move,
My spring of life has quickly fled;	To flit along from dame to dame,
Thou, too, hast ceased to be a boy.	An ignis-fatuus gleam of love?
And when we bid adieu to youth,	What friend for thee, howe'er inclined,
Slaves to the specious world's control,	Will deign to own a kindred care? 70
We sigh a long farewell to truth;	Who will debase his manly mind,
That world corrupts the noblest soul.	For friendship every fool may share?
Ah, joyous season ! when the mind Dares all things boldly but to lie; 30 When thought ere spoke is unconfined, And sparkles in the placid eye.	In time forbear; amidst the throng No more so base a thing be seen; No more so idly pass along; Be something, any thing, but — mean. August 20, 1808. [First published, 1809.]
Not so in Man's maturer years, When Man himself is but a tool; When interest sways our hopes and fears, And all must love and hate by rule.	LINES INSCRIBED UPON A CUP FORMED FROM A SKULL
With fools in kindred vice the same, We learn at length our faults to blend;	[Byron gave the following account of this cup in his Conversations with Medwin 'The gardener, in digging, discovered a skull that had probably belonged to some jolly friar or monk of the abbey, about the time it was demonasteried. Observing it to be of giant size, and in a perfect state of preservation, a strange fancy seized me of having it set and mounted as a drinking cup. I accordingly sent it to town, and it returned with a very high polish, and of a mottled colour like tortoiseshell '] START not — nor deem my spirit fled: In me behold the only skull, From which, unlike a living head, Whatever flows is never dull. I lived, I loved, I quaff'd, like thee; I died: let earth my bones resign: Fill up — thou canst not injure me; The worm hath fouler lips than thine. Better to hold the goblet's shape The drink of Gods, than reptile's food. Where once my wit, perchance, hath shone, In aid of others' let me shine; And when, alas ! our brains are gone, What nobler substitute than wine ? Quaff while thou canst: another race, When thou and thine like me are sped, May rescue thee from earth's embrace, And rhyme and revel with the dead. Why not ? since through life's little day Our heads such sad effects produce; Redeem'd from worms and wasting clay, 	 Whose honest heart is still his master's own, Who labours, fights, hves, breathes for him alone, Unhonour'd falls, unnoticed all his worth, Denied in heaven the soul he held on earth: While man, vam insect! hopes to be for- given, And claims himself a sole exclusive heaven. Oh, man! thou feeble tenant of an hour, Debased by slavery, or corrupt by power, Who knows thee well must quit thee with disgust, Degraded mass of animated dust! Thy love is lust, thy friendship all a cheat, Thy smiles hypocrisy, thy words deceit! By nature vile, ennobled but by name, Each kindred brute might bid thee blush for shame. Xe! who perchance behold this simple urn, Pass on — it honours none you wish to mourn: To mark a friend's remains these stones arise; I never knew but one, — and here he lies. Newstead Abbey, October 30, 1808. [First published, 1809.] 'WELL! THOU ART HAPPY' [These lines were written after dining at Annesley with Mr. and Mrs. Chaworth Mus- ters On the infant daughter of his far hostess being brought into the room, he started invol- untarily, and with the utmost difficulty sup- pressed his emotion.] WELL! thou art happy, and I feel

This chance is theirs, to be of use. Newstead Abbey, 1808.	That I should thus be happy too; For still my heart regards thy weal Warmly, as it was wont to do.
INSCRIPTION ON THE MONU- MENT OF A NEWFOUNDLAND DOG	Thy husband's blest — and 't will impart Some pangs to view his happier lot: But let them pass — Oh! how my heart Would hate him, if he loved thee not!
 WHEN some proud son of man returns to earth, Unknown to glory, but upheld by birth, The sculptor's art exhausts the pomp of woe, And storied urns record who rests below; When all is done, upon the tomb is seen, Not what he was, but what he should have been. But the poor dog, in life the firmest friend, The first to welcome, foremost to defend, 	 When late I saw thy favourite child, I thought my jealous heart would break; But when the unconscious infant smiled, If I kiss'd it for its mother's sake. I kiss'd it, — and repress'd my sighs Its father in its face to see; But then it had its mother's eyes, And they were all to love and me.

Mary, adieu ! I must away: While thou art blest I 'll not repme;	'FILL THE GOBLET'
But near thee I can never stay; My heart would soon again be thine. 20	A SONG
deem'd that time, I deem'd that pride	FILL the goblet again! for I never be- fore
Had quench'd at length my boyish flame; Nor knew, till seated by thy side, My heart in all — save hope — the same.	Felt the glow which now gladdens my heart to its core; Let us drink '- who would not? - since,
Yet was I calm: I knew the time My breast would thrill before thy look; But now to tremble were a crime —	through life's varied round In the goblet alone no deception is found. I have tried in its turn all that life can
We met, — and not a nerve was shook	supply; I have bask'd in the beam of a dark rolling saw thee gaze upon my face, Yet meet with no confusion there: 30 One only feeling couldst thou trace, The sullen calmness of despair.	eye; I have loved ! — who has not? — but what heart can declare That pleasure existed while passion was
Away! away! my early dream	there?
Remembrance never must awake: Dh, where is Lethe's fabled stream ?	In the days of my youth, when the heart 's in its spring,
My foolish heart be still, or break November 2, 1808. [First published, 1809.]	And dreams that affection can never take wing, ro I had friends ! — who has not ? — but what
TO A LADY	tongue will avow, That friends, rosy wine ! are so faithful as thou ?
ON BEING ASKED MY REASON FOR QUIT- TING ENGLAND IN THE SPRING	The heart of a mistress some boy may
[Byron expected to sail for India in the ppring. The 'lady' of the poem is Mrs Cha- worth Musters.]	estrange, Friendship shifts with the sunbeam — thou never canst change: Thou grow'st old — who does not? — but
WHEN Man, expell'd from Eden's bowers, A moment linger'd near the gate, Each scene recall'd the vanish'd hours, And bade hum curse hs future fate.	on earth what appears, Whose virtues, like thine, still increase with its years?
	Yet if blest to the utmost that love can be-
But, wandering on through distant climes, He learnt to bear his load of grief; Just gave a sigh to other times,	stow, Should a rival bow down to our idol be- low,
And found in busier scenes rehef.	We are jealous '- who 's not ? - thou hast no such alloy;
Thus, lady ! will it be with me, And I must view thy charms no more;	For the more that enjoy thee, the more we enjoy 20
For, while I linger near to thee, I sigh for all I knew before.	Then the season of youth and its vanities
In flight I shall be surely wise, Escaping from temptation's snare;	past, For refuge we fly to the goblet at last; There we find — do we not? — m the flow
I cannot view my paradise	of the soul,

When the box of Pandora was open'd on My own dark thoughts I cannot shun, But ever love, and love but one. earth, 30 And Misery's triumph commenced over Mirth, The poorest, veriest wretch on earth Hope was left, — was she not? — but the Still finds some hospitable hearth, goblet we kiss, Where friendship's or love's softer glow And care not for Hope, who are certain of May smile in joy or soothe in woe; bliss But friend or leman I have none, Because I cannot love but one. Long life to the grape ! for when summer is I go — but wheresoe'er I flee flown, There 's not an eye will weep for me; The age of our nectar shall gladden our own: We must die - who shall not ? - May our There's not a kind congenial heart, sins be forgiven, Where I can claim the meanest part; 40 And Hebe shall never be idle in heaven. Nor thou, who hast my hopes undone, [First published, 1809.] Wilt sigh, although I love but one. To think of every early scene, Of what we are, and what we've been, STANZAS TO A LADY ON LEAVING ENGLAND Would whelm some softer hearts with woe -[To Mrs Chaworth Musters.] But mine, alas ! has stood the blow; Yet still beats on as it begun, "T is done — and shivering in the gale And never truly loves but one. The bark unfurls her snowy sail; And whistling o'er the bending mast And who that dear loved one may be, Loud sings on high the fresh'ning blast; Is not for vulgar eyes to see; 50 And I must from this land be gone, And why that early love was crost, Because I cannot love but one. Thou know'st the best, I feel the most; But few that dwell beneath the sun But could I be what I have been, Have loved so long, and loved but one. And could I see what I have seen — Could I repose upon the breast I've tried another's fetters too Which once my warmest wishes blest- 10 With charms perchance as fair to view; And I would fam have loved as well, I should not seek another zone, Because I cannot love but one. But some unconquerable spell Forbade my bleeding breast to own 'T is long since I beheld that eye A kindred care for aught but one. 66 Which gave me bliss or misery; And I have striven, but in vain, 'T would soothe to take one lingering view, Never to think of it again: And bless thee in my last adieu; Yet wish I not those eyes to weep For though I fly from Albion, I still can only love but one. For him that wanders o'er the deep; His home, his hope, his youth are goue, As some lone bird, without a mate, Yet still he loves, and loves but one. My weary heart is desolate; 20 1809. I look around, and cannot trace One friendly smile or welcome face, LINES TO MR. HODGSON And ev'n in crowds am still alone, Because I cannot love but one WRITTEN ON BOARD THE LISBON PACKET And I will cross the whitening foam, HUZZA ! Hodgson, we are going, And I will seek a foreign home; Our embargo's off at last; Till I forget a false fair face, Favourable breezes blowing Bend the canvass o'er the mast.

I ne'er shall find a resting-place;

From aloft the signal's streaming, Hark ! the farewell gun is fired; Women screeching, tars blaspheming, Tell us that our time's expired. Here's a rascal Come to task all, Prying from the custom-house; Trunks unpacking Cases cracking, Not a corner for a mouse	 'Here's a stanza On Braganza — Help !' — 'A couplet ?' — 'No, a cup Of warm water —' 'c' 'What's the matter ? 'What's the matter ? 'Zounds ' my liver's coming up; I shall not survive the racket Of this brutal Lisbon Packet.' Now at length we're off for Turkey,
 'Scapes unsearch'd amid the racket, Ere we sail on board the Packet. Now our boatmen quit their mooring, And all hands must ply the oar; Baggage from the quay is lowering, We 're impatient, — push from shore. 20 'Have a care ! that case holds hquor — Stop the boat — I'm sick — oh Lord !' 'Sick, ma'am, damme, you'll be sicker, Ere you've been an hour on board.' Thus are screaming Men and women, 	Lord knows when we shall come back I Breezes foul and tempests murky May unship us in a crack. But, since hfe at most a jest is, As philosophers allow, 70 Still to laugh by far the best is, Then laugh on — as I do now. Laugh at all things, Great and small things, Sick or well, at sea or shore; While we're quaffing, Let's have laughing — Who the devil cares for more? —
Gemmen, ladies, servants, Jacks; Here entangling, All are wrangling, Stuck together close as wax — 30 Such the general noise and racket, Ere we reach the Lisbon Packet	Some good wine ! and who would lack it, Ev'n on board the Lisbon Packet ? 80 FAIMOUTH ROADS, June 30, 1809. [First published, 1830.]
Now we've reach'd her, lo ! the captain, Gallant Kidd, commands the crew; Passengers their berths are clapt in, Some to grumble, some to spew 'Hey day ! call you that a cabin ? Why 't is hardly three feet square; Not enough to stow Queen Mab in — Who the deuce can harbour there?' 40 'Who, sir ? plenty — Nobles twenty Did at once my vessel fill '— 'Did they ? Jesus, How you squeeze us ! Would to God they did so still: Then I'd 'scape the heat and racket Of the good ship, Lisbon Packet.'	LINES WRITTEN IN AN ALBUM, AT MALTA As o'er the cold sepulchral stone Some name arrests the passer-by; Thus, when thou view'st this page alone, May mine attract thy pensive eye ! And when by thee that name is read, Perchance in some succeeding year, Reflect on me as on the dead, And think my heart is buried here. September 14, 1809. [First published, 1812.] TO FLORENCE
Fletcher ! Murray ! Bob ! where are you ? Stretch'd along the deck like logs — 50 Bear a hand, you jolly tar, you ! Here 's a rope's end for the dogs. Hobhouse muttering fearful curses, As the hatchway down he rolls, Now his breakfast, now his verses, Vomits forth — and damns our souls.	[Written at Malta. The same lady, Mrs. Spencer Smith, is addressed in the two follow- ing poems and in Childe Harold] OH Lady ! when I left the shore, The distant shore which gave me birth, I hardly thought to grieve once more, To quit another spot on earth:

Yet here, amidst this barren isle, Where panting Nature droops the head,	STANZAS
Where only thou art seen to smile, I view my parting hour with dread.	COMPOSED DURING A THUNDER-STORM
Though far from Albin's craggy shore, Drvided by the dark-blue main; 10	[This storm occurred on the night of October 11, 1809, when Byron's guides had lost the road to Zitza in Albania.]
A few, brief, rolling seasons o'er, Perchance I view her cliffs again:	CHILL and mirk is the nightly blast, Where Pindus' mountains rise,
But wheresoe'er I now may roam, Through scorching clime and varied	And angry clouds are pouring fast The vengeance of the skies.
Though Time restore me to my home, I ac'er shall bend mine eyes on thee: On thee, in whom at once conspire	Our guides are gone, our hope is lost, And lightnings, as they play, But show where rocks our paths have crost, Or gild the torrent's spray.
All charms which heedless hearts can move,	Is yon a cot I saw, though low?
Whom but to see is to admire, And, oh ! forgive the word — to love. 20	When lightning broke the gloom — re How welcome were its shade! — ah, no ! 'T is but a Turkish tomb.
Forgive the word, in one who ne'er With such a word can more offend;	Through sounds of foaming waterfalls,
And since thy heart I cannot share, Believe me, what I am, thy friend.	I hear a voice exclaim — My way-worn countryman, who calls On distant England's name.
And who so cold as look on thee, Thou lovely wand'rer, and be less?	A shot is fired — by foe or friend?
Nor be, what man should ever be, The friend of Beauty in distress?	Another — 't is to tell The mountain-peasants to descend,
Ah! who would think that form had	And lead us where they dwell.
past Through Danger's most destructive path,	Oh! who in such a night will dare To tempt the wilderness?
Had braved the death-wing'd tempest's blast, 31	And who 'mid thunder peals can hear Our signal of distress ?
And 'scaped a tyrant's fiercer wrath?	And who that heard our shouts would rise
Lady ' when I shall view the walls Where free Byzantium once arose, And Stamboul's Oriental halls	To try the dubious road; Nor rather deem from nightly cries That outlaws were abroad?
The Turkish tyrants now enclose:	Clouds burst, skies flash, oh, dreadful hour
Though mightiest in the lists of fame, That glorious city still shall be;	More fiercely pours the storm ! 34 Yet here one thought has still the power
On me 't will hold a dearer claim, As spot of thy nativity. 40	To keep my bosom warm.
And though I bid thee now farewell,	While wand'ring through each broken path O'er brake and craggy brow;
When I behold that wondrous scene, Since where thou art I may not dwell,	While elements exhaust their wrath, Sweet Florence, where art thou?
'T will soothe to be, where thou hast been.	Not on the sea, not on the sea,
September, 1809. [First published, 1812.]	Thy bark hath long been gone:

Oh, may the storm that pours on me, Bow down my head alone ! 40	And now upon the scene I look, The azure grave of many a Roman;
Full swiftly blew the swift Siroc, When last I press'd thy lip;	Where stern Ambition once forsook His wavening crown to follow woman.
And long ere now, with foaming shock, Impell'd thy gallant ship.	Florence! whom I will love as well As ever yet was said or sung (Since Orpheus sang his spouse from hell),
Now thou art safe; nay, long ere now Hast trod the shore of Spain; 'T were hard if aught so fair as thou	Whilst thou art fair and I am young: Sweet Florence ! those were pleasant times.
Should linger on the main.	When worlds were staked for ladies' eyes: Had bards as many realms as rhymes,
And since I now remember thee In darkness and in dread, 50 As in those hours of revelry	Thy charms might raise new Antonies. Though Fate forbids such things to be,
Which mirth and music sped; Do thou, amid the fair white walls,	Yet, by thme eyes and ringlets curl'd ! I cannot lose a world for thee, But would not lose thee for a world.
If Cadiz yet be free, At times from out her latticed halls Look o'er the dark blue sea;	November 14, 1809. [First published, 1812.]
Then think upon Calypso's isles,	'THE SPELL IS BROKE, THE CHARM IS FLOWN'
Endear'd by days gone by; To others give a thousand smiles, To me a single sigh. 60	WRITTEN AT ATHENS, JANUARY 16, 1810
And when the admiring circle mark The paleness of thy face, A half-form'd tear, a transient spark Of melancholy grace,	THE spell is broke, the charm is flown ! Thus is it with life's fitful fever: We madly smile when we should groan; Delirium is our best deceiver.
Again thou'lt smile, and blushing shun Some coxcomb's raillery; Nor own for once thou thought'st on one, Who ever thinks on thee.	Each lucid interval of thought Recalls the woes of Nature's charter; And he that acts as wise men ought, But lives, as saints have died, a martyr. [First published, 1812.]
Though smile and sigh alike are vain, When sever'd hearts repine, 70	THE GIRL OF CADIZ
My spirit flies o'er mount and main, And mourns in search of thine. [First published, 1812.]	[This poem stood in the original manuscript of Childe Harold in the place of the stanzas of Canto I. inscribed To Inez]
STANZAS	On never talk again to me Of northern climes and British ladies; It has not been your lot to see,
WRITTEN IN PASSING THE AMBRACIAN GULF	Like me, the lovely girl of Ćadiz. Although her eye be not of blue, Nor fair her locks, like English lasses,
THROUGH cloudless skies, in silvery sheen, Full beams the moon on Actum's coast;	How far its own expressive hue The languid azure eye surpasses !
And on these waves, for Egypt's queen, The ancient world was won and lost.	Prometheus-like, from heaven she stole The fire, that through those silken lashes

In darkest glances seems to roll, τт From eves that cannot hide their flashes: And as along her bosom steal In lengthen'd flow her raven tresses, You 'd swear each clustering lock could feel, And curl'd to give her neck caresses. Our English maids are long to woo, And frigid even in possession; And if their charms be fair to view, Their lips are slow at Love's confession. But, born beneath a brighter sun, For love ordain'd the Spanish maid is, And who, - when fondly, fairly won, -Enchants you like the Girl of Cadiz? The Spanish maid is no coquette, Nor joys to see a lover tremble, And if she love, or if she hate, Alike she knows not to dissemble. Her heart can ne'er be bought or sold -Howe'er it beats, it beats sincerely; 30 And, though it will not bend to gold, "T will love you long and love you dearly. The Spanish girl that meets your love Ne'er taunts you with a mock demal, For every thought is bent to prove Her passion in the hour of trial When thronging foemen menace Spain, She dares the deed and shares the danger And should her lover press the plain, She hurls the spear, her love's avenger. And when, beneath the evening star, 41 She mingles in the gay Bolero, Or sings to her attuned guitar Of Christian knight or Moorish hero, Or counts her beads with fairy hand Beneath the twinkling rays of Hesper, Or joins Devotion's choral band, To chaunt the sweet and hallow'd vesper; -In each her charms the heart must move Of all who venture to behold her: 50 Then let not maids less fair reprove Because her bosom is not colder: Through many a clime 't is mine to roam Where many a soft and melting maid is, But none abroad, and few at home, May match the dark-eyed Girl of Cadiz. [First published, 1832]

WRITTEN AFTER SWIMMING FROM SESTOS TO ABYDOS

IF, in the month of dark December, Leander, who was nightly wont
(What maid will not the tale remember ?) To cross thy stream, broad Hellespont !

If, when the wintry tempest roar'd, He sped to Hero, nothing loth,

And thus of old thy current pour'd, Fair Venus ! how I pity both !

For me, degenerate modern wretch, Though in the genial month of May, My dripping limbs I faintly stretch, And think I've done a feat to-day.

But since he cross'd the rapid tide, According to the doubtful story,

To woo, — and — Lord knows what beside, And swam for Love, as I for Glory;

'T were hard to say who fared the best: Sad mortals ! thus the Gods still plague you !

He lost his labour, I my jest; For he was drown'd, and I've the ague. May 9, 1810. [First published, 1812.]

'MAID OF ATHENS, ERE WE PART'

Ζώη μοῦ, σάς ἀγαπῶ

[Supposed to be Theresa Macri, who afterwards married Mr. Black, an Englishman]

MAID of Athens, ere we part, Give, oh, give me back my heart ! Or, since that has left my breast, Keep it now, and take the rest ! Hear my vow before I go, Ζώη μοῦ, σάs ἀγαπῶ

By those tresses unconfined, Woo'd by each Ægean wind; By those hds whose jetty fringe Kiss thy soft cheeks' blooming tinge; By those wild eyes like the roe, $Z & \eta \mu o \vartheta$, $\sigma ds d \gamma a \pi \vartheta$

By that lip I long to taste; By that zone-encircled waist;

By all the token-flowers that tell What words can never speak so well; By love's alternate joy and woe, Ζάη μοῦ, σάs ἀγαπῶ.

Maid of Athens ! I am gone: Thunk of me, sweet ! when alone. Though I fly to Istambol, Athens holds my heart and soul: Can I cease to love thee ? No ! $Zd\eta \mu o \hat{v}, \sigma ds \dot{c} \gamma a \pi \hat{w}$ ATHENS, 1810. [First published, 1812.]

FRAGMENT FROM THE 'MONK OF ATHOS'

[First published in Noel's Life of Lord Byron, 1890. The manuscript was given to the author of the Life by S McCalmont Hill, who inherited it from his great-grandfather, Robert Dallas. The date and occasion of the poem are unknown.]

BESIDE the confines of the Ægean main, Where northward Macedonia bounds the flood,

And views opposed the Asiatic plain, Where once the pride of lofty llion stood, Like the great Father of the giant brood, With lowering port majestic Athos stands, Crown'd with the verdure of eternal wood, As yet unspoil'd by sacrilegious hands,

And throws his mighty shade o'er seas and distant lands.

And deep embosom'd in his shady groves

Full many a convent rears its glittering spire,

Mid scenes where Heavenly Contemplation loves

To kindle in her soul her hallow'd fire,

Where air and sea with rocks and woods conspire

To breathe a sweet religious calm around,

Weaning the thoughts from every low desire,

And the wild waves that break with murmuring sound long the rocky shore proclaim it holy ground.

Sequester'd shades where Piety has given A quiet refuge from each earthly care,

Whence the rapt spirit may ascend to Heaven! Oh, ye condemn'd the ills of lite to bear! As with advancing age your woes increase, What bliss amidst these solitudes to share The happy foretaste of eternal Peace,

Till Heaven in mercy bids your pain and sorrows cease.

LINES WRITTEN BENEATH A PICTURE

[These lines are copied from a leaf of the man uscript of the second canto of Childe Harold.]

DEAR object of defeated care ! Though now of Love and thee bereft, To reconcile me with despair

Thine image and my tears are left.

'T is said with Sorrow Time can cope; But this I feel can ne'er be true; For by the death-blow of my Hope My Memory immortal grew.

ATHENS, January, 1811. [First published. 1812.]

SUBSTITUTE FOR AN EPITAPH

- KIND Reader ! take your choice to cry or laugh;
- Here HAROLD lies but where 's his Epitaph?
- If such you seek, try Westminster, and view

Ten thousand just as fit for him as you. ATHENS. [First published, 1832.]

TRANSLATION OF THE FAMOUS GREEK WAR SONG Δεῦτε παίδες τῶν Ἑλλήνων

Sons of the Greeks, arise ! The glorious hour's gone forth, And, worthy of such ties, Display who gave us birth.

CHORUS

Sons of Greeks! let us go Iu arms against the foe, Till their hated blood shall flow In a river past our feet.

Then manfully despising The Turkish tyrant's yoke,

Let your country see you rising, And all her chains are broke. Brave shades of chiefs and sages. Behold the coming strife ! Hellénes of past ages, Oh, start again to life ! At the sound of my trumpet, breaking Your sleep, oh, join with me! And the seven-hill'd city seeking, Fight, conquer, till we're free. 20 Sons of Greeks, etc. Sparta, Sparta, why in slumbers Lethargic dost thou lie? Awake and join thy numbers With Athens, old ally ! Leonidas recalling, That chief of ancient song, Who saved ye once from falling, The terrible ! the strong ! Who made that bold diversion In old Thermopylæ, 30 And warring with the Persian To keep his country free; With his three hundred waging The battle, long he stood, And like a lion raging. Expired in seas of blood. NUS Sons of Greeks. etc. 'First published, 1812.] TRANSLATION OF THE ROMAIC SONG Μπένω μεσ' τὸ περιβόλι, 'Ωραιοτάτη Χαηδή, κ. τ. λ. I ENTER thy garden of roses, Beloved and fair Haidée, Each morning where Flora reposes, For surely I see her in thee. Oh, Lovely ! thus low I implore thee, Receive this fond truth from my tongue, Which utters its song to adore thee, Yet trembles for what it has sung; As the branch, at the bidding of Nature, Adds fragrance and fruit to the tree, 10 Through her eyes, through her every feature, Shines the soul of the young Haidée. But the loveliest garden grows hateful When Love has abandon'd the bowers; Bring me hemlock - since mine is ungrateful

That herb is more fragrant than flowers.

The poison, when pour'd from the chalice, Will deeply embitter the bowl; But when drunk to escape from thy malice, The draught shall be sweet to my soul. Too cruel ! in vain I implore thee 21 My heart from these horrors to save: Will nought to my bosom restore thee? Then open the gates of the grave. As the chief who to combat advances Secure of his conquest before, Thus thou, with those eyes for thy lances, Hast pierced through my heart to its core. Ah, tell me, my soul ! must I perish By pangs which a smile would dispel? Would the hope, which thou once bad'st me cherish, 31 For torture repay me too well? Now sad 1s the garden of roses, Beloved but false Haidée ! There Flora all wither'd reposes, And mourns o'er thine absence with me. [First published, 1812.] LINES WRITTEN IN THE TRAV-ELLERS' BOOK AT ORCHOME-IN THIS BOOK A TRAVELLER HAD WRITTEN :---'FAIR Albion, smiling, sees her son depart To trace the birth and nursery of art: Noble his object, glorious is his aim; He comes to Athens, and he writes his name.' BENEATH WHICH LORD BYRON INSERTED THE FOLLOWING:-THE modest bard, like many a bard unknown, Rhymes on our names, but wisely hides his own; But yet, whoe'er he be, to say no worse, His name would bring more credit than his verse. 1810. [First published, 1830.] ON PARTING THE kiss, dear maid ! thy lip has left Shall never part from mine,

Till happier hours restore the gift Untainted back to thme.

NEWSTEAD ABBEY

[These stanzas. written after Byron's return to England from Malta, were first published in the Memoir of F Hodgson in 1878.]

- In the dome of my Sires as the clear moonbeam falls
- Through Silence and Shade o'er its desolate walls,
- It shines from afar like the glories of old,
- It gilds, but it warms not 't is dazzling, but cold.
- Let the Sunbeam be bright for the younger of days:
- 'T is the light that should shine on a race that decays,
- When the Stars are on high and the dews on the ground,
- And the long shadow lingers the ruin around.
- And the step that o'erechoes the gray floor of stone
- Falls sullenly now, for 't is only my own;
- And sunk are the voices that sounded in murth,
- And empty the goblet, and dreary the hearth.
- And vain was each effort to raise and recall
- The brightness of old to illumine our Hall; And vam was the hope to avert our decline.
- And the fate of my fathers had faded to mine
- And theirs was the wealth and the fulness of Fame,
- And mine to inherit too haughty a name;
- And theirs were the times and the triumphs of yore,
- And mine to regret, but renew them no more.
- And Runn is fix'd on my tower and my wall,
- Too hoary to fade, and too massy to fall;
- It tells not of Time's or the tempest's decay,
- But the wreck of the line that have held it in sway.

August 26, 1811.

EPISTLE TO A FRIEND

IN ANSWER TO SOME LINES EXHORTING THE AUTHOR TO BE CHEERFUL, AND TO 'BANISH CARE'

'OH! banish care' - such ever be The motto of thy revelry ! Perchance of mine, when wassail nights Renew those riotous delights, Wherewith the children of Despair Lull the lone heart, and 'banish care.' But not in morn's reflecting hour, When present, past, and future lower, When all I loved is changed or gone, Mock with such taunts the woes of one, 10 Whose every thought - but let them pass -Thou know'st I am not what I was. But, above all, if thou wouldst hold Place in a heart that ne'er was cold. By all the powers that men revere, By all unto thy bosom dear, Thy joys below, thy hopes above, Speak - speak of anything but love.

"T were long to tell, and vain to hear, The tale of one who scorns a tear; 20 And there is little in that tale Which better bosoms would bewail; But mine has suffer'd more than well 'T would suit philosophy to tell. I've seen my bride another's bride, -Have seen her seated by his side, ---Have seen the infant, which she bore, Wear the sweet smile the mother wore, When she and I in youth have smiled, As fond and faultless as her child; — 36 Have seen her eyes, in cold disdain, Ask if I felt no secret pain; And I have acted well my part, And made my cheek belie my heart, Return'd the freezing glance she gave, Yet felt the while that woman's slave; ---Have kiss'd, as if without design, The babe which ought to have been mine, And show'd, alas ! in each caress Time had not made me love the less. 40

But let this pass — I'll whine no more, Nor seek again an eastern shore; The world befits a busy brain, — I'll he me to its haunts again. But if, in some succeeding year, When Britam's 'May is in the sere,' Thou hear'st of one, whose deepening crimes Suit with the sablest of the times. Ours too the glance none saw beside, Of one, whom love nor pity sways, The smile none else might understand; Nor hope of fame, nor good men's praise, The whisper'd thought of hearts alled, 31 One, who in stern ambition's pride, 51 The pressure of the thrilling hand; Perchance not blood shall turn aside, One rank'd in some recording page The kiss, so guiltless and refined With the worst anarchs of the age, That Love each warmer wish forbore; Him wilt thou know - and knowing pause, Those eyes proclaim'd so pure a mind, Nor with the effect forget the cause. Even passion blush'd to plead for more. Newstead Abbey, October 11, 1811. [First published, 1830.] The tone, that taught me to rejoice, When prone, unlike thee, to repine; The song, celestial from thy voice, But sweet to me from none but thine; TO THYRZA The pledge we wore - I wear it still, [There is evidence in Byron's letters and But where is thine ? - Ah ! where art conversations that 'Thyrza' was a real person, thou? but the mystery of her identity has never been Oft have I borne the weight of ill, solved] But never bent beneath till now ! WITHOUT a stone to mark the spot, And say what Truth might well have Well hast thou left in life's best bloom said. The cup of woe for me to drain. By all, save one, perchance forgot, If rest alone be in the tomb, Ah! wherefore art thou lowly laid? I would not wish thee here again; But if m worlds more blest than this By many a shore and many a sea Divided, yet beloved in vain; Thy virtues seek a fitter sphere, 50 The past, the future fled to thee Impart some portion of thy bliss, To bid us meet - no - ne'er again ! To wean me from mine anguish here. Could this have been — a word, a look That softly said, 'We part in peace,' Teach me — too early taught by thee ! To bear, forgiving and forgiven: 10 Had taught my bosom how to brook, On earth thy love was such to me, With fainter sighs, thy soul's release. It fam would form my hope in heaven! October 11, 1811. [First published, 1812.] And didst thou not, since Death for thee Prepared a light and pangless dart, Once long for him thou ne'er shalt see, 'AWAY, AWAY, YE NOTES OF WÓE'' Who held, and holds thee in his heart? [Written. as Byron states in a letter (De-Oh ' who like him had watch'd thee here ? cember S, 1S11), 'on hearing a song of former Or sadly mark'd thy glazing eye, days '] In that dread hour ere death appear, When silent sorrow fears to sigh, Away, away, ye notes of woe ! 20 Be silent, thou once soothing strain, Or I must flee from hence — for, oh ! Till all was past? But when no more 'T was thine to reck of human woe, I dare not trust those sounds again. Affection's heart-drops, gushing o'er, To me they speak of brighter days — Had flow'd as fast — as now they flow. But lull the chords, for now, alas! I must not think, I may not gaze Shall they not flow, when many a day On what I am — on what I was. In these, to me, deserted towers, The voice that made those sounds more sweet Ere call'd but for a time away, Affection's mingling tears were ours? Is hush'd, and all their charms are fled;

And now their softest notes repeat A dirge, an anthem o'er the dead ! Yes, Thyrza ! yes, they breathe of thee, Beloved dust ! since dust thou art; And all that once was harmony Is worse than discord to my heart! "T is silent all ! — but on my ear The well-remember'd echoes thrill; I hear a voice I would not hear, A voice that now might well be still: Yet oft my doubting soul 't will shake; Even slumber owns its gentle tone, Till consciousness will vainly wake To listen, though the dream be flown. Sweet Thyrza ! waking as in sleep, Thou art but now a lovely dream; A star that trembled o'er the deep, Then turn'd from earth its tender beam. But he who through hfe's dreary way Must pass, when heaven is veil'd in wrath, Will long lament the vanish'd ray That scatter'd gladness o'er his path. December 6, 1811. [First published, 1812.] 'ONE STRUGGLE MORE, AND I AM FREE' ONE struggle more, and I am free From pangs that rend my heart in twain; One last long sigh to love and thee, Then back to busy life again. It suits me well to mingle now With things that never pleased before: Though every joy is fled below, What future grief can touch me more? Then bring me wine, the banquet bring; Man was not form'd to live alone: 10 I'll be that light, unmeaning thing That smiles with all, and weeps with none. It was not thus in days more dear, It never would have been, but thou Hast fled, and left me lonely here; Thou 'rt nothing, — all are nothing now. In vain my lyre would lightly breathe ! The smile that sorrow fain would wear But mocks the woe that lurks beneath, Like roses o'er a sepulchre. 20 Though gay companions o'er the bowl Dispel awhile the sense of ill;

Though pleasure fires the maddening soul, The heart — the heart is lonely still ! On many a lone and lovely night It soothed to gaze upon the sky; For then I deem'd the heavenly light Shone sweetly on thy pensive eye: And oft I thought at Cynthia's noon, When sailing o'er the Ægean wave, 30 'Now Thyrza gazes on that moon -Alas, it gleam'd upon her grave ! When stretch'd on fever's sleepless bed, And sickness shrunk my throbbing veins, 'T is comfort still,' I faintly said, 'That Thyrza cannot know my pains:' Like freedom to the time-worn slave, A boon 't is idle then to give, Relenting Nature vainly gave My hfe, when Thyrza ceased to live ! 40 My Thyrza's pledge in better days, When love and life alike were new ! How different now thou meet'st my gaze ! How tinged by time with sorrow's hue ! The heart that gave itself with thee Is silent — ah, were mine as still ! Though cold as e'en the dead can be, It feels, it sickens with the chill. Thou bitter pledge ! thou mournful token ! Though painful, welcome to my breast ! Still, still, preserve that love unbroken, 51 Or break the heart to which thou'rt press'd ! Time tempers love, but not removes, More hallow'd when its hope is fled: Oh ! what are thousand living loves To that which cannot quit the dead? [First published, 1812.] EUTHANASIA WHEN Time, or soon or late, shall bring The dreamless sleep that lulls the dead, Oblivion ! may thy languid wing Wave gently o'er my dying bed !

No band of friends or heirs be there,

To feel, or feign, decorous woe.

With no officious mourners near:

No maiden, with dishevell'd hair,

But silent let me sink to earth,

To weep or wish the coming blow;

IG

I would not mar one hour of mirth, Nor startle friendship with a fear.	It is enough for me to prove That what I loved, and long must love, Like common earth can rot;
Yet Love, if Love in such an hour Could nobly check its useless sighs, Might then exert its latest power	To me there needs no stone to tell, 'T is Nothing that I loved so well.
In her who lives and him who dies.	Yet did I love thee to the last
'T were sweet, my Psyche ! to the last Thy features still serene to see.	As fervently as thou, 2c Who didst not change through all the past And canst not alter now.
Forgetful of its struggles past, E'en Pain itself should smile on thee. 20	The love where Death has set his seal, Nor age can chill, nor rival steal,
But vain the wish - for Beauty still	Nor falsehood disavow And, what were worse, thou canst not see
Will shrink, as shrinks the ebbing breath; And woman's tears, produced at will,	Or wrong, or change, or fault m me.
Deceive in life, unman in death.	The better days of hfe were ours; The worst can be but mine.
Then lonely be my latest hour, Without regret, without a groan;	The sun that cheers, the storm that lowers, Shall never more be thine. 31
For thousands Death hath ceased to lower, And pain been transient or unknown.	The silence of that dreamless sleep I envy now too much to weep; Nor need I to repine
'Ay, but to die, and go,' alas ! Where all have gone, and all must go ! To be the pathing that I was	That all those charms have pass'd away, I might have watch'd through long decay.
To be the nothing that I was 3 ^I Ere born to life and living woe !	The flower in ripen'd bloom unmatch'd Must fall the earliest prey;
Count o'er the joys thine hours have seen, Count o'er thy days from anguish free, And know, whatever thou hast been,	Though by no hand untimely snatch'd, The leaves must drop away: 40 And yet it were a greater grief
'T is something better not to be. [First published, 1812.]	To watch it withering, leaf by leaf, Than see it pluck'd to-day;
	Since earthly eye but ill can bear To trace the change to foul from fair.
'AND THOU ART DEAD, AS YOUNG AND FAIR'	I know not if I could have borne To see thy beauties fade;
Heu, quanto minus est cum reliquis versari quam tui meminisse '	The night that follow'd such a morn Had worn a deeper shade:
AND thou art dead, as young and fair	Thy day without a cloud hath pass'd, 5c And thou wert lovely to the last, Fringwich'd not decord.
As aught of mortal birth; And form so soft, and charms so rare, Too soon return'd to Earth !	Extinguish'd, not decay'd; As stars that shoot along the sky Shine brightest as they fall from high
Though Earth received them in her bed, And o'er the spot the crowd may tread	As once I wept, if I could weep,
In carelessness or mirth, There is an eye which could not brook	My tears might well be shed, To think I was not near to keep
A moment on that grave to look	One vigil o'er thy bed; To gaze, how fondly ! on thy face, To fold thee in a faint embrace
I will not ask where thou liest low, 10 Nor gaze upon the spot; There flowers or weeds at will may grow,	To fold thee in a faint embrace, 60 Uphold thy drooping head; And show that love, however vain,
So I behold them not:	Nor thou nor I can feel again.

Yet how much less it were to gain, Though thou hast left me free, The lovelnest things that still remain, Than thus remember thee ! The all of thine that cannot die Through dark and dread Eternity Returns again to me, And more thy buried love endears Than aught, except its living years. Feb uary , 1812. [First published, 1812.]	For wert thou vanish'd from my mind, Where could my vacant bosom turn? And who would then remain behind To honour thine abandon'd Urn? No, no — it is my sorrow's pride That last dear duty to fulfil; Though all the world forget beside, 'T is meet that I remember still. For well I know, that such had been Thy gentle care for him, who now Unmourn'd shall quit this mortal scene,
LINES TO A LADY WEEPING WEEP, daughter of a royal line, A Sire's disgrace, a realm's decay; Ah! happy if each tear of thme Could wash a father's fault away!	Where none regarded him but thou: And, oh, I feel in that was given A blessing never meant for me; Thou wert too like a dream of Heaven, For earthly Love to merit thee. March 14, 1812.
 Weep — for thy tears are Virtue's tears — Auspicious to these suffering isles; And be each drop in future years Repaid thee by thy people's smiles ! March 7, 1812. 	ON A CORNELIAN HEART WHICH WAS BROKEN [Probably referring to the Cornelian Heart of the poem on page 113.]
 'IF SOMETIMES IN THE HAUNTS OF MEN' IF sometimes in the haunts of men Thine image from my breast may fade, The lonely hour presents again The semblance of thy gentle shade: And now that sad and silent hour Thus much of thee can still restore, And sorrow unobserved may pour The plaint she dare not speak before. 	 ILL-FATED Heart ! and can it be That thou shouldst thus be rent in twain ? Have years of care for thine and thee Alike been all employ'd in vain ? Yet precious seems each shatter'd part, And every fragment dearer grown, Since he who wears thee feels thou art A fitter emblem of his own. March 16, 1812.
 Oh, pardon that in crowds awhile I waste one thought I owe to thee, I waste one thought I owe to thee, I waste one thought I owe to thee, I unfaithful to thy Memory ! Nor deem that memory less dear, That then I seem not to repine; I would not fools should overhear One sigh that should be wholly thine. If not the goblet pass unquaff'd, It is not drain'd to banish care; The cup must hold a deadlier draught, That brings a Lethe for despair. And could Oblivion set my soul From all her troubled visions free, I'd dash to earth the sweetest bowl That drown'd a single thought of thee. 	 'THE CHAIN I GAVE' FROM THE TURKISH THE chain I gave was fair to view, The lute I added sweet in sound; The heart that offer'd both was true, And ill deserved the fate it found. These gifts were charm'd by secret spell Thy truth in absence to divine; And they have done their duty well, — Alas ! they could not teach thee thine. That chain was firm in every link, But not to bear a stranger's touch;

That lute was sweet — till thou couldst think In other hands its notes were such	In one short hour beheld the blazing fane, Apollo sink, and Shakspeare cease to reign
Let him, who from thy neck unbound The cham which shiver'd in his grasp, Who saw that lute refuse to sound, Restring the chords, renew the clasp.	Ye who beheld (oh ! sight admired and mourn'd, Whose radiance mock'd the ruin itadorn'd !), Through clouds of fire the massy fragments
When thou wert changed, they alter'd too; The chain is broke, the music mute: 'T is past — to them and thee aducu — False heart, frail chain, and silent lute. [First published, 1814.]	riven, Like Israel's pillar, chase the night from heaven; Saw the long column of revolving flames Shake its red shadow o'er the startled Thames, While thousands, throng'd around the burn-
LINES WRITTEN ON A BLANK LEAF OF THE • PLEASURES OF MEMORY'	ing dome, Shrank back appall'd, and trembled for their home, As glared the volumed blaze, and ghastly shone
ABSENT or present, still to thee, My friend, what magic spells belong ! As all can tell, who share, like me, In turn thy converse and thy song.	The skies with lightnings awful as their own, Till blackening ashes and the lonely wall Usurp'd the Muse's realm, and mark'd her fall;
And when the dreaded hour shall come By Friendship ever deem'd too nigh, And 'MEMORY' o'er her Drund's tomb Shall weep that aught of thee can die,	Say — shall this new, nor less aspiring pile, Rear'd where once rose the mightiest in our isle, Know the same favour which the former knew,
How fondly will she then repay Thy homage offer'd at her shrine, And blend, while ages roll away, Her name immortally with thine f April 19, 1812. [First published, 1816.]	A shrine for Shakspeare — worthy him and you? 20 Yes — it shall be — the magic of that name Defies the scythe of time, the torch of flame;
ADDRESS	On the same spot still consecrates the scene, And bids the Drama be where she hath
SPOKEN AT THE OPENING OF DRURY- LANE THEATRE, SATURDAY, OCTOBER IO, 1812	been : This fabric's birth attests the potent spell — Indulge our honest pride, and say, How well '
[Drury-Lane Theatre had burned down Feb- ruary 24, 1809, and Byron had himself viewed the fire from 'a house-top in Covent Garden' The managers advertised a general compe- tition of addresses for the opening of the restored edifice, and scores of poems, all intol- erably poor, were submitted Lord Holland, in despair, finally appealed to Byron for an address, and the following verses of his were spoken by Mr. Elliston. The Rejected Ad- dresses has made the occasion ever memorable] IN one dread night our city saw, and sigh'd, Parritict the dresse of poetable .	As soars this fane to emulate the last, Oh! might we draw our omens from the past, Some hour propitious to our prayers may boast Names such as hallow still the dome we lost. 36 On Drury first your Siddons' thrilling art O'erwhelm'd the gentlest, storm'd the sternest heart: On Drury, Garrick's latest laurels grew;
Bow'd to the dust the Drama's tower of pride;	Here your last tears retiring Roscius drew,

Sigh'd his last thanks, and wept his last adieu: But still for living wit the wreaths may bloom That only waste their odours o'er the tomb Such Drury claim'd and claims - nor you refuse One tribute to revive his slumbering muse; With garlands deck your own Menander's head ! Nor hoard your honours idly for the dead ! Dear are the days which made our annals bright. Ere Garrick fled, or Brinsley ceased to write. Fiers to their labours, like all high-born heirs, Vain of our ancestry as they of theirs; While thus Remembrance borrows Banquo's glass To claim the sceptred shadows as they pass, And we the mirror hold, where imaged shine Immortal names, emblazon'd on our line, Pause - ere their feebler offspring you condemn. Reflect how hard the task to rival them ! Friends of the stage! to whom both Players and Plays Must sue alike for pardon or for praise, Whose judging voice and eye alone direct The boundless power to cherish or reject; If e'er frivolity has led to fame, And made us blush that you forbore to blame: If e'er the sinking stage could condescend To soothe the sickly taste it dare not mend, All past reproach may present scenes refute. 60 And censure, wisely loud, be justly mute ! Oh! since your flat stamps the Drama's laws, Forbear to mock us with misplaced applause; So pride shall doubly nerve the actor's powers, And reason's voice be echo'd back by ours ! This greeting o'er, the ancient rule obey'd. The Drama's homage by her herald paid, Receive our welcome too, whose every tone Springs from our hearts, and fain would win your own. The c tain rises — may our stage unfold

Scenes not unworthy Drury's days of old ' Britons our judges, Nature for our guide, Still may we please — long, long may you preside !

PARENTHETICAL ADDRESS

BY DR. PLAG ARY

[Among the rejected addresses was one by Dr. Busby which his son attempted to recite on the stage by force on October 14. He was taken into custody for his pains, but on the next night Dr. Busby obtained a hearing for his son. Byron in the sature below ridicules the uneffective delivery of the young man whose voice was quite 'inarticulate' He introduces the verses with these words.] Half stolen, with acknowledgments, to be spoken in an inarticulate voice by Master B at the opening of the next new theatre Stolen parts marked with the inverted commas of quotation — thus

'WHEN energising objects men pursue,'

- Then Lord knows what is writ by Lord knows whc.
- 'A modest monologue you here survey,'
- Hiss'd from the theatre the 'other day,'
- As if Sır Fretful wrote 'the slumberous' verse,
- And gave his son 'the rubbish' to rehearse.
- 'Yet at the thing you'd never be amazed,'
- Knew you the rumpus which the author raised;
- 'Nor even here your smiles would be represt,'
- Knew you these lines the badness of the best
- 'Flame! fire! and flame!!' (words borrow'd from Lucretius),
- 'Dread metaphors, which open wounds' like issues !
- 'And sleeping pangs awake and but away!'

Confound me if I know what next to say).

- 'Lo, Hope reviving re-expands her wings,'
- And Master G—— recites what Doctor Busby sings !—
- 'If mighty things with small we may compare'
- (Translated from the grammar for the fair '),
- Dramatic ' spirit drives a conquering car,'
- And burn'd poor Moscow like a tub of 'tar.' 20

 ⁴ This spirit Wellington has shown in Spain,' To furnish melo-drames for Drury Lane ⁵ Another Marlborough points to Blenheim's story,' And George and I will dramatise it for ye. ⁴ In arts and sciences our isle hath shone' (This deep discovery is mine alone). 	 VERSES FOUND IN A SUMMER- HOUSE AT HALES-OWEN WHEN Dryden's fool, 'unknowing what he sought,' His hours in whistIng spent, 'for want of thought,' This guiltless oaf his vacancy of sense
 O British poesy, whose powers inspire ' My verse — or I 'm a fool — and Fame 's a liar, 'Thee we invoke, your sister arts implore' With 'smiles,' and 'lyres,' and 'pencils,' and much more. 30 These, if we win the Graces, too, we gain Disgraces, too ! 'inseparable train !' 'Three who have stolen their witching ars from Cupid ' (You all know what I mean, unless you're stupid): 'Harmonious throng' that I have kept in 	 This guilters out ins vacancy of sense Supplied, and amply too, by innocence; Did modern swams, possess'd of Cymon's powers, In Cymon's manner waste their leisure hours, The offended guests would not, with blushing, see These fair green walks disgraced by infamy. Severe the fate of modern fools, alas ! When vice and folly mark them as they pass. Like noxious reptiles o'er the whiten'd wall, The filth they leave still points out where they crawl. [First published, 1832.]
 petto, Now to produce in a 'divine sestetto '!' 'While Poesy,' with these delightful doxies, 'Sustams her part' in all the 'upper' boxes ! 'Thus lifted gloriously, you 'll sweep along,' Borne in the vast balloon of Busby's song; 'Shine in your farce, masque, scenery, and play' 41' (For this last line George had a holiday). 'Old Drury never, never soar'd so high,' So says the manager, and so say I. 'But hold, you say, this self-complacent boast;' Is this the poem which the public lost ? 'True — true — that lowers at once our mounting pride;' But lo ! — the papers print what you deride 'T is ours to look on you — you hold the prize,' 'T is twenty guineas, as they advertise ! 50' 'A double blessing your rewards impart' — I wish I had them, then, with all my heart ! 'Our twofold feeling owns its twofold cause,' Why son and I both beg for your applause. 'When in your fostering beams you bid us hive,' My next subscription-list shall say how much you give ! October, 1812. 	 'REMEMBER THEE! REMEM- BER!' [Lady Caroline Lamb 'called one morning at her quondam lover's apartments His lord shy was from home, but finding Vatilek on the table, the lady wrote in the first page of the volume the words, "Remember me!" Byron immediately wrote under the ominous warning these two stanzas.' — MEDWIN, Con- versations of Lord Byron, 1824, pp. 320, 330.] REMEMBER thee ' remember thee ! Till Lethe quench life's burning stream Remorse and Shame shall cling to thee, And haunt thee like a feverish dream ! Remember thee ! Aye, doubt it not. Thy husband too shall think of thee: By neither shalt thou be forgot, Thou false to him, thou fiend to me ! TME ! on whose arbitrary wing The varying hours must flag or fly, Whose tardy winter, fleeting spring, But drag or drive us on to die — Hail thou ' who on my birth bestow'd Those boons to all that know thee known, Yet better I sustain thy load, For now I bear the weight alone.

172 MISCELLANEOUS FOEMS
I would not one fond heart should share	Birds, yet in freedom, shun the net
The bitter moments thou hast given; 10	Which Love around your haunts hath set;
And pardon thee, since thou couldst spare	Or, circled by his fatal fire,
All that I loved, to peace or heaven.	Your hearts shall burn, your hopes expire.
To them be joy or rest, on me	A bird of free and careless wing
Thy future ills shall press in vain:	Was I, through many a smiling spring;
I nothing owe but years to thee,	But caught within the subtle snare,
A debt already paid in pain.	I burn, and feebly flutter there.
Yet even that pain was some relief;	Who ne'er have loved, and loved in vain,
It felt, but still forgot thy power:	Can neither feel nor pity pain,
The active agony of grief	The cold repulse, the look askance,
Retards, but never counts the hour. 2c	The lightning of Love's angry glance. 2c
In joy I've sigh'd to think thy flight	In flattering dreams I deem'd thee mine;
Would soon subside from swift to slow;	Now hope, and he who hoped, decline;
Thy cloud could overcast the light,	Like melting wax, or withering flower,
But could not add a night to woe;	I feel my passion and thy power.
For then, however drear and dark,	My light of life ! ah, tell me why
My soul was suited to thy sky;	That pouting hp and alter'd eye ?
One star alone shot forth a spark	My bird of love ! my beauteous mate !
To prove thee — not Eternity.	And art thou changed, and canst thou hate?
That beam hath sunk, and now thou art	Mine eyes like wintry streams o'erflow:
A blank; a thing to count and curse	What wretch with me would barter woe?
Through each dull tedious triffing part,	My bird ! relent one note could give 3.
Which all regret, yet all rehearse	A charm, to bid thy lover hive.
One scene even thou canst not deform;	My curdling blood, my madd'ning brain,
The limit of thy sloth or speed	In sılent anguish I sustaın;
When future wanderers bear the storm	And still thy heart, without partaking
Which we shall sleep too sound to heed.	One pang, exults — while mme is breaking.
And I can smile to think how weak	Pour me the poison; fear not thou !
Thine efforts shortly shall be shown,	Thou canst not murder more than now:
When all the vengeance thou canst wreak	I 've hved to curse my natal day,
Must fall upon — a nameless stone. 40	And Love, that thus can hngering slay. 4e
[First published, 1814.] TRANSLATION OF A ROMAIC LOVE SONG	My wounded soul, my bleeding breast, Can patience preach thee into rest? Alas ! too late, I dearly know That joy is harbunger of woe. [First published, 1814.]
An ! Love was never yet without The pang, the agony, the doubt, Which rends my heart with ceaseless sigh, While day and night roll darkling by.	'THOU ART NOT FALSE, BUT THOU ART FICKLE'
Without one friend to hear my woe,	THOU art not false, but thou art fickle,
I faint, I die beneath the blow.	To those thyself so fondly sought;
That Love had arrows, well I knew;	The tears that thou hast forced to trickle
Alas! I find them poison'd too.	Are doubly bitter from that thought:

"T is this which breaks the heart thou griev-	I know the length of Love's forever,
est, Too well thou lov'st — too soon thou leavest.	And just expected such a freak. In peace we met, in peace we parted,
The wholly false the heart despises, And spurns deceiver and deceit; But she who not a thought disguises,	In peace we vow'd to meet agam, And though I find thee fickle-hearted No pang of mine shall make thee vain.
Whose love is as sincere as sweet, — When she can change who loved so truly, It feels what mine has felt so newly.	One gone — 't was time to seek a second; In sooth 't were hard to blame thy haste. And whatsoe'er thy love be reckon'd, At least thou hast improved in taste:
To dream of joy and wake to sorrow Is doom'd to all who love or live; And if, when conscious on the morrow, We scarce our fancy can forgive, That cheated us m slumber only To leave the waking soul more lonely,	Though one was young, the next was younger, His love was new, mine too well known— And what might make the charm still stronger, The youth was present, I was flown.
What must they feel whom no false vision, But truest, tenderest passion warm'd? Sincere, but swift in sad transition, As if a dream alone had charm'd? Ah ' sure such grief is fancy's scheming, And all thy change can be but dreaming ! [First published, 1814.]	Seven days and nights of single sorrow ! Too much for human constancy ! A fortnight past, why then to-morrow His turn is come to follow me: And if each week you change a lover, And so have acted heretofore, Before a year or two is over We 'll form a very pretty corps.
ON BEING ASKED WHAT WAS THE 'ORIGIN OF LOVE' THE 'Origin of Love !' — Ah ! why That cruel question ask of me, When thou mayst read m many an eye He starts to hife on seeing thee ?	Adieu, fair thing ! without upbraiding I fain would take a decent leave; Thy beauty still survives unfading, And undeceived may long deceive. With him unto thy bosom dearer Enjoy the moments as they flee; I only wish his love sincerer Than thy young heart has been to me. 1812.
And shouldst thou seek his end to know: My heart forebodes, my fears foresee, He 'll lnger long m silent woe; But live — until I cease to be. [First published, 1814.]	TO THE HON MRS. GEORGE LAMB THE sacred song that on mine ear Yet vibrates from that voice of thine, I heard, before, from one so dear — 'T is strange it still appears divine.
ON THE QUOTATION 'AND MY TRUE FAITH CAN ALTER NEVER, THOUGH THOU ART GONE PERHAPS FOR- EVER'	But, oh ! so sweet that look and tone To her and thee alike is given; It seem'd as if for me alone That both had been recall'd from Heaven ?
[First printed in the Edition of 1898 from a manuscript in possession of Mr. Murray.]	And though I never can redeem The vision thus endear'd to me;

AND 'thy true faith can alter never?'-Indeed it lasted for a — week!

I scarcely can regret my dream, When realised again by thee. 1812. [First published, 1898.]

[LA REVANCHE]

[First published in the Edution of 1904 from a manuscript in the possession of Mr. Murray. It is dated by conjecture 1812]

THERE is no more for me to hope, There is no more for thee to fear; And, if I give my Sorrow scope, That Sorrow thou shalt never hear. Why did I hold thy love so dear? Why shed for such a heart one tear? Let deep and dreary silence be My only memory of thee !

When all are fled who flatter now, Save thoughts which will not flatter then; And thou recall'st the broken vow To him who must not love again — Each hour of now forgotten years Thou, then, shalt number with thy tears; And every drop of grief shall be A vain remembrancer of me!

'REMEMBER HIM WHOM PAS-SION'S POWER'

[Mr. Coleridge in the new Murray edition suggests that these stanzas were addressed to Lady Frances Wedderburn Webster]

REMEMBER him whom passion's power Severely, deeply, vainly proved. Remember thou that dangerous hour When neither fell, though both were loved.

That yielding breast, that melting eye, Too much invited to be bless'd. That gentle prayer, that pleading sigh, The wilder wish reproved, repress'd.

Oh! let me feel that all I lost But saved thee all that conscience fears; And blush for every pang it cost To spare the vain remorse of years

Yet think of this when many a tongue, Whose busy accents whisper blame, Would do the heart that loved thee wrong, And brand a nearly blighted name

Think that, whate'er to others, thou Hast seen each selfish thought subdued: I bless thy purer soul even now, Even now, in midnight solitude. 23

O God ! that we had met in time, Our hearts as fond, thy hand more free; When thou hadst loved without a crime, And I been less unworthy thee !

Far may thy days, as heretofore, From this our gaudy world be past ! And that too bitter moment o'er, Oh, may such trial be thy last !

This heart, alas ! perverted long, Itself destroy'd might there destroy; To meet thee in the glittering throng, 31 Would wake Presumption's hope of joy.

Then to the things whose bliss or woe, Like mine, is wild and worthless all, That world resign — such scenes forego, Where those who feel must surely fall.

Thy youth, thy charms, thy tenderness, Thy soul from long seclusion pure; From what even here hath pass'd, may guess What there thy bosom must endure. 40

Oh! pardon that imploring tear, Since not by Virtue shed in vain, My frenzy drew from eyes so dear; For me they shall not weep again.

Though long and mournful must it be, The thought that we no more may meet; Yet I deserve the stern decree,

And almost deem the sentence sweet.

Still, had I loved thee less, my heart Had then less sacrificed to thine; It felt not half so much to part,

50

As if its guilt had made thee mine. 1813. [First published, 1814.]

IMPROMPTU, IN REPLY TO A FRIEND

[For the origin of these lines see Byron's Letter to Moore, September 27, 1813.]

WHEN, from the heart where Sorrow sits, Her dusky shadow mounts too high,

And o'er the changing aspect flits, And clouds the brow, or fills the eye; Heed not that gloom which soon shall sink: My thoughts their dungeon know too well; Back to my breast the wandereis shrink, And droop within their silent cell.

[First published, 1814.]

SONNET, TO GENEVRA

['Redde some Italian, and wrote two Sonnets... I never wrote but one sonnet before, and that was not in earnest, and many years ago, as an exercise — and I will never write another They are the most puling, petrifying, stupidly Platonic compositions '— BYRON, Diary, December 18, 1813.]

- THINE eyes' blue tenderness, thy long fair hair,
 - And the wan lustre of thy features caught
 - From contemplation where serenely wrought,
- Seems Sorrow's softness charm'd from its despair —
- Have thrown such speaking sadness in thine air,
 - That but I know thy blessed bosom fraught
 - With mines of unalloy'd and stainless thought ---
- I should have deem'd thee doom'd to earthly care
- With such an aspect, by his colours blent, When from his beauty-breathing pencil born
- (Except that thou hast nothing to repent), The Magdalen of Guido saw the morn --
- Such seem'st thou but how much more excellent !
 - With nought Remorse can claim nor Virtue scorn.

December 17, 1813. [First published, 1814.]

SONNET, TO THE SAME

- FHY cheek is pale with thought, but not from woe,
 - And yet so lovely, that if Mirth could flush
 - Its rose of whiteness with the brightest blush,
- My heart would wish away that ruder glow:

And dazzle not thy deep-blue eyes - but, oh!

While gazing on them sterner eyes will gush,

- And into mine my mother's weakness rush,
- Soft as the last drops round heaven's ary bow.
- For, through thy long dark lashes low depending,

The soul of melancholy Gentleness

Gleams like a seraph from the sky descending,

Above all pain, yet pitying all distress;

- At once such majesty with sweetness blending,
 - I worship more, but cannot love thee less. December 17, 1813. [First published, 1814.]

FROM THE PORTUGUESE

'TU MI CHAMAS'

IN moments to delight devoted,

'My life !' with tenderest tone, you cry; Dear words ! on which my heart had doted,

If youth could neither fade nor die.

To death even hours like these must roll, Ah! then repeat those accents never;

Or change 'my life !' into 'my soul !' Which, like my love, exists for ever.

[First published, 1814.]

ANOTHER VERSION

- You call me still your life. Oh ! change the word
 - Life is as transient as the inconstant sigh:
- Say rather I'm your soul; more just that name,
 - For, like the soul, my love can never die [First published, 1832.]

THE DEVIL'S DRIVE

AN UNFINISHED RHAPSODY

[An mutation of The Devil's Walk, which Byron ascribes to Porson, but which was really the joint production of Coleridge and Southey This poem, intherto printed with many lacunce, was first given entire in the Edition of 1904 from a manuscript in the possession of the Earl of Ilchester]

THE Devil return'd to hell by two, For the field ran so red with the blood of And he stay'd at home till five; the dead. That it blush'd like the waves of hell ! When he dined on some homicides done in Then loudly, and wildly, and long laugh'd ragoût, And a rebel or so in an Irish stew, he: 'Methinks they have here little need of me!' And sausages made of a self-slain Jew-And bethought himself what next to do, 'And,' quoth he, 'I'll take a drive: Long he look'd down on the hosts of each I walk'd in the morning, I'll ride to-night; clime. While the warriors hand to hand were -In darkness my children take most delight, Gaul, Austrian and Muscovite heroes sub-And I'll see how my favourites thrive. lime. And (Muse of Fitzgerald arise with a 'And what shall I ride in ?' quoth Lucifer rhyme !) A quantity of Landwehr! then -11 'If I follow'd my taste, indeed, Gladness was there, I should mount in a waggon of wounded For men of all might and the monarchs of men. earth, And smile to see them bleed. There met for the wolf and the worm to But these will be furnish'd again and again, make mirth. And at present my purpose is speed; And a feast for the fowls of the Air ! To see my manor as much as I may, And watch that no souls shall be poach'd But he turn'd aside and look'd from the away. ridge Of hills along the river, 'I have a state-coach at Carlton House, And the best thing he saw was a broken A chariot in Seymour Place; 20 bridge, But they 're lent to two friends, who make Which a Corporal chose to shiver; me amends Though an Emperor's taste was displeased By driving my favourite pace; with his haste, The Devil he thought it clever; And they handle their reins with such a And he laugh'd again in a lighter strain, grace, I have something for both at the end of O'er the torrent swoln and rainy, 60 their race. When he saw 'on a fiery steed ' Prince Pon, In taking care of Number One 'So now for the earth to take my chance.' Get drown'd with a great many ! Then up to the earth sprung he; And making a jump from Moscow to But the softest note that soothed his ear France, Was the sound of a widow sighing; He stepp'd across the sea, And the sweetest sight was the icy tear, And rested his hoof on a turnpike road, Which horror froze in the blue eye clear No very great way from a bishop's abode. Of a maid by her lover lying ~ As round her fell her long fair hair; But first as he flew, I forgot to say, And she look'd to heaven with that fren-31 That he hover'd a moment upon his way zied air Which seem'd to ask if a God were there ! To look upon Leipsic plain; And, stretch'd by the wall of a ruin'd hut, And so sweet to his eye was its sulphury With its hollow cheek, and eyes half shut, glare, And so soft to his ear was the cry of A child of Famine dying: despair, And the carnage begun, when resistance is done, That he perch'd on a mountain of slain; And the fall of the vainly flying ! And he gazed with delight from its growing height, Nor often on earth had he seen such a sight, Then he gazed on a town by besiegers taken. Nor his work done half as well: Nor cared he who were winning;

But he saw an old maid, for years for- saken,	He pass'd Tommy Tyrwhitt, that standing
Get up and leave her spinning; so And she look'd in her glass, and to one that did pass,	jest, To princely wit a Martyr. But the last joke of all was by far the best,
She said — 'pray are the rapes begin- ning ?'	When he sail'd away with 'the Garter'! 'And'-quoth Satan-'this Embassy's
But the Devil has reach'd our cliffs so white,	worthy my sight, Should I see nothing else to amuse me to- night.
And what did he there, I pray? If his eyes were good, he but saw by night What we see every day:	With no one to bear it, but Thomas & Tyr- whitt, This ribband belongs to an "order of Merit"!'
But he made a tour, and kept a journal	He stored at an Inn and stored within
Of all the wondrous sights nocturnal, And he sold it in shares to the Men of the	He stopp'd at an Inn and stepp'd within The Bar and read the 'Times;'
Row,	And never such a treat, as — the epistle of
Who bid pretty well — but they cheated him, though ! 90	one 'Vetus,' Had he found save in downright crime:
min, mough: 90	'Though I doubt if this drivelling encomi-
The Devil first saw, as he thought, the	ast of War
Mail, Its coachman and his coat;	Ever saw a field fought, or felt a scar, Yet his fame shall go farther than he can
So instead of a pistol he cock'd his tail,	guess,
And seized him by the throat:	For I'll keep him a place in my hottest
'Aha!' quoth he, 'what have we here?	And his works shall be bound in Morocco
"T is a new barouche, and an ancient peer !"	d'Enfer,
So he sat hum on his box again,	And letter'd behind with his Nom de
And bade him have no fear,	Guerre.'
But be true to his club and staunch to his rein,	The Devil gat next to Westminster,
His brothel, and his beer;	And he turn'd to 'the room' of the
'Next to seeing a lord at the council board,	Commons;
I would rather see him here.'	But he heard, as he purposed to enter in there,
Satan hired a horse and gig	That 'the Lords' had received a sum-
With promises to pay;	mons;
And he pawn'd his horns for a spruce new wig,	And he thought, as a 'quondam aristocrat,' He might peep at the peers, though to hear
To redeem as he came away:	them were flat;
And he whistled some tune, a waltz or a	And he walk'd up the house so like one of
Jug, And drove off at the close of day.	That they say that he stood pretty near the throne
The first place he stopp'd at - he heard	He can the Lord Liverneel convincing with the Psalm That rung from a Methodist Chapel 110	He saw the Lord Liverpool seemingly wise, The Lord Westmoreland certainly silly,
'T is the best sound I've heard,' quoth	And Jockey of Norfolk — a man of some
he, 'since my palm	size
Presented Eve her apple ' When Faith is all, 't is an excellent sign,	And Chatham, so like his friend Billy; And he saw the tears in Lord Eldon's eyes,
That the Works and Workmen both are	Because the Catholics would not rise,
mine!'	In spite of his prayers and his prophecies;

With the falsest of tongues, the sincerest of And he heard — which set Satan himself a staring --men -A certam Chief Justice say something like His veracity were but deceit ---180 swearing, And Nature must first have unmade him And the Devil was shock'd — and quoth he, agam, 'I must go, Ere his breast or his face, or his tongue, or For I find we have much better manners his pen, Conceived - utter'd - look'd - or wrote below: If thus he harangues when he passes my down letters ten. border, Which Truth would acknowledge com-I shall hint to friend Moloch to call him to plete. order.' Satan next took the army list in hand, Then the Devil went down to the humbler Where he found a new 'Field Marshal;' And when he saw this high command House, Where he readily found his way Conferr'd on his Highness of Cumber-As natural to him as its hole to a Mouse, land, He had been there many a day; 'Oh! were I prone to cavil - or were I And many a vote and soul and job he not the Devil, Had bid for and carried away from the I should say this was somewhat partial; Since the only wounds that this Warrior gat, Lobby: But there now was a 'call' and accom-Were from God knows whom - and the plish'd debaters Devil knows what !' Appear'd in the glory of hats, boots and He then popp'd his head in a royal Ball, gaiters -Some paid rather more - but all worse And saw all the Haram so hoary; dress'd than Waiters! And who there besides but Corinna de Stael! Turn'd Methodist and Tory ! There was Canning for War, and Whitbread for peace, 'Aye - Aye' - quoth he - ''t is the way And others as suited their fancies; with them all, But all were agreed that our debts should When Wits grow tired of Glory: But thanks to the weakness, that thus could increase Excepting the Demagogue Francis. pervert her. That rogue ! how could Westminster chuse Since the dearest of prizes to me's a dehim again serter: To leaven the virtue of these honest men ! Mem — whenever a sudden conversion I But the Devil remain'd till the Break of want, To send to the school of Philosopher Kant; Day Blush'd upon Sleep and Lord Castle-And whenever I need a critic who can gloss reagh: over Then up half the house got, and Satan got All faults — to send for Mackintosh to write up the Philosopher' up With the drowsy to snore - or the hungry to sup -The Devil wax'd faint at the sight of this But so torpid the power of some speakers, Saint. 't is said, And he thought himself of eating; That they sent even him to his brimstone And began to cram from a plate of ham bed. Wherewith a Page was retreating -Having nothing else to do (for 'the friends' He had seen George Rose - but George each so near Had sold all their souls long before), 210 was grown dumb, And only lied in thought ! As he swallow'd down the bacon he wish'd And the Devil has all the pleasure to come himself a Jew Of hearing him talk as he ought. For the sake of another crime more:

- For Sinning itself is but half a recrea-
- Unless it ensures most infallible Damnation.
- But he turn'd him about, for he heard a sound
- Which even his ear found faults in;
- For whirling above underneath and around —
- Were his fairest Disciples Waltzing ! And quoth he — 'though this be — the
- premier pas to me, Against it I would warn all — 220
- Should I mtroduce these revels among my younger devils,
- They would all turn perfectly carnal:
- And though fond of the flesh yet I never could bear it
- Should quite in my kingdom get the upper hand of Spirit.'
- The Devil (but 't was over) had been vastly glad
 - To see the new Drury Lane,
- And yet he might have been rather mad To see it rebuilt in vain;
- And had he beheld their 'Nourjahad,' Would never have gone again: 230
- And Satan had taken it much amiss, They should fasten such a piece on a friend
- of his Though he knew that his works were some-
- what sad,
- He never had found them quite so bad:
- For this was 'the book' which, of yore, Job, sorely smitten,
- Said, 'Oh that mine enemy, mine enemy had written !'
- Then he found sixty scribblers in separate cells,
- And marvell'd what they were doing,
- For they look'd like little fiends in their own little hells,
- Damnation for others brewing 240 Though their paper seem'd to shrink, from
- the heat of their ink, They were only coolly reviewing!
- And as one of them wrote down the pronoun ' We,'
- 'That Plural' says Satan 'means him and me,
- With the Editor added to make up the three Of an Athanasian Trinity,

- And render the believers in our "Articles" sensible,
- How many must combine to form one Incomprehensible !'

[LOVE AND GOLD]

[First published in the Edition of 1900 from a manuscript in the possession of Mr. Murray]

- I CANNOT talk of Love to thee,
- Though thou art young and free and fair There is a spell thou dost not see, That bids a genuine love despair.

And yet that spell mvites each youth, For thee to sigh, or seem to sigh;

- Makes falsehood wear the garb of truth, And Truth itself appear a lie
- If ever Doubt a place possest In woman's heart, 't were wise in thine: Admit not Love into thy breast, Doubt others' love, nor trust in mine.
- Perchance 't is feign'd, perchance sincere, But false or true thou canst not tell; So much hast thou from all to fear, In that unconquerable spell
- Of all the herd that throng around, Thy simpering or thy sighing train, Come tell me who to thee is bound By Love's or Plutus' heavier chain.
- In some 't is Nature, some 't is Art That bids them worship at thy shrine; But thou deserv'st a better heart, Than they or I can give for thine
- For thee, and such as thee, behold, Is Fortune painted truly — blind ! Who doom'd thee to be bought or sold, Has proved too bounteous to be kind.
- Each day some tempter's crafty suit Would woo thee to a loveless bed: 3c I see thee to the altar's foot A decorated victim led.
- Adieu, dear maid ! I must not speak Whate'er my secret thoughts may be; Though thou art all that man can reck I dare not talk of Love to thea.

ODE TO NAPOLEON BUONA-PARTE

Expende Annibalem -quot libras in duce summo Invenies? JUVENAL, Sat x.

'The Emperor Nepos was acknowledged by the Senate, by the Italians, and by the Pro-vincials of Gaul; his moral virtues, and military talents, were loudly celebrated, and those who derived any private benefit from his government announced in prophetic strains the restoration of public felicity . . . By this shameful abdication, he protracted his life a few years, in a very ambiguous state, between an Emperor and an Exile, till - GIBBON'S Decline and Fall, vol vi. p 220

[Byron, when publishing The Corsair, in January, 1814, announced an apparently quite serious resolution to withdraw, for some years at least, from poetry His letters, of the Feb-ruary and March following, abound in repetitions of the same determination On the morning of the ninth of April, he writes: 'No more rhyme for - or rather from - me. I have taken my leave of that stage, and henceforth will mountebank it no longer.' In the evening, a Gazette Extraordinary announced the abdication of Fontainebleau, and the poet violated his vows next morning, by composing this Ode, which he immediately published, though without his name. His diary says: 'April 10. To-day I have boxed one hour written an Ode to Napoleon Buonaparte copied it - eaten six biscuits - drunk four bottles of soda water, and redde away the rest of my time ']

'T is done — but yesterday a King! And arm'd with Kings to strive ---

And now thou art a nameless thing: So abject - yet alive !

Is this the man of thousand thrones, Who strew'd our earth with hostile bones,

And can he thus survive ? Since he, miscall'd the Morning Star, Nor man nor fiend hath fallen so far.

Ill-minded man ! why scourge thy kind 10 Who bow'd so low the knee?

By gazing on thyself grown blind, Thou taught'st the rest to see.

With might unquestion'd, - power to save, -

Thine only gift hath been the grave, To those that worshipp'd thee; Nor till thy fall could mortals guess Ambition's less than littleness !

Thanks for that lesson - it will teach To after-warriors more $$$ Than high Philosophy can preach, And vainly preach'd before That spell upon the minds of men Breaks never to unite again, That led them to adore Those Pagod things of sabre sway. With fronts of brass and feet of clay. The triumph, and the vanity, The rapture of the strife – The earthquake voice of Victory, 30 To thee the breath of life; The sword, the sceptre, and that sway Which man seem'd made but to opey, Wherewith renown was rife -All quell'd - Dark Spirit! what must be The madness of thy memory ! The Desolator desolate ! The Victor overthrown! The Arbiter of others' fate A Suppliant for his own! Is it some yet imperial hope That with such change can calmly cope? Or dread of death alone? To die a prince - or live a slave -Thy choice is most ignobly brave ! He who of old would rend the oak, Dream'd not of the rebound; Chain'd by the trunk he vainly broke ----Alone - how look'd he round ? Thou, in the sternness of thy strength, ec. An equal deed hast done at length, And darker fate hast found: He fell, the forest prowlers' prey; But thou must eat thy heart away ! The Roman, when his burning heart Was slaked with blood of Rome, Threw down the dagger - dared depart, In savage grandeur, home. He dared depart in utter scorn Of men that such a yoke had borne, 60 Yet left him such a doom ! His only glory was that hour Of self-upheld abandon'd power. The Spaniard, when the lust of sway

Had lost its quickening spell, Cast crowns for rosaries away, An empire for a cell;

40

I O

A strict accountant of his beads, A subtle disputant on creeds, His dotage trifled well: 7° Yet better had he neither known A bigot's shrine, nor despot's throne. But thou — from thy reluctant hand The thunderbolt is wrung — Too late thou leav'st the high command	Then haste thee to thy sullen Isle, And gaze upon the sea; That element may meet thy smile — It ne'er was ruled by thee ! Or trace with thme all idle hand, In loitering mood upon the sand, That Earth is now as free ! That Cormth's pedagogue hath now Transferr'd his by-word to thy brow.	8
To which thy weakness clung; All Evil Spirit as thou art, It is enough to grieve the heart To see thine own unstrung; To think that God's fair world hath been The footstool of a thing so mean; SI And Earth hath spilt her blood for him, Who thus can hoard his own ! And Monarchs bow'd the trembling limb, And thank'd him for a throne !	Thom Timour ! in his captive's cage, What thoughts will there be thine, While brooding in thy prison'd rage ? But one — 'The world was mine !' Unless, hke he of Babylon, All sense is with thy sceptre gone, Life will not long confine That spirit pour'd so widely forth — So long obey'd — so httle worth !	a
Far Freedom ! we may hold thee dear, When thus thy mightest foes their fear In humblest guise have shown Oh, ne'er may tyrant leave behind A brighter name to lure mankind ! 50 Thine evil deeds are writ in gore, Nor written thus in vain — Thy trumphs tell of fame no more, Or deepen every stam	Or, like the thief of fire from heaven, Wilt thou withstand the shock ? And share with him, the unforgiven, His vulture and his rock ! Foredoom'd by God — by man accurst, 140 And that last act, though not thy worst, The very Fiend's arch mock; He in his fall preserved his pride, And, if a mortal, had as proudly died !	٥
If thou hadst died as honour dies, Some new Napoleon might arise, To shame the world agam — But who would soar the solar height, To set in such a starless night? Weigh'd in the balance, hero dust Is vile as vulgar clay; Thy scales, Mortality ! are just To all that pass away:	There was a day — there was an hour, While earth was Gaul's — Gaul thme — When that immeasurable power Unsated to resign, Had been an act of purer fame Than gathers round Marengo's name, And gilded thy decline Through the long twilight of all time, Despite some passing clouds of crime	ic
But yet methought the living great Some higher sparks should ammate, To dazzle and dismay: Nor deem'd Contempt could thus make mirth Of these, the Conquerors of the earth And she, proud Austria's mournful flower, Thy still imperial bride; 10 How bears her breast the torturing hour? Still clings she to thy side? Must she too bend, must she too share Thy late repentance, long despair, Thou throneless Homicide? If still she loves thee, hoard that gem; 'T is worth thy vanish'd diadem 1	But thou forsooth must be a king, And don the purple vest, — As if that foolish robe could wring Remembrance from thy breast Where is that faded garment? where The gewgaws thou wert fond to wear, The star — the string — the crest? Vain froward child of empire! say, Are all thy playthings snatch'd away? Where may the wearied eye repose, When gazing on the Great; Where neither guilty glory glows, Nor despicable state?	ic.

Yes-one-the first-the last-the best-The Cincinnatus of the West, Whom envy dared not hate,

Bequeath'd the name of Washington,

170 To make man blush there was but one ! April 10. 1814.

STANZAS FOR MUSIC

[For the origin of these stanzas see Letters, May 4, 1814.]

- I SPEAK not, I trace not, I breathe not thy name.
- There is grief in the sound, there is guilt in the fame:
- But the tear which now burns on my cheek may impart
- The deep thoughts that dwell in that silence of heart

Too brief for our passion, too long for our peace

Were those hours - can their joy or their bitterness cease?

We repent, we abjure, we will break from our chain, -

We will part, - we will fly to - unite it again!

- Oh ! thine be the gladness, and mine be the guilt!
- Forgive me, adored one ! forsake, if thou wilt;
- But the heart which is thine shall expire undebased.
- And man shall not break it whatever thou mayst.
- And stern to the haughty, but humble to thee,

This soul, in its bitterest blackness, shall be; And our days seem as swift, and our moments more sweet,

With thee by my side, than with worlds at our feet.

One sigh of thy sorrow, one look of thy love, Shall turn me or fix, shall reward or reprove;

- And the heartless may wonder at all I resign —
- Thy lip shall reply, not to them, but to mine. May 4, 1814. [First published, 1830]

ADDRESS INTENDED TO BE RECITED AT THE CALEDO-NIAN MEETING

[The 'Caledonian Meeting' was the annual gathering of subscribers to the Highland Society which undertook to support the Caledonian Asylum for the education and support of children of Scottish sailors and soldiers.]

- WHO hath not glow'd above the page where fame
- Hath fix'd high Caledon's unconquer'd name:
- The mountain-land which spurn'd the Roman chain.
- And baffled back the fiery-crested Dane,

Whose bright claymore and hardihood of hand

- No foe could tame no tyrant could command?
- That race is gone but still their children breathe.
- And glory crowns them with redoubled wreath:
- O'er Gael and Saxon mingling banners shine,

And, England ! add their stubborn strength to thme.

- The blood which flow'd with Wallace flows as free.
- But now 't is only shed for fame and thee ! Oh ' pass not by the northern veteran's claim,
- But give support the world hath given him fame !

The humbler ranks, the lowly brave, who bled

- While cheerly following where the mighty led.
- Who sleep beneath the undistinguish'd sod Where happier comrades in their triumph trod,

To us bequeath -'t is all their fate allows -The sireless offspring and the lonely spouse. She on high Albyn's dusky hills may raise The tearful eve in melancholy gaze, 22 Or view, while shadowy auguries disclose The Highland seer's anticipated woes,

The bleeding phantom of each martial form Dim in the cloud, or darkling in the storm; While sad, she chants the solitary song,

The soft lament for him who tarries long ---For him, whose distant relics vainly crave The Coronach's wild requiem to the brave!

'T is Heaven — not man — must charm	What can his vaulted gallery now dis-away the woe 31	close ?
Which bursts when Nature's feelings newly flow;	A garden with all flowers — except the rose; —
Yet tenderness and time may rob the tear	A fount that only wants its living stream;
Of half its bitterness for one so dear;	A night, with every star, save Dian's beam.
A nation's gratitude perchance may spread	Lost to our eyes the present forms shall
A thornless pillow for the widow'd head;	be,
May lighten well her heart's maternal care,	That turn from tracing them to dream of
And wean from penury the soldier's heir.	thee;
	And more on that recall'd resemblance
May, 1814. [First published, 1830.]	pause,
	Than all he shall not force on our applause.
CONDOL LEODIL ADDDECC	Long may thy yet meridian lustre shine,
CONDOLATORY ADDRESS	With all that Virtue asks of Homage
TO CARALL COUNTRES OF IFREEV ON THE	thme.
TO SARAH COUNTESS OF JERSEY, ON THE PRINCE REGENT'S RETURNING HER	The symmetry of youth, the grace of mien
PICTURE TO MRS. MEE	The eye that gladdens, and the brow se-
TICTORE TO MRS. MEE	rene;
Mrs Mee, a fashionable miniature painter	The glossy darkness of that clustering hair of the day, was much employed by the Prince	Which shades, yet shows that forehead in making portraits for him]	more than fair !
WHEN the vain triumph of the imperial lord,	Each glance that wins us, and the life that
Whom servile Rome obey'd, and yet ab-	throws
horr'd.	A spell which will not let our looks repose
Gave to the vulgar gaze each glorious bust	But turn to gaze again, and find anew 4
That left a likeness of the brave or just;	Some charm that well rewards another
What most admired each scrutinizing eye	view
Of all that deck'd that passing pageautry?	These are not lessen'd, these are still as
What spread from face to face that won-	bright,
dering air ?	Albert too dazzling for a dotard's sight;
The thought of Brutus - for his was not	And those must wait till ev'ry charm i
there !	gone,
That absence proved his worth, - that ab-	To please the paltry heart that please sence fix'd	none: —
His memory on the longing mind, unmix'd;	That dull, cold sensualist, whose sickly eye
And more decreed his glory to endure, 11	In envious dumness pass'd thy portrait by;
Than all a gold Colossus could secure.	Who rack'd his little spirit to combine 4
If thus, fair Jersey, our desiring gaze	Its hate of Freedom's lovelmess, and thine.
Search for thy form, in vain and mute	May 29, 1814.
amaze,
Amidst those pictured charms, whose love-
liness,	ELEGIAC STANZAS ON THI
Bright though they be, thine own had ren-	DEATH OF SIR PETER PARKER
der'd less;	BART.
If he, that vain old man, whom truth admits
Heir of his father's crown and of his wits,	THERE is a tear for all that die,

If his corrupted eye and wither'd heart Could with thy gentle image bear depart; That tasteless shame be hw, and ours the

To gaze on Beauty's band without its chief: Yet comfort still one selfish thought imparts, We lose the portrait, but preserve our bearts.

- s
- s
- s

E ζ,

A mourner o'er the humblest grave;

But nations swell the funeral cry, And Trumph weeps above the brave

For them is Sorrow's purest sigh

O'er Ocean's heaving bosom sent: In vain their bones unburied lie,

All earth becomes their monument !

A tomb is theirs on every page, An epitaph on every torgue: The present hours, the future age, For them bewal, to them belong. For them the voice of festal mirth Grows hush'd, their name the only sound; While deep Remembrance pours to Worth The goblet's tributary round. A theme to crowds that knew them not, Lamented by admiring foes, Who would not share their glorious lot? Who would not die the death they chose? And, gallant Parker ! thus enshrined Thy life, thy fall, thy fame shall be; And early valour, glowing, find A model in thy memory. But there are breasts that bleed with thee In woe, that glory cannot quell; And shuddering hear of victory, Where one so dear, so dauntless, fell. Where shall they turn to mourn thee less? When cease to hear thy cherish'd name? Time cannot teach forgetfulness, Who ne'er gave cause to mourn before. October 7, 1814. JULIAN [A FRAGMENT] [First published in the Edition of 1900 from a manuscript in the possession of Mr Murray.] THE Night came on the Waters — all was rest On Earth — but Rage on Ocean's troubled Heart. The Waves arose and roll'd beneath the blast; The Salors gazed upon their shiver'd Mast. In that dark Hour a long loud gather'd cry From out the billows pierced the sable sky, And borne o'er breakers reach'd the craggy shore — The Sea roars on — that Cry is heard no more.	There is no vestige, in the Dawning light, Of those that shrick'd thro' shadows of the Night. The Bark — the Crew — the very Wreck is gone, Marr'd — mutilated — traceless — all save one. In him there still is Life, the Wave that dash'd On shore the plank to which his form was lash'd, Return'd unheeding of its helpless Prey — The lone survivor of that Yesterday — The one of Many whom the withering Gale Hath left unpunish'd to record their Tale. But who shall hear it ? on that barren Sand None comes to stretch the hospitable hand. That shore reveals no print of human foot, Nor e'en the pawing of the wilder Brute; And inggard vegetation will not smile, All sunless on that solitary Isle The naked Stranger rose, and wrung his hair, And that first moment pass'd in silent prayer. Alas ! the sound — he sunk into Despair — He was on Earth — but what was Earth to him, Houseless and homeless — bare both breast and limb ? Cut off from all but Memory he curst
From out the billows pierced the sable sky, And borne o'er breakers reach'd the craggy shore —	full
The Sea roars on — that Cry is heard no more.

- That thou shouldst from Thee dash the Draught of Life,
- So late escaped the elemental strife !
- Rise tho' these shores few aids to Life supply,
- Look upon me, and know thou shalt not die.

Thou gazest in mute wonder — more may be

- Thy marvel when thou knowest mine and me.
- But come The bark that bears us hence shall find 50
- Her Haven, soon, despite the warning Wind.'
- He raised young Julian from the sand, and such
- Strange power of healing dwelt within the touch,
- That his weak limbs grew light with freshen'd Power,
- As he had slept not fainted in that hour,
- And woke from Slumber as the Birds awake,
- Recall'd at morning from the branchèd brake,
- When the day's promise heralds early Spring,
- And Heaven unfolded woos their soaring wing:

So Julian felt, and gazed upon his Guide,

With honest Wonder what might next betide. 61

December 12, 1814.

TO BELSHAZZAR

BELSHAZZAR ! from the banquet turn, Nor in thy sensual fulness fall;

Behold ' while yet before thee burn The graven words, the glowing wall

Many a despot men miscall Crown'd and anointed from on high;

- But thou, the weakest, worst of all Is it not written, thou must die?
- Go! dash the roses from thy brow Grey hairs but poorly wreathe with them.

Youth's garlands misbecome thee now, More than thy very diadem,

- Where thou hast tarnish'd every gem: Then throw the worthless bauble by,
- Which, worn by thee, ev'n slaves contenn, And learn like better men to die !

Oh! early in the balance weigh'd,

And ever light of word and worth, Whose soul expired ere youth decay'd,

- And left thee but a mass of earth. To see thee moves the scorner's murth:
- But tears in Hope's averted eye
- Lament that even thou hadst birth Unfit to govern, live, or die.
 - February 12, 1815. [First published, 1831.]

STANZAS FOR MUSIC

O lachrymarum fons, tenero sacros Ducentium ortus ex animo, quater Felix' in imo qui scatentem Pectore te, pia Nympha, sensit Grax's Poemata

[These verses were given by Byron to Mr. Power of the Strand, who published them with music by Sir John Stevenson. In a letter (March S, 1815) he states that 'the death of poor Dorset' set him into the mood for writing them. In another letter (March, 1816) he calls them 'the truest, though the most melancholy,' he ever wrote.]

- THERE'S not a joy the world can give like that it takes away,
- When the glow of early thought declines in feeling's dull decay;
- 'T is not on youth's smooth cheek the blush alone, which fades so fast,
- But the tender bloom of heart 1s gone, ere youth itself be past.
- Then the few whose spirits float above the wreck of happiness
- Are driven o'er the shoals of guilt, or ocean of excess:
- The magnet of their course is gone, or only points in vain
- The shore to which their shiver'd sail shall never stretch again
- Then the mortal coldness of the soul like death itself comes down;
- It cannot feel for others' woes, it dare not dream its own;
- That heavy chill has frozen o'er the fountam of our tears,
- And though the eye may sparkle still, 't is where the ice appears
- Though wit may flash from fluent lips, and mirth distract the breast,
- Through midnight hours that yield no more their former hope of rest;

She abandons me now — but the page of her story, The brightest or blackest, is fill'd with my fame I have warr'd with a world which van-
The brightest or blackest, is fill'd with my fame
I have warr'd with a world which vanquish'd me only When the meteor of conquest allured me too far;
I have coped with the nations which dread me thus lonely, The last single Captive to millions in war.
Farewell to thee, France ! when thy diadem crown'd me,
I made thee the gem and the wonder of earth, —
But thy weakness decrees I should leave as I found thee, Decay'd in thy glory, and sunk in thy worth. Oh! for the veteran hearts that were wasted In strife with the storm, when their battles were won —
Then the Eagle, whose gaze in that mo- ment was blasted,
Had still soar'd with eyes fix'd on victory's sun !
Farewell to thee, France ! — but when Lib- erty rallies Once more m thy regions, remember me then, —
The violet still grows in the depth of thy valleys; Though wither'd, thy tear will unfold it again. Yet, yet, I may baffle the hosts that sur-
And yet may thy heart leap awake to my voice;
There are links which must break in the chain that has bound us, Then turn thee and call on the Chief of thy choice. July 25, 1815.
FROM THE FRENCH
MUST thou go, my glorious Chief, Sever'd from thy faithful few ? Who can tell thy warrior's grief, Maddening o'er that long adieu ?

Woman's love, and friendship's zeal, Dear as both have been to me — What are they to all I feel, With a soldier's faith for thee ? Idol of the soldier's soul ! First in fight, but mightnest now: Many could a world control; Thee alone no doom can bow By thy side for years I dared Death; and envied those who fell, When their dying shout was heard, Blessing him they served so well. Would that I were cold with those, Since this hour I live to see; When the doubts of coward foes Scarce dare trust a man with thee, 20 Dreading each should set thee free ! Oh ! although in dungeons pent,	A crimson cloud it spreads and glows, But shall return to whence it iose; When 't is full 't will burst asunder — Never yet was heard such thunder As then shall shake the world with wonder, Never yet was seen such hightning As o'er heaven shall then be bright'ning ! Like the Wornwood Star foretold By the sainted Seer of old, Show'ring down a fiery flood, 25 Turning rivers into blood. The Chief has fallen, but not by you, Vanquishers of Waterloo ! When the soldier citizen Sway'd not o'er his fellow-men, Save in deeds that led them on Where Glory smiled on Freedom's son — Who, of all the despots banded, With that youthful chief competed ?
All their chains were light to me,	Who could boast o'er France defeated,
Gazing on thy soul unbent.	Till lone Tyranny commanded? 3'
Would the sycophants of him Now so deaf to duty's prayer, Were his borrow'd glories dum, In his pating dontrops shore 2	Till, goaded by ambition's sting, The Hero sunk into the King? Then he fell: — so perish all Who would men by man enthrall!
In his native darkness share? Were that world this hour his own,	And thou, too, of the snow-white plume!
All thou calmly dost resign, 30	Whose realm refused thee ev'n a tomb;
Could he purchase with that throne	Better hadst thou still been leading
Hearts like those which still are thine?	France o'er hosts of hirelings bleeding, Than sold thyself to death and shame 40
My chief, my king, my friend, adieu !	For a meanly royal name;
Never did I droop before;	Such as he of Naples wears,
Never to my sovereign sue,	Who thy blood-bought title bears
As his foes I now implore:	Little didst thou deem, when dashing
All I ask is to divide	On thy war-horse through the ranks Like a stream which burst its banks,
Every peril he must brave, Shawng by the hero's side	While helmets cleft, and sabres clashing,
Sharing by the hero's side His fall, his exile, and his grave. 40	Shone and shiver'd fast around thee —
[First published, 1816.]	Of the fate at last which found thee:
fruze huburanea, roro.1	Was that haughty plume laid low 50
	By a slave's dishonest blow?
ODE FROM THE FRENCH	Once — as the Moon sways o'er the tide,
	It roll'd m air, the warrior's guide;
WE do not curse thee, Waterloo!	Through the smoke-created night
Though Freedom's blood thy plain bedew;	Of the black and sulphurous fight, The soldier raised his seeking eve
These theman shad but is not suply	I I DE SOLDET TRISED DIS SEEKING EVE

Thore 't was shed, but is not sunk — Rising from each gory trunk, Like the water-spout from ocean, With a strong and growing motion — It soars, and mingles in the air, With that of lost Labedoyère, With that of him whose honour'd grave Contains the 'bravest of the brave.' 10

The soldier raised his seeking eye To catch that crest's ascendency, — And, as it onward rolling rose, So moved his heart upon our foes There, where death's brief pang was quickest, And the battle's wreck lay thickest, 6 Strew'd beneath the advancing banner Of the eagle's burning crest

186 MISCELLAREOUS I CEMS
 (There with thunder-clouds to fan her Who could then her wing arrest — Victory beaming from her breast?) — While the broken line enlarging Fell, or fled along the plam; There be sure was Murat charging ! There he ne'er shall charge again ! 70 O'er glories gone the invaders march, Weeps Triumph o'er each levell'd arch — But let Freedom rejoice, With her heart in her voice; But, her hand on her sword, Doubly shall she be adored; France hath twice too well been taught 	The waves lie still and gleaming, And the lull'd winds seem dreaming And the midnight moon is weaving Her bright chain o'er the deep; Whose breast is gently heaving, As an infant's asleep: So the spirit bows before thee, To listen and adore thee; With a full but soft emotion, Lake the swell of Summer's ocean. March 28 [1816].
The 'moral lesson' dearly bought — Her safety sits not on a throne, With Capet or Napoleon! 80	ON THE STAR OF 'THE LEGION OF HONOUR'
But in equal rights and laws, Hearts and hands in one great cause —	FROM THE FRENCH
Freedom, such as God hath given Unto all beneath his heaven, With their breath, and from their birth, Though Guilt would sweep it from the earth; With a fierce and lavish hand Scattering nations' wealth like sand; Bawiing actors' block bloc meters	STAR of the brave ! whose beam hath shed Such glory o'er the quick and dead Thou radiant and adored deceit, Which millions rush'd in arms to greet ! Wild meteor of immortal birth ! Why rise in Heaven to set on Earth ?
Pouring nations' blood like water, In imperial seas of slaughter! 90	Souls of slain heroes form'd thy rays; Eternity flash'd through thy blaze;
But the heart and the mind, And the voice of mankind, Shall arise in communion — And who shall resist that proud union? The time is past when swords subdued —	The music of thy martial sphere Was fame on high and honour here; And thy light broke on human eyes, Like a volcano of the skies
Man may die — the soul 's renew'd: Even in this low world of care Freedom ne'er should want an heir; Millons breathe but to inherit Her forever bounding spirit: 100 When once more her hosts assemble, Tyrants shall believe and tremble —	Like lava roll'd thy stream of blood, And swept down empires with its flood; Earth rock'd beneath thee to her base, As thou didst lighten through all space; And the shorn Sun grew dim m air, And set while thou wert dwelling there
Smile they at this idle threat? Crimson tears will follow yet. [First published, 1816.]	Before thee rose, and with thee grew, A rainbow of the loveliest hue 26 Of three bright colours, each divine, And fit for that celestial sign; For Freedom's hand had blended them,
STANZAS FOR MUSIC THERE be none of Beauty's daughters With a magic like thee; And like music on the waters Is thy sweet voice to me: When, as if its sound were causing The observed excercing proving	Like tints in an immortal gem. One tint was of the sunbeam's dyes; One, the blue depth of Seraph's eyes; One, the pure Spirit's veil of white Had robed in radiance of its light: The three so mingled did beseem
The charmed ocean's pausing,	The texture of a heavenly dream. 3°

Star of the brave ! thy ray is pale, And darkness must again prevail ! But, oh thou Rambow of the free ! Our tears and blood must flow for thee. When thy bright promise fades away, Our life is but a load of clay.

And Freedom hallows with her tread The sılent cities of the dead; For beautiful in death are they Who proudly fall in her array; And soon, oh Goddess ! may we be For evermore with them or thee !

[First published, 1816.]

DARKNESS

[Both Jeffrey and Walter Scott animadvert on the intense gloom of this poem, which was originally called The Dream Kolbing has traced many of the images to the novel The Last Man, or Omegarus and Syderia, published in 1806]

I HAD a dream, which was not all a dream The bright sun was extinguish'd, and the stars

Did wander darkling in the eternal space, Rayless, and pathless, and the icy earth

Swung blind and blackening in the moonless air; Moin came and went — and came, and brought no day,

And men forgot their passions in the dread Of this their desolation; and all hearts

Were chill'd into a selfish prayer for light.

And they did live by watch fires — and the thrones, 10

The palaces of crowned kings - the huts,

The habitations of all things which dwell,

Were burnt for beacons; cities were consumed,

And men were gather'd round their blazing homes

To look once more into each other's face

Happy were those who dwelt within the eye

Of the volcanos, and their mountain-torch: A fearful hope was all the world contain'd;

- Forests were set on fire but hour by hour They fell and faded — and the crackling
- trunks 20 Extinguish'd with a crash — and all was
- black.

The brows of men by the despairing light

Wore an unearthly aspect, as by fits

The flashes fell upon them; some lay down And hid their eyes and wept; and some did rest

- Their chins upon their clenched hands, and smiled;
- And others hurried to and fro, and fed
- Their funeral piles with fuel, and look'd up

With mad disquietude on the dull sky, ²⁹ The pall of a past world; and then again

With curses cast them down upon the dust, And gnash'd their teeth and howl'd. The

- wild birds shriek'd,
- And, terrified, did flutter on the ground,
- And flap their useless wings; the wildest brutes
- Came tame and tremulous; and vipers crawl'd
- And twined themselves among the multitude,
- Hissing, but stingless they were slain for food.
- And War, which for a moment was no more,
- Did glut himself agam; a meal was bought

With blood, and each sate sullenly apart 40

- Gorging himself in gloom. No love was left;
- All earth was but one thought and that was death,

Immediate and inglorious; and the pang

Of famme fed upon all entrails - men

Died, and their bones were tombless as their flesh;

The meagre by the meagre were devour'd,

- Even dogs assail'd their masters, all save one,
- And he was faithful to a corse, and kept
- The birds and beasts and famish'd men at bay,
- Till hunger clung them, or the dropping dead 50
- Lured their lank jaws Himself sought out no food,
- But with a piteous and perpetual moan,
- And a quick desolate cry, licking the hand Which answer'd not with a caress—he died
- The crowd was famish'd by degrees; but two

Of an enormous city did survive,

And they were enemies. They met beside The dying embers of an altar-place,

Where had been heap'd a mass of holy fects of his style, and it ought to be rememthings For an unholy usage; they raked up, 60 And shivering scraped with their cold skeleton hands The feeble ashes, and their feeble breath blazed The comet of a season, and I saw and died -On that neglected turf and quiet stone, With name no clearer than the names unknown, void, might be less task'd The rivers, lakes, and ocean all stood still, tury; depths; know Ships sailorless lay rotting on the sea, And their masts fell down piecemeal; as so; they dropp'd He died before my day of Sextonship, They slept on the abyss without a surge ---And I had not the digging of this grave.' The waves were dead; the tides were in rip their grave, The veil of Immortality, and crave The Moon, their mistress, had expired be-I know not what of honour and of light fore; The winds were wither'd in the stagnant So soon, and so successless ? As I said, aır. The Architect of all on which we tread, 20 And the clouds perish'd; Darkness had no need Of aid from them - She was the Universe. DIODATI, July, 1816. thought, Were it not that all life must end in one, CHURCHILL'S GRAVE caught A FACT LITERALLY RENDERED Thus spoke he, - 'I believe the man of whom [Charles Churchill (1731-1764), the satirical You wot, who lies in this selected tomb, Was a most famous writer in his day, their way e'er pleased I shook

Some certain coins of silver, which as 't were Perforce I gave this man, though I could spare

Blew for a little life, and made a flame Which was a mockery. Then they lifted up Their eyes as it grew lighter, and beheld Each other's aspects - saw, and shriek'd,

Even of their mutual hideousness they died, Unknowing who he was upon whose brow Famine had written Fiend The world was

The populous and the powerful was a lump, Seasonless, herbless, treeless, manless, life-

A lump of death — a chaos of hard clay

And nothing sturr'd within their silent poet. On the sheet containing the original draft of these lines, Lord Byron has written. 'The following poem (as most that I have endeavoured to write) is founded on a fact, and this detail is an attempt at a serious imitation of the style of a great poet - its beauties and its defects · I say, the style; for the thoughts I claim as my own In this. if there be anything ridiculous, let it be attributed to me, at least as much as to Mr. Wordsworth, of whom there can exist few greater admirers than myself. I have blended what I would deem to be the beauties as well as debered, that, in such things, whether there be praise or dispraise, there is always what is called a compliment, however unintentional ']

- I STOOD beside the grave of him who
- The humblest of all sepulchres, and gazed With not the less of sorrow and of awe

- Which lay unread around it. And I ask'd The gardener of that ground, why it
- That for this plant strangers his memory
 - Through the thick deaths of half a cen-
- And thus he answer'd 'Well, I do not
- Why frequent travellers turn to pilgrims
- And is this all? I thought, and do we
- Through unborn ages, to endure this blight?
- For Earth 15 but a tomb-stone, did essay

To extricate remembrance from the clay,

- Whose minglings might confuse a Newton's
- Of which we are but dreamers; as he
- As 't were the twilight of a former Sun,

- And therefore travellers step from out
- To pay him honour, and myself what-
 - Your honour pleases.' Then most

From out my pocket's avaricious nook

So much but inconveniently. Ye smile, I see ye, ye profane ones ! all the while, Because my homely phrase the truth would	And in thy Sılence vas his Sentence, And m his Soul a vam repentance, And evil dread so ill dissembled, tell.	That in his hand the lightnings trembled
You are the fools, not $I - for I did dwell With a deep thought, and with a soften'd$	Thy Godlike crime was to be kind, eye, 40	To render with thy precepts less The sum of human wretchedness,
On that Old Sexton's natural homily, In which there was Obscurity and Fame, —	And strengthen Man with his own mind;
The Glory and the Nothing of a Name.	But baffled as thou wert from high,
DIODATI, 1816.	In the endurance, and repulse
	Of thine impenetrable Spirit,
PROMETHEUS '	Which Earth and Heaven could not con-
[There is something in the character of Pro-	A mighty lesson we inherit:
metheus which early and strongly attracted	Thou art a symbol and a sign
Byron — as it did Shelley. Byron's first Eng-	To Mortals of their fate and force;
lish exercise at Harrow was a paraphrase from a chorus of the Prometheus Vinctus, and	Like thee, Man is in part divine, A troubled stream from a pure source;
there are many allusions to the god in his later	And Man in portions can foresee works. Indeed his mind wavered almost to the end between the heroic defiance of Prometheus	His own funereal destiny, 50
and the cynical defiance of Don Juan.]	His wretchedness, and his resistance,
TITAN ! to whose unmortal eyes	And his sad unallied existence. To which his Spirit may oppose
The sufferings of mortality,	Itself — and equal to all woes,
Seen in their sad reality,	And a firm will, and a deep sense,
Were not as things that gods despise; What was thy pity's recompense?	Which even in torture can descry Its own concenter'd recompense,
A silent suffering, and intense;	Triumphant where it dares defy,
The rock, the vulture, and the chain,	And making Death a Victory.
All that the proud can feel of pain,	DIODATI, July, 1816.
The agony they do not show, The suffocating sense of woe, 10
Which speaks but in its loneliness,	A FRAGMENT
And then is jealous lest the sky	COULD I remount the river of my years
Should have a listener, nor will sigh Until its voice is echoless.	To the first fountain of our smiles and tears,
Titan! to thee the strife was given	I would not trace again the stream of hours Between their outworn banks of wither'd
Between the suffering and the will, Which torture where they cannot kill;	flowers,
And the inexorable Heaven,	But bid it flow as now — until it glides
And the deaf tyranny of Fate,	Into the number of the nameless tides.
The ruling principle of Hate, 20 Which for its pleasure doth create	What is this Death? - a quiet of the
The things it may annihilate,	heart?
Refused thee even the boon to die:	The whole of that of which we are a part? For life is but a vision — what I see
The wretched gift eternity Was thine — and thou hast borne it well	Of all which lives, alone is life to me; 10
All that the Thunderer wrung from thee	And being so — the absent are the dead,
Was but the menace which flung back	Who haunt us from tranquillity, and spread
On him the torments of thy rack;	A dreary shroud around us, and invest With sad remembrancers our hours of
The fate thou didst so well foresee, But would not to appease him tell; 30

The absent are the dead — for they are cold,

And ne'er can be what once we did behold; And they are changed, and cheerless, — or if yet

The unforgotten do not all forget, Since thus divided — equal must it be If the deep barrier be of earth or sea; 20 It may be both — but one day end it must In the dark union of insensate dust.

The under-earth inhabitants — are they But mingled millions decomposed to clay? The ashes of a thousand ages spread Wherever man has trodden or shall tread? Or do they in their silent cities dwell Each in his incommunicative cell?

Or have they their own language? and a sense

Of breathless being ? - darken'd and in-

As midnight in her solitude ? — O Earth ! Where are the past ? — and wherefore had they birth ?

The dead are thy inheritors — and we But bubbles on thy surface; and the key Of thy profundity is in the grave, The ebon portal of thy peopled cave, Where I would walk in spirit, and behold Our elements resolved to things untold,

And fathom hidden wonders, and explore The essence of great bosoms now no more.

SONNET TO LAKE LEMAN

- ROUSSEAU, Voltaire, our Gibbon, and De Stael —
 - Leman ! these names are worthy of thy shore,
 - Thy shore of names like these !- Wert thou no more,
- Their memory thy remembrance would recall.

To them thy banks were lovely as to all,

But they have made them lovelier, for the lore

Of mighty minds doth hallow in the core Of human hearts the ruin of a wall

- Where dwelt the wise and wondrous; but by thee,
- How much more, Lake of Beauty ! do we feel,

In sweetly gliding o'er thy crystal sea,

The wild glow of that not ungentle zeal, Which of the heirs of immortality

Is proud, and makes the breath of glory real!

DIODATI, July, 1816. [First published with the Prisoner of Chillon, in 1816.]

MONODY ON THE DEATH OF THE RIGHT HON. R. B. SHERI-DAN

SPOKEN AT DRURY-LANE THEATRE

[Mr. Sheridan died the 7th of July, 1816, and this monody was written at Diodati on the 17th, at the request of Mr. Douglas Kınnaırd. 'I did as well as I could,' says Lord Byron, 'but where I have not my choice, I pretend to answer for nothing.' (Letter to Murray, September 29, 1816.) For Byron's admiration of Sheridan, see Letters, passim.]

WHEN the last sunshine of expiring day In summer's twilight weeps itself away, Who hath not felt the softness of the hour Sink on the heart, as dew along the flower? With a pure feeling which absorbs and awes

While Nature makes that melancholy pause, Her breathing moment on the bridge where Time

- Of light and darkness forms an arch sublime,
- Who hath not shared that calm so still and deep,
- The voiceless thought which would not speak but weep, 10

A holy concord — and a bright regret,

A glorious sympathy with suns that set? 'T is not harsh sorrow — but a tenderer woe, Nameless, but dear to gentle hearts below, Felt without bitterness — but full and clear, A sweet dejection — a transparent tear, Unmix'd with worldly grief or selfish stain, Shed without shame and secret without pam.

Even as the tenderness that hour instils When Summer's day declines along the hills, 20

So feels the fulness of our heart and eyes When all of Genius which can perish dies. A mighty Spirit is eclipsed — a Power

Hath pass'd from day to darkness — to whose hour

Of light no likeness is bequeath'd - no name,	Men who exult when minds of heavenly
Focus at once of all the rays of Fame ! The flash of Wit, the bright Intelligence,	Jar in the music which was born their
The beam of Song, the blaze of Eloquence,	Still let them pause — ah ! little do they
Set with their Sun, but still have left be- hund 29	know That what to them seem'd Vice might be
The enduring produce of immortal Mind; Fruits of a genial morn, and glorious noon,	but Woe Hard is his fate on whom the public gaze
A deathless part of him who died too soon	Is fix'd for ever to detract or praise; Repose denies her requiem to his name,
But small that portion of the wondrous	And Folly loves the martyrdom of Fame.
whole, These sparkling segments of that circling	The secret enemy whose sleepless eye Stands sertinel, accuser, judge, and spy; 70
which all embraced — and lighten'd over	The foe, the fool, the jealous, and the vain, The envious who but breathe in others'
all, To cheer — to pierce — to please — or to	pam — Behold the host! delighting to deprave, appal. From the charm'd council to the festive	Who track the steps of Glory to the grave, Watch every fault that daring Genus owes board, Of human feelings the unbounded lord;	Half to the ardour which its birth be- stows,
In whose acclaim the loftnest voices vied,	Distort the truth, accumulate the he,
The praised — the proud — who made his praise their pride. 40	And pile the Pyramid of Calumny ' These are his portion — but if join'd to
When the loud cry of trampled Hindostan Arose to Heaven in her appeal from man,	these Gaunt Poverty should league with deep
His was the thunder, his the avenging rod, The wrath, the delegated voice of God,	Disease, 80 If the high Spirit must forget to soar,
Which shock the nations through his lips and blazed	And stoop to strive with Misery at the door,
Till vanquish'd senates trembled as they praised.	To soothe Indignity — and face to face Meet sordid Rage — and wrestle with Dis-
And here, oh ! here, where yet all young	grace, To find in Hope but the renew'd caress,
and warm	The serpent-fold of further Faithlessness
The gay creations of his spirit charm, The matchless dialogue, the deathless wit,	If such may be the Ills which men as- sail,
Which knew not what it was to intermit; The glowing portraits, fresh from life, that	What marvel if at last the mightness fail? Breasts to whom all the strength of feel-
bring 5 ¹ Home to our hearts the truth from which	ing given Bear hearts electric — charged with fire
they spring; These wondrous beings of his Fancy, wrought	from Heaven, Black with the rude collision, inly torn,
To fulness by the fiat of his thought, Here in their first abode you still may	By clouds surrounded, and on whirlwinds borne,
meet, Bright with the hues of his Promethean	Driven o'er the lowering atmosphere that nurst
heat; A halo of the light of other days,	Thoughts which have turn'd to thunder — scorch — and burst.
Which still the splendour of its orb betrays.	But far from us and from our minic
But should there be to whom the fatal	scene blight Of failing Wisdom yields a base delight, 60	Such things should be — if such have ever been;

To give the tribute Glory need not ask, To mourn the vanish'd beam and add our mite Of praise in payment of a long delight. 100 Ye Orators ! whom yet our councils yield, Mourn for the veteran Hero of your field ! The worthy rival of the wondrous Three, Whose words were sparks of Immortality! Ye Bards ! to whom the Drama's Muse is dear, He was your Master - emulate him here ! Ye men of wit and social eloquence ! He was your brother - bear his ashes hence! While Powers of mind almost of boundless range, Complete in kind — as various in their change, 110 While Eloquence — Wit — Poesy — and Mirth, That humbler Harmonist of care on Earth, Survive within our souls - while lives our sense Of pride in Merit's proud pre-eminence, Long shall we seek his likeness - long in vam. And turn to all of him which may remain, Sighing that Nature form'd but one such man, And broke the die — in moulding Sheridan. A VERY MOURNFUL BALLAD ON THE SIEGE AND CONQUEST OF AL-HAMA

Ours be the gentler wish, the kinder task,

Which, in the Arabic language, is to the following purport

The effect of the original ballad — which existed both in Spanish and Arabic — was such, that it was forbidden to be sung by the Moors, on pain of death, within Granada. [The Spanish of this ballad, which was originally printed side by side with the translation, is not known to exist elsewhere in its integrity. According to Mr. E. H. Coleridge it is 'a cento of three or more ballads which are included in the Guerras Civiles de Granada of Gines Perez de Hita, published at Saragossa in 1595.']

THE Moorish King rides up and down Through Granada's royal town; From Elvira's gates to those Of Bivarambla on he goes. Woe is me, Alhama! Letters to the monarch tell How Alhama's city fell: In the fire the scroll he threw, And the messenger he slew. Woe is me, Alhama! re

He quits his mule, and mounts his horse, And through the street directs his course; Through the street of Zacatin To the Alhambra spurring m. Woe is me, Alhama !

When the Alhambra walls he gain'd, On the moment he ordain'd That the trumpet straight should sound With the silver clarion round Woe is me, Alhama! 200

And when the hollow drums of war Beat the loud alarm afar, That the Moors of town and plain Might answer to the martial strain, Woe is me, Alhama!

Then the Moors, by this aware That bloody Mars recall'd them there, One by one, and two by two, To a mighty squadron grew. Woe is me, Alhama ! 30

Out then spake an aged Moor In these words the king before:

'Wherefore call on us, O King? What may mean this gathering?' Woe is me, Alhama!

'Friends ! ye have, alas ! to know Of a most disastrous blow, That the Christians, stern and bold, Have obtain'd Alhama's hold.' Woe is me, Alhama ! 40

Out then spake old Alfaqui, With his beard so white to see: 'Good King ! thou art justly served, Good King ! this thou hast deserved. Woe is me, Alhama !

'By thee were slain, in evil hour, The Abencerrage, Granada's flower; And strangers were received by thee. Of Cordova the Chivalry.

Woe is me, Alhama ! 50

And for this, O King ! is sent On thee a double chastisement. Thee and thine, thy crown and realm, One last wreck shall overwhelm Woe is me, Alhama !

'He who holds no laws in awe, He must perish by the law; And Granada must be won, And thyself with her undone.' Woe is me, Alhama! 60

Fire flash'd from out the old Moor's eyes; The Monarch's wrath began to rise, Because he answer'd, and because He spake exceeding well of laws. Woe is me, Alhama !

'There is no law to say such things As may disgust the ear of kings !'— Thus, snorting with his choler, said The Moorish King, and doom'd him dead. Woe is me, Alhama ! 70

Moor Alfaqui! Moor Alfaqui ' Though thy beard so hoary be, The King hath sent to have thee seized, For Alhama's loss displeased; Woe is me, Alhama!

And to fix thy head upon High Alhambra's loftiest stone; That this for thee should be the law, And others tremble when they saw. Woe is me, Alhama! so Cavalier, and man of worth ! Let these words of mine go forth; Let the Moorish Monarch know That to him I nothing owe. Woe is me, Alhama !

• But on my soul Alhama weighs, And on my inmost spirit preys; And if the King his land hath lost, Yet others may have lost the most. Woe is me, Alhama! 90

Sires have lost their children, wives Their lords, and valant men their lives; One what best his love might claim Hath lost, another wealth, or fame. Woe is me, Alhama ! 'I lost a damsel in that hour, Of all the land the lovehest flower; Doubloons a hundred I would pay, And think her ransom cheap that day' Woe is me, Alhama! 10.

And as these things the old Moor said, They sever'd from the trunk his head; And to the Alhambra's wall with speed 'T was carried, as the King decreed Woe is me, Alhama !

And men and infants therein weep Their loss, so heavy and so deep; Granada's ladies, all she rears Within her walls, burst into tears. Woe is me, Alhama! rrc

And from the windows o'er the walls The sable web of mourning falls; The King weeps as a woman o'er His loss, for it is much and sore. Woe is me, Alhama ! [First published, 1818.]

TRANSLATION FROM VITTO-RELLI

ON A NUN

Sonnet composed in the name of a father, whose daughter had recently died shortly after her marriage; and addressed to the father of her who had lately taken the veil

- OF two fair virgins, modest, though admired,
 - Heaven made us happy; and now, wretched sires,
 - Heaven for a nobler doom their worth desures,
 - And, gazing upon either, both required
- Mine, while the torch of Hymen newly fired
 - Becomes extinguish'd, soon too soon expires;
 - But thine, within the closing grate retired,

Eternal captive, to her God aspires.

- But thou at least from out the jealous door, Which shuts between your never-meeting eyes,
 - Mayst hear her sweet and pious voice once more:

I to the marble, where my daughter lies, Rush, — the swoln flood of bitterness I pour, And knock, and knock, and knock — but none replies.

[First published, 1818.]

VENICE

A FRAGMENT

[First published in the Edition of 1901 from a manuscript in the possession of Mr. Murray]

'T is midnight — but it is not dark Within thy spacious place, St Mark ! The Lights within, the Lamps without, Shine above the revel rout. The brazen Steeds are glittering o'er The holy building's massy door, Glittering with their collars of gold, The goodly work of the days of old — And the wingèd Lion stern and solemn Frowns from the height of his hoary column,

Facing the palace in which doth lodge The ocean-city's dreaded Doge. The palace is proud — but near it lies, Divided by the 'Bridge of Sighs,' The dreary dwelling where the State Enchains the captives of their hate: These — they perish or they pine; But which their doom may none divine: Many have pass'd that Arch of pain, But none retraced their steps again.

It is a princely colonnade! And wrought around a princely place, When that vast edifice display'd Looks with its venerable face Over the far and subject sea, Which makes the fearless isles so free ! And 't is a strange and noble pile, Pillar'd into many an aisle: Every pillar fair to see, Marble - jasper - and porphyry -The church of St Mark - which stands hard by With fretted pinnacles on high, And Cupola and minaret; More like the mosque of orient lands, Than the fanes wherein we pray, And Mary's blessed likeness stands. ----VENICE, December 6, 1816.

ON SAM ROGERS

QUESTION AND ANSWER

[One of the malicious poems which Byror wrote recklessly on the spur of the moment without intention of publishing It was printed after his death in Fraser's Magazine, January 1833 Byron's long friendship with Rogers may be traced in the Letters, but he seems not to have fully trusted the man, however much he admired his 'classic' verses In a letter to Murray (February 20, 1818) he speaks his suspicions loudly]

QUESTION

Nose and chin would shame a knocker; Wrmkles that would puzzle Cocker; Mouth which marks the envious scorner, With a scorpion in each corner, Turning its quick tail to sting you In the place that most may wring you; Eyes of lead-like hue, and gummy; Carcass pick'd out from some mummy; Bowels (but they were forgotten, Save the liver, and that 's rotten); Skin all sallow, flesh all sodden, Form the devil would frighten God in. Is 't a corpse stuck up for show, Galvanised at times to go? With the Scripture in connection, New proof of the resurrection? Vampire, ghost, or goul, what is it? I would walk ten miles to miss it.

ANSWER

Many passengers arrest one, To demand the same free question. Shorter's my reply, and franker, -That 's the Bard, the Beau, the Banker. Yet if you could bring about Just to turn him inside out, Satan's self would seem less sooty, And his present aspect - Beauty. Mark that (as he masks the bilious Air, so softly supercilious) Chasten'd bow, and mock humility, Almost sicken to servility; Hear his tone (which is to talking That which creeping is to walking, Now on all-fours, now on tip-toe); Hear the tales he lends his lip to: Little hints of heavy scandals; Every friend in turn he handles;

26.

30

All which women or which men do, Glides forth in an innuendo, Clothed in odds and ends of humour ----Herald of each paltry rumour, 40 From divorces down to dresses, Women's frailties, men's excesses, All which life presents of evil Make for him a constant revel. You 're his foe, for that he fears you, And in absence blasts and sears you: You're his friend — for that he hates you, First caresses, and then baits you — Darting on the opportunity When to do it with impunity: 50 You are neither — then he'll flatter, Till he finds some trait for satire; Hunts your weak point out, then shows it Where it injures to disclose it, In the mode that 's most invidious, Adding every trait that's hideous -From the bile, whose blackening river Rushes through his Stygian liver. Then he thinks himself a lover — Why? I really can't discover, 60 In his mind, age, face, or figure; Viper-broth might give him vigour, ---Let him keep the cauldron steady, He the venom has already. For his faults — he has but one, — 'T is but envy, when all 's done. He but pays the pain he suffers, Chipping, like a pair of snuffers, Lights which ought to burn the brighter For this temporary blighter. 70 He 's the cancer of his species. And will eat himself to pieces, -Plague personified, and famine, -Devil, whose sole delight is damning.

For his merits, would you know 'em ? Once he wrote a pretty Poem. [1818.]

THE DUEL

[First published in the Edition of 1901 from a manuscript in the possession of Mr Murray. These lines, addressed to Mary Chaworth, allude to the duel fought between her granduncle, William Chaworth, Esq., of Annesley, and the poet's granduncle, the fifth Lord Byron, on January 26, 1765. Mr Chaworth fell in the encounter, and his antagonist was tried before the House of Lords on the charge of murder, but acquitted by a verdict of 'manslaughter.'] 'T IS fifty years, and yet their fray To us might seem but yesterday. 'T is fifty years, and three to boot, Since, hand to hand, and foot to foot, And heart to heart, and sword to sword, One of our Ancestors was gored. I 've seen the sword that slew him; he, The slam, stood in a like degree To thee, as he, the Slayer, stood (Oh had it been but other blood !) In km and Chieftamship to me Thus came the Heritage to thee.

- To me the Lands of him who slew Came through a line of yore renown'd: For I can boast a race as true
- To Monarchs crown'd, and some discrown'd,
- As ever Britam's Annals knew:
- For the first Conqueror gave us Ground, And the last Conquer'd own'd the line Which was my mother's, and is mine. 20
- I loved thee I will not say how,
- Since things like these are best forgot: Perhaps thou mayst imagine now
- Who loved thee, and who loved thee not And thou wert wedded to another,
- And I at last another wedded: I am a father, thou a mother,
- To Strangers vow'd, with strangers bedded
- For land to land, even blood to blood Since leagued of yore our fathers were –
- Our manors and our birthright stood; 32 And not unequal had I woo'd,
- If to have woo'd thee I could dare. But this I never dared — even yet
- When nought is left but to forget.
- I feel that I could only love:
- To sue was never meant for me,
- And least of all to sue to thee;
- For many a bar, and many a feud,
- Though never told, well understood, Roll'd like a river wide between —

۵ε

ŝ

- And then there was the Curse of blood, Which even my Heart's cannot remove.
- Alas! how many things have been! Since we were friends; for I alone Feel more for thee than can be shown.
- How many things ! I loved thee thou Lovedst me not: another was
- The Idol of thy virgin vow,
 - And I was, what I am, Alas!

And what he is, and what thou art, And what we were, is like the rest: We must endure it as a test, And old Ordeal of the Heart.

VENICE, December 29, 1818.

STANZAS TO THE PO

[These stanzas were first published in 1824 by Medwin in the Conversations. According to a statement of the Countess Guiccioli they were composed by Byron in April, 1819, while actually sailing on the Po from Venice to Ravenna, where he was to join her. The stanzas were supposed by the earlier editors to have been transmitted to London in a letter to Murray (May 8, 1820), with the direction · 'They must not be published pray recollect this, as they are mere verses of society, and written upon private feelings and passions ' Mr E H Coleridge points out several incongruities in these statements, and suggests that the poem alluded to as 'mere verses of society' is not this address to the Po, but the somewhat cynical rhymes, 'Could Love forever, Run like a river' The theory is plausible, but no more In a letter to the Athenœum, August 24, 1901, Mr Richard Edgcumbe suggests that the poem is to the river Trent, and is concerned with Mrs Chaworth Musters.]

- RIVER, that rollest by the ancient walls, Where dwells the lady of my love, when
- she
- Walks by thy brink, and there perchance recalls
 - A faint and fleeting memory of me;
- What if thy deep and ample stream should be A mirror of my heart, where she may read
- The thousand thoughts I now betray to thee, Wild as thy wave, and headlong as thy speed !
- What do I say a mirror of my heart? Are not thy waters sweeping, dark, and strong?
- Such as my feelings were and are, thou art; And such as thou art were my passions long.
- Time may have somewhat tamed them, not for ever;
 - Thou overflow'st thy banks, and not for aye

Thy bosom overboils, congenial river !

- Thy floods subside, and mine have sunk away-
- But left long wrecks behind: and now again,
 - Borne in our old unchanged career, we move;
- Thou tendest wildly onwards to the main.
 - And I to loving one I should not love.
- The current I behold will sweep beneath 21 Her native walls and murmur at her feet;
- Her eyes will look on thee, when she shall breathe
 - The twilight air, unharm'd by summer's heat
- She will look on thee, I have look'd on thee,
 - Full of that thought; and, from that moment, ne'er
- Thy waters could I dream of, name, or see,

Without the inseparable sigh for her !

- Her bright eyes will be imaged in thy stream, ---
 - Yes! they will meet the wave I gaze on now: 30
- Mine cannot witness, even in a dream, That happy wave repass me in its flow /
- The wave that bears my tears returns no more:
 - Will she return by whom that wave shall sweep? —
- Both tread thy banks, both wander on thy shore,
 - I by thy source, she by the dark-blue deep.
- But that which keepeth us apart is not
 - Distance, nor depth of wave, nor space of earth,
- But the distraction of a various lot,
 - As various as the climates of our birth. 40
- A stranger loves the lady of the land, Born far beyond the mountains, but his blood
- Is all meridian, as if never fann'd
 - By the black wind that chills the polar flood.

- My blood is all meridian; were it not, I had not left my clime, nor should I be,
- In spite of tortures, ne'er to be forgot, A slave again of love, — at least of thee.
- "T is vain to struggle let me perish young —

Live as I lived, and love as I have loved;

To dust if I return, from dust I sprung, 51 And then, at least, my heart can ne'er be moved.

June, 1819. [First published, 1824.]

SONNET ON THE NUPTIALS OF THE MARQUIS ANTONIO CA-VALLI WITH THE COUNTESS CLELIA RASPONI OF RAVENNA

[First published in the Edition of 1901 from a manuscript in the possession of the Lady Dorchester]

A NOBLE Lady of the Italian shore,

Lovely and young, herself a happy bride, Commands a verse, and will not be denied,

From me a wandering Englishman; I tore One sonnet, but invoke the muse once more

- To hail these gentle hearts which Love has tied,
- In Youth, Birth, Beauty, genially allied,

And blest with Virtue's soul and Fortune's store.

- A sweeter language and a luckier bard
- Were worthier of your hopes, Auspicious Pair !
- And of the sanctity of Hymen's shrine,

But, — since I cannot but obey the Fair, To render your new state your true reward, May your Fate be like Hers, and unlike mine. RAVENNA, July 31, 1819.

SONNET TO THE PRINCE REGENT

ON THE REPEAL OF LORD EDWARD FITZGERALD'S FORFEITURE

To be the father of the fatherless,

To stretch the hand from the throne's height, and raise

His offspring, who expired in other days Tomake thy sure's sway by a kingdom less,— Thus is to be a monarch, and repress Envy into unutterable praise.

Dismiss thy guard, and trust thee to such traits,

For who would lift a hand, except to bless ? Were it not easy, Sir, and is 't not sweet To make thyself beloved ? and to be

Ommpotent by mercy's means? for thus

Thy Sovereignty would grow but more complete;

A despot thou, and yet thy people free,

And by the heart, not hand, enslaving us. BOLOGNA, August 12, 1819.

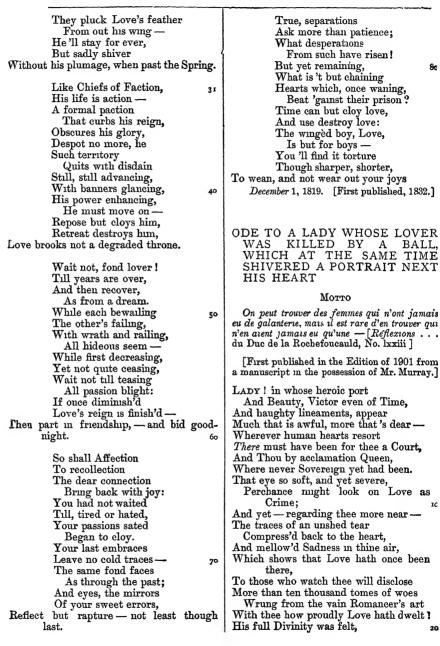

STANZAS

[A friend of Lord Bvron's, who was with hum at Ravenna when he wrote these Stanzas says 'They were composed, like many others, with no view of publication, but merely to relieve himself in a moment of suffering. He had been painfully excited by some circumstances which appeared to make it necessary that he should immediately quit Italy, and ip the day and the hour that he wrote the song was labouring under an access of fever.' — So reads the note in the Edition of 1831. It is to be remarked, however, that Byron was not at Ravenna but at Venice on the date of the poem.]

> COULD Love for ever Run like a river, And Time's endeavour Be tried in vain — No other pleasure With this could measure, And like a treasure We'd hug the chain. But since our sighing Ends not in dying, And, form'd for flying, Love plumes his wing; Then for this reason Let's love a season;

But let that season be only Spring.

When lovers parted Feel broken-hearted, And, all hopes thwarted, Expect to die; A few years older, Ah ! how much colder They might behold her For whom they sigh ! When link'd together, In every weather.

Maddening the heart he could not melt. Till Guilt became Sublime; faıl -But never yet did Beauty's Zone For him surround a lovelier throne. Than in that bosom once his own: And he the Sun and Thou the Clime Together must have made a Heaven For which the Future would be given. And thou hast loved — Oh ! not in vain ! And not as common Mortals love. gored 30 The Fruit of Fire is Ashes, The Ocean's tempest dashes Wrecks and the dead upon the rocky shore: True Passion must the all-searching changes prove, The Agony of Pleasure and of Pain, Till Nothing but the Bitterness remain: And the Heart's Spectre flitting through the brain Scoffs at the Exorcism which would remove. And where is He thou lovedst? in the tomb, Where should the happy Lover be ! 40 For him could Time unfold a brighter doom, Or offer aught like thee? He in the thickest battle died, Where Death 1s Pride; And Thou his widow - not his bride, Were 't not more free -Here where all love, till Love is made A bondage or a trade, Here — thou so redolent of Beauty, In whom Caprice had seem'd a duty, 50 Thou, who couldst trample and despise The holiest chain of human ties For him, the dear One in thine eyes, Broke it no more. Thy heart was wither'd to its Core, Its hopes, its fears, its feelings o'er: Thy Blood grew Ice when his was shed, And Thou the Vestal of the Dead. Thy Lover died, as All Who truly love should die; 60 For such are worthy in the fight to fall Triumphantly. No Currass o'er that glowing heart The deadly bullet tuin'd apart: Love had bestow'd a richer Mail Like Thetis on her Son;

But hers at last was vain, and thine could fail —

The hero's and the lover's race was run Thy worshipp'd portrait, thy sweet face,

Without that bosom kept its place As Thou within.

Oh! enviously destined Ball!

Shivering thine imaged charms and all Those Charms would win:

- Together pierced, the fatal Stroke hath gored
- Votary and Shrine, the adoring and the adored

That Heart's last throb was thine, that blood Baptized thine Image in its flood,

And gushing from the fount of Faith

O'erflow'd with Passion even in Death,

- Constant to thee as in its hour
- Of rapture in the secret bower

Thou too hast kept thy plight full well,

As many a baffled Heart can tell.

THE IRISH AVATAR

'And Ireland, like a bastinadoed elephant, kneeling to receive the pattry inder '-CURRAN

[This satire was sent in a letter to Moore (September 17. 1821), then in Paris, with the comment 'The enclosed lines. as you will directly perceive, are written by the Rev. W. L Bowles. Of course it is for him to deny them, if they are not.' Mr E H Coleridge explains that 'the word "Avatar" is not only applied ironically to George IV as the "Messiah of Royalty," but metaphorically to the poem, which would descend in the "Capacity of Preserver".' The occasion of the satire was an attack on Moore in John Bull, and the servitity of the Irish when George IV 'entered Dublin in triumph within ten days of the death of Queen Caroline.']

- ERE the daughter of Brunswick is cold in her grave,
- And her ashes still float to their home o'er the tide,
- Lo! George the triumphant speeds over the wave,
- To the long-cherish'd isle which he loved like his — bride.
- True, the great of her bright and brief ers are gone,
 - The rainbow-like epoch where Freedom could pause

70

For the few little years, out of centuries won, Which betray'd not, or crush'd not, or wept not her cause.	With scarce fewer wrinkles than sins on his brow — Such servile devotion might shame him away.
 True, the chains of the Catholic clank o'er his rags, The castle still stands, and the senate's no more, ro And the famine which dwelt on her freedomless crags Is extending its steps to her desolate shore. To her desolate shore — where the emigrant stands For a moment to gaze ere he flies from his hearth; Tears fall on his chain, though it drops from his hands, For the dungeon he quits is the place of his birth. But he comes ! the Messiah of royalty comes ! Like a goodly Leviathan roll'd from the waves ! 	 Ay, roar in his train! let thine orators lash Their fanciful spirits to pamper his pride — Not thus did thy Grattan indignantly flash His soul o'er the freedom implored and demed. Ever glorious Grattan! the best of the good! So simple in heart, so sublime in the rest! With all which Demosthenes wanted endued, And his rival or victor in all he possess'd. Ere Tully arose in the zenith of Rome, Though unequall'd, preceded, the task was begun — But Grattan sprung up like a god from the tomb Of ages, the first, last, the saviour, the
 Then receive him as best such an advent becomes, With a legion of cooks, and an army of slaves! 20 He comes in the promise and bloom of threescore, To perform in the pageant the sovereign's part — But long live the shamrock which shadows him o'er ! Could the green in his hat be transferr'd to his heart ! Could that long-wither'd spot but be verdant again, And a new spring of noble affections arise — Then might freedom forgive thee this dance in thy chain, And this shout of thy slavery which saddens the skies. Is it madness or meanness which clings to thee now ? Were he God — as he is but the com- 	one' With the skill of an Orpheus to soften the brute; With the fire of Prometheus to kindle mankind; Even Tyranny listening sate melted or mute, And Corruption shrunk scorch'd from the glance of his mind. But back to our theme! Back to despots and slaves ! Feasts furnish'd by Famine! rejoicings by Pan ' True freedom but welcomes, while slavery still raves, When a week's saturnalia hath loosen'd her chain. Let the poor squalid splendour thy wreck can afford (As the bankrupt's profusion his ruin would hide) Gild over the palace; lo, Erin, thy lord ! Kiss his foot with thy blessing, his bless-

- Or if freedom past hope be extorted at last, If the idol of brass find his feet are of clay,
- Must what terror or policy wring forth be class'd
 - With what monarchs ne'er give, but as wolves yield their prey? 60
- Each brute hath its nature, a king's is to reign,
 - To reign ' in that word see, ye ages, comprised
- The cause of the curses all annals contain, From Cæsar the dreaded to George the despised !
- Wear, Fingal, thy trapping ! O'Connell, proclaum
 - His accomplishments ! His '!! and thy country convince
- Half an age's contempt was an error of fame,
 - And that 'Hal is the rascaliest, sweetest young prince !'
- Will thy yard of blue riband, poor Fingal, recall
 - The fetters from millions of Catholic lumbs? 70
- Or, has it not bound thee the fastest of all The slaves, who now hall their betrayer with hymns?
- Ay! 'Build him a dwelling!' let each give his mite!
- Till, Jike Babel, the new royal dome hath arisen !
- Let thy beggars and helots their pittance unite —
 - And a palace bestow for a poor-house and prison!
- Spread spread, for Vitellius, the royal repast,
 - Till the gluttonous despot be stuff'd to the gorge !
- And the roar of his drunkards proclaim him at last
 - The Fourth of the fools and oppressors call'd 'George '' so
- Let the tables be loaded with feasts till they groan !
 - Till they groan like thy people, through ages of woe !

- Let the wine flow around the old Bacchanal's throne,
 - Like their blood which has flow'd, and which yet has to flow.
- But let not his name be thme idol alone On his right hand behold a Sejanus appears !
- Thine own Castlereagh! let him still be thine own !
 - A wretch never named but with curses and jeers!
- Till now, when the isle which should blush for his birth,
- Deep, deep as the gore which he shed on her soil, 90
- Seems proud of the reptile which crawl'd from her earth,
 - And for murder repays him with shouts and a smile !
- Without one single ray of her genius, without The fancy, the manhood, the fire of her race —
- The miscreant who well might plunge Erin in doubt
 - If she ever gave birth to a being so base.
- If she did let her long-boasted proverb be hush'd,
 - Which proclams that from Erm no rep tile can spring —
- See the cold-blooded serpent, with venom full flush'd,
 - Still warming its folds in the breast of a king ! 100
- Shout, drink, feast, and flatter ! Oh ! Erin, how low
 - Wert thou sunk by misfortune and tyranny, till
- Thy welcome of tyrants had plunged thee below
 - The depth of thy deep in a deeper gulf still.
- My voice, though but humble, was raised for thy right,
 - My vote, as a freeman's, still voted thee free,
- This hand, though but feeble, would arm in thy fight,
 - And this heart, though outworn, had a throb still for thee!

 Yes, I loved thee and thine, though thou art not my land, I have known noble hearts and great souls in thy sons, And I wept with the world o'er the patriot band Who are gone, but I weep them no longer as once. 	 What are garlands and crowns to the brow that is wrinkled ? 'T is but as a dead-flower with May-dew besprinkled: Then away with all such from the head that is hoary ! What care I for the wreaths that can only give glory ?
 For happy are they now reposing afar, — Thy Grattan, thy Curran, thy Sheridan, all Who, for years, were the chiefs in the elo- quent war, And redeem'd, if they have not retarded, thy fall. Yes, happy are they in their cold English graves ! Their shades cannot start to thy shouts of to-day — Nor the steps of enslavers and chain-kissing slaves Be stamp'd in the turf o'er their fetter- less clay. Till now I had envied thy sons and their shore, Though their virtues were hunted, their liberties fled; There was something so warm and sublime in the core of an Irishman's heart, that I envy — thy dead. 	 Oh FAME ! — if I e'er took delight in thy praises, 'T was less for the sake of thy high-sounding phrases, Than to see the bright eyes of the dear one discover She thought that I was not unworthy to love her. There chiefly I sought thee, there only I found thee; Her glance was the best of the rays that surround thee; When it sparkled o'er aught that was bright m my story, I knew it was love, and I felt it was glory. November 6, 1821. [First published, 1830.] STANZAS TO A HINDOO AIR
 Or, if aught in my bosom can quench for an hour My contempt for a nation so servile, though sore, Which though trod hke the worm will not turn upon power, 'T is the glory of Grattan, and genius of Moore ! September 16, 1821. [First published, 1824.] STANZAS WRITTEN ON THE ROAD BETWEEN FLORENCE AND PISA OH, talk not to me of a name great in story; The days of our youth are the days of our glory; And the myrtle and ivy of sweet two-and-twenty Are worth all your laurels, though ever so plenty. 	[These verses were written by Lord By a little before he left Italy for Greece. They were meant to suit the Hindoostanee air of 'Alla Malla Punca,' which the Countess Guiccioli was fond of singing] OH ! — my lonely — lonely — lonely — Pillow ! Where is my lover, where is my lover ? Is it his bark which my dreary dreams dis- cover ? Far — far away ! and alone along the billow ? Oh ! my lonely — lonely — lonely — Pil- low ! Why must my head ache where his gentle brow lay ? How the long night flags lovelessly and slowly, And my head droops over thee like the willow !

	5
Oh! thou, my sad and solitary Pillow! Send me kind dreams to keep my heart from breaking, In return for the tears I shed upon thee waking;	I am ashes where once I was fire, And the bard in my bosom is dead; What I loved I now merely admire, And my heart is as grey as my head.
Let me not die till he comes back o'er the billow. Then if thou wilt — no more my lonely Pillow,	My life is not dated by years; There are moment , which act as a plough; And there is not a furrow appears But is deep in my soul as my brow.
In one embrace let these arms again enfold him, And then expire of the joy — but to behold him ! Oh ! my lone bosom ! — oh ! my lonely Pillow ! [First published, 1832.]	Let the young and the brilliant aspire To sing what I gaze on in vain; For Sorrow has torn from my lyre The string which was worthy the strain. [First published, 1830.]
TO —— [In Lady Blessington's Conversations with Lord Byron these lines are thus introduced 'I will give you some stanzas I wrote yester- day (said Byron); they are as simple as even	ARISTOMENES [First published in the Edition of 1901 from a manuscript in the possession of the Lady Dorchester.] CANTO FIRST
Wordsworth himself could write, and would do for music.'] BUT once I dared to lift my eyes, To lift my eyes to thee; And, since that day, beneath the skies, No other sight they see.	THE Gods of old are silent on their shore, Since the great Pan expired, and through the roar Of the Loman waters broke a dread Voice which proclaim'd 'the Mighty Pan is
In vain sleep shuts them in the night, The night grows day to me, Presenting idly to my sight What still a dream must be.	dead ' How much died with him ! false or true — the dream Was beautiful which peopled every stream With more than finny tenants, and adorn'd 'The woods and waters with coy nymphs
A fatal dream — for many a bar Divides thy fate from mine; And still my passions wake and war, But peace be still with thine [First published, 1833.]	 The works and waters with coy hympis that scorn'd Pursuing Dettes, or in the embrace Of gods brought forth the high heroic race Whose names are on the hills and o'er the seas. CEFHALONIA, September 10, 1823.
TO THE COUNTESS OF BLESS-

[LOVE AND DEATH]

[First published in Murray's Magazine, February, 1887.]

I WATCH'D thee when the foe was at our side,

Ready to strike at him—or thee and me, Were safety hopeless—rather than divide

Aught with one loved save love and liberty.

INGTON You have ask'd for a verse — the request,

In a rhymer, 't were strange to deny; But my Hippocrene was but my breast, And my feelings (its fountam) are dry

Were I now as I was, I had sung What Lawrence has pencill'd so well; But the strain would expire on my tongue, And the theme is too soft for my shell.

- 1 watch'd thee on the breakers, when the rock
- Received our prow and all was storm and fear,
- And bade thee clung to me through every shock;
 - This arm would be thy bark, or breast thy bier.
- I watch'd thee when the fever glazed thine eyes,

Yielding my couch and stretch'd me on the ground,

- When overworn with watching, ne'er to rise
 - From thence if thou an early grave hadst found.
- The earthquake came, and rock'd the quivering wall,
- And men and nature reel'd as if with wine.
- Whom did I seek around the tottering hall?
 - For thee. Whose safety first provide for? Thine.
- And when convulsive throes denied my breath
 - The faintest utterance to my fading thought,
- To thee to thee e'en in the gasp of death
 - My spirit turn'd, oh ! oftener than it ought
- Thus much and more; and yet thou lov'st me not,
 - And never wilt ! Love dwells not in our will
- Nor can I blame thee, though it be my lot To strongly, wrongly, vainly love thee still.

LAST WORDS ON GREECE

[First published in Murray's Magazine, February, 1887.]

- WHAT are to me those honours or renown Past or to come, a new-born people's erv?
- Albeit for such I could despise a crown Of aught save laurel, or for such could die.

- I am a fool of passion, and a frown
- Of thine to me is as an adder's eye.
- To the poor bird whose pinion fluttering down
 - Wafts unto death the breast it bore so high;
- Such is this maddening fascination grown, So strong thy magic or so weak am I.

ON THIS DAY I COMPLETE MY THIRTY-SIXTH YEAR

[Moore relates in the Life that on his last birthday Byron 'came from his bedroom into the apartment where Colonel Stanhope and some others were assembled and said with a smile, "You were complaining the other day that I never write any poetry now. This is my birthday, and I have just finished something which, I think, is better than what I usually write." — The pathos and sincerity of the verses are echoed in Mangan's The Nameless One, though the spirit of the two poems is not the same.]

'T is time this heart should be unmoved, Since others it hath ceased to move: Yet, though I cannot be beloved, Still let me love !

My days are in the yellow leaf; The flowers and fruits of love are gone; The worm, the canker, and the grief Are mine alone !

10

20

The fire that on my bosom preys Is lone as some volcame isle; No torch is kindled at its blaze — A funeral pile.

The hope, the fear, the jealous care, The exalted portion of the pain And power of love, I cannot share, But wear the chain.

- But 't is not thus and 't is not here Such thoughts should shake my soul, nor now,
- Where glory decks the hero's bier, Or binds his brow.

The sword, the banner, and the field, Glory and Greece, around me see ! The Spartan, borne upon his shield, Was not more free.

Awake ! (not Greece — she is awake !) Awake, my spirit ! Think through whom	If thou regret'st thy youth, why live? The land of honourable death Is here: — up to the field, and give
Thy life-blood tracks its parent lake, And then strike home !	Away thy breath !
Tread those reviving passions down, Unworthy manhood !— unto thee Indifferent should the smile or frown Of beauty be.	Seek out — less often sought than found — A soldier's grave, for thee the best; Then look around, and choose thy ground, And take thy rest. 40 MISSOLONGHI, January 22, 1824.

DOMESTIC PIECES

[It is not necessary to say that these poems are concerned with the separation between Lord Byron and his wife. They are so distinct in character that it has seemed best to separate them from among the other Miscellaneous Poems.]

FARE THEE WELL

[Moore relates on the authority of Byron's Memoranda that these stanzas were written 'under the swell of tender recollections' as the poet 'sat one night musing in the study ... the tears falling fast over the paper as he wrote them.' Mr. Coleridge avers that there are no tear-marks on the original draft of the poem 'T is pity]

> 'Alas' they had been friends in Youth, But whispering tongues can poison truth: And constancy lives in realms above, And Life is thorny, and youth is vain, And to be wroth with one we love, Doth work like madness in the brain,

But never either found another To free the hollow heart from paining — They stood aloof, the scars remaining, Lake cliffs, which had been rent asunder; A dreary sea now flows between, But neither heat, nor frost, nor thunder, Shall wholly do away, I ween, The marks of that which once hath been.' COLERIDGE'S Christabel.

FARE thee well ! and if for ever, Still for ever, fare thee well: Even though unforgiving, never 'Gamst thee shall my heart rebel.

Would that breast were bared before thee Where thy head so oft hath lam, While that placid sleep came o'er thee Which thou ne'er canst know again:

Would that breast, by thee glanced over, Every inmost thought could show ! 10 Then thou wouldst at last discover

'T was not well to spurn it so.

Though the world for this commend thee — Though it smile upon the blow, Even its praises must offend thee, Founded on another's woe:

Though my many faults defaced me, Could no other arm be found, Than the one which once embraced me, To inflict a cureless wound?

Yet, oh yet, thyself deceive not; Love may sink by slow decay, But by sudden wrench, believe not Hearts can thus be torn away:

Still thine own its life retaineth — Still must mme, though bleeding, beat; And the undying thought which paineth Is — that we no more may meet.

These are words of deeper sorrow Than the wall above the dead; Both shall live, but every morrow Wake us from a widow'd bed.

And when thou wouldst solace gather, When our child's first accents flow, Wilt thou teach her to say 'Father !'

Though his care she must forego?

When her little hands shall press thee, When her lip to thine is press'd,

Think of him whose prayer shall bless thee,

Think of him thy love had bless'd • 40

20

What she had made the pupil of her art, Should her lineaments resemble Those thou nevermore may'st see, None know — but that high Soul secured Then thy heart will softly tremble the heart, With a pulse yet true to me. And panted for the truth it could not hear, With longing breast and undeluded ear 20 Foil'd was perversion by that youthful mind, All my faults perchance thou knowest, All my madness none can know; Which Flattery fool'd not, Baseness could All my hopes, where'er thou goest, not blind. Deceit infect not, near Contagion soil ---Wither, yet with thee they go. Indulgence weaken, nor Example spoil -Every feeling hath been shaken; Nor master'd Science tempt her to look Pride, which not a world could bow, down 50 Bows to thee - by thee forsaken, On humbler talents with a pitying frown, Nor Genius swell, nor Beauty render vain, Even my soul forsakes me now: Nor Envy ruffle to retaliate pain, But 't is done — all words are idle — Nor Fortune change, Pride raise, nor Pas-Words from me are vamer still; sion bow, But the thoughts we cannot bridle Nor Virtue teach austerity — till now. 30 Force their way without the will. Serenely purest of her sex that live, But wanting one sweet weakness - to for-Fare thee well ! — thus disunited, give, Torn from every nearer tie, Too shock'd at faults her soul can never Sear'd in heart, and lone, and blighted, know. She deems that all could be like her below: More than this I scarce can die. 60 Foe to all vice, yet hardly Virtue's friend, March 18, 1816. For Virtue pardons those she would amend. But to the theme. - now laid aside too A SKETCH long, 'Honest - honest Iago ! The baleful burthen of this honest song ---If that thou be'st a devil, I cannot kill thee ' Though all her former functions are no SHAKSPEARE more, She rules the circle which she served be-BORN in the garret, in the kitchen bred, Promoted thence to deck her mistress' head; fore. Next -- for some gracious service unex-If mothers — none know why — before her press'd, quake; And from its wages only to be guess'd -If daughters dread her for the mothers' Raised from the toilet to the table, - where sake; Her wondering betters wait behind her If early habits — those false links, which bind chair. -At times the loftiest to the meanest mind -With eye unmoved, and forehead unabash'd, She dines from off the plate she lately Have given her power too deeply to instil wash'd The angry essence of her deadly will; Quick with the tale, and ready with the If like a snake she steal within your walls, lie -Till the black slime betray her as she The genial confidante, and general spy --crawls; Who could, ye gods ! her next employment If like a viper to the heart she wind, guess -And leave the venom there she did not II An only infant's earliest governess ! find; She taught the child to read, and taught so What marvel that this hag of hatred works Eternal evil latent as she lurks, well, That she herself, by teaching, learn'd to To make a Pandemonium where she dwells, spell. And reign the Hecate of domestic hells? An adept next in penmanship she grows, Skill'd by a touch to deepen scandal's tints As many a nameless slander deftly shows: With all the kind mendacity of hints,

 While mingling truth with falsehood — sneers with smiles — A thread of candour with a web of wiles; A plain blunt show of briefly-spoken seeming, To hide her bloodless heart's soul-harden'd scheming; 60 A lip of hes; a face form'd to conceal, And, without feeling, mock at all who feel; With a vile mask the Gorgon would disorder,	 Then, when thou fain wouldst weary Heaven with prayer, Look on thine earthly victims — and despair ! Down to the dust ! — and, as thou rott'st away, Even worms shall perish on thy poisonous clay. But for the love I bore, and still must bear, To her thy malice from all ties would
A cheek of parchment, and an eye of stone. Mark, how the channels of her yellow blood Ooze to her skin, and stagnate there to mud, Cased like the centipede in saffron mail, Or darker greenness of the scorpion's scale (For drawn from reptiles only may we trace 69 Congenial colours in that soul or face) —	tear — 100 Thy name — thy human name — to every eye The chmax of all scorn should hang on high, Exalted o'er thy less abhorr'd compeers — And festering in the infamy of years. March 29, 1816.
Look on her features ! and behold her mind As in a mirror of itself defined: Look on the picture ! deem it not o'er- charged — There is no trait which might not be en- larged: Yet true to 'Nature's journeymen,' who made This monster when their mistress left off trade — This female dog-star of her little sky, Where all beneath her influence droop or die. Oh ' wretch without a tear, without a thought, Save joy above the ruin thou hast wrought— The time shall come, nor long remote, when thou 8: Shalt feel far more than thou inflictest now; Feel for thy vile self-loving self in vam, And turn thee howling in unpited pain. May the strong curse of crush'd affections light Back on thy bosom with reflected blight ! And make thee, in thy leprosy of mind, As loathsome to thyself as to mankind ' Till all thy self-thoughts curdle into hate, Black — as thy will for others would create: Till thy hard heart be calcined mto dust, or And thy soul welter in its hideous crust	STANZAS TO AUGUSTA [These stanzas to his sister, Mrs Leigh, were the last written before his final departure from England] WHEN all around grew drear and dark, And reason half withheld her ray — And hope but shed a dying spark Which more misled my lonely way; In that deep midnight of the mind, And that internal strife of heart, When, dreading to be deem'd too kind, The weak despair — the cold depart; When fortune changed — and love fled far, And hatred's shafts flew thick and fast, Thou wert the solitary star Which rose and set not to the last. Oh ' blest be thine unbroken light, That watch'd me as a seraph's eye, And stood between me and the mght, For ever shining sweetly nigh. And when the cloud upon us came, Which strove to blacken o'er thy ray — Then purer spread its gentle flame, And dash'd the darkness all away. 20 Still may thy spirit dwell on mine,
The widow'd couch of fire, that thou hast spread !	There's more in one soft word of thine Than in the world's defied rebuke.

Thou stood'st, as stands a lovely tree, That still unbroke, though gently bent, Still waves with fond fidelity Its boughs above a monument. The winds might rend, the skies might pour. But there thou wert - and still wouldst he Devoted in the stormiest hour To shed thy weeping leaves o'er me. But thou and thine shall know no blight, Whatever fate on me may fall; For Heaven in sunshine will requite The kind — and thee the most of all. Then let the ties of baffled love Be broken - thine will never break; Thy heart can feel - but will not move; Thy soul, though soft, will never shake. And these, when all was lost beside, 4 I Were found and still are fix'd in thee: ---And bearing still a breast so tried, Earth is no desert - ev'n to me. [First published, 1816.] STANZAS TO AUGUSTA These stanzas were written at the Campagne Diodati, near Geneva, and transmitted to England for publication, with some other becases 'Be careful,' he says (Letter to Mur-ray, October 5, 1816), 'In printing the stanzas beginning, "Though the day of my destiny's," etc., which I think well of as a composition '--Byron often erred in judging his own work, but in this case his judgment was right. It will be remembered that Poe, in his Essay on Poetry, particularly commends the sentiment and versification of this poem.]

- THOUGH the day of my destiny 's over, And the star of my fate hath declined, Thy soft heart refused to discover
- The faults which so many could find;
- Though thy soul with my grief was acquainted,

It shrunk not to share it with me,

- And the love which my spirit hath painted It never hath found but in thee.
- Then when nature around me is smiling, The last smile which answers to mine, 10

I do not believe it beguiling,

Because it reminds me of thine;

- And when winds are at war with the ocean, As the breasts I believed in with me,
- If their billows excite an emotion, It is that they bear me from thee.
- Though the rock of my last hope is shiver'd, And its fragments are sunk in the wave, Though I feel that my soul is deliver'd
- To pain it shall not be its slave. 20 There is many a pang to pursue me:
- They may crush, but they shall not contemn —
- They may torture, but shall not subdue me-'T is of thee that I think — not of them.
- Though human, thou didst not deceive me, Though woman, thou didst not forsake,
- Though loved, thou forborest to grieve me, Though slander'd, thou never couldst shake. —

Though trusted, thou didst not disclaim me, Though parted, it was not to fly.

Though parted, it was not to fly, 30 Though watchful, 't was not to defame me, Nor, mute, that the world might belie.

Yet I blame not the world, nor despise it, Nor the war of the many with one —

- If my soul was not fitted to prize it,
- 'T was folly not sooner to shun: And if dearly that error hath cost me,
- And more than I once could foresee, I have found that, whatever it lost me.
- It could not deprive me of thee.
- From the wreck of the past, which hath perish'd,
 - Thus much I at least may recall,
- It hath taught me that what I most cherish'd Deserved to be dearest of all.
- In the desert a fountain is springing, In the wide waste there still is a tree,
- And a bird in the solitude singing,

Which speaks to my spirit of thee. July 24, 1816.

EPISTLE TO AUGUSTA

[These stanzas, like the preceding, were composed at Diodati, and were sent home to be printed if Mrs. Leigh should consent. In accordance with her wish they were withheld from publication until 1830, when they appeared in his Letters and Journals The Quarterly Renew for January, 1831, declares of this poem that 'there is, perhaps, nothing more mournfully and desolately beautiful in the whole range of Lord Byron's poetry.' Certainly there is no single short poem which throws more light on the poet's genus and character.]

My sister ! my sweet sister ! if a name Dearer and purer were, it should be thine.

Mountains and seas divide us, but I claim

No tears, but tenderness to answer mine: Go where I will, to me thou art the same —

A loved regret which I would not resign. There yet are two things in my destiny, —

- A world to roam through, and a home with thee.
 - The first were nothing had I still the last,

It were the haven of my happiness; 10 But other claims and other ties thou hast,

- And mine is not the wish to make them less.
- A strange doom is thy father's son's, and past

Recalling, as it lies beyond redress;

Reversed for him our grandsire's fate of vore, —

He had no rest at sea, nor I on shore.

If my inheritance of storms hath been

In other elements, and on the rocks

Of perils, overlook'd or unforeseen,

- I have sustam'd my share of worldly shocks, 20
- The fault was mine; nor do I seek to screen

My errors with defensive paradox;

I have been cunning in mine overthrow, The careful pilot of my proper woe.

- Mine were my faults, and mine be their reward.
- My whole life was a contest, since the day That gave me being, gave me that which marr'd
- The gift, a fate, or will, that walk'd astray;
- And I at times have found the struggle hard.
- And thought of shaking off my bonds of clay: 30

But now I fain would for a time survive, If but to see what next can well arrive.

Kingdoms and empires in my little day

I have outlived, and yet I am not old;

- And when I look on this, the petty spray Of my own years of trouble, which have
- of my own years of trouble, which have roll'd Like a wild hav of breakers melts away.
- Like a wild bay of breakers, melts away: Something — I know not what — does still uphold

A spirit of slight patience; — not in vain, Even for its own sake, do we purchase pain.

Perhaps the workings of defiance stir 4. Withm me, — or perhaps a cold despair, Brought on when ills habitually recur, Perhaps a kinder clime, or purer air

- (For even to this may change of soul re-
- fer, And with light armour we may learn to bear),
- Have taught me a strange quiet, which was not

The chief companion of a calmer lot.

I feel almost at times as I have felt

- In happy childhood; trees, and flowers, and brooks, 50
- Which do remember me of where I dwelt Ere my young mind was sacrificed to books,

Come as of yore upon me, and can melt My heart with recognition of their looks;

And even at moments I could think I see

- Some living thing to love but none like thee
 - Here are the Alpine landscapes which create

A fund for contemplation; — to admire

Is a brief feeling of a trivial date;

But something worthier do such scenes inspire 6

Here to be lonely is not desolate,

For much I view which I could most desire,

And, above all, a lake I can behold Lovelier, not dearer, than our own of old.

Oh that thou wert but with me ! - but I grow

The fool of my own wishes, and forget The solutude, which I have vaunted so,

Has lost its praise in this but one regret;

And for the future, this world's future There may be others which I less may show; mav From me demand but little of my care: I am not of the plaintive mood, and yet I feel an ebb in my philosophy, have outlived myself by many a day: 7I And the tide rising in my alter'd eye. Having survived so many things that were; I did remind thee of our own dear Lake. My years have been no slumber, but the By the old Hall which may be mine no prey more. Of ceaseless vigils; for I had the share Leman's is fair: but think not I forsake Of life which might have fill'd a century, The sweet remembrance of a dearer Before its fourth in time had pass'd me by. shore: Sad havoc Time must with my memory And for the remnant which may be to make come. Ere that or thou can fade these eyes be-I am content; and for the past I feel fore; Not thankless, - for within the crowded Though, like all things which I have sumloved, they are Of struggles, happiness at times would Resign'd for ever, or divided far. 80 steal; And for the present, I would not benumb The world is all before me; I but ask My feelings farther. - Nor shall I con-Of Nature that with which she will comceal That with all this I still can look around, ply -It is but in her summer's sun to bask, And worship Nature with a thought pro-To mingle with the quiet of her sky, found. Tan To see her gentle face without a mask, And never gaze on it with apathy. For thee, my own sweet sister, in thy She was my early friend, and now shall be heart My sister — till I look again on thee. I know myself secure, as thou in mine; We were and are - I am, even as thou I can reduce all feelings but this one, art-Beings who ne'er each other can resign; And that I would not; - for at length I see It is the same, together or apart, Such scenes as those wherein my life be-From life's commencement to its slow decline gun, The earliest - even the only paths for We are entwined - let death come slow me· or fast, Had I but sooner learnt the crowd to The tie which bound the first endures the last! shun, I had been better than I now can be; [First published, 1830.] The passions which have torn me would have slept; I had not suffer'd, and thou hadst not wept. LINES With false Ambition what had I to do? ON HEARING THAT LADY BYRON WAS Little with Love, and least of all with ILL Fame: [These verses were written after a futile And yet they came unsought, and with attempt at reconciliation with Lady Byron me grew, through Madame de Stael's agency, and were And made me all which they can make not intended for publication.] —a name 100 Yet this was not the end I did pursue; AND thou wert sad-vet I was not with Surely I once beheld a nobler aim. thee: But all is over — I am one the more And thou wert sick, and yet I was not Io baffled millions which have gone before. near:

Methought that joy and health alone could Fame, peace, and hope - and all the better he lıfe Where I was not - and pain and sorrow Which, but for this cold treason of thy here ! heart. And is it thus ? - it is as I foretold. Might still have risen from out the grave And shall be more so; for the mind reof strife, coils And found a nobler duty than to part. Upon itself, and the wreck'd heart lies But of thy virtues didst thou make a vice, cold Trafficking with them in a purpose cold, While heaviness collects the shatter'd For present anger and for future gold spoils. And buying other's grief at any price. It is not in the storm nor m the strife And thus once enter'd into crooked ways, We feel benumb'd and wish to be no The early truth, which was thy proper more. praise. το But in the after-silence on the shore, Did not still walk beside thee - but at When all is lost except a little life. times, And with a breast unknowing its own I am too well avenged !- but 't was my crimes. 50 right; Deceit, averments incompatible. Whate'er my sins might be, thou wert Equivocations, and the thoughts which dwell In Janus-spirits — the significant eye not sent To be the Nemesis who should requite -Which learns to lie with silence - the pre-Nor did Heaven choose so near an instrutext ment. Of Prudence, with advantages annex'd -Mercy is for the merciful - if thou The acquiescence in all things which tend, Hast been of such, 't will be accorded now No matter how, to the desired end -Thy nights are banish'd from the realms of All found a place in thy philosophy. sleep ! -The means were worthy, and the end is Yes ! they may flatter thee, but thou won shalt feel I would not do by thee as thou hast done ! A hollow agony which will not heal, September, 1816. [First published, 1832.] For thou art pillow'd on a curse too deep: Thou hast sown in my sorrow, and must reap The bitter harvest in a woe as real ! THE DREAM I have had many foes, but none like thee: For 'gainst the rest myself I could de-OUR life is twofold: Sleep hath its own fend, And be avenged, or turn them into friend; world, But thou in safe implacability A boundary between the things misnamed Hadst nought to dread - in thy own weak-Death and existence. Sleep hath its own ness shielded, world, And in my love, which hath but too much And a wide realm of wild reality, vielded. And dreams in their development have And spared, for thy sake, some I should breath. not spare; And tears, and tortures, and the touch of And thus upon the world, trust in thy truth, joy; And the wild fame of my ungovern'd youth, They leave a weight upon our waking On things that were not, and on things thoughts, They take a weight from off our waking toils, that are, -Even upon such a basis hast thou built They do divide our being; they become A monument, whose cement hath been guilt A portion of ourselves as of our time, τo (The moral Clytemnestra of thy lord !); And look like heralds of eternity; They pass like spirits of the past. - they And hew'd down, with an unsuspected sword, speak

Like subyls of the future; they have power — The tyranny of pleasure and of pam; They make us what we were not — what they will, And shake us with the vision that 's gone by,

The dread of vanish'd shadows — Are they so?

Is not the past all shadow? What are they? Creations of the mind?— The mind can make

Substance, and people planets of its own 20 With beings brighter than have been, and give

A breath to forms which can outlive all flesh.

I would recall a vision which I dream'd Perchance in sleep — for in itself a thought, A slumbering thought, is capable of years, And curdles a long life into one hour.

E I

I saw two beings in the hues of youth Standing upon a hill, a gentle hill, Green and of mild dechvity, the last 29 As 't were the cape of a long ridge of such, Save that there was no sea to lave its base, But a most living landscape, and the wave Of woods and cornfields, and the abodes of men

Scatter'd at intervals, and wreathing smoke Arising from such rustic roofs; — the hill

Was crown'd with a peculiar diadem

Of trees, in circular array, so fix'd,

Not by the sport of nature, but of man.

These two, a maiden and a youth, were there 39

Gazing — the one on all that was beneath Fair as herself — but the boy gazed on her; And both were young, and one was beautiful: And both were young — yet not alike m youth.

As the sweet moon on the horizon's verge, The maid was on the eve of womanhood; The boy had fewer summers, but his heart Had far outgrown his years, and to his eye There was but one beloved face on earth, And that was shining on him; he had look'd Upon it till it could not pass away; 50 He had no breath, no being, but in hers: She was his voice; he did not speak to her,

But trembled on her words: she was his sight,

For his eye follow'd hers, and saw with hers, Which colour'd all his objects: — he had ceased To live within himself; she was his life, The ocean to the river of his thoughts, Which terminated all: upon a tone,

A touch of hers, his blood would ebb and flow And his cheek change tempestuously — his heart 60

Unknowing of its cause of agony.

But she m these fond feelings had no share: Her sighs were not for him; to her he was Even as a brother — but no more; 't was much,

For brotherless she was, save in the name Her infant friendship had bestow'd on him. Herself the solitary scion left

Of a time-honour'd race. — It was a name Which pleased him, and yet pleased him not — and why?

Time taught him a deep answer — when she loved 70

Another; even now she loved another, And on the summit of that hill she stood Looking afar if yet her lover's steed Kept pace with her expectancy, and flew.

III

A change came o'er the spirit of my dream. There was an ancient mansion, and before Its walls there was a steed caparison'd:

Within an antique Oratory stood

The Boy of whom I spake; — he was alone, And pale, and pacing to and fro: anon so He sate him down, and seized a pen, and traced

Words which I could not guess of; then he lean'd

His bow'd head on his hands, and shook as 't were

With a convulsion -- then arose again,

And with his teeth and quivering hands did tear

What he had written, but he shed no tears. And he did calm himself, and fix his brow Into a kind of quiet: as he paused,

The Lady of his love re-enter'd there;

She was serene and smiling then, and yet 90 She knew she was by him beloved, — she knew.

For quickly comes such knowledge, that his heart

Was darken'd with her shadow, and she saw

That he was wretched, but she saw not all. He rose, and with a cold and gentle grasp He took her hand; a moment o'er his face A tablet of unutterable thoughts

- Was traced, and then it faded, as it came. He dropp'd the hand he held, and with slow steps
- Retired, but not as bidding her adieu, 100
- For they did part with mutual smiles; he pass'd
- From out the massy gate of that old Hall, And mounting on his steed he went his way; And ne'er repass'd that hoary threshold more.

IV

- A change came o'er the spirit of my dream. The Boy was sprung to manhood: in the wilds
- Of fiery climes he made himself a home,
- And his Soul drank their sunbeams: he was girt
- With strange and dusky aspects; he was not Himself like what he had been, on the sea And on the shore he was a wanderer;
- There was a mass of many images
- Crowded like waves upon me, but he was A part of all; and in the last he lay
- Reposing from the noontide sultriness,
- Couch'd among fallen columns, in the shade
- Of ruin'd walls that had survived the names
- Of those who rear'd them; by his sleeping side
- Stood camels grazing, and some goodly steeds
- Were fasten'd near a fountain; and a man 120
- Clad in a flowing garb did watch the while, While many of his tribe slumber'd around: And they were canopied by the blue sky,
- So cloudless, clear, and purely beautiful,
- That God alone was to be seen in Heaven.

v

A change came o'er the spirit of my dream. The Lady of his love was wed with One

- Who did not love her better: in her home,
- A thousand leagues from his, her native home,
- She dwelt, begirt with growing Infancy, 130
- Daughters and sons of Beauty, but behold !
- Upon her face there was the tint of grief,
- The settled shadow of an inward strife, And an unquiet drooping of the eye,
- As if its hd were charged with unshed tears.
- What could her grief be ? she had all she loved,

And he who had so loved her was not there To trouble with bad hopes, or evil wish,

Or ill-repress'd affliction, her pure thoughts. What could her grief be? — she had loved

- him not, 140 Nor given him cause to deem himself be-
- loved,

Nor could he be a part of that which prey'd Upon her mind — a spectre of the past.

VI

A change came o'er the spirit of my dream. The Wanderer was return'd.—I saw him stand

Before an Altar - with a gentle bride;

Her face was fair, but was not that which made

The Starlight of his Boyhood; — as he stood Even at the altar, o'er his brow there came The selfsame aspect, and the quivering shock r50

That in the antique Oratory shook

His bosom in its solitude; and then -

As in that hour — a moment o'er his face

The tablet of unutterable thoughts

- Was traced and then it faded as it came,
- And he stood calm and quiet, and he spoke
- The fitting vows, but heard not his own words,
- And all things reel'd around him; he could see
- Not that which was, nor that which should have been —
- But the old mansion, and the accustom'd hall, 160
- And the remember'd chambers, and the place,
- The day, the hour, the sunshine, and the shade,

All things pertaining to that place and hour, And her who was his destiny, came back

- And thrust themselves between hun and the light:
- What business had they there at such a time?

vII

A change came o'er the spirit of my dream. The Lady of his love; — Oh ! she was

- changed,
- As by the sickness of the soul; her mind Had wander'd from its dwelling, and her eves
- They had not their own lustre, but the look Which is not of the earth; she was become

The queen of a fantastic realm; her thoughts

Were combinations of disjointed things; And forms, impalpable and unperceived Of others' sight, familiar were to hers. And this the world calls frenzy; but the wise Have a far deeper madness, and the glance Of melancholy is a fearful gift. What is it but the telescope of truth, 180 Which strips the distance of its fantasies, And brings life near in utter nakedness.

Making the cold reality too real?

VIII

A change came o'er the spirit of my dream. The Wanderer was alone as heretofore, The beings which surrounded him were gone,

Or were at war with hum; he was a mark For blight and desolation, compass'd round With Hatred and Contention; Pain was mix'd 189

In all which was served up to him, until,

HEBREW MELODIES

ADVERTISEMENT

The subsequent poems were written at the request of my friend, the Hon Douglas Kinnaird, for a Selection of Hebrew Melodies, and have been published, with the music, arranged by Mr. Braham and Mr Nathan.

January, 1815.

'SHE WALKS IN BEAUTY'

[These stanzas were written on returning from a ball-room, where he had seen Lady Wilmot Horton, who appeared in mourning with numerous spangles on her dress]

- SHE walks in beauty, like the night Of cloudless climes and starry skies;
- And all that 's best of dark and bright Meet in her aspect and her eyes
- Thus mellow'd to that tender light

Which heaven to gaudy day denies.

- One shade the more, one ray the less, Had half impair'd the nameless grace
- Which waves in every raven tress,

Or softly lightens o'er her face;

Where thoughts serenely sweet express

Like to the Pontic monarch of old days,

But were a kind of nutriment; he lived

And the quick Spirit of the Universe

To him the magic of their mysteries;

many men,

the stars change.

July. 1816.

traced out

Almost like a reality — the one

To end in madness - both in misery.

He fed on poisons, and they had no power,

Through that which had been death to

And made him friends of mountains. with

He held his dialogues; and they did teach

To him the book of Night was open'd wide.

And voices from the deep abyss reveal'd 200 A marvel and a secret — Be it so.

τx

My dream was past; it had no further

Of these two creatures should be thus

It was of a strange order, that the doom

How pure, how dear their dwelling-place

And on that cheek, and o'er that brow, So soft, so calm, yet eloquent,

The smiles that win, the tints that glow, But tell of days in goodness spent,

A mind at peace with all below, A heart whose love is innocent ! June 12, 1814.

'THE HARP THE MONARCH MINSTREL SWEPT'

- THE harp the monarch munstrel swept, The King of men, the loved of Heaven,
- Which Music hallow'd while she wept O'ertones her heart of hearts had given, — Redoubled be her tears, its chords are riven!

It soften'd men of iron mould,

- It gave them virtues not their own; No ear so dull, no soul so cold,
- That felt not, fired not to the tone, Till David's lyre grew mightier than his throne !

 It told the triumphs of our King, It wafted glory to our God; It made our gladden'd valleys ring, The cedars bow, the mountains nod; Its sound aspired to Heaven and there abode! Since then, though heard on earth no more, Devotion and her daughter Love Still bid the bursting spirit soar To sounds that seem as from above, In dreams that day's broad light can not remove. 'IF THAT HIGH WORLD' IF that high world, which lies beyond Our own, surviving Love endears; If there the cherish'd heart be fond, The eye the same, except in tears — How welcome those untrodden spheres ! How sweet this very hour to die ! To soar from earth, and find all fears Lost in the liest — Etamiter ! 	It cannot quit its place of birth, It will not live in other earth. But we must wander witheringly, In other lands to die; And where our fathers' ashes be, Our own may never he; Our temple hath not left a stone, And Mockery sits on Salem's throne. 'OH! WEEP FOR THOSE OH! WEEP FOR THOSE OH! weep for those that wept by Babel's stream, Whose shrines are desolate, whose land a dream; Weep for the harp of Judah's broken shell; Mourn — where their God hath dwelt, the godless dwell ! And where shall Israel lave her bleeding
Lost in thy light — Eternity ! It must be so: 't is not for self That we so tremble on the brink; And, striving to o'erleap the gulf, Yet cling to Being's severing link. Oh ! in that future let us think To hold each heart the heart that shares; With them the immortal waters drink, And soul in soul grow deathless theirs !	feet? And when shall Zion's songs again seem sweet? And Judah's melody once more rejoice The hearts that leap'd before its heavenly voice? Tribes of the wandering foot and weary breast, How shall ye flee away and be at rest ' The wild-dove hath her nest, the fox his cave,
'THE WILD GAZELLE' THE wild gazelle on Judah's hills Exulting yet may bound, And drink from all the hving rills That gush on holy ground; It a compare one	Mankind their country — Israel but the grave ! 'ON JORDAN'S BANKS'
Its airy step and glorious eye May glance in tameless transport by. ⁶ A step as fleet, an eye more bright, Hath Judah witness'd there; And o'er her scenes of lost delight Inhabitants more fair.	ON Jordan's banks the Arab's camels stray, On Sion's hill the False One's votaries pray, The Baal-adorer bows on Sinai's steep — Yet there — even there — Oh God! thy thunders sleep:
The cedars wave on Lebanon, But Judah's stateher maids are gone ! More blest each palm that shades those plains Than Israel's scatter'd race; For, taking root, it there remains In solitary grace:	There — where thy finger scorch'd the tab- let stone ! There — where thy shadow to thy people shone, Thy glory shrouded in its garb of fire: Thyself — none living see and not ex- pire !

Oh! in the lightning let thy glance appear; Sweep from his shiver'd hand the oppressor's spear.

How long by tyrants shall thy land be trod!

How long thy temple worshipless, O God !

JEPHTHA'S DAUGHTER

SINCE our Country, our God - Oh, my

Demand that thy daughter expire; Since thy triumph was bought by thy vow — Strike the bosom that 's bared for thee now !

And the voice of my mourning is o'er, And the mountains behold me no more: If the hand that I love lay me low, There cannot be pain in the blow !

And of this, oh, my Father ! be sure — That the blood of thy child is as pure As the blessing I beg ere it flow, And the last thought that soothes me below.

Though the virgins of Salem lament, Be the judge and the hero unbent! I have won the great battle for thee, And my Father and Country are free!

When this blood of thy giving hath gush'd, When the voice that thou lovest is hush'd, Let my memory still be thy pride, And forget not I smiled as I died !

'OH' SNATCH'D AWAY IN BEAUTY'S BLOOM'

OH ! snatch'd away in beauty's bloom, On thee shall press no ponderous tomb; But on thy turf shall roses rear Their leaves, the earliest of the year; And the wild cypress wave in tender gloom:

And oft by yon blue gushing stream Shall Sorrow lean her drooping head,

And feed deep thought with many a dream, And lingering pause and lightly tread; Fond wretch ! as if her step disturb'd the dead !

Away ! we know that tears are vain, That death nor heeds nor hears distress: Will this unteach us to complain ? Or make one mourner weep the less ? And thou — who tell'st me to forget, Thy looks are wan, thine eyes are wet.

'MY SOUL IS DARK'

My soul is dark — Oh ! quickly string The harp I yet can brook to hear;

- And let thy gentle fingers fling Its melting murmurs o'er mine ear.
- If in this heart a hope be dear, That sound shall charm it forth again:

If in these eyes there lurk a tear, 'T will flow, and cease to burn my brain.

But bid the strain be wild and deep, Nor let thy notes of joy be first:

I tell thee, minstrel, I must weep, Or else this heavy heart will burst;

For it hath been by sorrow nursed,

And ached in sleepless silence long; And now 't is doom'd to know the worst, And break at once — or yield to song.

'I SAW THEE WEEP'

- I SAW thee weep the big bright tear Came o'er that eye of blue;
- And then methought it did appear A violet dropping dew:
- I saw thee smile the sapphire's blaze Beside thee ceased to shine;

It could not match the living ys That fill'd that glance of thme.

As clouds from yonder sun receive A deep and mellow dye,

- Which scarce the shade of coming eve Can banish from the sky,
- Those smiles unto the moodiest mind Their own pure joy impart;
- Their sunshme leaves a glow behind That lightens o'er the heart.

'THY DAYS ARE DONE'

Thy days are done, thy fame begun; Thy country's strains record

The triumphs of her chosen Son, The slaughters of his sword !

The deeds he did, the fields he won, The freedom he restored !

Though thou art fall'n, while we are free Thou shalt not taste of death '	From hps that moved not and unbreathing
The generous blood that flow'd from thee Disdam'd to sink beneath:	frame, Like cavern'd winds, the hollow accents came
Within our veins its currents be, Thy spirit on our breath !	Saul saw, and fell to earth, as falls the oak, At once, and blasted by the thunder-stroke
Thy name, our charging hosts along, Shall be the battle-word ! Thy fall, the theme of choral song From virgin voices pour'd ! To weep would do thy glory wrong; Thou shalt not be deplored.	"Why is my sleep disquieted ? Who is he that calls the dead ? Is it thou, O King ? Behold, Bloodless are these limbs, and cold: Such are mme; and such shall be Thine to-morrow, when with me: Ere the coming day is done, Such shalt thou be, such thy son.
SONG OF SAUL BEFORE HIS LAST BATTLE	Fare thee well, but for a day, Then we mix our mouldering clay. Thou, thy race, lie pale and low,
WARRIORS and chiefs ! should the shaft or the sword Pierce me in leading the host of the Lord,	Pierced by shafts of many a bow; And the falchion by thy side To thy heart thy hand shall guide:
Heed not the corse, though a king's, in your path: Bury your steel in the bosoms of Gath!	Crownless, breathless, headless fall, Son and sire, the house of Saul!' SEAHAM, February, 1815.
Thou who art bearing my buckler and bow, Should the soldiers of Saul look away from the foe,	'ALL IS VANITY, SAITH THE PREACHER'
Stretch me that moment m blood at thy feet! Mine be the doom which they dared not to	FAME, wisdom, love, and power were mine, And health and youth possess'd me;
meet.	My goblets blush'd from every vine, And lovely forms caress'd me;
Farewell to others, but never we part, Heir to my royalty, son of my heart! Bright is the diadem, boundless the sway, Or kingly the death, which awaits us to-day!	 sunn'd my heart in beauty's eyes, And felt my soul grow tender; All earth can give, or mortal prize, Was mine of regal splendour.
Seaham, 1815.	I strive to number o'er what days Remembrance can discover,
SAUL	Which all that life or earth displays Would lure me to live over.
THOU whose spell can raise the dead, Bid the prophet's form appear. — 'Samuel, raise thy buried head ! King, behold the phantom seer !'—	There rose no day, there roll'd no hour Of pleasure unembitter'd; Aud not a trapping deck'd my power That gall'd not while it glitter'd.
Earth yawn'd; he stood the centre of a cloud: Light changed its hue, retiring from his shroud.	The serpent of the field, by art And spells, is won from harming; But that which coils around the heart, Oh ! who hath power of charming?
Death stood all glassy in his fixèd eye; His hand was wither'd, and his veins were dry; His foot, in bony whiteness, glitter'd there,	It will not list to wisdom's lore, Nor music's voice can lure it; But there it stings for evermore The soul that must endure it.
Shrunken and sinewless, and ghastly bare;	SEAHAM, 1815.

WHEN COLDNESS WRAPS THIS SUFFERING CLAY'

WHEN coldness wraps this suffering clay,

Ah ! whither strays the immortal mind ? It cannot die, it cannot stay. But leaves its darken'd dust behind. Then, unembodied, doth it trace By steps each planet's heavenly way? Or fill at once the realms of space, A thing of eyes, that all survey? Eternal, boundless, undecay'd, A thought unseen, but seeing all, τo All, all in earth, or skies display'd, Shall it survey, shall it recall: Each fainter trace that memory holds So darkly of departed years, In one broad glance the soul beholds. And all, that was, at once appears. Before Creation peopled earth, Its eye shall roll through chaos back; And where the furthest heaven had birth. The spirit trace its rising track. 20 And where the future mars or makes, Its glance dilate o'er all to be, While sun is quench'd or system breaks, Fix'd in its own eternity. Above or Love, Hope, Hate, or Fear, It lives all passionless and pure: An age shall fleet like earthly year, Its years as moments shall endure Away, away, without a wing, O'er all, through all, its thought shall fly; A nameless and eternal thing, 31 Forgetting what it was to die. SEAHAM, 1815.

VISION OF BELSHAZZAR

THE King was on his throne, The Satraps throng'd the hall; A thousand bright lamps shone O'er that high festival. A thousand cups of gold, In Judah deem'd divine — Jehovah's vessels hold The godless Heathen's wine !

In that same hour and hall, The fingers of a hand Came forth against the wall, And wrote as if on sand:

The fingers of a man; --A solitary hand Along the letters ran, And traced them like a wand. The monarch saw, and shook, And bade no more rejoice; All bloodless wax'd his look, And tremulous his voice. 'Let the men of lore appear, The wisest of the earth, And expound the words of fear, Which mar our royal mirth.' Chaldea's seers are good, But here they have no skill; And the unknown letters stood Untold and awful still. And Babel's men of age Are wise and deep in lore; But now they were not sage, They saw - but knew no more. A captive in the land, A stranger and a youth,

He heard the king's command, He saw that writing's truth. The lamps around were bright, The prophecy in view; He read it on that night, — The morrow proved it true.

Belshazzar's grave is made, His kingdom pass'd away, He, in the balance weigh'd, Is light and worthless clay; The shroud, his robe of state, His canopy the stone.
The Mede is at his gate ! The Persian on his throne !'

SUN OF THE SLEEPLESS'

SUN of the sleepless ! melancholy star ! Whose tearful beam glows tremulously far, That show'st the darkness thou canst not dispel,

How like art thou to joy remember'd well ! So gleams the past, the light of other days, Which shines, but warms not with its powerless rays;

10 A night-beam Sorrow watcheth to behold, Distinct, but distant — clear — but, oh how cold !

220

40

30

WERE MY BOSOM AS FALSE AS THOU DEEM'ST IT TO BE'	And mine's the guilt, and mine the hell, This bosom's desolation dooming; And I have earn'd those tortures well,
WERE my bosom as false as thou deem'st it to be,	Which unconsumed are still consum- ing!
I need not have wander'd from far Galilee; It was but abjuring my creed to efface	January 15, 1815.
The curse which, thou say'st, is the crime of my race.	ON THE DAY OF THE DESTRUC- TION OF JERUSALEM BY TITUS
If the bad never triumph, then God is with thee !	FROM the last hill that looks on thy once
If the slave only sin, thou art spotless and free !	holy dome I beheld thee, oh Sion! when render'd to
If the Exile on earth is an Outcast on high, Live on m thy faith, but in mme I will die.	Rome: 'T was thy last sun went down, and the
I have lost for that faith more than thou canst bestow,	flames of thy fall Flash'd back on the last glance I gave to thy wall.
As the God who permits thee to prosper doth know;	I look'd for thy temple, I look'd for my
In his hand is my heart and my hope — and in thine	home, And forgot for a moment my bondage to
The land and the life which for him I resign. SEAHAM, 1815.	come; I beheld but the death-fire that fed on thy
HEROD'S LAMENT FOR MARIAMNE	fane, And the fast-fetter'd hands that made ven- geance m vain.
Он, Mariamne ! now for thee The heart for which thou bled'st is bleed-	On many an eve, the high spot whence I gazed
ing; Revenge 1s lost 1n agony,	Had reflected the last beam of day as it blazed;
And wild remoise to rage succeeding. Oh, Mariamne ! where art thou ?	While I stood on the height, and beheld the decline
Thou canst not hear my bitter pleading: Ah! couldst thou — thou wouldst pardon	Of the rays from the mountain that shone on thy shrine.
now, Though Heaven were to my prayer un- heeding	And now on that mountain I stood on that day,
And is she dead $^{\circ}$ — and did they dare	But I mark'd not the twilight beam melting away;
Obey my frenzy's jealous raving ? My wrath but doom'd my own despair.	Oh! would that the lightning had glared in its stead,
The sword that smote her's o'er me waving	And the thunderbolt burst on the conquer- or's head !
But thou art cold, my murder'd love ! And this dark heart is vamly craving	But the Gods of the Pagan shall never pro-
For her who soars alone above, And leaves my soul unworthy saving.	fane The shrine where Jehovah disdain'd not to
She's gone, who shared my diadem;	reign; And scatter'd and scorn'd as thy people may
She sunk, with her my joys entombing; I swept that flower from Judah's stem, Whose leaves for me alone were blooming;	be, Our worship, oh Father, 18 only for thee. 1815.

BY THE RIVERS OF BABYLON WE SAT DOWN AND WEPT

WE sate down and wept by the waters Of Babel, and thought of the day

When our foe, in the hue of his slaughters, Made Salem's high places his prey;

And ye, oh her desolate daughters ! Were scatter'd all weeping away.

While sadly we gazed on the river * Which roll'd on in freedom below, -

They demanded the song; but, oh never That triumph the stranger shall know!

May this right hand be wither'd for ever, Bre it string our high harp for the foe !

On the willow that harp is suspended, Oh Salem ' its sound should be free;

And the hour when thy glories were ended But left me that token of thee:

And ne'er shall its soft tones be blended With the voice of the spoiler by me ! January 15, 1813.

THE DESTRUCTION OF SEN-NACHERIB

- THE Assyrian came down like the wolf on the fold,
- And his cohorts were gleaming in purple and gold;
- And the sheen of their spears was like stars on the sea,
- When the blue wave rolls nightly on deep Galilee.

Like the leaves of the forest when Summer is green,

That host with their banners at sunset were seen:

Like the leaves of the forest when Autumn hath blown,

- That host on the morrow lay wither'd and strown.
- For the Angel of Death spread his wings on the blast,
- And breathed in the face of the foe as he pass'd;
- And the eyes of the sleepers wax'd deadly and chill,
- And their hearts but once heaved, and for ever grew still !

And there lay the steed with his nostril all wide,

But through it there roll'd not the breath of his pride:

And cold as the spray of the rock-beating surf.

- And there lay the rider distorted and pale, With the dew on his brow and the rust on his mail:
- And the tents were all silent, the banners alone,

The lances unlifted, the trumpet unblown.

And the widows of Ashur are loud in their wail,

And the idols are broke in the temple of Baal; And the might of the Gentile, unsmote by the sword,

Hath melted like snow in the glance of the Lord !

SEAHAM, February 17, 1815.

'A SPIRIT PASS'D BEFORE ME'

FROM JOB

A SPIRIT pass'd before me: I beheld

The face of immortality unveil'd --

- Deep sleep came down on every eye save mine ---
- And there it stood, all formless but divine:

Along my bones the creeping flesh did quake; And as my damp har stiffen'd, thus it spake:

'Is man more just than God? Is man more pure

Than he who deems even Seraphs insecure ? Creatures of clay — vain dwellers in the dust ! The moth survives you, and are ye more just?

Things of a day ! you wither ere the night, Heedless and blind to Wisdom's wasted light !'

'IN THE VALLEY OF WATERS'

[According to a note in Byron's own handwriting these stanzas are merely a variant of the preceding poem, By the Rivers of Babylon. Norther these stanzas nor those following were printed in the original collection.]

And the foam of his gasping lay white on the turf,

- In the valley of waters we wept o'er the day When the host of the stranger made Salem his prey,
- And our heads on our bosonis all droopingly lay,
- And our hearts were so full of the land far away.
- The song they demanded in vam it lay still
- In our souls, as the wind that hath died on the hill;
- They call'd for the harp but our blood they shall spill
- Ere our right hands shall teach them one tone of our skill
- All stringlessly hung on the willow's sad tree,
- As dead as her dead leaf those mute harps must be;
- Our hands may be fetter'd our tears still are free
- For our God and our glory and Sion ! oh thee !

STANZAS FOR MUSIC

[The following anecdote related by Nathan, the composer of the music, will show Byron's carelessness occasionally in regard to his verses.

'Having been officiously taken up by a person who arrogated to himself some self-importance m criticism, and who made an observation upon their dements, Lord Byron quaintly observed, "They were written in haste, and they shall perish in the same manner !" and immediately consigned them to the flames As my music adapted to them, however, did not share the same fate, and having a contrary opinion of anything that might fall from the pen of his Lordship, I treasured them up, and on a subsequent interview with his Lordship, I accused him of having committed suicide in making so valuable a burnt-offering : to which he smilingly replied, "The act seems to inflame you, come, Nathan, since you are displeased with the sacrifice. I will give them to you as a peace-offering, use them as you may deem proper "']

THEY say that Hope is happiness, But genume Love must prize the past, And Memory wakes the thoughts that bless;

They rose the first- they set the last.

And all that Memory loves the most Was once our only Hope to be, And all that Hope adored and lost Hath melted into Memory.

Alas ' it is delusion all;

The future cheats us from afar, Nor can we be what we recall,

Nor dare we think on what we are.

EPHEMERAL VERSES

[These squibs, bits of satire, and broken rhymes are taken chiefly from Byron's Letters. None of the verses were published in any edition of his poems during the author's life. The titles and dates here given indicate the letters from which the verses are taken, when no other source is indicated.]

EPIGRAM ON AN OLD LADY WHO HAD SOME CURIOUS NOTIONS RESPECTING THE SOUL

- In Nottingham county there lives at Swan Green,
 - As curst an old Lady as ever was seen;
- And when she does die, which I hope will be soon, 1798.

She firmly believes she will go to the Moon!

[TO DIVES (WILLIAM BECK-FORD). A FRAGMENT]

UNHAPPY Dives ! in an evil hour

- 'Gainst Nature's voice seduced to deeds accurst !
- Once Fortune's minion now thou feel'st her power;
- Wrath's vial on thy lofty head hath burst
- In Wit, in Genius, as in Wealth the first, How wondrous bright thy blooming morn arose !

But thou wert smitten with th' unhal- low'd thurst Of Crime unnamed, and thy sad noon must close In seorn and solitude unsought, the worst of woes. [First published, 1833.]	The chicken's toughness, and the lack of ale, The stoney mountain and the miry vale, The Garlick steams, which half his meals enrich, The impending vermin, and the threaten'd Itch, That ever breaking Bed, beyond repair ! The hat too old, the coat too cold to wear, 20 The Hunger, which repulsed from Sally's
 EPITAPH ON JOHN ADAMS, OF SOUTHWELL A CARRIER, WHO DIED OF DRUNKENNESS JOHN ADAMS hes here, of the parish of Southwell, A Carrier who carried his can to his mouth well; He carried so much, and he carried so fast, He could carry no more — so was carried at last; For, the liquor he drank being too much for one, He could not carry off, — so he's now car- ri-on. September, 1807. [First published, 1830.] 	 door Pursues her grumbling half from shore to shore, Be these the themes to greet his faithful Rib, So may thy pen be smooth, thy tongue be glib ! This duty done, let me in turn demand Some friendly office m my native land, Yet let me ponder well, before I ask, And set thee swearing at the tedious task. First the Miscellany !—to Southwell town Per coach for Mrs Pigot frank it down, 30 So may'st thou prosper in the paths of Sale, And Longman smirk and critics cease to rail.
 FAREWELL PETITION TO J. C. H., ESQ. [J. C. H. is of course Byron's great friend Hobhouse. Dives is William Beckford.] O THOU yclep'd by vulgar sons of Men Cam Hobhouse! but by wags Byzantian Ben ' Twin sacred titles, which combined appear To grace thy volume's front, and gild its rear, Since now thou put'st thyself and work to Sea And leav'st all Greece to Fletcher and to 	 All hail to Matthews ! wash his reverend feet, And in my name the man of Method greet, — Tell him, my Guide, Philosopher, and Friend, Who cannot love me, and who will not mend, Tell him, that not in vain I shall assay To tread and trace our 'old Horatian way,' And be (with prose supply my dearth of rhymes) What better men have been in better times. 40 Here let me cease, for why should I pro-
 And leavest an Orecce to Pretcher and to me, Oh, hear my single muse our sorrows tell, One song for self and Fletcher quite as well. First to the Castle of that man of woes Dispatch the letter which I must enclose, 10 And when his lone Penelope shall say Why, where, and wherefore doth my William stay ? Spare not to move her pity, or her pride — By all that Hero suffered, or defied; 	Ny notes, and vex a Sunger with a Song ? Oh thou with pen perpetual in thy fist ! Dubb'd for thy sins a stark Miscellanist, So pleased the printer's orders to per- form For Messrs. Longman, Hurst and Rees and Orme. Go — Get thee hence to Paternoster Row, Thy patrons wave a duodecimo ! (Best form for letters from a distant land, It fits the pocket, nor fatigues the hand.) 50

Then go, once more the joyous work com- mence	WHAT news, what news? Queen Orraca, What news of scribblers five?
With stores of anecdote, and grains of sense.	S-, W-, C-, L-d, and L-e? All damn'd, though yet alive.
Oh may Mammas relent, and Sires forgive ! And scribblmg Songs grow dutiful and live !	AN ODE TO THE FRAMERS OF
CONSTANTINOPLE, June 7, 1810. [First pub- lished, 1887.]	THE FRAME BILL
'OH HOW I WISH THAT AN	[This was first published in the Morning Chronicle, March 2, 1812.]
EMBARGO'	OH well done Lord En ! and better done Rr !
[To Henry Drury, June 17, 1810. A 'trans- lation' of Euripides, Medea , 1–7 Written on the summit of the Cyanean Symplegades.]	Britannia must prosper with councils hke vours;
Он how I wish that an embargo	Hawkesbury, Harrowby, help you to guide
Had kept in port the good ship Argo ! Who, still unlaunch'd from Grecian docks,	Whose remedy only must kill ere it cures:
Had never pass'd the Azure rocks; But now I fear her trip will be a	Those villains, the Weavers, are all grown refractory,
Damn'd business for my Miss Medea, etc., etc.	Asking some succour for Charity's sake
'YOUTH, NATURE, AND RE- LENTING JOVE'	factory, That will at once put an end to mistake .
[To Francis Hodgson, October 3, 1810. An	The rascals, perhaps, may betake them to robbing,
'epitaph' Romanelli was an Albanian phy- sician who physicked Byron at Patras.]	The dogs to be sure have got nothing to eat — 10
Youth, Nature, and relenting Jove, To keep my lamp in strongly strove:	So if we can hang them for breaking a bobbin, 'T will save all the Government's money
But Romanelli was so stout, He beat all three — and blew it out.	and meat: Men are more easily made than machin- ery-
COOD DIANG ADE CCARCE!	Stockings fetch better prices than lives — Gibbets on Sherwood will heighten the
'GOOD PLAYS ARE SCARCE'	scenery, Shewing how Commerce on Liberty
[To Francis Hodgson, September 13, 1811. Alluding to Moore's M P. or the Bluestocking.]	thrives !
GOOD plays are scarce, So Moore writes Farce ;	Justice is now in pursuit of the wretches, Grenadiers, Volunteers, Bow-street Police,
Is Fame like his so brittle? We knew before	Twenty-two Regiments, a score of Jack
That ' Little 's' Moore,	Ketches, Three of the Quorum and two of the
But now 't is Moore that 's Little.	Some Lords, to be sure, would have sum-
'WHAT NEWS, WHAT NEWS? OUEEN ORRACA'	mon'd the Judges, To take their opinion, but that they ne'er shall.
[To William Harness, December 6, 1811. Parodying a stanza in Southey's Queen Orraca and the Five Martyrs of Morocco.]	For LIVERPOOL such a concession begrudges. So now they 're condemn'd by no Judges at all.

Some folks for certain have thought it was shocking,

When Famme appeals and when Poverty groans,

That life should be valued at less than a stocking,

And breaking of frames lead to breaking of bones.

If it should prove so, I trust, by this token (And who will refuse to partake in the hope?), 30

That the frames of the fools may be first to be broken,

Who, when asked for a remedy, sent them a rope.

[R. C. DALLAS]

YES ! wisdom shines in all his mien, Which would so captivate, I ween, Wisdom's own goddess Pallas; That she'd discard her fav'rite owl, And take for pet a brother fowl, Sagacious R C. Dallas. [First published, 1825.]

OH YOU, WHO IN ALL NAMES CAN TICKLE THE TOWN'

[To Thomas Moore, May 19, 1813. Appointing a visit to Leigh Hunt in prison.]

OH you, who in all names can tickle the town,

- Anacreon, Tom Little, Tom Moore, or Tom Brown, —
- For hang me if I know of which you may most brag,

Your Quarto two-pounds, or your Twopenny Post Bag;

But now to my letter — to yours 't is an answer —

- To-morrow be with me, as soon as you can, sir,
- All ready and dress'd for proceeding to spunge on
- (According to compact) the wit in the dungeon —

Pray Phœbus at length our political malice May not get us lodgings within the same palace!

- I suppose that to-night you're engaged with some codgers,
- And for Sotheby's Blues have deserted Sam Rogers;
- And I, though with cold I have nearly my death got,
- Must put on my breeches, and wait on the Heathcote.
- But to-morrow at four, we will both play the Scurra,

And you'll be Catullus, the Regent Mamurra.

'WHEN THURLOW THIS DAMN'D NONSENSE SENT'

[To Thomas Moore, June, 1813. Byron and Moore were supping with Rogers on bread and cheese when their host brought forth Lord Thurlow's Poems on Several Occasions (1813). 'In vain did Mr. Rogers (to whom a copy of the work had been presented),' says Moore in his Life, 'in justice to the author, endeavour to direct our attention to some of the beauties of the work. One of the poems was a warm and, I need not add, well-deserved panegyric on himself The opening line of the poem was, as well as I can recollect, —

"When Rogers o'er this labour bent."

And Lord Byron undertook to read it aloud; but he found it impossible to get beyond the first two words. Our laughter had now increased to such a pitch that nothing could restrain it. Two or three times he began, but, no sooner had the words "When Rogers" passed his lips, than our fit burst forth afresh — till even Mr. Rogers himself, with all his feeling of our injustice, found it impossible not to join us, and had the author himself been of the party, I question much whether he could have resisted the infection.' A day or two later Byron sent the following verses in a letter to Moore.]

WHEN Thurlow this damn'd nonsense sent (I hope I am not violent),

Nor men nor gods knew what he meant.

Hermilda's first and second canto, I'm fitting up a new portmantean; And thus to furnish decent lining, My own and others' bays I 'm twining — So, gentle Thurlow, throw me thine in.

TO LORD THURLOW

"I lay my branch of laurel down. Then thus to form Apollo's crown, Let every other brung his own." Lord Thurlow's lines to Mr Rogers.

[On the same day with the preceding Byron sent to Moore the following stanzas on Lord Thurlow's lines.]

'I LAY my branch of laurel down' Thou 'lay thy branch of laurel down!' Why, what thou 'st stole is not enow; And, were it lawfully thine own, Does Rogers want it most, or thou? Keep to thyself thy wither'd bough, Or send it back to Doctor Donne:

Were justice done to both, I trow, He'd have but little, and thou — none.

'Then thus to form A pollo's crown.' A crown ! why, twist it how you will, Thy chaplet must be foolscap still. When next you visit Delphi's town, Inquire amongst your fellow-lodgers, They 'll tell you Phœbus gave his crown, Some years before your birth, to Rogers.

⁶Let every other bring his own ' When coals to Newcastle are carried, And owls sent to Athens, as wonders,

From his spouse when the Regent's unmarried,

Or Liverpool weeps o'er his blunders; When Tories and Whigs cease to quarrel,

When Castlereagh's wife has an heir, Then Rogers shall ask us for laurel,

And thou shalt have plenty to spare.

ANSWER TO ——'S PROFESSIONS OF AFFECTION

[First published in the Edition of 1904 from an autograph manuscript Dated by conjecture 1814.]

- In hearts like thine ne'er may I hold a place
- Till I renounce all se e, all shame, all grace —

That seat, — like seats, the bane of Freedom's realm,

But dear to those presiding at the helm — Is basely purchased, not with gold alone; Add Conscience, too, this bargain is your own—

'T is thine to offer with corrupting art The rotten borough of the human heart.

FRAGMENT OF AN EPISTLE TO THOMAS MOORE

[These verses refer to the meeting of the 'Allied Sovereigns.' Southey had celebrated the commencement of the year 1814 in his Carmen Triumphale, in the refrain of which occur the words 'Glory to God.' The Laureate also celebrated in an ode The Allied Sovereigns in England.]

- WHAT say I?' not a syllable further in prose;
- 1'm your man 'of all measures,' dear Tom, - so here goes !
- Here goes, for a swim on the stream of old Time,
- On those buoyant supporters, the bladders of rhyme.
- If our weight breaks them down and we sink in the flood,
- We are smother'd, at least, in respectable mud.
- Where the Divers of Bathos lie drown'd in a heap,
- And Southey's last Pæan has pillow'd his sleep; —
- That 'Felo de se' who, half drunk with his malmsey,
- Walk'd out of his depth and was lost in a calm sea,
- Singing 'Glory to God' in a spick and span stanza,
- The like (since Tom Sternhold was choked) never man saw.
 - The papers have told you, no doubt, of the fusses,
- The fêtes and the gapings to get at these Russes, —
- Of his Majesty's suite, up from coachman to Hetman, —
- And what dignity decks the flat face of the great man.
- I saw him, last week, at two balls d a party, ---

 For a prince, his demeanour was rather too hearty. You know, we are used to quite different graces, The Czar's look, I own, was much brighter and brisker, But then he is sadly deficient in whisker; And wore but a starless blue coat, and in kersey- mere breeches whisk'd round, in a waltz with the Jersey, Who, lovely as ever, seem'd just as delighted With majesty's presence as those she invited. June, 1814. [First published, 1830.] 	 FAMED for their civil and domestic quarrels, See heartless Henry lies by headless Charles; Between them stands another sceptred thing, It lives, it reigns — 'aye, every inch a king' Charles to his people, Henry to his wife, In him the double tyrant starts to hife' Justice and Death have mix'd their dust in vain, The royal Vampires join and rise again. What now can tombs avail, since these disgorge The blood and dirt of both to mould a George ! 1814.
WINDSOR POETICS LINES COMPOSED ON THE OCCASION OF HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCE RE- GENT BEING SEEN STANDING BETWEEN THE COFFINS OF HENRY VIII. AND CHARLES I., IN THE ROYAL VAULT AT WINDSOR FAMED for contemptuous breach of sacred ties, By headless Charles see heartless Henry lies ⁶ Between them stands another sceptred thing — It moves, it reigns — in all but name, a king: Charles to his people, Henry to his wife, — In him the double tyrant starts to life: Justice and death have mix'd their dust in vain, Each royal vampire wakes to life again. Ah, what can tombs avail ! — since these disgorge The blood and dust of both — to mould a George. [First published, 1819.] ON A ROYAL VISIT TO THE VAULTS OR CÆSAR'S DISCOVERY OF C I AND H 8 IN YE SAME VAULT [First published in the Edition of 1904 from a manuscript in the possession of Mr. Murray.]	ICH DIEN [First published in the Edition of 1904 from a manuscript in the possession of Mr. A. H. Hallam Murray. Dated by conjecture 1814.] FROM this emblem what variance your motto evences, For the Man is his country's — the Arms are the Prince's! 'HERE'S TO HER WHO LONG' [To Thomas Moore, September 20, 1814. On being accepted by Miss Milbanke.] HERE's to her who long Hath waked the poet's sigh! The girl who gave to song What gold could never buy. 'ONCE FAIRLY SET OUT ON HIS PARTY OF PLEASURE' [To Thomas Moore, March 27, 1815. On the return of Napoleon from Elba] ONCE fairly set out on his party of plea- sure, Taking towns at his liking and crowns at his leisure, From Elba to Lyons and Paris he goes, Making balls for the ladies, and boxes to his foes.

'IN THIS BELOVED MARBLE VIEW'	the destruction of machinery which was supposed to have occasioned the scarcity of labor]
[To John Murray, Venice, November 25, 1816. 'The Helen of Canova (a bust which is in the house of Madame the Countess d'Albrizzi, whom I know) is, without exception, to my mind, the most perfectly beautiful of human conceptions, and far beyond my ideas of human execution.')	As the Liberty lads o'er the sea Bought their freedom, and cheaply, with blood, So we, boys, we Will die fighting, or live free; And down with all kings but King Ludd!
 IN this beloved marble view Above the works and thoughts of Man, What Nature could, but would not, do, And Beauty and Canova can ! Beyond Imagination's power, Beyond the Bard's defeated art, With Immortality her dower, Behold the Helen of the heart ! 'AND DOST THOU ASK THE REASON OF MY SADNESS ?' 	 When the web that we weave is complete, And the shuttle exchanged for the sword, We will fing the winding-sheet O'er the despot at our feet, And dye it deep in the gore he has pour'd. Though black as his heart its hue, Since his vems are corrupted to mud, Yet this is the dew Which the tree shall renew Of Liberty, planted by Ludd !
 [To George Anson Byron (?). Dated by conjecture 1816.] AND dost thou ask the reason of my sadness? Well, I will tell it thee, unfeeling boy ! 'T was ill report that urged my brain to madness, 'T was thy tongue's venom poison'd all my joy. The sadness which thou seest is not sorrow; My wounds are far too deep for simple grief; The heart thus wither'd, seeks in vain to borrow From calm reflection, comfort or relief. 	 WHAT are you doing now, Oh Thomas Moore ? What are you doing now, Oh Thomas Moore ? Sighing or suing now, Rhyming or wooing now, Billing or cooing now, Which, Thomas Moore ? But the Carnival 's coming, Oh Thomas Moore ! The Carnival 's coming, Oh Thomas Moore ! Masking and humming, Fifing and drumming, Guitarring and strumming, Oh Thomas Moore !
The arrow's flown, and dearly shalt thou rue it; No mortal hand can rid me of my pain: My heart is pierced, but thou canst not subdue it — Revenge is left, and is not left in vain.	'SO WE'LL GO NO MORE A ROVING' [To Thomas Moore, Venice, February 28, 1817. 'At present. I am on the invalid regi- men myself The Caronal — that is, the latter wat of the and system we have a 'wichts had
 'AS THE LIBERTY LADS O'ER THE SEA' [To Thomas Moore, Venuce, December 24, 1816. The riots of the so-called Luddites broke out in 1811, and were aimed chiefly at 	part of it — and sitting up late o' nights, had knocked me up a little.'] So we 'll go no more a roving So late into the night, Though the heart be still as loving, And the moon be still as bright.

For the sword outwears its sheath, And the soul wears out the breast,

And the heart must pause to breathe, And Love itself have rest.

Though the night was made for loving, And the day returns too soon, Yet we'll go no more a roving

By the light of the moon.

'I READ THE "CHRISTABEL"'

[To Thomas Moore, March 25, 1817. 'Here are some versicles, which I made one sleepless mght.' The Missionary of the Andes is by Bowles, Ilderim, by H Gally Knight, Margaret of Anjou, by Margaret Holford, Waterloo and other Poems, by J. Wedderburn Webster, Glenarvon, a Novel, by Lady Caroline Lamb.]

I READ the Christabel; Very well: I read the Missionary; Pretty — very:

I tried at Ilderim;

Ahem!

I read a sheet of Marg'ret of Anjou; Can you?

I turn'd a page of Webster's Waterloo; Pooh! pooh!

I look'd at Wordsworth's milk-white Rylstone Doe ; Hillo !

I read Glenarvon, too, by Caro. Lamb — God damn !

'TO HOOK THE READER, YOU, JOHN MURRAY'

[To John Murray, March 25, 1817]

To hook the reader, you, John Murray, Have publish'd Anjou's Margaret,

Which won't be sold off in a hurry (At least, it has not been as yet);

And then, still further to bewilder 'em,

Without remorse you set up Ilderim; So mind you don't get into debt, Because as how, if you should fail, These books would be but baddish bail. And mind you do not let escape

These rhymes to Morning Post or Perry,

Which would be very treacherous - very, And get me into such a scrape ! For, firstly, I should have to sally,

All in my httle boat, against a Galley, And, should I chance to slay the Assyrian wight, Have next to combat with the female knight. And prick'd to death expire upon her needle, A sort of end which I should take indeed ill!

'GOD MADDENS HIM WHOM 'T IS HIS WILL TO LOSE'

[To John Murray, April 2, 1817. 'Quem Deus vult perdere prius dementat, which may be done into English thus · '--]

GOD maddens him whom 't is his will to lose,

And gives the choice of death or phrenzy — choose.

'MY BOAT IS ON THE SHORE'

[To Thomas Moore. July 10, 1817. 'This should have been written fifteen months ago the first stanza was I am just come out from an hour's swim in the Adriatic, and I write to you with a black-eyed Venetian girl before me, reading Boccaccio.' It would not be easy to find a better example than these stanzas of Byron's facility and grace.]

My boat is on the shore,

And my bark is on the sea; But, before I go, Tom Moore,

Here's a double health to thee !

Here's a sigh to those who love me, And a smile to those who hate;

And, whatever sky's above me, Here's a heart for every fate.

Though the ocean roar around me, Yet it still shall bear me on;

Though a desert should surround me, It hath springs that may be won.

Were 't the last drop in the well, As I gasp'd upon the brink, Ere my fainting spirit fell,

'T is to thee that I would drink.

With that water, as this wine, The hbation I would pour Should be — peace with thine and mine, And a health to thee, Tom Moore.

'NO INFANT SOTHEBY, WHOSE DAUNTLESS HEAD'	I've advertised, but see my books, Or only watch my Shopman's looks;— 3c Still Ivan, Ina, and such lumber,
[To John Murray, July 15, 1817. 'Have you	My back-shop glut, my shelves encumber.
no new Babe of Laterature sprung up to replace the dead, the distant, the tired, and the retired ?	There's Byron, too, who once did better, Has sent me, folded in a letter,
no prose, no verse, no nothing ?']	A sort of — it's no more a drama
No infant Sotheby, whose dauntless head	Than Daynley, Ivan, or Kehama;
Translates, misunderstood, a deal of Ger-	So alter'd since last year his pen is, I think he 's lost his wits at Venice,
No city Wordsworth, more admired than
read,	In short, sir, what with one and t'other,
No drunken Coleridge with a new Lay	I dare not venture on another. 40
Sermon.	I write in haste; excuse each blunder;
	The Coaches through the street so thun- der!
'DEAR DOCTOR, I HAVE READ	My Room 's so full; we 've Gifford here
YOUR PLAY'	Reading MSS., with Hookham Frere,
[To John Murray, August 21, 1817. Mur-	Pronouncing on the nouns and particles Of some of our forthcoming Articles.
ray had written to Byron 'Polidori has sent	The Quarterly — Ah, Sir, if you me his tragedy! Do me the kindness to send by return of post a delicate declension of it,	Had but the Genius to review !
which I engage faithfully to copy' The fol-	A smart Critique upon St. Helena, Or if you only would but tell in a 50
lowing is Byron's 'civil and delicate declen- sion for the medical tragedy.']	Short compass what — but, to resume:
	As I was saying, Sir, the Room
DEAR Doctor, I have read your play,	The Room's so full of wits and bards,
Which is a good one in its way, — Purges the eyes and moves the bowels,	Crabbes, Campbells, Crokers, Freres, d Wards
And drenches handkerchiefs like towels	And others, neither bards nor wits:
With tears, that, in a flux of grief,	My humble tenement admits
Afford hysterical relief	All persons in the dress of gent.,
To shatter'd nerves and quicken'd pulses, Which your catastrophe convulses.	From Mr Hammond to Dog Dent.
I like your moral and machinery;	A party dines with me to-day,
Your plot, too, has such scope for Scenery;	All clever men, who make their way; 60
Your dialogue is apt and smart; 11	Crabbe, Malcolm, Hamilton, and Chantrey,
The play's concoction full of art;	Are all partakers of my pantry.
Your hero raves, your heroine cries, All stab, and everybody dies.	They 're at this moment in discussion On poor De Stael's late dissolution.
In short, your tragedy would be	Her book, they say, was in advance
The very thing to hear and see;	Pray Heaven ! she tell the truth of France !
And for a piece of publication,	'T is said she certainly was married
If I decline on this occasion,	To Rocca, and had twice miscarried,
It is not that I am not sensible	No — not miscarried, I opine, —
To merits in themselves ostensible, 20 But and Lariana to smooth it mland	But brought to bed at forty-nine. 7*
But — and 1 grieve to speak it — plays Are drugs — mere drugs, Sir — now-a-days.	Some say she died a Papist; Some Are of opinion that 's a Hum;
I had a heavy loss by Manuel, —	I don't know that — the fellow, Schlegel,
Too lucky if it prove not annual, —	Was very likely to inveigle
And Sotheby, with his damn'd Orestes	A dying person in compunction
(Which, by the way, the old Bore's best is),	To try the extremity of Unction.
Has lain so very long on hand	But peace be with her! for a woman
That I despair of all demand.	Her talents surely were uncommon.

Her Publisher (and Public too) The hour of her demise may rue — 80 For never more within his shop he -Pray — was not she interr'd at Coppet? Thus run our time and tongues away. ---But, to return, Sir, to your play: Sorry, Sır, but I cannot deal Unless 't were acted by O'Neill. My hands are full, my head so busy, I'm almost dead, and always dizzy; And so, with endless truth and hurry, 89 Dear Doctor, I am yours, JOHN MURRAY. August, 1817. 'MY DEAR MR. MURRAY' [To John Murray, January 8, 1818. Byron was sending home the fourth canto of Childe Harold by his friend Hobhouse. The Edinburgh Monthly Magazine was begun in 1817.] My dear Mr. Murray, You 're m a damn'd hurry To set up this ultimate Canto; But (if they don't rob us) You'll see Mr. Hobhouse Will bring it safe in his portmanteau. For the Journal you hint of, As ready to print off, No doubt you do right to commend it; But as yet I have writ off 10 The devil a bit of Our Beppo: — when copied, I'll send it. In the mean time you 've ' Galley ' Whose verses all tally, Perhaps you may say he's a Ninny, But if you abash'd are Because of Alashtar, He 'll drivel another Phrosine. Then you've Sotheby's tour, No great things, to be sure, -You could hardly begin with a less work; For the pompous rascallion, Who don't speak Italian Nor French, must have scribbled by guess-work.

No doubt he's a rare man Without knowing German Translating his way up Parnassus,

And now still absurder He meditates Murder As you'll see in the trash he calls Tasso's. But you 've others his betters 31 The real men of letters Your Orators - Critics - and Wits, -And I'll bet that your Journal (Pray is it diurnal?) Will pay with your luckiest hits. You can make any loss up With 'Spence' and his gossip, A work which must surely succeed; Then Queen Mary's Epistle-craft, With the new 'Fytte' of 'Whistlecraft, Must make people purchase and read. Then you 've General Gordon, Who girded his sword on, To serve with a Muscovite Master; And help him to polish A nation so owlish, They thought shaving their beards a disaster. For the man, ' poor and shrewd,' With whom yoa 'd conclude 50 A compact without more delay, Perhaps some such pen is Still extant in Venice; But please, sir, to mention your pay. Now tell me some news Of your friends and the Muse Of the Bar, or the Gown, or the House, From Canning, the tall wit, To Wilmot, the small wit, Ward's creeping Companion and Louse, Who's so damnably bit 6т With fashion and Wit, That he crawls on the surface like Vermin, But an Insect in both, -By his Intellect's growth Of what size you may quickly determine.

[E NIHILO NIHIL;

OR AN EPIGRAM BEWITCHED]

[First published in Edition of 1904 from a manuscript in possession of Mr Murray.]

OF rhymes I printed seven volumes — The list concludes John Murray's colu s:

Of these there have been few translations For Gallic or Italian nations; And one or two perhaps in German, — But in this last I can't determine. But then I only sung of passions That do not suit with modern fashions; Of Incest and such like diversions Permitted only to the Persians, 10 Or Greeks to bring upon their stages -But that was in the earlier ages Besides my style is the romantic, Which some call fine, and some call frantic; While others are or would seem as sick Of repetitions nicknamed Classic. For my part all men must allow Whatever I was, I'm classic now. I saw and left my fault in time, And chose a topic all sublime ---20 Wondrous as antient war or hero -Then play'd and sung away like Nero, Who sang of Rome, and I of Rizzo: The subject has improved my wit so, The first four lines the poet sees Start forth in fourteen languages ! Though of seven volumes none before Could ever reach the fame of four, Henceforth I sacrifice all Glory To the Rinaldo of my Story: 30 I've sung his health and appetite (The last word 's not translated right — He 's turn'd it, God knows how, to vigour); I 'll sing them in a book that 's bigger. Oh ! Muse prepare for thy Ascension ! And generous Rizzo ! thou my pension.

February, 1818.

ON THE BIRTH OF JOHN WIL-LIAM RIZZO HOPPNER

HIS father's sense, his mother's grace, In hum, I hope, will always fit so; With — still to keep hum in good case — The health and appetite of Rizzo. February 20, 1818.

BALLAD

TO THE TUNE OF 'SALLY IN OUR ALLEY'

[First published complete in the Edition of 1904 from a manuscript in the possession of Mr Murray. This and the two following poems are in a letter to John Murray, dated April 11,1818.]

OF all the twice ten thousand bards That ever pe 'd a canto, Whom Pudding or whom Praise rewards For Immg a portmanteau;

Of all the poets ever known,

From Grub-street to Fop's Alley, The Muse may boast — the World must own There's none like pretty Gally !

- He writes as well as any Miss, Has publish'd many a poem; The shame is yours, the gam is his, In case you should not know 'em: He has ten thousand pounds a year — I do not mean to vally — His songs at sixpence would be dear,
- So give them gratis, Gally !
- And if this statement should seem queer, Or set down in a hurry, Go, ask (if he will be sincere)
- His bookseller John Murray. 20 Come, say, how many have been sold,
- And don't stand shilly-shally, Of bound and letter'd, red and gold, Well printed works of Gally.

For Astley's circus Upton writes, And also for the Surry (sic); Fitzgerald weekly still recites, Though grinning Critics worry: Miss Holford's Peg, and Sotheby's Saul,

- In fame exactly tally; 3c
- From Stationer's Hall to Grocer's Stall They go — and so does Gally.
- He rode upon a Camel's hump Through Araby the sandy,
- Which surely must have hurt the rump Of this poetic dandy
- His rhymes are of the costive kind, And barren as each valley
- In deserts which he left behind Has been the Muse of Gally.

He has a Seat in Parliament, Is fat and passing wealthy; And surely he should be content With these and being healthy: But Great Ambition will misrule Men at all risks to sally, — Now makes a poet — now a fool,

And we know which — of Gally. Some in the playhouse like to row, Some with the Watch to battle,

5

..

Exchanging many a midnight blow To Music of the Rattle. Some folks like rowing on the Thames,	'STRAHAN, TONSON, LINTOT OF THE TIMES'
Some rowing in an Alley, But all the Row my fancy claims Is rowing of my Gally.	STRAHAN, Tonson, Lintot of the times, Patron and publisher of rhymes, For thee the bard up Pindus climbs, My Murray.
ANOTHER SIMPLE BALLAT	To thee, with hope and terror dumb, The unfledged MS authors come;
[First published complete in the Edition of 1904 from a manuscript in the possession of Mr. Murray.]	Thou printest all — and sellest some — My Murray.
Mana Werene and an it the second	Upon thy table's baize so green
MRS. WILMOT sate scribbling a play, Mr. Sotheby sate sweating behind her; But what are all these to the Lay	The last new Quarterly is seen; But where is thy new Magazine,
Of Gally i. o. the Grinder ?	My Murray?
Gally i. o. 1. o., etc.	Along thy sprucest book-shelves shine
I bought me some books tother day,	The works thou deemest most divine — The Art of Cookery, and mine,
And sent them down stars to the binder; But the Pastry Cook carried away	My Murray.
My Gally i. o. the Grinder
Gally i. o i. o, etc. 10	Tours, Travels, Essays, too, I wist, And Sermons to thy mill bring grist;
I wanted to kindle my taper,	And then thou hast the Navy List,
And call'd to the Maid to remind her;	My Murray.
And what should she bring me for paper	And Heaven forbid I should conclude
But Gally i o. the Grinder. Gally i. o. i. o.	Without ' the Board of Longitude,'
Gally 1. 0. 1. 0.	Although this narrow paper would,
Among my researches for EASE	My Murray!
I went where one 's certain to find her:
The first thing by her throne that one sees Is Gally i. o. the Grinder.	'IF FOR SILVER, OR FOR GOLD'
Gally i. o. i. o. 20	[To John Murray, August 12, 1819. 'This was written on some Frenchwoman, by Rul- hières, I beheve ']
Away with old Homer the blind — I 'll show you a poet that 's blinder:
You may see him whene'er you 've a mind	IF for silver, or for gold, You could melt ten thousand pimples
In Gally i. o. the Grinder	Into half a dozen dimples,
Gally i o. i. o., etc.	Then your face we might behold,
Blindfold he runs groping for fame,	Looking, doubtless, much more smugly, Yet even then 't would 'be damn'd ugly.
And hardly knows where he will find her:
She don't seem to take to the name Of Gally i. o. the Grinder.	EPILOGUE
Gally i. o. i. o., etc. 30	[First published in Philadelphia Record.
Yet Critics have been very kind,	December 28, 1891]
And Mamma and his friends have been	THERE's something in a stupid ass, kinder; But the greatest of Glory 's behind	And something in a heavy dunce; But never since I went to school
For Gally i. o. the Grinder.	I heard or saw so damn'd a fool
Gally i. o. i. o.	As William Wordsworth is for once.

234

And now I 've seen so great a fool As William Wordsworth 1s for once; I really wish that Peter Bell And he who wrote it were in hell,	NEW SONG TO THE TUNE OF 'Whare hae ye been a' day,
For writing nonsense for the nonce. It saw the 'light in ninety-eight,'	My boy Tammy O? Courting o' a young thing, Just come frae her Mammie O??
Sweet babe of one and twenty years ! And then he gives it to the nation And deems himself of Shakespeare's peers !	[To John Murray, March 23, 1820. Hob- house had been committed to Newgate Prison for several weeks for a parliamentary 'breach of privilege.' He was chosen a member for Westminster at the next election]
He gives the perfect work to light ! Will Wordsworth, if I might advise, Content you with the praise you get From Sir George Beaumont, Baro- net,	How came you in Hob's pound to cocl, My boy Hobbie O ? Because I bade the people pull The House into the Lobby O.
And with your place in the Excise ! 1819.	What did the House upon this call, My boy Hobbie O?
'HERE'S A HAPPY NEW YEAR' BUT WITH REASON'	They voted me to Newgate all, Which is an awkward Jobby O.
[To Thomas Moore, January 2, 1820. The anniversary of his wedding]	Who are now the people's men, My boy Hobbie O? There's I and Burdett — Gentlemen, And blackguard Hunt and Cobby O.
 HERE's a happy new year! but with reason, I beg you'll permit me to say — Wish me many returns of the season, But as few as you please of the day. 	You hate the house — why canvass, then, My boy Hobbie O? Because I would reform the den
I send you an epitaph for Castlereagh: —	As member for the Mobby O.
POSTERITY will ne'er survey A nobler grave than this; Here he the bones of Castlereagh: Stop, traveller,	Wherefore do you hate the Whigs, My boy Hobbe O? Because they want to run their rigs, As under Walpole Bobby O. 26 But when we at Cambridge were,
Another for Pitt: —	My boy Hobbie O,
WITH death doom'd to grapple, Beneath this cold slab, he	If my memory don't err, You founded a Whig Clubby O.
Who lied in the Chapel Now lies in the Abbey.	When to the mob you make a speech, My boy Hobbie O, How do you keep without their reach
The gods seem to have made me poetical this day:	The watch within your fobby O?
IN digging up your bones, Tom Paine, Will. Cobbett has done well. You visit him on earth again, He 'll visit you in hell.	But never mind such petty things, My boy Hobbie O; 3' God save the people — damn all Kings, So let us Crown the Mobby O !

-

'WOULD YOU GO TO THE HOUSE BY THE TRUE GATE'

[To John Murray, April 9, 1820. 'I send you "a Song of Trumph" by W. Botherby, Esq^{re}, price simplence, on the Election of J C. H. Esqre for Westminster (not for publication).']

- Would you go to the House by the true gate,
 - Much faster than ever Whig Charley went;

Let Parliament send you to Newgate,

And Newgate will send you to Parhament.

YOU ASK FOR A "VOLUME OF NONSENSE"'

[To John Murray, September 28, 1820]

You ask for a ' Volume of Nonsense,'

Have all of your authors exhausted their store ?

I thought you had publish'd a good deal not long since,

And doubtless the Squadron are ready with more.

But on looking again, I perceive that the Species

- Of 'Nonsense' you want must be purely 'facetious;'
- And, as that is the case, you had best put to press
- Mr. Sotheby's tragedies now in MSS. Some Syrian Sally

From common-place Gally,

Or, if you prefer the bookmaking of women, Take a spick and Span 'Sketch' of your feminine He-man.

'WHEN A MAN HATH NO FREE-DOM TO FIGHT FOR AT HOME'

[To Thomas Moore, November 5, 1820.]

- WHEN a man hath no freedom to fight for at home,
 - Let him combat for that of his neighbours;
- Let him think of the glories of Greece and of Rome,

And get knock'd on the head for his labours.

- To do good to mankind is the chivalrous plan, And 1s always as nobly requited;
- Then battle for freedom wherever you can, And, if not shot or hang'd, you 'll get knighted

Here is one I wrote for the endorsement of 'the Deed of Separation' in 1816; but the lawyers objected to it, as superfluous. It was written as we were getting up the signing and sealing. — has the original.

ENDORSEMENT TO THE DEED OF SEPARATION, IN THE APRIL OF 1816

A YEAR ago you swore, fond she ! 'To love, to honour,' and so forth: Such was the vow you pledged to me, And here's exactly what't is worth.

For the anniversary of January 2, 1821, I have a small grateful anticipation, which, in case of accident, I add —

TO PENELOPE, JANUARY 2, 1821

THIS day, of all our days, has done The worst for me and you: --

'T is just siv years since we were one, And five since we were two.

'THROUGH LIFE'S DULL ROAD, SO DIM AND DIRTY'

[From Byron's Diary, January 21, 1821 'It is three minutes past twelve . . . and I am now thirty-three.']

THROUGH life's dull road, so dim and dirty, I have dragg'd to three-and-thirty. What have these years left to me? Nothing — except thirty-three. January 22, 1821.

'THE BRAZIERS, IT SEEMS, ARE PREPARING TO PASS'

[To Thomas Moore, January 22, 1821. 'Have you heard that the "Braziers' Company" have or mean to present an address at Brandenburgh House, "in armour," and with all possible variety and splendour of brazen apparel?'] THE braziers, it seems, are preparing to pass An address, and present it themselves all in brass —

- A superfluous pageant for, by the Lord Harry,
- They'll find where they're going much more than they carry.

There's an Ode for you, is it not? — worthy

- Of Wordsworth, the grand metaquizzical poet,
- A man of vast merit, though few people know it;
- The perusal of whom (as I told you at Mestri)
- I owe, in great part, to my passion for pastry.

THOUGHTS FOR A SPEECH OF LUCIFER, IN THE TRAGEDY | OF 'CAIN'

[From Byron's Diary, January 28, 1821]

WERE Death an evil, would I let thee live ? Fool ! live as I live — as thy father lives, And thy sons' sons shall live for evermore.

BOWLES AND CAMPBELL

To the air of 'How now, Madame Flirt,' in the Beggars' Opera

[To Thomas Moore, February 22, 1821]

Bowles. Why, how now, saucy Tom, If you thus must ramble, I will publish some Remarks on Mr Campbell.

ANSWER

Campbell. Why, how now, Billy Bowles? Sure the priest is maudlin ! (To the public.) How can you, damn your souls ! Listen to his twaddling?

ELEGY

BEHOLD the blessings of a lucky lot! My play is damn'd, and Lady Noel not. May 25, 1821.

'THE WORLD IS A BUNDLE OF HAY'

[To Thomas Moore. June 22, 1821. 'You say nothing of politics — but, alas! what can be said ⁹']

THE world is a bundle of hay, Mankınd are the asses who pull, Each tugs it a different way,— And the greatest of all is John Bull!

'BRAVE CHAMPIONS' GO ON WITH THE FARCE'

[To John Murray, June 29, 1821 'So Canning and Burdett have been quarrelling if I mstake not, the last time of their single combats, each was shot in the thigh by his Antagonist, and their Correspondence might be headed thus, by any wicked wag.']

BRAVE Champions ! go on with the farce ! Reversing the spot where you bled;

Last time both were shot in the . . .; Now (damn you) get knock'd on the head !

'WHO KILL'D JOHN KEATS?'

[To John Murray, July 30, 1821. 'Are you aware that Shelley has written an elegy on Keats, and accuses the Quarterly of killing him 9 '-Byron alludes again to this matter, Don Juan, xi. 60]

"WHO kıll'd John Keats?" "I,' says the Quarterly, So savage and Tartarly; "T was one of my feats."

"Who shot the arrow ?" "The poet-priest Milman (So ready to kill man), Or Southey or Barrow!"

FROM THE FRENCH

[To Thomas Moore, August 2, 1821. 'Ecco a translation literal of a French epigram.']

ÆGLE, beauty and poet, has two little crimes;

She makes her own face, and does not make her rhymes.

'FOR ORFORD AND FOR WALDEGRAVE'

[To John Murray, August 23, 1821. Murray had offered £2000 for Sandanapalus, The Two Foscari and three cantos of Don Juan. Murray was the publisher of Walpole's Memours of the last Nine Years of the Reign of George II, and of Memoirs by James Earl Waldegrave.]

For Orford and for Waldegrave You give much more than me you gave; Which is not fairly to behave, My Murray !

Because if a live dog, 't is said, Be worth a Lion fairly sped, A live lord must be worth two dead, My Murray !

And if, as the opinion goes, Verse hath a better sale than prose -Certes, I should have more than those, My Murray !

But now this sheet is nearly cramm'd, So, if you will, I shan't be shamm'd, And if you won't, - you may be damn'd, My Murray.

WHAT MATTER THE PANGS OF A HUSBAND AND FATHER'

[To Thomas Moore, September 29, 1821. In this letter Byron inclosed a letter to Lady Byron and also a poem written some time before on seeing a paragraph in a newspaper to the effect that Lady Byron had been 'Lady Patroness of the Charity Ball given in the Town Hall at Hinckley.']

WHAT matter the pangs of a husband and father.

If his sorrows in exile be great or be small, So the Pharisee's glories around her she gather, And the saint patronizes her 'Charity Ball.'

- What matters a heart which, though faulty was feeling,
 - Be driven to excesses which once could appal -
- That the sinner should suffer is only fair dealing, As the saint keeps her charity back for

' the Ball !'

[NAPOLEON'S SNUFF-BOX]

[See Medwin's Conversations of Lord Byron. page 235.]

LADY, accept the box a hero wore, In spite of all this elegiac stuff:

Let not seven stanzas written by a bore, Prevent your Ladyship from taking snuff I 1821.

EPIGRAMS

OH, Castlereagh ! thou art a patriot now;

Cato died for his country, so didst thou:

- He perish'd rather than see Rome enslaved,
- Thou cutt'st thy throat that Britain may be saved !

So Castlereagh has cut his throat !- The worst

Of this is, - that his own was not the first.

So He has cut his throat at last !- He ! Who ?

The man who cut his country's long ago. August, 1822.

THE NEW VICAR OF BRAY

[George Frederick Nott (1767-1841) was Rector of Harrietsham and Woodchurch. While in Italy he preached in the basement story of Shelley's house at Pisa. He attacked the Satanic school, and especially Byron's Cain.]

Do you know Dr. Nott?

- With 'a crook in his lot.' Who seven years since tried to dish up
- A neat Codicil

To the Princess's Will,

Which made Dr. Nott not a bishop.

So the Doctor being found A little unsound

In his doctrine, at least as a teacher, And kick'd from one stool

As a knave or a fool, He mounted another as preacher.

In that Gown (like the Skin With no Lion within) He still for the Bench would be driving;

xø

And roareth away, Is made up of kisses; A new Vicar of Bray, But, in love, oft the case is Except that his bray lost his living Even stranger than this is -There's another, that's slyer, 'Gainst Freethinkers,' he roars, Who touches me nigher, -'You should all block your doors 20 A Witch, an intriguer, Or be named in the Devil's indentures:' Whose manner and figure And here I agree. Now piques me, excites me, For who e'er would be Torments and delights me ---A Guest where old Simony enters? Cætera desunt. Let the Priest, who beguiled His own Sovereign's child MARTIAL, LIB. I. EPIG. I. To his own dirty views of promotion, Wear his Sheep's clothing still Hic est, quem legis, ille, quem requiris, Toto notus in orbe Martialis, etc Among flocks to his will, And dishonour the Cause of devotion. 20 HE, unto whom thou art so partial, The Altar and Throne Oh. reader ! is the well-known Martial, The Epigrammatist. while hving, Are in danger alone From such as himself, who would render Give him the fame thou wouldst be giving; The Altar itself But a step up to Pelf, So shall he hear, and feel, and know it -And pray God to pay his defender. Post-obits rarely reach a poet. But, Doctor, one word Which perhaps you have heard: THE CONQUEST 'He should never throw stones who has windows [This fragment was found amongst Lord Of Glass to be broken, Byron's papers, after his departure from Genoa 40 for Greece.] And by this same token As a sinner, you can't care what Sin does. THE Son of Love and Lord of War I sing; 'But perhaps you do well: Him who bade England bow to Nor-Your own windows, they tell, mandy, Have long ago suffered censure; And left the name of conqueror more than Not a fragment remains king Of your character's panes, To his unconquerable dynasty. Since the Regent refused you a glazier. Not fann'd alone by Victory's fleeting wing, He rear'd his bold and brilliant throne on 'Though your visions of lawn Have all been withdrawn, high The Bastard kept, like lions, his prey fast, And you miss'd your bold stroke for a mitre; And Britain's bravest victor was the last. In a very snug way You may still preach and pray, March 8-9, 1823. And from bishop sink into backbiter!' [First published, 1831.] IMPROMPTU BENEATH Blessington's eyes LUCIETTA. A FRAGMENT The reclaim'd Paradise Should be free as the former from evil; First published in the Edition of 1904 from But if the new Eve a manuscript in the possession of Mr. Murray.] For an Apple should grieve, What mortal would not play the Devil? LUCIETTA, my deary, That fairest of faces ! April. 1823.

JOURNAL IN CEPHALONIA

[First published in the Letters, 1901]

- THE dead have been awaken'd shall I sleep?
- The World's at war with tyrants shall I crouch?
- The harvest's ripe and shall I pause to reap?

I slumber not, the thorn is in my Couch; Each day a trumpet soundeth in mine ear,

Its echo in my heart -

June 19, 1823.

SONG TO THE SULIOTES

[First published in Edition of 1904 from a manuscript in possession of Mr. Murray.]

UP to battle ! Sons of Suli Up, and do your duty duly ! There the wall — and there the Moat is: Bouwah ! Bouwah ! Suhotes ! There is booty — there is Beauty, Up my boys and do your duty.

By the sally and the rally Which defied the arms of Ali; By your own dear native Highlands, By your children in the islands, Up and charge, my Stratiotes, Bouwah ! — Bouwah ! — Sullotes !

As our ploughshare is the Sabre: Here's the harvest of our labour; For behind those batter'd breaches Are our foes with all their riches: There is Glory — there is plunder — Then away despite of thunder!

SATIRES

[The seven Satires here grouped together represent work extending from Byron's twentieth to his thirty-sixth year, from the beginning, that is, to the end of his poetical career Two distinct, and sometimes hostile, veins are to be noted in Byron's genius, - one romantic and lyrical, connecting him with the revolutionary poets of the day, the other saturical and neo-classic, deriving from the school of Queen Anne In Childe Harold and the Tales the first vein is to be seen almost pure, in the Satires the second reigns practically unmixed; in Don Juan the two are inextricably blended, giving the real Byron. the full poet. — The history of the Satires is briefly as follows As early as October, 1807, Byron had written a satirical poem which he called British Bards This was printed in quarto sheets (but never published), one set of which is now in the British Museum. Lord Brougham s review of Hours of Idleness appeared in the Edinburgh Review of January, 1808 Spurred to revenge the scant courtesy shown him in that essay, Byron added to his satirical verses and published them anonymously as English Bards and Scotch Reviewers, in March, 1809 These began with the ninety-seventh line of the present poem A second edition, to which he prefixed his name, followed in October of the same year, and a third and fourth were called for during his 'pilgrimage' in 1810 and 1811 On returning to England he revised the work for a fifth edition, which was actually printed when he suddenly resolved to suppress it. Several copies, however, escaped destruction, and from one of these the poem as it now appears in his Works derives. Byron often in later years regretted the induscriminate sarcasm of this Satire, but the trick of flinging barbed arrows right and left he never forgot Many of the judgments, though extravagant in expression as befits the Muse of Juvenal are shrewdly penetrating — Hints from Horace was always a favorite of the author's, but is little read to-day It was, however, for various reasons not published in the author's lifetime, and was first included among his Works in the Murray edition of 1831 - The Curse of Minerva is dated by Byron himself, Athens, March 17, 1811. It was to be published, as was also Hints from Horace, in the volume with the fifth edition of the Bards, and Moore states that The Curse of Minerva, and with it necessarily the other two poems, was suppressed out of deference to Lord Elgin. It was, curiously enough, first published in Philadelphia in 1815 - Byron wrote The Waltz in 1812 and published it anonymously in the spring of the following year It exhibits at once the indignation felt by many English folk at the introduction of this form of 'round dancing' from Germany, and more particularly, that almost morbid sense of modesty which Byron. like many another man of rakish habits, so often manifested in words throughout his life - The Blues, 'a mere buffoonery,' as Byron calls it, was 'scribbled' at Ravenna, August 6, 1821, and is apparently a mere unprovoked effervescence of wit. It was published anonymously in Leigh Hunt's Liberal of April 26, 1823. — Into the long quarrel between Southey, the reformed radical and obliging poet-laureate, and Byron, leader of the 'Satanic school,' there is neither space nor occasion here to enter. The result on Byron's side notably the Dedication to Don Juan and The Vision of Judgment, was the writing of some of the most enjoyable sature ever penned George III. died January 29, 1820, Southey's apotheosis of that monarch was published in April of the next year as A Vision of Judgment. The mexpressible flatness and absurdity of the hexameters which composed this poem cried out for ridicale, and Byron was ready. He sent the manuscript of his satire of the same name to Murray, October 4, 1821; Murray, Newver, cautionsly refrained from printing, and the poem was first published in the Liberal of October 15, 1822 — The Age of Bronze was composed in December of 1822 and January of 1823, and three months later was published by John Hunt without the anthor's name. The poem contains a rapid survey of Napoleon's career, of the Congress of the Allied Powers at Verona, 1822, and the political difficulties of Great Britam of that year.]

ENGLISH BARDS AND SCOTCH REVIEWERS

A SATIRE

I had rather be a kitten, and cry mew ' Than one of these same metre ballad-mongers ' SHARSPEARE

'Such shameless bards we have; and yet 't is true, There are as mad, abandon'd critics too.'

-

PREFACE

All my friends, learned and unlearned, have urged me not to publish this Satire with my name If I were to be ' turned from the career of my humour by quibbles quick, and paper bullets of the brain. I should have complied with their counsel. But I am not to be terrified by abuse, or bullied by reviewers, with or without arms. I can safely say that I have attacked none personally, who did not commence on the offensive An author's works are public property he who purchases may judge, and publish his opinion if he pleases; and the authors I have endeavoured to commemorate may do by me as I have done by them. I dare say they will succeed better in condemning my scribblings, than in mending their own. But my object is not to prove that I can write well, but, if possible, to make others write better.

As the poem has met with far more success than I expected, I have endeavoured in this edition to make some additions and alterations, to render it more worthy of public perusal.

In the first edition of this satire, published anonymously, fourteen lines on the subject of Bowles's Pope were written by, and inserted at the request of, an ingenous friend of mine, who has now in the press a volume of poetry. In the present edition they are erased, and some of my own substituted in their stead, my only reason for this being that which I conceive would operate with any other person in the same manner, — a determination not to publish with my name any production, which was not entirely and exclusively my own composition.

With regard to the real talents of many of the poetical persons whose performances are mentioned or alluded to in the following pages, it is presumed by the author that there can be little difference of opinion in the public at large; though, like other sectaries, each has his separate tabernacle of proselytes, by whom his abilities are over-rated, his faults overlooked, and his metrical canons received without scruple and without consideration. But the unquestionable possession of considerable genius by several of the writers here censured renders their mental prostitution more to be regretted Imbecility may be pitied, or, at worst, laughed at and forgotten; perverted powers demand the most decided reprehension. No one can wish more than the author that some known and able writer had undertaken their exposure, but Mr Gifford has devoted himself to Massinger, and, in the absence of the regular physician, a country practitioner may. in cases of absolute necessity, be allowed to prescribe his nostrum to prevent the extension of so deplorable an epidemic, provided there be no quackery in his treatment of the malady A caustic is here offered : as it is to be feared nothing short of actual cautery can recover the numerous patients afflicted with the present prevalent and distressing rabies for rhvming -As to the Edinburgh Reviewers it would indeed require an Hercules to crush the Hydra, but if the author succeeds in merely 'bruising one of the heads of the serpent,' though his own hand should suffer in the encounter. he will be amply satisfied.

STILL must I hear?—shall hoarse Fitzgerald bawl

His creaking couplets in a tavern hall,

And I not sing, lest, haply, Scotch reviews Should dub me scribbler and denounce my muse?

Prepare for rhyme - I'll publish, right or wrong:

Fools are my theme, let satire be my song

Oh, nature's noblest gift, my grey goose-	Speed, Pegasus ! ye strains of great i small, quill ! Slave of my thoughts, obedient to my will,	Ode, epic, elegy, have at you all !
Torn from thy parent bird to form a pen,	I too can scrawl, and once upon a time
That mighty instrument of little men! 10	I pour'd along the town a flood of rhyme,
The pen! foredoom'd to aid the mental throes	A schoolboy freak, unworthy praise or blame;
Of brains that labour, big with verse or	I printed — older children do the same. 50 'T is pleasant, sure, to see one's name in prose, Though nymphs forsake, and critics may	print;
deride, The lover's solace and the author's pride.	A book 's a book, although there 's nothing in 't.
What wits! what poets dost thou daily	Not that a title's sounding charm can save raise !	Or scrawl or scribbler from an equal grave:
How frequent is thy use, how small thy praise,	This Lambe must own, since his patrician name
Condemn'd at length to be forgotten quite, With all the pages which 't was three to	Fail'd to preserve the spurious farce from shame.
write.	No matter, George continues still to write,
But thou, at least, mine own especial pen ! Once laid aside, but now assumed again, 20	Though now the name is veil'd from pub- lic sight.
Our task complete like Hamet's, shall be free;	Moved by the great example, I pursue The self-same road, but make my own re-
Though spurn'd by others, yet beloved by	view: 60
me: Then let us soar to-day; no common theme,	Not seek great Jeffrey's, yet like him will be
No eastern vision, no distemper'd dream	Self-constituted judge of poesy.
Inspires — our path, though full of thorns, is plain;	A man must serve his time to ev'ry trade
Smooth be the verse, and easy be the strain.	Save censure — critics all are ready made.
When Wiss triumphant holds has son'	Take hackney'd jokes from Miller, got by
When Vice triumphant holds her sov'- reign sway,	rote, With just enough of learning to misquote;
Obey'd by all who nought beside obey;	A mind well skill'd to find or forge a fault;
When Folly, frequent harbinger of crime,	A turn for punning, call it Attic salt;
Bedecks her cap with bells of every clime;	To Jeffrey go, be silent and discreet,
When knaves and fools combined o'er all	H1s pay is just ten sterling pounds per sheet: 70
And weigh their justice in a golden scale;	Fear not to lie, 't will seem a sharper hit;
E'en then the boldest start from public	Shrink not from blasphemy, 't will pass for sneers, Afrid of shame, unknown to other fears	wit; Care not for feeling — pass your proper jest,
Afraid of shame, unknown to other fears, More darkly sin, by satire kept in awe,	And stand a critic, hated yet caress'd.
And shrink from ridicule though not from law.	And shall we own such judgment? no-
Such is the force of wit! but not belong	Seek roses in December, ice in June;
To me the arrows of satiric song;	Hope constancy in wind, or corn in chaff;
The royal vices of our age demand	Believe a woman or an epitaph, Or any other thing that 's false, before
A keener weapon and a mightier hand. 40 Still there are follies, e'en for me to	You trust in critics, who themselves are chase,	sore, 8c
And yield at least amusement in the race.	Or yield one single thought to be misled
Laugh when I laugh, I seek no other fame;	By Jeffrey's heart or Lambe's Bœotian
The cry is up, and scribblers are my game.	head.

To these young tyrants, by themselves mis-	Then Congreve's scenes could cheer, or placed,	Otway's melt —
Combined usurpers on the throne of taste, To these, when authors bend in humble	For nature then an English audience felt But why these names, or greater still, re-
awe, And hail their voice as truth, their word	trace, When all to feebler bards resign their
as law — While these are concore it mould be sin to	place ?
While these are censors, 't would be sin to spare;	Yet to such times our lingering looks are cast,
While such are critics, why should I for- bear?	When taste and reason with those times are past.
But yet, so near all modern worthies run,	Now look around, and turn each triffing
'T is doubtful whom to seek, or whom to	page,
shun; 90	Survey the precious works that please the
Nor know we when to spare, or where to	age;
strike, Our bards and censors are so much alike.	This truth at least let satire's self allow, No dearth of bards can be complain'd of our parties and censors are so much anke.	now.
Then should you ask me, why I venture	The loaded press beneath her labour groans,
o'er	And printers' devils shake their weary
The path which Pope and Gifford trod be-	bones;
fore;	While Southey's epics cram the creaking
If not yet sicken'd, you can still proceed: Go on; my rhyme will tell you as you read.	shelves, And Little's lyrics shine in hot-press'd
'But hold !' exclams a friend, 'here 's	twelves.
some neglect:	Thus saith the preacher. 'Nought beneath
This, that, and t'other line seem incor-	the sun
rect.'	Is new;'yet still from change to change
What then? the self-same blunder Pope	What varied wonders tempt us as they
And careless Dryden — 'Ay, but Pye has	pass !
not.'-	The cow-pox, tractors, galvanism, and gas,
Indeed ! — 't is granted, faith ! — but what	In turns appear, to make the vulgar stare, care I?	Till the swoln bubble bursts — and all is Better to err with Pope than shine with	air ' Nor less new schools of Poetry arise,
Руе	Where dull pretenders grapple for the
Time was, ere yet in these degenerate	prize.
days	O'er taste awhile these pseudo-bards pre-
Ignoble themes obtain'd mistaken praise,	vail;
When sense and wit with poesy allied,	Each country book-club bows the knee to Baal,
No fabled graces, flourish'd side by side; From the same fount their inspiration drew,	And, hurling lawful genius from the throne,
And, rear'd by taste, bloom'd fairer as they	Erects a shrine and idol of its own; 140
grew.	Some leaden calf — but whom it matters
Then, in this happy isle, a Pope's pure	not,
stram	From soaring Southey down to grovelling
Sought the rapt soul to charm, nor sought in van;	Stott.
A polish'd nation's praise aspired to claim,	Behold ' in various throngs the scribbling
And raised the people's, as the poet's fame.	crew,
Like him great Dryden pour'd the tide of	For notice eager, pass in long review:
song,	Each spurs his jaded Pegasus apace,

- In stream less smooth, indeed, yet doubly And rhyme and blank maintain an equal strong.

Well might triumphant genii bear thee	If Inspiration should her aid refuse
hence,	To him who takes a pixy for a muse, 263
Illustrious conqueror of common sense '	Yet none in lofty numbers can surpass
Now, last and greatest, Madoc spreads his	The bard who soars to elegise an ass.
sails, 221	So well the subject suits his noble mind,
Cacique in Mexico, and prince in Wales;	He brays, the laureat of the long-ear'd
Tells us strange tales, as other travellers do,	kind.
More old than Mandeville's, and not so true.	Ob any lar marking Large I monk on
Oh, Southey! Southey! cease thy varied ' song!	Oh, wonder-working Lewis! monk, or bard,
A bard may chant too often and too long.	Who fam wouldst make Parnassus a church-
As thou art strong in verse, in mercy,	yard !
spare !	Lo! wreaths of yew, not laurel, bind thy
A fourth, alas! were more than we could	brow,
bear.	Thy muse a sprite, Apollo's sexton thou !
But if, in spite of all the world can say,	Whether on ancient tombs thou takest thy
Thou still wilt verseward plod thy weary	stand,
way; 230	By gibb'ring spectres hail'd, thy kindred
If still in Berkley ballads most uncivil,	band; 270
Thou wilt devote old women to the devil,	Or tracest chaste descriptions on thy page,
The babe unborn thy dread intent may rue:	To please the females of our modest age;
God help thee,' Southey, and thy readers	All hall, M. P. ! from whose infernal brain
too.	Thin sheeted phantoms glide, a grisly train;
	At whose command 'grim women' throng
Next comes the dull disciple of thy	in crowds,
school,	And kings of fire, of water, and of clouds,
That mild apostate from poetic rule,	With 'small grey men,' 'wild yagers,' and
The simple Wordsworth, framer of a lay	what not,
As soft as evening in his favourite May,	To crown with honour thee and Walter
Who warns his friend 'to shake off toil and	Scott.
trouble,	Again all hail! if tales like thine may please,
And quit his books, for fear of growing	St. Luke alone can vanquish the disease;
double;' 240	Even Satan's self with thee might dread to
Who, both by precept and example, shows	dwell, 281
That prose is verse, and verse is merely	And in thy skull discern a deeper hell.
prose;
Convincing all, by demonstration plain,	Who in soft guise, surrounded by a choir
Poetic souls delight in prose insane;	Of virgins melting, not to Vesta's fire,
And Christmas stories tortured into rhyme	With sparkling eyes, and cheek by passion
Contain the essence of the true sublime.	flush'd,
Thus, when he tells the tale of Betty Foy,	Strikes his wild lyre, whilst listening dames
The idiot mother of 'an idiot boy;'	are hush'd?
A moon-struck, silly lad, who lost his way,	'T is Little ! young Catullus of his day,
And, like his bard, confounded night with	As sweet, but as immoral, in his lay !
day; 250	Grieved to condemn, the muse must still be
So close on each pathetic part he dwells,	just,
And each adventure so sublimely tells,	Nor spare melodious advocates of lust. 290
That all who view the 'idiot in his glory'	Pure is the flame which o'er her altar burns;
Conceive the bard the hero of the story.	From grosser incense with disgust she turns:

Shall gentle Coleridge pass unnoticed here,

To turgit ode and turnid stanza dear? Though themes of innocence amuse him best, Yet still obscurity's a welcome guest. Yet kind to youth, this explation o'er, She bids thee 'mend thy line, and sin no more.'

For thee, translator of the tinsel song, To whom such glittering ornaments belong, Hibernian Strangford ! with thine eves of Whether thou sing'st with equal ease, and blue, grief, And boasted locks of red or auburn hue, The fall of empires or a yellow leaf; Whether thy muse most lamentably tells Whose plaintive strain each love-sick miss admures, What merry sounds proceed from Oxford And o'er harmonious fustian half expires. bells. Learn, if thou canst, to yield thine author's Or, still in bells delighting, finds a friend In every chime that jungled from Ostend; sense, 301 Nor vend thy sonnets on a false pretence. Ah ! how much juster were thy muse's hap, Think'st thou to gain thy verse a higher If to thy bells thou wouldst but add a cap ! Delightful Bowles ! still blessing and still place. By dressing Camoens in a suit of lace? blest, 341 Mend, Strangford ! mend thy morals and All love thy strain, but children like it best. 'T is thine, with gentle Little's moral song, thy taste; Be warm, but pure; be amorous, but be To soothe the mania of the amorous throng ! chaste: With thee our nursery damsels shed their Cease to deceive; thy pilfer'd harp retears. store. Ere miss as yet completes her infant years: Nor teach the Lusian bard to copy Moore. But in her teens thy whining powers are vain: Behold !- ye tarts ! one moment spare She quits poor Bowles for Little's purer the text -strain Hayley's last work, and worst — until his Now to soft themes thou scornest to connext; fine Whether he spin poor couplets into plays, The lofty numbers of a harp like thine; 350 Or damn the dead with purgatorial praise, 'Awake a louder and a lofter strain,' His style in youth or age is still the same, Such as none heard before, or will again ! For ever feeble and for ever tame. Where all Discoveries jumbled from the Triumphant first see Temper's Triumphs flood. shine! Since first the leaky ark reposed in mud, At least I 'm sure they triumph'd over mine. By more or less, are sung in every book. Of Music's Triumphs, all who read may From Captain Noah down to Captain Cook. swear Nor this alone; but, pausing on the road, That luckless music never triumph'd there. The bard sighs forth a gentle episode: And gravely tells — attend, each beauteous Moravians, rise ! bestow some meet remiss ! -When first Madeira trembled to a kiss. 360 ward On dull devotion - Lo! the Sabbath bard, Bowles ' in thy memory let this precept Sepulchral Grahame, pours his notes subdwell, lime Stick to thy sonnets, man !- at least they In mangled prose, nor e'en aspires to rhyme; sell. Breaks into blank the Gospel of St. Luke, But if some new-born whim, or larger bribe. And boldly pilfers from the Pentateuch; Prompt thy crude brain, and claim thee for And, undisturb'd by conscientious qualms, a scribe: Perverts the Prophets, and purloins the If chance some bard, though once by dunces Psalms. fear'd, Now, prone in dust, can only be revered; Hail, Sympathy ! thy soft idea brings If Pope, whose fame and genius from the A thousand visions of a thousand things, first And shows, still whimpering through three-Have foil'd the best of critics, needs the score of years, worst. The maudlin prince of mournful sonneteers. Do thou essay: each fault, each failing scan; And art thou not their prince, harmonious The first of poets was, alas ! but man. 370 Rake from each ancient dunghill ev'ry pearl, Bowles! Thou first, great oracle of tender souls? Consult Lord Fanny, and confide in Curll;

246

As Sisyphus against the infernal steep Rolls the huge rock whose motions ne'er may sleep, So up thy hill, ambrosial Richmond, heaves Dull Maurice all his granite weight of leaves: Smooth, solid monuments of mental pain ! The petrifactions of a plodding brain, That, ere they reach the top, fall lumbering back again. With broken lyre and cheek serenely pale, Lo ! sad Alcæus wanders down the vale; Though fair they rose, and might have bloom'd at last, 420 His hopes have perish'd by the northern blast: Nipp'd in the bud by Caledonian gales, His blossoms wither as the blast prevails ! O'er his lost works let classic Sheffield weep; May no rude hand disturb their early sleep! Yet say ! why should the bard at once resign His claim to favour from the sacred Nine ? For ever startled by the mingled how! Of northern wolves, that still in darkness prow!; A coward brood, which mangle as they prey, 430 By hellish instinct, all that cross their way; Aged or young, the living or the dead, No mercy find — these harpies must be fed. Why do the injured unresisting yield The calm possession of their native field ? Why tamely thus before their fangs retreat, Nor hunt the bloodhounds back to Arthur's Seat ?
 Health to immortal Jeffrey ! once, in name, England could boast a judge almost the same; In soul so like, so merciful, yet just, 440 Some think that Satan has resign'd his trust, And given the spirit to the world again, To sentence letters, as he sentenced men. With hand less mighty, but with heart as black, With voice as willing to decree the rack; Bred in the courts betimes, though all that law As yet hath taught him is to find a flaw;

Since well instructed in the patriot school To rail at party, though a party tool — Who knows, if chance his patrons should restore 450

Back to the sway they forfeited before,

His scribbling toils some recompense may meet,

And raise this Daniel to the judgment-seat? Let Jeffries' shade indulge the pious hope, And greeting thus, present him with a rope: 'Heir to my virtues ! man of equal mind ! Sk:ll'd to condemn as to traduce mankind, This cord receive, for thee reserved with care,

To wield in judgment, and at length to wear.'

Health to great Jeffrey! Heaven preserve his life 460

To flourish on the fertile shores of Fife, And guard it sacred in its future wars,

Since authors sometimes seek the field of Mars!

Can none remember that eventful day,

That ever glorious, almost fatal fray,

When Little's leadless pistol met his eye,

And Bow-street myrmidons stood laughing by?

Oh, day disastrous ! On her firm-set rock, Dunedm's castle felt a secret shock;

Dark roll'd the sympathetic waves of Forth,

Low groan'd the startled whirlwinds of the north; 471 Tweed ruffled half his waves to form a tear, The other half pursued its calm career;

Arthur's steep summit nodded to its base,

The surly Tolbooth scarcely kept her place. The Tolbooth felt — for marble sometimes can, On such occasions, feel as much as man — The Tolbooth felt defrauded of his charms, If Jeffrey died, except within her arms

Nay last, not least, on that portentous morn, 480

The sixteenth story, where himself was born, His patrimonial garret, fell to ground,

And pale Edina shudder'd at the sound.

Strew'd were the streets around with milkwhite reams,

Flow'd all the Canongate with inky streams; This of his candour seem'd the sable dew, That of his valour show'd the bloodless hue; And all with justice deem'd the two combined

The mingled emblems of his mighty mind.

But Caledonia's goddess hover'd o'er 490 The field, and saved him from the wrath of

- Moore; From either pistol snatch'd the vengeful lead.
- And straight restored it to her favourite's head;
- That head, with greater than magnetic pow'r,
- Caught it, as Danae caught the golden show'r,
- And, though the thickening dross will scarce refine,
- Augments its ore, and is itself a mine.
- 'My son,' she cried, 'ne'er thirst for gore again,

Resign the pistol and resume the pen; O'er politics and poesy preside, 500 Boast of thy country and Britannia's guide ! For long as Albion's heedless sons submit, Or Scottish taste decides on English wit, So long shall last thine unmolested reign, Nor any dare to take thy name in vain. Behold, a chosen band shall aid thy plan, And over those substain of the critic plan

And own thee chieftain of the critic clan. First in the oat-fed phalanx shall be seen

The travell'd thane, Athenian Aberdeen.

- Herbert shall wield Thor's hammer, and sometimes, 510
- In gratitude, thou'lt praise his rugged rhymes.
- Smug Sydney too thy bitter page shall seek, And classic Hallam, much renown'd for
- Greek; Scott may perchance his name and influence lend, And paltry Pillans shall traduce his friend; While gay Thalia's luckless votary, Lambe, Damn'd like the devil, devil-like will damn. Known be thy name, unbounded be thy

- sway ! Thy Holland's banquets shall each toil repay;
- While grateful Britain yields the praise she owes 520
- To Holland's hirelings and to learning's foes.

Yet mark one caution ere thy next Review Spread its light wings of saffron and of blue,

Beware lest blundering Brougham destroy the sale,

Turn beef to bannocks, cauliflowers to kail.' Thus having said, the kilted goddess kist Her son, and vanish'd in a Scottish mist

Then prosper, Jeffrey ! pertest of the Though now, thank Heaven ! the Rosciotrammama 's o'er. Whom Scotland pampers with her fiery And full-grown actors are endured once gram! more; Whatever blessing waits a genuine Scot, Yet what avail their vain attempts to In double portion swells thy glorious lot; please, For thee Eduna culls her evening sweets, While British critics suffer scenes like And showers their odours on thy candid these; sheets. While Reynolds vents his 'dammes!' Whose hue and fragrance to thy work ad-'poohs !' and 'zounds !' here-And common-place and common sense con-This scents its pages, and that gilds its rear founds 2 Lo! blushing Itch, coy nymph, enamour'd While Kenney's World - ah ! where is Kenney's wit ?grown, 570 Forsakes the rest, and cleaves to thee alone; Tires the sad gallery, lulls the listless pit; And, too unjust to other Pictish men. And Beaumont's pilfer'd Caratach affords Enjoys thy person, and inspires thy pen! A tragedy complete in all but words? Who but must mourn, while these are all Illustrious Holland ! hard would be his the rage, The degradation of our vaunted stage ! lot. 540 His hirelings mention'd, and himself for-Heavens ! is all sense of shame and talent gone ? got ! Holland, with Henry Petty at his back, Have we no living bard of merit? - none! The whipper-in and huntsman of the pack. Awake, George Colman! Cumberland, Blest be the banquets spread at Holland awake ! Ring the alarum bell ! let folly quake ! House, Where Scotchmen feed, and critics may Oh, Sheridan ! if aught can move thy pen, carouse ! Let Comedy assume her throne again; 581 Long, long beneath that hospitable roof Abjure the mummery of the German Shall Grub-street dine, while duns are kept schools: Leave new Pizarros to translating fools; aloof. See honest Hallam lay aside his fork, Give, as thy last memorial to the age, 548 Resume his pen, review his Lordship's work, One classic drama, and reform the stage. And, grateful for the damties on his plate, Gods ! o'er those boards shall Folly rear Declare his landlord can at least translate ! her head. Dunedin ' view thy children with delight, Where Garrick trod, and Siddons lives to They write for food — and feed because tread ? On those shall Farce display Buffoon'ry's they write And lest, when heated with the unusual mask, grape, And Hook conceal his heroes in a cask? Some glowing thoughts should to the press Shall sapient managers new scenes proescape, duce And tinge with red the female reader's From Cherry, Skeffington, and Mother Goose ? cheek. My lady skims the cream of each critique; While Shakspeare, Otway, Massinger, for-Breathes o'er the page her purity of soul, got, Reforms each error, and refines the whole On stalls must moulder, or in closets rot? Lo ' with what pomp the daily prints pro-Now to the Drama turn — Oh ! motley claim sight! The rival candidates for Attic fame ! What precious scenes the wondering eyes In grim array though Lewis' spectres rise, Still Skeffington and Goose divide the prize. invite!

Puns, and a prince within a barrel pent.

And Dibdin's nonsense yield complete content.

- And sure great Skeffington must claim our
- praise,
- For skirtless coats and skeletons of plays

- Renown'd alike; whose genius ne'er confines 600
- Her flight to garnish Greenwood's gay designs;

Nor sleeps with Sleeping Beauties, but anon

- In five facetious acts comes thundering on,
- While poor John Bull, bewilder'd with the scene,
- Stares, wondering what the devil it can mean;
- But as some hands applaud, a venal few !
- Rather than sleep, why John applauds it too

Such are we now. Ah ! wherefore should we turn 608

To what our fathers were, unless to mourn? Degenerate Britons! are ye dead to shame, Or, kind to dulness, do you fear to blame? Well may the nobles of our present race Watch each distortion of a Naldi's face; Well may they smile on Italy's buffoons, And worship Catalani's pantaloons, Suce their own drama yields no fairer trace Of wit than puns, of humour than grimace.

Then let Ausonia, skill'd in every art To soften manners, but corrupt the heart, Pour her exotic follies o'er the town, 620 To sanction Vice, and hunt Decorum down Let wedded strumpets languish o'er Deshaves,

- And bless the promise which his form displays;
- While Gayton bounds before th' enraptured looks

Of hoary marquises and stripling dukes

Let high-born lechers eye the lively Prêsle Twirl her light limbs, that spurn the needless veil;

Let Angiolini bare her breast of snow,

- Wave the white arm, and point the pliant toe;
- Collini trill her love-inspiring song, 630 Strain her fair neck, and charm the listen-
- ing throng ! Whet not your scythe, suppressors of our vice !

Reforming saints ! too delicately nice !

- By whose decrees, our sinful souls to save, No Sunday tankards foam, no barbers
- shave; And beer undrawn, and beards unmown,
- display

Your holy reverence for the Sabbath-day.

- Or hall at once the patron and the pile
- Of vice and folly, Greville and Argyle !
- Where yon proud palace, Fashion's hallow'd fane, 640
- Spreads wide her portals for the motley tram,
- Behold the new Petronius of the day,
- Our arbiter of pleasure and of play !
- There the hired eunuch, the Hesperian choir,
- The melting lute, the soft lascivious lyre,
- The song from Italy, the step from France,
- The midnight orgy, and the mazy dance,
- The smile of beauty, and the flush of wine, For fops, fools, gamesters, knaves, and lords combine.
- Each to his humour Comus all allows;
- Champaign, dice, music, or your neighbour's spouse. 651
- Talk not to us, ye starving sons of trade !
- Of pitcous ruin which ourselves have made;
- In Plenty's sunshine Fortune's minions bask,
- Nor think of poverty, except 'en masque,'
- When for the night some lately titled ass
- Appears the beggar which his grandsire was.
- The curtain dropp'd, the gay burletta o'er,
- The audience take their turn upon the floor;
- Now round the room the circling dow'gers sweep, 660
- Now in loose waltz the thin-clad daughters leap;
- The first in lengthen'd line majestic swim,
- The last display the free unfetter'd limb !
- Those for Hibernia's lusty sons repair
- With art the charms which nature could not spare;
- These after husbands wing their eager flight, Nor leave much mystery for the nuptial night.

Oh ! blest retreats of infamy and ease,

- Where, all forgotten but the power to please,
- Each maid may give a loose to genial thought, 670
- Each swain may teach new systems, or be taught.
- There the blithe youngster, just return'd from Spain,
- Cuts the light pack, or calls the rattling main;

The jovial caster's set, and seven's the nick, Or — done! — a thousand on the commg trick!	Or (since some men of fashion nobly dare To scrawl in verse) from Bond-street or the
If, mad with loss, existence 'gins to tire, And all your hope or wish is to expire, Here's Powell's pistol ready for your life, And, kinder still, two Pagets for your wife; Fit consummation of an earthly race 680 Begun in folly, ended in disgrace;	Square ? If things of ton their harmless lays indite, Most wisely doom'd to shun the public sight, What harm? In spite of every critic elf, Sir T. may read his stanzas to himself; Miles Andrews still his strength in couplets
While none but menials o'er the bed of death, Wash thy red wounds, or watch thy waver- ing breath;	try, And hve in prologues, though his dramas due. Lords too are bards, such things at times
Traduced by liars, and forgot by all, The mangled victim of a drunken brawl, To live hke Clodus and hke Falkland fall	befall, And 't is some praise in peers to write at all 720
Truth ! rouse some genuine bard, and guide his hand	Yet, did or taste or reason sway the times, Ah ' who would take their titles with their rhymes ?
To drive this pestilence from out the land. E'en I — least thinking of a thoughtless	Roscommon! Sheffield! with your spirits fled, throng, Just skill'd to know the right and choose the wrong, 690	No future laurels deck a noble head; No muse will cheer, with renovating smile, The paralytic puling of Carlisle
Freed at that age when reason's shield is lost,	The puny schoolboy and his early lay Men pardon, if his follies pass away;
To fight my course through passion's count- less host, Whom every path of pleasure's flow'ry way	But who forgives the senior's ceaseless verse, Whose hairs grow hoary as his rhymes
Has lured in turn, and all have led astray — E'en I must raise my voice, e'en I must feel	grow worse ! 730 What heterogeneous honours deck the peer !
Such scenes, such men, destroy the puble weal; Although some kind, censorious friend will	Lord, rhymester, petit-maître, pamphlet- eer ! So dull in youth, so drivelling in his age, say, 'What art thou better, meddling fool, than they?'	His scenes alone had damn'd our sinking stage;
And every brother rake will smile to see That miracle, a moralist in me. 7∞	But managers for once cried, 'Hold, enough !' Nor drugg'd their audience with the tragic
No matter — when some bard in virtue strong, Gifford perchance, shall raise the chasten-	stuff. Yet at their judgment let his lordship laugh, ing song, Then sleep my pen for ever! and my	And case his volumes in congenial calf: Yes! doff that covering, where morocco voice Be only heard to hail him, and rejoice; Rejoice, and yield my feeble praise, though I	shimes, 739 And hang a calf-skin on those recreant lines.
May feel the lash that Virtue must apply.	With you, ye Druids ! rich in native lead, Who daily scribble for your daily bread; With you I way not: Gifford's heavy hand
As for the smaller fry, who swarm in shoals From silly Hafiz up to simple Bowles,	With you I war not: Gifford's heavy hand Has crush'd, without remorse, your numer- ous band.
Why should we call them from their dark abode, 709 In broad St. Giles's or in Tottenham-road ?	On 'all the talents' vent your venal spleen; Want is your plea, let pity be your screen.

Let monodies on Fox regale your crew, Then why no more ? if Phœbus smiled on And Melville's Mantle prove a blanket too ! you, One common Lethe waits each hapless bard, Bloomfield ! why not on brother Nathan And, peace be with you! 't is your best too? Him too the mania, not the muse, has reward 750 Such damning fame as Dunciads only give seized; Could bid your lines beyond a morning Not inspiration, but a mind diseased: hve: And now no boor can seek his last abode, But now at once your fleeting labours No common be enclosed without an ode. close, Oh! since increased refinement deigns to With names of greater note in blest resmile On Britain's sons and bless our genial isle, pose Far be 't from me unkindly to upbraid Let poesy go forth, pervade the whole, The lovely Rosa's prose in masquerade, Alike the rustic and mechanic soul! 790 Whose strains, the faithful echoes of her Ye tuneful cobblers ! still your notes promind. long, Leave wondering comprehension far be-Compose at once a shipper and a song; hind. So shall the fair your handywork peruse, Though Crusca's bards no more our jour-Your sonnets sure shall please - perhaps nals fill, your shoes. Some stragglers skirmish round the col-May Moorland weavers boast Pindaric skill, umns still; 760 Last of the howing host which once was And tailors' lays be longer than their bill ! Bell's, While punctual beaux reward the grateful Matilda snivels yet, and Hafiz yells; notes, And Merry's metaphors appear anew, And pay for poems — when they pay for Chain'd to the signature of O P. Q. coats To the famed throng now paid the trib-When some brisk youth, the tenant of a stall. ute due, Employs a pen less pointed than his awl, Neglected genius! let me turn to you 800 Leaves his snug shop, forsakes his store of Come forth, oh Campbell ! give thy talents shoes, scope; St. Crispin quits, and cobbles for the muse, Who dares aspire if thou must cease to Heavens! how the vulgar stare! how hope? And thou, melodious Rogers ! rise at last, crowds applaud ! Recall the pleasing memory of the past; How ladies read, and literati laud ! 770 Arise ! let blest remembrance still inspire, If chance some wicked wag should pass his jest, And strike to wonted tones thy hallow'd "I is sheer ill-nature - don't the world lyre; know best? Restore Apollo to his vacant throne, Genius must guide when wits admire the Assert thy country's honour and thine own. rhyme, What ' must deserted Poesy still weep And Capel Lofft declares 't is quite sub-Where her last hopes with pious Cowper sleep? lime 810 Hear, then, ye happy sons of needless Unless, perchance, from his cold bier she trade ! turns, Swains ! quit the plough, resign the useless To deck the turf that wraps her minstrel, spade ! Burns! Lo! Burns and Bloomfield, nay, a greater No! though contempt hath mark'd the far. spurious brood, Gifford was born beneath an adverse star, The race who rhyme from folly, or for food, Forsook the labours of a servile state, Yet still some genuine sons 't is hers to Stemm'd the rude storm, and triumph'd boast, over fate: Who, least affecting, still affect the most: 780

Feel as they write, and write but as they feel —

Bear witness Gifford, Sotheby, Macneil.

- Why slumbers Gifford ? ' once was ask'd in vain; 819
- Why slumbers Gifford ? let us ask again.
- Are there no follies for his pen to purge? Are there no fools whose backs demand
- the scourge ? Are there no sins for satire's bard to greet?
- Stalks not gigantic Vice in every street?
- Shall peers or princes tread pollution's path,
- And 'scape alike the law's and muse's wrath?
- Nor blaze with guilty glare through future tune,
- Eternal beacons of consummate crime?

Arouse thee, Gifford ! be thy promise claum'd,

Make bad men better, or at least ashamed.

Unhappy White ! while life was in its spring, 83r

And thy young muse just waved her joyous wing,

The spoiler swept that soaring lyre away,

- Which else had sounded an immortal lay.
- Oh ! what a noble heart was here undone, When Science' self destroy'd her favourite
- son! Yes she too much indulged thy fond pur
- Yes, she too much indulged thy fond pursuit,
- She sow'd the seeds, but death has reap'd the fruit.
- 'T was thine own genius gave the final blow,
- And help'd to plant the wound that laid thee low. 840
- So the struck eagle, stretch'd upon the plain,
- No more through rolling clouds to soar again,
- View'd his own feather on the fatal dart,
- And wing'd the shaft that quiver'd in his heart;
- Keen were his pangs, but keener far to feel
- He nursed the pinion which impell'd the steel;
- While the same plumage that had warm'd his nest
- Drank the last life-drop of his bleeding breast.

There be who say, in these enlighten'd days, 849

That splendid lies are all the poet's praise: That strain'd invention, ever on the wing,

Alone impels the modern bard to sing

- 'T is true, that all who rhyme nay, all who write,
- Shrink from that fatal word to genius trute;
- Yet Truth sometimes will lend her noblest fires,
- And decorate the verse herself inspires:
- This fact in Virtue's name let Crabbe attest;
- Though nature's sternest painter, yet the best
 - And here let Shee and Genus find a place,
- Whose pen and pencil yield an equal grace; To guide whose hand the sister arts combine, 861
- And trace the poet's or the painter's line; Whose magic touch can bid the canvass glow,

Or pour the easy rhyme's harmonious flow; While honours, doubly merited, attend

The poet's rival, but the painter's friend.

Blest is the man who dares approach the bower

Where dwelt the muses at their natal hour; Whose steps have press'd, whose eye has mark'd afar,

- The clime that nursed the sons of song and war.
- The scenes which glory still must hover o'er,

Her place of birth, her own Achaian shore. But doubly blest is he whose heart expands

With hallow'd feelings for those classic lands;

Who rends the veil of ages long gone by,

And views their remnants with a poet's eve!

Wright[†] 't was thy happy lot at once to view Those shores of glory, and to sing them too; And sure no common muse inspired thy pen To hail the land of gods and godlike men.

- And you, associate bards ! who snatch'd to light 881
- Those gems too long withheld from modern sight;

Whose mingling taste combined to cull the wreath

Where Attic flowers Aonian odours breathe, And all their renovated fragrance flung,

To grace the beauties of your native tongue; Now let those minds, that nobly could transfuse

The glorious spirit of the Grecian muse, Though soft the echo, scorn a borrow'd tone: Resign Achaia's lyre, and strike your own.

Let these, or such as these, with just applause, Sgr

Restore the muse's violated laws;

But not in flimsy Darwin's pompous chime, That mighty master of unmeaning rhyme, Whose gilded cymbals, more adorn'd than clear,

The eye delighted, but fatigued the ear; In show the simple lyre could once surpass, But now, worn down, appear in native brass; While all his train of hovering sylphs around Evaporate in similes and sound. Him let them shun, with him let tinsel die: False glare attracts, but more offends the eye.

Yet let them not to vulgar Wordsworth stoop,

The meanest object of the lowly group, Whose verse, of all but childish prattle void, Seems blessed harmony to Lamb and Lloyd. Let them — but hold, my muse, nor dare to teach

A strain far, far beyond thy humble reach: The native genius with their being given

Will point the path, and peal their notes to heaven.

And thou, too, Scott ! resign to minstrels rude

The wilder slogan of a border feud:

Let others spin their meagre lines for hire; Enough for genius if itself inspire !

Let Southey sing, although his teeming muse,

Prolific every spring, be too profuse;

Let simple Wordsworth chime his childish verse,

And brother Coleridge lull the babe at nurse; Let spectre-mongering Lewis aim, at most, To rouse the galleries, or to raise a ghost;

Let Moore still sigh; let Strangford steal from Moore, 921

And swear that Camoens sang such notes of yore;

Let Hayley hobble on, Montgomery rave, And godly Grahame chant a stupid stave;

Let sonneteering Bowles his strains refine,

And whine and whimper to the fourteenth line;

Let Stott, Carlisle, Matilda, and the rest

- Of Grub-street, and of Grosvenor-place the best,
- Scrawl on, till death release us from the strain,
- Or Common Sense assert her rights again.
- But thou, with powers that mock the aid of praise, 93^z
- Shouldst leave to humbler bards ignoble lays:
- Thy country's voice, the voice of all the nine,
- Demand a hallow'd harp that harp is thine.

Say ! will not Caledonia's annals yield

The glorious record of some nobler field

- Than the vile foray of a plundering clan,
- Whose proudest deeds disgrace the name of man?
- Or Marmion's acts of darkness, fitter food
- For Sherwood's outlaw tales of Robin Hood ? 940
- Scotland! still proudly claim thy native bard,
- And be thy praise his first, his best reward !
- Yet not with thee alone his name should live,

But own the vast renown a world can give;

Be known, perchance, when Albion is no more,

And tell the tale of what she was before;

To future times her faded fame recall,

And save her glory, though his country fall.

Yet what avails the sanguine poet's hope,

To conquer ages, and with time to cope?

New eras spread their wings, new nations rise, 951

And other victors fill the applauding skies; A few brief generations fleet along,

Whose sons forget the poet and his song:

E'en now, what once-loved minstrels scarce may claim

The transient mention of a dubious name ! When fame's loud trump hath blown its noblest blast, Though long the sound, the echo sleeps at last;

And glory, like the phœnix 'mıdst her fires,	No just applause her honour'd name shall
Exhales her odours, blazes, and expires.	lose, As first m freedom, dearest to the muse. Oh ! would thy bards but emulate thy Shall hoary Granta call her sable sons,
Export in sevence many structure of the solls,	fame,
Expert in science, more expert at puns?	And rise more worthy, Albion, of thy name!
Shall these approach the muse? ah, no!	What Athens was in science, Rome in she flies,	power,
Even from the tempting ore of Seaton's	What Tyre appear'd in her meridian hour, prize;	'T is thine at once, fair Albion ! to have
Though printers condescend the press to soil	been — 1001
With rhyme by Hoare, and epic blank by	Earth's chief dictatress, ocean's lovely
Hoyle:	queen.
Not him whose page, if still upheld by	But Rome decay'd, and Athens strew'd the whist,	plain,
Requires no sacred theme to bid us list.	And Tyre's proud piers lie shatter'd in the
Ye! who in Granta's honours would sur-	main;
pass, 969	Like these, thy strength may sink, in ruin
Must mount her Pegasus, a full-grown ass;	hurl'd,
A foal well worthy of her ancient dam,	And Britain fall, the bulwark of the world.
Whose Helicon is duller than her Cam.	But let me cease, and dread Cassandra's fate,
There Clarke, still striving piteously 'to	With warning ever scoff'd at, till too late;
please,'	To themes less lofty still my lay confine,
Forgetting doggerel leads not to degrees,	And urge thy bards to gain a name like
A would-be satirist, a hired buffoon,	thine.
A monthly scribbler of some low lampoon,
Condemn'd to drudge, the meanest of the	Then, hapless Britain ' be thy rulers blest,
mean,	The senate's oracles, the people's jest!
And furbish falsehoods for a magazine,	Still hear thy motley orators dispense
Devotes to scandal his congenial mind;	The flowers of rhetoric, though not of
Hunself a living libel on mankind. 980	sense,
6	While Canning's colleagues hate him for
Oh! dark asylum of a Vandal race,	his wit.
At once the boast of learning, and dis-	And old dame Portland fills the place of grace !	Pitt.
So lost to Phœbus, that nor Hodgson's verse
Can make thee better, nor poor Hewson's	Yet once again, adieu ! ere this the sail worse.	That wafts me hence is shivering in the
But where fair Isis rolls her purer wave,	gale;
The partial muse delighted loves to lave;	And Afric's coast and Calpe's adverse
On her green banks a greener wreath she	height, wove,	And Stamboul's minarets must greet my
To crown the bards that haunt her classic	sight. 1020
grove;	Thence shall I stray through beauty's -
Where Richards wakes a genuine poet's	tive clime,
fires,	Where Kaff is clad in rocks and crown'd
And modern Britons glory in their sires	with snows sublime.
0	But should I back return, no tempting press
For me, who, thus unask'd, have dared	Shall drag my journal from the desk's to tell 991	recess
My country, what her sons should know	Let coxcombs, printing as they come from too well,	far,
Zeal for her honour bade me here engage	Snatch his own wreath of ridicule from
The host of idiots that infest her age;	Carr;
-8-7

Let Aberdeen and Elgin still pursue

The shade of fame through regions of virtù; Waste useless thousands on their Phidian freaks,

Misshapen monuments and maim'd antiques; And make their grand saloons a general mart 1031

For all the mutilated blocks of art:

Of Dardan tours let dilettanti tell,

I leave topography to rapid Gell;

And, quite content, no more shall interpose To stun the public ear - at least with prose.

Thus far I've held my undisturb'd ca-

Prepared for rancour, steel'd 'gainst selfish fear.

- This thing of rhyme I ne'er disdain'd to own -
- Though not obtrusive, yet not quite unknown: 1040

My voice was heard again, though not so loud.

My page, though nameless, never disavow'd;

And now at once I tear the veil away: ----

- Cheer on the pack ! the quarry stands at
- bay, Unscared by all the din of Melbourne house,
- By Lambe's resentment, or by Holland's spouse,

By Jeffrey's harmless pistol, Hallam's rage,

Edina's brawny sons and brimstone page.

Our men in buckram shall have blows enough,

And feel they too are 'penetrable stuff:'

And though I hope not thence unscathed to go, 1051

Who conquers me shall find a stubborn foe. The time hath been, when no harsh sound would fall

From lips that now may seem imbued with gall;

Nor fools nor follies tempt me to despise

- The meanest thing that crawl'd beneath my eyes:
- But now, so callous grown, so changed since youth,
- I've learn'd to think and sternly speak the truth:

Learn'd to deride the critic's starch decree, And break him on the wheel he meant for me; 1060 To spurn the rod a scribbler bids me kiss,

Nor care if courts and crowds applaud or hiss:

Nay more, though all my rival rhymesters frown,

I too can hunt a poetaster down;

And, arm'd in proof, the gauntlet cast at once

To Scotch marauder and to southern dunce,

Thus much I've dared; if my incondite lay Hath wrong'd these righteous times, let others say:

This, let the world, which knows not how to spare

Yet rarely blames unjustly, now declare.

HINTS FROM HORACE

BEING AN ALLUSION IN ENGLISH VERSE to the epistle 'AD pisones, de arte POETICA,' AND INTENDED AS A SEQUEL TO 'ENGLISH BARDS AND SCOTCH RE-VIEWERS'

- Ergo fungar vice cotis, acutum Reddere quæ ferrum valet, exsors ipsa secandi. Hor. De Arte Poet [vv 304, 305].

'Rhymes are difficult things - they are stubborn things, ATT 3

FIELDING'S Amelia

ATHENS CAPUCHIN CONVENT, March 12, 1811

WHO would not laugh, if Lawrence, hired to grace

His costly canvass with each flatter'd face.

Abused his art, till Nature, with a blush,

- Saw cits grow centaurs underneath his brush?
- Or, should some lumner join, for show or sale.

A maid of honour to a mermaid's tail?

Or low Dubost - as once the world has seen-

- Degrade God's creatures in his graphic spleen ?
- Not all that forced politeness, which defends
- Fools in their faults, could gag his grinning friends.
- Believe me, Moschus, like that picture seems
- The book which, sillier than a sick man's dreams.

Displays a crowd of figures incomplete,

Poetic nightmares, without head or feet.

Poets and painters, as all artists know, May shoot a little with a lengthen'd bow;	None are complete, all wanting in some part,
We claim this mutual mercy for our task, And grant in turn the pardon which we ask;	Like certain tailors, limited in art. For galligaskins Slowshears is your man, But coats must claim another artisan.
But make not monsters spring from gentle dams —	Now this to me, I own, seems much the same
Birds breed not vipers, tigers nurse not lambs 20	As Vulcan's feet to bear Apollo's frame; Or, with a fair complexion, to expose Black eyes, black ringlets, but — a bottle
A labour'd, long exordium sometimes tends	nose!
(Like patriot speeches) but to paltry ends; And nonsense m a lofty note goes down, As pertness passes with a legal gown. Thus many a bard describes in pompous strain	Dear authors ! suit your topics to your strength, And ponder well your subject and its length; 60 Nor hft your load, before you're quite
The clear brook babbling through the goodly plain; The groves of Granta, and her Gothic halls,	What weight your shoulders will, or will not, bear.
King's Coll., Cam's stream, stain'd windows, and old walls;	But lucid Order and Wit's siren voice Await the poet, skilful in his choice;
Or, in adventurous numbers, neatly aims To paint a rainbow, or — the river Thames.	With native eloquence he soars along, Grace in his thoughts, and music in his song.
You sketch a tree, and so perhaps may shine — 31	Let judgment teach him wisely to com- bine
But daub a shipwreck like an alehouse sign;	With future parts the now omitted line: This shall the author choose, or that re-
You plan a vase — it dwindles to a pot ; Then glide down Grub-street — fasting and	ject, Precise in style, and cautious to select; 70
forgot; Laugh'd into Lethe by some quaint Review, Whose wit is never troublesome till —true.	Nor slight applause will candid pens afford To him who furnishes a wanting word. Then fear not, if 't is needful, to produce Some term unknown or obsolete in use
In fine, to whatsoever you aspire, Let it at least be simple and entire.	(As Pitt has furnish'd us a word or two, Which lexicographers declined to do); So you indeed, with care (but be content
The greater portion of the rhyming tribe	To take this license rarely), — may invent. New words find credit in these latter days,
(Give ear, my friend, for thou hast been a scribe)	If neatly grafted on a Gallic phrase; 80 What Chaucer, Spenser did, we scarce re-
Are led astray by some peculiar lure. I labour to be brief — become obscure; One falls while following elegance too fast;	fuse To Dryden's or to Pope's maturer muse. If you can add a httle, say why not,
Another soars, inflated with bombast; Too low a third crawls on, afraid to fly, He spins his subject to satiety;	As well as William Pitt and Walter Scott? Since they, by force of rhyme and force of lungs,
Absurdly varying, he at last engraves Fish in the woods, and boars beneath the waves !	Enrich'd our island's ill-united tongues; 'T is then — and shall be — lawful to pre- sent
Unless your care 's exact, your judgment	Reform in writing, as in parliament.
nice, The flight from folly leads but into vice; 50	As forests shed their foliage by degrees, So fade expressions which in season please:

.

And we and ours, alas! are due to fate, gr And works and words but dwindle to a date.	But so Thalia pleases to appear, Poor vrgn ! damn'd some twenty times a year !
 Though as a monarch nods, and commerce calls, Impetuous rivers stagnate in canals; Though swamps subdued, and marshes drain'd, sustain The heavy ploughshare and the yellow grain, And rising ports along the busy shore Protect the vessel from old Ocean's roar, All, all must perish; but, surviving last, The love of letters half preserves the past. True, some decay, yet not a few revive; nor Though those shall sink, which now appear to thrive, As custom arbitrates, whose shifting sway 	 year i Whate'er the scene, let this advice have weight. — Adapt your language to your hero's state. At times Melpomene forgets to groan, And brisk Thalia takes a serious tone; r30 Nor unregarded will the act pass by Where angry Townly 'lifts his voice on high.' Again, our Shakspeare limits verse to kings, When common prose will serve for common things; And lively Hal resigns heroic ire, To 'hollowing Hotspur' and his sceptred sire.
Our life and language must alike obey.	'T is not enough, ye bards, with all your
The immortal wars which gods and angels wage, Are they not shown in Milton's sacred page?	To polish poems; they must touch the heart: Where'er the scene be laid, whate'er the
His strain will teach what numbers best belong	song, Still let it bear the hearer's soul along; 140
To themes celestial told in epic song.	Command your audience or to smile or weep,
The slow, sad stanza will correctly paint The lover's anguish or the friend': com- plaint.	Whiche'er may please you — anything but sleep. The poet claims our tears; but, by his
But which deserves the laurel, rhyme or blank?	leave, Before I shed them, let me see him grieve.
Which holds on Helicon the higher rank? Let squabbling critics by themselves dis- pute	If banish'd Romeo feign'd nor sigh nor tear,
This point, as puzzling as a Chancery suit.	Lull'd by his languor, I could sleep or sneer.
Satiric rhyme first sprang from selfish spleen. You doubt—see Dryden, Pope, St. Pat- rick's dean.	Sad words, no doubt, become a serious face, And men look angry in the proper place. At double meanings folks seem wondrous sly,
Blank verse is now, with one consent, allied To Tragedy and rarely quits her side Though mad Almanzor rhymed in Dry-	And sentiment prescribes a pensive eye; For nature form'd at first the inward man, And actors copy nature — when they can. She bids the beating heart with rapture bound,
den's days, No sing-song hero rants in modern plays; Whilst modest Comedy her verse foregoes For jest and pun in very middling prose Not that our Bens or Beaumonts show the	Raised to the stars, or levell'd with the ground; And for expression's aid, 't is said, or sung; She gave our mind's interpreter — the tongue, worse, Or lose one point, because they wrote in verse.	Wko, worn with use, of late would fain dispense (At least in theatres) with common sense:

258

- O'erwhelm with sound the boxes, gallery, pit,
- And raise a laugh with anything but wit.

To skilful writers it will much import,

- Whence spring their scenes, from common hfe or court;
- Whether they seek applause by smile or tear,
- To draw a Lying Valet, or a Lear,
- A sage, or rakish youngster wild from school,
- A wandering Peregrine, or plain John Bull; All persons please when nature's voice prevails,
- Scottish or Irish, born in Wilts or Wales.

Or follow common fame, or forge a plot. Who cares if mimic heroes lived or not? 170 One precept serves to regulate the scene: — Make it appear as if it might have been.

If some Drawcansir you aspire to draw, Present him raving and above all law: If female furies in your scheme are plann'd, Macbeth's fierce dame is ready to your

- hand; For tears and treachery, for good and evil,
- Constance, King Richard, Hamlet, and the Devil !

But if a new design you dare essay, 179 And freely wander from the beaten way, True to your characters, till all be pass'd, Preserve consistency from first to last.

'T is hard to venture where our betters fail,

Or lend fresh interest to a twice-told tale; And yet, perchance, 't is wiser to prefer

A hackney'd plot, than choose a new, and err.

Yet copy not too closely, but record,

- More justly, thought for thought than word for word;
- Nor trace your prototype through narrow ways,
- But only follow where he merits praise. 190
 - For you, young bard! whom luckless fate may lead
- To tremble on the nod of all who read,

Ere your first score of cantos time unrolls,

Beware --- for God's sake, don't begin like Bowles ! "Awake a louder and a loftier strain," — And pray, what follows from his boiling brain?

He sinks to Southey's level in a trice,

Whose epic mountains never fail in mice! Not so of yore awoke your mighty sire 199 The temper'd warblings of his master-lyre; Soft as the gentler breathing of the lute,

- Of man's first disobedience and the fruit ' He speaks, but, as his subject swells along, Earth, heaven, and Hades echo with the
- song Still to the 'midst of things 'he hastens on,
- As if we witness'd all already done; Leaves on his path whatever seems too mean

To raise the subject, or adorn the scene;

- Gives, as each page improves upon the sight,
- Not smoke from brightness, but from darkness — light; 210
- And truth and fiction with such art compounds,
- We know not where to fix their several bounds.

If you would please the public, deign to hear

- What soothes the many-headed monster's ear;
- If your heart triumph when the hands of all

Applaud in thunder at the curtain's fall,

- Deserve those plaudits study nature's page,
- And sketch the striking traits of every age;
- While varying man and varying years unfold
- Life's little tale, so oft, so vainly told. 220 Observe his simple childhood's dawning days,
- His pranks, his prate, his playmates, and his plays;

Till time at length the mannish tyro weans, And prurient vice outstrips his tardy teens !

Behold him Freshman! forced no more to groan

O'er Virgil's devilish verses and — his own; Prayers are too tedious, lectures too abstruse, He flies from Tavell's frown to 'Fordham's Mews '

(Unlucky Tavell ! doom'd to daily cares

By pugilistic pupils, and by bears); 230

- Fines, tutors, tasks, conventions threat in vam,
- Before hounds, hunters, and Newmarket plain.
- Rough with his elders, with his equals rash, Civil to sharpers, produgal of cash;
- Constant to nought save hazard and a whore,
- Yet cursing both for both have made him sore;
- Unread (unless, since books beguile disease,
- The p-x becomes his passage to degrees); Fool'd, pillaged, dunn'd, he wastes his terms
- away,
- And, unexpell'd perhaps, retires M. A.; 240 Master of arts! as hells and clubs proclaim.
- Where scarce a blackleg bears a brighter name !

Launch'd into life, extinct his early fire, He apes the selfish prudence of his sire;

Marries for money, chooses friends for rank,

Buys land, and shrewdly trusts not to the Bank;

Sits in the Senate; gets a son and heir;

- Sends him to Harrow, for himself was there. Mute, though he votes, unless when call'd to cheer,
- His son's so sharp he'll see the dog a peer! 250
 - Manhood declines age palsies every limb;
- He quits the scene or else the scene quits him;
- Scrapes wealth, o'er each departing penny grieves,
- And avarice seizes all ambition leaves;
- Counts cent per cent, and smiles, or vainly frets,
- O'er hoards diminish'd by young Hopeful's debts;
- Weighs well and wisely what to sell or buy,

Complete in all life's lessons — but to die; Peevish and spiteful, doting, hard to please,

- Commending every time, save times like these: 260
- Crazed, querulous, forsaken, half forgot,

Expires unwept — is buried — let him rot !

But from the Drama let me not digress, Nor spare my precepts, though they please you less. Though woman weep, and hardest hearts are sturr'd,

When what is done is rather seen than heard,

Yet many deeds preserved in history's page Are better told than acted on the stage;

The ear sustains what shocks the timid eye,

And horror thus subsides to sympathy. 270 True Briton all beside, I here am French — Bloodshed 't is surely better to retrench: The gladuatorial gore we teach to flow

In tragic scene disgusts, though but in show; We hate the carnage while we see the trick,

And find small sympathy in being sick.

- Not on the stage the regicide Macbeth
- Appals an audience with a monarch's death;
- To gaze when sable Hubert threats to sear Young Arthur's eyes, can ours or nature bear? 280 A halter'd heroine Johnson sought to slay — We saved Irene, but half damn'd the play,

And (Heaven be praised !) our tolerating times

Stint metamorphoses to pantomimes;

And Lewis' self, with all his sprites, would quake

To change Earl Osmond's negro to a snake ! Because, in scenes exciting joy or grief,

We loathe the action which exceeds belief. And yet, God knows! what may not authors do,

Whose postscripts prate of dyeing 'heromes blue?' 290

Above all things, Dan Poet, if you can,

Eke out your acts, I pray, with mortal man;

Nor call a ghost, unless some cursed scrape Must open ten trap-doors for your escape.

Of all the monstrous thurs I'd four for

Of all the monstrous things I'd fain forbid,

I loathe an opera worse than Dennis did;

Where good and evil persons, right or wrong,

Rage, love, and aught but moralize, in song.

Hail, last memorial of our foreign friends, Which Gaul allows and still Hesperia lends!

Napoleon's edicts no embargo lay

On whores, spies, singers wisely shipp'd away.

Our giant capital, whose squares are spread Where rustics earn'd, and now may beg, their bread.

260

 In all iniquity is grown so nice, It scorns amusements which are not of price. Hence the pert shopkeeper, whose throbbing ear Aches with orchestras which he pays to hear, Whom shame, not sympathy, forbids to snore, His anguish doubling by his own 'encore;' Squeezed m 'Fop's Alley,' jostled by the beaux, Teased with his hat, and trembling for his toes; Scarce wrestles through the night, nor tastes of ease Till the dropp'd curtain gives a glad release. Why this, and more, he suffers — can ye 	We smile, perforce, when histrionic scenes Ape the swoln dialogue of kings and queens, When 'Chrononhotonthologos must die,' And Arthur struts in minic majesty 340 Moschus ' with whom once more I hope to sit, And smile at folly, if we can't at wit; Yes, friend ' for thee I 'll quit my cynic cell, And bear Swift's motto, 'Vive la baga- telle !' Which charm'd our days in each Ægean chime, As oft at home, with revelry and rhyme. Then may Euphrosyne, who sped the past, Soothe thy hfe's scenes, nor leave thee in the last;
guess ? — Because it costs him dear, and makes him dress !	But find in thine, like pagan Plato's bed, Some merry manuscript of mines, when dead. 350
So prosper eunuchs from Etruscan schools; Give us but fiddlers, and they 're sure of fools ! Ere scenes were play'd by many a rever- end clerk (What harm, if David danced before the ark?), 320 In Christmas revels, simple country folks Were pleased with morrice-mumm'ry and coarse jokes. Improving years, with things no longer known, Produced blithe Punch and merry Madame Joan, Who still frisk on with feats so lewdly low, 'I is strange Benvolio suffers such a show; Suppressing peer ! to whom each vice gives place, Oaths, boxing, begging, — all, save rout and race. Farce follow'd Comedy, and reach'd her prime, In ever-laughing Foote's fantastic time: 330 Mad wag ! who pardon'd none, nor spared the best, And turi'd some very serious things to jest Nor church nor state escaped his public sneers, Arms nor the gown, priests, lawyers, vol- unteers ' Alas, poor Yorick !' now forever mute ' Whoever loves a laugh must sigh for Foote.	Now to the Drama let us bend our eyes, Where fetter'd by whig Walpole low she lies; Corruption foll'd her, for she fear'd her glance; Decorum left her for an opera dance ! Yet Chesterfield, whose polish'd pen in- veighs 'Gainst laughter, fought for freedom to our plays; Uncheck'd by megrims of patrician brains, And damning dulness of lord chamber- lains. Repeal that act ' again let Humour roam Wild o'er the stage — we 've time for tears at home, 360 Let Archer plant the horns on Sullen's brows, And Estifania gull her 'Copper' spouse; The moral's scant — but that may be ex- cused, Men go not to be lectured, but amused He whom our plays dispose to good or ill Must wear a head in want of Wilhs' skill; Ay, but Macheath's example — psha ! — no more ' It form'd no thieves — the thief was form'd before; And, spite of puritans and Collier's curse, Plays make mankind no better, and no worse. 370 Then spare our stage, ye methodistic men; Nor burn damn'd Drury if it rise again.

t, skilfully, surpasses far ne, but most in love and war, nations, tender or sublime, 411 too much by long-recurring e. a skilful judge abhors to see, dmire — irregularity. vouchsafe to pardon; but 't is a word contents a British bard. the bard his glowing thoughts ne, be hover o'er some faulty line ? ate'er a critic may suspect, 419 paltry suffrage of 'correct ?' e spirit of each daring phrase, error, not to merit praise ? eek finish'd models, never cease a night to read the works of ce.
dmire — irregularity. vouchsafe to pardon; but 't is a word contents a British bard. the bard his glowing thoughts he, e hover o'er some faulty line ? ate'er a critic may suspect, 419 paltry suffrage of 'correct ?' e spirit of each daring phrase, error, not to merit praise ? eek finish'd models, never cease d night to read the works of the bard his glowing thoughts he, hover o'er some faulty line ? ate'er a critic may suspect, 419 paltry suffrage of ' correct ?' e spirit of each daring phrase, error, not to merit praise ? eek finish'd models, never cease h night to read the works of he, he, hover o'er some faulty line ? ate'er a critic may suspect, 410 paltry suffrage of 'correct?' e spirit of each darmg phrase, error, not to merit praise ? eek finish'd models, never cease h night to read the works of l night to read the works of d fathers never bent their brains Greek, content with native is. o read a page, or used a pen, ied with Chaucer and old Ben; and numbers suited to their ant and careless, anything but te; 430 er right or wrong the ancient to call our fathers fools ! and I, who eruditely know the elegant and low, hen a hobbling line appears, fingers, in default of ears. I do not know, or greatly care who our first English strollers ; pofs received the vagrant art, like that of Thespis, kept a 440 certain, since our Shakspeare's

Old comedies still meet with much	Am I not wise, if such some poets'
applause, Though too licentious for dramatic laws: At least, we moderns, wisely 't is confest, Curtail or silence the lascivious jest.	plight, To purge in spring — like Bayes — before I write? 480 If this precaution soften'd not my bile,
Whate'er their follies, and their faults beside,	I know no scribbler with a madder style; But since (perhaps my feelings are too nice) I cannot purchase fame at such a price,
Our enterprising bards pass nought un- tried; 450	I 'll labour gratis as a grinder's wheel, And, blunt myself, give edge to others'
Nor do they merit slight applause who choose	steel, Nor write at all, unless to teach the art
An English subject for an English muse, And leave to minds which never dare in- vent	To those rehearsing for the poet's part; From Horace show the pleasing paths of song,
French flippancy and German sentiment. Where is that living language which could claim	And from my own example — what is wrong. 499
Poetic more, as philosophic, fame, If all our bards, more patient of delay,	Though modern practice sometimes dif- fers quite,
Would stop like Pope to polish by the way?	'T is just as well to think before you write; Let every book that suits your theme be read,
Lords of the quill, whose critical as- saults	So shall you trace it to the fountam-head.
O'erthrow whole quartos with their quires of faults, 460	He who has learn'd the duty which he owes
Who soon detect, and mark where'er we fail, And prove our marble with too nice a nail ! Democritus himself was not so bad; He only thought, but you would make, us mad !	To friends and country, and to pardon foes; Who models his deportment as may best Accord with brother, sire, or stranger guest; Who takes our laws and worship as they are,
But truth to say, most rhymers rarely	Nor roars reform for senate, church, and bar;
guard Against that ridicule they deem so hard;	In practice, rather than loud precept, wise, Bids not his tongue, but heart, philoso-
In person negligent, they wear, from sloth, Beards of a week and nails of annual growth;	phise; — Such is the man the poet should rehearse, As joint exemplar of his life and verse.
Reside in garrets, fly from those they meet, And walk in alleys rather than the street.	Sometimes a sprightly wit, and tale well told,
With little rhyme, less reason, if you please, 471	Without much grace or weight or art, will hold
The name of poet may be got with ease, So that not tuns of helleboric juice Shall ever turn your head to any use;	A longer empire o'er the public mind Than sounding trifles, empty, though re- fined.
Write but like Wordsworth, hve beside a lake, And keep your bushy locks a year from	Unhappy Greece ! thy sons of ancient days
Blake; Then print your book, once more return to	The muse may celebrate with perfect praise, Whose generous children narrow'd not town, And boys shall hunt your bardship up and down.	their hearts 511 With commerce, given alone to arms and arts.

Our boys (save those whom public schools compel

To 'long and short' before they 're taught to spell)

From frugal fathers soon imbibe by rote,

'A penny saved, my lad, 's a penny got.'

Babe of a city birth ! from sixpence take

The third, how much will the remainder make? ----

'A groat'—'Ah, bravo ! Dick hath done the sum !

He'll swell my fifty thousand to a plum.'

They whose young souls receive this rust betimes, 521

'T is clear, are fit for anything but rhymes; And Locke will tell you, that the father's right

Who hides all verses from his children's sight;

For poets (says this sage and many more) Make sad mechanics with their lyric lore; And Delphi now, however rich of old, Discovers little silver and less gold,

Because Parnassus, though a mount divine,

Is poor as Irus or an Irish mine. 530

Two objects always should the poet move, Or one or both, — to please or to improve. Whate'er you teach, be brief, if you design For our remembrance your didactic line; Redundance places memory on the rack, For brains may be o'erloaded, like the back

Fiction does best when taught to look like truth,

And fairy fables bubble none but youth Expect no credit for too wondrous tales, Since Jonas only springs alive from whales !

Young men with aught but elegance dispense; 54¹

Maturer years require a little sense.

To end at once: - that bard for all is fit

Who mingles well instruction with his wit; For him reviews shall smile, for him o'erflow

The patronage of Paternoster-row,

- His book, with Longman's liberal aid, shall pass
- (Who ne'er despises books that bring him brass);
- Through three long weeks the taste of London lead,

And cross St. George's Channel and the Tweed. 550 But everything has faults, nor is 't unknown That harps and fiddles often lose their tone,

And wayward voices, at their owner's call, With all his best endeavours, only squall; Dogs blink their covey, flints withhold the spark,

And double - barrels (daran them !) miss their mark.

Where frequent beauties strike the reader's view,

We must not quarrel for a blot or two;

But pardon equally to books or men

The shps of human nature and the pen. 560

Yet if an author, spite of foe or friend,

Despises all advice too much to mend,

But ever twangs the same discordant string,

Give him no quarter howsoe'er he sing.

Let Havard's fate o'ertake him, who, for once,

Produced a play too dashing for a dunce:

At first none deem'd it his; but when his name

Announced the fact — what then ? — it lost its fame.

Though all deplore when Milton deigns to doze,

In a long work 't is fair to steal repose. $_{570}$

As pictures, so shall poems be; some stand

The critic eye, and please when near at hand;

But others at a distance strike the sight;

This seeks the shade, but that demands the light,

Nor dreads the connoisseur's fastidious view,

But, ten times scrutinised, is ten times new.

Parnassian pilgrims! ye whom chance or choice

Hath led to listen to the Muse's voice,

Receive this counsel, and be timely wise;

Few reach the summit which before you hes. 580

Our church and state, our courts and camps, concede

Reward to very moderate heads indeed ! In these plain common sense will travel far;

All are not Erskines who mislead the bar.

But poesy between the best and worst

No medium knows; you must be last or first;

For middling poets' miserable volumes

Are damn'd alike by gods and men and columns.

Again, my Jeffrey ! — as that sound mspires 589

How wakes my bosom to its wonted fires ! Fires, such as gentle Caledonians feel

When Southrons writhe upon their critic wheel,

Or mild Eclectics, when some, worse than Turks,

Would rob poor Faith to decorate 'good works.'

Such are the genial feelings thou canst claim —

My falcon flies not at ignoble game.

Mightiest of all Dunedin's beasts of chase ! For thee my Pegasus would mend his pace. Arise, my Jeffrey ! or my inkless pen 599 Shall never blunt its edge on meaner men; Till thee or thine mine evil eye discerns,

Alas ! I cannot 'strike at wretched kernes ' Inhuman Saxon ! wilt thou then resign

A muse and heart by choice so wholly thine ?

Dear, d-d contemner of my schoolboy songs,

Hast thou no vengeance for my manhood's wrongs?

If unprovoked thou once could bid me bleed, Hast thou no weapon for my daring deed?

What '- not a word ! - and am I then so low?

Wilt thou forbear, who never spared a foe ? Hast thou no wrath, or wish to give it vent?

No wit for nobles, dunces by descent?

No jest on 'minors,' quibbles on a name,

Nor one facetious paragraph of blame?

Is it for this on Ilion I have stood,

And thought of Homer less than Holyrood? On shore of Euxine or Ægean sea,

My hate, untravell'd, fondly turn'd to thee

- Ah! let me cease; in vain my bosom burns,
- From Corydon unkind Alexis turns: 620 Thy rhymes are vain; thy Jeffrey then forego, Nor woo that anger which he will not show

What then ? - Edina starves some lanker son,

To write an article thou canst not shun;

Some less fastidious Scotchman shall be found,

As bold in Billingsgate, though less renown'd.

As if at table some discordant dish Should shock our optics, such as frogs for fish;

As oil m heu of butter men decry, 629 And poppies please not in a modern pie; If all such mixtures then be half a crime, We must have excellence to relish rhyme. Mere roast and boil'd no epicure invites; Thus poetry disgusts, or else delights.

Who shoot not flying rarely touch a gun: Will he who swims not to the river run? And men unpractised in exchanging knocks Must go to Jackson ere they dare to box. Whate'er the weapon, cudgel, fist, or foil, None reach expertness without years of

- toil; 640 But fifty dunces can, with perfect ease,
- Tag twenty thousand couplets when they please.
- Why not ? shall I, thus qualified to sit

For rotten boroughs, never show my wit? Shall I, whose fathers with the quorum sate,

And lived in freedom on a fair estate;

Who left me heir, with stables, kennels, packs.

To all their meome, and to — twice its tax; Whose form and pedigree have scarce a fault, —

- Shall I, I say, suppress my Attic salt? 650
 - Thus think 'the mob of gentlemen;' but you,

Besides all this, must have some genius too Be this your sober judgment, and a rule,

And print not piping hot from Southey's school,

Who (ere another Thalaba appears),

- I trust, will spare us for at least nine years And hark ye, Southey ! pray - but don't be vex'd --
- Burn all your last three works and half the next
- But why this vain advice ? once publish'd, books

Can never be recall'd - from pastry-cooks !

Though Madoc, with Pucelle, instead of punk,

May travel back to Quito - on a trunk

Though without genius and a native vein Orpheus, we learn from Ovid and Lem-Of wit, we loathe an artificial strain priere. Led all wild beasts but women by the ear; Yet art and nature join'd will win the And had he fiddled at the present hour, prize, Unless they act like us and our allies. We'd seen the hous waltzing in the Tower; And old Amphion, such were minstrels then. Had built St. Paul's without the aid of The youth who trains to ride or run a Wren. race. Verse too was justice, and the bards of Must bear privations with unruffled face, Greece Be call'd to labour when he thinks to dine, Did more than constables to keep the peace; And, harder still, leave wenching and his Abolish'd cuckoldom with much applause, wine. Call'd county meetings, and enforced the Ladies who sing, at least who sing at sight, Have follow'd music through her farthest laws, Cut down crown influence with reforming flight; But rhymers tell you neither more nor less, scythes, And served the church --- without demand-'I've got a pretty poem for the press;' 710 And that's enough; then write and print so ing tithes; And hence, throughout all Hellas and the fast; ---East, If Satan take the hindmost, who'd be last? Each poet was a prophet and a priest, They storm the types, they publish, one and Whose old-establish'd board of joint conall, trols They leap the counter, and they leave the Included kingdoms in the cure of souls. stall. Provincial maidens, men of high command, Next rose the martial Homer, Epic's Yea, baronets have ink'd the bloody hand ! prince, Cash cannot quell them; Pollio play'd this 670 And fighting 's been in fashion ever since; prank And old Tyrtæus, when the Spartans warr'd (Then Phœbus first found credit in a (A lumping leader, but a lofty bard), Though wall'd Ithome had resisted long, bank !), Not all the living only, but the dead, Reduced the fortress by the force of song. Fool on, as fluent as an Orpheus' head; 720 Damn'd all their days, they posthumously When oracles prevail'd, in times of old, thrive -In song alone Apollo's will was told. Dug up from dust, though buried when Then if your verse is what all verse should alive ! be. Reviews record this epidemic crime, And gods were not asham'd on't, why Those Books of Martyrs to the rage for should we? rhyme. Alas ! woe worth the scribbler ! often seen The Muse, like mortal females, may be In Morning Post, or Monthly Magazine. woo'd: There lurk his earlier lays; but soon, hot-In turns she'll seem a Paphian, or a prude; press'd, Fierce as a bride when first she feels Behold a quarto ! - Tarts must tell the affright, rest. Mild as the same upon the second night; Then leave, ye wise, the lyre's precarious Wild as the wife of alderman or peer, chords Now for his grace, and now a grenadier ! To muse-mad baronets or madder lords, Her eyes beseem, her heart belies, her Or country Crispins, now grown somewhat zone. stale, Ice in a crowd and lava when alone. Twin Doric minstrels, drunk with Doric ale! Hark to those notes, narcotically soft, If verse be studied with some show of The cobbler-laureats sing to Capel Lofft ! Till, lo ! that modern Midas, as he hears, art, Kind Nature always will perform her part; Adds an ell growth to his egregious ears !

The	re	lives	one	$d\mathbf{r}$	uid,	who	prepares	\mathbf{in}
	$_{ m ti}$	me					• •
· · .		• •	•					~

'Gainst future feuds his poor revenge of rhyme;

- Racks his dull memory and his duller muse,
- To publish faults which friendship should excuse
- If friendship's nothing, self-regard might teach

More polish'd usage of his parts of speech.

But what is shame, or what is aught to him?

He vents his spleen, or gratifies his whim. Some fancied slight has roused his lurking hate,

Some folly cross'd, some jest, or some debate:

Up to his den Sir Scribbler hies, and soon

The gather'd gall is voided in lampoon.

- Perhaps at some pert speech you 've dared to frown,
- Perhaps your poem may have pleased the town. 750

If so, alas ! 't is nature in the man ---

May Heaven forgive you, for he never can ! Then be it so; and may his withering bays

Bloom fresh in satire, though they fade in praise!

While his lost songs no more shall steep and stink.

The dullest, fattest weeds on Lethe's brink,

- But springing upwards from the sluggish mould,
- Be (what they never were before) be -sold!
- Should some rich bard (but such a monster now.

In modern physics, we can scarce allow), Should some pretending scribbler of the

- court, бг Some rhyming peer - there 's plenty of the
- sort -
- All but one poor dependent priest withdrawn
- (Ah! too regardless of his chaplain's yawn !),

Condemn the unlucky curate to recite

Their last dramatic work by candle-light,

- How would the preacher turn each rueful leaf.
- Dull as his sermons, but not half so brief! Yet, since 't is promised at the rector's
- death,

He'll risk no living for a little breath. 770

Then spouts and foams, and cries at every lıne

(The Lord forgive him !), 'Bravo ! grand ! divine !

Hoarse with those praises (which, by flatt'rv fed.

Dependence barters for her bitter bread),

He strides and stamps along with creaking boot,

Till the floor echoes his emphatic foot; Then sits again, then rolls his pious eye, As when the dying vicar will not die !

Nor feels, forsooth, emotion at his heart; ---But all dissemblers overact their part. 780

Ye, who aspire to 'build the lofty rhyme,

- Believe not all who laud your false 'sublime;
- But if some friend shall hear your work, and sav.

'Expunge that stanza, lop that line away,'

- And, after fruitless efforts, you return Without amendment, and he answers,
- 'Burn '

That instant throw your paper in the fire,

- Ask not his thoughts, or follow his desire; But if (true bard !) you scorn to conde
 - scend.
 - And will not alter what you can't defend,
 - If you will breed this bastard of your brains, -
 - We'll have no words I've only lost my pains
 - Yet, if you only prize your favourite thought.

As critics kindly do, and authors ought;

If your cool friend annoy you now and then,

And cross whole pages with his plaguy pen' No matter, throw your ornaments aside, -Better let him than all the world deride.

Give light to passages too much in shade,

- Nor let a doubt obscure one verse you've made; 800
- Your friend's a 'Johnson,' not to leave one word.

However triffing, which may seem absurd; Such ering trifles lead to serious ills,

- And furnish food for critics, or their quills.
- As the Scotch fiddle, with its touching tune,
- Or the sad influence of the angry moon.

All men avoid bad writers' ready tongues, As yawning waiters fly Fitzscribble's lungs; Yet on he mouths — ten minutes — tedious each 800

As prelate's homily or placeman's speech; Long as the last years of a lungering lease, When riot pauses until rents increase.

While such a ministrel, muttering fustian, strays

O'er hedge and ditch, through unfrequented ways,

If by some chance he walks into a well,

And shouts for succour with stentorian yell,

⁴ A rope ! help, Christians, as ye hope for grace !'

Nor woman, man, nor child will star a pace; For there his carcass he might freely fling, From frenzy or the humour of the thing.

Though this has happen'd to more bards than one; 821

I'll tell you Budgell's story, — and have done

Budgell, a rogue and rhymester, for no good

(Unless his case be much misunderstood), When teased with creditors' continual claims,

'To die like Ćato,' leapt into the Thames! And therefore be it lawful through the town

For any bard to poison, hang, or drown.

Who saves the intended suicide receives

Small thanks from him who loathes the life he leaves; 830

And, sooth to say, mad poets must not lose

The glory of that death they freely choose.

Nor is it certain that some sorts of verse Prick not the poet's conscience as a curse; Dosed with vile drams on Sunday he was found,

Or got a child on consecrated ground !

And hence is haunted with a rhyming rage ---

Fear'd like a bear just bursting from his cage

If free, all fly his versifying fit,

Fatal at once to simpleton or wit: 840

But him, unhappy ' whom he seizes, — him He flays with recitation lumb by lumb;

Probes to the quick where'er he makes his breach,

And gorges like a lawyer - or a leech.

THE CURSE OF MINERVA

—— Pallas te hoc vulnere, Pallas Immolat, et pœnam scelerato et sangune sumit Ænerd xu [948, 949]

ATHENS CAPUCHIN CONVENT. March 17, 1811 SLOW sinks, more lovely ere his race be run, Along Morea's hills the setting sun; Not, as in northern climes, obscurely bright But one unclouded blaze of living light! O'er the hush'd deep the yellow beam he throws. Gilds the green wave that trembles as it glows On old Ægma's rock and Hydra's isle The god of gladness sheds his parting smile; O'er his own regions lungering loves to shme, Though there his altars are no more divine. Descending fast, the mountain-shadows kiss Thy glorious gulf, unconquer'd Salamis ! Their azure arches through the long expanse More deeply purpled meet his mellowing glance, And tenderest tints, along their summits driven, Mark his gay course and own the hues of heaven; Till, darkly shaded from the land and deep, Behind his Delphian rock he sinks to sleep. On such an eve his palest beam he cast When, Athens! here thy wisest look'd his last.

How watch'd thy better sons his farewell ray,

That closed their murder'd sage's latest day!

Not yet — not yet — Sol pauses on the hill, The precious hour of parting lingers still; But sad his light to agonising eyes,

- And dark the mountain's once delightful dyes.
- Gloom o'er the lovely land he seem'd to pour, The land where Phœbus never frown'd before;

But ere he sunk below Cithæron's head,

The cup of woe was quaff'd — the spirit fled; 30

The soul of him that scorn'd to fear or fly, Who lived and died as none can live or die. But, lo! from high Hymettus to the plam,

The queen of night asserts her silent reign No murky vapour, herald of the storm,

Hides her fair face, or girds her glowing \mathbf{form}

- With cornice glimmering as the moonbeams play,
- There the white column greets her grateful ray,
- And bright around, with quivering beams beset,

Her emblem sparkles o'er the minaret. The groves of olive scatter'd dark and wide Where meek Cephisus sheds his scanty tide, The cypress saddening by the sacred mosque, The gleaming turret of the gay kiosk,

And, sad and sombre mid the holy calm,

Near Theseus' fane yon solitary palm;

- All, tinged with varied hues, arrest the eye –
- And dull were his that pass'd them heedless by

Again the Ægean, heard no more afar, Lulls his chafed breast from elemental war, Again his waves in milder tints unfold Their long expanse of sapphire and of gold, Mix'd with the shades of many a distant isle

That frown, where gentler ocean deigns to smile.

As thus, within the walls of Pallas' fane, I mark'd the beauties of the land and main, Alone and friendless on the magic shore,

Whose arts and arms but hve in poets' lore; Oft as the matchless dome I turn'd to scan, Sacred to gods but not secure from man,

- The past return'd, the present seem'd to cease, 61 And Glory knew no clime beyond her
- Greece !

Hours roll'd along, and Dian's orb on high Had gain'd the centre of her softest sky;

And yet unwearied still my footsteps trod

O'er the vain shrine of many a vanish'd god:

But chiefly, Pallas ! thine; when Hecate's glare,

Check'd by thy columns, fell more sadly fair O'er the chill marble, where the startling tread

Thrills the lone heart like echoes from the dead. 70 Long had I mused, and treasured every trace

The wreck of Greece recorded of her race When, lo ' a grant form before me strode, And Pallas hail'd me in her own abode !

- Yes, 't was Minerva's self; but, ah ! how changed
- Since o'er the Dardan field in arms she ranged !

Not such as first, by her divine command,

Her form appear'd from Phidias' plastic hand

Gone were the terrors of her awful brow,

- Her idle ægis bore no Gorgon now; Sn
- Her helm was dinted, and the broken lance Seem'd weak and shaftless e'en to mortal glance;
- The olive branch, which still she deign'd to clasp,
- Shrunk from her touch and wither'd in her grasp;
- And, ah ! though still the brightest of the sky,
- Celestial tears bedimm'd her large blue eve;
- Round the rent casque her owlet circled slow,
- And mourn'd his mistress with a shriek of woe!
 - 'Mortal '' -- 't was thus she spake -- ' that blush of shame 80

Proclams thee Briton, once a noble name; First of the mighty, foremost of the free,

Now honour'd less by all, and least by me: Chief of thy foes shall Pallas still be found. Seek'st thou the cause of loathing? - look around.

Lo ! here, despite of war and wasting fire, I saw successive tyrannies expire;

- 'Scaped from the ravage of the Turk and Goth,
- Thy country sends a spoiler worse than both

Survey this vacant, violated fane;

Recount the relics torn that yet remain:

- These Cecrops placed, this Pericles adorn'd.
- That Adrian rear'd when drooping Science mourn'd.

What more I owe let gratitude attest —

- Know, Alaric and Elgin did the rest
- That all may learn from whence the plunderer came,
- The insulted wall sustains his hated name.

For Elgin's fame thus grateful Pallas	Then thousand schemes of petulance and pride pleads, Below, his name — above, behold his deeds ! Be ever hail'd with equal honour here	Despatch her scheming children far and wide:
	Some east, some west, some every where
The Gothic monarch and the Pictish peer:	but north,
Arms gave the first his right, the last had	In quest of lawless gain, they issue forth.
none, III	And thus — accursèd be the day and year !
But basely stole what less barbarians won.	She sent a Pict to play the felon here.
So when the hon quits his fell repast,	Yet Caledonia claims some native worth,
Next prowls the wolf, the filthy jackal last:	As dull Bœotia gave a Pindar birth; 150
Flesh, limbs, and blood the former make	So may her few, the letter'd and the brave, their own, The last poor brute securely gnaws the	Bound to no clime and victors of the grave,
bone.	Shake off the sordid dust of such a land,
Yet still the gods are just, and crimes are	And shine like children of a happier strand;
cross'd:	As once of yore in some obnoxious place,
See here what Elgin won, and what he lost !	Ten names (if found) had saved a wretched
Another name with his pollutes my shrine:	race.
Behold where Dian's beams disdain to shine!	'Mortal!' the blue-eyed maid resumed,
Some retribution still might Pallas claim,	'once more
When Venus half avenged Minerva's	Bear back my mandate to thy native shore.
shame.'	Though fallen, alas ! this vengeance yet is mine,
She ceased awhile, and thus I dared re-	To turn my counsels far from lands like
ply,	thine. 160
To soothe the vengeance kindling in her	Hear then in silence Pallas' stern behest;
eye:	Hear and believe, for Time will tell the 'Daughter of Jove! in Britain's injured	rest.
name,
A true-born Briton may the deed disclaim.	'First on the head of him who did this
Frown not on England; England owns him	deed not:	My curse shall light, — on him and all his
Athena, no! thy plunderer was a Scot.	seed:
Ask'st thou the difference? From fair	Without one spark of intellectual fire,
Phyles' towers	Be all the sons as senseless as the sire:
Survey Beotia; - Caledonia's ours. 130	If one with wit the parent brood disgrace,
And well I know within that bastard land	Believe him bastard of a brighter race. 168 Still with his hireling artists let him prate,
Hath Wisdom's goddess never held com-	And Folly's praise repay for Wisdom's hate;
mand; A barren soil, where Nature's germs, con-	Long of their patron's gusto let them tell,
fined	Whose noblest, native gusto is — to sell:
To stern sterility, can stint the mind;	To sell, and make — may Shame record the
Whose thistle well betrays the niggard	day!-
earth,	The state receiver of his pilfer'd prey.
Emblem of all to whom the land gives	Meantime, the flattering, feeble dotard,
birth;	West,
Each genial influence nurtured to resist;	Europe's worst dauber, and poor Britain's
A land of meanness, sophistry, and mist.	best,
Each breeze from foggy mount and marshy	With palsied hand shall turn each model o'er plain	And own himself an infant of fourscore.
Dilutes with drivel every drizzly brain, 140	Be all the bruisers cull'd from all St.
Till, burst at length, each watery head	Giles'
o'erflows,	That art and nature may compare their
Foul as their soil and frigid as their snows.	styles; 180

270

- While brawny brutes in stupid wonder stare,
- And marvel at his lordship's "stone shop" there.
- Round the throng'd gate shall sauntering coxcombs creep,
- To lounge and lucubrate, to prate and peep;
- While many a languid maid, with longing sigh,
- On giant statues casts the curious eye;
- The room with transient glance appears to skim,
- Yet marks the mighty back and length of limb;
- Mourns o'er the difference of now and then; Exclams, "These Greeks indeed were pro-
- per men !" 190 Draws sly comparisons of these with those,
- And envies Lais all her Attic beaux.
- When shall a modern maid have swains like these !
- Alas, Sır Harry is no Hercules!
- And last of all, amidst the gaping crew,
- Some calm spectator, as he takes his view,
- In silent indignation mix'd with grief,
- Admires the plunder but abhors the thief.
- Oh, loathed in life nor pardon'd in the dust,
- May hate pursue his sacrilegious lust ! 200 Link'd with the fool that fired the Ephe-
- sian dome, Shall vengeance follow far beyond the tomb,
- And Eratostratus and Elgin shine
- In many a branding page and burning line;

Alike reserved for aye to stand accursed,

- Perchance the second blacker than the first.
 - 'So let him stand, through ages yet unborn,
- Fix'd statue on the pedestal of Scorn;
- Though not for him alone revenge shall wait,
- But fits thy country for her coming fate:
- Hers were the deeds that taught her lawless son 211
- To do what oft Britannia's self had done.
- Look to the Baltic blazing from afar,
- Your old ally yet mourns perfidious war
- Not to such deeds did Pallas lend her aid,
- Or break the compact which herself had made;
- Far from such councils, from the faithless field
- She fled but left behind her Gorgon shield:

- A fatal gift that turn'd your friends to stone,
- And left lost Albion hated and alone 22c
 - 'Look to the East, where Ganges' swarthy race
- Shall shake your tyrant empire to its base; Lo! there Rebellion rears her ghastly head,
- And glares the Nemesis of native dead;
- Till Indus rolls a deep purpureal flood,
- And claums his long arrear of northern blood.

So may ye perish ! — Pallas, when she gave Your free-born rights, forbade ye to enslave.

- 'Look on your Spam ! she clasps the hand she hates,
- But boldly clasps, and thrusts you from her gates. 230
- Bear witness, bright Barossa! thou canst tell
- Whose were the sons that bravely fought and fell.

But Lusitania, kind and dear ally,

- Can spare a few to fight, and sometimes fly.
- Oh glorious field ' by Famine fiercely won,

The Gaul retires for once, and all is done! But when did Pallas teach, that one retreat

Retrieved three long olympiads of defeat?

- 'Look last at home ye love not to look there
- On the grum smile of comfortless despair. Your city saddens; loud though Revel
- howls, 241 Here Famine faints and yonder Rapine
- prowls.

See all alike of more or less bereft;

- No misers tremble when there's nothing left.
- "Blest paper credit;" who shall dare to sing?

It clogs like lead Corruption's weary wing. Yet Pallas pluck'd each premier by the ear, Who gods and men alke disdain'd to hear; But one, repentant o'er a bankrupt state,

On Pallas calls, — but calls, alas[†] too late: Then raves for ...; to that Mentor bends,

- Though he and Pallas never yet were friends. 252
- Him senates hear, whom never yet they heard,
- Contemptuous once, and now no less absurd.

So, once of yore, each reasonable frog Swore faith and fealty to his sovereign "log" Thus hail'd your rulers their patrician clod, As Egypt chose an onion for a god. 'Now fare ye well! enjoy your little hour; Go, grasp the shadow of your vanish'd power; 260	The hero bounding at his country's call, The glorious death that consecrates his fall, 200 Swell the young heart with visionary charms, And bid it antedate the joys of arms. But know, a lesson you may yet be taught, With death alone are laurels cheaply bought: Not in the conflict Havoc seeks delight, His day of mercy is the day of fight But when the field is fought, the battle won,
 Gloss o'er the failure of each fondest scheme; Your strength a name, your bloated wealth a dream Gone is that gold, the marvel of mankind, 	Though drench'd with gore, his woes are but begun: His deeper deeds as yet ye know by name; The slaughter'd peasant and the ravish'd dame,
And pirates barter all that's left behind. No more the hirelings, purchased near and far, Crowd to the ranks of mercenary war.	The rifled mansion and the foe-reap'd field, Ill suit with souls at home, untaught to yield. Say with what eye along the distant down
The idle merchant on the useless quay Droops o'er the bales no bark may bear away; Or, back returning, sees rejected stores Rot piecemeal on his own encumber'd	Would flying burghers mark the blazing town? How view the column of ascending flames Shake his red shadow o'er the startled Thames?
shores: 270 The starved mechanic breaks his rusting loom, And desperate mans hum 'gainst the coming	Nay, frown not, Albion! for the torch was thine That ht such pyres from Tagus to the Rhme:
doom. Then in the senate of your sinking state Show me the man whose counsels may have weight. Vain is each voice where tones could once	Now should they burst on thy devoted coast, Go, ask thy bosom who deserves them most. The law of heaven and earth is life for life, command; E'en factions cease to charm a factious land	And she who raised, in vain regrets, the strife.'
Yet jarring sects convulse a sister isle, And light with maddening hands the mu- tual pile.	THE WALTZ
"T is done, 't is past, since Pallas warns	AN APOSTROPHIC HYMN BY HORACE HORNEM, ESQ.
in vain;	Qualis in Eurotæ ripis, aut per juga Cynthi,
The Furies seize her abdicated reign: 280 Wide o'er the realm they wave their kin-	Exercet Diana choros VIRGIL [Æneid 1 498, 499]
ding brands, And wring her vitals with their fiery hands. But one convulsive struggle still remains, And Gaul shall weep ere Albion wear her chains.	'Such on Eurotas' banks, or Cynthus' height, Diana seems, and so she charms the sight, When in the dance the graceful goldess leads The quire of nymphs, and overtops their heads.' DENDEN'S Virgil.
The banner'd pomp of war, the glittering	TO THE PUBLISHER files, O'er whose gay trappings stern Bellona smiles; The brazen trump, the spirit-stirring drum, That bid the foe defiance ere they come;	SIR, — I am a country gentleman of a mid- land county. I might have been a parliament- man for a certain borough having had the offer of as many votes as General T at the general election in 1812. But I was all for and the rectanged of the programmer	POULT CLOCKON WE TOTS' DUE T MAD SHE TOE

domestic happiness; as, fifteen years ago, on a visit to London, I married a middle-aged maid of honour. We lived happily at Hornem Hall till last season, when niv wife and I were mvited by the Countess of Waltzaway (a distant relation of my spouse) to pass the winter in town Thinking no harm, and our girls being come to a marriageable (or, as they call it, marketable) age, and having besides a Chancery suit inveterately entailed upon the family estate, we came up in our old chariot, - of which, by the by, my wife grew so much ashamed in less than a week, that I was obliged to buy a second-hand barouche, of which I might mount the box, Mrs H says, if I could drive, but never see the inside — that place being reserved for the Honourable Augustus Tiptoe, her partner-general and opera-knight. Hearing great praises of Mrs. H's dancing (she was famous for birthnight minuets in the latter end of the last century), I unbooted, and went to a ball at the Countess's, expecting to see a country dance, or, at most, cotillions, reels, and all the old paces to the newest tunes But, judge of my surprise, on arriving, to see poor dear Mrs Hornem with her arms half round the louns of a huge hussar-looking gentleman I never set eyes on before, and his, to say truth, rather more than half round her waist, turning round, and round, and round, to a d----d see-saw upand-down sort of tune, that reminded me of the 'Black-joke,' only more 'affetuoso,' till it made me quite giddy with wondering they were not so By-and-by they stopped a bit, and I thought they would sit or fall down . but no, with Mrs H's hand on his shoulder, 'quam familiariter' (as Terence said, when I was at school), they walked about a minute, and then at it again, like two cockchafers spitted on the same bodkin I asked what all this meant, when, with a loud laugh, a child no older than our Wilhelmina (a name I never heard but in the Vicar of Wakefield, though her mother would call her after the Princess of Swappenbach) said, 'Lord' Mr Hornem, can't you see they are valtzing ?' or waltzing (I forget which); and then up she got, and her mother and sister, and away they went and round-abouted it till supper-time Now that I know what it is, I like it of all things, and so does Mrs. H (though I have broken my shins, and four times overturned Mrs. Hornem's maid, in practising the preliminary steps in a mornmg) Indeed, so much do I like it, that having a turn for rhyme, tastily displayed m some election ballads, and songs in honour of all the victories (but till lately I have had little piac tice in that way), I sat down, and with the aid of William Fitzgerald, Esq, and a few hints from Dr Busby (whose recitations I attend, and am monstrous fond of Master Busby's manner of delivering his father's late successful Drury Lane Address), I composed the following hymn, wherewithal to make my sentiments known to the public; whom, nevertheless, I hearthy despise, as well as the critics.

I am, Sir, yours. etc. etc.

HORACE HORNEM.

Muse of the many-twinkling feet ' whose charms

Are now extended up from legs to arms;

- Terpsichore ' too long misdeem'd a maid Repreachful term bestow'd but to up-
- braid —
- Henceforth in all the bronze of brightness shine,
- The least a vestal of the virgin Nine.
- Far be from thee and thme the name of prude;
- Mock'd, yet triumphant; sneer'd at, unsubdued;
- Thy legs must move to conquer as they fiv,
- If but thy coats are reasonably high; ro
- Thy breast if bare enough requires no shield;
- Dance forth sans armour thou shalt take the field,
- And own, impregnable to most assaults,
- Thy not too lawfully begotten 'Waltz.'
 - Hail, nimble nymph ! to whom the young hussar,

The whisker'd votary of waltz and war,

- His night devotes, despite of spur and boots; A sight unmatch'd since Orpheas and his brutes.
- Hail, spirit-sturring Waltz !- beneath whose banners
- A modern hero fought for modish manners: 20
- On Hounslow's Heath to rival Wellesley's fame,
- Cock'd, fired, and miss'd his man-but gain'd his aim;
- Hail, moving Muse ! to whom the fair one's breast
- Gives all it can, and bids us take the rest.

¹ My Latin is all forgotten, if a man can be said to nave forgotten what he never remembered, but I bought my title-page motto of a Catholic priest for a thnee-shilling bank token, after much haggling for the even supernee. I grudged the money to a papist, being all for the memory of Perceval and 'No popery,' and quite regreting the downfall of the pope, because we can't bear him any more

Oh! for the flow of Busby or of Fitz, The latter's loyalty, the former's wits,	Borne on the breath of hyberborean gales, From Hamburg's port (while Hamburg
To 'energise the object I pursue,'	yet had mails), 6g
And give both Behal and his dance their	Ere yet unlucky Fame, compell'd to creep due !	To snowy Gottenburg, was chill'd to sleep;
uuo .	Or, starting from her slumbers, deign'd
Imperial Waltz ! imported from the	arise.
Rhine	Heligoland ! to stock thy mart with lies;
(Famed for the growth of pedigrees and	While unburnt Moscow yet had news to wine), 30	send,
Long be thine import from all duty free,	Nor owed her fiery exit to a friend, —
And hock itself be less esteem'd than	She came — Waltz came, and with her thee:	certain sets
In some few qualities alike — for hock	Of true despatches and as true gazettes;
Improves our cellar, thou our living stock.	Then flamed of Austerlitz the blest de-
The head to hock belongs, thy subtler	spatch,
art	Which Moniteur nor Morning Post can
Intoxicates alone the heedless heart;	match; 70
Through the full veins thy gentler poison	And — almost crush'd beneath the glorious swims,	news —
And wakes to wantonness the willing limbs.	Ten plays and forty tales of Kotzebue's;
	One envoy's letters, six composers' airs,
Oh, Germany! how much to thee we	And loads from Frankfort and from Leip-
owe,	sic fairs;
As heaven-born Pitt can testify below, 40	Meiner's four volumes upon womankind,
Ere cursed confederation made thee	Like Lapland witches to ensure a wind;
France's,	Brunck's heaviest tome for ballast, and, to
And only left us thy dd debts and	back it.
dances !	Of Heyne, such as should not sink the
Of subsidies and Hanover bereft,	packet.
We bless thee still — for George the Third	prozecti
is left !	Fraught with this cargo - and her fair-
Of kings the best — and last, not least in	est freight,
worth,	Delightful Waltz on tiptoe for a mate, 8a
For graciously begetting George the Fourth.	The welcome vessel reach'd the genial
To Germany, and highnesses serene,	strand,
Who owo us millions don't we owe the
Who owe us millions — don't we owe the	And round her flock'd the daughters of the queen?	land.
To Germany, what owe we not besides? 49	Not decent David, when before the ark
So oft bestowing Brunswickers and brides;	His grand pas-seul excited some remark;
Who paid for vulgar, with her royal blood,	Not love-lorn Quixote, when his Sancho
Drawn from the stem of each Teutonic	thought
stud:	The knight's fandango friskier than it
Who sent us — so be pardon'd all her	ought;
faults —	Not soft Herodias, when, with winning tread,
A dozen dukes, some kings, a queen - and	Her nimble feet danced off another's head;
Waltz.	Not Cleopatra on her galley's deck
	Display'd so much of leg, or more of neck,
But peace to her, her emperor and diet,	Than thou, ambrosial Waltz, when first the
Though now transferr'd to Buonaparte's	moon 95
'fiat!'	Beheld thee twirling to a Saxon tune !
Back to my theme O Muse of motion !	0
say,	To you, ye husbands of ten years ! whose
How first to Albion found thy Waltz her	brows
	Ache with the annual tributes of a spouse; way?

274

 To you of nine years less, who only bear The budding sprouts of those that you shall wear, With added ornaments around them roll'd Of native brass or law-awarded gold; To you, ye matrons, ever on the watch To mar a son's, or make a daughter's, match; To you, ye children of — whom chance accords — 101 Always the ladies, and sometimes their lords; To you, ye single gentlemen, who seek Torments for life or pleasures for a week, As Love or Hymen your endeavours guide To gain your own or snatch another's birde; — To one and all the lovely stranger came, And every ball-room echoes with her name. Endearing Waltz ! — to thy more melting tune Bow Irish µg and ancient rigadoon. 110 Scotch reels, avaunt ! and country-dance, forego Your future claims to each fantastic toe ! Waltz — Waltz alone — both legs and arms demands, Liberal of feet and lavish of her hands; Hands which may freely range in public sight Where ne'er before — but — pray ' put out the light,' Methinks the glare of yonder chandeher Shines much too far — or I am much too near; And true though strange, Waltz whispers this remark, 'My shppery steps are safest in the dark !' But here the Muse with due decorum halts, 127 	 Shades of those belles whose reign began of yore, With George the Third's — and ended long before !— Though in your daughters' daughters yet you thrive, Burst from your lead and be yourselves alive ! Back to the ball-room speed your spectred host: Fool's Paradise is dull to that you lost. No treacherous powder bids conjecture quake; No stiff-starch'd stays make meddling fingers ache right of the theory of the transfer'd to those ambiguous things that ape Goats in their visage, women in their shape !); No damsel faints when rather closely press'd, But more caressing seems when most caress'd; Superfluous hartshorn, and reviving salts, Both bamsh'd by the sovereign cordial 'Waltz' Seductive Waltz' — though on thy native shore Even Werter's self proclaim'd thee half a whore — Werter, to decent vice though much inclined, Yet warm not wanton, dazzled but not blind; rigo Though gentle Genlis, in her strife with Stael, Would even proscribe thee from a Paris ball; The fashion hails — from countesses to queens, And made and valets waltz behind the
And true though strange, Waltz whispers this remark,	Though gentle Genlis, in her strife with Stael,
But here the Muse with due decorum	ball;
	queens,
Observant travellers of every time ! Ye quartos publish'd upon every clume ! Oh say, shall dull Romaika's heavy round, Fandango's wriggle, or Bolero's bound; Can Egypt's Almas — tantalising group; Columbia's caperers to the warlike whoop; Can aught from cold Kamschatka to Cape Horn With Waltz compare or after Waltz be borne? 130 Ah, no ! from Morier's pages down to Galt's, Each tourist pens a paragraph for ' Waltz.'	 Wide and more wide thy witching circle spreads, And turns — if nothing else — at least our heads; With thee even clumsy cits attempt to bounce, And cockneys practise what they can't pronounce. Gods! how the glorious theme my strain exalts, And rhyme finds partner rhyme in praise of 'Waltz!' r6σ

Blest was the time Waltz chose for her début. The court, the Regent, like herself were new; New face for friends, for foes some new rewards; New ornaments for black and royal guards; New laws to hang the rogues that roar'd for bread; New coms (most new) to follow those that fied; New victories — nor can we prize them less, Though Jenky wonders at his own success; New wars, because the old succeed so well That most survivors envy those who fell; New mistresses — no, old — and yet 't is true, 171 Though they be old, the thing is something new; Each new, quite new (except some ancient tricks), New white-sticks, gold-sticks, broomsticks, all new stocks ! With vests or ribands — deck'd alike in hue, New troopers strut, new turncoats blush in blue: So saith the muse my —, what say you ? Such was the time when Waltz might best maintain 178 Her new preferments in this novel reign; Such was the time, nor ever yet was such; Hoops are no more, and petticoats not much : Morals and minuets, virtue and her stays, And tell-tale powder — all have had their days. The ball begins; the honours of the house First duly done by daughter or by spouse, Some potentate — or royal or serene, With Kent's gay grace or sapient Gloster's mien — Leads forth the ready dame, whose rising flush Might once have been mistaken for a blush. From where the garb just leaves the bosom free, 190 That spot where hearts were once supposed to be; Round all the confines of the yielded waist, The strangest hand may wander undis- placed;	The other to the shoulder no less royal Ascending with affection truly loyal ! Thus front to front the partners move or stand, 200 The foot may rest, but none withdraw the hand; And all m turn may follow in their rank, The Earl of — Asterisk, and Lady — Blank; Sir — Such-a-one, with those of fashion's host For whose blest surnames — vide Morning Post (Or if for that impartial print too late, Search Doctors' Commons six months from my date) — Thus all and each, in movements swift or slow, The genial contact gently undergo; Till some might marvel, with the modest Turk, 210 if ' nothing follows all this palming work ?' True, honest Mirza ! — you may trust my rhyme — Something does follow at a fitter time; The breast thus publicly resign'd to man, In private may resist him — if it can. O ye who loved our grandmothers of yore. Fitzpatrick, Sheridan, and many more ! And thou, my prince ! whose sovereign taste and will It is to love the lovely beldames still ! Thou ghost of Queensbury ! whose judging sprite 220 Satan may spare to peep a single night, Pronounce — if ever m your days of bliss Asmodeus struck so bright a stroke as this: — To teach the young ideas how to rise, Flush in the cheek and languish in the eyes; Rush to the heart and lighten through the frame, With half-told wish and ill-dissembled flame, For prurient nature still will storm the breast — Who, tempted thus, can answer for the rest? 200
That spot where hearts were once supposed to be; Round all the confines of the yielded waist,	breast — Who, tempted thus, can answer for the
	But ye, who never felt a single thought For what our morals are to be, or ought; Who wisely wish the charms you view to reap, Say — would you make those beauties quite so cheap?

 Hot from the hands promiscuously applied, Round the slight waist or down the glow- ing side, Where were the rapture then to clasp the form From this lewd grasp and lawless contact warm? At once love's most endearing thought re- sign, To press the hand so press'd by none but thine; To gaze upon that eye which never met 240 	 With the pride of our belles who have made it the fashion; So, instead of 'beaux arts,' we may say 'la belle passion' For learning, which lately has taken the lead in The world, and set all the fine gentlemen reading. Tra I know it too well, and have worn out my patience With studying to study your new publica- tions
Another's ardent look without regret; Approach the lip which all, without re- straint, Come near enough — if not to touch — to taint;	There's Vamp, Scamp, and Mouthy, and Wordswords and Co 9 With their damnable — Ink. Hold, my good friend, do you know
If such thou lovest — love her then no more, Or give, like her, caresses to a score; Her mind with these is gone, and with it go The little left behind it to bestow.	Whom you speak to? Tra. Right well, boy, and so does 'the Row.' You're an author — a poet — Ink. And think you that I
 Voluptuous Waltz ! and dare I thus blaspheme ? Thy bard forgot thy praises were his theme. Terpsichore, forgive ' — at every ball 250 My wife now waltzes, and my daughters shall; My son (or stop — 'tis needless to inquire — These little accidents should ne'or transpire; Some ages hence our genealogic tree Will wear as green a bough for him as me) — Waltzing shall rear, to make our name amends, Grandsons for me — in heirs to all his friends. 	Can stand tamely in silence to hear you decry The Muses? Tra. Excuse me: I meant no offence To the Nine; though the number who make some pretence To their favours is such — but the subject to drop, I am just piping hot from a publisher's shop (Next door to the pastry-cook's; so that when I Cannot find the new volume I wanted to buy On the bibliopole's shelves, it is only two paces, 20 As one finds every author in one of those
THE BLUES	places); Where I just had been skimming a charm- ing critique, So studded with wit and so sprinkled with
A LITERARY ECLOGUE Nimium ne crede colori — Vinent. [Ecl. n. 17] O trust not, ye beautiful creatures, to hue, Though your have were as red as your stokenes are blue.	Greek ! Where your friend — you know who — has just got such a threshing, That it is, as the phrase goes, extremely
Though your hair were as red as your stockings are blue ECLOGUE FIRST London — Before the Door of a Lecture Room. Enter TRACY, meeting INKEL	'refreshing' What a beautiful word! Ink. Very true; 't is so soft And so cooling — they use it a little too oft; And the papers have got it at last — but no
Ink You're too late. Tra. Is it over? Ink. Nor will be this hour. But the benches are cramm'd, like a gar- den in flower,	matter. So they 've cut up our friend then ? Tra. Not left him a tatter — Not a rag of his present or past reputation, Which they call a disgrace to the age and the nation. 31

Ink. I'm sorry to hear this! for friend- ship, you know —	Ink. There must be attraction much
Our poor friend ! - but I thought it would	higher Than Scamp, or the Jews' harp he nick-terminate so Our friendship is such, I'll read nothing to shock it	names his lyre, 60 To call you to this hotbed. Tra I own it — 't is true —
You don't happen to have the Review in	A fair lady — 1 own it — 't is true —
your pocket?	Ink. A spinster ?
Tra No; I left a round dozen of authors	Tra. Miss Lilac !
and others	Ink. The Blue !
(Very sorry, no doubt, since the cause is a	The heiress?
brother's)	Tra. The angel!
All scrambling and jostling, like so many	Ink. The devil ! why, man !
imps,	Pray get out of this hobble as fast as you
And on fire with impatience to get the next	can.
glimpse. Ink. Let us join them.	You wed with Miss Lilac ! 't would be your perdition:
Tra. What, won't you return to the	She's a poet, a chymist, a mathematician.
lecture?	Tra I say she 's an angel
Ink. Why, the place is so cramm'd,	Ink. Say rather an angle.
there's not room for a spectre.	If you and she marry, you'll certainly
Besides, our friend Scamp is to-day so ab-	wrangle.
surd —	I say she's a Blue, man, as blue as the
Tra How can you know that till you	ether.
hear him ? Ink. I heard	Tra. And is that any cause for not com-
Quite enough; and, to tell you the truth,	Ing together? 70 Ink Humph! I can't say I know any my retreat	happy alliance
Was from his vile nonsense no less than the heat.	Which has lately sprung up from a wed- lock with science.
Tra. I have had no great loss then?	She's so learned in all things, and fond of
Ink $Loss!$ — such a palaver !	concerning
I'd inoculate sooner my wife with the	Herself in all matters connected with learnslaver	ing,
Of a dog when gone rabid, than listen two	That — hours To the torment of trash which around him	Tra. What?
To the torrent of trash which around him he pours,	Ink I perhaps may as well hold
Pump'd up with such effort, disgorged with	my tongue; But there's five hundred people can tell such labour, 50	you you're wrong.
That - come - do not make me speak ill	Tra. You forget Lady Lilac's as rich as of one's neighbour.	a Jew.
Tra. I make you '	Ink. Is it miss or the cash of mamma
Ink Yes, you ! I said nothing until	you pursue?
You compell'd me, by speaking the truth -	Tra. Why, Jack, I'll be frank with you
Tra. To speak ill?
Is that your deduction ? Ink. When speaking of Scamp ill,	The girl 's a fine girl. Ink. And you feel nothing loth
I certainly follow, not set an example;	To her good lady-mother's reversion; and
The fellow's a fool, an impostor, a zany.	yet 81
Tra And the crowd of to-day shows that	Her life is as good as your own, I will bet one fool makes many.	Tra. Let her live, and as long as she ut we two will be wise.	likes; I demand
Ink. Pray, then, let us retire.	Nothing more than the heart of her daugh-
Tra. I would, but —	ter and hand.

278

And you, who 're a man of the gay world, Ink. Why, that heart's in the inkstand - that hand on the pen. no less Tra. A propos - Will you write me a song now and then? Than a poet of t' other, may easily guess That I never could mean, by a word, to Ink. To what purpose? offend A genius like you, and moreover my friend. TraYou know, my dear friend, that Ink. No doubt; you by this time should in prose know what is due My talent is decent, as far as it goes; To a man of - but come - let us shake But in rhyme -You 're a terrible stick, to be sure hands. Ink. Tra.You knew, Tra. I own it; and yet, in these times, And you know, my dear fellow, how h rtthere's no lure For the heart of the fair like a stanza or ıly I, Whatever you publish, am ready to buy. two: Ink. That's my bookseller's business; I And so, as I can't, will you furnish a few? care not for sale; Ink. In your name? 122 Indeed the best poems at first rather Tra. In my name. I will copy them out, To slip into her hand at the very next rout fail. Ink. Are you so far advanced as to haz-There were Renegade's epics, and Botherby's ard this? plays, Why, And my own grand romance — Tra.Had its full share of praise. Do you think me subdued by a Blue-stock-Tra.I myself saw it puff'd in the Old Girl's ing's eye, So far as to tremble to tell her in rhyme Review. Ink. What Review? What I 've told her in prose, at the least, as 'T is the English Journal de sublime? Tra. Trevoux; Ink. As sublime ! If it be so, no need of A clerical work of our jesuits at home. my Muse. Have you never yet seen it? Tra. But consider, dear Inkel, she 's one of the 'Blues Ink. That pleasure's to come. Ink. As sublime ! - Mr. Tracy - I 've Tra. Make haste then. Ink. nothing to say. Why so? Tra. I have heard people say Stick to prose - As sublime !! - but I That it threaten'd to give up the ghost wish you good day. Tra Nay, stay, my dear fellow - cont' other day. 130 sider - I'm wrong; Ink. Well, that is a sign of some spirit. No doubt. I own it: but, prithee, compose me the Tra.Shall you be at the Countess of Fiddlesong. Ink. As sublime !! come's rout ? Ink I've a card, and shall go: but at Tra. I but used the expression in haste. present, as soon Ink. That may be, Mr. Tracy, but shows As friend Scamp shall be pleased to step damn'd bad taste Tra. I own it - I know it - acknowdown from the moon (Where he seems to be soaring in search of ledge it - what Can I say to you more? his wits), I see what you 'd be at: And an interval grants from his lecturing Ink. You disparage my parts with insidious fits, I'm engaged to the Lady Bluebottle's colabuse, Till you think you can turn them best to lation, To partake of a luncheon and learn'd conyour own use. Tra. And is that not a sign I respect versation: 'T is a sort of re-union for Scamp, on the them ? davs Why that Ink. To be sure makes a difference. Of his lecture, to treat him with cold tongue I know what is what: and praise. Tra. 140

And I own, for my own part, that 't is not	Must now, every hour of the twelve, be
 And I own, for my own part, that the hot unpleasant. Will you go? There's Miss Lalac will also be present. Tra. That 'metal's attractive.' Ink. No doubt — to the pocket Tra. You should rather encourage my passion than shock it. But let us proceed; for I think, by the hum — Ink. Very true; let us go, then, before they can come, Or else we'll be kept here an hour at their levy, On the rack of cross questions, by all the blue bevy. Hark ! Zounds, they'll be on us; I know by the drone Of old Botherby's spouting ex-cathedrâ tone. 150 Ay ! there he is at it. Poor Scamp ! better join Your friends, or he 'll pay you back in your own coin. Tra. All fair; 't is but lecture for lecture. Ink. That 's clear. But for God's sake let 's go, or the Bore will be here. Come, come: nay, I 'm off. [End INEE Tra. You are right, and I 'll follow;' T is high time for a 'Sic me servant Apollo.' And yet we shall have the whole crew on our kibes, Blues, dandies, and dowagers, and second-hand scribes, All flocking to moisten their exquisite throttles 159 	 Must now, every nour of the twelve, be employ'd: The twelve, do I say ? — of the whole twenty-four, Is there one which I dare call my own any more? What with driving and visiting, dancing and dining, What with learning, and teaching, and scribbling, and shining In science and art, I'll be cursed if I know ro Myself from my wife; for although we are two, Yet she somehow contrives that all things shall be done In a style which proclaims us eternally one. But the thing of all things which distresses me more Than the bulls of the week (though they trouble me sore), Is the numerous, humorous, backbiting crew Of scribblers, wits, lecturers, white, black, and blue, Who are brought to my house as an inn, to my cost — For the bill here, it seems, is defray'd by the host: No pleasure ! no leisure ! no thought for my pains, 20 But to hear a vile jargon which addles my brains; A smatter and chatter, gleaned out of reviews, By the rag, tag, and bobtail, of those they call 'BLUES;' A rabble who know not — But soft, here they come ! Would to God I were deaf ! as I'm not, I'll be dumb.
ECLOGUE SECOND An Apartment in the House of LADY BLUEBOTTLE. — A Table prepared SIE RICHARD BLUEBOTTLE solus. WAS there ever a man who was married so sorry? Like a fool, I must needs do the thing in a hurry.	Enter LADY BLUEBOTTLE, MISS LILAC, LADY BLUE- MODRT, ME BOTHEREY, INKEL, TEACY, MISS MAZA- BINE, and others, with SCAMF the Lecture, etc., etc Lady Blueb. Ah ! Sir Richard, good morn- ing; I've brought you some friends. Sir Rich. (bows, and afterwards aside). If friends, they 're the first. Lady Blueb. But the luncheon attends. I pray ye be seated, 'sans cérémonie.' Mr. Scamp, you're fatigued; take your
My life is reversed and my quiet destroy'd; My days, which once pass'd in so gentle a void,	chair there, next me. [They all st. Sir Rich. (aside). If he does, his fatigue is to come.

Lady Blueb. Mr Tracy 30	Lady Bluem. For shame ! I repeat. If
Lady Bluemount-Miss Lilac - be pleased,	Sir George could but hear — pray, to place ye;	Lady Blueb. Never mind our friend
And you, Mr. Botherby	Inkel; we all know, my dear,
Both. Oh, my dear lady !	T is his way
I obey.	Sy Rich. But this place —
Lady Blueb. Mr. Inkel, I ought to up-	Ink. Is perhaps like friend Scamp's, braid ye:	A lecturer's.
You were not at the lecture.	Lady Blueb. Excuse me-'t is one
Ink. Excuse me, I was;	'the Stamps;'
But the heat forced me out in the best part	He is made a collector.
alas !	Tra. Collector !
And when —	Sur Ruch. How? Muss Lul. What?
Lady Blueb. To be sure it was broiling; but then	Muss Lil. What? Ink. I shall think of him off when I buy
You have lost such a lecture !	a new hat: 61
Both. The best of the ten.	There his works will appear —
T_{ra} . How can you know that? there are	Lady Bluem. Sir, they reach to the two more	Ganges.
Both. Because	Ink. I shan't go so far - I can have
I defy him to beat this day's wondrous ap-	them at Grange's.
plause.	Lady Rluch Oh fie!
The very walls shook.	Miss Lil. And for shame ! Lady Bluem. You 're too bad. Both. Very good !
Ink. Oh, if that be the test,	Lady Bluem. You're too bad.
I allow our friend Scamp hath this day done his best. 41	Lady Bluem. How good?
Miss Lilac, permit me to help you; — a wing?	Lady Blueb. He means nought — 't is
Miss Lil. No more, sir, I thank you.	Lady Blueb. He means notight — 713 his phrase. Lady Bluem. He grows rude. Lady Blueb. He means nothing; nay,
Who lectures next spring ?	Lady Blueb. He means nothing; nay,
Both Dick Dunder	ask him
Ink. That is, if he lives.	Lady Bluem. Pray, sir! did you mean
Ink. That is, if he lives. Miss Lil. And why not?	What you say?
Ink. No reason whatever, save that he's	Ink. Never mind if he did; 't will be a sot.	seen
Lady Bluemount ! a glass of Madeira ?	That whatever he means won't alloy what
Lady Bluem. With pleasure. Ink How does your friend Wordsworth,	be says. Both. Sir !
that Windermere treasure?	Int. Pray be content with your por-
Does he stick to his lakes, like the leeches	tion of praise; 69
he sings,	'T was in your defence.
And their gatherers, as Homer sung war-	Both. If you please, with submission, riors and kings?	I can make out my own
Lady Blueb. He has just got a place	Ink It would be your perdition.
Ink. As a footman?	While you live, my dear Botherby, never
Lady Bluem. For shame !	defend
Nor profane with your sneers so poetic a	Yourself or your works; but leave both to name. 51	a friend
Ink. Nay, I meant him no evil, but pitied	A propos—Is your play then accepted at last? Both. At last?
his master; For the poet of pedlers 'twere, sure, no	Ink. Why I thought that's to say disaster	- there had pass'd
To wear a new livery; the more, as 't is not	A few green-room whispers, which hinted
The first time he has turn'd both his creed	-you know and his coat.	That the taste of the actors at best is so

Both. Sir, the green-room's in rapture,	To take what they can, from a groat to and so's the committee. Ink. Ay — yours are the plays for ex-	a guinea, Of pension or place; — but the subject's a citing our 'pity And fear,' as the Greek says: for 'pur-	bore. Lady Bluem. Well, sir, the time's com-gmg the mind,' So I doubt if you 'll leave us an equal behind.	Ing. Ink. Scamp! don't you feel sore?
Both. I have written the prologue, and meant to have pray'd	What say you to this ? Scamp They have merit, I own;
For a spice of your wit in an epilogue's aid.	Though their system's absurdity keeps it unknown.
Ink. Well, time enough yet, when the play's to be play'd.	Ink. Then why not unearth it in one of your lectures?
Is it cast yet?	Scamp It is only time past which comes
Both. The actors are fighting for parts, As is usual in that most litigious of arts.	under my structures. Lady Blueb. Come, a truce with all tart-
Lady Blueb We'll all make a party, and go the first night	ness: — the joy of my heart Is to see Nature's triumph o'er all that is art.
Tra. And you promised the epilogue, Inkel.	Wild Nature !- Grand Shakspeare ! Both. And down Aristotle !
Ink. Not quite.	Lady Bluem Sir George thinks exactly
However, to save my friend Botherby trouble,	with Lady Bluebottle; And my Lord Seventy-four, who protects
I'll do what I can, though my pains must be double.	our dear Bard, And who gave him his place, h the great-
Tra. Why so?	est regard
Ink. To do justice to what goes before.	For the poet, who, singing of pedlers and asses,
Both Sir, I'm happy to say, I have no	Has found out the way to dispense with fears on that score. Your parts, Mr. Inkel, are —	Parnassus. 120 Tra And you, Scamp !—
Ink. Never mind mine; Stick to those of your play, which is quite	Scamp I needs must confess I'm em- barrass'd.
your own line.	Ink. Don't call upon Scamp, who's al-
Lady Bluem. You 're a fugitive writer, I think, sır, of rhymes ?	ready so harass'd With old schools, and new schools, and no
Ink. Yes, ma'am; and a fugitive reader sometimes	schools, and all schools. Tra. Well, one thing is certain, that
On Wordswords, for instance, I seldom	some must be fools.
alight, Or on Mouthey, his friend, without taking	I should like to know who. Ink And I should not be sorry to flight. Lady Bluem Sir, your taste is too com-	To know who are not: — it would save us some worry.
mon; but time and posterity	Lady Blueb A truce with remark, and
Will right these great men, and this age's severity 100	let nothing control This 'feast of our reason, and flow of the
Become its reproach. Ink. I 've no sort of objection,	soul.' 128 Oh! my dear Mr. Botherby ! sympathise!—I
So I'm not of the party to take the infec-	Now feel such a rapture, I'm ready to fly, I feel so elastic — 'so buoyant — so buoyant !'
tion. Lady Blueb. Perhaps they have doubts	Ink Tracy! open the window.
that they ever will take? Ink. Not at all; on the contrary, those	Tra Î wish her much joy on 't. Both. For God's sake, my Lady Blue of the lake	bottle, check not
Have taken already, and still will continue	This gentle emotion, so seldom o lot

- Upon earth. Give it way; 't is an impulse which lifts
- Our spirits from earth; the sublimest of gifts;
- For which poor Prometheus was chain'd to his mountam;
- 'T is the source of all sentiment feeling's true fountam;
- T is the vision of Heaven upon Earth; 't is the gas
- Of the soul; 't is the seizing of shades as they pass, 140
- And making them substance; 't is something divine; --
 - Ink. Shall I help you, my friend, to a little more wine?
 - Both. I thank you; not any more, sir, till I dine.
 - Ink. A propos Do you dine with Sir Humphry to-day?
 - Tra. I should think with Duke Humphry was more in your way.
 - Ink. It might be of yore; but we authors now look
- To the knight, as a landlord, much more than the Duke.
- The truth is, each writer now quite at his ease is,
- And (except with his publisher) dines where he pleases.
- But 't is now nearly five, and I must to the Park 150

Tra. And I'll take a turn with you there till 't is dark.

- And you, Scamp -
- Scamp. Excuse me; I must to my notes, For my lecture next week.
- Ink. He must mind whom he quotes Out of 'Elegant Extracts.'
- Lady Blueb. Well, now we break up; But remember Miss Diddle invites us to sup
- Ink. Then at two hours past midnight we all meet again,
- For the sciences, sandwiches, hock, and champagne !
 - Tra. And the sweet lobster salad !
- Both. I honour that meal;
- For 't is then that our feelings most genuinely — feel.
 - Ink True; feeling is truest then, far beyond question: 160
- I wish to the gods 't was the same with digestion !
 - Lady Blueb. Pshaw! --- never mind that; for one moment of feeling
- Is worth God knows what.

Ink 'T is at least worth concealing For itself, or what follows — But here comes your carriage.

Sir Rich. (aside). I wish all these people were d-d with my marriage!

[Exeunt

THE VISION OF JUDGMENT

BY QUEVEDO REDIVIVUS

SUGGESTED BY THE COMPOSITION SO ENTI-TLED BY THE AUTHOR OF 'WAT TYLER'

'A Daniel come to judgment ' yea, a Danielt I thank thee, Jew, for teaching me that word.'

PREFACE

It hath been wisely said, that 'One fool makes many;' and it hath been poetically observed,

'That fools rush in where angels fear to tread.' - POPE.

If Mr Southey had not rushed in where he had no business, and where he never was before, and never will be again, the following poem would not have been written. It is not impossible that it may be as good as his own, seeing that it cannot, by any species of stupidity, natural or acquired, be worse The gross flattery, the dull impudence, the renegado intolerance and impious cant, of the poem by the author of Wat Tyler, are something so stupendous as to form the sublime of himself — containing the quintessence of his own attributes.

So much for his poem — a word on his preface In this preface it has pleased the magnanimous Laureate to draw the picture of a supposed 'Satanic School,' the which he doth recommend to the notice of the legislature; thereby adding to his other laurels the ambition of those of an informer. If there exists anywhere, excepting in his imagination, such a School, is he not sufficiently armed against it by his own intense vanity ⁵ The truth is, that there are certain writers whom Mr. S. imagines, hke Scrub, to have ' talked of him; for they laughed consumedly.'

I think I know enough of most of the writers to whom he is supposed to allude, to assert, that they, in their individual capacities, have done more good, in the charities of life, to their fellow-creatures in any one year, than Mr. Southey has done harm to himself by his absurdities in his whole life; and this is saying a great deal. But I have a few questio to ask. 1stly. Is Mr. Southey the author of Wat Tyler?

2ndly. Was he not refused a remedy at law by the highest judge of his beloved England, because it was a blasphemous and seditious publication 9

Srdly. Was he not entitled by William Smith, in full parliament, 'a rancorous renegado'?

4thly. Is he not poet laureate, with his own lines on Martin the regicide staring him in the face?

And, 5thly. Putting the four preceding items together, with what conscience dare he call the attention of the laws to the publications of others, be they what they may ⁹

I say nothing of the cowardice of such a proceeding, its meanness speaks for itself; but I wish to touch upon the motive, which is neither more nor less than that Mr. S. has been laughed at a little in some recent publications, as he was of yore in the Anti-jacobin by his present patrons Hence all this 'skimblescamble stuff' about 'Satanic,' and so forth. However, it is worthy of him — 'qualis ab incepto.'

If there is anything obnoxious to the political opinions of a portion of the public in the following poem, they may thank Mr. Southey. He might have written hexameters, as he has written everything else, for aught that the writer cared - had they been upon another subject. But to attempt to canonise a monarch, who, whatever were his household virtues, was neither a successful nor a patriot king, - inasmuch as several years of his reign passed in war with America and Ireland, to say nothing of the aggression upon France, like all other exaggeration, necessarily begets opposition. In whatever manner he may be spoken of in this new 'Vision,' his public career will not be more favourably transmitted by history. Of his private virtues (although a little expensive to the nation) there can be no doubt.

With regard to the supernatural personages treated of, I can only say that I know as much about them, and (as an honest man) have a better right to talk of them than Robert Southey. I have also treated them more tolerantly. The way in which that poor insane treature. the Laureate, deals about his judgments in the next world, is like his own judgment in this. If it was not completely ludicrous, it would be something worse. I don't think that there is much more to say at present. QUEVEDO REDIVIVUS.

P. S — It is possible that some readers may object, in these objectionable times, to the freedom with which saints, angels, and spiritual persons discourse in this 'Vision.' But, for precedents upon such points, I must refer him to Fielding's Journey from this World to the next, and to the Visions of myself, the said Quevedo, in Spanish or translated. The reader is also requested to observe, that no doctrinal tenets are insisted upon or discussed, that the person of the Deity is carefully withheld from sight, which is more than can be said for the Laureate, who hath thought proper to make him talk, not 'like a school divine,' but like the unscholarlike Mr. Southey. The whole action passes on the outside of heaven; and Chaucer's Wife of Bath, Pulci's Morgante Maggiore, Swift's Tale of a Tub, and the other works above referred to, are cases in point of the freedom with which saints, etc., may be permitted to converse in works not intended to be serious. Q. R.

 Mr Southey being, as he says, a good Christian and vindictive, threatens, I understand, a reply to this our answer. It is to be hoped that his visionary faculties will in the mean time have acquired a little more judgment, properly so called . otherwise he will get himself into new dilemmas. These apostate jacobins furnish rich rejoinders. Let him take a specimen. Mr. Southey laudeth grievously 'one Mr. Landor,' who cultivates much private renown in the shape of Latin verses; and not long ago, the poet laureate dedicated to hum, it appeareth, one of his fu-gritve lyrics, upon the strength of a poem called Gebir. Who could suppose, that in this same Gebir the aforesaid Savage Landor (for such is his grim cognomen) putteth into the infernal regions no less a person than the hero of his friend Mr Southey's heaven, -- yea, even George the Third! See also how personal Savage becometh, when he hath a mind. The following is his portrait of our late gracious sovereign : --

- (Prince Gebir having descended into the infernal regions, the shades of his royal ancestors are, at his request, called up to his view; and he exclaims to his ghostly guide) —
- ⁶ Aroar, what wretch that nearest us? what wretch Is that with eyebrows white and slanting brow? Listen' him yonder, who, bound down supine, Shrinks yelling from that sword there, engine-hung. He too amongst my ancestors ' I hate The despot, but the dastard I despise. Was he our countryman?'

'Alas, O king!

Iberia bore him, but the breed accurst Inclement winds blew blighting from northeast.*

284

-

Gebr, p. 28

I omit noticing some edifying Ithyphallics of Savagius, wishing to keep the proper veil over them, if his grave but somewhat indiscreet worshipper will suffer it; but certainly these teachers of 'great moral lessons' are apt to be found in strange company.

I

SAINT PETER sat by the celestial gate: His keys were rusty and the lock was dull,

So httle trouble had been given of late; Not that the place by any means was full,

But since the Gallic era 'eighty-eight' The devils had ta'en a longer, stronger pull,

And 'a pull all together,' as they say

At sea — which drew most souls another way.

II

The angels all were singing out of tune, And hoarse with having little else to do,

Excepting to wind up the sun and moon, ir Or curb a runaway young star or two,

Or wild colt of a comet, which too soon Broke out of bounds o'er the ethereal blue.

Splitting some planet with its playful tail, As boats are sometimes by a wanton whale.

ш

The guardian seraphs had retired on high, Finding their charges past all care below;

Terrestrial business fill'd nought in the sky Save the recording angel's black bureau;

Who found, indeed, the facts to multiply 21 With such rapidity of vice and wo,

- That he had stripp'd off both his wings in quills,
- And yet was in arrear of human ills.

IV

His business so augmented of late years, That he was forced, against his will no doubt

(Just like those cherubs, earthly ministers), For some resource to turn himself about,

- And claim the help of his celestial peers, To aid him ere he should be quite worn out
- By the increased demand for his remarks; Siz angels and twelve saints were named his clerks.

v

- This was a handsome board at least for heaven;
 - And yet they had even then enough to do.

So many conquerors' cars were daily driven, So many kingdoms fitted up anew;

Each day too slew its thousands six or seven,

Till at the crowning carnage, Waterloo,

- They threw their pens down in divine disgust —
- The page was so besmear'd with blood and dust. 40

VI

This by the way; 't is not mine to record What angels shrink from: even the very devil

On this occasion his own work abhorr'd, So surfeited with the infernal revel.

- Though he himself had sharpen'd every sword,
 - It almost quench'd his innate thirst of evil.
- (Here Satan's sole good work deserves insertion —
- 'T is, that he has both generals in reversion)

VII

- Let's skip a few short years of hollow peace,
- Which peopled earth no better, hell as wont, 50
- And heaven none they form the tyrant's lease,

With nothing but new names subscribed upon 't:

- 'T will one day finish: meantime they increase,
- With seven heads and ten horns,' and all in front,
- Like Samt John's foretold beast; but ours are born
- Less formidable in the head than horn.

VIII

In the first year of freedom's second dawn

Died George the Third; although no tyrant, one

Who shielded tyrants, till each sense withdrawn

Left him nor mental nor external s : 60

A better farmer ne'er brush'd dew from lawn,

A worse king never left a realm undone ! He died — but left his subjects still behind, One half as mad, and t' other no less blind.

IX

- He died ! his death made no great stir on earth;
 - His burial made some pomp; there was profusion
- Of velvet, gilding, brass, and no great dearth
- Of aught but tears save those shed by collusion;
- For these things may be bought at their true worth;

Of elegy there was the due infusion --

- Bought also; and the torches, cloaks, and banners, 71
- Heralds, and relics of old Gothic manners,

х

Form'd a sepulchral melodrame Of all

- The fools who flock'd to swell or see the show-
- Who cared about the corpse? The funeral Made the attraction, and the black the wo.
- There throbb'd not there a thought which pierced the pall;
 - And when the gorgeous coffin was laid low,
- It seem'd the mockery of hell to fold
- The rottenness of eighty years in gold. 80

хı

So mix his body with the dust ! It might Return to what it must far sooner, were

- The natural compound left alone to fight Its way back into earth, and fire, and
- air; But the unnatural balsams merely blight What nature made him at his birth, as bare
- As the mere million's base unmummied clay —
- Yet all his spices but prolong decay.

XII

- He's dead and upper earth with him has done;
- He's buried; save the undertaker's bill Or lapidary scrawl, the world is gone gr
- For him, unless he left a German will;

- But where's the proctor who will ask his son?
- In whom his qualities are reigning still,
- Except that household virtue, most uncommon,
- Of constancy to a bad, ugly woman.

XIII

- 'God save the king !' It is a large economy In God to save the like; but if he will
- Be saving, all the better; for not one am I Of those who think damnation better still: 100
- I hardly know too if not quite alone am I In this small hope of bettering future ill
- By circumscribing, with some slight restruction,
- The eternity of hell's hot jurisdiction.

XIV

- I know this is unpopular; I know
 - 'T is blasphemous; I know one may be damn'd
- For hoping no one else may e'er be so;
- I know my catechism; I know we are cramm'd
- With the best doctrines till we quite o'er flow;
 - I know that all save England's church have shamm'd,
- And that the other twice two hundred churches
- And synagogues have made a damn'd bad purchase.

xv

- God help us all ! God help me too ! I am,
- God knows, as helpless as the devil can wish,
- And not a whit more difficult to damn
 - Than is to bring to land a late-hook'd fish,
- Or to the butcher to purvey the lamb; Not that I 'm fit for such a noble dish.

As one day will be that immortal fry

Of almost every body born to die.

XVI

- Saint Peter sat by the celestial gate,
- And nodded o'er his keys; when, lo! there came
- A wondrous noise he had not heard of late --
 - A rushing sound of wind, and strea . and flame;

286

In short, a roar of things extremely great, Which would have made aught save a samt exclaim; But he, with first a start and then a wink, Said, 'There's another star gone out, I think !'	XX 'And then he set up such a headless howl, That all the samts came out and took hmm m, And there he sits by St. Paul, cheek by jowl; That fellow Paul — the parvenu! The skin Of Samt Bartholomew, which makes his
But ere he could return to his repose, A cherub flapp'd his right wing o'er his eyes — 130 At which Saint Peter yawn'd, and rubb'd his nose: 'Saint porter,' said the angel, 'prithee rise!'	cowl In heaven, and upon earth redeem'd his sin So as to make a martyr, never sped Better than did this weak and wooden head.
Waving a goodly wing, which glow'd, as glows An earthly peacock's tail, with heavenly dyes: To which the samt replied, 'Well, what's the matter ?	XXI 'But had it come up here upon its shoul- ders, There would have been a different tale to tell. The fellow-feeling in the saints beholders
Is Lucifer come back with all this clatter ?' XVIII 'No,' quoth the cherub; 'George the Third is dead.'	Seems to have acted on them like a spell; And so this very foolish head heaven solders Back on its trunk it may be very well, And seems the custom here to overthrow
 'And who is George the Third ?' replied the apostle.' 'What George ? what Third ?' 'The king of England,' said The angel. 'Well ! he won't find kings to jostle 	Whatever has been wisely done below.' XXII The angel answer'd, 'Peter ! do not pout: The king who comes has head and all en- tire, 170
Him on his way; but does he wear his head? Because the last we saw here had a tussle, And ne'er would have got into heaven's	And never knew much what it was about; He did as doth the puppet — by its wire, And will be judged like all the rest, no doubt My business and your own is not to en-
good graces, Had he not flung his head in all our faces. XIX 'He was, if I remember, king of France;	quire Into such matters, but to mind our cue — Which is to act as we are bid to do.'

That head of his, which could not keep a crown

On earth, yet ventured in my face to advance

A claim to those of martyrs — like my own:

If I had had my sword, as I had once

- When I cut ears off, I had cut him down; 150
- But having but my keys, and not my brand,
- I only knock'd his head from out his hand.

While thus they spake, the angelic caravan, Arriving like a rush of mighty wind,

- Cleaving the fields of space, as doth the swan
 - Some silver stream (say Ganges, Nile, or Inde, 180
- Or Thames, or Tweed), and 'midst them an old man
 - With an old soul, and both extremely blind,

Halted before the gate, and in his shroud Seated their fellow-traveller on a cloud.

XXIV	XXVIII
But bringing up the rear of this bright host	And from the gate thrown open issued beaming
A Spirit of a different aspect waved	A beautiful and mighty Thing of Light,
His wings, like thunder-clouds above some	Radiant with glory, like a banner stream-coast	mg
Whose barren beach with frequent wrecks	Victorious from some world-o'erthrowing
15 paved,	fight: 220
His brow was like the deep when tempest-	My poor comparisons must needs be teemtoss'd;	mg
Fierce and unfathomable thoughts en- graved 190	With earthly likenesses, for here the night
Eternal wrath on his immortal face,	Of clay obscures our best conceptions, sav-
And where he gazed a gloom pervaded	mg space.	Johanna Southcote or Bob Southey raving.
XXV	XXIX
As he drew near, he gazed upon the gate	'T was the archangel Michael: all men know
Ne'er to be enter'd more by him or	The make of angels and archangels, since
sin.	There's scarce a scribbler has not one to
With such a glance of supernatural hate,	show,
As made Samt Peter wish himself	From the fiends' leader to the angels' within:	prince
He patter'd with his keys at a great rate,	There also are some altar-pieces, though
And sweated through his apostolic skin:	I really can't say that they much evince
Of course his perspiration was but ichor,	One's inner notions of immortal spirits; 231
Or some such other spiritual liquor. 200	But let the connoisseurs explain their merits.
XXVI	xxx
The very cherubs huddled all together,	Michael flew forth in glory and in good;
Like birds when soars the falcon; and	A goodly work of him from whom all they felt	glory
A tingling to the tip of every feather,	And good arise; the portal past — he stood;
And form'd a circle like Orion's belt	Before him the young cherubs and saints
Around their poor old charge; who scarce	hoary —
knew whither	(I say young, begging to be understood
His guards had led him, though they	By looks, not years; and should be very gently dealt	Sorry
With revel manage (for hy many stories	To state they were not older then St
With royal manes (for by many stories,	To state, they were not older than St.
And true, we learn the angels are all	Peter,
Tories)	But merely that they seem'd a little
XXVII	sweeter). 240
As things were in this posture, the gate	XXXI
flew Asunder, and the flashing of its hinges	The cherubs and the saints bow'd down before
Flung over space an universal hue 211	That arch-angelic hierarch, the first
Of many-colour'd flame, until its tinges	Of essences angelical, who wore
Reach'd even our speck of earth, and made	The aspect of a god; but this ne'er

Aurora borealis spread its fringes

- O'er the North Pole; the same seen, when ice-bound,
- By Captain Parry's crew, in 'Melville's Sound.'

durst Intrude, however glorified and high;

He knew him but the viceroy of the sky.

Pride in his heavenly bosom, in whose core

No thought, save for his Maker's service, a new

XXXII

- He and the sombre silent Spirit met -
- They knew each other both for good and ill:
- Such was their power, that neither could forget
- His former friend and future foe; but still
- There was a high, immortal, proud regret
- In either's eye, as if 't were less their will
- Than destiny to make the eternal years
- Their date of war, and their 'champ clos' the spheres

XXXIII

- But here they were in neutral space: we know
- From Job, that Satan hath the power to pay
- A heavenly visit thrice a year or so;
- And that 'the sons of God,' like those of clay, 260
- Must keep him company; and we might show

From the same book, in how polite a way

The dialogue is held between the Powers Of Good and Evil — but 't would take up hours

XXXIV

- And this is not a theologic tract,
- To prove with Hebrew and with Arabic If Job be allegory or a fact,

But a true narrative; and thus I pick

- From out the whole but such and such an act
 - As sets aside the slightest thought of trick. 270

'T is every tittle true, beyond suspicion,

And accurate as any other vision.

XXXV

- The spirits were in neutral space, before
- The gate of heaven; like eastern thresholds is
- The place where Death's grand cause is argued o'er,
 - And souls despatch'd to that world or to this;
- And therefore Michael and the other wore A civil aspect: though they did not kiss,
- Yet still between his Darkness and his Brightness
- There pass'd a mutual glance of great politeness. 280

XXXVI

The Archangel bow'd, not like a modern beau,

But with a graceful oriental bend,

- Pressing one radiant arm just where below
 - The heart in good men is supposed to tend.

He turn'd as to an equal not too low,

But kindly; Satan met his ancient friend With more hauteur, as might an old Castilian

Poor noble meet a mushroom rich civilian.

XXXVII

He merely bent his diabolic brow

- An instant; and then raising it, he stood In act to assert his right or wrong, and
- show 291
 - Cause why King George by no means could or should Make out a case to be exempt from woe

- Eternal, more than other kings, endued With better sense and hearts, whom history mentions,
- Who long have 'paved hell with their good intentions.'

XXXVIII

- Michael began · 'What wouldst thou with this man,
 - Now dead, and brought before the Lord? What ill
- Hath he wrought since his mortal race began,
 - That thou canst claim him? Speak! and do thy will, 300
- If it be just if in his earthly span
- He hath been greatly failing to fulfil

His duties as a king and mortal, say,

And he is thine; if not, let him have way'

XXXIX

- 'Michael '' replied the Prince of Air, 'even here,
 - Before the Gate of him thou servest, must
- I claim my subject: and will make appear That as he was my worshipper in dust,

So shall he be in spirit, although dear

To thee and thine, because nor wine nor lust 310

Were of his weaknesses; yet on the throne He reign'd o'er millions to serve e alone

- 'Look to our earth, or rather mune; it was, Once, more thy master's: but I triumph not
- In this poor planet's conquest; nor, alas ! Need he thou servest envy me my lot:
- With all the myriads of bright worlds which pass
- In worship round him, he may have forgot

Yon weak creation of such paltry things:

I think few worth damnation save their kings, — 320

XLI

- 'And these but as a kind of quit-rent, to Assert my right as lord; and even had
- I such an inclination, 't were (as you Well know) superfluous; they are grown
- so bad, That hell has nothing better left to do
- Than leave them to themselves: so much more mad
- And evil by their own internal curse,
- Heaven cannot make them better, nor I worse.

XLII

- Look to the earth, I said, and say again: When this old, blind, mad, helpless, weak, poor worm 330
- Began in youth's first bloom and flush to reign,
 - The world and he both wore a different form,
- And much of earth and all the watery plain Of ocean call'd him king: through many a storm

His isles had floated on the abyss of time; For the rough virtues chose them for their clime

\mathbf{XLIII}

- 'He came to his sceptre young; he leaves it old.
 - Look to the state in which he found his realm,
- And left it; and his annals too behold, 339 How to a minion first he gave the helm;
- How grew upon his heart a thirst for gold, The beggar's vice, which can but overwhelm
- The meanest hearts; and for the rest, but glance
- Thine eye along America and France.

XLIV

- "T is true, he was a tool from first to last (I have the workmen safe); but as a tool
- So let him be consumed From out the past Of ages, since mankind have known the rule
- Of monarchs from the bloody rolls amass'd
- Of sin and slaughter from the Cæsar's school, 350
- Take the worst pupil; and produce a reign

More drench'd with gore, more cumber'd with the slam.

XLV

- 'He ever warr'd with freedom and the free:
 - Nations as men, home subjects, foreign foes,
- So that they utter'd the word "Liberty !" Found George the Third their first oppo-
- nent. Whose History was ever stain'd as his will be
- With national and individual woes?

I grant his household abstinence; I grant His neutral virtues, which most monarchs want; 360

XLVI

- 'I know he was a constant consort; own He was a decent sire, and middling lord.
- All this is much, and most upon a throne;
- As temperance, if at Apicius' board, Is more than at an anchorite's supper
- shown

I grant him all the kindest can accord;

- And this was well for him, but not for those
- Millions who found him what oppression chose.

XLVII

'The New World shook him off; the Old yet groans 369

Beneath what he and his prepared, if not Completed he leaves heirs on many thrones

- To all his vices, without what begot
- Compassion for him—his tame virtues; drones
 - Who sleep, or despots who have now forgot
- A lesson which shall be re-taught them, wake
- Upon the thrones of earth; but let the quake !

XLVIII

- Five millions of the primitive, who hold The faith which makes ye great on earth,
- mplored A part of that vast all they held of old, —
- Freedom to worship not alone your Lord.
- Michael, but you, and you, Saint Peter! Cold
 - Must be your souls, if you have not abhorr'd

The foe to Catholic participation

In all the license of a Christian nation.

XLIX

- True ! he allow'd them to pray God · but as A consequence of prayer, refused the law
- Which would have placed them upon the same base
 - With those who did not hold the saints in awe'
- But here Saint Peter started from his place, And cried, 'You may the prisoner withdraw: 390
- Ere heaven shall ope her portals to this Guelph,
- While I am guard, may I be damn'd myself!

L

- 'Sooner will I with Cerberus exchange My office (and his is no sinecure)
- Than see this royal Bedlam bigot range
- The azure fields of heaven, of that be sure !'
- 'Saint!' replied Satan, 'you do well to avenge
 - The wrongs he made your satellites endure;
- And if to this exchange you should be given, I'll try to coax our Cerberus up to heaven'

LI

- Here Michael interposed: 'Good saint! and devil! 401
 - Pray, not so fast; you both outrun discretion.
- Saint Peter, you were wont to be more civil:
 - Satan, excuse this warmth of his expression,
- And condescension to the vulgar's level.
- Even saints sometimes forget themselves in session.

Have you got more to say?'-'No.'-'If you please,

I'll trouble you to call your witnesses."

LII

- Then Satan turn'd and waved his swarthy hand, 409
- Which stirr'd with its electric qualities Clouds farther off than we can understand,
 - Although we find him sometimes in our skies;
- Infernal thunder shook both sea and land In all the planets, and hell's batteries
- Let off the artillery, which Milton mentions As one of Satan's most sublime inventions.

LIII

This was a signal unto such damn'd souls As have the privilege of their damnation

- Extended far beyond the mere controls
 - Of worlds past, present, or to come; no station 420

Is theirs particularly in the rolls

- Of hell assign'd; but where their inclination
- Or business carries them in search of game, They may range freely — being damn'd the same.

LIV

They are proud of this — as very well they may,

It being a sort of knighthood, or gilt key Stuck in their loins; or like to an 'entré'

- Up the back stairs, or such freemasonry. I borrow my comparisons from clay,
- Being clay myself. Let not those spirits be 430
- Offended with such base low likenesses;
- We know their posts are nobler far than these.

LV

- When the great signal ran from heaven to hell,
 - About ten million times the distance reckon'd
- From our sun to its earth, as we can tell How much time it takes up, even to a second,

For every ray that travels to dispel

The fogs of London, through which, dimly beacon'd,

The weather cocks are gilt some thrice a year, If that the summer is not too severe: — 440

LVI	LX
I say that I can tell — 't was half a minute: I know the solar beams take up more time Ere, pack'd up for their journey, they be- gm it;	Besides there were the Spaniard, Dutch, and Dane; In short, an universal shoal of shades, From Otaheite's isle to Salisbury Plain, Of all climes and professions, years and
But then their telegraph is less sublime, And if they ran a race, they would not win it 'Gainst Satan's couriers bound for their own clime.	trades, Ready to swear against the good king's reign, Bitter as clubs in cards are against spades:
The sun takes up some years for every ray To reach its goal — the devil not half a day. 448	All summon'd by this grand 'subpœna,' to Try if kings may n't be damn'd like me or you. 480
LVII	LXI
Upon the verge of space, about the size Of half-a-crown, a little speck appear'd (I've seen a something like it m the skies In the Ægean, ere a squall); it near'd, And, growing bigger, took another guise; Like an aerial ship it tack'd, and steer'd, Or was steer'd (I am doubtful of the gram- mar Of the late phrase, which makes the stanza stammer; — LVIII	 When Michael saw this host, he first grew pale, As angels can; next, hke Italian twilight, He turn'd all colours — as a peacock's tail, Or sunset streaming through a Gothic skylight In some old abbey, or a trout not stale, Or distant lightning on the horizon by night, Or a fresh rainbow, or a grand review Of thirty regiments in red, green, and blue.
But take your choice); and then it grew a	biue.
cloud;	LXII
And so it was — a cloud of witnesses. But such a cloud ! No land e'er saw a crowd Of locusts numerous as the heavens saw these; 460 They shadow'd with their myriads space; their loud And varied cries were like those of wild geese	Then he address'd himself to Satan: 'Why- My good old friend, for such I deem you; though 490 Our different parties make us fight so shy, I ne'er mistake you for a personal foe; Our difference is political , and I Trust that, whatever may occur below, You know my great respect for you: and this
(If nations may be liken'd to a goose), And realised the phrase of 'hell broke loose'	Makes me regret whate'er you do amiss — LXIII
LIX	'Why, my dear Lucifer, would you abuse My call for witnesses? I did not mean That you should half of earth and half are
 Here crash'd a sturdy oath of stout John Bull, Who damn'd away his eyes as heretofore: There Paddy brogued 'By Jasus !' 'What's your wull ?' The temperate Scot exclaim'd: the French ghost swore In certain terms I shan't translate in full, As the first coachman will; and 'midst the war, 470 The var, 470 The voice of Jonathan was heard to express, 'Our president is going to war, I guess.' 	That you should half of earth and hell pro- duce; 'T is even superfluous, since two honest, clean, 500 True testimonies are enough: we lose Our time, nay, our eternity, between The accusation and defence: if we Hear both, 't will stretch our immortality.' LXIV Satan replied, 'To me the matter is Indifferent, in a personal point of view:

Above is more august; to judge of kings With far less trouble than we have gone Is the tribunal met. so now you know.' $\operatorname{through}$ 'Then I presume those gentlemen with Already; and I merely argued his wuigs, Late majesty of Britain's case with you Said Wilkes, ' are cherubs; and that sou Upon a point of form: you may dispose 511 below Of him; I've kings enough below, God Looks much like George the Third, but to knows !' my mind A good deal older-Bless me! is he blind?'

- LXIX 'He is what you behold hum, and his doom Depends upon his deeds,' the Angel said.
- 'If you have aught to arraign in him, the tomb
 - Gives license to the humblest beggar's head
- To hft itself against the loftiest.' --- 'Some,' Said Wilkes, 'don't wait to see them laid in lead, 550

For such a liberty — and I, for one,

Have told them what I thought beneath the sun.'

LXX

· Above the sun repeat, then, what thou hast To urge against him,' said the Archangel. 'Why,'

Replied the spirit, 'since old scores are past, Must I turn evidence ? In faith, not I.

- Besides, I beat him hollow at the last,
- With all his Lords and Commons: in the sky
- I don't like ripping up old stories, since His conduct was but natural in a prince: 560

LXXI

'Foolish, no doubt, and wicked, to oppress A poor unlucky devil without a shilling;

- But then I blame the man himself much less
 - Than Bute and Grafton, and shall be unwilling
- To see him punish'd here for their excess,
- Since they were both damn'd long ago, and still in
- Their place below: for me, I have forgiven, And vote his " habeas corpus " into heaven.'

LXXII

- 'Wilkes,' said the Devil, 'I understand all this;
 - You turn'd to half a courtier ere you died,
- And seem to think it would not be amiss To grow a whole one on the other side

- I can have fifty better souls than this

LXV

- Thus spoke the Demon (late call'd 'multifaced '
 - By multo-scribbling Southey). ' Then we'll call
- One or two persons of the myriads placed Around our congress, and dispense with all
- The rest,' quoth Michael: ' Who may be so graced
 - As to speak first? there's choice enough - who shall
- It be?' Then Satan answer'd, 'There are many;
- But you may choose Jack Wilkes as well as any.' 520

LXVI

A merry, cock-eyed, curious-looking sprite Upon the instant started from the throng,

- Dress'd in a fashion now forgotten quite; For all the fashions of the flesh stick long
- By people in the next world; where unite All the costumes since Adam's, right or
- wrong, From Eve's fig-leaf down to the petticoat, Almost as scanty, of days less remote.

LXVII

The spirit look'd around upon the crowds

- Assembled, and exclaim'd, 'My friends of all
- The spheres, we shall catch cold amongst these clouds;
 - So lets's to business: why this general call?
- If those are freeholders I see in shrouds, And 't is for an election that they bawl,

Behold a candidate with unturn'd coat !

Saint Peter, may I count upon your vote?'

LXVIII

- 'Sir,' replied Michael, ' you mistake; these things
 - Are of a former life, and what we do

Of Charon's ferry; you forget that his

- Reign is concluded; whatsoe'er betide, He won't be sovereign more: you 've lost your labour,
- For at the best he will but be your neighbour.

LXXIII

'However, I knew what to think of it,

When I beheld you in your jesting way Flitting and whispering round about the spit

Where Belial, upon duty for the day, 580 With Fox's lard was basting William Pitt,

- His pupil; I knew what to think, I say:
- That fellow even in hell breeds farther ills;
- I'll have him gagg'd 't was one of his own bills.

LXXIV

- 'Call Junius !' From the crowd a shadow stalk'd,
 - And at the name there was a general squeeze,

So that the very ghosts no longer walk'd In comfort, at their own aerial ease,

- But were all ramm'd and jamm'd (but to be balk'd,
 - As we shall see), and jostled hands and knees, 590
- Like wind compress'd and pent within a bladder,
- Or like a human colic, which is sadder.

LXXV

- The shadow came a tall, thin, grayhair'd figure,
 - That look'd as it had been a shade on earth;
- Quick in its motions, with an air of vigour, But nought to mark its breeding or its birth:
- Now it wax'd little, then again grew bigger, With now an air of gloom, or savage mirth;
- But as you gazed upon its features, they
- Changed every instant to what, none could say. 600

LXXVI

- The more intently the ghosts gazed, the less
 - Could they distinguish whose the features were;

- The Devil himself seem'd puzzled even to guess;
- They varied like a dream now here, now there;
- And several people swore from out the press,
 - They knew him perfectly; and one could swear

He was his father: upon which another

Was sure he was his mother's cousin's brother.

LXXVII

Another, that he was a duke, or knight,

- An orator, a lawyer, or a priest, A nabob, a man-midwife: but the wight
- Mysterious changed his countenance at least
- As oft as they their minds: though in full sight

He stood, the puzzle only was increased; The man was a phantasmagoria in Himself - he was so volatile and thin.

LXXVIII

- The moment that you had pronounced him one,
 - Presto! his face changed, and he was another;
- And when that change was hardly well put on,
 - It varied, till I don't think his own mother 620
- (If that he had a mother) would her son Have known, he shifted so from one to t'other;
- Till guessing from a pleasure grew a task, At this epistolary 'Iron Mask.'

LXXIX

- For sometimes he like Cerberus would seem
 - 'Three gentlemen at once' (as sagely says
- Good Mrs Malaprop); then you might deem
 - That he was not even one; now many rays
- Were flashing round him; and now a thick steam
 - Hid him from sight like fogs on London days: 630
- Now Burke, now Tooke, he grew to people's fancies,
- And certes often like Sir Philip Francis.

640

LXXX

I've an hypothesis — 't is quite my own;

I never let it out till now, for fear

- Of doing people harm about the throne, And injuring some minister or peer
- On whom the stigma might perhaps be blown:
- It is my gentle public, lend thine ear ! 'T is, that what Junius we are wont to
 - call

Was really, truly, nobody at all.

LXXXI

- I don't see wherefore letters should not be Written without hands, since we daily view
- Them written without heads; and books, we see,
- Are fill'd as well without the latter too:
- And really till we fix on somebody For certain sure to claim them as his
- due, Their author, like the Niger's mouth, will bother
- The world to say if there be mouth or author.

LXXXII

'And who and what art thou?' the Archangel said. — 649

' For that you may consult my title-page,

Replied this mighty shadow of a shade:

- 'If I have kept my secret half an age,
- I scarce shall tell it now.'- 'Canst thou upbraid,'
 - Continued Michael, 'George Rex, or allege
- Aught further?' Junius answer'd, 'You had better
- First ask him for his answer to my letter:

LXXXIII

- My charges upon record will outlast
- The brass of both his epitaph and tomb'—
- Repent'st thou not,' said Michael, 'of some past
 - Exaggeration? something which may doom 660
- Thyself if false, as him if true? Thou wast
- Too bitter is it not so ? in thy gloom Of passion ? '— ' Passion !' cried the phan-
- tom dim,
- "I loved my co try, and I hated him.

LXXXIV

- What I have written, I have written: let The rest be on his head or mine !' So spoke
- Old 'Nominus Umbra;' and while speaking yet,

Away he melted in celestial smoke.

- Then Satan said to Michael, 'Don't forget To call George Washington, and John Horne Tooke, 670
- And Franklm;'- but at this time there was heard
- A cry for room, though not a phantom stirr'd.

LXXXV

At length with jostling, elbowing, and the aid

Of cherubim appointed to that post,

- The devil Asmodeus to the circle made
- His way, and look'd as if his journey
- Some trouble When his burden down he laid,
- 'What's this?' cried Michael; 'why, 't is not a ghost?'
- 'I know it,' quoth the incubus; ' but he 679 Shall be one, if you leave the affair to me.

LXXXVI

- 'Confound the renegado ! I have sprain'd My left wing, he's so heavy; one would think
- Some of his works about his neck were chain'd.
 - But to the point; while hovering o'er the brink
- Of Skiddaw (where as usual it still rain'd), I saw a taper, far below me, wink,

And stooping, caught this fellow at a libel — No less on history than the Holy Bible.

LXXXVII

- 'The former is the devil's scripture, and
- The latter yours, good Michael; so the affair 690

Belongs to all of us, you understand.

- I snatch'd him up just as you see him there,
- And brought him off for sentence out of hand:
 - I've scarcely been ten minutes in the air —

At least a quarter it can hardly be:

I dare say that his wife is still at tea.'

LXXXVIII

- Here Satan said, 'I know this man of old, And have expected him for some time here;
- A sillier fellow you will scarce behold, 699 Or more conceited in his petty sphere:
- But surely it was not worth while to fold
- Such trash below your wing, Asmodeus dear:
- We had the poor wretch safe (without being bored
- With carriage) coming of his own accord.

LXXXIX

- "But since he's here, let's see what he has done."----
- 'Done !' cried Asmodeus, 'he anticipates The very business you are now upon,
- And scribbles as if head clerk to the Fates.
- Who knows to what his ribaldry may run, When such an ass as this, like Balaam's, prates?'— 710
- 'Let's hear,' quoth Michael, 'what he has to say;
- You know we're bound to that in every way.'

xc

- Now the bard, glad to get an audience, which
- By no means often was his case below,
- Began to cough, and hawk, and hem, and pitch
- His voice into that awful note of woe To all unhappy hearers within reach
- Of poets when the tide of rhyme's in flow;
- But stuck fast with his first hexameter,
- Not one of all whose gouty feet would stir. 720

XCI

But ere the spavin'd dactyls could be spurr'd

Into recitative, in great dismay

Both cherubim and seraphim were heard

- To murmur loudly through their long array;
- And Michael rose ere he could get a word

Of all his founder'd verses under way,

And cried, 'For God's sake, stop, my friend! 't were best —

Non Di, non homines - you know the rest !'

XCII

- A general bustle spread throughout the throng,
- Which seem'd to hold all verse in detestation; 730
- The angels had of course enough of song When upon service; and the generation
- Of ghosts had heard too much in life, not long
 - Before, to profit by a new occasion;
- The monarch, mute till then, exclaim'd, 'What ! what !
- Pye come again? No more no more of that !'

XCIII

The tumult grew; an universal cough

- Convulsed the skies, as during a debate, When Castlereagh has been up long enough
- (Before he was first minister of state, I mean — the slaves hear now); some cried
- 'Off, off !'
- As at a farce; till, grown quite desperate,

The bard Samt Peter pray'd to interpose

(Himself an author) only for his prose.

XCIV

The varlet was not an ill-favour'd knave;

A good deal like a vulture in the face,

- With a hook nose and a hawk's eye, which gave
 - A smart and sharper-looking sort of grace
- To his whole aspect, which, though rather grave,

Was by no means so ugly as his case;

But that indeed was hopeless as can be, 751 Quite a poetic felony 'de se.'

XCV

- Then Michael blew his trump, and still'd the noise
 - With one still greater, as is yet the mode
- On earth besides; except some grumbling voice,
 - Which now and then will make a slight inroad
- Upon decorous silence, few will twice
- Lift up their lungs when fairly overcrow'd.
- And now the bard could plead his own bad cause,

With all the attitudes of self-applause. 760

XCVI

He said (I only give the heads) — he said, He meant no harm m scribbling; 't was his way

Upon all topics; 't was, besides, his bread,

- Of which he butter'd both sides; 't would delay
- Too long the assembly (he was pleased to dread),
- And take up rather more time than a day,
- To name his works he would but cite a few —
- Wat Tyler Rhymes on Blenheim Waterloo.

XCVII

- He had written praises of a regicide;
- He had written praises of all kings whatever; 770
- He had written for republics far and wide, And then against them bitterer than ever;

For pantisocracy he once had cried

- Aloud, a scheme less moral than 't was clever;
- Then grew a hearty anti-jacobin —
- Had turn'd his coat and would have turn'd his skin.

XCVIII

- He had sung against all battles, and again In their high praise and glory; he had call'd
- Reviewing 'the ungentle craft,' and then Become as base a critic as e'er crawl'd —
- Fed, paid, and pamper'd by the very men By whom his muse and morals had been
- maul'd: 782 He had written much blank verse, and
- blanker prose, And more of both than any body knows

XCIX

He had written Wesley's life: — here turning round

To Satan, 'Sır, I'm ready to write yours, In two octavo volumes, nicely bound,

- With notes and preface, all that most allures
- The pious purchaser; and there's no ground For fear, for I can choose my own reviewers: 790

So let me have the proper documents,

That I may add you to my other saints."

C Satan bow'd, and was silent. 'Well, if you,

- With aniable modesty, decline My offer, what says Michael? There are few
 - Whose memours could be render'd more dryme.
- Mine is a pen of all work; not so new
- As it was once, but I would make you shine
- Like your own trumpet By the way, my
- Has more of brass in it, and is as well blown. 800

CI

- 'But talking about trumpets, here's my Vision !
- Now you shall judge, all people; yes, you shall
- Judge with my judgment, and by my de
- Be guided who shall enter heaven or fail. I settle all these things by intuition,
- Times present, past, to come, heaven, hell, and all,

Like king Alfonso When I thus see double, I save the Deity some worlds of trouble.'

CII

He ceased, and drew forth an MS.; and no Persuasion on the part of devils, or saints,

- Or angels, now could stop the torrent; so He read the first three lines of the contents; 812
- But at the fourth, the whole spiritual show Had vanish'd, with variety of scents
- Ambrosial and sulphureous, as they sprang, Like lightning, off from his 'melodious twang'

CIII

Those grand heroics acted as a spell;

- The angels stopp'd their ears and plied their punions;
- The devils ran howling, deafen'd, down to hell;
 - The ghosts fled, gibbering, for their own dominions 820
- (For 't is not yet decided where they dwell, And I leave every man to his opinions);
- Michael took refuge in his trump-but, lo!
- His teeth were set on edge, he could not blow!

CIV

Saint Peter, who has hitherto been known For an impetuous saint, upraised his keys,

And at the fifth hne knock'd the poet down; Who fell hke Phaeton, but more at ease,

Into his lake, for there he did not drown; A different web being by the Destinies

Woven for the Laureate's final wreath, whene'er 831

Reform shall happen either here or there.

CV

He first sank to the bottom — like his works,

But soon rose to the surface -- like himself;

For all corrupted things are buoy'd like corks,

By their own rottenness, light as an elf, Or wisp that flits o'er a morass: he lurks,

- It may be, still, like dull books on a shelf,
- In his own den, to scrawl some 'Life' or 'Vision,'

As Welborn says — 'the devil turn'd precisian.' ⁸⁴⁰

CVI

As for the rest, to come to the conclusion Of this true dream, the telescope is gone

- Which kept my optics free from all delusion,
 - And show'd me what I in my turn have shown;
- All I saw farther, in the last confusion,

Was, that King George slipp'd into heaven for one;

And when the tumult dwindled to a calm, I left him practising the hundredth psalm.

THE AGE OF BRONZE

OR, CARMEN SECULARE ET ANNUS HAUD MIRABILIS

Impar Congressus Achilli.

I

THE 'good old times' - all times when old are good --

Are gone; the present might be if they would;

Great things have been, and are, and greater still

Want little of mere mortals but their will:

A wider space, a greener field, is given To those who play their ' tricks before high heaven.²

I know not if the angels weep, but men

Have wept enough — for what? — to weep again!

II

All is exploded — be it good or bad Reader ! — remember when thou wert a lad,

Then Pitt was all; or, if not all, so much, His very rival almost deem'd him such.

We, we have seen the intellectual race

Of giants stand, like Titans, face to face — Athos and Ida, with a dashing sea

Of eloquence between, which flow'd all free,

As the deep billows of the Ægean roar Betwixt the Hellenic and the Phrygian shore

- But where are they the rivals ! a few feet Of sullen earth divide each winding sheet. How peaceful and how powerful is the
- grave, 21
- Which hushes all ! a calm, unstormy wave, Which oversweeps the world The theme is old
- Of 'dust to dust,' but half its tale untold:
- Time tempers not its terrors still the worm
- Winds its cold folds, the tomb preserves its form,

Varied above, but still alike below;

The urn may shine, the ashes will not glow, Though Cleopatra's mummy cross the sea 29

O'er which from empire she lured Antony; Though Alexander's urn a show be grown,

On shores he wept to conquer, though unknown-

How vain, how worse than vain, at length appear

The madman's wish, the Macedonian's tear ! He wept for worlds to conquer — half the earth

Knows not his name, or but his death, and birth,

And desolation; while his native Greece

Hath all of desolation, save its peace.

- He 'wept for worlds to conquer !' he who ne'er
- Conceived the globe he panted not to spare ! With even the busy Northern Isle unknown, 4^x
- Which holds his urn and never knew his thro .

111

- But where is he, the modern, nightier far, Who, born no king, made monarchs draw his car;
- The new Sesostris, whose unharness'd kings,
- Freed from the bit, believe themselves with wings,
- And spurn the dust o'er which they crawl'd of late,
- Chain'd to the charlot of the chieftam's state?
- Yes! where is he, the champion and the child
- Of all that's great or little, wise or wild?
- Whose game was empires and whose stakes were thrones?
- Whose table earth whose dice were human bones?
- Behold the grand result in yon lone isle,
- And, as thy nature urges, weep or smile
- Sigh to behold the eagle's lofty rage

Reduced to mbble at his narrow cage;

- Smile to survey the queller of the nations
- Now daily squabbling o'er disputed rations;
- Weep to perceive him mourning, as he dmes, 59
- O'er curtail'd dishes and o'er stinted wines, O'er petty quarrels upon petty things, —
- Is this the man who scourged or feasted kings?
- Behold the scales in which his fortune hangs,
- A surgeon's statement and an earl's harangues!
- A bust delay'd, a book refused, can shake
- The sleep of him who kept the world awake.
- Is this indeed the tamer of the great,
- Now slave of all could tease or uritate -
- The paltry gaoler and the prying spy,
- The staring stranger with his note-book nigh? 70
- Plunged in a dungeon, he had still been great;
- How low, how little was this middle state, Between a prison and a palace, where
- How few could feel for what he had to bear !
- Vain his complaint, my lord presents his bill,
- His food and wine were doled out duly still
- Vain was his sickness, never was a clime
- So free from homicide to doubt 's a crime;

- And the stiff surgeon, who maintain'd his cause,
- Hath lost his place and gain'd the world's applause. 80
- But snule though all the pangs of brain and heart
- Disdam, defy, the tardy aid of art;
- Though, save the few fond friends and maged face
- Of that fair boy his sire shall ne'er embrace,
- None stand by his low bed though even the mind
- Be wavering, which long awed and awes mankind;
- Smile for the fetter'd eagle breaks his cham,
- And higher worlds than this are his again.

IV

How, if that soaring spirit still retain

- A conscious twilight of his blazing reign,
- How must he smile, on looking down, to see gr
- The little that he was and sought to be !
- What though his name a wider empire found
- Than his ambition, though with scarce a bound;

Though first in glory, deepest in reverse,

- He tasted empire's blessings and its curse;
- Though kings, rejoicing in their late escape From chains, would gladly be their tyrant's
- ape;
- How must he smile, and turn to yon lone grave,
- The proudest sea-mark that o'ertops the wave! 100
- What though his gaoler, duteous to the last, Scarce deem'd the coffin's lead could keep hum fast,

Refusing one poor line along the lid,

To date the birth and death of all it hid;

That name shall hallow the ignoble shore,

A talisman to all save him who bore

- The fleets that sweep before the eastern blast
- Shall hear their sea-boys hail it from the mast;
- When Victory's Gallic column shall but rise,

Like Pompey's pillar, in a desert's skies, 110 The rocky isle that holds or held his dust

Shall crown the Atlantic like the hero's bust,

And mighty nature o'er his obsequies Do more than nggard envy still denies. But what are these to him ? Car glory's Inst Small care hath he of what his tomb con- sists; Nonght if he sleeps — nor more if he exist: Alike the better-seeing shade will smile On the rude cavern of the rocky isle, 120 As if his ashes found their latest home In Rome's Fautheon or Gaul's muine dome He wants not this; but France shall feel the want Of this last consolation, though so scart; Hor honour, fanne, and fath demand hs bones To rear above a pyramid of thrones; Or carried onward in the battle's van, To form, hke Guesolu's dust, her talsman, But beit as it is — the tume may come His name shall beat the alarm, like Zaska's drum
Austria! which saw thy twice-ta'en capital In vain shall Seine look up along his banks	Do more than nggard envy still denies. But what are these to him ? Can glory's lust Touch the freed spirit or the fetter'd dust ? Small care hath he of what his tomb con- sists; Nought if he sleeps — nor more if he exists: Alike the better-seeing shade will smile On the rude cavern of the rocky isle, 120 As if his ashes found their latest home In Rome's Pantheon or Gaul's mimic dome He wants not this; but France shall feel the want Of this last consolation, though so scant; Her honour, fame, and faith demand his bones To rear above a pyramid of thrones; Or carried onward in the battle's van, To form, like Guesclin's dust, her talisman. But be it as it is — the time may come His name shall beat the alarm, like Ziska's drum. 130 V Oh heaven ! of which he was in power a feature; Oh earth ! of which he was a noble creature; Thou isle ! to be remember'd long and well, That saw'st the unfledged eaglet chip his shell ! Ye Alps, which view'd him in his dawning flights Hover, the victor of a hundred fights ! Thou Rome, who saw'st thy Cæsar's deeds outdone ! Alas ! why pass'd he too the Rubicon — The Rubicon of man's awaken'd rights, 139 To herd with vulgar kings and parasites ? Egypt ! from whose all dateless tombs arose Forgotten Pharaohs from their long repose, And shook within their pyramids to hear A new Cambyses thundering in their ear; While the dark shades of forty ages stood Like startled giants by Nile's famous flood; Or from the pyramid's tall pinnacle Beheld the desert peopled, as from hell, With clashing hosts, who strew'd the bar- ren sand To re-manure the uncultivated land ! 150 Spain ! which, a moment mindless of the Cid,	 name And falsehood — heirs to all except his fame; Who, crush'd at Jena, crouch'd at Berlin, fell First, and but rose to follow! Ye who dwell Where Kosciusko dwelt, remembering yet The unpaid amount of Catherine's bloody debt! 1000 for the avenging angel past, But left thee as he found thee, still a waste, Forgetting all thy still enduring claim, Thy lotted people and extinguish'd name, Thy sigh for freedom, thy long flowing tear, That sound that crashes in the tyrant's ear — Kosciusko ! On — on — on — the thirst of war Gasps for the gore of serfs and of their czar. The half barbaric Moscow's minarets Gleam in the sun, but 't is a sun that sets ! Moscow ! thou limit of his long career, 171 For which rude Charles had wept his frozen tear To see in vain — he saw thee — how ? with spire And palace fuel to one common fire. To this the soldier lent his kindling match, To this the merchant fluug his hoarded store, The prince his hall — and Moscow was no more ! Sublimest of volcanoes ! Etna's flame Pales before thine, and quenchless Hecla's tame; 1000 Yesuvius shows his blaze, an usual sight for gazing tourists, from his hackney'd height; Thou other element ! as strong and stern, To teach a lesson conquerors will not learn !— Whose icy wing flapp'd o'er the faltering foe, Till fell a hero with each flake of snow; How did thy numbing beak and silent fang Pierce, till hosts perish'd with a single ren sand To re-manure the uncultivated land ! 150 Spain ! which, a moment mindless of the Cid, Beheld his banner flouting thy Madrid ! Austria ! which saw thy twice-ta'en capital
Spain ! which, a moment mindless of the Cid,How did thy numbing beak and silent fang Pierce, till hosts perish'd with a single pang !Beheld his banner flouting thy Madrid ! Austria ! which saw thy twice-ta'en capitalHow did thy numbing beak and silent fang Pierce, till hosts perish'd with a single In vain shall Seine look up along his banks	ren sand	foe,
Spain ! which, a moment mindless of the Cid,How did thy numbing beak and silent fang Pierce, till hosts perish'd with a single pang !Beheld his banner flouting thy Madrid ! Austria ! which saw thy twice-ta'en capitalHow did thy numbing beak and silent fang Pierce, till hosts perish'd with a single In vain shall Seine look up along his banks	To re-manure the uncultivated land ! 150	Till fell a hero with each flake of snow;
Beheld his banner flouting thy Madrid ! pang ! 190 Austria ! which saw thy twice-ta'en capital In vain shall Seine look up along his banks	Spain ! which, a moment mindless of the	How did thy numbing beak and silent fang
Austria! which saw thy twice-ta'en capital In vain shall Seine look up along his banks

· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·
 In vain shall France recall beneath her vines Her youth — their blood flows faster than her wines, Or stagnant in their human ice remains In frozen mummies on the Polar plans In vain will Italy's broad sun awaken Her offspring chill'd; its beams are now for- saken. Of all the trophies gather'd from the war, What shall return ? — the conqueror's broken car ?	He teaches them the lesson taught so long, So oft, so vamly — learn to do no wrong ! A single step into the right had made This man the Washington of worlds be- tray'd: A single step into the wrong has given His name a doubt to all the winds of heaven; The reed of Fortune, and of thrones the rod, Of Fame the Moloch or the demigod; His country's Cæsar, Europe's Hanmbal, Withont their decent dignity of fall. 240 Yet Vanity herself had better taught A surer path even to the fame he sought, By pointing out on history's frutless page Ten thousand conquerors for a single sage. While Franklin's quiet memory climbs to heaven, Calming the lightning which he thence hath riven, Or drawing from the no less kindled earth Freedom and peace to that which boasts his birth; While Washington 's a watchword, such as ne'er Shall sink while there 's an echo left to air: While even the Spaniard's thirst of gold and war 251 Forgets Pizarro to shout Bolivar ! Alas ! why must the same Atlantic wave Which wafted freedom gird a tyrant's grave— The king of kings, and yet of slaves the slave, Who bursts the chains of millions to re- new The very fetters which his arm broke through, And crush'd the rights of Europe and his own, To flit between a dungeon and a throne ? VI But 't will not be — the spark 's awaken'd — lo ! VI But 't will not be — the spark 's awaken'd Moor Through eight long ages of alternate gore Barires — and where ? in that averging
Won half by blunder, half by treachery. Oh, dull Saint Helen! with thy gaoler	The swarthy Spaniard feels his former glow;
Hear ! hear Prometheus from his rock ap- peal	Moor Through eight long ages of alternate gore
To earth, air, ocean, all that felt or feel His power and glory, all who yet shall	Revives — and where? in that averaging clime Where Spain was once synonymous with hear	crime,

Where Cortes' and Pizarro's banner flew, The infant world redeems her name of 'New.' 'T is the old aspiration breathed afresh, To kindle souls within degraded flesh, Such as repulsed the Persian from the shore Where Greece was - No ! she still is Greece once more. One common cause makes myriads of one breast. Slaves of the east, or helots of the west; On Andes' and on Athos' peaks unfurl'd, The self-same standard streams o'er either world The Athenian wears again Harmodius' sword; The Chili chief abjures his foreign lord; The Spartan knows himself once more a Greek. Young Freedom plumes the crest of each cacique. Debating despots, hemm'd on either shore, Shrink vainly from the roused Atlantic's roar; 281 Through Calpe's strait the rolling tides advance. Sweep slightly by the half-tamed land of France, Dash o'er the old Spaniard's cradle, and would fain Unite Ausonia to the mighty main: But driven from thence awhile, yet not for aye, Break o'er th' Ægean, mindful of the day Not to be lull'd by tyrant victories Lone, lost, abandon'd in their utmost need creed. 201 The aid evaded, and the cold delay, Prolong'd but in the hope to make a prey; ---These, these shall tell the tale, and Greece can show Greece. van:

Better still toil for masters, than await, The slave of slaves, before a Russian gate, -Numbered by hordes, a human capital, A live estate, existing but for thrall, Lotted by thousands, as a meet reward 308 For the first courtier in the Czar's regard; While their immediate owner never tastes His sleep, sans dreaming of Siberia's wastes; Better succumb even to their own despair, And drive the camel than purvey the bear. VII But not alone within the hoariest clime Where Freedom dates her birth with that of Time.

And not alone where, plunged in night, a crowd

Of Incas darken to a dubious cloud,

The dawn revives : renown'd, romantic Spain

Holds back the invader from her soil again. Not now the Roman tribe nor Punic horde Demand her fields as lists to prove the 321

sword; Not now the Vandal or the Visigoth

Pollute the plains, alike abhorring both;

Nor old Pelayo on his mountain rears

The warlike fathers of a thousand years That seed is sown and reap'd, as oft the Moor

Sighs to remember on his dusky shore. Long in the peasant's song or poet's page

Has dwelt the memory of Abencerrage;

- The Zegri, and the captive victors, flung 330 Back to the barbarous realm from whence they sprung
- But these are gone their faith, their swords, their sway,

Yet left more anti-christian foes than they: The bigot monarch and the butcher priest,

The Inquisition, with her burning feast,

- The faith's red 'auto,' fed with human fuel.
- While sate the catholic Moloch, calmly cruel.

Enjoying, with mexorable eye,

That fiery festival of agony !

The stern or feeble sovereign, one or both By turns; the haughtiness whose pride was sloth;

The long degenerate noble; the debased

Hidalgo, and the peasant less disgraced,

But more degraded; the unpeopled realm; The once proud navy which forgot the helm:

Of Salamis ! - there, there the waves arise,

By Christians, unto whom they gave their

The desolated lands, the ravaged isle,

The foster'd feud encouraged to beguile,

The false friend worse than the infuriate foe. But this is well: Greeks only should free

Not the barbarian, with his mask of peace How should the autocrat of bondage be 300 The king of serfs, and set the nations free? Better still serve the haughty Mussulman, Than swell the Cossaque's prowling cara-

The once impervious phalanx disarray'd;	Henry, the forest-born Demosthenes,
The idle forge that form'd Toledo's blade;	Whose thunder shook the Philip of the
The foreign wealth that flow'd on ev'ry	seas;
shore,	And stoic Franklin's energetic shade,
Save hers who earn'd it with the natives'	Robed in the lightnings which his hand
gore;	allay'd;
The very language which might vie with	And Washington, the tyrant-tamer, wake,
Rome's, 350	To bid us blush for these old chains, or
And once was known to nations like their	break.
homes,	But who compose this senate of the few 390
Neglected or forgotten - such was Spain;	That should redeem the many? Who re-
But such she is not, nor shall be again.	new
These worst, these home invaders, felt and	This consecrated name, till now assign'd feel	To councils held to benefit mankind?
The new Numantine soul of old Castile.	Who now assemble at the holy call?
Up ! up again ! undaunted Tauridor !	The blest Alliance, which says three are
The bull of Phalaris renews his roar;	all !
Mount, chivalrous Hidalgo ! not in vain	An earthly trinity ! which wears the shape
Revive the cry — 'Iago ! and close Spam !'	Of heaven's, as man is munick'd by the ape.
Yes, close her with your armed bosoms	A pious unity ! in purpose one — round, 360	To melt three fools to a Napoleon.
And form the barrier which Napoleon	Why, Egypt's gods were rational to these;
found, —	Their dogs and oxen knew their own de-
The exterminating war, the desert plain,	grees, 401
The streets without a tenant, save the	And, quiet in their kennel or their shed, slain;	Cared little, so that they were duly fed;
The wild sterra, with its wilder troop	But these, more hungry, must have some-
Of vulture-plumed guerrillas, on the stoop	thing more,
For their incessant prey; the desperate wall	The power to bark and bite, to toss and gore.
Of Saragossa, mightiest in her fall;	Ah ' how much happier were good Æsop's
The man nerved to a spirit, and the maid	frogs
Waving her more than Amazoman blade;	Than we ! for ours are animated logs,
The knife of Arragon, Toledo's steel; 370	With ponderous malice swaying to and fro,
The famous lance of chivalrous Castile;	And crushing nations with a stupid blow;
The unerring rule of the Catalan;	All duly anxious to leave little work 410
The Andalusian courser in the van;	Unto the revolutionary stork.
The torch to make a Moscow of Madrid;
And in each heart the spirit of the Cid: -	IX
Such have been, such shall be, such are	Thrice blest Verona ! since the holy three
Advance,	With their imperial presence shine on thee;
And win - not Spain, but thine own free-	Honour'd by them, thy treacherous site
dom, France !	forgets
,	The vaunted tomb of 'all the Capulets:'
VIII	Thy Scaligers - for what was 'Dog the
But lo ! a Congress ! What ! that hal-	Great,' low'd name	'Can Grande' (which I venture to trans-
Which freed the Atlantic ? May we hope	late),
the same	To these sublimer pugs? Thy poet too,
For outworn Europe? With the sound	Catullus, whose old laurels yield to new;
arise, 380	Thine amphitheatre, where Romans sate;
Like Samuel's shade to Saul's monarchic	And Dante's exile shelter'd by thy gate; 421
eves,	Thy good old man, whose world was all

- The prophets of young Freedom, summon'd far From climes of Washington and Bolivar; I

- within Thy wall, nor knew the country held him in:

Would that the royal guests it girds about Were so far like, as never to get out !

Ay, shout ! inscribe ! rear monuments of shame.

To tell Oppression that the world is tame ! Crowd to the theatre with loval rage.

The comedy is not upon the stage:

The show is rich in ribandry and stars, 430

Then gaze upon it through thy dungeon bars;

Clap thy permitted palms, kind Italy, For thus much still thy fetter'd hands are free !

x

Resplendent sight! Behold the coxcomb Czar.

The autocrat of waltzes and of war !

As eager for a plaudit as a realm.

And just as fit for furting as the helm;

A Calmuck beauty with a Cossack wit,

And generous spirit, when 't is not frost-bit;

Now half dissolving to a liberal thaw, But harden'd back whene'er the morning 's raw;

With no objection to true liberty,

Except that it would make the nations free. How well the imperial dandy prates of peace !

How fain, if Greeks would be his slaves, free Greece !

How nobly gave he back the Poles their Diet.

Then told pugnacious Poland to be quiet !

How kindly would he send the mild Ukraine,

With all her pleasant pulks, to lecture Spain !

How royally show off in proud Madrid 450

His goodly person, from the South long hid! A blessing cheaply purchased, the world knows.

By having Muscovites for friends or foes. Proceed, thou namesake of great Philip's son !

La Harpe, thine Aristotle, beckons on; And that which Scythia was to him of yore Find with thy Scythians on Iberia's shore. Yet think upon, thou somewhat aged youth,

Thy predecessor on the banks of Pruth;

Thou hast to aid thee, should his lot be thine.

Many an old woman, but no Catherine. Spain, too, hath rocks, and rivers, and defiles ----

The bear may rush into the hon's toils.

Fatal to Goths are Xeres' sunny fields:

Think'st thou to thee Napoleon's victor yields?

Better reclaim thy deserts, turn thy swords To ploughshares, shave and wash thy Bashkir hordes.

Redeem thy realms from slavery and the knout,

Than follow headlong in the fatal route.

- To infest the clime whose skies and laws are pure 470
- With thy foul legions. Spain wants no manure:

Her soil is fertile, but she feeds no foe;

- Her vultures, too, were gorged not long ago;
- And wouldst thou furnish them with fresher prey?

Alas ! thou wilt not conquer, but purvey.

I am Diogenes, though Russ and Hun

Stand between mine and many a myriad's sun:

But were I not Diogenes, I'd wander Rather a worm than such an Alexander! Be slaves who will, the cynic shall be free; His tub hath tougher walls than Sinope: 481 Still will he hold his lantern up to scan The face of monarchs for an 'honest man.'

XT

And what doth Gaul, the all-prolific land

Of ne plus ultra ultras and their band

Of mercenaries? and her noisy chambers

And tribune, which each orator first clamhers

Before he finds a voice, and when 't is found.

Hears 'the lie' echo for his answer round?

Our British Commons sometimes deign to 'hear!'

A Gallic senate hath more tongue than ear:

Even Constant, their sole master of debate, Must fight next day his speech to vindicate. But this costs little to true Franks, who had rather Combat than listen, were it to their father. What is the simple standing of a shot,

To listening long, and interrupting not?

Though this was not the method of old Rome.

When Tully fulmined o'er each vocal dome, Demosthenes has sanction'd the transaction. In saying eloquence meant 'Action, action !' 501

 XII But where 's the monarch ? hath he dined ? or yet Groans beneath indigestion's heavy debt ? Have revolutionary patés risen, And turn'd the royal entrails to a prison ? Have discontented movements stirr'd the troops ? Or have no movements follow'd traitorous soups ? Have Carbonaro cooks not carbonadoed Each course enough ? or doctors dire dis- suaded Repletion ? Ah ! in thy dejected looks 510 I read all France's treason in her cooks ! Good classic Louis ! is it, canst thou say, Desirable to be the Désiré ? Why wouldst thou leave calm Hartwell's green abode, Apician table, and Horatian ode, To rule a people who will not be ruled, And love much rather to be scourged than school'd ? Ah ! thine was not the temper or the taste For thrones; the table sees thee better placed; A mild Epicurean, form'd, at best, 520 To be a kind host and as good a guest, To talk of letters, and to know by heart One half the poet's, all the gournand's art; A scholar always, now and then a wit, And gentle when digestion may permit;— But not to govern lands enslaved or free; The gout was martyrdom enough for thee. XIII Shall noble Albion pass without a phrase From a bold Briton in her wonted prase ? Arts, arms, and George, and glory, and the isles, 530 And happy Britain, wealth, and Freedom's smiles; White chifs, that held invasion far aloof, Contented subjects, all alike tax-proof; Proud Wellington, with eagle beak so curl'd, That nose, the hook where he suspends the world; And Waterloo, and trade, and (hush ! not yet A syllable of imposts or of debt): 	And "pilots who have weather'd every storm" 510 (But, no, not even for rhyme's sake, name Reform)' — These are the themes thus sung so oft before, Methinks we need not sing them any more; Found m so many volumes far and near, There 's no occasion you should find them here. Yet something may remain perchance to chime With reason, and, what's stranger still, with rhyme. Even this thy genius, Canning ! may per- mit, Who, bred a statesman, still wast born a wit, And never, even in that dull House, couldst tame 550 To unleaven'd prose thme own poetic flame; Our last, our best, our only orator, Even I can praise thee — Tories do no more: Nay, not so much; — they hate thee, man, because Thy spirit less upholds them than it awes. The hounds will gather to their huntsman's hollo, And where he leads the duteous pack will follow; But not for love mistake their yelling cry, Their yelp for game is not an eulogy; Less faithful far than the four-footed pack, A dubious scent would lure the bipeds back. 567 Thy saddle-girths are not yet quite secure, Nor royal stallion's feet extremely sure; The unweldy old white horse is apt at last To stumble, kick, and now and then stick fast. With his great self and rider in the mud: But what of that ? the animal shows blood. XIV Alas, the country ! how shall tongue or pen Bewail her now uncountry gentlemen ? The last to bid the cry of warfare cease, The first to make a malady of peace. 571 For what were all these country patriots born ? To hunt, and vote, and raise the price of
That nose, the hook where he suspends the world;	The last to bid the cry of warfare cease, The first to make a malady of peace. 571 For what were all these country patriots
yet A syllable of imposts or of debt); And ne'er (enough) lamented Castlereagh, Whose penkmfe slit a goose-quill t'other day;	born ? To hunt, and vote, and raise the price of corn ? But corn, like every mortal thing, must fall, Kings, conquerors, and markets most of all.

And must Why would He was you Destroy'd h your

He amplifie

The grand Why did th

And lower ters

Why did ye The man w thro

True, blood spilt

But what o guil

But bread way

And acres

But where

The pursefaıl

The farm hand

The marsh land

The impati The doub

peac In vain the skill

In vain the The landed

The phras lana

The land s shor

For fear th

Up, up aga Or else the

And patrio

Her loaves

For ah ! 't Are gone dry,

And noug sper

Excepting

They who turr

About still Now let th

And share pre

- Church, state, and faction wrestle in the dark,
- Toss'd by the deluge in their common ark. Shorn of her bishops, banks, and dividends,

Another Babel soars — but Britain ends. And why? to pamper the self-seeking wants, 650

- And prop the hill of these agrarian ants.
- 'Go to these ants, thou sluggard, and be wise;'
- Admire their patience through each sacrifice,
- Till taught to feel the lesson of their pride, The price of taxes and of homicide;
- Admire their justice, which would fain deny
- The debt of nations: pray who made it high?

xv

- Or turn to sail between those shifting rocks, The new Symplegades — the crushing Stocks,
- Where Midas might again his wish behold 660

In real paper or imagined gold.

That magic palace of Alcina shows

- More wealth than Britain ever had to lose,
- Were all her atoms of unleaven'd ore,
- And all her pebbles from Pactolus' shore
- There Fortune plays, while Rumour holds the stake,
- And the world trembles to bid brokers break.
- How rich is Britain ! not indeed in mines,
- Or peace or plenty, corn or oil, or wines;
- No land of Canaan, full of milk and honey, 670
- Nor (save in paper shekels) ready money: But let us not to own the truth refuse,
- Was ever Christian land so rich in Jews?
- Those parted with their teeth to good King John.
- And now, ye kings ! they kindly draw your own:
- All states, all things, all sovereigns they control,
- And waft a loan 'from Indus to the pole.'
- The banker broker baron brethren, speed
- To aid these bankrupt tyrants in their need
- Nor these alone; Columbia feels no less 630 Fresh speculations follow each success;
- And philanthropic Israel deigns to dram
- Her mild per-centage from exhausted Span.

- Not without Abraham's seed can Russia march;
- 'T is gold, not steel, that rears the conqueror's arch.
- Two Jews, a chosen people, can command In every realm their scripture-promised land
- Two Jews keep down the Romans, and uphold
- The accursed Hun, more brutal than of old: Two Jews — but not Samaritans — di-
- rect 690
- The world, with all the spirit of their sect. What is the happiness of earth to them ?
- A congress forms their 'New Jerusalem,'
- Where baromes and orders both invite -
- Oh, holy Abraham ! dost thou see the sight ?
- Thy followers mingling with these royal swine,
- Who spit not 'on their Jewish gaberdine,'
- But honour them as portion of the show
- (Where now, oh pope ! 1s thy forsaken toe ? Could 1t not favour Judah with some kucks ? 700
- Or has it ceased to 'kick against the pricks?')-
- On Shylock's shore behold them stand afresh,
- To cut from nations' hearts their ' pound of flesh.'

XVI

- Strange sight, this Congress ! destined to unite
- All that 's incongruous, all that 's opposite.
- I speak not of the Sovereigns they 're ahke,

A common coin as ever mint could strike:

- But those who sway the puppets, pull the strings,
- Have more of motley than their heavy kings
- Jews, authors, generals, charlatans, combine, 710
- While Europe wonders at the vast design.
- There Metternich, power's foremost parasite,

Cajoles; there Wellington forgets to fight.

- There Chateaubriand forms new books of martyrs;
- And subtle Greeks intrigue for stupid Tartars;
- There Montmorenci, the sworn foe to charters.

Turns a diplomatist of great éclat,

To furnish articles for the Débats;

Of war so certain — yet not quite so sure As his dismissal in the Monuteur. 720

Alas! how could his cabinet thus err?

Can peace be worth an ultra-minister?

He falls indeed, perhaps to rise again,

'Almost as quickly as he conquer'd Spain.'

Y,VII

Enough of this—a sight more mournful woos

The averted eye of the reluctant muse. The imperial daughter, the imperial bride, The miperial victim — sacrifice to pride; The mother of the hero's hope, the boy, The young Astyanax of modern Troy; 730 The still pale shadow of the loftiest queen That earth has yet to see, or e'er hath seen; She flits amidst the phantoms of the hour, The theme of pity, and the wreck of power. Oh, cruel mockery ! Could not Austria spare

A daughter? What did France's widow there?

Her fitter place was by St Helen's wave,

Her only throne 1s in Napoleon's grave.

But, no, — she still must hold a petty reign, Flank'd by her formidable chamberlain; 740 The martial Argus, whose not hundred eyes Must watch her through these paltry pa-

geantries What though she share no more, and shared in vain,

A sway surpassing that of Charlemagne,

Which swept from Moscow to the southern seas !

Yet still she rules the pastoral realm of cheese,

Where Parma views the traveller resort

To note the trappings of her mimic court.

But she appears ! Verona sees her shorn

Of all her beams — while nations gaze and mourn — 750 Ere yet her husband's ashes have had time To chill in their inhospitable clime

(If e'er those awful ashes can grow cold; — But no, — their embers soon will burst the mould); She comes!—the Andromache (but not Racine's,

Nor Homer's), — Lo ! on Pyrrhus' arm she leans !

Yes ! the right arm, yet red from Waterloo, Which cut her lord's half-shatter'd sceptre through,

Is offer'd and accepted ! Could a slave

Do more? or less?—and he in his new grave! 760

Her eye, her cheek, betray no inward strife,

And the e2-empress grows as ex a wife !

So much for human ties in royal breasts !

Why spare men's feelings, when their own are jests?

XVIII

But, tired of foreign follies, I turn home,

And sketch the group — the picture's yet to come.

My muse 'gan weep, but, ere a tear was spilt,

She caught Sır William Curtis in a kilt !

While throng'd the chiefs of every Highland clan

To hail their brother, Vich Ian Alderman! Guildhall grows Gael, and echoes with Erse roar, 771

While all the Common Council cry 'Claymore !'

To see proud Albyn's tartans as a belt

Gird the gross surloin of a city Celt,

She burst into a laughter so extreme,

That I awoke — and lo! it was no dream!

Here, reader, will we pause:— if there 's no harm in

This first, you'll have, perhaps, a second 'Carmen.'

TALES, CHIEFLY ORIENTAL

[These Tales, which spring from the same inspiration as the first two cantos of Childe Hanold, have, perhaps, suffered more than any other part of Byron's work in the minds of posterity. We detect much that is false and melodramatic in their ihetoric, we are too apt to be blind to the tremendous flow of hfs, the superb egotism, that took England and Europe by storm in those early expansive days and gave to these poems a popularity almost unparalleled. They represent the revolutionary side of Byron's character, — the insolent disregard of custom, the longing for strange adventure, the passion for vivid color, the easy sentimentality, - just as the Satires represent the classical strain of wit in his mind, and only when these two tendencies flow together, as they do in Don Juan, shall we have the Byron who has nothing to dread from the tooth of time. The Tales, as was said, in their first origin belong with the earlier cantos of Childe Harold, and show the influence of the author's Oriental travels The first of them. The Gaour, has even a certain amount of vaguely defined foundation in facts. In a letter to Thomas Moore, dated September 1, 1813. Byron alludes to the event, which had begun to be too freely talked about, and admits having saved a Turkish girl in the Orient who was to be sewed in a sack and thrown into the seam accordance with Mohammedan law Later Hobhouse declared, in the Westminster Review, January, 1825, that the girl had not been an object of Byron's attachment but of his Turkish servant's Like others of Byron's works The Gigour was practically remade during its passage through the press The first draft of the poem, written in May of 1813, consisted of only 407 lines; by November of the same year, when the seventh and definitive edition was issued, it had expanded to 1334 lines. Meanwhile early in this same November before The Graour was well off bis hands, he wrote at fever heat (in four nights, or, according to another account, a week) and published immediately The Bride of Abydos. He had found his vein and his public, and was thrifty in making the best of both. It may be gathered from letters of the period that the more Webster, at whose house he was staying at the time. During the latter half of the following month (December, 1813) the third of the Tales, The Corsair, was written, and served as a rehef to the emotions of the poet who had fled from the same ill-starred passion How much the poem reflects of Byron's own experience in the East, cannot be known; probably very little. However, in his Journal, under date of March 10, 1814, he hints darkly at strange adventures which not even Hobhouse knew about, etc Lara, which may be regarded as a sequel to The Corsair and which reintroduces Gulnare as the Page and Conrad as Lara was finished by June 14, 1814, and was published in August, bound up with Rogers's Jacqueline. The two poems, however, were soon divorced,' and four editions of Lara alone appeared before the end of 1814. Some time during the next year, probably in the early months The Siege of Corinth was composed, and with it one observes a certain change in tone as if the poet were getting a little further away from himself On January 2d of this year he had married, the experience of lite was to crowd upon him rapidly Parasina, a poem exquisitely graceful in parts, was written during the same year Lady Byron wrote out the copy of the two poems which were sent to the publisher, and which appeared together February 7, 1816, they were little noticed by the press, then savagely engaged with the divorce proceedings that drove Byron from England in the following April With these two poems, then, the strictly Oriental Tales come to an end, the melodramatic masquerade passes out of the poet's life and the Tales which succeed are instinct with the larger spirit of the later cantos of Childe Harold and the Dramas The next Tale, The Prisoner of Childon, was written at Ouchy, on the border of Lake Leman, where also the third canto of Childe Harold was composed The room in the hotel is still (or, at least, was a few years ago) marked by an inscription attesting the fact that here during a stay of two days in June of 1810 Byron wrote his noble lines The character of Bonnivard. whose calamities stirred the poet ever ready with a lync civ for freedom, is disputed by historians according as they incline to Protestant or Catholic views of the struggles of the early sixteenth century; he was unquestionably a fit theme for the declamatory genius of the early nineteenth. From Swiss history Byron turned for his next Tale to Russian legend. Mazeppa, the swiftness of whose movement is a literary tour de force, was published June 28, 1819. Between it and the last of the Tales came all the Dramas except Manfred. The composition of The Island fell in the first two months of 1823; the poem was published. not by Murray but by John Hunt. June 26, 1823 It is synchronous therefore with The Age of Bronze, and shows a marked similarity with that poem in the use of the heroic couplet. It is synchronous also with the later cantos of Don Juan, although the tone of the two poems (the cynical spirit of Don Juan had by this time pretty well stifled the romance) would not seem to show a common source. In less than a month after the publication of The Island, Byron had sailed for Greece.]

THE GIAOUR

A FRAGMENT OF A TURKISH TALE

One fatal remembrance - one sorrow that throws Its bleak shade alike o'er our joys and our woes To which Life nothing darker nor brighter can bring, For which joy hath no balm - and affliction no sting

то

SAMUEL ROGERS, ESQ

AS A SLIGHT BUT MOST SINCERE TOKEN OF ADMIRATION FOR HIS GENIUS, RESPECT FOR HIS CHARACTER, AND GRATITUDE FOR HIS FRIENDSHIP,

THIS PRODUCTION IS INSCRIBED

BY HIS OBLIGED AND AFFECTIONATE SFRVANT.

LONDON, May, 1813.

BYRON.

ADVERTISEMENT

The tale which these disjointed fragments present, is founded upon circumstances now less common in the East than formerly; either because the ladies are more circumspect than in the 'olden time,' or because the Christians have better fortune, or less enterprise. The story, when enture, contained the adventures of a female slave, who was thrown, in the Mussulman manner, into the sea, for infidelity, and avenged by a young Venetian, her lover, at the time the Seven Islands were possessed by the Republic of Venice, and soon after the Arnauts were beaten back from the Morea, which they had ravaged for some time subsequent to the Russian invasion The desertion of the Mainotes, on being refused the plunder of Misitra, led to the abandonment of that enterprise, and to the desolation of the Morea, during which the cruelty exercised on all sides was unparalleled even in the annals of the faithful.

No breath of air to break the wave That rolls below the Athenian's grave, That tomb which, gleaming o'er the cliff, First greets the homeward-veering skiff, High o'er the land he saved in vain: When shall such hero live again?

Fair clime ! where every season smiles Benignant o'er those blessed isles,

Which, seen from far Colonna's height, Make glad the heart that hails the sight, And lend to loneliness delight. There, mildly dumpling, Ocean's cheek Reflects the tints of many a peak Caught by the laughing tides that lave These Edens of the eastern wave. And if at times a transient breeze Break the blue crystal of the seas. Or sweep one blossom from the trees, How welcome is each gentle air That wakes and wafts the odours there ! 20 For there — the Rose o'er crag or vale, Sultana of the Nightingale,

The maid for whom his melody, His thousand songs are heard on high, Blooms blushing to her lover's tale. His queen, the garden queen, his Rose, Unbent by winds, unchill'd by snows, Far from the winters of the west, By every breeze and season blest, Returns the sweets by nature given 30 In softest incense back to heaven; And grateful yields that smiling sky Her fairest hue and fragrant sigh. And many a summer flower is there And many a shade that love might share, And many a grotto, meant for rest, That holds the pirate for a guest; Whose bark in sheltering cove below Lurks for the passing peaceful prow, Till the gay mariner's guitar 40 Is heard, and seen the evening star. Then stealing with the muffled oar, Far shaded by the rocky shore, Rush the night-prowlers on the prey, And turn to groans his roundelay. Strange - that where Nature loved to trace.

As if for Gods, a dwelling-place, And every charm and grace hath mix'd Within the paradise she fix'd, There man, enamour'd of distress, Should mar it into wilderness, And trample, brute-like, o'er each flower That tasks not one laborious hour; Nor claims the culture of his hand To bloom along the fairy land, But springs as to preclude his care, And sweetly woos him - but to spare ! Strange - that where all is peace be side,

There passion riots in her pride, And lust and rapine wildly reign To darken o'er the fair domain.

50

6с

It is as though the fiends prevail'd Against the seraphs they assail'd, And, fix'd on heavenly thrones, should dwell The freed inheritors of hell: So soft the scene, so form'd for joy, So curst the tyrants that destroy ! He who hath bent him o'er the dead Ere the first day of death is fled, The first dark day of nothingness, 70 The last of danger and distress (Before Decay's effacing fingers Have swept the lines where beauty lingers), And mark'd the mild angelic air, The rapture of repose that's there The fix'd yet tender traits that streak The languor of the placed cheek, And - but for that sad shrouded eye, That fires not, wins not, weeps not, now, And but for that chill, changeless brow, Where cold Obstruction's apathy Appals the gazing mourner's heart, As if to him it could impart The doom he dreads, yet dwells upon;

Yes, but for these and these alone, Some moments, ay, one treacherous hour He still might doubt the tyrant's power; So fair, so calm, so softly seal'd, The first, last look by death reveal'd ! Such is the aspect of this shore; 'T is Greece, but living Greece no more ! So coldly sweet, so deadly fair, We start, for soul is wanting there. Hers is the lovelmess in death, That parts not quite with parting breath; But beauty with that fearful bloom, That hue which haunts it to the tomb, Expression's last receding ray, A gilded halo hovering round decay.

A gilded halo hovering round decay, The farewell beam of Feeling past away ! Spark of that flame, perchance of heavenly birth,

Which gleams, but warms no more its cherish'd earth !

Clime of the unforgotten brave ' Whose land from plain to mountain-cave Was Freedom's home or Glory's grave ! Shrine of the mighty ! can it be, That this is all remains of thee ? Approach, thou craven crouching slave: Say, is not this Thermopylæ ? These waters blue that round you lave,

Oh, servile offspring of the free — 111

Pronounce what sea, what shore is this? The gulf, the rock of Salamis ! These scenes, their story not unknown, Arise and make again your own; Snatch from the ashes of your sires The embers of their former fires; And he who in the strife expires Will add to theirs a name of fear That Tyranny shall quake to hear, $20 And leave his sons a hope, a fame, They too will rather die than shame: For Freedom's battle once begun, Bequeath'd by bleeding sure to son, Though batfled oft is ever won. Bear witness, Greece, thy living page, Attest it many a deathless age ! While kings, in dusty darkness hid, Have left a nameless pyramid, Thy heroes, though the general doom 130 Hath swept the column from their tomb, A mightier monument command, The mountains of their native land ! There points thy Muse to stranger's eye The graves of those that cannot die ! 'T were long to tell and sad to trace Each step from splendour to disgrace; Enough - no foreign foe could quell Thy soul, till from itself it fell; Yes! Self-abasement paved the way 140 To villain-bonds and despot sway

What can he tell who treads thy shore? No legend of thine olden time, No theme on which the muse might soar High as thine own in days of yore, When man was worthy of thy elime. The hearts within thy valleys bred, The hearts within thy valleys bred,

The fiery souls that might have led Thy sons to deeds sublime, Now crawl from cradle to the grave, Slaves — nay, the bondsmen of a slave,

And they who listen may believe, Who heard it first had cause to grieve.

.

Far, dark, along the blue sea glancing, The shadows of the rocks advancing Start on the fisher's eye like boat r70 Of island-pirate or Mainote; And fearful for his light caique, He shuns the near but doubtful creek: Though worn and weary with his toil, And cumber'd with his scaly spoil, Slowly, yet strongly, plies the oar, Till Port Leone's safer shore Receives him by the lovely light That best becomes an Eastern night.

Who thundering comes on blackest steed, With slacken'd bit and hoof of speed? 181 Beneath the clattering iron's sound The cavern'd echoes wake around In lash for lash, and bound for bound: The foam that streaks the courser's side Seems gather'd from the ocean-tide Though weary waves are sunk to rest, There's none within his rider's breast; And though to-morrow's tempest lower, 'T is calmer than thy heart, young Giaour ! I know thee not, I loathe thy race, 101 But in thy lineaments I trace What time shall strengthen, not efface: Though young and pale, that sallow front Is scathed by fiery passion's brunt; Though bent on earth thine evil eye, As meteor-like thou glidest by, Right well I view and deem thee one Whom Othman's sons should slay or shun.

On — on he hasten'd, and he drew 200 My gaze of wonder as he flew. Though like a demon of the night He pass'd, and vanish'd from my sight, His aspect and his air impress'd A troubled memory on my breast, And long upon my startled ear Rung his dark courser's hoofs of fear. He spurs his steed; he nears the steep, That, jutting, shadows o'er the deep; He winds around; he hurries by; 210 The rock relieves him from mine eye; For well I ween unwelcome he Whose glance is fix'd on those that flee; And not a star but shines too bright On him who takes such timeless flight.

He wound along; but ere he pass'd One glance he snatch'd, as if his last. A moment check'd his wheeling steed, A moment breathed him from his speed, A moment on his sturrup stood — 220 Why looks he o'er the olive wood? The crescent glimmers on the hill, The Mosque's high lamps are quivering still: Though too remote for sound to wake In echoes of the far tophaike, The flashes of each joyous peal Are seen to prove the Moslem's zeal, To-night, set Rhamazani's sun: To-night, the Bairam feast 's begun; To-night — but who and what art thou 230 Of foreign garb and fearful brow? And what are these to thine or thee, That thou should'st either pause or flee?

He stood — some dread was on his face: Soon Hatred settled in its place: It rose not with the reddening flush Of transient Anger's hasty blush, But pale as marble o'er the tomb, Whose ghostly whiteness aids its gloom His brow was bent, his eye was glazed; 240 He raised his arm, and fiercely raised, And sternly shook his hand on high, As doubting to return or fly: Impatient of his flight delay'd, Here loud his raven charger neigh'd --Down glanced that hand, and grasp'd his blade; That sound had burst his waking dream, As Slumber starts at owlet's scream The spur hath lanced his courser's sides; Away, away, for life he rides: 250 Swift as the hurl'd on high jerreed Springs to the touch his startled steed; The rock is doubled, and the shore Shakes with the clattering tramp no more; The crag is won, no more is seen His Christian crest and haughty mien. 'T was but an instant he restrain'd That fiery barb so sternly rein'd; 'T was but a moment that he stood, Then sped as if by death pursued: 260 But in that instant o'er his soul Winters of Memory seem'd to roll, And gather in that drop of time A life of pain, an age of crime. O'er him who loves, or hates, or fears, Such moment pours the grief of years: What felt he then, at once opprest By all that most distracts the breast?

That pause, which ponder'd o'er his fate, Oh, who its dreary length shall date ! 270 Though in Time's record nearly nought, It was Eternity to Thought ! For mfinite as boundless space The thought that Conscience must em- brace, Which isself can comprehend Woe without name, or hope, or end.	But ne'er shall Hassan's Age repose Along the brink at Twilight's close. The stream that fill'd that font is fled — The blood that warm'd his heart is shed ! And here no more shall human voice 320 Be heard to rage, regret, repoice The last sad note that swell'd the gale Was woman's wildest funeral wail That quench'd in silence, all is still,
The hour is past, the Giaour is gone; And did he fly or fall alone? Woe to that hour he came or went! The curse for Hassan's sin was sent 280 To turn a palace to a tomb; He came, he went, like the Simoom, That harbinger of fate and gloom, Beneath whose widely-wasting breath	But the lattice that flaps when the wind is shrill: Though raves the gust, and floods the ram, No hand shall close its clasp again. On desert sands 't were joy to scan The rudest steps of fellow-man, So here the very voice of Grief Might wake an Echo like relief —
Dark tree, still sad when others' grief is	At least 't would say, ' All are not gone; There lingers Life, though but in one.'
The only constant mourner o'er the dead !	For many a gilded chamber's there, Which Solitude might well forbear;
The steed is vanish'd from the stall; No serf is seen in Hassan's hall; The lonely Spider's thin gray pall 290 Waves slowly widening o'er the wall; The Bat builds in his haram bower; And m the fortress of his power The Owl usurps the beacon-tower, The wild-dog howls o'er the fountain's brim, With baffied thirst and famine, grim; For the stream has shrunk from its marble bed, Where the weeds and the desolate dust are spread 'T was sweet of yore to see it play And chase the sultrmess of day, 300 As springing high the silver dew In whills fantastically flew, And flung luxurious coolness round	Within that dome as yet Decay Hath slowly work'd her cankering way: But gloom is gather'd o'er the gate, Nor there the Fakir's self will wait; Nor there will wandering Dervise stay, For bounty cheers not his delay; 34 ¹¹ Nor there will weary stranger halt To bless the sacred ' bread and salt.' Alike must Wealth and Poverty Pass heedless and unheeded by, For Courtesy and Pity died With Hassan on the mountain side His roof, that refuge unto men, Is Desolation's hungry den The guest flies the hall, and the vassal from labour, 350 Since his turban was cleft by the infidel's sabre !
The air, and verdure o'er the ground 'T was sweet, when cloudless stars were bright, To view the wave of watery light, And hear its melody by night And oft had Hassan's Childhood play'd Around the verge of that cascade; And oft upon his mother's breast That sound had harmonized his res's; And oft had Hassan's Youth along Its bank been soothed by Beauty's song; And softer seem'd each melting tone Of Music mingled with its own.	I hear the sound of coming feet, But not a voice mine ear to greet; More near — each turban I can scan, And silver-sheathèd ataghan; The foremost of the band is seen An Emir by his garb of green: 'Ho ! who art thu ?' — 'This low salam Replies of Moslem faith I am '— 'The burthen ye so gently bear 360 Seems one that claims your utmost care, And, doubtless, holds some precious freight, My humble bark would gladly wait.'

'Thou speakest sooth: thy skiff unmoor, And waft us from the silent shore; Nay, leave the sail still furl'd, and ply The nearest oar that 's scatter'd by, And midway to those rocks where sleep The channell'd waters dark and deep. Rest from your task — so — bravely done, Our course has been right swiftly run; 371 Yet 't is the longest voyage, I trow, That one of '	Or Beauty, blight Find joy within h No gayer insects Ne'er droop the w And lovelier thing To every failing h And every woe a Except an erring
Sullen it plunged, and slowly sank,	In circle narrowin
The calm wave rippled to the bank;	The flames aroum
I watch'd it as it sank, methought	Till mly search'd
Some motion from the current caught	And maddening
Bestirr'd it more, — 't was but the beam	One sad and sole
That checker'd o'er the living stream.	The sting she nou
I gazed, till vanishing from view, 380	Whose venom ney
Like lessening pebble it withdrew;	Gives but one pai
Still less and less, a speck of white	And darts into he
That genm'd the tide, then mock'd the	So do the dark in sight;	Or live like Scory
And all its hidden secrets sleep,	So writhes the mi
Known but to Genii of the deep,	Unfit for earth, u
Which, trembling in their coral caves,	Darkness above,
They dare not whisper to the waves.	Around it flame,
As rising on its purple wing	Black Hassan i
The insect-queen of eastern spring	Nor bends on wo
O'er emerald meadows of Kashmeer	The unwonted ch
Invites the young pursuer near,	Yet shares he not
And leads him on from flower to flower	Not thus was Ha
A weary chase and wasted hour,	When Leila dwel
Then leaves him, as it soars on high,	Doth Leila there
With panting heart and tearful eye:	That tale can onl
So Beauty lures the full-grown child,	Strange rumours
With hue as bright, and wing as wild;	Upon that eve sh
A chase of idle hopes and fears,	When Rhamazan
Begun in folly, closed in tears.	And flashing fror
If won, to equal ills betray'd,	Millions of lamp
Woe waits the insect and the maid;	Of Barram throu
A life of pain, the loss of peace,	'I' was then she v
From infant's play, and man's caprice:	Which Hassan va
The lovely toy so fiercely sought	For she was flow
Hath lost its charm by being caught,	In likeness of a G
For every touch that woo'd its stay	And far beyond t
Hath brush'd its brightest hues away,	Had wrong'd him
Till charm, and hue, and beauty gone,	Somewhat of this
'T is left to fly or fall alone.	But still so fond,
With wounded wing, or bleeding breast,	Too well he trust
Ah! where shall either victim rest? 411	Whose treachery
Can this with faded pinion soar	And on that eve

From rose to tulip as before ?

Dr Beauty, blighted in an hour, Find joy within her broken bower? No gayer insects fluttering by Ne'er droop the wing o'er those that die, And lovelier things have mercy shown Fo every failing but their own, And every woe a tear can claim 420 Except an erring sister's shame.

The Mind, that broods o'er guilty woes, Is like the Scorpion girt by fire: In circle narrowing as its glows The flames around their captive close, Till mly search'd by thousand throes, And maddeung m her ire, One sad and sole relief she knows; The sting she nourish'd for her foes, Whose venom never yet was vain, Gives but one pang, and cures all pain, And darts into her desperate brain; — So do the dark m soul expire, Or live like Scorpion girt by fire; So writhes the mind Remorse hath riven,

To do the dark in soni expire, Or live like Scorpion girt by fire; So writhes the mind Remorse hath riven, Unfit for earth, undoom'd for heaven, Darkness above, despair beneath, Around it flame, within it death !

.

.

.

from the Haram flies, man's form his eyes; 440 ase each hour employs, t the hunter's joys. ssan wont to fly lt in hıs Seraı. no longer dwell? y Hassan tell: in our city say e fled away 's last sun was set, n each minaret 450 s proclaim'd the feast gĥ the boundless East. vent as to the bath, amly search'd in wrath; n her master's rage eorgian page, he Moslem's power with the faithless Giaour. s had Hassan deem'd; so fair she seem'd, 46a ed to the slave deserved a grave: had gone to mosque, And thence to feast in his kiosk.

Such is the tale his Nubians tell, Who did not watch their charge too well; But others say, that on that night, By pale Phingari's trembling hight, The Giaour upon his jet-black steed Was seen, but seen alone to speed 4 With bloody spur along the shore, Nor maid nor page behind him bore.

Her eye's dark charm 't were vain to tell.

But gaze on that of the Gazelle, It will assist thy fancy well; As large, as languishingly dark, But Soul beam'd forth m every spark That darted from beneath the lid, Bright as the jewel of Giamschid. Yea, Soul, and should our prophet say 480 That form was nought but breathing clay, By Alla ! I would answer nay; Though on Al-Sırat's arch I stood, Which totters o'er the fiery flood, With Paradise within my view, And all his Houris beckoning through. Oh! who young Leila's glance could read And keep that portion of his creed, Which saith that woman is but dust, A soulless toy for tyrant's lust? 490 On her might Muftis gaze, and own That through her eye the Immortal shone, On her fair cheek's unfading hue The young pomegranate's blossoms strew Their bloom in blushes ever new; Her hair in hyacinthine flow, When left to roll its folds below, As midst her handmaids in the hall She stood superior to them all, Hath swept the marble where her feet 500 Gleam'd whiter than the mountain sleet, Ere from the cloud that gave it birth It fell, and caught one stam of earth. The cygnet nobly walks the water; So moved on earth Cırcassıa's daughter, The loveliest bird of Franguestan ! As rears her crest the ruffled Swan,

And spurns the wave with wings of pride, When pass the steps of stranger man

Along the banks that bound her tide; 510 Thus rose fair Leila's whiter neck: — Thus arm'd with beauty would she check Intrusion's glance, till Folly's gaze Shrunk from the charms it meant to praise Thus high and graceful was her gait; Her heart as tender to her mate; Her mate — stern Hassan, who was he? Alas ! that name was not for thee !

Stern Hassan hath a journey ta'en With twenty vassals in his train, 526 Each arm'd, as best becomes a man, With arquebuss and ataghan; The chief before, as deck'd for war, Bears in his belt the semitar Stam'd with the best of Arnaut blood, When in the pass the rebels stood, And few return'd to tell the tale Of what befell in Parne's vale The pistols which his girdle bore Were those that once a pasha wore, 530 Which still, though gemin'd and boss'd with gold,

Even robbers tremble to behold. 'T is said he goes to woo a bride More true than her who left his side; The faithless slave that broke her bower, And, worse than faithless, for a Giaour!

The sun's last rays are on the hill, And sparkle in the fountam rill, Whose welcome waters, cool and clear, Draw blessings from the mountaineer. 54 Here may the loitering merchant Greek Find that repose 't were vain to seek In cities lolged too near his lord, And trembling for his secret hoard — Here may he rest where none can see, In crowds a slave, in deserts free; And with forbulden wine may stain The bowl a Moslem must not dram.

The foremost Tartar's in the gap, Conspicuous by his yellow cap; 550 The rest in lengthening line the while Wind slowly through the long defile. Above, the mountain rears a peak, Where vultures whet the thirsty beak, And theirs may be a feast to-night Shall tempt them down ere morrow's light; Beneath, a river's wintry stream Has shrunk before the summer beam, And left a channel bleak and bare, Save shrubs that spring to perish there. Each side the midway path there lay Small broken crags of granite gray, 56f By time, or mountain lightning, riven From summits clad in mists of heaven;

For where is he that hath beheld The peak of Liakura unveil'd?

.

They reach the grove of pine at last; 'Bismillah ! now the peril 's past; For yonder view the opening plain, And there we 'll prick our steeds amain:' The Chaus spake, and as he said, 571 A bullet whistled o'er his head; The foremost Tartar bites the ground !

Scarce had they time to check the rein, Swift from their steeds the riders bound;

But three shall never mount again: Unseen the foes that gave the wound, The dying ask revenge in vain.

With steel unsheathed, and carbine bent, Some o'er their courser's harness leant, 580

Half shelter'd by the steed; Some fly behind the nearest rock, And there await the coming shock,

Nor tamely stand to bleed Beneath the shaft of foes unseen, Who dare not quit their craggy screen. Stern Hassan only from his horse Disdams to light, and keeps his course, Till fiery flashes in the van Proclam too sure the robber-clan Have well secured the only way Could now avail the promised prey. Then curl'd his very beard with ire, And glared his eye with fiercer fire: 'Though far and near the bullets hiss, I've 'scaped a bloodier hour than this.' And now the foe their covert quit, And call his vassals to submit; But Hassan's frown and furious word Are dreaded more than hostile sword, Nor of his little band a man Resign'd carbine or ataghan, Nor raised the craven cry, Amaun ! in fuller sight, more near and near, The lately ambush'd foes appear, And, issuing from the grove, advance Some who on battle-charger prance. Who leads them on with foreign brand Far flashing in his red right hand? ''T is he ' 't is he' I know him now; I know him by his pallid brow; I know him by the evil eye That aids his envious treachery; I know him by his jet-black barb. Though now array'd in Arnaut garb, Apostate from his own vile faith, It shall not save him from the death:

'T 1s he ' well met in any hour, Lost Leila's love, accursed Giaour!'

As rolls the river into ocean, In sable torrent wildly streaming;

As the sea-tide's opposing motion, In azure column proudly gleaming, Beats back the current many a rood, In curling foam and mingling flood, While eddying whirl and breaking wave, Roused by the blast of winter, rave; Through sparkling spray, in thundering clash. The lightnings of the waters flash In awful whiteness o'er the shore, 630 That shines and shakes beneath the roar: Thus — as the stream and ocean greet, With waves that madden as they meet -Thus join the bands, whom inutual wrong, And fate, and fury, drive along. The bickering sabres' shivering jar; And pealing wide or ringing near Its echoes on the throbbing ear, The deathshot hissing from afar; The shock, the shout, the groan of war, 640 Reverberate along that vale More suited to the shepherd's tale: Though few the numbers — theirs the strife, That neither spares nor speaks for life ! Ah! fondly youthful hearts can press, To seize and share the dear caress: But Love itself could never pant For all that Beauty sighs to grant With half the fervour Hate bestows Upon the last embrace of foes, 650

When grappling in the fight they fold Those arms that ne'er shall lose their hold: Friends meet to part; Love laughs at faith;

True foes, once met, are join'd till death !

•

590

600

610

With sabre shiver'd to the hilt, Yet dripping with the blood he spilt; Yet strain'd within the sever'd hand Which quivers round that faithless brand; His turban far behind him roll'd, And cleft in twain its firmest fold; His flowing robe by falchion torn, And crimson as those clouds of morn That, streak'd with dusky red, portend The day shall have a stormy end; A stain on every bush that bore A fragment of his palampore,

316

62Ç

His breast with wounds unnumber'd riven, His back to earth, his face to heaven, Fall'n Hassan hes — his unclosed eye Yet lowering on his enemy, 670 As if the hour that seal'd his fate Surviving left his quenchless hate; And o'er him bends that foe with brow As dark as his that bled below.	But these might be from his courser's side; He drew the token from his vest — Angel of Death' 't is Hassan's cloven crest ! His calpac rent — his caftan red — 'Lady, a fearful bride thy Son hath wed: Me, not from mercy, did they spare, But this empurpled pledge to bear. 720 Peace to the brave ! whose blood is spilt; Woe to the Gaour ! for his the guilt.'
'Yes, Leila sleeps beneath the wave, But his shall be a redder grave; Her spirit pointed well the steel Which taught that felon heart to feel. He call'd the Prophet, but his power Was vain against the vengeful Giaour: 680 He call'd on Alla — but the word Arose unheeded or unheard. Thou Paynim fool ! could Leila's prayer Be pass'd, and thme accorded there? I watch'd my time, I leagued with these, The traitor in his turn to seize; My wrath is wreak'd, the deed is done, And now I go — but go alone.' 	A turban carved in coarsest stone, A pullar with rank weeds o'ergrown, Whereon can now be scarcely read The Koran verse that mourns the dead, Point out the spot where Hassan fell A victim in that lonely dell. There sleeps as true an Osmanlie As e'er at Mecca bent the knee; As ever scorn'd forbidden wine, Or pray'd with face towards the shrine, In orisons resumed anew At solemn sound of 'Alla Hu !' Yet died he by a stranger's hand, And stranger in his native land; Yet died he as in arms he stood, And unavenged, at least in blood. But him the maids of Paradise Impatient to their halls invite, And the dark Heaven of Houris' eyes
The pasture green beneath her eye, She saw the planets faintly twinkling. 'T is twilight — sure his train is nigh' She could not rest in the garden-bower, But gazed through the grate of his steepest	On him shall glance for ever bright; They come — their kerchiefs green they wave, And welcome with a kiss the brave ! Who falls in battle 'gainst a Giaour tower 'Why comes he not? his steeds are fleet,	Is worthiest an immortal bower.
Nor shrink they from the summer heat; Why sends not the Bridegroom his pro- mised gift: Is his heart more cold, or his barb less swift? Oh, falso reproach ! yon Tartar now 707 Has gan'd our nearest mountam's brow, And warly the steep descends, And now within the valley bends; And he bears the gift at his saddle bow — How could I deem his courser slow? Right well my largess shall repay His welcome speed, and weary way.'	But thou, false Infidel ' shalt writhe Beneath avenging Monkir's scythe; And from its torment 'scape alone To wander round lost Eblis' throne; And fire unquench'd, unquenchable, Around, within, thy heart shall dwell; Nor ear can hear nor tongue can tell The tortures of that inward hell ! But first, on earth as Vampire sent, Thy corse shall from its tomb be rent: Then ghastly haunt thy native place,
The Tartar lighted at the gate, But scarce upheld his famting weight: 710 His swarthy visage spake distress, But this might be from weariness; His garb with sanguine spots was dyed,	And suck the blood of all thy race; There from thy daughter, sister, wife, At midnight dram the stream of life; Yet loathe the banquet which perforce Must feed thy livid hving corse. Thy victums ere they yet expire

810

Shall know the demon for their sire, As cursing thee, thou cursing them, Thy flowers are wither'd on the stem. But one that for thy crime must fall, The youngest, most beloved of all, Shall bless thee with a father's name -That word shall wrap thy heart in flame ! Yet must thou end thy task, and mark 771 Her cheek's last tinge, her eye's last spark, And the last glassy glance must view Which freezes o'er its lifeless blue; Then with unhallow'd hand shalt tear The tresses of her yellow hair, Of which in life a lock when shorn Affection's fondest pledge was worn; But now is borne away by thee, Memorial of thine agony ! 780 Wet with thine own best blood shall drip Thy gnashing tooth and haggard lip; Then stalking to thy sullen grave, Go - and with Gouls and Afrits rave; Till these in horror shrunk away From spectre more accursed than they !

••••••

"How name ye yon lone Caloyer? His features I have scann'd before In mine own land: 't is many a year,

Since, dashing by the lonely shore, I saw him urge as fleet a steed As ever served a horseman's need. But once I saw that face, yet then It was so mark'd with inward pain, I could not pass it by agam; It breathes the same dark spirit now, As death were stamp'd upon his brow.'

'T is twice three years at summer tide Since first among our freres he came; And here it soothes him to abide 800

For some dark deed he will not name. But never at our vesper prayer, Nor e'er before confession chair Kneels he, nor recks he when arise Incense or anthem to the skies, But broods withm his cell alone, His faith and race alike unknown The sea from Paynim land he crost, And here ascended from the coast; Yet seems he not of Othman race, But only Christian in his face: I'd judge him some stray renegade, Repentant of the change he made, Save that he shuns our holy shrine, Nor tastes the sacred bread and wine. Great largess to these walls he brought And thus our abbot's favour bought; But were I Prior, not a day Should brook such stranger's further stay, Or pent within our penance cell 820 Should doom him there for ave to dwell. Much in his visions mutters he Of maiden whelm'd beneath the sea: Of sabres clashing, foemen flying, Wrongs avenged, and Moslem dying. On cliff he hath been known to stand, And rave as to some bloody hand Fresh sever'd from its parent limb. Invisible to all but him, Which beckons onward to his grave, 830 And lures to leap into the wave.' Dark and unearthly is the scowl That glares beneath his dusky cowl: The flash of that dilating eye Reveals too much of times gone by; Though varying, indistinct its hue, Oft will his glance the gazer rue, For in it lurks that nameless spell, Which speaks, itself unspeakable, A spirit yet unquell'd and high, 810 That claims and keeps ascendancy: And like the bird whose pinions quake, But cannot fly the gazing snake, Will others quail beneath his look, Nor 'scape the glance they scarce can brook. From him the half-affrighted Friar When met alone would fain retire, As if that eye and bitter smile Transferr'd to others fear and guile. Not oft to smile descendeth he. 850 And when he doth 't is sad to see That he but mocks at Misery. How that pale hp will curl and quiver ! Then fix once more as if for ever; As if his sorrow or disdain Forbade him e'er to smile again. Well were it so - such ghastly mirth From joyaunce ne'er derived its birth. But sadder still it were to trace What once were feelings in that face: 86g Tume hath not yet the features fix'd, But brighter traits with evil mix'd; And there are hues not always faded. Which speak a mind not all degraded Even by the crimes through which it waded The common crowd but see the gloom Of wayward deeds, and fitting doom;

The close observer can espy A noble soul, and lineage high. Alas! though both bestow d in vam, 870 Which Grief could change, and Guilt could stam, It was no vulgar tenement To which such lofty gifts were lent, And still with little less than dread On such the sight is riveted The roofless cot, decay'd and rent, Will scarce delay the passer by; The tower by war or tempest bent, While yet may frown one battlement, Demands and daunts the stranger's eye; Each ivied arch, and pillar lone, 88 r Pleads haughtily for glories gone ! 'His floating robe around him folding, Slow sweeps he through the column'd aisle; With dread beheld, with gloom beholding The rites that sanctify the pile. But when the anthem shakes the choir, And kneel the monks, his steps retire; By vender lone and wavering torch His aspect glares within the porch; Sgo There will he pause till all is done -And hear the prayer, but utter none. See - by the half-illumined wall His hood fly back, his dark hair fall, That pale brow wildly wreathing round, As if the Gorgon there had bound The sablest of the serpent-braid That o'er her fearful forehead stray'd: For he declines the convent oath, And leaves those locks' unhallow'd growth, But wears our garb in all beside; And, not from piety but pride, Gives wealth to walls that never heard Of his one holy vow nor word. Lo ! - mark ye, as the harmony Peals louder praises to the sky, That lived cheek, that stony air Of mix'd defiance and despair ! Saint Francis, keep him from the shrine ! Else may we dread the wrath divine 910 Made manifest by awful sign. If ever evil angel bore The form of mortal, such he wore. By all my hope of sins forgiven, Such looks are not of earth nor heaven !'

To love the softest hearts are prone, But such can ne'er be all his own; Too timid in his woes to share,

Too meek to meet, or brave despair; And sterner hearts alone may feel 020 The wound that time can never heal. The rugged metal of the mine Must burn before its surface shine, But plunged within the furnace-flame, It bends and melts - though still the same; Then temper'd to thy want, or will, T will serve thee to defend or kill; A breastplate for thine hour of need, Or blade to bid thy foeman bleed; But if a dagger's form it bear, 930 Let those who shape its edge, beware ! Thus passion's fire, and woman's art, Can turn and tame the sterner heart; From these its form and tone are ta'en. And what they make it, must remain, But break - before it bend again.

If solutude succeed to grief, Release from pain is slight relief; The vacant bosom's wilderness Might thank the pang that made it less. 940 We loathe what none are left to share: Even bliss — 't were woe alone to bear; The heart once left thus desolate Must fly at last for ease - to hate. It is as if the dead could feel The acy worm around them steal, And shudder, as the reptiles creep To revel o'er their rotting sleep, Without the power to scare away The cold consumers of their clay ! 050 It is as if the desert-bird,

Whose beak unlocks her bosom's stream To still her famish'd nestlings' scream, Nor mourns a life to them transferr'd, Should rend her rash devoted breast, And find them flown her empty nest. The keenest pangs the wretched find

Are rapture to the dreary void, The leafless desert of the mind,

The waste of feelings unemploy'd. Who would be doom'd to gaze upon A sky without a cloud or sun? Less hideous far the tempest's roar Than ne'er to brave the billows more -Thrown, when the war of winds is o'er, A lonely wreck on fortune's shore, 'Mid sullen calm, and silent bay, Unseen to drop by dull decay; -Better to sink beneath the shock Than moulder piecemeal on the rock ! 070

'Father ! thy days have pass'd in peace, 'Mid counted beads, and countless prayer; To bid the sins of others cease,

Thyself without a crime or care, Save transient ills that all must bear, Has been thy lot from youth to age; And thou wilt bless thee from the rage Of passions fierce and uncontroll'd, Such as thy penitents unfold, Whose secret sins and sorrows rest 980 Within thy pure and pitying breast My days, though few, have pass'd below In much of joy, but more of woe; Yet still in hours of love or strife, I've 'scaped the wearmess of life: Now leagued with friends, now girt by foes, I loathed the languor of repose. Now nothing left to love or hate, No more with hope or pride elate, I'd rather be the thing that crawls 990 Most noxious o'er a dungeon's walls, Than pass my dull, unvarying days, Condemn'd to meditate and gaze. Yet, lurks a wish within my breast For rest — but not to feel 't is rest. Soon shall my fate that wish fulfil;

And I shall sleep without the dream Of what I was, and would be still,

Dark as to thee my deeds may seem: My memory now is but the tomb 1000 Of joys long dead; my hope, their doom: Though better to have died with those Than bear a life of lingering woes My spirit shrunk not to sustain The searching throes of ceaseless pain; Nor sought the self-accorded grave Of ancient fool and modern knave: Yet death I have not fear'd to meet; And in the field it had been sweet, Had danger woo'd me on to move 1010 The slave of glory, not of love. I 've braved it — not for honour's boast; I smile at laurels won or lost; To such let others carve their way, For high renown, or hireling pay: But place again before my eyes Aught that I deem a worthy prize, The maid I love, the man I hate; And I will hunt the steps of fate, To save or slay, as these require, 1020 Through rending steel, and rolling fire. Nor need'st thou doubt this speech from one

Who would but do — what he hath done. Death is but what the haughty brave, The weak must bear, the wretch must crave;

Then let Life go to him who gave: I have not quail'd to danger's brow When high and happy — need I now?

'I loved her, Friar ! nay, adored — But these are words that all can use — I proved it more in deed than word; rogi There 's blood upon that dinted sword,

A stain its steel can never lose: 'T was shed for her who died for me,

It warm'd the heart of one abhorr'd. Nay, start not — no — nor bend thy knee,

Nor midst my sins such act record; Thou wilt absolve me from the deed, For he was hostile to thy creed ! The very name of Nazarene 1040 Was wormwood to his Paynim spleen. Ungrateful fool ! since but for brands Well wielded in some hardy hands, And wounds by Galileans given, The surest pass to Turkish heaven, For him his Houris still might wait Impatient at the Prophet's gate. I loved her — love will find its way Through paths where wolves would fear to prey;

And if it dares enough, 't were hard 1050 If passion met not some reward -No matter how, or where, or why, I did not vainly seek, nor sigh: Yet sometimes, with remorse, in vain I wish she had not loved again. She died — I dare not tell thee how; But look - 't is written on my brow ! There read of Cam the curse and crime, In characters unworn by time: Still, ere thou dost condemn me, pause; Not mine the act, though I the cause. 1061 Yet did he but what I had done Had she been false to more than one. Faithless to him, he gave the blow; But true to me, I laid him low: Howe'er deserved her doom might be, Her treachery was truth to me; To me she gave her heart, that all Which tyranny can ne'er enthrall; And I, alas ' too late to save ! 1070 Yet all I then could give I gave, 'T was some rehef, our foe a grave. His death sits lightly; but her fate Has made me-what thou well may'st hate.

His doom was seal'd — he knew it well, Warn'd by the voice of stern Taheer, Deep in whose darkly boding ear The deathshot peal'd of murder near,

As filed the troop to where they fell ! He died too in the battle biol, 1080 A time that heeds nor pain nor toil; One cry to Mahomet for aid, One prayer to Alla all he made He knew and cross'd me in the fray — I gazed upon him where he lay, And watch'd his spirit ebb away: Though pierced like pard by hunters' steel, He felt not half that now I feel

It is reached, but vamily search'd, to find The workings of a wounded mind; 1090 Each feature of that sullen corse Betray'd his rage, but no remorse Oh, what had Vengeance given to trace Despair upon his dying face ! The late repentance of that hour, When Penitence hath lost her power To tear one terror from the grave, And will not soothe, and cannot save.

'The cold in clume are cold in blood, Their love can scarce deserve the name; But mine was like a lava flood 1101 That boils in Ætna's breast of flame. I cannot prate in puling stram Of ladye-love, and beauty's chain: If changing cheek, and scorching vein, Lips taught to writhe, but not complain, If bursting heart, and madd'uing brain, And daring deed, and vengeful steel, And all that I have felt, and feel, Betoken love - that love was mine, 1110 And shown by many a bitter sign. "T is true, I could not whine nor sigh, I knew but to obtain or die I die - but first I have possess'd, And come what may, I have been blest. Shall I the doom I sought upbraid? No - reft of all, yet undismay'd But for the thought of Leila slain, Give me the pleasure with the pain, So would I live and love again 1120 I grieve, but not, my holy guide ! For him who dies, but her who died She sleeps beneath the wandering wave -Ah ! had she but an earthly grave, This breaking heart and throbbing head Should seek and share her narrow bed.

She was a form of life and light, That, seen, became a part of sight; And rose, where'er I turn'd mine eye, The Morning-star of Memory ! 1130

 Yes, Love indeed is light from heaven; A spark of that immortal fire
 With angels shared, by Alla given,

To lift from earth our low desire. Devotion wafts the mind above, But Heaven itself descends in love; A feeling from the Godhead caught, To wean from self each sordid thought; A Ray of him who form'd the whole; A Glory encling round the soul! 1140 I grant my love imperfect, all That mortals by the name miscall; Then deem it evil, what thou wilt; But say, oh say, hers was not guilt ! She was my life's unerring light¹ That quench'd, what beam shall break my might?

Oh ' would it shone to lead me still, Although to death or deadliest ill ! Why marvel ye, if they who lose

This present joy, this future hope, No more with sorrow meekly cope; In phrensy then their fate accuse;

In madness do those fearful deeds That seem to add but guilt to woe?

Alas' the breast that mly bleeds

Hath nought to dread from outward blow: Who falls from all he knows of bhss, Cares httle into what abvss Fierce as the gloomy vulture's now

To thee, old man, my deeds appear: 1160 I read abhorrence on thy brow,

And this too was I born to bear ! 'T is true, that, like that bird of prey, With havoc have I mark'd my way. But this was taught me by the dove, To die — and know no second love This lesson yet hath man to learn, Taught by the thing he dares to spurn: The bird that sings within the brake, The swan that swims upon the lake, 1176 One mate, and one alone, will take And let the fool, still prone to range And sneer on all who cannot change, Partake his jest with boasting boys; I envy not his varied joys, But deem such feeble, heartless man Less than yon solitary swan; Far, far beneath the shallow maid He left believing and betray'd.

Such shame at least was never mine — 1180 Leila ! each thought was only thme ! My good, my guilt, my weal, my wee, My hope on high — my all below. Earth holds no other like to thee, Or, if it doth, in van for me: For worlds I dare not view the dame Resembling thee, yet not the same. The very crimes that mar my youth, This bed of death — attest my truth ! 'T is all too late — thou wert, thou art 1190 The cherish'd madness of my heart !

'And she was lost — and yet I breathed, But not the breath of human life:

A serpent round my heart was wreathed, And stung my every thought to strife. Alike all time abhorr'd, all place, Shuddering I shrunk from Nature's face. Where every hue that charm'd before The blackness of my bosom wore. The rest thou dost already know. 1200 And all my sins, and half my woe. But talk no more of penitence: Thou see'st I soon shall part from hence: And if thy holy tale were true, The deed that's done canst thou undo? Think me not thankless - but this grief Looks not to priesthood for relief. My soul's estate in secret guess: But wouldst thou pity more, say less. When thou canst bid my Leila live, 1210 Then will I sue thee to forgive; Then plead my cause in that high place Where purchased masses proffer grace. Go, when the hunter's hand hath wrung From forest-cave her shricking young, And calm the lonely lioness: But soothe not — mock not my distress !

'In earlier days, and calmer hours, 1218 When heart with heart delights to blend,

Where bloom my native valley's bowers I had — Ah ! have I now ? — a friend !

To him this pledge I charge thee send, Memorial of a youthful vow;

I would remind him of my end:

Though souls absorb'd like mine allow Brief thought to distant friendship's claim, Yet dear to him my blighted name. 'T is strange — he prophesied my doom,

And I have smiled — I then could smile — When Prudence would his voice assume,

And warn - I reck'd not what - the while: 1231 But now remembrance whispers o'er Those accents scarcely mark'd before. Say — that his bodings came to pass,

And he will start to hear their truth, And wish his words had not been sooth: Tell him, unheeding as I was, Through many a busy bitter scene Of all our golden youth had been In pain, my faltering tongue had tried 1240 To bless his memory ere I died; But Heaven in wrath would turn away, If Guilt should for the guiltless pray. I do not ask him not to blame, Too gentle he to wound my name; And what have I to do with fame? I do not ask him not to mourn. Such cold request might sound like scorn; And what than friendship's manly tear May better grace a brother's bier? 1250 But bear this ring, his own of old, And tell him - what thou dost behold ! The wither'd frame, the ruin'd mind, The wrack by passion left behind, A shrivell'd scroll, a scatter'd leaf. Sear'd by the autumn blast of grief !

• • • •

'Tell me no more of fancy's gleam, No, father, no, 't was not a dream; Alas ' the dreamer first must sleep, I only watch'd, and wish'd to weep; 1260 But could not, for my burning brow Throbb'd to the very brain as now: I wish'd but for a single tear, As something welcome, new, and dear: I wish'd it then, I wish it still; Despair 1s stronger than my will. Waste not thine orison, despair Is mightier than thy pious prayer: I would not, if I might, be blest; I want no paradise, but rest. 1270 'T was then, I tell thee, father ! then I saw her; yes, she lived again; And shining in her white symar, As through yon pale gray cloud the star Which now I gaze on, as on her, Who look'd and looks far lovelier; Dumly I view its trembling spark; To-morrow's night shall be more dark; And I, before its rays appear, That lifeless thing the living fear. 1280 I wander, father ! for my soul Is fleeting towards the final goal. I saw her, friar ! and I rose Forgetful of our former woes;

And rushing from my couch, I dart, And clasp her to my desperate heart; I clasp — what is it that I clasp? No breathing form within my grasp, No heart that beats reply to mine, Yet, Leila ! yet the form is thine ! 1200 And art thou, dearest, changed so much, As meet my eye, yet mock my touch? Ah! were thy beauties e'er so cold, I care not; so my arms enfold The all they ever wish'd to hold. Alas ! around a shadow prest They shrink upon my lonely breast; Yet still 't is there ! In silence stands, And beckons with beseeching hands ! With braided hair, and bright-black eye – 1300 I knew 't was false - she could not die ! But he is dead ' within the dell

I saw him buried where he fell; He comes not, for he cannot break From earth; why then art thou awake? They told me wild waves roll'd above The face I view, the form I love; They told me - 't was a hideous tale ! I'd tell it, but my tongue would fail. If true, and from thine ocean-cave 1310 Thou com'st to claim a calmer grave, Oh ! pass thy dewy fingers o'er This brow that then will burn no more; Or place them on my hopeless heart: But, shape or shade ! whate'er thou art, In mercy ne'er again depart ! Or farther with thee bear my soul Than winds can waft or waters roll !

'Such is my name, and such my tale.

Confessor ! to thy secret ear I breathe the sorrows I bewall,

And thank thee for the generous tear This glazing eye could never shed. Then lay me with the humblest dead, And, save the cross above my head, Be neither name nor emblem spread, By prying stranger to be read, Or stay the passing pilgrim's tread '

He pass'd — nor of his name and race Hath left a token or a trace, 7330 Save what the father must not say Who shrived him on his dying day This broken tale was all we knew Of her he loved, or him he slew.

THE BRIDE OF ABYDOS

A TURKISH TALE

'Had we never loved sae kindly, Had we never loved sae blindly, Nerer inet or never parted, We had ne'er been broken-hearted.' Buans.

то

THE RIGHT HONOURABLE LORD HOLLAND,

THIS TALE IS INSCRIBED, WITH EVERY SENTIMENT OF REGARD AND RESPECT, BY HIS GRATEFULLY OBLIGED AND SINCERE FRIEND, BYRON.

CANTO THE FIRST

I

- Know ye the land where the cypress and myrtle
 - Are emblems of deeds that are done in their clume,
- Where the rage of the vulture, the love of the turtle,
 - Now melt into sorrow, now madden to crime ?
- Know ye the land of the cedar and vine,
- Where the flowers ever blossom, the beams ever shme;
- Where the light wings of Zephyr, oppress'd with perfume,
- Wax famt o'er the gardens of Gúl in her bloom;
- Where the citron and olive are fairest of fruit,
- And the voice of the nightingale never is mute 10
- Where the tints of the earth, and the hues of the sky,
- In colour though varied, in beauty may vie,
- And the purple of Ocean is deepest in dye; Where the virgins are soft as the roses they twine,
- And all, save the spirit of man, is divine?
- 'T is the clime of the East; 't is the land of the Sun —
- Can he smile on such deeds as his children have done?
- Oh! wild as the accents of lovers' farewell Are the hearts which they bear, and the tales which they tell.

11

Begirt with many a gallant slave Apparell'd as becomes the brave, Awaiting each his lord's behest To guide his steps, or guard his rest, Old Giaffir sate in his Divan.

Deep thought was in his aged eye; And though the face of Mussulman

Not oft betrays to standers by The mind within, well skill'd to hide All but unconquerable pride,

His pensive cheek and pondering brow 30 Did more than he was wont avow.

TTT

- 'Let the chamber be clear'd.'- The train disappear'd -
- 'Now call me the chief of the Haram guard '

With Giaffir is none but his only son, And the Nubian awaiting the sire's award.

'Haroun — when all the crowd that wait Are pass'd beyond the outer gate (Woe to the head whose eye beheld My child Zuleika's face unveil'd !), Hence, lead my daughter from her tower; 40

Her fate is fix'd this very hour: Yet not to her repeat my thought; By me alone be duty taught !

'Pacha! to hear is to obey.' No more must slave to despot say ----Then to the tower had ta'en his way: But here young Selim silence brake,

First lowly rendering reverence meet; And downcast look'd, and gently spake,

Still standing at the Pacha's feet: For son of Moslem must expire, Ere dare to sit before his sire !

Father! for fear that thou shouldst chide

My sister, or her sable guide, Know — for the fault, if fault there be, Was mine, then fall thy frowns on me-So lovelily the morning shone,

That -- let the old and weary sleep --I could not; and to view alone

The fairest scenes of land and deep, 60

With none to listen and reply

To thoughts with which my heart beat high,

Were irksome - for whate'er my mood, In sooth I love not solutude.

I on Zuleika's slumber broke,

And, as thou knowest that for me Soon turns the Haram's grating key, Before the guardian slaves awoke We to the cypress groves had flown, And made earth, main, and heaven our own! 70 There linger'd we, beguiled too long, With Mejnoun's tale, or Sadi's song;

Till I, who heard the deep tambour Beat thy Divan's approaching hour,

To thee, and to my duty true,

Warn'd by the sound, to greet thee flew.

But there Zuleika wanders yet -Nay, Father, rage not - nor forget That none can pierce that secret bower But those who watch the women's tower.'

'Son of a slave,' the Pacha said, 81 From unbelieving mother bred, Vain were a father's hope to see Aught that beseems a man in thee. Thou, when thine arm should bend the bow,

And hurl the dart, and curb the steed, Thou, Greek in soul if not in creed, Must pore where babbling waters flow, And watch unfolding roses blow. Would that yon orb, whose matin glow Thy listless eyes so much admire, Would lend thee something of his fire ! Thou, who wouldst see this battlement By Christian cannon piecemeal rent; Nay, tamely view old Stambol's wall Before the dogs of Moscow fall, Nor strike one stroke for life and death Against the curs of Nazareth ! Go - let thy less than woman's hand Assume the distaff — not the brand. 100 But, Haroun ! — to my daughter speed: And hark - of thine own head take heed -

If thus Zuleika oft takes wing ---Thou see'st yon bow — it hath a string !'

No sound from Selim's hp was heard, At least that met old Giaffir's ear, But every frown and every word Pierced keener than a Christian sword.

'Son of a slave! - reproach'd with fear !

Those gibes had cost another dear.

0
Son of a slave ! and who my sire?'	VI
Thus held his thoughts their dark career;	Fair as the first that fell of womankind, When on that dread yet lovely serpent
And glances ev'n of more than ire
Flash forth, then faintly disappear.	Whose image then was stamp'd upon her
Old Graffir gazed upon his son	mind — 160
And started; for within his eye	But once beguiled and ever more beguil-
He read bow much his wrath had	ing;
done;	Dazzling as that, oh ' too transcendent
He saw refellion there begun	vision
'Come Fither, boy — what, no reply?	To Sorrow's phantom-peopled slumber
1 mark thee — and 1 know thee too; 120	given,
But there be deeds thou dar'st not do:	When heart meets heart agam in dreams
But if thy beard had manlier length,	Elysian,
And if thy hand had skill and strength,	And paints the lost on Earth revived in
I'd joy to see thee break a lance,	Heaven; Soft as the memory of buried lov;
Albeit against my own perchance.'	Pure as the prayer which Childhood wafts
As speeningly these eccents fall	above;
As sneeringly these accents fell, On Selim's eye he fiercely gazed.	Was she, the daughter of that rude old
That eye return'd him glance for	Chief glance,	Who met the maid with tears - but not of
And proudly to his sire's was raised,	grief.
Till Giaffir's quail'd and shrunk	0
askance — 130	Who hath not proved how feebly words
And why - he felt, but durst not tell.	essav 170
'Much I misdoubt this wayward boy	To fix one spark of Beauty's heavenly
Will one day work me more annoy.	ray?
I never loved him from his birth,	Who doth not feel, until his failing sight
And — but his arm is little worth,	Faints into dimness with its own delight,
And scarcely in the chase could cope	His changing cheek, his sinking heart con-
With timid fawn or antelope,	fess
Far less would venture into strife	The might, the majesty of Loveliness?
Where man contends for fame and life -	Such was Zuleika, such around her shone
I would not trust that look or tone: 140	The nameless charms unmark'd by her alone, —
No, nor the blood so near my own.	The light of love, the purity of grace,
That blood — he hath not heard — no more —	The mind, the Music breathing from her
I 'l' watch him closer than before.	face,
He is an Arab to my sight,	The heart whose softness harmonized the
Or Christian crouching in the fight —	whole. 180
But hark ' I hear Zuleika's voice;	And, oh ! that eye was in itself a Soul !
Like Houris' hymn it meets mine ear
She is the offspring of my choice;	Her graceful arms in meekness bending
Oh! more than ev'n her mother	Across her gently-budding breast;
dear,	At one kind word those arms extending
With all to hope, and nought to fear -	To clasp the neck of him who blest
My Peri! ever welcome here! 151	His child caressing and carest,
Sweet as the desert fountain's wave	Zuleika came; and Giaffir felt
To lips just cool'd in time to save,	His purpose half within him melt
Such to my longing sight art thou;	Not that against her fancied weal
Nor can they waft to Mecca's shrine	His heart though stern could ever
More thanks for life, than 1 for thine,	feel; Igc
Who blest thy birth and bless thee	Affection chain'd her to that heart, now'	Ambition tore the links apart.

VII

'Zuleika ! child of gentleness ! How dear this very day must tell, When I forget my own distress, In losing what I love so well, To bid thee with another dwell ---Another! and a braver man Was never seen in battle's van. We Moslem reck not much of blood; 200 But yet the line of Carasman Unchanged, unchangeable hath stood First of the bold Timariot bands That won and well can keep their lands. Enough that he who comes to woo Is kinsman of the Bey Oglou: His years need scarce a thought employ; I would not have thee wed a boy. And thou shalt have a noble dower:

And his and my united power 210 Will laugh to scorn the death-firman, Which others tremble but to scan, And teach the messenger what fate The bearer of such boon may wait. And now thou know'st thy father's will;

All that thy sex hath need to know. 'T was mine to teach obedience still —

The way to love, thy lord may show.'

VIII

In silence bow'd the virgin's head;

And if her eye was fill²d with tears 220 That stifled feeling dare not shed, And changed her cheek from pale to red,

And red to pale, as through her ears Those winged words like arrows sped,

What could such be but maiden fears? So bright the tear in Beauty's eye, Love half regrets to kiss it dry; So sweet the blush of Bashfulness, Even Pity scarce can wish it less!

Whate'er it was the sire forgot; 230 Or 1f remember'd, mark'd 1t not; Thrice clapp'd his hands, and call'd his steed,

Resign'd his gem-adorn'd chibouque, And mounting featly for the mead,

With Maugrabee and Mamaluke, His way amid his Delis took, To witness many an active deed With sabre keen or blunt jerreed. The Kislar only and his Moors Watch well the Haram's massy doors. 240 IX

His head was leant upon his hand, His eye look'd o'er the dark blue water That swiftly glides and gently swells Between the winding Dardanelles; But yet he saw nor sea nor strand, Nor even his Pacha's turban'd band

Mix in the game of mimic slaughter, Careering cleave the folded felt With sabre stroke right sharply dealt; Nor mark'd the javelin-darting crowd, 250 Nor heard their Ollahs wild and loud —

He thought but of old Giaffir's daughter!

х

No word from Selum's bosom broke; One sigh Zuleika's thought bespoke Still gazed he through the lattice grate, Pale, mute, and mournfully sedate. To him Zuleika's eye was turn'd, But little from his aspect learn'd; Equal her grief, yet not the same; Her heart confess'd a gentler flame: 260 But yet that heart, alarm'd or weak, She knew not why, forbade to speak Yet speak she must — but when essay?

'How strange he thus should turn away ! Not thus we e'er before have met; Not thus shall be our parting yet ' Thrice paced she slowly through the room,

And watch'd his eye — it still was fix'd: She snatch'd the urn wherein was mix'd

The Persian Atar-gul's perfume, 270

And sprinkled all its odours o'er

The pictured roof and marble floor:

The drops, that through his glittering vest

The playful girl's appeal address'd, Unheeded o'er his bosom flew,

As if that breast were marble too.

'What, sullen yet? it must not be — Oh! gentle Selim, this from thee!' She saw in curious order set

The fairest flowers of eastern land —

- 'He loved them once; may touch them yet, If offer'd by Zuleika's hand.'
- The childish thought was hardly breathed
- Before the Rose was pluck'd and wreathed;

The next fond moment saw her seat Her fairy form at Selum's feet:

'This rose to calm my brother's cares A message from the Bulbul bears; It says to-night he will prolong For Selim's ear his sweetest song; 290 And though his note is somewhat sad, He'll try for once a strain more glad, With some faint hope his alter'd lay May sing these gloomy thoughts away.

XI

- What! not receive my foolish flower? Nay then I am indeed unblest:
- On me can thus thy forehead lower? And know'st thou not who loves thee best?

Oh, Selim dear ! oh, more than dearest ! Say, is it me thou hat'st or fearest? 300 Come, lay thy head upon my breast, And I will kiss thee into rest. Since words of mine, and songs must fail, Ev'n from my fabled nightingale I knew our sire at times was stern, But this from thee had yet to learn: Too well I know he loves thee not; But is Zuleika's love forgot? Ah! deem I right? the Pacha's plan -This kinsman Bey of Carasman 310 Perhaps may prove some foe of thine; If so, I swear by Mecca's shrine, If shrines that ne'er approach allow To woman's step admit her yow. Without thy free consent, command, The Sultan should not have my hand ! Think'st thou that I could bear to part With thee, and learn to halve my heart? Ah! were I sever'd from thy side,

- Where were thy friend and who my guide? 320
- Years have not seen, Time shall not see

The hour that tears my soul from thee: Even Azrael, from his deadly quiver

When flies that shaft, and fly it must,

That parts all else, shall doom for ever Our hearts to undivided dust ''

XII

He hved — he breathed — he moved — he felt;

He raised the maid from where she knelt;

- His trance was gone his keen eye shone With thoughts that long in darkness dwelt; 330
- With thoughts that burn in rays that melt
- As the stream late conceal'd

By the fringe of its willows.

When it rushes reveal'd

In the light of its billows;

As the bolt bursts on high From the black cloud that bound it.

Flash'd the soul of that eye

Through the long lashes round it. A war-horse at the trumpet's sound, 340 A lon roused by heedless hound, A tyrant waked to sudden strife By graze of ill-directed kmfe, Starts not to more convulsive life Than he, who heard that vow, display'd, And all, before repress'd, betray'd:

'Now thou art mine, for ever mine, With life to keep, and scarce with life resign;

Now thou art mine, that sacred oath, Though sworn by one, hath bound us both. Yes, fondly, wisely hast thou done; 351 That yow hath saved more heads than one; But blench not thou - thy simplest tress Claims more from me than tenderness; I would not wrong the slenderest hair, That clusters round thy forehead fair. For all the treasures buried far Within the caves of Istakar. This morning clouds upon me lower'd, Reproaches on my head were shower'd, And Giaffir almost call'd me coward ! 361 Now I have motive to be brave; The son of his neglected slave, -Nay, start not, 't was the term he gave, ---May show, though little apt to vaunt, A heart his words nor deeds can daunt. His son, indeed ! - yet, thanks to thee, Perchance I am, at least shall be; But let our plighted secret vow Be only known to us as now. 37G I know the wretch who dares demand From Giaffir thy reluctant hand; More ill-got wealth, a meaner soul Holds not a Musselim's control: Was he not bred in Egripo? A viler race let Israel show; But let that pass — to none be told Our oath; the rest shall time unfold. To me and mine leave Osman Bey; I've partisans for peril's day: 284. Think not I am what I appear;

I've arms, and friends, and venge near'

XIII

'Think not thou art what thou appearest ? My Selim, thou art sadly changed: This morn I saw thee gentlest, dearest; But now thou'rt from thyself estranged My love thou surely knew'st before, It ne'er was less, nor can be more To see thee, hear thee, near thee stay, And hate the night I know not why, Save that we meet not but by day; 391 With thee to live, with thee to die, I dare not to my hope deny: Thy cheek, thine eyes, thy hps to kiss, Like this — and this — no more than this. For, Alla ! sure thy lips are flame: What fever in thy veins is flushing? My own have nearly caught the same, At least I feel my cheek, too, blushing. To soothe thy sickness, watch thy health, Partake, but never waste thy wealth, 401 Or stand with smiles unmurmuring by, And lighten half thy poverty; Do all but close thy dying eye, For that I could not live to try; To these alone my thoughts aspire: More can I do? or thou require? But, Selim, thou must answer why We need so much of mystery: The cause I cannot dream nor tell, 410 But be it, since thou say'st 't is well; Yet what thou mean'st by "arms" and " friends," Beyond my weaker sense extends. I meant that Giaffir should have heard The very vow I plighted thee; His wrath would not revoke my word: But surely he would leave me free. Can this fond wish seem strange in me. To be what I have ever been? What other hath Zuleika seen 420 From simple childhood's earliest hour? What other can she seek to see Than thee, companion of her bower, The partner of her infancy? These cherish'd thoughts with life begun, Say, why must I no more avow? What change is wrought to make me shun The truth; my pride, and thine till now? To meet the gaze of stranger's eyes Our law, our creed, our God denies; 430 Nor shall one wandering thought of mine At such, our Prophet's will, repine: No ! happier made by that decree ! He left me all in leaving thee.

Deep were my anguish, thus compell'd To wed with one I ne'er beheld This wherefore should I not reveal ? Why wilt thou urge me to conceal ? I know the Pacha's haughty mood To thee hath never boded good; 440 And he so often storms at nought, Allah ! forbid that e'er he ought ! And why, I know not, but within My heart concealment weighs like sin. If then such secrecy be crime,

And such it feels while lurking here; Oh, Selim ! tell me yet in time,

Nor leave me thus to thoughts of fear. Ah! yonder see the Tchocadar, My father leaves the mimic war; 450 I tremble now to meet his eye — Say, Selim, canst thou tell me why?'

XIV

'Zuleika, to thy tower's retreat Betake thee - Giaffir I can greet: And now with him I fain must prate Of firmans, imposts, levies, state. There's fearful news from Danube's banks, Our Vizier nobly thins his ranks, For which the Glaour may give him thanks ! Our Sultan hath a shorter way 460 Such costly triumph to repay. But, mark me, when the twilight drum Hath warn'd the troops to food and sleep, Unto thy cell will Selim come: Then softly from the Haram creep Where we may wander by the deep: Our garden-battlements are steep: Nor these will rash intruder climb To list our words, or stint our time; And if he doth, I want not steel 470 Which some have felt, and more may feel. Then shalt thou learn of Selim more Than thou hast heard or thought before: Trust me, Zuleika — fear not me !

Thou know'st I hold a Haram key.'

'Fear thee, my Selim ! ne'er till now Did word like this — ' 'Delay not thou;

I keep the key — and Haroun's guard Have some, and hope of more reward. To-night, Zuleika, thou shalt hear My tale, my purpose, and my fear: I am not, love ! what I appear.'

CANTO THE SECOND

r

THE winds are high on Helle's wave, As on that night of stormy water

When Love, who sent, forgot to save The young, the beautiful, the brave,

The lonely hope of Sestos' daughter Oh ! when alone along the sky Her turret-torch was blazing high, Though rising gale and breaking foam And shrieking sea-birds warn'd him home;

And clouds aloft and tides below, With signs and sounds, forbade to go, He could not see, he would not hear, Or sound or sign foreboding fear; His eye but saw that light of love, The only star it hail'd above; His ear but rang with Hero's song,

"Ye waves, divide not lovers long !" — That tale is old, but love anew May nerve young hearts to prove as true.

Ι

- The winds are high, and Helle's tide Rolls darkly heaving to the main;
- And Night's descending shadows hide That field with blood bedew'd in vain,
- The desert of old Priam's pride;
- The tombs, sole relics of his reign,
- All save immortal dreams that could beguile
- The blind old man of Scio's rocky isle !

III

- Oh! yet-for there my steps have been: These feet have press'd the sacred shore,
- These limbs that buoyant wave hath borne — 30
- Mmstrel ! with thee to muse, to mourn, To trace again those fields of yore,
- Believing every hillock green Contains no fabled hero's ashes,
- And that around the undoubted scene
- Thine own 'broad Hellespont' still dashes,

Be long my lot ! and cold were he

Who there could gaze denying thee !

IV

The night hath closed on Helle's stream, Nor yet hath risen on Ida's hill 40 That moon, which shone on his high theme:

No warrior chides her peaceful beam, But conscious shepherds bless it still.

Their flocks are grazing on the mound Of him who felt the Dardan's arrow: That mighty heap of gather'd ground Which Ammon's son ian proudly round, By nations raised, by monarchs crown'd,

Is now a lone and nameless barrow ! Within — thy dwelling-place how narrow !

Without — can only strangers breathe The name of him that was beneath: Dust long outlasts the storied stone; But Thou — thy very dust is gone !

7

Late, late to-night will Dian cheer The swam, and chase the boatman's fear; Till then — no beacon on the cliff May shape the course of strugglung skiff; The scatter'd lights that skirt the bay, All, one by one, have died away; The only lamp of this lone hour Is glimmering in Zuleika's tower. Yes ! there is light in that lone chamber,

And o'er her silken Ottoman

Are thrown the fragrant beads of amber, O'er which her fairy fingers ran;

Near these, with emerald rays beset (How could she thus that gem forget ?), Her mother's sainted amulet, Whereon engraved the Koorsee text Could smooth this life and win the next; And by her comboloio lies A Koran of illumined dyes; And many a bright emblazon'd rhyme By Persian scribes redeem'd from time; And o'er those scrolls, not oft so mute, Reclines her now neglected lute; And round her lamp of fretted gold Bloom flowers in urns of Chma's mould; The richest work of Iran's loom, 80 And Sheeraz' tribute of perfume; All that can eye or sense delight

Are gather'd in that gorgeous room; But yet it hath an air of gloom.

- She, of this Peri cell the sprite,
- What doth she hence, and on so rude a night?

vI

Wrapt in the darkest sable vest, Which none save noblest Moslem wear,

To guard from winds of heaven the breast

As heaven itself to Selim dear,

With cautious steps the thicket threading, And starting oft, as through the glade

The gust its hollow meanings made, Till, on the smoother pathway treading, More free her timid bosom beat,

The maid pursued her silent guide; And though her terror urged retreat,

How could she quit her Selim's side? How teach her tender lips to chide?

VII

They reach'd at length a grotto, hewn 100 By nature but enlarged by art,

Where oft her lute she wont to tune, And oft her Koran conn'd apart; And oft m youthful revery She dream'd what Paradise might be: Where woman's parted soul shall go Her Prophet had disdain'd to show; But Selm's mansion was secure, Nor deem'd she, could he long endure His bower in other worlds of bliss, Without her, most beloved in this ! Oh ! who so dear with him could dwell ? What Houri soothe him half so well ?

VIII

Since last she visited the spot Some change seem'd wrought within the grot. It might be only that the night Disguised things seen by better light: That brazen lamp but dimly threw A ray of no celestial hue; But in a nook within the cell 120 Her eye on stranger objects fell. There arms were piled, not such as wield The turban'd Delis in the field; But brands of foreign blade and hilt, And one was red — perchance with guilt ! Ah ! how without can blood be spilt? A cup too on the board was set That did not seem to hold sherbet. What may this mean? she turn'd to see Her Selim — 'Oh ! can this be he?' 130

IX

His robe of pride was thrown aside, His brow no high-crown'd turban bore, But m its stead a shawl of red,

Wreathed lightly round, his temples wore.

That dagger, on whose hilt the gem Were worthy of a diadem, No longer glitter'd at his waist, Where pistols unadorn'd were braced; And from his belt a sabre swung, And from his shoulder loosely hung The cloak of white; the thin capote That decks the wandering Candiote; Beneath, his golden plated vest Clung like a currass to his breast; The greaves below his knee that wound With silvery scales were sheathed and bound

But were it not that high command Spake in his eye, and tone, and hand, All that a careless eye could see In him was some young Gahongée. .50

:

'I said I was not what I seem'd, And now thou see'st my words were true;

I have a tale thou hast not dream'd, If sooth — its truth must others rue. My story now 't were vam to hde, I must not see thee Osman's bride: But had not thine own lps declared How much of that young heart I shared, I could not, must not, yet have shown The darker secret of my own. In this I speak not now of love; That, let time, truth, and peril prove: But first — Oh ! never wed another — Zuleika ! I am not thy brother !'

XI

- 'Oh! not my brother!— yet unsay God! am I left alone on earth
- To mourn I dare not curse the day That saw my solitary birth?
- Oh! thou wilt love me now no more! My sinking heart foreboded ill; 170

But know me all I was before, Thy sister - friend - Zuleika still

Thou led'st me here perchance to kill; If thou hast cause for vengeance, see !

My breast is offer'd — take thy fill ! Far better with the dead to be

Than live thus nothing now to thee: Perhaps far worse, for now I know Why (haffir always seem'd thy foe; And I, alas ! am Giaffir's child, 180 For whom thou wert contemn'd, reviled. If not thy sister — wouldst thou save My hfe, Oh ! bid me be thy slave !' XII

• My slave, Zuleika ! — nay, I 'm thine: But, gentle love, this transport calm, Thy lot shall yet be link'd with mine;

I swear it by our Prophet's shrine,

And be that thought thy sorrow's balm. So may the Koran verse display'd Upon its steel direct my blade 190 In danger's hour to guard us both,

As I preserve that awful oath !

The name in which thy heart hath prided Must change; but, my Zuleika, know, That tie is widen'd, not divided,

Although thy Sire 's my deadhest foe. My father was to Giaffir all

That Selum late was deem'd to thee; That brother wrought a brother's fall,

But spared, at least, my infancy: 200 And lull'd me with a vam deceit

That yet a like return may meet.

He rear'd me, not with tender help, But like the nephew of a Cam;

He watch'd me like a lion's whelp, That gnaws and yet may break his chain.

My father's blood in every vein Is boiling; but for thy dear sake

No present vengeance will I take; Though here I must no more remain. But first, beloved Zuleika ! hear 211 How Giaffir wrought this deed of fear.

\mathbf{XIII}

'How first their strife to rancour grew, If love or envy made them foes,

It matters little if I knew;

In fiery spirits, slights, though few And thoughtless, will disturb repose. In war Abdallah's arm was strong, Remember'd yet in Bosniac song, And Paswan's rebel hordes attest 220 How httle love they bore such guest: His death is all I need relate, The stern effect of Graffir's hate; And how my birth, disclosed to me, Whate'er beside it makes, hath made me free.

XIV

*When Paswan, after years of strife, At last for power, but first for life, In Widdin's walls too proudly sate, Our Pachas ralled round the state; Nor last nor least in high command, Each brother led a separate band; They gave their horse-tails to the wind, And mustering in Sophia's plain

Their tents were pitch'd, their post assign'd;

To one, alas ! assign'd in vain !

What need of words? the deadly bowl, By Giaffir's orders drugg'd and given,

With venom subtle as his soul, Dismiss'd Abdallah's hence to heaven.

Reclined and feverish in the bath, 240 He, when the hunter's sport was up,

But httle deem'd a brother's wrath To quench his thirst had such a cup: The bowl a bribed attendant bore; He drank one draught nor needed more! If thou my tale, Zuleika, doubt, Call Haroun — he can tell it out.

xv

⁶ The deed once done, and Paswan's feud In part suppress'd, though ne'er subdued, Abdallah's Pachahck was gain'd. 250 Thou know'st not what in our Dıvan Can wealth procure for worse than man:

Abdallah's honours were obtam'd By him a brother's murder stain'd;

'T is true, the purchase nearly drain'd His ill got treasure, soon replaced. Wouldst question whence? Survey the waste,

And ask the squalid peasant how His gains repay his broiling brow ! — Why me the stern usurper spared, 260 Why thus with me his palace shared, I know not. Shame, regret, remorse, And little fear from infant's force; Besides, adoption as a son By him whom Heaven accorded none, Or some unknown cabal, caprice, Preserved me thus; — but not in peace. He cannot curb his haughty mood, Nor I forgive a father's blood.

XVI

Within thy father's house are foes; 270 Not all who break his bread are true: To these should I my birth disclose,

His days, his very hours were few: They only want a heart to lead,

A hand to point them to the deed

But Haroun only knows, or knew This tale whose close is almost nigh:

He in Abdallah's palace grew, And held that post in his Serai Which holds he here — he saw him die. But what could single slavery do? 281 Avenge his lord ? alas ! too late; Or save his son from such a fate ? He chose the last, and when elate

With foes subdued, or friends betray'd, Proud Giaffir in high triumph sate, He led me helpless to his gate,

And not in vain it seems essay'd

To save the life for which he pray'd. The knowledge of my birth secured 290

From all and each, but most from me, Thus Giaffir's safety was ensured.

Removed he too from Roumehe To this our Asiatic side,

Far from our seats by Danube's tide, With none but Haroun, who retains Such knowledge — and that Nubian feels

A tyrant's secrets are but chains, From which the captive gladly steals, And this and more to me reveals: 300 Such still to guilt just Alla sends — Slaves, tools, accomplices — no friends!

XVII

All this, Zuleika, harshly sounds; But harsher still my tale must be:

Howe'er my tongue thy softness wounds, Yet I must prove all truth to thee.

I saw thee start this garb to see,

Yet is it one I oft have worn,

And long must wear: this Galiongée, To whom thy plighted vow is sworn, 310

- Is leader of those pirate hordes Whose laws and lives are on their
- swords;

To hear whose desolating tale

Would make thy waning cheek more pale.

Those arms thou see'st my band have brought,

The hands that wield are not remote;

- This cup too for the rugged knaves Is fill'd — once quaff'd, they ne'er re-
- is filld once quan d, they he er repune:
- Our Prophet might forgive the slaves; They 're only infidels in wine. 320

XVIII

"What could I be? Proscribed at home, And taunted to a wish to roam; And lastless left — for Giaffir's fear Denied the courser and the spear — Though oft — Oh, Mahomet! how oft! — In full Divan the despot scoff'd, As if my weak unwilling hand Refused the bridle or the brand. He ever went to war alone, And pent me here untried, unknown; 338 To Haroun's care with women left, By hope unblest, of fame bereft,

While thou — whose softness long endear'd,

Though it unmann'd me, still had cheer'd— To Brusa's walls for safety sent, Awaitedst there the field's event.

Haroun, who saw my spirit pining

Beneath inaction's sluggish yoke, His captive, though with dread resigning,

My thraldom for a season broke, 340 On promise to return before The day when Giaffir's charge was o'er 'T is vain — my tongue can not impart My almost drunkenness of heart, When first this liberated eye Survey'd Earth, Ocean, Sun, and Sky, As if my spirit pierced them through, And all their inmost wonders knew ! One word alone can paint to thee That more than feeling — I was Free ! E'en for thy presence ceased to pine; 351 The World — nay, Heaven itself was mine !

XIX

'The shallop of a trusty Moor Convey'd me from this idle shore; I long'd to see the isles that gem Old Ocean's purple diadem:

I sought by turns, and saw them all. But when and where I join'd the crew, With whom I 'm pledged to rise or fall

When all that we design to do $_{366}$ Is done, 't will then be time more meet To tell thee, when the tale 's complete.

хx

'T is true, they are a lawless brood, But rough in form, nor mild in mood; And every creed and every race With them hath found, may find a place: But open speech, and ready hand, Obedience to their chief's command; A soul for every enterprise, That never sees with Terror's eyes; 37€ Friendship for each, and faith to all And vengeance vow'd for those who fall, Have made them fitting instruments For more than ev'n my own intents. And some d I have studied all Distinguish'd fro the vulgar rank,

- -

But chiefly to my council call	Yet well my toils shall that fond breast re-
The wisdom of the cautious Frank —	pay,
And some to higher thoughts aspire.	Though fortune frown, or falser friends
The last of Lambro's patriots there 380	betray.
Anticipated freedom share;	How dear the dream in darkest hours of ill,
And oft around the cavern fire	Should all be changed, to find thee faithful
On visionary schemes debate,	still !
To snatch the Rayahs from their fate.	Be but thy soul, like Selm's, firmly shown;
So let them ease their hearts with prate	To thee be Selim's tender as thine own;
Of equal rights, which man ne'er knew;	To soothe each sorrow, share in each de-
I have a love for freedom too.	light,
Ay ! let me like the ocean-Patriarch roam,	Blend every thought, do all — but dis-
Or only know on land the Tartar's home !	unite!
My tent on shore, my galley on the sea, 390	Once free, 't is mine our horde again to
Are more than cities and Serais to me:	guide;
Borne by my steed, or wafted by my sail,	Friends to each other, foes to aught beside:
Across the desert, or before the gale,	Yet there we follow but the bent assign'd
Bound where thou wilt, my barb ! or glide,	By fatal Nature to man's warring kind:
my prow !	Mark ! where his carnage and his con-
But be the star that guides the wanderer,	quests cease ! 430
Thou !	He makes a solitude, and calls it — peace !
Thou, my Zuleika, share and bless my	I, like the rest, must use my skill or bark;	strength,
The Dove of peace and promise to mine	But ask no land beyond my sabre's length:
ark '	Power sways but by division, her resource
Or, since that hope denied in worlds of	The blest alternative of fraud or force !
strife,	Ours be the last; in time deceit may come
Be thou the rambow to the storms of life!	When cities cage us in a social home:
The evening beam that smiles the clouds	There ev'n thy soul might err — how oft away,	the heart
And tints to-morrow with prophetic ray	Corruption shakes which peril could not
Blest — as the Muezzin's strain from	part !
Mecca's wall	And woman, more than man, when death
To pilgrims pure and prostrate at his	or woe 449
call;	Or even Disgrace would lay her lover low,
Soft — as the melody of youthful days,	Sunk in the lap of Luxury will shame —
That steals the trembling tear of speech-	Away suspicion ! — not Zuleika's name !
less praise;	But life is hazard at the best; and here
Dear — as his native song to Exile's ears,	No more remains to win, and much to fear:
Shall sound each tone thy long-loved voice	Yes, fear ! — the doubt, the dread of losing endears.	thee,
For thee m those bright isles 1s built a	By Osman's power, and Giaffir's stern de-bower	cree.
Blooming as Aden in its earliest hour.	That dread shall vanish with the favouring
A thousand swords, with Selim's heart and	gale, hand, 410	Which love to-night hath promised to my
Wait — wave — defend — destroy — at thy	sail.
command !	No danger daunts the pair his smile hath
Girt by my band, Zuleika at my side,	blest, 450
The spoil of nations shall bedeck my bride.	Their steps still roving, but their hearts at
The Haram's languid years of listless ease	rest
Are well resign'd for cares — for joys like	With thee all toils are sweet, each clime
these.	hath charms;
Not blind to fate, I see, where'er I rove,	Earth — sea alike — our world within our
Unnumber'd perils, — but one only love !	arms!

- Ay let the loud winds whistle o'er the deck,
- So that those arms cling closer round my neck.
- The deepest murmur of this lip shall be
- No sigh for safety, but a prayer for thee ! The war of elements no fears impart
- To Love, whose deadliest bane is human Art:
- There lie the only rocks our course can check; 460
- Here moments menace there are years of wreck !
- But hence ye thoughts that rise in Horror's shape !
- This hour bestows, or ever bars escape.
- Few words remain of mine my tale to close;
- Of thine but one to waft us from our foes;
- Yea, foes to me will Giaffir's hate decline?
- And is not Osman, who would part us, thine?

XXI

'His head and faith from doubt and death Return'd in time my guard to save; Few heard, none told, that o'er the wave

From isle to isle I roved the while: 477 And since, though parted from my band, Too seldom now I leave the land, No deed they 've done, nor deed shall do, Ere I have heard and doom'd it too: I form the plan, decree the spoil, 'T is fit I oftener share the toil. But now too long I 've held thine ear; Time presses, floats my bark, and here We leave behind but hate and fear. 480 To-morrow Osman with his train Arrives — to-night must break thy chain: And would'st thou save that haughty Bey, Perchance, his life who gave thee thine, With me this hour away — away !

But yet, though thou art plighted mine, Would'st thou recall thy willing vow, Appall'd by truths imparted now, Here rest I — not to see thee wed: But be that peril on my head !' 490

$\mathbf{X}\mathbf{X}\mathbf{II}$

Zuleika, mute and motionless, Stood like that statue of distress, When, her last hope for ever gone, The mother harden'd into stone; All in the maid that eye could see Was but a younger Niobé But ere her lip, or even her eye, Essay'd to speak, or look reply, Beneath the garden's wicket porch Far flash'd on high a blazing torch! 500

Another — and another — and another — 'Oh ! fly — no more — yet now my more than brother !' Far, wide, through every thicket spread, The fearful lights are gleaming red; Nor these alone, for each right hand Is ready with a sheathless brand. They part, pursue, return, and wheel With searching flambeau, shuning steel; And last of all, his sabre waving, Stern Giaffir in his fury raving: 510 And now almost they touch the cave — Oh ! must that grot be Selim's grave?

XXIII

- Dauntless he stood ! ' 'T is come soon past —
- One kiss, Zuleika 't is my last. But yet my band not far from shore
- May hear this signal, see the flash;
- Yet now too few the attempt were rash:

No matter — yet one effort more.' Forth to the cavern mouth he stept;

His pistol's echo rang on high, 520 Zuleika started not, nor wept,

Despair benumb'd her breast and eye!--

- 'They hear me not, or if they ply
- Their oars, 't is but to see me die;
- That sound hath drawn my foes more nigh.
- Then forth my father's scimitar,
- Thou ne'er hast seen less equal war ! Farewell, Zuleika ! - Sweet ! retire:
- Yet stay within here linger safe,

At thee his rage will only chafe. 530 Stir not, lest even to thee perchance Some erring blade or ball should glance. Fear'st thou for him ? — may I expire If in this strife I seek thy sire ! No — though by him that poison pour'd: No — though again he call me coward ! But tamely shall I meet their steel ? No — as each crest save his may feel !'

XXIV

One bound he made, and gain'd the sand: Already at his feet hath sunk 540 The foremost of the prying band, A gasping head, a quivering trunk. Another falls — but round him close A swarming circle of his foes; From right to left his path he cleft,

And almost met the meeting wave:

His boat appears — not five oars' length -

His comrades strain with desperate strength —

Oh! are they yet in time to save? His feet the foremost breakers lave; 550 His band are plunging in the bay, Their sabres glitter through the spray; Wet — wild — unwearied to the strand They struggle—now they touch the land! They come — 't is but to add to slaughter —

His heart's best blood is on the water.

xxv

Escaped from shot, unharm'd by steel, Or scarcely grazed its force to feel, Had Selim won, betray'd, beset, To where the strand and billows met; 560 There as his last step left the land, And the last death-blow dealt his hand — Ah ' wherefore did he turn to look

For her his eye but sought in vam? That pause, that fatal gaze he took,

Hath doom'd his death, or fix'd his chain.

Sad proof, in peril and in pain,

How late will Lover's hope remain

His back was to the dashing spray;

Behind, but close, his comrades lay, 570 When, at the instant, hiss'd the ball —

'So may the foes of Giaffir fall !'

Whose voice is heard? whose carbine rang?

Whose bullet through the night-air sang,

Too nearly, deadly aim'd to err?

'T is thine — Abdallah's Murderer !

The father slowly rued thy hate,

The son hath found a quicker fate:

- Fast from his breast the blood is bubbling,
- The whiteness of the sea-foam troubling, — 580

If aught his lips essay'd to groan, The rushing billows choked the tone !

the rushing billows choked the to

xxvi

Morn slowly rolls the clouds away; Few trophies of the fight are there:

The shouts that shook the midnight-bay

Are silent; but some signs of fray

That strand of strife may bear,

And fragments of each shiver'd brand; Steps stamp'd; and dash'd into the sand The print of many a struggling hand 594

May there be mark'd; nor far remote A broken torch, an oarless boat; And tangled on the weeds that heap

The beach where shelving to the deep There lies a white capote !

'T is rent in twain — one dark-red stain The wave yet ripples o'er in vain:

But where is he who wore ? Ye, who would o'er his relics weep, Go, seek them where the surges sweep Their burthen round Sigæum's steep 60.

And cast on Lemnos' shore. The sea-birds shriek above the prey, O'er which their hungry beaks delay, As shaken on his restless pillow, His head heaves with the heaving billow; That hand, whose motion is not life, Yet feebly seems to menace strife, Flung by the tossing tide on high,

Then levell'd with the wave — 610 What recks it, though that corse shall lie

Within a living grave ? The bird that tears that prostrate form

Hath only robb'd the meaner worm;

The only heart, the only eye

Had blad an mont to goo how d

Had bled or wept to see him die, Had seen those scatter'd limbs composed,

- And mourn'd above his turban stone, That heart hath burst — that eye was
- closed —

Yea — closed before his own ! 620

XXVII

By Helle's stream there is a voice of wail ! And woman's eye is wet, man's cheek is pale:

Zuleika ! last of Giaffir's race,

Thy destined lord is come too late:

- He sees not ne'er shall see thy face ! Can he not hear
- The loud Wul-wulleh warn his distant ear?

Thy handmaids weeping at the gate,

- The Koran-chanters of the hymn of fate,
- The silent slaves with folded arms that wait, 630
- Sighs in the hall, and shrieks upon the gale, Tell him thy tale !

Thou didst not view thy Selim fall !

That fearful moment when he left the cave

Thy heart grew chill:

He was thy hope — thy joy — thy love thine all — And that last thought on him thou couldst not save Sufficed to kill; Burst forth in one wild cry - and all was still. Peace to thy broken heart and virgin grave! Ah, happy ! but of life to lose the worst ! That grief - though deep - though fatal was thy first! Thruce happy ! ne'er to feel nor fear the force Of absence, shame, pride, hate, revenge, remorse! And, oh ! that pang where more than Madness hes ! The worm that will not sleep — and never dies Thought of the gloomy day and ghastly night, That dreads the darkness and yet loathes the light, That winds around and tears the quivering heart ! Ah, wherefore not consume it — and depart! ---Woe to thee, rash and unrelenting chief! Vainly thou heap'st the dust upon thy head, Vainly the sackcloth o'er thy limbs dost spread: By that same hand Abdallah - Selim bled. Now let it tear thy beard in idle grief: Thy pride of heart, thy bride for Osman's bed, She, whom thy sultan had but seen to wed, Thy Daughter 's dead ! Hope of thine age, thy twilight's lonely beam, The Star hath set that shone on Helle's stream. What quench'd its ray? - the blood that thou hast shed ! Hark ! to the hurried question of Despair : 'Where is my child ?' an Echo answers ----'Where?' XXVIII

Within the place of thousand tombs That shine beneath, while dark above The sad but living cypress glooms,

And withers not though branch and leaf

Are stamp'd with an eternal grief Like early unrequited Love, One spot exists, which ever blooms, 670 Ev'n in that deadly grove — A single rose is shedding there Its lonely lustre, meek and pale: It looks as planted by Despair -So white --- so faint --- the slightest gale Might whirl the leaves on high; And yet, though storms and blight assail And hands more rude than wintry sky May wring it from the stem — in vain – To-morrow sees it bloom again ! 68a The stalk some spirit gently rears, And waters with celestial tears; For well may maids of Helle deem That this can be no earthly flower, Which mocks the tempest's withering hour, And buds unshelter'd by a bower; Nor droops, though spring refuse her shower, Nor woos the summer beam. To it the livelong night there sings A bird unseen — but not remote: 600 Invisible his airy wings But soft as harp that Houri strings His long entrancing note ! It were the Bulbul; but his throat, Though mournful, pours not such a strain; For they who listen cannot leave The spot, but linger there and grieve, As if they loved in vain ! And yet so sweet the tears they shed, 'T is sorrow so unmix'd with dread, 700 They scarce can bear the morn to break That melancholy spell, And longer yet would weep and wake, He sings so wild and well ! But when the day-blush bursts from high, Expires that magic melody. And some have been who could believe (So fondly youthful dreams deceive, Yet harsh be they that blame) That note so piercing and profound 7 IC Will shape and syllable its sound Into Zuleika's name. 'T is from her cypress summit heard, That melts in air the liquid word: 'T is from her lowly virgin earth That white rose tak its tender birth.

There late was laid a marble stone; Eve saw it placed — the Morrow gone ! It was no mortal arm that bore That deep-fix'd pillar to the shore; 720 For there, as Helle's legends tell, Next morn 't was found where Selim fell; Lash'd by the tumbling tide, whose wave Denied his bones a holier grave And there by night, reclined, 't is said, Is seen a ghastly turban'd head: And hence extended by the billow,

'T is named the 'Pirate-phantom's pillow!'

Where first it lay that mourning flower Hath flourish'd; flourisheth this hour, 730 Alone and dewy, coldly pure and pale; As weeping Beauty's cheek at Sorrow's tale I

THE CORSAIR

A TALE

—I suoi pensieri in lui dormir non ponno TASSO, Gerusalemme Liberata, canto x [stanza 78]

TO THOMAS MOORE, ESQ

MY DEAR MOORE,

I dedicate to you the last production with which I shall trespass on public patience, and your indulgence, for some years, and I own that I feel anxious to avail myself of this latest and only opportunity of adorning my pages with a name, consecrated by unshaken public principle, and the most undoubted and various While Ireland ranks you among the talents. firmest of her patriots, while you stand alone the first of her bards in her estimation, and Britain repeats and ratifies the decree, permit one, whose only regret, since our first acquaintance, has been the years he had lost before it commenced, to add the humble but sincere suffrage of friendship, to the voice of more than one nation It will at least prove to you, that I have neither forgotten the gratification derived from your society, nor abandoned the prospect of its renewal, whenever your leisure or inclination allows you to atome to your friends for too long an absence. It is said among those friends, I trust truly, that you are engaged in the composition of a poem whose scene will be laid in the East, none can do those scenes so much justice The wrongs of your own country, the magnificent and fiery spirit of her sons, the beauty and feeling of her daughters, may there be found. and Collins, when he denominated his Oriental his Irish Eclogues, was not aware how true, at least, was a part of his parallel. Your imagination will create a warmer sun, and less clouded sky, but wildness, tenderness, and originality, are part of your national claim of Oriental descent, to which you have already thus far proved your title more clearly than the most zealous of your country's antiquarians.

May I add a few words on a subject on which all men are supposed to be fluent, and none agreeable, — Self? I have written much, and published more than enough to demand a longer silence than I now meditate; but, for some years to come, it is my intention to tempt no further the award of 'Gods, men, nor columns.' In the present composition I have attempted not the most difficult, but, perhaps, the best adapted measure to our language, the good old and now neglected heroic couplet. The stanza of Spenser is perhaps too slow and dignified for narrative, though, I confess, it is the measure most after my own heart Scott alone, of the present generation, has hitherto completely triumphed over the fatal facility of the octo-syllabic verse; and this is not the least victory of his fertile and mighty genius . in blank verse, Milton, Thomson, and our dramatists, are the beacons that shine along the deep, but warn us from the rough and barren rock on which they are kindled. The heroic couplet is not the most popular measure cer-tainly, but as I did not deviate into the other from a wish to flatter what is called public opimon, I shall quit it without further apology, and take my chance once more with that versification, in which I have hitherto published nothing but compositions whose former circulation is part of my present, and will be of my future regret

With regard to my story, and stories in general, I should have been glad to have rendered my personages more perfect and amiable, if possible, inasmuch as I have been sometimes criticised, and considered no less responsible for their deeds and qualities than if all had been personal Be it so - if I have deviated into the gloomy vanity of 'drawing from self,' the pictures are probably like, since they are unfavourable; and if not, those who know me are undeceived, and those who do not, I have little interest in undeceiving. I have no particular desire that any but my acquaintance should think the author better than the beings of his imagining, but I cannot help a little surprise, and perhaps amusement, at some odd critical exceptions in the present instance, when I see several bards (far more deserving, I allow) in very reputable plight, and quite exempted from all participation in the faults of those heroes, who, nevertheless, might be found with httle more morality than the Gaour, and perhaps — but no — I must admit Childe Harold to be a very repulsive personage, and as to his identity, those who hke it must give him whatever 'alias' they please.

If, however, it were worth while to remove the impression, it might be of some service to me, that the man who is alike the delight of his leaders and his triends, the poet of all circles, and the idol of his own, permits me here and elsewhere to subscribe myself,

Most truly,

And affectionately, His obedient servant, Byron.

January 2, 1814.

CANTO THE FIRST

----- nessun maggior dolore, Che ricordai si del tempo felice Nella miseria, ---

DANTE. [Inferno, v. 121]

I

'O'ER the glad waters of the dark blue sea, Our thoughts as boundless and our souls as free, Far as the breeze can bear, the billows foam,

Survey our empire and behold our home !

These are our realms, no limits to their sway -

Our flag the sceptre all who meet obey.

Ours the wild life in turnult still to range

From toil to rest, and joy in every change

Oh, who can tell ' not thou, luxurious slave, Whose soul would sicken o'er the heaving wave;

Not thou, vain lord of wantonness and ease, Whom slumber soothes not, pleasure cannot please.

Oh, who can tell, save he whose heart hath tried,

And danced in triumph o'er the waters wide,

The exulting sense, the pulse's maddening ______play,

That thrills the wanderer of that trackless way ?

- That for itself can woo the approaching fight,
- And turn what some deem danger to delight;
- That seeks what cravens shun with more than zeal,

And where the feebler faint, can only feel — 20 Feel — to the rising bosom's inmost core,

Its hope awaken and its spirit soar ?

No dread of death — if with us die our foes —

Save that it seems even duller than repose: Come when it will — we snatch the life of life —

When lost — what recks it by disease or strife?

Let him who crawls enamour'd of decay,

Cling to his couch and sicken years away;

- Heave his thick breath and shake his palsied head;
- Ours the fresh turf and not the feverish bed. 30
- While gasp by gasp he falters forth his soul,
- Ours with one pang one bound escapes control.

His corse may boast its urn and narrow cave,

- And they who loathed his life may gild his grave:
- Ours are the tears, though few, sincerely shed,
- When Ocean shrouds and sepulchres our dead

For us, even banquets fond regret supply

In the red cup that crowns our memory;

And the brief epitaph in danger's day,

- When those who win at length divide the prey, 40
- And cry, Remembrance saddening o'er each brow,
- How had the brave who fell exulted now ! '

11

Such were the notes that from the Pirate's isle

- Around the kindling watch-fire rang the while:
- Such were the sounds that thrill'd the rocks along,
- And unto ears as rugged seem'd a song !

In scatter'd groups upon the golden sand,

They game — carouse — converse — or whet the brand;

Select the arms — to each his blade assign, And careless eye the blood that dims its shine; 50

Repair the boat, replace the helm or oar, While others straggling muse along the shore; For the wild-bird the busy springes set,

Or spread beneath the sun the dripping net;

- Gaze where some distant sail a speck supplies,
- With all the thirsting eye of Enterprise;
- Tell o'er the tales of many a night of toil,
- And marvel where they next shall seize a spoil:
- No matter where their chief's allotment this;
- Theirs, to believe no prey nor plan amiss. 60
- But who that CHIEF? his name on every shore
- Is famed and fear'd they ask and know no more.
- With these he mingles not but to com-_____mand;
- Few are his words, but keen his eye and hand.
- Ne'er seasons he with mirth their jovial mess,
- But they forgive his silence for success.
- Ne'er for his lip the purpling cup they fill,

That goblet passes him untasted still;

- And for his fare the rudest of his crew Would that, in turn, have pass'd untasted too; 70
- Earth's coarsest bread, the garden's homeliest roots,
- And scarce the summer luxury of fruits,
- His short repast in humbleness supply
- With all a hermit's board would scarce deny
- But while he shuns the grosser joys of sense,
- His mind seems nourish'd by that abstinence
- 'Steer to that shore!'—they sail 'Do this!'—'t is done:
- 'Now form and follow me !' the spoil is won
- Thus prompt his accents and his actions still,
- And all obey and few inquire his will;
- To such, brief answer and contemptuous eye
- Convey reproof, nor further deign reply.

II

- 'A sail ! a sail ! ' a promised prize to Hope !
- Her nation flag how speaks the telescope?
- No prize, alas ! but yet a welcome sail: The blood-red signal glitters in the gale.

- Yes she is ours a home-returning bark —
- Blow fair, thou breeze ! she anchors ere the dark.

Already doubled is the cape -- our bay

- Receives that prow which proudly spurns the spray. 90
- How gloriously her gallant course she goes ! Her white wings flying — never from her
- foes —

She walks the waters like a thing of life,

- And seems to dare the elements to strife.
- Who would not brave the battle-fire, the wreck,
- To move the monarch of her peopled deck ?

IV

- Hoarse o'er her side the rustling cable rings;
- The sails are furl'd; and anchoring round she swings:
- And gathering lotterers on the land discern Her boat descending from the latticed
- T is mann'd; the oars keep concert to the strand, Till grates her keel upon the shallow sand.

- Hail to the welcome shout !- the friendly speech !
- When hand grasps hand uniting on the beach:
- The smile, the question, and the quick reply,
- And the heart's promise of festivity !

•

The tidings spread, and gathering grows the crowd

The hum of voices, and the laughter loud,

- And woman's gentler anxious tone is heard —
- Friends', husbands', lovers' names in each dear word:
- 'Oh! are they safe ? we ask not of success ---
- But shall we see them ? will their accents bless ?
- From where the battle roars, the billows chafe,
- They doubtless boldly did but who are safe?
- Here let them haste to gladden and surprise,
- And kiss the doubt from these delighted eyes !'

VI	Wondering they turn, abash'd, while each
Where is our chief ? for him we bear re-	to each,
port —	Conjecture whispers in his muttering
And doubt that joy, which hails our com- ing, short;	speech. They watch his glance with many a stealing
Yet thus sincere — 't is cheering, though so	look,
brief;	To gather how that eye the tidings
But, Juan ' instant guide us to our	took;
chief: I20	But, this as if he guess'd, with head aside,
Our greeting paid, we'll feast on our re- turn,	Perchance from some emotion, doubt, or pride,
And all shall hear what each may wish to learn'	He read the scroll — 'My tablets, Juan, hark —
Ascending slowly by the rock-hewn way,	Where is Gonsalvo ?'
To where his watch-tower beetles o'er the	'In the anchor'd bark.'
bay,	'There let him stay — to him this order
By bushy brake, and wild flowers blossom-	bear —
mg, And functions broathing from each silver	Back to your duty — for my course prepare:
And freshness breathing from each silver spring,	Myself this enterprise to-night will share.' 'To-night, Lord Conrad ?'
Whose scatter'd streams from granite basins	'Ay! at set of sun:
burst,	The breeze will freshen when the day is
Leap into life, and sparkling woo your	done.
thirst —	My corslet — cloak — one hour — and we
From crag to cliff they mount. — Near yonder cave,	Sling on thy bugle — see that free from
What lonely straggler looks along the	rust
wave?	My carbine-lock springs worthy of my trust;
In pensive posture leaning on the brand,	Be the edge sharpen'd of my boarding-
Not oft a resting-staff to that red hand? "T is he — 't is Conrad; here — as wont —	brand, And give its guard more room to fit my alone;	hand.
On - Juan ! - on - and make our purpose	This let the Armourer with speed dispose;
known.	Last time, it more fatigued my arm than
The bark he views, and tell him we would	foes: Mort that the signal own he date ford
greet His ear with tidings he must quickly meet:	Mark that the signal-gun be duly fired, To tell us when the hour of stay 's expired.'
We dare not yet approach — thou know'st	10 toti us when the hour of stay is expired.
his mood,	VIII
When strange or uninvited steps intrude.'	They make obeisance and retire in haste,
VII	Too soon to seek again the watery waste: 17c
	Yet they repine not — so that Conrad
Him Juan sought, and told of their in- tent;	guides; And who dare question aught that he de-
He spake not, but a sign express'd as-	cides ? That man of loneliness and mystery, —
These Juan calls — they come — to their	Scarce seen to smile and seldom heard to salute	sigh;
He bends him slightly, but his lips are mute	Whose name appals the fiercest of his crew,
These letters, Chief, are from the Greek	And tints each swarthy cheek with sallower
— the spy, Who still proclaims our spoil or peril nigh·	Still sways their souls with that command-
Whate'er his tidings, we can well report,	ing art
Much that'-'Peace, peace!' he cuts	That dazzles, leads, yet chills the vulgar their prating short.	heart.

- What is that spell, that thus his lawless train
- Confess and envy, yet oppose in vain? 180
- What should it be that thus their faith can bind?
- The power of Thought the magne of the Mind !
- Link'd with success, assumed and kept with skill,
- That moulds another's weakness to its will; Wields with their hands, but, still to these
- unknown, Makes even their mightiest deeds appear
- his own
- Such hath it been shall be beneath the sun
- The many still must labour for the one !
- 'T is Nature's doom but let the wretch who toils
- Accuse not, hate not him who wears the spoils
- Oh! if he knew the weight of splendid chains,
- How light the balance of his humbler pains !

IX

- Unlike the heroes of each ancient race,
- Demons in act but Gods at least in face,
- In Conrad's form seems little to admire,
- Though his dark eyebrow shades a glance of fire.
- Robust but not Herculean to the sight
- No giant frame sets forth his common height;
- Yet, in the whole, who paused to look again,
- Saw more than marks the crowd of vulgar men; 200
- They gaze and marvel how and still confess
- That thus it is, but why they cannot guess. Sunburnt his cheek, his forehead high and pale
- The sable curls in wild profusion veil;
- And oft perforce his rising lip reveals
- The haughtier thought it curbs, but scarce conceals.
- Though smooth his voice and calm his general mien,
- Still seems there something he would not have seen.
- His features' deepening lines and varying hue

At times attracted, yet perplex'd the view, As if within that murkiness of mind 211 Work'd feelings fearful and yet undefined;

- Such might it be that none could truly tell —
- Too close inquiry his stern glance would quell
- There breathe but few whose aspect might defy
- The full encounter of his searching eye:
- He had the skill, when Cunning's gaze would seek
- To probe his heart and watch his changing cheek,
- At once the observer's purpose to espy,
- And on himself roll back his scrutiny, 220 Lest he to Conrad rather should betray
- Some secret thought, than drag that chief's to day

There was a laughing devil in his sneer,

- That raised emotions both of rage and fear; And where his frown of hatred darkly fell,
- Hope withering fled and Mercy sigh'd farewell !

х

Slight are the outward signs of evil thought, Within — within — 't was there the spirit

- wrought ! Love shows all changes — Hate, Ambition, Guile,
- Betray no further than the bitter smile; 230 The hp's least curl, the hghtest paleness thrown

Along the govern'd aspect, speak alone

- Of deeper passions; and to judge their mien,
- He, who would see, must be himself unseen. Then — with the hurried tread, the upward eye,
- The clenched hand, the pause of agony,
- That listens, starting, lest the step too near Approach intrusive on that mood of fear
- Then with each feature working from the heart,
- With feelings loosed to strengthen not depart, 240
- That rise convulse contend that freeze or glow,
- Flush in the cheek, or damp upon the brow;
- Then Stranger ! if thou canst and tremblest not,
- Behold his soul, the rest that soothes his lot! Mark how that lone and blighted bosom sears

The scathing thought of execrated years !

- Behold but who hath seen, or e'er shall see,
- Man as himself, the secret spirit free?

Yet was not Conrad thus by Nature sent

- To lead the guilty guilt's worst instrument.
- His soul was changed, before his deeds had driven
- Hum forth to war with man and forfeit heaven.
- Warp'd by the world in Disappointment's school,
- In words too wise, in conduct there a fool;
- Too firm to yield, and far too proud to stoop,
- Doom'd by his very virtues for a dupe,
- He cursed those virtues as the cause of ill,
- And not the traitors who betray'd him still; Nor deem'd that gifts bestow'd on better
- men Had left him joy, and means to give again
- Fear'd, shunn'd, belied, ere youth had lost her force,
- He hated man too much to feel remorse, And thought the voice of wrath a sacred call To pay the injuries of some on all

He knew himself a villain, but he deem'd The rest no better than the thing he seem'd, And scorn'd the best as hypocrites who hid Those deeds the bolder spirit plainly did.

He knew himself detested, but he knew

- The hearts that loathed him, crouch'd and dreaded too
- Lone, wild, and strange, he stood alike exempt
- From all affection and from all contempt:
- His name could sadden and his acts surprise,
- But they that fear'd him dared not to despise.
- Man spurns the worm, but pauses ere he wake

The slumbering venom of the folded snake The first may turn, but not avenge the blow; The last expires, but leaves no living foe;

Fast to the doom'd offender's form it clings,

And he may crush — not conquer — still it stings ! 280

XII

- None are all evil: quickening round his heart,
- One softer feeling would not yet depart Oft could he sneer at others as beguled
- By passions worthy of a fool or child;

Yet 'gainst that passion vainly still he strove, And even in him it asks the name of Love !

- Yes, it was love unchangeable unchanged,
- Felt but for one from whom he never ranged; Though fairest captives daily met his eye,
- He shunn'd, nor sought, but coldly pass'd them by;
- Though many a beauty droop'd in prison'd bower,
- None ever soothed his most unguarded hour.
- Yes it was Love; if thoughts of tenderness,
- Tried in temptation, strengthen'd by distress,
- Unmoved by absence, firm in every clime,
- And yet Oh more than all ! untired by time;
- Which nor defeated hope, nor baffled wile,
- Could render sullen were she near to smile, Nor rage could fire, nor sickness fret to
- vent On her one murmur of his discontent; 300
- Which still would meet with joy, with calmness part,
- Lest that his look of grief should reach her heart;
- Which nought removed, nor menaced to remove; -

If there be love in mortals — this was love ! He was a villain — ay — reproaches shower On him — but not the passion, nor its power, Which only proved, all other virtues gone, Not guilt itself could quench this loveliest one!

XIII

He paused a moment, till his hastening men Pass'd the first winding downward to the glen.

- 'Strange tidings ! many a peril have I pass'd,
- Nor know I why this next appears the last ! Yet so my heart forebodes, but must not fear,

Nor shall my followers find me falter here. 'T is rash to meet, but surer death to wait

- Till here they hunt us to undoubted fate:
- And, if my plan but hold and Fortune smile,
- We'll furnish mourners for our funeral pile.
- Ay, let them slumber, peaceful be their dreams!
- Morn ne'er awoke them with such brilliant beams
- As kindle high to-night (but blow, thou breeze !)
- To warm these slow avengers of the seas.

- Now to Medora Oh ! my sinking heart, Long may her own be lighter than thou art! ' My fondest, faintest, latest accents hear ---Yet was I brave - mean boast where all Grief for the dead not Virtue can reprove; Then give me all I ever ask'd - a tear, 361 are brave ! The first - last - sole reward of so much Ev'n insects sting for aught they seek to love.' save. This common courage which with brutes we He pass'd the portal, cross'd the corridore, share. And reach'd the chamber as the strain gave That owes its deadliest efforts to despair. o'er: 'My own Medora ! sure thy song is sad -' Small merit claims; but 't was my nobler hope To teach my few with numbers still to 'In Conrad's absence wouldst thou have it glad? cope. Long have I led them - not to vainly Without thine ear to listen to my lay, Still must my song my thoughts, my soul bleed; No medium now — we perish or succeed ! betray: So let it be - it inks not me to die; Still must each accent to my bosom suit, My heart unhush'd — although my lips But thus to urge them whence they cannot fly. were mute ! Oh! many a night on this lone couch re-My lot hath long had little of my care, But chafes my pride thus baffled in the clined, My dreaming fear with storms hath wing'd snare: Is this my skill? my craft? to set at last the wind, Hope, power, and life upon a single cast? And deem'd the breath that faintly fann'd Oh, Fate ! - accuse thy folly, not thy fate thy sail The murmuring prelude of the ruder gale; She may redeem thee still - nor yet too late.' Though soft, it seem'd the low prophetic 340 dirge, XIV That mourn'd thee floating on the savage Thus with himself communion held he, till surge. Still would I rise to rouse the beacon fire, He reach'd the summit of his tower-crown'd hill: Lest spies less true should let the blaze There at the portal paused - for wild and expire; And many a restless hour outwatch'd each soft star. He heard those accents never heard too oft. And morning came - and still thou wert Through the high lattice far yet sweet they afar. rung. And these the notes the bird of beauty Oh! how the chill blast on my bosom sung: blew. And day broke dreary on my troubled view, 'Deep in my soul that tender secret dwells, Lonely and lost to light for evermore, Save when to thine my heart responsive swells, And still I gazed and gazed — and not a prow Then trembles into silence as before. 350 Was granted to my tears — my truth — my vow ! At length - 't was noon - I hail'd and 'There, in its centre, a sepulchral lamp blest the mast Burns the slow flame, eternal — but unseen;
 - Which not the darkness of despair can damp, Though vain its ray as it had never been.
 - 3
 - 'Remember me Oh ' pass not thou my grave Without one thought whose relics there recline
 - The only pang my bosom dare not brave Must be to find forgetfulness in thine.

- That met my sight it near'd Alas ! it pass'd!
- Another came Oh God ! 't was thine at last !
- Would that those days were over ! wilt thou ne'er,
- My Conrad! learn the joys of peace to share?

The grapes' gay juice thy bosom never Sure thou hast more than wealth, and many cheers; a home As bright as this invites us not to roam Thou more than Moslem when the cup ap Thou know'st it is not peril that I fear, pears ! I only tremble when thou art not here; Think not I mean to chide, for I rejoice Then not for mine, but that far dearer life, What others deem a penance is thy choice. But come, the board is spread; our silver Which flies from love and languishes for lamp strife -How strange that heart, to me so tender Is trimm'd and heeds not the sirocco's still, damp. Should war with nature and its better will !' Then shall my handmaids while the time along. 'Yea, strange indeed - that heart hath long And join with me the dance, or wake the been changed; song; Worm-like 't was trampled, adder-like Or my guitar, which still thou lov'st to hear, Shall soothe or lull - or, should it vex avenged, thine ear, Without one hope on earth beyond thy love, And scarce a glumpse of mercy from above. We'll turn the tale, by Ariosto told, Yet the same feeling which thou dost con-Of fair Olympia loved and left of old. 440 Why - thou wert worse than he who broke demn, My very love to thee is hate to them, his vow So closely mingling here, that disentwined To that lost damsel, shouldst thou leave me I cease to love thee when I love mankind ! now; Or even that traitor chief - I 've seen thee Yet dread not thus; the proof of all the past Assures the future that my love will last: smile, When the clear sky show'd Ariadne's Isle, But --- Oh, Medora ! nerve thy gentler heart, Which I have pointed from these cliffs the This hour again — but not for long — we while nart.' And thus, half sportive, half in fear, I said, 'This hour we part ! - my heart foreboded Lest Time should raise that doubt to more than dread, this: Thus Conrad, too, will guit me for the main: Thus ever fade my fairy dreams of bliss. This hour - it cannot be - this hour away ! And he deceived me - for - he came Yon bark hath hardly anchor'd in the bay; again!' Her consort still is absent, and her crew Have need of rest before they toil anew. 'Again - again - and oft again - my love ! My love! thou mock'st my weakness, and If there be life below, and hope above, 451 He will return, but now, the moments bring wouldst steel My breast before the time when it must feel; The time of parting with redoubled wing. The why, the where - what boots it now But trifle now no more with my distress, Such mirth hath less of play than bitterness. to tell? Be silent, Conrad !- dearest ! come and Since all must end in that wild word, fareshare well! 420 The feast these hands delighted to prepare; Yet would I fain, did time allow, disclose -Light toil! to cull and dress thy frugal fare! Fear not — these are no formidable foes; See, I have pluck'd the fruit that promised And here shall watch a more than wonted best. guard, For sudden siege and long defence prepared And where not sure, perplex'd, but pleased, I gness'd Nor be thou lonely, though thy lord's At such as seem'd the fairest; thrice the away, ₄60 Our matrons and thy handmaids with thee hill My steps have wound to try the coolest stay rill; And this thy comfort, that, when next we Yes ! thy sherbet to-night will sweetly flow, meet, See how it sparkles in its vase of snow ! Security shall make repose more sweet

List !--- 't is the bugle --- Juan shrilly blew ----

One kiss — one more — another — Oh ! Adueu !'

- She rose, she sprung, she clung to his embrace,
- Till his heart heaved beneath her hidden face.
- He dared not raise to his that deep-blue eye,
- Which downcast droop'd in tearless agony.
- Her long fair hair lay floating o'er his arnis, 470
- In all the wildness of dishevell'd charms;
- Scarce beat that bosom where his image dwelt,
- So full that feeling seem'd almost unfelt !
- Hark peals the thunder of the signalgun!
- It told 't was sunset and he cursed that sun.
- Again again that form he madly press'd,
- Which mutely clasp'd, imploringly caress'd ! And tottering to the couch his bride he bore,

One moment gazed — as if to gaze no more;

- Felt that for him earth held but her
- alone, 480 Kiss'd her cold forehead — turn'd — 18
 - Conrad gone ?

 $\mathbf{x}\mathbf{v}$

'And is he gone ?' - on sudden solitude

- How oft that fearful question will intrude ' 'T was but an instant past — and here he
- stood !
- And now' without the portal's porch she rush'd,
- And then at length her tears in freedom gush'd;
- Big, bright, and fast, unknown to her they fell;
- But still her hps refused to send 'Farewell !'
- For in that word, that fatal word howe'er
- We promise, hope, believe there breathes despair 490
- O'er every feature of that still, pale face,

Had sorrow fix'd what time can ne'er erase.

The tender blue of that large loving eye

Grew frozen with its gaze on vacancy,

- Till Oh, how far ! it caught a glimpse of hum,
- And then it flow'd, and phrensied seem'd to swim

- Through those long, dark, and glistenin lashes dew'd
- With drops of sadness oft to be renew'd.
- 'He's gone!' against her heart that hand is driven,
- Convulsed and quick, then gently raised to heaven. 5∞
- She look'd and saw the heaving of the main;
- The white sail set she dared not look again;
- But turn'd with sickening soul within the gate —
- 'It is no dream and I am desolate !'

XVI

- From crag to crag descending, swiftly sped Stern Conrad down, nor once he turn'd his head:
- But shrunk whene'er the windings of his way
- Forced on his eye what he would not survey,
- His lone but lovely dwelling on the steep,
- That hail'd hum first when homeward from the deep: 510
- And she the dim and melancholy star,
- Whose ray of beauty reach'd him from afar, On her he must not gaze, he must not think:
- There he might rest but on Destruction's brink.
- Yet once almost he stopp'd and nearly gave
- His fate to chance, his projects to the wave:

But no — it must not be — a worthy chief May melt, but not betray to woman's grief.

- He sees his bark, he notes how fair the wind,
- And sternly gathers all his might of mind. Again he hurries on — and as he hears 521
- The clang of tumult vibrate on his ears,
- The busy sounds, the bustle of the shore,

The shout, the signal, and the dashing oar; As marks his eye the seaboy on the mast,

- The anchors rise, the sails unfurling fast,
- The waving kerchiefs of the crowd that urge
- That mute adieu to those who stem the surge;
- And more than all, his blood-red flag aloft, —
- He marvell'd how his heart could seem so soft. 530

- Fire in his glance, and wildness in his breast,
- He feels of all his former self possest;
- He bounds, he flies, until his footsteps reach
- The verge where ends the cliff, begins the beach:
- There checks his speed, but pauses, less to breathe
- The breezy freshness of the deep beneath,
- Than there his wonted statelier step renew;
- Nor rush, disturb'd by haste, to vulgar view:
- For well had Conrad learn'd to curb the crowd,
- By arts that veil and oft preserve the proud. 540

His was the lofty port, the distant mien,

That seems to shun the sight, and awes if seen;

The solemn aspect, and the high-born eye,

That checks low mirth but lacks not courtesy:

All these he wielded to command assent.

- But where he wish'd to win, so well unbent,
- That kindness cancell'd fear in those who heard,
- And others' gifts show'd mean beside his word,

When echo'd to the heart as from his own His deep yet tender melody of tone: 550

But such was foreign to his wonted mood,

He cared not what he soften'd, but subdued;

The evil passions of his youth had made

Him value less who loved than what obey'd.

XVII

Around him mustering ranged his ready guard.

Before him Juan stands — 'Are all prepared ?'

'They are — nay more, embark'd; the latest boat

Waits but my chief --- '

'My sword, and my capote.' Soon firmly girded on and lightly slung,

- His belt and cloak were o'er his shoulders flung. 560
- 'Call Pedro here !' He comes, and Conrad bends

With all the courtesy he deign'd his friends:

'Receive these tablets and peruse with care,

Words of high trust and truth are graven there;

- Double the guard, and when Anselmo's bark
- Arrives, let him alke these orders mark:
- In three days (serve the breeze) the sun shall shine
- On our return till then all peace be thine !'
- This said, his brother Pirate's hand he wrung,
- Then to his boat with haughty gesture sprung. 579
- Flash'd the dipt oars, and, sparkling with the stroke,
- Around the waves' phosphoric brightness broke;
- They gain the vessel, on the deck he stands;
- Shrieks the shrill whistle ply the busy hands.
- He marks how well the ship her helm obevs.
- How gallant all her crew, and deigns to praise.

His eyes of pride to young Gonsalvo turn— Why doth he start and inly seem to mourn?

Alas ! those eyes beheld his rocky tower,

And hve a moment o'er the parting hour; 580

She, his Medora, did she mark the prow?

- Ah ! never loved he half so much as now ! But much must yet be done ere dawn of day —
- Again he mans himself and turns away;
- Down to the cabin with Gonsalvo bends,
- And there unfolds his plan, his means, and ends
- Before them burns the lamp, and spreads the chart,
- And all that speaks and aids the naval art;
- They to the midnight watch protract debate; 589
- To anxious eyes what hour is ever late?

Meantime, the steady breeze serenely blew, And fast and falcon-like the vessel flew:

- Pass'd the high headlands of each clustering isle
- To gain their port long long ere mornmg smile.
- And soon the night-glass through the narrow bay
- Discovers where the Pacha's galleys lay.
- Count they each sail, and mark how there supine
- The lights in vain o'er heedless Moslem shine.

Secure, unnoted, Conrad's prow pass'd by, And anchor'd where his ambush meant to lie; 600

Screen'd from espial by the jutting cape,

That rears on high its rude fantastic shape. Then rose his band to duty — not from sleep —

Equipp'd for deeds alike on land or deep;

While lean'd their leader o'er the fretting flood, And calmly talk'd — and yet he talk'd of blood !

CANTO THE SECOND

Conosceste 1 dubbios1 desiri ? DANTE. [Inferno, v. 120.]

E

IN Coron's bay floats many a galley light,

Through Coron's lattices the lamps are bright,

For Seyd, the Pacha, makes a feast tonight:

A feast for promised triumph yet to come,

- When he shall drag the fetter'd Rovers home
- This hath he sworn by Alla and his sword;
- And faithful to his firman and his word,
- His summon'd prows collect along the coast,
- And great the gathering crews, and loud the boast.
- Already shared the captives and the prize, 10
- Though far the distant foe they thus despise;
- 'T is but to sail no doubt to-morrow's Sun
- Will see the Pirates bound their haven won!
- Meantime the watch may slumber, if they will,

Nor only wake to war, but dreaming kill.

Though all, who can, disperse on shore and seek

To flesh their glowing valour on the Greek;

How well such deed becomes the turban'd brave,

To bare the sabre's edge before a slave,

Infest his dwelling, but forbear to slay - 20

Their arms are strong, yet merciful to-day, And do not deign to smite because they may!

Unless some gay caprice suggests the blow, To keep in practice for the coming foe. Revel and rout the evening hours beguile,

- And they who wish to wear a head must smile;
- For Moslem mouths produce their choicest cheer,
- And hoard their curses, till the coast is clear.

11

High in his hall reclines the turban'd Seyd; Around, the bearded chiefs he came to lead.

Removed the banquet, and the last pilaff -

Forbidden draughts, 't is said, he dared to quaff,

Though to the rest the sober berry's juice

- The slaves bear round for rigid Moslems' use;
- The long chibouque's dissolving cloud supply,
- While dance the Almas to wild minstrelsy. The rising morn will view the chiefs embark,
- But waves are somewhat treacherous in the dark;

And revellers may more securely sleep

On silken couch than o'er the rugged deep; Feast there who can, nor combat till they must.

And less to conquest than to Korans trust; And yet the numbers crowded in his host

Might warrant more than even the Pacha's boast.

Шĭ

- With cautious reverence from the outer gate
- Slow stalks the slave, whose office there to wait,
- Bows his bent head; his hand salutes the floor,

Ere yet his tongue the trusted tidings bore: 'A captive Dervise, from the pirate's nest

- Escaped, is here himself would tell the rest.' 50
- He took the sign from Seyd's assenting eye,

And led the holy man in silence nigh.

His arms were folded on his dark-green vest,

His step was feeble, and his look deprest;

- Yet worn he seem'd of hardship more than years,
- And pale his cheek with penance, not from fears.

- Vow'd to his God his sable locks he wore,
- And these his lofty cap rose proudly o'er:
- Around his form his loose long robe was thrown,
- And wrapt a breast bestow'd on heaven alone. 60

Submissive, yet with self-possession mann'd, He calmly met the curious eyes that scann'd; And question of his coming fam would seek, Before the Pacha's will allow'd to speak.

IV

"Whence com'st thou, Dervise ?"

A fugitive --- '

'From the outlaw's den,

'Thy capture where and when '' 'From Scalanova's port to Scio's isle,

- The Saick was bound; but Alla did not smile
- Upon our course the Moslem merchant's gams
- The Rovers won: our limbs have worn their chains 70

I had no death to fear, nor wealth to boast, Beyond the wandering freedom which I lost;

At length a fisher's humble boat by night

Afforded hope, and offer'd chance of flight;

I seized the hour, and find my safety here —

- With thee, most mighty Pacha! who can fear?'
- "How speed the outlaws? stand they well prepared,
- Their plunder'd wealth and robber's rock to guard?

Dream they of this our preparation, doom'd

To view with fire their scorpion nest consumed ?' 80

'Pacha! the fetter'd captive's mourning eye,

- That weeps for flight, but ill can play the spy;
- I only heard the reckless waters roar,
- Those waves that would not bear me from the shore;
- I only mark'd the glorious sun and sky,
- Too bright, too blue, for my captivity;
- And felt that all which Freedom's bosom cheers
- Must break my chain before it dried my tears.
- This may'st thou judge, at least, from my escape,

They little deem of aught in peril's shape; 90

- Else vainly had I pray'd or sought the chance
- That leads me here if eyed with vigilance.
- The careless guard that did not see me fly,

May watch as idly when thy power is nigh. Pacha ! — my limbs are faint — and nature

- craves
- Food for my hunger, rest from tossing waves:
- Permit my absence peace be with thee! Peace

With all around ! - now grant repose - release.'

'Stay, Dervise 'I have more to question — stay,

I do command thee — sit — dost hear? obey !

More I must ask, and food the slaves shall bring;

Thou shalt not pine where all are banqueting

The supper done, prepare thee to reply,

Clearly and full - I love not mystery.'

'T were vain to guess what shook the pious man,

- Who look'd not lovingly on that Divan;
- Nor show'd high relish for the banquet prest,

And less respect for every fellow guest

'T was but a moment's peevish heetic pass'd Along his cheek, and tranquillized as fast 110

He sate him down in silence, and his look

Resumed the calmness which before forsook.

The feast was usher'd in, but sumptuous fare

He shunn'd as if some poison mingled there. For one so long condemn'd to toil and fast, Methinks he strangely spares the rich repast.

- 'What alls thee, Dervise? eat dost thou suppose
- This feast a Christian's ? or my friends thy foes ?
- Why dost thou shun the salt? that sacred pledge,
- Which, once partaken, blunts the sabre's edge, 120
- Makes even contending tribes in peace unite,

And hated hosts seem brethren to the sight !'

Much hath been done, but more remains to do:

Their galleys blaze - why not their city too ?'

- Quick at the word they seized him each a torch.
- And fire the dome from minaret to porch. A stern delight was fix'd in Conrad's eye,

But sudden sunk; for on his ear the cry

- Of women struck, and like a deadly knell Knock'd at that heart unmoved by battle's yell: 201
- 'Oh! burst the Haram wrong not on your lives
- One female form, remember we have wives.
- On them such outrage Vengeance will repay;
- Man is our foe, and such 't is ours to slay:
- But still we spared, must spare the weaker prev.
- Oh! I forgot but Heaven will not forgive
- If at my word the helpless cease to live.
- Follow who will I go we yet have time
- Our souls to lighten of at least a crime.'

He climbs the crackling stair, he bursts the door.

- Nor feels his feet glow scorching with the floor;
- His breath choked gasping with the volumed smoke,
- But still from room to room his way he broke.
- They search they find they save: with lusty arms
- Each bears a prize of unregarded charms;
- Calm their loud fears, sustain their sinking frames
- With all the care defenceless beauty claims;
- So well could Conrad tame their fiercest mood.
- And check the very hands with gore imbrued 220
- But who is she whom Conrad's arms convey
- From reeking pile and combat's wreck away?
- Who but the love of him he dooms to bleed?
- The Haram queen but still the slave of Seyd I

VT

- Brief time had Conrad now to greet Gulnare.
- Few words to reassure the trembling fair; For in that pause compassion snatch'd from war,
- The foe before returng, fast and far,
- With wonder saw their footsteps unpursued,
- First slowher fled then rallied then withstood.
- This Seyd perceives, then first perceives how few.
- Compared with his, the Corsair's roving crew;
- And blushes o'er his error, as he eyes
- The run wrought by panic and surprise.
- Alla il Alla ! Vengeance swells the cry,
- Shame mounts to rage that must atone or die !
- And flame for flame and blood for blood must tell,
- The tide of triumph ebbs that flow'd too well -
- When wrath returns to renovated strife,
- And those who fought for conquest strike for life 240
- Conrad beheld the danger, he beheld His followers faint by freshening foes re-
- pell'd.
- 'One effort one to break the circling host !'
- They form, unite, charge, waver all is lost!
- Within a narrower ring compress'd, beset,
- Hopeless, not heartless, strive and struggle vet-

Ah ! now they fight in firmest file no more, Hemm'd in - cut off - cleft down - and trampled o'er;

- But each strikes singly, silently, and home, And sinks outwearied rather than o'ercome,
- His last faint quittance rendering with his breath,
- Till the blade glummers in the grasp of death !

VIT

- But first, ere came the rallying host to blows.
- And rank to rank and hand to hand oppose,
- Gulnare and all her Haram handmaids, freed,
- Safe in the dome of one who held their creed

- Oh were there none, of all the many given, By Conrad's mandate safely were bestow'd, To send his soul - he scarcely ask'd to And dried those tears for life and fame that flow'd heaven? And when that dark-eyed lady, young Gul-Must he alone of all retain his breath, Who more than all had striven and struck nare, Recall'd those thoughts late wandering in for death? He deeply felt - what mortal hearts must despair, 260 feel, Much did she marvel o'er the courtesy When thus reversed on faithless fortune's That smooth'd his accents, soften'd in his wheel, eye: For crimes committed, and the victor's 'T was strange — that robber, thus with threat gore bedew'd, Of lingering tortures to repay the debt ---Seem'd gentler then than Seyd in fondest He deeply, darkly felt; but evil pride mood. That led to perpetrate, now serves to hide. The Pacha woo'd as if he deem'd the slave Must seem delighted with the heart he Still in his stern and self-collected mien A conqueror's more than captive's air is gave; seen, The Corsair vow'd protection, soothed af-Though faint with wasting toil and stiffenfright, ing wound, -As if his homage were a woman's right. But few that saw, so calmly gazed around: 'The wish is wrong - nay, worse for female, Though the far shouting of the distant vam. Yet much I long to view that chief again; crowd, Their tremors o'er, rose insolently loud, If but to thank for, what my fear forgot, The better warriors who beheld him near, The life - my loving lord remember'd not !' Insulted not the foe who taught them fear; And the grim guards that to his durance VIII led. And him she saw, where thickest carnage In silence eyed him with a secret dread. spread, But gather'd breathing from the happier TΧ dead; Far from his band, and battling with a host The Leech was sent - but not in mercy there, That deem right dearly won the field he To note how much the life yet left could lost. Fell'd — bleeding — baffled of the death he bear; He found enough to load with heaviest chain, sought, And promise feeling for the wrench of pain. And snatch'd to expiate all the ills he To-morrow - yea, to-morrow's evening sun wrought; Will sinking see impalement's pangs begun, Preserved to linger and to live in vain, And rising with the wonted blush of morn While Vengeance ponder'd o'er new plans Behold how well or ill those pangs are of pain 280 And stanch'd the blood she saves to shed borne Of torments this the longest and the worst, agam -But drop for drop, for Seyd's unglutted eye Which adds all other agony to thirst That day by day death still forbears to Would doom him ever dying - ne'er to die !
 - Can this be he triumphant late she saw,
 - When his red hand's wild gesture waved, a law?
 - 'T is he indeed, disarm'd but undeprest,
 - His sole regret the life he still possest;
 - His wounds too slight, though taken with that will
 - Which would have kiss'd the hand that then could kill.

- slake,
- While famish'd vultures flit around the stake.
- 'Oh! water --- water !' --- smiling Hate denies
- The victim's prayer, for if he drinks he dies.
- This was his doom; the Leech, the guard, were gone,
- And left proud Conrad fetter'd and alone.

х

'T were vain to paint to what his feelings

It even were doubtful if their victim knew. There is a war, a chaos of the mind,

When all its elements convulsed, combined, Lie dark and jarring with perturbed force, And gnashing with unpenitent Remorse; 331 That juggling fiend — who never spake before — But cries 'I warn'd thee !' when the deed

But cries 'I warn'd thee!' when the deed is o'er

Vain voice ! the spirit burning but unbent, May writhe, rebel — the weak alone repent ! Even in that lonely hour when most it feels, And, to itself, all — all that self reveals,

No single passion, and no ruling thought

- That leaves the rest as once unseen, unsought;
- But the wild prospect when the soul reviews, — 340
- All rushing through their thousand avenues, ---

Ambition's dreams expiring, love's regret, Endanger'd glory, life itself beset;

- The joy untasted, the contempt or hate
- 'Gainst those who fain would trumph in our fate;

The hopeless past, the hasting future driven

Too quickly on to guess if Hell or Heaven; Deeds, thoughts, and words, perhaps re-

- member'd not So keenly till that hour, but ne'er forgot;
- Things light or lovely in their acted time, 350

But now to stern Reflection each a crime; The withering sense of evil unreveal'd,

- Not cankering less because the more conceal'd;--
- All, in a word, from which all eyes must start,

That opening sepulchre — the naked heart Bares with its buried woes, till Pride awake,

- To snatch the mirror from the soul and break.
- Ay Pride can veil, and Courage brave it all,
- All all before beyond the deadliest fall
- Each has some fear, and he who least betrays, 360
- The only hypocrite deserving praise: Not the loud recreant wretch who boasts
- and flies;

But he who looks on death — and silent dies.

So steel'd by pondering o'er his far career, He half-way meets him should he menace near !

XI

In the high chamber of his highest tower

Sate Conrad, fetter'd m the Pacha's power.

- His palace perish'd in the flame, this fort
- Contain'd at once his captive and his court. Not much could Conrad of his sentence blame.
- His foe, if vanquish'd, had but shared the same

Alone he sate, in solitude had scann'd

His guilty bosom, but that breast he mann'd; One thought alone he could not, dared not meet:

' Oh, how these tidings will Medora greet?' Then, only then, his clanking hands he raised,

And strain'd with rage the chain on which he gazed;

- But soon he found, or feign'd, or dream'd relief,
- And smiled in self-derision of his grief:
- 'And now come torture when it will or may; 380
- More need of rest to nerve me for the day !'

This said, with languor to his mat he crept, And, whatsoe'er his visions, quickly slept.

- 'T was hardly midnight when that fray begun,
- For Conrad's plans matured, at once were done;
- And Havoc loathes so much the waste of time,

She scarce had left an uncommitted crime. One hour beheld him since the tide he

- Disguised discover'd conquering ta'en — condemn'd — A chief on land — an outlaw on the
- A chief on land an outlaw on the deep — 390
- Destroying saving prison'd and asleep !

\mathbf{XII}

He slept in calmest seeming, for his breath Was hush'd so deep—Ah! happy if in death!

- He slept Who o'er his placid slumber bends?
- His foes are gone, and here he hath no friends;

THE CORSAIR

Is it some seraph sent to grant him grace? No, 't is an earthly form with heavenly	'T is late to think — but soft, his slumber breaks —
face!	How heavily he sighs ! he starts - awakes !'
Its white arm raised a lamp, yet gently hid,	The moved has been and the had with the
Lest the ray flash abruptly on the lid	He raised his head, and dazzled with the
Of that closed eye, which opens but to	hght, His eye seem'd dubious if it saw aright; 430
pain, 400	He moved his hand — the grating of his
And once unclosed — but once may close	chain
again.	Too harshly told him that he lived again.
That form, with eye so dark and cheek so	'What is that form ? if not a shape of air,
fair,	Methinks, my jailor's face shows wondrous
And auburn waves of gemm'd and braided	fair !
hair;
With shape of fairy lightness, naked foot,	'Pirate! thou know'st me not; but I am
That shines like snow and falls on earth as	one,
mute —	Grateful for deeds thou hast too rarely
Through guards and dunnest night how	done.
came it there?	Look on me, and remember her thy hand
Ah! rather ask what will not Woman dare,	Snatch'd from the flames and thy more fear-
Whom youth and pity lead like thee, Gul- nare?	ful band.
She could not sleep; and while the Pacha's	1 come through darkness — and I scarce know why —
rest	Yet not to hurt — I would not see thee
In muttering dreams yet saw his pirate-	die.'
guest, 410
She left his side his signet-ring she bore,	' If so, kind lady ! thine the only eye
Which oft in sport adorn'd her hand be-	That would not here in that gay hope de-fore;	light:
And with it, scarcely question'd, won her	Theirs is the chance — and let them use
Way	their right;
Through drowsy guards that must that sign	But still I thank their courtesy or thine, That would confess me at so fair a shrine !'
obey. Worn out with toil and tired with changing	That would confess me at so fair a surme :
blows,	Strange though it seem, yet with extremest
Their eyes had envied Conrad his repose;	grief
And chill and nodding at the turret door,	Is link'd a mirth — it doth not bring relief:
They stretch their listless limbs and watch	That playfulness of Sorrow ne'er beguiles,
no more:	And smiles in bitterness — but still it
Just raised their heads to hail the signet-	smiles;
ring,	And sometimes with the wisest and the
Nor ask or what or who the sign may	best, 450
bring. 420	Till even the scaffold echoes with their jest !
XIII	Yet not the joy to which it seems akin —
She gazed in wonder · · Can he calmly sleep,	It may deceive all hearts, save that within.
While other eyes his fall or ravage weep,	Whate'er it was that flash'd on Conrad, now
And mine in restlessness are wandering	A laughing wildness half unbent his brow:
here ? ~	And these his accents had a sound of
What sudden spell hath made this man so	mirth,
dear?	As if the last he could enjoy on earth;
True, 't is to him my life, and more, I	Yet 'gainst his nature, for through that
And me and mine he spared from worse	short life, Few thoughts had he to spare from gloo than woe.	and strife.

XIV	But not they low'ret and Oh! I among 'Corsair, thy doom is named ! but I have	But yet — thou lov'st — and — Oh ! I envy those power 460	Whose hearts on hearts as faithful can re-
To soothe the Pacha in his weaker hour.	pose,
Thee would I spare — nay more, would save	Who never feel the void, the wandering thee now, But this time hone non over the	thought That sighs o'er visions — such as mine hath
But this — time — hope — nor even thy strength allow;	wrought'
But all I can, I will: at least delay	WIGHER
The sentence that remits thee scarce a day.	'Lady - methought thy love was his, for
More now were ruin - ev'n thyself were	whom loth	This arm redeem'd thee from a fiery
The vain attempt should bring but doom to	tomb.'
both '	(My love storn Sand's I Oh No No
•Yes, loth indeed ! my soul is nerved to all,	'My love stern Seyd's ! Oh — No — No — not my love —
Or fall'n too low to fear a further fall.	Yet much this heart, that strives no more,
Tempt not thyself with peril, me with	once strove 500
hope 470	To meet his passion — but it would not be.
Of flight from foes with whom I could not	I felt — I feel — love dwells with — with cope.	the free:
Unfit to vanquish — shall I meanly fly,	1 am a slave, a favour'd slave at best,
The one of all my band that would not die? Yet there is one — to whom my memory	To share his splendour, and seem very blest ¹ Oft must my soul the question undergo,
clings,	Of — "Dost thou love?" and burn to an-
Till to these eyes her own wild softness	swer, "No!"
springs.	Oh! hard it is that fondness to sustain,
My sole resources in the path I trod	And struggle not to feel averse in vain;
Were these — my bark — my sword — my	But harder still the heart's recoil to bear, love — my God ! The last I left in youth — he leaves me now,	And hide from one — perhaps another there
And Man but works his will to lay me low.	He takes the hand I give not — nor with-
I have no thought to mock his throne with	hold,
prayer 480	Its pulse nor check'd - nor quicken'd -
Wrung from the coward crouching of de-	calmly cold
spair;	And when resign'd, it drops a lifeless weight
It is enough — I breathe — and I can bear. My sword is shaken from the worthless	From one 1 never loved enough to hate. No warmth these lips return by his im-
hand	prest,
That might have better kept so true a	And chill'd remembrance shudders o'er the brand;	rest.
My bark is sunk or captive; but my love—	Yes — had I ever proved that Passion's
For her in sooth my voice would mount	zeal,
above Oh! she is all that still to earth can bind;	The change to hatred were at least to feel:
And this will break a heart so more than	But still — he goes unmourn'd — returns unsought —
kind,	And oft when present — absent from m_y
And blight a form - till thine appear'd,	thought. 520
Gulnare,	Or when reflection comes — and come it
Mine eve ne'er ask'd if others were as	must — fair.' 490	1 fear that henceforth 't will but bring dis-
•Thou lov'st another then ?but what to	gust; I am his slave — but, in despite of pride, me	'T were worse than bondage to become his
Is this — 't is nothing — nothing e'er can be:	bride.
• •

- Oh ! that this dotage of his breast would cease !
- Or seek another and give mine release -But yesterday I could have said, to peace !
- Yes, if unwonted fondness now I feign,
- Remember, captive, 't is to break thy chain;
- Repay the life that to thy hand I owe; 530 To give thee back to all endear'd below,
- Who share such love as I can never know.
- Farewell morn breaks and I must now away:
- "I will cost me dear but dread no death to-day !'
 - xv

She press'd his fetter'd fingers to her heart,

- And bow'd her head, and turn'd her to depart,
- And noiseless as a lovely dream is gone.
- And was she here? and is he now alone?
- What gem hath dropp'd and sparkles o'er
- his chain? The tear most sacred, shed for others' pain,
- That starts at once bright pure from

Pity's mine, 54I

Already polish'd by the hand divine !

Oh ! too convincing, dangerously dear,

In woman's eye the unanswerable tear !

- That weapon of her weakness she can wield,
- To save, subdue at once her spear and shield:
- Avoid it Virtue ebbs and Wisdom errs,
- Too fondly gazing on that grief of hers!

What lost a world and bade a hero fly? The timid tear in Cleopatra's eye.

550

- Yet be the soft triumvir's fault forgiven; By this how many lose not earth - but
- heaven!

Consign their souls to man's eternal foe,

And seal their own to spare some wanton's woe!

XVI

'T is Morn — and o'er his alter'd features play

The beams, without the Hope of yesterday What shall he be ere night? perchance a

- thing
- O'er which the raven flaps her funeral wing,
- By his closed eye unheeded and unfelt,
- While sets that Sun and Dews of evening elt. g60 |

Chill - wet - and misty round each stiffen'd limb,

Refreshing earth - reviving all but him !

CANTO THE THIRD

Come vedi, ancor non m' abbandona. DANTE. [Inferno, v. 105.]

SLOW sinks, more lovely ere his race be run.

Along Morea's hills the setting sun;

Not, as in northern climes, obscurely bright, But one unclouded blaze of living light!

- O'er the hush'd deep the yellow beam he throws,
- Gilds the green wave that trembles as it glows.

On old Ægina's rock and Idra's isle

- The god of gladness sheds his parting smile; O'er his own regions lingering, loves to shine.
- Though there his altars are no more divine.

Descending fast, the mountain shadows kiss Thy glorious gulf, unconquer'd Salamis !

- Their azure arches through the long exnanse
- More deeply purpled meet his mellowing glance,
- And tenderest tints, along their summits driven,
- Mark his gay course and own the hues of heaven;
- Till, darkly shaded from the land and deep,
- Behind his Delphian cliff he sinks to sleep.

On such an eve his palest beam he cast

- When, Athens ! here thy Wisest look'd his last.
- How watch'd thy better sons his farewell ray,
- That closed their murder'd sage's latest day!

Not yet - not yet - Sol pauses on the hill, The precious hour of parting lungers still;

But sad his light to agonising eyes,

- And dark the mountain's once delightful dyes:
- Gloom o'er the lovely land he seem'd to pour,
- The land where Phœb never frown'd before;

But here he sank below Cithæron's head,

- The cup of woe was quaff'd the spirit fled;
- The soul of him who scorn'd to fear or fly, Who hved and died as none can hve or die !
- But lo! from high Hymettus to the plain,
- The queen of night asserts her silent reign.
- No murky vapour, herald of the storm,
- Hides her fair face, nor girds her glowing form.
- With cornice glimmering as the moonbeams play,
- There the white column greets her grateful ray,
- And, bright around with quivering beams beset,
- Her emblem sparkles o'er the minaret
- The groves of olive, scatter'd dark and wide
- Where meek Cephisus pours his scanty tide,

The cypress saddening by the sacred mosque, The gleaming turret of the gay kiosk,

- And, dun and sombre 'mid the holy calm,
- Near Theseus' fane yon solitary palm;
- All tinged with varied hues, arrest the eye -
- And dull were his that pass'd them heedless by.

Again the Ægean, heard no more afar,

- Lulls his chafed breast from elemental war;
- Again his waves in milder tints unfold
- Their long array of sapphire and of gold,
- Mix'd with the shades of many a distant isle
- That frown, where gentler ocean seems to smile.

II

- Not now my theme why turn my thoughts to thee?
- Oh! who can look along thy native sea,
- Nor dwell upon thy name, whate'er the tale,
- So much its magic must o'er all prevail?
- Who that beheld that sun upon thee set,
- Fair Athens! could thine evening face forget? 60
- Not he, whose heart nor time nor distance frees,

Spell-bound within the clustering Cyclades ! | To trust their accents to Medora's

- Nor seems this homage foreign to his strain,
- His Corsair's isle was once thine own domam —
- Would that with freedom it were thine agam!

III

- The sun hath sunk, and, darker than the night,
- Sinks with its beam upon the beacon height Medora's heart; the third day's come and gone -
- With it he comes not, sends not faithless one !
- The wind was fair though light; and storms were none.

Last eve Anselmo's bark return'd, and yet His only tidings that they had not met ! -

Though wild, as now, far different were the tale

- Had Conrad waited for that single sail.
- The night-breeze freshens; she that day had pass'd
- In watching all that Hope proclaim'd a mast;
- Sadly she sate on high Impatience bore

At last her footsteps to the midnight shore, And there she wander'd, heedless of the spray

- That dash'd her garments oft, and warn'd away 8a
- She saw not, felt not this, nor dared depart,
- Nor deem'd it cold her chill was at her heart;
- Till grew such certainty from that suspense,
- His very sight had shock'd from life or sense!

It came at last — a sad and shatter'd boat,

Whose inmates first beheld whom first they sought;

- Some bleeding all most wretched these the few-
- Scarce knew they how escaped this all they knew.

In silence, darkling, each appear'd to wait His fellow's mournful guess at Conrad's fate. 00 Something they would have said; but seem'd to fear

She saw at once, yet sunk not - trembled	IV
not;	In that wild council words wax'd warm and
Beneath that grief, that loneliness of lot,	strange,
Within that meek fair form, were feelings	With thoughts of ransom, rescue, and re-
high, That down?d wat till them form I that an	venge;
That deem'd not till they found their en- ergy.	All, save repose or flight. Still lingering there
While yet was Hope — they soften'd —	Breathed Conrad's spirit, and forbade de-flutter'd — wept;	spair;
All lost — that softness died not, but it slept:	Whate'er his fate — the breasts he form'd and led
And o'er its slumber rose that Strength	Will save him living or appease him dead.
which said,	Woe to his foes ! there yet survive a few,
With nothing left to love, there 's nought	Whose deeds are daring as their hearts are to dread '	true. 130
'T is more than nature's; like the burning	v
might Delinium gethere from the force's height	Wathin the Hanamia georget shambon gets
Delirium gathers from the fever's height.	Within the Haram's secret chamber sate Stern Seyd, still pondering o'er his Cap-
Silent you stand, nor would I hear you tell	live's fate;
What - speak not, breathe not - for I	His thoughts on love and hate alternate know it well —	dwell,
Yet would I ask — almost my lip denies	Now with Gulnare, and now in Conrad's
The — quick your answer — tell me where he lies.'	cell.
пе пез.	Here at his feet the lovely slave reclined Surveys his brow — would soothe his gloom
Lady ! we know not - scarce with life we	of mind:
fled;	While many an anxious glance her large
But here is one denies that he is dead:	dark eye
He saw him bound; and bleeding — but	Sends in its idle search for sympathy,
alive.'	His only bends in seeming o'er his beads,
She heard no further 't was in vain to	But inly views his victim as he bleeds. 140
strive,	'Pacha' the day is thine; and on thy crest
So throbb'd each vein, each thought, till	Sits Triumph - Conrad taken, fall'n the then withstood;	rest!
Her own dark soul these words at once subdued	His doom is fix'd — he dies: and well his fate
She totters - falls - and senseless had the	Was earn'd - yet much too worthless for wave	thy hate:
Perchance but snatch'd her from another	Methinks, a short release, for ransom told grave; But that with hands though rude, yet weep-	With all his treasure, not unwisely sold; Beport speaks largely of his pirete heard
ing eyes,	Report speaks largely of his pirate-hoard — Would that of this my Pacha were the lord !
They yield such aid as Pity's haste sup-	While baffled, weaken'd by this fatal fray —
plies:	Watch'd — follow'd — he were then an easier
Dash o'er her deathlike cheek the ocean dew,	prey;
Raise, fan, sustain — till life returns anew;	But once cut off — the remnant of his band
Awake her handmaids, with the matrons leave	Embark their wealth and seek a safer strand'
That fainting form o'er which they gaze and grieve; 120	Gulnare ! if for each drop of blood a gem
Then seek Anselmo's cavern, to report	Were offer'd rich as Stamboul's diadem;
The tale too tedious — when the triumph	If for each hair of his a massy mine Of virgin ore should supplicating shine;
short.	or train ore should subblicating sume;

If all our Arab tales divulge or dream In words alone I am not wont to chafe: Of wealth were here - that gold should Look to thyself, nor deem thy falsehood not redeem ! safe !' It had not now redeem'd a single hour; 159 But that I know him fetter'd, in my power; He rose — and slowly, sternly thence with-And, thirsting for revenge, I ponder still drew, On pangs that longest rack and latest kill.' Rage in his eye and threats in his adieu: Ah ! little reck'd that chief of womanhood, 'Nay, Seyd !- I seek not to restrain thy Which frowns ne'er quell'd nor menaces rage, subdued; Too justly moved for mercy to assuage; And little deem'd he what thy heart, Gul-My thoughts were only to secure for thee nare, His riches — thus released, he were not When soft could feel, and when incensed free: could dare. Disabled, shorn of half his might and band, His doubts appear'd to wrong - nor yet she His capture could but wait thy first comknew 200 mand.' How deep the root from whence compassion grew; "His capture could ! — and shall I then re-She was a slave — from such may captives sign claim One day to him --- the wretch already A fellow-feeling, differing but in name. mine? Still half unconscious, heedless of his wrath, Release my foe ! - at whose remonstrance? Again she ventured on the dangerous path, ---- thine ! Again his rage repell'd — until arose Fair suitor ! - to thy virtuous gratitude, That strife of thought, the source of wo-That thus repays this Glaour's relenting man's woes ! mood, VI Which thee and thine alone of all could Meanwhile long anxious, weary, still the spare. No doubt regardless if the prize were fair, --same My thanks and praise alike are due -- now Roll'd day and night: his soul, could terror hear ! tame, I have a counsel for thy gentler ear This fearful interval of doubt and dread, I do mistrust thee, woman ! and each word When every hour might doom him worse Of thine stamps truth on all Suspicion than dead, heard. When every step that echo'd by the gate Borne in his arms through fire from yon Might entering lead where axe and stake Serai await; Say, wert thou lingering there with him to When every voice that grated on his ear fly? Might be the last that he could ever hear; -Thou need'st not answer — thy confession Could Terror tame, that spirit stern and speaks, high Already reddening on thy guilty cheeks; Had proved unwilling as unfit to die. Then, lovely dame, bethink thee ! and be-'T was worn, perhaps decay'd, yet silent bore That conflict, deadlier far than all before. ware: 'T is not his life alone may claim such care! The heat of fight, the hurry of the gale, Another word and — nay — I need no more. Leave scarce one thought inert enough to Accursed was the moment when he bore quail: 22 I Thee from the flames, which better far ---But bound and fix'd in fetter'd solitude, but — no – To pine, the prey of every changing mood; I then had mourn'd thee with a lover's woe; To gaze on thine own heart, and meditate Now 't is thy lord that warns — deceitful Irrevocable faults and coming fate -Too late the last to shun, the first to mend; thing ! Know'st thou that I can clip thy wanton To count the hours that struggle to thine wing? end,

358

- To other ears that death became thee well; Around thee foes to forge the ready he, 230 And blot life's latest scene with calumny: vain. Before thee tortures, which the soul can dare, prav'd Yet doubts how well the shrinking flesh may bear, But deeply feels a single cry would shame, To valour's praise thy last and dearest strike: claim; The life thou leav'st below, denied above alone, By kind monopolists of heavenly love; And more than doubtful paradise, thy heaven Of earthly hope, thy loved one from thee riven;-
- Such were the thoughts that outlaw must sustain, 240

With not a friend to animate, and tell

And govern pangs surpassing mortal pain:

- And those sustain'd he boots it well or ill?
- Since not to sink beneath, is something still !

VII

- 'The first day pass'd; he saw not her, Gulnare:
- The second third and still she came not there;
- But what her words avouch'd, her charms had done.
- Or else he had not seen another sun.
- The fourth day roll'd along, and with the night
- Came storm and darkness in their mingling might. 249
- Oh ! how he listen'd to the rushing deep,
- That ne'er till now so broke upon his sleep:
- And his wild spirit wilder wishes sent,
- Roused by the roar of his own element !
- Oft had he ridden on that winged wave,
- And loved its roughness for the speed it gave;
- And now its dashing echo'd on his ear,
- A long-known voice alas ! too vainly near !
- Loud sung the wind above; and, doubly loud.
- Shook o'er his turret cell the thundercloud;
- And flash'd the lightning by the latticed bar, 260
- To him more ge 1 than the dnight star:

- Close to the glimmering grate he dragg'd his chain,
- And hoped that peril might not prove in vam.
- He raised his iron hand to Heaven, and prav'd

One pitying flash to mar the form it made: His steel and impious prayer attract alike — The storm roll'd onward, and disdain'd to strike:

- Its peal wax'd fainter --- ceased --- he felt alone.
- As if some faithless friend had spurn'd his groan !

VIII

- The midnight pass'd, and to the m sy door 270
- A light step came it paused it moved once more;
- Slow turns the grating bolt and sullen key: "T is as his heart foreboded — that fair she!
- Whate'er her sins, to him a guardian saint, And beauteous still as hermit's hope can paint;
- Yet changed since last within that cell she came,
- More pale her cheek, more tremulous her frame.
- On him she cast her dark and hurried eye,
- Which spoke before her accents --- 'Thou must die !
- Yes, thou must die; there is but one resource, 280
- The last the worst if torture were not worse.'

'Lady ! I look to none; my lips proclaim

- What last proclaim'd they Conrad still the same.
- Why should'st thou seek an outlaw's life to spare,
- And change the sentence I deserve to bear?
- Well have I earn'd nor here alone the meed
- Of Seyd's revenge, by many a lawless deed.'
- Why should I seek? because Oh! didst thou not
- Redeem my life from worse than slavery's lot?

- Why should I seek?—hath misery made thee blind 290
- To the fond workings of a woman's mind? And must I say? albeit my heart rebel
- With all that woman feels, but should not tell ---
- Because, despite thy crimes, that heart is moved:
- It fear'd thee thank'd thee pitied madden'd loved.
- Reply not, tell not now thy tale again,
- Thou lov'st another and I love in vain; Though fond as mine her bosom, form more
- fair, I rush through peril which she would not dare.
- If that thy heart to hers were truly dear,
- Were I thine own, thou wert not lonely here: 301
- An outlaw's spouse and leave her lord to roam !
- What hath such gentle dame to do with home ?
- But speak not now o'er thine and o'er my head
- Hangs the keen sabre by a single thread;
- If thou hast courage still, and wouldst be free,
- Receive this poinard rise, and follow me!'
- 'Ay, in my chains ! my steps will gently tread,
- With these adornments, o'er each slumbering head !
- Thou hast forgot is this a garb for flight? 310
- Or is that instrument more fit for fight?'
- 'Misdoubting Corsair ! I have gain'd the guard,
- Ripe for revolt, and greedy for reward.
- A single word of mine removes that chain:
- Without some aid how here could I remain?
- Well, since we met, hath sped my busy time,
- If in aught evil, for thy sake the crime:
- The crime 't is none to punish those of Sevd
- That hated tyrant, Conrad he must bleed !
- I see thee shudder, but my soul is changed— Wrong'd, spurn'd, reviled — and it shall be
- avenged; 331

- Accused of what till now my heart disdain'd —
- Too faithful, though to bitter bondage cham'd.
- Yes, smile !-- but he had little cause to sneer,
- I was not treacherous then, nor thou too dear:
- But he has said it, and the jealous well
- (Those tyrants, teasing, tempting to rebel)
- Deserve the fate their fretting lips foretell.
- I never loved he bought me somewhat high,
- Since with me came a heart he could not buy.
- I was a slave unmurmuring: he hath said,
- But for his rescue I with thee had fled.
- 'T was false thou know'st; but let such augurs rue,
- Their words are omens Insult renders true. Nor was thy respite granted to my prayer; This fleeting grace was only to prepare
- New torments for thy life, and my despair.
- Mine too he threatens; but his dotage still Would fam reserve me for his lordly will:
- When wearier of these fleeting charms and me. 349
- There yawns the sack and yonder rolls the sea!
- What, am I then a toy for dotard's play,
- To wear but till the gilding frets away?
- I saw thee loved thee owe thee all would save,
- If but to show how grateful is a slave.
- But had he not thus menaced fame and life (And well he keeps his oaths pronounced in strife),
- I still had saved thee but the Pacha spared.
- Now I am all thine own for all prepared:
- Thou lov'st me not nor know'st or but the worst. 359
- Alas ! this love, that hatred are the first ---
- Oh! couldst thou prove my truth, thou wouldst not start,
- Nor fear the fire that lights an Eastern heart;
- 'T is now the beacon of thy safety now
- It points within the port a Mainote prow:
- But in one chamber, where our path must lead,
- There sleeps he must not wake the oppressor Seyd !'

 Gulnare — Gulnare — I never felt till now My abject fortune, wither'd fame so low ! Seyd is mine enemy, had swept my band From earth with ruthless but with open hand; 367 And therefore came I, in my bark of war, To smite the smiter with the scimitar; Such is my weapon — not the secret knife; Who spares a woman's seeks not slumber's hife. Thine saved I gladly, Lady, not for this — Let me not deem that mercy shown amiss. Now fare thee well — more peace be with thy breast ! Night wears apace, my last of earthly rest !' Rest ! rest ! by sunrise must thy sinews shake, 370 And thy limbs writhe around the ready 	He sees a dusky glummering — shall he seek Or shun that ray so indistinct and weak? Chance guides his steps — a freshness seems to bear Full on his brow, as if from morning air; He reach'd an open gallery — on his eye Gleam'd the last star of night, the clearing sky: 399 Yet scarcely heeded these — another light From a lone chamber struck upon his sight. Towards it he moved; a scarcely closing door Reveal'd the ray within, but nothing more. With hasty step a figure outward pass'd, Then paused — and turn'd — and paused — 't is She at last ! No poniard in that hand, nor sign of ill — 'Thanks to that softening heart, she could not kill !'
And thy imps writhe around the ready stake. I heard the order — saw — I will not see — If thou wilt perish, I will fall with thee. My hfe — my love — my hatred — all be- low Are on this cast; Corsair ' 't is but a blow ! Without it flight were idle — how evade His sure pursuit ? my wrongs too unrepaid, My youth disgraced — the long, long wasted years, One blow shall cancel with our future fears. But since the dagger suits thee less than brand, 380 I 'll try the firmness of a female hand. The guards are gain'd — one moment all were o'er — Corsair ! we meet in safety or no more; If errs my feeble hand, the morning cloud Will hover o'er thy scaffold, and my	Again he look'd, the wildness of her eye Starts from the day abrupt and fearfully. She stopp'd — threw back her dark far- floating hair, 410 That nearly veil'd her face and bosom fair: As if she late had bent her leaning head Above some object of her doubt or dread They meet — upon her brow, unknown, for- got, Her hurrying hand had left — 't was but a spot — Its hue was all he saw, and scarce with- stood — Oh ! slight but certain pledge of crime — 't is blood ! X He had seen battle, he had brooded lone O'er promised pangs to sentenced guilt
 IX IX She turn'd, and vanish'd ere he could reply, But his glance follow'd far with eager eye; And gathering, as he could, the links that bound His form, to curl their length and curb their sound, Since bar and bolt no more his steps pre- clude, 390 He, fast as fetter'd limbs allow, pursued 'I was dark and winding, and he knew not where That passage led; nor lamp nor guard was there. 	 Foreshown; He had been tempted, chasten'd, and the cham 420 Yet on his arms might ever there remain. But ne'er from strife, captivity, remorse, From all his feelings in their inmost force, So thrill'd, so shudder'd every creeping vem, As now they froze before that purple stain. That spot of blood, that light but guilty streak, Had banish'd all the beauty from her cheek ! Blood he had view'd — could view unmoved — but then It flow'd in combat, or was shed by men i

- -'T is done he nearly waked but it is done; 430
- Corsair ! he perish'd thou art dearly won.
- All words would now be vain away away !
- Our bark is tossing 't is already day.
- The few gain'd over, now are wholly mine,
- And these thy yet surviving band shall join:
- Anon my voice shall vinducate my hand,
- When once our sail forsakes this hated strand !'

XII

- She clapp'd her hands, and through the gallery pour,
- Equipp'd for flight, her vassals Greek and Moor,
- Silent but quick they stoop, his chains unbind; 440
- Once more his limbs are free as mountain wind !
- But on his heavy heart such sadness sate,
- As if they there transferr'd that iron weight.
- No words are utter'd; at her sign, a door
- Reveals the secret passage to the shore;
- The city lies behind they speed, they reach
- The glad waves dancing on the yellow beach;

And Conrad following, at her beck, obey'd, Nor cared he now if rescued or betray'd;

Resistance were as useless as if Seyd $_{450}$ Yet lived to view the doom his ire decreed.

- $\mathbf{X}\mathbf{I}\mathbf{I}\mathbf{I}$
- Embark'd, the sail unfurl'd, the light breeze blew —
- How much had Conrad's memory to review !
- Sunk he in Contemplation, till the Cape
- Where last he anchor'd rear'd its giant shape.
- Ah! since that fatal night, though brief the time,
- Had swept an age of terror, grief, and crime

As its far shadow frown'd above the mast,

- He veil'd his face and sorrow'd as he pass'd;
- He thought of all Gonsalvo and his band, 460

His fleeting triumph and his failing hand;

He thought on her afar, his lonely bride:

He turn'd and saw — Gulnare, the homicide !

XIV

- She watch'd his features till she could not bear
- Their freezing aspect and averted air;
- And that strange fierceness, foreign to her eye,
- Fell quench'd in tears, too late to shed or dry.
- She knelt beside hun and his hand she press'd,
- 'Thou may'st forgive though Allah's self detest;

But for that deed of darkness what wert thou? 470

Reproach me — but not yet — Oh ! spare me now !

I am not what I seem — this fearful night

My brain bewilder'd — do not madden quite !

If I had never loved - though less my guilt,

Thou hadst not lived to — hate me — if thou wilt.'

xv

- She wrongs his thoughts, they more himself upbraid
- Than her, though undesign'd, the wretch he made;
- But speechless all, deep, dark, and unexprest,
- They bleed within that silent cell—his breast.
- Still onward, fair the breeze, nor rough the surge, 480
- The blue waves sport around the stern they urge;

Far on the horizon's verge appears a speck,

- A spot—a mast—a sail—an aimèd deck!
- Their little bark her men of watch descry, And ampler canvass woos the wind from high;
- She bears her down majestically near,
- Speed on her prow, and terror in her tier;
- A flash is seen the ball beyond their bow
- Booms harmless, hissing to the deep below. 489
- Up rose keen Conrad from his silent trance,
- A long, long absent gladness in his glance; "T is mme — my blood-red flag ! again again —
- I am not all deserted on the main !'

They own the signal, answer to the hail, Hoist out the boat at once, and slacken	But — it was done: he knew, whate'er her guilt, sail. "T is Conrad! Conrad!' shouting from the	For him that pomard smote, that blood was spilt;
deck, Command nor duty could their transport	And he was free ! — and she for him had given check ! With light alacrity and gaze of pride,	Her all on earth and more than all in heaven! 530
They view him mount once more his ves- sel's side;	And now he turn'd him to that dark-eyed slave,
A smile relaxing in each rugged face, 500 Their arms can scarce forbear a rough em-	Whose brow was bow'd beneath the glance he gave, brace. He, half forgetting danger and defeat,	Who now seem'd changed and humbled:
Returns their greeting as a chief may greet,	But varying oft the colour of her cheek To deeper shades of paleness, all its red
Wrings with a cordial grasp Anselmo's hand,	That fearful spot which stain'd it from the dead !
And feels he yet can conquer and com- mand !	He took that hand — it trembled — now too late —
XVI	So soft in love, so wildly nerved in hate; He clasp'd that hand — it trembled — and
These greetings o'er, the feelings that o'er- flow,	his own Had lost its firmness, and his voice its tone.
Yet grieve to win him back without a blow; They sail'd prepared for vengeance — had	'Gulnare !' — but she replied not — 'dear Gulnare !'
they known A woman's hand secured that deed her own,	She raised her eye, her only answer there; At once she sought and sunk in his embrace:
She were their queen; less scrupulous are they 510	If he had driven her from that resting- place,
Than haughty Conrad how they win their way.	His had been more or less than mortal heart,
With many an asking smile and wondering stare,	But — good or ill — it bade her not depart. Perchance, but for the bodings of his breast,
They whisper round and gaze upon Gulnare: And her, — at once above, beneath her sex,	His latest virtue then had join'd the rest. Yet even Medora might forgive the kiss
Whom blood appall'd not, — their regards perplex.	That ask'd from form so fair no more than this, 550
To Conrad turns her faint imploring eye, She drops her veil, and stands in silence by;	The first, the last that Frailty stole from Faith —
Her arms are meekly folded on that breast, Which — Conrad safe — to fate resign'd	To lips where Love had lavish'd all his breath, the rest. Though worse than frenzy could that bosom	To lips whose broken sighs such fragrance fling, fill, 520 Extreme m love or hate, in good or ill,	As he had fann'd them freshly with his wing !
The worst of crimes had left her woman still !	xviii
XVII	They gain by twilight's hour their lonely
This Conrad mark'd, and felt - ah ! could	isle. To them the very rocks appear to smile; The haven hums with many a cheering
he less ? — Hate of that deed but grief for her distress; What she has done no tears can wash away,	sound, The beacons blaze their wonted stations
And Heaven must punish on its angry day.	round,

- The haven hums with many a cheering sound,
- The beacons blaze their wonted stations round,

570

The boats are darting o'er the curly bay, And sportive dolphins bend them through the spray; 560

- the spray; 560 Even the hoarse sea-bird's shrill, discordant shriek
- Greets like the welcome of his tuneless beak!
- Beneath each lamp that .nrough its lattice gleams,
- Their fancy paints the friends that trim the beams.
- Oh ! what can sanctify the joys of home,
- Like Hope's gay glance from Ocean's troubled foam?

XIX

- The lights are high on beacon and from bower,
- And 'midst them Conrad seeks Medora's tower:
- He looks in vain 't is strange and all remark,
- Amid so many, hers alone is dark.
- 'T is strange of yore its welcome never fail'd,
- Nor now, perchance, extinguish'd, only veil'd.
- With the first boat descends he for the shore, And looks impatient on the lungering oar.
- Oh ! for a wing beyond the falcon's flight,
- To bear him like an arrow to that height '
- With the first pause the resting rowers gave,
- He waits not looks not leaps into the wave,
- Strives through the surge, bestrides the beach, and high
- Ascends the path familiar to his eye. 580
- He reach'd his turret door; he paused no sound
- Broke from within, and all was night around.
- He knock'd, and loudly footstep nor reply
- Announced that any heard or deem'd him nigh;
- He knock'd but faintly for his trembling hand
- Refused to aid his heavy heart's demand.
- The portal opens 't is a well-known face —
- But not the form he panted to embrace.
- Its hps are silent; twice his own essay'd,
- And fail'd to frame the question they delay'd; 590

- He snatch'd the lamp-its light will answer all --
- It quits his grasp, expiring in the fall.
- He would not wait for that reviving ray ---
- As soon could he have lunger'd there for day;
- But, glummering through the dusky corridore,
- Another chequers o'er the shadow'd floor;
- His steps the chamber gain, his eyes behold
- All that his heart believed not yet foretold !

 $\mathbf{X}\mathbf{X}$

- He turn'd not spoke not sunk not fix'd his look,
- And set the anxious frame that lately shook. 600
- He gazed how long we gaze despite of pam,
- And know, but dare not own, we gaze in van!
- In life itself she was so still and fair,
- That death with gentler aspect wither'd there;
- And the cold flowers her colder hand contain'd,
- In that last grasp as tenderly were strain'd As if she scarcely felt, but feign'd a sleep,
- And made it almost mockery yet to weep.
- The long dark lashes fringed her lids of snow,
- And veil'd thought shrinks from all that lurk'd below — 610
- Oh! o'er the eye Death most exerts his might,
- And hurls the spirit from her throne of light !
- Sinks those blue orbs in that long last eclipse,
- But spares, as yet, the charm around her lips;
- Yet, yet they seem as they forebore to smile,
- And wish'd repose but only for a while;
- But the white shroud, and each extended tress,
- Long, fair, but spread in utter lifelessness,
- Which, late the sport of every summer wind,
- Escaped the baffled wreath that strove to bind; ó20

These and the pale pure cheek became the bier —

But she is nothing - wherefore is he here ?

•

He ask'd no question — all were answer'd now

- By the first glance on that still, marble brow.
- It was enough she died what reck'd it how?
- The love of youth, the hope of better years,
- The source of softest wishes, tenderest fears,
- The only living thing he could not hate,
- Was reft at once and he deserved his fate,
- But did not feel it less; the good explore, 630
- For peace, those realms where guilt can never soar:
- The proud, the wayward, who have fix'd below
- Their joy and find this earth enough for woe,
- Lose in that one their all perchance a mite —

But who in patience parts with all delight? Full many a stoic eye and aspect stern

- Mask hearts where grief hath little left to learn;
- And many a withering thought lies hid, not lost.
- In smiles that least befit who wear them most.

XXII

By those that deepest feel is ill exprest 640 The indistinctness of the suffering breast;

Where thousand thoughts begin, to end in one

- Which seeks from all the refuge found in none;
- No words suffice the secret soul to show,
- For Truth demes all eloquence to Woe

On Conrad's strucken soul exhaustion prest, And stupor almost lull'd it into rest;

So feeble now — his mother's softness crept To those wild eyes, which like an infant's wept

It was the very weakness of his brain, 650 Which thus confess'd without relieving pain. None saw his trickling tears — perchance, if seen,

- That useless flood of grief had never been: Nor long they flow'd — he dried them to depart.
- In helpless, hopeless, brokenness of heart.

- The sun goes forth, but Conrad's day is dim;
- And the night cometh, ne'er to pass from hum.
- There is no darkness like the cloud of mind On Grief's vain eye — the blindest of the blind !
- Which may not, dare not see, but turns aside 660
- To blackest shade, nor will endure a guide !

XXIII

- His heart was form'd for softness, warp'd to wrong;
- Betray'd too early, and beguiled too long;
- Each feeling pure as falls the dropping dew
- Within the grot, like that had harden'd too;
- Less clear, perchance, its earthly trials pass'd,
- But sunk, and chill'd, and petrified at last.
- Yet tempests wear, and lightning cleaves the rock;
- If such his heart, so shatter'd it the shock. There grew one flower beneath its rugged brow; 670
- Though dark the shade, it shelter'd, saved till now
- The thunder came; that bolt hath blasted both,
- The Granite's firmness and the Lily's growth:
- The gentle plant hath left no leaf to tell
- Its tale, but shrunk and wither'd where it fell;
- And of its cold protector, blacken round
- But shiver'd fragments on the barren ground !

XXIV

- 'T is morn; to venture on his lonely hour
- Few dare, though now Anselmo sought his tower
- He was not there, nor seen along the shore; Ere night, alarm'd, their isle is traversed o'er 681
- Another morn another bids them seek,

And shout his name till echo waxeth weak;

- Mount, grotto, cavern, valley search'd in vain,
- They find on shore a seaboat's broken cham:
- Their hope revives, they follow o'er the main.

Then, when he most required command-'T is idle all; moons roll on moons away, And Conrad comes not, came not since that ment, then Had Lara's daring boyhood govern'd men day: Nor trace, nor tidings of his doom de-It skills not, boots not, step by step to clare trace 21 Where lives his grief, or perish'd his de-His youth through all the mazes of its spair! race: Long mourn'd his band whom none could Short was the course his restlessness had mourn beside; run, And fair the monument they gave his bride: But long enough to leave him half undone. For him they raise not the recording TIT stone – His death yet dubious, deeds too widely And Lara left in youth his father-land; known; But from the hour he waved his parting He left a Corsair's name to other times, hand Link'd with one virtue and a thousand Each trace wax'd fainter of his course, till crimes. all Had nearly ceased his memory to recall. His sire was dust, his vassals could declare, LARA 'T was all they knew, that Lara was not there; 30 A TALE Nor sent, nor came he, till conjecture grew Cold in the many, anxious in the few. CANTO THE FIRST His hall scarce echoes with his wonted name, I His portrait darkens in its fading frame, THE Serfs are glad through Lara's wide Another chief consoled his destined bride, domain. The young forgot him, and the old had died. And Slavery half forgets her feudal chain; He, their unhoped, but unforgotten lord, 'Yet doth he live !' exclaims the impatient The long self-exiled chieftain, is restored. heir. There be bright faces in the busy hall, And sighs for sables which he must not Bowls on the board, and banners on the wear. A hundred scutcheons deck with gloomy wall: Far checkering o'er the pictured window, grace The Laras' last and longest dwelling-place; plays The unwonted faggots' hospitable blaze; But one is absent from the mouldering file, And gay retainers gather round the hearth, That now were welcome in that Gothic With tongues all loudness and with eyes all pile. mirth. 10 IV TT He comes at last in sudden loneliness, The chief of Lara is return'd again: And whence they know not, why they need And why had Lara cross'd the bounding not guess; main? They more might marvel, when the greet-Left by his sire, too young such loss to ing 's o'er, know, Not that he came, but came not long be-Lord of himself - that heritage of woe, fore: That fearful empire which the human No train is his beyond a single page, breastOf foreign aspect and of tender age. But holds to rob the heart within of rest! Years had roll'd on, and fast they speed With none to check and few to point in away time To those that wander as to those that stay: The thousand paths that slope the way to But lack of tidings from another clime 51

Had lent a flagging wing to weary Time.

he thousand paths that slope the way to cr e;

366

They see, they recognize, yet almost deem The present dubious, or the past a dream.

- He lives, nor yet is past his manhood's prime,
- Though sear'd by toil, and something touch'd by time;
- His faults, whate'er they were, if scarce forgot,

Might be untaught him by his varied lot;

Nor good nor ill of late were known, his name

Might yet uphold his patrimonial fame. 60

His soul in youth was haughty, but his sins No more than pleasure from the stripling wins:

And such, if not yet harden'd in their course,

Might be redeem'd nor ask a long remorse.

v

And they indeed were changed — 't is quickly seen,

Whate'er he be, 't was not what he had been.

That brow in furrow'd lines had fix'd at last,

And spake of passions, but of passion past

The pride, but not the fire, of early days, 69

Coldness of mien, and carelessness of praise;

A high demeanour, and a glance that took Their thoughts from others by a single look;

And that sarcastic levity of tongue,

The stunging of a heart the world hath stung,

That darts in seeming playfulness around,

And makes those feel that will not own the wound, —

All these seem'd his, and something more beneath

Than glance could well reveal or accent breathe.

Ambition, glory, love, the common ann,

That some can conquer, and that all would claim, 80

Within his breast appear'd no more to strive, Yet seem'd as lately they had been alive;

And some deep feeling it were vam to trace At moments lighten'd o'er his livid face.

٧I

- Not much he loved long question of the past,
- Nor told of wondrous wilds and deserts vast

In those far lands, where he had wander'd lone

- And as himself would have it seem unknown.
- Yet these m van his eye could scarcely scan,
- Nor glean experience from his fellow man; But what he had beheld he shunn'd to show.
- As hardly worth a stranger's care to know;
- If still more prying such enquiry grew, His brow fell darker, and his words more
- fins brow fen darker, and his words more few.

VII

Not unrejoiced to see him once again,

- Warm was his welcome to the haunts of men.
- Born of high lineage, link'd in high command,

He mingled with the Magnates of his land; Join'd the carousals of the great and gay,

And saw them smile or sigh their hours away;

But still he only saw and did not share

The common pleasure or the general care; He did not follow what they all pursued

With hope still baffled still to be renew'd, -

- Nor shadowy honour, nor substantial gain,
- Nor beauty's preference, and the rival's pam

Around hum some mysterious circle thrown Repell'd approach and show'd him still alone;

Upon his eye sat something of reproof,

That kept at least frivolity aloof; 10 And things more timid that beheld him near, In silence gazed or whisper'd mutual fear; And they the wiser, friendher few confess'd They deem'd him better than his air ex-press'd.

VIII

'T was strange — in youth all action and all life,

Burning for pleasure, not averse from strife; Woman, the field, the ocean, all that gave Promise of gladness, peril of a grave,

In turn he tried — he ransack'd all below,

And found his recompense in joy or woe,

No tame, trite medium; for his feelings sought

In that intenseness an escape from thought The tempest of his heart in scorn had gazed On that the feebler elements hath raised; The rapture of his heart had look'd on high, And ask'd if greater dwelt beyond the sky. Chain'd to excess, the slave of each extreme,

How woke he from the wildness of that dream?

Alas, he told not ! but he did awake

To curse the wither'd heart that would not break. 130

 \mathbf{IX}

Books, for his volume heretofore was Man, With eye more curious he appear'd to scan, And oft, in sudden mood, for many a day, From all communion he would start away.

And then, his rarely call'd attendants said,

- Through mght's long hours would sound his hurried tread
- O'er the dark gallery, where his fathers frown'd
- In rude but antique portraiture around.
- They heard, but whisper'd 'that must not be known —
- The sound of words less earthly than his own. 140
- Yes, they who chose might smile, but some had seen
- They scarce knew what, but more than should have been.
- Why gazed he so upon the ghastly head
- Which hands profane had gather'd from the dead,
- That still beside his open'd volume lay,

As if to startle all save him away?

Why slept he not when others were at rest?

Why heard no music and received no guest ?

- All was not well, they deeni'd but where the wrong?
- Some knew perchance, but 't were a tale too long; 150

And such besides were too discreetly wise, To more than hint their knowledge in surmise; But if they would — they could ' — around the board,

Thus Lara's vassals prattled of their lord.

х

It was the night, and Lara's glassy stream The stars are studding, each with imaged beam;

So calm, the waters scarcely seem to stray, And yet they glide like happiness away;

Reflecting far and fairy-like from high The immortal lights that live along the sky.

- Its banks are fringed with many a goodly tree, 161
- And flowers the fairest that may feast the bee;
- Such m her chaplet infant Dian wove,

And Innocence would offer to her love.

These deck the shore, the waves their channel make

In windings bright and mazy like the snake

All was so still, so soft m earth and air, You scarce would start to meet a spirit there:

Secure that nought of evil could delight

To walk in such a scene, on such a night!

It was a moment only for the good: ¹⁷¹ So Lara deem'd, nor longer there he stood,

But turn'd in silence to his castle-gate.

- Such scene his soul no more could contemplate;
- Such scene reminded him of other days,
- Of skies more cloudless, moons of purer blaze,
- Of nights more soft and frequent, hearts that now —
- No no the storm may beat upon his brow,
- Unfelt, unsparing, but a night like this,
- A night of beauty, mock'd such breast as his 180

XI

He turn'd within his solitary hall,

And his high shadow shot along the wall

- There were the painted forms of other times,
- 'T was all they left of virtues or of crimes,

Save vague tradition; and the gloomy vaults

That hid their dust, their foibles, and their faults.

And half a column of the pompous page

That speeds the specious tale from age to age;

- Where history's pen its praise or blame supplies,
- And lies like truth, and still most truly lies. 190
- He wandering mused, and as the moonbeam shone
- Through the dim lattice o'er the floor of stone;
- And the high fretted roof, and saints that there
- O'er Gothic windows knelt in pictured prayer,

Reflected in fantastic figures grew, Like life, but not like mortal life, to view;— His bristling locks of sable, brow of gloom, And the wide waving of his shaken plume, Glanced like a spectre's attributes, and gave His aspect all that terror gives the grave.

\mathbf{XII}

- 'T was midnight all was slumber; the lone light 201
- Dinnn'd in the lamp, as loth to break the mght.
- Hark! there be murmurs heard in Lara's hall —
- A sound a voice a shriek a fearful call !
- A long, loud shriek and silence; did they hear
- That frantic echo burst the sleeping ear ?
- They heard and rose, and, tremulously brave,
- Rush where the sound invoked their aid to save;
- They come with half-lit tapers in their hands,
- And snatch'd in startled haste unbelted brands. 2.0

XIII

- Cold as the marble where his length was laid.
- Pale as the beam that o'er his features play'd,
- Was Lara stretch'd; his half-drawn sabre near.
- Dropp'd it should seem in more than nature's fear;
- Yet he was firm, or had been firm till now,
- And still defiance knit his gather'd brow: Though mix'd with terror, senseless as he
- lay, There hved upon his hp the wish to slay;
- Some half-form'd threat in utterance there had died,
- Some imprecation of despairing pride 220 His eye was almost seal'd, but not forsook
- Even in its trance the gladiator's look,
- That oft awake his aspect could disclose,
- And now was fix'd in horrible repose
- They raise him, bear him; hush! he breathes, he speaks,
- The swarthy blush recolours in his cheeks; His lip resumes its red; his eye, though dim, Rolls wide and wild; each slowly quivering limb

- Recalls its function; but his words are strung
- In terms that seem not of his native tongue, Distinct but strange — enough they understand
- To deem them accents of another land; And such they were, and meant to meet an
- ear
- That hears him not alas, that cannot hear!

XIV

- His page approach'd, and he alone appear'd To know the import of the words they heard;
- And, by the changes of his cheek and brow, They were not such as Lara should avow,
- Nor he interpret, yet with less surprise
- Than those around their chieftain's state he eyes. 240
- But Lara's prostrate form he bent beside, And in that tongue which seem'd his own replied,
- And Lara heeds those tones that gently seem
- To soothe away the horrors of his dream ---
- If dream it were, that thus could overthrow
- A breast that needed not ideal woe.

xv

- Whate'er his frenzy dream'd or eye beheld, —
- If yet remember'd ne'er to be reveal'd, Rests at his heart; the custom'd morning came,
- And breathed new vigour in his shaken frame. 250
- And solace sought he none from priest nor leech,
- And soon the same in movement and in speech

As heretofore he fill'd the passing hours;

- Nor less he similes, nor more his forehead lowers,
- Than these were wont; and if the coming night

Appear'd less welcome now to Lara's sight,

- He to his marvelling vassals show'd it not, Whose shuddering proved their fear was less forgot
- In trembling pairs (alone they dared not) crawl
- The astomsh'd slaves, d shun the fated hall; 260

The waving banner, and the clapping door, The rustling tapestry, and the echoing floor; The long dim shadows of surrounding trees, The flapping bat, the might song of the

- breeze; Aught they behold or hear their thought appals,
- As evening saddens o'er the dark grey walls.

XVI

Vain thought ' that hour of ne'er unravell'd gloom

- Came not again, or Lara could assume
- A seeming of forgetfulness, that made
- H1s vassals more amazed nor less afraid — 270
- Had memory vanish'd then with sense restored ?
- Since word, nor look, nor gesture of their lord

Betray'd a feeling that recall'd to these

That fever'd moment of his mind's disease

- Was it a dream? was his the voice that spoke
- Those strange wild accents; his the cry that broke
- Their slumber? his the oppress'd, o'erlabour'd heart
- That ceased to beat, the look that made them start?
- Could he who thus had suffer'd so forget,
- When such as saw that suffering shudder yet? 280

Or did that silence prove his memory fix'd Too deep for words, indelible, unmix'd

In that corroding secrecy which gnaws

The heart to show the effect but not the cause ?

Not so in him; his breast had buried both,

- Nor common gazers could discern the growth
- Of thoughts that mortal hps must leave half told;
- They choke the feeble words that would unfold.

xvII

In him inexplicably mix'd appear'd

Much to be loved and hated, sought and fear'd. 290

Opinion varying o'er his hidden lot,

- In praise or railing ne'er his name forgot;
- His silence form'd a theme for others' prate; They guess'd, they gazed, they fain would know his fate.

What had he been? what was he, thus unknown,

- Who walk'd their world, his lineage only known?
- A hater of his kind? yet some would say,

With them he could seem gay amidst the gay;

- But own'd that smile, if oft observed and near,
- Waned in its mirth and wither'd to a sneer; 300
- That smile might reach his lip but pass'd not by,
- None e'er could trace its laughter to his eye.
- Yet there was softness too in his regard,
- At times, a heart as not by nature hard,

But once perceived, his spirit seem'd to chide

- Such weakness as unworthy of its pride,
- And steel'd itself, as scorning to redeem
- One doubt from others' half withheld esteem;
- In self-inflicted penance of a breast
- Which tenderness might once have wrung from rest; 31C
- In vigilance of grief that would compel The soul to hate for having loved too well.

XVIII

There was in him a vital scorn of all:

- As if the worst had fall'n which could befall,
- He stood a stranger in this breathing world,
- An erring spirit from another hurl'd;
- A thing of dark imaginings, that shaped
- By choice the perils he by chance escaped: But 'scaped in vain, for in their memory yet
- His mind would half exult and half regret. 320
- With more capacity for love than earth Bestows on most of mortal mould and
- birth,
- His early dreams of good outstripp'd the truth,
- And troubled manhood follow'd baffled youth;
- With thought of years in phantom chase misspent,
- And wasted powers for better purpose lent; And fiery passions that had pour'd their wrath
- In hurried desolation o'er his path,

And left the better feelings all at strife

In wild reflection o'er his stormy life; 330 But haughty still and loth himself to blame, He call'd on Nature's self to share the shame, And charged all faults upon the fleshly form

She gave to clog the soul and feast the worm;

Till he at last confounded good and ill, And half mistook for fate the acts of will.

Too high for common selfishness, he could

At times resign his own for others' good,

But not in pity, not because he ought, 33

But in some strange perversity of thought, That sway'd him onward with a secret pride

To do what few or none would do beside;

And this same impulse would, in tempting time,

Mislead his spirit equally to crime;

So much he soar'd beyond, or sunk beneath,

The men with whom he felt condemn'd to breathe,

And long'd by good or ill to separate

Himself from all who shared his moi tal state. His mind abhorring this had fix'd her throne Far from the world, in regions of her own. Thus coldly passing all that pass'd below, 351 His blood in temperate seeming now would flow:

Ah ! happier if it ne'er with guilt had glow'd, But ever in that icy smoothness flow'd !

'T is true, with other men their path he walk'd,

And like the rest in seeming did and talk'd, Nor outraged Reason's rules by flaw nor start.

His madness was not of the head, but heart; And rarely wander'd in his speech, or drew His thoughts so forth as to offend the view.

XIX

With all that chilling mystery of mien, 361 And seeming gladness to remain unseen,

He had (if 't were not nature's boon) an art Of fixing memory on another's heart

- It was not love perchance, nor hate, nor aught
- That words can image to express the thought;

But they who saw him did not see in vain,

- And once beheld, would ask of hum agam, And those to whom he spake remember'd
- well,
- And on the words, however light, would dwell 379

None knew, nor how, nor why, but he entwined

Himself perforce around the hearer's mind; There he was stamp'd, in liking, or in hate, If greeted once; however brief the date

That friendship, pity, or aversion knew,

Still there within the inmost thought he grew.

You could not penetrate his soul, but found, Despite your wonder, to your own he wound;

H₁s presence haunted still; and from the breast

He forced an all unwilling interest: 380 Vain was the struggle m that mental net, His spirit seem'd to dare you to forget !

XX

- There is a festival, where knights and dames,
- And aught that wealth or lofty lineage claims,

Appear — a highborn and a welcome guest To Otho's hall came Lara with the rest.

The long carousal shakes the illumined hall,

Well speeds alke the banquet and the ball; And the gay dance of bounding Beauty's train 389

Links grace and harmony in happiest chain Blest are the early hearts and gentle hands That mingle there in well according bands; It is a sight the careful brow might smooth,

- And make Age smile and dream itself to youth,
- And Youth forget such hour was past on earth.

So springs the exulting bosom to that mirth!

XXI

And Lara gazed on these, sedately glad,

His brow belied him if his soul was sad;

- And his glance follow'd fast each fluttering fair,
- Whose steps of lightness woke no echo there. 400

He lean'd against the lofty pillar nigh,

- With folded arms and long attentive eye,
- Nor mark'd a glance so sternly fix'd on his —

Ill brook'd high Lara scrutiny like this.

At length he caught it — 't is a face unknown,

But seems as searching his, and his alone; Prying and dark, a stranger's by his mien, Who still till now had gazed on him unseen: 410

372

- At length encountering meets the mutual gaze
- Of keen enquiry and of mute amaze.
- On Lara's glance emotion gathering grew,
- As if distrusting that the stranger threw;
- Along the stranger's aspect, fix'd and stern,
- Flash'd more than thence the vulgar eye could learn.

XXII

- "T is he !' the stranger cried, and those that heard
- Re-echo'd fast and far the whisper'd word.
- "T is he!' --- "T is who?' they question far and near,
- Till louder accents rung on Lara's ear;
- So widely spread, few bosoms well could brook
- The general marvel, or that single look.
- But Lara stirr'd not, changed not, the surprise 421
- That sprung at first to his arrested eyes
- Seem'd now subsided, neither sunk nor raised
- Glanced his eye round, though still the stranger gazed;
- And drawing nigh, exclaim'd, with haughty sneer,
- "T is he ! how came he thence ? what doth he here ? '

XXIII

It were too much for Lara to pass by

Such questions, so repeated fierce and high;

With look collected, but with accent cold,

- More mildly firm than petulantly bold, 430
- He turn'd, and met the inquisitorial tone —
- 'My name is Lara ! when thine own is known,
- Doubt not my fitting answer to requite
- The unlock'd for courtesy of such a knight.
- 'T is Lara ! further wouldst thou mark or ask ?
- I shun no question, and I wear no mask.'
- 'Thou shunn'st no question ! Ponder 1s there none
- Thy heart must answer, though thine ear would shun?
- And deem'st thou me unknown too ? Gaze again ! 439
- At least thy memory was not given in vain.

Oh ! never canst thou cancel half her debt, Eternity forbids thee to forget.'

- With slow and searching glance upon his face
- Grew Lara's eyes, but nothing there could trace
- They knew, or chose to know: with dubious look
- He deign'd no answer, but his head he shook,
- And half contemptuous turn'd to pass away, But the stern stranger motion'd him to stay.
- 'A word!—I charge thee stay, and answer here
- To one, who, wert thou noble, were thy peer; 450
- But as thou wast and art nay, frown not, lord,
- If false, 't is easy to disprove the word -
- But as thou wast and art, on thee looks down,
- Distrusts thy smiles, but shakes not at thy frown.
- Art thou not he? whose deeds —_' 'Whate'er I be,
- Words wild as these, accusers like to thee,
- I has no further; those with whom they weigh
- May hear the rest, nor venture to gamsay The wondrous tale no doubt thy tongue can
- tell, 459 Which thus begins so courteously and well.
- Let Otho cherish here his polish'd guest,
- To him my thanks and thoughts shall be express'd.'
- And here their wondering host hath interposed:
- Whate'er there be between you undisclosed,
- This is no time nor fitting place to mar
- The mirthful meeting with a wordy war.
- If thou, Sir Ezzelin, hast aught to show
- Which it befits Count Lara's ear to know,
- To-morrow, here or elsewhere, as may best Beseem your mutual judgment, speak the
- rest; 47^o I pledge myself for thee, as not unknown,
- Though, like Count Lara, now return'd alone
- From other lands, almost a stranger grown;
- And if from Lara's blood and gentle birth
- I augur right of courage and of worth,
- He will not that untainted line belie,
- Nor aught that knighthood may accord, deny.'

- 'To-morrow be it,' Ezzelin replied,
- And here our several worth and truth be trued;
- I gage my life, my falchion to attest 480
- My words, so may I mingle with the blest !'
- What answers Lara? to its centre shrunk His soul, in deep abstraction sudden sunk; The words of many, and the eyes of all
- That there were gather'd, seem'd on him to fall:
- But his were silent, his appear'd to stray

In far forgetfulness away - away -

Alas ! that heedlessness of all around

Bespoke remembrance only too profound.

XXIV

- 'To-morrow ! ay, to-morrow !' further word
- Than those repeated none from Lara heard;
- Upon his brow no outward passion spoke;
- From his large eye no flashing anger broke; Yet there was something fix'd in that low
- tone, Which show'd possing determined they al
- Which show'd resolve, determined, though unknown.
- He seized his cloak, his head he slightly bow'd,
- And passing Ezzelin, he left the crowd;
- And, as he pass'd him, smiling met the frown
- With which that chieftain's brow would bear him down.
- It was nor smile of mirth, nor struggling pride 500
- That curbs to scorn the wrath it cannot hide;
- But that of one in his own heart secure
- Of all that he would do, or could endure.
- Could this mean peace? the calmness of the good?

Or guilt grown old in desperate hardihood ? Alas! too like in confidence are each,

- For man to trust to mortal look or speech;
- From deeds, and deeds alone, may he discern
- Truths which it wrings the unpractised heart to learn

xxv

- And Lara call'd his page, and went his way — 510
- Well could that stripling word or sign obey: His only follower from those climes afar,
- Where the soul glows beneath a brighter star

(For Lara left the shore from whence he sprung),

In duty patient, and sedate though young; Silent as him he served, his faith appears

- Above his station, and beyond his years
- Though not unknown the tongue of Lara's land,
- In such from him he rarely heard command;
- But fleet his step, and clear his tones would come, 520
- When Lara's lip breathed forth the words of home:

Those accents, as his native mountains dear, Awake their absent echoes in his ear,

- Friends', kindred's, parents', wonted voice recall,
- Now lost, abjured, for one his friend, his all:
- For him earth now disclosed no other guide;
- What marvel then he rarely left his side?

XXVI

- Light was his form, and darkly delicate
- That brow whereon his native sun had sate,
- But had not marr'd (though in his beams he grew) 530
- The cheek where oft the unbidden blush shone through;
- Yet not such blush as mounts when health would show
- All the heart's hue in that delighted glow; But 't was a hectic tint of secret care
- That for a burning moment fever'd there;
- And the wild sparkle of his eye seem'd caught
- From high, and lighten'd with electric thought,
- Though its black orb those long low lashes' fringe

Had temper'd with a melancholy tinge;

- Yet less of sorrow than of pride was there, Or, if 't were grief, a grief that none should share.
- And pleased not him the sports that please his age,

The tricks of youth, the frolics of the page; For hours on Lara he would fix his glance,

As all-forgotten in that watchful trance;

- And from his chief withdrawn, he wander'd lone,
- Brief were his answers, and his questions none;

- His walk the wood, his sport some foreign book,
- His resting-place the bank that curbs the brook.

He seem'd, like him he served, to live apart 550

- From all that lures the eye and fills the heart;
- To know no brotherhood, and take from earth

No gift beyond that bitter boon - our birth.

XXVII

If aught he loved, 't was Lara; but was shown

His faith in reverence and in deeds alone,

- In mute attention, and his care, which guess'd
- Each wish, fulfill'd it ere the tongue express'd.
- Still there was haughtiness in all he did,

A spirit deep that brook'd not to be chid;

- His zeal, though more than that of servile hands, 560
- In act alone obeys, his air commands;
- As if 't was Lara's less than his desire
- That thus he served, but surely not for hire.
- Slight were the tasks enjoin'd him by his lord,
- To hold the stirrup, or to bear the sword;
- To tune his lute, or, if he will'd it more,
- On tomes of other times and tongues to pore;
- But ne'er to mingle with the menial train,
- To whom he show'd nor deference nor disdain,
- But that well-worn reserve which proved he knew 570

No sympathy with that familiar crew:

His soul, whate'er his station or his stem,

Could bow to Lara, not descend to them.

Of higher birth he seem'd, and better days, Nor mark of vulgar toil that hand betrays,

So femininely white it might bespeak

- Another sex, when match'd with that smooth cheek,
- But for his garb, and something in his gaze, More wild and high than woman's eye betrays;

A latent fierceness that far more became

- His fiery climate than his tender frame: 581 True, in his words it broke not from his breast.
- But from his aspect might be more than guess'd.

- Kaled his name, though rumour said he bore
- Another ere he left his mountain-shore;
- For sometimes he would hear, however nigh,
- That name repeated loud without reply,
- As unfamiliar, or, if roused again,
- Start to the sound, as but remember'd then; Unless 't was Lara's wonted voice that spake, 590
- For then, ear, eyes, and heart would all awake.

XXVIII

He had look'd down upon the festive hall,

- And mark'd that sudden strife so mark'd of all;
- And when the crowd around and near him told
- Their wonder at the calmness of the bold,
- Their marvel how the high-born Lara bore
- Such insult from a stranger, doubly sore,
- The colour of young Kaled went and came,

The lip of ashes, and the cheek of flame;

- And o'er his brow the dampening heartdrops threw 600
- The sickening iciness of that cold dew,
- That rises as the busy bosom sinks
- With heavy thoughts from which reflection shrinks.
- Yes there be things which we must dream and dare,
- And execute ere thought be half aware:
- Whate'er might Kaled's be, it was enow
- To seal his lip, but agonise his brow.
- He gazed on Ezzelin till Lara cast
- That sidelong smile upon the knight he past; 609
- When Kaled saw that smile his visage fell, As if on something recognised right well;

His memory read in such a meaning more

- Than Lara's aspect unto others wore.
- Forward he sprung a moment, both were gone,
- And all within that hall seem'd left alone;
- Each had so fix'd his eye on Lara's mien,
- All had so mix'd their feelings with that scene,
- That when his long dark shadow through the porch

No more relieves the glare of yon high torch, Each pulse beats quicker, and all bosoms seem

To bound as doubting from too black a dream,

Such as we know is false, yet dread in sooth,

Because the worst is ever nearest truth. And they are gone — but Ezzelin is there, With thoughtful visage and imperious ar; But long remain'd not; ere an hour expired He waved his hand to Otho, and retired.

XXIX

The crowd are gone, the revellers at rest; The courteous host, and all-approving guest, Again to that accustom'd couch must creep

- Where joy subsides, and sorrow sighs to sleep, 631
- sleep, 631 And man, o'erlaboured with his being's strife.
- Shrinks to that sweet forgetfulness of life.
- There he love's feverish hope, and cunning's
- guile,
- Hate's working brain, and lull'd ambition's wile;

O'er each vain eye oblivion's pinions wave,

- And quench'd existence crouches in a grave. What better name may slumber's bed be-
- come?
- Night's sepulchre, the universal home,
- Where weakness, strength, vice, virtue, sunk supine, 640
- Alike in naked helplessness recline;
- Glad for awhile to heave unconscious breath,
- Yet wake to wrestle with the dread of death,
- And shun, though day but dawn on ills increased,
- That sleep, the loveliest, since it dreams the least.

CANTO THE SECOND

I

- NIGHT wanes, the vapours round the mountains curl'd
- Melt into morn, and Light awakes the world.
- Man has another day to swell the past,

And lead him near to little, but his last;

- But mighty Nature bounds as from her birth,
- The sun is in the heavens, and life on earth;
- Flowers in the valley, splendour in the beam,
- Health on the gale, and freshness in the stream.

Immortal man ! behold her glories shine,

- And cry, exulting inly, 'They are thine !' Gaze on, while yet thy gladden'd eye may see:
- A morrow comes when they are not for thee:
- And grieve what may above thy senseless bier,
- Nor earth nor sky will yield a single tear; Nor cloud shall gather more, nor leaf shall fall.
- Nor gale breathe forth one sigh for thee, for all:

But creeping things shall revel in their spoil, And fit thy clay to fertilise the soil.

11

- 'T is morn 't is noon; assembled in the hall
- The gather'd chieftams come to Otho's call. 20
- 'T is now the promised hour, that must proclaim

The life or death of Lara's future fame:

- When Ezzelin his charge may here unfold, And whatsoe'er the tale, it must be told.
- His faith was pledged, and Lara's promise given,

To meet it in the eye of man and heaven.

- Why comes he not? Such truths to be divulged.
- Methinks the accuser's rest is long indulged.

III

The hour is past, and Lara too is there,

With self-confiding, coldly patient air; 30 Why comes not Ezzelm? The hour is past,

- And murmurs rise, and Otho's brow's o'ercast.
- 'I know my friend! his faith I cannot fear,

If yet he be on earth, expect him here;

- The roof that held him in the valley stands Between my own and noble Lara's lands;
- My halls from such a guest had honour gain'd,
- Nor had Sır Ezzelin his host disdain'd,
- But that some previous proof forbade his stay, 39
- And urged him to prepare against to-day.
- The word I pledged for his I pledge again, Or will myself redeem his knighthood's stam.'
- He ceased; and Lara answer'd, 'I am here To lend at thy demand a listening ear

To tales of evil from a stranger's tongue,	So httle sparing to the foe he fell'd,
Whose words already might my heart have	That when the approaching crowd his arm
wrung,	withheld, 80
But that I deem'd him scarcely less than	He almost turn'd the thirsty point on those mad,	Who thus for mercy dared to interpose:
Or, at the worst, a foe ignobly bad.	But to a moment's thought that purpose
I know him not — but me it seems he	bent;
knew	Yet look'd he on him still with eye intent,
In lands where, but I must not trifle too:	As if he loathed the ineffectual strife
Produce this babbler — or redeem the	That left a foe, howe'er o'erthrown, with pledge, 5 ^r	life;
Here in thy hold, and with thy falchion's	As if to search how far the wound he gave edge.'	Had sent its victum onward to his grave.
Proud Otho, on the instant reddening, threw His glove on earth, and forth his sabre flew: 'The last alternative befits me best, And thus I answer for mine absent guest.' With cheek unchanging from its sallow gloom, However near his own or other's tomb; With hand, whose almost careless coolness spoke Its grasp well-used to deal the sabre-stroke; With eye, though calm, determined not to spare, 6 Did Lara too his willing weapon bare. In vain the circling chieftains round them closed, For Otho's frenzy would not be opposed; And from his hp those words of insult fell - His sword is good who can maintain them well IV Short was the conflict; furious, blindly rash, Vain Otho gave his bosom to the gash. He bled, and fell; but not with deadly wound, Stretch'd by a dextrous sleight along the ground 70 'Demand thy life !' He answer'd not: and then From that red floor he ne'er had risen again, For Lara's brow upon the moment grew Almost to blackness m its demon hue; And fiercer shook his angry falchion now Than when his foe's was levell'd at his brow; Then all was stern collectedness and art,	V They raised the bleeding Otho, and the Leech Forbade all present question, sign, and speech; The others met within a neighbouring hall, And he, incensed and heedless of them all, The cause and conqueror in this sudden fray, In haughty silence slowly strode away. He back'd his steed, his homeward path he took, Nor cast on Otho's towers a single look. VI But where was he, that meteor of a night, Who menaced but to disappear with light ? Where was this Ezzelm, who came and went To leave no other trace of his intent ? roo He left the dome of Otho, long ere morn, In darkness, yet so well the path was worn He could not miss it near his dwelling lay; But there he was not, and with coming day Came fast enquiry, which unfolded nought Except the absence of the chief it sought. A chamber tenantless, a steed at rest, His host alarm'd, his murmuring squires distress'd. Their search extends along, around, the path, In dread to meet the marks of prowlers' wrath rio But none are there, and not a brake hath borne Nor gout of blood, nor shred of mantle torn; Nor fall nor struggle hath defaced the grass,
Now rose the unleaven'd hatred of his	Which still retains a mark where murder heart;	was;

- Nor dabbling fingers left to tell the tale,
- The bitter print of each convulsive nail, When agonized hands that cease to guard,

Wound in that pang the smoothness of the sward.

Some such had been, if here a life was reft, But these were not; and doubting hope is left. 120 And strange suspicion, whispering Lara's

name, Now daily mutters o'er his blacken'd fame; Then, sudden silent when his form appear'd.

Awaits the absence of the thing it fear'd,

Again its wonted wondering to renew,

And dye conjecture with a darker hue.

VII

- Days roll along, and Otho's wounds are heal'd,
- But not his pride, and hate no more conceal'd.

He was a man of power, and Lara's foe,

- The friend of all who sought to work him woe,
- And from his country's justice now demands Account of Ezzelin at Lara's hands.
- Who else than Lara could have cause to fear
- His presence ? who had made him disappear,

If not the man on whom his menaced charge Had sate too deeply were he left at large? The general rumour ignorantly loud,

The mystery dearest to the curious crowd; The seeming friendlessness of him who strove

To win no confidence, and wake no love:

The sweeping fierceness which his soul betray'd, 141

The skill with which he wielded his keen blade;

Where had his arm unwarlike caught that art?

- Where had that fierceness grown upon his heart ?
- For it was not the blind capricious rage

A word can kindle and a word assuage;

But the deep working of a soul unmix'd

With aught of pity where its wrath had fix'd;

Such as long power and overgorged success

Concentrates into all that 's merciless. 150 These, link'd with that desire which ever sways

Mankind, the rather to condemn than praise,

'Gainst Lara gathering raised at length a storm,

Such as himself might fear, and foes would form,

And he must answer for the absent head Of one that haunts him still, alive or dead.

VIII

Within that land was many a malcontent,

- Who cursed the tyranny to which he bent; That soil full many a wringing despot saw, Who work'd his wantonness in form of
- law. róo Long war without and frequent broil within

Had made a path for blood and giant sin, That waited but a signal to begin

New havoc, such as civil discord blends,

Which knows no neuter, owns but foes or friends;

Fix'd in his feudal fortress each was lord, In word and deed obey'd, in soul abhorr'd

Thus Lara had inherited his lands,

And with them pining hearts and sluggish hands; 169

But that long absence from his native clime Had left him stainless of oppression's crime,

And now, diverted by his milder sway,

All dread by slow degrees had worn away.

The menuals felt their usual awe alone,

- But more for him than them that fear was grown;
- They deem'd him now unhappy, though at first

Their evil judgment augur'd of the worst,

And each long restless night and silent mood

Was traced to sickness, fed by solitude.

- And though his lonely habits threw of late Gloom o'er his chamber, cheerful was his gate, 181
- For thence the wretched ne'er unsoothed withdrew,
- For them, at least, his soul compassion knew

Cold to the great, contemptuous to the high,

The humble pass'd not his unheeding eye; Much he would speak not, but beneath his roof

They found asylum oft and ne'er reproof

And they who watch'd might mark that, day by day,

Some new retainers gather'd to his sway. But most of late, since Ezzelin was lost,

He play'd the courteous lord and bounteous host:

1X Perchance his strife with Otho made him dread Throughout that clime the feudal chiefs Some snare prepared for his obnoxious head; had gain'd Whate'er his view, his favour more obtains Such sway, their infant monarch hardly With these, the people, than his fellow reign'd. thanes Now was the hour for faction's rebel If this were policy, so far 't was sound, growth, The million judged but of him as they The Serfs contemn'd the one, and hated found; both. From him by sterner chiefs to exile driven They waited but a leader, and they found They but required a shelter, and 't was One to their cause inseparably bound, given. By circumstance compell'd to plunge again, By him no peasant mourn'd his rifled cot, 200 In self-defence, amidst the strife of men. And scarce the Serf could murmur o'er his Cut off by some mysterious fate from those lot; Whom birth and nature meant not for his With him old avarice found its hoard sefoes, cure. Had Lara from that night, to him accurst, With him contempt forbore to mock the Prepared to meet, but not alone, the worst. Some reason urged, whate'er it was, to poor; Youth present cheer and promised recomshun pense Enquiry into deeds at distance done: 239 Detain'd, till all too late to part from By mingling with his own the cause of all, thence. E'en if he fail'd, he still delay'd his fall. To hate he offer'd, with the coming change, The sullen calm that long his bosom kept, The deep reversion of delay'd revenge; The storm that once had spent itself and To love, long baffled by the unequal match, slept, The well-worn charms success was sure to Roused by events that seem'd foredoom'd snatch. to urge All now was ripe, he waits but to pro-His gloomy fortunes to their utmost verge, claim Burst forth, and made him all he once had 210 That slavery nothing which was still a been, name. And is again; he only changed the scene. The moment came, the hour when Otho Light care had he for life, and less for thought fame. Secure at last the vengeance which he But not less fitted for the desperate game: sought. He deem'd himself mark'd out for others' His summons found the destined criminal hate. And mock'd at ruin so they shared his Begirt by thousands in his swarming hall, Fresh from their feudal fetters newly riven, fate Defying earth and confident of heaven. What cared he for the freedom of the That morning he had freed the soil-bound crowd? He raised the humble but to bend the slaves Who dig no land for tyrants but their proud. graves ! He had hoped quiet in his sullen lair, Such is their cry-some watchword for But man and destiny beset him there: Inured to hunters, he was found at bay; the fight 220 Must vindicate the wrong and warp the And they must kill, they cannot snare the right; prey. Religion, freedom, vengeance, what you Stern, unambitious, silent, he had been Henceforth a calm spectator of life's scene; will – A word 's enough to raise mankind to kill; But dragg'd again upon the arena, stood Some factious phrase by cunning caught A leader not unequal to the feud: 261 and spread, In voice, mien, gesture, savage nature That guilt may reign, and wolves and spoke, worms be fed ! And from his eye the gladiator broke.

What boots the oft-repeated tale of strife, The feast of vultures, and the waste of life?

The varying fortune of each separate field, The fierce that vanquish, and the famt that vield?

The smoking ruin, and the crumbled wall?

- In this the struggle was the same with all;
- Save that distemper'd passions lent their force 270

In bitterness that banish'd all remorse.

None sued, for Mercy knew her cry was vain.

The captive died upon the battle-plain.

In either cause, one rage alone possess'd

The empire of the alternate victor's breast;

And they that smote for freedom or for sway,

- Deem'd few were slain, while more remain'd to slay.
- It was too late to check the wasting brand, And Desolation reap'd the famish'd land;

The torch was lighted, and the flame was

- spread, 280
- And Carnage smiled upon her daily dead.

XI

Fresh with the nerve the new-born impulse strung,

The first success to Lara's numbers clung[•] But that vain victory hath runed all; They form no longer to their leader's call: In blind confusion on the foe they press, And think to snatch is to secure success. The lust of booty and the thirst of hate Lure on the broken brigands to their fate[•] In vain he doth whate'er a chief may do, 290 To check the headlong fury of that crew; In vain their stubborn ardour he would tame, The hand that kindles cannot quench the flame:

The wary for alone hath turn'd their mood, And shown their rashness to that erring brood.

- The feign'd retreat, the nightly ambuscade,
- The daily harass, and the fight delay'd,

The long privation of the hoped supply,

- The tentless rest beneath the humid sky, The stubborn wall that mocks the leaguer's art.
- And palls the patience of his baffled heart, ---

Of these they had not deem'd: the battle-day They could encounter as a veteran may; But more preferr'd the fury of the strife, And present death, to hourly suffering life. And famme wrings, and fever sweeps away His numbers melting fast from their array; Intemperate trumph fades to discontent, And Lars's soul alone seems still unbent.

- But few remain to aid his voice and hand,
- And thousands dwindled to a scanty band: Desperate, though few, the last and best remain'd

To mourn the discipline they late disdain'd. One hope survives, the frontier is not far,

And thence they may escape from native war:

And bear within them to the neighbouring state

An exile's sorrows or an outlaw's hate: Hard is the task their father-land to quit, But harder still to perish or submit.

$\mathbf{X}\mathbf{I}\mathbf{I}$

- It is resolved, they march consenting Night 320
- Guides with her star their dum and torehless flight.

Already they perceive its trangul beam

Sleep on the surface of the barrier stream; Already they descry — is yon the bank?

- Away! 't is lined with many a hostile rank.
- Return or fly !-- What glitters in the rear?
- 'T is Otho's banner, the pursuer's spear !
- Are those the shepherds' fires upon the height?
- Alas ' they blaze too widely for the flight:
- Cut off from hope, and compass'd in the toil.
- Less blood perchance hath bought a richer spoil !

XIII

- A moment's pause 't is but to breathe their band,
- Or shall they onward press, or here withstand?

It matters little; if they charge the foes

- Who by their border-stream their march oppose,
- Some few, perchance, may break and pass the line,
- However link'd to baffle such design.
- 'The charge be ours ! to wait for their assault

Were fate well worthy of a coward's halt.'

Forth flies each sabre, rein'd is every steed, And the next word shall scarce outstrip the deed: 341

In the next tone of Lara's gathering breath How many shall but hear the voice of death!

XIV

His blade is bared, — in him there is an air As deep, but far too tranquil for despair;

- A something of indifference more than then
- Becomes the bravest, if they feel for men.
- He turn'd his eye on Kaled, ever near,

And still too faithful to betray one fear;

- Perchance 't was but the moon's dim twilight threw 350
- Along his aspect an unwonted hue
- Of mournful paleness, whose deep tint express'd

The truth, and not the terror of his breast This Lara mark'd, and laid his hand on his: It trembled not in such an hour as this;

His hp was silent, scarcely beat his heart,

- His eye alone proclann'd, 'We will not part !
- Thy band may perish, or thy friends may flee,
- Farewell to life, but not adieu to thee !'
- The word hath pass'd his lips, and onward driven, 360
- Pours the link'd band through ranks asunder riven;
- Well has each steed obey'd the armed heel, And flash the scimitars, and rings the steel;
- Outnumber'd, not outbraved, they still op-
- Despair to daring, and a front to foes,
- And blood is mingled with the dashing stream,
- Which runs all redly till the morning beam

$\mathbf{X}\mathbf{V}$

Commanding, aiding, animating all,

- Where foe appear'd to press, or friend to fall, Cheers Lara's voice, and waves or strikes his steel, 370
- Inspiring hope himself had ceased to feel None fled, for well they knew that flight
- were vain;
- But those that waver turn to smite again, While yet they find the firmest of the foe Recoil before their leader's look and blow. Now girt with numbers, now almost alone, He foils their ranks, or re-unites his own;

Himself he spared not — once they seem'd to fly —

Now was the time, he waved his hand on high,

- And shook Why sudden droops that plumèd crest? 380
- The shaft is sped, the arrow's in his breast!
- That fatal gesture left the unguarded side,
- And Death hath stricken down yon arm of pride
- The word of triumph fainted from his tongue,
- That hand, so raised, how droopingly it hung !
- But yet the sword instructively retains,
- Though from its fellow shrink the falling reins;

These Kaled snatches: dizzy with the blow, And senseless bending o'er his saddle-bow, Perceives not Lara that his anxious page 390 Beguiles his charger from the combat's rage

Meantime his followers charge, and charge again;

Too mix'd the slayers now to heed the slam!

XVI

Day glimmers on the dying and the dead,

- The cloven cuirass, and the helmless head.
- The war-horse masterless is on the earth,
- And that last gasp hath burst his bloody girth;
- And near, yet quivering with what life remain'd,
- The heel that urged him and the hand that rem'd;

And some too near that rolling torrent lie,

- Whose waters mock the hp of those that due;
- That panting thirst which scorches in the breath

Of those that die the soldier's fiery death,

- In vain impels the burning mouth to crave One drop — the last — to cool it for the grave;
- With feeble and convulsive effort swept,
- Their lumbs along the crunson'd turf have crept;
- The faint remains of life such struggles waste,
- But yet they reach the stream, and bend to taste
- They feel its freshness, and almost partake — 410
- Why pause ? No further thirst have they to slake —

It is unquench'd, and yet they feel it not; It was an agony — but now forgot ! XVII Beneath a lime, remoter from the scene, Where but for him that strife had never been, A breathing but devoted warrior lay: 'T was Lara bleeding fast from life away. His follower once, and now his only guide, Kneels Kaled watchful o'er his welling side, And with his scarf would stanch the tides that rush, 420 With each convulsion, in a blacker gush; And then, as his faint breathing waxes low. In feebler, not less fatal tricklings flow: He scarce can speak, but motions him 't is vain, And merely adds another throb to pain. He clasps the hand that pang which would assuage, And sadly smiles his thanks to that dark	They spake of other scenes, but wha known To Kaled, whom their meaning re- alone; And he replied, though faintly, to sound, While gazed the rest in dumb amaz round. They seem'd even then, that twain the last To half forget the present in the pass To share between themselves some set fate, Whose darkness none beside should trate. XIX Their words though faint were ma from the tome Their import those who heard could alone; From this, you might have deem'd Kaled's death
nor sees, Save that damp brow which rests upon his knees;	So sad, so deep, and hesitating broke The accents his scarce-moving pal spoke;
Save that pale aspect, where the eye, though dum, 43° Held all the light that shone on earth for him.	But Lara's voice, though low, at fir clear And calm, till murmuring death hoarsely near.
	But from his visage little could we a

XVIII

- The foe arrives, who long had search'd the field,
- Their triumph nought till Lara too should vield
- They would remove him, but they see 't were vain;
- And he regards them with a calm disdain,
- That rose to reconcile him with his fate And that escape to death from living hate.
- And Otho comes, and leaping from his
- steed, Looks on the bleeding foe that made him
- bleed.
- And questions of his state; he answers not,
- Scarce glances on hum as on one forgot, 441 And turns to Kaled: - each remaining
- word
- They understood not, if distinctly heard;
- His dying tones are in that other tongue,
- To which some strange remembrance wildly clung.

- t is
- each'd
- their
- ement
- , unto 450
- t;
- parate
- pene-
- any —
- judge
- young
- ce and

- le lips
- st was 460
- gasp'd
- guess.
- So unrepentant, dark, and passionless,
- Save that when struggling nearer to his last,

Upon that page his eye was kindly cast;

And once, as Kaled's answering accents ceased,

Rose Lara's hand, and pointed to the East,

- Whether (as then the breaking sun from high
- Roll'd back the clouds) the morrow caught his eye,
- Or that 't was chance, or some remember'd scene,
- That raised his arm to point where such had been,
- Scarce Kaled seem'd to know, but turn'd away,

As if his heart abhorr'd that coming day,

- And shrunk his glance before that morning light,
- To look on Lara's brow where all grew night

- Yet sense seem'd left, though better were its loss;
- For when one near display'd the absolving cross,
- And proffer'd to his touch the holy bead,
- Of which his parting soul might own the need,
- He look'd upon it with an eye profane, 480
- And smiled Heaven pardon! if 't were with disdain.
- And Kaled, though he spoke not, nor withdrew
- From Lara's face his fix'd despairing view,
- With brow repulsive, and with gesture swift,
- Flung back the hand which held the sacred gift,
- As if such but disturb'd the expiring man, Nor seem'd to know his life but then began;
- That life of Immortality, secure
- To none, save them whose faith in Christ is sure
 - XX
- But gasping heaved the breath that Lara drew, 490
- And dull the film along his dim eye grew;
- His lumbs stretch'd fluttering, and his head droop'd o'er
- The weak yet still untiring knee that bore; Hepress'd the hand he held upon his heart—
- It beats no more, but Kaled will not part
- With the cold grasp, but feels, and feels in vain,
- For that faint throb which answers not again.
- 'It beats !' Away, thou dreamer ! he is gone ---
- It once was Lara which thou look'st upon.

XXI

He gazed, as if not yet had pass'd away 500

The haughty spirit of that humble clay;

- And those around have roused him from his trance,
- But cannot tear from thence his fixed glance;
- And when, in raising him from where he bore
- Within his arms the form that felt no more,
- He saw the head his breast would still sustain,
- Roll down like earth to earth upon the plain;

He did not dash himself thereby, nor tear The glossy tendrils of his raven hair,

- But strove to stand and gaze, but reel'd and fell, 510
- Scarce breathing more than that he loved so well; --
- Than that he loved ! Oh ! never yet beneath
- The breast of man such trusty love may breathe !
- That trying moment hath at once reveal'd

The secret long and yet but half conceal'd; In baring to revive that lifeless breast,

- Its grief seem'd ended, but the sex confess'd;
- And life return'd, and Kaled felt no shame —
- What now to her was Womanhood or Fame?

XXII

- And Lara sleeps not where his fathers sleep, 520
- But where he died his grave was dug as deep;
- Nor is his mortal slumber less profound,
- Though priest nor bless'd, nor marble deck'd the mound;
- And he was mourn'd by one whose quiet grief,
- Less loud, outlasts a people's for their chief.

Vain was all question ask'd her of the past,

- And vam e'en menace silent to the last;
- She told nor whence, nor why she left behind

Her all for one who seem'd but httle kind.

Is human love the growth of human will?

- To her he might be gentleness; the stern
- Have deeper thoughts than your dull eyes discern,
- And when they love, your smilers guess not how
- Beats the strong heart, though less the lips avow.
- They were not common links, that form'd the cham
- That bound to Lara Kaled's heart and brain;
- But that wild tale she brook'd not to unfold,
- And seal'd is now each lip that could have told.

crime,

course,

horse,

bore,

the shore,

snatch,

seem'd to watch,

Himself unheeded watch'd the stranger's

Who reach'd the river, bounded from his

And lifting thence the burthen which he

Heaved up the bank, and dash'd it from

Then paused, and look'd, and turn'd, and

And still another hurried glance would

JARA 303
XXIII They laid him in the earth, and on his breast, 540 Besides the wound that sent his soul to rest, They found the scatter'd dints of many a scar, Which were not planted there in recent war.	And follow with his step the stream that flow'd, 570 As if even yet too much its surface show'd. At once he started, stoop'd, around him strown The winter floods had scatter'd heaps of stone; Of these the heaviest thence he gather'd
Where'er had pass'd his summer years of life, It seems they vanish'd in a land of strife; But all unknown his glory or his guilt, These only told that somewhere blood was	And slung them with a more than common care. Meantime the Serf had crept to where un- seen
spilt, And Ezzelın, who might have spoke the past, Return'd no more — that night appear'd his last. 549	Himself might safely mark what this might mean; He caught a glimpse, as of a floating breast, And something glitter'd starlike on the vest; But ere he well could mark the buoyant trunk, 580
XXIV Upon that night (a peasant's is the tale) A Serf that cross'd the intervening vale, When Cynthia's light almost gave way to morn	A massy fragment smote it, and it sunk: It rose again, but indistinct to view, And left the waters of a purple hue, Then deeply disappear'd. The horseman gazed
 And nearly veil'd in mist her waning horn, — A Serf, that rose betimes to thread the wood, And hew the bough that bought his chil- 	Till ebb'd the latest eddy it had raised; Then turning, vaulted on his pawing steed, And instant spurr'd him into panting speed. His face was mask'd — the features of the dead, dren's food, Pass'd by the river that divides the plain Of Otho's lands and Lara's broad domam He heard a tramp – a horse and horse- man broke	If dead it were, escaped the observer's dread; But if in sooth a star its bosom bore, 590 Such is the badge that knighthood ever wore,
From out the wood — before him was a cloak Wrapt round some burthen at his saddle- bow, 560 Bent was his head, and hidden was his brow Roused by the sudden sight at such a time,	And such 't is known Sir Ezzelin had worn Upon the night that led to such a morn. If thus he perish'd, Heaven receive his soul ! His undiscover'd limbs to ocean roll; And charity upon the hope would dwell It was not Lara's hand by which he fell.
And some foreboding that it might be

xxv

And Kaled - Lara - Ezzelin, are gone, Alike without their monumental stone !

The first, all efforts vainly strove to wean

From lungering where her chieftain's blood had been 60 I

Grief had so tamed a spirit once too proud, Her tears were few, her wailing never loud; But furious would you tear her from the spot

Where yet she scarce believed that he was not,

Her eye shot forth with all the living fire

That haunts the tigress in her whelpless ire,

But left to waste her weary moments there, She talk'd all idly unto shapes of air, 609 Such as the busy brain of Sorrow paints,

And woos to listen to her fond complaints.

And she would sit beneath the very tree

Where lay his drooping head upon her knee;

And in that posture where she saw him fall, His words, his looks, his dying grasp recall; And she had shorn, but saved her raven hair, And oft would snatch it from her bosom there,

And fold, and press it gently to the ground,

As if she stanch'd anew some phantom's wound.

Herself would question, and for him reply; Then rising, start, and beckon him to fly

From some imagined spectre in pursuit;

Then seat her down upon some linden's root,

And hide her visage with her meagre hand,

Or trace strange characters along the sand \cdot —

This could not last — she lies by him she loved,

Her tale untold, her truth too dearly proved.

THE SIEGE OF CORINTH

то

JOHN HOBHOUSE, ESQ THIS POEM IS INSCRIBED BY HIS FRIEND.

January 22, 1816

ADVERTISEMENT

'The grand army of the Turks (in 1715), under the Prime Vizier, to open to themselves a way into the heart of the Morea, and to form the siege of Napoli di Romania, the most considerable place in all that country, thought it best in the first place to attack Corinth, upon which they made several storms The garrison being weakened, and the governor seeing it was impossible to hold out against so mighty a force, thought it fit to beat a parley: but while they were treating about the articles, one of the magazines in the Turkish camp, wherein they had six hundred barrels of powder, blew up by accident, whereby six or seven hundred men were killed; which so enraged the mfidels, that they would not grant any capitulation, but stormed the place with so much fury, that they took it, and put most of the garnson, with Sigmor Minotti, the governor, to the sword. The rest, with Antonio Bembo, proveditor extraordinary, were made prisoners of war' — History of the Turks, vol. in. p. 151.

In the year since Jesus died for men,

Eighteen hundred years and ten,

We were a gallant company,

Riding o'er land and sailing o'er sea.

Oh, but we went merrily !

We forded the river, and clomb the high hill,

Never our steeds for a day stood still; Whether we lay in the cave or the shed, Our sleep fell soft on the hardest bed; Whether we couch'd in our rough capote, 10 On the rougher plank of our gliding boat,

Or stretch'd on the beach, or our saddles spread

As a pillow beneath the resting head, Fresh we woke upon the morrow.

All our thoughts and words had scope, We had health, and we had hope,

Toil and travel, but no sorrow.

We were of all tongues and creeds; -

Some were those who counted beads,

Some of mosque, and some of church, 20 And some, or I mis-say, of neither;

Yet through the wide world might ye search,

Nor find a motlier crew nor blither.

But some are dead, and some are gone, And some are scatter'd and alone,

And some are rebels on the hills

That look along Epirus' valleys,

Where freedom still at moments rallies And pays in blood oppression's ills;

And some are in a far countree, And some all restlessly at home;

But never more, oh, never, we Shall meet to revel and to roam.

But those hardy days flew cheerily, And when they now fall drearly, My thoughts, like swallows, skim the main, And bear my spirit back again Over the earth, and through the air, A wild bird and a wanderer. 'T is this that ever wakes my strain, And oft, too oft, implores again

384

The few who may endure my lay, To follow me so far away Stranger, wilt thou follow now, And sit with me on Acro-Corinth's brow?

ľ

Many a vanish'd year and age, And tempest's breath, and battle's rage, Have swept o'er Corinth; yet she stands, A fortress form'd to Freedom's hands. The whirlwind's wrath, the earthquake's shock, 50

Have left untouch'd her hoary rock, The keystone of a land, which still, Though fall'n, looks proudly on that hill, The landmark to the double tide That purpling rolls on either side, As if their waters chafed to meet, Yet pause and crouch beneath her feet. But could the blood before her shed Since first Timoleon's brother bled, Or baffled Persia's despot fled, 60 Arise from out the earth which drank The stream of slaughter as it sank, That sanguine ocean would o'erflow Her isthmus idly spread below: Or could the bones of all the slain, Who perish'd there, be piled again, That rival pyramid would rise More mountain-like, through those clear skies, Than yon tower-capp'd Acropolis Which seems the very clouds to kiss.

1

On dun Cithæron's ridge appears The gleam of twice ten thousand spears; And downward to the Isthmian plam, From shore to shore of either main, The tent is pitch'd, the crescent shines Along the Moslem's leaguering lines; And the dusk Spahi's bands advance Beneath each bearded pacha's glance; And far and wide as eye can reach The turban'd cohorts throng the beach; 80 And there the Arab's camel kneels, And there his steed the Tartar wheels; The Turcoman hath left his herd, The sabre round his loins to gird; And there the volleying thunders pour Till waves grow smoother to the roar. The trench is dug, the cannon's breath Wings the far hissing globe of death; Fast whirl the fragments from the wall Which crumbles with the ponderous ball;

And from that wall the foe replies, O'er dusty plan and smoky skies, With fires that answer fast and well The summons of the Infidel

ш

But near and nearest to the wall Of those who wish and work its fall, With deeper skill in war's black art Than Othman's sons, and high of heart As any chief that ever stood Trumphant in the fields of blood; 100 From post to post, and deed to deed, Fast spurring on his reeking steed, Where sallying ranks the trench assail And make the foremost Moslem quail; Or where the battery, guarded well, Remains as yet impregnable, Alighting cheerly to inspire The soldier slackening in his fire; The first and freshest of the host Which Stamboul's sultan there can boast. 110 To guide the follower o'er the field, To point the tube, the lance to wield, Or whirl around the bickering blade; -

IV

Was Alp, the Adrian renegade !

From Venice — once a race of worth His gentle sires - he drew his birth; But late an exile from her shore, Against his countrymen he bore The arms they taught to bear; and now The turban girt his shaven brow Through many a change had Corinth pass'd With Greece to Venice' rule at last; And here, before her walls, with those To Greece and Venice equal foes, He stood a foe, with all the zeal Which young and fiery converts feel, Within whose heated bosom throngs The memory of a thousand wrongs. To him had Venice ceased to be Her ancient civic boast — 'the Free;' 130 And in the palace of St Mark Unnamed accusers in the dark Within the 'Lion's mouth' had placed A charge against him uneffaced He fled in time, and saved his life, To waste his future years in strife, That taught his land how great her loss In him who triumph'd o'er the Cross, 'Gainst which he rear'd the Crescent high, And battled to avenge or die. T AB

v

Coumourgi, he whose closing scene Adorn'd the triumph of Eugene, When on Carlowitz' bloody plain, The last and mightnest of the slam, He sank, regretting not to die, But cursed the Christian's victory — Coumourgi, can his glory cease, That latest conqueror of Greece, Till Christian hands to Greece restore The freedom Venice gave of yore? A hundred years have roll'd away Since he refix'd the Moslem's sway, And now he led the Mussulman, And gave the guidance of the van To Alp, who well repaid the trust By cities levell'd with the dust; And proved, by many a deed of death, How firm his heart in novel faith.

VI

The walls grew weak; and fast and hot Against them pour'd the ceaseless shot, 160 With unabating fury sent From battery to battlement; And thunder-like the pealing din Rose from each heated culverin And here and there some crackling dome Was fired before the exploding bomb; And as the fabric sank beneatl The shattering shell's volcanic breath, In red and wreathing columns flash'd The flame, as loud the rum crash'd, 170 Or into countless meteors driven, Its earth-stars melted into heaven; Whose clouds that day grew doubly dun, Impervious to the hidden sun, With volumed smoke that slowly grew To one wide sky of sulphurous hue.

VII

But not for vengeance, long delay'd, Alone, dud Alp, the renegade, The Moslem warriors sternly teach His skill to pierce the promised breach. 180 Within these walls a maid was pent His hope would win without consent Of that inexorable sire, Whose heart refused him in its ire, Whose heart refused him in its ire, When Alp, beneath his Christian name, Her virgin hand aspired to claum In happier mood and earlier time, While unimpeach'd for traitorous crime, Gayest in gondola or hall, He glitter'd through the Carnival; 190 And tuned the softest serenade That e'er on Adrıa's waters play'd At mıdnight to Italıan maid.

VIII

And many deem'd her heart was won; For sought by numbers, given to none, Had young Francesca's hand remain'd Still by the church's bonds unchain'd. And when the Adriatic bore Lanciotto to the Paynim shore, Her wonted smiles were seen to fail, 200 And pensive wax'd the maid and pale; More constant at confessional, More rare at masque and festival; Or seen at such, with downcast eyes Which conquer'd hearts they ceased to prize With listless look she seems to gaze; With humbler care her form arrays; Her voice less lively in the song; Her step, though light, less fleet among The pairs, on whom the Morning's glance Breaks, yet unsated with the dance. 211

IX

Sent by the state to guard the land (Which, wrested from the Moslem's hand, While Sobieski tamed his pride By Buda's wall and Danube's side, The chiefs of Venice wrung away From Patra to Eubœa's bay), Minotti held in Corinth's towers The Doge's delegated powers, While yet the pitying eye of Peace 220 Smiled o'er her long forgotten Greece. And ere that faithless truce was broke Which freed her from the unchristian yoke, With hum his gentle daughter came; Nor there, since Menelaus' dame Forsook her lord and land, to prove What woes await on lawless love, Had fairer form adorn'd the shore Than she, the matchless stranger, bore.

х

The wall is rent, the ruins yawn; 230 And, with to-morrow's earliest dawn, O'er the disjointed mass shall vault The foremost of the fierce assault. The bands are rank'd; the chosen van Of Tartar and of Mussulman, The full of hope, misnamed 'forlorn,' Who hold the thought of death in scorn, And win their way with falchion's force, Or pave the path with many a corse 239

O'er which the following brave may rise, Their stepping-stone — the last who dies !

хı

'T is midnight: on the mountains brown The cold, round moon shines deeply down; Blue roll the waters, blue the sky Spreads like an ocean hung on high, Bespangled with those isles of light, So wildly, spiritually bright; -Who ever gazed upon them shming And turn'd to earth without repining, Nor wish'd for wings to flee away, 250 And mix with their eternal ray? The waves on either shore lay there Calm, clear, and azure as the air; And scarce their foam the pebbles shook. But murmur'd meekly as the brook. The winds were pillow'd on the waves; The banners droop'd along their staves, And, as they fell around them furling, Above them shone the crescent curling. And that deep silence was unbroke, 260 Save where the watch his signal spoke. Save where the steed neigh'd oft and shrill, And echo answer'd from the hill, And the wide hum of that wild host Rustled like leaves from coast to coast. As rose the Muezzin's voice in air In midnight call to wonted prayer: It rose, that chanted mournful strain, Like some lone spirit's o'er the plain; 'T was musical, but sadly sweet, 270 Such as when winds and harp-strings meet, And take a long unmeasured tone, To mortal minstrelsy unknown. It seem'd to those within the wall A cry prophetic of their fall It struck even the besieger's ear With something ominous and drear, An undefined and sudden thrill Which makes the heart a moment still, Then beat with quicker pulse, ashamed 280 Of that strange sense its silence framed; Such as a sudden passing-bell Wakes, though but for a stranger's knell.

XII

The tent of Alp was on the shore;

The sound was hush'd, the prayer was o'er;

'The watch was set, the night-round made, All mandates issued and obey'd. 'T is but another anxious night,

His pains the morrow may requite

With all revenge and love can pay, 200 In guerdon for their long delay. Few hours remain, and he hath need Of rest, to nerve for many a deed Of slaughter; but within his soul The thoughts like troubled waters roll. He stood alone among the host; Not his the loud fanatic boast To plant the crescent o'er the cross, Or risk a life with little loss, Secure in paradise to be 300 By Houris loved unmortally. Nor his, what burning patriots feel, The stern exaltedness of zeal, Profuse of blood, untired in toil, When battling on the parent soil. He stood alone — a renegade Against the country he betray'd; He stood alone amidst his band, Without a trusted heart or hand. They follow'd him, for he was brave, 310 And great the spoil he got and gave; They crouch'd to him, for he had skill To warp and wield the vulgar will: But still his Christian origin With them was little less than sin. They envied even the faithless fame He earn'd beneath a Moslem name; Since he, their mightiest chief, had been In youth a bitter Nazarene. They did not know how pride can stoop, 320 When baffled feelings withering droop; They did not know how hate can burn In hearts once changed from soft to stern; Nor all the false and fatal zeal The convert of revenge can feel.

He ruled them - man may rule the worst, By ever daring to be first; So lions o'er the jackal sway; The jackal points, he fells the prey, Then on the vulgar, yelling, press 33Q To gorge the relics of success

XIII

His head grows fever'd and his pulse The quick successive throbs convulse; In vain from side to side he throws His form, in courtship of repose; Or if he dozed, a sound, a start Awoke him with a sunken heart. The turban on his hot brow press'd, The mail weigh'd lead-like on his breast, Though oft and long beneath its weight Upon his eyes had slumber sate, 348

Without or couch or canopy, Except a rougher field and sky Than now might yield a warrior's bed, Than now along the heaven was spread. He could not rest, he could not stay Within his tent to wait for day, But walk'd him forth along the sand, Where thousand sleepers strew'd the strand. What pillow'd them? and why should he 350

More wakeful than the humblest be. Since more their peril, worse their toil? And yet they fearless dream of spoil; While he alone, where thousands pass'd A night of sleep, perchance their last, In sickly vigil wander'd on, And envied all he gazed upon.

XIV

He felt his soul become more light Beneath the freshness of the night. Cool was the silent sky, though calm, 360 And bathed his brow with airy balm. Behind, the camp; before him lay, In many a winding creek and bay, Lepanto's gulf; and, on the brow Of Delphi's hill, unshaken snow, High and eternal, such as shone Through thousand summers brightly gone, Along the gulf, the mount, the clime: It will not melt, like man, to time. Tyrant and slave are swept away, 370 Less form'd to wear before the ray But that white veil, the lightest, frailest, Which on the mighty mount thou hailest, While tower and tree are torn and rent, Shines o'er its craggy battlement: In form a peak, in height a cloud, In texture like a hovering shroud, Thus high by parting Freedom spread, As from her fond abode she fled, And linger'd on the spot, where long 380 Her prophet spirit spake in song Oh! still her step at moments falters O'er wither'd fields, and ruin'd altars, And fam would wake, in souls too broken, By pointing to each glorious token: But vain her voice, till better days Dawn in those yet remember'd rays, Which shone upon the Persian flying, And saw the Spartan smile in dying.

xv

Not mindless of these mighty times 390 Was Alp, despite his flight and crimes;

And through this night, as on he wander'd, And o'er the past and present ponder'd, And thought upon the glorious dead Who there in better cause had bled, He felt how faint and feebly dim The fame that could accrue to him, Who cheer'd the band and waved the sword, A traitor in a turban'd horde; And led them to the lawless siege. 400 Whose best success were sacrilege. Not so had those his fancy number'd, The chiefs whose dust around hun slumber'd: Their phalaux marshall'd on the plain, Whose bulwarks were not then in vain. They fell devoted, but undying; The very gale their names seem'd sighing The waters murmur'd of their name; The woods were peopled with their fame; The silent pillar, lone and grey, 410 Claim'd kindred with their sacred clay; Their spirits wrapp'd the dusky mountain, Their memory sparkled o'er the fountam; The meanest rill, the mightiest river Roll'd mingling with their fame for ever Despite of every yoke she bears, That land is glory's still and theirs ! "T is still a watch-word to the earth: When man would do a deed of worth He points to Greece, and turns to tread, So sanction'd, on the tyrant's head; 421 He looks to her, and rushes on Where life is lost, or freedom won.

XVI

Still by the shore Alp mutely mused, And woo'd the freshness Night diffused. There shrinks no ebb in that tideless sea, Which changeless rolls eternally; So that wildest of waves, in their angriest mood,

- Scarce break on the bounds of the land for a rood;
- And the powerless moon beholds them flow 430

Heedless if she come or go:

Calm or high, in main or bay,

On their course she hath no sway.

The rock unworn its base doth bare,

And looks o'er the surf, but it comes not there:

And the fringe of the foam may be seen below

On the line that it left long ages ago:

1
A smooth short space of yellow sand	Who had stolen from the hills, but kept
Between it and the greener land.	away, Scared by the dogs, from the human prey;
He wander'd on, along the beach, 440 Till within the range of a carbine's reach	But he seized on his share of a steed that
Of the leaguer'd wall; but they saw him	Pick'd by the birds, on the sands of the
Or how could he 'scape from the hostile	bay.
shot?	XVII
Did traitors lurk in the Christians' hold? Were their hands grown stiff, or their hearts wax'd cold?	Alp turn'd him from the sickening sight: Never had shaken his nerves in fight; 480 But he better could brook to behold the
I know not, in sooth; but from yonder wall There flash'd no fire and there hiss'd no	dying, Deep in the tide of their warm blood ly-
ball,	mg,
Though he stood beneath the bastion's frown, That flank'd the sea-ward gate of the town;	Scorch'd with the death-thirst, and writhing in vain,
Though he heard the sound, and could al-	Than the perishing dead who are past all
most tell 450 The sullen words of the sentinel,	pain. There is something of pride in the perilous
As his measured step on the stone below	hour,
Clank'd, as he paced it to and fro;	Whate'er be the shape in which death may lower;
And he saw the lean dogs beneath the wall Hold o'er the dead their carnival,	For Fame is there to say who bleeds,
Gorging and growling o'er carcass and	And Honour's eye on daring deeds ! But when all is past, it is humbling to tread limb; They were too busy to bark at him !	O'er the weltering field of the tombless
From a Tartar's skull they had stripp'd the	dead, 490
flesh, As ye peel the fig when its fruit is fresh;	And see worms of the earth, and fowls of the air,
And their white tusks crunch'd o'er the	Beasts of the forest, all gathering there;
460 As it shpp'd through their jaws, when their	All regarding man as their prey, All rejoicing in his decay.
edge grew dull,	xviii
As they lazily mumbled the bones of the dead,	There is a temple in ruin stands,
When they scarce could rise from the spot	Fashion'd by long forgotten hands;
where they fed; So well had they broken a lingering fast	Two or three columns, and many a stone, Marble and granite, with grass o'ergrown !
With those who had fallen for that night's	Out upon Time! it will leave no more repast. And Alp knew, by the turbans that roll'd	Of the things to come than the things be- fore! 500
on the sand,	Out upon Time ' who for ever will leave
The foremost of these were the best of his band.	But enough of the past for the future to grieve
Crimson and green were the shawls of their	O'er that which hath been, and o'er that which must be:
wear, And each scalp had a single long tuft of	What we have seen, our sons shall see;
hair,	Remnants of things that have pass'd away, Fragments of stone, rear'd by creatures of
All the rest was shaven and bare. 470 The scalps were in the wild dog's maw,	clay !
The hair was tangled round his jaw.	XIX
But close by the shore, on the edge of the gulf,	He sate him down at a pillar's base,
There sat a vulture flapping a wolf	And pass'd his hand athwart his face.

Like one in dreary musing mood. Declining was his attitude; 510 His head was drooping on his breast. Fever'd, throbbing, and oppress'd; And o'er his brow, so downward bent, Oft his beating fingers went. Hurriedly, as you may see Your own run over the ivory key. Ere the measured tone is taken By the chords you would awaken. There he sate all heavily, As he heard the night-wind sigh 520 Was it the wind, through some hollow stone, Sent that soft and tender moan? He lifted his head, and he look'd on the sea, But it was unrippled as glass may be; He look'd on the long grass - it waved not a blade; How was that gentle sound convev'd? He look'd to the banners - each flag lay still. So did the leaves on Cithæron's hill. And he felt not a breath come over his cheek; What did that sudden sound bespeak? 530

He turn'd to the left — is he sure of sight? There sate a lady, youthful and bright!

XX

He started up with more of fear Than if an armèd foe were near. 'God of my fathers ! what is here ? Who art thou, and wherefore sent So near a hostile armament ? ' His trembling hands refused to sign The cross he deem'd no more divune: He had resumed it in that hour, 540 But conscience wrung away the power. He gazed, he saw: he knew the face Of beauty, and the form of grace; It was Francesca by his side, The maid who might have been his bride !

The rose was yet upon her cheek, But mellow'd with a tenderer streak: Where was the play of her soft lips fled? Gone was the smile that enliven'd their red. The ocean's calm within their view, Beside her eye had less of blue; But like that cold wave it stood still, And its glance, though clear, was chill. Around her form a thin robe twining, Nought conceal'd her bosom shining; Through the parting of her hair, Floating darkly downward there, Her rounded arm show'd white and bare. And ere yet she made reply,

Once she raised her hand on high; 560 It was so wan and transparent of hue,

You might have seen the moon shine through.

XXI

' I come from my rest to him I love best, That I may be happy, and he may be bless'd. I have pass'd the guards, the gate, the wall; Sought thee in safety through foes and all. 'T is said the lion will turn and flee From a maid in the pride of her purity; And the Power on high, that can shield the good Thus from the tyrant of the wood, 570 Hath extended its mercy to guard me as well From the hands of the leaguering infidel. I come — and if I come in vain, Never, oh never, we meet again ! Thou hast done a fearful deed In falling away from thy father's creed. But dash that turban to earth, and sign The sign of the cross, and for ever be mine; Wring the black drop from thy heart, And to-morrow unites us no more to part.' 'And where should our bridal couch be spread ? In the midst of the dying and the dead? For to-morrow we give to the slaughter and flame The sons and the shrines of the Christian name.

None, save thou and thine, I've sworn,

Shall be left upon the morn: But thee will I bear to a lovely spot,

Where our hands shall be join'd, and our sorrow forgot.

There thou yet shalt be my bride, When once agam I 've quell'd the pride Of Venice; and her hated race 591 Have felt the arm they would debase Scourge, with a whip of scorpions, those Whom vice and envy made my foes.'

Upon his hand she laid her own — Light was the touch, but it thrill'd to the bone, And shot a chillness to his heart, Which fix'd him beyond the power to start. Though slight was that grasp so mortal cold.

He could not loose him from its hold; 600

But never did clasp of one so dear Strike on the pulse with such feeling of fear, As those thin fingers, long and white, Froze through his blood by their touch that night. The feverish glow of his brow was gone, And his heart sank so still that it felt like stone,	There is a light cloud by the moon — 'T is passing, and will pass full soon — If, by the time its vapoury sail Hath ceased her shaded orb to veil, Thy heart within thee is not changed, Then God and man are both avenged; Dark will thy doom be, darker still Thine immortality of ill.' 650
As he look'd on the face, and beheld its hue,	Alp look'd to heaven, and saw on high
So deeply changed from what he knew, —	The sign she spake of in the sky;
Fair but faint, without the ray	But his heart was swollen, and turn'd aside
Of mind, that made each feature play 610	By deep interminable pride:
Like sparkling waves on a sunny day.	This first false passion of his breast
And her motionless lips lay still as death,	Roll'd like a torrent o'er the rest.
And her words came forth without her	He sue for mercy ! He dismay'd breath,	By wild words of a timid maid !
And there rose not a heave o'er her bosom's	He, wrong'd by Venice, vow to save swell,	Her sons, devoted to the grave ! 600
And there seem'd not a pulse in her veins	No — though that cloud were thunder's to dwell.	worst?
Though her eye shone out, yet the lids were fix'd, And the glance that it gave was wild and unmix'd With aught of change, as the eyes may seem Of the restless who walk in a troubled dream; Like the figures on arras, that gloomily	And charged to crush him — let it burst ! He look'd upon it earnestly, Without an accent of reply; He watch'd it passing; it is flown. Full on his eye the clear moon shone, And thus he spake. 'Whate'er my fate, I am no changeling — 't is too late;
glare, 620	The reed in storms may bow and quiver,
Stirr'd by the breath of the wintry air,	Then rise again; the tree must shiver. 670
So seen by the dying lamp's fitful light,	What Venuce made me, I must be,
Lifeless, but life-like, and awful to sight;	Her foe in all, save love to thee.
As they seem, through the dimness, about	But thou art safe; oh, fly with me l'
to come down	He turn'd, but she is gone !
From the shadowy wall where their images	Nothing is there but the column stone.
frown;	Hath she sunk in the earth, or melted in air ?
Fearfully flitting to and fro,	He saw not — he knew not — but nothing
As the gusts on the tapestry come and go.	is there.
'If not for love of me be given	XXII
Thus much, then, for the love of heaven, —	The night is past, and shines the sun
Again I say, — that turban tear 630	As if that morn were a jocund one.
From off thy faithless brow, and swear	Lightly and brightly breaks away 380
Thine injured country's sons to spare,	The Morning from her mantle grey,
Or thou art lost; and never shalt see —	And the Noon will look on a sultry day.
Not earth, that's past — but heaven or me.	Hark to the trump, and the drum,
If this thou dost accord, albeit	And the mournful sound of the barbarous
A heavy doom 't is thine to meet,	horn,
That doom shall half absolve thy sin,	And the flap of the banners that flit as
And mercy's gate may receive thee within.	they're borne,
But pause one moment more, and take	And the neigh of the steed, and the multi-
The curse of Him thou dudst forsake; 640	tude's hum,
And look once more to heaven, and see	And the clash, and the shout, 'They come !
Its love for ever shut from thee.	they come !'

The horsetails are pluck'd from the ground, Though with fiery eyes, and angry roar, and the sword And hoofs that stamp, and horns that From its sheath; and they form, and but gore, wait for the word. He tramples on earth, or tosses on high Tartar, and Spahi, and Turcoman, The foremost who rush on his strength but 690 Strike your tents, and throng to the van; to die: Mount ye, spur ye, skirr the plain, Thus against the wall they went, That the fugitive may flee in vain Thus the first were backward bent. 730 When he breaks from the town, and none Many a bosom, sheathed in brass, escape, Strew'd the earth like broken glass, Aged or young, in the Christian shape; Shiver'd by the shot that tore While your fellows on foot, in a fiery mass, The ground whereon they moved no more. Bloodstain the breach through which they Even as they fell, in files they lay; Like the mower's grass at the close of day pass. The steeds are all bridled, and snort to the When his work is done on the levell'd rein; plain, Curved is each neck, and flowing each mane; Such was the fall of the foremost slain. White is the foam of their champ on the XXIV bit The spears are uplifted; the matches are lit; As the spring-tides, with heavy plash, The cannon are pointed, and ready to roar, From the cliffs invading dash 740 And crush the wall they have crumbled Huge fragments, sapp'd by the ceaseless before. flow Forms in his phalanx each Janizar; Till white and thundering down they go, Alp at their head; his right arm is bare, Like the avalanche's snow So is the blade of his scimitar; On the Alpine vales below; The khan and the pachas are all at their Thus at length, outbreathed and worn, Corinth's sons were downward borne post; The vizier himself at the head of the host. By the long and oft renew'd When the culverin's signal is fired, then on; Charge of the Moslem multitude. Leave not in Corinth a living one -In firmness they stood, and in masses they 710 A priest at her altars, a chief in her halls, fell, A hearth in her mansions, a stone on her Heap'd by the host of the mfidel, 750 walls. Hand to hand, and foot to foot. Nothing there, save death, was mute; God and the Prophet - Alla Hu! Stroke, and thrust, and flash, and cry Up to the skies with that wild halloo ! 'There the breach lies for passage, the For quarter, or for victory, ladder to scale; Mingle there with the volleying thunder, And your hands on your sabres, and how should ye fail? Which makes the distant cities wonder How the sounding battle goes, If with them or for their foes; He who first downs with the red cross may If they must mourn, or may rejoice crave His heart's dearest wish, let him ask it, In that annihilating voice, and have !' Which pierces the deep hills through and Thus utter'd Coumourgi, the dauntless through vizier; With an echo dread and new: The reply was the brandish of sabre and You might have heard it, on that day, spear, O'er Salamis and Megara 720 And the shout of fierce thousands in joyous (We have heard the hearers say), Èven unto Piræus' bay. ire:-Silence — hark to the signal — fire ! XXV XXIII From the point of encountering blades to As the wolves, that headlong go the hilt. On the stately buffalo, Sabres and swords with blood were gilt;

But the rampart is won, and the spoil be-	Not a stone on their turf, nor a bone in gun,	their graves;
And all but the after carnage done. 770	But they live in the verse that immortally
Shriller shrieks now mingling come	saves.
From within the plunder'd dome.	VVIII
Hark to the haste of flying feet,	XXVI
That splash in the blood of the slippery	Hark to the Allah shout ! a band street; But here and there where wantage ground	Of the Mussulman bravest and best is at
But here and there, where 'vantage ground Against the foe may still be found,	hand 820
Desperate groups, of twelve or ten,	Their leader's nervous arm is bare, Swifter to smite, and never to spare —
Make a pause, and turn again —	Unclothed to the shoulder it waves them
With banded backs against the wall,	on:
Fiercely stand, or fighting fall. 780	Thus in the fight is he ever known.
, , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , ,	Others a gaudier garb may show,
There stood an old man-his hairs were	To tempt the spoil of the greedy foe;
white,	Many a hand 's on a richer hilt,
But his veteran arm was full of might:	But none on a steel more ruddily gilt;
So gallantly bore he the brunt of the	Many a loftier turban may wear, —
fray,	Alp is but known by the white arm bare;
The dead before him, on that day,	Look through the thick of the fight, 't is
In a semicircle lay;	there! 831
Still he combated unwounded,	There is not a standard on that shore
Though retreating, unsurrounded.	So well advanced the ranks before;
Many a scar of former fight	There is not a banner in Moslem war Will lung the Dolly a holf as for
Lurk'd beneath his corslet bright; But of every wound his body bore, 790	Will lure the Delhis half so far; It glances like a falling star!
Each and all had been ta'en before.	Where'er that mighty arm is seen,
Though aged, he was so iron of limb,	The bravest be, or late have been;
Few of our youth could cope with him;	There the craven cries for quarter
And the foes, whom he singly kept at	Vamly to the vengeful Tartar; 840 bay,	Or the hero, silent lying,
Outnumber'd his thin hairs of silver grey.	Scorns to yield a groan in dying;
From right to left his sabre swept:	Mustering his last feeble blow
Many an Othman mother wept	'Gainst the nearest levell'd foe,
Sons that were unborn, when dipp'd	Though faint beneath the mutual wound,
His weapon first in Moslem gore,	Grappling on the gory ground.
Ere his years could count a score. 800	XXVII
Of all he might have been the sire
Who fell that day beneath his ire:	Still the old man stood erect, And Alp's career a moment check'd.
For, sonless left long years ago, His wrath made many a childless foe;	'Yield thee, Minotti; quarter take,
And since the day, when in the strait	For thme own, thy daughter's sake.' 850
His only boy had met his fate,	Tor mane own, my daughter b same. 550
His parent's iron hand did doom	'Never, renegado, never !
More than a human hecatomb.	Though the life of thy gift would last for
If shades by carnage be appeased,	ever.'
Patroclus' spirit less was pleased 810
Than his, Minotti's son, who died	'Francesca ! — Oh, my promised bride !
Where Asia's bounds and ours divide.	Must she too perish by thy pride?'
Burned he lay, where thousands before	'She is safe.' 'Where? where?' 'In
For thousands of years were inhumed on	heaven;
the shore;	From whence thy traitor soul is driven —
What of them is left, to tell	Far from thee, and undefiled.'
Where they lie, and how they fell?	Grimly then Minotti smiled,

1
As he saw Alp staggering bow	Still the church is tenable, 910
Before his words, as with a blow. 860	Whence issued late the fated ball, That half avenged the city's fall,
'Oh God ! when died she?'-'Yester-	When Alp, her fierce assailant, fell.
night —	Thither bending sternly back,
Nor weep I for her spirit's flight:	They leave before a bloody track;
None of my pure race shall be	And, with their faces to the foe,
Slaves to Mahomet and thee.	Dealing wounds with every blow,
Come on !' — That challenge is in vain,	The chief, and his retreating train,
Alp's already with the slain !	Join to those within the fane.
While Minotti's words were wreaking	There they yet may breathe awhile, 920
More revenge in bitter speaking	Shelter'd by the massy pile.
Than his falchion's point had found,	XXIX
Had the time allow'd to wound, 870
From within the neighbouring porch	Brief breathing-time ' the turban'd host,
Of a long defended church, Where the last and desperate few	With adding ranks and raging boast,
Would the failing fight renew,	Press onwards with such strength and heat,
The sharp shot dash'd Alp to the ground.	Their numbers balk their own retreat;
Ere an eye could view the wound	For narrow the way that led to the spot
That crash'd through the brain of the infidel,	Where still the Christians yielded not;
Round he spun, and down he fell;	And the foremost, if fearful, may vainly
A flash like fire within his eyes	try
Blazed, as he bent no more to rise, 880	Through the massy column to turn and fly;
And then eternal darkness sunk	They perforce must do or die. 930
Through all the palpitating trunk;	They die; but ere their eyes could close,
Nought of life left, save a quivering	Avengers o'er their bodies rose.
Where his limbs were slightly shivering.	Fresh and furious, fast they fill
They turn'd him on his back; his breast	The ranks unthinn'd, though slaughter'd
And brow were stain'd with gore and dust,	still;
And through his lips the life-blood oozed	And faint the weary Christians wax
From its deep veins lately loosed.	Before the still renew'd attacks.
But in his pulse there was no throb,	And now the Othmans gain the gate;
Nor on his lips one dying sob; 890	Still resists its iron weight,
Sigh, nor word, nor struggling breath	And still, all deadly aim'd and hot,
Heralded his way to death	From every crevice comes the shot; 940
Ere his very thought could pray,	From every shatter'd window pour
Unaneled he pass'd away,	The volleys of the sulphurous shower.
Without a hope from mercy's aid, —	But the portal wavering grows and weak
To the last — a Renegade.	The iron yields, the hinges creak —
XXVIII	It bends — it falls — and all is o'er; Lost Coruth may resist no more !
Fearfully the yell arose	Son Corner may reproved the more :
Of his followers and his foes,	XXX
These in joy, in fury those.	Darkly, sternly, and all alone,
Then again in conflict mixing, 900	Minotti stood o'er the altar stone.
Clashing swords, and spears transfixing,	Madonna's face upon hum shone,

Painted in heavenly hues above,

With eyes of light and looks of love; And placed upon that holy shrine To fix our thoughts on things divine,

When pictured there, we kneeling see Her, and the boy-God on her knee,

Smiling sweetly on each prayer To heaven, as if to waft it there,

950

394

Interchanged the blow and thrust,

Street by street, and foot by foot, Still Minotti dares dispute

The remnant of his gallant band.

Hurling warriors in the dust.

The latest portion of the land Left beneath his high command; With him, aiding heart and hand, Still she smiled; even now she smiles, Though slaughter streams along her aisles. Minotti lifted his aged eye, 960 And made the sign of a cross with a sigh, Then seized a torch which blazed thereby;

And still he stood, while, with steel and flame,

Inward and onward the Mussulman came.

XXXI

The vaults beneath the mosaic stone

Contain'd the dead of ages gone; Their names were on the graven floor,

But now illegible with gore;

The carved crests, and curious hues

The varied marble's veins diffuse,

Were smear'd, and slippery — stain'd, and strown

With broken swords and helms o'erthrown. There were dead above, and the dead below

Lay cold in many a coffin'd row; You might see them piled in sable state, By a pale light through a gloomy grate; But War had enter'd their dark caves, And stored along the vaulted graves Her sulphurous treasures, thickly spread In masses by the fleshless dead. 980 Here, throughout the siege, had been The Christians' chiefest magazine; To these a late-form'd train now led, Minotti's last and stern resource Against the foe's o'erwhelming force.

XXXII

The foe came on, and few remain To strive, and those must strive in vain. For lack of further lives, to slake The thirst of vengeance now awake, With barbarous blows they gash the dead, And lop the already lifeless head, 991 And fell the statues from their niche, And spoil the shrines of offerings rich, And from each other's rude hands wrest The silver vessels saints had bless'd. To the high altar on they go; Oh, but it made a glorious show ! On its table still behold The cup of consecrated gold; Massy and deep, a glittering prize, 1000 Brightly it sparkles to plunderers' eves. That morn it held the holy wine, Converted by Christ to his blood so divine, Which his worshippers drank at the break of day,

To shrive their souls ere they join'd in the fray.

Still a few drops within it lay;

And round the sacred table glow

Twelve lofty lamps, in splendid row,

From the purest metal cast;

A spoil — the richest, and the last.

XXXIII

So near they came, the nearest stretch'd To grasp the spoil he almost reach'd,

When old Minotti's hand

Touch'd with the torch the train — 'T is fired !

- Spire, vaults, the shrine, the spoil, the slain,
 - The turban'd victors, the Christian band,

All that of living or dead remain,

Hurl'd on high with the shiver'd fane,

In one wild roar expired ! 1020 The shatter'd town — the walls thrown down —

The waves a moment backward bent — The hills that shake, although unrent,

As if an earthquake pass'd — The thousand shapeless things all driven In cloud and flame athwart the heaven,

By that tremendous blast — Proclam'd the desperate conflict o'er On that too long afflicted shore. Up to the sky like rockets go ro All that mmgled there below: Many a tall and goodly man, Scorch'd and shrivell'd to a span, When he fell to earth again Like a cmder strew'd the plain. Down the ashes shower like rain; Some fell in the gulf, which received the sprinkles With a thousand circling wrinkles; Some fell on the shore, but, far away, Scatter'd o'er the isthmus lay; Christian or Moslem, which be they? Let their mothers see and say ! When in cradled rest they lay, And each nursing mother smiled On the sweet sleep of her child, Little deem'd she such a day Would rend those tender limbs away. Not the matrons that them bore Could discern their offspring more; That one moment left no trace More of human form or face Save a scatter'd scalp or bone.

1030

1040

And down came blazing rafters, strown Around, and many a falling stone, Deeply dinted in the clay, All blacken'd there and reeking lay. All the living things that heard That deadly earth-shock disappear'd: The wild birds flew; the wild dogs fled, And howling left the unburied dead; 1060 The camels from their keepers broke; The distant steer forsook the yoke -The nearer steed plunged o'er the plain, And burst his girth, and tore his rein; The bull-frog's note, from out the marsh, Deep-mouth'd arose, and doubly harsh; The wolves yell'd on the cavern'd hill Where echo roll'd in thunder still; 'I he jackal's troop, in gather'd cry, Bay'd from afar complainingly, 1070 With a mix'd and mournful sound, Like crying babe and beaten hound: With sudden wing and ruffled breast, The eagle left his rocky nest, And mounted nearer to the sun, The clouds beneath him seem'd so dun; Their smoke assail'd his startled beak. And made him higher soar and shriek -Thus was Corinth lost and won !

PARISINA

то

SCROPE BERDMORE DAVIES, ESQ. THE FOLLOWING POEM IS INSCRIBED PY ONE WHO HAS LONG ADMIRED HIS TALENTS AND VALUED HIS FRIENDSHIP.

January 22, 1816

ADVERTISEMENT

The following poem is grounded on a circumstance mentioned in Gibbon's Antiquities of the House of Brunswick. I am aware, that in modern times the delicacy or fastidiousness of the reader may deem such subjects unfit for the purposes of poetry. The Greek dramatists, and some of the best of our old English writers, were of a different opinion: as Alfieri and Schiller have also been, more recently, upon the Continent. The following extract will explain the facts on which the story is founded The name of Azo is substituted for Nicholas, as more metrical.

'Under the reign of Nicholas III. Ferrara was polluted with a domestic tragedy. By the testimony of an attendant, and his own observation, the Marquis of Este discovered the incestnous loves of his wife Parisma and Hugo his bastard son, a beautiful and valiant youth. They were beheaded in the castle by the sentence of a father and husband, who published his shame, and survived their execution. He was unfortunate, if they were guilty if they were innocent, he was still more unfortunate; nor is there any possible situation in which I can sincerely approve the last act of the justice of a parent.' — GIBBON'S Miscellaneous Works, vol. iii. p. 470.

I

It is the hour when from the boughs The nightingale's high note is heard; It is the hour when lovers' vows

Seem sweet in every whisper'd word; And gentle winds, and waters near, Make music to the lonely ear Each flower the dews have lightly wet, And in the sky the stars are met, And on the wave is deeper blue, And on the leaf a browner hue, And in the heaven that clear obscure, So softly dark and darkly pure, Which follows the decline of day, As twilight melts beneath the moon away

10

11

But it is not to list to the waterfall That Parisina leaves her hall, And it is not to gaze on the heavenly light That the lady walks in the shadow of might. And if she sits in Este's bower, 'T is not for the sake of its full-blown flower; She listens, but not for the nightingale, 21 Though her ear expects as soft a tale. There glides a step through the foliage thick, And her cheek grows pale, and her heart beats quick.

There whispers a voice through the rustling leaves,

And her blush returns, and her bosom heaves: A moment more, and they shall meet; 'T is past — her lover 's at her feet.

III

And what unto them is the world beside, With all its change of time and tide? 30 Its living things, its earth and sky, Are nothing to their mind and eye. And heedless as the dead are they

Of aught around, above, beneath; As if all else had pass'd away,

They only for each other breathe;

60

80

Their very sighs are full of joy

So deep, that did it not decay, That happy madness would destroy

The hearts which feel its fiery sway. 40 Of guilt, of peril, do they deem In that tumultuous tender dream ? Who that have felt that passion's power, Or paused or fear'd in such an hour ? Or thought how brief such moments last? But yet — they are already past ! Alas ! we must awake before We know such vision comes no more.

IV

With many a lingering look they leave The spot of guilty gladness past;

And though they hope and vow, they grieve, As if that parting were the last.

The frequent sigh, the long embrace, The lip that there would cling for ever,

While gleams on Parisina's face The Heaven she fears will not forgive her,

As if each calmly conscious star Beheld her frailty from afar — The frequent sigh, the long embrace, Yet binds them to their trysting-place But it must come, and they must part In fearful heaviness of heart, With all the deep and shuddering chill Which follows fast the deeds of ill.

7

And Hugo is gone to his lonely bed, To covet there another's bride;

But she must lay her conscious head A husband's trusting heart beside. But fever'd in her sleep she seems,

And red her cheek with troubled dreams, And mutters she in her unrest 7¹⁷

A name she dare not breathe by day, And clasps her Lord unto the breast Which pants for one away And he to that embrace awakes, And, happy in the thought, mistakes That dreaming sigh and warm caress For such as he was wont to bless; And could in very fondness weep O'er her who loves him even in sleep.

VI

He clasp'd her sleeping to his heart, And listen'd to each broken word: He hears — Why doth Prince Azo start, As if the Archangel's voice he he d? And well he may — a deeper doom Could scarcely thunder o'er his tomb, When he shall wake to sleep no more, And stand the eternal throne before; And well he may — his earthly peace Upon that sound is doom'd to cease. That sleeping whisper of a name Bespeaks her guilt and Azo's shame. And whose that name ? that o'er his pillow

Sounds fearful as the breaking billow, Which rolls the plank upon the shore,

And dashes on the pointed rock The wretch who sinks to rise no more, ---

So came upon his soul the shock.

And whose that name ? 't is Hugo's, his — In sooth he had not deem'd of this ! 100 'T is Hugo's, — he, the child of one He loved — his own all-evil son — The offspring of his wayward youth, When he betray'd Bianca's truth, The maid whose folly could confide In him who made her not his bride.

VII

He pluck'd his poniard in its sheath, But sheathed it ere the point was bare; Howe'er unworthy now to breathe,

He could not slay a thing so fair — no At least not smiling, sleeping there.

Nay more: - he did not wake her then,

But gazed upon her with a glance

Which, had she roused her from her trance,

Had frozen her sense to sleep again;

And o'er his brow the burning lamp

Gleam'd on the dew-drops big and damp.

She spake no more, but still she slumber'd,

While in his thought her days are number'd.

VIII

And with the morn he sought, and fo In many a tale from those around, The proof of all he fear d to know, Their present guilt, his future woe. The long-connving damsels seek

To save themselves, and would transfer The guilt, the shame, the doom, to her. Concealment is no more; they speak All circumstance which may compel Full credence to the tale they tell; And Azo's tortured heart and ear Have nothing more to feel or hear.

IX

He was not one who brook'd delay: Within the chamber of his state,

The chief of Este's ancient sway Upon his throne of judgment sate. His nobles and his guards are there; Before him is the sinful pair, -Both young, and one how passing fair ! With swordless belt, and fetter'd hand, Oh, Christ! that thus a son should stand

Before a father's face ! Yet thus must Hugo meet his sire, And hear the sentence of his ire,

The tale of his disgrace ! And yet he seems not overcome, Although as yet his voice be dumb.

And still, and pale, and silently Did Parisina wait her doom;

How changed since last her speaking eye

Glanced gladness round the glittering room,

Where high-born men were proud to wait, Where Beauty watch'd to imitate

Her gentle voice, her lovely mien, And gather from her air and gait

The graces of its queen. Then, - had her eye in sorrow wept, A thousand warriors forth had leapt, A thousand swords had sheathless shone, And made her quarrel all their own. Now, — what is she ? and what are they ? Can she command or these obey ? 161 All silent and unheeding now, With downcast eyes and knitting brow, And folded arms, and freezing air, And lips that scarce their scorn forbear, Her knights and dames, her court - is there.

And he, the chosen one, whose lance Had yet been couch'd before her glance, Who — were his arm a moment free -Had died or gain'd her liberty; 170 The minion of his father's bride, -He, too, is fetter'd by her side; Nor sees her swoln and full eye swim Less for her own despair than him. Those lids, — o'er which the violet vein Wandering leaves a tender stain, Shining through the smoothest white That e'er did softest kiss invite, — Now seem'd with hot and livid glow To press, not shade, the orbs below;

Which glance so heavily, and fill, As tear on tear grows gathering still.

хī

And he for her had also wept, But for the eyes that on him gazed: His sorrow, if he felt it, slept;

Stern and erect his brow was raised. Whate'er the grief his soul avow'd, He would not shrink before the crowd. But yet he dared not look on her: Remembrance of the hours that were, -His guilt, his love, his present state, His father's wrath, all good men's hate, His earthly, his eternal fate ----And hers, — oh, hers ! — he dared not throw One look upon that deathlike brow, Else had his rising heart betray'd Remorse for all the wreck it made.

XII

And Azo spake: - 'But yesterday I gloried in a wife and son; That dream this morning pass'd away; 200 Ere day declines, I shall have none. My life must linger on alone; Well, — let that pass, — there breathes not one Who would not do as I have done. Those ties are broken - not by me; Let that too pass; — the doom's prepared ! Hugo, the priest awaits on thee, And then — thy crime's reward ! Away ! address thy prayers to Heaven, Before its evening stars are met -210 Learn if thou there canst be forgiven; Its mercy may absolve thee yet. But here, upon the earth beneath, There is no spot where thou and I Together, for an hour, could breathe. Farewell ! I will not see thee die -But thou, frail thing ! shalt view his head -

Away ! I cannot speak the rest.

Go ! woman of the wanton breast; Not I, but thou his blood dost shed: Go ! if that sight thou canst outlive, And joy thee in the life I give.'

XIII

And here stern Azo hid his face, For on his brow the swelling vein Throbb'd as if back upon his brain The hot blood ebb'd and flow'd again;

1 081 And therefore bow'd he for a space,

His eye, to veil it from the throng. While Hugo raised his chained hands. 230 And for a brief delay demands His father's ear; the silent sire Forbids not what his words require. 'It is not that I dread the death ----For thou hast seen me by thy side All redly through the battle ride; And that not once a useless brand Thy slaves have wrested from my hand, Hath shed more blood in cause of thine Than e'er can stain the axe of mine. 240 Thou gav'st, and may'st resume my breath, A gift for which I thank thee not: Nor are my mother's wrongs forgot, Her slighted love and run'd name, Her offspring's heritage of shame; But she is in the grave, where he, Her son, thy rival, soon shall be. Her broken heart, my sever'd head, Shall witness for thee from the dead How trusty and how tender were 250 Thy youthful love, paternal care. 'T is true that I have done thee wrong But wrong for wrong: this deem'd thy bride. The other victim of thy pride, -Thou know'st for me was destined long. Thou saw'st, and covetedst her charms; And with thy very crime, my birth, Thou tauntedst me - as little worth; A match ignoble for her arms, Because, forsooth, I could not claim 260 The lawful heirship of thy name, Nor sit on Este's lineal throne: Yet, were a few short summers mine, My name should more than Este's shine With honours all my own. I had a sword — and have a breast That should have won as haught a crest As ever waved along the line Of all these sovereign sires of thine. Not always knightly spurs are worn 270 The brightest by the better born; And mine have lanced my courser's flank Before proud chiefs of princely rank, When charging to the cheering cry Of "Este and of Victory !"

And pass'd his shaking hand along

I will not plead the cause of crime, Nor sue thee to redeem from time A few brief hours or days that must At length roll o'er my reckless dust; ---- Such maddening moments as my past, 280 They could not, and they did not, last. Albeit my birth and name be base, And thy nobility of race Disdain'd to deck a thing like me, Yet in my lineaments they trace Some features of my father's face, And in my spirit — all of thee; From thee this tamelessness of heart, From thee - nay, wherefore dost thou start ? From thee in all their vigour came 200 My arm of strength, my soul of flame; Thou didst not give me life alone, But all that made me more thine own. See what thy guilty love hath done ! Repaid thee with too like a son ! I am no bastard in my soul, For that, like thine, abhorr'd control: And for my breath, that hasty boon Thou gav'st and wilt resume so soon, I valued it no more than thou, 200 When rose thy casque above thy brow, And we, all side by side, have striven. And o'er the dead our coursers driven. The past is nothing - and at last The future can but be the past; Yet would I that I then had died:

For though thou work'dst my mother's ill, And made thy own my destined bride,

I feel thou art my father still; And, harsh as sounds thy hard decree, 310 'T is not unjust, although from thee. Begot in sin, to die in shame, My life begun and ends the same: As err'd the sire, so err'd the son, And thou must punish both in one. My crime seems worst to human view, But God must judge between us too !'

XIV

He ceased, and stood with folded arms, On which the circling fetters sounded; And not an ear but felt as wounded, 320 Of all the chiefs that there were rank'd, When those dull chains in meeting clank'd:

Till Parisina's fatal charms

Again attracted every eye-Would she thus hear him doom'd to die !

She stood, I said, all pale and still,

The living cause of Hugo's 1ll.

Her eyes unmoved, but full and wide,

Not once had turn'd to either side:

Nor once did those sweet eyelids close, 330

Or shade the glance o'er which they rose,

But round their orbs of deepest blue The circling white dilated grew; And there with glassy gaze she stood As ice were in her curdled blood. But every now and then a tear

So large and slowly gather'd slid From the long dark fringe of that fair lid, It was a thing to see, not hear ! And those who saw, it did surprise, 340 Such drops could fall from human eyes. To speak she thought --- the imperfect note Was choked within her swelling throat, Yet seem'd in that low hollow groan Her whole heart gushing in the tone. It ceased — again she thought to speak, Then burst her voice in one long shriek, And to the earth she fell like stone Or statue from its base o'erthrown. More like a thing that ne'er had life, - 350 A monument of Azo's wife, -Than her, that living guilty thing, Whose every passion was a sting, Which urged to guilt, but could not bear That guilt's detection and despair. But yet she lived, and all too soon Recover'd from that death-like swoon. But scarce to reason - every sense Had been o'erstrung by pangs intense; And each frail fibre of her brain 360 (As bowstrings, when relax'd by rain, The erring arrow launch aside) The past a blank, the future black, With glimpses of a dreary track, Like lightning on the desert path When midnight storms are mustering wrath.

She fear'd — she felt that something ill Lay on her soul, so deep and chill; That there was sin and shame she knew; 370 That some one was to die - but who? She had forgotten: - did she breathe? Could this be still the earth beneath, The sky above, and men around; Or were they fiends who now so frown'd On one, before whose eyes each eye Till then had smiled in sympathy? All was confused and undefined To her all-jarr'd and wandering mind; A chaos of wild hopes and fears. 380 And now in laughter, now in tears, But madly still in each extreme, She strove with that convulsive dream; For so it seem'd on her to break -Oh! vainly must she strive to wake!

xv

The Convent bells are ringing, But mournfully and slow; In the grey square turret swinging, With a deep sound, to and fro. Heavily to the heart they go! Hark! the hymn is singing The song for the dead below, Or the living who shortly shall be so! For a departing being's soul The death-hymn peals and the hollow bells knoll. He is near his mortal goal; Kneeling at the Friar's knee; Sad to hear, and piteous to see, Kneeling on the bare cold ground, With the block before and the guards around. And the headsman, with his bare arm ready That the blow may be both swift and steady, Feels if the axe be sharp and true, Since he set its edge anew: While the crowd in a speechless circle gather To see the Son fall by the doom of the Father! XVI It is a lovely hour as yet Before the summer sun shall set, Which rose upon that heavy day And mock'd it with his steadiest ray; 410 And his evening beams are shed Full on Hugo's fated head, As his last confession pouring To the monk, his doom deploring In penitential holiness, He bends to hear his accents bless With absolution such as may Wipe our mortal stains away. That high sun on his head did glisten

XVII

As he there did bow and listen,

Curl'd half down his neck so bare:

Upon the axe which near him shone

With a clear and ghastly glitter —

Oh! that parting hour was bitter!

Dark the crime and just the law,

Yet they shudder'd as they saw.

Even the stern stood chill'd with awe:

But brighter still the beam was thrown

And the rings of chestnut hair

The parting prayers are said and over 436 Of that false son and daring lover !

390

His beads and sins are all recounted, His hours to their last minute mounted, His mantling cloak before was stripp'd, His bright brown locks must now be clipp'd. 'T is done - all closely are they shorn. The vest which till this moment worn, The scarf which Parisina gave, Must not adorn him to the grave; Even that must now be thrown aside, 440 And o'er his eyes the kerchief tied; But no - that last indignity Shall ne'er approach his haughty eye. All feelings seemingly subdued, In deep disdain were half renew'd, When headsman's hands prepared to bind Those eyes which would not brook such blind;

As if they dared not look on death. 'No - yours my forfeit blood and breath; These hands are chain'd - but let me die At least with an unshackled eye -45X Strike' - and as the word he said, Upon the block he bow'd his head These the last accents Hugo spoke: 'Strike '- and flashing fell the stroke -Roll'd the head - and, gushing, sunk Back the stam'd and heaving trunk, In the dust, which each deep vein Slaked with its ensanguined rain. His eyes and lips a moment quiver, 460 Convulsed and quick, then fix for ever. He died, as erring man should die,

Without display, without parade; Meekly had he bow'd and pray'd, As not disdaining priestly aid,

Nor desperate of all hope on high. And while before the Prior kneeling, His heart was wean'd from earthly feeling;

His wrathful sire, his paramour — What were they in such an hour? 470 No more reproach — no more despair; No thought but heaven, no word but prayer, Save the few which from him broke, When, bared to meet the headsman's stroke, He claim'd to die with eyes unbound, His sole adieu to those around.

XVIII

Still as the lips that closed in death, Each gazer's bosom held his breath: But yet, afar, from man to man, A cold electric shiver ran, As down the deadly blow descended On him whose life and love thus ended. And, with a hushing sound compress'd, A sigh shrunk back on every breast; But no more thrilling noise rose there,

Beyond the blow that to the block Pierced through with forced and sullen shock,

Save one: - what cleaves the silent air So madly shrill, so passing wild, That, as a mother's o'er her child 490 Done to death by sudden blow, To the sky these accents go, Like a soul's in endless woe ? Through Azo's palace-lattice driven, That horrid voice ascends to heaven, And every eye is turn'd thereon; But sound and sight alike are gone ! It was a woman's shriek — and ne'er In madher accents rose despair; And those who heard it, as it past, 500 In mercy wish'd it were the last.

XIX

Hugo is fallen; and, from that hour, No more in palace, hall, or bower, Was Parisina heard or seen. Her name — as if she ne'er had been — Was banish'd from each lip and ear, Like words of wantonness or fear; And from Prince Azo's voice, by none Was mention heard of wife or son; No tomb, no memory had they; 510 Theirs was unconsecrated clay; At least the knight's who died that day. But Parisina's fate lies hid Like dust beneath the coffin lid: Whether in convent she abode, And won to heaven her dreary road By blighted and remorseful years Of scourge, and fast, and sleepless tears; Or if she fell by bowl or steel, For that dark love she dared to feel; 520 Or if, upon the moment smote, She died by tortures less remote, -Like him she saw upon the block, With heart that shared the headsman's shock. In quicken'd brokenness that came In pity o'er her shatter'd frame,-None knew — and none can ever know. But whatsoe'er its end below, Her life began and closed in woe !

xx

And Azo found another bride, And goodly sons grew by his side;

But none so lovely and so brave As him who wither'd ir the grave; Or if they were — on his cold eye Their growth but glanced unheeded by, Or noticed with a smother'd sigh. But never tear his cheek descended, And never smile his brow unbended: And o'er that fair broad brow were wrought The intersected lines of thought; Those furrows which the burning share Of Sorrow ploughs untimely there; Scars of the lacerating mind Which the Soul's war doth leave behind. He was past all mirth or woe: Nothing more remain'd below But sleepless nights and heavy days, A mind all dead to scorn or praise, A heart which shunn'd itself — and yet That would not yield nor could forget, 550 Which, when it least appear'd to melt, Intensely thought, intensely felt: The deepest ice which ever froze Can only o'er the surface close; The living stream hes quick below, And flows — and cannot cease to flow. Still was his seal'd-up bosom haunted By thoughts which Nature hath implanted; Too deeply rooted thence to vanish, Howe'er our stifled tears we banish. 560 When, struggling as they rise to start, We check those waters of the heart, They are not dried — those tears unshed But flow back to the fountain head, And resting in their spring more pure, For ever in its depth endure, Unseen, unwept, but uncongeal'd, And cherish'd most where least reveal'd. With inward starts of feeling left, To throb o'er those of life bereft; 570 Without the power to fill again The desert gap which made his pain; Without the hope to meet them where United souls shall gladness share; With all the consciousness that he Had only pass'd a just decree, That they had wrought their doom of ill; Yet Azo's age was wretched still. The tainted branches of the tree, 579

If lopp'd with care, a strength may give, By which the rest shall bloom and live All greenly fresh and wildly free: But if the lightning, in its wrath, The waving boughs with fury scathe, The massy trunk the ruin feels, And never more a leaf reveals.

THE PRISONER OF CHILLON

A FABLE

SONNET ON CHILLON

- ETERNAL Spirit of the chainless Mind !
 - Brightest in dungeons, Liberty ! thou art,
 - For there thy habitation is the heart —
- The heart which love of thee alone can bind;
- And when thy sons to fetters are consign'd —
 - To fetters, and the damp vault's dayless gloom,
 - Their country conquers with their martyrdom,
- And Freedom's fame finds wings on every wind
- Chillon ! thy prison is a holy place,
 - And thy sad floor an altar; for 't was trod,
- Until his very steps have left a trace Worn, as if thy cold pavement were a sod.
- By Bonnivard ! May none those marks efface !
 - For they appeal from tyranny to God.

I

My hair is grey, but not with years, Nor grew it white

In a single night,

As men's have grown from sudden fears. My limbs are bow'd, though not with toil,

But rusted with a vile repose, For they have been a dungeon's spoil,

And mine has been the fate of those To whom the goodly earth and air Are bann'd, and barr'd — forbudden fare. But thus was for my father's faith, I suffer'd chains and courted death; That father perish'd at the stake For tenets he would not forsake; And for the same his lineal race In darkness found a dwelling-place. We were seven — who now are one,

Six in youth, and one in age, Finish'd as they had begun,

Proud of Persecution's rage; One in fire, and two in field, Their belief with blood have seal'd, Dying as their father died, For the God their foes denied;

50

60

70

Three were in a dungeon cast, Of whom this wreck is left the last.

I

There are seven pillars of Gothic mould In Chillon's dungeons deep and old, There are seven columns, massy and grey,

Dim with a dull imprison'd ray, A sunbeam which hath lost its way, And through the crevice and the cleft Of the thick wall is fallen and left; Creeping o'er the floor so damp, Like a marsh's meteor lamp. And m each pillar there is a ring,

And in each ring there is a chain; That iron is a caukering thing,

For in these limbs its teeth remain, With marks that will not wear away, Till I have done with this new day, Which now is painful to these eyes, Which have not seen the sun so rise For years — I cannot count them o'er, I lost their long and heavy score When my last brother droop'd and died, And I lay living by his side.

III

They chain'd us each to a column stone, And we were three — yet, each alone; We could not move a single pace, We could not see each other's face, But with that pale and hvid light That made us strangers in our sight. And thus together, yet apart, Fetter'd in hand, but join'd in heart, 'T was still some solace, in the dearth Of the pure elements of earth, To hearken to each other's speech, And each turn comforter to each With some new hope or legend old, Or song heroically bold; But even these at length grew cold. Our voices took a dreary tone, An echo of the dungeon stone,

A grating sound — not full and free As they of yore were wont to be: It might be fancy, but to me They never sounded like our own.

IV

I was the eldest of the three, And to uphold and cheer the rest I ought to do — and did my best; And each did well in his degree. The youngest, whom my father loved, Because our mother's brow was given To him, with eyes as blue as heaven —

For him my soul was sorely moved. And truly might it be distress'd To see such bird in such a nest; For he was beautiful as day

(When day was beautiful to me As to young eagles being free) — A polar day, which will not see A sunset till its summer's gone,

Its sleepless summer of long light, The snow-clad offspring of the sun:

And thus he was as pure and bright, And in his natural spirit gay, With tears for nought but others' ills; And then they flow'd like mountain rills, Unless he could assuage the woo Which he abhorr'd to view below.

The other was as pure of mind, But form'd to combat with his kind; Strong in his frame, and of a mood Which 'gainst the world in war had stood, And perish'd in the foremost rank

With joy - but not in chains to pine: His spirit wither'd with their clank, I saw it silently decline —

And so perchance in sooth did mine: 100 But yet I forced it on to cheer Those relics of a home so dear.

He was a hunter of the hills,

Had follow'd there the deer and wolf; To him this dungeon was a gulf, And fetter'd feet the worst of ills.

VI

Lake Leman lies by Chillon's walls: A thousand feet in depth below Its massy waters meet and flow; Thus much the fathom-line was sent From Chillon's snow-white battlement

Which round about the wave inthrals: A double dungeon wall and wave Have made — and like a living grave. Below the surface of the lake The dark vault hes wherein we lay: We heard it ripple night and day;

Sounding o'er our heads it knock'd; And I have felt the winter's spray Wash through the bars when winds were high And wanton in the happy sky; And then the very rock hath rock'd,

And I have felt it shake, unshock'd.

8¢

Because I could have smiled to see The death that would have set me free.

VII

I said my nearer brother pined, I said his mighty heart declined, He loathed and put away his food; It was not that 't was coarse and rude, For we were used to hunters' fare, 130 And for the like had little care. The milk drawn from the mountain goat Was changed for water from the moat, Our bread was such as captives' tears Have moisten'd many a thousand years, Since man first pent his fellow men Like brutes within an iron den; But what were these to us or him? These wasted not his heart or limb; My brother's soul was of that mould 140 Which in a palace had grown cold, Had his free breathing been denied The range of the steep mountain's side. But why delay the truth ? - he died. I saw, and could not hold his head, Nor reach his dying hand - nor dead, -Though hard I strove, but strove in vam,

To rend and gnash my bonds in twain. He died — and they unlock'd his chain, And scoop'd for him a shallow grave 150 Even from the cold earth of our cave. I begg'd them, as a boon, to lay His corse in dust whereon the day Might shine — it was a foolish thought, But then within my brain it wrought, That even in death his freeborn breast In such a dungeon could not rest. I might have spared my idle prayer; They coldly laugh'd - and laid him there: The flat and turfless earth above 160 The being we so much did love; His empty chain above it leant, Such murder's fitting monument !

VIII

But he, the favourite and the flower, Most cherish'd since his natal hour, His mother s image in fair face, The infant love of all his race, His martyr'd father's dearest thought, My latest care, for whom I sought To hoard my life, that his might be Less wretched now, and one day free; He, too, who yet had held untired A spirit natural or inspired — He, too, was struck, and day by day Was wither'd on the stalk away. Oh, God ! it is a fearful thing To see the human soul take wing In any shape, in any mood -I've seen it rushing forth in blood, 38 I 've seen it on the breaking ocean Strive with a swoln convulsive motion, I 've seen the sick and ghastly bed Of Sin delirious with its dread But these were horrors - this was woe Unmix'd with such - but sure and slow. He faded, and so calm and meek, So softly worn, so sweetly weak, So tearless, yet so tender - kind, And grieved for those he left behind; With all the while a cheek whose bloom Was as a mockery of the tomb, 191 Whose tints as gently sunk away As a departing rambow's ray; An eye of most transparent light, That almost made the dungeon bright; And not a word of murmur, not A groan o'er his untimely lot, -A little talk of better days, A little hope my own to raise, For I was sunk in silence - lost 200 In this last loss, of all the most; And then the sighs he would suppress Of fainting nature's feebleness, More slowly drawn, grew less and less. I listen'd, but I could not hear -I call'd, for I was wild with fear; I knew 't was hopeless, but my dread Would not be thus admonished I call'd, and thought I heard a sound -I burst my chain with one strong bound, 210 And rush'd to him: - I found him not, I only stirr'd in this black spot, I only lived — I only drew The accursed breath of dungeon-dew; The last — the sole — the dearest hnk Between me and the eternal brink, Which bound me to my failing race, Was broken in this fatal place. One on the earth, and one beneath -My brothers — both had ceased to breathe: I took that hand which lay so still, 221 Alas ' my own was full as chill, I had not strength to stir, or strive, But felt that I was still alive -A frantic feeling, when we know That what we love shall ne'er be so. I know not why

I could not die,

260

1 had no earthly hope — but faith, And that forbade a selfish death.

IX

What next befell me then and there I know not well — I never knew; First came the loss of light, and air, And then of darkness too. I had no thought, no feeling - none -Among the stones I stood a stone, And was, scarce conscious what I wist, As shrubless crags within the mist; For all was blank, and bleak, and grey, It was not night - it was not day, 240 It was not even the dungeon-light So hateful to my heavy sight, But vacancy absorbing space, And fixedness — without a place; There were no stars, no earth, no time, No check, no change, no good, no crime -But silence, and a stirless breath Which neither was of life nor death; A sea of stagnant idleness,

Blind, boundless, mute, and motionless ! 250

х

A light broke in upon my brain, — It was the carol of a bırd;

It ceased, and then it came again, The sweetest song ear ever heard, And mme was thankful till my eyes Ran over with the glad surprise, And they that moment could not see I was the mate of misery. But then by dull degrees came back My senses to their wonted track; 24 I saw the dungeon walls and floor Close slowly round me as before, I saw the glimmer of the sun Creeping as it before had done, But through the crevice where it came That bird was perch'd, as fond and tame,

And tamer than upon the tree; A lovely bird, with azure wings, And song that said a thousand things, And seem'd to say them all for me ! 270 I never saw its like before, I ne'er shall see its likeness more: It seem'd like me to want a mate, But was not half so desolate, And it was come to love me when None lived to love me so again, And cheering from my dungeon's brink, Had brought me back to feel and think. I know not if it late were free,

Or broke its cage to perch on mine, 28a But knowing well captivity, Sweet bird ! I could not wish for thine !

Or if it were, in winged guise,

A visitant from Paradise,

For — Heaven forgive that thought! the while

Which made me both to weep and smile — I sometimes deen'd that it might be My brother's soul come down to me; But then at last away it flew, And then 't was mortal — well I knew, 290 For he would never thus have flown, And left me twice so doubly lone, — Lone — as the corse within its shroud, Lone — as a solitary cloud,

A single cloud on a summy day, While all the rest of heaven is clear, A frown upon the atmosphere That hath no business to appear

When skies are blue and earth is gay.

хı

A kind of change came in my fate, 300 My keepers grew compassionate; I know not what had made them so, They were mured to sights of woe, But so it was - my broken chain With links unfasten'd did remain, And it was liberty to stride Along my cell from side to side, And up and down, and then athwart, And tread it over every part; And round the pillars one by one, 310 Returning where my walk begun, Avoiding only, as I trod, My brothers' graves without a sod; For if I thought with heedless tread My step profaned their lowly bed, My breath came gaspingly and thick, And my crush'd heart fell blind and sick.

XП

I made a footing in the wall, It was not therefrom to escape, For I had buried one and all 320 Who loved me in a human shape; And the whole earth would henceforth be A wider prison unto me. No child, no sire, no kin had I, No partner in my misery; I thought of this, and I was glad, For thought of them had made me mad; But I was curious to ascend To my barr'd windows, and to bend Once more, upon the mountains high, 330 The quiet of a loving eye.

\mathbf{x} III

I saw them — and they were the same, They were not changed like me in frame; I saw their thousand years of snow On high — their wide long lake below, And the blue Rhone in fullest flow; I heard the torrents leap and gush O'er channell'd rock and broken bush; I saw the white-wall'd distant town, And whiter sails go skinming down. 340 And then there was a little isle, Which in my very face did smile,

The only one in view; A small green isle, it seem'd no more, Scarce broader than my dungeon floor, But in it there were three tall trees, And o'er it blew the mountain breeze, And by it there were waters flowing, And on it there were young flowers growing

Of gentle breath and hue. 350 The fish swam by the castle wall, And they seem'd joyous each and all; The eagle rode the rising blast, Methought he never flew so fast As then to me he seem'd to fly; And then new tears came in my eye, And I felt troubled and would fain I had not left my recent chain. And when I did descend again, The darkness of my dim abode 360 Fell on me as a heavy load; It was as is a new-dug grave, Closing o'er one we sought to save; And yet my glance, too much oppress'd, Had almost need of such a rest.

xiv

It might be months, or years, or days — I kept no count, I took no note,

I had no hope my eyes to raise,

And clear them of their dreary mote. At last men came to set me free, 370

I ask'd not why, and reck'd not where, It was at length the same to me, Fetter'd or fetterless to be,

I learn'd to love despair.

And thus when they appear'd at last, And all my bonds aside were cast, These heavy walls to me had grown A hermitage — and all my own! And half I felt as they were come To tear me from a second home With spiders I had friendship made, And watch'd them in their sullen trade, Had seen the mice by moonlight play, And why should I feel less than they? We were all inmates of one place, And I, the monarch of each race, Had power to kill — yet, strange to tell !

In quiet we had learn'd to dwell — My very chams and I grew friends, So much a long communion tends To make us what we are: — even I Regain'd my freedom with a sigh.

390

MAZEPPA

ADVERTISEMENT

Celui qui remplissait alors cette place était un gentilhomme Polonais, nommé Mazeppa, né dans le palatinat de Podolie 11 avait été élevé page de Jean Casimir, et avait pris à sa cour quelque teinture des belles-lettres. Une intrigue qu'il eut dans sa jeunesse avec la femme d'un gentilhomme Polonais ayant été découverte, le marı le fit lier tout nu sur un cheval farouche, et le laissa aller en cet état. Le cheval, qui était du pays de l'Ukraine, y retourna, et y porta Mazeppa, demi-mort de fatigue et de faim Quelques paysans le secoururent il resta longtems parmi eux, et se signala dans plusieurs courses contre les Tartares La supériorité de ses lumières lui donna une grande considération parmi les Cosaques : sa réputation s'augmentant de jour en jour obligea le Czar à le faire Prince de l'Ukraine. VOLTAIRE, Hist de Charles XII, p. 196.

Le roi fuyant, et poursuivi, eut son cheval tué sous lui; le Colonel Gieta, blessé, et perdant tout son sang, lui donna le sien Amei on remit deux fois à cheval, dans la fuite, ce conquérant qui n'avait pu y monter pendant la batalle. — p 216.

Le roi alla par un autre chemm avec quelques cavaliers. Le carrosse où il était rompit dans la marche, on le remit à cheval. Pour comble de dısgrace, il s'égara pendant la nuit dans un hois, là son courage ne pouvant plus suppléer à ses forces épuisées, les douleurs de sa blessure devenues plus insupportables par la fatigue, son cheval étant tombé de lassitude, il se coucha quelques heures au pied d'un arbre, en danger d'être surpris à tout moment par les vainqueurs, qui le cherchaient de tous côtéa. — p. 218.

406

ĮΟ

4C

"T was after dread Pultowa's day, When fortune left the royal Swede,

Around a slaughter'd army lay, No more to combat and to bleed. The power and glory of the war,

Faithless as their vain votaries, men, Had pass'd to the triumphant Czar,

And Moscow's walls were safe again, Until a day more dark and drear, And a more memorable year, Should give to slaughter and to shame A mightier host and haughtier name; A greater wreck, a deeper fall, A shock to one — a thunderbolt to all.

II

Such was the hazard of the die; The wounded Charles was taught to fly By day and night through field and flood, Stam'd with his own and subjects' blood; For thousands fell that flight to aid: And not a voice was heard t' upbraid 20 Ambition in his humbled hour, When truth had nought to dread from power. His horse was slain, and Gieta gave His own — and died the Russians' slave. This too sinks after many a league Of well-sustam'd, but vain fatigue; And in the depth of forests darkling The watch-fires in the distance sparkling -The beacons of surrounding foes -A king must lay his limbs at length 30 Are these the laurels and repose For which the nations strain their strength? They laid him by a savage tree, In outworn nature's agony; His wounds were stiff, his limbs were stark,

The heavy hour was chill and dark; The fever in his blood forbade A transient slumber's fitful aid. And thus it was; but yet through all, Kinglike the monarch bore his fall, And made, in this extreme of ill, His pangs the vassals of his will: All silent and subdued were they, As once the nations round him lay.

ш

A band of chiefs ! — alas ! how few, Since but the fleeting of a day Had thinn'd it; but this wreck was true And chivalrous. Upon the clay Each sate him down, all sad and mute, Beside his monarch and his steed,

For danger levels man and brute, And all are fellows in their need. Among the rest, Mazeppa made His pillow in an old oak's shade — Himself as rough, and scarce less old, The Ukraine's hetman, calm and bold. But first, outspent with this long course, The Cossack prince rubb'd down his horse, And made for him a leafy bed, 59

And smooth'd his fetlocks and his mane, And slack'd his girth, and stripp'd his rein,

And joy'd to see how well he fed; For until now he had the dread His wearied courser might refuse To browse beneath the midnight dews: But he was hardy as his lord, And little cared for bed and board; But spirited and docile too, Whate'er was to be done, would do. Shaggy and swift, and strong of limb, All Tartar-like he carried him; Obey'd his voice, and came to call, And knew him in the midst of all. Though thousands were around, — and Night,

Without a star, pursued her flight, — That steed from sunset until dawn His chief would follow like a fawn.

IV

This done, Mazeppa spread his cloak, And laud his lance beneath his oak, Felt if his arms in order good ⁸⁰ The long day's march had well withstood — If still the powder fill'd the pan,

And flints unloosen'd kept their lock — His sabre's hilt and scabbard felt, And whether they had chafed his belt. And next the venerable man, From out his havresack and can,

Prepared and spread his slender stock; And to the monarch and his men The whole or portion offer'd then With far less of inquietude Than courtiers at a banquet would. And Charles of this his slender share With smiles partook a moment there, To force of cheer a greater show, And seem above both wounds and woe. And then he said. 'Of all our band, Though firm of heart and strong of hand, In skirmish, march, or forage, none Can less have said or more have done

Than thee, Mazeppa! On the earth So fit a pair had never birth, Since Alexander's days till now, As thy Bucephalus and thou. All Scythia's fame to thine should yield For pricking on o'er flood and field.' Mazeppa answer'd, 'Ill betide The school wherein I learn'd to ride !' Quoth Charles, 'Old Hetman, wherefore so, Since thou hast learn'd the art so well?' 110 Mazeppa said, 'T were long to tell; And we have many a league to go, With every now and then a blow, And ten to one at least the foe, Before our steeds may graze at ease Beyond the swift Borysthenes. And, sire, your lumbs have need of rest, And I will be the sentinel Of this your troop.' — 'But I request,' Said Sweden's monarch, 'thou wilt tell 120 This tale of thine, and I may reap, Perchance, from this the boon of sleep; For at this moment from my eyes The hope of present slumber flies.'

'Well, sire, with such a hope, I'll track My seventy years of memory back. I think 't was in my twentieth spring, -Ay, 't was, - when Casimir was king -John Casimir, — I was his page Six summers, in my earlier age, 130 A learned monarch, faith ! was he, And most unlike your majesty. He made no wars, and did not gain New realms to lose them back again; And (save debates in Warsaw's diet) He reign'd in most unseemly quiet. Not that he had no cares to vex, He loved the muses and the sex: And sometimes these so froward are, They made him wish himself at war; 140 But soon his wrath being o'er, he took Another mistress, or new book. And then he gave prodigious fêtes ----All Warsaw gather'd round his gates To gaze upon his splendid court, And dames, and chiefs, of princely port. He was the Polish Solomon, -So sung his poets, all but one, Who, being unpension'd, made a satire, And boasted that he could not flatter. 150 It was a court of jousts and mimes, Where every courtier tried at rhymes; Even I for once produced some verses, And sign'd my odes " Despairing Thyrsis."

There was a certain Palatine, A count of far and high descent, Rich as a salt or silver mine; And he was proud, ye may divine, As if from heaven he had been sent. He had such wealth in blood and ore 164 As few could match beneath the throne; And he would gaze upon his store, And o'er his pedigree would pore, Until by some confusion led, Which almost look'd like want of head, He thought their merits were his own. His wife was not of his opinion -His junior she by thirty years -Grew daily tired of his dominion; And, after wishes, hopes, and fears, 17C To virtue a few farewell tears, A restless dream or two, some glances At Warsaw's youth, some songs, and dances, Awaited but the usual chances (Those happy accidents which render The coldest dames so very tender), To deck her Count with titles given, 'T is said, as passports into heaven; But, strange to say, they rarely boast

Of these, who have deserved them most.

V

'I was a goodly stripling then; 181 At seventy years I so may say, That there were few, or boys or men, Who, in my dawning time of day, Of vassal or of knight's degree, Could vie in vanities with me. For I had strength, youth, gaiety, A port, not like to this ye see, But smooth, as all is rugged now; For time, and care, and war, have plough'd 193 My very soul from out my brow; And thus I should be disavow'd By all my kind and kin, could they Compare my day and yesterday. This change was wrought, too, long ere age Had ta'en my features for his page. With years, ye know, have not declined My strength, my courage, or my mind, Or at this hour I should not be Telling old tales beneath a tree, 20 With starless skies my canopy. But let me on. Theresa's form -Methinks it glides before me now, Between me and yon chestnut's bough, The memory is so quick and warm;

And yet I find no words to tell I reck'd not if I won or lost, The shape of her I loved so well. It was enough for me to be She had the Asiatic eye, So near to hear, and oh ' to see Such as our Turkish neighbourhood The being whom I loved the most. Hath mingled with our Polish blood, 210 I watch'd her as a sentinel Dark as above us is the sky; (May ours this dark night watch as But through it stole a tender light, well !), Like the first moonrise of midnight; Until I saw, and thus it was, Large, dark, and swimming in the stream. That she was pensive, nor perceived Which seem'd to melt to its own beam; Her occupation, nor was grieved All love, half languor, and half fire, Nor glad to lose or gain; but still Like saints that at the stake expire, Play'd on for hours, as if her will And lift their raptured looks on high Yet bound her to the place, though not As though it were a joy to die; ---That hers might be the winning lot. A brow like a midsummer lake, 220 Transparent with the sun therein, pass When waves no murmur dare to make, Even as a flash of lightning there, And heaven beholds her face within; -That there was something in her air A cheek and lip - but why proceed? Which would not doom me to despair: I loved her then - I love her still; And such as I am love indeed forth. In fierce extremes - in good and ill. All incoherent as they were — But still we love even in our rage, Their eloquence was little worth, And haunted to our very age But vet she listen'd - 't is enough. With the vam shadow of the past, Who listens once will listen twice; 230 As is Mazeppa to the last. Her heart, be sure, is not of ice, And one refusal no rebuff. VT VII 'We met, we gazed - I saw, and sigh'd: She did not speak, and yet replied. 'I loved, and was beloved again ----There are ten thousand tones and signs They tell me, Sire, you never knew We hear and see, but none defines -Those gentle frailties; if 't is true, Involuntary sparks of thought, I shorten all my joy or pain; Which strike from out the heart o'er-To you 't would seem absurd as vain: wrought But all men are not born to reign. And form a strange intelligence Or o'er their passions, or as you, Alike mysterious and intense, Thus o'er themselves and nations too. Which link the burning chain that binds, 240 I am — or rather was — a prince, Without their will, young hearts and minds; Conveying, as the electric wire, We know not how, the absorbing fire. bleed; I saw, and sigh'd — in silence wept; But could not o'er myself evince And still reluctant distance kept, The like control. — But to resume: Until I was made known to her, I loved, and was beloved again; And we might then and there confer In sooth, it is a happy doom, But yet where happiest ends in pain. Without suspicion — then, even then, I long'd, and was resolved to speak; We met in secret, and the hour But on my lips they died again, Which led me to that lady's bower 250 The accents tremulous and weak, Was fiery Expectation's dower Until one hour. — There is a game, My days and nights were nothing, all A frivolous and foolish play, Wherewith we while away the day; It is — I have forgot the name – And we to this, it seems, were set, By some strange chance, which I forget.

270 Then through my bram the thought did

And on the thought my words broke

200 A chief of thousands, and could lead Them on where each would foremost

Except that hour which doth recall In the long lapse from youth to age

No other like itself — I'd give The Ukraine back again to live

It o'er once more; and be a page,

26¢

2

340

350

The happy page, who was the lord Of one soft heart and his own sword, And had no other gem nor wealth Save nature's gift of youth and health. 310 We met in secret - doubly sweet. Some say, they find it so to meet: I know not that - I would have given

My life but to have call'd her mine In the full view of earth and heaven:

For I did oft and long repine That we could only meet by stealth.

37777

'For lovers there are many eyes, And such there were on us; the devil On such occasions should be civil; 320 The devil !- I 'm loth to do him wrong,

It might be some antoward samt, Who would not be at rest too long

But to his pious bile gave vent -But one fair night, some lurking spies Surprised and seized us both The Count was something more than wroth:

I was unarm'd; but if in steel,

All cap-à-pie from head to heel,

What 'gainst their numbers could I do? -

'T was near his castle, far away From city or from succour near,

And almost on the break of day. I did not think to see another.

My moments seem'd reduced to few; And with one praver to Mary Mother.

And, it may be, a saint or two, As I resign'd me to my fate,

They led me to the castle gate: Theresa's doom I never knew,

Our lot was henceforth separate.

An angry man, ye may opine, Was he, the proud Count Palatine; And he had reason good to be,

But he was most enraged lest such An accident should chance to touch Upon his future pedigree; Nor less amazed, that such a blot His noble 'scutcheon should have got,

While he was highest of his line: Because unto himself he seem'd

The first of men, nor less he deem'd In others' eyes, and most in mine. 'Sdeath! with a page - perchance a king Had reconciled him to the thing; But with a stripling of a page ! I felt - but cannot paint his rage. īΥ

""Bring forth the horse !"-the horse was brought:

In truth, he was a noble steed,

A Tartar of the Ukraine breed, 260 Who look'd as though the speed of thought Were in his limbs: but he was wild.

Wild as the wild deer, and untaught, With sour and bridle undefiled -

'T was but a day he had been caught. And snorting, with erected mane. And struggling fiercely, but in vain, In the full foam of wrath and dread To me the desert-born was led. They bound me on, that menual throng, 370 Upon his back with many a thong; Then loosed him with a sudden lash: Away ! - away ! - and on we dash ! -Torrents less rapid and less rash.

'Away !- away !- My breath was gone -I saw not where he hurried on. 'T was scarcely yet the break of day, And on he foam'd - away ! - away ! The last of human sounds which rose. As I was darted from my foes, 381 Was the wild shout of savage laughter, Which on the wind came roaring after A moment from that rabble rout With sudden wrath I wrench'd my head,

And snapp'd the cord, which to the mane Had bound my neck in heu of rein, And, writhing half my form about.

Howl'd back my curse; but 'midst the tread,

The thunder of my courser's speed, Perchance they did not hear nor heed: 399

It vexes me, for I would fain

Have paid their insult back again.

I paid it well in after days:

There is not of that castle gate,

Its drawbridge and portcullis' weight,

Stone, bar, moat, bridge, or barrier left;

Nor of its fields a blade of grass, Save what grows on a ridge of wall,

Where stood the hearth-stone of the hall;

And many a time ye there might pass, 400 Nor dream that e'er that fortress was. I saw its turrets in a blaze,

Their crackling battlements all cleft, And the hot lead pour down like rain From off the scorch'd and blackening roof, Whose thickness was not vengeance-proof

They little thought that day of pain, When launch'd, as on the lightning's flash, They bade me to destruction dash,

That one day I should come again, 410 With twice five thousand horse, to thank

The Count for his uncourteous ride. They play'd me then a bitter prank, When with the wild hence for my grid

When, with the wild horse for my guide, They bound me to his foaming flank. At length I play'd them one as frank — For time at last sets all things even —

And if we do but watch the hour, There never yet was human power Which could evade, if unforgiven, The patient search and vigil long Of him who treasures up a wrong.

XI

Away, away, my steed and I, Upon the pinions of the wind,

All human dwellings left behind; We sped like meteors through the sky, When with its crackling sound the night Is chequer'd with the northern light Town — village — none were on our track, But a wild plan of far extent, 430

And bounded by a forest black;

And, save the scarce seen battlement On distant heights of some strong hold, Against the Tartars built of old, No trace of man: the year before A Turkish army had march'd o'er; And where the Spahi's hoof hath trod, The verdure files the bloody sod The sky was dull, and dim, and gray,

And a low breeze crept moaning by — 440 I could have answer'd with a sigh; But fast we field, away, away — And I could neither sigh nor pray; And my cold sweat-drops fell like rain Upon the courser's bristling mane But, snorting still with rage and fear, He flew upon his far career[•] At times I almost thought, indeed, He must have slacken'd in his speed; But no — my bound and slender frame 450

Was nothing to his angry might, And merely like a spur became. Each motion which I made to free My swoln limbs from their agony

Increased his fury and affright. I tried my voice, — 't was faint and low, But yet he swerved as from a blow; And, starting to each accent, sprang As from a sudden trumpet's clang.

459

Meantime my cords were wet with gore, Which, oozing through my limbs, ran o'er; And m my tongue the thirst became A something fierier far than flame.

XII

'We near'd the wild wood: 't was so wide,

I saw no bounds on either side; 'T was studded with old sturdy trees, That bent not to the roughest breeze Which howls down from Siberia's waste And strips the forest in its haste; But these were few and far between, 470 Set thick with shrubs more young and green,

Luxuriant with their annual leaves, Ere strown by those autumnal eves That mp the forest's foliage dead, Discolour'd with a hfeless red, Which stands thereon like stiffen'd gore Upon the slam when battle's o'er, And some long winter's night hath shed Its frost o'er every tombless head, So cold and stark the raven's beak May peck unpierced each frozen cheek. 'T was a wild waste of underwood, And here and there a chestnut stood, The strong oak, and the hardy pine;

But far apart — and well it were, Or else a different lot were mine:

The boughs gave way, and did not tear My lmbs; and I found strength to bear My wounds already scarr'd with cold — My bonds forbade to loose my hold. 490 We rustled through the leaves like wind, Left shrubs, and trees, and wolves behind;

By night I heard them on the track, Their troop came hard upon our back, With their long gallop which can tire The hound's deep hate and hunter's fire. Where'er we flew they follow'd on, Nor left us with the morning sun; Behind I saw then, scarce a rood, At day-break winding through the wood, And through the night had heard their feet

Their stealing, rustling step repeat. Oh! how I wish'd for spear or sword, At least to die amidst the horde, And perish — if it must be so — At bay, destroying many a foe. When first my courser's race begun, I wish'd the goal already won; But now I doubted strength and speed. Vain doubt ! his swift and savage breed 510 Had nerved him like the mountam-roe; Nor faster falls the blinding snow Which whelms the peasant near the door Whose threshold he shall cross no more, Bewilder'd with the dazzling blast, Than through the forest-paths he past — Untired, untamed, and worse than wild; All furious as a favour'd child Balk'd of its wish; or fiercer still, A woman piqued who has her will. 520

XIII

'The wood was past; 't was more than noon,

But chill the air although in June; Or it might be my veins ran cold -Prolong'd endurance tames the bold; And I was then not what I seem, But headlong as a wintry stream, And wore my feelings out before I well could count their causes o'er. And what with fury, fear, and wrath, The tortures which beset my path, 530 Cold, hunger, sorrow, shame, distress, Thus bound in nature's nakedness (Sprung from a race whose rising blood When stirr'd beyond its calmer mood, And trodden hard upon, is like The rattle-snake's in act to strike), What marvel if this worn-out trunk Beneath its woes a moment sunk? The earth gave way, the skies roll'd round, I seem'd to sink upon the ground; 540 But err'd, for I was fastly bound My heart turn'd sick, my brain grew sore, And throbb'd awhile, then beat no more The skies spun like a mighty wheel; I saw the trees like drunkards reel, And a slight flash sprang o'er my eyes, Which saw no farther he who dies Can die no more than then I died. O'ertortured by that ghastly ride, I felt the blackness come and go, 550

And strove to wake; but could not make My senses climb up from below. I felt as on a plank at sea, When all the waves that dash o'er thee, At the same time upheave and whelm, And hurl thee towards a desert realm. My undulating life was as The fancied lights that flitting pass Our shut eyes in deep midnight, when Fever begins upon the brain; 560 But soon it pass'd, with little pain, But a confusion worse than such I own that I should deem it much, Dying, to feel the same again; And yet I do suppose we must Feel far more ere we turn to dust. No matter; I have bared my brow Full in Death's face — before — and now

XIV

'My thoughts came back; where was I? Cold,

And numb, and giddy: pulse by pulse Life reassumed its lingering hold, 571 And throb by throb: till grown a pang

Which for a moment would convulse, My blood reflow'd though thick and chill; My ear with uncouth noises rang,

My heart began once more to thrill; My sight return'd, though dim, alas! And thicken'd, as it were, with glass. Methought the dash of waves was nigh: There was a gleam too of the sky, 5% Studded with stars; — it is no dream; The wild horse swims the wilder stream ! The bright broad river's gushing tide Sweeps, winding onward, far and wide, And we are half-way, struggling o'er To you unknown and silent shore The waters broke my hollow trance, And with a temporary strength

My stiffen'd limbs were rebaptized. My courser's broad breast proudly braves And dashes off the ascending waves, 597 And onward we advance ' We reach the slippery shore at length,

A haven I but little prized, For all behind was dark and drear, And all before was night and fear. How many hours of night or day In those suspended pangs I lay, I could not tell; I scarcely knew If thus were human breath I drew.

600

xv

With glossy skin, and dripping mane, And reeling limbs, and reeking flank, The wild steed's sinewy nerves still stram

Up the repelling bank. We gain the top: a boundless plain

Spreads through the shadow of the night, And onward, onward, onward, seems,

Like precipices in our dreams,

To stretch beyond the sight;

And here and there a speck of white, 610

Or scatter'd spot of dusky green, In masses broke into the light, As rose the moon upon my right.

But nought distinctly seen In the dim waste would indicate The omen of a cottage gate; No twinkling taper from afar Stood like a hospitable star; Not even an ignis-fatuus rose To make him merry with my woes:

To make him merry with my woes: 620 That very cheat had cheer'd me then ! Although detected, welcome still,

Reminding me, through every ill, Of the abodes of men.

xvī

'Onward we went - but slack and slow: His savage force at length o'erspent, The drooping courser, faint and low, All feebly foaming went A sickly infant had had power To guide him forward in that hour; 630 But useless all to me, His new-born tameness nought avail'd My limbs were bound; my force had fail'd, Perchance, had they been free. With feeble effort still I tried To rend the bonds so starkly tied, But still it was in vain; My limbs were only wrung the more, And soon the idle strife gave o'er, Which but prolong'd their pain. 640 The dizzy race seem'd almost done, Although no goal was nearly won: Some streaks announced the coming sun -How slow, alas, he came ! Methought that mist of dawning gray Would never dapple into day; How heavily it roll'd away . Before the eastern flame Rose crimson, and deposed the stars, 649 And call'd the radiance from their cars, And fill'd the earth, from his deep throne, With lonely lustre, all his own. XVII 'Up rose the sun; the mists were curl'd Back from the solitary world

Which lay around — behind — before; What booted it to traverse o'er Plain, forest, river ? Man nor brute, Nor dint of hoof, nor print of foot, Lay in the wild luxuriant soil; No sign of travel, none of toil; 660 The very air was mute; And not an unsect's shrill small horn, Nor matim bird's new voice was borne From herb nor thicket. Many a werst, Panting as if his heart would burst, The weary brute still stagger'd on; And still we were — or seem'd — alone. At length, while reeling on our way, Methought I heard a courser neigh From out yon tuft of blackening firs. Is it the wind those branches stirs? No, no ' from out the forest prance

A trampling troop; I see them come ! In one vast squadron they advance !

I strove to cry — my lps were dumb. The steeds rush on m plunging pride; But where are they the reins to guide? A thousand horse — and none to ride ! With flowing tail, and flying mane, Wide nostrils never stretch'd by pain, Mouths bloodless to the bit or rein, And feet that iron never shod, And flanks unscarr'd by spur or rod, A thousand hoise, the wild, the free, Like waves that follow o'er the sea,

Came thickly thundering on, As if our faint approach to meet. The sight re-nerved my courser's feet, A moment staggering, feebly fleet, A moment, with a faint low neigh, He answer'd, and then fell; With gasps and glazing eyes he lay,

And reeking limbs immoveable — His first and last career is done !

On came the troop — they saw him stoop,

They saw me strangely bound along His back with many a bloody thong. They stop — they start — they snuff the air, Gallop a moment here and there, 699 Approach, retire, wheel round and round, Then plunging back with sudden bound, Headed by one black mighty steed Who seem'd the patriarch of his breed,

Without a single speck or hair Of white upon his shaggy hide.

They snort—they foam—neigh—swerve aside,

And backward to the forest fly,

By instinct, from a human eye.

They left me there to my despair, 705 Lunk'd to the dead and stiffening wretch, Whose lifeless limbs beneath me stretch, Reheved from that unwonted weight, From whence I could not extricate Nor hum nor me — and there we lay

The dying on the dead !

I little deem'd another day Would see my houseless, helpless head.
0 , 1

And there from morn till twilight bound, I felt the heavy hours toil round, With just enough of life to see 720 My last of suns go down on me, In hopeless certainty of mind, That makes us feel at length resign'd To that which our foreboding years Presents the worst and last of fears Inevitable — even a boon, Nor more unkind for coming soon; Yet shunn'd and dreaded with such care, As if it only were a snare

That prudence might escape: 730 At times both wish'd for and implored, At times sought with self-pointed sword, Yet still a dark and hideous close To even intolerable woes,

And welcome in no shape. And, strange to say, the sons of pleasure, They who have revell'd beyond measure In beauty, wassail, wine, and treasure, Die calm, or calmer oft than he Whose hentage was misery: 740 For he who hath in turn run through All that was beautiful and new,

Hath nought to hope, and nought to leave; And, save the future (which is view'd Not quite as men are base or good, But as their nerves may be endued),

With nought perhaps to grieve: – The wretch still hopes his woes must end, And Death, whom he should deem his friend, Appears, to his distemper'd eyes, 750 Arrived to rob him of his prize, The tree of his new Paradise. To-morrow would have given him all, Repaid his pangs, repair'd his fall; To-morrow would have been the first Of days no more deplored or curst, But bright, and long, and beckoning years, Seen dazzling through the mist of tears, Guerdon of many a painful hour; To-morrow would have given him power To rule, to shine, to smite, to save -761 And must it dawn upon his grave ?

XVIII

'The sun was sinking — still I lay Chain'd to the chill and stiffening steed;

I thought to mingle there our clay; And my dim eyes of death had need, No hope arose of being freed. I cast my last looks up the sky, And there between me and the sun I saw the expecting raven fly, Who scarce would wait till both should die Ere his repast begun. He flew, and perch'd, then flew once more, And each time nearer than before; I saw his wing through twilight flit, And once so near me he alit I could have smote, but lack'd the strength; But the slight motion of my hand, And feeble scratching of the sand, The exerted throat's faint struggling noise, Which scarcely could be call'd a voice, 781 Together scared him off at length -I know no more — my latest dream Is something of a lovely star Which fix'd my dull eyes from afar, And went and came with wandering beam, And of the cold, dull, swimming, dense Sensation of recurring sense, And then subsiding back to death, And then again a little breath, 790 A little thrill, a short suspense, An icy sickness curdling o'er My heart, and sparks that cross'd my bram -A gasp, a throb, a start of pain,

A gasp, a throb, a start of pain, A sigh, and nothing more.

XIX

'I woke — Where was I? — Do I see A human face look down on me? And doth a roof above me close? Do these limbs on a couch repose? Is this a chamber where I he? And is it mortal, yon bright eye That watches me with gentle glance?

I closed my own again once more, As doubtful that the former trance

Could not as yet be o'er. A slender girl, long-har'd, and tall, Sate watching by the cottage wall. The sparkle of her eye I caught, Even with my first return of thought; For ever and anon she threw

A prying, pitying glance on me With her black eyes so wild and free. I gazed, and gazed, until I knew

No vision it could be; But that I lived, and was released From adding to the vulture's feast And when the Cossack maid beheld My heavy eyes at length unseal'd, 810

800

414

She smiled — and I essay'd to speak, But fail'd — and she approach'd, and made $20

With hp and finger signs that said, I must not strive as yet to break The silence, till my strength should be Enough to leave my accents free And then her hand on mine she laid, And smooth'd the pillow for my head, And stole along on tiptoe tread,

And gently oped the door, and spake In whispers — ne'er was voice so sweet! Even music follow'd her light feet. 830

But those she call'd were not awake, And she went forth, but, ere she pass'd, Another look on me she cast,

Another sign she made, to say, That I had nought to fear, that all Were near at my command or call,

And she would not delay Her due return: — while she was gone,

Methought I felt too much alone.

XX

'She came with mother and with sire — s_{40} What need of more ? — I will not tire With long recital of the rest, Since I became the Cossack's guest. They found me senseless on the plam, They bore me to the nearest hut, They brought me into life again, Me — one day o'er their realm to reign ! Thus the vain fool who strove to glut His rage, refining on my pain,

Sent me forth to the wilderness, Bound, naked, bleeding, and alone, To pass the desert to a throne, —

What mortal his own doom may guess ? Let none despond, let none desparr !

To-morrow the Borysthenes

May see our coursers graze at ease

Upon his Turkish bank, — and never

Had I such welcome for a river

As I shall yield when safely there.

Comrades, good night !' — The Hetman threw 860

His length beneath the oak-tree shade, With leafy couch already made,

A bed nor comfortless nor new

To him who took his rest whene'er

The hour arrived, no matter where:

His eyes the hastening slumbers steep. And if ye marvel Charles forgot

To thank his tale, he wonder'd not, ---

The king had been an hour asleep.

THE ISLAND

OR, CHRISTIAN AND HIS COMRADES

The foundation of the following story will be found partly in Lieutenant Bligh's Narrative of the Mutiny and Seizure of the Bounty, in the South Seas, in 1789; and partly in Mariner's Account of the Tonga Islands.

Genoa, 1823

CANTO THE FIRST

I

THE morning watch was come; the vessel lay

Her course, and gently made her liquid way.

The cloven billow flash'd from off her prow In furrows form'd by that majestic plough; The waters with their world were all before;

Behind, the South Sea's many an islet shore. The quiet night, now dappling, 'gan to wane.

Dividing darkness from the dawning main; The dolphins, not unconscious of the day,

Swam high, as eager of the coming ray; 10 The stars from broader beams began to creep,

And lift their shining eyelids from the deep;

The sail resumed its lately shadow'd white, And the wind flutter'd with a freshening flight:

The purpling ocean owns the coming sun,

But ere he break — a deed is to be done.

11

The gallant chief within his cabin slept,

Secure in those by whom the watch was kept.

His dreams were of Old England's welcome shore,

Of toils rewarded, and of dangers o'er; 20 His name was added to the glorious roll

- Of those who search the storm-surrounded Pole
- The worst was over, and the rest seem'd sure,
- And why should not his slumber be secure?
- Alas ! his deck was trod by unwilling feet, And wilder hands would hold the vessel's sheet;

- Young hearts, which languish'd for some sunny isle, Where summer years and summer women smile; Men without country, who, too long estranged, Had found no native home, or found it changed. And, half uncivilised, preferr'd the cave Of some soft savage to the uncertain wave ---The gushing fruits that nature gave untill'd; The wood without a path but where they will'd; The field o'er which promiscuous Plenty pour'd Her horn; the equal land without a lord; The wish — which ages have not yet subdued In man-to have no master save his mood: The earth, whose mine was on its face, unsold. The glowing sun and produce all its gold; The freedom which can call each grot a home; The general garden, where all steps may roam, Where Nature owns a nation as her child, Exulting in the enjoyment of the wild; Their shells, their fruits, the only wealth they know, Their unexploring navy, the canoe; Their sport, the dashing breakers and the chase; Their strangest sight, an European face: ---Such was the country which these strangers vearn'd To see again, a sight they dearly earn'd. 50 Awake, bold Bligh ! the foe is at the gate ! Awake ' awake ' - Alas, it is too late ! Fiercely beside thy cot the mutmeer Stands, and proclaums the reign of rage and fear. Thy limbs are bound, the bayonet at thy breast; The hands, which trembled at thy voice, arrest: Dragg'd o'er the deck, no more at thy command The obedient helm shall veer, the sail expand.
 - That savage spirit, which would lull by wrath
 - Its desperate escape from duty's path, 60 Glares round thee, in the scarce believing eves
 - Of those who fear the chief they sacrifice:
 - For ne'er can man his conscience all assuage,
 - Unless he drain the wine of passion rage.

IV

In vain, not silenced by the eye of death,

- Thou call'st the loyal with thy menaced breath.
- They come not; they are few, and, overawed,
- Must acquiesce, while sterner hearts applaud

In van thou dost demand the cause; a curse Is all the answer, with the threat of worse.

Full in thme eyes is waved the glittering

- blade, 7¹ Close to thy throat the pointed bayonet laid.
- The levell'd muskets circle round thy breast

In hands as steel'd to do the deadly rest.

Thou darest them to their worst, exclaimmg - 'Fire !'

But they who pitied not could yet admire;

- Some lurking remnant of their former awe Restrain'd them longer than their broken
- law; They would not dip their souls at once in
- blood, But left thee to the mercies of the flood. So

v

'Hoist out the boat !' was now the leader's cry;

And who dare answer 'No !' to Mutiny,

In the first dawning of the drunken hour,

The Saturnalia of unhoped-for power?

- The boat is lower'd with all the haste of hate,
- With its slight plank between thee and thy fate;
- Her only cargo such a scant supply
- As promises the death their hands deny;
- And just enough of water and of bread
- To keep, some days, the dying from the dead.
- Some cordage, canvass, sails, and lines, and twine,

But treasures all to hermits of the brine,

416

Were added after, to the earnest prayer Of those who saw no hope, save sea and ar; And last, that trembling vassal of the	But some remain'd reluctant on the deck Of that proud vessel — now a moral wreck —
Pole —	And view'd their captain's fate with piteous
The feeling compass Navigation's soul	eyes; 129
3 1	While others scoff'd his augur'd miseries,
VI	Sneer'd at the prospect of his pigmy sail,
And now the self elected chief finds time	And the slight bark so laden and so frail.
To stun the first sensation of his crime,	The tender nautilus, who steers his prow,
And raise it in his followers - 'Ho! the	The sea-born sailor of his shell canoe,
bowl!'	The ocean Mab, the fairy of the sea,
Lest passion should return to reason's shoal.	Seems far less fragile, and, alas! more free
'Brandy for heroes !' Burke could once	He, when the lightning-wing'd tornadoes exclaim —	sweep
No doubt a liquid path to epic fame;	The surge, is safe (his port is in the deep)
And such the new-born heroes found it here,	And triumphs o'er the armadas of man- kmd,
And drain'd the draught with an applauding	Which shake the world, yet crumble in the cheer	wind. 140
'Huzza ! for Otaheite !' was the cry.
How strange such shouts from sons of Mu-	VIII
tiny!	When all was now prepared, the vessel
The gentle island, and the genial soil,	clear, Which health has meeter in the meetinger
The friendly hearts, the feasts without a toil, The courteous manners but from nature	Which hail'd her master in the mutineer — A seaman, less obdurate than his mates,
caught,	Show'd the vam pity which but irritates;
The wealth unhoarded, and the love un-	Watch'd his late chieftain with exploring bought, — 110	eye,
Could these have charms for rudest sea-	And told, in signs, repentant sympathy;
boys, driven	Held the moist shaddock to his parched
Before the mast by every wind of heaven?	mouth,
And now, even now prepared with others'	Which felt exhaustion's deep and bitter woes	drouth:
To earn mild virtue's vain desire, repose ?	But soon observed, this guardian was with-
Alas, such is our nature ! all but aim	drawn,
At the same end by pathways not the same;	Nor further mercy clouds rebellion's dawn.
Our means, our birth, our nation, and our	Then forward stepp'd the bold and froward
name, Our fortune, temper, even our outward	boy His chief had cherish'd only to destroy,
frame,	And, pointing to the helpless prow beneath,
Are far more potent o'er our yielding clay	Exclaim'd, 'Depart at once! delay is
Than aught we know beyond our little	death !'
Yet still there whispers the small voice	Yet then, even then, his feelings ceased not all within,	In that last moment could a word recall
Heard through Gain's silence, and o'er Glory's din	Remorse for the black deed as yet half done,
Whatever creed be taught or land be trod,	And what he hid from many show'd to one.
Man's conscience is the oracle of God.	When Bligh in stern reproach demanded where 159
VII	Was now his grateful sense of former care?
The launch is crowded with the faithful	Where all his hopes to see his name aspire,
few	And blazon Britain's thous d glories
Who wait their chief, a melancholy crew.	higher ?

170

His feverish lips thus broke their gloomy spell,

'T is that ! 't is that ! I am in hell ! in hell !'

No more he said; but urging to the bark His chief, commits him to his fragile ark;

- These the sole accents from his tongue that fell.
- But volumes lurk'd below his fierce farewell.

IX

The arctic sun rose broad above the wave; The breeze now sank, now whisper'd from his cave;

As on the Æolian harp, his fitful wings

- Now swell'd, now flutter'd o'er his ocean strings.
- With slow, despairing oar, the abandon'd skiff
- Ploughs its drear progress to the scarceseen cliff,
- Which lifts its peak a cloud above the main:

That boat and ship shall never meet again !

But 't is not mine to tell their tale of grief,

- Their constant peril, and their scant relief;
- Their days of danger, and their nights of pain;

Their manly courage even when deem'd in vain; 130

The sapping famine, rendering scarce a son Known to his mother in the skeleton;

The ills that lessen'd still their little store,

- And starved even Hunger till he wrung no more;
- The varying frowns and favours of the deep,
- That now almost ingulfs, then leaves to creep

With crazy oar and shatter'd strength along The tide that yields reluctant to the strong; The uncessant fever of that and thirst

- Which welcomes, as a well, the clouds that
- Above their naked bones, and feels delight In the cold drenching of the stormy night,
- And from the outspread canvass gladly wrings

A drop to moisten life's all-gasping springs; The savage foe escaped, to seek again

- More hospitable shelter from the mam;
- The ghastly spectres which were doom'd at last
- To tell as true a tale of dangers past,

As ever the dark annals of the deep Disclosed for man to dread or woman weep.

х

- We leave them to their fate, but not un-
- Nor unredress'd. Revenge may have her own:
- Roused discipline aloud proclams their cause,

And injured navies urge their broken laws. Pursue we on his track the mutineer,

Whom distant vengeance had not taught to fear.

Wide o'er the wave - away ! away ! away !

- Once more his eyes shall hail the welcome bay;
- Once more the happy shores without a law
- Receive the outlaws whom they lately saw; Nature, and Nature's goddess, woman, woos
- To lands where, save their conscience, none accuse:
- Where all partake the earth without dispute,
- And bread itself is gather'd as a fruit;
- Where none contest the fields, the woods, the streams: —

The goldless age, where gold disturbs no dreams,

Inhabits or inhabited the shore,

Till Europe taught them better than before.

Bestow'd her customs, and amended theirs, But left her vices also to their heirs. 220 Away with this ! behold them as they were

Do good with Nature, or with Nature err.

'Huzza ! for Otaheite !' was the cry,

- As stately swept the gallant vessel by.
- The breeze springs up; the lately flapping sail
- Extends its arch before the growing gale;

In swifter ripples stream aside the seas,

- Which her bold bow flings off with dashing ease.
- Thus Argo plough'd the Euxine's virgin foam;
- These spurn their country with their rebel bark,

And fly her as the raven fled the ark:

And yet they seek to nestle with the dove, And tame their fiery spirits down to love.

CANTO THE SECOND

ľ

- How pleasant were the songs of Toobonai, When summer's sun went down the coral bay !
- Come, let us to the islet's softest shade,
- And hear the warbling birds ! the damsels said:
- The wood-dove from the forest depth shall coo,

Like voices of the gods from Bolotoo;

- We'll cull the flowers that grow above the dead,
- For these most bloom where rests the warrior's head;

And we will hit in twilight's face, and see

The sweet moon glancing through the tooa tree,

The lofty accents of whose sighing bough Shall sadly please us as we lean below;

- Or climb the steep, and view the surf in
- vain Wrestle with rocky giants o'er the main,
- Which spurn in columns back the baffled spray.
- How beautiful are these ! how happy they,

Who, from the toil and tumult of their lives, Steal to look down where nought but ocean strives !

Even he too loves at times the blue lagoon, And smooths his ruffled mane beneath the moon. 20

II

Yes, from the sepulchre we'll gather flowers, Then feast like spirits in their promised bowers,

Then plunge and revel in the rolling surf, Then lay our lumbs along the tender turf,

And, wet and shining from the sportive toil,

Anoint our bodies with the fragrant oil, And plait our garlands gather'd from the

- grave,
- And wear the wreaths that sprung from out the brave.
- But lo ! night comes, the Mooa woos us back,
- The sound of mats are heard along our track 30
- Anon the torchlight dance shall fling its sheen

In flashing mazes o'er the Marly's green; And we too will be there; we too recall The memory bright with many a festival, Ere Fiji blew the shell of war, when foes For the first time were wafted in cances. Alas! for them the flower of mankind bleeds;

Alas. for them our fields are rank with weeds:

Forgotten is the rapture, or unknown, 39 Of wandering with the moon and love alone. But be it so:—they taught us how to wield The club, and rain our arrows o'er the field: Now let them reap the harvest of their art!

But feast to-night ! to-morrow we depart.

Strike up the dance! the cava bowl fill high! Drain every drop!— to-morrow we may die.

In summer garments be our limbs array'd; Around our waists the tappa's white display'd;

- Thick wreaths shall form our coronal, like spring's,
- And round our necks shall glance the hooni strings; 50
- So shall their brighter hues contrast the glow
- Of the dusk bosoms that beat high below.

111

But now the dance is o'er — yet stay awhile; Ah, pause ! nor yet put out the social smile.

To-morrow for the Mooa we depart,

But not to-night — to-night is for the heart.

- Again bestow the wreaths we gently woo, Ye young enchantresses of gay Licoo!
- How lovely are your forms! how every sense
- Bows to your beauties, soften'd, but intense, 69
- Like to the flowers on Mataloco's steep,
- Which fling their fragrance far athwart the deep !--
- We too will see Licoo; but oh ! my heart ! ---
- What do I say ? to-morrow we depart !

IV

Thus rose a song, the harmony of times

- Before the winds blew Europe o'er these climes.
- True, they had vices (such are Nature's growth)
- But only the barbarian's --- we have both:
- The sordor of civilisation, mix'd
- With all the savage which man's fall hath fix'd. 70

Who hath not seen Dissimulation's reign,

- The prayers of Abel link'd to deeds of Cain?
- Who such would see may from his lattice view
- The Old World more degraded than the New, -
- Now new no more, save where Columbia rears
- Twin giants, born by Freedom to her spheres,
- Where Chimborazo, over air, earth, wave,

Glares with his Titan eye, and sees no slave.

V

Such was this ditty of Tradition's days,

- Which to the dead a lungering fame conveys 80
- In song, where fame as yet hath left no sign
- Beyond the sound whose charm is half divine;

Which leaves no record to the sceptic eye,

But yields young history all to harmony;

A boy Achilles, with the centaur's lyre

In hand, to teach him to surpass his sire.

For one long-cherish'd ballad's simple stave, Rung from the rock, or mingled with the wave,

- Or from the bubbling streamlet's grassy side,
- Or gathering mountain echoes as they glide, 90
- Hath greater power o'er each true heart and ear,
- Than all the columns Conquest's minions rear;

Invites, when hieroglyphics are a theme

For sages' labours or the student's dream; Attracts, when History's volumes are a toil, —

The first, the freshest bud of Feeling's soil Such was this rude rhyme — rhyme is of the rude;

But such inspired the Norseman's solitude, Who came and conquer'd; such, wherever rise

Lands which no foes destroy or civilise, 100

- Exist: and what can our accomplish'd art
- Of verse do more than reach the awaken'd heart?

VI

And sweetly now those untaught melodies broke the luxurious silence of the skies, The sweet siesta of a summer day,

The tropic afternoon of Toobonai,

- When every flower was bloom, and air was balm,
- And the first breath began to stir the palm, The first yet voiceless wind to urge the wave
- All gently to refresh the thirsty cave, 110 Where sat the songstress with the stranger
- boy, Who taught her passion's desolating joy,
- Too powerful over every heart, but most
- O'er those who know not how it may be lost: ---
- O'er those who, burning in the new-born fire,
- Like martyrs revel in their funeral pyre,
- With such devotion to their ecstasy
- That life knows no such rapture as to die:
- And due they do; for earthly life has nought
- Match'd with that burst of nature, even in thought; 120
- And all our dreams of better life above But close in one eternal gush of love.

VII

There sat the gentle savage of the wild,

- In growth a woman, though in years a child,
- As childhood dates within our colder clime Where nought is ripen'd rapidly save crime;
- The infant of an infant world, as pure
- From nature lovely, warm, and premature;
- Dusky like night, but night with all her stars;

Or cavern sparkling with its native spars;

With eyes that were a language and a spell, 131

A form like Aphrodite's in her shell,

- With all her loves around her on the deep,
- Voluptuous as the first approach of sleep;
- Yet full of life for through her tropic cheek
- The blush would make its way, and all but speak;
- The sun-born blood suffused her neck, and threw

O'er her clear nut-brown skin a lucid hue,

- Like coral reddening through the darken'd wave,
- Which draws the diver to the crimson cave. 140

- Such was this daughter of the southern Eager to hope, but not less firm to bear, seas, Acquainted with all feelings save despair. Placed in the Arab's clime, he would have Herself a billow in her energies, To bear the bark of others' happiness, heen Nor feel a sorrow till their joy grew less. As bold a rover as the sands have seen, 180 Her wild and warm yet faithful bosom And braved their thirst with as enduring lip knew As Ishmael, wafted on his desert-ship; No joy like what it gave; her hopes ne'er Fix'd upon Chili's shore, a proud cacique; On Hellas' mountains, a rebellious Greek; drew Aught from experience, that chill touch-Born in a tent, perhaps a Tamerlane; Bred to a throne, perhaps unfit to reign. stone whose Sad proof reduces all things from their hues. For the same soul that rends its path to sway, She fear'd no ill, because she knew it not, Or what she knew was soon - too soon -If rear'd to such, can find no further prey Beyond itself, and must retrace its way, forgot. Plunging for pleasure into pain: the same Her smiles and tears had pass'd, as light Spirit which made a Nero Rome's worst winds pass O'er lakes to ruffle, not destroy, their glass, shame, Whose depths unsearch'd, and fountains A humbler state and discipline of heart Had form'd his glorious namesake's counterfrom the hill, Restore their surface in itself so still, part; Until the earthquake tear the naiad's cave, But grant his vices, grant them all his own, Root up the spring, and trample on the How small their theatre without a throne ! wave. And crush the living waters to a mass, Thou smilest; - these comparisons seen The amphibious desert of the dank morass ! And must their fate be hers? The eternal high To those who scan all things with dazzled change But grasps humanity with quicker range; eye; And they who fall but fall as worlds will whose doom fall. 161 To rise, if just, a spirit o'er them all Rome VIII With Chili, Hellas, or with Araby; -Thou smilest ? - Smile; 't is better thus And who is he? the blue-eyed northern than sigh; child Yet such he might have been; he was a Of 1sles more known to man, but scarce less man. wild: A soaring spirit, ever in the van, The fair-hair'd offspring of the Hebrides, A patriot hero or despote chief, Where roars the Pentland with its whirling To form a nation's glory or its grief, seas: Born under auspices which make us more Rock'd in his cradle by the roaring wind, The tempest-born in body and in mind, Or less than we delight to ponder o'er. H1s young eyes opening on the ocean-foam here ? Had from that moment deem'd the deep A blooming boy, a truant mutineer: his home, 170 The fair-hair'd Torquil, free as ocean's The giant comrade of his pensive moods,
- The sharer of his craggy solitudes,

The only Mentor of his youth where'er

- His bark was borne; the sport of wave and air:
- A careless thing, who placed his choice in chance
- Nursed by the legends of his land's ronce;

- Link'd with the unknown name of one
- Has nought to do with glory or with
 - 200

- But these are visions; say, what was he
- sprav 210
- The husband of the bride of Toobonai.

х

- By Neuha's side he sate, and watch'd the waters, -
- Neuha, the sun-flower of the island daughters,

Highborn (a birth at which the herald The chase, the race, the liberty to roam, smiles. The soil where every cottage show'd a Without a scutcheon for these secret isles), home; Of a long race, the valuant and the free, The sea-spread net, the lightly-launch'd The naked knights of savage chivalry, canoe, 250 Whose grassy cairns ascend along the Which stemm'd the studded archipelago, shore; And thine — I 've seen — Achilles ! do no O'er whose blue bosom rose the starry isles: The healthy slumber earn'd by sportive toils: more. The palm, the loftiest dryad of the woods. She, when the thunder-bearing strangers Within whose bosom infant Bacchus broods, came, 220 In vast canoes, begirt with bolts of flame, While eagles scarce build higher than the Topp'd with tall trees, which, loftier than crest Which shadows o'er the vineyard in her the palm, Seem'd rooted in the deep amidst its calm: breast; But when the winds awaken'd, shot forth The cava feast, the yam, the cocoa's root, wings Which bears at once the cup and milk and Broad as the cloud along the horizon flings, fruit: And sway'd the waves, like cities of the The bread-tree, which, without the ploughshare, yields sea, Making the very billows look less free; -The unreap'd harvest of unfurrow'd fields, And bakes its unadulterated loaves She, with her paddling oar and dancing Without a furnace in unpurchased groves, prow, And flings off famme from its fertile breast, Shot through the surf, like reindeer through the snow, A priceless market for the gathering Swift-gliding o'er the breaker's whitening guest; -These, with the luxuries of seas and woods, edge. The airy joys of social solitudes, Light as a nereid in her ocean sledge, And gazed and wonder'd at the giant hulk, Tamed each rude wanderer to the sympa-Which heaved from wave to wave its thies trampling bulk. Of those who were more happy, if less wise, The anchor dropp'd; it lay along the deep, Did more than Europe's discipline had done, Like a huge lion in the sun asleep, And civilised Civilisation's son ! 271 While round it swarm'd the proas' flitting XII chain, Like summer bees that hum around his Of these, and there was many a willing pair, Neuha and Torquil were not the least fair: mane. Both children of the isles, though distant XI far; Both born beneath a sea-presiding star; The white man landed ! - need the rest be Both nourish'd amidst nature's native scenes, told? The New World stretch'd its dusk hand to Loved to the last, whatever intervenes Between us and our childhood's sympathy, the Old; Which still reverts to what first caught the Each was to each a marvel, and the tie 240 Of wonder warm'd to better sympathy. eve. He who first met the Highlands' swelling Kind was the welcome of the sun-born sires, And kinder still their daughters' gentler blue 280 fires. Will love each peak that shows a kindred Their union grew: the children of the hue, Hail in each crag a friend's familiar face, storm Found beauty link'd with many a dusky And clasp the mountain in his mind's embrace. form; While these in turn admired the paler glow, Long have I roam'd through lands which Which seem'd so white in climes that knew are not mine, Adored the Alp, and loved the Apennine, no snow.

422

Revered Parnassus, and beheld the steep Jove's Ida and Olympus crown the deep:	And what have Cæsar's deeds and Cæsar's fame 320
But 't was not all long ages' lore, nor all Their nature held me in their thrilling	Done for the earth? We feel them in our shame:
thrall; 289 The infant rapture still survived the boy, And Loch no conwith Ide lock'd even Trop	The gory sanction of his glory stains The rust which tyrants cherish on our
And Loch-na-gar with Ida look'd o'er Troy, Mix'd Celtic memories with the Phrygian mount,	chains. Though Glory, Nature, Reason, Freedom, bid
And Highland linns with Castahe's clear fount.	Roused millions do what single Brutus did —
Forgive me, Homer's universal shade ! Forgive me, Phœbus ! that my fancy	Sweep these mere mock-birds of the despot's song
stray'd; The north and nature taught me to adore	From the tall bough where they have perch'd so long,
Your scenes sublime, from those beloved before.	Still are we hawk'd at by such mousing owls,
XIII	And take for falcons those ignoble fowls, When but a word of freedom would dis.
The love which maketh all things fond and fair,	These bugbears, as their terrors show too
The youth which makes one rainbow of the air,	well.
The dangers past that make even man en- joy 300	XIV Rapt in the fond forgetfulness of life,
The pause in which he ceases to destroy, The mutual beauty which the sternest feel	Neuha, the South Sea girl, was all a wife, With no distracting world to call her off From love; with no society to scoff
Strike to their hearts like lightning to the steel,	At the new transient flame; no babbling crowd
United the half savage and the whole, The maid and boy, in one absorbing soul.	Of coxcombry in admiration loud, Or with adulterous whisper to alloy
No more the thundering memory of the fight	Her duty, and her glory, and her joy. 339 With faith and feelings naked as her form,
Wrapp'd his wean'd bosom in its dark de- light;	She stood as stands a rainbow in a storm, Changing its hues with bright variety,
No more the irksome restlessness of rest Disturb'd him like the eagle in her nest,	But still expanding lovelier o'er the sky, Howe'er its arch may swell, its colours
Whose whetted beak and far-pervading eye 310	move, The cloud-compelling harbinger of love.
Darts for a victim over all the sky. His heart was tamed to that voluptuous	xv
state, At once Elysian and effeminate,	Here, in this grotto of the wave-worn
Which leaves no laurels o'er the hero's urn —	shore, They pass'd the tropic's red meridian o'er; Nor long the hours — they never paused
These wither when for aught save blood	o'er time, they burn; Yet when their ashes in their nook are	Unbroken by the clock's funereal chime, Which deals the daily pittance of our laid, Doth not the myrtle leave as sweet a	And points and mocks with iron laugh at

- th not the myr shade? re. as sweet a
- Had Cæsar known but Cleopatra's kiss, Rome had been free, the world had not been his.
- man. What deem'd they of the future or the p t? The present, like a tyrant, held them fast.

- Their hour-glass was the sea-sand, and the tide,
- Like her smooth billow, saw their moments glude;
- Their clock the sun, in his unbounded tow'r;
- They reckon'd not, whose day was but an hour.

The nightingale, their only vesper-bell,

Sung sweetly to the rose the day's farewell;

- The broad sun set, but not with lungering sweep, 360
- As in the north he mellows o'er the deep; But fiery, full, and fierce, as if he left
- The world for ever, earth of light bereft,
- Plunged with red forehead down along the wave,

As dives a hero headlong to his grave.

Then rose they, looking first along the skies,

And then for light into each other's eyes,

Wondering that summer show'd so brief a sun,

And asking if indeed the day were done.

XVI

And let not this seem strange: the devotee Lives not in earth, but in his ecstasy; 371 Around him days and worlds are heedless driven.

His soul is gone before his dust to heaven. Is love less potent ? No — his path is trod, Alike uplifted gloriously to God;

Or link'd to all we know of heaven below, The other better self, whose joy or woe

Is more than ours; the all-absorbing flame

- Which, kindled by another, grows the same, Wrapp'd in one blaze; the pure, yet funeral
- pile, 380 Where gentle hearts, like Bramins, sit and smile.

How often we forget all time, when lone,

Admiring Nature's universal throne,

- Her woods, her wilds, her waters, the in-
- Reply of hers to our intelligence !
- Live not the stars and mountains? Are the waves
- Without a spirit? Are the dropping caves
- Without a feeling in their silent tears?
- No, no; they woo and clasp us to their spheres,

Dissolve this clog and clod of clay before

Its hour, and merge our soul in the great shore. 391

Strip off this fond and false identity !---Who thinks of self, when gazing on the sky? And who, though gazing lower, ever thought, In the young moments ere the heart is taught Time's lesson, of man's baseness or his own? All nature is his realm, and love his throne.

XVII

Neuha arose, and Torquil: twilight's hour Came sad and softly to their rocky bower, Which, kindling by degrees its dewy spars, Echoed their dim light to the mustering stars.

- Slowly the pair, partaking nature's calm,
- Sought out their cottage built beneath the palm;
- Now smiling and now silent, as the scene;

Lovely as Love - the spirit ! - when serene.

- The Ocean scarce spoke louder with his swell,
- Than breathes his mimic murmurer in the shell,

As, far divided from his parent deep,

The sea-born infant cries, and will not sleep,

Raising his little plaint in vain, to rave 410 For the broad bosom of his nursing wave.

- The woods droop'd darkly, as inclined to - rest,
- The tropic bird wheel'd rockward to his nest,
- And the blue sky spread round them like a lake
- Of peace, where Piety her thirst might slake.

XVIII

- But through the palm and plantain, hark, a voice !
- Not such as would have been a lover's choice,

In such an hour, to break the air so still;

No dying night-breeze, harping o'er the hill, Striking the strings of nature, rock and tree, 420

Those best and earliest lyres of harmony, With Echo for their chorus; nor the alarm Of the loud war-whoop to dispel the charm;

Nor the soliloguy of the hermit owl.

- Exhaling all his solitary soul,
- The dim, though large-eyed winged anchorite

Who peals his dreary pæan o'er the night; -But a loud, long, and naval whistle, shrill As ever st ted through a s -bird's bill;

- And then a pause and then a hoarse 'Hillo!
- Torquil, my boy! what cheer? Ho! brother, ho!'
- Who hails?' cried Torquil, following with his eye
- The sound. 'Here's one,' was all the brief reply.

XIX

But here the herald of the self-same mouth Came breathing o'er the aromatic south,

Not uke a 'bed of violets' on the gale,

- But such as wafts its cloud o'er grog or ale,
- Borne from a short frail pipe, which yet had blown
- Its gentle odours over either zone,
- And, puff'd where'er winds rise or waters roll, 440
- Had wafted smoke from Portsmouth to the Pole,
- Opposed its vapour as the lightning flash'd,
- And reek'd, 'midst mountain-billows unabash'd,
- To Æolus a constant sacrifice,
- I hrough every change of all the varying skies.
- And what was he who bore it? I may err,
- But deem him sailor or philosopher.

Sublime tobacco ! which from east to west Cheers the tar's labour or the Turkman's rest:

Which on the Moslem's ottoman divides 450 His hours, and rivals opium and his brides;

Magnificent in Stamboul, but less grand,

Though not less loved, in Wapping or the Strand;

Divine in hookas, glorious in a pipe,

When tipp'd with amber, mellow, rich, and ripe;

Like other charmers, wooing the caress More dazzlingly when daring in full dress; Yet thy true lovers more admire by far Thy naked beauties — Give me a cigar!

xx

Through the approaching darkness of the wood 460

A human figure broke the solitude,

Fantastically, it may be, array'd,

A seaman in a savage masquerade;

Such as appears to rise out from the deep When o'er the line the merry vessels sweep, And the rough saturnalia of the tar

- Flock o'er the deck, in Neptune's borrow'd car;
- And, pleased, the god of ocean sees his name
- Revive once more, though but in mimic game

Of his true sons, who riot in the breeze 470 Undreamt of m his native Cyclades.

- Still the old god delights, from out the main,
- To snatch some glumpses of his ancient reign.
- Our sailor's jacket, though in ragged trim, His constant pipe, which never yet burn'd
- dım, His foremuşt sin and somernhet rollung geit

His foremast air, and somewhat rolling gait, Like his dear vessel, spoke his former state; But then a sort of kerchief round his head, Not over-tightly bound, nor nicely spread;

- And, 'stead of trousers (ah! too early torn! 480
- For even the mildest woods will have their thorn)

A curious sort of somewhat scanty mat

Now served for mexpressibles and hat;

His naked feet and neck, and sunburnt face,

Perchance might suit aluke with either race His arms were all his own, our Europe's growth,

Which two worlds bless for civilising both; The musket swung behind his shoulders broad,

And somewhat stoop'd by his marine abode, But brawny as the boar's; and hung beneath.

His cutlass droop'd, unconscious of a sheath, Or lost or worn away; his pistols were

Link'd to his belt, a matrimonial pair

(Let not this metaphor appear a scoff,

- Though one miss'd fire, the other would go off);
- These, with a bayonet, not so free from rust
- As when the arm-chest held its brighter trust,

Completed his accoutrements, as Night Survey'd him in his garb heterochte.

XXI

- 'What cheer, Ben Bunting?' cried (when in full view 500
- Our new acquaintance) Torquil. 'Aught of new?'

- Ey, ey !' quoth Ben, 'not new, but news Had ceased; and sulphury vapours upward enow; driven A strange sail in the offing '- 'Sail! and Had left the earth, and but polluted heaven. how? The rattling roar which rung in every vol-What ! could you make her out ? It canlev not be: Had left the echoes to their melancholy: I've seen no rag of canvass on the sea.' No more they shriek'd their horror, boom 'Belike,' said Ben, 'you might not from for boom; the bay, The strife was done, the vanquish'd had But from the bluff-head, where I watch'd their doom; to-day. The mutineers were crush'd, dispersed, or I saw her in the doldrums; for the wind ta'en, Was light and baffling.'- 'When the sun Or lived to deem the happiest were the declined slam. Few, few escaped, and these were hunted o'er She bore down on us, till the wind grew still.' The isle they loved beyond their native 'Her flag ?'-'I had no glass: but fore shore. and aft. No further home was theirs, it seem'd, on Egad ! she seem'd a wicked-looking craft.' earth, 'Arm'd?'-'I expect so; - sent on the Once renegades to that which gave them look-out: birth; 'T is time, belike, to put our helm about.' Track'd like wild beasts, like them they · About ? - Whate'er may have us now in sought the wild, As to a mother's bosom flies the child: chase, We'll make no running fight, for that were But vainly wolves and lions seek their den, And still more vainly men escape from base: We will die at our quarters, like true men ' men. 'Ey, ey; for that 't is all the same to Ben.' TΤ 'Does Christian know this ?'-- 'Ay; he Beneath a rock whose jutting base prohas piped all hands 520 To quarters. They are furbishing the trudes stands Far over ocean in his fiercest moods, 20 Of arms; and we have got some guns to When scaling his enormous crag the wave Is hurl'd down headlong, like the foremost bear, brave, And scaled them. You are wanted.'-And falls back on the foaming crowd be-'That's but fair; hınd And if it were not, mine is not the soul Which fight beneath the banners of the shoal. wind, But now at rest, a little remnant drew My Neuha! ah ! and must my fate pursue Together, bleeding, thirsty, faint, and few; Not me alone, but one so sweet and true? But whatsoe'er betide, ah, Neuha ! now But still their weapons in their hands, and Unman me not; the hour will not allow still A tear; I am thine whatever intervenes ! ' With something of the pride of former 'Right,' quoth Ben, 'that will do for the will. marines.' As men not all unused to meditate. 53 I And strive much more than wonder at their fate. CANTO THE THIRD Their present lot was what they had foreτ seen, THE fight was o'er; the flashing through the And dared as what was likely to have been:
 - Yet still the lingering hope, which deem'd their lot

Not pardon'd, but sought for or for ot,

42б

- To leave my comrades helpless on the gloom.

Which robes the cannon as he wings a to b.

THE IS	SLAND 427
Or trusted that, if sought, their distant caves Might still be miss'd amidst the world of waves, Had wean'd their thoughts in part from what they saw And felt, the vengeance of their country's law. Their sea-green isle, their guilt-won para- duse, No more could shield their virtue or their vice: 40 Their better feelings, if such were, were thrown Back on themselves, — their sins remain'd alone. Proscribed even in their second country, they Were lost; in vain the world before them lay; All outlets seem'd secured. Their new allies Had fought and bled in mutual sacrifice; But what avail'd the club and spear, and arm Of Hercules, against the sulphury charm, The magic of the thunder, which destroy'd The warrior ere his strength could be em- ploy'd? 50 Dug, like a spreading pestilence, the grave No less of human bravery than the brave ! Ther own scant numbers acted all the few Against the many oft will dare and do. But though the choice seems native to die free, Even Greece can boast but one Thermo- pylæ, Till now, when she has forged her broken chain Back to a sword, and dies and lives again ! III Beside the jutting rock the few appear'd, Like the last remnant of the red-deer's herd; 60 Their eyes were feverish, and their aspect worn, But still the hunter's blood was on their horn. A little stream came tumbling from the height, And straggling into ocean as it might; Its bounding erystal frolick'd in the ray,	Close on the wild, wide ocean, yet as pure And fresh as innocence, and more secure, Its sliver torrent glitter'd o'er the deep, As the shy chamors' eye o'erlooks the steep, 70 While far below the vast and sullen swell Of ocean's alpine azure rose and fell. To this young spring they rush'd, — all feelings first Absorb'd in passion's and in nature's thirst, — Drank as they do who drink their last, and threw Their arms aside to revel in its dew; Cool'd their scorch'd throats, and wash'd the gory stams From wounds whose only bandage might be chains: Then, when their drought was quench'd, look'd sadly round, As wondering how so many still were found Alive and fetterless; — but silent all, sr Each sought his fellow's eyes, as if to call On him for language which his lips de- med, As though their voices with their cause had died. IV Stern, and aloof a little from the rest, Stood Christian, with his arms across his chest. The ruddy, reckless, dauntless hue once spread Along his cheek was livid now as lead; His hght-brown locks, so graceful in their flow, Now rose like startled vipers o'er his brow. 90 Still as a statue, with his lips comprest To stifie even the breath within his breast, Fast by the rock, all menacing, but mute, He stood; and, save a slight beat of his foot, Which deepen'd now and then the sandy dint Beneath his heel, his form seem'd turn'd to flint. Some paces further Torquil lean'd his head Against a bank, and spoke not, but he bled, — Not mortally — his worst wound was within:
And gush'd from cliff to crag with saltless spray:	His brow was pale, his blue eyes sunken in, 100

- And blood-drops, sprinkled o'er his yellow He drew it from his mouth, and look'd full hair, wise, Show'd that his faintness came not from But merely added to the oath his eyes; despair, Thus rendering the imperfect phrase com. But nature's ebb. Beside him was another, plete, Rough as a bear, but willing as a brother, -A peroration I need not repeat. Ben Bunting, who essay'd to wash, and vr wipe, And bind his wound — then calmly lit his But Christian, of a higher order, stood Like an extinct volcano in his mood; pipe. 140 A trophy which survived a hundred fights, Silent, and sad, and savage, - with the A beacon which had cheer'd ten thousand trace nights. Of passion reeking from his clouded face; The fourth and last of this deserted group Till lifting up again his sombre eye, It glanced on Torquil, who lean'd faintly by. 'And is it thus?' he cried, 'unhappy boy! Walk'd up and down; at times would stand, then stoop 110 To pick a pebble up - then let it drop -And thee, too, thee — my madness must de-Then hurry as in haste — then quickly stroy !' He said, and strode to where young Torquil stop -Then cast his eyes on his companions stood, then Yet dabbled with his lately flowing blood; Seized his hand wistfully, but did not press, Half whistle half a tune, and pause again — And then his former movements would re-And shrunk as fearful of his own caress; 150 double, Enquired into his state; and when he heard With something between carelessness and The wound was slighter than he deem'd or trouble. fear'd, This is a long description, but applies A moment's brightness pass'd along his To scarce five minutes pass'd before the brow, As much as such a moment would allow. eves; 'Yes,' he exclaim'd, 'we are taken in the But yet what minutes ! Moments like to these toil. Rend men's lives into immortalities. But not a coward or a common spoil; 120 Dearly they have bought us, dearly still may buy; -And I must fall; but have you strength to At length Jack Skyscrape, a mercurial fly? man, Who flutter'd over all things like a fan, 'T would be some comfort still, could you survive; More brave than firm, and more disposed to dare Our dwindled band is now too few to strive. And die at once than wrestle with de-Oh, for a sole canoe ! though but a shell, To bear you hence to where a hope may spair, Exclaim'd, 'G-d damn !' - those syllables dwell ! intense, For me, my lot is what I sought: to be, Nucleus of England's native eloquence, In life or death, the fearless and the free.' As the Turk's 'Allah!' or the Roman's VII more Pagan 'Proh Jupiter !' was wont of yore Even as he spoke, around the promontory, To give their first impressions such a vent, Which nodded o'er the billows high and By way of echo to embarrassment. hoary, 130 A dark speck dotted ocean · on it flew Jack was embarrass'd, - never hero more, And as he knew not what to say, he swore: Like to the shadow of a roused sea-mew; Nor swore in vain; the long congenial Onward it came — and, lo ! a second follow'dsound
- Revived Ben Bunting from his pipe profound;

Now seen — now hid — where ocean's vale was hollow'd; 170

And near, and nearer, till their dusky crew Presented well-known aspects to the view, Till on the surf their skimming paddles play, Buoyant as wings, and flitting through the spray; — Now perching on the wave's high curl, and now Dash'd downward in the thundering foam below, Which flings it broad and boiling sheet on sheet, And slungs its high flakes, shiver'd into sleet. But floating still through surf and swell, drew nigh The barks, like small birds through a lower- ing sky 180 Their art seem'd nature — such the skill to sweep The wave of these born playmates of the	Even Christian gazed upon the maid and boy With tearless eye, but yet a gloomy joy, Mix'd with those bitter thoughts the soul arrays In hopeless visions of our better days, When all's gone — to the rambow's latest ray. 'And but for me !' he said, and turn'd away; Then gazed upon the pair, as in his den A hon looks upon his cubs again; 210 And then relapsed into his sullen guise, As heedless of his further destinies. X But brief their time for good or evil thought; The billows round the promontory brought The plash of hostile oars. — Alas ! who deep	made That sound a dread? All around them
VIII	seem'd array'd
And who the first that, springing on the strand,	Against them, save the bride of Toobonai: She, as she caught the first glimpse o'er the strand, Leap'd like a nereid from her shell to land, With dark but brilliant skin, and dewy eye Shining with love, and hope, and constancy ? Neuha — the fond, the faithful, the adored — Her heart on Torquil's like a torrent pour'd: And smiled, and wept, and near and nearer clasp'd, As if to be assured 't was him she grasp'd; Shudder'd to see his yet warm wound, and then, 191 To find it trivial, smiled and wept again. She was a warrior's daughter, and could bear Such sights, and feel, and mourn, but not despair. Her lover lived, — nor foes nor fears could blight That full-blown moment in its all delight. Joy trickled in her tears, joy fill'd the sob That rock'd her heart till almost HEARD to throb; And paradise was breathing in the sigh	 She, as she caught the first glimpse o'er the bay Of the arm'd boats which hurried to complete The remnant's ruin with their flying feet, Beckon'd the natives round her to their prows, 221 Embark'd their guests and launch'd their light cances; In one placed Christian and his comrades twain; But she and Torquil must not part again, She fix'd him in her own Away ! away ! They clear the breakers, dart along the bay, And towards a group of islets, such as bear The sea-bird's nest and seal's surf-hollow'd lair, They flew, and fast their fierce pursuers chased. 230 They gain upon them — now they lose again — Again make way and menace o'er the main; And now the two cances in chase divide,
Of nature's child in nature's ecstasy 200	And follow different courses o'er the tide, To baffle the pursuit — Away ! away !
IX	As life is on each paddle's flight to-day,
The sterner spirits who beheld that meeting Were not unmoved: who are, when hearts are greeting?	And more than life or lives to Neuha: Love Freights the frail bark and urges to the cove —

CANTO THE FOURTH

1

WHITE as a white sail on a dusky sea,

When half the horizon's clouded and half free,

Fluttering between the dun wave and the sky,

Is hope's last gleam in man's extremity.

Her anchor parts; but still her snowy sail

Attracts our eye amidst the rudest gale.

Though every wave she climbs divides us more,

The heart still follows from the loneliest shore.

11

Not distant from the isle of Toobonai,

A black rock rears its bosom o'er the spray, 10

The haunt of birds, a desert to mankind,

Where the rough seal reposes from the wind,

And sleeps unwieldy in his cavern dun,

Or gambols with huge frolic in the sun.

There shrilly to the passing oar is heard

The startled echo of the ocean bird,

Who rears on its bare breast her callow brood,

The feather'd fishers of the solitude

A narrow segment of the yellow sand

On one side forms the outline of a strand;

Here the young turtle, crawling from his shell, 21

Steals to the deep wherein his parents dwell;

Chipp'd by the beam, a nursling of the day,

But hatch'd for ocean by the fostering ray.

The rest was one bleak precipice, as e'er Gave mariners a shelter and despair;

A spot to make the saved regret the deck

Which late went down, and envy the lost wreck.

Such was the stern asylum Neuha chose

To shield her lover from his following foes; 30

But all its secret was not told; she knew In this a treasure hidden from the view. ш

Ere the canoes divided, near the spot,

The men that mann'd what held her Torquil's lot,

- By her command removed, to strengthen more
- The skiff which wafted Christian from the shore.
- This he would have opposed; but with a smile
- She pointed calmly to the craggy isle,
- And bade him 'speed and prosper.' She would take

The rest upon herself for Torquil's sake.

They parted with this added aid; afar 41 The proa darted like a shooting star,

- And gain'd on the pursuers, who now steer'd
- Right on the rock which she and Torquil near'd.

They pull'd; her arm, though delicate, was free

- And firm as ever grappled with the sea,
- And yielded scarce to Torquil's manlier strength.

The prow now almost lay within its length Of the crag's steep, inexorable face,

With nought but soundless waters for its base; 50

Within a hundred boats' length was the foe, And now what refuge but their frail canoe ? This Torquil ask'd with half-upbraiding eye, Which said — ' Has Neuha brought me here to die ?

Is this a place of safety, or a grave,

And yon huge rock the tombstone of the wave?'

IV

They rested on their paddles, and uprose

- Neuha, and pointing to the approaching foes,
- Cried, 'Torquil, follow me, and fearless follow !'
- Then plunged at once into the ocean's hollow. 60
- There was no time to pause the foes were near,

Chains in his eye, and menace in his ear;

With vigour they pull'd on, and as they came,

Hail'd him to yield, and by his forfeit name.

Headlong he leapt — to him the swimmer's skill

Was native, and now all his hope from ill.

- But how, or where? He dived, and rose no more;
- The boat's crew look'd amazed o'er sea and shore
- There was no landing on that precipice, 69 Steep, harsh, and slippery as a berg of ice.
- They watch'd awhile to see him float again,
- But not a trace rebubbled from the main

The wave roll'd on, no rupple on its face

- Since their first plunge recall'd a single trace;
- The little whirl which eddied, and slight foam,
- That whiten'd o'er what seem'd their latest home.

White as a sepulchre above the pair

- Who left no marble (mournful as an heir)
- The quiet proa wavering o'er the tide
- Was all that told of Torquil and his bride;
- And but for this alone the whole might seem 81
- The vanish'd phantom of a seaman's dream. They paused and search'd in vain, then pull'd away;

Even superstition now forbade their stay.

- Some said he had not plunged into the wave,
- But vanish'd like a corpse-light from a grave;

Others, that something supernatural

Glared in his figure, more than mortal tall;

While all agreed that in his cheek and eye

There was a dead hue of etermty.

Still as their oars receded from the crag,

- Round every weed a moment would they lag,
- Expectant of some token of their prey;
- But no he had melted from them like the spray.

v

And where was he, the pilgrim of the deep, Following the nereid ? Had they ceased to weep

For ever ? or, received in coral caves,

- Wrung life and pity from the softening waves?
- Did they with ocean's hidden sovereigns dwell,
- And sound with mermen the fantastic shell?
- Did Neuha with the mermaids comb her hair

Flowing o'er ocean as it stream'd in air? Or had they perish'd, and in silence slept

Beneath the gulf wherein they boldly leapt?

٧I

Young Neuha plunged into the deep, and he Follow'd. her track beneath her native sea Was as a native's of the element,

So smoothly, bravely, brilliantly she went,

- Leaving a streak of light behind her heel,
- Which struck and flash'd like an amphibious steel
- Closely, and scarcely less expert to trace
- The depths where divers hold the pearl in chase.
- Torquil, the nursling of the northern seas,
- Pursued her liquid steps with heart and ease.
- Deep deeper for an instant Neuha led
- The way, then upward soar'd; and as she spread
- Her arms, and flung the foam from off her locks,
- Laugh'd, and the sound was answer'd by the rocks
- They had gain'd a central realm of earth again,
- But look'd for tree, and field, and sky, in vain. 120
- Around she pointed to a spacious cave,
- Whose only portal was the keyless wave
- (A hollow archway by the sun unseen,
- Save through the billows' glassy veil of green,
- In some transparent ocean holiday,
- When all the finny people are at play),
- Wiped with her hair the brine from Torquil's eyes,
- And clapp'd her hands with joy at his surprise;
- Led him to where the rock appear'd to jut,
- And form a something like a Triton's hut; 130

For all was darkness for a space, till day

Through clefts above let in a sober'd ray.

As in some old cathedral's glummering asle The dusty monuments from light recoil,

Thus sadly in their refuge submarine

The vault drew half her shadow from the scene.

VII

- Forth from her bosom the young savage drew
- A pine torch, strongly girded with gnatoo;
- A plantam-leaf o'er all, the more to keep 139
- Its latent sparkle from the sapping deep.

This mantle kept it dry; then from a nook

Of the same plantam-leaf a flint she took, A few shrunk wither'd twigs, and from the blade

- Of Torquil's knife struck fire; and thus array'd
- The grot with torchlight. Wide it was and high,
- And show'd a self-born Gothic canopy;
- The arch uprear'd by nature's architect,
- The architrave some earthquake might erect;
- The buttress from some mountain's bosom hurl'd,
- When the Poles crash'd, and water was the world; 150
- Or harden'd from some earth-absorbing fire,
- While yet the globe reek'd from its funeral pyre;
- The fretted punnacle, the aisle, the nave,
- Were there, all scoop'd by Darkness from her cave.
- There, with a little tinge of phantasy,
- Fantastic faces moped and mow'd on high,
- And then a mitre or a shrine would fix
- The eye upon its seeming crucifix.
- Thus Nature play'd with the stalactites,

And built herself a chapel of the seas. 160

VIII

And Neuha took her Torquil by the hand, And waved along the vault her kindled brand,

And led him into each recess, and show'd The secret places of their new abode

Nor these alone, for all had been prepared Before, to soothe the lover's lot she shared: The mat for rest; for dress the fresh gnatoo,

And sandal oil to fence against the dew;

For food the cocoa-nut, the yam, the bread Born of the fruit; for board the plantain

spread 170

With its broad leaf, or turtle-shell which bore

A banquet in the flesh it cover'd o'er;

- The gourd with water recent from the rill, The ripe banana from the mellow hill;
- A pine-torch pile to keep undying light,

And she herself, as beautiful as night,

- To fling her shadowy spirit o'er the scene, And make their subterranean world serene. She had foreseen, since first the stranger's
- sail Drew to their isle, that force or flight might fail, 780

And form'd a refuge of the rocky den

- For Torquil's safety from his countrymen.
- Each dawn had wafted there her light canoe,

Laden with all the golden fruits that grew;

- Each eve had seen her gliding through the hour
- With all could cheer or deck their sparry bower;
- And now she spread her little store with smiles,
- The happiest daughter of the loving isles.

IX

- She, as he gazed with grateful wonder, press'd
- Her shelter'd love to her impassion'd breast; 190

And suited to her soft caresses, told

An olden tale of love, — for love is old,

Old as eternity, but not outworn,

With each new being born or to be born:

How a young chief, a thousand moons ago,

Diving for turtle in the depths below,

Had risen, in tracking fast his ocean prey, Into the cave which round and o'er them lay;

How in some desperate feud of after-time He shelter'd there a daughter of the clime, A foe beloved, and offspring of a foe, 201 Saved by his tribe but for a captive's woe, How, when the storm of war was still'd, he led His island clan to where the waters spread

Their deep-green shadow o'er the rocky door,

- Then dived it seem'd as if to rise no more —
- His wondering mates, amazed within their bark,
- Or deem'd him mad, or prey to the blue shark;
- Row'd round in sorrow the sea-girded rock,

Then paused upon their paddles from the shock: 210

- When, fresh and springing from the deep, they saw
- A goddess rise so deem'd they in their awe;

And their companion, glorious by her side,

- Proud and exulting in his mermaid bride And how, when undeceived, the pair they bore
- With sounding conchs and joyous shouts to shore;

How they had gladly lived and calmly But Christian bade them seek their shore died, agam, And why not also Torquil and his bride? Nor add a sacrifice which were in vain; 250 Not mine to tell the rapturous caress For what were simple bow and savage spear 219 Which follow'd wildly in that wild recess Against the arms which must be wielded This tale; enough that all within that cave here? Was love, though buried strong as in the grave XI Where Abelard, through twenty years of They landed on a wild but narrow scene, death, Where few but Nature's footsteps yet had When Eloisa's form was lower'd beneath been; Their nuptial vault, his arms outstretch'd, Prepared their arms, and with that gloomy and press'd eve. The kindling ashes to his kindled breast Stern and sustain'd, of man's extremity, The waves without sang round their couch, When hope is gone, nor glory's self retheir roar mains As much unheeded as if life were o'er; To cheer resistance against death or Within, their hearts made all their harchains, mony, They stood, the three, as the three hundred Love's broken murmur and more broken stood Who dyed Thermopylæ with holy blood. 260 sigh. 230 But, ah, how different ! 't is the cause makes x all, And they, the cause and sharers of the Degrades or hallows courage in its fall. O'er them no fame, eternal and intense, shock Which left them exiles of the hollow rock, Blazed through the clouds of death and Where were they? O'er the sea for life beckon'd hence; they plied, No grateful country, smiling through her To seek from Heaven the shelter men detears, nied. Begun the praises of a thousand years; Another course had been their choice -No nation's eyes would on their tomb be but where? bent, The wave which bore them still their foes No heroes envy them their monument; would bear, However boldly their warm blood was Who, disappointed of their former chase, spilt, In search of Christian now renew'd their Their life was shame, their epitaph was race. guilt. And this they knew and felt, at least the Eager with anger, their strong arms made way, one. Like vultures baffled of their previous The leader of the band he had undone; Who, born perchance for better things, had prey. 240 They gain'd upon them, all whose safety setHis life upon a cast which linger'd yet 19.0 But now the die was to be thrown, and all In some bleak crag or deeply-hidden bay. The chances were in favour of his fall No further chance or choice remain'd; and And such a fall ! But still he faced the right For the first further rock which met their shock, sight Obdurate as a portion of the rock They steer'd, to take their latest view of Whereon he stood, and fix'd his levell'd gun, Dark as a sullen cloud before the sun. 28c land, And yield as victims, or die sword in hand; XII Dismiss'd the natives and their shallop, The boat drew nigh, well arm'd, and firm who Would still have battled for that scanty the crew To act whatever duty bade them do: crew.

Careless of danger, as the onward wind Is of the leaves it strews, nor looks behind. And yet perhaps they rather wish'd to go

- Against a nation's than a native foe,
- And felt that this poor victim of self-will,
- Briton no more, had once been Britam's still
- They hail'd him to surrender no reply;
- Their arms were poised, and glitter'd in the sky. 290
- They hall'd again no answer; yet once more
- They offer'd quarter louder than before.
- The echoes only, from the rocks rebound,
- Took their last farewell of the dying sound.
- Then flash'd the flunt, and blazed the volleying flame,
- And the smoke rose between them and their aim,
- While the rock rattled with the bullets' knell,
- Which peal'd in vain and flatten'd as they fell;
- Then flew the only answer to be given

By those who had lost all hope in earth or heaven. 300

- After the first fierce peal, as they pull'd nigher,
- They heard the voice of Christian shout, 'Now fire !'
- And ere the word upon the echo died,
- Two fell; the rest assail'd the rock's rough side,
- And, furious at the madness of their foes,
- Disdain'd all further efforts, save to close.
- But steep the crag, and all without a path,
- Each step opposed a bastion to their wrath; While, placed 'midst clefts the least acces-
- sible,
- Which Christian's eye was train'd to mark full well, 310
- The three maintain'd a strife which must not yield,
- In spots where eagles might have chosen to build.
- Their every shot told; while the assailant fell,
- Dash'd on the shingles like the limpet shell;
- But still enough survived, and mounted still,
- Scattering their numbers here and there, until

Surrounded and commanded, though not nigh

Enough for seizure, near enough to die,

- The desperate trio held aloof their fate
- But by a thread, like sharks who have gorged the bait; 320
- Yet to the very last they battled well, And not a groan inform'd their foes who fell.
- Christian died last twice wounded; and once more
- Mercy was offer'd when they saw his gore; Too late for life, but not too late to die,
- With, though a hostile hand, to close his eye.
- A limb was broken, and he droop'd along
- The crag, as doth a falcon reft of young.
- The sound revived him, or appear'd to wake
- Some passion which a weakly gesture spake: 330
- He beckon'd to the foremost, who drew nigh, But, as they near'd, he rear'd his weapon high —
- His last ball had been aim'd, but from his breast
- He tore the topmost button from his vest,
- Down the tube dash'd it, levell'd, fired, and smiled
- As his foe fell; then, like a serpent, coil'd
- His wounded, weary form, to where the steep
- Look'd desperate as himself along the deep;
- Cast one glance back, and clench'd his hand, and shook
- His last rage 'gainst the earth which he forsook; 340
- Then plunged: the rock below received like glass
- His body crush'd into one gory mass,
- With scarce a shred to tell of human form,
- Or fragment for the sea-bird or the worm; A fair-hair'd scalp, besmear'd with blood
- and weeds,
- Yet reek'd, the remnant of himself and deeds;
- Some splinters of his weapons (to the last,
- As long as hand could hold, he held them fast)
- Yet glitter'd, but at distance hurl'd away
- To rust beneath the dew and dashing spray 350
- The rest was nothing save a life misspent,
- And soul but who shall answer where it went?

- -

- "T is ours to bear, not judge the dead; and they
- Who doom to hell, themselves are on the way,
- Unless these bullies of eternal pains
- Are pardon'd their bad hearts for their worse brains.

\mathbf{XIII}

The deed was over ! All were gone or ta'en, The fugitive, the captive, or the slain.

- Chain'd on the deck, where once, a gallant crew,
- They stood with honour, were the wretched few 360
- Survivors of the skirmish on the isle;
- But the last rock left no surviving spoil.
- Cold lay they where they fell, and weltering,
- While o'er them flapp'd the sea-bird's dewy wing,
- Now wheeling nearer from the neighbouring surge,
- And screaming high their harsh and hungry dirge.
- But calm and careless heaved the wave below,
- Eternal with unsympathetic flow;
- Far o'er its face the dolphins sported on,
- And sprung the flying fish against the sun,
- Till its dried wing relapsed from its brief height, 37¹
- To gather moisture for another flight.

XIV

- 'T was morn; and Neuha, who by dawn of day
- Swam smoothly forth to catch the rising ray,
- And watch if aught approach'd the amphibious lair
- Where lay her lover, saw a sail in air:
- It flapp'd, it fill'd, and to the growing gale
- Bent its broad arch: her breath began to fail
- With fluttering fear, her heart beat thick and high,
- While yet a doubt sprung where its course might lie. 3⁸⁰
- But no ! it came not; fast and far away
- The shadow lessen'd as it clear'd the bay. She gazed, and flung the sea-foam from her
- eyes,
- To watch as for a rainbow in the skies.

On the horizon verged the distant deck,

- Diminish'd, dwindled to a very speck -
- Then vanish'd All was ocean, all was joy !
- Down plunged she through the cave to rouse her boy;
- Told all she had seen, and all she hoped, and all
- That happy love could augur or recall; 390 Sprung forth again, with Torquil following free
- His bounding nereid over the broad sea;
- Swam round the rock, to where a shallow cleft
- Hid the canoe that Neuha there had left
- Drifting along the tide, without an oar,
- That eve the strangers chased them from the shore;
- But when these vanish'd, she pursued her prow,
- Regain'd, and urged to where they found it now.
- Nor ever did more love and joy embark,

Than now were wafted in that slender ark.

XV

Again their own shore rises on the view, 401 No more polluted with a hostile hue;

No sullen ship lay bristling o'er the foam,

- A floating dungeon: all was hope and home!
- A thousand proas darted o'er the bay,
- With sounding shells, and heralded their way;
- The chiefs came down, around the people pour'd,

And welcomed Torquil as a son restored;

- The women throng'd, embracing and embraced
- By Neuha, asking where they had been chased, 410
- And how escaped ! The tale was told; and then

One acclamation rent the sky again;

- And from that hour a new tradition gave
- Their sanctuary the name of 'Neuha's Cave'
- A hundred fires, far flickering from the height,

Blazed o'er the general revel of the night,

The feast in honour of the guest, retuin'd To peace and pleasure, perilously earn'd;

A night succeeded by such happy days

As only the yet infant world displays. 420

ITALIAN POEMS

[Taken as a whole the Italian Poems must be reckoned the least valuable portion of Byron's work, although one of them is interesting as showing the tendency of the poet's mind, and another is an extraordinary tour de force Their composition extends from April of 1817 to March of 1820, the first three years of his residence in Italy, and is the fruit of his genuine love for the language and literature of that land. In the autumn of 1816 Byron left Switzerland for Italy and was soon domiciled in Venice. The first of the Italian poems, however, was the result of a visit to Ferrara, and shows how strong was the historical spirit in him The Lament of Tasso is dated April 20, 1817. The subject seems to have had a special interest for Byron, and he has introduced it with good effect into the fourth canto of Childe Harold (stanzas xxxy. et seq), not without a fling at Boileau in return for the famous clinquant du Tasse Beppo was written in the autumn of 1817, in acknowledged imitation of the mock-heroic style of John Hookham Frere At this time Byron was still engaged on the fourth canto of Childe Harold and it is a mark of his versatility that he could work at once on two poems so different in character. While finishing the solemin apostrophes of his romantic Pilgrim he was thus preluding the saturical mockery of the later Pilgrim, Don Juan. The first canto of the latter poem was, indeed, finished in September of the following year The Ode on Vence, quite in the style and metre of the Tasso, was written in July of 1818, although not published for nearly a twelvemonth, when it appeared with Mazeppa and A Fragment The Prophecy of Dante, both in subject and metre, was peculiarly out of Byron's range, and must be reckoned one of his absolute failures As for the metre, the terza rima, Byron was only one of a number of English poets who have shown astonishing perversity in disregarding the principles on which its success depends, as might have been learned from the slightest attention to the manner of Dante himself and the other great Italians Shelley's Ode to the West Wind displays the same wilful ignorance and is saved from failure only by its brevity. The Prophecy of Dante was written at Ravenna in June, 1819, at the request of the Countess Guiccioli Byron's next Italian poem proves that, if he imitated Fiere in Beppo, he also went directly to the sources from which Frere himself had drawn. His translation of the first canto of Pulci's Morgante Maggiore is a careful piece of work, finished in the early weeks of 1820 at Ravenna, and mits closeness to the original is really a tour de force It is not necessary to point out the influence of such a translaoriginal is really a tour de force It is not necessary to point out the innuence of such a transla-tion on Don Juan. The last of his Italian poems was a translation of the famous Francesca of Rimin episode in the fifth canto of Dante's Inferno Writing to Murray from Ravenna, March 20, 1820, Byron says 'Last post I sent you The Vision of Dante, — four first cantos. Enclosed you will find, line for line, in third rhyme (terza rima), of which your British Blackguard reader as yet understands nothing, Fanny of Rimini. You know that she was born here, and married, and slain, from Cary, Boyd, and such people already. I have done it into cramp English, line for line, and showe for howe for the to the possibility' for line, and rhyme for rhyme, to try the possibility.']

THE LAMENT OF TASSO

At Ferrara, in the Iibraiy, are preserved the original MSS. of Tasso's Gierusalemme and of Guainn's Pastor Fido, with letters of Tasso, one from Titian to Ariosto, and the inkstand and chair, the tomb and the house of the latter But, as misfortune has a greater interest for posterity, and little or none for the cotemporary, the cell where Tasso was confined in the hospital of St Anna attracts a more fixed attention than the residence or the monument of Ariosto - at least it had this effect on me. There are two inscriptions, one on the outer gate, the second over the cell itself, inviting, unnecessarily, the wonder and the indignation of the spectator. Ferrara is much decayed, and depopulated the castle still exists entire; and I saw the court where Parisina and Hugo were beheaded, according to the annal of Gibbon.

I

- Long years !- It tries the thrilling frame to bear.
- And eagle-spirit of a Child of Song,
- Long years of outrage, calumny, and wrong;
- Imputed madness, prison'd solitude,
- And the mind's canker in its savage mood.
- When the impatient thirst of light and air
- Parches the heart; and the abhorred grate,
- Marring the sunbeams with its hideous shade,
- Works through the throbbing eyeball to the bram

With a hot sense of heaviness and pain. 16 And bare, at once, Captivity display'd

Stands scoffing through the never-open'd gate.

- Which nothing through its bars admits, I was indeed delirious in my heart save day, And tasteless food, which I have eat alone Till its unsocial bitterness is gone; And I can banquet like a beast of prey, Not less because I suffer it unbent. Sullen and lonely, couching in the cave That thou wert beautiful, and I not blind, Which is my lair, and -it may be -mygrave. mankind; All this hath somewhat worn me, and may wear, But must be borne. I stoop not to despair; Successful love may sate itself away, For I have battled with mine agony, And made me wings wherewith to overfly fate The narrow circus of my dungeon wall, And freed the Holy Sepulchre from thrall; And every passion into one dilate, As rapid rivers into ocean pour; And revell'd among men and things divine, And pour'd my spirit over Palestine, III In honour of the sacred war for Him. The God who was on earth and is in Of minds and bodies in captivity. heaven, For he hath strengthen'd me in heart and limb. howl. That through this sufferance I might be forgiven, I have employ'd my penance to record foul. How Salem's shrine was won, and how adored. mind, II But this is o'er, my pleasant task is done: ---My long-sustaming friend of many years ! If I do blot thy final page with tears, class'd. Know, that my sorrows have wrung from have pass'd; me none But thou, my young creation ! my soul's child ! may close: Which ever playing round me came and smiled, IV And woo'd me from myself with thy sweet I have been patient, let me be so yet; sight. I had forgotten half I would forget, Thou too art gone - and so is my delight: To be forgetful as I am forgot ! And therefore do I weep and inly bleed With this last bruise upon a broken reed. Thou too art ended — what is left me dwell now? For I have anguish yet to bear — and
 - Nor words a language, nor e'en men man-
 - Where cries reply to curses, shrieks to blows,
 - And each is tortured in his separate hell ----For we are crowded in our solitudes -

50

- how?
- I know not that but in the innate force
- Of my own spirit shall be found resource.
- I have not sunk, for I had no remorse,
- Nor cause for such: they call'd me madand why?
- Oh Leonora ! wilt not thou reply?

To lift my love so lofty as thou art; But still my frenzy was not of the mind;

I knew my fault, and feel my punishment

- Hath been the sin which shuts me from
- But let them go, or torture as they will, My heart can multiply thine image still;
- The wretched are the faithful. 't is their 60
- To have all feeling save the one decay,
- But ours is fathomless, and hath no shore.
- Above me, hark ! the long and maniac cry
- And hark! the lash and the increasing
- And the half-inarticulate blasphemy !
- There be some here with worse than frenzy
- Some who do still goad on the o'er-labour'd

And dum the little light that's left behind With needless torture, as their tyrant will

- Is wound up to the lust of doing ill.
- With these and with their victims am I
- 'Mid sounds and sights like these long years
- 'Mid sights and sounds like these my life
- So let it be, for then I shall repose.

- But it revives Oh ! would it were my lot
- Feel I not wroth with those who bade me
- In this vast lazar-house of many woes?
- Where laughter is not mirth, nor thought the mind.
- kind;

 Many, but each divided by the wall Which echoes Madness in her babbling moods; 90 While all can hear, none heed his neighbour's call— None ! save that One, the veriest wretch of all, Who was not made to be the mate of these, Nor bound between Distraction and Disease. Feel I not wroth with those who placed me here? Who have debased me in the minds of men, Debarring me the usage of my own, Blighting my life in best of its career, Branding my thoughts as things to shun and fear? Woold I not pay them back these pangs again, 100 And teach them inward Sorrow's stiffed groan? The struggle to be calm, and cold distress Which undermines our Stoical success ? No! still too proud to be vindictive, I Have pardon'd princes' insults and would die. Yes, Sister of my Sovereign ! for thy sake I weed all bitterness from out my breast, It hath no business where thou art a guest; 	And yet I did not venture to repine. Thou wert to me a crystal-girded shrine, Worshipp'd at holy distance, and around Hallow'd and meekly kiss'd the saintly ground; "31 Not for thou wert a princess, but that Love Hath robed thee with a glory, and array'd Thy lineaments in beauty that dismay'd— Oh! not dismay'd — but awed, like One above; And in that sweet severity there was A something which all softness did sur- pass— I know not how — thy genius master'd mine — My star stood still before thee: — if it were Presumptuous thus to love without design, That sad fatality hath cost me dear; 1447 But thou art dearest still, and I should be Fit for this cell which wrongs me — but for thee . The very love which lock'd me to my chain Hath lighten'd half its weight; and for the rest, Though heavy, lent me vigour to sustain, And look to thee with undivided breast, And foul the ingenuity of Pain.
 Thou pittest not—but I can not forsake. 110 V Look on a love which knows not to despair, But all unquench'd is still my better part, Dwelling deep in my shut and silent heart As dwells the gather'd lightning in its cloua, Encompass'd with its dark and rolling shroud, Till struck, — forth flies the all-ethereal dart ! And thus at the collision of thy name The vivid thought still flashes through my frame, And for a moment all things as they were Flit by me; — they are gone — I am the same. 120 And yet my love without ambition grew; I knew thy state, my station, and I knew A princess was no love-mate for a bard; I told it not, I breathed it not, it was Sufficient to itself, its own reward; And if my eyes reveal'd it, they, alas ! Were punish'd by the silentness of thine, 	It is no marvel; from my very birth My soul was drunk with love, which did pervade 150 And mingle with whate'er I saw on earth. Of objects all inanimate I made Idols, and out of wild and lonely flowers, And rocks whereby they grew, a paradise, Where I did lay me down within the shade Of waving trees, and dream'd uncounted hours, Though I was chid for wandering; and the Wise Shook their white aged heads o'er me, and said Of such materials wretched men were made, 159 And such a truant boy would end in wee, And that the only lesson was a blow; — And then they smote me, and I did not weep, But cursed them in my heart, and to my haunt Return'd and wept alone, and dream'd again The visions which arise without a sleep.

- And with my years my soul began to pant With feelings of strange tumult and soft pain;
- And the whole heart exhaled into One Want,
- But undefined and wandering, till the day I found the thing I sought — and that was
- thee 170
- And then I lost my being all to be
- Absorb'd in thine; the world was past away,
- Thou didst annihilate the earth to me!

VII

I loved all Solitude; but little thought

To spend I know not what of life, remote From all communion with existence, save

- The manual and his tymost Used I been
- The manuac and his tyrant. Had I been
- Their fellow, many years ere this had seen My mind like theirs corrupted to its
- grave, But who hath seen me writhe or heard me
- rave? 180 Perchance in such a cell we suffer more
- Than the wreck'd sailor on his desert shore;
- The world is all before him mine is here,
- Scarce twice the space they must accord my bier.
- What though he perish, he may lift his eye
- And with a dying glance upbraid the sky -
- I will not raise my own in such reproof,
- Although 't is clouded by my dungeon roof.

VIII

Yet do I feel at times my mind decline, But with a sense of its decay. — I see 190

- Unwonted lights along my prison shine,
- And a strange demon, who is vexing me
- With pilfering pranks and petty pains, be-
- The feeling of the healthful and the free;
- But much to One, who long hath suffer'd so,
- Sickness of heart, and narrowness of place, And all that may be borne, or can debase.
- I thought mine enemies had been but Man, But Spirits may be leagued with them —
- all Earth ¹⁰⁹ Abandons, Heaven forgets me; in the dearth Of such defence the Powers of Evil can, It may be, tempt me further, and prevail Against the outworn creature they assail.

Why in this furnace is my spirit proved

- Like steel in tempering fire? because I loved?
- Because I loved what not to love, and see, Was more or less than mortal and than me.

IX

- I once was quick in feeling that is o'er; My scars are callous, or I should have
- dash'd
- My brain against these bars, as the sun flash'd 210
- In mockery through them. If I bear and bore
- The much I have recounted, and the more Which hath no words, 't is that I would not due
- And sanction with self-slaughter the dull
- Which snared me here, and with the brand of shame
- Stamp Madness deep into my memory,
- And woo Compassion to a blighted name,
- Sealing the sentence which my foes proclaim.
- No it shall be immortal ! and I make
- A future temple of my present cell, 220
- Which nations yet shall visit for my sake.
- While thou, Ferrara ! when no longer dwell The ducal chiefs within thee, shalt fall
- down, And crumblung piecemeal view thy hearth-
- And crumbling piecemeal view thy hearthless halls, --

A poet's wreath shall be thine only crown,

A poet's dungeon thy most far renown,

- While strangers wonder o'er thy unpeopled walls !
- And thou, Leonora ! thou who wert ashamed
- That such as I could love, who blush'd to hear
- To less than monarchs that thou couldst be dear — 230
- Go! tell thy brother, that my heart, untamed

By grief, years, weariness - and it may be

A taint of that he would impute to me -

- From long infection of a den like this,
- Where the mind rots congenial with the abyss,
- Adores thee still; -- and add, that when the towers
- And battlements which guard his joyous hours

Of banquet, dance, and revel, are forgot, Or left untended in a dull repose,

This — this shall be a consecrated spot ! 240 But Thou — when all that Birth and Beauty throws

Of magic round thee is extinct — shalt have One half the laurel which o'ershades my

- grave.
- No power in death can tear our names apart,
- As none in life could rend thee from my heart
- Yes, Leonora ! it shall be our fate

To be entwined for ever - but too late !

BEPPO

A VENETIAN STORY

'Rosalund. Farewell, Monsieur Traveller: Look, you hsp, and wear strange suits: disable all the benefits of your own country; be out of love with your Nativity, and almost chide God for making you that countenance you are, or I will scarce think you have swam in a Gondola.'

As You Lake It, Act IV. Scene 1.

Annotation of the Commentators

'That is, been at Venuce, which was much visited by the young English gentlemen of those times, and was then what Paris is now, — the seat of all dissoluteness'

S A. [Samuel Ayscough]

I

"T is known, at least it should be, that throughout

All countries of the Catholic persuasion, Some weeks before Shrove Tuesday comes about, The meanly take their fill of represention

The people take their fill of recreation,

- And buy repentance, ere they grow devout, However high their rank or low their station,
- With fiddling, feasting, dancing, drinking, masquing,
- And other things which may be had for asking.

11

- The moment night with dusky mantle covers
 - The skies (and the more duskily the better), 10

- The time less liked by husbands than by lovers
- Begins, and prudery flings aside her fetter;
- And gaiety on restless tiptoe hovers,
- Giggling with all the gallants who beset her;
- And there are songs and quavers, roaring, humming,
- Guitars, and every other sort of strumming.

111

- And there are dresses splendid, but fantastical,
 - Masks of all times and nations, Turks and Jews,
- And harlequins and clowns, with feats gymnastical,
 - Greeks, Romans, Yankee-doodles, and Hindoos; 20
- All kinds of diess, except the ecclesiastical, All people, as their fancies hit, may choose,
- But no one in these parts may quiz the clergy,-
- Therefore take heed, ye Freethinkers ! I charge ye.

IV

- You'd better walk about begirt with briars, Instead of coat and smallclothes, than put on
- A single stitch reflecting upon friars,
- Although you swore it only was in fun;
- They 'd haul you o'er the coals, and stir the fires
- Of Phlegethon with every mother's son,
- Nor say one mass to cool the caldron's bubble
- That boil'd your bones, unless you paid them double.

v

- But saving this, you may put on whate'er
 - You like by way of doublet, cape, or cloak,
- Such as in Monmouth-street, or in Rag Fair,

Would rig you out in seriousness or joke; And even in Italy such places are,

With prettier name in softer accents spoke,

For, bating Covent Garden, I can hit on

No place that 's call'd 'Piazza' in Great Britam. 40

- This feast is named the Carnival, which being
- Interpreted, implies 'farewell to flesh:'
- So call'd, because, the name and thing agreeing,
 - Through Lent they live on fish both salt and fresh
- But why they usher Lent with so much glee in,

Is more than I can tell, although I guess

- 'T is as we take a glass with friends at parting,
- In the stage-coach or packet, just at starting.

VII

- And thus they bid farewell to carnal dishes, And solid meats, and highly spiced ragouts, 50
- Fo live for forty days on ill-dress'd fishes, Because they have no sauces to their stews.
- A thing which causes many 'poohs' and 'pishes,'
 - And several oaths (which would not suit the Muse),
- From travellers accustom'd from a boy

To eat their salmon, at the least, with soy.

VIII

And therefore humbly I would recommend

- 'The curious in fish-sauce,' before they cross
- The sea, to bid their cook, or wife, or friend, Walk or ride to the Strand, and buy in gross 60
- (Or if set out beforehand, these may send By any means least hable to loss),

Ketchup, Soy, Chili-vinegar, and Harvey,

Or, by the Lord ! a Lent will well-nigh starve ye;

IX

That is to say, if your religion's Roman, And you at Rome would do as Romans do,

According to the proverb, — although no man,

If foreign, is obliged to fast; and you, If Protestant, or suckly, or a woman;

- Would rather dine in sin on a ragout Dine and be d—d! I don'. mean to be
- coarse, p
- But that's the penalty, to say no worse.

х

Of all the places where the Carnival

- Was most facetious in the days of yore, For dance, and song, and serenade, and ball, And masque, and mime, and mystery, and more
- Than I have time to tell now, or at all,
- Venice the bell from every city bore, --
- And at the moment when I fix my story, That sea-born city was in all her glory. Se
 - хī
- They 've pretty faces yet, those same Vene-
 - Black eyes, arch'd brows, and sweet expressions still;
- Such as of old were copied from the Grecians,
- In ancient arts by moderns mimick'd ill; And like so many Venuses of Titian's
- (The best's at Florence see it, if yawill),
- They look when leaning over the balcony,

Or stepp'd from out a picture by Giorgione,

 $\mathbf{X}\mathbf{I}\mathbf{I}$

Whose tints are truth and beauty at their best;

And when you to Manfrini's palace go,

That picture (howsoever fine the rest) Is lovehest to my mind of all the show;

- It may perhaps be also to your zest, And that's the cause I rhyme upon it so:
- 'T is but a portrait of his son, and wife,

And self; but such a woman ! love in life !

$\mathbf{X}\mathbf{I}\mathbf{I}\mathbf{I}$

Love in full life and length, not love ideal, No, nor ideal beauty, that fine name,

But something better still, so very real,

- That the sweet model must have been the same; 100
- A thing that you would purchase, beg, or steal,
- Wer't not impossible, besides a shame.
- The face recalls some face, as 't were with pain,
- You once have seen, but ne'er will see again:

XIV

- One of those forms which flit by us, when we Are young and fix our eyes on every face;
- And, oh ! the loveliness at times we see In momentary gliding, the soft grace,

- The youth, the bloom, the beauty which agree,
- In many a nameless being we retrace,
- Whose course and home we knew not, nor shall know,
- Like the lost Pleiad seen no more below.

xv

I said that like a picture by Giorgione

Venetian women were, and so they are, Particularly seen from a balcony

- (For beauty's sometimes best set off afar),
- And there, just like a herome of Goldoni,

They peep from out the blind, or o'er the bar;

And, truth to say, they 're mostly very pretty,

And rather like to show it, more's the pity!

XVI

For glances beget ogles, ogles sighs, 121 Sighs wishes, wishes words, and words a letter,

Which flies on wings of light-heel'd Mercuries

Who do such things because they know no better;

- And then, God knows what mischief may arise
- When love links two young people in one fetter,

Vile assignations, and adulterous beds,

Elopements, broken vows and hearts and heads.

XVII

Shakspeare described the sex in Desdemona

As very fair, but yet suspect in fame, 130 And to this day from Venuce to Verona

- Such matters may be probably the same, Except that since those times was never known a
 - Husband whom mere suspicion could inflame

To suffocate a wife no more than twenty, Because she had a 'cavalier servente.'

XVIII

Their jealousy (if they are ever jealous) Is of a fair complexion altogether,

Not like that sooty devil of Othello's

Which smothers women in a bed of feather, 140 But worthier of these much more jolly fellows;

When weary of the matrimonial tether

His head for such a wife no mortal bothers, But takes at once another, or another's

XIX

Didst ever see a Gondola? For fear

You should not, I'll describe it you exactly:

- 'T is a long cover'd boat that's common here,
 - Carved at the prow, built lightly, but compactly;
- Row'd by two rowers, each call'd 'Gondolier,'

It glides along the water looking blackly,

Just like a coffin clapt in a canoe, 151 Where none can make out what you say or do.

XХ

And up and down the long canals they go, And under the Rialto shoot along,

- By night and day, all paces, swift or slow; And round the theatres, a sable throng,
- They wait in their dusk livery of woe, But not to them do woful things belong,
- For sometimes they contain a deal of fun,
- Like mourning coaches when the funeral's done. 160

XXI

But to my story. — 'T was some years ago,

It may be thirty, forty, more or less,

The carnival was at its height, and so

Were all kinds of buffoonery and dress; A certain lady went to see the show,

Her real name I know not, nor can guess, And so we'll call her Laura, if you please, Because it slips into my verse with ease.

XXII

- She was not old, nor young, nor at the years Which certain people call a 'certain' age,' 170
- Which yet the most uncertain age appears, Because I never heard, nor could engage
- A person yet by prayers, or bribes, or tears,
 - To name, define by speech, or write on page,

The period meant precisely by that word, — Which surely is exceedingly absurd.

442

- Laura was blooming still, had made the best
 - Of time, and time return'd the compliment
- And treated her genteelly, so that, dress'd, She look'd extremely well where'er she went; 180
- A pretty woman is a welcome guest,
- And Laura's brow a frown had rarely bent;
- Indeed she shone all smiles, and seem'd to flatter
- Mankind with her black eyes for looking at her.

XXIV

- She was a married woman; 't is convenient, Because in Christian countries 't is a rule
- To view their little slips with eyes more lenient;
- Whereas if single ladies play the fool (Unless within the period intervenient
- A well-timed wedding makes the scandal cool), 190
- I don't know how they ever can get over it, Except they manage never to discover it.

$\mathbf{x}\mathbf{x}\mathbf{v}$

- Her husband sail'd upon the Adriatic,
 - And made some voyages, too, in other seas,
- And when he lay in quarantine for pratique (A forty days' precaution 'gainst disease),
- His wife would mount, at times, her highest attic,
 - For thence she could discern the ship with ease.

He was a merchant trading to Aleppo,

His name Giuseppe, call'd more briefly, Beppo.. 200

XXVI

He was a man as dusky as a Spaniard,

- Sunburnt with travel, yet a portly figure; Though colour'd, as it were, within a tan
 - yard, He was a person both of sense and vigour —
- A better seaman never yet did man yard.
- And she, although her manners show'd no rigour,
- Was deem'd a woman of the strictest principle,
- So much as to be thought almost invincible.

- But several years elapsed since they had met;
- Some people thought the ship was lost, and some
- That he had somehow blunder'd into debt, And did not like the thought of steering home:
- And there were several offer'd any bet,
- Or that he would, or that he would not come,
- For most men (till by losing render'd sager) Will back their own opinions with a wager.

XXVIII

'T is said that their last parting was pathetic,

As partings often are, or ought to be,

- And their presentiment was quite prophetic That they should never more each other see 220
- (A sort of morbid feeling, half poetic, Which I have known occur in two or three),
- When kneeling on the shore upon her sad knee,

He left this Adriatic Ariadne.

XXIX

And Laura waited long, and wept a little, And thought of wearing weeds, as well she might;

She almost lost all appetite for victual,

- And could not sleep with ease alone at night;
- She deem'd the window-frames and shutters brittle

Against a daring housebreaker or sprite,

And so she thought it prudent to connect

With a vice-husband, chiefly to protect her.

$\mathbf{X}\mathbf{X}\mathbf{X}$

She chose (and what is there they will not choose,

If only you will but oppose their choice?),

- Till Beppo should return from his long cruise
 - And bid once more her faithful heart rejoice,
- A man some women like, and yet abuse A coxcomb was he by the public voice;
- A Count of wealth, they said, as well as quality,
- And in his pleasures of great liberality. 240

XXXI

- And then he was a Count, and then he knew
- Music, and dancing, fiddling, French and Tuscan;

The last not easy, be it known to you,

For few Italians speak the right Etruscan. He was a critic upon operas, too,

And knew all niceties of the sock and buskin;

And no Venetian audience could endure a

Song, scene, or air, when he cried 'seccatura !

XXXII

His 'bravo' was decisive, for that sound Hush'd 'Academie' sigh'd in silent awe;

- The fiddlers trembled as he look'd around, For fear of some false note's detected flaw.
- The 'prima donna's' tuneful heart would bound,
 - Dreading the deep damnation of his 'bah!'

Soprano, basso, even the contra-alto,

Wish'd him five fathom under the Rialto.

XXXIII

He patronised the Improvisatori,

- Nay, could himself extemporise some stanzas.
- Wrote thymes, sang songs, could also tell a story,
 - Sold pictures, and was skilful in the dance as 260

Italians can be, though in this their glory Must surely yield the palm to that which France has;

In short, he was a perfect cavaliero,

And to his very valet seem'd a hero.

XXXIV

- Then he was faithful, too, as well as amorous,
 - So that no sort of female could complain,
- Although they're now and then a little clamorous;

He never put the pretty souls in pain;

- His heart was one of those which most enamour us,
- Wax to receive, and marble to retain. 270 He was a lover of the good old school,
- Who still become more constant as they cool.

xxxv

No wonder such accomplishments should turn

A female head, however sage and steady, With scarce a hope that Beppo could return, --

In law he was almost as good as dead he Nor sent, nor wrote, nor show'd the least concern,

And she had waited several years already;

And really if a man won't let us know 279 That he 's alive, he 's dead, or should be so.

XXXVI

Besides, within the Alps, to every woman

- (Although, God knows, it is a grievous sin),
- 'T is, I may say, permitted to have two men;
 - I can't tell who first brought the custom in,
- But 'Cavalier Serventes' are quite common,

And no one notices, nor cares a pin;

And we may call this (not to say the worst)

A second marriage which corrupts the first.

XXXVII

- The word was formerly a 'Cicisbeo.'
 - But that is now grown vulgar and indecent; 290
- The Spaniards call the person a 'Cortejo,' For the same mode subsists in Spain,
- though recent;
- In short it reaches from the Po to Teio,
- And may perhaps at last be o'er the sea sent.
- But Heaven preserve Old England from such courses !
- Or what becomes of damage and divorces?

XXXVIII

However, I still think, with all due deference

To the fair single part of the Creation,

- That married ladies should preserve the preference 299
- In tête-à-tête or general conversation And this I say without peculiar reference
- To England, France, or any other nation —
- Because they know the world, and are at ease,
- And being natural, naturally please.

XXXIX

- T is true, your budding Miss is very charming,
- But shy and awkward at first coming out,
- So much alarm'd that she is quite alarming,
 - All Giggle, Blush; half Pertness and half Pout;
- And glancing at Mamma, for fear there's harm in
- What you, she, it, or they, may be about, The Nursery still hsps out in all they
- utter 3¹¹ Besides, they always smell of bread and
- butter.

\mathbf{XL}

But 'Cavalier Servente' is the phrase Used in politest circles to express

This supernumerary slave, who stays

Close to the lady as a part of dress, Her word the only law which he obeys.

His is no sinecure, as you may guess;

Coach, servants, gondola, he goes to call, And carries fan and tippet, gloves and shawl. 320

XLI

- With all its sinful doings, I must say, That Italy 's a pleasant place to me,
- Who love to see the Sun shine every day.
- And vines (not nail'd to walls) from tree to tree
- Festoon'd, much like the back scene of a play
- Or melodrame, which people flock to see.
- When the first act is ended by a dance
- In vineyards copied from the south of France.

XLII

- Like on Autumn evenings to ride out, Without being forced to bid my groom
- be sure 330 My cloak is round his middle strapp'd about,
- Because the skies are not the most secure;
- I know too that, if stopp'd upon my route
- Where the green alleys windingly allure, Reeling with grapes red wagons choke the way, —
- In England 't would be dung, dust, or a dray.

\mathbf{XLIII}

- I also like to dune on becaficas,
 - To see the Sun set, sure he 'll rise to-morrow,
- Not through a misty morning twinkling weak as
 - A drunken man's dead eye in maudlin sorrow, 340
- But with all Heaven t'himself; that day will break as
 - Beauteous as cloudless, nor be forced to borrow
- That sort of farthing candlelight which glummers
- Where reeking London's smoky caldron simmers.

XLIV

- I love the language, that soft bastard Latin, Which melts like kisses from a female mouth,
- And sounds as if it should be writ on satin, With syllables which breathe of the sweet South,
- And gentle liquids gliding all so pat in
- That not a single accent seems uncouth, Like our harsh northern whistling, grunting
- guttural, 351 Which we're obliged to hiss, and spit, and
 - sputter all.

XLV

- I like the women too (forgive my folly), From the rich peasant cheek of ruddy bronze,
- And large black eyes that flash on you a volley
 - Of rays that say a thousand things at once,
- To the high dama's brow, more melancholy, But clear, and with a wild and liquid glance,

Heart on her lips, and soul within her eyes, Soft as her clime, and sunny as her skies.

XLVI

Eve of the land which still is Paradise ! 36r Italian beauty ! didst thou not inspire

- Raphael, who died in thy embrace, and vies With all we know of Heaven, or can desire,
- In what he hath bequeath'd us ? in what guise,
 - Though flashing from the fervour of the lyre,

Would words describe thy past and present glow,

While yet Canova can create below?

XLVII

- 'England ! with all thy faults I love thee still,'
- I said at Calais and have not forgot it; I like to speak and lucubrate my fill; 371
- I like the government (but that is not it); [like the freedom of the press and quill;
- I like the Habeas Corpus (when we 've got it);
- I like a parliamentary debate,
- Particularly when 't is not too late;

XLVIII

- I like the taxes, when they 're not too many; I like a seacoal fire, when not too dear;
- I like a beef-steak, too, as well as any; Have no objection to a pot of beer, 380
- I like the weather, when it is not rainy, That is, I like two months of every year.
- And so God save the Regent, Church, and King !
- Which means that I like all and every thing.

XLIX

- Our standing army, and disbanded seamen, Poor's rate, Reform, my own, the nation's debt,
- Our little riots just to show we're free men, Our trifling bankruptcies in the Gazette,
- Our cloudy climate, and our chilly women, All these I can forgive, and those forget, 300
- And greatly venerate our recent glories,

And wish they were not owing to the Tories.

L

But to my tale of Laura, — for I find Digression is a sun, that by degrees

- Becomes exceeding tedious to my mind, And, therefore, may the reader too dis-
- please The gentle reader, who may wax unkind,

And caring little for the author's ease, Insist on knowing what he means, a hard And hapless situation for a bard.

LI

Oh that I had the art of easy writing What should be easy reading ! could I scale Parnassus, where the Muses sit inditing

Those pretty poems never known to fail, How quickly would I print (the world delighting)

A Grecian, Syrian, or Assyrian tale;

- And sell you, mix'd with western sentimentalism,
- Some samples of the finest Orientalism.

LII

But I am but a nameless sort of person

- (A broken Dandy lately on my travels), And take for rhyme, to hook my rambling
 - verse on, The first that Walker's Lexicon unravels,

And when I can't find that, I put a worse on, Not caring as I ought for critics' cavils;

I 've half a mind to tumble down to prose, But verse is more in fashion — so here goes.

LIII

The Count and Laura made their new arrangement,

Which lasted, as arrangements sometimes do,

- For half a dozen years without estrangement;
- They had their little differences, too; 420 Those jealous whiffs, which never any
- change meant:
 - In such affairs there probably are few
- Who have not had this pouting sort of squabble,
- From sinners of high station to the rabble.

LIV

But, on the whole, they were a happy pair, As happy as unlawful love could make them:

The gentleman was fond, the lady fair,

- Their chains so slight, 't was not worth while to break them:
- The world beheld them with indulgent air; The pious only wish'd 'the devil take them !' 430
- He took them not; he very often waits,
- And leaves old sinners to be young ones' baits.

LV

- But they were young: Oh ! what without our youth
 - Would love be! What would youth be without love!

446

Youth lends it joy, and sweetness, vigour, truth,

Heart, soul, and all that seems as from above;

- But, languishing with years, it grows uncouth ---
 - One of few things experience don't im-
- Which is, perhaps, the reason why old fellows

Are always so preposterously jealous. 440

LVI

It was the Carnival, as I have said

- Some six and thirty stanzas back, and so
- Laura the usual preparations made,
 - Which you do when your mind 's made up to go
- To-night to Mrs Boehm's masquerade, Spectator or partaker in the show;
- The only difference known between the cases
- Is here, we have six weeks of 'varnish'd faces.'

LVII

Laura, when dress'd, was (as I sang before) A pretty woman as was ever seen, 450

Fresh as the Angel o'er a new inn door, Or frontispiece of a new Magazine,

- With all the fashions which the last month wore.
- Colour'd, and silver paper leaved between That and the title-page, for fear the press Should soil with parts of speech the parts of dress

LVIII

- They went to the Ridotto; 't is a hall Where people dance, and sup, and dance again;
- Its proper name, perhaps, were a masqued ball, 459

But that's of no importance to my strain; 'T is (on a smaller scale) like our Vauxhall,

- Excepting that it can't be spoilt by ram: The company is 'mix'd' (the phrase I
- quote is
- As much as saying, they're below your notice);

LIX

For a 'mix'd company 'implies that, save Yourself and friends and half a hundred more

- Whom you may bow to without looking grave,
- The rest are but a vulgar set, the bore Of public places, where they basely brave
- The fashionable stare of twenty score Of well-bred persons, call'd ' the World ; ' but I, 471
- Although I know them, really don't know why.

$\mathbf{L}\mathbf{X}$

This is the case in England; at least was During the dynasty of Dandies, now

Perchance succeeded by some other class Of imitated imitators: — how Irreparably soon decline, alas !

- The demagogues of fashion: all below
- Is frail; how easily the world is lost 479
- By love, or war, and now and then by frost !

LXI

- Crush'd was Napoleon by the northern Thor, Who knock'd his army down with icy hammer,
- Stopp'd by the elements, like a whaler, or A blundering novice in his new French grammar;
- Good cause had he to doubt the chance of war,
 - And as for Fortune but I dare not d—n her.

Because, were I to ponder to infinity,

The more I should believe in her divinity.

LXII

- She rules the present, past, and all to be yet, She gives us luck in lotteries, love, and marriage; 490
- I cannot say that she's done much for me yet;

Not that I mean her bounties to disparage,

- We 've not yet closed accounts, and we shall see yet
 - How much she 'll make amends for past miscarriage;
- Meantime the goddess I'll no more importune,
- Unless to thank her when she's made my fortune.

LXIII

- To turn, and to return; the devil take it !
 - This story slips for ever through my fingers,

Because, just as the stanza likes to make it,

- It needs must be and so it rather lingers; 500
- This form of verse began, I can't well break it,
 - But must keep time and tune like public singers;
- But if I once get through my present measure,

I'll take another when I'm next at leisure.

LXIV

They went to the Ridotto ('tis a place To which I mean to go myself to-morrow,

- Just to divert my thoughts a little space,
- Because I'm rather hippish, and may borrow
- Some spirits, guessing at what kind of face May lurk beneath each mask; and as my sorrow
- Slackens its pace sometimes, I 'll make, or find,
- Something shall leave it half an hour behind).

LXV

- Now Laura moves along the joyous crowd, Smiles in her eyes, and simpers on her
- lips; To some she whispers, others speaks aloud;
 - To some she curtsies, and to some she dips,
- Complains of warmth, and, this complaint avow'd,

Her lover brings the lemonade, she sips; She then surveys, condemns, but pities still Her dearest friends for being dress'd so ill

LXVI

- One has false curls, another too much paint, 521
 - A third where did she buy that frightful turban?
- A fourth's so pale she fears she's going to faint,
 - A fifth's look's vulgar, dowdyish, and suburban,
- A sixth's white silk has got a yellow taint, A seventh's thin muslin surely will be her bane.
- And lo ' an eighth appears, ' I 'll see no more !'
- For fear, like Banquo's kings, they reach a score.

LXVII

- Meantime, while she was thus at others gazing,
- Others were levelling their looks at her; She heard the men's half-whisper'd mode of praising, 531
 - And, till 't was done, determined not to stir;
- The women only thought it quite amazing That, at her time of life, so many were
- Admirers still, but men are so debased,
- Those brazen creatures always suit their taste.

LXVIII

- For my part, now, I ne'er could understand
 - Why naughty women but I won't discuss
- A thing which is a scandal to the land,
- I only don't see why it should be thus;
- And if I were but in a gown and band, 541 Just to entitle me to make a fuss,
- I'd preach on this till Wilberforce and Romilly
- Should quote in their next speeches from my homily.

LXIX

- While Laura thus was seen and seeing, smiling,
 - Talking, she knew not why and cared not what,
- So that her female friends, with envy broiling,

Beheld her airs and triumph, and all that;

- And well dress'd males still kept before her filing,
 - And passing bow'd and mingled with her chat; 550
- More than the rest one person seem'd to stare
- With pertinacity that's rather rare

LXX

- He was a Turk, the colour of mahogany;
 - And Laura saw him, and at first w glad,
- Because the Turks so much admire philogyny,
 - Although their usage of their wives is sad;
- 'T is said they use no better than a dog any Poor woman whom they purchase like a pad;

- They have a number, though they ne'er exhibit 'em,
- Four wives by law, and concubines 'ad libitum.' 560

LXXI

- They lock them up, and veil, and guard them daily,
 - They scarcely can behold their male relations,
- So that their moments do not pass so gaily As is supposed the case with northern nations:
- Confinement, too, must make them look quite palely.
- And as the Turks abhor long conversations,
- Their days are either pass'd in doing nothing,
- Or bathing, nursing, making love, and clothing.

LXXII

- They cannot read, and so don't lisp in criticism;
 - Nor write, and so they don't affect the muse; 570
- Were never caught in epigram or witticism, Have no romances, sermons, plays, reviews, —
- In harams learning soon would make a pretty schism !

But luckily these beauties are no 'Blues,'

- No bustling Botherbys have they to show 'em
- 'That charming passage in the last new poem, —'

LXXIII

No solemn, antique gentleman of rhyme,

- Who having angled all his life for fame, And getting but a nibble at a time, 579
- Still fussily keeps fishing on, the same Small 'Triton of the minnows,' the sublime

Of mediocrity, the furious tame,

The echo's echo, usher of the school

Of female wits, boy bards — in short, a fool, —

LXXIV

- A stalking oracle of awful phrase, The approving 'Good'' (by no means
- GOOD m law), Humming like flies around the newest blaze,
- The bluest of bluebottles you e'er saw,

- Teasing with blame, excruciating with praise,
- Gorging the little fame he gets all raw, Translating tongues he knows not even by letter.
- And sweating plays so middling, bad were better.

LXXV

One hates an author that's all author, fellows

In foolscap uniforms turn'd up with ink, So very anxious, clever, fine, and jealous,

- One don't know what to say to them, or think,
- Unless to puff them with a pair of bellows; Of coxcombry's worst coxcombs e'en the pmk

Are preferable to these shreds of paper,

These unquench'd snuffings of the midnight taper. 600

LXXVI

- Of these same we see several, and of others, Men of the world, who know the world like men,
- Scott, Rogers, Moore, and all the better brothers,
 - Who think of something else besides the pen;
- But for the children of the 'mighty mother's,'

The would-be wits and can't-be gentlemen, I leave them to their daily 'tea is ready,' Smug coterie, and literary lady.

LXXVII

- The poor dear Mussulwomen whom I mention
 - Have none of these instructive pleasant people, 610
- And one to them would seem a new invention,
 - Unknown as bells within a Turkish steeple;
- I think 't would almost be worth while to pension
 - (Though best-sown projects very often reap ill)
- A missionary author, just to preach
- Our Christian usage of the parts of speech.

LXXVIII

No chemistry for them unfolds her gases, No metaphysics are let loose in lectures, No circulating library amasses

Religious novels, moral tales, and strictures 620

- Upon the living manners, as they pass us, No exhibition glares with annual pictures;
- They stare not on the stars from out their attics,
- Nor deal (thank God for that !) in mathematics.

LXXIX

- Why I thank God for that is no great matter,
 - I have my reasons, you no doubt suppose,
- And as, perhaps, they would not highly flatter,
 - I'll keep them for my life (to come) in prose;

I fear I have a little turn for sature,

- And yet methinks the older that one grows 630
- Inclines us more to laugh than scold, though laughter

Leaves us so doubly serious shortly after.

LXXX

Oh, Mirth and Innocence ! Oh, Milk and Water !

Ye happy mixtures of more happy days ! In these sad centuries of sin and slaughter,

- Abominable Man no more allays
- His thirst with such pure beverage. No matter,
 - I love you both, and both shall have my praise:

Oh, for old Saturn's reign of sugar-candy!— Meantime I drink to your return in brandy.

LXXXI

- Our Laura's Turk still kept his eyes upon her, 641
- Less in the Mussulman than Christian way,
- Which seems to say, 'Madam, I do you honour,
 - And while I please to stare, you'll please to stay:'
- Could staring win a woman, this had won her,

But Laura could not thus be led astray;

- She had stood fire too long and well, to boggle
- Even at this stranger's most outlandish ogle.

LXXXII

- The morning now was on the point of breaking,
- A turn of time at which I would advise
- Ladies who have been dancing, or partaking 651
 - In any other kind of exercise,

To make their preparations for forsaking

- The ball-room ere the sun begins to rise, Because when once the lamps and candles fail,
- His blushes make them look a little pale.

LXXXIII

- I've seen some balls and revels in my time,
 - And stay'd them over for some silly reason,
- And then I look'd (I hope it was no crime) To see what lady best stood out the season; 660
- And though I 've seen some thousands in their prime,
 - Lovely and pleasing, and who still may please on,

I never saw but one (the stars withdrawn)

Whose bloom could after dancing dare the dawn.

LXXXIV

- The name of this Aurora I'll not mention, Although I might, for she was naught to me
- More than that patent work of God's invention,

A charming woman whom we like to see;

But writing names would merit reprehen-

Yet if you like to find out this fair she.

At the next London or Parisian ball 671

You still may mark her cheek, out-blooming all

lxxxv

- Laura, who knew it would not do at all To meet the daylight after seven hours sitting
- Among three thousand people at a ball,
- To make her curtsy thought it right and fitting;
- The Count was at her elbow with her shawl, And they the room were on the point of quitting,
- When lo ! those cursed gondoliers had got Just in the very place where they should not.

LXXXVI

- In this they 're like our coachmen, and the cause 68r
 - Is much the same the crowd, and pulling, hauling,
- With blasphemies enough to break their jaws,
- They make a never intermitting bawling.
- At home, our Bow-street gemmen keep the laws,
 - And here a sentry stands within your calling;
- But for all that, there is a deal of swearing, And nauseous words past mentioning or bearing.

LXXXVII

- The Count and Laura found their boat at last,
 - And homeward floated o'er the silent tide, 690
- Discussing all the dances gone and past; The dancers and their dresses, too, beside:
- Some little scandals eke: but all aghast
- (As to their palace stairs the rowers glide)

Sate Laura by the side of her Adorer,

When lo ! the Mussulman was there before her.

LXXXVIII

- 'Sir,' said the Count, with brow exceeding grave,
- 'Your unexpected presence here will make

It necessary for myself to crave

Its import ? But perhaps 't is a mistake; I hope it is so; and, at once to wave 701

All compliment, I hope so for your sake; You understand my meaning, or you shall.

'Sır' (quoth the Turk), ''t is no mistake at all.

LXXXIX

- 'That lady is my wife !' Much wonder paints
 - The lady's changing cheek, as well it might;
- But where an Englishwoman sometimes faints,

Italian females don't do so outright;

- They only call a little on their saints,
 - And then come to themselves, almost or quite: 710

- Which saves much hartshorn, salts, and sprinkling faces,
- And cutting stays, as usual in such cases.

xc

She said, — what could she say? Why, not a word:

But the Count courteously invited in

- The stranger, much appeased by what he heard:
- 'Such things, perhaps, we'd best discuss within,'
- Said he; 'don't let us make ourselves absurd

In public by a scene, nor raise a din,

- For then the chief and only satisfaction
- Will be much quizzing on the whole transaction.' 720

XCI

- They enter'd and for coffee call'd it came,
 - A beverage for Turks and Christians both,
- Although the way they make it's not the same.

Now Laura, much recover'd, or less loth To speak, cries 'Beppo! what 's your pagan

- name? Bless me! your beard is of amazing
- growth !

And how came you to keep away so long? Are you not sensible 't was very wrong ?

XCII

⁶ And are you really, truly, now a Turk? With any other women did you wive? 730

- Is 't true they use their fingers for a fork ? Well, that 's the prettiest shawl — as I'm alive!
- You'll give it me? They say you eat no pork

And how so many years did you contrive

To — bless me ! did I ever ? No, I never Saw a man grown so yellow ! How 's your liver ?

XCIII

- 'Beppo! that beard of yours becomes you not;
 - It shall be shaved before you're a day older:
- Why do you wear it? Oh, I had forgot Pray don't you think the weather here is colder? 745

- How do I look? You shan't stir from this spot
- In that queer dress, for fear that some beholder
- Should find you out, and make the story known.
- How short your hair 1s! Lord, how grey it's grown !'

XCIV

- What answer Beppo made to these demands
- Is more than I know He was cast away About where Troy stood once, and nothing stands;
 - Became a slave of course, and for his pay
- Had bread and bastinadoes, till some bands Of pirates landing in a neighbouring bay,
- He join'd the rogues and prosper'd, and became 751
- A renegado of indifferent fame.

xcv

- But he grew rich, and with his riches grew
- Keen the desire to see his home again, He thought himself in duty bound to do so.
- And not be always theying on the main; Lonely he felt, at times, as Robin Crusoe,
- And so he hired a vessel come from Spain, Bound for Corfu: she was a fine polacca,
- Mann'd with twelve hands, and laden with tobacco. 760

XCVI

- Himself, and much (heaven knows how gotten !) cash
 - He then embark'd with risk of hfe and lumb,
- And got clear off, although the attempt was rash;

He said that Providence protected him — For my part, I say nothing, lest we clash

- In our opinions: well, the ship was trim.
- Set sail, and kept her reckoning fairly on,
- Except three days of calm when off Cape Bonn.

XCVII

- They reach'd the island, he transferr'd his lading
 - And self and live-stock to another bottom, 770

- And pass'd for a true Turkey-merchant, trading
 - With goods of various names, but I forgot 'em
- However, he got off by this evading,
 - Or else the people would perhaps have shot him;
- And thus at Venice landed to reclaim
- His wife, religion, house, and Christian name.

XCVIII

- His wife received, the patriarch re-baptized him
 - (He made the church a present, by the way);
- He then threw off the garments which disguised him,
 - And borrow'd the Count's smallclothes for a day: 780
- His friends the more for his long absence prized him,
 - Finding he'd wherewithal to make them gay,
- With dinners, where he oft became the laugh of them,
- For stories but I don't believe the half of them.

XCIX

- Whate'er his youth had suffer'd, his old age
 - With wealth and talking make him some amends;
- Though Laura sometimes put him in a rage, I 've heard the Count and he were always friends.
- My pen is at the bottom of a page, 789 Which being finish'd, here the story ends;

'T is to be wish'd it had been sooner done, But stories somehow lengthen when begun.

ODE ON VENICE

ĩ

OH Venice ! Venice ! when thy marble walls

Are level with the waters, there shall be A cry of nations o'er thy sunken halls,

A loud lament along the sweeping sea !

- If I, a northern wanderer, weep for thee, What should thy sons do? — anything but weep.
- And yet they only murmur in their sleep.

In contrast with their fathers — as the slime, The dull green ooze of the receding deep, 9 Is with the dashing of the spring-tide foam, That drives the sailor shipless to his home,	And as he whispers knows not that he gasps, That his thin finger feels not what it clasps, And so the film comes o'er him — and the
Are they to those that were; and thus they creep, Crouching and crab-like, through their sap- ping streets. Oh agony ! that centuries should reap No mellower harvest ! Thirteen hundred years Of wealth and glory turn'd to dust and tears; And every monument the stranger meets, Church, palace, pillar, as a mourner greets. And even the Lion all subdued appears, And the harsh sound of the barbarian drum, 20 With dull and daily dissonance, repeats The ech of thy tyrant's voice along The soft waves, once all musical to song, That heaved beneath the moonlight with the throng Of gondolas — and to the busy hum Of cheerful creatures, whose most sinful deeds Were but the overbeating of the heart, And flow of too much happiness, which needs The aid of age to turn its course apart From the luxurant and voluptuous flood 30 Of sweet sensations, battling with the blood. But these are better than the gloomy errors, The weeds of nations in their last decay, When Vice walks forth with her unsoften'd terrors, And Mirth is madness, and but smiles to slay; And Hope is nothing but a false delay, The sick man's lightning half an hour ere death, When Fantness, the last mortal birth of Pain, And apathy of limb, the dull beginning Of the cold staggering race which Death is winning, 40 Steals vein by vein and pulse by pulse away; Yet so relieving the o'er-tortured clay. To him appears renewal of his breath, And freedom the mere numbness of his chain; — And then he talks of life, and how again	dizzy 50 Chamber swims round and round — and shadows busy, At which he vainly catches, fit and gleam, Till the last rattle chokes the strangled scream, And all is ice and blackness, — and the earth That which it was the moment ere our birth. II There is no hope for nations ! Search the page Of many thousand years — the daily scene, The flow and ebb of each recurring age, The everlasting to be which hath been, Hath taught us nought or httle: still we lean 6c On things that rot beneath our weight, and wear Our strength away in wrestling with the air; For 't is our nature strikes us down: the beasts Slaughter'd in hourly hecatoms for feasts Are of as high an order — they must go Even where their driver goads them, though to slaughter. Ye men, who pour your blood for kings as water, What have they given your children in re- turn ? A heritage of servitude and woes, A blindfold bondage, where your hire is blows. 70 What ! do not yet the red-hot ploughshares burn, O'er which you stumble in a false ordeal, And deem this proof of loyalty the real; Kissing the hand that guides you to your scars, And glorying as you tread the glowing bars? All that your sires have left you, all that Time Bequeaths of free, and History of sublime, Spring from a different theme ! — Ye see and read, Admire and sigh, and then succumb and bleed ! Save the few spirits, who, despite of all, &c
And then he talks of life, and how again He feels his spirits soaring — albeit weak, And of the fresher air, which he would seek;

By the down-thundering of the prison-wall, And thirst to swallow the sweet waters tender'd,

- Gushing from Freedom's fountains when the crowd,
- Madden'd with centuries of drought, are loud,
- And trample on each other to obtain
- The cup which brings oblivion of a chain
- Heavy and sore, in which long yoked they plough'd
- The sand, or if there sprung the yellow grain,
- "T was not for them, their necks were too much bow'd, 90
- And their dead palates chew'd the cud of pain: ---
- Yes ! the few spirits who, despite of deeds
- Which they abhor, confound not with the cause
- Those momentary starts from Nature's laws,
- Which, like the pestilence and earthquake, smite
- But for a term, then pass, and leave the earth
- With all her seasons to repair the blight
- With a few summers, and again put forth
- Cities and generations fair, when free —
- For, Tyranny, there blooms no bud for thee!

III

- Glory and Empire ! once upon these towers With Freedom -- godlike Triad ! how ye sate !
- The league of mightiest nations, in those hours
 - When Venice was an envy, might abate, But did not quench, her spirit — in her fate
- All were enwrapp'd: the feasted monarchs knew
 - And loved their hostess, nor could learn to hate,
- Although they humbled. With the kingly few
- The many felt, for from all days and climes
- She was the voyager's worship; even her crimes
- Were of the softer order born of Love,
- She drank no blood, nor fatten'd on the dead,
- But gladden'd where her harmless conquests spread;

- For these restored the Cross, that from above
- Hallow'd her sheltering banners, which incessant
- Flew between earth and the unholy Crescent,
- Which, if it waned and dwindled, Earth may thank
- The city it has clothed in chains, which clank Now, creaking in the ears of those who
- The name of Freedom to her glorious struggles; 120
- Yet she but shares with them a common woe,
- And call'd the 'kingdom' of a conquering foe, —
- But knows what all and, most of all, we know —
- With what set gilded terms a tyrant juggles!

IV

- The name of Commonwealth is past and gone
 - O'er the three fractions of the groaning globe;
- Venice is crush'd, and Holland deigns to own
- A sceptre, and endures the purple robe. If the free Switzer yet bestrides alone
- His chainless mountains, 't is but for a time, For tyranny of late is cunning grown, 131 And in its own good season tramples down The sparkles of our ashes. One great clime,

Whose vigorous offspring by dividing ocean Are kept apart and nursed in the devotion

- Of Freedom, which their fathers fought for, and
- Bequeath'd, a heritage of heart and hand,
- And proud distinction from each other land, Whose sons must bow them at a monarch's motion,
- As if his senseless sceptre were a wand 140 Full of the magic of exploded science,—
- Still one great clime, in full and free defiance,
- Yet rears her crest, unconquer'd and sublime,

Above the far Atlantic ! — She has taught Her Esau-brethren that the haughty flag,

The floating fence of Albion's feebler crag, May strike to those whose red right hands have bought

- Rights cheaply earn'd with blood. Still, still, for ever
- Better, though each man's life-blood were a river,
- That it should flow and overflow, than creep Through thousand lazy channels in our
- veins,
- Damm'd like the dull canal with locks and chains,

And moving, as a sick man in his sleep,

Three paces and then faltering: — better be Where the extinguish'd Spartans still are free,

In their proud charnel of Thermopylæ,

Than stagnate in our marsh, — or o'er the deep

Fly, and one current to the ocean add, One spirit to the souls our fathers had, One freeman more, America, to thee!

THE PROPHECY OF DANTE

'T is the sunset of life gives me mystical lore, And coming events cast their shadows before ' CAMPBELL

DEDICATION

LADY ! if for the cold and cloudy clime Where I was born, but where I would not die.

Of the great Poet-Sire of Italy

- I dare to build the imitative rhyme,
- Harsh Runic copy of the South's sublime, THOU art the cause; and howsoever I Fall short of his immortal harmony,

Thy gentle heart will pardon me the crime

- Thou, in the pride of Beauty and of Youth, Spakest; and for thee to speak and be obey'd
- Are one; but only in the sunny South
- Such sounds are utter'd, and such charms display'd,
- So sweet a language from so fair a mouth Ah! to what effort would it not persuade?

RAVENNA, June 21, 1819

PREFACE

In the course of a visit to the city of Ravenna in the summer of 1819, it was suggested to the author that having composed something on the subject of Tasso's confinement, he should do the same on Dante's exile, — the tomb of the poet forming one of the principal objects of interest in that city, both to the native and to the stranger

'On this hint I spake,' and the result has been the following four cantos, in terza rima, now offered to the reader. If they are understood and approved, it is my purpose to continue the poem in various other cantos to its natural conclusion in the present age. The reader is requested to suppose that Dante addresses him in the interval between the conclusion of the Divina Commedia and his death, and shortly before the latter event, foretelling the fortunes of Italy in general in the ensuing centuries. In adopting this plan I have had in my mind the Cassandra of Lycophron, and the Prophecy of Nereus by Horace, as well as the Prophecies of Holy Writ The measure adopted is the terza rima of Dante, which I am not aware to have seen hitherto tried in our language, except it may be by Mr Hayley, of whose translation I never saw but one extract, quoted in the notes to Caliph Vathek; so that - if I do not err — this poem may be considered as a metrical experiment. The cantos are short. and about the same length of those of the poet, whose name I have borrowed, and most probably taken in vain.

Amongst the inconveniences of authors in the present day, it is difficult for any who have a name, good or bad, to escape translation. I have had the fortune to see the fourth canto of Childe Harold translated into Italian versi sciolti, — that is, a poem written in the Spen-serean stanza into blank verse, without regard to the natural divisions of the stanza or of the sense. If the present poem, being on a national topic, should chance to undergo the same fate, I would request the Italian reader to remember that when I have failed in the imitation of his great 'Padre Alighier,' I have failed in imitating that which all study and few understand, since to this very day it is not yet settled what was the meaning of the allegory in the first canto of the Inferno, unless Count Marchetti's ingenious and probable conjecture may be considered as having decided the question.

He may also pardon my failure the more, as I am not quite sure that he would be pleased with my success, since the Italians, with a pardonable nationality, are particularly jealous of all that is left them as a nation — their literature, and in the present bitterness of the classic and romantic war, are but ill-disposed to permit a foreigner even to approve or imitate them, without finding some fault with his ultramontane presumption. I can easily enter into all this, knowing what would be thought in England of an Italian imitator of Milton, or if a translation of Monti, or Pindemonte, or Arici, should be held up to the rising generation as a model for their future poetical essays.

But I perceive that I am deviating into an address to the Italian reader, when my business is with the English one; and be they few or many, I must take my leave of both.

CANTO THE FIRST

ONCE more in man's frail world ! which I had left

So long that 't was forgotten; and I feel The weight of clay again, - too soon bereft

Of the immortal vision which could heal

- My earthly sorrows, and to God's own skies
- Lift me from that deep gulf without repeal,
- Where late my ears rung with the damned cries
 - Of souls in hopeless bale; and from that place

Of lesser torment, whence men may arise

- Pure from the fire to join the angelic race:
 - Midst whom my own bright Beatrice bless'd

My spirit with her light; and to the base Of the eternal Triad, - first, last, best,

- Mysterious, three, sole, infinite, great God !
- Soul universal ! led the mortal guest Unblasted by the glory, though he trod
 - From star to star to reach the almighty throne.

Oh Beatrice ! whose sweet limbs the sod So long hath press'd and the cold marble

- stone,
 - Thou sole pure seraph of my earliest love, 20

Love so ineffable and so alone,

- That nought on earth could more my bosom move,
 - And meeting thee in heaven was but to meet
 - That without which my soul, like the arkless dove.
- Had wander'd still in search of, nor her feet
 - Relieved her wing till found, without thy light
- My paradise had still been incomplete.
- Since my tenth sun gave summer to my sight
 - Thou wert my life, the essence of my thought,

Loved ere I knew the name of love, and bright

- Still in these dim old eyes, now overwrought With the world's war and years and bamshment
 - And tears for thee, by other woes untaught,
- For mine is not a nature to be bent
 - By tyrannous faction and the brawling crowd,
 - And though the long, long conflict hath been spent
- In vain, and never more (save when the cloud
 - Which overhangs the Apennine, my mind's eve
 - Pierces to fancy Florence, once so proud
- Of me) can I return, though but to die, 40 Unto my native soil, - they have not yet Quench'd the old exile's spirit, stern and high.
- But the sun, though not overcast, must set, And the night cometh; I am old in days, And deeds, and contemplation, and have met
- Destruction face to face in all his ways.
 - The world hath left me, what it found me, pure, And if I have not gather'd yet its praise,
- I sought it not by any baser lure.
 - Man wrongs, and Time avenges, and my name
- May form a monument not all obscure
- (Though such was not my ambition's end or aim),
 - To add to the vain-glorious list of those Who dabble in the pettiness of fame,
- And make men's fickle breath the wind that blows

Their sail, and deem it glory to be class'd With conquerors and virtue's other foes

In bloody chronicles of ages past.

- I would have had my Florence great and free:
- Oh Florence ! Florence ! unto me thou wast
- Like that Jerusalem which the almighty He
 - Wept over, 'but thou wouldst not !' As the bird
 - Gathers its young, I would have gather'd thee
- Beneath a parent pinion, hadst thou heard My voice; but as the adder, deaf and fierce,

Against the breast that cherish'd thee was stirr'd

- Thy venom, and my state thou didst amerce, And doom this body forfeit to the fire.
- Alas ! how bitter is his country's curse To him who for that country would expire,
- But did not merit to expire by her, 71 And loves her, loves her even in her ire.
- The day may come when she will cease to err,
 - The day may come she would be proud to have

The dust she dooms to scatter, and transfer

- Of him, whom she denied a home, the grave.
 - But this shall not be granted; let my dust
 - Lie where it falls; nor shall the soil which gave
- Me breath, but in her sudden fury thrust Me forth to breathe elsewhere, so reas-
- sume 80 My indignant bones, because her angry
- gust Forsooth is over and repeal'd her doom:
- No, she denied me what was mme my roof,
 - And shall not have what is not hers my tomb.
- Too long her armèd wrath hath kept aloof The breast which would have bled for her, the heart
 - That beat, the mind that was temptation proof,
- The man who fought, toil'd, travell'd, and each part
 - Of a true citizen fulfill'd, and saw
- For his reward the Guelf's ascendant art
- Pass his destruction even into a law. 91 These things are not made for forgetfulness,
- Florence shall be forgotten first; too raw
- The wound, too deep the wrong, and the distress
 - Of such endurance too prolong'd to make My pardon greater, her injustice less,
- Though late repented. Yet yet for her sake
 - I feel some fonder yearnings, and for thine,
 - My own Beatrice, I would hardly take
- Vengeance upon the land which once was rame, 100

- And still is hallow'd by thy dust's return,
- Which would protect the murderess like a shrine
- And save ten thousand foes by thy sole urn. Though, like old Marius from Minturnæ's marsh
 - And Carthage ruins, my lone breast may burn
- At times with evil feelings hot and harsh,
- And sometimes the last pangs of a vile
- Writhe in a dream before me and o'erarch
- My brow with hopes of triumph, let them go!
 - Such are the last infirmities of those 110 Who long have suffer'd more than mortal woe,
- And yet, being mortal still, have no repose But on the pillow of Revenge — Revenge, Who sleeps to dream of blood, and waking glows
- With the off-baffled, slakeless thirst of change,
 - When we shall mount again, and they that trod
 - Be trampled on, while Death and Ate range
- O'er humbled heads and sever'd necks. Great God !
 - Take these thoughts from me; to thy hands I yield
 - My many wrongs, and thine almighty rod 12c
- Will fall on those who smote me, be my shield '
 - As thou hast been in peril, and in pain, In turbulent cities, and the tented field,
- In toil, and many troubles borne in vain
 - For Florence. I appeal from her to Thee !
 - Thee, whom I late saw in thy loftiest reign,
- Even in that glorious vision, which to see And live was never granted until now,
- And yet thou hast permitted this to me.
- Alas ' with what a weight upon my brow 130 The sense of earth and earthly things come back,
- Corrosive passions, feelings dull and low,
- The heart's quick throb upon the mental rack,
 - Long day, and dreary night; the retro

Of half a century bloody and black, And the frail few years I may yet expect Hoary and hopeless, but less hard to bear. For I have been too long and deeply wreck'd On the lone rock of desolate Despair To lift my eyes more to the passing sail Which shuns that reef so horrible and bare: Nor raise my voice — for who would heed my wail? I am not of this people nor this age, And yet my harpings will unfold a tale Which shall preserve these times when not a page Of their perturbed annals could attract An eye to gaze upon their civil rage. Did not my verse embalm full many an act Worthless as they who wrought it. 'T is the doom Of spirits of my order to be rack'd 150 In life, to wear their hearts out, and consume Their days in endless strife, and die alone: Then future thousands crowd around their tomb, And pilgrims come from climes where they have known The name of him, who now is but a name. And wasting homage o'er the sullen stone, Spread his - by him unheard, unheeded fame. And mine at least hath cost me dear: to die Is nothing; but to wither thus, to tame My mind down from its own infinity, 160 To live in narrow ways with little men, A common sight to every common eye, A wanderer, while even wolves can find a den. Ripp'd from all kindred, from all home, all things That make communion sweet, and soften pain -To feel me in the solitude of kings Without the power that makes them bear a crown, To envy every dove his nest and wings Which waft him where the Apennine looks down On Arno, till he perches, it may be, 170 Within my all inexorable town,

- Where yet my boys are, and that fatal she, Their mother, the cold partner who hath brought
- Destruction for a dowry, this to see
- And feel, and know without repair, hath taught
 - A bitter lesson; but it leaves me free:
 - I have not vilely found, nor basely sought,
- They made an Exile not a slave of me.

CANTO THE SECOND

THE Spirit of the fervent days of Old,

- When words were things that came to pass, and thought
- Flash'd o'er the future, bidding men kehold
- Their children's children's doom already brought
 - Forth from the abyss of time which is to be,
 - The chaos of events, where lie halfwrought
- Shapes that must undergo mortality, --
 - What the great Seers of Israel wore within,
 - That spirit was on them, and is on me.
- And if, Cassandra-like, amidst the din 10 Of conflict none will hear, or hearing heed
 - This voice from out the Wilderness, the sin
- Be theirs, and my own feelings be my meed,
 - The only guerdon I have ever known.
 - Hast thou not bled? and hast thou still to bleed,
- Italia? Ah! to me such things, foreshown With dim sepulchral light, bid me forget In thine irreparable wrongs my own.
- We can have but one country, and even yet Thou 'rt mine — my bones shall be within thy breast, 20
 - My soul within thy language, which once set
- With our old Roman sway in the wide West;
 - But I will make another tongue arise
 - As lofty and more sweet, in which express'd
- The hero's ardour, or the lover's sighs,
 - Shall find alike such sounds for every theme

458

That every word, as brilliant as thy skies, Shall realise a poet's proudest dream,

- And make thee Europe's nightingale of song;
- So that all present speech to thine shall seem 30
- The note of meaner birds, and every tongue Confess its barbarism when compared with thine.
 - This shalt thou owe to him thou didst so wrong,
- Thy Tuscan Bard, the banish'd Ghibelline Woe ! woe ! the vell of coming centuries Is rent, — a thousand years which yet supine
- Lie like the ocean waves ere winds arise, Heaving in dark and sullen undulation, Float from eternity into these eyes;
- The storms yet sleep, the clouds still keep their station, 40
 - The unborn earthquake yet is in the womb,
- The bloody chaos yet expects creation,
- But all things are disposing for thy doom; The elements await but for the word,
- 'Let there be darkness!' and thou grow'st a tomb!
- Yes! thou, so beautiful, shalt feel the sword;
 - Thou, Italy ' so fair that Paradise,
 - Revived in thee, blooms forth to man restored.
- Ah ' must the sons of Adam lose it twice ? Thou, Italy ! whose ever golden fields, 50 Plough'd by the sunbeams solely, would suffice
- For the world's granary; thou, whose sky heaven gilds
 - With brighter stars, and robes with deeper blue;
 - Thou, in whose pleasant places Summer builds
- Her palace, in whose cradle Empire grew, And form'd the Eternal City's ornaments
 - From spoils of kings whom freemen overthrew;
- Birthplace of heroes, sanctuary of saints, Where earthly first, then heavenly glory made
 - Her home; thou, all which fondest fancy paints, 60
- And finds her prior vision but portray'd
- In feeble colours, when the eye from the Alp

- Of horrid snow, and rock, and shaggy shade
- Of desert-loving pine, whose emerald scalp Nods to the storm — dilates and dotes o'er thee,
 - And wistfully implores, as 't were, for help
- To see thy sunny fields, my Italy,
 - Nearer and nearer yet, and dearer still The more approach'd, and dearest were they free;
- Thou thou must wither to each tyrant's will 79
 - The Goth hath been, the German, Frank, and Hun
- Are yet to come; and on the imperial hill Ruin, already proud of the deeds done
 - By the old barbarians, there awaits the new,
 - Throned on the Palatine, while lost and won
- Rome at her feet hes bleeding; and the hue Of human sacrifice and Roman slaughter Troubles the clotted air, of late so blue,
- And deepens into red the saffron water
 - Of Tiber, thick with dead. The helpless priest, 80
 - And still more helpless nor less holy daughter,
- Vow'd to their God, have shrieking fled, and ceased
 - Their ministry. The nations take their prey,
- Iberian, Almain, Lombard, and the beast And bird, wolf, vulture, more humane than
 - they Are; these but gorge the flesh and lap the gore
- Of the departed, and then go their way; But those, the human savages, explore
 - All paths of torture, and insatiate yet,
- With Ugolino-hunger prowl for more 90 Nine moons shall rise o'er scenes like this
 - and set; The chiefless army of the dead, which late
- Beneath the traitor Prince's banner met, Hath left its leader's ashes at the gate;
 - Had but the royal Rebel lived, perchance Thou hadst been spared, but his involved thy fate.
- Oh! Rome, the spoiler or the spoil of France,
 - From Brennus to the Bourbon, never. never Shall foreign standard to thy walls advance But Tiber shall become a mournful river. Oh! when the strangers pass the Alps and Po, Crush them, ye rocks! floods whelm them, and for ever! Why sleep the idle avalanches so, To topple on the lonely pilgrim's head? Why doth Eridanus but overflow The peasant's harvest from his turbid bed? Were not each barbarous horde a nobler prey? Over Cambyses' host the desert spread Her sandy ocean, and the sea waves' sway Roll'd over Pharaoh and his thousands, why, 110 Mountains and waters, do ye not as they? And you, ye men ! Romans, who dare not die, Sons of the conquerors who overthrew Those who o'erthrew proud Xerxes, where yet he The dead whose tomb Oblivion never knew, Are the Alps weaker than Thermopylæ? Their passes more alluring to the view Of an invader ? is it they, or ye, That to each host the mountain-gate unbar, And leave the march in peace, the passage free? Why, Nature's self detains the victor's car, And makes your land impregnable, if earth Could be so: but alone she will not war, Yet aids the warrior worthy of his birth In a soil where the mothers bring forth men: Not so with those whose souls are little worth; For them no fortress can avail, — the den Of the poor reptile which preserves its sting Is more secure than walls of adamant, when The hearts of those within are quivering. Are ye not brave? Yes, yet the Ausonian soil Hath hearts, and hands, and arms, and hosts to bring Against Oppression; but how vain the toil, While still Division sows the seeds of woe

And weakness, till the stranger reaps the spoil.

- Oh! my own beauteous land! so long laid low,
 - So long the grave of thy own children's hopes,
 - When there is but required a single blow
- To break the chain, yet yet the Avenger stops,
 - And Doubt and Discord step 'twixt thine and thee, 140
 - And join their strength to that which with thee copes;

What is there wanting then to set thee free, And show thy beauty in its fullest light ? To make the Alps impassable; and we,

Her sons, may do this with one deed— Unite.

CANTO THE THIRD

FROM out the mass of never-dying ill,

- The Plague, the Prince, the Stranger, and the Sword,
- Vials of wrath but emptied to refill
- And flow again, I cannot all record That crowds on my prophetic eye: the earth
- And ocean written o'er would not afford
- Space for the annal, yet it shall go forth.
 - Yes, all, though not by human pen, is graven:
 - There where the farthest suns and stars have birth,
- Spread like a banner at the gate of heaven, ro
 - The bloody scroll of our millennial wrongs Waves, and the echo of our groans is driven

Athwart the sound of archangelic songs; And Italy, the martyr'd nation's gore,

Will not in vain arise to where belongs

Omnipotence and mercy evermore:

- Like to a harpstring stricken by the wind,
- The sound of her lament shall, rising o'er The seraph voices, touch the Almighty
- Mind.

Meantime I, humblest of thy sons, and of Earth's dust by immortality refined 21

- To sense and suffering, though the vain may scoff,
 - And tyrants threat, and meeker victims bow

460

Before the storm because its breath is rough, debased To thee, my country ! whom before as now I loved and love, devote the mournful lyre And melancholy gift high powers allow shall listen: To read the future; and if now my fire Is not as once it shone o'er thee, forgive ! I but foretell thy fortunes - then exskv pire; Think not that I would look on them and them glow, live. A spirit forces me to see and speak, And for my guerdon grants not to surshall sing vive; My heart shall be pour'd over thee and break Yet for a moment, ere I must resume All free and fearless as the feather'd Thy sable web of sorrow, let me take Over the gleams that flash athwart thy king, gloom A softer glimpse. Some stars shine phrase through thy night, And many meteors, and above thy tomb prince Leans sculptured Beauty, which Death can-In all the prodigality of praise ! not blight; And from thine ashes boundless spirits Too oft forgets its own self-reverence, rise To give thee honour and the earth de-And looks on prostitution as a duty. light: Thy soil shall still be pregnant with the wise, The gay, the learn'd, the generous, and booty, the brave. Native to thee as summer to thy skies, enthral

- Conquerors on foreign shores and the far wave. Discoverers of new worlds which take
 - their name:
- For thee alone they have no arm to save, And all thy recompense is in their fame,
 - A noble one to them, but not to thee -- 50 Shall they be glorious and thou still the same?
- Oh! more than these illustrious far shall be The being — and even yet he may be born
 - The mortal saviour who shall set thee free,
- And see thy diadem, so changed and worn By fresh barbarians, on thy brow replaced;
 - And the sweet sun replenishing thy morn,
- Thy moral morn, too long with clouds defaced
 - And noxious vapours from Avernus risen,

- Such as all they must breathe who are
- By servitude and have the mind in prison. Yet through this centuried eclipse of woe
 - Some voices shall be heard, and earth
- Poets shall follow in the path I show,
 - And make it broader; the same brilliant
 - Which cheers the birds to song shall bid
- And raise their notes as natural and high;
 - Tuneful shall be their numbers; they
 - Many of love, and some of liberty,
- But few shall soar upon that eagle's wing, And look in the sun's face with eagle's
- But fly more near the earth; how many a
 - Sublime shall lavish'd be on some small
- And language, eloquently false, evince The harlotry of genius, which, like beauty,
- He who once enters in a tyrant's hall so As guest is slave, his thoughts become a
- And the first day which sees the chain
 - A captive, sees his half of manhood gone -
 - The soul's emasculation saddens all
- Thus the Bard too near the His spirit throne
 - Quails from his inspiration, bound to please, -
- How servile is the task to please alone,
- To smooth the verse to suit his sovereign's ease
 - And royal leisure, nor too much prolong Aught save his eulogy, and find, and seize,
- Or force, or forge fit argument of song ! Thus trammell'd, thus condemn'd to Flattery's trebles,
 - He toils through all, still trembling to be wrong.
- For fear some noble thoughts, like heavenly rebels.
 - Should rise up in high treason to his brain,

He sings, as the Athenian spoke, with	0:
pebbles In 's mouth, lest truth should stammer through his strain.	~
But out of the long file of sonneteers	St
There shall be some who will not sing in vain,
And he, their prince, shall rank among my peers, 100
And love shall be his torment; but his grief	\mathbf{F}
Shall make an immortality of tears,
And Italy shall hail him as the Chief Of Poet-lovers, and his higher song
Of Freedom wreathe him with as green a leaf.	B
But in a farther age shall rise along
The banks of Po two greater still than he; The world which smiled on hum shall de
The world which smiled on him shall do them wrong	A
Till they are ashes and repose with me.	- 13
The first will make an epoch with his lyre, 110
And fill the earth with feats of chivalry:	_
his fancy like a rainbow, and his fire,	Т
Like that of Heaven, immortal, and his thought Borne onward with a wing that cannot tire	I
Pleasure shall, like a butterfly new caught,
Flutter her lovely pinions o'er his theme,
And Art itself seem into Nature wrought	A
By the transparency of his bright dream. The second, of a tenderer, sadder mood,	1
Shall pour his soul out o'er Jerusalem. 120
He, too, shall sing of arms and Christian	τ blood
Shed where Christ bled for man; and his high harp Shall, by the willow over Jordan's flood,
Revive a song of Sion: and the sharp	l c
Conflict, and final triumph of the brave
And pious, and the strife of hell to warp
Their hearts from their great purpose, until wave The red-cross banners where the first red	г
Cross	1
Was crimson'd from his veins who died to save, —
Shall be his sacred argument. The loss 130
Of years, of favour, freedom, even of fame	C
Contested for a time, while the smooth	1
gloss	ł
0

Of courts would slide o'er his forgotten name,

And call captivity a kindness meant

- To shield him from insanity or shame, Such shall be his meet guerdon who was sent
 - To be Christ's Laureate they reward him well !
 - Florence dooms me but death or banishment,
- Ferrara him a pittance and a cell,
 - Harder to bear and less deserved, for I 140
 - Had stung the factions which I strove to quell;
- But this meek man, who with a lover's eye
 - Will look on earth and heaven, and who will deign
 - To embalm with his celestial flattery
- As poor a thing as e'er was spawn'd to reign,
 - What will he do to merit such a doom? Perhaps he'll love, — and is not love in vain
- Torture enough without a living tomb? Yet it will be so; he and his compeer,
 - The Bard of Chivalry, will both consume 150
- In penury and pain too many a year, And, dying in despondency, bequeath To the kind world, which scarce will yield a tear,
- A heritage enriching all who breathe With the wealth of a genuine poet's soul, And to their country a redoubled wreath
- Unmatch'd by time (not Hellas can unroll
 - Through her olympiads two such names, though one

Of hers be mighty); --- and is this the whole

- Of such men's destiny beneath the sun ? 160 Must all the finer thoughts, the thrilling sense,
- The electric blood with which their arteries run,
- Their body's self turn'd soul with the intense

Feeling of that which is, and fancy of

- That which should be, to such a recompense
- Conduct? shall their bright plumage on the rough
 - Storm be still scatter'd? Yes, and it must be;

The Greeian forms at least from their decay; And Roman souls at last again shall live In Roman works wrought by Italian hands; And temples, loftier than the old temples, give New wonders to the world; and while still stands The austere Pantheon, into heaven shall SOAT A dome, its image, while the base expands Into a fane surpassing all before, Such as all flesh shall flock to kneel in: ne'er Such sight hath been unfolded by a door As this, to which all nations shall repair, And lay their sins at this huge gate of heaven. And the bold Architect unto whose care The daring charge to raise it shall be given, Whom all arts shall acknowledge as their lord, Whether into the marble chaos driven 60 His chisel bid the Hebrew, at whose word Israel left Egypt, stop the waves in stone, Or hues of Hell be by his pencil pour'd Over the damn'd before the Judgmentthrone, Such as I saw them, such as all shall see, Or fanes be built of grandeur yet unknown, -The stream of his great thoughts shall spring from me, The Ghibelline, who traversed the three realms Which form the empire of eternity. Amidst the clash of swords and clang of helms, 70 The age which I anticipate, no less Shall be the Age of Beauty; and while whelmsCalamity the nations with distress, The genius of my country shall arise, A cedar towering o'er the Wilderness, Lovely in all its branches to all eyes, Fragrant as fair, and recognised afar, Wafting its native incense through the skies. Sovereigns shall pause amidst their sport of war. Wean'd for an hour from blood, to turn and gaze 80

On canvass or on stone; and they who mar

- All beauty upon earth, compell'd to praise, Shall feel the power of that which they destroy;
- And Art's mistaken gratitude shall raise To tyrants who but take her for a toy
- Emblems and monuments, and prostitute Her charms to pontiffs proud, who but employ

The man of genius as the meanest brute To bear a burthen and to serve a need, To sell his labours and his soul to boot. ∞

Who toils for nations may be poor indeed,

But free; who sweats for monarchs is no more

Than the gilt chamberlain, who, clothed and fee'd,

- Stands sleek and slavish, bowing at his door.
 - Oh, Power that rulest and inspirest ! how Is it that they on earth, whose earthly power

Is likest thine in heaven in outward show, Least like to thee in attributes divine, Tread on the universal necks that bow,

And then assure us that their rights are thine?

And how is it that they, the sons of fame, Whose inspiration seems to them to shine

From high, they whom the nations oftest name,

Must pass their days in penury or pain,

- Or step to grandeur through the paths of shame,
- And wear a deeper brand and gaudier chain?

Or if their destiny be born aloof

From lowliness, or tempted thence in vain,

In their own souls sustain a harder proof, The inner war of passions deep and fierce? Florence ' when thy harsh sentence razed my roof,

I loved thee; but the vengeance of my verse,

The hate of injuries which every year

Makes greater, and accumulates my curse,

Shall live, outliving all thou holdest dear — Thy pride, thy wealth, thy freedom, and even that,

The most infernal of all evils here,

The sway of petty tyrants in a state; For such sway is not limited to kings, And demagogues yield to them but in date, 120

- As swept off sooner; in all deadly things Which make men hate themselves and one another,
 - In discord, cowardice, cruelty, all that springs
- From Death the Sin-born's incest with his mother,
 - In rank oppression in its rudest shape,
 - The faction Chief is but the Sultan's brother,
- And the worst despot's far less human ape:
 - Florence ! when this lone spirit, which so long

Yearn'd, as the captive toiling at escape, To fly back to thee in despite of wrong, 130

- An exile, saddest of all prisoners,
- Who has the whole world for a dungeon strong,
- Seas, mountains, and the horizon's verge for bars,
 - Which shut him from the sole small spot of earth

Where — whatsoe'er his fate — he still were hers,

- His country's, and might die where he had birth
 - Florence ! when this lone spirit shall return
 - To kindred spirits, thou wilt feel my worth,
- And seek to honour with an empty urn
- The ashes thou shalt ne'er obtain Alas!
- 'What have I done to thee, my people?' Stern
- Are all thy dealings, but in this they pass The limits of man's common malice, for All that a citizen could be I was;
- Raised by thy will, all thine in peace or war, And for this thou hast warr'd with me.— 'T is done.
- I may not overleap the eternal bar
- Built up between us, and will die alone, Beholding with the dark eye of a seer The evil days to gifted souls foreshown,
- Foretelling them to those who will not hear,
 - As in the old time, till the hour be come When Truth shall strike their eyes through many a tear,
- And make them own the Prophet in his tomb

THE MORGANTE MAGGIORE

OF PULCI

ADVERTISEMENT

The Morgante Maggiore, of the first canto of which this translation is offered, divides with the Orlando Innamorato the honour of having formed and suggested the style and story of Ariosto. The great defects of Boiardo were his treating too seriously the narratives of chivalry, and his harsh style. Ariosto, in his continuation, by a judicious mixture of the gaiety of Pulci, has avoided the one, and Berni, in his reformation of Bolardo's poem, has corrected the other. Pulci may be considered as the precursor and model of Berni altogether, as he has partly been to Arnosto, however inferior to both his copyists He is no less the founder of a new style of poetry very lately sprung up in England I allude to that of the ingenious Whistlecraft. The serious poems on Roncesvalles in the same language, and more particularly the excellent one of Mr. Merivale, are to be traced to the same source. It has never yet been decided entirely whether Pulci's intention was or was not to deride the religion which is one of his favourite topics It appears to me, that such an intention would have been no less hazardous to the poet than to the priest, particularly in that age and country, and the permission to publish the poem, and its recep-tion among the classics of Italy, prove that it neither was nor is so interpreted That he intended to ridicule the monastic life, and suffered his imagination to play with the simple dulness of his converted giant, seems evident enough, but surely it were as unjust to accuse him of irreligion on this account, as to denounce Fielding for his Parson Adams, Barnabas, Thwackum, Supple, and the Ordinary in Jonathan Wild, - or Scott, for the exquisite use of his Covenanters in the Tales of my Landlord.

In the following translation I have used the liberty of the original with the proper names; as Pulci uses Gan, Ganellon, or Ganellone, Carlo, Carlomagno, or Carlomano, Rondel, or Rondello, etc., as it suits his convenience; so has the translator. In other respects the version is faithful to the best of the translator's ability in combining his interpretation of the one language with the not very easy task of reducing it to the same versification in the other. The reader, on comparing it with the original, is requested to remember that the antiquated language of Pulci, however pure, is not easy to the generality of Italians themselves, from its great mixture of Tuscan proverbs; and he may therefore be more indulgent to the present attempt. How far the translator has succeeded, and whether or no he shall continue the work, are questions which the public will decide He was induced to make the experiment partly by his love for. and partial intercourse with, the Italian language, of which it is so easy to acquire a slight knowledge, and with which it is so nearly impossible for a foreigner to be-come accurately conversant. The Italian language is like a capricious beauty, who accords her smiles to all, her favours to few, and sometimes least to those who have courted her longest The translator wished also to present in an English dress a part at least of a poem never yet rendered into a northern larguage, at the same time that it has been the original of some of the most celebrated productions on this side of the Alps, as well as of those recent experiments in poetry in England which have been already mentioned.

CANTO THE FIRST

- In the beginning was the Word next God; God was the Word, the Word no less was he.
- This was in the beginning, to my mode
- Of thinking, and without him nought could be:
- Therefore, just Lord ! from out thy high abode,

Benign and pious, bid an angel flee,

One only, to be my companion, who Shall help my famous, worthy, old song through.

II

- And thou, oh Virgin! daughter, mother, bride,
- Of the same Lord, who gave to you each key ro
- Of heaven and hell and every thing beside,
 - The day thy Gabriel said 'All hail!' to thee,
- Since to thy servants pity's ne'er denied,
- With flowing rhymes, a pleasant style and free,
- Be to my verses then benignly kind,
- And to the end illuminate my mind.

ш

"T was in the season when sad Philomel Weeps with her sister, who remembers 3:2

- Deplores the ancient woes which both befell,
 - And makes the nymphs enamour'd, to the hand 20
- Of Phaeton by Phœbus loved so well Hıs car (but temper'd by hıs sıre's command)
- Was given, and on the horizon's verge just
- Appear'd, so that Tithonus scratch'd his brow:

IV

- When I prepared my bark first to obey,
- As it should still obey, the helm, my mind,
- And carry prose or rhyme, and this my lay
 - Of Charles the Emperor, whom you will find

By several pens already praised; but they

- Who to diffuse his glory were included, 30 For all that I can see, in prose or verse,
- Have understood Charles badly, and wrote worse.

V

- Leonardo Aretino said already,
 - That if, like Pepin, Charles had had a writer
- Of genius quick, and diligently steady,
- No hero would in history look brighter; He in the cabinet being always ready,
- And in the field a most victorious fighter, Who for the church and Christian faith had wrought,
- Certes, far more than yet is said or thought. 40

VI

You still may see at Saint Liberatore

The abbey, no great way from Manopell, Erected in the Abruzzi to his glory,

- Because of the great battle in which fell A pagan king, according to the story,
 - And felon people whom Charles sent to hell.
- And there are bones so many, and so many, Near them Giasaffa's would seem few, if any.

VII

- But the world, blind and ignorant, don't prize 49
 - His virtues as I wish to see them: thou,

- Florence, by his great bounty dost arise, And hast, and may'st have, if thou wilt allow,
- All proper customs and true courtesies: Whate'er thou hast acquired from then till now.
- With knightly courage, treasure, or the lance.
- Is sprung from out the noble blood of France.

VIII

Twelve paladms had Charles in court, of whom

The wisest and most famous was Orlando; Him traitor Gan conducted to the tomb

- In Roncesvalles, as the villain plann'd too, 60
- While the horn rang so loud and knell'd the doom
 - Of their sad rout, though he did all knight can do;

And Dante in his comedy has given

To him a happy seat with Charles in heaven.

IX

- 'T was Christmas-day; in Paris all his court
 - Charles held; the chief, I say, Orlando was,
- The Dane; Astolfo there too did resort, Also Ansuigi, the gay time to pass
- In festival and in triumphal sport,
- The much-renown'd St. Dennis being the cause; 79
- Angiolin of Bayonne, and Oliver,
- And gentle Belinghieri too came there:

х

Avolio, and Arino, and Othone

Of Normandy, and Richard Paladin,

Wise Hamo, and the ancient Salamone,

- Walter of Lion's Mount, and Baldovin, Who was the son of the sad Ganellone,
- Were there, exciting too much gladness in The son of Pepin: — when his knights came
- hither, He groan'd with joy to see them altogether. 80

XI

- But watchful Fortune, lurking, takes good heed
 - Ever some bar 'gainst our intents to bring:

- While Charles reposed him thus, in word and deed,
- Orlando ruled court, Charles, and every thing;
- Curst Gan, with envy bursting, had such need
 - To vent his spite, that thus with Charles the king

One day he openly began to say,

'Orlando must we always then obey?

XII

'A thousand times I 've been about to say, Orlando too presumptuously goes on; 90

Here are we, counts, kings, dukes, to own thy sway,

Hamo, and Otho, Ogier, Solomon,

- Each have to honour thee and to obey;
- But he has too much credit near the throne,
- Which we won't suffer, but are quite decided
- By such a boy to be no longer guided.

XIII

'And even at Aspramont thou didst begin To let him know he was a gallant knight,

- And by the fount did much the day to win; But I know who that day had won the
- fight 100 If it had not for good Gherardo been.
- The victory was Almonte's else; his sight He kept upon the standard, and the laurels In fact and fairness are his earning, Charles.

XIV

'If thou rememberest being in Gascony,

- When there advanced the nations out of Spain,
- The Christian cause had suffer'd shamefully, Had not his valour driven them back again
- Best speak the truth when there 's a re on why:
 - Know then, oh emperor ! that all complain:

As for myself, I shall repass the mounts

O'er which I cross'd with two and sixty counts.

xv

- 'T is fit thy grandeur should dispense re lief,
 - So that each here may have his proper part,

- For the whole court is more or less in grief: Perhaps thou deem'st this lad a Mars in heart?'
- Orlando one day heard this speech in brief, As by humself it chanced he sate apart:
- Displeased he was with Gan because he said it.
- But much more still that Charles should give him credit. 120

XVI

And with the sword he would have murder'd Gan,

But Oliver thrust in between the pair, And from his hand extracted Durlindan,

And thus at length they separated were. Orlando, angry too with Carloman,

Wanted but little to have slam him there; Then forth alone from Paris went the chief,

And burst and madden'd with disdain and grief.

XVII

From Ermellina, consort of the Dane,

- He took Cortana, and then took Rondell, 130
- And on towards Brara prick'd him o'er the plain;

And when she saw him coming, Aldabelle Stretch'd forth her arms to clasp her lord again

Orlando, in whose brain all was not well, As 'Welcome, my Orlando, home,' she said, Raised up his sword to smite her on the head.

XVIII

Like him a fury counsels, his revenge

- On Gan in that rash act he seem'd to take,
- Which Aldabella thought extremely strange; But soon Orlando found himself awake;
- And his spouse took his bridle on this change,
 - And he dismounted from his horse, and spake
- Of every thing which pass'd without demur,
- And then reposed himself some days with her.

XIX

Then full of wrath departed from the place, And far as pagan countries roam'd astray,

- And while he rode, yet still at every pace The traitor Gan remember'd by the way:
- And wandering on in error a long space,
- An abbey which in a lone desert lay, 150 'Midst glens obscure and distant lands, he found,
- Which form'd the Christian's and the pagan's bound

XX

The abbot was call'd Clermont, and by blood

Descended from Angrante: under cover

- Of a great mountain's brow the abbey stood,
 - But certain savage giants look'd him over;

One Passamont was foremost of the brood, And Alabaster and Morgante hover

- Second and third, with certain slings, and throw
- In daily jeopardy the place below. 160

XXI

- The monks could pass the convent gate no more,
 - Nor leave their cells for water or for wood;
- Orlando knock'd, but none would ope, before

Unto the prior it at length seem'd good;

- Enter'd, he said that he was taught to adore Him who was born of Mary's holiest blood,
- And was baptized a Christian; and then show'd

How to the abbey he had found his road.

XXII

- Said the abbot, 'You are welcome; what is mine
- We give you freely, since that you believe 770

With us in Mary Mother's Son divine;

And that you may not, cavalier, conceive

The cause of our delay to let you in To be rusticity, you shall receive

The reason why our gate was barr'd to you:

Thus those who in suspicion live must do.

$\mathbf{X}\mathbf{X}\mathbf{III}$

'When hither to inhabit first we came These mountains, albeit that they are obscure,

- As you perceive, yet without fear or blame They seem'd to promise an asylum sure: From savage brutes alone, too fierce to tame, ¹⁸¹ The m
- 'T was fit our quiet dwelling to secure;
- But now, if here we'd stay, we needs must guard
- Against domestic beasts with watch and ward.

XXIV

- 'These make us stand, in fact, upon the watch;
 - For late there have appear'd three giants rough;
- What nation or what kingdom bore the batch
 - I know not, but they are all of savage stuff;
- When force and malice with some genius match,
- You know, they can do all we are not enough:

And these so much our orisons derange,

I know not what to do, till matters change.

XXV

- Our ancient fathers living the desert in, For just and holy works were duly
- fed; fed;
- Think not they lived on locusts sole, 't is certain
 - That manna was ram'd down from heaven instead;
- But here 't is fit we keep on the alert in
- Our bounds, or taste the stones shower'd down for bread
- From off yon mountain daily raining faster,
- And flung by Passamont and Alabaster. 200

XXVI

- 'The third, Morgante, 's savagest by far; he
 - Plucks up pines, beeches, poplar-trees, and oaks,
- And flings them, our community to bury;
- And all that I can do but more provokes'
- While thus they parley in the cemetery,
 - A stone from one of their gigantic strokes,
- Which nearly crush'd Rondell, came tumbling over,
- So that he took a long leap under cover.

XXVII

- 'For God-sake, cavaher, come in with speed;
- The manna's falling now,' the abbot cried — 210
- 'This fellow does not wish my horse should feed,

Dear abbot,' Roland unto him replied.

- 'Of restiveness he 'd cure him had he need; That stone seems with good will and aim applied '
- The holy father said, 'I don't deceive;
- They'll one day fing the mountam, I believe.'

XXVIII

Orlando bade them take care of Rondello, And also made a breakfast of his own:

- Abbot,' he said, ' I want to find that fellow Who flung at my good horse yon corner-
- stone.' 220
- Said the abbot, 'Let not my advice seem shallow;
- As to a brother dear I speak alone;
- I would dissuade you, baron, from this strife,
- As knowing sure that you will lose your life.

XXIX

- 'That Passamont has in his hand three darts
 - Such slings, clubs, ballast-stones, that yield you must;
- You know that guants have much stouter hearts
- Than us, with reason, in proportion just: If go you will, guard well against their arts,
 - For these are very barbarous and robust' 230
- Orlando answer'd, 'This I 'll see, be sure, And walk the wild on foot to be secure.'

XXX

The abbot sign'd the great cross on his front, 'Then go you with God's benison and mine'

Orlando, after he had scaled the mount, As the abbot had directed, kept the line

- Right to the usual haunt of Passamont; Who, seeing him alone in this design,
- Survey'd him fore and aft with eyes observant,
- Then ask'd him, 'If he wish'd to stay as servant?' 240

XXXI

And promised him an office of great ease. But said Orlando, 'Saracen insane !

I come to kill you, if it shall so please

God, not to serve as footboy in your train;

- You with his monks so oft have broke the peace
 - Vile dog ! 't is past his patience to sustain.'

The giant ran to fetch his arms, quite furious.

When he received an answer so injurious.

XXXII

And being return'd to where Orlando stood, Who had not moved him from the spot, and swinging

- The cord, he hurl'd a stone with strength so rude,
 - As show'd a sample of his skill in slingmg;

It roll'd on Count Orlando's helmet good

And head, and set both head and helmet ringing,

So that he swoon'd with pain as if he died, But more than dead, he seem'd so stupefied.

XXXIII

Then Passamont, who thought him slain outright,

Said, 'I will go, and while he lies along,

- Disarm me why such craven did I fight? But Christ his servants ne'er abandons
- long. Especially Orlando, such a knight

As to desert would almost be a wrong. While the giant goes to put off his defences, Orlando has recall'd his force and senses:

XXXIV

And loud he shouted, 'Giant, where dost go? Thou thought'st me doubtless for the bier outlaid;

To the right about — without wings thou 'rt too slow

To fly my vengeance - currish renegade! 'T was but by treachery thou laid'st me low.'

The giant his astonishment betray'd 270 And turn'd about, and stopp'd his journey on, And then he stoop'd to pick up a great stone.

XXXV

Orlando had Cortana bare in hand;

To split the head in twain was what he schemed: ---

Cortana clave the skull like a true brand,

- And pagan Passamont died unredeem'd; Yet, harsh and haughty, as he lay he bann'd,
- And most devoutly Macon still blasphemed;
- But while his crude, rude blasphemies he heard,
- Orlando thank'd the Father and the Word. -280

XXXVI

Saying, 'What grace to me thou 'st this day riven !

And I to thee, oh Lord ! am ever bound;

I know my life was saved by thee from heaven,

Since by the giant I was fairly down'd.

- All things by thee are measured just and even;
 - Our power without thine aid would nought be found;
- I pray thee take heed of me, till I can
- At least return once more to Carloman.'

XXXVII

And having said thus much, he went his way

And Alabaster he found out below, 200 Doing the very best that in him lay

- To root from out a bank a rock or two.
- Orlando, when he reach'd him, loud 'gan say,
- 'How think'st thou, glutton, such a stone to throw ?'
- When Alabaster heard his deep voice ring, He suddenly betook him to his sling,

XXXVIII

- And hurl'd a fragment of a size so large, That if it had in fact fulfill'd its mission.
- And Roland not avail'd him of his targe,
- There would have been no need of a physician. 300
- Orlando set himself in turn to charge, And in his bulky bosom made incision
- With all his sword. The lout fell; but o'erthrown, he
- However by no means forgot Macone.

XXXIX

- Morgante had a palace in his mode,
 - Composed of branches, logs of wood, and earth.
- And stretch'd himself at ease in this abode, And shut himself at night within his berth.

- Orlando knock'd and knock'd again, to goad
 - The giant from his sleep; and he came forth 310
- The door to open, like a crazy thing,
- For a rough dream had shook him slumbering.

XL

He thought that a fierce serpent had attack'd him;

And Mahomet he call'd; but Mahomet Is nothing worth, and not an instant back'd him; But praying blessed Jesu, he was set

- At liberty from all the fears which rack'd him;
 - And to the gate he came with great regret ---
- 'Who knocks here?' grumbling all the while, said he.
- 'That,' said Orlando, 'you will quickly see. 320

XLI

- 'I come to preach to you, as to your brothers,
 - Sent by the miserable monks repentance:
- For Providence divine, in you and others, Condemns the evil done my new acquaintance.
- 'T is writ on high your wrong must pay another's:

From heaven itself is issued out this sentence.

Know then, that colder now than a pilaster I left your Passamont and Alabaster.'

XLII

Morgante said, 'Oh gentle cavalier ! Now by thy God say me no villany; 330

The favour of your name I fain would hear,

And if a Christian, speak for courtesy.' Replied Orlando, 'So much to your ear I by my faith disclose contentedly;

Christ I adore, who is the genuine Lord, And, if you please, by you may be adored.'

XLIII

- The Saracen rejoin'd in humble tone,
- 'I have had an extraordinary vision;
- A savage serpent fell on me alone,
- And Macon would not pity my condition; 340

Hence to thy God, who for ye did atone

Upon the cross, preferr'd I my petition; His timely succour set me safe and free, And I a Christian am disposed to be.'

XLIV

- Orlando answer'd, 'Baron just and pious, If this good wish your heart can really move,
- To the true God, who will not then deny us Eternal honour, you will go above;
- And, if you please, as friends we will ally us, And I will love you with a perfect love. 350
- Your idols are vain hars, full of fraud:
- The only true God is the Christian's God.

XLV

'The Lord descended to the virgin breast Of Mary Mother, sulless and divine;

If you acknowledge the Redeemer blest

Without whom neither sun nor star can shine,

Abjure bad Macon's false and felon test,

- Your renegado god, and worship mine, Baptize yourself with zeal, since you repent'
- To which Morgante answer'd, 'I'm content.' 360

XLVI

And then Orlando to embrace him flew,

- And made much of his convert, as he cried,
- 'To the abbey I will gladly marshal you.'
 - To whom Morgante, 'Let us go,' replied;
- 'I to the frars have for peace to sue' Which thing Orlando heard with inward pride,

Saying, 'My brother, so devout and good, Ask the abbot pardon, as I wish you would.

XLVII

'Since God has granted your illumination, Accepting you in mercy for his own, 370 Humility should be your first oblation.'

- Morgante said, 'For goodness' sake, make known —
- Since that your God is to be mine your station,
 - And let your name in verity be shown;
- Then will I every thing at your command do'
- On which the other said he was Orlando.

XLVIII

'Then,' quoth the giant, 'blessed be Jesu A thousand times with gratitude and praise !

Oft, perfect baron ! have I heard of you Through all the different periods of my days. 380

And, as I said, to be your vassal too

I wish for your great gallantry always.' Thus reasoning, they continued much to say And onwards to the abbey went their way.

XLIX

And by the way about the giants dead Orlando with Morgante reason'd 'Be,

- For their decease, I pray you, comforted; And, since it is God's pleasure, pardon me;
- A thousand wrongs unto the monks they bred,

And our true Scripture soundeth openly, Good is rewarded, and chastised the ill, 391 Which the Lord never faileth to fulfil.

L

'Because his love of justice unto all

Is such, he wills his judgment should devour

All who have sin, however great or small; But good he well remembers to restore

Nor without justice holy could we call

Him, whom I now require you to adore. All men must make his will their wishes sway,

And quickly and spontaneously obey 400

LI

'And here our doctors are of one accord,

- Coming on this point to the same conclusion, —
- That in their thoughts who praise in heaven the Lord

If pity e'er was guilty of intrusion

For their unfortunate relations stored

In hell below, and damn'd in great confusion, —

Their happiness would be reduced to nought,

And thus unjust the Almighty's self be thought.

LII

- -But they in Christ have firmest hope, and all
 - Which seems to him, to them too must appear 410

Well done; nor could it otherwise befall: He never can in any purpose err.

If sire or mother suffer endless thrall,

They don't disturb themselves for him or her;

- What pleases God to them must joy inspire; ---
- Such is the observance of the eternal choir.

\mathbf{LIII}

'A word unto the wise,' Morgante said,

- 'Is wont to be enough, and you shall see How much I grieve about my brethren dead;
- And if the will of God seem good to me, Just as you tell me 't is in heaven obey'd —
- Ashes to ashes, merry let us be !
- I will cut off the hands from both their trunks,

And carry them unto the holy monks,

LIV

'So that all persons may be sure and certain That they are dead, and have no further fear

To wander solitary this desert in,

- And that they may perceive my spirit clear
- By the Lord's grace, who hath withdrawn the curtain
 - Of darkness, making his bright realm appear.' 430
- He cut his brethren's hands off at these words,
- And left them to the savage beasts and birds.

LV

- Then to the abbey they went on together, Where waited them the abbot in great doubt
- The monks, who knew not yet the fact, ran thither

To their superior, all in breathless rout,

Saying with tremor, 'Please to tell us whether

You wish to have this person in or out?' The abbot, looking through upon the giant,

Too greatly fear'd, at first, to be compliant. 440

LVI

Orlando, seeing him thus agitated,

Said quickly, 'Abbot, be thou of good cheer,

- He Christ believes as Christian must be rated,
 - And hath renounced his Macon false;' which here
- Morgante with the hands corroborated,

A proof of both the guants' fate quite clear. Thence, with due thanks, the abbot God adored.

Saying, 'Thou hast contented me, oh Lord!'

LVII

- He gazed; Morgante's height he calculated, And more than once contemplated his size; 450
- And then he said, 'Oh giant celebrated ! Know, that no more my wonder will arise,
- How you could tear and fling the trees you late did,
 - When I behold your form with my own eyes.

You now a true and perfect friend will show Yourself to Christ, as once you were a foe.

LVIII

⁶ And one of our apostles, Saul once named, Long persecuted sore the faith of Christ,

Till, one day, by the Spirit being inflamed, "Why dost thou persecute me thus?"

said Christ;

And then from his offence he was reclaim'd, And went for ever after preaching Christ,

- And of the faith became a trump, whose sounding
- O'er the whole earth is echoing and rebounding.

LIX

• So, my Morgante, you may do likewise; He who repents — thus writes the Evangehst —

Occasions more rejoicing in the skies

Than ninety-nine of the celestial list.

You may be sure, should each desirc arise With just zeal for the Lord, that you'll exist

Among the happy saints for evermore;

But you were lost and damn'd to hell before !'

LX

- And thus great honour to Morgante paid The abbot: many days they did repose.
- One day, as with Orlando they both stray'd, And saunter'd here and there, where'er they chose,

The abbot show'd a chamber, where array'd Much armour was, and hung up certain bows; And one of these Morgante for a whim 479 Girt on, though useless, he beheved, to him.

LXI

There being a want of water in the place, Orlando, like a worthy brother, said,

- 'Morgante, I could wish you in this case
- To go for water.' 'You shall be obey'd In all commands,' was the reply, 'straightways.'

Upon his shoulder a great tub he laid,

And went out on his way unto a fountain, Where he was wont to drink below the mountain.

LXII

Arrived there, a prodigious noise he hears, Which suddenly along the forest spread;

- Whereat from out his quiver he prepares 491 An arrow for his bow, and lifts his head;
- And lo! a monstrous herd of swine appears, And onward rushes with tempestuous tread,

And to the fountain's brink precisely pours; So that the giant 's join'd by all the boars.

LXIII

Morgante at a venture shot an arrow,

- Which pierced a pig precisely in the ear, And pass'd unto the other side quite thorough;
 - So that the boar, defunct, lay tripp'd up near.

Another, to revenge his fellow farrow,

Against the giant rush d in fierce career, And reach d the passage with so swift a foot, Morgante was not now in time to shoot.

LXIV

Perceiving that the pig was on him close, He gave him such a punch upon the head,

As floor'd him so that he no more arose, Smashing the very bone; and he fell dead Next to the other. Having seen such blows,

- The other pigs along the valley fied; 516 Morgante on his neck the bucket took,
- Full from the spring, which neither swerved nor shook.

LXV

The ton was on one shoulder, and there were The hogs on t' other, and he brush'd apace On to the abbey, though by no means near, Nor spilt one drop of water in his race

Orlando, seeing him so soon appear

With the dead boars and with that brimful vase,

Marvell'd to see his strength so very great; So did the abbot, and set wide the gate. 520

LXVI

The monks, who saw the water fresh and good,

Rejoiced, but much more to perceive the pork; --

All animals are glad at sight of food:

They lay their breviaries to sleep, and work With greedy pleasure and in such a mood

That the flesh needs no salt beneath their fork.

Of rankness and of rot there is no fear, For all the fasts are now left in arrear.

LXVII

As though they wish'd to burst at once, they ate;

And gorged so that, as if the bones had been 530

In water, sorely grieved the dog and cat, Perceiving that they all were pick'd too clean.

The abbot, who to all did honour great,

A few days after this convivial scene,

Gave to Morgante a fine horse, well train'd, Which he long time had for himself maintain'd.

LXVIII

The horse Morgante to a meadow led

To gallop and to put him to the proof,

Thinking that he a back of iron had,

- Or to skim eggs unbroke was light enough; 540
- But the horse, sinking with the pain, fell dead,
 - And burst, while cold on earth lay head and hoof.

Morgante said, 'Get up, thou sulky cur !' And still continued pricking with the spur.

LXIX

But finally he thought fit to dismount,

- And said, 'I am as light as any feather, And he has burst; — to this what say you,
 - count?' Orlando answer'd, 'Lıke a ship's mast rather

- You seem to me, and with the truck for front;—
- Let him go; Fortune wills that we together 550
- Should march, but you on foot, Morgante, still'
- To which the giant answered, 'So I will.

LXX

- 'When there shall be occasion, you will s How I approve my courage in the fight.'
- Orlando said, 'I really think you 'll be,
 - If it should prove God's will, a goodly knight;
- Nor will you napping these discover me.
 - But never mind your horse, though out of sight
- 'T were best to carry him into some wood,
- If but the means or way I understood.' 560

LXXI

The giant said, 'Then carry him I will,

- Since that to carry me he was so slack To render, as the gods do, good for ill;
- But lend a hand to place him on my back.'
- Orlando answer'd, 'If my counsel still
- May weigh, Morgante, do not undertake
- To lift or carry this dead courser, who,
- As you have done to him, will do to you.

LXXII

- 'Take care he don't revenge himself, though dead,
 - As Nessus did of old beyond all cure. 570
- I don't know if the fact you've heard or read;
 - But he will make you burst, you may be sure.'—
- 'But help him on my back,' Morgante said,
- 'And you shall see what weight I can endure.

In place, my gentle Roland, of this palfrey, With all the bells I'd carry yonder belfry."

LXXIII

- The abbot said, 'The steeple may do well, But, for the bells, you've broken them, I wot.'
- Morgante answer'd, 'Let them pay in hell The penalty who lie dead in yon grot;'
- And hoisting up the horse from where he fell, 581
 - He said, 'Now look if I the gout have got,

Orlando, in the legs — or if I have force;' — And then he made two gambols with the horse.

LXXIV

- Morgante was like any mountain framed; So if he did this, 't is no prodigy;
- But secretly himself Orlando blamed,
- Because he was one of his family;
- And fearing that he might be hurt or maim'd,
- Once more he bade him lay his burden by: 590
- "Put down, nor bear him further the desert in."
- Morgante said, 'I'll carry him for certain.'

LXXV

- He did; and stow'd him in some nook away, And to the abbey then return'd with speed.
- Orlando said, 'Why longer do we stay? Morgante, here is nought to do indeed.'
- The abbot by the hand he took one day,
- And said, with great respect, he had agreed
- To leave his reverence; but for this decision
- He wish'd to have his pardon and permission. 600

LXXVI

The honours they continued to receive Perhaps exceeded what his merits claim'd:

- He said, 'I mean, and quickly, to retrieve
- The lost days of time past, which may be blamed,
- Some days ago I should have ask'd your leave,

Kind father, but I really was ashamed, And know not how to show my sentiment, So much I see you with our stay content.

LXXVII

- But in my heart I bear through every clime The abbot, abbey, and this solitude - -
- So much I love you in so short a time; 611 For me, from heaven reward you with all good
- The God so true, the eternal Lord sublume, Whose kingdom at the last hath open stood.
- Meantime we stand expectant of your blessing,
- And recommend us to your prayers with pressing'

LXXVIII

Now when the abbot Count Orlando heard, His heart grew soft with inner tenderness,

Such fervour in his bosom bred each word; And, 'Cavaher,' he said, 'if I have less

- Courteous and kind to your great worth appear'd 621
 - Than fits me for such gentle blood to express,

I know I have done too little in this case;

But blame our ignorance and this poor place.

LXXIX

- 'We can indeed but honour you with masses,
 - And sermons, thanksgivings, and paternosters,

Hot suppers, dinners (fitting other places

- In verity much rather than the cloisters), But such a love for you my heart embraces
- For thousand virtues which your bosom fosters, 630 That wheresoe'er you go I too shall be,

And, on the other part, you rest with me.

LXXX

- 'This may involve a seeming contradiction; But you I know are sage, and feel, and taste.
- And understand my speech with full conviction.
 - For your just pious deeds may you be graced
- With the Lord's great reward and benediction,

By whom you were directed to this waste: To his high mercy is our freedom due,

For which we render thanks to him and you. 649

LXXXI

- 'You saved at once our life and soul: such fear
 - The giants caused us, that the way w lost
- By which we could pursue a fit career

In search of Jesus and the saintly host;

- And your departure breeds such sorrow here
- That comfortless we all are to our cost; But months and years you would not stay in sloth,

Nor are you form'd to wear our sober cloth;

LXXXII

- ²But to bear arms and wield the lance; indeed,
- With these as much is done as with this cowl; 650

In proof of which the Scripture you may read.

- This giant up to heaven may bear his soul
- By your compassion: now in peace proceed
 - Your state and name I seek not to unroll;
- But, if I'm asked, this answer shall be given,
- That here an angel was sent down from heaven.

LXXXIII

- "If you want armour or aught else, go in, Look o'er the wardrobe, and take what you choose,
- And cover with it o'er this giant's skin.' Orlando answer'd, 'If there should lie loose 660
- Some armour, ere our journey we begin, Which might be turn'd to my companion's use,

The gift would be acceptable to me.'

The abbot said to him, 'Come in and see.'

LXXXIV

And in a certain closet, where the wall

Was cover'd with old armour like a crust,

The abbot said to them, 'I give you all.'

Morgante rummaged piecemeal from the dust

- The whole, which, save one cuirass, was too small,
 - And that too had the mail mlaid with rust 670

They wonder'd how it fitted him exactly, Which ne'er had suited others so compactly.

LXXXV

'T was an immeasurable giant's, who By the great Milo of Agrante fell

Before the abbey many years ago

- The story on the wall was figured well; In the last moment of the abbey's foe,
- Who long had waged a war implacable: Precisely as the war occurr'd they drew him,
- And there was Milo as he overthrew him.

LXXXVI

- Seeing this history, Count Orlando said 684 In his own heart, 'Oh God, who in the sky
- Know'st all things ! how was Milo hither led ?
 - Who caused the giant in this place to die?'
- And certam letters, weeping, then he read, So that he could not keep his visage dry,—
- As I will tell in the ensuing story.

From evil keep you the high King of glory!

FRANCESCA OF RIMINI

FROM THE INFERNO OF DANTE

CANTO V [LINES 97-142]

'THE land where I was born sits by the seas, Upon that shore to which the Po descends,

- With all his followers, in search of peace. Love, which the gentle heart soon apprehends,
 - Seized him for the fair person which was ta'en
 - From me, and me even yet the mode offends.
- Love, who to none beloved to love again
 - Remits, seized me with wish to please, so strong,
 - That, as thou seest, yet, yet it doth remain.
- Love to one death conducted us along, 10 But Cama waits for him our life who ended:'
 - These were the accents utter'd by her tongue —
- Since I first listen'd to these souls offended, I bow'd my visage, and so kept it till —
- 'What think'st thou?' said the bard; when I unbended,
- And recommenced: 'Alas ! unto such ill How many sweet thoughts, what strong ecstasies,
- Led these their evil fortune to fulfil !'
- And then I turn'd unto their side my eyes, And said, 'Francesca, thy sad destimes 20
- Have made me sorrow till the tears arise. But tell me, in the season of sweet sighs,

By what and how thy love to passion rose, So as his dim desires to recognise ?'

Then she to me: 'The greatest of all woes Is to remind us of our happy days

In misery, and that thy teacher knows But if to learn our passion's first root prevs	He who from me can be divided ne'er Kıss'd my mouth, trembling in the act all
Upon thy spirit with such sympathy,	over
I will do even as he who weeps and says. 30	Accursèd was the book and he who
We read one day for pastime, seated nigh,	wrote !
Of Lancilot, how love encham'd him too.	That day no further leaf we did un-
We were alone, quite unsuspiciously.	cover.'—
But oft our eyes met, and our cheeks in hue	While thus one spirit told us of their lot,
All o'er discolour'd by that reading were;	The other wept, so that with pity's
But one point only wholly us o'erthrew;	thralls
When we read the long-sigh'd-for smile of	I swoon'd as if by death I had been her,	smote,

To be thus kiss'd by such devoted lover, And fell down even as a dead body falls.

DRAMAS

The composition of the eight Dramas extends over a period of seven years, from 1816 to 1822. making a little more than one every twelvemonth besides the large amount of other verse written To this reckless haste in production may be ascribed many of their crudities, indeed, the more one reads in the poetry of that age, whether it be in the works of Byron or Shelley, the more one is impressed with the harm their genius suffered from the lack of critical repression. The Dramas of Byron fall naturally into two groups Manfred, Cain, and Heaven and Earth, which deal with frankly supernatural themes and are the full and, in Manfred at least, the most perfect expression of his romantic temperament, and Marino Faltero, Sardanapulus, and The Two Foscari, which are an attempt to show the playwrights of the day what could be done with the materials of history while preserving the classical laws of the drama Byion piotested always that these plays of the second group were not written for the stage, but one cannot but feel that he protests too much, and that all the while in his heart he longed to see them drive the accepted drama of the day off the boards Otherwise it is hard to see why he should have drawn the contrast so frequently between his work and the lawless plays against which he waged war. It is fair to say, however, that when news reached him of the preparations to bring out Marino Faliero at Drury Lane, he protested vigorously, and even went so far as to attempt to stay the proceedings by means of an injunction obtained from the Lord Chancellor The play was nevertheless given on April 30, 1821, and on five nights in May It failed as Byron had predicted The two latest of the Dramas, Werner and The Deformed Transformed, belong in a way to the second group but contain romantic elements that to a certain extent mark them off by themselves - The first two acts of Manfied were written during Byron's residence in Switzerland in 1816, and the third act was added in Venice This third act was sent to England, March 9, 1817, and received such severe criticism at the hands of Gifford, Murray's adviser, that Byron practically rewrote it The play was published June 16, 1817. Much has been said about the source of Byron's inspiration in this poem, and its resemblance to the Faust legend is patent Byron protested that he had never read Marlowe's Faustus, but he had heard an oral translation of Goethe's poem at Diodati, and his Manfred undoubtedly contains echoes of the German work, though its tone is markedly original. Above all the spirit of the Alps, which inspired the third canto of Childe Harold, breathes also in this powerful drama. The project of Marino Faliero followed hard upon Manfred, and is the fruit of Byron's sympathetic study of the history of Venice But the play for some reason was land aside and not taken up again until the year 1820, when it was finished in three months ending July 17 He had prepared himself for the work by a careful study of Venetian annals and boasts of the literalness with which he reproduced the facts of history For the subject of his next attempt 'to dramatize like the Greeks,' he turned from Italy to Assyria Sardanapalus was begun at Ravenna, January 13, 1821, and completed by May 28 It was published in the same volume with The Two Foscari and Cain, December 19, 1821; the three plays were thus written in a single year. The Two Foscari, indeed, represents the same spirit of enthusiasm for the 'regular' drama, it was begun June 12, 1821, and concluded on July 12 Judging by the extracts from Daru's Histoire de la République de Venise and from Sismondi, published in the appendix of the first edition, it would seem that Byron relied chiefly on these two authorities for his knowledge of this incident in Venetian history. But a comparison with these writers shows that he treated the subject-matter with considerable freedom. The exact story of the Foscari, which dates back to the fifteenth century, may be found by those interested in the standard histories of Venice. The third of the plays of 1821, Cain, a Mystery, was begun at Ravenna, July 16, and finished September 9 The theme, with its glorification of revolt, was in many respects admirably fitted to Byron's hand, and some of the imagery is in fact sublime. Goethe pressed the poem extravagantly, as did others of lesser critical note; but to the English public at large, the blasphemy of the scenes was Satanic. It raised a storm of protest Probably, to-day, it is chiefly of this poem we think in connection with Goethe's saying that Byron was a child when he reflected. Heaven and Earth, exquisite in parts but, as a whole, far below Manfred and Cain in conception and execution, occupied Byron from October 9, 1821, to about the 23d of the same month It was to have been published with the other three dramas, but for reasons of prudence Murray held it back until the poet, incensed, demanded its restitution. It was finally printed in the Liberator, January 1, 1823 Two months after completing this biblical drama, December 18, 1821, he began Werner at Pisa, and brought it to an end in just a month and two days It was published by Murray, November 23, 1822. In his Preface Byron names the source of the play, and tells how early the subject had fascinated his imagination. In the actual execution of the drama as we have it, there are signs of apparent fatigue, as if he had grown tired of this form of composition. As a whole it is dull reading The last of the plays, The Deformed Transformed (written at Pisa some time in 1822), was also drawn from a novel, The Three Brothers, by Joshua Pickers-gill, Jr. It was published, February 20, 1824, just before Byron's death at Missolonghi. Probably the formlessness of the thing influenced him in keeping it so long from the public, probably, too, the manifest kinship of Byron's devil to Goethe's Mephistopheles made him fear the charge of plagiarism — and against that charge he was always extremely, almost perversely, sensitive — If the editor's judgment may be trusted, there is a notable and almost uninterrupted decline in the merit of these dramas from the first to the last Manfred in its own sphere is unrivaled, it is superb. The other supernatural dramas, Cain, Heaten and Earth, and The Deformed Transformed (if we place the last named in this group), are each a step below the other in excellence. Marino Faliero, again, is a powerful production that grips the reader despite its monotony of tone and its overblown heroics. The following secular plays lose regularly in this intensity and singleness of impression. In all other branches - lyric, reflective, satiric, narrative — Byron's work progresses in mastery with almost as perfect a regularity, though his nearest approach to perfection may have come in each genre just before the end. This difference between his development in the drama and in the other forms of poetry is no doubt due to the undramatic nature of his genius.]

MANFRED

A DRAMATIC POEM

'There are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio, Than are dreamt of in your philosophy '

DRAMATIS PERSONÆ

MANFRED	WITCH OF THE ALPS
Chamois Hunter	ARIMANES
Abbot of St. Maurice	NEMESIS
Manuel	THE DESTINIES
Herman	SPIRITS, etc.
HERMAN	SPIRITS, etc.

The scene of the Drama is amongst the Higher Alpsparily in the Castle of Manfred, and partly in the Mountains.

ACT I

SCENE I

MANFRED alone. — Scene, a Gothic Gallery — Time, Midnight

Man. The lamp must be replenish'd, but even then

It will not burn so long as I must watch.

My slumbers — if I slumber — are not sleep, But a continuance of enduring thought, Which then I can resist not: in my heart There is a vigil, and these eyes but close To look within; and yet I live, and bear The aspect and the form of breathing men. But grief should be the instructor of the wise; Sorrow is knowledge: they who know the most to the fatal truth, The Tree of Knowledge is not that of Life Philosophy and science, and the springs

Of wonder, and the wisdom of the world,

I have essay'd, and in my mind there is

A power to make these subject to itself —

But they avail not: I have done men good,

And I have met with good even among men-

But this avail'd not: I have had my foes,

And none have baffled, many fallen before me — 20

But this avail'd not: - Good, or evil, life,	Voice of the second spirit.
Powers, passions, all I see in other beings,	Mont Blanc is the monarch of mountains;
Have been to me as rain unto the sands,	They crown'd him long ago 61
Since that all-nameless hour. I have no	On a throne of rocks, in a robe of clouds, dread,	With a diadem of snow.
And feel the curse to have no natural fear,	Around his waist are forests braced,
Nor fluttering throb, that beats with hopes	The Avalanche in his hand;
or wishes,	But ere it fall, that thundering ball
Or lurking love of something on the earth.	Must pause for my command.
Now to my task. —	The Glacier's cold and restless mass
Mysterious Agency !	Moves onward day by day;
Ye spirits of the unbounded Universe,	But I am he who bids it pass,
Whom I have sought in darkness and in	Or with its ice delay.
light! 30	I am the spirit of the place,
Ye, who do compass earth about, and dwell	Could make the mountain bow
In subtler essence ! ye, to whom the tops	And quiver to his cavern'd base —
Of mountains inaccessible are haunts,	And what with me wouldst Thou?
And earth's and ocean's caves familiar	Voice of the WHIPD SDIDIT
things —	Voice of the THIRD SPIRIT.
I call upon ye by the written charm	In the blue depth of the waters,
Which gives me power upon you — Rise ! appear ! [A pause	Where the wave hath no strife,
They come not yet Now by the voice of	Where the wind is a stranger,
him	And the sea-snake hath life,
Who is the first among you; by this sign,	Where the Mermaid is decking
Which makes you tremble; by the claims	Her green hair with shells;
of him	Like the storm on the surface
Who is undying, - Rise ! appear ! - Ap-	Came the sound of thy spells;
pear! [A pause.]	O'er my calm Hall of Coral
If it be so Spirits of earth and air, 41	The deep echo roll'd — To the Spirit of Ocean
Ye shall not thus elude me: by a power,	To the Spirit of Ocean Thy wishes unfold !
Deeper than all yet urged, a tyrant-spell,	Thy wishes union:
Which had its birthplace in a star con-	FOURTH SPIRIT
demn'd,	Where the slumbering earthquake
The burning wreck of a demolish'd world,	Lies pillow'd on fire,
A wandering hell in the eternal space;	And the lakes of bitumen 9
By the strong curse which is upon my	Rise boilingly higher;
soul,	Where the roots of the Andes
The thought which is within me and around	Strike deep in the earth, me,	As their summits to heaven
I do compel ye to my will. Appear !	Shoot soaringly forth;
[A star is seen at the darker end of the gallery ' it is sta-	I have quitted my birthplace,
nonary; and a voice is heard singing	Thy bidding to bide —
	Thy spell hath subdued me,
FIRST SPIRIT.	Thy will be my guide !
Mortal! to thy bidding bow'd, 50	FIFTH SPIRIT.
From my mansion in the cloud,
Which the breath of twilight builds,	I am the Rider of the wind, roc
And the summer's sunset gilds	The Stirrer of the storm; The hurricane I left behind
With the azure and vermilion	Is yet with lightning warm;
Which is mix'd for my pavilion; Though the quest may be forbidden
Though thy quest may be forbidden, On a star-beam I have ridden,	To speed to thee, o'er shore and sea I swept upon the blast:
To thine adjuration bow'd;	The fleet I met sail'd well, and yet
Mortal — be thy wish avow'd !	'T will sink ere night be past.
HEAT DAT DO DITY TITUT ATOM AT	T our oro meno po hose

100

SIXTH SPIRIT.

My dwelling is the shadow of the mght, Why doth thy magic torture me with light?

SEVENTH SPIRIT.

The star which rules thy destiny 110 Was ruled, ere earth began, by me: It was a world as fresh and fair As e'er revolved round sun in air; Its course was free and regular, Space bosom'd not a lovelier star. The hour arrived — and it became A wandering mass of shapeless flame, A pathless comet, and a curse, The menace of the universe; Still rolling on with innate force, 120 Without a sphere, without a course, A bright deformity on high, The monster of the upper sky ! And thou ! beneath its influence born ---Thou worm ! whom I obey and scorn -Forced by a power (which is not thine, And lent thee but to make thee mine) For this brief moment to descend, Where these weak spirits round thee bend And parley with a thing like thee -130 What wouldst thou, Child of Clay, with me?

The SEVEN SPIRITS.

- Earth, ocean, air, night, mountains, winds, thy star,
 - Are at thy beck and bidding, Child of Clay!
- Before thee at thy quest their spirits are What wouldst thou with us, son of mortals — say ?

Man. Forgetfulness -

- First Spirit Of what of whom and why?
- Man. Of that which is within me; read it there —
- Ye know it, and I cannot utter it.
- Spirit. We can but give thee that which we possess:
- Ask of us subjects, sovereignty, the power O'er earth, the whole, or portion, or a sign
- Which shall control the elements, whereof
- We are the dominators, each and all,
- These shall be thine
- Man. Oblivion, self-oblivion Can ye not wring from out the hidden realms
- Ye offer so profusely what I ask?

Spirit. It is not in our essence, in our skill;

- But thou mayst die.
 - Man. Will death bestow it on me? Spirit We are immortal, and do not forget;
- We are eternal; and to us the past 150
- Is as the future, present. Art thou answer'd?
 - Man. Ye mock me but the power which brought ye here
- Hath made you mine. Slaves, scoff not at my will !

The mind, the spirit, the Promethean spark, The lightning of my being, is as bright,

- Pervading, and far darting as your own,
- And shall not yield to yours, though coop'd in clay!
- Answer, or I will teach you what I am.
- Spurit. We answer as we answer'd; our reply

Is even in this own words

- Man. Why say ye so? Spirit. If, as thou say'st, thine essence be as ours,
- We have replied in telling thee, the thing
- Mortals call death hath nought to do with us.
 - Man. I then have call'd ye from your realms in vain;
- Ye cannot, or ye will not, aid me. Spirit.
- Spirit. Say; What we possess we offer; it is thine:
- Bethink ere thou dismiss us, ask again -
- Kingdom, and sway, and strength, and length of days ---
 - Man. Accursed ! what have I to do with days?
- They are too long already Hence begone ' 170
 - Spirit Yet pause: being here, our will would do thee service;

Bethink thee, is there then no other gift

- Which we can make not worthless in thine eyes?
 - Man. No, none: yet stay one moment, ere we part —

I would behold ye face to face. I hear

- Your voices, sweet and melancholy sounds, As music on the waters; and I see
- The steady aspect of a clear large star;

Det wething aspect of a creat large star,

- But nothing more. Approach me as ye are, Or one, or all, in your accustom'd forms. 180
- Spirit. We have no forms, beyond the elements

Of which we are the mind and principle: But choose a form — in that we will appear. Man. I have no choice; there is no form on earth
Hideous or beautiful to me. Let him, Who is most powerful of ye, take such aspect As unto him may seem most fitting — Come! Seventh Spirit (appearing in the shape of a beautiful female figure). Behold! Man. Oh God ! if it be thus, and thou Art not a madness and a mockery, I yet might be most happy. I will clasp thee, 190
And we again will be — [The figure vanishes My heart is crush'd ! [MANFRED falls senseless
(A Voice is heard in the Incantation which follows)
When the moon is on the wave, And the glow-worm in the grass, And the meteor on the grave,
And the wisp on the morass; When the falling stars are shooting, And the answer'd owls are hooting, And the silent leaves are still

And the allswer is only are should g, And the sheat leaves are still In the shadow of the hill, Shall my soul be upon thine, 2∞ With a power and with a sign.

Though thy slumber may be deep, Yet thy spirit shall not sleep; There are shades which will not vanish, There are thoughts thou canst not banish; By a power to thee unknown, Thou canst never be alone; Thou art wrapt as with a shroud, Thou art gather'd in a cloud; And for ever shalt thou dwell 210 In the spirit of this spell.

Though thou seest me not pass by, Thou shalt feel me with thme eye As a thing that, though unseen, Must be near thee, and hath been; And when in that secret dread Thou hast turn'd around thy head, Thou shalt marvel I am not As thy shadow on the spot, And the power which thou dost feel 2200 Shall be what thou must conceal.

And a magic voice and verse Hath baptized thee with a curse; And a spirit of the air Hath begirt thee with a snare; In the wind there is a voice Shall forbid thee to rejoice; And to thee shall Night deny All the quiet of her sky; And the day shall have a sun, 230 Which shall make thee wish it done.

From thy false tears I did distil An essence which hath strength to kill; From thy own heart I then did wring The black blood in its blackest spring; From thy own smile I snatch'd the snake, For there it coil'd as in a brake; From thy own lip I drew the charm Which gave all these their chiefest harm; In proving every poison known, 240 I found the strongest was thine own.

By thy cold breast and serpent smile, By thy unfathom'd gulfs of guile, By that most seeming virtuous eye, By thy shut soul's hypocrisy; By the perfection of thine art Which pass'd for human thine own heart; By thy delight in others' pain, And by thy brotherhood of Cain, I call upon thee ! and compel 250 Thyself to be thy proper Hell !

And on thy head I pour the vial Which doth devote thee to this trial; Nor to slumber, nor to die, Shall be in thy destiny; Though thy death shall still seem near To thy wish, but as a fear; Lo ' the spell now works around thee, And the clankless chain hath bound thee; O'er thy heart and brain together 260 Hath the word been pass'd — now wither !

Scene II

The Mountain of the Jungfrau — Time, Morning — MANFRED alone upon the Cliffs

Man The spirits I have raised abandon me,

The spells which I have studied baffle me, The remedy I reck'd of tortured me;

I lean no more on super-human aid,

It hath no power upon the past, and for

- The future, till the past be gulf'd in darkness,
- It is not of my search My mother Earth ' And thou fresh breaking Day, and you, ye Mountains, 269

Why are ye beautiful? I cannot love ye.

Even so

340

And thou, the bright eve of the universe. The viewless spirit of a lovely sound. That openest over all, and unto all A living voice, a breathing harmony. Art a delight - thou shin'st not on my A bodiless enjoyment - born and dving With the blest tone which made me ! heart. And you, ye crags, upon whose extreme Enter from below a CHAMOIS HUNTER. edge stand, and on the torrent's brink beneath Chamos Hunter. Behold the tall pines dwindled as to shrubs This way the chamois leapt. her nimble In dizzmess of distance; when a leap, feet A stir, a motion, even a breath, would bring Have baffled me; my gains to-day will My breast upon its rocky bosom's bed scarce To rest for ever - wherefore do I pause? Repay my break-neck travail. - What is I feel the impulse --- vet I do not plunge: here? I see the peril - yet do not recede; Who seems not of my trade, and yet hath And my brain reels - and yet my foot is reach'd firm. A height which none even of our moun-There is a power upon me which withholds. taineers. And makes it my fatality to live; Save our best hunters, may attain. his garb If it be life to wear within myself Is goodly, his mien manly, and his air This barrenness of spirit, and to be Proud as a freeborn peasant's, at this dis-My own soul's sepulchre, for I have ceased tance -To justify my deeds unto myself -I will approach him nearer. The last infirmity of evil. Ay, Man. (not perceiving the other). To be 200 Thou winged and cloud-cleaving minister, .thus – [An eagle passes Grev-hair'd with anguish, like these blasted Whose happy flight is highest into heaven, pines. Well may'st thou swoop so near me - I Wrecks of a single winter, barkless, branchshould be less A blighted trunk upon a cursèd root, Thy prey, and gorge thine eaglets; thou art gone Which but supplies a feeling to decay ---Where the eye cannot follow thee; but And to be thus, eternally but thus, thine Having been otherwise ! Now furrow'd Yet pierces downward, onward, or above, o'er With a pervading vision - Beautiful ! With wrmkles, plough'd by moments, not How beautiful is all this visible world ! by years How glorious in its action and itself ! And hours — all tortured into ages — hours Which I outlive ! - Ye toppling crags of But we, who name ourselves its sovereigns, ice ! we. Half dust, half deity, alike unfit Ye avalanches, whom a breath draws down To sink or soar, with our mix'd essence make In mountainous o'erwhelming, come and A conflict of its elements, and breathe The breath of degradation and of pride, crush me ! I hear ye momently above, beneath, Contending with low wants and lofty will, Crash with a frequent conflict; but ye pass, Till our mortality predominates, And only fall on things that still would And men are - what they name not to live: On the young flourishing forest, or the hut themselves, And trust not to each other. Hark ! the note, And hamlet of the harmless villager. [The Shepherd's pipe in the distance is heard C. Hun. The mists begin to rise from up the valley; The natural music of the mountain reed (For here the patriarchal days are not 310 I'll warn him to descend, or he may chance A pastoral fable) pipes in the liberal air, To lose at once his way and life together Mix'd with the sweet bells of the saunter-Man The mists boil up around the glaing herd; ciers; clouds My soul would drink those echoes. - Oh, Rise curling fast beneath me, white and that I were sulphury,

482

- Like foam from the roused ocean of deep Hell,
- Whose every wave breaks on a living shore
- Heap'd with the damn'd like pebbles. I am giddy.
 - C. Hun. I must approach him cautiously; if near,
- A sudden step will startle him, and he Seems tottering already
- Man. Mountains have fallen, Leaving a gap in the clouds, and with the shock
- Rocking their Alpine brethren; filling up
- The ripe green valleys with destruction's splinters;
- Damming the rivers with a sudden dash,
- Which crush'd the waters into mist and made
- Their fountains find another channel thus,
- Thus, in its old age, did Mount Rosenberg — 360 Why stood I not beneath it?
- C. Hun. Friend ! have a care,
- Your next step may be fatal ! for the love
- Of him who made you, stand not on that brink '
 - Man. (not hearing him). Such would have been for me a fitting tomb;
- My bones had then been quiet in their depth;
- They had not then been strewn upon the rocks
- For the wind's pastime as thus thus they shall be —
- In this one plunge. Farewell, ye opening heavens !

Look not upon me thus reproachfully —

- Ye were not meant for me Earth ! take these atoms ! 370
- [As MANFRED is in act to spring from the cliff, the CHAMOIS HUNTER seizes and relains him with a sudden grasp
 - C. Hun. Hold, madman! though aweary of thy life,
- Stain not our pure vales with thy guilty blood '
- Away with me I will not quit my hold.
- Man. I am most sick at heart nay, grasp me not —
- I am all feebleness the mountains whirl

Spinning around me — I grow 'blind -What art thou ?

- C. Hun I'll answer that anon. Away with me !
- The clouds grow thicker there now lean on me —
- Place your foot here here, take this staff, and clmg
- A moment to that shrub now give me your hand, 380
- And hold fast by my girdle softly well —

The Chalet will be gain'd within an hour.

- Come on, we'll quickly find a surer footing, And something like a pathway, which the torrent
- Hath wash'd since winter. Come, 't is bravely done;
- You should have been a hunter. Follow me.
- [As they descend the rocks with difficulty, the scene closes.

ACT II

SCENE I

A Cottage amongst the Bernese Alps.

MANFRED and the CHAMOIS HUNTER

- C. Hun. No, no, yet pause, thou must not yet go forth.
- Thy mind and body are alike unfit
- To trust each other, for some hours, at least; When thou art better, I will be thy guide —
- But whither ? Man. It imports not; I do know
- My route full well and need no further guidance.
 - C. Hun. Thy garb and gait bespeak thee of high lineage —
- One of the many chiefs, whose castled crags Look o'er the lower valleys — which of these
- May call thee lord? I only know their portals;
- My way of life leads me but rarely down
- To bask by the huge hearths of those old halls,
- Carousing with the vassals; but the paths,
- Which step from out our mountains to their doors,
- I know from childhood which of these is thine?

Man. No matter.

- C. Hun. Well, sir, pardon me the question,
- And be of better cheer. Come, taste my wine;

'T is of an ancient vintage; many a day It doth; but actions are our epochs: mine 'T has thaw'd my veins among our glaciers, Have made my days and nights imperish able. now Let it do thus for thine. Come, pledge me Endless, and all alike, as sands on the shore. fairly. Innumerable atoms; and one desert, Man. Away, away! there's blood upon Barren and cold, on which the wild waves the brim ! break. Will it then never - never sink in the earth? But nothing rests, save carcasses and wrecks, C Hun. What dost thou mean? thy Rocks, and the salt-surf weeds of bittersenses wander from thee. ness. Man. I say 't is blood - my blood ! the C. Hun. Alas! he's mad - but vet I pure warm stream must not leave him. Which ran in the veins of my fathers, and in Man. I would I were, for then the things ours I see When we were in our youth, and had one Would be but a distemper'd dream. heart. C Hun What is it And loved each other as we should not love, That thou dost see, or think thou look'st And this was shed: but still it rises up, upon ? Colouring the clouds, that shut me out from Man Myself, and thee — a peasant of heaven, the Alps. Where thou art not — and I shall never be Thy humble virtues, hospitable home, C. Hun. Man of strange words, and some And spirit patient, pious, proud and free; half-maddening sin, Thy self-respect, grafted on innocent Which makes thee people vacancy, whate'er thoughts; Thy days of health, and nights of sleep; Thy dread and sufferance be, there's comfort yet thy toils, The aid of holy men, and heavenly pa-By danger dignified, yet guiltless; hopes Of cheerful old age and a quiet grave, tience -Man. Patience and patience ! Hence ---With cross and garland over its green turf, that word was made And thy grandchildren's love for epitaph; For brutes of burthen, not for birds of prey; This do I see — and then I look within — It matters not - my soul was scorch'd al-Preach it to mortals of a dust like thme, --I am not of thine order. ready! C. Hun. Thanks to heaven ! C. Hun. And wouldst thou then exchange thy lot for mine? I would not be of thine for the free fame Man. No, friend ! I would not wrong Of William Tell; but whatsoe'er thine ill, It must be borne, and these wild starts are thee nor exchange useless My lot with living being : I can bear — Man. Do I not bear it? - Look on me However wretchedly, 't is still to bear -— I live In life what others could not brook to C. Hun This is convulsion, and no dream, healthful life. But perish in their slumber. Man. I tell thee, man! I have lived And with this ---C. Hun. ĥ. This cautious feeling for another's pain, 80 many years, Many long years, but they are nothing now Canst thou be black with evil? - say not To those which I must number: ages -80. Can one of gentle thoughts have wreak'd ages -Space and eternity - and consciousness, revenge With the fierce thirst of death - and still Upon his enemies ? unslaked ! Man. Oh! no, no, no! C. Hun Why, on thy brow the seal of My injuries came down on those who loved middle age me-Hath scarce been set; I am thine elder far. On those whom I best loved: I never quell'd Man. Think'st thou existence doth de-An enemy, save in my just defence --pend on time? But my embrace was fatal. 51

C. Hun. Heaven give thee rest ! And penitence restore thee to thyself; My prayers shall be for thee.

Man. I need them not, But can endure thy pity. I depart — 90 'T is time — farewell ! — Here's gold, and thanks for thee;

No words — it is thy due. Follow me not; I know my path — the mountain peril's past: And once again, I charge thee, follow not ! [Exit MANFRED.

SCENE II

A lower Valley in the Alps - A Cataract.

Enter MANFRED

It is not noon; the sunbow's rays still arch The torrent with the many hues of heaven, And roll the sheeted silver's waving column O'er the crag's headlong perpendicular, And fing its lines of foaming light along, 99 And to and fro, like the pale courser's tail, The Giant steed, to be bestrode by Death, As told in the Apocalypse. No eyes But mine now drink this sight of loveliness; I should be sole in this sweet solitude,

And with the Spirit of the place divide

The homage of these waters. - I will call her.

[MANFRED takes some of the water into the paim of has hand, and fings it in the air, muttering the adjuration After a pause, the WITCH OF THE ALPS rises beneath the arch of the surbow of the torrent

Beautiful Spirit ! with thy hair of light,

And dazzling eyes of glory, in whose form

- The charms of earth's least mortal daughters grow
- To an unearthly stature, in an essence 110 Of purer elements; while the hues of youth (Carnation'd like a sleeping infant's cheek Rock'd by the beating of her mother's
- heart, Or the rose tints, which summer's twilight
- leaves
- Upon the lofty glacier's virgin snow,
- The blush of earth embracing with her heaven)

Tinge thy celestial aspect, and make tame

- The beauties of the sunbow which bends o'er thee.
- Beautiful Spirit ' in thy calm clear brow,
- Wherein is glass'd serenity of soul, 120
- Which of itself shows immortality,
- I read that thou wilt pardon to a Son
- Of Earth, whom the abstruser powers permit

- At times to commune with them if that he
- Avail him of his spells to call thee thus, And gaze on thee a moment.
- Witch. Son of Earth ! I know thee, and the powers which give thee power;
- I know thee for a man of many thoughts,
- And deeds of good and 1ll, extreme in both,
- Fatal and fated in thy sufferings.
- I have expected this what wouldst thou with me?
 - Man. To look upon thy beauty nothing further.
- The face of the earth hath madden'd me, and I

Take refuge in her mysteries, and pierce

- To the abodes of those who govern her -
- But they can nothing aid me. I have sought From them what they could not bestow, and now
- I search no further.
- Witch. What could be the quest Which is not in the power of the most powerful,

The rulers of the invisible ?

- Man. A boon; 140 But why should I repeat it? 't were in vain. Wutch. I know not that; let thy lips utter
 - it Man. Well, though it torture me, 't is
 - but the same;
- My pang shall find a voice From my youth upwards
- My spirit walk'd not with the souls of men, Nor look'd upon the earth with human eves:
- The thirst of their ambition was not mine, The aim of their existence was not mine;
- My joys, my griefs, my passions, and my powers,
- Made me a stranger; though I wore the form, 150
- I had no sympathy with breathing flesh,
- Nor midst the creatures of clay that girded me
- Was there but one who but of her anon. I said, with men, and with the thoughts of men,
- I held but slight communion; but instead, My joy was in the Wilderness, to breathe
- The difficult air of the iced mountain's top,
- Where the birds dare not build, nor insect's wing
- Flit o'er the herbless granite; or to plunge

Into the torrent, and to roll along 160 On the swift whirl of the new breaking her eyes, wave Of river-stream, or ocean, in their flow. tone In these my early strength exulted; or To follow through the night the moving mme; moon, The stars and their development; or catch The dazzling lightnings till my eyes grew ings, dim; Or to look, list'ning, on the scatter'd leaves, While Autumn winds were at their evening mine. song These were my pastimes, and to be alone: not: For if the beings, of whom I was one, - 170 Hating to be so, - cross'd me in my path, I felt myself degraded back to them, And was all clay again And then I dived, her own-I loved her, and destroy'd her! death. Witch which broke her heart: up dust, Conclusions most forbidden Then I pass'd Blood, but not hers - and yet her blood The nights of years in sciences, untaught was shed ----Save in the old time; and with time and I saw, and could not stanch it. toil, Witch.And terrible ordeal, and such penance 180 As in itself hath power upon the air And spirits that do compass air and earth, above, Space, and the peopled infinite, I made Mine eyes familiar with Eternity, Such as, before me, did the Magi, and shrink'st back He who from out their fountain dwellings Man. Daughter of Air! I tell thee, raised Eros and Anteros, at Gadara, since that hour -As I do thee; — and with my knowledge grew sleep, The thirst of knowledge, and the power and me! joy Of this most bright intelligence, until - 190 Witch. Proceed Man. Oh! I but thus prolong'd gnash'd my words, Boasting these idle attributes, because As I approach the core of my heart's pray'd grief ---But to my task. I have not named to thee I have affronted death, but in the war Father or mother, mistress, friend, or being, Of elements the waters shrunk from me, 230 With whom I wore the chain of human ties; cold hand If I had such, they seem'd not such to me — Yet there was one -Witch. Spare not thyself — proceed. break.

486

- Man. She was like me in lineaments —
- Her hair, her features, all, to the very
- Even of her voice, they said were like to
- But sotten'd all, and temper'd into beauty; She had the same lone thoughts and wander-
- The quest of hidden knowledge, and a mind To comprehend the universe: nor these
- Alone, but with them gentler powers than
- Pity, and smiles, and tears which I had
- And tenderness but that I had for her;
- Humility and that I never had.
- Her faults were mine her virtues were 210
- With thy hand? Man. Not with my hand, but heart --
- It gazed on mine, and wither'd I have shed

- And for this -
- A being of the race thru dost despise,
- The order which thme own would rise

Mingling with us and ours, thou dost forego The gifts of our great knowledge, and

- To recreant mortality Away ! 220
- But words are breath look n me in my
- Or watch my watchings Come and sit by
- My solutude is solutude no more,
- But peopled with the Furies;-I have
- My teeth in darkness till returning morn,
- Then cursed myself till sunset; I have
- For madness as a blessing 't is denied me.
- And fatal things pass'd harmless the
- Of an all-pitiless demon held me back,
- Back by a single hair, which would not

- In my lone wanderings, to the caves of

Searching its cause in its effect; and drew From wither'd bones, and skulls, and heap'd

In fantasy, imagination, all The affluence of my soul — which one day was A Crossus in creation — I plunged deep, But, like an ebbing wave, it dash'd me back Into the gulf of my unfathom'd thought. I plunged amidst mankind — Forgetfulness I sought in all, save where 't is to be found, And that I have to learn — my sciences, 241 My loug pursued and superhuman art, Is mortal here; I dwell m my despair — And live — and live for ever. Witch . It may be That I can aid thee. Man . To do this thy power Must wake the dead, or lay me low with them Do so — in any shape — in any hour — With any torture — so it be the last. Witch . That is not in my province; but if thou Wilt swear obedience to my will, and do 250 My bidding, it may help thee to thy wishes. Man . I will not swear — Obey ! and whom ? the spirits Whose presence I command, and be the slave Of those who served me — Never ! Witch . Is this all ? Hast thou no gentler answer ? — Yet be- think thee, And pause ere thou rejectest.	And ask them what it is we dread to be: The sternest answer can but be the Grave, And that is nothing; —if they answer not — The burned Prophet answered to the Hag Of Endor; and the Spartan Monarch drew From the Byzantine maid's unsleeping spirit An answer and his destiny — he slew That which he loved, unknowing what he slew, And died unpardon'd — though he call'd in aid 280 The Phyxian Jove, and in Phigalia roused The Arcadian Evocators to compel The indignant shadow to depose her wrath, Or fix her term of vengeance — she replied In words of dubious import, but fulfill'd. If I had never lived, that which I love Had still been living; had I never loved, That which I love would still be beauti- ful — Happy and giving happiness. What is she ? What is she now ?— a sufferer for my sins — 290 A thing I dare not think upon — or nothing. Within few hours I shall not call in vain — Yet in this hour I never shrunk to gaze On spirit, good or evil — now I tremble, And feel a strange cold thaw upon my heart. But I can act even what I most abhor, And champion human fears. — The night
$\begin{array}{ccc} Man. & \mathbf{I} \text{ have said it.} \\ Witch & \mathrm{Enough} ! - \widehat{\mathbf{I}} \text{ may retire then} - \end{array}$	approaches. [Ext.
say! Man. Retire! [The WITCH disappears	SCENE III
Man. (alone). We are the fools of time	The Summi of the Jungfrau Mountain.
and terror: Days Steal on us and steal from us; yet we live,	Enter FIRST DESTINY The moon is rising broad, and round, and
Loathing our life, and dreading still to die. In all the days of this detested yoke — 261 This vital weight upon the struggling heart,	bright; And here on snows, where never human foot
Which sinks with sorrow, or beats quick with pain,	Of common mortal trod, we nightly treat, And leave no traces; o'er the savage sea,
Or joy that ends in agony or faintness — In all the days of past and future, for In life there is no present, we can number How few, how less than few, wherein the soul	The glassy ocean of the mountain ice, We skim its rugged breakers, which put on The aspect of a tumbling tempest's foam, Frozen in a moment — a dead whirlpool's image.
Forbears to pant for death, and yet draws back	And this most steep fantastic pinnacle, The fretwork of some earthquake — where
As from a stream in winter, though the chill	the clouds Pause to repose themselves in passing by —
Be but a moment's. I have one resource 270 Still in my science — I can call the dead,	Is sacred to our revels, or our vigils. 310 Here do I wait my sisters, on our way

To the Hall of Arimanes, for to-night

Is our great festival --- 't is strange they come not.

A Voice without, singing.

The Captive Usurper,

Hurl'd down from the throne.

Lay buried in torpor,

Forgotten and lone;

I broke through his slumbers. I shiver'd his chain.

I leagued him with numbers -320 He's Tyrant again !

With the blood of a million he 'll answer my care,

With a nation's destruction - his flight and despair.

Second Voice, without.

The ship sail'd on, the ship sail'd fast,

But I left not a sail, and I left not a mast;

There is not a plank of the hull or the deck,

And there is not a wretch to lament o'er his wreck:

- Save one, whom I held, as he swam, by the hair.
- And he was a subject well worthy my care;

A traitor on land, and a pirate at sea - 330 But I saved him to wreak further havoc for me!

FIRST DESTINY, answering.

The city lies sleeping; The morn, to deplore it, May dawn on it weeping: Sullenly, slowly, The black plague flew o'er it, -Thousands lie lowly; Tens of thousands shall perish -The living shall fly from The sick they should cherish; But nothing can vanquish The touch that they die from. Sorrow and anguish, And evil and dread, Envelope a nation -The blest are the dead, Who see not the sight Of their own desolation: This work of a night — This wreck of a realm — this deed of my doing -

340

For ages I've done, and shall still be renewing !

Enter the Second and THIRD DESTINIES.

The Three.

Our hands contain the hearts of men.

Our footsteps are their graves; We only give to take again

The spirits of our slaves !

First Des. Welcome ! Where's Nemesis?

Second Des. At some great work;

But what I know not, for my hands were full.

Third Des. Behold she cometh.

Enter NEWESIS

Say, where hast thou been ? First Des. My sisters and thyself are slow to-night

Nem. I was detain'd repairing shatter'd thrones. 360

Marrying fools, restoring dynasties,

Avenging men upon their enemies,

And making them repent their own revenge;

Goading the wise to madness; from the dull Shaping out oracles to rule the world

Afresh, for they were waxing out of date.

And mortals dared to ponder for themselves.

To weigh kings in the balance, and to speak Of freedom, the forbidden fruit. — Away !

We have outstay'd the hour - mount we our clouds ! Exeunt.

SCENE IV

The Hall of Asimanes - Asimanes on his Throne, a Globe of Fire, surrounded by the Spirits

Hymn of the SPIRITS.

Hail to our Master ! - Prince of Earth and Air !

Who walks the clouds and waters - in his hand

The sceptre of the elements which tear

Themselves to chaos at his high command !

He breatheth — and a tempest shakes the sea;

He speaketh — and the clouds reply in thunder;

He gazeth — from his glance the sunbeams flee;

He moveth — earthquakes rend the world asunder.

Beneath his footsteps the volcanoes rise;

His shadow is the Pestilence; his path 380

The comets herald through the crackling skies;

And planets turn to ashes at his wrath.

- To him War offers daily sacrifice;
 - To him Death pays his tribute; Life is his,

With all its infinite of agonies — And his the spirit of whatever is !

Enter the DESTI S and NEMESIS

First Des. Glory to Arimanes! on the earth

His power increaseth - both my sisters did

His bidding, nor did I neglect my duty ! Second Des. Glory to Arimanes ! we who bow

- The necks of men, bow down before his throne !
- Third Des. Glory to Arimanes ! we await His nod !

Nem. Sovereign of Sovereigns ! we are thine,

And all that liveth, more or less, is ours,

And most things wholly so; still to increase

Our power, increasing thine, demands our care,

And we are vigilant. — Thy late commands Have been fulfill'd to the utmost.

Enter MANFRED

- A Spirit. What is here? A mortal! — Thou most rash and fatal
- wretch, 39 Bow down and worship!

Second Spirit. I do know the man — A Magian of great power and fearful skill !

- Third Spirit. Bow down and worship, slave ! What, know'st thou not
- Thine and our Sovereign? Tremble, and obey !
 - All the Spirits. Prostrate thyself, and thy condemnèd clay,
- Child of the Earth ! or dread the worst. Man. I know it;

And yet ye see I kneel not

- Fourth Spirit. 'T will be taught thee. Man 'T is taught already; — many a night on the earth,
- On the bare ground, have I bow'd down my face,
- And strew'd my head with ashes; I have known
- The fulness of humiliation, for
- I sunk before my vam despair, and knelt

To my own desolation.

- Fifth Spirit. Dost thou dare Refuse to Arimanes on his throne
- What the whole earth accords, beholding not
- The terror of his Glory? Crouch ! I say. Man. Bid hum bow down to that which is above him,
- The overruling Infinite, the Maker
- Who made him not for worship let him kneel,
- And we will kneel together.
- The Spirits. Crush the worm ! Tear him in pieces ! —
- First Des. Hence ! Avaunt ! he 's mine. 420
- Prince of the Powers invisible! This man Is of no common order, as his port

And presence here denote. His sufferings Have been of an immortal nature, like

Our own; his knowledge and his powers and will,

As far as is compatible with clay,

Which clogs the ethereal essence, have been such

As clay hath seldom borne; his aspiratio

Have been beyond the dwellers of the earth, And they have only taught him what we know — 436

That knowledge is not happiness, and science

But an exchange of ignorance for that

Which is another kind of ignorance.

This is not all; the passions, attributes

- Of earth and heaven, from which no power, nor being,
- Nor breath from the worm upwards is exempt,
- Have pierced his heart; and in their consequence
- Made him a thing, which I, who pity not,
- Yet pardon those who pity. He is mine,

And thine, it may be; — be it so, or not, 440 No other Spirit in this region hath

- A soul like his or power upon his soul. Nem. What doth he here then?
 - First Des. Let him answer that. Man. Ye know what I have known; and without power
- I could not be amongst ye but there are
- Powers deeper still beyond I come in quest
- Of such, to answer unto what I seek.

Nem. What wouldst thou?

410

Man. Thou canst not reply to me. Call up the dead — my question is for them.

Nam Croot Ariman 1.12 11 11
Nem. Great Arimanes, doth thy will avouch	To the other powers. Mortal ! thy quest is
The wishes of this mortal?	vain, And we are baffled also.
Ari. Yea.	Man. Hear me, hear me
Nem. Whom wouldst thou	Astarte ! my beloved ! speak to me:
Uncharnel?	1 have so much endured, so much endure -
Man. One without a tomb — call up	Look on me! the grave hath not changed
Astarte.	thee more
NEMESIS.	Than I am changed for thee. Thou lovedst
	me 490
Shadow! or Spirit! Whateven they ant	Too much, as I loved thee: we were not
Whatever thou art, Which still doth mherit	made
The whole or a part	To torture thus each other, though it were The deadliest sin to love as we have loved.
Of the form of thy birth,	Say that thou loath'st me not, that I do bear
Of the mould of thy clay	This punishment for both, that thou wilt be
Which return'd to the earth, - 460	One of the blessed, and that I shall die;
Re-appear to the day !	For hitherto all hateful things conspire
Bear what thou borest,	To bind me in existence — in a life
The heart and the form,	Which makes me shrink from immortality -
And the aspect thou worest	A future like the past. I cannot rest 500
Redeem from the worm. Appear ! — Appear ! — Appear !	I know not what I ask, nor what I seek:
Who sent thee there requires thee here !	I feel but what thou art — and what I am;
the some error store reductor mos more .	And I would hear yet once before I perish The voice which was my music — Speak to
[The phantom of ASTARTE rises and stands in the midst	me!
Man. Can this be death? there's bloom	For I have call'd on thee in the still night, upon her cheek;	Startled the slumbering birds from the
But now I see it is no living hue,	hush'd boughs,
But a strange hectic — like the unnatural	And woke the mountain wolves, and made red 470	the caves
Which Autumn plants upon the perish'd	Acquainted with thy vainly echo'd name, leaf. It is the same! Oh, God! that I should	Which answer'd me — many things an- swer'd me —
dread	Spirits and men — but thou wert silent all.
To look upon the same - Astarte ! - No,	Yet speak to me! I have outwatch'd the
I cannot speak to her - but bid her speak -	stars, 511
Forgive me or condemn me.	And gazed o'er heaven in vain in search of thee.
NEMESIS.	Speak to me! I have wander'd o'er the earth,
By the power which hath broken	And never found thy likeness - Speak to me!
The grave which enthrall'd thee,	Look on the fiends around — they feel for
Speak to him who hath spoken, Or those who have call'd thee!	I fear them not, and feel for thee alone.
Of those who have call a thee:	Speak to me ! though it be in wrath; - but
Man. She is silent,	say
And in that silence I am more than an-	I reck not what - but let me hear thee
swer'd. 480	once —
Nem. My power extends no further.	This once — once more !
Prince of air !	Phantom of Astarte Manfred !
It rests with thee alone — command her	Man. Say on, say on —
Voice	1 live but in the sound — it is thy voice! Phan. Manfred! To-morrow ends thine
Arı. Spirit — obey this sceptre ! Nem. Silent still !	earthly ills.
She is not of our order, but belongs	Farewell
, 0

Man. Yet one word more — am I for- given ?	To be of all our vanitues the motliest, 10 The merest word that ever fool'd the ear
Phan. Farewell !	From out the schoolman's jargon, I should
Man Say, shall we meet agam?	deem
Phan. Farewell!	The golden secret, the sought 'Kalon,'
Man. One word for mercy! Say, thou	found,
lovest me.	And seated in my soul. It will not last,
Phan. Manfred !	But it is well to have known it, though but
[The Spirit of ASTARTE disappears	once:
Nem. She's gone, and will not be	It hath enlarged my thoughts with a new recall'd;	sense,
Her words will be fulfill'd. Return to the	And I within my tablets would note down That there is such a feeling. Who is earth.	there?
A Spirit. He is convulsed — This is to be a mortal	Re-enter HERMAN
And seek the things beyond mortality.
Another Spirit. Yet, see, he mastereth	Her. My lord, the abbot of St. Maurice himself, and makes	craves
His torture tributary to his will. 530	To greet your presence.
Had he been one of us, he would have	Enter the Abbot of St MAURICE made	Abbot. Peace be with Count
An awful spirit.	Manfred! 20
Nem. Hast thou further question	Man. Thanks, holy father ! welcome to
Of our great sovereign, or his worshippers?	these walls;
Man. None.	Thy presence honours them, and blesseth
Nem. Then for a time farewell.	those
Man. We meet then ! Where? On the	Who dwell within them. Abbot Would it were so, Count !
earth? —	But I would fam confer with thee alone.
Even as thou wilt. and for the grace ac- corded	Man Herman, retire. — What would my
I now depart a debtor. Fare ye well!	reverend guest?
[Ext MANFRED.	Abbot. Thus, without prelude - Age and
(Scene closes.)	zeal, my office,
	And good intent, must plead my privilege;
ACT III	Our near, though not acquainted neighbour-
ACT III	hood,
SCENE I	May also be my herald. Rumours strange,
A Hall in the Castle of Manfred.	And of unholy nature, are abroad, 30
MANFRED and HERMAN	And busy with thy name; a noble name
	For centuries may he who bears it now
Man. What is the hour? Her. It, wants but one till sunset,	Man. Proceed, I listen.
And promises a lovely twilight.	Abbot. 'T is said thou holdest converse
Man. Say,	with the things
Are all things so disposed of in the tower	Which are forbidden to the search of man;
As I directed ?	That with the dwellers of the dark abodes,
Her. All, my lord, are ready:	The many evil and unheavenly spirits
Here is the key and casket.	Which walk the valley of the shade of
Man. It is well:	death,
Chou may'st retire [Exit HERMAN	Thou communest. I know that with man-
Man. (alone). There is a calm upon	kind,
me	Thy fellows in creation, thou dost rarely 40
Inexplicable stillness! which till now	Exchange thy thoughts, and that thy soli
Did not belong to what I knew of life.	tude Ts as an anchorite's were it but holy
If that I did not know philosophy	Is as an anchorite's, were it but holy.

Man. And what are they who do avouch	With calm assurance to that blessed place
these things?	Which all who seek may win, whatever be
Abbot. My pious brethren, the scared	Their earthly errors, so they be atoned:
peasantry,	And the commencement of atonement is
Even thy own vassals, who do look on thee	The sense of its necessity — Say on —
With most unquiet eyes. Thy life 's in peril.	And all our church can teach thee shall be
Man. Take it.	taught;
Abbot. I come to save, and not	And all we can absolve thee shall be par- don'd destroy. I would not pry into thy secret soul;	Man. When Rome's sixth emperor was
But if these things be sooth, there still is	near his last,
time	The victim of a self-inflicted wound,
For penitence and pity: reconcile thee 50	To shun the torments of a public death 90
With the true church, and through the	From senates once his slaves, a certain sol-
church to heaven.	dier,
Man. I hear thee. This is my reply:	With show of loyal pity, would have whate'er	stanch'd
I may have been, or am, doth rest between	The gushing throat with his officious robe;
Heaven and myself; I shall not choose a	The dying Roman thrust him back, and mortal	said —
To be my mediator. Have I sinn'd	Some empire still in his expiring glance —
Against your ordinances ? prove and punish!	'It is too late, is this fidelity?'
Abbot. My son ! I did not speak of punish-	Abbot. And what of this?
ment, But penitence and pardon; with thyself	Man. I answer with the Roman, 'It is too late !'
The choice of such remains — and for the	Abbot. It never can be so,
last,	To reconcile thyself with thy own soul,
Our institutions and our strong belief 60	And thy own soul with heaven. Hast thou
Have given me power to smooth the path	no hope?
from sin	'T is strange - even those who do despair
To higher hope and better thoughts; the first	above,
I leave to heaven, - 'Vengeance is mine	Yet shape themselves some fantasy on earth,
alone!'	To which frail twig they cling like drowning
So saith the Lord, and with all humbleness	men.
His servant echoes back the awful word.	Man. Ay — father ! I have had those
Man. Old man! there is no power in holy	earthly visions men,	And noble aspirations in my youth,
Nor charm in prayer, nor purifying form	To make my own the mind of other men,
Of penitence, nor outward look, nor fast, Nor agony, nor, greater than all these,	The enlightener of nations; and to rise I knew not whither — it might be to fall;
The innate tortures of that deep despair, 70	But fall, even as the mountain-cataract,
Which is remorse without the fear of hell	Which, having leapt from its more dazzling
But all in all sufficient to itself	height,
Would make a hell of heaven, - can exor-	Even in the foaming strength of its abyss
cise	(Which casts up misty columns that become
From out the unbounded spirit the quick	Clouds raining from the re-ascended skies)
sense	Lies low but mighty still. — But this is past,
Of its own sins, wrongs, sufferance, and re-	My thoughts mistook themselves.
venge	Abbot And wherefore so?
Upon itself; there is no future pang	Man. I could not tame my nature down:
Can deal that justice on the self-condemn'd	for he Must serve who fain would sway and
He deals on his own soul. Abbot. All this is well;	Must serve who fain would sway — and soothe, and sue,
For this will pass away, and be succeeded	And watch all time, and pry into all place,
By an auspicious hope, which shall look up so	And be a living he, who would become

 A mighty thing amongst the mean, and such race The mass are; I disdain'd to mingle with A herd, though to be leader — and of wolves. The lion is alone, and so am I. Abbot. And why not live and act with other men? Man. Because my nature was averse from life; And yet not cruel; for I would not make, But find a desolation. Lake the wind, 	A goodly frame of glorious elements, Had they been wisely mingled; as it is, It is an awful chaos — light and darkness, And mind and dust, and passions and pure thoughts, Mix'd, and contending without end or order, All dormant or destructive. He will perish, And yet he must not; I will try once more, For such are worth redemption; and my duty Is to dare all things for a righteous end. 170 I'll follow him — but cautiously, though surely. [Exit ABBOT
The red-hot breath of the most lone Simoom, Which dwells but in the desert and sweeps	Scene II
o'er	Another Chamber.
The barren sands which bear no shrubs to	MANFRED and HERMAN
And revels o'er their wild and arid waves,	Her. My lord, you bade me wait on you
And seeketh not, so that it is not sought, But being met is deadly, — such hath been The course of my existence; but there came Things in my path which are no more. Abbot. Alas ! I 'gin to fear that thou art past all aid From me and from my calling; yet so young, I still would —	at sunset He sinks beyond the mountain. Man. Doth he so ? I will look on him. [MANFEED advances to the Window of the Hall Glorious Orb! the idol Of early nature, and the vigorous race Of undiseased mankind, the giant sons
Man. Look on me ! there is an order Of mortals on the earth, who do become	Of the embrace of angels with a sex More beautiful than they, which did draw
 Old in their youth, and die ere middle age, Without the violence of warhke death; 141 Some perishing of pleasure, some of study, Some worn with toil, some of mere weariness, Some of disease, and some insanity, And some of wither'd or of broken hearts; For this last is a malady which slays More than are number'd in the lists of Fate, Taking all shapes and bearing many names. Look upon me ! for even of all these things Have I partaken; and of all these things, 150 One were enough; then wonder not that I Am what I am, but that I ever was, Or having been, that I am still on earth. Abbot. Yet, hear me still — Man. Old man ! I do respect Think me not churlish; I would spare thyself, 	down The erring spirits who can ne'er return; — Most glorious orb! that wert a worship, ere iso The mystery of thy making was reveal'd! Thou earliest minister of the Almighty, Which gladden'd, on their mountain tops, the hearts Of the Chaldean shepherds, till they pour'd Themselves in orisons ' Thou material God ! And representative of the Unknown, Who chose thee for his shadow! Thou chief star ! Centre of many stars ! which mak'st our earth Endurable, and temperest the hues And hearts of all who walk within thy rays ! Sire of the seasons ' Monarch of the climes, And those who dwell in them ' for near or far, Our inborn spirits have a tint of thee,
Far more than me, in shunning at this time All further colloquy; and so — farewell. [Ext MANFRED]	Even as our outward aspects; — thou dost rise, And shine, and set in glory. Fare thee well !
Abbot. This should have been a noble creature. he	I ne'er shall see thee more. As my first glance Of love and wonder was for thee, then take

My latest look thou wilt not beam on one To whom the gifts of life and warmth have been

Of a more fatal nature. He is gone; 200 I follow [Exit MANFRED.

SCENE III

The Mountains — The Casile of Manfred at some distance — A Terrace before a Tower. — Time, Twilight

HERMAN, MANUEL, and other Dependants of MANFRED

Her. 'T is strange enough; night after night, for years,

He hath pursued long vigils in this tower, Without a witness I have been within it, — So have we all been oft-times; but from it, Or its contents, it were impossible

To draw conclusions absolute of aught

- His studies tend to. To be sure, there is One chamber where none enter: I would give
- The fee of what I have to come these three years, 210

To pore upon its mysteries.

Manuel 'T were dangerous; Content thyself with what thou know'st already.

- Her. Ah, Manuel ! thou art elderly and wise.
- And couldst say much; thou hast dwelt within the castle —

How many years is 't?

Manuel. Ere Count Manfred's birth,

- I served his father, whom he nought resembles
 - Her. There be more sons in like predicament.

But wherein do they differ ?

Manuel. I speak not

Of features or of form, but mind and habits;

Count Sigismund was proud, but gay and free — 220

A warrior and a reveller; he dwelt not

With books and solitude, nor made the night

A gloomy vigil, but a festal time,

Merrier than day; he did not walk the rocks

And forests like a wolf, nor turn aside

From men and their delights

Her. Beshrew the hour, But those were jocund times! I would that such Would visit the old walls again; they look As if they had forgotten them.

Manuel. These walls Must change their chieftam first. Oh! I have seen

Some strange things in them, Herman

Her Come, be friendly; Relate me some to while away our watch:

I 've heard thee darkly speak of an event

Which happen'd hereabouts, by this same tower.

Manuel. That was a night indeed ! I do remember

"T was twilight, as it may be now, and such Another evening; yon red cloud, which rests On Eigher's pinnacle, so rested then. —

So like that it might be the same; the wind Was faint and gusty, and the mountain snows 240

Began to ghtter with the climbing moon. Count Manfred was, as now, within his tower.—

How occupied, we knew not, but with him The sole companion of his wanderings

And watchings — her, whom of all earthly things

That lived, the only thing he seem'd to love, ---

As he, indeed, by blood was bound to do,

The Lady Astarte, his -

Hush! who comes here?

Enter the Abbot

Abbot. Where is your master?

Her. Yonder in the tower. Abbot. I must speak with him.

Manuel. 'T is impossible; 250 He is most private, and must not be thus Intruded on.

Abbot. Upon myself I take

The forfert of my fault, if fault there be — But I must see him

Her. Thou hast seen him once This eye already Abbot. Herman ! I command thee, Knock, and apprize the Count of my approach

Her. We dare not.

Abbot. Then it seems I must be herald Of my own purpose.

Manuel. Reverend father, stop — I pray you pause.

Abbot Why so?

Manuel. But step this way, And I will tell you further. [Excunt.

SCENE IV

Interior of the Tower

MANFRED alone

- The stars are forth, the moon above the tops 261
- Of the snow-shining mountains. Beautiful !
- I linger yet with Nature, for the night
- Hath been to me a more familiar face
- Than that of man; and in her starry shade
- Of dim and solitary loveliness,
- I learn'd the language of another world.
- I do remember me, that in my youth, When I was wandering, — upon such a
- night
- I stood within the Coliscum's wall, 270 Midst the chief relics of almighty Rome.
- The trees which grew along the broken arches
- Waved dark in the blue midnight, and the stars
- Shone through the rents of ruin; from afar The watch-dog bay'd beyond the Tiber; and
- More near from out the Cæsars' palace came
- The owl's long cry, and, interruptedly,

Of distant sentinels the fitful song

- Begun and died upon the gentle wind.
- Some cypresses beyond the time-worn breach 280
- Appear'd to skirt the horizon, yet they stood Within a bowshot. Where the Cæsars dwelt, And dwell the tuneless birds of night,
- amidst A grove which springs through levell'd battlements
- And twines its roots with the imperial hearths,
- Ivy usurps the laurel's place of growth; But the gladuators' bloody Circus stands,
- A noble wreck in ruinous perfection !
- While Cæsar's chambers and the Augustan halls
- Grovel on earth in indistinct decay.
- And thou didst shine, thou rolling moon, upon
- All this, and cast a wide and tender light, Which soften'd down the hoar austerity
- Of rugged desolation, and fill'd up,
- As 't were anew, the gaps of centuries;
- Leaving that beautiful which still was so,
- And making that which was not, till the place
- Became religion, and the heart ran o'er With silent worship of the great of old, —

The dead, but sceptred sovereigns, who still rule 300

- Our spirits from their urns. —
- 'T was such a night ! 'T is strange that I recall it at this time;
- But I have found our thoughts take wildest flight

Even at the moment when they should array Themselves in pensive order.

Enter the ABBOT

- Abbot.
- I crave a second grace for this approach; But yet let not my humble zeal offend
- By its abruptness all it hath of ill
- Recoils on me; its good in the effect
- May light upon your head could I say heart — 310
- Could I touch that, with words or prayers, I should
- Recall a noble spirit which hath wander'd But is not yet all lost.
- Man. Thou know'st me not; My days are number'd, and my deeds re-
- corded:
- Retire, or 't will be dangerous Away ! Abbot. Thou dost not mean to menace me?
 - Man. Not I;
- I simply tell thee peril is at hand,
- And would preserve thee
- Abbot. What dost thou mean ? Man. Look there !
- What dost thou see?
- Abbot. Nothing.
 - Man. Look there, I say,
- And steadfastly; now tell me what thou seest 320
 - Abbot. That which should shake mebut I fear it not
- I see a dusk and awful figure rise,
- Like an infernal god, from out the earth;
- His face wrapt in a mantle, and his form
- Robed as with angry clouds: he stands between
- Thyself and me but I do fear him not.
- Man Thou hast no cause; he shall not harm thee, but
- His sight may shock thine old limbs into palsy.
- I say to thee Retire !

200

- Abbot. And I reply, Never — till I have battled with this
- fiend: 33G What doth he here?

My good lord !

To wrestle, though with spirits; what ye Man. Why - ay - what doth he here? take I did not send for him, - he is unbidden. Shall be ta'en limb by limb. Abbot. Alas ! lost mortal ! what with Spirit. Reluctant mortal! guests like these In this the Magian who would so pervade Hast thou to do? I tremble for thy sake. The world invisible, and make himself Why doth he gaze on thee, and thou on Almost our equal ? - Can it be that thou Art thus in love with life? the very life hm?Ah! he unveils his aspect: on his brow Which made thee wretched ! The thunder-scars are graven; from his Man. Thou false fiend, thou liest ! My life is in its last hour, — that I know, 370 eve Glares forth the immortality of hell — Nor would redeem a moment of that hour. Avaunt ! -I do not combat against death, but thee Man. Pronounce --- what is thy mis-And thy surrounding angels; my past power sion? Was purchased by no compact with thy Spirit. Come ! crew, Abbot. What art thou, unknown being? But by superior science, penance, daring, answer! - speak ! And length of watching, strength of mind, and skill Spirit. The genius of this mortal. -Come ! 't is time In knowledge of our fathers when the earth Man. I am prepared for all things, but Saw men and spirits walking side by side And gave ye no supremacy: I stand deny 379 The power which summons me. Who sent Upon my strength - I do defy - deny thee here? Spurn back, and scorn ye !-Spirit. Thou 'lt know anon - Come ! But thy many crimes Spirit. Come ! Have made thee -Man. I have commanded ManWhat are they to such as thee? Things of an essence greater far than thine, Must crimes be punish'd but by other And striven with thy masters. Get thee crimes, hence ! And greater criminals? — Back to thy hell ! Spirit. Mortal! thine hour is come -Thou hast no power upon me, that I feel; Away ! I say. Thou never shalt possess me, that I know: Man. I knew, and know my hour is come, What I have done is done; I bear within but not A torture which could nothing gain from To render up my soul to such as thee: 349 thine. Away! I'll die as I have lived - alone The mind which is immortal makes itself Spirit. Then I must summon up my bre-Requital for its good or evil thoughts, 390 thren. — Rise ! Other Spirits rise up Is its own origin of ill and end, Abbot. Avaunt ! ye evil ones !- Avaunt ! And its own place and time; its innate sense, When stripp'd of this mortality, derives I say, -Ye have no power where piety hath power, No colour from the fleeting things without, But is absorb'd in sufferance or in joy, And I do charge ye in the name. Old man! Born from the knowledge of its own desert. Spirit. We know ourselves, our mission, and thine Thou didst not tempt me, and thou couldst not tempt me; order: Waste not thy holy words on idle uses, I have not been thy dupe nor am thy prey, It were in vain: this man is forfeited. But was my own destroyer, and will be Once more I summon him — Away! away! My own hereafter. — Back, ye baffled Man I do defy ye, - though I feel my fiends ! 400 The hand of death is on me - but not soul Is ebbing from me, yet I do defy ye; yours ! [The Demons disappear. 360 Abbot. Alas! how pale thou art - thy Nor will I hence, while I have earthly lips are white breath To breathe my scorn upon ye - earthly And thy breast heaves — and in thy g pstrength ing throat

- The accents rattle. Give thy prayers to Heaven —
- Pray albeit but in thought, but die not thus.
 - Man 'T is over my dull eyes can fix thee not;
- But all things swim around me, and the earth
- Heaves as it were beneath me. Fare thee well-

- Abbot. Cold cold even to the heart —
- But yet one prayer Alas! how fares it with thee?
 - Man Old man! 't is not so difficult to die. [MANFRED expires. Abbot. He's gone, his soul hath ta'en its
 - earthless flight;

Whither? I dread to think; but he is gone.

MARINO FALIERO, DOGE OF VENICE

AN HISTORICAL TRAGEDY IN FIVE ACTS

Dux inquieti turbidus Adriæ - HORACE

PREFACE

The conspiracy of the Doge Marino Fahero is one of the most remarkable events in the annals of the most singular government, oty, and people of modern history. It occurred in the year 1355 Every thing about Venice 1s, or was, extraordinary — her aspect is like a dream, and her history is like a romance. The story of this Doge is to be found in all her Chronicles, and particularly detailed in the Lives of the Doges, by Marin Sanuto, which is given in the Appendix. It is simply and clearly related, and is perhaps more dramatic in itself than any scenes which can be founded upon the subject

Marino Faliero appears to have been a man of talents and of courage I find him commander in chief of the land forces at the siege of Zara, where he beat the King of Hungary and his army of eighty thousand men, killing eight thousand men, and keeping the besieged at the same time in check, an exploit to which I know none similar in history, except that of Cæsar at Alesia, and of Prince Eugene at Belgrade He was afterwards commander of the fleet in the same war. He took Capo d'Istria. He was ambassador at Genoa and Rome.—at which last he received the news of his election to the dukedom; his absence being a proof that he sought it by no intrigue, since he was apprized of his predecessor's death and his own succession at the same moment. But he appears to have been of an ungovernable temper. A story is told by Sanuto, of his having, many years before, when podesta and captain at Treviso, boxed the ears of the bishop, who was somewhat tardy in bringing the Host. For this, honest Sanuto 'saddles him with a judgment,' as Thwackum did Square, but he does not tell us whether he was punished or rebuked by the Senate for this outrage at the time of its commission. He seems, indeed, to have been afterwards at peace with the church. for we find him ambassador at Rome, and invested with the fief of Val di Marino, in the march of Treviso, and with the title of Count, by Lorenzo Count-bishop of Ceneda For these facts my authorities are Sanuto, Vettor Sandı, Andrea Navagero, and the account of the siege of Zara, first published by the in-defatigable Abate Morelli, in his Monumenti Veneziani di varia Letteratura, printed in 1796, all of which I have looked over in the original language The moderns, Darù, Sısmondi, and Laugier, nearly agree with the ancient chroniclers. Sismondi attributes the conspiracy to his jealousy; but I find this nowhere asserted by the national historians Vettor Sandı, indeed, says, that 'Altri scrissero che ... dalla gelosa suspizion di esso Doge siasi fatto (Michel Steno) staccar con violenza." etc., etc ; but this appears to have been by no means the general opinion, nor is it alluded to by Sanuto or by Navagero, and Sandi himself adds, a moment after, that 'per altre Vene-ziane memorie traspiri, che non il solo desiderio di vendetta lo dispose alla congiura ma anche la innata abituale ambizion sua, per cui anelava a farsi principe independente ' The first motive appears to have been excited by the gross affront of the words written by Michel Steno on the ducal chair, and by the light and inadequate sentence of the Forty on the offender, who was one of their 'tre Capi.' The attentions of Steno himself appear to have been directed towards one of her damsels, and not to the 'Dogaressa' herself, against whose fame not the slightest insinuation appears, while she is praised for her beauty, and remarked for her vouth Neither do I find it asserted (unless the hint of Sandi be an assertion) that the Doge was actuated by jealousy of his wife; but rather by respect for her, and for his own honour, warranted by his past services and present dignity.

I know not that the historical facts are alluded to in English, unless by Dr Moore in his View of Italy. His account is false and flippant, full of stale jests about old men and young wives, and wondering at so great an effect from so slight a cause. How so acute and severe an observer of mankind as the author of Zeluco could wonder at this is incon-He knew that a basin of water spilt cervable on Mrs. Masham's gown deprived the Duke of Marlborough of his command, and led to the inglorious peace of Utrecht - that Louis XIV. was plunged into the most desolating wars, because his minister was nettled at his finding fault with a window, and wished to give him another occupation - that Helen lost Troy that Lucretia expelled the Tarquins from Rome - and that Cava brought the Moors to Spain — that an insulted husband led the Gauls to Clusium, and thence to Rome — that a single verse of Frederick II. of Prussia on the Abbé de Bernis, and a jest on Madame de Pompadour, led to the battle of Rosbach - that the elopement of Dearbhorgil with Mac Murchad conducted the English to the slavery of Ireland — that a personal pique between Maria Antoinette and the Duke of Orleans precipitated the first expulsion of the Bourbonsand, not to multiply instances, that Commodus, Domitian, and Caligula fell victims not to them public tyranny, but to private vengeanceand that an order to make Cromwell disembark from the ship in which he would have sailed to America destroyed both king and commonwealthAfter these instances, on the least reflection, it is indeed extraordinary in Dr Moore to seem surprised that a man used to command, who had served and swayed in the most important offices, should fiercely resent, in a fierce age, an unpunished affront, the grossest that can be offered to a man, be he prince or peasant. The age of Faliero is little to the purpose, unless to favour it -

Give me thy hand.

- 'The young man's wrath is like straw on fire, But like red hot steel is the old man's ire '
- 'Young men soon give and soon forget affronts, Old age is slow at both '

'Laugier's reflections are more philosophical: 'Tale fù il fine ignominioso di un' uomo, che la sua nascità, la sua età, il suo carattere dovevano tener lontano dalle passioni produttrici di grandi delitti. I suoi talenti per lungo tempo esercitati ne' maggiori impieghi, la sua capacità sperimentata ne' governi e nelle ambasciate, gli avevano acquistato la stima e la fiducia de' cittadini, ed avevano uniti i suffragj per collocarlo alla testa della republica. Innalzato ad un grado che terminava gloriosamente la sua vita, il risentimento di un'ingiuria leggiera insinuò nel suo cuore tal veleno che bastò a corrompere le antiche sue qualità, e a condurlo al termine dei scellerati ; serio esempio, che prova non esservi età. in cui la prudenza umana sia sicura, e che nell' uomo restano sempre passioni capaci a disonorarlo, quando non invigili sopra se stesso.' [Laugier, Italian translation, vol iv. pages 30, 31.]

Where did Dr Moore find that Marino Faliero begged his life? I have searched the chroniclers, and find nothing of the kind, it is true that he avowed all He was conducted to the place of torture, but there is no mention made of any application for mercy on his part; and the very circumstance of their having taken him to the rack seems to argue any thing but his having shown a want of firmness, which would doubtless have been also mentioned by those minute historians who by no means favour him such, indeed, would be contrary to his character as a soldier, to the age in which he lived, and at which he died, as it is to the truth of history I know no justification, at any distance of time, for calumniating an historical character surely truth belongs to the dead, and to the unfortunate, and they who have died upon a scaffold, have generally had faults enough of their own, without attributing to them that which the very incurring of the perils which conducted them to their violent death renders. of all others, the most improbable. The black veil which is painted over the place of Marino Fahero amongst the doges, and the Giants' Staircase where he was crowned, and discrowned, and decapitated, struck forcibly upon my imagination, as did his fiery character and strange story. I went, in 1819, in search of his tomb more than once to the church San Giovanni e San Paolo, and as I was standing before the monument of another family, a priest came up to me and said, 'I can show you finer monuments than that.' I told him that I was in search of that of the Faliero family, and particularly of the Doge Marino's 'Oh,' said he, 'I will show it you;' and conducting me to the outside, pointed out a sarcophagus in the wall with an illegible inscription. He said that it had been in a convent adjoining, but was removed after the French came, and placed in its present situation, that he had seen the tomb opened at its removal; there were still some bones remaining, but no positive vestige of the decapitation The equestrian statue of which I have made mention in the third act as before that church is not, however, of a Fahero, but of some other now obsolete warrior, although of a later date There were two other Doges of this family prior to Marino Ordelafo, who fell in battle at Zara in 1117 (where his descendant afterwards conquered the Huns), and Vital Faliero, who reigned in 1082. The family, originally from Fano, was of the most illustrious in blood and wealth in the city of once the most wealthy and still the most ancient families in Europe. The length I have gone into on this subject will show the interest I have taken in it. Whether I have succeeded or not in the tragedy, I have at least transferred into our language an historical fact worthy of commemoration.

It is now four years that I have meditated this work, and before I had sufficiently examined the records, I was rather disposed to have made it turn on a jealousy in Faliero. But, perceiving no foundation for this in historical truth, and aware that jealousy is an exhausted passion in the drama, I have given it a more historical form. I was, besides, well advised by the late Matthew Lewis on that point, in talking with him of my intention at Venice in 1817. 'If you make him jealous,' said he, 'recollect that you have to contend with established writers, to say nothing of Shakspeare and an exhausted subject,stick to the old fiery Doge's natural character, which will bear you out, if properly drawn, and make your plot as regular as you can.' Sir William Drummond gave me nearly the same counsel How far I have followed these instructions, or whether they have availed me, is not for me to decide. I have had no view to the stage, in its present state it is, perhaps, not a very exalted object of ambition; besides, I have been too much behind the scenes to have thought it so at any time And I cannot conceive any man of irritable feeling putting himself at the mercies of an audience The sneering reader, and the loud critic, and the tart review, are scattered and distant calamities, but the trampling of an intelligent or of an ignorant audience on a production which, be it good or bad, has been a mental labour to the writer, is a palpable and immediate grievance, heightened by a man's doubt of their competency to judge, and his certainty of his own imprudence in electing them his judges Were I capable of writing a play which could be deemed stage-worthy, success would give me no pleasure, and failure great pain It is for this reason that, even during the time of being one of the committee of one of the theatres, I never made the attempt, and never will But where Joanna Baillie, and Millman, and John Wilson exist. The City of the Plague and the Fall of Jerusalem are full of the best matériel for tragedy that has been since Horace Walpole, except passages of Ethwald and De Montfort It is the fashion to underrate Horace Walpole, firstly, because he was a nobleman, and, secondly, because he was a gentleman, but, to say nothing of the composition of his incomparable letters, and of the Castle of Otranto. he is the 'Ultimus Romanorum,' the author of the Mysterious Mother, a tragedy of the highest order, and not a puling love-play He is the father of the first romance and of the last tragedy in our language, and surely worthy of a higher place than any living writer, be he who he may.

In speaking of the drama Marino Faliero, I forgot to mention, that the desire of preserving, though still too remote, a nearer approach to unity than the irregularity, which is the reproach of the English theatrical compositions, permits, has induced me to represent the conspiracy as already formed, and the Doge acceding to it, whereas, in fact, it was of his own preparation and that of Israel Bertuccio The other characters (except that of the Duchess), incidents, and almost the time, which was wonderfully short for such a design in real life, are strictly historical, except that all the consultations took place in the palace Had I followed this, the unity would have been better preserved; but I wished to produce the Doge in the full assembly of the conspirators, instead of monotonously placing him always in dialogue with the same individuals. For the real facts, I refer to the Appendix.

DRAMATIS PERSONÆ

MŁN

MARINO FALIERO, Doge of Venice BERTUCCIO FALIERO, Nephew of the Doge LIONI, a Patrician and Senator BENINTENDE, Chief of the Council of Ten MICHEL STENO, One of the Three Capi of the Forty. ISBAEL BERTUCCIO, Chief of the Arsenal, Conspirators PHILIP CALENDARO, DAGOLINO, BERTRAM, Signor of the Night ('Signore di Notte'), one of the Officers belonging to the Republic First Citizen Second Citizen Third Cutizen VINCENZO, PIETRO, Officers belonging to the Ducal Palace. BATTISTA, Secretary of the Council of Ten Guards, Conspirators, Citizens, The Council of Ten, Guards, Conspirators, The Grunta, etc., etc

WOMEN

ANGIOLINA, Wrife to the Doge. MARIANNA, her Friend. Female Attendants, etc

Scene, VENICE — in the year 1355.

ACT I

Scene I

An Antechamber in the Ducal Palace

PIFTRO speaks, in entering, to BATTISTA

Pie Is not the messenger return'd? Bai. Not yet;

I have sent frequently, as you commanded, But still the Signory is deep in council, And long debate on Steno's accusation.

Ber. F. (addressing VINCENZO, then en-Pie. Too long — at least so thinks the Doge. How bears he Bat. These moments of suspense? Pie. With struggling patience. Placed at the ducal table, cover'd o'er With all the apparel of the state, petitions, Despatches, judgments, acts, reprieves, reports, He sits as rapt in duty; but whene'er 10 He hears the jarring of a distant door, Or aught that intimates a coming step, Doge.Or murmur of a voice, his quick eye wanders, And he will start up from his chair, then ble. pause, And seat himself again, and fix his gaze Vin. Upon some edict; but I have observed For the last hour he has not turn'd a leaf. Bat. 'T is said he is much moved, - and doubtless 't was Foul scorn in Steno to offend so grossly. 19 Pie. Ay, if a poor man: Steno's a patrician, Young, galliard, gay, and haughty. Bat. Then you think He will not be judged hardly? Vin. Pie. 'T were enough He be judged justly; but 't is not for us To anticipate the sentence of the Forty Bat. And here it comes. - What news, Vincenzo? Enter VINCENZO 'T is Vin. Decided; but as yet his doom 's unknown: I saw the president in act to seal grant, The parchment which will bear the Forty's judgment Unto the Doge, and hasten to inform him. Exeunt. ber — SCENE II The Ducal Chamber. MARINO FALIERO, Doge, and his Nephew, BERTUCCIO FALIERO. Ber. F. It cannot be but they will do you ment, justice. Doge. Ay, such as the Avogadori did, Who sent up my appeal unto the Forty To try him by his peers, his own tribunal. Ber. F. His peers will scarce protect Steno. him; such an act Made me Would bring contempt on all authority. Doge. Know you not Venice ? Know you not the Forty? But we shall see anon. sign'd

How now — what tidings? tering). Vin. I am charged to tell his highness that the court Has pass'd its resolution, and that, soon As the due forms of judgment are gone through, The sentence will be sent up to the Doge: In the mean time the Forty doth salute The Prince of the Republic, and entreat His acceptation of their duty. Yes — They are wond'rous dutiful, and ever hum-Sentence is pass'd, you say? It is, your highness: The president was sealing it, when I Was call'd in, that no moment might be lost In forwarding the intimation due Not only to the Chief of the Republic, 50 But the complamant, both in one united. Ber. F. Are you aware, from aught you have perceived, Of their decision? No, my lord; you know The secret custom of the courts in Venice Ber. F. True; but there still is something given to guess, Which a shrewd gleaner and quick eye would catch at; A whisper, or a murmur, or an air More or less solemn spread o'er the tribunal. The Forty are but men — most worthy men, And wise, and just, and cautious, this I And secret as the grave to which they doom The guilty; but with all this, in their aspects -At least in some, the juniors of the num-A searching eye, an eye like yours, Vincenzo, Would read the sentence ere it was pronounced. Vin. My lord, I came away upon the mo-And had no leisure to take note of that Which pass'd among the judges, even in seeming; My station near the accused too, Michel Doge (abruptly). And how look'd he? deliver that. Vin. Calm, but not overcast, he stood re-

To the decree, whate'er it were; — but lo ! It comes, for the perusal of his highness. Enter the SECRETARY of the Forty. Sec. The high tribunal of the Forty sends Health and respect to the Doge Fahero, Chief magistrate of Venice, and requests His highness to peruse and to approve The sentence pass'd on Michel Steno, born	To affix so slight a penalty to that Which was a foul affront to you, and even To them, as being your subjects. But 't is not Yet without remedy you can appeal To them once more, or to the Avogadori, Who, seeing that true justice is withheld, Will now take up the cause they once de- chned,
Patrician, and arraign'd upon the charge	And do you right upon the bold delinquent.
Contain'd, together with its penalty, 80	Think you not thus, good uncle? why do
Within the rescript which I now present.	you stand
Doge. Retire, and wait without	So fix'd? You heed me not; - I pray you,
[Ezeunt SEGRETARY and VINCENZO]	hear me !
Take thou this paper:	Doge (dashing down the ducal bonnet, and
The misty letters vanish from my eyes;	offering to trample upon it, exclaims,
I cannot fix them.	as he is withheld by his nephew)
Ber. F. Patience, my dear uncle	Oh, that the Saracen were in Saint Mark's !
Why do you tremble thus ? — nay, doubt	Thus would I do him homage.
not, all	Ber. F. For the sake
Will be as could be wish'd.	Of Heaven and all its saints, my lord —
Doge. Say on.	Doge. Away!
Ber. F. (reading). 'Decreed	Oh, that the Genoese were in the port! 120
In council, without one dissenting voice,	Oh, that the Huns whom I o'erthrew at
That Michel Steno, by his own confession,	Zara
Guilty on the last night of Carnival	Were ranged around the palace !
Of having graven on the ducal throne 90	Ber. F. 'T is not well
The following words —'	In Venice' Duke to say so.
Doge. Wouldst thou repeat them?	Doge. Venice' Duke !
Wouldst thou repeat them — thou, a Faliero,	Who now is Duke in Venice? let me see
Harp on the deep dishonour of our house,	him,
Dishonour'd in its chief — that chief the	That he may do me right
prince	Ber. F. If you forget
Of Venice, first of cities ? To the sentence.	Your office, and its dignity and duty,
Ber F Forgive me, my good lord; I will	Remember that of man, and curb this pas-obey —	sion.
(Reads) 'That Michel Steno be detain'd a	The Duke of Venice —
In close arrest.' Doge. Proceed. Ber F My lord, 't is finish'd. Doge How, say you ?— finish'd! Do I	 Ine Dake of Venice — Doge (interrupting him). There is no such thing; It is a word — nay, worse — a worthless byword The most despised, wrong'd, outraged, help-dream? —'t is false:	less wretch,
Give me the paper (Snatches the paper and	Who begs his bread, if 't is refused by reads) — ''T is decreed in council 100	one,
That Michel Steno' — Nephew, thine arm !	May win it from another kinder heart;
Ber F. Nay,	But he, who is denied his right by those Cheer up, be calm; this transport is un-	Whose place it is to do no wrong, is poorer call'd for;	Than the rejected beggar — he's a slave —
Let me seek some assistance.	And that am I, and thou, and all our house,
Doge. Stop, sir — Stir not —	Even from this hour; the meanest artisan
'T is past.	Will point the finger, and the haughty
Ber. F. I cannot but agree with you	noble
The corresponding too short for the offense.	May spit upon us: — where is our redress?
The sentence is too slight for the offence; It is not honourable in the Forty	Ber. F. The law, my prince —

Doge (interrupting him). You see what	-
	T
it has done. 140 I ask'd no remedy but from the law;	0
I sought no vengeance but redress by law, I call'd no judges but those named by	W
law; As sovereign, I appeal'd unto my subjects,	н
The very subjects who had made me sover- eign,	0
And gave me thus a double right to be so. The rights of place and choice, of birth and	N service, Honours and years, these scars, these hoary hairs,	A
The travel, toil, the perils, the fatigues, The blood and sweat of almost eighty	~ years, ¹⁵⁰ Were weigh'd i' the balance, 'gainst the	T
foulest stain, The grossest insult, most contemptuous	W A
Of a rank, rash patrician — and found	т wanting ! And this is to be borne !	L
Ber. F I say not that: In case your fresh appeal should be re-	0
Jected, We will find other means to make all even. Doge. Appeal again! art thou my	A brother's son ?	V
A scion of the house of Faliero? The nephew of a Doge? and of that blood	V
Which hath already given three dukes to Venice? 160	V
But thou say'st well — we must be humble now.	P
Ber. F. My princely uncle ! you are too much moved :
I grant it was a gross offence, and grossly	A
Left without fitting punishment: but still This fury doth exceed the provocation,	s
Or any provocation. If we are wrong'd, We will ask justice; if it be denied,	A
We'll take it; but may do all this in calm- ness —
Deep Vengeance is the daughter of deep	т
Silence I have yet scarce a third part of your	r
years, 170 I love our house, I honour you, its chief, The guardian of my youth, and its in-	F A E structor; But though I understand your grief, and enter In part of your disdain, it doth appal me	I

Τo	see	your	anger,	like	our	Adrian	waves,

180 o pride, no passion, no deep sense of honour?

Ber. F. 'T is the first time that honour has been doubted, nd were the last, from any other sceptic.

Doge. You know the full offence of this born villain, his creeping, coward, rank, acquitted felon,

Who threw his sting into a poisonous libel,

- and on the honour of oh God! mywife,
- 'he nearest, dearest part of all men's honour,

eft a base slur to pass from mouth to mouth

- of loose mechanics, with all coarse foul comments.
- nd villanous jests, and blasphemies obscene:
- Vhile sneering nobles, in more polish'd guise,

Whisper'd the tale, and smiled upon the lie Which made me look like them — a courteous wittol,

- Patient ay, proud, it may be, of dishonour.
- Ber. F. But still it was a lie you knew it false.

and so did all men

Doge. Nephew, the high Roman aid, 'Cæsar's wife must not even be suspected,'

And put her from him.

- True but in those days -Ber. F. Doge. What is it that a Roman would not suffer, 200
- That a Venetian prince must bear? Old Dandolo

Refused the diadem of all the Cæsars,

And wore the ducal cap I trample on,

Because 't is now degraded.

Ber. F. 'T is even so. Doge. It is - it is. I did not visit on

The innocent creature thus most vilely slander'd

502

^{&#}x27;ersweep all bounds and foam itself to air. Doge. I tell thee — must I tell thee what thy father ould have required no words to comprehend?

ast thou no feeling save the external sense

f torture from the touch ? hast thou no soul,

Because she took an old man for her lord,	Ber. F. Obey them !
For that he had been long her father's	Who have forgot their duty to the sovereign ?
friend	Doge. Why, yes !— boy, you perceive it
And patron of her house, as if there were	then at last:
No love in woman's heart but lust of	Whether as fellow-citizen who sues
youth 210	For justice, or as sovereign who commands
And beardless faces; — I did not for this	it,
Visit the villain's infamy on her,	They have defrauded me of both my rights
But craved my country's justice on his	(For here the sovereign is a citizen);
head,	But, notwithstanding, harm not thou a hair
The justice due unto the humblest being	Of Steno's head—he shall not wear it
Who hath a wife whose faith is sweet to	long.
him,	Ber. F. Not twelve hours longer, had you
Who hath a home whose hearth is dear to	left to me
him,	The mode and means: if you had calmly
Who hath a name whose honour's all to him, When these are tainted by the accursing breath	I never meant this miscreant should es- cape, But wish'd you to suppress such gusts of
When these are tainted by the accursing breathOf calumny and scorn.Ber. F.And what redressDid you expect as his fit punishment ?220Doge.Death ' Was I not the sovereign of the state —Insulted on his very throne, and madeA mockery to the men who should obey me ?Was I not injured as a husband ? scorn'dAs man ? reviled, degraded, as a prince ?Was not offence like his a complication of insult and of treason ? — and he lives !Had he instead of on the Doge's throneStamp'd the same brand upon a peasant's stool,His blood had gilt the threshold; for the carle 230Had stabb'd him on the instant Ber. F.Doge.Hold, nephew. thisWould have sufficed but yesterday; at pre- sentI have no further wrath against this man. Ber. F. What mean yon ? is not the offence redoubledBy this most rank — I will not say — ac- quittal;For it is worse, being full of acknowledg- mentOf the offence, and leaving it unpunish'd ?	cape, But wish'd you to suppress such gusts of passion, That we more surely might devise together His taking off. Doge. No, nephew, he must live; At least, just now — a life so vile as his Were nothing at this hour; in th' olden time Some sacrifices ask'd a single victim, Great explations had a hecatomb 260 Ber. F. Your wishes are my law: and yet I fam Would prove to you how near unto my heart The honour of our house must ever be. Doge. Fear not; you shall have time and place of proof: But be not thou too rash, as I have been. I am ashamed of my own anger now; I pray you, pardon me. Ber F Why, that's my uncle ! The leader, and the statesman, and the chief Of commonwealths, and sovereign of him- self ! I wonder'd to perceive you so forget 270 All prudence in your fury at these years, Although the cause — Doge. Ay, think upon the cause — Forget it not. When you lie down to rest, Let it be black among your dreams; and when The morn returns, so let it stand between Doge It is redoubled, but not now by	The sun and you, as an ill-omen'd cloud
him: 240	Upon a summer-day of festival
The Forty hath decreed a month's arrest —	So will it stand to me; but speak not,
We must obey the Forty.	stir not,

- C

- .

Leave all to me; — we shall have much to	Enter Vincenzo do,	Vin. There is one without
And you shall have a part But now re-	Craves audience of your highness.
tire, 280	Doge. I'm unwell;
'T is fit I were alone.	I can see no one, not even a patrician;
Ber F (taking up and placing the ducal	Let him refer his business to the council.
bonnet on the table). Ere I depart,	Vin. My lord, I will deliver your re-
I pray you to resume what you have	ply; 320
spurn'd,	It cannot much import—he 's a plebeian,
Till you can change it haply for a crown.	The master of a galley, I believe.
And now I take my leave, imploring you	Doge . How ! did you say the patron of a
In all things to rely upon my duty	galley ?
As doth become your near and faithful	That is — I mean — a servant of the state:
kınsman,	Admit him, he may be on public service.
And not less loyal citizen and subject.	[Exit Vincenzo
[Ezu BERTUCCIO FALIERO	Doge(solus) This patron may be sounded;
Doge (solus). Adiev, my worthy nephew.	I will try him.
- Hollow bayble;	I know the people to be discontented:
[Taking up the ducal cap	They have cause, since Sapienza's adverse
Beset with all the thorns that line a crown,	day,
Without investing the insulted brow 290	When Genoa conquer'd; they have further
With the all-swaying majesty of kings;	cause,
Thou idle, gilded, and degraded toy,	Since they are nothing in the state, and in
Let me resume thee as I would a vizor.	The city worse than nothing — mere ma-
[Puts it on.	chines, 331
How my bram aches beneath thee ! and my temples	To serve the nobles' most patrician pleasure. The troops have long arrears of pay, oft
Throb feverish under thy dishonest weight. Could I not turn thee to a diadem ? Could I not shatter the Briarean sceptre	And murmur deeply — any hope of change Will draw them forward: they shall pay
Which in this hundred-handed senate rules, Making the people nothing, and the prince	With plunder. But the priests — I doubt
A pageant? In my life I have achieved 300	the priesthood
Tasks not less difficult — achieved for them,	Will not be with us; they have hated me
Who thus repay me! — Can I not requite	Since that rash hour, when, madden'd with them?	the drone,
Oh for one year ! Oh ! but for even a day	I smote the tardy bishop at Treviso,
Of my full youth, while yet my body	Quickening his holy march; yet, ne'erthe-
served	less, 340
My soul as serves the generous steed his lord,	They may be won, at least their chief at Rome,
I would have dash'd amongst them, asking	By some well-timed concessions. But, above few	All things, I must be speedy: at my hour
In aid to overthrow these swoln patricians !	Of twilight httle light of life remains.
But now I must look round for other	Could I free Venice, and avenge my wrongs, hands	I had hved too long, and willingly would
To serve this hoary head; but it shall	sleep plan	Next moment with my sires; and, wanting
In such a sort as will not leave the task 310	this,
Herculean, though as yet 't is but a chaos	Better that sixty of my fourscore years
Of darkly brooding thoughts. My fancy is	Had been already where — how soon, I care
In her first work, more nearly to the light	not —
Holding the sleeping images of things	The whole must be extinguish'd; — better
For the selection of the pausing judgment.—	that 350
The troops are few in —	They ne'er had been, than drag me on to be

make me. The mate me. There are three thousand posted at — Enter Vincenzo and IBLEL BERFORCE. Van May it please Your highness, the same patron whon I spake of Is here to crave your patience. Doge. Leave the chamber, There are three to crave your patience. Doge. Leave the chamber, There are there to crave your patience. Doge. Leave the chamber, There are there to crave your advance — what would you? I. Ber. Referess Doge. Of whom? I. Ber. Referess Doge. Alas I my friend, you seek it of the twam Doge. There's blood upon thy face — how came t there? There is blood upon thy face — how came t there? There is blood upon thy face — how came t there? There is blood upon thy face — how shed for Venice, Doge. There's blood upon the first I'ves shed for Venice, Doge. Doth he live? There. I am a man, my lord Doge. What so f discipline and Vany prince, yourself a soldier, will redress Him, whom the laws of discipline and Venice Permit not to protect himself; if not — 170 I. Ber. I am a man, my lord Doge. Why so is he whors mote you. I. Ber. I am a man, my lord Doge. Why so is he whors mote you. I. Ber. T am a man, my lord Doge. Why so is he whors mote you. There are hike a brute, the brute may turn— Tis said the worm will. Doge. What was the cause? or the pretert? I. Ber I am the chief of the arsenal, manp? Doge. What was the cause? or the blood had been wash'd out nother blood Doge. What was the cause? or the blood had been wash'd out nother blood Doge. What was the cause? or the blood Doge. What was the cause? or the Doge. What was the cause? or the blood Doge. What was the cause? or the Doge. Say — hus mane and lineage! Doge. What was the cause? or the blood Dage. Sone oblemin' an hour ago! Doge. What was the cause? or the Doge. What was the cause? or the Doge. What was the cause? or the Doge. What was the cause? or the blood Dage. Sone on to me for justice— unto me' Doge. Steno us condennid To a month's confinement
	Let me consider — of efficient troops There are three thousand posted at — Enter VINCENZO and ISBARL BERTUCCIO. Vin May it please Your highness, the same patron whom I spake of Is here to crave your patience. Doge. Leave the chamber, Vincenzo. — Exit VINCENZO Sir, you may advance — what would you? I. Ber. Redress Doge. Of whom? I. Ber. Of God and of the Doge. Doge Alas! my friend, you seek it of the twain Of least respect and interest in Venice. 360 You must address the council. I. Ber. 'T is mine, and not the first I 've shed for Venice, But the first shed by a Venetian hand: A noble smote me Doge. Doth he live? I. Ber. Motiong — But for the hope I had and have, that you, My prince, yourself a soldier, will redress Him, whom the laws of discipline and Venice Permit not to protect himself; if not — 370 I say no more. Doge. But something you would do — Is it not so? I Ber. I am a man, my lord Doge. Why so is he who smote you. I Ber. I am a man, my lord Doge. Why so is he who smote you. I Ber. I am a man, my lord Doge. Why so is he who smote you. I Ber. I am a man, my lord Doge. Why so is he who smote you. I Ber. I am a man, my lord Doge. Why so is he who smote you. I Ber. I am a man, my lord Doge. Why so is he who smote you. I Ber. I am the chief of the arsenal, employ'd	 This morning come's the noble Barbaro Full of reproof, because our artisans Had left some frivolous order of his house, To execute the state's decree: I dared To justify the men — he raised his hand; — Behold my blood ! the first time it e'er flow'd Dishonourably Doge. Have you long time served ? I. Ber. So long as to remember Zara's siege, And fight beneath the chief who beat the Huns there, 390 Sometime my general, now the Doge Fa- liero. Doge. How ! are we comrades ? — the state's ducal robes Sit newly on me, and you were appointed Chief of the arsenal ere I came from Rome; So that I recognised you not Who placed you ? I. Ber. The late Doge; keeping still my old command As patron of a galley: my new office Was given as the reward of certain scars (So was your predecessor pleased to say): I httle thought his bounty would conduct me 400 To his successor as a helpless plaintiff; At least, in such a cause. Doge. Then wherefore came you here ? I. Ber That which I dare not name, and yet will do. Doge. Then wherefore came you here ? I. Ber That which I dare not name, and yet will do. Doge. Then wherefore came you here ? I. Ber Mat which I dare not name, and yet will do. Doge. Then wherefore came you here ? I. Ber Mat which I dare not name, and yet will do. Doge. You come to me for justice, Because my general is Doge, and will not See his old soldier trampled on Had any, Save Fahero, fill'd the ducal throne, 410 The Doge of Venice, and I cannot give it; I cannot even obtain it — 't was denied To me most solemnly an hour ago ! I. Ber. How says your highness ? Doge. Steno is condemn'd To a month's confinement

- To stain the ducal throne with those foul words,
- That have cried shame to every ear in Venuce?
 - Doge. Ay, doubtless they have echo'd o'er the arsenal, 420
- Keeping due time with every hammer's clink,
- As a good jest to jolly artisans;
- Or making chorus to the creaking oar,
- In the vile tune of every galley-slave,
- Who, as he sung the merry stave, exulted
- He was not a shamed dotard like the Doge.
- I. Ber Is 't possible ? a month's imprisonment !
- No more for Steno?
- Doge. You have heard the offence, And now you know his punishment; and then 420
- You ask redress of me! Go to the Forty,
- Who pass'd the sentence upon Michel Steno;
- They 'll do as much by Barbaro, no doubt. I. Ber. Ah! dared I speak my feelings!
- Doge. Give them breath Mine have no further outrage to endure.
- I. Ber. Then, in a word, it rests but on your word
- To punish and avenge I will not say
- My petty wrong, for what is a mere blow,
- However vile, to such a thing as I am?
- But the base insult done your state and person.
 - Doge You overrate my power, which is a pageant. 440
- This cap is not the monarch's crown; these robes
- Might move compassion, like a beggar's rags;
- Nay, more, a beggar's are his own, and these
- But lent to the poor puppet, who must play Its part with all its empire in this ermine
 - I. Ber. Wouldst thou be king ?
 - Doge. Yes of a happy people I. Ber. Wouldst thou be sovereign lord of Venice?
 - Doge. Ay
- If that the people shared that sovereignty, So that nor they nor I were further slaves To this o'ergrown aristocratic Hydra, 450 The poisonous heads of whose envenom'd body
- Have breathed a pestilence upon us all.
 - I. Ber. Yet, thou wast born, and still hast lived, patrician.

Doge. In evil hour was I so born; my birth

Hath made me Doge to be insulted: but

- I lived and toil'd a soldier and a servant
- Of Venice and her people, not the senate;
- Their good and my own honour were my guerdon
- I have fought and bled; commanded, ay, and conquer'd;
- Have made and marr'd peace oft in embassies, 460
- As it might chance to be our country's 'vantage;
- Have traversed land and sea in constant duty,
- Through almost sixty years, and still for Venice,
- My fathers' and my birthplace, whose dear spires,
- Rising at distance o'er the blue Lagoon,
- It was reward enough for me to view
- Once more; but not for any knot of men,
- Nor sect, nor faction, did I bleed or sweat !
- But would you know why I have done all this?
- Ask of the bleeding pelican why she 470
- Hath ripp'd her bosom; had the bird a voice,
- She'd tell thee 't was for all her little ones. I. Ber And yet they made thee duke
- Doge. They made me so; I sought it not, the flattering fetters met me
- Returning from my Roman embassy,
- And never having hitherto refused
- Toil, charge, or duty for the state, I did not,
- At these late years, decline what was the highest
- Of all in seeming, but of all most base
- In what we have to do and to endure. 480
- Bear witness for me thou, my injured subject,
- When I can neither right myself nor thee.
 - I. Ber. You shall do both if you possess the will;
- And many thousands more not less oppress'd,
- Who wait but for a signal will you give it?
 - Doge. You speak in riddles

Doge.

I. Ber Which shall soon be read At peril of my life, if you disdain not

- To lend a patient ear.
 - Say on.
 - I Ber. Not thou.

Nor I alone, are injured and abused, Contemn'd and trampled on; but the whole	I. Ber. I now have placed My hfe, my honour, all my earthly hopes people 490 Groan with the strong conception of their	Within thy power, but in the firm belief That injuries like ours, sprung from one wrongs The foreign soldiers in the senate's pay Are discontented for their long arrears;	Will generate one vengeance should it be
The native mariners and civic troops	so, Be our chief now — our sovereign hereafter.
Feel with their friends; for who is he amongst them	Doge. How many are ye? I. Ber I'll not answer that
Whose brethren, parents, children, wives, or sisters,	Till I am answer'd. Doge. How, sir ! do you menace ?
Have not partook oppression, or pollution,	I. Ber. No; I affirm I have betray'd
From the patricians? And the hopeless	myself; 530 But there's no torture in the mystic wells
Against the Genoese, which is still main- tain'd	Which undermine your palace, nor in those Not less appalling cells, the 'leaden roofs,'
With the plebeian blood, and treasure wrung 500	To force a single name from me of others. The Pozzi and the Piombi were in vain;
From their hard earnings, has inflamed them further:	They might wring blood from me, but treachery never.
Even now — but, I forget that speaking thus,	And I would pass the fearful 'Bridge of Sighs,'
Perhaps I pass the sentence of my death ! Doge. And suffering what thou hast done	Joyous that mine must be the last that — fear'st thou death ?	Would echo o'er the Stygian wave which
Be silent then, and live on, to be beaten	flows
By those for whom thou hast bled.	Between the murderers and the murder'd,
I. Ber. No, I will speak At every hazard; and if Venice' Doge	washing 540 The prison and the palace walls: there are
Should turn delator, be the shame on him,	Those who would live to think on 't, and
And sorrow too; for he will lose far more	avenge me.
Than I.	Doge. If such your power and purpose,
Doge. From me fear nothing; out with	why come here
I. Ber. Know then, that there are met	To sue for justice, being in the course To do yourself due right?
and sworn in secret	I. Ber. Because the man
A band of brethren, valiant hearts and	Who claims protection from authority, true; Man who have preved all fortunes and	Showing his confidence and his submission
Men who have proved all fortunes, and have long	To that authority, can hardly be Suspected of combining to destroy it
Grieved over that of Venice, and have right	Suspected of combining to destroy it. Had I sate down too humbly with this
To do so; having served her in all climes,	blow, 550
And having rescued her from foreign foes,	A moody brow and mutter'd threats had
Would do the same from those within her walls.	made me
	A mark'd man to the Forty's inquisition; But loud complaint, however angrily
They are not numerous, nor yet too few For their great purpose; they have arms,	It shapes its phrase, is little to be fear'd,
And hearts, and hopes, and faith, and pa-	And less distrusted. But, besides all this, I had another reason.
tient courage 520	Doge What was that?
Doge. For what then do they pause?	I. Ber. Some rumours that the Doge was
I. Ber. An hour to strike.	greatly moved

Doge (aside). Saint Mark's shall strike that hour ! By the reference of the Avogadori Of Michel Steno's sentence to the Forty

Had reach'd me. I had served you, hon-	But will rega our'd you, 560 And felt that you were dangerously in-	ing, So that thou k
sulted,	them
Being of an order of such spirits, as	Doge. The d
Requite tenfold both good and evil: 't was	place of
My wish to prove and urge you to redress.	I. Ber. At m
Now you know all; and that I speak the	mask'd truth,	Where'er your
My peril be the proof.	me,
Doge. You have deeply ventured;	To wait your
But all must do so who would greatly	where win:	You shall rec
Thus far I'll answer you - your secret's	nounce
safe.	Upon our proje
I. Ber. And is this all?	Doge.
Doge. Unless with all intrusted,	The moon?
What would you have me answer?	I. Ber.
I. Ber. I would have you	thick an
Trust him who leaves his life in trust with	'T is a sirocco.
you. 571	Doge.
Doge. But I must know your plan, your	Near to the ch names, and numbers;	the same
The last may then be doubled, and the	Twin-named f
former	Paul;
Matured and strengthen'd.	A gondola, wit
I. Ber We're enough already;	Lurk in the nar
You are the sole ally we covet now.	Be there.
Doge. But bring me to the knowledge of	1. Ber. Iw your chiefs	Doge.
I. Ber. That shall be done upon your	I. Ber. In t formal pledge	will not
To keep the faith that we will pledge to	In your great
you.	leave.
Doge. When? where?	Doge (solus
I. Ber. This night I'll bring to your	church apartment 579	Where sleep n
Two of the principals; a greater number	To what? to h
Were hazardous.	With common
Doge Stay, I must think of this.	states !
What if I were to trust myself amongst	And will not n
you,	vault,
And leave the palace?	Where lie two
I. Ber. You must come alone.	And pluck me
Doge. With but my nephew	they co
I. Ber. Not were he your son.	For I should
Doge. Wretch! darest thou name my	our'd.
son? He died in arms	Alas ' I must
At Sapienza for this faithless state	Who have ma
Oh, that he were alive, and I in ashes ! Or that he were alive ere I be ashes !	Noble and bra
I should not need the dubious aid of stran-
	On Roman ma Back to its an gers. I. Ber. Not one of all those strangers	By sweet rev whom thou doubtest, 590	Venice
whom mod doublest, 590	i venice,

rd thee with a filial feelceep'st a father's faith with he is cast. Where is the meeting? nidnight I will be alone and highness pleases to direct coming, and conduct you eive our homage, and proect. At what hour arises Late; but the atmosphere is d dusky, At the midnight hour, then, hurch where sleep my sires; e. 6о г rom the apostles John and th one oar only, will rrow channel which glides by. ill not fail. And now retire he full hope your highness falter purpose. Prince, I take my [Exit ISRAEL BERTUCCIO At midnight, by the Saints John and Paul, ny noble fathers, I repair hold a council in the dark 6rc n ruffians leagued to ruin ny great sires leap from the doges who preceded me, down amongst them? Would uld ! rest in honour with the honnot think of them, but those ade me thus unworthy of a we as aught of consular arbles; but I will redeem it tique lustre in our annals, 620

venge on all that's base in

And freedom to the rest, or leave it black To all the growing calumnies of time, Which never spare the fame of him who fails, But try the Cæsar, or the Catiline, By the true touchstone of desert - success.

ACT II

SCENE I

An Apartment in the Ducal Palace.

ANGIOLINA (wife of the DOGE) and MARIANNA

Ang What was the Doge's answer? Mar That he was

That moment summon'd to a conference; But 't is by this time ended. I perceived Not long ago the senators embarking; And the last gondola may now be seen Gliding into the throng of barks which stud The glittering waters.

Ang. Would he were return'd ! He has been much disguieted of late;

And Time, which has not tamed his fiery spirit,

Nor yet enfeebled even his mortal frame 10 Which seems to be more nourish'd by a soul So quick and restless that it would consume Less hardy clay - Time has but little power On his resentments or his griefs Unlike

To other spirits of his order, who,

In the first burst of passion, pour away

- Their wrath or sorrow, all things wear in him
- An aspect of eternity: his thoughts,
- His feelings, passions, good or evil, all
- Have nothing of old age; and his bold brow Bears but the scars of mind, the thoughts of
- years, Not their decrepitude and he of late
- Has been more agitated than his wont
- Would he were come ! for I alone have power

Upon his troubled spirit

It is true,

Mar His highness has of late been greatly moved By the affront of Steno, and with cause: But the offender doubtless even now

- Is doom'd to explate his rash insult with Such chastisement as will enforce respect
- To female virtue, and to noble blood.
- 31 Ang 'T was a gross insult; but I heed it not

For the rash scorner's falsehood in itself. But for the effect, the deadly deep impression

Which it has made upon Faliero's soul, The proud, the fiery, the austere — austere To all save me: I tremble when I think To what it may conduct.

Assuredly Mar. The Doge cannot suspect you?

- Suspect me ! Ang. Why Steno dared not: when he scrawl'd his he,
- Grovelling by stealth in the moon's glimmering light,
- His own still conscience smote him for the act.
- And every shadow on the walls frown'd shame

Upon his coward calumny

- 'T were fit Mar.
- He should be punish'd grievously. He is so. Ang.
 - Mar. What! is the sentence pass'd? is he condemn'd?
 - Ang. I know not that, but he has been detected.
 - Mar. And deem you this enough for such foul scorn?
 - Ang I would not be a judge in my own cause,
- Nor do I know what sense of punishment
- May reach the soul of ribalds such as Steno; 51
- But if his insults sink no deeper in
- The minds of the inquisitors than they
- Have ruffled mine, he will, for all acquittance.
- Be left to his own shamelessness or shame. Mar. Some sacrifice is due to slander'd virtue.
 - Ang. Why, what is virtue if it needs a victim ?

Or if it must depend upon men's words?

The dying Roman said, "'t was but a name: '

It were indeed no more, if human breath 60 Could make or mar it

- Yet full many a dame, Mar. Stamless and faithful, would feel all the wrong
- Of such a slander; and less rigid ladies,
- Such as abound in Venice, would be loud And all-mexorable in their cry
- For justice.
- This but proves it is the name Ang And not the quality they prize: the first
- Have found it a hard task to hold their honour,
- If they require it to be blazon'd forth;

And those who have not kept it, seek its	The uses of patricians, and a life seeming 70	Spent in the storms of state and war; and
As they would look out for an ornament	also
Of which they feel the want, but not be-	From the quick sense of honour, which because	comes
They think it so; they live in others'	A duty to a certain sign, a vice thoughts,	When overstrain'd, and this I fear in
And would seem honest, as they must seem	him. 110
fair.	And then he has been rash from his youth
Mar. You have strange thoughts for a	upwards,
patrician dame.	Yet temper'd by redeeming nobleness
Ang. And yet they were my father's;	In such sort, that the wariest of republics with his name,	Has lavish'd all its chief employs upon him,
The sole inheritance he left.	From his first fight to his last embassy,
Mar. You want none:	The mathick and the set of the dukedom
Mar. You want none;	From which on his return the dukedom
Wife to a prince, the chief of the Republic.	met him.
Ang I should have sought none though	Mar. But previous to this marriage, had a peasant's bride,	your heart
But feel not less the love and gratitude so	Ne'er beat for any of the noble youth,
Due to my father, who bestow'd my hand	Such as in years had been more meet to
Upon his early, trued, and trusted friend,	natch
The Count Val di Marmo, now our Doge.	Beauty like yours ? or since have you ne'er
Mar. And with that hand did he bestow	seen 120
your heart?	One, who, if your fair hand were still to
 Ang. He did so, or it had not been be- stow'd Mar. Yet this strange disproportion in your years, And, let me add, disparity of tempers, 	give, Might now pretend to Loredano's daugh- ter? Ang I answer'd your first question when I said
Might make the world doubt whether such	I married.
an union	Mar. And the second ?
Could make you wisely, permanently happy.	Ang. Needs no answer.
Ang. The world will think with world-	Mar. I pray you pardon, if I have oflings; but my heart 90	fended.
Has still been in my duties, which are	Ang. I feel no wrath, but some surprise:
many,	I knew not
But never difficult.	That wedded bosoms could permit them-
Mar. And do you love him?	selves
Ang. I love all noble qualities which	To ponder upon what they now might merit	choose,
Love, and I loved my father, who first taught	Or aught save their past choice.
me	Mar. 'T is their past choice
To single out what we should love in others,	That far too often makes them deem they
And to subdue all tendency to lend	would 130
The best and purest feelings of our nature	Now choose more wisely, could they can-
To baser passions. He bestow'd my hand	cel 1t
Upon Fahero: he had known hun noble,	Ang. It may be so. I knew not of such
Brave, generous; rich in all the qualities	thoughts.
Of soldier, citizen, and friend; in all ror	Mar. Here comes the Doge — shall I
Such have I found him as my father said.	retire?
His faults are those that dwell in the high	Ang It may bosoms	Be better you should quit me; he seems
Of men who have commanded too much	rapt pride,	In thought. — How pensively he takes his
And the deep passions fiercely foster'd by	way ! [Ext Marianna

Doge (musing). There is a certain Philip Calendaro S Now in the Arsenal, who holds command I Of eighty men, and has great influence H Besides on all the spirits of his comrades. H This man, I hear, is bold and popular, 140 Sudden and daring, and yet secret; 't would Be well that he were won: I needs must hope H That Israel Bertuccio has secured him, But fain would be — H	On an old man oft moved with many cares? Speak, and 't is done. Ang You 're ever kind to me. I have nothing to desire, or to request, Except to see you oftener and calmer. Doge. Calmer? Ang. Ay, calmer, my good lord. — Ah, why Do you still keep apart, and walk alone, And let such strong emotions stamp your brow, As not betraying their full import, yet Disclose too much? Doge. Disclose too much ! — of what?
Calendaro Now in the Arsenal, who holds command Of eighty men, and has great influence Besides on all the spirits of his comrades. This man, I hear, is bold and popular, 140 Sudden and daring, and yet secret; 't would Be well that he were won: I needs must hope That Israel Bertuccio has secured him, But fain would be — Pie. My lord, pray pardon me	Ang You're ever kind to me. I have nothing to desire, or to request, Except to see you oftener and calmer. Doge. Calmer ? Ang. Ay, calmer, my good lord. — Ah, why Do you still keep apart, and walk alone, And let such strong emotions stamp your brow, As not betraying their full import, yet Disclose too much ? Disclose too much ?
Now in the Arsenal, who holds command Of eighty men, and has great influence Besides on all the spirits of his comrades. This man, I hear, is bold and popular, 140 Sudden and daring, and yet secret; 't would Be well that he were won: I needs must hope That Israel Bertuccio has secured him, But fain would be — Pie. My lord, pray pardon me	I have nothing to desire, or to request, Except to see you oftener and calmer. Doge. Calmer? Ang. Ay, calmer, my good lord. — Ah, why Do you still keep apart, and walk alone, And let such strong emotions stamp your brow, As not betraying their full import, yet Disclose too much?
Of eighty men, and has great influence Besides on all the spirits of his comrades. This man, I hear, is bold and popular, 140 Sudden and daring, and yet secret; 't would Be well that he were won: I needs must hope That Israel Bertuccio has secured him, But fain would be — Pie. My lord, pray pardon me	Except to see you oftener and calmer. Doge. Calmer ? Ang. Ay, calmer, my good lord. — Ah, why Do you still keep apart, and walk alone, And let such strong emotions stamp your brow, As not betraying their full import, yet Disclose too much ?
Besides on all the spirits of his comrades. This man, I hear, is bold and popular, 140 Sudden and daring, and yet secret; 't would Be well that he were won: I needs must hope That Israel Bertuccio has secured him, But fain would be — Pie. My lord, pray pardon me	Doge. Calmer? Ang. Ay, calmer, my good lord. — Ah, why Do you still keep apart, and walk alone, And let such strong emotions stamp your brow, As not betraying their full import, yet Disclose too much?
This man, I hear, is bold and popular, 140 Sudden and daring, and yet secret; 't would Be well that he were won: I needs must hope That Israel Bertuccio has secured him, But fain would be — Pie. My lord, pray pardon me	Ang. Ay, calmer, my good lord. — Ah, why Do you still keep apart, and walk alone, And let such strong emotions stamp your brow, As not betraying their full import, yet Disclose too much ?
Sudden and daring, and yet secret; 't would Be well that he were won: I needs must hope That Israel Bertuccio has secured him, But fain would be — Pie. My lord, pray pardon me	Ah, why Do you still keep apart, and walk alone, And let such strong emotions stamp your brow, As not betraying their full import, yet Disclose too much ?
Be well that he were won: I needs must I hope That Israel Bertuccio has secured him, But fain would be — Pie. My lord, pray pardon me	Do you still keep apart, and walk alone, And let such strong emotions stamp your brow, As not betraying their full import, yet Disclose too much ?
hope That Israel Bertuccio has secured him, But fain would be — Pie. My lord, pray pardon me	And let such strong emotions stamp your brow, As not betraying their full import, yet Disclose too much ?
That Israel Bertuccio has secured him, But fain would be — Pie. My lord, pray pardon me	brow, As not betraying their full import, yet Disclose too much ?
But fain would be — Pie. My lord, pray pardon me	As not betraying their full import, yet Disclose too much?
Pie. My lord, pray pardon me	Disclose too much?
	What is there to disclose?
Charged me to follow and inquire your	Ang. A heart so ill
	At ease.
To fix an hour when he may speak with	Doge. 'T is nothing, child But in the
you.	state 181
Doge. At sunset Stay a moment -	You know what daily cares oppress all those let me see —	Who govern this precarious commonwealth,
Say in the second hour of night. [Erd PIETRO]	Now suffering from the Genoese without,
Ang. My lord !	And malcontents within - 't is this which
Doge My dearest child, forgive me -	makes me
why delay 151	More pensive and less tranquil than my
So long approaching me? - I saw you not.	wont
Ang. You were absorb'd in thought, and	Ang. Yet this existed long before, and he who now	never
	Till in these late days did I see you thus.
weight	Forgive me; there is something at your heart
To bear you from the senate.	More than the mere discharge of public
Doge. From the senate?	duties, 190
	Which long use and a talent like to yours
duty	Have render'd light, nay, a necessity,
	To keep your mind from stagnating. 'T is
Doge The senate's duty ! you mistake;	not
	In hostile states, nor perils, thus to shake
Ang. I thought the Duke had held com-	you;
	You, who have stood all storms and never
Doge. He shall. But let that pass We	sunk, will be jocund. 160	And climb'd up to the pinnacle of power
How fares it with you? have you been	And never fainted by the way, and stand abroad?	Upon it, and can look down steadily
The day is overcast, but the calm wave	Along the depth beneath, and ne'er feel
Favours the gondoher's light skimming oar;	dizzy. Were Genoa's galleys riding in the port, 200
Or have you held a levee of your friends?	Were civil fury raging in Saint Mark's,
Or has your music made you solitary?	You are not to be wrought on, but would
Say — is there aught that you would will within	fall,
The little sway now left the Duke? or	As you have risen, with an unalter'd brow-
aught	Your feelings now are of a different kind;
Of fitting splendour, or of honest pleasure,	Something has stung your pride, not patri
Social or lonely, that would glad your heart,	otism.
To compensate for many a dull hour,	Doge. Pride, Angiolina? Alas! none is wasted 101 many a data note,	left me.
,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,

-
Ang. Yes — the same sin that overthrew the angels,	Ne'er from that moment could this breast have known
And of all sins most easily besets	A joyous hour, or dreamless slumber more.
Mortals the nearest to the angelic nature:	Doge. Does not the law of Heaven say
The vile are only vain; the great are proud.	blood for blood ?
Doge 1 had the pride of honour, of your	And he who taints kills more than he who honour, 211	sheds it.
Deep at my heart — But let us change the	Is it the pain of blows, or shame of blows,
theme.	That make such deadly to the sense of
Ang Ah, no $!$ — As I have ever shared	man?
your kindness	Do not the laws of man say blood for
In all things else, let me not be shut out	honour ?
From your distress: were it of public im-	And, less than honour, for a little gold?
port,	Say not the laws of nations blood for treason?
You know I never sought, would never seek
To win a word from you; but feeling now	Is 't nothing to have fill'd these veins with
Your grief is private, it belongs to me	poison
To lighten or divide it. Since the day	For their once healthful current? is it
When foolish Steno's ribaldry detected 220	nothing
Unfix'd your quiet, you are greatly changed,	To have stain'd your name and mine — the
And I would soothe you back to what you	noblest names?
were.	Is 't nothing to have brought into contempt
Doge. To what I was ! — Have you heard	A prince before his people ? to have fail'd
Steno's sentence ?	In the respect accorded by mankind
Ang No.	To youth in woman, and old age in man?
Doge. A month's arrest.
	In ours? — But let them look to it who
Ang Is it not enough?
Doge. Enough ! yes, for a drunken	have saved him.
galley-slave,	Ang. Heaven bids us to forgive our
Who, stung by stripes, may murmur at his	enemies 260
master;	Doge. Doth Heaven forgive her own?
But not for a deliberate, false, cool villain,	Is there not Hell
Who stams a lady's and a prince's honour,	For wrath eternal?
Even on the throne of his authority.	Ang Do not speak thus wildly —
Ang. There seems to me enough in the	Heaven will alike forgive you and your foes.
conviction 230	Doge. Amen! May Heaven forgive
Of a patrician guilty of a falsehood:	them !
All other punishment were light unto	Ang. And will you?
His loss of honour.	Doge. Yes, when they are in heaven!
Doge. Such men have no honour;	Ang. And not till then?
They have but their vile lives — and these	Doge What matters my forgiveness? an are spared.	old man's,
Ang You would not have him die for	Worn out, scorn'd, spurn'd, abused; what this offence?	matters then
Doge Not now: — being still alive, I'd	My pardon more than my resentment, both have him live	Being weak and worthless? I have lived
Long as he can; he has ceased to merit	too long. — death;	But let us change the argument. My
The guilty saved hath damn'd his hundred	child ! 270
judges,	My injured wife, the child of Loredano,
And he is pure, for now his crime is theirs.	The brave, the chivalrous, how little deem'd
Ang. Oh, had this false and flippant li-	Thy father, wedding thee unto his friend, beller 240	That he was linking thee to shame ! Alas !
hed his young blood for his absurd lam-	Sh e without sin, for thou art faultless.
poon,	1 Hadst thou

512 _

 But had a different husband, any husband In Venice save the Doge, this blight, this brand, This blasphemy, had never fallen upon thee, — So young, so beautiful, so good, so pure, To suffer this, and yet be unavenged ! 280 Ang I am too well avenged, for you still love me, And trust, and honour me; and all men know That you are just, and I am true: what more Could I require, or you command ? Doge. 'T is well And may be better; but whate'er betide, Be thou at least kind to my memory. Ang. Why speak you thus ? Doge It is no matter why; But I would still, whatever others think, Have your respect both now and m my grave. Ang. Why should you doubt it ? has it ever fail'd ? 290 Doge. Come hither, child; I would a word with you. Your father was my friend; unequal for- tune Made him my debtor for some courtesies Which bind the good more firmly. When, oppress'd With his last malady, he will'd our union, It was not to repay me, long repaid Before by his great loyalty in friendship; His object was to place your orphan beauty In honourable safety from the perils, Which, in this scorpion nest of vice, assail 300 A lonely and undower'd maid. I did not Think with him, but would not oppose the thought Which soothed his death-bed. Ang. I have not forgotten The nobleness with which you bade me speak, 	 I sway'd such passions; nor was this my age Infected with that leprosy of lust Which taints the hoanest years of vicious men, Making them ransack to the very last The dregs of pleasure for their vanish'd joys; Or buy in selfish marriage some young victim, 319 Too helpless to refuse a state that's honest, Too feeling not to know herself a wretch Our wedlock was not of this sort, you had Freedom from me to choose, and urged in answer Your father's choice. Ang I did so; I would do so In face of earth and heaven; for I have never Repented for my sake; sometimes for yours, In pondering o'er your late disquietudes. Doge. I knew my heart would never treat you harshly; I knew my days could not disturb you long; And then the daughter of my earliest friend, 330 His worthy daughter, free to choose again, Wealthier and wiser, in the ripest bloom Of womanhood, more skilful to select By passing these probationary years, Inheriting a prince's name and riches, Secured, by the short penance of enduring An old man for some summers, against all That law's chicane or envious kinsmen might Have urged against her right; my best friend's child Would choose more fitly in respect of years, And not less truly in a faithful heart 341 Ang. My lord, I look'd but to my father's wishes, Hallow'd by his last words, and to my heart
Which soothed his death-bed. Ang. I have not forgotten The nobleness with which you bade me	Ang. My lord, I look'd but to my father's wishes, Hallow'd by his last words, and to my heart
If my young heart held any preference Which would have made me happier; nor your offer To make my dowry equal to the rank Of aught in Venice, and forego all claim	With faith to him with whom I was affianced Ambitious hopes ne'er cross'd my dreams; and should The hour you speak of come, it will be seen
My father's last mjunction gave you Doge. Thus, 'T was not a foolish dotard's vile caprice, 310 Nor the false edge of aged appetite, Which made me covetous of girlish beauty, And a young bride: for 1n my fieriest youth	Doge I do believe you; and I know you true For love, romantic love, which in my youth I knew to be illusion, and ne'er saw 350 Lasting, but often fatal, it had been

And could not be so now, dud such exist. But such respect, and mildly paid regard As a true feeling for your welfare, and Af free compliance with all honest wishes; It is consistency which forms and proves it. You compliance with all honest wishes; Not shown, but shadowing o'er such little failings As youth is apt in, so as not to check Rashly, but win you from them ere you duct, — A pride not m your beauty, but your con- duct, — A trust m you — a patriarchal love, And not a doting homage — frendship, faith — Such estimation in your eyes as these Might claum, I hoped for Arg, Ma deseing, feeling thus this truth in others (I pray you pardon me); but wherefore yield you for that mean proceed fatal passions, and Disquet your great thoughts with restless hate Of such a thing as Steno ? Doge I think so. For the difference our years You knew it, choosing me, and chose: I trusted Not to my qualities, nor would have faith In such, nor ourward ornameuts of nature, trusted You have done well. I thank you for that trust, Which I have never for one moment ceased Of your own faith and honour, for my own. Ang. You have done well. I thank you for that trust, Which I have never for one moment ceased Of your belief in heaven — to your mil to complete and procept-strengthen'd, 'ts the rock or sensal throbs corrulse it, well I know 'T were hopeless for humanity to dream Of honesity in such meteded blod, Anthough 't were weed to him it covets most. An inaarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chosel'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chosel'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in Soure the word the milt covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chosel'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in Sis majesty of superhuman manhod, The demi-diety of user here the wall Kow to demean himself in ducat chambers is maisty of superhuman manhod,	No lure for me, in my most passionate days,	Would not suffice to bind where virtue is not:
As a true feeling for your welfare, and A free compliance with all honest wishes; A kindness to your virtues, watchfulness Not shown, but shadowing o'er such little failings As youth is apt m, so as not to check Rashly, but win you from them ere you knew $_{50}$ You had been won, but thought the change your choice; A pride not m your beauty, but your con- duct, — A trust m you — a patriarchal love, And not a dotang homage — friendship, faith — Such estimation in your eyes as these Might claum, I hoped for Ang. You have one well. I thank you for that trust, Which I have never for one moment ceased To your own faith and honour, for my own. Ang. You have done well. I thank you for that trust, Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Dage I have thought on 't till — but let trusted Not to my qualities, nor would have faith In such, nor outward ornameuts of nature, Ang. You have done well. I thank you for that trust, Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Dage I have thought on 't till — but let trust do Now new in the ever for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Dage I have thought on 't till — but let trust for what I urged. — All these things being noted, Ture dem just were wet to him it covets most, An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chasel'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in So and the poet's god In all his marble-chasel'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in So and the poet's god In all his marble-chasel'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in So and the poet's god In all his marble-chasel'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in So and the poet's god In all his marble-chasel'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in So and the poet's god In all his marble-chasel'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in So and the poet's god In all his marble-chasel'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in So and the poet's god In all his marble-chasel'd beauty, or The dem	And could not be so now, did such exist.	It is consistency which forms and proves
A free compliance with all honest wishes; A kindness to your virues, watchfuless Not shown, but shadowing o'er such little failings Not shown, but whould the change your choice; And not a doting homage — friendship, faith — Such estimation in your eyes as these Might claim, I hoped for Ang. And have ever had. Doge I think so. For the difference our years You knew it, choosing me, and chose: I trusted Not to my qualites, nor would have faith In such, nor outward ornaments of nature, Were I still m my five and twenteth spring; 1 trusted to the blood of Loredano Fure in your veins; I trusted to the soul God gave you — to the truths your father taugh tyou — To your wown faith and honour, for my own. Ang. You have done well. I thank you for that trust, Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge. Where is honour, Innate and precept-strengthen'd, 't is the rock 5 Of faith connubal: where it is not — where Ight thoughts are lurking, or the wantes Of worldly pleasure rankle in the heart, Of sourd ory leaser rankle in the heart, Of worldy pleasure rankle in we wantes Of worldy pleasure rankle in the heart, Of worldy pleasure rankle in the torets most Athough' were wed to him it covets most. Athough' twere wed to him it covets most. A
 A kindness to your virtnes, watchfulness Not shown, but shadowing o'er such litle failings As youth is apt m, so as not to check Rashly, but win you from them er you knew You had been won, but thought the change your choice; A pride not m your beauty, but your con- duct, — A trust m you — a patriarchal love, And not a doting homage — friendship, faith — Such estimation in your eyes as these Might claum, I hoped for Ang. And nor a doting homage — friendship, faith — Such estimation in your eyes as these Might claum, I hoped for Ang. And have ever had. Doge I think so. For the difference in our years You knew it, choosing me, and chose: I trusted Not to imy qualities, nor would have faith in such, nor outward ornameuts of nature, trusted Your belief in heaven — to your mild virtues — To your own faith and honour, for my own. Ang. You have done well. I thank you for that trust; Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge. Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge. Which I have never for one moment ceased To worldy pleasure rankle in the heart, Or sensual throbs convulse it, well I know Twe chopless for humanity to dream Of honesty in such mfeeted blood, Athnough twere welo him it covets most. Athnough twere wolo thim it covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chneell'd beauty, or The demi-disty, Alcides, in Mich la marble-chneell'd beauty, or An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chneell'd beauty, or An incarnation of the poet's god An incarnation of the opet's god An incarnation of the poet's god
Not shown, but shadowing o'er such little failings Aig youth is apt m, so as not to check Rashly, but win you from them ere you kay but win you from them ere you have failed unto in your beauty, but your conduct, — Aig And seeing, feeling thus this truth in others Aig And seeing, feeling thus this truth in others Aig And seeing, feeling thus the struth in others Aig And seeing, feeling thus the struth in others Aig And seeing, feeling thus the struth in others Aig And seeing, feeling thus the struth in others Aig And seeing, feeling thus the struth in others Aig And seeing, feeling thus the struth in others Aig And seeing, feeling thus the struth in others Aig And seeing, feeling thus the struth in others our years Aig . And have ever had. Doge I think so. For the difference in our years Aig . Not to my qualities, nor would have faith in such, nor outward ornameuts of nature, were I still m my five and twentist spring; Aig . I trusted to the blood of Loredano Aig . You have done well. I thank you for that trust, $Mich i have never for one moment ceased for have you — to the truths your father taught you — To your work faith and honour, for my own. Aig. You have done well. I thank you for that trust, Which I have never for one moment ceased for hone strughts are lurking, or the vantues of faith connubal: where it is not — where is honour, Innate and precept-strengthen'd, 't is the rock Oig meand mine; and, born of those wh. made Oig shores, in all things you appear'd Worthy to be our first of native dames. Aig. To what does this conduct? Oig The vicility Alcides, in Signal Aight and the pust to dome and mine; and, born of these things from the analts of our great festral, in the midst of our great festral, and mine ind work that Aight and bis were were is honour, and in arearbour is the or to dome and mine; and, born of those wh. Mig. To what does this conduct? Night and the out in the corets most. An incarnation of the poet's god I have tho demical forth, and taught How$
As youth is opt m, so as not to check Rashly, but win you from them ere you knew 360 You had been won, but thought the change your chonce; A pride not m your beauty, but your con- duct,— A trust m you— a patriarchal love, And not a doting homage — friendship, faith— Such estimation in your eyes as these Might claim, I hoped for Ang. And have ever had Doge I think so. For the difference in our years You knew it, choosing me, and chose: I trusted Not to my qualities, nor would have faith In such, nor outward ornaments of nature, Were I still in my five and twenteth sprmg; I trusted to the blood of Loredano Pure in your veins; I trusted to the sould God gave you—to the truths your faither taught you— To your won faith and honour, for my own Ang. You have enver for one moment ceased Of such a timged.—All these things being noted, I wedded you; the world then did me jus- tice Upon the motive, and my conduct proved They did me right, while yours was all to praise: You had all freedom—all respect—a' trust for hait rust, Which I have never for one moment ceased Of faith comulas: where it is not—where light thoughts are lurking, or the vanites Of worldly pleasure rankle in the heart, Or sensual throbs convulse it, well I know 'T were hopeless for humanity to dream Of honesty in such mfeeted blood, Although' t were wed to hin it covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chisell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in Sor
Rashly, but win you from them ere you knew x_{0} has been won, but thought the change your choice; A pride not myour beauty, but your con- duct, — A trust nu you — a patriarchal love, And not a doting homage — friendship, faith — Such estimation in your eyes as these Might claim, I hoped for Ang. And have even had. Doge I think so. For the difference our years You knew it, choosing me, and chose: I trusted Not to my qualites, nor would have faith In such nor outward ornaments of nature, Were I still in my five and twenteth spring; 1 trusted to the bood God gave you —to the truths your father tangh you — to the truths your father tangh you — to the truths your father tangh you — to the truths your father tangh you have done well. I thank you for that trust, Doge. Where is honour, Doge. Where is honour, To your convlise it, well I know Tween hopeless for humanity to dream Of nonesty in such mfeeted blood, Although 't were wed to hin it covets most. Although 't were wed to hin it covets	failings knewforYou had been won, but thought the change your choue;Ang And seeing, feeling thus this truth in othersA pride not m your beauty, but your con- duct, —And not a doting homage — friendship, faith —A trust m you — a patriarchal love, And not a doting homage — friendship, faith —(I pray you pardon me); but wherefore yield you years doting homage — friendship, faith —Such estimation in your eyes as these Might claim, I hoped for Ang . And have ever had. $Doge$ I think so. For the difference in our years You knew it, choosing me, and chose: I trusted(I may you pardon me); but wherefore yield you $aroYou knew it, choosing me, and chose: Itrusted(I may qualities, nor would have faithin such, nor outward ornaments of nature,were I still m my five and twentethspring;To your behef m heaven — to your mildvirtues —377To your behef m heaven — to your mildvirtues —377To your own fath and honour, for my own.Ang. You have done well. I thank youfor that trust,377To your own fath and honour, for my own.Ang. You have done well. I thank youfor that trust,380To goefor into convluse it, well I know'T were hopeless for humanity to dreamOf fault comubul: where it is not — whereLight thoughts are lurking, or the vantesOf worldly pleasure rankle in the heart,Or sensul throbs convluse it, well I know'T were hopeless for humanity to dreamOf honesty in such infected blood,A nilaim, whom for his unbrdled bearing,even in the midst of our great festival,it caused to be conducted forth, and tanghtHow to demean himself in ducal chamber?$
You had been won, but thought the change your choue; A pride not m your beauty, but your con- duct,— A trust m you — a patriarchal love, And not a dotng homage — friendship, faith — Such estimation in your eyes as these Might claim, I hoped for Ang. And have even had. Doge I think so. For the difference m our years You knew it, choosing me, and chose: I trusted Not to my qualthes, nor would have faith In such, nor outward ornaments of nature, Were I still m my five and twenteth spring; I trusted to the blood of Loredano Pure in your veins; I trusted to the soul God gave you —to the truths your father tanght you.— To your behef m heaven —to your mild virtues— To your woen faith and honour, for my own. Ang. You have done well. I thank you for that trust, Doge. Where is honour, Doge. Where is honour, Doge. Where is honour, Thate and precept-strengthen'd, 'tis the rock 7 the demi-diety, Alcides, in 7 Step and throws corvulae it, well I know Twere hopeless for humanity to dream Of nonesty in such mfected blood, Although 't were wed to him it covets most Although 't were wed to him it covets most The demi-diety, Alcides, in 7 Step and throbs convulse it, well I know The demi-diety, Alcides, in 7 Step and throbs convulse it, well I know The demi-diety, Alcides, in 7 Step and throbs convulse it, well I know The demi-diety, Alcides, in 7 Step and throbs convulse it, well I know The demi-diety, Alcides, in 7 Step and throbs convulse it, well I know The demi-diety, Alcides, in 7 Step and throbs convulse it, well I know The demi-diety, Alcides, in 7 Step and throbs convulse it, well I know The demi-diety, Alcides, in 7 Step and the step and throbs convulse it, well I know The demi-diety, Alcides, in 7 Step and the step and throbs for and tanght How to demean himself in ducal chamber?	· · · · · · your choice; A pride not in your beauty, but your conduct, — A trust in you — a patriarchal love, And not a doting homage — friendship, faith — Such estimation in your eyes as these Might claim, I hoped for Ang. And have ever had. Doge I think so. For the difference in our years You knew it, choosing me, and chose: I trusted You knew it, choosing me, and chose: I trusted Not to im your versis; I trusted to the soul God gave you — to the truths your father taught you — To your behef in heaven — to your midding trues. To your own faith and honour, for my own. Ang. You have done well. I thank you for that trust. Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge. Which I have never for one moment ceased To what on precept-strengthen'd, 't is the rock To solat throbs convulsa it, well I know To were hopeless for humanity to dream of honesty in such infected blood, Although 't were wed to him it covets most. Although 't were wed to him it covets most. Although 't were wed to him it covets most. Although 't were wed to him it covets most. Although 't were wed to him it covets most. Although 't were wed to him it covets most. Although 't were wed to him it covets most. Although 't were wed to him it covets most. Although 't were wed to him it covets most. Although 't were wed to him it covets most. Although 't were wed to him it covets most. Although 't were wed to him it covets most. Although 't were wed to him it covets most. Although 't were wed to him it covets most. Although 't were wed to him it covets most. Although 't were wed to him it covets most. Although 't were wed to him it covets most. Although 't were wed to him it co
A pride not m your beauty, but your conduct, — incarnation of the poet's god management of the emailer of the server has an incarnation of the poet's god marked ma duct, — A trust m you — a patriarchal love, And not a doting homage — friendship, faith — Such estimation in your eyes as these Might claum, I hoped for Ang. And have ever had. Doge I think so. For the difference our years You knew it, choosing me, and chose: I trusted You knew it, choosing me, and chose: I trusted Not to my qualities, nor would have faith In such, nor outward ornaments of nature, Were I still m my five and twentieth spring;
A trust m you — a patriarchal love, And not a dotug homage — frendshp, faith — Such estimation in your eyes as these Might claim, I hoped for Ang. And have ever had. Doge I think so. For the difference m our years You knew it, choosing me, and chose: I trusted Not to my qualities, nor would have faith In such, nor outward ornaments of nature, Were I still m my five and twenteth spring; I trusted to the blood of Loredano Pure in your veins; I trusted to the soul God gave you — to the truths your father taught you — To your own faith and honour, for my own. Ang. You have done well. I thank you for that trust, Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge. Where is honour, Innate and precept-strengthen'd, 't is the rock ''''''''''''''''''''''''''''''''''''
And not a doting homage — friendship, faith — faith = faith faith faith = faith = fai
 Such estimation in your eyes as these Might claim, I hoped for Ang. And have ever had. Doge I think so. For the difference in our years You knew it, choosing me, and chose: I trusted Not to my qualities, nor would have faith In such, nor outward ornaments of nature, Were I still in my five and twenteth spring; 377 I trusted to the blood of Loredano Pure in your veins; I trusted to the soul God gave you — to the truths your father taught you — To your behef in heaven — to your mild virtues — To your own faith and honour, for my own. Ang. You have done well. I thank you for that trust, Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge. Where is honour, Innate and precept-strengthen'd, 't is the rock Of faith connubial: where it is not — where Light thoughts are lurking, or the vanites of worldly pleasure rankle in the heart, Or sensnal throbs convulse it, well I know 'T were hopeless for humanity to dream Of honesty in such infected blood, Although 't were wed to him it covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chesell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in Sub deminication of the poet's god In all his marble-chesell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in Sub deminication of the poet's god Sub charles and precepting the sub trust in and hone the in the midst of our great festival, I caused to be conducted forth, and taught How to demean himself in ducal chambers
 Might claum, I hoped for Ang. And have ever had. Doge I think so. For the difference in our years You knew it, choosing me, and chose: I trusted You knew it, choosing me, and chose: I trusted Not to my qualities, nor would have faith in such, nor outward ornaments of nature, Were I still in my five and twentaeth spring; 377 I trusted to the blood of Loredano Pure in your veins; I trusted to the soul God gave you — to the truths your father taught you — To your belief in heaven — to your mild virtues — To your own faith and honour, for my own. Ang. You have done well. I thank you for that trust, Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge. Where is honour, Inmate and precept-strengthen'd, 't is the rock 380 Of faith commubal: where it is not — where is noted, 11 Where is honour, Inmate and precept-strengthen'd, 't is the rock 380 Of faith commubal: where it is not — where is noted, 12 Where is honour, Inmate and precept-strengthen'd, 't is the rock 380 Of faith commubal: where it is not — where is noted, 12 Where is honour, Inmate and precept-strengthen'd, 't is the rock 380 Of faith commubal: where it is not — where is noted, 12 Write is honour, for my own. Ang. To what does this conduct? Doge The violated majesty of the world the through is marble-chesell'd blood, Although 't were wed to him it covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chesell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in 390
And have ever had. DogeAnd have ever had. DogeHad it been so, he should — but let that pass.You knew it, choosing me, and chose: I trustedtrustedhave feath agss.You knew it, choosing me, and chose: I trustedtrustedhave feath agss.Not to my qualities, nor would have faith in such, nor outward ornaments of nature, Were I still m my five and twentieth spring; I trusted to the blood of LoredanoDogePure in your veins; I trusted to the soul God gave you — to the truths your father taught you —371To your own faith and honour, for my own. Ang. You have done well. I thank you for that trust, Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge. Where is honour, Innate and precept-strengthen'd, 't is the rockWere is honour, soOf faith connubal: where it is not — where is honour, 'T were hopeless for humanity to dream Of honesty in such infected blood, Although 't were wed to him it covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chesell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, inHad it been so, he should — but let that pass. Ang What is 't you feel so deeply, then, even now?Had it been so, he should — but let that pass.Ang. Alas ! why will you thus consulter it?JordGod gave you — to the truths your father trust for that trust,Which I have never for one moment ceased for honour you the more for. Doge.Jone all freedom — all respect — a' trustDoge.Where is honour, The demi-diety, Alcides, in380Of faith connubal: where it is not — where it is more-chesell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, DogeI think so. For the difference m our yearspass.You knew it, choosing me, and chose: I trustedAng What is 't you feel so deeply, then, even now?You knew it, choosing me, and chose: I trustedDoge The violated majesty of Venice, At once insulted in her lord and laws.Not to my qualities, nor would have faith In such, nor outward ornaments of nature, Were I still m my five and twentheth spring;377I trusted to the blood of Loredano Pure in your veins; I trusted to the soul God gave you — to the truths your father taught you —377To your behef m heaven — to your mild virtues —1000000000000000000000000000000000000 our yearsYou knew it, choosing me, and chose: I trustedYou knew it, choosing me, and chose: I trustedNot to my qualities, nor would have faith In such, nor outward ornaments of nature, were I still m my five and twentieth spring; 371I trusted to the blood of LoredanoPure in your veins; I trusted to the soul God gave you — to the truths your father taught you —To your own faith and honour, for my own. Ang. You have done well. I thank you for that trust,Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge.Doge.Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge.Doge.Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge.Doge.Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge.Doge.Of faith connubial: where it is not — where Light thoughts are lurking, or the vanites Of worldly pleasure rankle in the heart, Or sensual throbs convulse it, well I know T were hopeless for humanity to dream Of honesty in such mfected blood, Although 't were wed to him it covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chnsell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, inYou had all me indict, Alcides, in You knew it, choosing me, and chose: I trusted Not to my qualities, nor would have faith in such, nor outward ornaments of nature, Were I still m my five and twentieth spring; I trusted to the blood of Loredano Pure in your veins; I trusted to the soul God gave you—to the truths your father taught you— To your behef m heaven—to your mild virtues— To your own faith and honour, for my own. Ang. You have done well. I thank you for that trust, Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge. Mich i have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge. Where is honour, Innate and precept-strengthen'd, 't is the rock Of faith connubial: where it is not—where Light thoughts are lurking, or the vanites Of worldly pleasure rankle in the heart, Or sensual throbs convulse it, well I know 'T were hopeless for humanity to dream Of honesty in such mfected blood, Although 't were wed to him it covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chusell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in 200 200 200 200 200 200 200 20	• trusted Not to my qualities, nor would have faith In such, nor outward ornaments of nature, Were I still m my five and twentieth spring; 371 I trusted to the blood of Loredano Pure in your veins; I trusted to the soul God gave you — to the truths your faither taught you — To your behef m heaven — to your mild virtues — To your own faith and honour, for my own. Ang. You have done well. I thank you for that trust, Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge. Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge. Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge. Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge. Where is honour, Innate and precept-strengthen'd, 't is the rock Gf faith commubial: where it is not — where Light thoughts are lurking, or the vanties Of worldly pleasure rankle in the heart, An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chusell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in The demi-diety, Alcides, in The demi-diety, Alcides, in To you commutation and the poet's god The demi-diety, Alcides, in The demi-diety, Alcides, in To the subset of use of the soul specific difference of th
In such, nor outward ornaments of nature, Were I still m my five and twentieth spring; I trusted to the blood of Loredano Pure in your veins; I trusted to the soul God gave you — to the truths your father taught you — To your behef m heaven — to your mild virtues — To your own fath and honour, for my own. Ang. You have done well. I thank you for that trust, Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge. Where is honour, Innate and precept-strengthen'd, 't is the rock Of faith connubal: where it is not — where Light thoughts are lurking, or the vantues Of honesty in such infected blood, Although 't were wed to him it covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chusell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in 300 I such metad you back An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chusell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in 300 Altaough 't were well of him it covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chusell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in 307 Altaough 't were well's god In all his marble-chusell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in 307 Altaough 't were well's god In all his marble-chusell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in 307 Altaough 't were well's god In all his marble-chusell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in 307 Altaough 't were well's god In all his marble-chusell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in 307 Altaough 't were well's god In all his marble-chusell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in 307 Altaough 't were well's god In all his marble-chusell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in 307 Altaough 't were well's god I sub the demi-diaty and taught How to demean himself in ducal chambers 307 307 Altaough 't were well's god 307 307 307 307 307 307 307 307		Doge The violated majesty of Venice,
 Were I still m my five and twentieth spring; I trusted to the blood of Loredano Pure in your veins; I trusted to the soul God gave you — to the truths your father taught you — To your behef in heaven — to your mild virtues — To your own fath and honour, for my own. Ang. You have done well. I thank you for that trust, Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge. Where is honour, Innate and precept-strengthen'd, 't is the rock Of faith connubial: where it is not — where Light thoughts are lurking, or the vanttes of worldly pleasure rankle in the heart, Or sensual throbs convulse it, well I know 'T were hopeless for humanity to dream of honesty in such infected blood, Although 't were wed to him it covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chusell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in 390 	Not to my qualities, nor would have faith	At once insulted in her lord and laws.
spring; 371 I trusted to the blood of Loredano Pure in your veins; I trusted to the soul God gave you — to the truths your father taught you — To your own fath and honour, for my own. Ang. You have done well. I thank you for that trust, Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge. Where is honour, Innate and precept-strengthen'd, 't is the rock 380 Of faith connubial: where it is not — where Light thoughts are lurking, or the vanites Of worldly pleasure rankle in the heart, Or sensual throbs convulse it, well I know 'T were hopeless for humanity to dream Of honesty in such infected blood, Although 't were wed to him it covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chusell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in 390
I trusted to the blood of Loredano Pure in your veins; I trusted to the soul God gave you — to the truths your father taught you — To your behef m heaven — to your mild virtues — To your own faith and honour, for my own. Ang. You have done well. I thank you for that trust, Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge. Where is honour, Innate and precept-strengthen'd, 't is the rock Of faith connubial: where it is not — where Light thoughts are lurking, or the vanites Of worldly pleasure rankle in the heart, Or sensual throbs convulse it, well I know 'T were hopeless for humanity to dream Of honesty in such infected blood, Although 't were wed to him it covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chisell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in 2400 Mathematical and precepting the poet's god In all his marble-chisell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in 2400 Mathematical and precepting the poet's god In all his marble of the poet's god In all his dot the poet's god In all his marble of the poet's god In all his marble of the poet's god In all his marble of the poet's god In all his dot the poet's god In all his dot the poet's god In all his dot the poet 's god In all his dot the poet 's god In a	•
 Pure in your veins; I trusted to the soul God gave you — to the truths your father taught you — To your belief m heaven — to your mild virtues — To your own faith and honour, for my own. Ang. You have done well. I thank you for that trust, Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge. Where is honour, Innate and precept-strengthen'd, 't is the rock 050 f faith connubial: where it is not — where Light thoughts are lurking, or the vanites Of worldly pleasure rankle in the heart, Or sensual throbs convulse it, well I know 'T were hopeless for humanity to dream Of honesty in such infected blood, Although 't were wed to him it covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chusell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in 390 To what I urged. — All these things being noted, I wedded you; the world then did me justice Upon the motive, and my conduct proved They did me right, while yours was all to praise: You had all freedom — all respect — a' trust From me and mine; and, born of those wh. made Princes at home, and swept kings from their thrones On foreign shores, in all things you appear'd Worthy to be our first of native dames. Ang. To what does this conduct? Doge To thus much, that A miscreant's angry breath may blast it all — 421 A villain, whom for his unbridled bearing, Even in the midst of our great festival, I caused to be conducted forth, and taught How to demean himself in ducal chambers
God gave you — to the truths your father taught you — To your behef m heaven — to your mild virtues — To your own fath and honour, for my own. Ang. You have done well. I thank you for that trust, Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge. Where is honour, Innate and precept-strengthen'd, 't is the rock 380 Of faith connubal: where it is not — where Light thoughts are lurking, or the vantues Of worldly pleasure rankle in the heart, Or sensual throbs convulse it, well I know 'T were hopeless for humanity to dream Of honesty in such infected blood, Although 't were wed to him it covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chusell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in 390 taught you — To your behef m heaven — to your mild virtues — To your own faith and honour, for my own. Ang. You have done well. I thank you for that trust, Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge. Where is honour, Innate and precept-strengthen'd, 't is the rock 380 Of faith connubial: where it is not — where Light thoughts are lurking, or the vanities of worldly pleasure rankle in the heart, Or sensual throbs convulse it, well I know 'T were hopeless for humanity to dream Of honesty in such mfected blood, Although 't were wed to him it covets most. A nincarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chisell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in 390 I wedded you; the world then did me justice Upon the motive, and my conduct proved They did me right, while yours was all to praise: You had all freedom — all respect — a' trust From me and mine; and, born of those wh. made Princes at home, and swept kings from their thrones 0n foreign shores, in all things you appear'd Worthy to be our first of native dames. Ang. To what does this conduct? Doge To thus much, that A miscreant's angry breath may blast it all — 421 A villain, whom for his unbridled bearing, Even in the midst of our great festival, I caused to be conducted forth, and taught How to demean himself in ducal chambers
 To your behef m heaven — to your mild virtues — To your own faith and honour, for my own. Ang. You have done well. I thank you for that trust, Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge. Where is honour, Innate and precept-strengthen'd, 't is the rock 380 Of faith connubial: where it is not — where Light thoughts are lurking, or the vanities of worldly pleasure rankle in the heart, Or sensual throbs convulse it, well I know 'T were hopeless for humanity to dream Of honesty in such infected blood, Although 't were wed to him it covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chisell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in 390 To your own faith and honour, for my own. Ang. To what does this conduct? Doge To thus much, that A miscreant's angry breath may blast it all — 421 A villain, whom for his unbridled bearing, Even in the midst of our great festival, I caused to be conducted forth, and taught How to demean himself in ducal chambers
 To your own faith and honour, for my own. Ang. You have done well. I thank you for that trust, Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge. Where is honour, Innate and precept-strengthen'd, 't is the rock 380 Of faith connubial: where it is not — where Light thoughts are lurking, or the vanites Of worldly pleasure rankle in the heart, Or sensual throbs convulse it, well I know 'T were hopeless for humanity to dream Of honesty in such infected blood, Although 't were wed to him it covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chusell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in 390 They did me right, while yours was all to praise: You had all freedom — all respect — a' trust You had all freedom — all respect — a' trust From me and mine; and, born of those wh. made Princes at home, and swept kings from their thrones On foreign shores, in all things you appear'd Worthy to be our first of native dames. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chusell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in 390 		tice
Ang. You have done well. I thank you for that trust,praise:Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge.You had all freedom — all respect — a' trustInnate and precept-strengthen'd, 't is the rock380Of faith connubial: where it is not — where Light thoughts are lurking, or the vanites Of worldly pleasure rankle in the heart, Or sensual throbs convulse it, well I know 'T were hopeless for humanity to dream Of honesty in such infected blood, Although 't were wed to him it covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chusell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, inpraise: You had all freedom — all respect — a' trustYou had all freedom — all respect — a' You had all freedom — all respect — a' trustYou had all freedom — all respect — a' trustYou had all freedom — all	virtues — for that trust, Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge. Where is honour, Innate and precept-strengthen'd, 't is the rock 380 Of faith comubal: where it is not — where Light thoughts are lurking, or the vantues Of worldly pleasure rankle in the heart, Or sensual throbs convulse it, well I know 'T were hopeless for humanity to dream Of honesty in such mfected blood, Although 't were wed to him it covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chusell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in You had all freedom — all respect — a' trust From me and mine; and, born of those wh. made Princes at home, and swept kings from their thrones On foreign shores, in all things you appear'd Worthy to be our first of native dames. Ang. To what does this conduct? Doge To thus much, that A miscernati's angry breath may blast it all — 4 ²¹ A villain, whom for his unbridled bearing, Even in the midst of our great festival, How to demean himself in ducal chambers
Which I have never for one moment ceased To honour you the more for. Doge.trustDoge.Where is honour, Innate and precept-strengthen'd, 't is the rockTo me and mine; and, born of those wh. madeInnate and precept-strengthen'd, 't is the rock380Princes at home, and swept kings from their thronesOf faith connubial: where it is not — where Light thoughts are lurking, or the vanttes Of worldly pleasure rankle in the heart, Or sensual throbs convulse it, well I know 'T were hopeless for humanity to dream Of honesty in such mfected blood, Although 't were wed to him it covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chusell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, inTrustWhere is honour, about the poet's god In all his marble-chusell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, instrustWorthy to be our first of native dames. Ang. To what does this conduct? Doge In all his marble-chusell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, instrustWorthy to be conducted forth, and taught How to demean himself in ducal chambers
To honour you the more for.Doge.From me and mine; and, born of those wh.Doge.Where is honour,Innate and precept-strengthen'd, 't is the rock380Of faith connubial: where it is not — where Light thoughts are lurking, or the vanities Of worldly pleasure rankle in the heart, Or sensual throbs convulse it, well I know 'T were hopeless for humanity to dream Of honesty in such infected blood, Although 't were wed to him it covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chisell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, inFrom me and mine; and, born of those wh. made Princes at home, and swept kings from their thrones On foreign shores, in all things you appear'd Worthy to be our first of native dames. Ang. To what does this conduct? Doge To thus much, that A miscreant's angry breath may blast it all — 421 A villain, whom for his unbridled bearing, Even in the midst of our great festival, I caused to be conducted forth, and taught How to demean himself in ducal chambers
Doge.Where is honour,madeInnate and precept-strengthen'd, 't is the rock380Princes at home, and swept kings from their thronesOf faith connubial: where it is not — where Light thoughts are lurking, or the vanites Of worldly pleasure rankle in the heart, Or sensual throbs convulse it, well I know 'T were hopeless for humanity to dream Of honesty in such infected blood, Although 't were wed to him it covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chisell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, inmade Princes at home, and swept kings from the vantes On foreign shores, in all things you appear'd Worthy to be our first of native dames. Ang. To what does this conduct? DogeAvillain, whom for his unbridled bearing, Even in the midst of our great festival, I caused to be conducted forth, and taught How to demean himself in ducal chambers Innate and precept-strengthen'd, 't is the rock 380 Of faith connubial: where it is not — where Light thoughts are lurking, or the vanites Of worldly pleasure rankle in the heart, Or sensual throbs convulse it, well I know 'T were hopeless for humanity to dream Of honesty in such infected blood, Although 't were wed to him it covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chusell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in 390 rock 380 Of faith connubual: where it is not — where Light thoughts are lurking, or the vantues Of worldly pleasure rankle in the heart, Or sensual throbs convulse it, well I know 'T were hopeless for humanity to dream Of honesty in such infected blood, Although 't were wed to him it coverts most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chusell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in 390 Tothus marble and the poet's god The demi-diety, Alcides, in 390 Tothus marble and the poet's god The demi-diety, Alcides, in 390 Tothus marble and the poet's god The demi-diety, Alcides, in 390 Tothus marble and the poet's god The demi-diety of the poet's god the marble and the poet's god the poet of the poet's god the poet of Light thoughts are lurking, or the vanitus Of worldly pleasure rankle in the heart, Or sensual throbs convulse it, well I know 'T were hopeless for humanity to dream Of honesty in such mfected blood, Although 't were wed to him it covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chusell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in 1 were hopeless for humanity to dream Of honesty in such mfected blood, Although 't were well to him it covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chusell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in Not the top to be our first of native dames. An incarnation of the poet's god The demi-diety, Alcides, in Not top top top top top top top top top t		their thrones
Of worldly pleasure rankle in the heart, Or sensual throbs convulse it, well I know 'T were hopeless for humanity to dream Of honesty in such mfected blood, Although 't were wed to him it covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chusell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, inAng. To what does this conduct? Doge Ang. To thus much, that A miscreant's angry breath may blast it all 421 A villain, whom for his unbridled bearing, Even in the mudst of our great festival, I caused to be conducted forth, and taught How to demean himself in ducal chambers
Or sensual throbs convulse it, well I know 'T were hopeless for humanity to dream Of honesty in such infected blood, Although 't were wed to him it covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chisell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in Doge Doge To thus much, that A miscreant's angry breath may blast it all A villain, whom for his unbridled bearing, Even in the midst of our great festival, I caused to be conducted forth, and taught How to demean himself in ducal chambers
'T were hopeless for humanity to dream Of honesty in such infected blood, Although 't were wed to him it covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chisell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, inA miscreant's angry breath may blast it all — A villain, whom for his unbridled bearing, Even in the midst of our great festival, I caused to be conducted forth, and taught How to demean himself in ducal chambers
Of honesty in such infected blood, Although 't were wed to him it covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chisell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in 390 Although 't were wed to him it covets most. A villain, whom for his unbridled bearing, Even in the midst of our great festival, I caused to be conducted forth, and taught How to demean himself in ducal chambers
Although 't were wed to him it covets most. An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chisell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in 390 A villain, whom for his unbridled bearing, Even in the midst of our great festival, I caused to be conducted forth, and taught How to demean himself in ducal chambers
An incarnation of the poet's god In all his marble-chisell'd beauty, or The demi-diety, Alcides, in 390 Beven in the midst of our great festival, I caused to be conducted forth, and taught How to demean himself in ducal chambers		A villain, whom for his unbridled bearing,
The demi-diety, Alcides, in 390 How to demean himself in ducal chambers		Even in the midst of our great festival, ans majesty of supernuman mannood, A wretch like this may leave upon the wall cus majesty of supernuman manfiood,	The wretch like this may leave upon the wall

The blighting venom of his sweltering heart,	Her servant, though her chief — I would
And this shall spread itself in general poison;	bave gone Down to my fathers with a name serene And pure as theirs; but this has been de-
And woman's innocence, man's honour, pass	nied me —
Into a by-word; and the doubly felon $_{430}$	Would I had died at Zara !
(Who first insulted virgin modesty	Ang There you saved
By a gross affront to your attendant damsels Amidst the noblest of our dames in public)	The state; then live to save her still. A day, 470
Requite himself for his most just expulsion	Another day like that would be the best
By blackening publicly his sovereign's con- sort,	Reproof to them, and sole revenge for you. Doge But one such day occurs within an
And be absolved by his upright competers	age; Mr life is liftle loss then one and 't is
Ang. But he has been condemn'd into captivity.	My life is little less than one, and 't is Enough for Fortune to have granted once,
Doge. For such as him a dungeon were	That which scarce one more favour'd citizen acquittal;	May win in many states and years. But
And his brief term of mock-arrest will	why pass 7439	Thus speak I? Venuce has forgot that Within a palace. But I've done with him; The rest must be with you.	day, Then why should I remember it? — Fare-
Ang With me, my lord?	well,
Doge Yes, Angiolma. Do not marvel · I	Sweet Angiolina ! I must to my cabinet; 480
Have let this prey upon me till I feel	There's much for me to do — and the hour
My life can not be long; and fain would	hastens have you Regard the injunctions you will find within	Ang. Remember what you were. Doge. It were in vain !
This scroll (Giving her a paper) — Fear	Doge. It were in vain ! Joy's recollection is no longer joy, not; they are for your advantage	While Sorrow's memory is a sorrow still.
Read them hereafter at the fitting hour	Ang. At least, whate'er may urge, let me
Ang My lord, in life and after life you	implore shall Pe honour'd still by me but may your days	That you will take some little pause of rest: Your sleep for many nights has been so
Be many yet — and happier than the	turbid,
present ! 450	That it had been relief to have awaked you,
This passion will give way, and you will be	Had I not hoped that Nature would o'er-
Serene, and what you should be - what	power you were. Doge. I will be what I should be, or be	At length the thoughts which shook your slumbers thus nothing;	An hour of rest will give you to your toils
But never more — oh ! never, never more,	With fitter thoughts and freshen'd strength.
O'er the few days or hours which yet await	Doge I cannot —
The blighted old age of Faliero, shall	I must not, if I could; for never was
Sweet Quiet shed her sunset! Never more Those summer shadows rising from the past	Such reason to be watchful: yet a few — Yet a few days and dream-perturbed nights,
Of a not ill-spent nor inglorious life,	And I shall slumber well — but where ? —
Mellowing the last hours as the night ap-	no matter proaches, 460	Adieu, my Angrolina.
Shall soothe me to my moment of long rest	Ang. Let me be
I had but little more to ask or hope, Save the regards due to the blood and sweat,	An instant — yet an instant your companion ! I cannot bear to leave you thus.
And the soul's labour through which I had	Doge. Come then,
toil'd	My gentle child, forgive me; thou wert
To make my country honour'd. As her	made 500
servant —	For better fortunes than to share in mine,

Cal.

- Now darkling in their close toward the deep vale
- Where Death sits robed in his all-sweeping shadow
- When I am gone it may be sooner than Even these years warrant, for there is that stirring

Within, above, around, that in this city Will make the cemeteries populous As e'er they were by pestilence or war, ---

When I am nothing, let that which I was Be still sometimes a name on thy sweet lips,

A shadow in thy fancy, of a thing

Which would not have thee mourn it, but remember; --

Let us begone, my child, the time is pressing. [Ezeunt

Scene II

A retried Spot near the Aisenal.

ISEAEL BERTUCCIO and PHILIP CALENDARO

Cal. How sped you, Israel, in your late complaint?

I. Ber. Why, well.

Cal. Is 't possible ! will he be punish'd ? I Ber. Yes.

Cal. With what ? a mulct or an arrest ? I. Ber. With death !

Cal. Now you rave, or must intend revenge,

Such as I counsell'd you, with your own hand.

I. Ber. Yes; and for one sole draught of hate, forego 519

The great redress we meditate for Venice, And change a life of hope for one of exile; Leaving one scorpion crush'd, and thousands stinging

My friends, my family, my countrymen ! No, Calendaro; these same drops of blood, Shed shamefully, shall have the whole of his For their requital — But not only his;

We will not strike for private wrongs alone; Such are for selfish passions and rash men, But are unworthy a tyrannicide.

Cal. You have more patience than I care to boast. 530

Had I been present when you bore this insult,

I must have slain him, or expired myself In the vam effort to repress my wrath.

I. Ber. Thank Heaven, you were not all had else been marr'd:

As 't is, our cause looks prosperous still.

You saw

The Doge — what answer gave he? I. Ber. That there was No punishment for such as Barbaro. Cal. I told you so before, and that 't was idle

To think of justice from such hands I. Ber. At

I. Ber. At least, It lull'd suspicion, showing confidence. 540

Had I been silent, not a sbirro but

Had kept me in his eye, as meditating

A silent, solitary, deep revenge.

Cal. But wherefore not address you to the Council?

The Doge is a mere puppet, who can scarce

Obtain right for himself. Why speak to him?

I. Ber. You shall know that hereafter.

Cal. Why not now *

I. Ber. Be patient but till midnight. Get your musters,

And bid our friends prepare their companies:

Set all in readmess to strike the blow, 550 Perhaps in a few hours; we have long waited For a fit time — that hour is on the dial,

It may be, of to-morrow's sun: delay

Beyond may breed us double danger See

That all be punctual at our place of meeting,

And arm'd, excepting those of the Sixteen, Who will remain among the troops to wait The signal.

Cal. These brave words have breathed new life

Into my veins; I am sick of these protracted And hesitating councils: day on day 560 Crawl'd on, and added but another link

To our long fetters, and some fresher wrong Inflicted on our brethren or ourselves,

Helping to swell our tyrant's bloated strength.

Let us but deal upon them, and I care not

For the result, which must be death or freedom !

I'm weary to the heart of finding neither.

I. Ber. We will be free in life or death ! the grave

Is chainless. Have you all the musters ready? 569

And are the sixteen companies completed To sixty ?

Cal. All save two, in which there are Twenty-five wanting to make up the number.

I. Ber. No matter; we can do without. But still their spirit walks abroad. Though Whose are they? years 610 Cal. Bertram's and old Soranzo's, both Elapse, and others share as dark a doom, of whom They but augment the deep and sweeping Appear less forward in the cause than we thoughts are Which overpower all others, and conduct I. Ber. Your fiery nature makes you The world at last to freedom. What were deem all those Who are not restless, cold: but there ex-If Brutus had not lived? He died in giving ists Rome liberty, but left a deathless lesson -Oft in concentred spirits not less daring A name which is a virtue, and a soul Than in more loud avengers. Do not doubt Which multiplies itself throughout all time, them. When wicked men wax mighty, and a state Cal. I do not doubt the elder; but in Turns servile he and his high friend were Bertram styled 580 620 There is a hesitating softness, fatal 'The last of Romans !' Let us be the first To enterprise like ours: I 've seen that man Of true Venetians, sprung from Roman Weep like an infant o'er the misery sires. Of others, heedless of his own, though Cal Our fathers did not fly from Attila greater; Into these isles, where palaces have sprung And in a recent quarrel I beheld him On banks redeem'd from the rude ocean's Turn sick at sight of blood, although a vilooze. lain's. To own a thousand despots in his place. I. Ber. The truly brave are soft of heart Better bow down before the Hun, and call and eyes, A Tartar lord, than these swoln silkworms And feel for what their duty bids them do masters! I have known Bertram long; there doth not The first at least was man, and used his breathe sword 589 A soul more full of honour. As sceptre, these unmanly creeping things Cal. It may be so: Command our swords, and rule us with a I apprehend less treachery than weakness; word 631 Yet as he has no mistress, and no wife, As with a spell. To work upon his milkiness of spirit, I. Ber. It shall be broken soon. He may go through the ordeal. It is well You say that all things are in readiness: He is an orphan, friendless save in us: To-day I have not been the usual round, A woman or a child had made him less And why thou knowest; but thy vigilance Than either in resolve. Will better have supplied my care. These I. Ber. Such ties are not orders For those who are call'd to the high des-In recent council to redouble now tinies Our efforts to repair the galleys, have Which purify corrupted commonwealths. Lent a fair colour to the introduction We must forget all feelings save the one ; Of many of our cause into the arsenal, 640 We must resign all passions save our pur-As new artificers for their equipment, pose; 601 Or fresh recruits obtain'd in haste to man We must behold no object save our country; The hoped-for fleet Are all supplied with And only look on death as beautiful, arms? So that the sacrifice ascend to heaven Cal. All who were deem'd trustworthy. And draw down freedom on her evermore. there are some Cal. But if we fail. Whom it were well to keep in ignorance I. Ber. They never fail who die Till it be time to strike, and then supply In a great cause the block may soak their them; When in the heat and hurry of the hour Their heads may sodden in the sun; their They have no opportunity to pause, limbs But needs must on with those who will Be strung to city gates and castle walls -surround them.

 I. Ber. You have said well. Have you remark'd all such? 650 Cal. I 've noted most; and caused the other chiefs To use like caution in their companies. As far as I have seen, we are enough To make the enterprise secure, if 't is Commenced to-morrow; but, till 't is begun, Each hour is pregnant with a thousand perils. J. Ber. Let the Sixteen meet at the wonted hour, Except Soranzo, Nicoletto Blondo, And Marco Giuda, who will keep their watch Within the arsenal, and hold all ready, 660 Expectant of the signal we will fix on. Cal. We will not fail J. Ber. Let all the rest be there; I have a stranger to present to them. Cal. A stranger ! doth he know the secret? I. Ber. Yes. Cal. And have you dared to peril your friends' hves On a rash confidence in one we know not? J. Ber. I have risk'd no man's hife except my own— Of that be certain: he is one who may Make our assurance doubly sure, according His aid; and if reluctant, he no less 670 Is in our power: he comes alone with me, And cannot 'scape us; but he will not swerve. Cal. I cannot judge of this until I know him: Is he one of our order? I Ber Ay, in spirit, Although a child of greatness; he is one Who would become a throne, or overthrow one— 	He sees and feels the people are oppress'd, And shares their sufferings. Take him all in all, We have need of such, and such have need of us. 690 Cal. And what part would you have him take with us? I. Ber. It may be, that of chief. Cal. What ! and resign Your own command as leader? I Ber Even so. My object is to make your cause end well, And not to push myself to power. Experi- ence, Some skill, and your own choice, had mark'd ine out To act in trust as your commander, till Some worthier should appear. If I have found such As you yourselves shall own more worthy, think you That I would hesitate from selfishness, 700 And, covetous of brief authority, Stake our deep interest on my single thoughts, Rather than yield to one above me in All leading qualities ? No, Calendaro, Know your friend better; but you all shall judge Away ! and let us meet at the fix'd hour. Be vigilant, and all will yet go well. Cal. Worthy Bertuccio, I have known you ever Trusty and brave, with head and heart to plan 709 What I have still been prompt to execute. For my own part, I seek no other chief; What the rest will decide I know not, but I am with you, as I have ever been, In all our undertakings Now farewell, Until the hour of midinght sees us meet.
One who has done great deeds, and seen great changes;	[Excunt
No tyrant, though bred up to tyranny; Valiant in war, and sage in council; noble	ACT III
In nature, although haughty; quick, yet	SCENE I wary: 680 Yet for all this, so full of certain passions, That if once stirr'd and baffled, as he has	Scene, the Space between the Canal and the Church of San Guovann e San Paolo An equestran Statue before it A Gondola lees in the Canal at some dis- tance.
been	Enter the DOGE alone, disguised
Upon the tenderest points, there is no Fury In Grecian story like to that which wrings	Doge (solus) I am before the hour, the hour whose voice,
His vitals with her burning hands, till he Grows capable of all things for revenge And add too, that his mind is liberal;	Pealing into the arch of night, might strike These palaces with ommous tottering, And rock their marbles to the corner-stone,

- Waking the sleepers from some hideous Spirits ! smile down upon me; for my cause dreamIs yours, in all life now can be of yours, -Of indistinct but awful augury Your fame, your name, all mingled up in Of that which will befall them. Yes, proud mme, city ! And in the future fortunes of our race ! Thou must be cleansed of the black blood Let me but prosper, and I make this city which makes thee Free and immortal, and our house's name A lazar-house of tyranny: the task Worthier of what you were, now and here-Is forced upon me, I have sought it not; 10 after! And therefore was I punish'd, seeing this Enter ISRAEL BERTUCCIO. Patrician pestilence spread on and on, Until at length it smote me in my slumbers, I. Ber. Who goes there? A friend to Venice. And I am tainted, and must wash away Doge. 'T is he. The plague spots in the healing wave. Tall I. Ber. fane ! Welcome, my lord, --- you are before the Where sleep my fathers, whose dum statues time. Doge. I am ready to proceed to your asshadow The floor which doth divide us from the sembly. dead, I. Ber Have with you. - I am proud and pleased to see Where all the pregnant hearts of our bold Such confident alacrity. Your doubts blood, Moulder'd into a mite of ashes, hold Since our last meeting, then, are all dis-In one shrunk heap what once made many pell'd? Doge. Not so, but I have set my little left heroes, When what is now a handful shook the Of life upon this cast the die was thrown earth -When I first listen'd to your treason — Fane of the tutelar saints who guard our Start not ! house ! That is the word; I cannot shape my tongue Vault where two Doges rest - my sires ! To syllable black deeds into smooth names, Though I be wrought on to commit them. who died The one of toil, the other in the field, When With a long race of other lineal chiefs I heard you tempt your sovereign, and for-And sages, whose great labours, wounds, bore To have you dragg'd to prison, I became and state I have inherited, — let the graves gape, Your guiltiest accomplice: now you may, Till all thine aisles be peopled with the dead, If it so please you, do as much by me. And pour them from thy portals to gaze on I. Ber. Strange words, my lord, and most me! unmerited: I am no spy, and neither are we traitors. I call them up, and them and thee to wit-Doge. $\overline{We'} - We' - no$ matter - yor ness What it hath been which put me to this have earn'd the right To talk of us. - But to the point. If this task -Their pure high blood, their blazon-roll of Attempt succeeds, and Venice, render'd glories, free Their mighty name dishonour'd all in me, And flourishing, when we are in our graves, Not by me, but by the ungrateful nobles Conducts her generations to our tombs, 70 We fought to make our equals, not our And makes her children with their little lords: hands And chiefly thou, Ordelafo the brave, Strew flowers o'er her deliverers' ashes, then Who perish'd in the field, where I since con-The consequence will sanctify the deed, quer'd, And we shall be like the two Bruti in Battling at Zara, did the hecatombs The annals of hereafter; but if not, Of thine and Venice' foes, there offer'd up If we should fail, employing bloody means By thy descendant, merit such acquit-And secret plot, although to a good end,
 - 40 | Still we are traitors, honest Israel; -- thou

tance?

No less than he who was thy sovereign	That
Six hours ago, and now thy brother rebel	Whic
I. Ber. 'T is not the moment to consider	I. J
thus, 81
Else I could answer. — Let us to the meet-	Do ing,	It is d
Or we may be observed in lingering here.	I. J
Doge. We are observed, and have been.
I. Ber. We observed ?	Of tr
Let me discover — and this steel —
Doge. Put up;
Here are no human witnesses; look there —
What see you?
I. Ber. Only a tall warrior's statue	DAGOLI
Bestriding a proud steed, in the dim light	~
Of the dull moon	Ca
Doge. That warrior was the sire	Da
Of my sire's fathers, and that statue was $_{90}$	On du
Decreed to him by the twice rescued city:	Who Think you that he looks down on us, or	Ca
no? 7 Per My land there are more fonts	Ber
I. Ber. My lord, these are mere fanta-	Ca
sies; there are	Ther
No eyes in marble. Doge. But there are in Death	The r Ber
I tell thee, man, there is a spirit in	Der
Such things that acts and sees, unseen,	To tr
though felt;	That
And, if there be a spell to stir the dead,	Ca
'T is in such deeds as we are now upon.	Of tr
Deem'st thou the souls of such a race as	0
mine	And
Can rest, when he, their last descendant	Fully chief, 100	Enga
Stands plotting on the brink of their pure	Topu graves	Who
With stung plebeians ?	But o
I. Ber. It had been as well
To have ponder'd this before, — ere you	In th
embark'd
In our great enterprise. Do you repent?	They Doge. No, but I feel, and shall do to the	Their last
I cannot quench a glorious life at once,	The e
Nor dwindle to the thing I now must be,	Will
And take men's lives by stealth, without some pause.	And
Yet doubt me not; it is this very feeling,	Ber
And knowing what has wrung me to be thus,	Ca
Which is your best security. There's not	Ber
A roused mechanic in your busy plot	I hav
So wrong'd as I, so fall'n, so loudly call'd
To his redress: the very means I am forced	Thinl
By these fell tyrants to adopt is such,	1

I abhor them doubly for the deeds

h I must do to pay them back for theirs. Ber. Let us away — hark — the hour strikes.

qe. On --- on --

- our knell, or that of Venice On. Ber. Say rather, 'tis her freedom's
 - rising peal 120 riumph This way we are near the
- place. [Exeunt.

SCENE II

The House where the Conspirators meet

INO, DOBO, BERTRAM, FEDELE TREVISANO, CALEN DARO, ANTONIO DELLE BENDE, ETC , ETC

l. (entering). Are all here?

All with you; except the three g. uty, and our leader Israel, is expected momently.

- Where's Bertram? ı. Here ! .
- ıl. Have you not been able to complete number wanting in your company?

r I had mark'd out some but I have not dared rust them with the secret, till assured they were worthy faith

- There is no need ıl.
- rusting to their faith: who, save ourselves 130

our more chosen comrades, is aware of our intent? they think themselves ged in secret to the Signory, inish some more dissolute young nobles have defied the law in their excesses:

once drawn up, and their new swords well-flesh'd

e rank hearts of the more odious senators, will not hesitate to follow up

r blow upon the others, when they see example of their chiefs, and I for one

- set them such, that they for very \mathbf{shame} 141
- safety will not pause till all have perish'd.

r. How say you? all!

ıl. Whom wouldst thou spare?

- I spare 9
- ve no power to spare. I only question'd.
- king that even amongst these wicked men

There wight he same all and a l	Y171 ties
Might mark them out for pity. Cal. Yes, such pity As when the viper hath been cut to pieces, The separate fragments quivering in the sun In the last energy of venomous life, 150 Deserve and have. Why, I should think as soon Of pitying some particular fang which made One in the jaw of the swoln serpent, as Of one long chain; one mass, one breath, one body; They eat, and drink, and live, and breed together, Revel, and he, oppress, and kill in con- cert,— So let them die as one ! Dag Should one survive, He would be dangerous as the whole; it is not Their number, be it tens or thousands, but The spirit of this aristocracy 161 Which must be rooted out; and if there	 When once our enterprise is o'er, which must not Be interrupted by a private brawl. 180 Ber. I am no brawler; but can bear myself As far among the foe as any he Who hears me; else why have I been selected To be of your chief comrades ? but no less I own my natural weakness; I have not Yet learn'd to think of indiscriminate murder Without some sense of shuddering; and the sight Of blood which spouts through hoary scalps is not To me a thing of triumph, nor the death Of man surprised a glory. Well — too well I know that we must do such things on those Whose acts have raised up such avengers; but If there were some of these who could be saved From out this sweeping fate, for our own sakes And for our honour, to take off some stain
Deserve and have. Why, I should think as	To be of your chief comrades? but no less
Of pitying some particular fang which	Yet learn'd to think of indiscriminate mur-
One in the jaw of the swoln serpent, as	Without some sense of shuddering; and links	Of blood which spouts through hoary scalps
one body; They eat, and drink, and live, and breed	To me a thing of triumph, nor the death Of man surprised a glory. Well — too
Revel, and he, oppress, and kill in con-	I know that we must do such things on
So let them due as one I	Whose acts have raised up such avengers;
He would be dangerous as the whole; it is
The spirit of this aristocracy 161
were	Of massacre which else pollutes it wholly,
A single shoot of the old tree in life, 'T would fasten in the soil, and spring	I had been glad; and see no cause in this For sneer, nor for suspicion !
again To gloomy verdure and to bitter fruit.	Dag. Calm thee, Bertram; For we suspect thee not, and take good
Bertram, we must be firm ! Cal. Look to it well, Bertram; I have an eye upon thee.	heart. It is the cause, and not our will, which asks 200
Ber. Who Distrusts me?	Such actions from our hands: we'll wash away
Cal. Not I; for if I did so, Thou wouldst not now be there to talk of	All stams in Freedom's fountain !
trust: It is thy softness, not thy want of faith, 170	Enter ISRAEL BERTUCCIO, and the DOGE, disguised Dag. Welcome, Israel.
Which makes thee to be doubted Ber. You should know	Consp Most welcome. — Brave Bertuc- cio, thou art late —
Who hear me, who and what I am; a man Roused like yourselves to overthrow op-	Who is this stranger? Cal. It is time to name him.
pression; A kind man, I am apt to think, as some	Our comrades are even now prepared to greet him
Of you have found me; and if brave or no, You, Calendaro, can pronounce, who have seen me	In brotherhood, as I have made it known That thou wouldst add a brother to our cause,
Put to the proof; or, if you should have doubts,	Approved by thee, and thus approved by all,
I'll clear them on your person !	Such is our trust in all thine actions. Now Let him unfold himself.

Doge. And which am I to be? your ac. I. Ber. Stranger, step forth ! [The DOGE discovers himself. tions leave Some cause to doubt the freedom of the Consp. To arms ! - we are betray'd - it is the Doge ! choice. 211 I. Ber. My lord, we would have perish'd Down with them both ! our traitorous caphere together, tain. and Had these rash men proceeded; but. be-The tyrant he hath sold us to ! Cal. (drawing his sword). Hold ! hold ! hold. They are ashamed of that mad moment's Who moves a step against them dies. Hold ! impulse, hear And droop their heads; believe me, they are Bertuccio — What ! are you all appall'd to such See A lone, unguarded, weaponless old man As I described them. Speak to them. Ay, speak; Amongst you ? - Israel, speak ! what means Cal We are all listening in wonder. this mystery? I. Ber (addressing the Conspirators). You I. Ber. Let them advance and strike at their own bosoms. are safe, Nay, more, almost triumphant - listen Ungrateful suicides ! for on our lives then, Depend their own, their fortunes, and their 250 And know my words for truth. hopes. You see me here, Doge. Strike !- If I dreaded death, a Doge. As one of you hath said, an old, unarm'd, death more fearful Than any your rash weapons can inflict, Defenceless man; and yesterday you saw I should not now be here. - Oh! noble me Presiding in the hall of ducal state, Courage ! Apparent sovereign of our hundred isles, The eldest born of Fear, which makes you Robed in official purple, dealing out brave The edicts of a power which is not mine, Against this solitary hoary head ! See the bold chiefs, who would reform a Nor yours, but of our masters - the patricians. state Why I was there you know, or think you And shake down senates, mad with wrath and dread know; Why I am here, he who hath been most At sight of one patrician ! Butcher me, You can; I care not. Israel, are these wrong'd, 260 He who among you hath been most inmen The mighty hearts you spoke of ? look upon sulted, Outraged and trodden on, until he doubt them ! If he be worm or no, may answer for me, Cal Faith! he hath shamed us, and de-Asking of his own heart what brought him servedly. Was this your trust in your true chief Berhere? You know my recent story, all men know tuccio. To turn your swords against him and his it, And judge of it far differently from those guest? Sheathe them, and hear him. Who sate in judgment to heap scorn on I disdain to speak. scorn. I. Ber But spare me the recital - it is here, They might and must have known a heart Here at my heart the outrage; but my lıke mine words, Incapable of treachery; and the power Already spent in unavailing plaints, They gave me to adopt all fitting means 270 To further their design was ne'er abused Would only show my feebleness the more, And I come here to strengthen even the They might be certain that whoe'er was brought strong, And urge them on to deeds, and not to war By me into this council had been led 240 With woman's weapons; but I need not To take his choice - as brother, or as victim. urge you.

Our private wrongs have sprung from pub-	Has reach'd me through my pity for the lic vices, In this — I cannot call it commonwealth	people; That many know, and they who know not
Nor kingdom, which hath neither prince	yet Will and done have Magnetime I do do nor people, But all the sins of the old Spartan state	Will one day learn. Meantime, I do de- vote, 319
Without its virtues — temperance and va-	Whate'er the issue, my last days of life -
lour.	My present power such as it is — not that
The lords of Lacedæmon were true soldiers, But ours are Sybarites, while we are	Of Doge, but of a man who has been great Before he was degraded to a Doge,
Helots, 281	And still has individual means and mind;
Of whom I am the lowest, most enslaved,	I stake my fame (and I had fame), my
Although dress'd out to head a pageant, as The Greeks of yore made drunk their	breath (The least of all, for its last hours are slaves to form	nigh),
A pastime for their children. You are met	My heart, my hope, my soul, upon this
To overthrow this monster of a state,	cast! Such as I am I offer me to you
This mockery of a government, this spectre Which must be exorcised with blood, — and	Such as 1 am, 1 offer me to you And to your chiefs. accept me or reject me,
then	A Prince who fain would be a citizen 330
We will renew the times of truth and jus-	Or nothing, and who has left his throne to tice, Condensing in a fair free commonwealth	be so. Cal. Long live Faliero ! — Venice shall
Not rash equality but equal rights, 291	be free !
Proportion'd like the columns to the temple,	Consp Long live Faliero !
Giving and taking strength reciprocal, And making firm the whole with grace and	I. Ber Comrades ! did I well ? Is not this man a host m such a cause ?
beauty,	Doge. This is no time for eulogies, nor
So that no part could be removed without	place
Infringement of the general symmetry. In operating this great change, I claim	For exultation. Am I one of you? Cal Ay, and the first amongst us, as
To be one of you — if you trust in me;	thou hast been
If not, strike home, - my life is compro-	Of Venice — be our general and chief.
mised, And I would rather fall by freemen's hands	Doge. Chief! — general! — I was gen- eral at Zara,
Than live another day to act the tyrant 301	And chief in Rhodes and Cyprus, prince in
As delegate of tyrants. Such I am not,	Venice. 340
And never have been — read it in our an- nals;	I cannot stoop — that is, I am not fit To lead a band of — patriots when I lay
I can appeal to my past government	Aside the dignities which I have borne,
In many lands and cities; they can tell you	'T is not to put on others, but to be
If I were an oppressor, or a man	Mate to my fellows — but now to the point.
Feeling and thinking for my fellow men. Haply had I been what the senate sought,	Israel has stated to me your whole plan;
A thing of robes and trunkets, dizen'd	'T is bold, but feasible if I assist it, out 309	And must be set in motion instantly. Cal. E'en when thou wilt. Is it not so,
To sit in state as for a sovereign's picture, A popular scourge, a ready sentence-signer,	my friends?
A stickler for the Senate and 'the Forty,'	I have disposed all for a sudden blow; 350
A sceptic of all measures which had not	When shall it be then ? Doge. At sunrise.
The sanction of 'the Ten,' a council- fawner,	Ber. So soon?
A tool, a fool, a puppet, - they had ne'er	Doge. So soon! - so late - each hour
Foster'd the wretch who stung me. What	accumulates Paril on newl and the more so now
I suffer	Peril on peril, and the more so now

391

A11 : A11 :

Bertram.

410

42I

Cal. Would that the hour were come ! Since I have mingled with you; - know you not we will not scotch, The Council and 'the Ten?' the spies, the But kill. Ber. Gnce more, sir, with your pardon, 1 eves Of the patricians dubious of their slaves, Would now repeat the question which I And now more dubious of the prince they ask'd have made one? Before Bertuccio added to our cause I tell you, you must strike, and suddenly, This great ally who renders it more sure, Full to the Hydra's heart - its heads will And therefore safer, and as such admits Some dawn of mercy to a portion of follow. Cal. With all my soul and sword, I yield Our victims - must all perish in this assent; slaughter? Our companies are ready, sixty each, Cal. All who encounter me and mine. And all now under arms by Israel's order; be sure. Each at their different place of rendezvous, The mercy they have shown, I show. And vigilant, expectant of some blow; Consp. Let each repair for action to his post! Is this a time to talk of pity? When And now, my lord, the signal? Have they e'er shown, or felt, or feign'd it? I. Ber. Doge When you hear This false compassion is a folly, and The great bell of Saint Mark's, which may Injustice to thy comrades and thy cause ! not be Struck without special order of the Doge Dost thou not see, that if we single out (The last poor privilege they leave their Some for escape, they live but to avenge prince), The fallen? and how distinguish now the 369 March on Saint Mark's ! innocent I. Ber And there? -From out the guilty? all their acts are one ---A single emanation from one body, Together knit for our oppression ! 'T is Doge. By different routes Let your march be directed, every sixty Entering a separate avenue, and still Much that we let their children live; 1 doubt Upon the way let your cry be of war And of the Genoese fleet, by the first dawn If all of these even should be set apart: Discern'd before the port; form round the The hunter may reserve some single cub From out the tiger's litter, but who e'er palace. Within whose court will be drawn out in Would seek to save the spotted sire or dam, Unless to perish by their fangs? However, I will abide by Doge Faliero's counsel: My nephew and the clients of our house, Many and martial; while the bell tolls Let him decide if any should be saved. Doge. Ask me not — tempt me not with on, Shout ye, ' Saint Mark ! - the foe is on our such a question -Decide yourselves. waters ! ' I Ber. You know their private virtues Cal I see it now — but on, my noble Far better than we can, to whom alone lord. Doge. All the patricians flocking to the Their public vices and most foul oppression Have made them deadly; if there be Council (Which they dare not refuse, at the dread amongst them One who deserves to be repeal'd, prosignal Pealing from out their patron saint's proud nounce. Doge Dolfino's father was my friend, tower), and Lando Will then be gather'd in unto the harvest, Fought by my side, and Marc Cornaro And we will reap them with the sword for sickle. shared My Genoese embassy: I saved the life If some few should be tardy or absent Of Veniero — shall I save it twice? them, Would that I could save them and Venice 'T will be but to be taken faint and single, also! When the ajority are put to rest.

- All these men, or their fathers, were my friends
- Till they became my subjects; then fell from me
- As faithless leaves drop from the o'erblown flower,
- And left me a lone blighted thorny stalk,
- Which, in its solitude, can shelter nothing;
- So, as they let me wither, let them perish ! Cal. They cannot co-exist with Venice' freedom !
 - Doge Ye, though you know and feel our mutual mass
- Of many wrongs, even ye are ignorant
- What fatal poison to the springs of life,
- To human ties, and all that's good and dear,
- Lurks in the present institutes of Venice
- All these men were my friends; I loved
- them, they 440 Requited honourably my regards;
- We served and fought; we smiled and wept in concert;
- We revell'd or we sorrow'd side by side;
- We made alliances of blood and marriage;
- We grew in years and honours fairly, till
- Their own desire, not my ambition, made
- Them choose me for their prince, and then
- farewell !
- Farewell all social memory ! all thoughts
- In common ! and sweet bonds which link old friendships,
- When the survivors of long years and actions,
- Which now belong to history, soothe the days
- Which yet remain by treasuring each other, And never meet, but each beholds the mir
 - ror
- Of half a century on his brother's brow,
- And sees a hundred beings, now in earth,
- Flit round them whispering of the days gone by,
- And seeming not all dead, as long as two
- Of the brave, joyous, reckless, glorious band,
- Which once were one and many, still retain
- A breath to sigh for them, a tongue to speak
- Of deeds that else were silent, save on marble -
- Oime ! Oime ! and must I do this deed ? I Ber. My lord, you are much moved. it is not now
- That such things must be dwelt upon.

Doge. Your patience A moment - I recede not: mark with me The gloomy vices of this government.

- From the hour they made me Doge, the Doge THEY made me -
- Farewell the past ! I died to all that had been.
- Or rather they to me: no friends, no kindness,
- No privacy of life all were cut off: 470
- They came not near me, such approach gave umbrage;
- They could not love me, such was not the law;
- They thwarted me, 't was the state's policy;
- They baffled me, 't was a patrician's duty;
- They wrong'd me, for such was to right the state;
- They could not right me, that would give suspicion:
- So that I was a slave to my own subjects;
- So that I was a foe to my own friends;
- Begirt with spies for guards, with robes for power,
- With pomp for freedom, gaolers for a council.
- Inquisitors for friends, and hell for life !
- I had one only fount of quiet left,
- And that they poison'd ! My pure household gods
- Were shiver'd on my hearth, and o'er their shrine
- Sate grinning Ribaldry and sneering Scorn. I. Ber. You have been deeply wrong'd,
- and now shall be Nobly avenged before another night.
- Doge I had borne all it hurt me, but I bore it -
- Till this last running over of the cup 489 Of bitterness - until this last loud insult,
- Not only unredress'd, but sanction'd; then,
- And thus, I cast all further feelings from me -
- The feelings which they crush'd for me, long, long
- Before, even in their oath of false allegiance !
- Even in that very hour and vow, they abiured
- Their friend and made a sovereign, as boys make
- Playthings, to do their pleasure and be broken !
- I from that hour have seen but senators
- In dark suspicious conflict with the Doge,

Brooding with him in mutual hate and fear; They dreading he should snatch the tyranny From out their grasp, and he abhorring tyrants.

- To me, then, these men have no private life, Nor claim to ties they have cut off from others;
- As senators for arbitrary acts
- Amenable, I look on them as such Let them be dealt upon.

Cal. And now to action ! Hence, brethren, to our posts, and may this

- be The last night of mere words: I'd fain be doing !
- Saint Mark's great bell at dawn shall find me wakeful! 510
 - I. Ber. Disperse then to your posts: be firm and vigilant;
- Think on the wrongs we bear, the rights we claim.

This day and night shall be the last of peril !

Watch for the signal, and then march. I go To join my band; let each be prompt to

- marshal His separate charge. the Doge will now return
- To the palace to prepare all for the blow.
- We part to meet in freedom and in glory ! Cal. Doge, when I greet you next, my
 - homage to you
- Shall be the head of Steno on this sword ! Doge. No; let him be reserved unto the last, 521
- Nor turn aside to strike at such a prey,
- Till nobler game is quarried: his offence
- Was a mere ebullition of the vice,
- The general corruption generated
- By the foul aristocracy: he could not -
- He dared not in more honourable days
- Have risk'd it. I have merged all private wrath
- Against him in the thought of our great purpose.
- A slave insults me I require his punishment 530
- From his proud master's hands; if he refuse it,
- The offence grows his, and let him answer it.
 - Cal. Yet, as the immediate cause of the alliance

Which consecrates our undertaking more,

- I owe him such deep gratitude, that fain
- I would repay him as he merits; may I?

Doge You would but lop the hand, and I the head;

- You would but smite the scholar, I the master;
- You would but pumsh Steno, I the senate.

I cannot pause on individual hate, 540

In the absorbing, sweeping, whole revenge, Which, like the sheeted fire from heaven, must blast

- Without distinction, as it fell of yore
- Where the Dead Sea hath quench'd two cities' ashes
 - I Ber Away, then, to your posts! I but remain
- A moment to accompany the Doge
- To our late place of tryst, to see no spies
- Have been upon the scout, and thence I hasten
- To where my allotted band is under arms.
 - Cal. Farewell, then, until dawn !
 - I Ber. Success go with you!
 - Consp. We will not fail. Away ! My lord, farewell. 551
- [The Conspirators salute the DOGE and ISRAEL BERTUG-CIO, and retire, headed by PHILIP CALENDARO The DOGE and ISRAEL BERTUCCIO remain
 - I. Ber We have them in the toil it cannot fail !
- Now thou 'rt indeed a sovereign, and wilt make

A name immortal greater than the greatest. Free citizens have struck at kings ere now; Cæsars have fallen, and even patrician hands

Have crush'd dictators, as the popular steel Has reach'd patricians; but until this hour, What prince has plotted for his people's freedom?

Or risk'd a life to liberate his subjects? For ever, and for ever, they conspire 56r Against the people to abuse their hands To chains, but laid aside to carry weapons Against the fellow nations, so that yoke On yoke, and slavery and death may whet,

Not glut, the never-gorged Leviathan !

- Now, my lord, to our enterprise; 't is great,
- And greater the reward; why stand you rapt?
- A moment back, and you were all impatience !
 - Doge And is it then decided ! must they die ? 570
 - I Ber. Who?

Doge. My own friends by blood and Doge Bear with me! Step by step, and courtesy, blow on blow, And many deeds and days — the senators? I will divide with you; think not I waver: I. Ber. You pass'd their sentence, and it Ah! no; it is the certainty of all is a just one. Which I must do doth make me tremble Doge. Ay, so it seems, and so it is to thus But let these last and lingering thoughts you, have way, You are a patriot, a plebeian Gracchus, The rebel's oracle, the people's tribune -To which you only and the Night are con-I blame you not, you act in your vocation; scious, 610 And both regardless; when the hour arrives, They smote you, and oppress'd you, and de-'T is mine to sound the knell, and strike the spised you; So they have me: but you ne'er spake with blow. them; Which shall unpeople many palaces, You never broke their bread, nor shared And hew the highest genealogic trees Down to the earth, strew'd with their bleedtheir salt: You never had their wine-cup at your lips; ing fruit. And crush their blossoms into barrenness. You grew not up with them, nor laugh'd, This will I — must I — have I sworn to do, nor wept, Nor held a revel in their company; Nor aught can turn me from my destiny; Ne'er smiled to see them smile, nor claim'd But still I quiver to behold what I their smile Must be, and think what I have been ! Bear In social interchange for yours, nor trusted, with me. 620 Nor wore them in your heart of hearts, as I I. Ber. Re-man your breast; I feel no have. such remorse, I understand it not: why should you These hairs of mine are grey, and so are theirs. change? The elders of the council: I remember You acted, and you act on your free will. When all our locks were like the raven's Doge. Ay, there it is -you feel not, nor wing, do I, As we went forth to take our prey around Else I should stab thee on the spot, to save The isles wrung from the false Mahometan; A thousand lives, and, killing, do no mur-And can I see them dabbled o'er with der: blood ? You feel not - you go to this butcher-work As if these high-born men were steers for Each stab to them will seem my suicide. shambles ! I. Ber. Doge ! Doge ! this vacillation is When all is over, you'll be free and unworthy merry, A child; if you are not in second child-620 hood, And calmly wash those hands incarnadine; But I, outgoing thee and all thy fellows Call back your nerves to your own purpose, nor In this surpassing massacre, shall be, Shall see and feel - oh God ! oh God ! 't is Thus shame yourself and me. By heavens ! I'd rather true Forego even now, or fail in our intent, And thou dost well to answer that it was Than see the man I venerate subside 'My own free will and act,' and yet you From high resolves into such shallow weakerr, For I will do this! Doubt not - fear not; I ness ! You have seen blood in battle, shed it, Will be your most unmerciful accomplice ! And yet I act no more on my free will, both Your own and that of others; can you Nor my own feelings — both compel me shrink then back; From a few drops from veins of hoary But there is hell within me and around, 640 And like the demon who believes and tremvampires, Who but give back what they have drain'd bles Must I abhor and do. Away ! away ! from millions?

Get thee unto thy fellows, I will hie me To gather the retainers of our house. Doubt not, Saint Mark's great bell shall wake all Venice, Except her slaughter'd senate. Ere the sun Be broad upon the Adriatic, there Shall be a voice of weeping, which shall drown The roar of waters in the cry of blood ! I am resolved — come on. I. Ber. With all my soul ! Keep a firm rein upon these bursts of pas- sion, 651 Remember what these men have dealt to thee, And that this sacrifice will be succeeded By ages of prosperity and freedom To this unshackled city. A true tyrant Would have depopulated empires, nor Have felt the strange compunction which hath wrung you To punish a few traitors to the people. Trust me, such were a pity more misplaced Than the late mercy of the state to Steno. Doge. Man, thou hast struck upon the chord which jars 667 All nature from my heart. Hence to our	So that I left the festival before It reach'd its zenith, and will woo my pillow For thoughts more tranquil, or forgetful- ness. Antonio, take my mask and cloak, and light The lamp within my chamber. Ant. Yes, my lord: 20 Command you no refreshment? Lioni. Nought, save sleep, Which will not be commanded. Let me hope it, [Exit ANTONIO Though my breast feels too anxious; I will try Whether the air will calm my spirits; 't is A goodly night; the cloudy wind which blew From the Levant hath crept into its cave, And the broad moon has brighten'd. What a stillness! [Goes to an open lattore. And what a contrast with the scene I left, Where the tall torches' glare, and silver lamps' More pallid gleam along the tapestried walls, 30 Spread over the reluctant gloom, which haunts Those vast and dimly-latticed galleries, task! [Ezeunt.	A dazzling mass of artificial light, Which show'd all things, but nothing as they were.
ACT IV	There Age essaying to recall the past,
SCENE I Palazzo of the Patrician LIONI LIONI laying aside the mask and cloak which the Venetian nobles wore in public, attended by a Domestic	After long striving for the hues of youth At the sad labour of the toilet, and Full many a glance at the too faithful mirror,
Lioni. I will to rest, right weary of this revel, The gayest we have held for many moons,	Prank'd forth in all the pride of ornament, Forgot itself, and trusting to the falsehood Of the indulgent beams, which show, yet
And yet, I know not why, it cheer'd me not;	hide, 41 Relieved itself formatten and was faal'd
There came a heaviness across my heart, Which, in the lightest movement of the dance, Though eye to eye, and hand in hand united	Believed itself forgotten, and was fool'd There Youth, which needed not, nor thought of such Van adjuncts. lavish'd its true bloom. d
Even with the lady of my love, oppress'd me, And through my spirit chill'd my blood, until A damp like death rose o'er my brow. I	Vain adjuncts, lavish'd its true bloom, d health, And bridal beauty, in the unwholesome press Of flush'd and crowded wassalers, and strove	wasted
To laugh the thought away, but 't would	Its hours of rest in dreaming this was plea-
not be; Through all the music ringing in my ears A knell was sounding as distinct and clear,	sure, And so shall waste them till the sunrise streams
Though low and far, as e'er the Adrian wave	On sallow cheeks and sunken eyes, which
Rose o'er the city's murmur in the night, Dashing against the outward Lido's bul- wark:	should not 49 Have worn this aspect yet for many a year. The music, and the banquet, and the wine —
	,, main the stangard, and the who while and the second

The garlands, the rose odours, and the flowers	Of sleepless lovers to a wakeful mistress, And cautious opening of the casement,
The sparkling eyes, and flashing orna- ments	showing 90
The white arms and the raven hair — the braids	That he is not unheard; while her young hand,
And bracelets; swanlike bosoms, and the necklace,	Fair as the moonlight of which it seems part, So delicately white at trambles in
An Indua in itself; yet dazzling not	So delicately white, it trembles in The act of opening the forbidden lattice,
The eye like what it circled; the thin robes,
Floating like light clouds 'twixt our gaze	To let in love through music, makes his heart and heaven;	Thrill like his lyre-strings at the sight; -
The many-twinkling feet so small and	the dash
sylphike,	Phosphoric of the oar, or rapid twinkle
Suggesting the more secret symmetry 60	Of the far lights of skimming gondolas,
Of the fair forms which terminate so well —	And the responsive voices of the choir
All the delusion of the dizzy scene,	Of boatmen answering back with verse for
Its false and true enchantments — art and	Verse; 100
Which swam before my giddy eyes, that	Some dusky shadow checkering the Rialto; Some glimmering palace roof, or tapering drank
The sight of beauty as the parch'd pilgrim's	Are all the sights and sounds which here
On Arab sands the false mirage which offers	pervade
A lucid lake to his eluded thirst, —	The ocean-born and earth-commanding
Are gone. Around me are the stars and	city — waters —	How sweet and soothing is this hour of
Worlds mirror'd in the ocean, goodlier sight	calm !
Than torches glared back by a gaudy	I thank thee, Night! for thou hast chasea glass; 70	away
And the great element, which is to space	Those horrid bodements which, amidst the
What ocean is to earth, spreads its blue	throng, depths,	I could not dissipate; and with the blessing
Soften'd with the first breathings of the	Of thy benign and quiet influence, 109
spring;	Now will 1 to my couch, although to rest
The high moon sails upon her beauteous	Is almost wronging such a night as this — way, Some all smoothing of the left wells	[A knocking is heard from without.] Hark ! what is that? or who at such a
Serenely smoothing o'er the lofty walls Of those tall piles and sea-girt palaces,	moment?
Whose porphyry pillars, and whose costly	moment .
fronts,	Enter Antonio.
Fraught with the orient spoil of many	Ant. My lord, a man without, on urgent marbles,	business,
Like altars ranged along the broad canal,	Implores to be admitted.
Seem each a trophy of some mighty deed	Lioni. Is he a stranger?
Rear'd up from out the waters, scarce less	Ant His face is muffled in his cloak, but strangely SI	both
Than those more massy and mysterious	His voice and gestures seem familiar to me;
giants	I craved his name, but this he seem'd re-
Of architecture, those Titanian fabrics,	luctant
Which point in Egypt's plains to times that	To trust, save to yourself; most earnestly have	He sues to be permitted to approach you.
No other record All is gentle: nought	Lioni. 'T is a strange hour, and a suspicious
Stirs rudely; but, congenial with the night,	bearing ! 120
Whatever walks is gliding like a spirit The tinklings of some vigilant guitars	And yet there is slight peril: 't is not in Their houses noble men are struck at; still
The mixings of some visuant Sultars	I KHOM HOUSES HOME HIGH ALC SHILLER AL, SHILL

 Although I know not that I have a foe in Venice, 't will be wise to use some cau- tion Admit him, and retire; but call up quickly Some of thy fellows, who may wait with- out. — Who can this man be? — [Exit ANTONIO, and returns with BERTRAM muffled. Ber. My good lord Lioni, I have no time to lose, nor thou — dismiss This menial hence; I would be private with you. Lioni. It seems the voice of Bertram — go, Antonio. [Exit ANTONIO Now, stranger, what would you at such an hour? 131 Ber. (discovering himself). A boon, my noble patron; you have granted 	And is about to take, instead of sand, The dust from sepulchres to fill his hour. glass !
Many to your poor client, Bertram; add	Till I return !
This one, and make him happy.	Lion. Again, what does this mean ?
Lioni . Thou hast known me	Ber. Again, I tell thee, ask not; but by
From boyhood, ever ready to assist thee	all
In all fair objects of advancement, which	Thou holdest dear on earth or heaven — by
Beseem one of thy station; I would promise	all
Ere thy request was heard, but that the hour.	The souls of thy great fathers, and thy hope
Thy bearing, and this strange and hurried	To emulate them, and to leave behind mode	Descendants worthy both of them and
Of suing, gives me to suspect this visit 140	thee—
Hath some mysterious import — but say	By all thou hast of bless'd in hope or on —	memory—
What has occurred, some rash and sudden	By all thou hast to fear here or hereafter—
broil?	By all the good deeds thou hast done to
A cup too much, a scuffle, and a stab?	me,
Mere things of every day: so that thou hast	Good I would now repay with greater good,
not	Remain within — trust to thy household
Spilt noble blood, I guarantee thy safety;	gods,
But then thou must withdraw, for angry	And to my word for safety, if thou dost 180
friends	As I now counsel — but if not, thou art lost !
And relatives, in the first burst of vengeance,	Lioni . I am indeed already lost in wonder;
Are things in Venice deadlier than the laws.	Surely thou ravest ! what have I to dread ?
Ber. My lord, I thank you; but —	Who are my foes ? or if there be such, why
Luoni. But what? You have not	Art thou leagued with them ? — thou ! or if Raised a rash hand against one of our	so leagued,
order?	Why comest thou to tell me at this hour,
If so, withdraw and fly, and own it not;	And not before ?
would not slay — but then I must not save	Ber. I cannot answer this.
thee !	Wilt thou go forth despite of this true warn-
He who has shed patrician blood —	ing?
Ber. I come	Luon: I was not born to shrink from idle
To save patrician blood, and not to shed it !	threats, 189
And thereunto I must be speedy, for	The cause of which I know not: at the hour
Each minute lost may lose a life; since	Of council, be it soon or late, I shall not
Time	Be found among the absent.
Has changed his slow scythe for the two-	Ber. Say not so ?
edged sword,	Once more, art thou determined to go forth ?

- Lioni. I am Nor is there aught which shall impede me !
- Ber. Then Heaven have mercy on thy soul! — Farewell! [Going Lioni. Stay — there is more in this than my own safety Which makes me call thee back; we must

- not part thus:
- Bertram, I have known thee long.
- Ber. From childhood, signor, You have been my protector. in the days
- Of reckless infancy, when rank forgets, 200
- Or, rather, is not yet taught to remember

Its cold prerogative, we play'd together;

- Our sports, our smiles, our tears, were mingled oft;
- My father was your father's client, I
- His son's scarce less than foster-brother; years

Saw us together - happy, heart-full hours !

- Oh God ! the difference 'twixt those hours and this !
 - Lioni Bertram, 't is thou who hast forgotten them.
 - Ber. Nor now, nor ever; whatsoe'er betude,
- I would have saved you. When to manhood's growth
- We sprung, and you, devoted to the state,
- As suits your station, the more humble Bertram

Was left unto the labours of the humble,

- Still you forsook me not; and if my fortunes
- Have not been towering, 't was no fault of him

Who offtimes rescued and supported me

When struggling with the tides of circumstance

Which bear away the weaker: noble blood Ne'er mantled in a nobler heart than thine

Has proved to me, the poor plebeian Bertram. 220

- Would that thy fellow senators were like thee !
 - Lioni. Why, what hast thou to say against the senate?

Ber. Nothing.

- Lioni. I know that there are angry spirits
- And turbulent mutterers of stifled treason,
- Who lurk in narrow places, and walk out
- Muffled to whisper curses to the night;
- Disbanded soldiers, discontented ruffia ,

And desperate libertines who brawl in taverns;

- Thou herdest not with such: 't is true, of late
- I have lost sight of thee, but thou wert wont 230
- To lead a temperate life, and break thy bread
- With honest mates, and bear a cheerful aspect.
- What hath come to thee? in thy hollow eye
- And hueless cheek, and thine unquiet motions,
- Sorrow and shame and conscience seem at war

To waste thee.

Ber. Rather shame and sorrow light On the accursed tyranny which rides

The very air in Venice, and makes men

Madden as in the last hours of the plague

- Which sweeps the soul deliriously from life! 24c
- Lioni. Some villains have been tampering with thee, Bertram;
- This is not thy old language, nor own thoughts;
- Some wretch has made thee drunk with disaffection:
- But thou must not be lost sc; thou wert good

And kind, and art not fit for such base acts As vice and villary would put thee tc.

- Confess confide in me thou know'st my nature —
- What is it thou and thine are bound to do, Which should prevent thy friend. the only son

Of him who was a friend unto thy father,

So that our good-will is a heritage 251

We should bequeath to our posterity

Such as ourselves received it, or augmented;-

I say, what is it thou must do, that I Should deem thee dangerous, and keep the house

Like a sick girl?

- Ber. Nay, question me no further I must be gone.
 - Lioni. And I be murder'd ! say,
- Was it not thus thou saidst, my gentle Bertram?
 - Ber. Who talks of murder? what said 1 of murder? —
- 'T is false ! I did not utter such a word. 269

-
Lioni . Thou didst not · but from out thy wolfish eye,	Through every change. Yet, make me not a traitor !
So changed from what I knew it, there glares forth	Let me save thee — but spare my honour ! Lion. Where
The gladiator. If my life's thine object,	Can he the honour in a league of murder?
Take it - I am unarm'd, - and then away !	And who are traitors save unto the state?
I would not hold my breath on such a tenure	Ber. A league is still a compact, and more binding 300
As the capricious mercy of such things	In honest hearts when words must stand
As thou and those who have set thee to thy task-work.	for law, And in my mind, there is no traitor like
Ber. Sooner than spill thy blood, I peril mme;	He whose domestic treason plants the pon lard
Sconer than harm a hair of thine, I place	Within the breast which trusted to his
In jeopardy a thousand heads, and some 270 As noble, nay, even nobler than thine	Lioni. And who will strike the steel to own. Lioni. Ay, is it even so? Excuse me,	Ber. Not I;
Bertram;	I could have wound my soul up to all
I am not worthy to be singled out	things
From such exalted hecatombs — who are they	Save this. Thou must not die ! and think how dear
That are in danger, and that make the dan-	Thy life is, when I risk so many lives, ger? Ban Vanice and all that she inherits	Nay, more, the life of lives, the liberty Of future generations, not to be 31C
Ber. Venice, and all that she inherits, are	The assassin thou miscall'st me; - once,
Divided like a house against itself,	once more
And so will perish ere to-morrow's twilight !	I do adjure thee, pass not o'er thy thresh
Lion. More mysteries, and awful ones!	old!
But now, Or thou, or I, or both, it may be, are 280	Lioni. It is in vain — this moment I go forth.
Upon the verge of ruin; speak once out,	Ber. Then perish Venice rather than my
And thou art safe and glorious; for 't is	friend !
more Classical to some then alon and alon if the	I will disclose — ensnare — betray — de-
Glorious to save than slay, and slay i' the dark too —	Oh, what a villain I become for thee !
Fie, Bertram! that was not a craft for thee!	Lioni . Say, rather thy friend's saviour and the state's !
How would it look to see upon a spear	Speak - pause not - all rewards, all
The head of hi whose heart was open to thee	pledges for Thy safety and thy welfare; wealth such
Borne by thy hand before the shuddering people ?	as The state accords her worthiest servants:
And such may be my doom; for here I	nay, 320
swear, Whate'er the peril or the penalty	Nobility itself I guarantee thee, So that thou art sincere and penitent.
Of thy denunciation, I go forth, 290	Ber. I have thought again: it must not
Unless thou dost detail the cause, and show	be - I love thee -
The consequence of all which led thee here !	Thou knowest it — that I stand here is the proof,
Ber. Is there no way to save thee? min-	Not least though last; but having done my utes fly, And thou art lost ! — thou ! my sole bene-	By thee, I now must do it by my country !
factor,	Farewell — we meet no more in life! -
The only being who was constant to me	farewell!

Luoni. What, ho ! - Antonio - Pedro - to the door !	Within our palace precincts at San Polo. I come for your last orders.
See that none pass — arrest this man !	Doge. It had been
Tinda Assessment of the Astronomy	As well had there been time to have got
Enter ANTONIO and other as med Domestics, who seize BERTRAM	together, From my own fof Vol di Marino more
Lioni (continues). Take care	From my own fief, Val di Marino, more Of our retainers — but 1t 1s too late.
He hath no harm; bring me my sword and	Ber. F Methinks, my lord, 't is better as cloak, 330	it is
And man the gondola with four oars -	A sudden swelling of our retinue
quick — [Exit ANTONIO	Had waked suspicion; and, though fierce
We will unto Giovanni Gradenigo's,	and trusty,
And send for Marc Cornaro: - fear not,	The vassals of that district are too rude 36c
Bertram;	And quick in quarrel to have long main-
This needful violence is for thy safety,	tam'd
No less than for the general weal.	The secret discipline we need for such
Ber. Where wouldst thou	A service, till our foes are dealt upon.
Bear me a prisoner ?	Doge. True; but when once the signal
Lioni. Firstly to 'the Ten:' Next to the Doge.	has been given
Ber. To the Doge ?	These are the men for such an enterprise; These city slaves have all their private
Lioni. It and Doge . Assuredly:	bias,
Is he not chief of the state?	Their prejudice against or for this noble,
Ber Perhaps at sunrise —	Which may induce them to o'erdo or spare
Lioni What mean you? — but we'll	Where mercy may be madness; the fierce know anon.	peasants,
Ber. Art sure?	Serfs of my county of Val di Marino, 370
Lioni . Sure as all gentle means can make;	Would do the bidding of their lord without and if 340	Distinguishing for love or hate his foes;
They fail, you know 'the Ten' and their	Alike to them Marcello or Cornaro,
tribunal,	A Gradenigo or a Foscari,
And that Saint Mark's has dungeons, and	They are not used to start at those vain
the dungeons A rack.	names, Nor bow the knee before a civic senate;
Ber. Apply it then before the dawn	A chief in armour is their Suzerain,
Now hastening into heaven. — One more	And not a thing in robes.
such word,	Ber. F. We are enough;
And you shall perish piecemeal, by the death	And for the dispositions of our clients
You think to doom to me.	Against the senate I will answer
D	Doge. Well,
Re-enter Antonio	The die is thrown; but for a warlike ser-
Ant The bark is ready,	vice, 381
My lord, and all prepared.	Done in the field, commend me to my pea-
Lioni Look to the prisoner.	sants. They made the sun shine through the host
Bertram, I'll reason with thee as we go To the Magnifico's, sage Gradenigo.	of Huns,
Exeunt	When sallow burghers slunk back to their
SCENE II	tents
	And cower'd to hear their own victorious
The Ducal Palace — The Doge's Apartment	trumpet.
The Doge and his nephew BERTUCCIO FALIERO	If there be small resistance, you will find
Doge Are all the people of our house in	These citizens all lions, like their standard;
muster? 350	But if there's much to do, you'll wish,
Ber F They are array'd, and eager for	with me,
the signal,	A band of iron rustics at our backs.

Ber. F. Thus thinking, I must marvel you resolve 390

To strike the blow so suddenly. Doge. Such blows

Must be struck suddenly or never. When I had o'ermaster'd the weak false remorse

Which yearn'd about my heart, too fondly yielding

A moment to the feelings of old days,

I was most fain to strike; and, firstly, that

I might not yield again to such emotions;

And, secondly, because of all these men, Save Israel and Philip Calendaro,

I know not well the courage or the faith:

To-day might find 'mongst them a traitor to us, 401

As yesterday a thousand to the senate;

But once in with their hilts hot in their hands,

They must on for their own sakes; one stroke struck,

And the mere instinct of the first-born Cain,

Which ever lurks somewhere in human hearts

Though circumstance may keep it in abeyance,

Will urge the rest on like to wolves; the sight

Of blood to crowds begets the thirst of more,

As the first wine-cup leads to the long revel; And you will find a harder task to quell

Than urge them when they have commenced, but till

That moment, a mere voice, a straw, a shadow,

Are capable of turning them aside. —

How goes the night?

Ber F. Almost upon the dawn. Doge. Then it is time to strike upon the bell.

Are the men posted?

Ber. F. By this time they are; But they have orders not to strike, until

They have command from you through me in person

Doge. 'T is well. - Will the morn never put to rest 420

These stars which twinkle yet o'er all the heavens?

I am settled and bound up, and being so,

The very effort which it cost me to Resolve to cleanse this commonwealth with fire,

Now leaves my mind more steady. I have wept,

And trembled at the thought of this dread duty;

But now I have put down all idle passion,

And look the growing tempest in the face,

As doth the pilot of an admiral galley

- Yet (wouldst thou think it, kinsman?) it hath been 43c
- A greater struggle to me, than when nations
- Beheld their fate merged in the approaching fight,

Where I was leader of a phalanx, where

Thousands were sure to perish. — Yes, to spill

The rank polluted current from the veins

Of a few bloated despots needed more

To steel me to a purpose such as made

Timoleon immortal, than to face

The toils and dangers of a life of war.

Ber. F. It gladdens me to see your former wisdom 440

Subdue the furies which so wrung you ere You were decided.

Doge. It was ever thus With me; the hour of agitation came In the first glimmerings of a purpose, when

Passion had too much room to sway; but m The hour of action I have stood as calm

As were the dead who lay around me: this

They knew who made me what I am, and trusted

To the subduing power which I preserved

Over my mood, when its first burst was spent. 450

But they were not aware that there are things

Which make revenge a virtue by reflection, And not an impulse of mere anger; though The laws sleep, justice wakes, and injured souls

Oft do a public right with private wrong,

And justify their deeds unto themselves. --

Methinks the day breaks — is it not so? look,

Thine eyes are clear with youth; — the air puts on

A morning freshness, and, at least to me, 459

The sea looks greyer through the lattice. Ber. F. True,

The morn is dappling in the sky.

Doge. Away then ! See that they strike without delay, and with

And be this peal its awfullest and last Sig. 'T is not my office to reply, but Sound till the strong tower rock!--- What ! act -silent still? I am placed here as guard upon thy person, And not as judge to hear or to decide. I would go forth, but that my post is here, To be the centre of re-union to Doge (aside) I must gain time; so that The oft discordant elements which form the storm-bell sound All may be well yet. - Kinsman, speed -Leagues of this nature, and to keep comspeed - speed ! pact 540 The wavering of the weak, in case of con-Our fate is trembling in the balance, and flict; Woe to the vanquish'd ! be they prince and For if they should do battle, 't will be here, people, Within the palace, that the strife will Or slaves and senate -[The great bell of Saint Mark's tolls thicken Then here must be my station, as becomes Lo! it sounds — it tolls! (Aloud) Hark, Signor of the Night ! and The master-mover - Hark! he comes he comes, you, ye hirelings, My nephew, brave Bertuccio's messen-Who wield your mercenary staves in fear, ger. -It is your knell. - Swell on, thou lusty What tidings? Is he marching? hath he peal! Now, knaves, what ransom for your lives ? sped? -They here ! all 's lost - yet will I make an Sig.Confusion ! effort Stand to your arms, and guard the door all's lost Enter a SIGNOR OF THE NIGHT, with Guards, etc., etc Unless that fearful bell be silenced soon. 580 Sig. Doge, I arrest thee of high treason ! The officer hath miss'd his path or purpose, Doge. Me ! Or met some unforeseen and hideous ob-Thy prince, of treason? - Who are they stacle. that dare Anselmo, with thy company proceed 550 Cloak their own treason under such an Straight to the tower; the rest remain with order? me [Exit part of the Guard Sig (showing his order) Behold my order Doge Wretch ! if thou wouldst have from the assembled Ten. thy vile life, implore it; Doge. And where are they, and why as-It is not now a lease of sixty seconds. sembled ? no Ay, send thy miserable ruffians forth; Such council can be lawful, till the prince They never shall return. Preside there, and that duty's mine: on Sig. So let it be ! They die then in their duty, as will I. $_{\mathrm{thine}}$ Doge Fool! the high eagle flies at I charge thee, give me way, or marshal nobler game me 590 Than thou and thy base myrmidons, - live To the council chamber. Sig.Duke ! it may not be: on. Nor are they in the wonted Hall of Council, So thou provok'st not peril by resistance, But sitting in the convent of Saint Saviour's. And learn (if souls so much obscured can Doge You dare to disobey me, then? bear Sig. I serve To gaze upon the sunbeams) to be free Sig. And learn thou to be captive - It The state, and needs must serve it faithhath ceased. The bell ceases to toll fully: 561 My warrant is the will of those who rule it. The traitorous signal, which was to have Doge. And till that warrant has my sigset The bloodhound mob on their patrician nature It is illegal, and. as now applied, prey -The knell hath rung, but it is not the Rebellious. Hast thou weigh'd well thy life's worth, senate's ! That thus you dare assume a lawless func-Doge (after a pause). All's silent, and all's lost! tion?

Sig Now, Doge, denounce me As rebel slave of a revolted council! 600 Have I not done my duty ?

- Doge. Peace, thou thing ! Thou hast done a worthy deed, and earn'd the price
- Of blood, and they who use thee will reward thee.
- But thou wert sent to watch and not to prate.
- As thou saidst even now then do thme office.
- But let it be in silence, as behooves thee,
- Since, though thy prisoner, I am thy prince.
- Sig I did not mean to fail in the respect
- Due to your rank. in this I shall obey vou.
- Doge (aside). There now is nothing left me save to die; 610
- And yet how near success! I would have fallen,

And proudly, in the hour of triumph, but To miss it thus ! --

Enter other SIGNORS OF NIGHT, with BERTUCCIO FALIERO prisoner

- 2d Sig. We took him in the act Of issuing from the tower, where, at his order.
- As delegated from the Doge, the sig 1 Had thus begun to sound
- 1st Sig Are all the passes
- Which lead up to the palace well secured? 2d Sig They are - besides, it matters
- not: the chiefs
- Are all in chains, and some even now on trial:
- Their followers are dispersed, and many taken. 620
 - Ber. F. Uncle!
- Doge. It is in vain to war with Fortune; The glory hath departed from our house. Ber. F. Who would have deem'd it?--
 - Ah! one moment sooner!
 - Doge. That moment would have changed the face of ages;
- This gives us to eternity. We'll meet it
- As men whose triumph is not in success,
- But who can make their own minds all in all.
- Equal to every fortune. Droop not, 't is But a brief passage - I would go alone,
- Yet if they send us, as 't is like, together, 630 Let us go worthy of our sires and selves.

Ber. F. I shall not shame you, uncle.

1st Sig Lords, our orders Are to keep guard on both in separate chambers.

Until the council call ye to your trial.

- Doge Our trial ! will they keep their mockery up
- Even to the last? but let them deal upon us,
- As we had dealt on them, but with less pomp.
- 'T is but a game of mutual homicides,
- Who have cast lots for the first death, and thev
- Have won with false dice. Who hath been our Judas? 640
- 1st Sig I am not warranted to answer that.
- Ber. F. I'll answer for thee 't is a certain Bertram,

Even now deposing to the secret giunta.

- Doge Bertram, the Bergamask ! With what vile tools
- We operate to slay or save! This creature.

Black with a double treason, now will earn

- Rewards and honours, and be stamp'd in story
- With the geese in the Capitol, which gabbled
- Till Rome awoke, and had an annual triumph,
- While Manlius, who hurl'd down the Gauls, was cast 650

From the Tarpeian.

He aspired to treason. 1st Sig And sought to rule the state.

Doae He saved the state. And sought but to reform what he revived -

- But this is idle. Come, sirs, do your work. 1st Sig Noble Bertuccio, we must now
 - remove you

Into an inner chamber

Farewell, uncle ! Ber F If we shall meet again in life I know not,

- But they perhaps will let our ashes mingle. Doge. Yes, and our spirits, which shall yet go forth,
- And do what our frail clay, thus clogg'd, hath fail'd m ! 660

They cannot quench the memory of those

- Who would have hurl'd them from their guilty thrones,
- And such examples will find heirs, though distant.

ACT V

SCENE I

The Hall of the Councel of Ten assembled with the additional Senators, who, on the Trials of the Conspirators for the Treason of MARINO FALLERO, composed what was called the Gunla, - Guards, Officers, elc, etc. - ISRAEL BERTUCCIO and PHILIP CALENDARO as Prisoners. - BERTRAM, LIONI, and Witnesses, etc

The Chief of the Ten, BENINTENDE

Ben There now rests, after such conviction of Their manifold and manifest offences,

But to pronounce on these obdurate men

The sentence of the law, — a grievous task To those who hear, and those who speak. Alas!

That it should fall to me ! and that my days

Of office should be stigmatised through all The years of coming time, as bearing record To this most foul and complicated treason Against a just and free state, known to all The earth as being the Christian bulwark

'gainst The Saracen and the schismatic Greek,

The savage Hun, and not less barbarous Fiank;

A city which has open'd India's wealth To Europe; the last Roman refuge from O'erwhelming Attila; the ocean's queen;

Proud Genoa's prouder rival! 'T is to sap

The throne of such a city, these lost men

Have risk'd and forfeited their worthless lives ---

So let them due the death.

I. Ber We are prepared; Your racks have done that for us. Let us due Ben. If ye have that to say which would obtain Abatement of your punishment, the Giunta

Will hear you; if you have aught to confess,

Now is your time, perhaps it may avail ye. I. Ber. We stand to hear, and not to speak.

Ben. Your crimes

Are fully proved by your accomplices,

- And all which circumstance can add to aid them;
- Yet we would hear from your own lips complete
- Avowal of your treason: on the verge 30
- Of that dread gulf which none repass, the truth

Alone can profit you on earth or heaven — Say, then, what was your motive?

I. Ber. Justice ! Ben. What

Your object?

I Ber. Freedom!

Ben. You are brief, sir. I. Ber. So my life grows: I

Was bred a soldier, not a senator.

- Ben. Perhaps you think by this blunt brevity
- To brave your judges to postpone the sentence ?
 - I. Ber. Do you be brief as I am, and beheve me,
- I shall prefer that mercy to your pardon. 40 Ben. Is this your sole reply to the tribunal?
 - I Ber. Go, ask your racks what they have wrung from us,
- Or place us there again; we have still some blood left,
- And some slight sense of pain in these wrench'd limbs:

But this ye dare not do; for if we die there — And you have left us little life to spend

Upon your engines, gorged with pangs already ---

Ye lose the public spectacle, with which

You would appal your slaves to further slavery !

Groans are not words, nor agony assent, 50 Nor affirmation truth, if nature's sense

Should overcome the soul into a lie,

- For a short respite must we bear or die?
 - Ben. Say, who were your accomplices?
- I Ber The Senate ! Ben. What do you mean?
- I. Ber. Ask of the suffering people, Whom your patrician crimes have driven to crime. Ben You know the Doge?

I Ber. I served with him at Zara

In the field, when you were pleading here your way

To present office; we exposed our lives,

While you but hazarded the lives of others,

- Alike by accusation or defence; 61
- And, for the rest, all Venice knows her Doge,
- Through his great actions and the Senate's insults.

Ben. You have held conference with him? I. Ber. I am weary -

- Even wearier of your questions than your tortures:
- I pray you pass to judgment.

Ben. It is commg —

- And you, too, Philip Calendaro, what Have you to say why you should not be doom'd ?
- Cal. I never was a man of many words, And now have few left worth the utterance.
- Ben. A further application of yon engine May change your tone.
- Cal.Most true, it will do so; A former application did so, but
- It will not change my words, or, if it did ---Ben. What then?

Will my avowal on yon rack Cal. Stand good in law?

Ben. Assuredly

Whoe'er

- Cal.The culprit be whom I accuse of treason? Ben. Without doubt, he will be brought up to trial
 - Cal. And on this testimony would he perish?
 - Ben. So your confession be detail'd and full,
- He will stand here in peril of his hfe.
 - Cal. Then look well to thy proud self, President !

For by the eternity which yawns before me, I swear that thou, and only thou, shalt be The traitor I denounce upon that rack,

If I be stretch'd there for the second time

- One of the Gunta. Lord President, 't were best proceed to judgment;
- There is no more to be drawn from these men. Ben. Unhappy men ! prepare for instant death.
- The nature of your crime our law and peril
- The state now stands in, leave not an hour's respite.
- Guards ! lead them forth, and upon the balcony
- Of the red columns, where, on festal Thursday,
- The Doge stands to behold the chase of bulls,
- Let them be justified: and leave exposed
- Their wavering relics, in the place of judgment,
- To the full view of the assembled people !
- And Heaven have mercy on their souls ! The Giunta. Amen!

I Ber. Signors, farewell ! we shall not all agam

Meet in one place.

Ben. And lest they should essay To stir up the distracted multitude -101 Guards | let their mouths be gagg'd, even in the act

Of execution. Lead them hence !

- CalWhat! must we Not even say farewell to some fond friend,
- Nor leave a last word with our confessor?
- Ben. A priest is waiting in the antechamber;
- But, for your friends, such interviews would be
- Painful to them, and useless all to you.
- Cal. I knew that we were gagg'd in life; at least
- All those who had not heart to risk their hves 110
- Upon their open thoughts; but still I deem'd
- That in the last few moments, the same ıdle
- Freedom of speech accorded to the dying
- Would not now be denied to us; but since -I. Ber. Even let them have their way,
- brave Calendaro ! What matter a few syllables ? let's die
- Without the slightest show of favour from them;

So shall our blood more readily arise

- To Heaven against them, and more testify
- To their atrocities, than could a volume 120
- Spoken or written of our dying words !
- They tremble at our voices nay, they dread

Our very silence - let them live in fear !

- Leave them unto their thoughts, and let us
- Address our own above ! Lead on, we are ready.
 - Cal. Israel, hadst thou but hearken'd unto me
- It had not now been thus; and yon pale villain,

The coward Bertram, would ---

Peace, Calendaro ! I. Ber. What brooks it now to ponder upon this?

- Ber. Alas ! I fain you died in peace with me:
- I did not seek this task; 't was forced upon me.

Say, you forgive me; though I never can

Retrieve my own forgiveness - frown not thus ?

I. Ber. I die and pardon thee !

Cal. (spitting at him). I die and scorn thee!

[Excent ISEAEL BERTUCCIO and PHILIP CALENDARO, Guards, etc.

Ben. Now that these criminals have been disposed of,

'T is time that we proceed to pass our sentence

Upon the greatest traitor upon record

In any annals, the Doge Fahero !

The proofs and process are complete; the time

And crime require a quick procedure; shall He now be call'd in to receive the award?

The Gunta. Ay, ay.

Ben. Avogadori, order that the Doge Be brought before the council.

One of the Gunta. And the rest, When shall they be brought up?

Ben. When all the chiefs Have been disposed of. Some have fled to Chiozza:

But there are thousands in pursuit of them, And such precaution ta'en on terra firma,

As well as in the islands, that we hope

None will escape to utter in strange lands

His libellous tale of treasons 'gainst the senate.

Enter the DOGE as Prisoner, with Guards, etc., etc.

Ben. Doge — for such still you are, and by the law

Must be consider'd, till the hour shall come When you must doff the ducal bonnet from That head, which could not wear a crown more noble

Than empires can confer, in quiet honour,

But it must plot to overthrow your peers,

Who made you what you are, and quench in blood

A city's glory — we have laid already

Before you in your chamber at full length,

By the Avogadori, all the proofs

Which have appear'd against you; and more ample

161

Ne'er rear'd their sanguinary shadows to Confront a traitor. What have you to say

In your defence?

Doge. What shall I say to ye, Since my defence must be your condemnation?

You are at once offenders and accusers, Judges and executioners ! — Proceed

Upon your power.

Ben Your chief accomplices 169 Having confess'd, there is no hope for you. Doge. And who be they?

Ben. In number many; but The first now stands before you in the court.

Bertram, of Bergamo, — would you question hum?

Doge (looking at him contemptuously). No. Ben And two others, Israel Bertuccio,

And Philip Calendaro, have admitted Their fellowship in treason with the Doge!

Doge. And where are they?

Ben. Gone to their place, and now Answering to Heaven for what they did on earth.

Doge. Ah! the plebeian Brutus, is he gone?

And the quick Cassius of the Arsenal? 180 How did they meet their doom?

Ben. Think of your own: It is approaching You decline to plead, then?

Doge I cannot plead to my inferiors, nor Can recognise your legal power to try me. Show me the law !

Ben. On great emergencies, The law must be remodell'd or amended.

Our fathers had not fix'd the punishment

Of such a crime, as on the old Roman tables The sentence against parricide was left

In pure forgetfulness; they could not render That penal, which had neither name nor Thought 191 In their great bosoms. Who would have foreseen That nature could be filed to such a crime

As sons 'gainst sires, and princes 'gainst their realms ?

Your sin hath made us make a law which will Become a precedent 'gainst such haught traitors,

As would with treason mount to tyranny;

Not even contented with a sceptre, till

They can convert it to a two-edged sword ! 199

Was not the place of Doge sufficient for ye?

What's nobler than the signory of Venice? Doge. The signory of Venice! You betray'd me—

You - you, who sit there, traitors as ye are!

From my equality with you in birth,

And my superiority in action,

You drew me from my honourable toils, In distant lands — on flood, in field, m cittes — You singled me out like a victim to Stand crown'd, but bound and helpless, at the altar Where you alone could minister I knew not, 210 I sought not, wish'd not, dream'd not the election Which reach'd me first at Rome, and I obey'd; But found on my arrival, that, besides The jealous vigilance which always led you To mock and mar your sovereign's best in- tents, You had, even in the interregnum of My journey to the capital, curtail'd And mutilated the few privileges Yet left the duke. All this I bore, and would Have borne, until my very hearth was stain'd 220 By the pollution of your ribaldry, And he, the ribald, whom I see amongst you — Fit judge in such tribunal !— Ben (interrupting him) Michel Steno Is here in virtue of his office, as One of the Forty; 'the Ten' having craved A Giunta of patricians from the senate To aid our judgment in a trial arduous And novel as the present: he was set Free from the penalty pronounced upon him, Because the Doge, who should protect the law, 230 Seeking to abrogate all law, can claim No punishment of others by the statutes Which he himself denies and violates ' Doige. His PUNISHMENT ! I rather see him there, Where he now sits, to glut him with my death, Than in the mockery of castigation, Which your foul, outward, juggling show of justice Decreed as sentence ! Base as was his	 His fury, like an angry boy's, to master All feeling, wisdom, faith, and fear, on such A provocation as a young man's petulance? Doge A spark creates the flame — 't is the last drop Which makes the cup run o'er, and mine was full Already. You oppress'd the prince and people; I would have freed both, and have fail'd m both The price of such success would have been glory, 250 Vengeance, and victory, and such a name As would have made Venetian history Rival to that of Greece and Syracuse When they were freed, and flourish'd ages after, And mine to Gelon and to Thrasybulus: Failing, I know the penalty of failure is present infamy and death — the future Will judge, when Venice is no more, or free; Till then, the truth is in abeyance. Pause not; I would have shown no mercy, and I seek none; 260 My life was staked upon a mighty hazard, And being lost, take what I would have taken ! I would have stood alone amidst your tombs. Now you may flock round mine, and tram- ple on it, As you have done upon my heart while living Ben. You do confess then, and admit the justice Of our tribunal " Doge. I confess to have fail'd; Fortune is female: from my youth her favours Were not withheld, the fault was mine to hope Her former smiles again at this late hour. Ben You do not then m aught arraign our equity ? Doge Noble Venetians ! stir me not with justice Decreed as sentence ! Base as was his crime, 'T was purity compared with your protec-	our equity ? 271 Doge Noble Venetians ! stir me not with questions. I am resign'd to the worst; but in me still
'T was purity compared with your protec- tion.
Tion.	Lave sometiming of the brood of brighter

Ben And can it be, that the great Doge of Venice, 240

With three parts of a century of years And honours on his head, could thus allow Further interrogation, which boots nothing, days, And am not over-patient. Pray you, spare

542 DRAI	MAS
 Except to turn a trial to debate. I shall but answer that which will offend you, And please your enemies—a host already. T is true, these sullen walls should yield no echo. 280 But walls have ears — nay, more, they have tongues; and if There were no other way for truth to o'erleap them, You who condemn me, you who fear and slay me, Yet could not bear in silence to your graves What you would hear from me of good or evil; The secret were too mighty for your souls. Then let it sleep m mine, unless you court A danger which would double that you escape. Such my defence would be, had I full scope To make it famous; for true words are things, are things which long outlive, And oftentimes avenge them; bury mine, If ye would fain survive me. Take this counsel, And though too oft ye made me live in wrath, Let me due calmly; you may grant me this; I deny nothing — defend nothing — nothing I ask of you, but silence for myself, And sentence from the court ! Ben. This full admission Spares us the harsh necessity of ordering The torture to elicit the whole truth. 300 Doge The torture! you have put me there already, Daily since I was Doge; but if you will Add the corporeal rack, you may: these limbs Will yield with age to crushing iron; but There 's that within my heart shall strain your engines. 	One of the Gunta. She may have revelations of importance Unto the state, to justify compliance 310 With her request. Ben. Is this the general will ? All. It is Doge. Oh, admirable laws of Venice ! Which would admit the wife, in the full hope That she might testify against the husband. What glory to the chaste Venetian dames ! But such blasphemers 'gainst all honour, as Sit here, do well to act in their vocation Now, villain Steno ! if this woman fail, I'll pardon thee thy he, and thy escape, And my own violent death, and thy vile Ife. 320 The Drocesse enters 320 Ben. Lady ! this just tribunal has resolved, 320 Though the request be strange, to grant it, and 320 Whatever be its purport, to accord A patient hearing with the due respect Which fits your ancestry, your rank, and virtues' Staintness Tis past; I pray you pardon me,I sit not In presence of my prince and of my husband, While he is on his feet. Ben. Your pleasure, lady ? Ang. Strange rumours, but most true, if all I hear 331 And see be sooth, have reach'd me, and I come To know the worst, even at the worst; forgive To know
Officer Noble Venetians! Duchess Fa- liero Requests admission to the Giunta's pre- sence. Ben. Say, conscript fathers, shall she be admitted ?	Oh God! this is the silence of the grave! Ben. (after a pause). Spare us, and spare thyself the repetition Of our most awful, but inexorable 340 Duty to heaven and man! Ang. Yet speak; I cannot —

[cannot - no - even now believe theseHad now been groaning at a Moslem oar, things. Or digging in the Hunnish mines in fetters! is he condemn'd? One of the Council. No, lady, there are Ben. Alas! others who would die Ang And was he guilty ? Rather than breathe in slavery ! Ben Lady ' the natural distraction of Ang. If there are so Thy thoughts at such a moment makes the Within these walls, thou art not of the numquestion ber: The truly brave are generous to the Merit forgiveness; else a doubt like this Against a just and paramount tribunal fallen !-Were deep offence. But question even the Is there no hope? Lady, it cannot be. 38c Doge, Ben. Ang. (turning to the Doge). Then die, And if he can deny the proofs, believe him Faliero ! since it must be so: Guiltless as thy own bosom. Ang. Is it so ? 350 But with the spirit of my father's friend. My lord - my sovereign - my poor father's Thou hast been guilty of a great offence, Half-cancell'd by the harshness of these friend -The mighty in the field, the sage in council; men. Unsay the words of this man! Thou art I would have sued to them, have pray'd silent ! to them, Have begg'd as famish'd mendicants for Ben He hath already own'd to his own guilt. bread. Nor, as thou seest, doth he deny it now. Have wept as they will cry unto their God For mercy, and be answer'd as they an-Ang. Ay, but he must not die! Spare his few years, swer-Which grief and shame will soon cut down Had it been fitting for thy name or mine, And if the cruelty in their cold eyes to days ! 390 One day of baffled crime must not efface Had not announced the heartless wrath within. Near sixteen lustres crowded with brave Then, as a prince, address thee to thy acts. doom ! Ben. His doom must be fulfill'd without remission Doge. I have lived too long not to know 360 Of time or penalty - 't is a decree how to die ! Ang. He hath been guilty, but there may Thy suing to these men were but the bleatbe mercy. ing Of the lamb to the butcher, or the cry Ben. Not in this case with justice. Alas ! signor. Of seamen to the surge. I would not take Ang He who is only just is cruel; who A life eternal, granted at the hands Of wretches, from whose monstrous vil-Upon the earth would live were all judged justly? lanies I sought to free the groaning nations! Ben. His punishment is safety to the Michel Steno. Doge, state. Ang. He was a subject, and hath served A word with thee, and with this noble lady, the state; Whom I have grievously offended. Would He was your general, and hath saved the Sorrow, or shame, or penance on my part, state; He is your sovereign, and hath ruled the Could cancel the inexorable past! But since that cannot be, as Christians state. One of the Council He is a traitor, and let us Say farewell, and in peace: with full conbetray'd the state. Ang And, but for him, there now had trition I crave, not pardon, but compassion from been no state To save or to destroy; and you, who sit you, And give, however weak, y prayers for There to pronounce the death of your deboth. liverer.

Ang. Sage Benintende, now chief judge of Venice,

- I speak to thee in answer to yon signor.
- Inform the ribald Steno, that his words 410 Ne'er weigh'd in mind with Loredano's
- daughter Further than to create a moment's pity
- For such as he is: would that others had
- Despised him as I pity ! I prefer

My honour to a thousand lives, could such

Be multiplied in mine, but would not have

A single life of others lost for that

- Which nothing human can impugn the sense
- Of virtue, looking not to what is call'd

A good name for reward, but to itself. 420 To me the scorner's words were as the wind

Unto the rock: but as there are - alas !

- Spirits more sensitive, on which such things Light as the whirlwind on the waters; souls To whom dishonour's shadow is a substance More terrible than death, here and here-
- after;

Men whose vice is to start at vice's scoffing,

- And who, though proof against all blandishments
- Of pleasure, and all pangs of pain, are feeble
- When the proud name on which they pinnacled 430
- Their hopes is breathed on, jealous as the eagle
- Of her high aiery; let what we now
- Behold, and feel, and suffer, be a lesson
- To wretches how they tamper in their spleen
- With beings of a higher order. Insects
- Have made the lion mad ere now; a shaft
- I' the heel o'erthrew the bravest of the brave;
- A wife's dishonour was the bane of Troy;
- A wife's dishonour unking'd Rome for ever; An injured husband brought the Gauls to 440

- Clusium,
- And thence to Rome, which perish'd for a time;
- An obscene gesture cost Caligula
- His life, while earth yet bore his cruelties;
- A virgin's wrong made Spain a Moorish province;
- And Steno's lie, couch'd in two worthless lines,
- Hath decimated Venice, put in peril
- A senate which hath stood eight h dred years,

- Discrown'd a prince, cut off his crownless head,
- And forged new fetters for a groaning people !
- Let the poor wretch, like to the courtesan
- Who fired Persepolis, be proud of this, 45, If it so please him — 't were a pride fit for him !
- But let him not insult the last hours of
- Him, who, whate'er he now is, was a hero,
- By the intrusion of his very prayers.
- Nothing of good can come from such a source,
- Nor would we aught with him, nor now, nor ever:

We leave him to himself, that lowest depth Of human baseness. Pardon is for men,

- And not for reptiles we have none for Steno, 460
- And no resentment: things like him must sting,

And higher beings suffer; 't is the charter

- Of hfe. The man who dies by the adder's fang
- May have the crawler crush'd, but feels no anger:
- 'T was the worm's nature; and some men are worms
- In soul, more than the living things of tombs. Doge (to Ben.). Signor ! complete that which you deem your duty.
 - Ben. Before we can proceed upon that duty,
- We would request the princess to withdraw;
- 'T will move her too much to be witness to it. 47°
 - Ang. I know it will, and yet I must endure it,
- For 't is a part of mine I will not quit,
- Except by force, my husband's side. Proceed !

Nay, fear not either shriek, or sigh, or tear; Though my heart burst, it shall be silent. —

- Speak !
- I have that within which shall o'ermaster all.
- Ben. Marino Faliero, Doge of Venice,
- Count of Val di Marino, Senator,
- And some time General of the Fleet and Army,
- Noble Venetian, many times and oft 484 Intrusted by the state with high employments,
- Even to the highest, listen to the sentence.

Convict by many witnesses and proofs,	And there, the ducal crown being first re-
And by thine own confession, of the guilt	sumed
Of treachery and treason yet unheard of	Upon the spot where it was first assumed,
Until this trial — the decree is death	Thy head shall be struck off; and Heaven
Thy goods are confiscate unto the state,	have mercy 521
Thy name is razed from out her records,	Upon thy soul!
save	Doge Is this the Giunta's sentence?
Upon a public day of thanksgiving	Ben. It is.
For this our most miraculous deliverance,	Doge I can endure it. — And the time?
When thou art noted in our calendars 491	Ben Must be immediate - Make thy peace with God:
With earthquakes, pestilence, and foreign	Within an hour thou must be in His pre-
foes,	•
And the great enemy of man, as subject	sence.
Of grateful masses for Heaven's grace in	Doge. I am already; and my blood will snatching	rise
Our lives and country from thy wicked-	To Heaven before the souls of those who ness.	shed it. —
The place wherein as Doge thou shouldst	Are all my lands confiscated?
be painted,	Ben They are;
With thine illustrious predecessors, is	And goods, and jewels, and all kind of
To be left vacant, with a death-black veil	treasure,
Flung over these dim words engraved be-	Except two thousand ducats - these dispose of. 530
neath, —	Doge. That's harsh. — I would have fain
'This place is of Marino Faliero, 5∞	reserved the lands
Decapitated for his crimes.'
Doge. 'His crimes!'	Near to Treviso, which I hold by invest-
But let it be so: — it will be in vain.	ment in G (1) is a found
The veil which blackens o'er this blighted	From Laurence the Count-bishop of Ceneda,
name,	In fief perpetual to myself and heirs,
And hides, or seems to hide, these linea-	To portion them (leaving my city spoil,
ments,	My palace and my treasures, to your for-
Shall draw more gazers than the thousand	feit)
portraits	Between my consort and my kinsmen.
Which glitter round it in their pictured	Ben These trappings	Lie under the state's ban; their chief, thy
Your delegated slaves — the people's ty-	nephew,
rants !	In peril of his own life; but the council
'Decapitated for his crimes!' - What	Postpones his trial for the present. If 540 crimes?	Thou will'st a state unto thy widow'd prmcess,
Were it not better to record the facts,	Fear not, for we will do her justice.
So that the contemplator might approve, 510	Ang. Signors,
Or at the least learn whence the crimes	I shall not in your spoil! From henceforth, arose?
When the beholder knows a Doge con-	know
spired,	I am devoted unto God alone,
Let him be told the cause — it is your his-	And take my refuge in the cloister.
tory.	Doge Come!
Ben. Time must reply to that; our sons	The hour may be a hard one, but 't will will judge	end.
Their fathers' judgment, which I now pro-	Have I aught else to undergo save death?
nounce.	Ben. You have nought to do, except con-
As Doge, clad in the ducal robes and cap,	fess and die
Thou shalt be led hence to the Giants'	The priest is robed, the scimitar is bare,
Staircase,	And both await without But, above
Where thou d all our princes are invested;	all. 530
Where then a shour princes are investory

Think not to speak unto the people; they

- Are now by thousands swarming at the gates,
- ut these are closed: the Ten, the Avogadori,

The Gunta, and the chief men of the Forty, Alone will be beholders of thy doom,

And they are ready to attend the Doge.

Doge The Doge !

Ben. Yes, Doge, thou hast lived and thou shalt die

A sovereign; till the moment which precedes The separation of that head and trunk, 559 That ducal crown and head shall be united. Thou hast forgot thy dignity in deigning To plot with petty traitors; not so we,

Who in the very punishment acknowledge

The prince. Thy vile accomplices have died The dog's death, and the wolf's; but thou

- shalt fall
- As falls the hon by the hunters, girt
- By those who feel a proud compassion for thee,

And mourn even the inevitable death

Provoked by thy wild wrath and regal fierceness

Now we remit thee to thy preparation: 57⁵⁰ Let it be brief, and we ourselves will be

Thy guides unto the place where first we were United to thee as thy subjects, and

Thy senate; and must now be parted from thee

As such for ever, on the self-same spot. -

Guards! form the Doge's escort to his chamber. [Excumt.

SCENE II

The Doge's Apartment.

The DOGE as Prisoner, and the DUCHESS attending him.

Doge. Now, that the priest is gone, 't were useless all

To linger out the miserable minutes;

- But one pang more, the pang of parting from thee,
- And I will leave the few last grains of sand 580

Which yet remain of the accorded hour,

Still falling - I have done with Time.

Ang. Alas! And I have been the cause, the unconscious cause:

And for this funeral marriage, this black u on. Which thou, compliant with my father's wish,

Didst promise at his death, thou hast seal'd thine own.

Doge Not so: there was that in my spirit ever

Which shaped out for itself some great reverse;

The marvel is, it came not until now - 589 And yet it was foretold me.

- Ang. How foretold you? Doge Long years ago — so long, they are a doubt
- In memory, and yet they live in annals:
- When I was in my youth, and served the senate
- And signory as podesta and captain
- Of the town of Treviso, on a day
- Of festival, the sluggish bishop who
- Convey'd the Host aroused my rash young anger,
- By strange delay and arrogant reply
- To my reproof; I raised my hand and smote hum, 599

Until he reel'd beneath his holy burthen;

- And as he rose from earth again, he raised His tremulous hands in pious wrath towards
- Heaven Thence pointing to the Host, which had fallen from him,
- He turn'd to me, and said, 'The hour will come
- When he thou hast o'erthrown shall overthrow thee:

The glory shall depart from out thy house, The wisdom shall be shaken from thy soul. And in thy best maturity of mind

- A madness of the heart shall seize upon thee;
- Passion shall tear thee when all passions cease 610

In other men, or mellow into virtues;

And majesty, which decks all other heads, Shall crown to leave thee headless; honours shall

But prove to thee the heralds of destruction, And hoary hairs of shame, and both of death, But not such death as fits an aged man.'

Thus saying, he pass'd on. — That hour is come.

Ang. And with this warning couldst thou not have striven

To avert the fatal moment, and atone

By penitence for that which thou hadst done? 62c ,

Doge. I own the words went to my heart, so much	Ang. Speak not thus now; the surge of
That I remember'd them amd the maze	passion still 661 Sweeps o'er thee to the last; thou dost de-
Of life, as if they form'd a spectral voice Which shook me in a supernatural dream;	ceive Threalf and court not univers them he
And I repented; but 't was not for me	Thyself, and canst not mjure them — be calmer
To pull in resolution: what must be	Doge. I stand within eternity, and see
1 could not change, and would not fear	Into eternity, and I behold —
Nay more, Thou canst not have forgot, what all re-	Ay, palpable as I see thy sweet face For the last time — the days which I de-member,	nounce
That on my day of landing here as Doge,	Unto all time against these wave-girt walls,
On my return from Rome, a mist of such Unwonted density went on before 631	And they who are indwellers.
The Bucentaur, like the columnar cloud	Guard (coming forward). Doge of Venice,
Which usher'd Israel out of Egypt, till	The Ten are in attendance on your highness.
The pilot was misled, and disembark'd us	Doge Then farewell, Angiolina! - one
Between the pillars of Saint Mark's, where 't is	embrace — 671 Forgive the old man who hath been to thee
The custom of the state to put to death	A fond but fatal husband — love my mem-
Its criminals, instead of touching at	ory —
The Riva della Paglia, as the wont is, — So that all Venice shudder'd at the omen. 639	I would not ask so much for me still living,
Ang. Ah! little boots it now to recollect	But thou canst judge of me more kindly now,
Such things.	Seeing my evil feelings are at rest.
Doge. And yet I find a comfort in	Besides, of all the fruit of these long years,
The thought that these things are the work of Fate;	Glory, and wealth, and power, and fame, and name.
For I would rather yield to gods than	Which generally leave some flowers to men,	bloom
Or clung to any creed of destiny, Rather than deem these mortals, most of	Even o'er the grave, I have nothing left, not even 680
whom	A little love, or friendship, or esteem,
I know to be as worthless as the dust,	No, not enough to extract an epitaph
And weak as worthless, more than instru- ments	From ostentatious kinsmen. In one hour I have uprooted all my former life,
Of an o'er-ruling power; they in themselves	And outlived every thing, except thy heart,
Were all incapable — they could not be	The pure, the good, the gentle, which will oft
Victors of him who oft had conquer'd for them !	With unimpair'd but not a clamorous grief them ! 650 Ang. Employ the minutes left in aspira-	Still keep — Thou turn'st so pale! Alas! she famts, tions	She has no breath, no pulse ! - Guards !
Of a more healing nature; and in peace	lend your aid — 689
Even with these wretches take thy flight to Heaven.	I cannot leave her thus, and yet 't is better, Since every hfeless moment spares a pang
Doge I am at peace: the peace of cer-	When she shakes off this temporary death,
tainty	I shall be with the Eternal. — Call her
That a sure hour will come, when their sons' sons,	women — One look ! — how cold her hand ! — as cold
And this proud city, and these azure waters,	as mine
And all which makes them eminent and	Shall be ere she recovers — Gently tend her,
bright, Shall be a desolution and a curse	And take my last thanks — I am ready now
Shall be a desolation and a curse, A hissing and a scoff unto the nations,	[The Attendants of ANGIOLINL enter, and surround their mistress, who has jainted - Execut the Doar,
A Carthage, and a Tyre, an Ocean Babel !	Guards, etc., etc.

SCENE III

- The Court of the Ducal Palace the outer gates are shut against the people The Dock enters in his ducal robes, in piccession with the Council of Ten and other Patricians, attended by the Guards, full they arrive at the top of the 'Ganis' Starcase' (where the Doges took the oaths), the Executioner is stationed there with his sword On arriving, a Chaef of the Ten takes of the ducal cap from the Doge's head
 - Doge. So now the Doge is nothing, and at last
- I am agam Marino Faliero:
- 'T is well to be so, though but for a moment.
- Here was I crown'd, and here, bear witness, Heaven!

With how much more contentment I resign That shining mockery, the ducal bauble, Than I received the fatal ornament.

- One of the Ten. Thou tremblest, Faliero !
- Doge. 'T is with age, then. Ben. Faliero ! hast thou aught further to commend.

Compatible with justice, to the senate ?

- Doge. I would commend my nephew to their mercy,
- My consort to their justice; for methinks
- My death, and such a death, might settle all Between the state and me.
- Ben. They shall be cared for. Even notwithstanding thine unheard-of crime. 711

Doge. Unheard of ! ay, there 's not a history But shows a thousand crown'd conspirators A gainst the people; but to set them free

- One sovereign only died, and one is dying Ben. And who were they who fell in such a cause ?
 - Doge. The King of Sparta, and the Doge of Venice -
- Agis and Faliero !
- Ben Hast thou more
- To utter or to do?
 - May I speak? Doge.

Ben. Thou may'st; But recollect the people are without, 720 Beyond the compass of the human voice.

- Doge. I speak to Time, and to Eternity
- Of which I grow a portion, not to man.
- Ye elements ! in which to be resolved

I hasten, let my voice be as a spirit

- Upon you ! Ye blue waves, which hore my banner !
- Ye winds, which flutter'd o'er as if you loved it,
- And fill'd my swelling sails as they were wafted

To many a triumph ! Thou, my native earth.

- Which I have bled for, and thou foreign earth.
- Which drank this willing blood from many a wound !

Ye stones, in which my gore will not sink, but

- Reek up to Heaven! Ye skies, which will receive it !
- Thou sun, which shinest on these things ! and Thou
- Who kindlest and who quenchest suns !---Attest !

I am not unnocent — but are these guiltless? I perish, but not unavenged; far ages

- Float up from the abyss of time to be,
- And show these eyes, before they close, the doom

Of this proud city, and I leave my curse On her and hers for ever ! — Yes, the hours

Are silently engendering of the day,

When she, who built 'gainst Attila a bulwark, Shall yield, and bloodlessly and basely yield, Unto a bastard Attila, without

- Shedding so much blood in her last defence As these old veins, oft drain'd in shielding her,
- pour in sacrifice. She shall be Shall bought
- And sold, and be an appanage to those
- Who shall despise her ! She shall stoop to be
- A province for an empire, petty town
- In lieu of capital, with slaves for senates,
- Beggars for nobles, panders for a people !
- Then when the Hebrew's in thy palaces,
- The Hun in thy high places, and the Greek Walks o'er thy mart, and smiles on it for his;
- When thy patricians beg their bitter bread
- In narrow streets, and in their shameful need
- Make their nobility a plea for pity; Then, when the few who still retain a wreck
- Of their great fathers' heritage shall fawn
- Round a barbarian Vice of Kings' Vicegerent,
- Even in the palace where they sway'd as sovereigns,
- Even in the palace where they slew their sovereign,
- Proud of some name they have disgraced, or sprung
- From an adulteress boastful of her guilt
- With some large gondolier or foreign soldier,

Shall bear about their bastardy in triumph To the third spurious generation; - when

Thy sons are in the lowest scale of being, Slaves turn'd o'er to the vanquish'd by the victors, 777 Despised by cowards for greater cowardice, And scorn'd even by the vicious for such vices As in the monstrous grasp of their conception Defy all codes to image or to name them; Then, when of Cyprus, now thy subject kingdom, All thine inheritance shall be her shame Entail'd on thy less virtuous daughters, grown A wider proverb for worse prostitution; — When all the ills of conquer'd states shall cling thee, 780 Vice without splendour, sin without relief Even from the gloss of love to smooth it o'er, But in its stead, coarse lusts of habitude, Prurient yet passionless, cold studied lewd- ness, Depraving nature's frailty to an art; — When these and more are heavy on thee, when Smiles without mirth, and pastimes without pleasure, Youth without honour, age without respect, Meanness and weakness, and a sense of woe 'Gainst which thou wilt not strive, and dar'st not murmur, 790 Have made thee last and worst of peopled deserts, Then, in the last gasp of thine agony, Amidst thy many murders, think of mine ' Thou den of drunkards with the blood of princes ! Gehenna of the waters ! thou sea Sodom ! Thus I devote thee to the infermal gods ! Thee and thy serpent seed ! [Here the Does turns and addresses the Executioner. Slave, do thine office ! Strike as I struck the foe ! Strike as I would Have struck those tyrants ! Strike deep as my curse !	 Second Ctt. I cannot reach thee with mine utmost effort How is it ? let us hear at least, since sight Is thus prohibited unto the people, Except the occupiers of those bars First Cut. One has approach'd the Doge, and now they strip The ducal bonnet from his head — and now He raises his keen eyes to Heaven; I see Them ghitter, and his lips move — Hush ! hush — no, 810 'T was but a murmur — Curse upon the distance ! His words are marticulate, but the voice Swells up hike mutter'd thunder, would we could But gather a sole sentence ! Second Cut Hush ! we perhaps may catch the sound First Cut 'T is vain, I cannot hear him. — How his hoary hair Streams on the wind like foam upon the wave ! Now — now — he kneels — and now they form a circle Round him, and all is hidden — but I see The lifted sword in air — Ah' hark ! it falls ! [The People murmur Thu d Cut Then they have murder'd him who would have freed us. 821 Fourth Cut. Wisely they did to keep their portals barr'd Would we had known the work they were preparing Ere we were summon'd here — we would have brought Weapons, and forced them ! Suith Cut. Are you sure he's dead ? First Cut I saw the sword fall — Lo ! what have we here ?
[The Doge throws himself upon his knees, and as the Executioner raises his sword the scene closes SCENE IV	Mark's Place a CHIEF OF THE TEX, with a bloody sword He waves it thruce before the People, and exclams, 'Justice hath dealt upon the mighty
The Prazza and Prazzetta of Saint Mark's — The People in crouds gathered round the grated gates of the Ducal Palace, which are shut First Cutizen I have gain'd the gate, and can discern the Ten, Robed in their gowns of state, ranged round the Doge.	Traitor !' Traitor !' [The gates are opened, the populace rush in lowards the Grants' Starcase, where the execution has taken place The foremost of them exclaims to those be- hind, The gory head rolls down the Giants' Steps [The curtain falls.

SARDANAPALUS

A TRAGEDY

то

THE ILLUSTRIOUS GOETHE

A STRANGER PRESUMES TO OFFER THE HOMAGE OF A LITERARY VASSAL TO HIS LIEGE LORD, THE FIRST OF EXISTING WRITERS. WHO HAS CREATED THE LITERATURE OF HIS OWN COUNTRY, AND ILLUSTRATED THAT OF EUROPE THE UNWORTHY PRODUCTION WHICH THE AUTHOR VENTURES TO INSCRIBE TO HIM

IS ENTITLED

SARDANAPALUS.

PREFACE

In publishing the following Tragedies¹ I have only to repeat, that they were not composed with the most remote view to the stage. On the attempt made by the Managers in a former instance, the public opinion has been already expressed With regard to my own private feelings, as it seems that they are to stand for nothing, I shall say nothing.

For the historical foundation of the following compositions the reader is referred to the Notes

The Author has in one instance attempted to preserve, and in the other to approach, the 'unities,' conceiving that with any very distant departure from them, there may be poetry, but can be no drama. He is aware of the unpopularity of this notion in present English literature, but it is not a system of his own, being merely an opinion, which, not very long ago, was the law of literature throughout the world, and is still so in the more civilised part of it. But 'nous avons change tout cela,' and are reaping the advantages of the change. The writer is far from conceiving that any thing he can adduce by personal precept or example can at all approach his regular, or even irregular predecessors, he is merely giving a reason why he preferred the more regular formation of a structure, however feeble, to an entire abandonment of all rules whatsoever. Where he has failed, the failure is in the architect, - and not in the art.

DRAMATIS PERSONÆ

MEN

SARDANAPALUS, King of Nuneveh and Assyria, etc ABBACES, the Mede who aspired to the Throne BELESES, a Chaldean and Soothsayer SALEMENES, the King's Brother-in-law ALTADA, an Assyrian Officer of the Palace PANIA. ZAMES SFREO BALEA

WOMEN

ZARINA, the Queen MYRRHA, an Ionian female Slave, and the Favourite of SARDANAPALUS

Women composing the Harem of SARDANAPALUS, Guards, Attendants, Chaldean Priests, Medes, etc , etc

Scene - a Hall in the Royal Palace of Nineveh.

In this tragedy it has been my intention to follow the account of Diodorus Siculus, reducing it, however, to such dramatic regularity as I best could, and trying to approach the unities I therefore suppose the rebellion to explode and succeed in one day by a sudden conspiracy, instead of the long war of the history.

ACT I

SCENE I

A Hall in the Palace

Salemenes (solus). He hath wrong'd his queen, but still he is her lord;

He hath wrong'd my sister, still he is my brother;

He hath wrong'd his people, still he is their sovereign,

And I must be his friend as well as subject: He must not perish thus I will not see The blood of Nimrod and Semiramis

Sink in the earth, and thirteen hundred years Of empire ending like a shepherd's tale; He must be roused. In his effeminate heart

There is a careless courage which corruption

Has not all quench'd, and latent energies, Repress'd by circumstance but not destroy'd -

Steep'd, but not drown'd, in deep voluptuousness.

If born a peasant, he had been a man

To have reach'd an empire to an empire born,

He will bequeath none; nothing but a name, Which his sons will not prize in heritage: -Yet, not all lost, even yet he may redeem

¹ [Sardanapalus originally appeared in the same vol-me with The Two Foscari and Cam.]

Of midnight we will sup there: see nought Thou didst not say so.	 His sloth and shame by only being that 19 His sloth and shame by only being that 19 Which he should be, as easily as the thing He should not be and is Were it less toil To sway his nations than consume his hife? To head an army than to rule a harem? He sweats in palling pleasures, dulls his soul, And saps his goodly strength, in toils which yield not Health like the chase, nor glory like the war — He must be roused. Alas! there is no sound [Sound of soft musc heard from within To rouse him short of thunder. Hark ' the lute, The lyre, the timbrel; the lascivious tinkings 29 Of lulling instruments, the softening voices of women, and of beings less than women, Must chime in to the echo of his revel, While the great king of all we know of earth Lolls crown'd with roses, and his dadem Lies negligently by to be caught up By the first manly hand which dares to snatch it. Lo, where they come ! already I perceive The reeking odours of the perfumed trains, And see the bright gems of the glittering girls, At once his chorus and his council, flash 40 Along the gallery, and amidst the damsels, As femininely garb'd, and scarce less female. The grandson of Semiramis, the manqueen — He comes ! Shall I await him ? yes, and front him, And tell him what all good men tell each other, Speaking of him and his. They come, the slaves, Led by the monarch subject to his slaves. SCENE II 	 And bid the galley be prepared. There is A cooling breeze which crisps the broad clear river: We will embark anon. Fair nymphs, who deign To share the soft hours of Sardanapalus, We 'll meet again in that the sweetest hour, When we shall gather like the stars above us, And you will form a heaven as bright as theirs. Till then, let each be mistress of her time: And thou, my own Ioman Myrrha, choose; 60 Wilt thou along with them or me? Myr. My lord, my life! why answerest thou so coldly? It is the curse of kings to be so answer'd. Rule thy own hours, thou rulest mine — say, wouldst thou Accompany our guests, or charm away The moments from me? Myr. The king's choice is mine. Sar. I pray thee say not so: my chiefest 109 Is to contribute to thine every wish. I do not dare to breathe my own desire, Lest it should clash with thine; for thou art still 70 Too prompt to sacrifice thy thoughts for others. Myr. I would remain: I have no happiness Save in beholding thine; yet — Sar. Yet ! what YET? Thy own sweet will shall be the only barrier Which ever rises betwirt thee and me. Myr. I think the present is the wonted hour Of council; it were better I retire. Sal. (comes forward and says) The Ionian slave says well' let her retire. Sar. Who answers? How now, brother? Sal. (contex faithful vassal, royal lord. Sar. (addressing his train). As I have said, let all dispose their hours 8: Till midnight, when again we pray your presence. [The court returng. (To MYRHA, who is going) Myrtha! I thought thou wouldst remain
57	Let the pavilion over the Euphrates Be garlanded, and lit, and furnish'd forth For an especial banquet; at the hour 50	thought thou wouldst remain Myr. Great king, Thou didst not say so.

The negligence, the apathy, the evils I know each glance of those Ionic eyes, Of sensual sloth - produce ten thousand Which said thou wouldst not leave me Myr.Sire ! your brother tyrants. Sal. His consort's brother, minion of Whose delegated cruelty surpasses The worst acts of one energetic master, Ionia! However harsh and hard in his own bear-How darest thou name me and not blush? Not blush ! ing. Sar. The false and fond examples of thy lusts Thou hast no more eyes than heart to make Corrupt no less than they oppress, and sap her crimson In the same moment all thy pageant power Like to the dying day on Caucasus, 90 Where sunset tints the snow with rosy And those who should sustain it; so that whether shadows, And then reproach her with thine own cold A foreign foe invade, or civil broil Distract within, both will alke prove fatal: blindness, The first thy subjects have no heart to con-Which will not see it. What, in tears, my Myrrha ? quer; Sal. Let them flow on; she weeps for The last they rather would sist than vanmore than one, quish. Sar. Why, what makes thee the mouth-And is herself the cause of bitterer tears. Sar. Cursèd be he who caused those piece of the people? Sal. Forgiveness of the queen, my sister's tears to flow ! Sal. Curse not thyself — millions do that wrongs; A natural love unto my infant nephews; already Sar Thou dost forget thee: make me not Faith to the king, a faith he may need remember shortly, In more than words; respect for Nimrod's I am a monarch. Would thou couldst! line; Sal Also, another thing thou knowest not. My sovereign, Myr.I pray, and thou, too, prince, permit my Sar. What's that? To thee an unknown word. Sal. absence Yet speak it; Sar. Sar. Since it must be so, and this churl I love to learn. has check'd Virtue. Sal. Thy gentle spirit, go; but recollect Not know the word ! That we must forthwith meet: I had rather Sar Never was word yet rung so in my ears lose Worse than the rabble's shout, or splitting An empire than thy presence. [Ext MYRRHA It may be, trumpet: Sal I 've heard thy sister talk of nothing else. Thou wilt lose both, and both for ever ! Sal To change the irksome theme, then, Brother. Sar. I can at least command myself, who listen hear of vice. 140 To language such as this: yet urge me not Sar From whom? Even from the winds, if thou Sal. Beyond my easy nature. couldst listen 'T is beyond SalUnto the echoes of the nation's voice. That easy, far too easy, idle nature, Sar. Come, I'm indulgent, as thou know-Which I would urge thee. O that I could est, patient, rouse thee ! 110 As thou hast often proved - speak out, Though 't were against myself. what moves thee? By the god Baal! Sar. The man would make me tyrant. Sal. Thy peril So thou art. Sar Say on. Sal. Think'st thou there is no tyranny but that Sal. Thus, then; all the nations, For they are many, whom thy father left Of blood and chains? The despotism of In heritage, are loud in wrath against thee. vice. Sar. 'Gainst me! What would the slaves? The weakness and the wickedness of lux-Sal. A king ury,

Sar. And what	Sal. Our annals say not.
Am I then?	Sar Then I will say for them
Sal. In their eyes a nothing; but	That she had better woven within her
In mine a man who might be something	palace 181
still. 150	Some twenty garments, than with twenty
Sar. The railing drunkards ! why, what	guards would they have ?	Have fled to Bactria, leaving to the ravens,
Have they not peace and plenty?	And wolves, and men — the fiercer of the
Sal. Of the first	three —
More than is glorious; of the last, far	Her myriads of fond subjects Is this less	glory?
Than the king recks of.	Then let me live in ignominy ever
Sar. Whose then is the crime,	Sal. All warlike spirits have not the
But the false satraps who provide no bet-	same fate
ter?	Semiramis, the glorious parent of
Sal. And somewhat in the monarch who	A hundred kings, although she fail'd in ne'er looks	India,
Beyond his palace walls, or if he stirs	Brought Persia, Media, Bactria, to the
Beyond them, 'tis but to some mountain	realm 190
palace,	Which she once sway'd — and thou mightst
	•
Till summer heats wear down. O glorious	sway.
Baal!	Sar. I sway them
Who built up this vast empire, and wert	She but subdued them.
made 160	Sal It may be ere long
A god, or at the least shinest like a god	That they will need her sword more than
Through the long centuries of thy renown,	your sceptre.
This, thy presumed descendant, ne'er be-	Sar. There was a certain Bacchus, was held	there not?
As king the kingdoms thou didst leave as	I 've heard my Greek girls speak of such — ų u	they say
hero,
Won with thy blood, and toil, and time, and	He was a god, that is, a Grecian god,
peril!	An idol foreign to Assyria's worship,
For what? to furnish imposts for a revel,	Who conquer'd this same golden realm of
Or multiplied extortions for a minion.	Ind
Sar I understand thee — thou wouldst	Thou prat'st of, where Semiramis was v - have me go	quish'd
Forth as a conqueror. By all the stars	Sal I have heard of such a man; and
Which the Chaldeans read - the restless	thou perceiv'st 200
slaves 170	That he is deem'd a god for what he did.
Deserve that I should curse them with	Sar. And in his godship I will honour him their wishes,
And lead them forth to glory.	Not much as man. What, ho' my cup-
Sal. Wherefore not?	bearer!
Semiramis — a woman only — led	Sal What means the king?
These our Assyrians to the solar shores	Sar To worship your new god
Of Ganges.	And ancient conqueror Some wine, I say.
Sar 'T is most true. And how re-
turn'd?	Enter Cupbearer
Sal Why, like a man — a hero; baffled,	Sar. (addressing the Cupbearer). Bring but	me the golden goblet thick with gems,
Not vanquish'd. With but twenty guards,	Which bears the name of Nimrod's chalice.
she made
Good her retreat to Bactria.	Hence,
Sar And how many	Fill full, and bear it quickly. [Exit Cupbearer.
Left she behind in India to the vultures?	Sal. Is this moment

A fitting one for the resumption of Thy yet unslept-off revels?

Re-enter Cupbearer, with wine.

- Sar (taking the cup from him). Noble kınsman, 210
- If these barbarian Greeks of the far shores And skirts of these our realms lie not, this Bacchus
- Conquer'd the whole of India, did he not? Sal. He did, and thence was deem'd a deity.
 - Sar. Not so: of all his conquests a few columns,

Which may be his, and might be mine, if I Thought them worth purchase and conveyance, are

- The landmarks of the seas of gore he shed, The realms he wasted, and the hearts he broke.
- But here, here in this goblet is his title 220 To immortality - the immortal grape
- From which he first express'd the soul, and
- gave To gladden that of man, as some atonement
- For the victorious mischiefs he had done.
- Had it not been for this, he would have been
- A mortal still in name as in his grave;
- And, like my ancestor Semiramis,
- A sort of semi-glorious human monster.
- Here's that which defied him let it now

Humanise thee: my surly, chiding brother, Pledge me to the Greek god !

- SalFor all thy realms I would not so blaspheme our country's creed
 - Sar. That is to say, thou thinkest him a hero,

That he shed blood by oceans; and no god, Because he turn'd a fruit to an enchantment.

Which cheers the sad, revives the old, inspires

The young, makes weariness forget his toil, And fear her danger; opens a new world

- When this, the present, palls. Well, then, I pledge thee
- And him as a true man, who did his utmost 240
- In good or evil to surprise mankind. Drinks
 - Sal. Wilt thou resume a revel at this hour?

Sar And if I did, 't were better than a trophy,

Being bought without a tear. But that is not

- My present purpose since thou wilt not pledge me,
- Continue what thou pleasest.

(To the Cupbearer.)

- Boy, retire. [East Cupbearer.
- Sal. I would but have recall'd thee from thy dream;

Better by me awaken'd than rebellion.

Sar. Who should rebel? or why? what cause ? pretext?

I am the lawful king, descended from 25c

- A race of kings who knew no predecessors.
- What have I done to thee, or to the people,
- That thou shouldst rail, or they rise up against me?
 - Sal. Of what thou hast done to me, I speak not
 - Sar. But
- Thou think'st that I have wrong'd the queen: 1s 't not so?
 - Sal Think ' Thou hast wrong'd her!

Patience, prince, and hear me. Sar She has all power and splendour of her station,

- Respect, the tutelage of Assyria's heirs,
- The homage and the appanage of sovereignty.
- I married her as monarchs wed for state, And loved her as most husbands love their

261 If she or thou supposedst I could link me

Like a Chaldean peasant to his mate,

- Ye knew nor me, nor monarchs, nor mankind.
 - Sal I pray thee, change the theme \cdot my blood disdains

Complaint, and Salemenes' sister seeks not Reluctant love even from Assyria's lord !

- Nor would she deign to accept divided passion
- With foreign strumpets and Ionian slaves. The queen is silent
 - Sar. And why not her brother? Sal I only echo thee the voice of empires,
- Which he who long neglects not long will
 - govern The ungrateful and ungracious Sar slaves ! they murmur
- Because I have not shed their blood, nor led them

cities. There's Tarsus and Anchialus, both built In one day — what could that blood-loving beldame, My martial grandam, chaste Semiramis, Do more, except destroy them ? Sal 'T is most true; I own thy merit in those founded cities, Built for a whim, recorded with a verse Which shames both them and thee to com- ing ages. 290 Sar. Shame me ! by Baal, the cities, though well built, Are not more goodly than the verse ! Say what Thou wilt 'gainst me, my mode of life or rule, But nothing 'ganst the truth of that brief record. Why, those few hnes contain the history Of all things human: hear — 'Sardana- palus, The king, and son of Anacyndaraxes, In one day built Anchialus and Tarsus. Eat, drink, and love; the rest's not worth	Those gods were merely men; look to their issue — I feel a thousand mortal things about me, 320 But nothing godlike, — unless it may be The thing which you condemn, a disposition To love and to be mereful, to pardon The follies of my species, and (that's human) To be indulgent to my own. Sal The doom of Nineveh is seal'd. — Woe — woe To the unrivall'd city ! Sar. The tempest may break out which over- whelms thee, And thine and mune; and in another day 330 What is shall be the past of Belus' race. Sal. Ambitious treachery, Which has environ'd thee with snares; but yet There is resource: empower me with thy signet
But nothing 'gamst the truth of that brief record. Why, those few lines contain the history Of all things human: hear — 'Sardana-	And thine and mine; and in another day 330 What is shall be the past of Belus' race. Sar. What must we dread ? Sal. Ambitious treachery,
In one day built Anchualus and Tarsus. Eat, drink, and love; the rest's not worth a fillip' Sal A worthy moral, and a wise in- scription, 3 [∞]	There is resource: empower me with thy
For a king to put up before his subjects ! Sar. Oh, thou wouldst have me doubtless set up edicts — 'Obey the king — contribute to his trea- sure —	When even thine own 's in peril? Let me go; Give me thy signet — trust me with the rest.
Recruit his phalanx — spill your blood at bidding — Fall down and worship, or get up and toil ' Or thus — ' Sardanapalus on this spot Slew fifty thousand of his enemies These are their sepulchres, and thus his trophy '	Sar. I will trust no man with unlimited hves. 340 When we take those from others, we nor know What we have taken, nor the thing we give Sal Wouldst thou not take their hves who seek for thine? Sar. That 's a hard question, but I an-

Cannot the thing be done without? Who are they	The populace of all the nations seize Each calumny they can to sink their sov-
Whom thou suspectest ? — Let them be arrested	ereigns. Sal. They did not speak thus of thy
Sal. I would thou wouldst not ask me; the next moment	fathers
Will send my answer through thy babbling	They dared not. They were kept to toil troop	and combat;
Of paramours, and thence fly o'er the palace,	And never changed their chains but for
Even to the city, and so baffle all. — 350	their armour;
Trust me.	Now they have peace and pastime, and the
Sar. Thou knowest I have done so ever	license
Take thou the signet. [Gives the signet	To revel and to rail; it irks me not.
Sal I have one more request	I would not give the smile of one fair girl
Sar. Name it	For all the popular breath that e'er divided
Sal. That thou this night forbear the	A name from nothing. What are the rank banquet	tongues
In the pavilion over the Euphrates.	Of this vile herd, grown insolent with feed-
Sar Forbear the banquet! Not for all	ing,
the plotters	That I should prize their noisy praise, or
That ever shook a kingdom ! Let them	dread 389 Their noisome clamour?
come, And do their worst: I shall not blench for them;	Sal You have said they are men; As such their hearts are something
Nor rise the sooner; nor forbear the goblet;	Sar. So my dogs' are;
Nor crown me with a single rose the less;	And better, as more faithful:—but, pro-
Nor lose one joyous hour I fear them	ceed; Thou hast my signet: — since they are tu-
Sal. But thou wouldst arm thee, wouldst thou not, if needful ?	multuous,
Sar. Perhaps. I have the goodliest armour, and	Let them be temper'd, yet not roughly, till Necessity enforce it. I hate all pain, Given or received; we have enough within
A sword of such a temper; and a bow	us,
And javelin, which might furnish Nimrod	The meanest vassal as the loftiest monarch,
forth:	Not to add to each other's natural burthen
A little heavy, but yet not unwieldy.	Of mortal misery, but rather lessen,
And now I think on 't, 't is long since I 've	By mild reciprocal alleviation, 4∞
used them,	The fatal penalties imposed on life:
Even in the chase. Hast ever seen them, brother?	But this they know not, or they will not know
Sal. Is this a time for such fantastic triffing?	I have, by Baal ! done all I could to soothe them:
If need be, wilt thou wear them?	I made no wars, I added no new imposts,
Sar Will I not?	I interfered not with their civic lives,
Oh! if it must be so, and these rash slaves Will not be ruled with less, I'll use the	I let them pass their days as best might suit them,
sword 371	Passing my own as suited me.
Till they shall wish it turn'd into a distaff	Sal Thou stopp'st
Sal. They say thy sceptre's turn'd to that already.	Short of the duties of a king; and there- fore
Sar. That's false! but let them say so:	They say thou art unfit to be a monarch.
the old Greeks,	Sar. They lie. — Unhappily, I am unfit 410
Of whom our captives often sing, related	To be aught save a monarch; else for me
The same of their chief hero, Hercules,	The meanest Mede might be the king in-

Because he loved a Lydian queen: thou seest stead.

Sal. There is one Mede, at least, who Why, what is earth or empire of the earth? seeks to be so I have loved, and lived, and multiplied my Sar. What mean'st thou? -'t is thy image; secret; thou desirest To die 15 no less natural than those Acts of this clay ! 'T is true I have not Few questions, and I'm not of curious nature shed Blood as I might have done, in oceans, till Take the fit steps; and, since necessity Requires, I sanction and support thee. Ne'er My name became the synonyme of death ---Was man who more desired to rule in peace A terror and a trophy. But for this The peaceful only: if they rouse me, better I feel no penitence; my life is love: If I must shed blood, it shall be by force. They had conjured up stern Numrod from Till now, no drop from an Assyrian vein his ashes, 420 'The mighty hunter.' I will turn these Hath flow'd for me, nor hath the smallest coin realms Of Nineveh's vast treasures e'er been To one wide desert chase of brutes, who were, But would no more, by their own choice, be lavish'd On objects which could cost her sons a human. What they have found me, they belie; that tear: If then they hate me, 't is because I hate which They yet may find me - shall defy their not If they rebel, 't is because I oppress not. 460 wish Oh, men ! ye must be ruled with scythes, To speak it worse; and let them thank themselves. not sceptres, And mow'd down like the grass, else all we Sal Then thou at last canst feel? Sar Feel! who feels not reap Ingratitude? Is rank abundance, and a rotten harvest Of discontents infecting the fair soil, Sal I will not pause to answer With words, but deeds. Keep thou awake Making a desert of fertility. — I'll think no more. - Within there, ho! that energy Which sleeps at times, but is not dead Enter an ATTENDANT within thee. Sar. Slave, tell And thou may'st yet be glorious in thy The Ionian Myrrha we would crave her reign, presence. As powerful in thy realm. Farewell! Attend. King, she is here. Exit SALEMENES. MYRBHA enters. Sar (solus) Farewell! He's gone; and on his finger bears my sig-Sar. (apart to Attendant) Away ! net, (Addressing MYRRHA.) Beautiful being ! Which is to him a sceptre. He is stern Thou dost almost anticipate my heart; As I am heedless; and the slaves deserve It throbb'd for thee, and here thou comest: To feel a master What may be the let me danger, Deem that some unknown influence, some I know not he hath found it, let him guell sweet oracle, ıt Communicates between us, though unseen, Must I consume my life — this little life -In absence, and attracts us to each other. In guarding against all may make it less? Myr There doth. It is not worth so much ! It were to die 440 I know there doth, but not its Sar. Before my hour, to live in dread of death, name: What is it? Tracing revolt; suspecting all about me, Because they are near; and all who are re-In my native land a God, Myr. And in my heart a feeling like a God's, mote. But if it should be Because they are far Exalted; yet I own 't is only mortal; SO -For what I feel is humble, and yet happy ---If they should sweep me off from e th d That is, it would be happy; but -empire, [MYEBHA ponuses.

Sar. There comes For ever something between us and what $_{480}$	Thou whom he spurn'd so harshly, and now dared
We deem our happiness: let me remove	Drive from our presence with his savage
The barrier which that hesitating accent	jeers,
Proclaims to thine, and mine is seal'd.	And made thee weep and blush?
Myr. My lord !	Myr. I should do both
Sar. My lord — my king — sire — sover-	More frequently, and he did well to call eign ! thus it is —	me Deale in the Debuilt of the second
For ever thus, address'd with awe. I ne'er	Back to my duty. But thou spakest of
Can see a smile, unless in some broad ban-	peril — Poril to the quet's	Peril to thee —
Intoxicating glare, when the buffoons	Sar. Ay, from dark plots and snares
Have gorged themselves up to equality,	From Medes — and discontented troops and
Or I have quaff'd me down to their abase-	nations.
ment.	I know not what — a labyrinth of things —
Myrrha, I can hear all these things, these	A maze of mutter'd threats and mysteries:
names, 490	Thou know'st the man — it is his usual
Lord — king — sire — monarch — nay, time	custom. 521
was I prized them;	But he is honest. Come, we'll think no
That is, I suffer'd them — from slaves and	more on 't,
nobles;	But of the midnight festival.
But when they falter from the lips I love,	Myr. 'T is time
The lips which have been press'd to mine, a	To think of aught save festivals. Thou hast chill	not
Comes o'er my heart, a cold sense of the	Spurn'd his sage cautions?
falsehood	Sar. What? — and dost thou fear?
Of this my station, which represses feeling	Myr. Fear !- I'm a Greek, and how
In those for whom I have felt most, and	should I fear death?
makes me	A slave, and wherefore should I dread my
Wish that I could lay down the dull tiara,	freedom?
And share a cottage on the Caucasus	Sar. Then wherefore dost thou turn so
With thee, and wear no crowns but those	pale?
of flowers. 500	Myr. I love.
Myr. Would that we could !	Sar. And do not I? I love thee far
Sar. And dost thou feel this? - Why?	far more
Myr. Then thou wouldst know what thou	Than either the brief life or the wide canst never know.	realm, 530
Sar. And that is —	Which, it may be, are menaced; — yet I
Myr. The true value of a heart;	blench not.
At least, a woman's.	Myr. That means thou lovest nor thyself
Sar. I have proved a thousand —	nor me;
A thousand, and a thousand.	For he who loves another loves himself,
Myr. Hearts?	Even for that other's sake. This is too
Sar. I think so.	rash:
Myr. Not one ! the time may come thou	Kingdoms and lives are not to be so lost.
may'st.	Sar. Lost !- why, who is the aspiring
Sar. It will.	chief who dared
Hear, Myrrha; Salemenes has declared —	Assume to win them?
Or why or how he hath divined it, Belus,	Myr. Who is he should dread
Who founded our great realm, knows more	To try so much? When he who is their than 1 — But Salemenes hath declared my throne 510	ruler Forgets himself, will they remember him?
In peril. Myr. He did well.	Sar. Myrrha ! Myr. Frown not upon me: you have
Sar. And say'st thou so?
www. And say st mou so :	Smiled 540

Too often on me not to make those frowns Bitterer to bear than any punishment Which they may augur. — King, I am your subject ! Master, I am your slave ' Man, I have loved you ! — Loved you, I know not by what fatal weak- ness, Although a Greek, and born a foe to mon- archs — A slave, and hating fetters — an Ionian, And, therefore, when I love a stranger, more Degraded by that passion than by chains !	 Sar. Well, then, how wouldst thou save me, as thou saidst? Myr. By teaching thee to save thyself, and not Thyself alone, but these vast realms, from all The rage of the worst war — the war of brethren. Sar. Why, child, I loathe all war, and warriors; I live in peace and pleasure what can man Do more? Myr. Alas ' my lord, with common men There needs too oft the show of war to Still I have loved you. If that love were strong 550 Enough to overcome all former nature, Shall it not claim the privilege to save you?	keep The substance of sweet peace; and, for a king, 5 ⁸⁰ 'T is sometimes better to be fear'd than loved.
Sar. Save me, my beauty ! Thou art very fair, And what I seek of thee is love — not safety. Myr. And without love where dwells security ? Sar. I speak of woman's love. Myr. The very first Of human life must spring from woman's breast, Your first small words are taught you from her hps, Your first small words are taught you from her hps, Your first tears quench'd by her, and your last sighs Too often breathed out in a woman's hear- ing, 560 When men have shrunk from the ignoble care Of watching the last hour of him who led them Sar. My eloquent Ionian ! thou speak'st music, The very chorus of the tragic song I have heard thee talk of as the favourite pastime Of thy far father-land. Nay, weep not — calm thee. Myr I weep not. — But I pray thee, do not speak About my fathers or their land. Sar. Yet oft Thou speakest of them. Myr True — true constant thought Will overflow in words unconsciously; 570 But when another speaks of Greece, it	 Sar. And I have never sought but for the last. Myr. And now art neither. Sar. Dost thou say so, Myrrha? Myr. I speak of civic popular love, selflove, Which means that men are kept in awe and law, Yet not oppress'd — at least they must not think so; Or if they think so, deem it necessary, To ward off worse oppression, their own passions. A king of feasts, and flowers, and wine, and revel, And love, and mirth, was never king of glory. 590 Sar. Glory ! what's that? 590 Sar. They cannot answer; when the priests speak for them, 'T is for some small addition to the temple. Myr. Look to the annals of thine empire's founders. Sar They are so blotted o'er with blood, I cannot. But what wouldst have? the empire has been founded. I cannot go on multiplying empires. Myr. As least, I will enjoy it. Come, Myrrha, let us go on to the Euphrates. The hour invites, the galley is prepared, 600 And the pavilion, deck'd for our return In fit adornment for the evening banquet, wounds me.	9 · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·

ep urgency with which the e to your sacred presence, I to add my feeble voice to 640 as spoken.
No, it must not be.
he sake of thy realm !
Away !
For that thful subjects, who will rally nd thine.
These are mere fantasies;
eril: — 't is a sullen scheme s, to approve his zeal, nself more necessary to us.
ll that's good and glorious,
his counsel.
ess to-morrow.
Ay, or death to-night.
let it come then unexpectedly nd gentleness, and mirth and l like the pluck'd rose ! far i like the pluck u lose :- lar wither'd
Then thou wilt not yield, sake of all that ever sturr'd to action, to forego
el?
No.
Then yield for mine;
!
hine, my Myrrha !
'T is the first ever ask'd Assyria's king.
's true, and were 't my kingnust be granted
y sake, I yıeld me. Pania, 9660
me.
And obey [Exit PANIA
I marvel at thee.
motive, Myrrha, thus to urge refety, and the containty that safety; and the certainty that t the prince thy kınsman to reme prince thy kinsman to re-rom thee, but some impending
r.
fI do not dread it, why shoulds use thou dost not fear, I fear se.

Sar To-morrow thou wilt smile at these vain fancies.	In my own thoughts, by loving this soft stranger: 700
Myr. If the worst come, I shall be where none weep, 669	And yet methinks I love him more, per ceiving
And that is better than the power to smile. And thou?	That he is hated of his own barbarians, The natural foes of all the blood of Greece.
Sar. I shall be king, as heretofore. Myr. Where ?	Could I but wake a single thought like those
Sar. With Baal, Nimrod, and Semi- ramis,	Which even the Phrygians felt when bat tling long
Sole in Assyria, or with them elsewhere.	'Twixt Ilion and the sea, within his heart,
Fate made me what I am — may make me nothing —	He would tread down the barbarous crowds, and triumph.
But either that or nothing must I be: [will not live degraded.	He loves me, and I love him; the slave loves
Myr. Hadst thou felt Thus always, none would ever dare degrade	Her master, and would free him from his vices.
thee.	If not, I have a means of freedom still, 710 And if I cannot teach him how to reign,
Sar. And who will do so now? Myr. Dost thou suspect none? Sar. Suspect! — that 's a spy's office.	May show him how alone a king can leave His throne. I must not lose him from my
Oh, we lose Ten thousand precious moments in vain	sight. [Ext.
words, 680	ACT II
And vamer fears. Within there ! — Ye slaves, deck	SCENE I
The hall of Nimrod for the evening revel:	The Portal of the same Hall of the Palace
If I must make a prison of our palace, At least we'll wear our fetters jocundly;	Beleses (solus). The sun goes down: me- thinks he sets more slowly,
If the Euphrates be forbid us, and The summer dwelling on its beauteous bor-	Taking his last look of Assyria's empire. How red he glares amongst those deepen-der, Here we are still unmenaced. Ho! within	Ing clouds, Like the blood he predicts. If not in vain, there ! [Exit SABDANAPALUS. My (sola) Why do I love this man?	Thou sun that sinkest, and ye stars which rise,
My country's daughters Love none but heroes. But I have no coun-	I have outwatch'd ye, reading ray by ray The edicts of your orbs, which make Time tremble
try ! The slave hath lost all save her bonds. I love him; 690	For what he brings the nations, 't is the fur- thest
And that's the heaviest link of the long	Hour of Assyria's years. And yet how calm !
To love whom we esteem not. Be it so: The hour is coming when he 'll need all love,	An earthquake should announce so great a fall —
And find none. To fall from him now were baser	A summer's sun discloses it. Yon disk, To the star-read Chaldean, bears upon
Than to have stabb'd him on his throne	Its everlasting page the end of what Seem'd everlasting; but oh! thou true
when highest Would have been noble in my country's	sun ! The burning oracle of all that live, creed: I was not made for either. Could I save him,	As fountain of all life, and symbol of Him who bestows it, wherefore dost tho
I should not love him better, but myself;	limit
And I have need of the last, for I have	Thy lore unto calamity? Why not

- All-glorious burst from ocean? why not Bel. 'T was a brave one. Arb. And is a weak one - 't is worn out dart A beam of hope athwart the future years, - we'll mend it. As of wrath to its days? Hear me! oh, Bel. Art sure of that? hear me! Arb. Its founder was a hunter ----I am thy worshipper, thy priest, thy ser-I am a soldier — what is there to fear? Bel. The soldier. vant -I have gazed on thee at thy rise and fall. Arb. And the priest, it may be: but And bow'd my head beneath thy mid-day If you thought thus, or think, why not beams, retain When my eye dared not meet thee. I have Your king of concubines? why stir me up? watch'd Why spur me to this enterprise? your For thee, and after thee, and pray'd to thee, own And sacrificed to thee, and read, and fear'd No less than mine? Bel. Look to the sky ! thee. And ask'd of thee, and thou hast answer'd Arb. I look. Bel. What seest thou? -- but Only to thus much. While I speak, he A fair summer's twilight, and Arb. sinks -The gathering of the stars. Is gone - and leaves his beauty, not his Bel. And midst them, mark knowledge, Yon earliest, and the brightest, which so To the delighted west, which revels in quivers Its hues of dying glory. Yet what is As it would quit its place in the blue ether. Death, so it be but glorious ? 'T is a sunset; Arb. Well And mortals may be happy to resemble 'T is thy natal ruler — thy birth Bel. The gods but in decay. planet. Arb. (touching his scabbard). My star is Enter ARBACES, by an inner door. in this scabbard: when it shines, It shall out-dazzle comets. Let us think Arb. Beleses, why So rapt in thy devotions? Dost thou stand Of what is to be done to justify Gazing to trace thy disappearing god Thy planets and their portents. When we Into some realm of undiscover'd day? conquer, Our business is with night - 't is come. They shall have temples — ay, and priests; Bel. But not and thou Shalt be the pontiff of — what gods thou Gone. Arb. Let it roll on -- we are ready. wilt: Yes For I observe that they are ever just, Bel. Would it were over ! And own the bravest for the most devout Does the prophet doubt, Bel. Ay, and the most devout for brave Arb. - thou hast not To whom the very stars shine victory? Seen me turn back from battle. Bel. I do not doubt of victory — but the No; I own thee victor. Arb. Arb. Well, let thy science settle that. As firm in fight as Babyloma's captain, As skilful in Chaldea's worship: now, Meantime Will it but please thee to forget the priest, I have prepared as many glittering spears And be the warrior ? As will out-sparkle our allies - your planets. There is no more to thwart us. The she-Why not both ? Bel. king, Arb. The better; 80 And yet it almost shames me, we shall have That less than woman, is even now upon So little to effect. This woman's warfare The waters with his female mates. The Degrades the very conqueror. To have order 50 pluck'd Is issued for the feast in the pavilion. A bold and bloody despot from his throne, The first cup which he drains will be the
 - And grappled with him, clashing steel with steel,

last

Quaff'd by the line of Nimrod.

That were heroic or to win or fall; But to upraise my sword against this silk-	Of his imperial robe, and say, his slaves worm,	Will take the crumbs he deigns to scatte from
And hear him whine, it may be -	His royal table at the hour — was 't mid
Bel. Do not deem it He has that in him which may make you	night? Bal. It was the place, the hall of Nimstrife yet;	rod. Lords,
And were he all you think, his guards are	I humble me before you, and depart.
hardy, 90	[Exit BALEA
And headed by the cool, stern Salemenes A_{1b} . They 'll not resist	Arb I like not this same sudden change of place;
Bel. Why not? they are soldiers. Arb. True,	There is some mystery: wherefore should he change it ?
And therefore need a soldier to command them.	Bel. Doth he not change a thousand times a day?
Bel That Salemenes is. Arb. But not their king	Sloth is of all things the most fanci- ful — 120
Arb. But not their king Besides, he hates the effeminate thing that	And moves more parasangs in its intents governs,	Than generals in their marches, when they
For the queen's sake, his sister. Mark you	seek not	To leave their foe at fault. — Why dost thou
He keeps aloof from all the revels? Bel But	muse ? Arb. He loved that gay pavilion, — it was Not from the council — there he is ever	ever constant.	His summer dotage.
Arb. And ever thwarted: what would	Bel And he loved his queen —
you have more To make a rebel out of? A fool reigning,	And thrice a thousand harlotry besides — And he has loved all things by turns, ex-
His blood dishonour'd, and himself dis-	cept
dam'd. 101	Wisdom and glory.
Why, it is his revenge we work for.	Arb. Still -1 like it not
Bel. Could He but be brought to think so \cdot this I doubt	If he has changed — why, so must we: the attack
of.	Were easy in the isolated bower, 130
Arb. What, if we sound him?	Beset with drowsy guards and drunken
Bel. Yes - if the time served.	courtiers;
Enter BALEA	But in the hall of Nimrod — Bel. Is it so?
Bal Satraps! The king commands your	Methought the haughty soldier fear'd to presence at The feast to-night.	A throne too easily — does it disappoint
Bel To hear is to obey.	thee
In the pavilion?	To find there is a slipperier step or two
Bal No; here in the palace.	Than what was counted on?
Arb. How! in the palace? it was not thus order'd.	Arb. When the hour comes, Thou shalt perceive how far I fear or
Bal. It is so order'd now.	no.
Arb. And why?	Thou hast seen my life at stake - and gaily
Bal I know not	play'd for
May I retire ?	But here is more upon the die – a king-
Arb. Stay Bel. (to Arb. aside) Hush! let him go	dom Bel. I have foretold already — thou wilt his way.	win it: 140
(Alternately to Bal) Yes, Balea, thank the	Then on, and prosper
monarch, kiss the hem	Arb. Now, were 1 a soothsayer.

I would have boded so much to myself. But be the stars obey'd — I cannot quar-	Thy strength: thy tooth is nought without its venom —
rel With them, nor their interpreter. Who's	The serpent's, not the lion's. Cut him down. Bel. (interposing). Arbaces ! are you mad ?
here ?	Have I not render'd My sword? Then trust like me our sov-
Enter SALEMENES	ereign's justice.
Sal. Satraps !	Arb. No -1 will sooner trust the stars
Bel. My prince !	thou prat'st of,
Sal. Well met - I sought ye both,	And this slight arm, and die a king at least
But elsewhere than the palace.	Of my own breath and body — so far that
Arb. Wherefore so?	None else shall chain them.
Sal. 'T is not the hour.	Sal. (to the Guards). You hear him, and
Arb. The hour !— what hour ?	me.
Sal. Of midnight	Take him not, — kill.
Bel. Midnight, my lord ! Sal. What, are you not invited ?	[The Guards attack ARBACES, who defends himself val- antly and dexterously till they waver
Sal. What, are you not invited? Bel. Oh ! yes — we had forgotten	Sal. Is it even so; and must
Sal. Is it usual	I do the hangman's office ? Recreants ! see
Thus to forget a sovereign's invitation? 150	How you should fell a traitor
Arb. Why - we but now received it.	[SALEMENES attacks Arbaces
Sal. Then why here?	Enter SARDANAPALUS and Train
Arb. On duty.	Sar. Hold your hands
Sal. On what duty?	Upon your lives, I say. What, deaf or
Bel. On the state's.	drunken?
We have the privilege to approach the presence;	My sword ! O fool, I wear no sword: here,
But found the monarch absent.	fellow, Give me thy weapon. [To a Guard.
Sal. And I too	[SARDANAFALUS snatches a sword from one of the soldiers,
Am upon duty.	and rushes between the combatants - they separate
Arb. May we crave its purport?	Sar. In my very palace !
Sal. To arrest two traitors. Guards!	What hinders me from cleaving you in
Within there !	twain, 179
Enter Guards	Audacious brawlers ? Bel. Sire. vour justice.
Sal. (continuing). Satraps,	Bel. Sire, your justice. Sal. Or —
Your swords.	Your weakness.
Bel. (delivering his). My lord, behold	Sar. (raising his sword). How?
my scimitar.	Sal. Strike ! so the blow's repeated
Arb. (drawing his sword). Take mine.	Upon yon traitor — whom you spare a mo-
Sal. (advancing). I will.	ment,
Arb. But in your heart the blade —	I trust, for torture — I'm content.
The hilt quits not this hand.	Sar. What - him!
Sal. (drawing). How ! dost thou brave me?	Who dares assail Arbaces? Sal. I!
'T is well — this saves a trial, and false	Sar. Indeed !
mercy. 160	Prince, you forget yourself. Upon what
Soldiers, hew down the rebel !	warrant?
Arb. Soldiers! Ay —	Sal. (showing the signet). Thme.
Alone you dare not.	Arb. (confused) The king's !
Sal. Alone ! foolish slave —	Sal. Yes! and let the king confirm it.
What is there in thee that a prince should	Sar. I parted not from this for such a shrink from Of open force? We dread thy treason,	Sal. You parted with it for your safety
	-I
not	X

- Employ'd it for the best. Pronounce in person.
- Here I am but your slave a moment past 190
- I was your representative Sar. Then sheathe
- Your swords.
- [ARBACES and SALEMENES return their swords to the scabbards.

Sal. Mine's sheathed: I pray you sheathe not yours:

- T is the sole sceptre left you now with safety.
 - Sar. A heavy one; the hilt, too, hurts my hand.
- (To a Guard.) Here, fellow, take thy weapon back.

Well, sirs,

What doth this mean?

- Bel The prince must answer that. Sal. Truth upon my part, treason upon theirs.
- Sar. Treason Arbaces ! treachery and Beleses !
- That were an union I will not believe. Bel. Where 1s the proof ?
- Sal. I'll answer that, if once The king demands your fellow-traitor's
 - sword. 201 Arb. (to Sal.). A sword which hath been
- drawn as oft as thine Against his foes.
- Sal. And now against his brother, And in an hour or so against himself.
- Sar. That is not possible: he dared not;
- No I'll not hear of such things. These vain bickerings
- Are spawn'd in courts by base intrigues, and baser
- Hirelings, who hve by lies on good men's hves
- You must have been deceived, my brother. Sal First
- Let him deliver up his weapon, and 210 Proclaim himself your subject by that duty, And I will answer all.
- Sar. Why, if I thought so —

But no, it cannot be: the Mede Arbaces — The trusty, rough, true soldier — the best captain

- Of all who discipline our nations No,
- I'll not insult him thus, to bid him render
- The scimitar to me he never yielded

Unto our enemies. Chief, keep your weapon.

- Sal. (delivering back the signet). Monarch, take back your signet.
- Sar No, retain it; But use it with more moderation

Sal. S1re, 220

- I used it for your honour, and restore it
- Because I cannot keep it with my own.
- Bestow it on Arbaces

Sar. So I should. He never ask'd it.

- Sal. Doubt not, he will have it, Without that hollow semblance of respect
- Bel. I know not what hath prejudiced the prince
- So strongly 'gamst two subjects, than whom none
- Have been more zealous for Assyria's weal. Sal. Peace, factious priest, and faithless soldier ! thou
- Unit'st in thy own person the worst vices
- Of the most dangerous orders of mankind 231
- Keep thy smooth words and juggling homihes
- For those who know thee not. Thy fellow's sin
- Is, at the least, a bold one, and not temper'd

By the tricks taught thee in Chaldea

- Bel. Hear him, My liege — the son of Belus! he blasphemes
- The worship of the land, which bows the knee
- Before your fathers.

Sar. Oh! for that I pray you Let him have absolution. I dispense with The worship of dead men; feeling that I $_{240}$ Am mortal, and behaving that the race

- From whence I sprung are what I see them ashes.
 - Bel. King ! do not deem so: they are with the stars,

And —

- Sar. You shall join them there ere they will rise,
- If you preach farther Why, this is rank treason

Sal. My lord !

Sar. To school me in the worship of Assyria's idols ! Let him be released —

Give him his sword.

Sar

Sal. My lord, and king, and brother, I pray ye pause.

Yes, and be sermonised,

And dinn'd, and deafen'd with dead men And so live on. Were I the thing some and Baal, think me, 250 And all Chaldea's starry mysteries. Your heads would now be drupping the last Bel. Monarch ! respect them. drops Of their attainted gore from the high gates Sar. Oh, for that -I love them: I love to watch them in the deep blue Of this our palace, into the dry dust, vault. Their only portion of the coveted kingdom And to compare them with my Myrrha's They would be crown'd to reign o'er -- let eyes; that pass. I love to see their rays redoubled in As I have said, I will not deem ye guilty, The tremulous silver of Euphrates' wave, Nor doom ye guiltless; albeit better men Than ye or I stand ready to arraign you. As the light breeze of midnight crisps the And should I leave your fate to sterner broad And rolling water, sighing through the judges, And proofs of all kinds, I might sacrifice sedges Which fringe his banks. but whether they Two men, who, whatsoe'er they now are, may be were Gods, as some say, or the abodes of gods, Once honest. Ye are free, sirs. As others hold, or simply lamps of night, Arb. Sire, this clemency — Worlds, or the lights of worlds, I know nor Bel. (interrupting him) Is worthy of yourcare not. self; and, although innocent, There's something sweet in my uncer-We thank Priest ! keep your thanksgivings tainty Sar. I would not change for your Chaldean lore; for Belus; Besides, I know of these all clay can know His offspring needs none. But being innocent -Of aught above it, or below it - nothing. Bel. I see their brilliancy and feel their beauty -Sar. Be silent-Guilt is loud. If ye When they shine on my grave I shall know are loyal, neither. Ye are injured men, and should be sad, not grateful. Bel. So we should be, were justice always Bel. For neither, sire, say better I will wait, Sar. If it so please you, pontiff, for that knowdone By earthly power omnipotent; but innoledge. In the mean time receive your sword, and cence Must oft receive her right as a mere favour. know That I prefer your service militant Sar. That 's a good sentence for a homily, Unto your ministry — not loving either. Though not for this occasion. Prithee Sal. (aside) His lusts have made him mad. Then must I save him, keep it To plead thy sovereign's cause before his Spite of himself. people Please you to hear me, Satraps ! Bel. I trust there is no cause. Sar. And chiefly thou, my priest, because I Sar. No cause, perhaps, doubt thee But many causers: - if ye meet with such More than the soldier; and would doubt In the exercise of your inquisitive functhee all tion 310 On earth, or should you read of it in heaven Wert thou not half a warrior: let us part In peace - I'll not say pardon - which In some mysterious twinkle of the stars, must be Which are your chronicles, I pray you note, Earn'd by the guilty; this I'll not pro-That there are worse things betwixt earth and heaven nounce ye, Although upon this breath of mine depends Than him who ruleth many and slays none; Your own; and, deadlier for ye, on my And, hating not himself, yet loves his felfears. lows Enough to spare even those who would not But fear not - for that I am soft, not fearspare him ful —

Were they once masters — but that 's doubt- ful. Satraps !	Arb. Though they came down And marshall'd me the way in all their
Your swords and persons are at liberty To use them as ye will — but from this	brightness, I would not follow.
hour 320 I have no call for either Salemenes ! Follow me.	Bel. This is weakness — worse Than a scared beldam's dreaming of the dead 350
[Excunt SARDANAPALUS, SALEMENES, and the Train, etc., leaving Arbaces and Beleses.	And waking in the dark. — Go to — go to. Arb. Methought he look'd like Nimrod
Arb. Beleses!	as he spoke,
Bel. Now, what think you? Arb. That we are lost.	Even as the proud imperial statue stands Looking the monarch of the kings around it,
Bel. That we have won the kingdom. Arb. What ! thus suspected — with the	And sways, while they but ornament, the temple.
sword slung o'er us	Bel. I told you that you had too much
But by a single hair, and that still wavering,	despised him,
To be blown down by his imperious breath Which spared us — why, I know not	And that there was some royalty within hum —
Bel. Seek not why;	What then ? he is the nobler foe.
But let us profit by the interval.	Arb. But we The meaner — Would he had not spared
The hour is still our own — our power the same —	us!
The night the same we destined. He hath	Bel. So-changed 330 Nothing except our ignorance of all	Wouldst thou be sacrificed thus readily? Arb. No — but it had been better to have
Suspicion into such a certainty	died 361
As must make madness of delay.	Than live ungrateful
Arb. And yet — Bel. What, doubting still?	Bel. Oh, the souls of some men! Thou wouldst digest what some call treason,
Arb. He spared our lives, nay, more,	and
Saved them from Salemenes.	Fools treachery — and, behold, upon the
Bel. And how long Will he so spare? till the first drunken	sudden, Because for something or for nothing this minute	Rash reveller steps ostentatiously
Arb. Or sober, rather. Yet he did it nobly;	'Twixt thee and Salemenes, thou art turn'd Into — what shall I say? — Sardanapalus!
Gave royally what we had forfeited	I know no name more ignominious.
Basely —	Arb But
Bel. Say, bravely Arb. Somewhat of both, perhaps.	An hour ago, who dared to term me such 370
But it has touch'd me, and, whate'er be-	Had held his life but lightly as it is,
tide, 340	I must forgive you, even as he forgave
I will no further on. Bel. And lose the world!	us — Semiramıs herself would not have done it.
Arb. Lose anything except my own es- teem.	Bel No - the queen liked no sharers of the kingdom,
Bel. I blush that we should owe our lives	Not even a husband.
to such A king of distaffs !	Arb I must serve him truly — Bel. And humbly?
Arb. But no less we owe them;	Arb. No, sir, proudly — being honest.
And I should blush far more to take the	I shall be nearer thrones than you to heaven;
grantor's! Bel. Thou may'st endure whate'er thou	And if not quite so haughty, yet more lofty. You may do your own deeming — you have wilt — the stars	codes,
Have written otherwise.	And mysteries, and corollaries of 380

Right and wrong which I lack for my direc-	Bel. It must be obey'd: 414
And must pursue but what a plain heart teaches.	Say, we depart. Pan. My order is to see you Depart, and not to bear your answer.
And now you know me.	Bel. (aside). Ay!
Bel. Have you finish'd ?	Well, sir, we will accompany you hence.
Arb. Yes —	Pan. I will retire to marshal forth the
With you.	guard
Bel. And would, perhaps, betray as well	Of honour which befits your rank, and wait
As quit me?	Your lessure, so that it the hour exceeds
Arb. That's a sacerdotal thought,	not. [Exit PANIA.
And not a soldier's.	Bel. Now then obey !
Bel. Be it what you will —	Arb. Doubtless.
Truce with these wranglings, and but hear	Bel. Yes, to the gates me.	That grate the palace, which is now our
Arb No-	prison —
There is more perul in your subtle spirit	No further.
Than m a phalanx.	Arb. Thou hast harp'd the truth
Bel. If it must be so —	indeed! 420
I'll on alone.	The realm itself, in all its wide extension,
Arb. Alone '	Yawns dungeons at each step for thee and
Bel. Thrones hold but one $_{390}$ Arb. But this is fill'd.	me. Bel Graves!
Bel. With worse than vacancy $-$	Arb If I thought so, this good sword
A despised monarch. Look to it, Arbaces:	should dig
I have still aided, cherish'd, loved, and	One more than mine.
urged you;	Bel It shall have work enough.
Was willing even to serve you, in the hope	Let me hope better than thou augurest;
To serve and save Assyria. Heaven itself	At present, let us hence as best we may Seem'd to consent, and all events were	Thou dost agree with me in understand-friendly,	ing
Even to the last, till that your spirit shrunk	This order as a sentence ?
Into a shallow softness; but now, rather	Arb. Why, what other
Than see my country languish, I will be	Interpretation should it bear? it is
Her saviour or the victim of her tyrant, 400	The very policy of orient monarchs - 430
Or one or both, for sometimes both are	Pardon and poison - favours and a sword -
one;	A distant voyage and an eternal sleep
And if I win, Arbaces is my servant.	How many satraps in his father's time —
Arb. Your servant!	For he I own 18, or at least was, bloodless -
Bel. Why not? better than be slave,	Bel. But will not, can not be so now.
The pardon'd slave of she Sardanapalus !	Arb. I doubt it.
Enter PANIA.	How many satraps have I seen set out
	In his sire's day for mighty vice-royalties,
Pan. My lords, I bear an order from the	Whose tombs are on their path ' I know king	not how, But they all sicken'd by the way, it was
Arb. It is obey'd ere spoken.	So long and heavy.
Bel. Notwithstanding, Let's hear it.	Bel. Let us but regain 440
Pan. Forthwith, on this very night,	The free air of the city, and we'll shorten
Repair to your respective satrapies	The journey.
Of Babylon and Media.	Arb. 'T will be shorten'd at the gates,
Bel. With our troops?	It may be.
Pan. My order is unto the satraps and	Bel. No; they hardly will risk that.
Their household train.	They mean us to die privately, but not
Arb. But-	Within the palace or the city walls,
	Ô.

Where we are known and may have parti-	Sal. They are not there yet — never should they be so,
If they had meant to slay us here, we were	Were I well listen'd to.
No longer with the living. Let us hence	Sar Nay, I have listen'd
Arb. If I but thought he did not mean	Impartially to thee — why not to them?
my life — Rel Fool L honce what else should	$\hat{S}al.$ You may know that hereafter; as it is.
Bel. Fool ! hence — what else should despotism alarm'd 450	I take my leave to order forth the guard.
Mean? Let us but rejoin our troops, and	Sar. And you will join us at the banquet?
march.	Sal Sire,
Arb. Towards our provinces?	Dispense with me -1 am no wassailer: 481
Bel. No; towards your kingdom.	Command me in all service save the Bac-
There's time, there's heart, and hope, and power, and means,	chant's. Sar. Nay, but 't is fit to revel now and
Which their half measures leave us in full	then scope. —	Sal. And fit that some should watch for
Away!	those who revel
Arb. And I even yet repenting must	Too oft. Am I permitted to depart?
Relapse to guilt '	Sar Yes — Stay a moment, my good Salemenes,
Bel. Self-defence is a virtue, Sole bulwark of all right. Away, I say !	My brother, my best subject, better prince
Let's leave this place, the air grows thick	Than I am king You should have been and choking,	the monarch,
And the walls have a scent of night-shade	And $I - I$ know not what, and care not;
- hence !	but Thurk not I am unconsubly to all
Let us not leave them time for further	Think not I am insensible to all 490 Thine honest wisdom, and thy rough yet counsel. 460 Our quick departure proves our civic zeal;	kind,
Our quick departure hinders our good	Though oft reproving, sufferance of my escort,	follies
The worthy Pania, from anticipating	If I have spared these men against thy
The orders of some parasangs from hence: Nay, there 's no other choice, but — hence,	counsel, That is, therr lives — it is not that I doubt
I say.	The advice was sound; but, let them live:
[Exit with ARBACES, who follows reluctantly	we will not
	Cavil about their lives — so let them mend
Enter SARDANAPALUS and SALEMENES	them.
Sar. Well, all is remedied, and without	Their banishment will leave me still sound sleep, bloodshed, That worst of mockeries of a remedy;	Which their death had not left me.
We are now secure by these men's exile.	Sal. Thus you run
Sal. Yes,	The risk to sleep for ever, to save traitors -
As he who treads on flowers is from the	A moment's pang now changed for years of adder 469	Still let them be made quiet.
Twined round their roots. Sar. Why, what wouldst have me do?	Sar Tempt me not:
Sal. Undo what you have done.	My word 1s past.
Sar Revoke my pardon?	Sal But it may be recall'd.
Sal. Replace the crown now tottering on	Sar. 'T is royal.
your temples.	Sal. And should therefore be decisive. This half indulgence of an exile serves
Sar That were tyrannical. Sal. But sure.	But to provoke — a pardon should be full,
Sar We are so.	Or it is none.
What danger can they work upon the	Sar. And who persuaded me frontier?	After I had repeal'd them, or at least

- Only dismiss'd them from our presence, who Urged me to send them to their satrapies ?
- Sal. True; that I had forgotten; that is, sire, 510
- If they e'er reach'd their satrapies why, then,
- Reprove me more for my advice.
- Sar And if They do not reach them — look to it ! — m safety,
- In safety, mark me and security -
- Look to thme own.
- Sal Permit me to depart; Their safety shall be cared for.
- Sar. Get thee hence, then; And, prithee, think more gently of thy brother.
 - Sal. Sire, I shall ever duly serve my sovereign [Exit SALEMENES
 - Sar. (solus). That man is of a temper too severe;

Hard, but as lofty as the rock, and free 520

From all the taints of common earth — while I

Am softer clay, impregnated with flowers: But as our mould is, must the produce be.

If I have err'd this time, 't is on the side

Where error sits most lightly on that sense,

I know not what to call it, but it reckons

With me offtimes for pain, and sometimes pleasure;

- A spirit which seems placed about my heart
- To count its throbs, not quicken them, and ask
- Questions which mortal never dared to ask me, 530
- Nor Baal, though an oracular deity Albert his marble face majestical
- Frowns as the shadows of the evening dim
- His brows to changed expression, till at times
- I think the statue looks in act to speak.
- Away with these vain thoughts, I will be joyous ---
- And here comes Joy's true herald.

Enter MYRRHA

Myr. King ! the sky Is overcast, and musters muttering thunder, In clouds that seem approaching fast, and show 539

In forked flashes a commanding tempest. Will you then quit the palace ? Sar. Tempest, say'st thou? Myr Ay, my good lord.

Sar. For my own part, I should be Not ill content to vary the smooth scene, And watch the warring elements; but this Would little suit the silken garments and Smooth faces of our festive friends. Say.

- Myrrha,
- Art thou of those who dread the roar of clouds?

Myr. In my own country we respect their voices

As auguries of Jove.

Sar. Jove !— ay, your B 1— Ours also has a property in thunder, And ever and anon some falling bolt

Proves his divinity, --- and yet sometimes

Strikes his own altars

Myr That were a dread omen. Sar. Yes — for the priests. Well, we will not go forth

Beyond the palace walls to-night, but make Our feast within.

Myr. Now, Jove be praised ! that he Hath heard the prayer thou wouldst not hear. The gods

Are kinder to thee than thou to thyself,

And flash this storm between thee and thy foes, 559

To shield thee from them.

Sar Child, if there be peril, Methinks it is the same within these walls As on the river's brink.

Myr. Not so; these walls Are high, and strong, and guarded. Treason has

To penetrate through many a winding way And massy portal; but in the pavilion There is no bulwark

Sar. No, nor in the palace, Nor in the fortress, nor upon the top

Of cloud-fenced Caucasus, where the eagle sits

Nested in pathless clefts, if treachery be:

Even as the arrow finds the airy king, 570

The steel will reach the earthly. But be calm:

The men, or innocent or guilty, are

Banish'd, and far upon their way

Myr. They hve, then? Sar. So sanguinary? Thou !

Myr. I would not shrink From just infliction of due punishment

On those who seek your life: were 't otherwise,

I should not merit mine. Besides, you heard	Zam Nor elsewhere; where the king is,
The princely Salemenes.	pleasure sparkles.
Sar. This is strange;	Sar Is not this better now than Nimrod's
The gentle and the austere are both against	huntings, me,	Or my wild grandam's chase in search of
And urge me to revenge	kingdoms
Myr. 'T is a Greek virtue. Sar But not a kingly one — I'll none	She could not keep when conquer'd? Alt. Mighty though on't; or 581	They were, as all thy royal line have been,
If ever I indulge in 't, it shall be	Yet none of those who went before have
With kings — my equals.	reach'd
Myr. These men sought to be so.	The acme of Sardanapalus, who 10
Sar. Myrrha, this is too feminine, and	Has placed his joy in peace the sole true springs	glory.
From fear —	Sar. And pleasure, good Altada, to which
Myr. For you.	glory
Sar. No matter, still 't is fear	Is but the path. What is it that we seek?
I have observed your sex, once roused to	Enjoyment ! We have cut the way short to wrath,	It,
Are timidly vindictive to a pitch	And not gone tracking it through human ashes,
Of perseverance which I would not copy.	Making a grave with every footstep.
I thought you were exempt from this, as from	Zam. No;
The childish helplessness of Asian women.	All hearts are happy, and all voices bless
Myr My lord, I am no boaster of my	The king of peace, who holds a world in love, 591	jubilee
Nor of my attributes; I have shared your	Sar. Art sure of that? I have heard splendour,	otherwise;
And will partake your fortunes You may	Some say that there be traitors.
live	Zam Traitors they
To find one slave more true than subject	Who dare to say so ! — 'T is impossible 21
myriads:	What cause ? Sar. What cause ? true, — fill the
But this the gods avert ! I am content	goblet up,
To be beloved on trust for what I feel, Rather than prove it to you in your griefs	We will not think of them: there are none
Which might not yield to any cares of mine.	such,
Sar Grief cannot come where perfect	Or if there be, they are gone.
love exists,	Alt Guests, to my pledge!
Except to heighten it, and vanish from 600	Down on your knees, and drink a measure
That which it could not scare away. Let's	to in —	The safety of the king — the monarch, say
The hour approaches, and we must prepare
To meet the invited guests who grace our	The god Sardanapalus !
feast. [Exeunt	[ZAMES and the Guests lneel, and exclaim-
ACT III	Mightier than H1s father Baal, the god Sardanapalus!
Scene I	[It thunders as they kneel, some start up in confusion.
	Zam. Why do you rise, my friends? in
The Hall of the Palace illuminated — SARDAMAPALUS and his Guests at Table — A Storm without, and	that strong peal and his Guests at Table $-A$ Storm without, and Thunder occasionally heard during the Banquet.	H1s father gods consented.
Sar Fill full ! why this is as it should	Myr Menaced, rather.
be here	King, wilt thou bear this mad impiety? 31
Is my true realm, amidst bright eyes and	Sar. Impiety ! - nay, if the sires who faces	reign'd
Happy as fair ! Here sorrow cannot reach	Before me can be gods, I'll not disgrace

Their lineage. But arise, my pious friends; Hoard your devotion for the thunderer order? there: I seek but to be loved, not worshipp'd. Both — Alt. Both you must ever be by all true subiects. Sar. Methinks the thunders still increase · 1t 1s An awful night. Myr Oh yes, for those who have No palace to protect their worshippers Sar. That's true, my Myrrha; and could I convert My realm to one wide shelter for the wretched, Sar. Pan. I'd do 1t. Thou 'rt no god, then, not to be Myr.Able to work a will so good and general As thy wish would imply. Sar. And your gods, then, Who can and do not? Do not speak of that, Myr Lest we provoke them. Sar. True, they love not censure Myr.Better than mortals. Friends, a thought has struck me Were there no temples, would there, think power ye, be Air woishippers? that is, when it is angry And pelting as even now. The Persian prays fiance. Myr. Upon his mountain Myr. All? Pan. Sar. Yes, when the sun shines. Myr. And I would ask, if this your pal-Sar. ace were Unroof'd and desolate, how many flatterers Pan Would lick the dust in which the king lay low ? so Alt. The fair Ionian is too sarcastic Upon a nation whom she knows not well; The Assyrians know no pleasure but their Pan. king's, And homage is their pride. Sar. Nay, pardon, guests, The fair Greek's readiness of speech. Alt. Pardon ! sire: 60 We honour her of all things next to thee. Hark ! what was that? ing That ! nothing but the jar Zam.Of distant portals shaken by the wind. mean Alt. It sounded like the clash of - hark again! king. Zam. The big rain pattering on the roof. Sar. No more. Myr.

Myrrha, my love, hast thou thy shell in Sing me a song of Sappho, her, thou know'st, Who in thy country threw — Enter PANIA, with his sword and garments bloody and disordered The Guests rise in confusion Pan. (to the Guards). Look to the portals; And with your best speed to the walls without Your arms! To arms! The king's in danger. Monarch! 70 Excuse this haste, - 't is faith. Speak on. It is As Salemenes fear'd; the faithless satraps ----Sar You are wounded - give some wine. Take breath, good Pania Pan. 'T is nothing — a mere flesh wound. I am worn More with my speed to warn my sovereign, Than hurt in his defence. Well, sir, the rebels ? Pan. Soon as Arbaces and Beleses reach'd Their stations in the city, they refused To march; and on my attempt to use the Which I was delegated with, they call'd so Upon their troops, who rose in fierce de-Too many. Spare not of thy free speech, To spare mine ears the truth. My own slight guard Were faithful, and what's left of it is still Myr. And are these all the force still faithful? No-The Bactrians, now led on by Salemenes, Who even then was on his way, still urged By strong suspicion of the Median chiefs, Are numerous, and make strong head against The rebels, fighting inch by inch, and form-An orb around the palace, where they To centre all their force and save the (He hesitates) I am charged to -'T is no time for hesitation

Pan. Prince Salemenes doth implore the	Altada, arm yourself and return here;
king	Your post is near our person.
To arm himself, although but for a moment,	[Excunt ZAMES, ALTADA, and all save MYRNHA.
And show himself unto the soldiers: his	Tenter Same and others with the Vana's down of
Sole presence in this instant might do more	Enter SFERO and others with the King's Arms, etc.
Than hosts can do in his behalf.	Sfe. King your armour.
Sar. What, ho!	Sar. (arming himself). Give me the
My armour there.	cuirass — so: my baldric; now
Myr. And wilt thou?	My sword: I had forgot the helm - where
Sar. Will I not?	is it ?
Ho, there ! - But seek not for the buckler:	That's well - no, 't is too heavy: you mis-
't 1S 100	take, too
Too heavy — a light cuirass and my sword.	It was not this I meant, but that which
Where are the rebels?	bears 130
Pan. Scarce a furlong's length	A diadem around it. Sfe. Sire, I deem'd
From the outward wall the fiercest conflict	Sfe. Sire, I deem'd That too conspicuous from the precious rages.
Sar. Then I may charge on horseback.	stones To risk your sacred brow beneath — and Sfero, ho!
Order my horse out. — There is space	trust me, This is of better metal, though less rich
enough	Sar. You deem'd! Are you too turn'd
Even in our courts and by the outer gate,	a rebel? Fellow!
To marshal half the horsemen of Arabia. [Exit SFERD for the armour	Your part is to obey: return, and - no -
Myr. How I do love thee !	It is too late - I will go forth without it.
Sar. I ne'er doubted it.	Sfe. At least, wear this.
Myr. But now I know thee	Sar. Wear Caucasus ! why, 't is
Sar. (to his Attendant). Bring down my	A mountain on my temples
spear too, — 109	Sfe. Sire, the meanest
Where's Salemenes?	Soldier goes not forth thus exposed to
Pan. Where a soldier should be,	battle 140
In the thick of the fight.	All men will recognise you - for the storm
Sar. Then hasten to him — Is	Has ceased, and the moon breaks forth in
The path still open, and communication	her brightness.
Left 'twixt the palace and the phalanx ?	Sar. I go forth to be recognised, and
Pan 'T was	thus
When I late left him, and I have no fear.	Shall be so sooner. Now — my spear!
Our troops were steady, and the phalanx	I'm arm'd.
form'd.	[In going stops short and turns to SFERO
Sar. Tell him to spare his person for the	Sfero — I had forgotten — bring the mirror.
present,	Sfe. The mirror, sire?
And that I will not spare my own and	Sar. Yes, sir, of polish'd brass, say,	Brought from the spoils of India — but be speedy [Exit SFERO.
I come.
Pan. There's victory in the very word.	Sar. Myrrha, retire unto a place of safety.
[Ext PANIA	Why went you not forth with the other
Sar. Altada — Zames — forth, and arm	damsels ? 149 Myr Because my place is here.
ye! There
Is all in readiness in the armoury. 120	Sar. And when I am gone — Myr. I follow.
See that the women are bestow'd in safety	Sar You' to battle?
In the remote apartments · let a guard	M_{yr} If it were so,
Be set before them, with strict charge to	'T were not the first Greek girl had trod
quit The next but with their lives — command	the path
The post but with their lives — command	I will await here your return.
ıt, Zames

Sar The place Now, now, far more than — Hark ! — to the Is spacious, and the first to be sought out, warshout ! If they prevail; and, if it be so, Methinks it nears me. If it should be so, And I return not — [She draws forth a small vial Still we meet again. This cunning Colchian poison, which my Myr.Sar. How? father Learn'd to compound on Euxine shores, and Myr.In the spot where all must meet at last taught me In Hades ! if there be, as I believe, How to preserve, shall free me! It had A shore beyond the Styx and if there be freed me not, Long ere this hour, but that I loved un-159 In ashes. til Sar. Darest thou so much? I half forgot I was a slave: — where all I dare all things, Myr.Are slaves save one, and proud of servi-Except survive what I have loved, to be tude, A rebel's booty: forth, and do your bravest. So they are served in turn by something lower Re-enter SFERO with the mirror In the degree of bondage, we forget Sar. (looking at himself). This cuirass fits That shackles worn like ornaments no less me well, the baldric better, Are chains Again that shout! and now And the helm not at all. Methinks I seem the clash [Flings away the helmet after trying it again Of arms — and now — and now — Passing well in these toys; and now to prove Enter ALTADA them.Altada! Where's Altada? Alt. Ho, Sfero, ho! Waiting, sire, Myr. He is not here; what wouldst thou Sfę. Without: he has your shield in readiness. with him? How Sar. True; 1 forgot he is my shield-Goes on the conflict? Alt Dubiously and fiercely. bearer By right of blood, derived from age to age. Myr. And the king? Like a king. I must find Sfero, Myrrha, embrace me; - yet once more -Alt. And bring him a new spear and his own once more -170 Love me, whate'er betide. My chiefest helmet He fights till now bare-headed, and by far glory Shall be to make me worthier of your love. Too much exposed. The soldiers knew his Myr. Go forth, and conquer ! face, And the foe too; and in the moon's broad [Exeunt SARDANAPALUS and SFERO Now, I am alone. light, His silk tiara and his flowing hair All are gone forth, and of that all how few Make him a mark too royal. Every arrow Perhaps return. Let him but vanquish, Is pointed at the fair hair and fair feaand Me perish! If he vanquish not, I perish; tures, For I will not outlive him. He has wound And the broad fillet which crowns both About my heart, I know not how nor why. Myr.Ye gods, Not for that he is king; for now his king-Who fulminate o'er my father's land, prodom tect him ! Rocks underneath his throne, and the earth Were you sent by the king? By Salemenes, Alt. yawns Who sent me privily upon this charge, 211 To yield him no more of it than a grave; And yet I love him more. Oh, mighty Without the knowledge of the careless sovereign. Jove ! Forgive this monstrous love for a barba-The king, the king fights as he revels. Ho ! rian Who knows not of Olympus ! Yes, I love He must be there. [Exil ALTADA 'T is no dishonour - no -Myr. him

SARDAN	TAPALUS 575
['] T is no dishonour to have loved this man. I almost wish now, what I never wish'd Before, that he were Grecian. If Alcides Were shamed in wearing Lydian Omphale's She-garb, and wielding her vile distaff, surely ²²⁰ He, who springs up a Hercules at once, Nursed in effeminate arts from youth to manhood, And rushes from the banquet to the battle As though it were a bed of love, deserves That a Greek girl should be his para- mour, And a Greek bard his minstrel, a Greek tonb	Pan. Not till the last. Still, still he does whate'er Despair can do; and step by step disputes The very palace Myr They are here, then: — ay, Their shouts come ringing through the ancient halls, 25t Never profaned by rebel echoes till This fatal night. Farewell, Assyria's line ! Farewell to all of Nimrod ! Even the name is now no more. Pan. Away with me — away ! Myr. No: I'll die here ! — Away, and tell your king I loved him to the last.
His monument — How goes the strife, sir?	Enter SARDANAPALUS and SALEMENES with Soldiers.
 Enter an Officer Officer. Lost, Lost almost past recovery. Zames ! Where Is Zames ? Myr. Posted with the guard appointed To watch before the apartment of the women. [Ext Officer Myr. (sola). He's gone; and told no more than that all's lost ' 231 What need have I to know more ? In those words, Those little words, a kingdom and a king, A line of thirteen ages, and the lives Of thousands, and the fortune of all left With life, are merged; and I, too, with the great, Like a small bubble breaking with the wave Which bore it, shall be nothing. At the least, My fate is in my keeping: no proud victor Shall count me with his spoils. 	 PANIA quits MYRRHA, and ranges himself with them. Sar. Since it is thus, We'll die where we were born — in our own halls Serry your ranks — stand firm. I have despatch'd A trusty satrap for the guard of Zames, 260 All fresh and faithful; they'll be here anon. All is not over. — Pania, look to Myrrha. [PANIA returns towards MYRRHA. Sal. We have breathing time. yet once more charge, my friends — One for Assyria ! Sar. Rather say for Bactria ! My faithful Bactrians, I will henceforth be King of your nation, and we'll hold together This realm as province. Sal. Hark ' they come — they come. Enter BELESES and ARBACES with the Rebels Arb Set on, we have them in the toil. Charge ' charge ' Bel. On ! on ' — Heaven fights for us,
Pan.Away with me, 240Myrha, without delay; we must not loseA moment — all that's left us now. $Myr.$ The king?Pan Sent me here to conduct you hence, beyondThe river, by a secret passage. $Myr.$ ThenHe lives — Pan.And charged me to secure your life,And beg you to live on for his sake tillHe can rejoin you. $Myr.$ Will he then give way?	and with us — On ! [They charge the King and SALEMERES with their Troops, who defend themselves till the Arrival of ZAMES, with the Guard before mentioned The Rebels are then driven off, and pursued by SALEMERES, etc. As the King us going to join the pursuel, BELESES eroses him Bel. Ho ! tyrant — I will end this war, Sar. Even so, My warlike priest, and precious prophet, and 271 Grateful and trusty subject · yield, I pray thee. I would reserve thee for a fitter doom, Rather than dip my hands in holy blood. Bel. Thine hour is come.

 Sar. No, thine. — I 've lately read, Though but a young astrologer, the stars; And ranging round the zoldie, found thy fate In the sign of the Scorpion, which proclaims That thou will now be crushed. But not by these. [They fight, Bausses a wounded and dasward Carl (raising has sword to despatch hum, exclaims) — — — — — — — — — — — — — — — — — — —
Their way back to the harem. Sal. There stands the throne, sire.	 Ihough but a young astrologer, the stars; And ranging round the zodiac, found thy fate In the sign of the Scorpion, which proclaims Ihat thou wilt now be crush'd. Bel. But not by thee. [They fight, BELESES is wounded and disarmed Sar. (raising his sword to despatch him, exclaims) — Now call upon thy planets, will they shoot From the sky to preserve their seer and oredit? 281 A party of Rebels enter and rescue BELESES They assaul the King, who, in turn, is rescued by a Party of his Soldiers, who arive the Rebels off The villaim was a prophet after all Upon them — ho ! there — victory is ours. [Exit in pursuit Myr. (to Pan.). Pursue ! Why stand'st thou here, and leavest the ranks Of fellow-soldiers conquering without thee ? Pan. The king's command was not to quit thee. Myr. Me ! Think not of me — a single soldier's arm Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard, I need no guard: what, with a world at stake, Keep watch upon a woman ? Hence, I say, Or thou art shamed ! Nay, then, I will go forth, 291 A feeble female, 'midst their desperate strife, And bid thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shield Thy sovereign. [Exit MYEREA. Pan. Yet stay, damsel !— She 's gone. If aught of ill betide her, better I Had lost my life. Sardanapalus holds her Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a scimitar till now ? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [Exit PANNA Enter ALIADA and SPEND by an opposite door Alt. Myrrha ! What, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them ? Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied: 	Prove victor, as it seems even now he must, And miss his own Ionian, we are doom'd To worse than captive rebels. Sfe. Let us trace them; She cannot be fled far; and, found, she makes ³¹⁰ A richer prize to our soft sovereign Than his recover'd kingdom. Alt. Baal himself Ne'er fought more fiercely to win empire, than His silken son to save it: he defies All augury of foes or friends; and hke The close and sultry summer's day, which bodes A twilight tempest, bursts forth in such thunder As sweeps the air and deluges the earth. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. ³¹¹ All are the sons of circumstance. away — Let's seek the slave out, or prepare to be Tortured for his infatuation, and Condemn'd without a crime. [Ezeunt Enter SALEMENES and Soldiers, etc Sal. The triumph is Flattering: they are beaten backward from the palace, And we have open'd regular access To the troops station'd on the other side Euphrates, who may still be true; nay, must be, When they hear of our victory. But where Is the chief victor ? where 's the king ? Enter SALEMAFALUS, cum sus, etc, and MTREMA. Sar. Here, brother. Sal. Unhurt, I hope. Sar Not quite; but let it pass. ³³⁰ We 've clear'd the palace — Sal. And I trust the city. Our numbers gather; and I 've order'd on ward A cloud of Parthians, hitherto reserved, All fresh and fiery, to be pour'd upon them In their retreat which soon will be a flight. Sar. It is already, or at least they march'd Faster than I could follow with my Bac- trians, Who spared no speed. I am spent: give
	They probably are but retired to make
	They prohably are but retired to make i me a seat.
They propably are but retired to make i me a seat.
fled: Who spared no speed. I am spent: give		· · ·
Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied: trians, Who spared no speed. I am spent: give		Faster than I could follow with my Bac-
Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied: trians, Who spared no speed. I am spent: give	And Pania also. Can aught have befallen
Interm ?Faster than I could follow with my Bactrians,Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied:Faster than I could follow with my Bactrians,Who spared no speed. I am spent: give And Pania also.Can aught have befallen them?march'd Faster than I could follow with my Bac- trians, Who spared no speed. I am spent: give fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them? Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied: Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels
 What, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them ? Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied: In their retreat which soon will be a flight. Sar. It is already, or at least they march'd Faster than I could follow with my Bactrians, Who spared no speed. I am spent: give 	Alt. Myrrha!	All fresh and fiery, to be pour'd upon them
 What, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them ? Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied: In their retreat which soon will be a flight. Sar. It is already, or at least they march'd Faster than I could follow with my Bactrians, Who spared no speed. I am spent: give
Alt.Myrrha !What, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged,All fresh and fiery, to be pour'd upon them In their retreat which soon will be a flight. Sar. It is already, or at least they march'dAnd Pania also.Can aught have befallen them ?Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied:Faster than I could follow with my Bac- trians, Who spared no speed. I am spent: give	Enter ALTADA and SPERO by an opposite door
Enter ALITADA and SFERO by an opposite doorAlt.Myrrha !What, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged,All fresh and fiery, to be pour'd upon them In their retreat which soon will be a flight. Sar. It is already, or at least they march'dAnd Pania also.Can aught have befallen them ?Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied:Faster than I could follow with my Bac- trians, Who spared no speed. I am spent: give wardAlt. Myrrha !Mhat, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them ?Marticle and filtery, to be pour'd upon them In their retreat which soon will be a flight. Sar. It is already, or at least they march'dSfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied:State the rebels fied:	In disobedience to the monarch. [Emt PANIA	Our numbers gather; and I 've order'd on-wardAlt. Myrrha !Mhat, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them ?Marticle and filtery, to be pour'd upon them In their retreat which soon will be a flight. Sar. It is already, or at least they march'dSfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied:State the rebels fied:
In disobedience to the monarch. [Ext PANA Enter ALTADA and SFERO by an opposite door Alt. Myrrha! What, gone? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them? Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied: Our numbers gather; and I've order'd on- ward A cloud of Parthians, hitherto reserved, All fresh and fiery, to be pour'd upon them In their retreat which soon will be a flight. Sar. It is already, or at least they march'd Faster than I could follow with my Bac- trians, Who spared no speed. I am spent: give		Sal And I trust the outy
Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300Sal.And I trust the city.In disobedience to the monarch. [Exrt PANIACarter Altana and Speno by an opposite doorOur numbers gather; and I 've order'd onwardEnter ALTADA and Speno by an opposite doorAlt.Nyrrha!What, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged,Myrrha!In their retreat which soon will be a flight. Sar. It is already, or at least they march'dAnd Pania also.Can aught have befallen them ?Faster than I could follow with my Bac- trians, Who spared no speed. I am spent: give	who never flash'd a scimitar till now ?	We 've clear'd the palace —
Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300Sal.And I trust the city.In disobedience to the monarch. [Exrt PANIACarter Altana and Speno by an opposite doorOur numbers gather; and I 've order'd onwardEnter ALTADA and Speno by an opposite doorAlt.Nyrrha!What, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged,Myrrha!In their retreat which soon will be a flight. Sar. It is already, or at least they march'dAnd Pania also.Can aught have befallen them ?Faster than I could follow with my Bac- trians, Who spared no speed. I am spent: give
Who never flash'd a scunitar till now? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [Ext PANA Enter ALTADA and SFERO by an opposite door Alt. Myrrha! What, gone? yet she was here when the fight raged, And I trust the city. Our numbers gather; and I've order'd on- ward A cloud of Parthians, hitherto reserved, All fresh and fiery, to be pour'd upon them In their retreat which soon will be a flight. Sar. It is already, or at least they march'd Faster than I could follow with my Bac- trians, Who spared no speed. I am spent: give
 For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a scimitar till now? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [Exit PANIA Enter ALITADA and SFERO by an opposite door Alt. Myrrha! What, gone? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them? Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied: Sar Not quite; but let it pass. 330 We're clear'd the palace — Sal. And I trust the city. Our numbers gather; and I 've order'd on- ward A cloud of Parthians, hitherto reserved, All fresh and fiery, to be pour'd upon them In their retreat which soon will be a flight. Sar. It is already, or at least they march'd Faster than I could follow with my Bac- trians, Who spared no speed. I am spent: give 	Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights	Sal. Unhurt, I hope.
 For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a seminar till now? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [Exit PANIA I disobedience to the m		and a second as Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a sounitar till now ? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [Ext PANIA Enter ALTADA and SFERO by an opposite door Alt. Myrrha ! What, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them ? Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied: Sal. Unhurt, I hope. Sar Not quite; but let it pass. 330 We 're clear'd the palace — Sal. Unhurt, I hope. Sar Not quite; but let it pass. 330 We 're clear'd the palace — Sal. On unumbers gather; and I 're order'd onward A cloud of Parthians, hitherto reserved, All fresh and fiery, to be pour'd upon them In their retreat which soon will be a flight. Sar. It is already, or at least they march'd Faster than I could follow with my Bactrians, Who spared no speed. I am spent: give 		Sam Have brother
Had lost my life. Sardanapalus holds her Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a scimitar till now? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [Ext PANIA Enter ALTADA and SFERO by an opposite door Alt. Myrrha! What, gone? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them? Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied: Sar. Sar. Here, brother.Sal. Unhurt, I hope.Sal. Out quite; but let it pass. 330We 've clear'd the palace —Sal. And I trust the city.Our numbers gather; and I 've order'd on-wardA cloud of Parthians, hitherto reserved,All fresh and fiery, to be pour'd upon themIn their retreat which soon will be a flight.Sar. I is already, or at least theymarch'dFaster than I could follow with my Bac-trians,Who spared no speed. I am spent: give		Enter SARDANAPALUS, cum suis, etc., and MYRRHA.
If aught of ill betide her, better I Had lost my life. Sardanapalus holds her Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a sommar till now? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [Emt PANIA Enter ALTADA and SPERO by an opposite door Alt. Myrrha! What, gone? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them? Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied:
If aught of ill betide her, better I Had lost my life. Sardanapalus holds her Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a sommar till now? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [Emt PANIA Enter ALTADA and SPERO by an opposite door Alt. Myrrha! What, gone? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them? Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied:		TO OTICI AICOOL . MULLE S OTE FILE :
Pan.Yet stay, damsel ! — She's gone.If aught of ill betide her, better IHad lost my life.Sardanapalus holds herFar dearer than his kingdom, yet he fightsFor that too; and can I do less than heWho never flash'd a scimitar till now?Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300In disobedience to the monarch. [Exrt PANIAEnter ALTADA and SFERD by an opposite doorAlt.Mhat, gone? yet she was here when the fight raged,And Pania also.Can aught have befallen them?Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied:Wo spared no speed.I am spent: give
Pan.Yet stay, damsel ! — She's gone.If aught of ill betide her, better IHad lost my life.Sardanapalus holds herFar dearer than his kingdom, yet he fightsFor that too; and can I do less than heWho never flash'd a scimitar till now?Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300In disobedience to the monarch. [Exrt PANIAEnter ALTADA and SFERD by an opposite doorAlt.Mhat, gone? yet she was here when the fight raged,And Pania also.Can aught have befallen them?Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied:Wo spared no speed.I am spent: give	shouldst shield	When they hear of our victory. But where
Thy sovereign.[Ext MYRRHA.Pan.Yet stay, damsel !— She's gone.If aught of ill betide her, better IHad lost my life.Sardanapalus holds herFar dearer than his kingdom, yet he fightsFor that too; and can I do less than heWho never flash'd a scimitar till now ?Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300In disobedience to the monarch. [Ext PANIAEnter ALTADA and SPERO by an opposite doorAlt.What, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged,And Pania also.Can aught have befallen them ?Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied:
shouldst shieldThy sovereign.[Ext MTREHPan.Yet stay, damsel ! — She's gone.If aught of ill betide her, better IIs the chief victor ? where 's the king ?Had lost my life.Sardanapalus holds herFar dearer than his kingdom, yet he fightsFor that too; and can I do less than heWho never flash'd a scimitar till now ?Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300In disobedience to the monarch.Exit PANIAEnter ALITADA and SFERO by an opposite doorAlt.Mytr.Myrrha !What, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged,Myrrha !And Pania also.Can aught have befallen them ?Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied:I am spent: give
 And bid thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shield Thy sovereign. [Ext MTREHA. Pan. Yet stay, damsel ! — She 's gone. If aught of ill betide her, better I Had lost my life. Sardanapalus holds her Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a semitar till now ? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [Ext PANIA Enter ALITADA and SFERO by an opposite door Alt. Myrrha ! What, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them ? Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fiel: 	strife,	Euphrates, who may still be true: nav.
 And bid thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shield Thy sovereign. [Ext MTREHA. Pan. Yet stay, damsel ! — She 's gone. If aught of ill betide her, better I Had lost my life. Sardanapalus holds her Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a semitar till now ? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [Ext PANIA Enter ALITADA and SFERO by an opposite door Alt. Myrrha ! What, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them ? Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fiel:
strife, And bid thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shield Thy sovereign. [Ext MYREHA. Pan. Yet stay, damsel ! — She's gone. If aught of 1l betide her, better I Had lost my life. Sardanapalus holds her Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a sounitar till now? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 3000 In disobedience to the monarch. [Ext PANIA Enter ALTADA and SFERO by an opposite door Alt. Myrrha! What, gone? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them? Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied: Strife, And Data also. Myrrha is also. Myrrh
 A feeble female, 'midst their desperate strife, And bid thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shield Thy sovereign. [Ext MYRRHA. Pan. Yet stay, damsel ! — She's gone. If aught of ill betide her, better I Had lost my life. Sardanapalus holds her Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a scimitar till now? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [Ext PANIA Enter ALTADA and SPERO by an opposite door Alt. Myrrha! What, gone? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them? Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied: To the troops station'd on the other side Euphrates, who may still be true; nay, must be, who may still be true; nay, must be, who may still be true; nay, must be, who may still set true; nay, must be, who may still be true; nay, must be, when late the rebels fiel: 	forth, 291	And we have open'd regular access
 A feeble female, 'midst their desperate strife, And bid thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shield Thy sovereign. [Ext MYRRHA. Pan. Yet stay, damsel ! — She's gone. If aught of ill betide her, better I Had lost my life. Sardanapalus holds her Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a scimitar till now? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [Ext PANIA Enter ALTADA and SPERO by an opposite door Alt. Myrrha! What, gone? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them? Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied: To the troops station'd on the other side Euphrates, who may still be true; nay, must be, who may still be true; nay, must be, who may still be true; nay, must be, who may still set true; nay, must be, who may still be true; nay, must be, when late the rebels fiel:
forth, 291 A feeble female, 'midst their desperate strife, And bee guard me there — where thou shouldst shield Thy sovereign. [Ext MYREHA. Pan. Yet stay, damsel !— She's gone. If aught of ill betide her, better I Had lost my life. Sardanapalus holds her Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a scimitar till now? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [Ext PANIA Enter ALTADA and SPERO by an opposite door Alt. Myrrha ! What, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them ? Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied: Mand we have open'd regular access To the troops station'd on the other side Euphrates, who may still be true; nay, must be, When they hear of our victory. But where Is the chief victor ? where 's the king ? Enter SAEDANAPALUS, cum suis, etc., and MYREHA. Sar. Here, brother. Sal. Unhurt, I hope. Sal. Our numbers gather; and I 've order'd on- ward A cloud of Parthians, hitherto reserved, All fresh and fiery, to be pour'd upon them In their retreat which soon will be a flight. Sar. It is already, or at least they march'd Faster than I could follow with my Bac- trians, Who spared no speed. I am spent: give	Or thou art shamed ! Nay, then, I will go
Or thou art shamed ! Nay, then, I will go forth,201201A feeble female, 'midst their desperate strife,201And we have open'd regular accessAnd bid thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shieldTo the troops station'd on the other sideThy sovereign.[Ext MYRRHA. Pan. Yet stay, damsel ! — She's gone. If aught of ill betide her, better I Had lost my life. Sardanapalus holds her Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a scunitar till now ? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [Ext PANIA Enter ALTADA and SFERO by an opposite door Alt.Myrrha ! Myrrha ! What, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged,More and SFERO by an opposite door Alt.Myrrha ! Myrrha ! What, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged,Myrrha ! Myrrha ! Myr hai also. Can aught have befallen them ?Myr have have open'd regular access To the troops station'd on the other side Euphrates, who may still be true; nay, must be, When they hear of our victory. But where Is the chief victor ? where 's the king ? Enter SABDANAPALUS, cum sus, etc., and MYREHA. Sar. Unhurt, I hope. Sar Not quite; but let it pass. 330What, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged,Myrrha ! Myrtha ! Mhat, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged,And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them ?Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied:Ster I haw both safe, when late the rebels fied:I am spent: give	Keep watch upon a woman? Hence, I say,	Flattering: they are beaten backward from
Or thou art shamed ! Nay, then, I will go forth,201201A feeble female, 'midst their desperate strife,201And we have open'd regular accessAnd bid thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shieldTo the troops station'd on the other sideThy sovereign.[Ext MYRRHA. Pan. Yet stay, damsel ! — She's gone. If aught of ill betide her, better I Had lost my life. Sardanapalus holds her Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a scunitar till now ? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [Ext PANIA Enter ALTADA and SFERO by an opposite door Alt.Myrrha ! Myrrha ! What, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged,More and SFERO by an opposite door Alt.Myrrha ! Myrrha ! What, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged,Myrrha ! Myrrha ! Myr hai also. Can aught have befallen them ?Myr have have open'd regular access To the troops station'd on the other side Euphrates, who may still be true; nay, must be, When they hear of our victory. But where Is the chief victor ? where 's the king ? Enter SABDANAPALUS, cum sus, etc., and MYREHA. Sar. Unhurt, I hope. Sar Not quite; but let it pass. 330What, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged,Myrrha ! Myrtha ! Mhat, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged,And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them ?Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied:Ster I haw both safe, when late the rebels fied:I am spent: give
 Keep watch upon a woman? Hence, I say, Or thou art shamed! Nay, then, I will go forth, 201 A feeble female, 'midst their desperate strife, And bid thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shield Thy sovereign. [Ext MYRRHA. Pan. Yet stay, damsel! — She's gone. If aught of ill betide her, better I Had lost my life. Sardanapalus holds her Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a scunitar till now? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [Ext PANIA Enter ALTADA and SFERO by an opposite door Alt. Myrrha! What, gone? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them? Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied: Keep watch upon a woman? Hence, I say, and Pania also. State the rebels and fiery, to be pour'd upon them them? State the rebels and fiery, to be pour'd upon them in their retreat which soon will be a flight. Sar. It is already, or at least they march'd Faster than I could follow with my Bac- trians, Who spared no speed. I am spent: give 		Sal. The trumph is stake,Sal.The trumph isKeep watch upon a woman? Hence, I say, Or thou art shamed! Nay, then, I will go forth,Sal.The trumph isA feeble female, 'midst their desperate strife,201And we have open'd regular accessA feeble female, 'midst their desperate shouldst shield201And we have open'd regular accessAnd bid thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shield1000000000000000000000000000000000000	I need no guard: what, with a world at	sonier Salemenes and Soldiers, etc.
Sal.Sal.The trumph isKeep watch upon a woman?Hence, I say, Or thou art shamed! Nay, then, I will go forth,201Sal.The trumph isA feeble female, 'midst their desperate strife,201And we have open'd regular accessTo the troops station'd on the other sideAnd bid thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shield100To the troops station'd on the other sideEuphrates, who may still be true; nay, must be,And bid thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shield[Exit MYRBHA.Men they hear of our victory. But where Is the chief victor? where 's the king?Pan.Yet stay, damsel! — She's gone. If aught of ill betide her, better I Had lost my life. Sardanapalus holds her Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a scunitar till now? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [Exit PANIA Enter ALITADA and SFERO by an opposite door Alt.Myrrha! Myrrha!What, gone? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them?Myrrha! Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied:Myr hat we have open'd regular access To the troops station'd on the other side Euphrates, who may still be true; nay, must be, Stear Alta access than he who spared no speed. I am spent: give	arust not ne wanting now. r ask no guard,	Enter SITENER and Soldiers de
 I need no guard: what, with a world at stake, Keep watch upon a woman? Hence, I say, Or thou art shamed! Nay, then, I will go forth, A feeble female, 'midst their desperate strife, And bid thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shield Thy sovereign. Exst MYREHA. Pan. Yet stay, damsel! — She's gone. If aught of ill betide her, better I Had lost my life. Sardanapalus holds her Far dearer than his kingdon, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a scimitar till now? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. Exst PANIA Enter ALITADA and SFERO by an opposule door Alt. Myrrha ! What, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them ? Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied: 	Must not be wanting now I ask no grand	Linear a second a crime. (Income
Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard, I need no guard: what, with a world at stake, Keep watch upon a woman? Hence, I say, Or thou art shamed! Nay, then, I will go forth, A feeble female, 'midst their desperate strife, And bid thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shield Thy sovereign. If aught of 1ll betide her, better I Had lost my life. Sardanapalus holds her Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a scimitar till now? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [Ext PANIA Enter ALITADA and SFERO by an opposute door Alt. Math, gone? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them? Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied: Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard, I as woth safe, when late the rebels frande: Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard, I and stake, Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard, I are stake, Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard, I and stake, Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard, I and stake, Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard Must not be wanting now. I ask now may still be true; nay, Must not stake, when late the rebels Must not be wanting now. I ask now may still be true; nay, Must not stake, when late the rebels Must not be wanting now. I ask now may still be true; nay, Must not stake, and fiery, to be pour'd upon them In their retreat which soon will be a flight. Samu I ask now presed no speed. I am spent: g	Think not of me — a single soldier's arm	Condemn'd without a crime. [Exeunt
Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard, I need no guard: what, with a world at stake, Keep watch upon a woman? Hence, I say, Or thou art shamed! Nay, then, I will go forth, A feeble female, 'midst their desperate strife, And bid thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shield Thy sovereign. If aught of 1ll betide her, better I Had lost my life. Sardanapalus holds her Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a scimitar till now? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [Ext PANIA Enter ALITADA and SFERO by an opposute door Alt. Math, gone? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them? Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied: Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard, I as woth safe, when late the rebels frande: Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard, I and stake, Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard, I are stake, Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard, I and stake, Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard, I and stake, Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard Must not be wanting now. I ask now may still be true; nay, Must not stake, when late the rebels Must not be wanting now. I ask now may still be true; nay, Must not stake, when late the rebels Must not be wanting now. I ask now may still be true; nay, Must not stake, and fiery, to be pour'd upon them In their retreat which soon will be a flight. Samu I ask now presed no speed. I am spent: g
Think not of me — a single soldier's armMust not be wanting now. I ask no guard, I need no guard: what, with a world at stake,Condemn'd without a crime.[EzeuntMust not be wanting now. I ask no guard, I need no guard: what, with a world at stake,Condemn'd without a crime.[EzeuntKeep watch upon a woman ? Hence, I say, Or thou art shamed ! Nay, then, I will go forth, 201Enter SALEMIENES and Soldier's, etcSal.Keep watch upon a woman ? Hence, I say, Or thou art shamed ! Nay, then, I will go forth, 201The trumph isA feeble female, 'midst their desperate strife,201The troops station'd on the other side Euphrates, who may still be true; nay, must be,And bid thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shield[Ent MYERHA.Thy sovereign. Pan. Yet stay, damsel ! — She's gone. If aught of 11 betide her, better I Had lost my life. Sardanapalus holds her Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a semitar till now ? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [Emt PANIA Enter ALITADA and SFERD by an opposite door All.Myrrha! Myrrha !What, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them ?Myrrha !What, gone ? yet she was here when them fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them ?Myrrha !Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied:Myrend have befallen them ?Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied:I am spent: give		Tortured for his infetuetion and
Myr.MelThuk not of me — a single soldier's arm Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard, I need no guard: what, with a world at stake,Tortured for his infatuation, and Condemn'd without a crime.[EzeuntI need no guard: stake,I ask no guard, attake,Enter SALEMENES and Soldiers, etc[EzeuntKeep watch upon a woman? forth,201The trumph isA feeble female, 'midst their desperate strife,201The troops station'd on the other side Euphrates, who may still be true; nay, must be,And bid thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shield[Exeu MTREHA.Thy sovereign.[Exeu MTREHA.Pan.Yet stay, damsel ! — She's gone. If anght of ull betide her, better I Had lost my life. Sar dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a soumitar till now? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [Exeu PANNA Enter ALTADA and SPERO by an opposite door Alt.Myrrha ! Myrrha !What, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also.Myrrha ! Can aught have befallen them ?Myrrha ! Myrrha !Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied:Sare. I t is already, or at least they march'dSter. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied:I am spent: give		Let's seek the slave out. or prepare to be
Myr.MelThuk not of me — a single soldier's arm Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard, I need no guard: what, with a world at stake,Tortured for his infatuation, and Condemn'd without a crime.[EzeuntI need no guard: stake,I ask no guard, attake,Enter SALEMENES and Soldiers, etc[EzeuntKeep watch upon a woman? forth,201The trumph isA feeble female, 'midst their desperate strife,201The troops station'd on the other side Euphrates, who may still be true; nay, must be,And bid thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shield[Exeu MTREHA.Thy sovereign.[Exeu MTREHA.Pan.Yet stay, damsel ! — She's gone. If anght of ull betide her, better I Had lost my life. Sar dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a soumitar till now? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [Exeu PANNA Enter ALTADA and SPERO by an opposite door Alt.Myrrha ! Myrrha !What, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also.Myrrha ! Can aught have befallen them ?Myrrha ! Myrrha !Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied:Sare. I t is already, or at least they march'dSter. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied:I am spent: give		All are the sons of circumstance. away - quit thee.Myr.Me!Myr.Me!Thuk not of me — a single soldier's armMust not be wanting now. I ask no guard,I need no guard: what, with a world at stake,Sal.Keep watch upon a woman?Hence, I say,Or thou art shamed! Nay, then, I will go forth,201A feeble female, 'midst their desperate strife,201And bid thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shieldEnter SALEMENNES and Soldiers, etcThy sovereign.[Ent MYREMA. Pan. Yet stay, damsel! — She's gone.If aught of ill betide her, better I Had lost my life. Sardanapalus holds her Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a scimitar till now? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [End PANNA Enter ALTADA and SPERO by an opposite door Alt.Myrrha ! Myrrha ! Mhat, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged,Myrrha ! Myrrha ! Mat gone ? yet she was here when them fight raged,Myrrha ! Myrrha ! Mat gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged,Myrrha ! Myrrha ! Mot quaite there ? Stell as woth safe, when late the rebels fied:Let 's seek the slave out, or prepare to be Tortured for his infatuation, and Condemn'd without a crime.[EzeuntMark Sold[Ezeu Mreand. SoldSal.The trumph is Flatter Sale Sansaratus, cum sus, etc. and Mreand. Sal. Unhurt, I hope. Sal.Sar Not quite; but let it pass. 330We ve clear'd the palace do Myrrha ! Mot gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged,Myrrha ! Myrrha ! Mot spared no speed. I am spent: give<
 Pan. The king's command was not to quit thee. Myr. Me! Think not of me — a single soldier's arm Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard, I need no guard: what, with a world at stake, Keep watch upon a woman? Hence, I say, Or thou art shamed! Nay, then, I will go forth, 201 A feeble female, 'midst their desperate strife, And bid thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shield Thy sovereign. [Exat MTRRHA. Pan. Yet stay, damsel! — She's gone. If aught of nll betide her, better I Had lost my life. Sardanapalus holds her Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a scimitar till now? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [Exat PARIA Enter ALITADA and STERO by an opposite door Alt. Mhat, gone? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them? Syfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied: 		Sfe Not many them all and
 Pan. The king's command was not to quit thee. Myr. Me! Think not of me — a single soldier's arm Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard, I need no guard: what, with a world at stake, Keep watch upon a woman? Hence, I say, Or thou art shamed! Nay, then, I will go forth, 201 A feeble female, 'midst their desperate strife, And bid thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shield Thy sovereign. [Exat MTRRHA. Pan. Yet stay, damsel! — She's gone. If aught of nll betide her, better I Had lost my life. Sardanapalus holds her Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a scimitar till now? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [Exat PARIA Enter ALITADA and STERO by an opposite door Alt. Mhat, gone? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them? Syfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied: 	thou here, and leavest the ranks	The man's inscrutable.
Of fellow-soldier's conquering without thee ? Pan. The king's command was not to quit thee.Sfe.Not more than others. 31.Myr.Me!Think not of me — a single soldier's arm Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard, I need no guard: what, with a world at stake,All are the sons of circumstance. away — Let's seek the slave out, or prepare to be Tortured for his infatuation, and Condemn'd without a crime.Keep watch upon a woman? Hence, I say, Or thou art shamed ! Nay, then, J will go forth,201A feeble female, 'midst their desperate strife,201And bid thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shield[Ent Myram Pan. Yet stay, damsel ! — She's gone.That too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a soumitar till now ? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though fight raged,[Ent Plania also. Can aught have befallen them ?Mut at, gone ? yet she was here when fight raged,Myrrha!Mut at, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged,Myrrha!Mut at, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged,Myrrha!Mut at, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged,Myrrha!Mut at, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged,Myrrha!Mut at, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged,Myrrha!Mut at, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged,Myrrha!Mut At, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged,Myrrha!Mut At, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged,Myrrha!Mut At, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged,Myrrha!Wha thou here, and leavest the ranks Of fellow-soldners conquering without the? Pan. The king's command was not to quit thee. Myr. Mel Think not of me — a single soldier's arm Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard, I need no guard: what, with a world at stake, Keep watch upon a woman? Hence, I say, Or thou art shamed! Nay, then, J will go forth, 207 A feeble female, 'midst their desperate strife, And bid thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shield Thy sovereign. [Erd MYRBH.] Had lost my life. Sardanapalus holds her Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights for that co; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a scimitar till now? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [Ext PARM.] Enter ALTADA and SPERO by an opposite door Alt. Myrrha! What, gone? yet she was here when the fight raged. And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them? S/e. I saw both safe, when late the rebiss fied:	Mur. (to Pan.), Pursue! Why stand'st
 Myr. (to Pan.). Pursue ' Why stand'st thou here, and leavest the ranks Myr. (to Pan.). Pursue ' Why stand'st the mean's unscrittable. As sweeps the air and deluges the earth. The man's inscrittable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. All are the sons of circumstance. away — Let's seek the slave out, or prepare to be Tortured for his inflatuation, and Condemid without a crime. [Execut a stake, Keep watch upon a woman? Hence, I say, Or thou art shamed ! Nay, then, I will go forth, 201 A feeble female, 'midst their desperate strife, And bid thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shield Thy sovereign. [Exct MTREM. Pan. Yet stay, damsel !— She's gone. If aught of ill betide her, better I Had lost my life. Sardanapalus holds her Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a scuntar till now? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [Ext PANA Enter AlTADA and SPENO by an opposte door Alt. Myrrha! What, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them ? Syfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebiss fied: 	[Exit in pursuit	thunder
 Myr. (to Pan.). Pursue ' Why stand'st thou here, and leavest the ranks Myr. (to Pan.). Pursue ' Why stand'st the mean's unscrittable. As sweeps the air and deluges the earth. The man's inscrittable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. All are the sons of circumstance. away — Let's seek the slave out, or prepare to be Tortured for his inflatuation, and Condemid without a crime. [Execut a stake, Keep watch upon a woman? Hence, I say, Or thou art shamed ! Nay, then, I will go forth, 201 A feeble female, 'midst their desperate strife, And bid thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shield Thy sovereign. [Exct MTREM. Pan. Yet stay, damsel !— She's gone. If aught of ill betide her, better I Had lost my life. Sardanapalus holds her Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a scuntar till now? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [Ext PANA Enter AlTADA and SPENO by an opposte door Alt. Myrrha! What, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them ? Syfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebiss fied:
Izrit m pursuitMyr. (to Pan.). Pursue ' Why stand'st thou here, and leavest the ranksOf fellow-soldners conquering without thee? Pan. The king's command was not to quit thee.As sweeps the air and deluges the earth. As sweeps the slave out, or prepare to be Tortured for his infatuation, and Condemn'd without a crime.Myr.Me!Think not of me — a single soldier's arm Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard, I need no guard: what, with a world at stake.Sfe.Not more than others.Sin.Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard, I need no guard: what, with a world at stake.Sfe.Keep watch upon a woman? Hence, I say, Or thou art shamed ! Nay, then, I will go forth,Sal.And bid thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shieldSal.Thy sovereign.Izrit Mrama. Pan.Pan. Yet stay, damsel ! — She's gone.If anght of ill betide her, better I Had lost my life. Sardnanapalus holds her For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a scimitar till now? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300Mut, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pamia also. Can aught have befallen them ?Myrrha !Mut A gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pamia also. Can aught have befallen them?Myrrha !Mut A gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pamia also. Can aught have befallen them?Myrrha !More and same of streem of the circle which soon will be a flight. Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebes fied:Ma same on speed. I am spent: give
Upon them — ho 1 there — victory is ours. [Exit in pursuit Myr. (to Pan.). Pursue ! Why stands thou here, and leavest the ranks Of fellow-soldiers conquering without the? Pan. The king's command was not to quit thee. Myr. $Me!$ Think not of me — a single soldier's arm Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard, I need no guard: what, with a world at stake, Keep watch upon a woman ? Hence, I say, Or thou art shamed ! Nay, then, I will go forth, 201 A feeble female, 'midst their desperate strife, And bid thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shield Thy sovereign. [Exit MYREM. Pan. Yet stay, damse!! — She's gone. If aught of ill betide her, better I Had lost my life. Sardanapalus holds her Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never fish'd a sciunitar till now? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [Exit PARM Enter SLEDANAPALUS, cum sus, etc., and I trust the city. Our numbers gather; and I 've order'd on- ward A cloud of Parthians, hitherto reserved, All fresh and fiery, to be pour'd upon them In their retreat which soon will be a flight. Sar. It is already, or at least they march'd Faster than I could follow with my Bac- trians, Who spared no speed. I am spent: give	The villain was a prophet after all
 The villain was a prophet after all bodes Upon them — ho ! there — victory is ours. [Exit is pursuit Myr. (to Pan.). Pursue ! Why stand'st thou here, and leavest the ranks Of fellow-soldiers comquering without thee? Pan. The king's command was not to quit thee. Myr. Me! Think not of me — a single soldier's arm Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard, I need no guard: what, with a world at stake, Keep watch upon a woman? Hence, I say, for thou art shamed ! Nay, then, I will go forth, 201 And bid thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shield Thy sovereign. [Exit Mramat. Pan. Vet stay, damsel ! — She's gone. If aught of ill betide her, better I Had lost my life. Sardanapalus holds here far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never flash'd a semitar till now? Myrrha, return, and Speno by an opposite door Alt. Myrrha! What, gone ? yet she was here when the fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them ? Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fied: 	nus souciers, who arive the kebels off	The close and sultry summer's day, which
The villain was a prophet after all $Dight form of the property is ours. (Exit in pursuit Myr. (to Pan.). Pursue 'Why stand'st thou here, and leavest the ranks Of fellow-soldiers conquering without thee? Pan. The king's command was not to quit thee. Myr. Mel. The king's command was not to quit thee. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's instruction, and Condemn'd without a crume. [Exeunt Exert states, who may stall be true; nay, must be, the palace, and we have open'd regular access To the troops station'd on the other side Euphrates, who may still be true; nay, must be, When they hear of our victory. But where its the king? Pan. The state all is the chief victor? where 's the king? State and such and panis also. Can aught have befallen them? Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels field:$	assau ine hing, who, in turn, is rescued by a Party of
The villain was a prophet after all $Dight form of the property is ours. (Exit in pursuit Myr. (to Pan.). Pursue 'Why stand'st thou here, and leavest the ranks Of fellow-soldiers conquering without thee? Pan. The king's command was not to quit thee. Myr. Mel. The king's command was not to quit thee. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's inscrutable. Sfe. Not more than others. 31. The man's instruction, and Condemn'd without a crume. [Exeunt Exert states, who may stall be true; nay, must be, the palace, and we have open'd regular access To the troops station'd on the other side Euphrates, who may still be true; nay, must be, When they hear of our victory. But where its the king? Pan. The state all is the chief victor? where 's the king? State and such and panis also. Can aught have befallen them? Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels field:$	A party of Rebels enter and rescue BELESES They
 All augury of foes or friends; and like means solver the Rebels of means solver the Rebels of the villain was a prophet after all upon them — ho! there — victory is ours. LExit in pursuat Myr. (to Pan.). Pursue! Why stand's they have been and be an	4 4 70 k 4 10 k 4 10 1 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 10 1
 All augury of foes or friends; and like means solver the Rebels of means solver the Rebels of the villain was a prophet after all upon them — ho! there — victory is ours. LExit in pursuat Myr. (to Pan.). Pursue! Why stand's they have been and be an	credit? 281
 A party of Rebels enter and rescue BRIBERS They assolites King, who are thre Rebels off as Solites, who drive the Rebels off The villain was a prophet after all Upon them — ho ! there — victory is ours. [Ezzi un pursuit throu here, and leavest the ranks Of fellow-solders conquering withou the? Pan. The king's command was not to quit thee. Myr. Me ! Thuk not of me — a single soldier's arm Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard, I need no guard: what, with a world at stake, Keep watch upon a woman? Hence, I say, Or thou art shamed ! Nay, then, I will go forth, 2007 fo than than<td></td><td></td>
 From the sky to preserve their seer and oredit? From the sky to preserve their seer and oredit? Park of the King, who are the Excess They are the Koles off Pas Soliders, who drive the Koles off The villain was a prophet after all upon them — ho! there — victory is ours. [Exit up pursuit Myr, (to Pan.). Pursue ! Why stand'st thou here, and leavest the ranks Of fellow-soliders conquering without the? Pan. The king's command was not to quit thee. Myr. Myr. Me! Think not of me — a single soldier's arm Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard, I need no guard: what, with a world at stake, Keep watch upon a woman? Hence, I say, Or thou ar shamed! Nay, then, J will go forth, 297 A feeble female, 'midst their desperate strife, And bid thee guard me there — where thon shouldst shield Thy sovereign. [Exu Mrman. Pan., Yet stay, damsel!—She's gone. If aught of ill betide her, better I Had lost my life. Sardanapalus holds her Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never fiash'd a scimitar till now? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though yet in discobedience to the monarch. [Exu Mrman. Pan. Attrana and Smere by an opposite door Alt. Myrrha, also. Can aught have befallen them ? Sfe. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fiel: 	Now call upon thy planets, will they shoot
 Now call upon thy planets, will they shoot from the sky to preserve their seer and credit? A party of Rebels enter and rescue BERESES They can be availed by a Party of Rebels enter and rescue BERESES They are the fact all upon them — ho ! there — vectory is ours. [Exit upursuit Myr. (to Pan.). Pursue ' Why stand'st thou here, and leavest the ranks Of fellow-soldners conquering without the? Pan. The kung's command was not to quit thee. Myr. Me ! Myr. Me ! Myr. Me ! Must not of me — a single soldier's arm Must not of me — a single soldier's arm Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard; I need no guard: what, with a world at stake, Keep watch upon a woman? Hence, I say, for thou art shamed ! Nay, then, I will go forth, 200 forth, 200	exclaims) —	Than his recover'd kingdom.
 Now call upon thy planets, will they shoot from the sky to preserve their seer and credit? A party of Rebels enter and rescue BERESES They can be availed by a Party of Rebels enter and rescue BERESES They are the fact all upon them — ho ! there — vectory is ours. [Exit upursuit Myr. (to Pan.). Pursue ' Why stand'st thou here, and leavest the ranks Of fellow-soldners conquering without the? Pan. The kung's command was not to quit thee. Myr. Me ! Myr. Me ! Myr. Me ! Must not of me — a single soldier's arm Must not of me — a single soldier's arm Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard; I need no guard: what, with a world at stake, Keep watch upon a woman? Hence, I say, for thou art shamed ! Nay, then, I will go forth, 200 forth, 200
 the circlatures)		, , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , ,
 Sar. (raising his sword to despatch him, exclains)— New call upon thy planets, will they shoot from the sky to preserve their seer and rescue BELESES They are in the King who, in turn, is rescued by a Party of assoliders, who arwet the Zolds off mession of the Kolds off the Soldser's who arwet the Zolds off the Soldser's who arwet the Zolds off the Soldser's who arwet the Zoldser's compared by a Party of the villain was a prophet after all Upon them — ho ! there — victory is ours. [Ezt in pursuit Myr. (to Pan.). Pursue ! Why stand'st thou here, and leavest the ranks Of fellow-soldners conquering without thee? Pan. The king's command was not to quit thee. Myr. (to Pan.). Pursue ! Why stand'st they have on the single soldier's arm Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard! I need no guard: what, with a world at Stake, a woman? Hence, I say, for thou art shamed ! Nay, then, I will go forth, and bid thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shield Thy sovereign. [Ext Mrama. Pan. Yet stay, damsel ! — She's gone. If aught of ill betide her, better I Had lost ny life. Sardanapabas holds her Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Yan. Mot quite; but let it pass. 300 We 're clear'd the palace — Sal. Mos pared no speed. I am spent: give 	[They fight, BELESES is wounded and disarmed	malag
They fight. Bernsses awounded and disarred Sar. (ransing has sword to despatch him, exclains) —makes310Sar. (ransing has sword to despatch him, exclains) —A richer prize to our soft sovereign Than his recover'd kingdom. A line are supersord than different the system thanSail himself Sovereign Line and himself and himself the source the Rebes off the solution was a prophet after all Upon them — ho! there — victory is ours. [Exit in pursuat] Myr. (to Pan.). Pursue! Why stand'ts thou here, and leavest the ranks Of fellow-solkers conquering without thee? Pan. The king's command was not to quit thee. Myr. (to Pan.). Pursue! Why stand'ts thuo here, and leavest the ranks Of fellow-solkers conquering without the? Pan. The king's command was not to quit thee. Myr. Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard; that ot of me — a single soldier's arm Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard; that not be mannel! Nay, then, I will go forth, Pan. Yet stay, damsel! — She's gone. If aught of 11 betide her, better I Had lost ny life. Sardanapalus holds her For that too; and can I do less than he Who never fash'd a sommar bill obey you, though soot In disobedience to the monarch. [Exel Musard Pan. Yet stay, damsel! — She's gone. I an disobedience to the monarch. [Exel Musard Sar Mot quite; but let it pass. 30 We 're clear'd the palace — Sar Mot quite; but let it pass. 30 We 're clear'd the palace — Sar. It is already, or at least they march'd Faster than I could follow with my Bac- trians, Sare I are speed. I am spent: give	Bel. But not by thee.	She cannot be fled far; and, found, she
They fight, Buttass is wounded and disarred Sar. (raising his sword to despatch him, exclusions) —makes310Sar. (raising his sword to despatch him, exclusions) —archer prize to our soft sovereign Than his recover'd kingdom.310Now call upon thy planets, will they should the villain was a prophet after all Upon them — ho! there — victory is ours. [Exit in pursuit thou here, and leavest the ranks Of fellow-soldners conquering without the? Pan. The king's command was not to quit thee. Myr. (to Pan.). Pursue! Why stand'st thou here, and leavest the ranks Of fellow-soldners conquering without the? Pan. The king's command was not to quit thee. Myr. Mell Thimk not of me — a single soldier's arm Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard; t need no guard: what, with a world at stake, Keep watch upon a woman ? Hence, I say, Or thou art shamed! Nay, then, I will go forth, Pan. The kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he For dater of his infatuation, and Condemn'd without a crime. [Ezwi Marani. Sre. Not more than others. 310Pan. Yet stay, damsel! — Ski Mo bouldst shield[Ezwi Marani. Sar. Sar. Satesasatus, cwn sus, etc., and Mrana. Sar. Not quite; but let it pass. 320 We're clear'd the palace — Sal. Unhurt, I hope. Sar. Not quite; but let it pass. 320 We 're clear'd the palace — Sar. Not quite; but let it pass. 320 We 're clear'd the palace — Sar. I is already, or at least they march'd Faster than I could follow with my Bac- trians, Who syster hash'd a scentar till now ? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though 300 In disobedience to the monarch. [Ezw farani. Faster Altran and Same by an opposite dor Alt. Mar Gaia also. Can aught have befallen them ?
 Bel. But not by thee. [Thy fight, BRLESSES is wounded adsarmed Sar. (raising his sword to despatch hum, exclaims) — She cannot be field far; and, found, she makes A richer prize to our soft sovereign A richer prize to our soft sovereign A richer prize to our soft sovereign And beas Ar icher prize to our soft sovereign And i fue the sons of so to save it: he defies And we have open deloges the earth. The trumph is Flatering: they are beaten backward from the tory station'd on the other side Sar. Mot space, who may still be true; nay, must be, When they hear of our victory. But where Is the chief victor ? where 's the king ? Sar. Mot quite; but let it pass. 30 We 've clear'd the palace. Sar. Mot quite; but let it pass. 30 We 've clear'd the palace. Sar. Mot quite; but let it pass. 30 We 've clear'd the palace. Sar. Mot quite; but let it pass. 30 We 've clear'd the palace. Sar. It is a hready, or at least they march'd Faster than I could follow w
 That thou wilt now be crush'd. But. mot by thee. [They fight, Bunses wounded and dwarned Sar. (raising) is sword to despatch ham, exclams) — Now call upon thy planets, will they shoot aread the King, who, thirry, ersonaded ya Parky of has Soldnes, who drive the Eebels off thou here, and leavest the ranks Of fellow-soldiers conquering without the? Ither villain was a prophet after all Upon them — ho! there — victory is ours. [Exit mpursuit] Myr. (to Pan.). Purule! "Why stand'st thou here, and leavest the ranks Of fellow-soldiers conquering without the? If ellow-soldiers conquering without the? Myr. Mgr. Mgr. Me! Thuk not of me — a single soldier's arm Must not be wanting now. I ask no grard; I need no guard: what, with a world at stake, Xeep watch upon a woman? Hence, I say, Or thou art shamed! Nay, then, I will go forth, Ard bid the guard me there — where thou shouldst shield Thy sovereign. Mat Jost my life. Sardanapalus holds her Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Who never fash'd a semutar till now? Myrrha, return, and lobey you, though son I disobedience to the monarch. [Exet Mrana. Pan. The thar there where the fight raged. And Pania also. Can aught have befallen them? Si a swo bashe, when late the rebels field: 	In the sign of the Scorpion, which proclaims
In the sign of the Scorpion, which proclaims Bel. But not by the. [They fight, BRISSES & wounded and dearmed Sfe. (Trawn fight, BRISSES & wounded and dearmed Sfe. (Trawn fight, BRISSES & wounded and dearmed Sfe. (They fight, BRISSES & Wounded and dearmed excolution) Sfe. (They fight, BRISSES & Wounded and dearmed the column of the State of State and State, (The The King's command was not to quit the. Myr. (to Pan.). Pursue ' Why stand'st thon here, and leavest the ranks Of fellow-soldners conquering without the? Myr. (to Pan.). Pursue ' Why stand'st thon here, and leavest the ranks Of fellow-soldners conquering without the? Myr. (to Pan.). Pursue ' Why stand'st thou here, and leavest the ranks Of fellow-soldners conquering without the? Myr. Mel Thuk not of me — a single soldier's arm Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard, I need no guard: what, with a world at state, Xeep watch upon a woman? Hence, I say, feable female, 'midst their desperated strife, And bid thee guard me there — where tho shouldst shield The source, ind libetide her, better I Had lost my life. Sardanapalus holds her Far cearer than his kingdom, yet he fights For that too; and can I do less than he Whon never fiash'd a sommarch. [Exet Marsan. Fart ALTADA and SFENO by an opposed door All. And Pania also. Can aught have befallen fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen fight raged. And Pania also. Can aught have befallen fied: Who spared no speed. I am spent: give	And ranging round the zodiac, found thy fate	And miss his own Ionian, we are doom'd
In the sign of the Scorpion, which proclaims Bel. But not by the. [They fight, BRISSES & wounded and dearmed Sfe. (Trawn fight, BRISSES & wounded and dearmed Sfe. (Trawn fight, BRISSES & wounded and dearmed Sfe. (They fight, BRISSES & wounded and dearmed excolution) Sfe. (They fight, BRISSES & Wounded and dearmed the column of the fight sector and credit? A party of Keels enter and rescue BRISSES They mass Solitens, who artwe the Keels of The villain was a prophet after all Upon them - he ! therevictory is ours. [Exit is pursuit Myr. (to Pan.). Pursue ! Why stand'st thou here, and leavest the ranks Of fellow-soldners conquering without the? Myr. (to Pan.). Pursue ! Why stand'st thou here, and leavest the ranks Of fellow-soldners conquering without the? Myr. Mel Thuk not of me -a single soldier's arm Must not be wanting now. I ask no guard; I need no guard: what, with a world at stake, Xeep watch upon a woman? Hence, I say, feable female, 'midst their desperated strife, And bid thee guard me there - where tho shouldst shield The source, and A trust. I hope. In disobedience to the monarch. [Exet Marsan. Pan. Yet stay, dansel! - She's gon. In disobedience to the monarch. [Exet Marsan. Fart eAirer ALIADA and SFEND by an opposed door All. And Pania also. Can aught have befallen fight raged, And Pania also. Can aught have befallen fied: Stein Saw bafae, when late the rebels fied: Who spared no speed. I am spent: give	I nough but a young astrologer, me stars;	rove victor, as it seems even now he must,
And ranging round the zodnac, found thy fait fat the sign of the Scorpion, which proclaims That thou wilt now be crush'd. Bel. and miss his own Ionian, we are doom'd The vision is sword to despatch harmon ecclaims) — Now call upon thy planets, will they shout from the sky to preserve their seen and credit? assol to King, who, n turn, sressued by Party of As Soldiest, who first the Eddes of Pan. The king's command was not to Agut the. Myr. (to Pan.). Pursue 'Why stand'st thou here, and leavest the ranks Myr. (to Pan.). Pursue 'Why stand'st thou here, and leavest the ranks Myr. (to Pan.). Pursue 'Why stand'st thou here, and leavest the ranks Myr. (to Pan.). Pursue 'Why stand'st thou here, and leavest the ranks Myr. Me ! Thus not of me — a single soldier's arm Myr. Me ! Thus not of me — a single soldier's arm Myr. Me ! Thus to the wanting now. I ask no grand. I need no guard: what, with a world at state, Myr. Me ! Myr. Me there Mere best for the soldier's arm Solubit thee guard me there — where thou shouldst shield That here fashield a semitar till now? Myrrha, return, and I obey you, though sol- In disobedience to the monarch. LExet Mrana. Pan. Yet staxy, damsel ! — She's groue- I anght of il betide her, better I Had lost my life. Sardanapalus holds her- Far dearer than his kingdom, yet he fights Sor In disobedience to the monarch. LExet Mrana. Sal. Mal trust the city. Sal. And I trust the city. Sal. And I trust the city. Sal. And I trust the city. Sal. Mal fresh and fiery, to be pour'd upon them them? Syle. I saw both safe, when late the rebels fed: Who spared on speed. I am spent: give
 Though but a young astrologer, the stars: And ranging round the zodiac, found thy fate in the sign of the Scorpion, which proclaims makes and miss is own Ionian, we are doom'd To worse than captive rebels. Spie. Let us trace them; Spie. Spie.	Sar. No, thine. — I 've lately read.	Alt. If the king
 Though but a young astrologer, the stars: And ranging round the zodiac, found thy fate in the sign of the Scorpion, which proclaims makes and miss is own Ionian, we are doom'd To worse than captive rebels. Spie. Let us trace them; Spie. Spie.
Though but a young astrologer, the stars: And ranging round the zoduae, found thy fate In the sign of the Scorpion, which proclaims That thou wilt now be crush'd. Bel. But not by thee. [They fight, Burness we wounded and desarredSar. (rousing his sword to despatch hum,exclaims) —Now call upon thy planets, will they shootfrom the sky to preserve their seen andcredit?A solute store and reaces Burness Theydue Solutes, who drive the Rebets ofthe villaim was a prophet after allUpon them — he ! there — victory is ours. $[Exet m pursuet 'Why stand'stthou here, and leavest the ranksOf fellow-soluters computering without the?Must not be wanting now. I ask no grand,I need no guard: what, with a world atstake,Keep watch upon a woman? Hence, I say,or thou art shamed ! Nay, then, I will goforth, meI aught of ill betide her, better IHad lost my life. Sardanapalus holds herefor that too; and can I do less than heWhon enver fiash'd a scinutar till now?All.Exter ALTADA and Srmo by an opponte doorAll.And Pania also. Can aught have befallenthem?Sye. I saw both safe, when late the rebelsfield:Who spared no speed. I am spent:Who spared no speed. I am spent:$

Sar.'T is no place to rest on, For mind nor body: let me have a couch, $They place a seat$ A peasant's stool, I care not what: so now344A peasant's stool, I care not what: so now344I breathe more freely.344SalThis great hour has provedThe brightest and most glorious of your life. Sar. And the most thresome. Where's my cupbearer?Bring me some water. Sal. (smiling).'T is the first time he Ever had such an order. even I, Your most austere of counsellors, would nowSuggest a purpler beverage Sar. Blood doubtless. But there's enough of that shed; as for wine, I have learn'd to-night the price of the pure element. Thrice have I drank of it, and thrice re- new'd, With greater strength than the grape ever gave me, My charge upon the rebels. Where's the soldier Who gave me water in his helmet? One of the Guards Slain, sire ! An arrow pierced his brain, while, scattering The last drops from his helm, he stood in act To place it on his brows Sar Slain ! unrewarded ! And slam to serve my thirst. that's hard, poor slave ! Had he but hved, I would have gorged him with Cold. eil the culd of earth could refer to the sold of the culd of earth could refer to the Sar Sain ! unrewarded !	That ornament was ever aught to me, 370 Save an mcumbrance. Myr (to the Attendants). Summon speed- ily A leech of the most skilful: pray, retire: I will unbind your wound and tend it. Sar Do so, For now it throbs sufficiently: but what Know'st thou of wounds ? yet wherefore do I ask ? Know'st thou, my brother, where I lighted on This mmion? Sal Herding with the other females, Like frighten'd antelopes. Sar No like the dam Of the young hon, femininely raging (And femininely meaneth furiously, 380 Because all passions in excess are female), Against the hunter flying with her cub, She urged on with her voice and gesture, and Her floating hair and flashing eyes, the soldiers In the pursuit Sal Indeed ! Sar. You see, this night Made warriors of more than me. I paused To look upon her, and her kindled cheek; Her large black eyes, that flash'd through her long hair As it stream'd o'er her; her blue veins that rose Along her most transparent brow; her nos- tril 300 Dilated from its symmetry; her lips Apart; her voice that clove through all the dim, As a lute's pierceth through the cymbal's other
I have learn'd to-night the price of the pure element. 350	Against the hunter flying with her cub, She urged on with her voice and gesture, and Her floating hair and flashing eyes, the new'd,	soldiers
With greater strength than the grape ever	In the pursuit gave me,	Sal Indeed !
soldier	Made warriors of more than me. I paused
Who gave me water in his helmet ?	To look upon her, and her kindled cheek;
One of the Guards Slain, sire !	Her large black eyes, that flash'd through
An arrow pierced his brain, while, scattering	her long hair
The last drops from his helm, he stood in	As it stream'd o'er her; her blue veins that
To place it on his brows	Along her most transparent brow; her nos-
Sar Slain ! unrewarded !	tril 390
And slain to serve my thirst. that 's hard,	Dilated from its symmetry; her lips poor slave !	Apart; her voice that clove through all the
As I am now. [They bring water — he drinks I live again — from henceforth The goblet 1 reserve for hours of love,	Waved arms, more dazzling with their own born whiteness Than the steel her hand held, which she caught up
But wai on water.	From a dead soldier's grasp; — all these
Sal And that bandage, sire,	things made
Which girds your arm ?	Her seem unto the troops a prophetess
Sar A scratch from brave Beleses.	Of victory, or Victory herself, 399
Myr. Oh, he is wounded !	Come down to hail us hers.
Sar. Not too much of that;	Sal (aside). This is too much.
And yet it feels a little stiff and painful,	Agam the love-fit's on him, and all's lost,
Now I am cooler.	Unless we turn his thoughts.
Myr. You have bound it with —	(Aloud) But pray thee, sire,
Sar. The fillet of my diadem: the first	Think of your wound — you said even now time	't was painful.

Receive reports of progress made in such Norders as I had grven, and then return To hear your further pleasure. Sar. Sar. Myrrha ! Myr. I would not have how a soul to night, Which, were he not my suster's lord — But now Sard You have shown a soul to night, Which, were he not my suster's lord — But now War. I would not have him king still? Myr. I would not be; to have him live, Sard Well then, to have him king, and yours, and all He should or should not be; to have him live, fust more power upon his spirit than Wisdom within these walls, or fierce rebel- hon Raging without: look well that he relayen more menes Myr. There needed not the voice of Sal- not meeds Myr. (maling) You have cause, sire; for a king's estem — the whole world's admir- ration ! Sar. Myrrha ! what, at whispers With my stern brother? I shall soon be jealous. Myr. (maling) You have cause, sire; for a king's estem — the whole world's admir- ration ! Sar. Yes, love ! but not from pain. Sar. Yes, love ! but no
Sal. I have look'd to all things needful, and will now Receive reports of progress made in such Orders as I had gruen, and then return To hear your further pleasure. Sar. Bart You have shown a soul to night, Myr. I would not have hum king, and yours, and all the should or should not be; to have him lize, Myr. There needed not the voice of Sala- menes Myr. (smuling) You have cause, sire; for a so the earth there breathes not A man more worthy of a woman's love, A solder's trust, a subject's reverence, A sling's estem — the whole world's admin- ration ! Sar. That throws me into shade; yet you speak truth. Myr, And now reture, to have your wound look'd to. Pray, lean on me. Sar. Yes, love ! but not from pain.		ACT IV
Receive reports of progress made in such Orders as I had given, and then return To hear your further pleasure. Sar. Sar. Be it so. Sal. (in returna). Myrrha ! Myr. You have shown a soul to night, Myr. You have shown a soul to night, Myr. You have shown a soul to night, Myr. I would not have him king still? Myr. I would not have him king still? Myr. I would not have him king, and yours, and all He should or should not be; to have him live, Sal Well then, to have him king, and yours, and all He should or should not be; to have him live, To urge me on to this: I will not fail. All that a woman's weakness can- gent Myr. (sming) You have cause, sire; for this y stern brother? I shall soon be jealous. Myr. (sola, gazng). I have stolen upon his rest, if rest it be, Whach thus convulses slumber: shall I wake him? No, he seems calmer. Oh, thou God of Quiet ! Whose reign is o'er seal'd eyelids and soft dreams, Or deep, deep sleep, so as to be unfathon"d, Look like thy brother, Death, as os still – so sturless- For then we are happiest, as, it may be, we reaching gust The reluctant lake that lay so calm Beneath the mountain shadow; or the blast Ruffles the autumn leaves, that drooping eling Family and motionless to their loved boughs. Imust awake him - yet not yet: who knows From what I rouse him ? It seems pain; buit f I quicken him to heavier pain ? The fever Of thus tunultuous mght, the greated to see than him to suffer No: Sar. (avatening). Not so - although ye multiplied the stars, And I await to second, not disturb her. Sar. (avatening). Not so - although ye multiplied the stars, And I await to second, not disturb her. Sar. (avatening). Not so - although ye multiplied the stars, And I await to second him to suffer. Not Sar. (avatenng). Not so - although ye multiplied the stars, And I await to second him to suffer. Not Sar. (avatenng). Not so - although ye multiplied the stars, And I await to second him to suffer the spectres f Once bloody mortals - and now bloodig idols, From ye has the spectres f idols. The carcass		SCENE I
To hear your further pleasure. Sar. Sar. Myrrha ! what, at whispers Wir. (sola, gazng). I have stolen upon Sal. (in returng). Myrrha ! Myr. (sola, gazng). I have stolen upon bis rest, if rest it be, Sal. You have shown a soul to night, Myr. No, he seems calmer. Oh, thou God of Quiet ! Whech thus convulses slumber: shall I wake him ? No, he seems calmer. Oh, thou God of Quiet ! Whose reign is o'er seal'd eyelds and soft dramans, Or deep, deep sleep, so as to be unfathom'd, Look like thy brother, Death, — so still — so striless — For then we are happiest, as, it may be, we ware happiest of all within the realm Shoots o'er his features, as the sudden gust Trisps the reluctant lake that lay so calm Beneath the mountain shadow; or the blast Ruffles the autumn leaves, that drooping cling Family and motionless to their loved boughs. Incust awake him - yet not yet: who knows Myr. (smiling) You have cause, sire; for on the earch there breathes not A man more worthy of a woman's love, A solder's trust, a subject's reverence, A solder's trust,	Receive reports of progress made in such	SARDANAPALUS discovered sleeping upon a Couch and occasionally disturbed in his Slumbers, with Myrrha watching
 Which, were he not my sister's lord — But now not mise. thou lovest the king? Myr. I have no time. thou lovest the king? Myr. I would not have him king still? Myr. I would not have him king still? Myr. I would not have him king, said yours, and all He should not be; to have him lize, look like thy brother, Death, — so still — so striless — For then we are happiest of all within the realm of this is not sink back into luxary. You have more power upon his spirit than Wisdom within these walls, or fierce rebelhon Raging without: look well that he relapse not mote over upon his spirit than Wisdom within these walls, or fierce rebelhon Raging without: look well that he relapse mot ot this: I will not fail. All that a woman's weakness can — for the neat as his: Exert it wisely. [Exit Succensess Sar. Myrrha ! what, at whispers Wir my stern brother? I shall soon be jealous. Myr. (smiding) You have cause, sire; for on the earth there breathes not frain ! Sar. Praise him, but not so warmly. I must not Sal reart hose sweet lips grow eloquent in aught truth. Myr. And now retirc, to have your wound look'd to. Pray, lean on me. Sar. Y es, love ! but not from pain. Sar. Y es, love ! but not from pain. Sar. Y es, love ! but not from pain. Sar. Y es, love ! but not from pain. Sar. Y es, love ! but not from pain. Sar. Y es, love ! but not from pain. Sar. Y es, love ! but not from pain. Sar. Y es, love ! but not from pain. Sar. Y es, love ! but not from pain. Sar. Y es, love ! but not from pain. Sar. Y es, love ! but not from pain. Sar. Y es, love ! but not from pain. Sar. Y es, love ! but not from pain. Sar. Y es, love ! but not from pain. Sar. Y es, love ! but not from pain. Sar. Y es, love ! but not from pain. Sar. Y es, love ! but not from pai	To hear your further pleasure. Sar. Be it so. Sal. (in returing). Myrrha ! Myr. Prince !	Which thus convulses slumber: shall I wake him ?
I have no tune. thou lovest the king? Myr. I would not have him king still? Myr. I would not have him king still? Myr. I would not have him king, and yours, and all He should or should not be; to have him live , Let him not sink back into luxury. You have more power upon his spirit than Wisdom within these walls, or fierce rebel- lion Raging without: look well that he relapse not Myr. There needed not the voice of Sale- menes Myr. Courge me on to this: I will not fail. Sar. Myrrha ! what, at whispers With my stern brother? I shall soon jealous. Myr. (EXE & BALENEXES Myr. (smiling) You have cause, sire; for on the earth there breathes not A man more worthy of a woman's love, A soldier's trust, a subject's reverence, A king's esteem — the whole world's admi- ration ! Sar. Praise him, but not so warmly. I must not Sar. Yres, love ! but not from pain. Sar. Yes, love ! but not from pain. Sar	Which, were he not my sister's lord — But	Quiet!
 what he should be. Sal Well then, to have him king, and yours, and all He should or should not be; to have him live, Let him not sink back into luxury. You have more power upon his spirit than Wisdom within these walls, or fierce rebellon Raging without: look well that he relapsen not Myr. There needed not the voice of Salemenes Sar. Myrrha ! what, at whispers With my stern brother ? I shall soon be jealous. Myr. (smuling) You have cause, sire; for on the earth there breathes not A man more worthy of a woman's love, A soldier's trust, a subject's reverence, A king's esteem — the whole world's admirration ! Sar. Praise him, but not so warmly. I must not Myr. And now retire, to have your wound look'd to. Pray, lean on me. Sar. Yes, love ! but not from pain. 	I have no time. thou lovest the king? Myr. I love Sardanapalus. Sal But wouldst have him king still?	dreams, Or deep, deep sleep, so as to be unfathom'd, Look like thy brother, Death, — so still — so strless —
Let him not sink back into luxury. You have more power upon his spirit than Wisdom within these walls, or fierce rebel- hon Raging without: look well that he relapse not Myr. There needed not the voice of Sale- menes You urge me on to this: I will not fail. All that a woman's weakness can — Sal Omnipotent o'er such a heart as his: Exert it wisely. Myr. (smiling) You have cause, sire; for on the earth there breathes not A man more worthy of a woman's love, A soldier's trust, a subject's reverence, A king's esteem — the whole world's admi- ration ! Sar. Praise him, but not so warmly. I must not Sar. Praise him, but not so warmly. I Myr. And now retire, to have your wound look'd to. Pray, lean on me. Sar. Yes, love ! but not from pain. Let Nature use her own maternal means, — A di awart to second, not disturb her. Sar. Praise him, but not so warmly. I must not Myr. And now retire, to have your wound look'd to. Pray, lean on me. Sar. Yes, love ! but not from pain. Let Nature use her own maternal means, — A king's esteem — the whole world's admi- ration ! Sar. Yes, love ! but not from pain. Let Nature use her own maternal means, — A wal a awart to second, not disturb her. Sar. (awakening). Not so — although ye multiplied the stars, And gave them to me as a realm to share From you and with you ! I would not so purchase The empire of eternity Hence — hence — Old hunter of the earliest brutes ! and ye, Who hunted fellow-creatures as if brutes ! Once bloody mortals — and now bloodier idols, If your priests lie not ! And thou, ghastly beldame ! Dripping with dusky gore, and trampling on The carcasses of Inde — away ! away ! Where am I ? Where the spectres to Sar. Yes, love ! but not from pain.	Sal Well then, to have him king, and yours, and all He should or should not be; to have him	Are happiest of all within the realm Of thy stern, silent, and unwakening twin. Again he moves — again the play of pain Shoots o'er his features, as the sudden
That throws me into shade; yet you speak truth.If your priests lie not ! And thou, ghastly beldame !Myr. And now retire, to have your wound look'd to.If your priests lie not ! And thou, ghastly beldame !Pray, lean on me. Sar.Yes, love ! but not from pain.If your priests lie not ! And thou, ghastly beldame !Where am I ?Where the spectres for	He should or should not be; to have him live, Let him not sink back into luxury. You have more power upon his spirit than Wisdom within these walls, or fierce rebel- lion Raging without: look well that he relapse not Myr. There needed not the voice of Sale- menes 420 To urge me on to this: I will not fail. All that a woman's weakness can - Sal Is power Omnipotent o'er such a heart as his: Exert it wisely. Sar. Myrrha ! what, at whispers With my stern brother ? I shall soon be jealous. Myr. (smulug) You have cause, sire; for on the earth there breathes not A man more worthy of a woman's love, A soldier's trust, a subject's reverence, A king's esteem - the whole world's admi- ration ! Sar. Praise him, but not so warmly. I must not 430	Shoots o'er his features, as the sudden gust "" Crisps the reluctant lake that lay so calm Beneath the mountain shadow; or the blast Ruffles the autumn leaves, that drooping cling Famtly and motionless to their loved boughs. I must awake him — yet not yet: who knows From what I rouse him? It seems pain; but if I quicken him to heavier pain? The fever Of this tumultuous night, the grief too of His wound, though slight, may cause all this, and shake 20 Me more to see than him to suffer. No: Let Nature use her own maternal means, And I await to second, not disturb her. Sar. (awakening). Not so — although ye multiplied the stars, And gave them to me as a realm to share From you and with you ! I would not so purchase The empire of the earliest brutes ! and ye, Who hunted fellow-creatures as if brutes ! Once bloody mortals — and now bloodier look'd to. Pray, lean on me. Sar. Yes, love ! but not from pain. On The carcasses of Inde — away ! away ! Where am I ? Where the spectres ?	That throws me into shade; yet you speak truth.
	look'd to. Pray, lean on me.	on The carcasses of Inde — away ! away !
(Executionnes.) YV nere — 100 — that	Sar. Yes, love ! but not from pain. [Execut omnes.	Where am I? Where the spectres? Where — No — that

Sar.

- Is no false phantom: I should know it 'midst
- All that the dead dare gloomily raise up From their black gulf to daunt the hving — Myrrha !
- Myr. Alas! thou art pale, and on thy brow the drops
- world, 40 And thou art lord of this. Be of good cheer; All will go well
- Sar. Thy hand so 't is thy hand; "T is flesh; grasp — clasp — yet closer, till
- I feel Myself that which I was Myself that which I was.

- Myr. At least know me for what I am, and ever must be thme.
- Sar. I know it now. I know this life again
- Ah, Myrrha! I have been where we shall be.

Myr. My Lord !

- Sar. I've been i' the grave where worms are lords,
- And kings are But I did not deem it so; I thought 't was nothing.
- Myr. So it is; except Unto the timid who anticipate 5^{x}
- That which may never be. Sar. Oh, Myrrha ! if
- Sleep shows such things, what may not death disclose?
 - Myr. I know no evil death can show, which life
- Has not already shown to those who live
- Embodied longest. If there be indeed
- A shore where mind survives, 't will be as mind,

All unincorporate: or if there flits

- A shadow of this cumbrous clog of clay,
- Which stalks, methinks, between our souls and heaven, 60
- And fetters us to earth at least the phantom,
- Whate'er it have to fear, will not fear death.
 - Sar I fear it not; but I have felt have seen —

A legion of the dead. Myr.

And so have I.

- The dust we tread upon was once alive,
- And wretched. But proceed: what hast thou seen?
- Speak it, 't will lighten thy dimm'd mind.

- Methought ---
- Myr. Yet pause, thou art tired in pain — exhausted; all
- Which can impair both strength and spirit: seek

Rather to sleep again

- Sar. Not now I would not Dream; though I know it now to be a
- dream 7^r What I have dreamt: — and canst thou bear to hear it ?
 - Myr. I can bear all things, dreams of life or death,
- Which I participate with you in semblance Or full reality.

Sar And this look'd real,

- I tell you: after that these eyes were open,
- I saw them in their flight for then they fled

Myr. Say on.

- Sar. I saw, that is, I dream'd myself Here — here — even where we are, guests as we were,
- Myself a host that deem'd himself but guest, 80

Willing to equal all in social freedom;

- But, on my right hand and my left, instead Of thee and Zames, and our custom'd meeting,
- Was ranged on my left hand a haughty, dark,
- And deadly face I could not recognise it, Yet I had seen it, though I knew not where.
- The features were a grant's, and the eye Was still, yet lighted; his long locks curl'd
- down In his yast bust, whence a bug
- On his vast bust, whence a huge quiver rose
- With shaft-heads feather'd from the eagle's wing, 90
- That peep'd up bristling through his serpent hair.
- I invited hum to fill the cup which stood
- Between us, but he answer'd not I fill'd it ---
- He took it not, but stared upon me, till

I trembled at the fix'd glare of his eye.

- I frown'd upon him as a king should frown;
- He frown'd not in his turn, but look'd upon me
- With the same aspect, which appall'd me more
- Because it changed not; and I turn'd for refuge

To milder guests, and sought them on the Thin lips relax'd to something like a smile. Both rose, and the crown'd figures on each right, 100 Where thou wert wont to be. Buthand [He pauses Rose also, as if aping their chief shades ----What instead? Mere mimics even in death --- but I sate Myr.Sar. In thy own chair — thy own place still: A desperate courage crept through every in the banquet ----I sought thy sweet face in the circle, but lumb, 140 Instead - a grey-hair'd, wither'd, bloody-And at the last I fear'd them not, but eved, laugh'd And bloody-handed, ghastly, ghostly thing, Full in their phantom faces. But then ---Female in garb, and crown'd upon the brow, then Furrow'd with years, yet sneering with the The hunter laid his hand on mine I took it, passion And grasp'd it — but it melted from my Of vengeance, leering too with that of lust, own; Sate: - my veins curdled While he too vanish'd, and left nothing but Myr. Is this all? The memory of a hero, for he look'd so. Sar. Upon Myr. And was: the ancestor of heroes, Her right hand — her lank, bird-like right too. And thme no less. hand — stood A goblet, bubbling o'er with blood; and on Sar. Ay, Myrrha, but the woman. Her left, another, fill'd with - what I saw The female who remain'd, she flew upon me, not. And burnt my lips up with her noisome But turn'd from it and her. But all along kisses; I he table sate a range of crowned wretches, And, flinging down the goblets on each Of various aspects, but of one expression. hand, Myr And felt you not this a mere vision? Methought their poisons flow'd around us, Sar. No till It was so palpable, I could have touch'd Each form'd a hideous river. Still she them clung; I turn'd from one face to another, in The other phantoms, like a row of statues, The hope to find at last one which I knew Stood dull as in our temples, but she still Ere I saw theirs but no - all turn'd upon Embraced me, while I shrunk from her, as if, me, 120 And stared, but neither ate nor drank, but In lieu of her remote descendant, I Had been the son who slew her for her stared incest. Till I grew stone, as they seem'd half to be, Yet breathing stone, for I felt life in them, Then — then — a chaos of all loathsome things And life in me. there was a horrid kind Of sympathy between us, as if they Throng'd thick and shapeless: I was dead, yet feeling -Had lost a part of death to come to me, Buried, and raised again - consumed by And I the half of life to sit by them. We were in an existence all apart worms, Purged by the flames, and wither'd in the From heaven or earth — And rather let me air ! see Death all than such a being ! I can fix nothing further of my thoughts, Save that I long'd for thee, and sought for Mur. And the end? Sar. At last I sate, marble as they, when thee, rose In all these agonies, — and woke and found 131 The hunter and the crone; and smiling on thee. Myr. So shalt thou find me ever at thy me-Yes, the enlarged but noble aspect of side, Here and hereafter, if the last may be. The hunter smiled upon me - I should say, His lips, for his eyes moved not - and the But think not of these things - the mere woman's creations

Image: Solution of the second seco	Unused to toil, yet over-wrought by toil 170 Such as might try the sternest. Sar. I am better. Now that I see thee once more, what was seen Seems nothing. Enter SALEMENES Sal. Is the king so soon awake? Sar. Yes, brother, and I would I had not slept; For all the predecessors of our line Rose up, methought, to drag me down to them. My father was amongst them, too; but he, I know not why, kept from me, leaving me Between the hunter-founder of our race, U And her, the homicide and husbandkiller, 180 Whom you call glorious. Sal.	children or Paphlagonia, where our kmsman Cotta overns; and there at all events secure y nephews and your sons their lives, and with them her just pretensions to the crown in case — Sar. I perish — as is probable: well thought — et them set forth with a sure escort. Sal. all provided, and the galley ready o drop down the Euphrates; but ere they epart, will you not see — Sar. My sons ? It may
Editor ()	By day-break I propose that we set forth, And charge once more the rebel crew who still Keep gathering head, repulsed, but not quite quell'd. Sar. How wears the night ? Sal. There yet remain some hours Of darkness: use them for your further rest Sar. No, not to-night, if 't is not gone: methought I pass'd hours in that vision. Myr. Scarcely one; I watch'd by you: it was a heavy hour, 190 But an hour only. Sar. Let us then hold council To-morrow we set forth. Sal. But ere that time, I had a grace to seek. Sal. This granted. Sal. Hear it For your ear only. Myr. Prince, I take my leave. [Exit MARRA Sal. That slave deserves her freedom Sar. Freedom only ! That slave deserves to share a throne. Sal. Your patience — 'T is not yet vacant, and 't is of its partner I come to speak with you. Sar How ! of the queen ? Sal. Even so. I judged it fitting for their	nman my heart, and the poor boys will weep. 211 nd what can I reply to comfort them, ave with some hollow hopes, and ill-worn smiles? ou know I cannot feign. Sal. But you can feel ! t least, I trust so: in a word, the queen equests to see you ere you part — for ever Sar. Unto what end? what purpose? I will grant ught — all that she can ask — but such a meeting Sal. You know, or ought to know, enough of women, ince you have studied them so steadily, 220 hat what they ask in aught that touches on he heart, is dearer to their feelings or 'heir fancy, than the whole external world. think as you do of my sister's wish; out 't was her wish; she is my sister, you ler husband — will you grant it? Sar. 'T will be useless: Sut let her come. Sal I go. [Ezu SALEMENES. Sar. We have hved asunder 'oo long to meet again — and now to meet ! lave I not cares enow, and pangs enow, 'o bear alone, that we must mingle sor- rows, 230 Who have ceased to mingle love ? Recenter SALEMENES and ZARINA Sal. My sister ! Courage: Shame not our blood with trembling, but remember From whence we sprung — The queen is

Zar. I pray thee, brother, leave me. Sal. Since you ask it.	Resemble your own line than their own sire.
$\begin{bmatrix} \mathcal{E}xu \text{ Salemenes} \\ \mathcal{Z}ar. \text{ Alone with him ! How many a year} \end{bmatrix}$	I trust them with you — to you: fit them for has pass'd, Though we are still so young, since we have	A throne, or, if that be denied — You have heard met,	Of this night's tumults?
Which I have worn in widowhood of heart. He loved me not: yet he seems httle changed,	Zar. I had half forgotten, And could have welcomed any grief save yours,
Changed to me only — would the change were mutual ! He speaks not — scarce regards me — not	Which gave me to behold your face again. Sar. The throne — I say it not in fear — but 't is a word, 240	In peril; they perhaps may never mount it:
Nor look — yet he was soft of voice and aspect,	But let them not for this lose sight of it. I will dare all things to bequeath it them;
Indifferent, not austere. — My lord ! Sar. Zarına ! Zar. No, not Zarına — do not say Zarina.	But if I fail, then they must win it back Bravely — and, won, wear it wisely, not as I
That tone, that word, annihilate long	Have wasted down my royalty.
years, And things which make them longer Sar. 'T is too late	Zar. They ne'er Shall know from me of aught but what may honour
To think of these past dreams. Let's not	Their father's memory. Sar. Rather let them hear reproach — That is, reproach me not — for the last	The truth from you than from a trampling time— Zar And first. I ne'er reproach'd you.	world. If they be in adversity, they 'll learn 280
Sar. 'T is most true; And that reproof comes heavier on my	Too soon the scorn of crowds for crownless princes, heart Than — But our hearts are not in our own	And find that all their father's suns are theirs.
power. 250	My boys — I could have borne it were I childless.
Zar. Nor hands; but I gave both. Sar Your brother said	Zar. Oh! do not say so - do not poison
It was your will to see me, ere you went From Nineveh with — (He hesitates.)	all My peace left, by unwishing that thou wert
Zar. Our children: it is true I wish'd to thank you that you have not	A father. If thou conquerest, they shall reign, divided My heart from all that's left it now to	And honour him who saved the realm for them,
love —	So little cared for as his own; and if
Those who are yours and mine, who look like you,	Sar. 'T is lost, all earth will cry out, thank your father !
And look upon me as you look'd upon me Once — But they have not changed.	And they will swell the echo with a curse. Zar. That they shall never do; but rather
Sar. Nor ever will. I fain would have them dutiful.	honour 291 The name of him, who, dying like a king,
Zar. I cherish Those infants, not alone from the blind love	In his last hours did more for his own mem- ory
Of a fond mother, but as a fond woman. 261 They are now the only tie between us.	Than many monarchs in a length of days, Which date the flight of time, but make no
Sar. Deem not I have not done you justice. rather make them	annals. Sar Our annals draw perchance unto their close;

But at the least, whate'er the past, their end	I am the very slave of circumstance 33c And impulse — borne away with every
Shall be like their beginning — memorable.	breath !
Zar. Yet, be not rash — be careful of your life,	Misplaced upon the throne, misplaced in life.
Live but for those who love.	I know not what I could have been, but
Sar. And who are they ?	feel
A slave, who loves from passion - I'll not	I am not what I should be — let it end.
Ambition — she has seen thrones shake, and	But take this with thee if I was not form'd To prize a love like thine, a mind like thine, loves;	Nor dote even on thy beauty — as I've
A few friends who have revell'd tul we are	doted
As one, for they are nothing if I fall;	On lesser charms, for no cause save that
A brother I have injured — children whom	such
I have neglected, and a spouse —	Devotion was a duty, and I hated 339
Zar Who loves	All that look'd like a chain for me or others
Sar. And pardons?	(This even rebellion must avouch); yet hear
Zar. I have never thought of this, And cannot pardon till I have condemn'd.	These words, perhaps among my last — that none
Sar. My wife !	E'er valued more thy virtues, though he
Zar. Now blessings on thee for that	knew not word '	To profit by them — as the miner lights
I never thought to hear it more - from	Upon a vein of virgin ore, discovering thee. 310	That which avails him nothing: he hath
Sar. Oh ! thou wilt hear it from my sub-	found it, But it is not his but some superior's mbs jects. Yes — These slaves, whom I have nurtured, pam-	But 't is not his — but some superior's, who Placed hum to dig, but not divide the wealth
per'd, fed,	Which sparkles at his feet; nor dare he lift
And swoln with peace, and gorged with	Nor poise it, but must grovel on, upturn-
plenty, till	ing 350
They reign themselves - all monarchs in	The sullen earth.
their mansions —	Zar. Oh! if thou hast at length
Now swarm forth in rebellion, and demand	Discover'd that my love is worth esteem,
H1s death who made their lives a jubilee; While the few upon whom I have no claim	I ask no more — but let us hence together, And I — let me say we — shall yet be
Are faithful ! This is true, yet monstrous.	happy.
Zar 'T is	Assyria is not all the earth; we'll find
Perhaps too natural; for benefits 319	A world out of our own, and be more
Turn poison in bad minds.	bless'd
Sar. And good ones make	Than I have ever been, or thou, with all
Good out of evil Happier than the bee,	An empire to indulge thee.
Which hives not but from wholesome flowers.	Enter SALEMENES
Zar. Then reap	Sal. I must part ye;
The honey, nor enquire whence 't is derived.	The moments, which must not be lost, are
Be satisfied — you are not all abandon'd.	passing
Sar. My life insures me that. How long,	Zar. Inhuman brother ! wilt thou thus bethink you,	weigh out 360
Were not I yet a king, should I be mortal; That is, where mortals are , not where they	Instants so high and blest ? Sal. Blest !
must be?	Zar. He hath been
Zar. I know not. But yet live for my —	So gentle with me, that I cannot think that is,	Of quitting.
Your children's sake !	Sal. So — this feminine farewell
Sar. My gentle, wrong'd Zarina!	Ends as such partings end, in no departure

I thought as much, and yielded against all Been of the softer order - hide thy tears-My better bodings. But it must not be. I do not bid thee not to shed them - 't were Zar. Not be? Easier to stop Euphrates at its source 400 Remain, and perish -Than one tear of a true and tender heart; Sal. But let me not behold them; they unman Zar With my husband — Sal. And children. me Here when I had remann'd myself My Zar. Alas! Hear me, sister, like brother, Sal My sister — all's prepared to make your Lead her away. Zar. safety Oh, God! I never shall Certain, and of the boys too, our last hopes; Behold him more ! 'T is not a single question of mere feeling, Sal. (striving to conduct her). Nay, sister, Though that were much — but 't is a point I must be obey'd. Zar. I must remain - away ! you shall of state: The rebels would do more to seize upon not hold me. The offspring of their sovereign, and so What, shall he die alone ? - I live alone ? crush -Sal. He shall not die alone; but lonely Zar. Ah! do not name it. vou Have lived for years. Sal Well, then, mark me: when They are safe beyond the Median's grasp, Zar. That's false ! I knew he lived, the rebels And lived upon his image - let me go ! Have miss'd their chief aim - the extinction Sal. (conducting her off the stage). Nay, of then, I must use some fraternal The line of Nimrod. Though the present force. 411 Which you will pardon. king Fall, his sons live for victory and vengeance. Zar. Never. Help me ! Oh ! Sardanapalus, wilt thou thus behold me Zar But could not I remain, alone? What ! leave Sal. Torn from thee? Your children, with two parents and yet Sal. Nay — then all 18 lost again, orphans -If that this moment is not gain'd. 381 In a strange land — so young, so distant? Zar. My brain turns -Zar. No-My eyes fail — where is he? [She faints. My heart will break. Sar. (advancing) No-set her down-Now you know all -- decide. She's dead — and you have slain her. Sal. Sar. Zarina, he hath spoken well, and we Sal'T is the mere Faintness of o'erwrought passion: in the air Must yield awhile to this necessity. Remaining here, you may lose all; depart-She will recover. Pray, keep back. --[Aside.] I must ing You save the better part of what is left, Avail myself of this sole moment to 420 To both of us, and to such loyal hearts Bear her to where her children are em-As yet beat in these kingdoms. bark'd, Sal I' the royal galley on the river. The time presses. Sar. Go, then. If e'er we meet again, [SALEMENES bears her off. perhaps Sar. (solus). This, too -390 And this too must I suffer - I, who never I may be worthier of you - and, if not, Remember that my faults, though not Inflicted purposely on human hearts A voluntary pang ! But that is false atoned for, Are ended. Yet, I dread thy nature will She loved me, and I loved her. - Fatal passion! Grieve more above the blighted name and ashes Why dost thou not expire at once in hearts Which once were mightiest in Assyria -Which thou hast lighted up at once? Zarina! than -I must pay dearly for the desolation But I grow womanish again, and must not; A must learn sternness now. My sins have Now brought upon thee. Had I never all loved 430

But thee, I should have been an unopposed Monarch of honouring nations. To what gulfs A single deviation from the track Of human duties leads even those who olaim The homage of mankind as their born due, And find it, till they forfeit it themselves ! Enter My A Sar. You here ! Who call'd you ? Myr. No one — but I heard Far off a voice of wail and lamentation, And thought — Sar. It forms no portion of your duties To enter here till sought for. Myr. Though I might, 440 Perhaps, recall some softer words of yours (Although they too were chiding), which reproved me Because I ever dreaded to intrude; Resisting my own wish and your injunction To heed no time nor presence, but approach you Uncall'd for:—I retire. Sar. Yet stay — being here. I pray you pardon me events have sour'd me Till I wax peevish — heed it not: I shall Soon be myself agam. Myr. I wait with patience, What I shall see with pleasure. Sar. Scarce a moment 450 Before your entrance in this hall, Zarina, Queen of Assyria, departed hence. Myr. Ah ! Sar. Wherefore do you start ? Myr. Did I do so ? Sar. 'T was well you enter'd by another portal, Else you had met That pang at least is spared her ! Myr I know to feel for her. Sar That is too much, And beyond nature — 't is nor mutual Nor possible. You cannot pity her, Nor she anght but — Myr Despise the favourite slave ? Not more than I have ever scorn'd my-	Myr. Were you the lord of twice ten thousand worlds(As you are lake to lose the one you sway'd),I did abase myself as much in being Your paramour, as though you were a peasant —Nay, more, if that the peasant were a Greek.Sar. You talk it well — Myr.Myr.Mar.In the hourOf man's adversity all things grow daring Against the falling; but as I am not 470 Quite fall'n, nor now disposed to bear reproaches, Perhaps because I merit them too often, Let us then part while peace is still between us.Myr. Part ! Sar.Sar.Mayr. Or our safety, which I will have look'd to,With a strong escort to your native land; And such gifts, as, if you had not been all A queen, shall make your dowry worth a kingdom Myr. I pray you talk not thus Sar.Sar.The queen is gone. You used not shame to follow. I would fall 481 Alone — I seek no partners but in pleasure Myr.Myr. So let it be, For then you cannot separate me from you. Sar. And will not; but I thought you wish'd it.Myr.I ! Sar.Sar.So let it be, For then you cannot separate me from you. Sar. And will not; but I thought you wish'd it.Myr.I ! Sar.Sar.So let it be, For then you speake to jour abasement Myr.Myr.I ! Sar.Sar.So let it be, For then you cannot separate me from you. Sar. And will not; but I thought you wish'd it.Myr.I ! Sar.Sar.You spoke of your abasement Myr.Myr.I ! Sar.Sar.An
Sar That is too much, And beyond nature — 't is nor mutual Nor possible. You cannot pity her, Nor she aught but — Myr Despise the favourite slave?	Myr.I ! Sar You spoke of your abasement $Myr.$ And I feel itDeeply — more deeply than all things but

- Your lot be different, I'll not weep, but share it. You did not doubt me a few hours ago. Sar Your courage never - nor your love till now: And none could make me doubt it save yourself. Those words -Were words. I pray you, let the Myr. proofs Be in the past acts you were pleased to praise This very night, and in my further bearing Beside, wherever you are borne by fate. Sar. I am content: and, trusting in my cause, Think we may yet be victors and return To peace — the only victory I covet. To me war is no glory — conquest no Renown. To be forced thus to uphold my right Sits heavier on my heart than all the wrongs These men would bow me down with. Never, never, Can 1 forget this night, even should I live To add it to the memory of others. I thought to have made mine inoffensive rule An era of sweet peace 'midst bloody annals, A green spot amidst desert centuries, On which the future would turn back and smile, And cultivate, or sigh when it could not Recall Sardanapalus' golden reign I thought to have made my realm a paradise. And every moon an epoch of new pleasures. I took the rabble's shouts for love, the breath Of friends for truth, the lips of woman for 520 My only guerdon — so they are, my Myrrha: He kusses her Kiss me Now let them take my realm and life ! They shall have both, but never thee ! Myr. No, never ! Man may despoil his brother man of all That's great or glittering — kingdoms fall - hosts yield -Friends fail - slaves fly - and all betray - and, more
 - Than all, the most indebted but a heart That loves without self-love ! 'T is here now prove it.

Enter SALEMENES

- Sal. I sought you How ! she here again?
- Sar. Return not
- Now to reproof: methinks your aspect speaks 530
- Of higher matter than a woman's presence. Sal. The only woman whom it much imports me

At such a moment now is safe in absence — The queen 's embark'd

- Sar. And well? say that much. Sal Yes.
- Her transient weakness has pass'd o'er; at least.
- It settled into tearless silence: her
- Pale face and glittering eye, after a glance
- Upon her sleeping children, were still fix'd
- Upon the palace towers as the swift galley
- Stole down the hurrying stream beneath the starlight; But she said nothing. Would I felt no more
- Than she has said !
- Sal. 'T is now too late to feel! Your feelings cannot cancel a sole pang:
- To change them, my advices bring sure tidings
- That the rebellious Medes and Chaldees, marshall'd
- By their two leaders, are already up
- In arms again; and, serrying their ranks,
- Prepare to attack: they have apparently
- Been join'd by other satraps.
- Sar. What ! more rebels? Let us be first, then.
- Sal. That were hardly prudent 550 Now, though it was our first intention. If By noon to-morrow we are join'd by those
- I've sent for by sure messengers, we shall be
- In strength enough to venture an attack,
- Ay, and pursuit too; but till then, my voice Is to await the onset.
- Sar. I detest
- That waiting; though it seems so safe to fight
- Behind high walls, and hurl down foes into Deep fosses, or behold them sprawl on spikes

Strew'd to receive them, still I like it not — 560 My soul seems lukewarm; but when I set on them. Though they were piled on mountains, I would have A pluck at them, or perish in hot blood !— Let me then charge ! Sal. You talk like a young soldier. Sar. I am no soldier, but a man: speak not Of soldiership, I loathe the word, and those Who pride themselves upon it; but direct me Where I may pour upon them. Sal. You must spare To expose your life too hastily; 't is not Like mine or any other subject's breath. The whole war turns upon it — with it; this 5^{11} Alone creates it, kindles, and may quench it— Prolong it — end it. Sar. Then let us end both ! 'T were better thus, perhaps, than prolong either; I'm sick of one, perchance of both. [A trumpet sounds without Sal. And your wound ! Sar. 'I is bound — 'T is heal'd — I had forgotten it Away ! A leech's lancet would have scratch'd me deeper; The slave that gave it might be well ashamed 579 To have struck so weakly. Sal. Now, may none this hour Strike with a better am! Sar. Ay, if we conquer; But if not, they will only leave to use A task they might have spared their king	Though varied with a transitory storm, More beautiful in that variety How hideous upon earth ! where peace and hope, And love and revel, in an hour were trampled By human passions to a human chaos, Not yet resolved to separate elements — 'T is warring still ! And can the sun so rise, So bright, so rolling back the clouds into Vapours more lovely than the unclouded sky, 11 With golden pinnacles, and snowy moun- tains, And billows purpler than the ocean's, making In heaven a glorious mockery of the earth, So fleeting, we can scarcely call it aught Beyond a vision, 't is so transiently Scatter'd along the eternal vault. and yet It dwells upon the soul, and soothes the soul, And blends itself into the soul, until 20 Sumise and sunset form the haunted epoch Of sorrow and of love; which they who mark not, Know not the realms where those twin genii (Who chasten and who purify our hearts, So that we would not change their sweet rebukes For all the boisterous joys that ever shook The air with clamour) build the palaces Where their fond votaries repose and breathe Briefly; but in that brief cool calm inhale Enough of heaven to enable them to bear 30 The rest of common, heavy, human hours, And dream them through in placid suffer- ance; Though cassingly employ'd like all the
A task they might have spared their king Upon them ! [Trum] et sounds again Sal. I am with you.	-
Sar Ho, my arms ! again, my arms ! [Ezeunt	Of toiling breathers in allotted tasks Of pain or pleasure, two names for one feel- ing,
ACT V Scene I	Which our internal, restless agony Would vary in the sound, although the sense
The same Hall in the Palace	Escapes our highest efforts to be happy.
MYRENA and BALEA	Bal You muse right calmly: and can
Myr. (at a window). The day at last has broken. What a night	The sunrise which may be our last?
Hath usher'd it ! How beautiful in heaven !	Myr. It is

588 DRA	MAS
588 DRA Therefore that I so watch it, and reproach Those eyes, which never may behold it more, For having look'd upon it oft, too oft, Without the reverence and the rapture due To that which keeps all earth from being as fragile As I am m this form. Come, look upon it, The Chaldee's god, which, when I gaze upon, I grow almost a convert to your Baal. Bal As now he reigns in heaven, so once on earth He sway'd. Myr. He sways it now far more, then; never 50 Had earthly monarch half the power and glory Which centres in a single ray of his.	MAS In the late action scarcely more appall'd The rebels than astonish'd his true sub- jects. Myr. 'T is easy to astonish or appal The vulgar mass which moulds a horde of slaves; 80 But he did bravely. Bal. Slew he not Beleses ? I heard the soldiers say he struck him down. Myr. The wretch was overthrown, but rescued to Triumph, perhaps, o'er one who vanquish'd him In fight, as he had spared him in his peril; And by that heel less pity risk'd a crown. Bal. Hark ! Myr You are right; some steps ap- proach, but slowly.
 Which controls in a single ray of his? Bal. Surely he is a god ! Myr. So we Greeks deem too; And yet I sometimes think that gorgeous orb Must rather be the abode of gods than one Of the immortal sovereigns. Now he breaks Through all the clouds, and fills my eyes with light That shuts the world out I can look no more. Bal. Hark ! heard you not a sound ? Myr. No, 't was mere fancy; They battle it beyond the wall, and not 60 As in late midnight conflict in the very Chambers. the palace has become a fortress Since that insidious hour; and here, within The very centre, girded by vast courts And regal halls of pyramid proportions, Which must be carried one by one before They penetrate to where they then arrived, We are as much shut in even from the sound Of peril as from glory. 	 Enter Soldiers, bearing in SLEMENES wounded, with a broken Javelin in his Side they seat him upon one of the Couches which furnish the Apartment. Myr. Oh, Jove ! Bal. Then all is over. Sal. That is false. Hew down the slave who says so, if a soldier. Myr. Spare him — he's none a mere court butterfly, go That flutters in the pageant of a monarch Sal. Let him live on, then Myr. So wilt thou, I trust. Sal. I fain would live this hour out, and the event, But doubt it. Wherefore did ye bear me here ? Sol. By the king's order. When the javelin struck you, You fell and fainted: 't was his strict command To bear you to this hall. Sal 'T was not ill done: For seeming slain in that cold dizzy trance,
BalBut they reach'dThus far before. Myr Myr Yes, by surprise, and were $Tor Beat back by valour: now at once we haveCourage and vigilance to guard us.Bal.May theyProsper !Myr.That is the prayer of many, andThe dread of more: it is an anxious hour;I strive to keep it from my thoughts.Alas,How vainly !Bal.It is said the king's demeanour$	The sight might shake our soldiers — but — 't is vam,99I feel it ebbing ! Myr.99I am not quite skilless: in my native land'T is part of our instructionWar being constant,We are nerved to look on such things. Sol.Sol.Best extractThe javelin. Myr.Myr.Model ! no, no, it cannot be. Sal. I am sped, then !

Myr. With the blood that fast must	Myr. Did you not follow	Receive a token from your dying brother,
The extracted weapon, I do fear thy life.	Appointing Zames chief ?
Sal. And I not death. Where was the	Sar I did king when you	Myr. Where 's Zames?
Convey'd me from the spot where I was	Sar. Dead stricken ?	Myr. And Altada?
Sol. Upon the same ground, and en-	Sar. Dying.
couraging 100	Myr. Pania? Sfero?
With voice and gesture the dispirited troops	Sar. Pania yet lives; but Sfero's fled, or captive. 140
Who had seen you fall, and falter'd back. Sal. Whom heard ve	I am alone.
Named next to the command ?	Myr. And is all lost " Sar. Our walls,
Sol. I did not hear.	Though thinly mann'd, may still hold out
Sal. Fly, then, and tell him, 't was my	1 nough thinky mann u, may som nout out last request	against
That Zames take my post until the junction,	Their present force, or aught save treachery:
So hoped for, yet delay'd, of Ofratanes,	But i' the field —
Satrap of Susa. Leave me here: our troops	Myr. I thought 't was the intent
Are not so numerous as to spare your ab-	Of Salemenes not to risk a sally sence.	Till ye were strengthen'd by the expected
Sol. But prince —	succours
Sal. Hence, I say! Here 's a courtier and	Sar. I over-ruled him.
A woman, the best chamber company	Myr. Well, the fault 's a brave one.
As you would not permit me to expire 120	Sar. But fatal. Oh, my brother ! I would
Upon the field, I'll have no idle soldiers	give
About my sick couch. Hence ! and do my	These realms, of which thou wert the orna-
bidding ! [Execut the Soldiers	ment,
Myr. Gallant and glorious spirit! must	The sword and shield, the sole-redeeming
the earth	honour, 150
So soon resign thee?	To call back — But I will not weep for
Sal Gentle Myrrha, 't is	thee;
The end I would have chosen, had I saved	Thou shalt be mourn'd for as thou wouldst
The monarch or the monarchy by this;	be mourn'd
As 't is, I have not outlived them.	It grieves me most that thou couldst quit
Myn You wax paler.	this life
Sal. Your hand; this broken weapon but	Believing that I could survive what thou prolongs	Hast died for - our long royalty of race.
My pangs, without sustaining life enough	If I redeem it, I will give thee blood
To make me useful: I would draw it	Of thousands, tears of millions, for atoneforth, 130	ment
And my life with it, could I but hear how	(The tears of all the good are thine al-
The fight goes.	ready).
	If not, we meet again soon, — if the spirit
Enter SARDANAPALUS and Soldiers	Within us lives beyond thou readest
Sar. My best brother !	mine, 160
Sal. And the battle	And dost me justice now. Let me once
Is lost?	clasp
Sar. (despondingly) You see me here	That yet warm hand, and fold that throbless
Sal. I'd rather see you thus '	heart [Embraces the body
[He draws out the weapon from the wound, and dies	To this which beats so bitterly. Now, bear
Sar. And thus I will be seen; unless the	The body hence.
succour,	Soldier Where?
The last frail reed of our beleaguer'd hopes,	Sar. To my proper chamber.
Arrive with Ofratanes.	Place it beneath my canopy, as though

The king lay there: when this is done, we By the late rains of that tempestuous region. O'erfloods its banks, and hath destroy'd the will Speak further of the rites due to such ashes. bulwark. [Excunt Soldiers with the body of SALEMENES. Pan. That's a black augury ! it has been said Enter PANIA For ages, 'That the city ne'er should yield Sar. Well, Pania! have you placed the To man, until the river grew its foe.' guards, and issued Sar. I can forgive the omen, not the The orders fix'd on? ravage. Pan. Sire, I have obey'd. How much is swept down of the wall? Sar. And do the soldiers keep their Offi. About hearts up? Some twenty stadia. Sire? Pan. Sar And all this is left 200 Sar I'm answer'd! When a king asks Pervious to the assailants? twice, and has Offi. For the present A question as an answer to his question. The river's fury must impede the assault; It is a portent. What ! they are disheart-But when he shrinks into his wonted chanen'd? nel. Pan. The death of Salemenes, and the And may be cross'd by the accustom'd shouts barks. Of the exulting rebels on his fall, The palace is their own. Have made them ---Sar. That shall be never. Sar. Rage — not droop — it should Though men, and gods, and elements, and have been. omens. We'll find the means to rouse them. Have risen up 'gainst one who ne'er pro-Such a loss voked them, Pan. Might sadden even a victory. My father's house shall never be a cave Alas! For wolves to horde and howl in. Šar Pan Who can so feel it as I feel? but yet, With your sanction I will proceed to the spot, and take such Though coop'd within these walls, they are measures strong, and we 780 Have those without will break their way For the assurance of the vacant space through hosts. As time and means permit. To make their sovereign's dwelling what it Sar. About it straight, And bring me back, as speedily as full was . A palace, not a prison nor a fortress. And fair investigation may permit. Report of the true state of this irruption Enter an Officer hastily Of waters. [Excunt PANIA and the Officer. Sar. Thy face seems ominous. Speak ! Myr. Thus the very waves rise up I dare not. Against you. Offi. Dare not? Sar. Sar. They are not my subjects, girl, While millions dare revolt with sword in And may be pardon'd, since they can't be punish'd. hand ! Myr. I joy to see this portent shakes you That's strange. I pray thee break that loval silence not. Which loathes to shock its sovereign; we Sar. I am past the fear of portents: they can tell me can hear Nothing I have not told myself since mid-Worse than thou hast to tell. Proceed, thou hearest. night: Pan. Offi. The wall which skirted near the Despair anticipates such things. river's brink Myr.Despair ! 189 Is thrown down by the sudden inundation Sar. No; not despair precisely. When we know Of the Euphrates, which now rolling, swoln All that can come, and how to meet it, our From the enormous mountains where it Resolves, if firm, may merit a more noble rises,

_

Word than this is to give it utterance.	And now to serve for safety, and embark.
But what are words to us? we have well	The river's broad and swoln, and uncomnigh done	manded
With them and all things.	(More potent than a king) by these be-
Myr. Save one deed — the last	siegers
And greatest to all mortals; crowning act	Fly ! and be happy !
Of all that was, or is, or is to be — 230	Pan. Under your protection !
The only thing common to all mankind,	So you accompany your faithful guard.
So different in their births, tongues, sexes,	Sar. No, Pana! that must not be; get natures,	thee hence,
Hues, features, climes, times, feelings, intel-	And leave me to my fate
lects,	Pan. 'T is the first time
Without one point of union save in this,	I ever disobey'd; but now —
To which we tend, for which we're born,	Sar. So all men and thread	Dare beard me now, and Insolence within
The labyrinth of mystery call'd life.	Apes Treason from without. Question no
Sar. Our clew being well nigh wound	further; 270 out, let's be cheerful. They who have nothing more to fear may	'T is my command, my last command. Wilt thou well	Oppose it? thou '
Indulge a smile at that which once appall'd;	Pan. But yet — not yet.
As children at discover'd bugbears.	Sar Well, then,
Re-enter PANIA	Swear that you will obey when I shall give The signal.
Pan. 'T is	Pan. With a heavy but true heart,
As was reported; I have order'd there 241	1 promise.
A double guard, withdrawing from the wall	Sar 'T is enough. Now order here
Where it was strongest the required addi-	Fagots, pine-nuts, and wither'd leaves, and tion	such
To watch the breach occasion'd by the waters	Things as catch fire and blaze with one sole spark;
Sar. You have done your duty faithfully,	Bring cedar, too, and precious drugs, and and as	spices,
My worthy Pania! Further ties between us	And mighty planks, to nourish a tall pile;
Draw near a close. I pray you take this	Bring frankincense and myrrh, too, for it
key; [Gwes a key	18 280
It opens to a secret chamber, placed	For a great sacrifice I build the pyre !
Behind the couch in my own chamber (Now	And heap them round yon throne.
Press'd by a nobler weight than e'er it	Pan. My lord !
bore — 250	Sar. I have said it,
Though a long line of sovereigns have lain	And you have sworn.
down	Pan. And could keep my faith
Along its golden frame — as bearing for	Without a vow [Ezit PANIA.
A time what late was Salemenes) Search	Myr. What mean you?
The secret covert to which this will lead	Sar. You shall know you; 'T is full of treasure: take it for yourself And your companions; there's enough to	Anon — what the whole earth shall ne'er forget.
load ye	PANIA, returning with a Herald
Though ye be many. Let the slaves be freed, too;	Pan My king, in going forth upon my duty,
And all the inmates of the palace, of	This berald has been brought before me,
Whatever sex, now quit it in an hour.	craving
Thence launch the regal barks, once form'd	An audience
for pleasure, 260	Sar Let him speak

The King Arbaces -Her A single word: Her. Sar. What, crown'd already? - But, My office, king, is sacred. And what's mine ? proceed. Sar That thou shouldst come and dare to ask Her. Beleses, The anointed high-priest of me \$20 Of what god or demon? To lay it down ? Sar.With new kings rise new altars. But, pro-Her.I but obey'd my orders, At the same peril, if refused, as now ceed: You are sent to prate your master's will, Incurr'd by my obedience. and not SarSo there are Reply to mine. New monarchs of an hour's growth as despotic Her And Satrap Ofratanes -Sar. Why, he is ours. As sovereigns swathed in purple, and enthroned Her. (showing a ring). Be sure that he is From birth to manhood ! now In the camp of the conquerors; behold Her. My life waits your breath His signet ring. Yours (I speak humbly) — but it may be — Sar. 'T is his. A worthy triad ! vours Poor Salemenes ! thou hast died in time May also be in danger scarce less imminentTo see one treachery the less: this man Would it then suit the last hours of a line Was thy true friend and my most trusted subject. Such as is that of Nimrod, to destroy A peaceful herald, unarm'd, in his office; Proceed. They offer thee thy life, and free-And violate not only all that man Her Holds sacred between man and man, but 300 Of choice to single out a residence that More holy tie which links us with the gods ? In any of the further provinces, Sar He's right. - Let him go free -Guarded and watch'd, but not confined in person, My life's last act Shall not be one of wrath Where thou shalt pass thy days in peace; Here, fellow, take but on Condition that the three young princes are [Gives him a golden cup from a table near Given up as hostages. This golden goblet, let it hold your wine, Sar. (ironically). The generous victors ! And think of me; or melt it into ingots, Her. I wait the answer And think of nothing but their weight and SarAnswer, slave ! How long value. Have slaves decided on the doom of kings? Her I thank you doubly for my life, and Her. Since they were free. $_{\rm this}$ 340 Most gorgeous gift which renders it more Mouthpiece of mutiny ! Sar precious. Thou at the least shalt learn the pen-But must I bear no answer? altv Of treason, though its proxy only. Pania ! Yes, -Ik Sar. Let his head be thrown from our walls An hour's truce to consider. withm Her. But an hour's? The rebels' lines, his carcass down the Sar. An hour's: if at the expiration of That time your masters hear no further river. Away with him ! from me, [PANIA and the Guards seizing him They are to deem that I reject their terms, Pan. I never yet obey'd And act befittingly. I shall not fail Your orders with more pleasure than the HerTo be a faithful legate of your pleasure. present. Hence with him, soldiers ! do not soil this Sar. And hark ! a word more. I shall not forget it, Her. hall Whate'er it be. Of royalty with treasonable gore; Put him to rest without. Sar. Commend me to Beleses; 350

And tell him, ere a year expire, I summon Him hence to meet me.	With but a single female to partake
Her. Where ?	His death. Sar. Too many far have heralded
Sar. At Babylon.	Me to the dust already. Get thee hence;
At least from thence he will depart to	Enrich thee.
meet me.	Pan. And live wretched !
Her. I shall obey you to the letter.	Sar. Think upon 38c
[Exit Herald	Thy vow: —'t is sacred and irrevocable.
Sar. Pania !-	Pan. Since it is so, farewell.
Now, my good Pania ! quick ! with what I order'd.	Sar. Search well my chamber,
Pan. My lord, the soldiers are already	Feel no remorse at bearing off the gold; Remember, what you leave you leave the charged.	slaves
And see ! they enter.	Who slew me: and when you have borne
	away
Soldiers enter, and form a Pile about the Throne, etc	All safe off to your boats, blow one long
Sar. Higher, my good soldiers,	blast
And thicker yet; and see that the founda-	Upon the trumpet as you quit the palace. The river's brink is too remote, its stream
Be such as will not speedily exhaust	Too loud at present to permit the echo
Its own too subtle flame; nor yet be	To reach distinctly from its banks. Then quench'd 360	fly,— 390
With aught officious aid would bring to	And as you sail, turn back; but still keep quell it.	on X
Let the throne form the core of it; I would	Your way along the Euphrates. If you reach not Leave that, save fraught with fire unquench-	The land of Paphlagonia, where the queen able,	Is safe with my three sons in Cotta's court,
To the new comers. Frame the whole as	Say what you saw at parting, and request
ıf	That she remember what I said at one
'T were to enkindle the strong tower of	Parting more mournful still.
our Invotante enemies New it beens on	Pan. That royal hand '
Inveterate enemies. Now it bears an aspect !	Let me then once more press it to my lips: And these poor soldiers who throng round
How say you, Pania, will this pile suffice	you, and 399
For a king's obsequies ?	Would fam die with you !
Pan. Ay, for a kingdom's.	[The Soldiers and PANIA throng round him, hissing his
I understand you, now.	hand and the hem of his robe
Sar. And blame me? Pan. No -	Sar. My best ! my last friends !
Let me but fire the pile, and share it with	Let's not unman each other — part at once: All farewells should be sudden, when for
you. 370	ever,
Myr That duty 's mine	Else they make an eternity of moments,
Pan. A woman's !	And clog the last sad sands of life with
Myr. 'T is the soldier's	tears.
Part to die for his sovereign, and why not	Hence, and be happy: trust me, 1 am not
The woman's with her lover? Pan. 'T is most strange!	Now to be pitied; or far more for what Is past than present; — for the future, 't is
Myr. But not so rare, my Pania, as thou	In the hands of the deities, if such think'st it,	There be: I shall know soon Farewell-
In the meantime, live thou. — Farewell!	Farewell. [Exeunt PANIA and Soldiers
the pile	Myr These men were honest it is com-
Is ready. Pan I should shame to leave my sov-	fort still 410
Pan I should shame to leave my sov- ereign	That our last looks should be on loving faces.
ororan

Sar. And lovely ones, my beautiful !	MYRRHA returns with a lighted Torch in one Hand, and a Cup in the other
If at this moment — for we now are on The brink, thou feel'st an inward shrinking from	Myr. Lot I've ht the lamp which lights us to the stars
This leap through flame into the future,	Sar. And the cup?
I shall not love thee less; nay, perhaps more,	Make a libration to the gods say it: I shall not love thee less; nay, perhaps	Myr. 'T is my country's custom to Make a libration to the gods full many A people's records, and a hero's acts;	passion, Mix pale with thine. A single thought yet
Sweep empire after empire, like this first Of empires, into nothing; but even then	irks me. Sar. Say it.
Shall spare this deed of mine, and hold it	Myr. It is that no kind hand will gather up	The dust of both into one urn.
A problem few dare imitate, and none Despise — but, it may be, avoid the life Which led to such a consummation.	Sar. The better: Rather let them be borne abroad upon The winds of heaven, and scatter'd into air,

Than be polluted more by human hands Of slaves and traitors. In this blazing palace, 480	ACT I Scene I
And its enormous walls of reeking run,	A Hall in the Ducal Palace
We leave a nobler monument than Egypt	Enter LOREDANO and BARBARIGO, meeting.
Hath piled in her brick mountains, o'er dead kmgs, $On \ kma$ for none know whether those	Lor. Where is the prisoner? Bar. Reposing from
Or kine , for none know whether those proud piles	The Question.
Be for their monarch, or their ox-god Apıs;	Lor. The hour's past $-$ fix'd yesterday
So much for monuments that have forgotten	For the resumption of his trial Let us
Their very record !	Rejoin our colleagues in the council, and
Myr. Then farewell, thou earth !	Urge his recall.
And loveliest spot of earth ! farewell, Ionia !	Bar. Nay, let him profit by
Be thou still free and beautiful, and far	A few brief minutes for his tortured limbs;
Aloof from desolation ' My last prayer 490 Was for thee, my last thoughts, save one,	He was o'erwrought by the Question yes- terday,
were of thee !	And may die under it if now repeated
Sar. And that?	Lor. Well?
Myr. Is yours.	Bar I yield not to you in love of
[The trumpet of PANIA sounds without.	justice
Sar. Hark!	Or hate of the ambitious Foscari, 19
Myr. Now!	Father and son, and all their noxious race; But the poor wretch has suffer'd beyond
Sar. Adieu, Assyria ! I loved thee well, my own, my fathers' land,	nature's
And better as my country than my kingdom.	Most storcal endurance.
I sated thee with peace and joys; and this	Lor. Without owning
Is my reward ' and now I owe thee nothing,	His crime?
Not even a grave [He mounts the pule	Bar Perhaps without committing any
Now, Myrrha '	But he avow'd the letter to the Duke
Myr. Art thou ready?	Of Milan, and his sufferings half atone for Such weakness
Sar. As the torch in thy grasp. [MYBERTA fires the pile	Lor. We shall see.
Myr. "T is fired ! I come.	Bar. You, Loredano,
As MYBRHA springs forward to throw herself into the	Pursue hereditary hate too far.
flames, the Curtain falls	Lor How far?
	Bar. To extermination. Lor When they are
THE TWO FOSCARI	Lor When they are Extinct, you may say this.—Let's in to
AN HISTORICAL TRACEDY	council.
AN HISTORICAL TRAGEDY	Bar. Yet pause — the number of our col-
'The father softens, but the governor's re-	leagues 15 not solved.' — CRITIC.	Complete yet; two are wanting ere we can
DRAMATIS PERSONÆ	Proceed Lor. And the chief judge, the Doge ?
DRAMATIS TERSONIE	Lor. And the chief judge, the Doge ? Bar No — he,
MEN	With more than Roman fortitude, is ever
JACOPO FOSCARI, Son of the Doge	First at the board in this unhappy process
JAMES LOREDANO, a Patrician MARCO MEMMO, a Chief of the Forth	Against his last and only son
FEANCIS FOSCARI, Doge of Venice JAODO FOSCARI, Son of the Doge JAMES LOREDANO, a Patrician MARCO MEMMO, a Chief of the Forty BABBARIGO, a Senator Other Senators, The Council of Ten, Guards, Attendants, etc., etc	Lor True — true —
Other Senators, The Council of Ten, Guards, Attendants, etc., etc.	His last. Bar Will nothing move you?
WOMAN	Bar Will nothing move you? Lor. Feels he, think you?
MARINA, Wife of young FOSCARI	Bar. He shows it not
Scene — the Ducal Palace, Venice.	Lor. I have marked that — the wretch worker and a sent takeney (and the

Bar. But yesterday, I hear, on his return	The waters through them; but this son and
To the ducal chambers, as he pass'd the threshold, 30	Sire 61 Might move the elements to pause, and yet
The old man fainted.	Must I on hardily like them — Oh ! would
Lor. It begins to work, then.	I could as blindly and remorselessly !
Bar. The work is half your own.	Lo, where he comes! Be still, my heart!
L_{or} . And should be all mine —	they are
My father and my uncle are no more	Thy foes, must be thy victums. wilt thou
Bar. I have read their epitaph, which	beat says they died	For those who almost broke thee?
By poison	I OI DIOSO WHO WHICE DIOKE DIOKE
Lor When the Doge declared that he	Enter Guards, with young FOSCARI as prisoner, etc.
Should never deem hunself a sovereign till	Guard Let him rest.
The death of Peter Loredano, both	Signor, take time.
The brothers sicken'd shortly. he is sover-	Jac. Fos I thank thee, friend, I'm eign.	feeble;
Bar. A wretched one.	But thou may'st stand reproved.
Lor. What should they be who make	Guard. I'll stand the hazard.
Orphans?	Jac Fos That's kind: I meet some pity,
Bar. But did the Doge make you so?	but no mercy; 70
Lor. Yes. 40	This is the first.
Bar. What solid proofs?	Guard. And might be last, did they
Lor When princes set themselves	Who rule behold us
To work in secret, proofs and process are	Bar. (advancing to the Guard). There is
Alike made difficult; but I have such	one who does:
Of the first as shall make the second need-	Yet fear not; I will neither be thy judge less.	Nor thy accuser. Though the hour is past,
Bar. But you will move by law?	Wait their last summons — I am of 'the
Lor. By all the laws	Ten,'
Which he would leave us.	And waiting for that summons, sanction you
Bar. They are such in this	Even by my presence: when the last call
Our state as render retribution easier	sounds,
Than 'mongst remoter nations. Is it true	We'll in together. — Look well to the pris-
That you have written in your books of	oner!
commerce	Jac Fos. What voice is that? — 'T is
(The wealthy practice of our highest no-	Barbarigo's ! Ah ! 79
bles), 50	Our house's foe, and one of my few judges.
⁶ Doge Foscarı, my debtor for the deaths	Bar. To balance such a foe, if such there be,
Of Marco and Pietro Loredano,	Thy father sits amongst thy judges.
My sire and uncle?'	Jac. Fos True,
Lor. It is written thus. Bar. And will you leave it unerased?	He judges. Bar Then deem not the laws too harsh
Lor. Till balanced.	Which yield so much indulgence to a sire
Bar. And how?	As to allow his voice in such high matter
	As the state's safety —
Two Senators pass over the stage, as in their way to 'the Hall of the Council of Ten'	Jac. Fos. And his son's. I'm faint;
Lor. You see the number is complete.	Let me approach, I pray you, for a breath
Follow me. [Exit Loredano	Of air, yon window which o'erlooks the
Bar. (solus). Follow thee ' I have fol-	waters.
low'd long
Thy path of desolation, as the wave	Enter an Officer, who whispers BARBARIGO
Sweeps after that before it, alike whelming	Bar. (to the Guard). Let him approach.
The wreck that creaks to the wild winds,	I must not speak with him and wretch	Further than thus. I have transgress'd my
Who shrieks within its riven ribs, as gush	duty 90
	-

In this brief parley, and must now redeem it

Within the Council Chamber,

[Evit BARBARIGO [Guard conducting JACOPO FOSCARI to the u indow Guard. There, sir, 't is Open — How feel you ? Jac. Fos. Like a boy — Oh Venice ! Guard And your himbs ?

Jac. Fos. Limbs ! how often have they borne me

Bounding o'er yon blue tide, as I have skiinm'd

The gondola along in childish race,

- And, masqued as a young gondolier, amidst
- My gay competitors, noble as I,
- Raced for our pleasure in the pride of strength;
- While the fair populace of crowding beauties, 100
- Plebeian as patrician, cheer'd us on

With dazzling smiles, and wishes audible,

- And waving kerchiefs, and applauding hands,
- Even to the goal !- How many a time have I
- Cloven with arm still lustier, breast more daring,
- The wave all roughen'd; with a swimmer's stroke
- Flinging the billows back from my drench'd hair,
- And laughing from my lip the audacious brine,

Which kiss'd it like a wine-cup, rising o'er

- The waves as they arose, and prouder still
- The loftier they uplifted me; and oft,
- In wantonness of spirit, plunging down
- Into their green and glassy gulfs, and making
- My way to shells and sea-weed, all unseen
- By those above, till they wax'd fearful;
- then Returning with my grosp full of such
- Returning with my grasp full of such tokens
- As show'd that I had search'd the deep exulting,
- With a far-dashing stroke, and drawing deep
- The long-suspended breath, again I spurn'd The foam which broke around me, and pur-
- My track like a sea-bird. I was a boy then.

Guard Be a man now. there never was more need

Of manhood's strength.

- Jac Fos (looking from the lattice) My beautiful, my own,
- My only Venice this is breath! Thy breeze,
- Thme Adrian sea-breeze, how it fans my face !
- Thy very winds feel native to my veins,
- And cool them into calminess ! How unlike The hot gales of the horrid Cyclades,
- Which howl'd about my Candiote dungeon and Made my heart sick

- Guard. I see the colour comes Back to your cheek. Heaven send you
- strength to bear What more may be imposed ! — I dread to think on 't.
 - Jac. Fos. They will not banish me again ? - No - no,

Let them wring on; I am strong yet.

- Guard. Confess, And the rack will be spared you
- Jac. Fos. I confess'd Once — twice before. both times they ex-
- iled me. Guard And the third time will slay you. Jac. Fos Let them do so,

So I be buried in my birth-place better

- Be ashes here than aught that lives elsewhere
 - Guard And can you so much love the soil which hates you?
 - Jac. Fos. The soil! Oh no, it is the seed of the soil

Which persecutes me; but my native earth Will take me as a mother to her arms.

I ask no more than a Venetian grave,

A dungeon, what they will, so it be here.

Enter an Officer

- Offi Bring in the prisoner !
- Guard Signor, you hear the order. Jac Fos. Ay, I am used to such a summons: 't is
- Thine arm [To the Guard. Off: Take mine, sir; 't is my duty to Be nearest to your person.
- Jac. Fos. You !- you are he 150 Who yesterday presided o'er my pangs-Away !- I'll walk alone.

Offi. As you please, signor;	Mem. But with length of time
The sentence was not of my signing, but	We gain a step in knowledge, and I look
I dared not disobey the Council when	Forward to be one day of the decemvirs.
They —	Sen. Or Doge ?
Jac. Fos. Bade thee stretch me on their	Mem. Why, no; not if I can avoid it.
horrid engine.	Sen. 'T is the first station of the state, and man
I pray thee touch me not — that is, just	Be lawfully desired, and lawfully now;
The time will come they will renew that	Attain'd by noble aspirants.
order,	Mem. To such
But keep off from me till 't is issued. As	I leave it; though born noble, my ambition
I look upon thy hands my curdling limbs	Is limited: I'd rather be an unit
Quiver with the anticipated wrenching, 160	Of an united and imperial 'Ten,'
And the cold drops strain through my	Than shine a lonely, though a gilded brow, as if	cipher. —
But onward — I have borne it — I can bear	Whom have we here? the wife of Foscari?
1t	Enter WIDER and a famale Attendant
How looks my father?	Enter MARINA, with a female Attendant.
Offi. With his wonted aspect.	Mar. What, no one? $-I$ am wrong,
Jac Fos. So does the earth, and sky, the	there still are two;
blue of ocean,	But they are senators.
The brightness of our city, and her domes,	Mem. Most noble lady,
The mirth of her Piazza; even now	Command us.
Its merry hum of nations pierces here,	Mar. I command ! Alas ! my life 200
Even here, into these chambers of the un-	Has been one long entreaty, and a vain one.
known	Mem I understand thee, but I must not
Who govern, and the unknown and the un-	answer.
number'd	Mar. (fiercely). True - none dare an-
Judged and destroy'd in silence, - all things	swer here save on the rack, wear 170	Or question save those
The self-same aspect, to my very sire !	Mem (interrupting her). High-born dame!
Nothing can sympathise with Foscari,	bethink thee
Not even a Foscarı — Sir, I attend you.	Where thou now art.
[Exeunt JACOFO FOSCARI, Officer, etc	Mar Where I now am ! It was ,,,,,,,,,,,,,	My husband's father's palace.
Enter MEMMO and another Senator	Mem. The Duke's palace.
Mem. He's gone - we are too late: -	Mar. And his son's prison; — true, I have think you ' the Ten'	not forgot it;
Will sit for any length of time to-day?	And if there were no other nearer, bitterer
Sen. They say the prisoner is most ob-	Remembrances, would thank the illustrious durate,	Memmo 200
Persisting in his first avowal; but	For pointing out the pleasures of the place.
More I know not.	Mem. Be calm !
Mem. And that is much; the secrets	Mar (looking up towards heaven). I am;
Of yon terrific chamber are as hidden	but oh, thou eternal God !
From us, the premier nobles of the state, 180	Canst thou continue so, with such a world?
As from the people.	Mem. Thy husband yet may be absolved.
Sen. Save the wonted rumours,	Mar. He is,
Which — like the tales of spectres that are $\frac{1}{2}$	In heaven. I pray you, signor senator,
rife	Speak not of that; you are a man of office,
Near ruin'd buildings - never have been	So is the Doge; he has a son at stake,
proved,	Now, at this moment, and I have a hus-
Nor wholly disbelieved: men know as little	band,
Of the state's real acts as of the grave's	Or had; they are there within, or were at
Unfathom'd mysteries.	least

An hour since, face to face, as judge and	Mem. All's silent now.
culprt. Will he condemn him? Mem. I trust not. Mar. But if He does not, there are those will sentence both. 221 Mem. They can. Mar. And with them power and will are one In wickedness: — my husband's lost! Mem. Not so; Justice is judge in Venice. Mar. If it were so, There now would be no Venice. But let it Live on, so the good die not, till the hour Of nature's summons; but 'the Ten's' is quicker, And we must wait on't. Ah ! a voice of wail ! [A famt cry within Sen Hark ! Mem. 'T was a cry of — Mar. No, no; not my husband's — Not Foscari's. Mem. The voice was — Mar. No, is that should be his father's part, 231 Not his — not his — he 'll die in silence [A faunt groan again within Mem. What ! Again ? Mar. His voice ! it seem'd so: I will not Believe it Should he shrink, I cannot cease To love; but — no — no — no — it must have been A fearful pang which wrung a groan from him. Sen. And, feeling for thy husband's wrongs, wouldst thou Have hum bear more than mortal pain, in silence ? Mar. We all must bear our tortures. I have not Left barren the great house of Foscari, 240 Though they sweep both the Doge and son from life; I have endured as much in giving life To those who will succeed them, as they can In leaving it: but mine were joyful pangs: And yet they wrung me till I could have shriek'd, But did not; for my hope was to bring forth Heroes and would not welcome them with	Mar. Perhaps all's over; but I will not deem it: he hath nerved himself, And now defies them. Enter an Officer hastily Mem. How now, friend, what seek you? 250 Offi. A leech. The prisoner has fainted. [Exut Officer. Mem Lady, 'T were better to retire. Sen. (offering to assist her). I pray thee do so. Mar. Mem. You ! Remember, lady ! Ingress is given to none within those chambers, Except 'the Ten,' and their familiars. Mar. Mar. Well, I know that none who enter there return As they have enter'd — many never, but They shall not balk my entrance. Mem. Mem. Alas ! this Is but to expose yourself to harsh repulse, And worse suspense. Mar. Who shall oppose me ? Mem They zéo Whose duty 't is to do so. Mar. Mar. The shall be tried. Despair defies even despotism there is That shall be tried. Despair defies even despotism there is That u my heart would make its way through hosts With levell'd spears; and think you a few jailors
shriek'd,	[Exit MARINA.

Enter LOREDANO and BARBARIGO Sen. And Bar. (addressing LOR.). That were too Even if she be so, cannot save her husmuch: believe me, 't was not meet hand. But, see, the officer returns. The trial should go further at this moment. Lor. And so the Council must break up, [The Officer passes over the stage with another person MemI hardly 280 and Justice Thought that 'the Ten' had even this Pause in her full career, because a woman touch of pity, Breaks in on our deliberations? Or would permit assistance to this sufferer Bar. No. Sen. Pity ! Is 't pity to recall to feeling That's not the cause; you saw the prison-The wretch too happy to escape to death er's state. By the compassionate trance, poor nature's Lor. And had he not recover'd? last Bar. To relapse Upon the least renewal Resource against the tyranny of pain? Mem. I marvel they condemn him not at 'T was not tried. Lor. Bar. 'T is vain to murmur; the majoronce Sen That's not their policy. they'd have ity In council were against you him live, Because he fears not death; and banish him, Lor. Thanks to you, sir, Because all earth, except his native land, 290 And the old ducal dotard, who combined To him is one wide prison, and each breath The worthy voices which o'er-ruled my Of foreign air he draws seems a slow poison, own. Consuming but not killing. Bar. I am a judge; but must confess Circumstance that part Mem. Confirms his crimes, but he avows them not Of our stern duty, which prescribes the Sen. None, save the Letter, which he Question, And bids us sit and see its sharp infliction, says was written, Address'd to Milan's duke, in the full Makes me wish knowledge Lor. What? Bar. That you would sometimes feel, That it would fall into the senate's hands, As I do always. And thus he should be re-convey'd to Lor. Go to, you're a child, Venue Mem. But as a culprit Infirm of feeling as of purpose, blown Yes, but to his country; About by every breath, shook by a sigh, 330 Sen. And that was all he sought—so he And melted by a tear — a precious judge For Venice ! and a worthy statesman to avouches Mem The accusation of the bribes was Be partner in my policy ! proved BarHe shed Sen Not clearly, and the charge of homi-No tears. Lor He cried out twice cide Has been annull'd by the death-bed con-Bar A saint had done so, Even with the crown of glory in his eye, fession At such inhuman artifice of pain Of Nicolas Erizzo, who slew the late As was forced on him; but he did not cry Chief of 'the Ten' Then why not clear him ? For pity; not a word nor groan escaped Mem That Sen him, They ought to answer; for it is well known And those two shrieks were not in suppli-That Almoro Donato, as I said, cation. But wrung from pangs, and follow'd by no Was slain by Erizzo for private vengeance. prayers. Mem. There must be more in this strange Lor He mutter'd many times between process than The apparent crimes of the accused dishis teeth. But marticulately. close -310 But here come two of 'the Ten;' let us That I heard not; Bar. You stood more near him. retire. Exeunt MEMMO and Senator.

320

340

Doge

I did so.

Methought, Bar. To my surprise too, you were touch'd with mercy,

And were the first to call out for assistance When he was failing.

Lor. I believed that swoon His last.

Bar And have I not oft heard thee name His and his father's death your nearest wish? Lor. If he dies innocent, that is to say,

With his guilt unavow'd, he 'll be lamented. Bar. What, wouldst thou slay his memory? Lor.

Wouldst thou have

His state descend to his children, as it must.

If he die unattainted?

Lor.

- Bar. War with them too? Lor. With all their house, till theirs or mine are nothing.
- Ban. And the deep agony of his pale wife,

And the repress'd convulsion of the high

- And princely brow of his old father, which
- Broke forth in a slight shuddering, though rarely,
- Or in some clammy drops, soon wiped away

In stern serenity — these moved you not? [Exit LOREDANO

He's silent in his hate, as Foscari 361

Was in his suffering; and the poor wretch moved me

- More by his silence than a thousand outcries
- Could have effected. 'T was a dreadful sight
- When his distracted wife broke through into

The hall of our tribunal, and beheld

- What we could scarcely look upon, long used
- To such sights I must think no more of this,

Lest I forget in this compassion for

Our foes their former injuries, and lose 370

The hold of vengeance Loredano plans

For him and me; but mine would be content

With lesser retribution than he thirsts for, And I would mitigate his deeper hatred

To milder thoughts. But for the present, Foscarı

Has a short hourly respite, granted at

The instance of the elders of the Councıl.

Moved doubtless by his wife's appearance in

The hall, and his own sufferings - Lo! they come:

How feeble and forlorn ' I cannot bear 38c To look on them again in this extremity.

I'll hence, and try to soften Loredano

[Ent BARBARIGO.

ACT II

SCENŁ I

A Hall in the Doge's Palace

The Doge and a SENATOR

Sen Is it your pleasure to sign the report

Now, or postpone it till to-morrow?

Now;

IQ

I overlook'd it yesterday: it wants

Merely the signature. Give me the pen-[The DOGE sits down and signs the paper There, signor.

- Sen. (looking at the paper). You have forgot, it is not signed
- Doge. Not signed ? Ah, I perceive my eyes begin

To wax more weak with age. I did not

That I had dipp'd the pen without effect

Sen. (dipping the pen into the ink, and placing the paper before the DOGE). Your hand, too, shakes, my lord: allow me, thus -

Doge. 'T is done, I thank you

- Thus the act confirm'd Sen. By you and by 'the Ten' gives peace to
- Venice. Doge 'T is long since she enjoy'd it. may it be

As long ere she resume her arms !

'T is almost Sen Thirty-four years of nearly ceaseless warfare With the Turk, or the powers of Italy,

The state had need of some repose

No doubt: Doge I found her Queen of Ocean, and I leave her Lady of Lombardy: rt is a comfort

That I have added to her diadem

The gems of Brescia and Ravenna; Crema

By land has grown by thus much in my regn, While her see-sway has not shrunk. Sen. 'I' is most true, Doge. Child point for your, Doge. I have not complain'd, su. Sen. Wy hoch should be made manifest. Doge. For what? Sen. My good lord, forgive me. Doge. For what? Sen. My heart bleeds for you. Doge. For what? Sen. My heart bleeds for you. Doge. Stop ! Sen. It must have way, my lord: I have too many dutaes towards you And all your house, for past and present kindness, so Not foel deeply for your son. Doge. Mat, in bour for past and present kindness, so Not foel deeply for your son. Doge. Was this In your commission? Sen. What, my lord? Doge. Must, mow not: but the treaty's sign'd; Return with it to them who sent you. Sen. They would accord some time for Sen. They would accord some time for Node. I have no repose; that is, none which ishall cause The loss of an hour's time unto the state. Let them meet when they will, I shall $Mar.$ I have vertured, father, on Mar. I wish'd to speak to you of $hinDoge.$ You husband? Mar. I had obtam'd permission for 'the Ten.' — When we had reach' 'the Bridge of Sighs,' Which I prepared to pass with Foscari, The gloomy guardian of that passage first Demurd'. A messenger was sent back to 'The Ten;' but as the court adjourn'd; and till meets, Mar. This the searce. Doge. I have no repose; that is, none which shall cause The loss of an hour's time unto the state. Let them meet when they will, I shall $Must purchase by renewal of the rack Mar. Thi it meets ! and when it meetSent en Attendant.Att.$ Prince ! Doge. Say on Att. The illustrious lady Foscari	While her sea-sway has not shrunk.Sen'T is most true,And merits all our country's gratitude.Doge. Perhaps soSen.Which should be made manifest.Doge. I have not complain'd, sir.Sen.My good lord, forgive me.Doge. For what ?Sen.My heart bleeds for you.Doge.For me, signor ?	Mar.I have ventured, father, onYour privacy.DogeDogeI have none from you, my childCommand my time, when not commander byThe state.Mar.I wish'd to speak to you of himDoge.Your husband ?Mar.And your son.Doge.Proceed, my daughter
Requests an audience That they beheld them perish piecement Doge. Bid her enter. Poor Marina ! [Ext Attendant.]	Doge Stop ! Sen. It must have way, my lord: I have too many duties towards you And all your house, for past and present kindness, 30 Not to feel deeply for your son. 30 Doge. Was this In your commission ? Sen. Sen. What, my lord ? Doge. This prattle Of things you know not: but the treaty 's sign'd; Return with it to them who sent you. Sen I Obey I had in charge, too, from the Council I That you would fix an hour for their reunion. Doge. Say, when they will — now, even at this moment, If it so please them: I am the state's servant Sen. They would accord some time for your repose. Doge. I have no repose; that is, none which shall cause 40 The loss of an hour's time unto the state. 40 The loss of an hour's time unto the state. 40 Where I should be, and what I have been ever. [Exit SENATOR [The Doge. Say on Att. Che loss of an audience Enter an Attendant. Att. The illustrious lady Foscari Requests an audience Doge.	 'the Ten' To attend my husband for a limited number Of hours Doge. You had so. Mar. 'T is revoked. Doge. By whom Mar 'The Ten.' — When we had reach' 'the Bridge of Sighs,' Which I prepared to pass with Foscari, The gloomy guardian of that passage first Demurr'd. a messenger was sent back to 'The Ten;' but as the court no longer sat And no permission had been given in wring, I was thrust back, with the assurance that Until that high tribunal re-assembled, The dungeon walls must still divide us. Doge. True The form has been omitted in the haste With which the court adjourn'd; and till meets, 'T is dubious. Mar Till it meets ! and when it meet They 'll torture him again; and he and I Must purchase by renewal of the rack The interview of husband and of wife, The holiest the beneath the heavens ! — Of God ! Dost thou see this ? Doge. Child — child — Mar. (abruptly). Call me not 'child You soon will have no children — you d serve none — You, who can talk thus calmly of a son In circumstances which would call for tears Of blood from Spartans ! Though these d not weep Their boys who died in battle, is it writter That they beheld them perish piecemer eer knees, perhaps have mourn'd hove them — im peril, or in death — who are, at least in seeming, human, could hey have done by yours, and you burself, to abet them ? I forgive this, for w not what you say. You know it well, it nothing. I have borne so much, cds have ceased to shake me Oh, no doubt ! re seen your son's blood flow, and bur flesh shock not. er that, what are a woman's words ? e than woman's tears, that they hould shake you. Woman, this clamorous grief of hine, I tell thee, re in the balance weigh'd with that -but I pity thee, my poor Marina ! Pity my husband, or I cast it from it of thy heart — how came it on thy ps? I must bear these reproaches, hough they wrong me. thou but read — 'T is not upon thy brow, thine eyes, nor in thine acts, — here then thou but read — 'T is not upon thy brow,

Doge. To which I am tending: when	Doge Time may restore his memory $-I$
It hes upon this heart, far lighther, though Loaded with marble, than the thoughts	would hope so He was my pride, my — but 't is useless which press it	now —
Now, you will know me better. Mai. Are you, then,	I am not given to tears, but wept for joy When he was born: those drops were om-
Indeed, thus to be pitied?	mous. 180
Doge. Pitied ! None	Mar. I say he's innocent! And were he Shall ever use that base word, with which	not so,
men Cloke their soul's hoarded triumph, as a	Is our own blood and kin to shrink from us In fatal moments?
fit one	Doge. I shrank not from him:
To mingle with my name; that name shall	But I have other duties than a father's;
be,	The state would not dispense me from those
As far as I have borne it, what it was 150	duties;
When I received it.	Twice I demanded it, but was refused:
Mar. But for the poor children	They must then be fulfill'd
Of him thou canst not, or thou wilt not	• save.	Enter an Attendant
You were the last to bear it	Att. A message from
Doge. Would it were so !	'The Ten.'
Better for him he never had been born;	Doge. Who bears it?
Better for me. — I have seen our house dis-	Att Noble Loredano.
honour'd.	Doge. He ! — but admit him.
Mar. That's false ! A truer, nobler, trus-
	[Exit Attendant
tier heart,	Mar Must I then retire?
More loving, or more loyal, never beat	Doge Perhaps it is not requisite, if this
Within a human breast. I would not change	Concerns your husband, and if not - Well,
My exiled, persecuted, mangled husband,	signor, 191
Oppress'd but not disgraced, crush'd, over-	Your pleasure ! [To LOREDANO entering whelm'd, 160	Lor. I bear that of 'the Ten'
Alive, or dead, for prince or paladin	Doge. They
In story or in fable, with a world	Have chosen well their envoy.
To back his suit. Dishonour'd !- he dis-	Lor. 'T is their choice
honour'd !	Which leads me here.
I tell thee, Doge, 't 1s Venice is dishonour'd;	Doge. It does their wisdom honour,
His name shall be her foulest, worst re-	And no less to their courtesy Proceed.
proach,	Lor. We have decided.
For what he suffers, not for what he did.	Doge. We?
'T is ye who are all traitors, tyrant ! - ye !	Lor. 'The Ten' in council.
Did you but love your country like this	Doge. What ! have they met again, and victim,	met without
Who totters back in chains to tortures and	Apprising me?
Submits to all things rather than to exile,	Lor. They wish'd to spare your feel-
You'd fling yourselves before him, and im-	ings,
plore 171	No less than age
His grace for your enormous guilt	Doge. That's new — when spared they
Doge. He was	either?
Indeed all you have said. I better bore	I thank them, notwithstanding.
The deaths of the two sons Heaven took	Lor. You know well from me,	That they have power to act at their dis-
Than Jacopo's disgrace.	cretion, 201
	With or without the presence of the Doge.
Mar. That word again?
	Doge. 'T is some years since I learn'd this, long before

I became Doge, or dream'd of such advance-	Lor I never y
ment.	In Venice had to
You need not school me, signor; I sate in	That 1s, by open
That council when you were a young patri-	Doge.
cian.	Am, or at least
Lor. True, in my father's time; I have	duke heard him and	In blood, in mind
The admiral, his brother, say as much.	know
Your highness may remember them; they	Who dreaded to both	Striven all they d
Died suddenly.	sure,
Doge. And if they did so, better	Before or since the
So die than live on lingeringly in pain. 211	At so much price
Lor. No doubt; yet most men like to live	sence, their days out.	A word of mme h
Doge. And did not they?	As would have m
Lor. The grave knows best: they died,	all things
As I said, suddenly.	I have observed t
Doge. Is that so strange,	Not for the laws
That you repeat the word emphatically?	strain'd
Lor. So far from strange, that never was	(I do not speak o
there death	Voice of the man
In my mind half so natural as theirs.	I could enforce f
Think you not so?	Were I disposed
Doge. What should I think of mortals?	I have observed
Lor. That they have mortal foes.	A priest's for the Doge. I understand you;	The sacrifice of n
Your sires were mine, and you are hear in	Safety, and all sa
all things 220	The health, the
Lor. You best know if I should be so.	state.
Doge I do.	And now, sir, to
Your fathers were my foes, and I have	Lor.
heard	That, without fai
Foul rumours were abroad; I have also	The Question, or read	Which only tend
Their epitaph, attributing their deaths	guilt is ('The Ten,' dis
To poison. 'T is perhaps as true as most	('The Ten,' dis
Inscriptions upon tombs, and yet no less	law
A fable.	Which still pres
Lor. Who dares say so?	full
Doge. I!-'T is true	Confession, and t
V full and mine energies of hitten	Arow'd his anime

Your fathers were mine enemies, as bitter As their son e'er can be, and I no less

Was theirs; but I was openly their foe: 230 I never work'd by plot in council, nor Cabal in commonwealth, nor secret means

- Of practice against life by steel or drug.
- The proof is, your existence.

Lor

I fear not Doge. You have no cause, being what I am; but were I

- That you would have me thought, you long ere now
- Were past the sense of fear. Hate on; I care not.

vet knew that a noble's life dread a Doge's frown. means

- But I, good signor, was, more than a mere
- . in means, and that they elect me, and have since

- lare to weigh me down: be
- hat veriod. had I held von
- ce as to require your ab-
- ad set such spirits to work ade vou nothing. But in he strictest ieverence:

alone, for those you have 250

f vou but as a single y) somewhat beyond what or my authority, to brawl; but, as I said, with veneration, like

- high altar, even unto ny own blood and quiet,

we honour, the decrees,

pride, and welfare of the your business

'T is decreed. ther repetition of 261 continuance of the trial. is to show how stubborn

- pensing with the stricter
- cribes the Question till a

the prisoner partly having vow'd his crime in not denying that

The letter to the Duke of Milan's his),

James Foscarı return to banishment,

- And sail in the same galley which convey'd hım
 - Mar. Thank God ! At least they will not drag him more

Before that horrible tribunal. Would he

But think so, to my mind the happiest doom,

Not he alone, but all who dwell here, could Desire, were to escape from such a land.

Doge That is not a Venetian thought, my daughter.

Mar. No, 't was too human. May I share The water's level; your mysterious meethis exile? ings, Lor. Of this 'the Ten' said nothing. And unknown dooms, and sudden execu-Mar. So I thought: tions. That were too human, also. But it was not Your 'Bridge of Sighs,' your strangling Inhibited? chamber, and Lor. It was not named Your torturing instruments, have made ve Then, father, 280 Mar. (to the Doge) seem Surely you can obtain or grant me thus The beings of another and worse world ! much: [To LOREDANO. Keep such for them: I fear ye not. I know And you, sir, not oppose my prayer to be ve; Permitted to accompany my husband. Have known and proved your worst, in the Doge. I will endeavour. infernal Mar. And you, signor? Process of my poor husband! Treat me as Lor. Lady! Ye treated him - you did so, in so dealing 'T is not for me to anticipate the pleasure With him. Then what have I to fear from Of the tribunal. you, Mar. Pleasure ! what a word Even if I were of fearful nature, which To use for the decrees of -I trust I am not? Daughter, know you Doge Doge You hear, she speaks wildly. In what a presence you pronounce these Mar Not wisely, yet not wildly. things? LorLady ! words Mar. A prince's and his subject's. Utter'd within these walls I bear no fur-Lor. Subject! ther Mar. Oh! Than to the threshold, saving such as pass It galls you -- well, you are his equal, as Between the Duke and me on the state's You think; but that you are not, nor would service. Doge! have you aught in answer? be, Something from Were he a peasant: - well, then, you're a Doge. prince, The Doge; it may be also from a parent. Lor. My mission here is to the Doge A princely noble; and what then am I? Lor. The offspring of a noble house. Doge. Then say The Doge will choose his own ambassador, Mar. And wedded To one as noble. What, or whose, then, is Or state in person what is meet; and for The presence that should silence my free The father -Lor. I remember mine. - Farewell ! thoughts? I kiss the hands of the illustrious lady, 329 Lor. The presence of your husband's And bow me to the Duke. [Exit LOREDANO judges. Doge. Mar.Are you content? And Doge. I am what you behold. The deference due even to the lightest And that's a mystery. Mar. word Doge. All things are so to mortals; who That falls from those who rule in Venice. Keep can read them Mar. Save he who made ? or, if they can, the few Those maxims for your mass of sacred me-And gifted spirits, who have studied long chanics. Your merchants, your Dalmatian and Greek That loathsome volume - man, and pored slaves. upon Those black and bloody leaves, his heart Your tributaries, your dumb citizens, And mask'd nobility, your sbirri, and and brain, But learn a magic which recoils upon Your spies, your galley and your other The adept who pursues it. All the sins slaves. To whom your midnight carryings off and We find in others, nature made our own; All our advantages are those of fortune; drownings, Birth, wealth, health, beauty, are her acci-Your dungeons next the palace roofs, or dents. under 341

J

And when we cry out against Fate, 't were	Doge. That can ne'er be.
well We should remember Fortune on the	And whither would you fly?
We should remember Fortune can take nought	Mar. I know not, reck not —
Save what she gave — the rest was naked-	To Syria, Egypt, to the Ottoman — 380 Any where, where we might respire unfet-
ness,	ter'd,
And lusts, and appetites, and vanities,	And live nor girt by spies, nor liable
The universal heritage, to battle	To edicts of inquisitors of state.
With as we may, and least in humblest sta-	Doge. What, wouldst thou have a rene-
tions,	gade for husband,
Where hunger swallows all in one low want,	And turn him into traitor?
And the original ordinance, that man	Mar. He is none!
Must sweat for his poor pittance, keeps all passions 350	The country is the traitress, which thrusts forth
Aloof, save fear of famine ! All is low,	Her best and bravest from her. Tyranny
And false, and hollow — clay from first to	Is far the worst of treasons. Dost thou deem last,	None rebels except subjects? The prince
The prince's urn no less than potter's vessel.	who
Our faine is in men's breath, our lives upon	Neglects or violates his trust is more 300
Less than their breath; our durance upon	A brigand than the robber-chief.
days,	Doge I cannot Change me with such a breach of faith
Our days on seasons; our whole being on Something which is not us' —So, we are	Charge me with such a breach of faith. Mar. No: thou slaves,	Observ'st, obey'st such laws as make old
The greatest as the meanest — nothing rests	Draco's
Upon our will; the will itself no less	A code of mercy by comparison.
Depends upon a straw than on a storm; 360	Doge. I found the law; I did not make
And when we think we lead, we are most led,	it. Were I
And still towards death, a thing which	A subject, still I might find parts and por-comes as much Without our act or choice as birth, so that	tions Fut for amendment; but as prince, I never Methinks we must have sinn'd in some old	Would change, for the sake of my house, world,	the charter
And this is hell: the best is, that it is not	Left by our fathers.
Eternal.	Mar. Did they make it for
Mar. These are things we cannot judge	The ruin of their children ?
On earth.	Doge. Under such laws, Venice
Doge. And how then shall we judge each	Has risen to what she is — a state to rival 401
other, Who are all earth, and I, who am call'd	In deeds, and days, and sway, and, let me add.
upon	In glory (for we have had Roman spirits
To judge my son? I have administer'd	Amongst us), all that history has bequeath'd
My country faithfully - victoriously - 370	Of Rome and Carthage in their best times,
I dare them to the proof, the chart of what	when
She was and is. my reign has doubled	The people sway'd by senates.
realms;	Mar. Rather say, Groan'd under the stern oligarchs.
And, in reward, the gratitude of Venice Has left, or 1s about to leave, me single.	Doge Perhaps so;
Mar. And Foscari? I do not think of	But yet subdued the world: in such a state such things,	An individual, be he richest of
So I be left with him.	Such rank as is permitted, or the meanest,
Doge. You shall be so;	Without a name, is alike nothing, when 411
Thus much they cannot well deny.	The policy, irrevocably tending
Mar. And if	To one great end, must be maintain'd .
They should, I will fly with him.	vigour.

Mar. This means that you are more With some faint hope, 't is true, that time. Doge than father which wears Doge. It means, I am more citizen than The marble down, had worn away the hate either Of men's hearts; but I knew them not, and If we had not for many centuries here Had thousands of such citizens, and shall, Must I consume my own, which never beat I trust, have still such, Venice were no For Venice but with such a yearning as 11 The dove has for her distant nest, when city. Mar. Accursed be the city where the wheeling High in the air on her return to greet laws Would stifle nature's ! Her callow brood. What letters are these Had I as many sons which [Approaching the wall Doge. As I have years, I would have given them Are scrawl'd along the inexorable wall? Will the gleam let me trace them? Ah! all, 42 I Not without feeling, but I would have the names given them Of my sad predecessors in this place, The dates of their despair, the brief words of To the state's service, to fulfil her wishes A grief too great for many. This stone page On the flood, in the field, or, if it must be, Holds like an epitaph their history; As it, alas ! has been, to ostracism, And the poor captive's tale 1s graven on Exile, or chains, or whatsoever worse His dungeon barrier, like the lover's record She might decree. Upon the bark of some tall tree, which bears Mar. And this is patriotism? To me it seems the worst barbarity. His own and his beloved's name. Alas! I recognise some names familiar to me, Let me seek out my husband: the sage 'Ten,' And blighted like to mine, which I will add, With all its jealousy, will hardly war Fittest for such a chronicle as this 430 So far with a weak woman as deny me Which only can be read, as writ, by A moment's access to his dungeon. wretches. [He engraves his name 1'n Doge. Enter a Familiar of 'the Ten' So far take on myself, as order that Fam. I bring you food. You may be admitted. Mar.And what shall I say Jac. Fos. I pray you set it down; To Foscari from his father? I am past hunger: but my lips are That he obey parch'd -Doge. 30 The laws. The water ! Mar. And nothing more? Will you not Fam. There. see him Jac. Fos. (after drinking). I thank you: Ere he depart? It may be the last time. I am better. Doge The last ! - my boy ! - the last Fam. I am commanded to inform you time I shall see that My last of children ! Tell him I will come. Your further trial is postponed. [Exeunt Till when? Jac. Fos. Fam. I know not. — It is also in my orders

- That your illustrious lady be admitted. Jac. Fos. Ah! they relent, then — I had ceased to hope it.
- 'T was time.

Enter MARINA

Mar. My best beloved ! Jac Fos. (embracing her). My true wife, And only friend ! What happiness ! Mar. We'll part No more.

ACT III

SCENE I

The prison of JACOPO FOSCARI

Jac. Fos (solus). No light, save yon faint gleam which shows me walls
Which never echo'd but to sorrow's sounds, The sigh of long imprisonment, the step Of feet on which the iron clank'd, the groan Of death, the imprecation of despair !
Aud yet for this I have return'd to Venice,

- Jac. Fos. How! wouldst thou share a dungeon? Mar.
- Ay, The rack, the grave, all - any thing with thee,
- But the tomb last of all, for there we shall Be ignorant of each other, yet I will
- Share that all things except new separation;
- It is too much to have survived the first
- How dost thou? How are those worn limbs? Alas!
- Why do I ask? Thy paleness Jac. Fos. 'T is the joy
- Of seeing thee again so soon, and so

Without expectancy, has sent the blood

- Back to my heart, and left my cheeks like thine.
- For thou art pale too, my Marina ! Tis 50 Mar.
- The gloom of this eternal cell, which never Knew sunbeam, and the sallow sullen glare
- Of the familiar's torch, which seems akin To darkness more than light, by lending to
- The dungeon vapours its bituminous smoke,
- Which cloud whate'er we gaze on, even thine eyes -
- No, not thine eyes they sparkle how they sparkle !
 - Jac. Fos. And thine ! but I am blinded by the torch.
 - Mar. As I had been without it Couldst thou see here?
- Jac. Fos. Nothing at first; but use and time had taught me
- Familiarity with what was darkness;
- And the grey twilight of such glimmerings as
- Glide through the crevices made by the winds
- Was kinder to mine eyes than the full sun, When gorgeously o'ergilding any towers Save those of Venice: but a moment ere
- Thou camest hither I was busy writing Mar What?
 - Jac Fos. My name: look, 't is there --recorded next
- The name of him who here preceded me, If dungeon dates say true.
- And what of him? Mar Jac. Fos. These walls are silent of men's ends; they only 7 I
- Seem to hint shrewdly of them. Such stern walls
- Were never piled on high save o'er the dead,

- Or those who soon must be so What of hım ?
- Thou askest. What of me? may soon be ask'd,
- With the like answer doubt and dreadful surmise -
- Unless thou tell'st my tale.
- Mar. I speak of thee ! Jac. Fos And wherefore not? All then shall speak of me
- The tyranny of silence is not lasting,
- And, though events be hidden, just men's groans
- Will burst all cerement, even a living grave's !
- I do not doubt my memory, but my life;
- And neither do I fear.

Mar. Thy life is safe.

- Jac. Fos. And liberty? Mar. The mind should make its own. Jac. Fos. That has a noble sound; but 't is a sound,
- A music most impressive, but too transient: .
- The mind is much, but is not all The mmd
- Hath nerved me to endure the risk of death,
- And torture positive, far worse than death (If death be a deep sleep), without a
- groan, Or with a cry which rather shamed my judges
- Than me; but 't is not all, for there are things
- More woful such as this small dungeon, where
- I may breathe many years.
- Mar. Alas ! and this Small dungeon is all that belongs to thee
- Of this wide realm of which thy sire is prince
 - Jac. Fos. That thought would scarcely aid me to endure it.
- My doom is common, many are in dungeons, But none like mine, so near their father's palace;
- But then my heart is sometimes high, and hope
- Will stream along those moted rays of light Peopled with dusty atoms which afford
- Our only day; for, save the gaoler's torch,
- And a strange firefly, which was quickly caught
- Last night in yon enormous spider's net, I ne'er saw aught here like a ray. Alas!

I know if mind may bear us up, or no, And not so hopelessly. This love of thine For an ungrateful and tyrannic soil For I have such, and shown it before men: It sinks in solitude: my soul is social. Is passion, and not patriotism, for me. 100 Mar. I will be with thee. So I could see thee with a quiet aspect Jac. Fos. Ah ! if it were so ! And the sweet freedom of the earth and air. But that they never granted - nor will grant, I would not cavil about climes or regions. This crowd of palaces and prisons is not And I shall be alone; no men - no books, Those lying likenesses of lying men. A paradise; its first inhabitants I ask'd for even those outlines of their kind, Were wretched exiles. Which they term annals, history, what you Jac Fos Well I know how wretched ! will. Mar. And yet you see how, from their Which men bequeath as portraits, and they banishment 150 were Before the Tartar into these salt isles, Refused me, - so these walls have been my Their antique energy of mind, all that Remain'd of Rome for their inheritance. study More faithful pictures of Venetian story, Created by degrees an ocean-Rome: With all their blank, or dismal stains, than is And shall an evil, which so often leads The Hall not far from hence, which bears To good, depress thee thus? on high Jac. Fos. Had I gone forth Hundreds of doges, and their deeds and From my own land, like the old patriarchs dates. seeking Mar. I come to tell thee the result of Another region with their flocks and herds: Had I been cast out like the Jews from Z10n. their Or like our fathers, driven by Attila Last council on thy doom. Jac. Fos. I know it - look ! From fertile Italy, to barren islets, I would have given some tears to my late [He points to his limbs, as referring to the question which he had undergone country And many thoughts; but afterwards ad-Mar. No - no - no more of that: even dress'd they relent Myself, with those about me, to create From that atrocity. A new home and fresh state: perhaps I Jac. Fos. What then? That you could Mar. Have borne this — though I know not. Return to Candia. Wherefore not ? Jac. Fos Then my last hope's gone. Mar. I could endure my dungeon, for 't was It was the lot of millions, and must be The fate of myriads more. Venice; Ay — we but hear I could support the torture, there was some-Jac. Fos. Of the survivors' toil in their new lands, thing Their numbers and success; but who can In my native air that buoy'd my spirits up Like a ship on the ocean toss'd by storms, 130 number 170 The hearts which broke in silence of that But proudly still bestriding the high waves And holding on its course; but there, afar, parting, Or after their departure; of that malady In that accursed isle of slaves, and captives, And unbelievers, like a stranded wreck, Which calls up green and native fields to My very soul seem'd mouldering m my view From the rough deep, with such identity bosom. To the poor exile's fever'd eye, that he And piecemeal I shall perish, if remanded. Can scarcely be restrain'd from treading Mar. And here? them ? Jac. Fos. At once - by better means, That melody, which out of tones and tunes as briefer. Collects such pasture for the longing sorrow What ! would they even deny me my sire's Of the sad mountaineer, when far away sepulchre, From his snow canopy of cliffs and clouds, As well as home and heritage? My husband ! That he feeds on the sweet, but poisonous Mar. thought, 181 have sued to accompany thee hence, 140

- And dies You call this weakness ! It is strength, city I say, — the parent of all honest feeling He who loves not his country can love this nothing Mar. Obey her, then: 't is she that puts thee forth. Jac. Fos. Ay, there it is; 't is like a monight. ther's curse Upon my soul — the mark is set upon me. hold my father? The exiles you speak of went forth by na-Mar. You will Jac. Fos. Where ? tions, Their hands upheld each other by the way, Mar. Their tents were pitch'd together - I'm alone hear Your exile as he bears it. Mar You shall be so no more, I will go with thee. Jac Fos Jac. Fos. My best Marina ! - and our children? Mar. They, I fear, by the prevention of the state's Abhorrent policy (which holds all ties As threads which may be broken at her Accumulated ills. Accumulated ! pleasure), Mar. Will not be suffer'd to proceed with us. Jac. Fos. And canst thou leave them? vou ? That of leaving Mar. Yes, with many a pang, Jac Fos. Venice without beholding him or you, But - I can leave them, children as they are, 't was To teach you to be less a child From this Upon my former exile. Learn you to sway your feelings, when exacted Mar. By duties paramount; and 't is our first And thus far I am also the state's debtor, On earth to bear.
 - Jac. Fos. Have I not borne ? Mar. Too much

From tyrannous injustice, and enough To teach you not to shrink now from a lot,

Which, as compared with what you have undergone

Of late, 15 mercy.

Jac. Fos. Ah! you never yet

- Were far away from Venice, never saw Her beautiful towers in the receding distance,
- While every furrow of the vessel's track
- Seem'd ploughing deep into your heart; you never Saw day go down upon your native spires So calmly with its gold and crimson glory, And after dreaming a disturbed vision

- Of them and theirs, awoke and found them not.
 - Mar. I will divide this with you. Let us think

- Of our departure from this much-loved
 - (Since you must love it, as it seems), and

Chamber of state, her gratitude allots you.

- Our children will be cared for by the Doge, And by my uncles: we must sail ere
 - Jac. Fos. That's sudden. Shall I not be-

Here, or in the ducal chan_ber -He said not which. I would that you could Blame him not. I sometimes murmur for a moment; but He could not now act otherwise. A show Of feeling or compassion on his part Would have but drawn upon his agèd head Suspicion from 'the Ten,' and upon mine

- 23C What pangs are those they have spared
- Which might have been forbidden now, as

That is true,

- And shall be more so when I see us both
- Floating on the free waves away away --
- Be it to the earth's end, from this abhorr'd, Unjust, and -
- Jac. Fos. Curse it not. If I am silent, Who dares accuse my country?

Mar. Men and angels ! 240 The blood of myriads reeking up to heaven, The groans of slaves in chains, and men in dungeons,

- Mothers, and wives, and sons, and sires, and subjects.
- Held in the bondage of ten bald-heads; and
- Though last, not least, thy silence. Couldst thou say
- Aught in its favour, who would praise like thee ?
- Jac. Fos. Let us address us then, since so it must be,
- Who comes here ? To our departure

Enter LOREDANO, attended by Familiars	Jac. Fos. Both the same to me: the
Lor. (to the Familiars). Retire,	after
But leave the torch [Event the two Familiars	Freedom as is the first imprisonment.
Jac. Fos. Most welcome, noble signor.	Is 't true my wife accompanies me?
I did not deem this poor place could have	Lor. Yes,
drawn 250	If she so wills it.
Such presence hither.	Mar. Who obtain'd that justice?
Lor. 'T is not the first time	Lor. One who wars not with women.
I have visited these places.	Mar. But oppresses 280
Mar. Nor would be	Men \cdot howsoever let him have my thanks
The last, were all men's merits well re- warded.	For the only boon I would have ask'd or taken
Came you here to insult us, or remain	From him or such as he is.
As spy upon us, or as hostage for us?	Lor. He receives them
Lor Neither are of my office, noble	As they are offer'd.
lady!	Mar May they thrive with him
I am sent hither to your husband, to Announce 'the Ten's 'decree.	So much ! — no more.
	Jac Fos Is this, sir, your whole
Mar. That tenderness	mission?
Has been anticipated: it is known.	Because we have brief time for prepara-
Lor. As how?	tion,
Mar. I have inform'd him, not so	And you perceive your presence doth dis-
gently 260	quiet
Doubtless, as your nice feelings would pre- scribe,	This lady, of a house noble as yours. Mar. Nobler !
The indulgence of your colleagues: but he	Lor. How nobler ?
knew it	Mar. As more generous !
If you come for our thanks, take them, and	We say the 'generous steed' to express
hence !	the purity 290
The dungeon gloom is deep enough without	Of his high blood. Thus much I 've learnt, you,	although
And full of reptiles, not less loathsome,	Venetian (who see few steeds save of though	bronze),
Their sting is honester.	From those Venetians who have skirr'd the
Jac Fos 1 pray you, calm you:	coasts
What can avail such words?	Of Egypt and her neighbour Araby:
Mar To let him know	And why not say as soon the 'generous
That he is known.	man?'
Lor. Let the fair dame preserve	If race be aught, it is in qualities
Her sex's privilege.	More than in years; and mine, which is as
Mar. I have some sons, sir,	old
Will one day thank you better.	As yours, is better in its product, nay —
Lor. You do well 270	Look not so stern — but get you back, and
To nurse them wisely. Foscarı — you know	pore
Your sentence, then?	Upon your genealogic tree's most green 300
Jac. Fos. Return to Candia ? Lor. True —	Of leaves and most mature of fruits, and there
For life	Blush to find ancestors, who would have
Jac Fos. Not long.	blush'd
Lor. I said - for life.	For such a son — thou cold inveterate hater
Jac. Fos. And I	Jac. Fos. Again, Marina !
Repeat — not long.	Mar. Again ! still, Marina
Lor. A year's imprisonment	See you not, he comes here to glut his hate
In Canes — afterwards the freedom of	With a last look upon our misery 7
In Canea — afterwards the freedom of The whole isle.	With a last look upon our misery? Let him partake it !

 t. 370 Couldst thou but know — Jac Fos I rarely, sur, have murmu devil's servants No less than master: I have probed his soul A moment, as the eternal fire ere long Will reach it always. See how he shrinks fire and the ath and chains, and exile in his hand To scatter o'er his kind as he thinks fit: They are his weapons, not his arrour, for I have pierced him to the core of hs cold heart. I care not for his frowns ! We can but die, And he but live, for hum the very worst 320 Of destine's each day secures him more His tempter's. Jac Fos. This is mere insanity. Mar. It may be so' and who hath made us mad? Cor. Let her go on; it irks not me. Mar. Mar. It may be so' and who hath made us mad? Cor. Let her go on; it irks not me. Mar. Mar. That's false! You came here to enjoy a heartless triumph of cold looks upon manufold grafes! You came to in vain, to mark our tears, And hoard our groans, to gaze upon the wreck wreek, signor, as Mor hasyn end: a prince's son — my husband; How have you sped? We are wretched, signor, as Your plots could make, and vengeance could desire us, Mar. By thunder blasted? They feel not, but no less are shiver'd. Come, . Enter the Dost. Jac. Fos. My father ! Dage (embracing hm). Jacopo ! my son, Tak that let has peopled often, but ne'er fulty Till he himself shall brood in it alone. Enter the Dost. Jac. Fos. My father ! Dage (embracing hm). Jacopo ! my son, the sole if weaple soft, and k part for weaple soft, and k part for weaple soft, and k. They have fed well, slept soft, and k part for weaple soft, and k part for weaple	end the ith sth. ave ter. esse cold ine me, ow. s 361 ce, ere. par- heir with ural
Enter the Doge. Iove, Jac. Fos. My father ! Current.	ural
Doge (embracing him). Jacopo ! my son, my son ! 340 They have fed well, slept soft, and king 340 Not that	aew

Their sire was a mere hunted outlaw.	Doge. Be firm, my son !
Well, 370	Jac. Fos I will do my endeavour.
I know his fate may one day be their heri-	Mar. Farewell ! at least to this detested
tage,	dungeon,
But let it only be their heritage ,	And him to whose good offices you owe
And not their present fee. Their senses,	In part your past imprisonment.
though	Lor. And present
Alive to love, are yet awake to terror;	Liberation.
And these vile damps, too, and yon thick	Doge. He speaks truth.
green wave	Jac. Fos. No doubt! but 't is Which floats above the place where we now	Exchange of chains for heavier chains I stand —	owe him.
A cell so far below the water's level,	He knows this, or he had not sought to
Sending its postilence through every crevice,	change them.
Might strike them: this is not their atmos-	But I reproach not.
phere, 379	Lor. The time narrows, signor.
However you — and you — and most of all,	Jac. Fos. Alas! I little thought so lin-
As worthiest, you, sir, noble Loredano !	geringly
May breathe it without prejudice.	To leave abodes like this: but when I feel
Jac. Fos. I have not	That every step I take, even from this cell,
Reflected upon this, but acquiesce.	Is one away from Venice, I look back
I shall depart, then, without meeting them?	Even on these dull damp walls, and —
Doge. Not so they shall await you in	Doge Boy ! no tears.
my chamber	Mar. Let them flow on: he wept not on
Jac. Fos. And must I leave them — all?	the rack
Lor. You must	To shame him, and they cannot shame him
Jac. Fos. Not one?	now.
Lor. They are the state's	They will relieve his heart — that too kind
Mar. I thought they had been mine.	heart —
Lor. They are, in all maternal thurgs.	And I will find an hour to wipe away
Mar. That is,	Those tears, or add my own. I could weep
In all things painful If they 're sick, they	now, 420
Be left to me to tend them; should they	But would not gratify yon wretch so far. Let us proceed. Doge, lead the way.
die, 390	Lor. (to the Familiar). The torch, there !
To me to bury and to mourn; but if	Mar Yes, light us on, as to a funeral pyre,
They live, they'll make you soldiers,	With Loredano mourning like an heir.
senators, Slaves, exiles — what you will; or if they are	Doge. My son, you are feeble; take this hand.
Females with portions, brides and bribes for nobles !	Jac. Fos. Alas ! Must youth support itself on age, and I
Behold the state's care for its sons and	Who ought to be the prop of yours?
mothers !	Lor. Take mme
Lor. The hour approaches, and the wind	Mar. Touch it not, Foscari; 't will sting is fair.	you. Signor,
Jac. Fos. How know you that here,	Stand off! be sure that if a grasp of where the genial wind	yours 430
Ne'er blows in all its blustering freedom?	Would raise us from the gulf wherein we
Lor. 'T was so	are plunged,
When I came here. The galley floats	No hand of ours would stretch itself to within	meet it.
A bow-shot of the 'Riva di Schiavoni' 400	Come, Foscari, take the hand the altar
Jac. Fos. Father ! I pray you to precede me, and Propose we oblideen to held their father	gave you; It could not save, but will support you ever
Prepare my children to behold their father.	Гетепи

SCENE I

A Hall in the Ducal Palace

Enter LOREDANO and BARBARIGO

- Bar. And have you confidence in such a project?
- Lor. I have.
- Bar. 'T is hard upon his years.
- Lor. Say rather Kind to relieve him from the cares of state.
- Bar. 'T will break his heart.
- Lor. Age has no heart to break. He has seen his son's half broken, and, except
- A start of feeling in his dungeon, never Swerved.
 - Bar. In his countenance, I grant you, never:
- But I have seen him sometimes in a calm So desolate, that the most clamorous grief
- Had nought to envy him within. Where is he?
 - Lor In his own portion of the palace, with
- His son and the whole race of Foscaris.
- Bar. Bidding farewell ? Lor. A last. As soon he shall Bid to his dukedom.
- Bar. When embarks the son? Lor. Forthwith — when this long leave is taken 'T is
- Time to admonish them again.
- Bar. Forbear; Retrench not from their moments
- Lor. Not I, now We have higher business for our own.
- This day
- Shall be the last of the old Doge's reign,
- As the first of his son's last banishment, 20 And that is vengeance.
- Bar. In my mind, too deep. Lor. 'T is moderate — not even hfe for life, the rule

Denounced of retribution from all time;

- They owe me still my father's and my uncle's.
- Bar. Did not the Doge deny this strongly?

Lor. Doubtless.

Bar. And did not this shake your suspicion?

Lor. No.

Bar. But if this deposition should take place

By our united influence in the Council, It must be done with all the deference 29 Due to his years, his station, and his deeds. Lor As much of ceremony as you will,

- So that the thing be done. You may, for aught
- I care, depute the Council on their knees (Like Barbarossa to the Pope), to beg him
- To have the courtesy to abdicate.
 - Bar. What, if he will not?
- Lor. We'll elect another, And make him null
 - Bar. But will the laws uphold us? Lor. What laws?— 'The Ten' are laws; and if they were not,
- I will be legislator in this business. 39 Bar. At your own peril?

Lor. There is none, I tell you, Our powers are such.

Bar. But he has twice already Solicited permission to retire,

- And twice it was refused.
- Lor. The better reason To grant it the third time.
- Bar Unask'd? Lor. It shows
- The impression of his former instances: If they were from his heart, he may be thankful:
- If not, 't will punish his hypocrisy.
- Come, they are met by this time; let us join them,
- And be thou fix'd in purpose for this once.
- I have prepared such arguments as will not 50
- Fail to move them, and to remove him. Since
- Their thoughts, their objects, have been sounded, do not
- You, with your wonted scruples, teach us pause,

And all will prosper.

Bar. Could I but be certain This is no prelude to such persecution

Of the sire as has fallen upon the son,

I would support you

Lor. He is safe, I tell you; His fourscore years and five may linger on As long as he can drag them: 't is his throne Alone is aim'd at.

Bar. But discarded princes 60 Are seldom long of life.

Lor. And men of eighty More seldom still.

Bar. And why not wait these few years?

Lor. Because we have waited long Sen. All are not met, but I am of your enough, and he thought Lived longer than enough. Hence ! in to So far - let's m The earliest are most welcome council ! Mem. [Ereunt LOREDANO and BARBARIGO In earnest councils - we will not be least 80. Exeunt. Enter MEMMO and a Senator Enter the DOGE, JACOPO FOSCARI, and MARINA Sen. A summons to ' the Ten !' Why so ? Jac. Fos Ah, father ' though I must and Mem. 'The Ten' Alone can answer; they are rarely wont will depart, To let their thoughts anticipate their pur-Yet — yet — I pray you to obtain for me 100That I once more return unto my home, pose By previous proclamation We are sum-Howe'er remote the period. Let there be mon'd – A point of time, as beacon to my heart. That is enough. With any penalty annex'd they please, For them, but not for us; But let me still return. Sen. I would know why Doge. Son Jacopo, You will know why anon, Go and obey our country's will: 't is not Mem If you obey; and if not, you no less For us to look beyond. Will know why you should have obey'd. Jac. Fos But still I must I mean not Look back. I pray you think of me. Sen. Doge. To oppose them, but ---Alas! In Venice 'but''s a traitor You ever were my dearest offspring, when Mem. But me no 'buts,' unless you would pass o'er They were more numerous, nor can be less The Bridge which few repass so 110 Now you are last; but did the state de-Sen I am silent. Why Mem mand Thus hesitate ? ' The Ten ' have call'd in aid The exile of the disinterred ashes Of their deliberation five and twenty Of your three goodly brothers, now in Patricians of the senate - you are one, earth. And I another; and it seems to me And their desponding shades came flitting Both honour'd by the choice or chance round To impede the act, I must no less obey which leads us 80 To mingle with a body so august. A duty, paramount to every duty. Mar My husband ! let us on; this but Sen. Most true. I say no more. As we hope, signor, prolongs Mem And all may honestly (that is, all those Our sorrow. Of noble blood may), one day hope to be Jac. Fos. But we are not summon'd vet: Decemvir, it is surely for the senate's The galley's sails are not unfurl'd: - who Chosen delegates, a school of wisdom, to knows? Be thus admitted, though as novices, The wind may change. And if it do, it will not To view the mysteries Mar. Sen. Let us view them; they, Change their hearts, or your lot: the gal-No doubt, are worth it lev's oars 121 Being worth our lives Will quickly clear the harbour MemO ye elements ! If we dividge them, doubtless they are Jac. Fos. Where are your storms? \mathbf{worth} In human breasts. Alas! Mar. Something, at least to you or me I sought not Will nothing calm you? Sen. A place within the sanctuary; but being Jac. Fos. Never yet did mariner Chosen, however reluctantly so chosen, Put up to patron saint such prayers for prosperous I shall fulfil my office Let us not And pleasant breezes, as I call upon you, Mem. Be latest in obeying 'the Ten's' sum-Ye tutelar saints of my own city ! which Ye love not with more holy love than I, mons.

б1б

To lash up from the deep the Adrian waves, And waken Auster, sovereign of the tem- pest! 130 Till the sea dash me back on my own shore A broken corse upon the barren Lido, Where I may mingle with the sands which skirt The land I love, and never shall see more ! Mar. And wish you this with me beside you? Jac. Fos. No— No — not for thee, too good, too kind ! May'st thou Live long to be a mother to those children Thy fond fidelity for a time deprives Of such support ! But for myself alone, May all the winds of heaven howl down the Gulf, 140 And tear the vessel, till the mariners, Appall'd, turn their despairing eyes on me, As the Phenicians did on Jonah, then Cast me out from amongst them as an offering To appease the waves. The billow which destroys me Will be more merciful than man, and bear me, Dead, but still bear me to a native grave, From fishers' hands upon the desolate strand, Which, of its thousand wrecks, hath ne'er received One lacerated like the heart which then r50 Will be — But wherefore breaks it not? Why live I? Mar. To man thyself, I trust, with time, to master Such useless passion. Until now thou wert A sufferer, but not a loud one: why, What is this to the things thou hast borne in silence —	Mar. What hast thou done? Jac. Fos. Nothing. I cannot charge My memory with much save sorrow: but I have been so beyond the common lot Chasten'd and visited, I needs must think That I was wicked. If it be so, may What I have undergone here keep me'from A like hereafter! Mar. Fear not: that's reserved 170 For your oppressors Jac. Fos. Let me hope not. Mar. Hope not? Jac. Fos. I cannot wish them all they have inflicted. Mar All! the consummate fiends! A thousand fold May the worm which ne'er dieth feed upon them ! Jac. Fos. They may repent Mar. And if they do, Heaven will not Accept the tardy penitence of demons. Enter an Officer and Guards Offi. Signor ! the boat is at the shore — the wind Is rising — we are ready to attend you Jac. Fos And I to be attended. Once more, father, Your hand ! Doge. Take it. Alas, how thine own trembles! 15 Jac. Fos. No — you mistake; 't is yours that shakes, my father. Farewell ! Doge. Farewell ! Is there aught else ? Jac. Fos. No — nothing. [To the Officer. Lend me your arm. good signor. Offi You turn pale — Let me support you — paler — ho ! some aid there !
A sufferer, but not a loud one: why, What is this to the things thou hast borne	Offi You turn pale — Let me support you — paler — ho! some
Jac. Fos. Double, Triple, and tenfold torture ! But you are right,	MarAh, he is dying !Jac. FosNow, I 'm ready —My eyes swim strangely — where 's the
It must be borne. Father, your blessing ' Doge. Would It could avail thee! but no less thou hast it. ¹⁵⁹ Jac. Fos. Forgive — Doge What? Jac. Fos. My poor mother, for my birth, And me for having lived, and you yourself (As I forgive you), for the gift of life, Which you bestow'd upon me as my sire.	door ? Mar. Away ! Let me support hm — my best love ! Oh, God ! How faintly beats this heart — this pulse ! Jac. Fos The light ! Is it the light ? — I am faint. [Officer presents hm with water. Offi He will be better Perhaps, in the air.

Jac. Fos. I doubt not. Father	Mar. Ay, weep on " I thought you had no tears — you hoarded
Your hands!	them
Mar. There 's death in that damp clammy grasp.	Until they are useless; but weep on ' he never
Oh, God! My Foscari, how fare you?	Shall weep more — never, never more.
[He dies	Enter LOREDANO and BARBARIGO
Offi. He's gone !	Lor. What's here?
Doge. He's free ! Mar. No — no, he is not dead;	Mar. Ah! the devil come to insult the dead! Avaunt!
There must be life yet in that heart - he	Incarnate Lucifer ! 't is holy ground could not Thus leave me	A martyi's ashes now lie there, which make
Doge. Daughter !	A shuna Cat they hask to the place of t
Mar. Hold thy peace, old man!	A shrine Get thee back to thy place of tor- ment !
I am no daughter now — thou hast no son.	Bar Lady, we knew not of this sad event,
Oh, Foscari !	But pass'd here merely on our path from Offi. We must remove the body Doge Touch it not, dungeon miscreants !	council. Mar Pass on.
your base office	Lor. We sought the Doge.
Ends with his life, and goes not beyond	Mar. (pointing to the Doge, who is still on murder,	the ground by his son's body) He's
Even by your murderous laws. Leave his remains	busy, look,
To those who know to honour them.	About the business you provided for him. Are ye content?
Offi I must	Bar. We will not interrupt
Inform the signory, and learn their plea-	A parent's sorrows sure Doge Inform the signory from me, the	Mar. No, ye only make them, Then leave them.
Doge,	Doge (rising). Sirs, I am ready.
They have no further power upon those	Bar. No-not now.
ashes: While he lived, he was theirs, as fits a	Lor. Yet 't was important Doge. If 't was so, I can subject;	Only repeat — I am ready.
Now he is mine - my broken-hearted boy!	Bar. It shall not be
[Exit Officer. Mar. And I must live !	Just now, though Venice totter'd o'er the Doge Your children live, Marina	deep 231 Like a frail vessel. I respect your griefs.
Mar. My children ! true — they live, and I must live	Doge. I thank you. If the tidings which you bring
To bring them up to serve the state, and die	Are evil, you may say them; nothing fur- ther
As died their father. Oh, what best of	Can touch me more than him thou look'st blessings 210	on there.
Were barrenness in Venice ! Would my mother	If they be good, say on; you need not fear That they can comfort me.
Had been so !	Bar I would they could !
Doge My unhappy children !	Doge I spoke not to you, but to Loredano.
Mar. What!	He understands me Mar Ah ' I thought it would be so.
You feel it then at last — you! Where is now	Doge. What mean you?
The stoic of the state ?	Mar. Lo! there is the blood begin-
Doge (throwing himself down by the body).	ning 240
Here !	To ow through the dead lips of Foscari -

The body bleeds in the presence of the Even aged men, be, or appear to be, assassin. To LOREDANO Sires of a hundred sons, but cannot kindle Thou cowardly murderer by law, behold An atom of their ancestors from earth. How death itself bears witness to thy deeds ! The victims are not equal: he has seen Doge. My child ! this is a phantasy of His sons expire by natural deaths, and I grief. My sures by violent and mysterious mala-Bear hence the body. [To his attendants.] --dies Signors, if it please you, I used no poison, bribed no subtle master Within an hour I'll hear you. Of the destructive art of healing, to [Excunt DOGE, MARINA, and attendants with the body. Shorten the path to the eternal cure. Manent LOREDANO and BARBARIGO. His sons - and he had four - are dead. Bar. He must not without Be troubled now. My dabbling in vile drugs. Lor. He said himself that nought Bar. And art thou sure Could give him trouble farther. He dealt in such? Bar.These are words: Lor Most sure. But grief is lonely, and the breaking in 250 Bar. And yet he seems Upon it barbarous. All openness. Lor. Sorrow preys upon Lor. And so he seem'd not long Its solutude, and nothing more diverts it Ago to Carmagnuola From its sad visions of the other world. Bar. The attainted Than calling it at moments back to this. And foreign traitor? The busy have no time for tears Even so: when he, Lor. Bar. And therefore After the very night in which 'the Ten You would deprive this old man of all (Jom'd with the Doge) decided his destruc business ? tion. Lor. The thing's decreed. The Giunta Met the great Duke at daybreak with a jest, and 'the Ten' Demanding whether he should augur him Have made it law — who shall oppose that 'The good day or good night?' his Dogelaw? ship answer'd, Bar. Humanity ! 'That he in truth had pass'd a night of vigil, Lor. Because his son is dead? In which (he added with a gracious smile) Bar. And yet unburned. There often has been question about you.' 'T was true; the question was the death Lor. Had we known this when The act was passing, it might have susresolved pended Of Carmagnuola, eight months ere he died; 261 Its passage, but impedes it not - once past And the old Doge, who knew him doom'd, Bar I'll not consent smiled on him Lor. You have consented to With deadly cozenage, eight long months All that's essential - leave the rest to me. beforehand -Eight months of such hypocrisy as is Bar Why press this abdication now? Lor. The feelings Learnt but in eighty years Brave Car-Of private passion may not interrupt magnuola The public benefit; and what the state Is dead; so is young Foscari and his bre-Decides to-day must not give way before thren -To-morrow for a natural accident. I never smiled on them Bar. You have a son. Bar. Was Carmagnuola LorI have — and had a father 270 Your friend ? Bar. Still so inexorable? Lor. He was the safeguard of the city. Lor. Still In early life its foe, but, in his manhood, But let him Bar. Its saviour first, then victim. Inter his son before we press upon him BarAh! that seems This educt The penalty of saving cities. He Lor. Let him call up into life Whom we now act against not only saved My sire and uncle — I consent Men may, Our own, but added others to her sway. 311

DRA	WIAS
Lor The Romans (and we ape them)	And gave a crown To him who took a city; and they gave	Apa
A crown to him who saved a citizen	Scar
In battle: the rewards are equal. Now, If we should measure forth the cities taken	B
By the Doge Foscari, with citizens	Wil
Destroy'd by him, or through him, the ac-	\tilde{L}
count	We
Were fearfully against him, although nar-	The row'd	\mathbf{The}
To private havoc, such as between him 320	B
And my dead father	Aga
Bar. Are you then thus fix'd?
Lor. Why, what should change me?	I' 11
Bar. That which changes me:	And
But you, I know, are marble to retain
A feud. But when all is accomplish'd, when The old man is deposed, his name degraded,
His sons all dead, his family depress'd,
And you and yours triumphant, shall you sleep?
Lor. More soundly.
Bar. That's an error, and you'll find it	1
Ere you sleep with your fathers.
Lor They sleep not	A
In their accelerated graves, nor will 330	But
Till Foscari fills his Each night I see	Acc them Shall- fragming pound my couch and point	I
Stalk frowning round my couch, and, point-	1 1
ing towards The ducal palace, marshal me to vengeance	A
Bar. Fancy's distemperature ! There is	- no passion	1
More spectral or fantastical than Hate;	0
Not even its opposite, Love, so peoples air
With phantoms, as this madness of the heart.	Of
-	1
Enter an Officer
Lor Where go you, sirrah?	Beg
Offi. By the ducal order	Wa
To forward the preparatory rites	Till
For the late Foscari's interment. Bar. Their 340	To
Bar. Their $_{340}$ Vault has been often open'd of late years.	10
Lor. 'T will be full soon, and may be	Ente closed for ever.
Offi. May I pass on ?
Lor. You may.	0
Bar. How bears the Doge
This last calamity ?	Wi
Offi. With desperate firmness.
In presence of another he says little,	1.0
But I perceive his lips ove now and then;	Ac

- d once or twice I heard him, from the adjoining
- artment, mutter forth the words 'My son !'
- rce audibly. I must proceed. [Exit Officer This stroke Bar.
- ll move all Venice in his favour.
- Jor. Right! 350
- must be speedy: let us call together

e delegates appointed to convey e council's resolution.

- Bar. I protest ainst it at this moment
- Lor. As you please -
- take their voices on it ne'ertheless,
- d see whose most may sway them, yours or mine.
 - Excunt BARBARIGO and LOREDANO.

ACT V

SCENE I

The Dogs's A partment.

The DOGE and Attendants.

Att. My lord, the deputation is in waiting; t add, that if another hour would better cord with your will, they will make it

- theirs.
- Doge To me all hours are alike. Let them approach. [Exit Attendant
- An Officer. Prince ! I have done your bidding
- What command ? Doge.
- Off. A melancholy one to call the attendance
- - Doge True true true: I crave your pardon. I
- gin to fail in apprehension, and ax very old - old almost as my years.

1 now I fought them off, but they begin 10 overtake me.

ter the Deputation, consisting of Six of the Signory and the Chief of the Ten

Noble men, your pleasure? Chief of the Ten. In the first place, the Council doth condole ith the Doge on his late and private grief. Doge. No more — no more of that.

Chief of the Ten. Will not the Duke ccept the homage of respect?

Doge. I do I am ready to lay down my life for her, Accept it as 't is given - proceed. 'The Ten,' Chief of the Ten life ' But for my dignity - I hold it of With a selected gunta from the senate The whole republic; when the general will Of twenty-five of the best born patricians, Having deliberated on the state Of the republic, and the o'erwhelming answer; but it cannot cares Which, at this moment, doubly must oppress Avail you aught. Your years, so long devoted to your coun-Doge. try, Have judged it fitting, with all reverence, ment. What you decree — decree. Now to solicit from your wisdom (which Upon reflection must accord in this) The resignation of the ducal ring, Return to those who sent us? Which you have worn so long and venerably. Doge. And to prove that they are not ungrateful, we retire. nor Cold to your years and services, they add Enter an Attendant An appanage of twenty hundred golden 30 My lord. Ducats, to make retirement not less splen-Att. The noble dame Marina craves an audience. did Doge. My time is hers. Than should become a sovereign's retreat. Doge. Did I hear rightly? Enter MARINA Chief of the Ten. Need Is Doge No — Have you done? Need I say again? Mar. Chief_of the Ten. I have spoken. Perhaps you fain would be alone? Twenty-four Doge Hours are accorded you to give an answer Am now and evermore. But we will bear Doge I shall not need so many seconds. We Chief of the Ten. Mar. We will; and for the sake of those Will now retire. Stay! Four and twenty hours who are, Doge. Endeavour - Oh, my husband ! Will alter nothing which I have to say Chief of the Ten. Speak ! Doge. I cannot comfort thee. Doge. When I twice before reiterated My wish to abdicate, it was refused me: 40 Mar. So form'd for gentle privacy of life, And not alone refused, but ye exacted So loving, so beloved; the native of An oath from me that I would never more Renew this instance. I have sworn to die In full exertion of the functions, which blessing As my poor Foscari? Nothing was want-My country call'd me here to exercise, According to my honour and my coning Unto his happiness and mine save not science -To be Venetian I cannot break my oath. Or a prince's son. Chief of the Ten. Reduce us not Doge. To the alternative of a decree, other men's Instead of your compliance. Providence Imperfect happiness or high ambition, Doge. Prolongs my days to prove and chasten deadly. me: The country and the people whom he loved, But ye have no right to reproach my length

Of days, since every hour has been the country's.

- As I have laid down dearer things than
- Is manifest, then you shall all be answer'd. Chief of the Ten. We grieve for such an
- I can submit to all things, But nothing will advance; no, not a mo-60
- Chief of the Ten. With this, then, must
- You have heard me Chief of the Ten. With all due reverence [Exeunt the Deputation, etc
- - My lord, if I intrude —

Alone !

- Alone, come all the world around me, I
- 60
- Give it way;
- He might have lived,
- Another land, and who so bless'd and
- - Mar Yes; all things which conduce to
- By some strange destiny, to him proved
- The prince of whom he was the elder born, And ---

Doge. Soon may be a prince no longer.	Enter BARBARIGO and LOREDANO
Mar. How?	Bar. (to an Attendant) Where is the Doge. They have taken my son from me,	Doge ?
and now aim	Att This instant retired hence
At my too long worn diadem and ring.	With the illustrious lady his son's widow. Lor. Where?
Mar. Oh, the tyrants !	Att. To the chamber where the body
In such an hour too!	lies.
Doge. 'T is the fittest time;	Bar. Let us return, then.
An hour ago I should have felt it.	Lor. You forget, you cannot.
Mar. And	We have the implicit order of the Giunta
Will you not now resent it? - Oh, for vengeance !	To await their coming here, and join th in
But he, who, had he been enough pro- tected, 90	Their office they 'll be here soon after us. Bar. And will they press their answer on
Might have repaid protection in this mo-	the Doge?
ment,	Lor 'T was his own wish that all should
Cannot assist his father.	be done promptly 120
Doge. Nor should do so	He answer'd quickly, and must so be an-
Against his country, had he a thousand	swer'd; His dignity is look'd to, his estate lives Instead of that	Cared for — what would he more?
Instead of that $-$ Mar. They tortured from him This	Bar. Die in his robes:
May be pure patriotism. I am a woman:	He could not have lived long; but I have
To me my husband and my children were	done
Country and home I loved him — how I loved him !	My best to save his honours, and opposed This proposition to the last, though vainly.
I have seen him pass through such an ordeal as	Why would the general vote compel me hither ?
The old martyrs would have shrunk from:	Lor 'T was fit that some one of such dif- ferent thoughts
he is gone, And I, who would have given my blood for	From ours should be a witness, lest fal tongues him, Have nought to give but tears! But could	Should whisper that a harsh majority 130
I compass	Dreaded to have its acts beheld by others.
The retribution of his wrongs ! - Well,	Bar. And not less, I must needs think,
well;	for the sake
I have sons, who shall be men.	Of humbling me for my vain opposition.
Doge. Your grief distracts you.	You are ingenious, Loredano, in
Mar. I thought I could have borne it,	Your modes of vengeance, nay, poetical, A very Ovid in the art of hating;
when I saw him Bow'd down by such oppression; yes, I	'T is thus (although a secondary object,
thought	Yet hate has microscopic eyes) to you
That I would rather look upon his corse	I owe, by way of foil to the more zealous,
Than his prolong'd captivity; - I am	This undesired association in 140
punish'd	Your Giunta's duties.
For that thought now Would I were in his grave!	Lor. How ! - my Giunta ! Bar. Yours
Doge. I must look on him once more.	They speak your language, watch your nod
Mar. Come with me !	approve
Doge. Is he —	Your plans, and do your work. Are they
Mar. Our bridal bed is now his bier. 110	Lor. You talk unwarily. 'T were bes
Doge. And he is in his shroud ! Mar. Come, come, old man !	they hear not
Mar. Come, come, old man ! [Execut the Doge and MABINA.	This from you.

$\begin{array}{c} Bar. Oh, they 'll hear as much one day grom louder tongues than mine: they have grome beyond the rescription of the resc$
To the point ! 1 know of old the forms of office, [Pointing to the Ten's Deputation] — And gentle preludes to strong acts — Go on ! To part from hence upon the instant. Chuef of the Ten. You are no longer Doge; you are released To rashly ? 't will give scandal From your imperial oath as sovereign; 169 It is your province. — Sirs, bestir your services, the state allots the appanage	From louder tongues than mine: they have gone beyond Even their exorbitance of power; and when This happens in the most contemn'd and abject States, stung humanity will rise to check it. Lor. You talk but idly. Bar. That remains for proof. 150 Here come our colleagues. Enter the Deputation as before. Chief of the Ten. Is the Duke aware We seek his presence ? Att. He shall be inform'd. [Exit Attendant. Bar. The Duke is with his son. Chief of the Ten. If it be so, We will remit him till the rites are over. Let us return. 'T is time enough to-morrow. Lor. (aside to Bar.). Now the rich man's hell-fire upon your tongue, Unquench'd, unquenchable! I 'll have it torn From its vile babbling roots, till you shall utter Nothing but sobs through blood, for this !— Sage signors, I pray ye be not hasty. [Aloud to the others Bar. But be human ! 160 Lor. See, the Duke comes ! Enter the Doge Doge. I have obey'd your summons Chief of the Ten. We come once more to urge our past request. Doge. Mult to answer. Chief of the Ten. What ? Doge. Doge. Mult on answer. Chief of the Ten. Hear you then the last decree, Definitive and absolute ! Definitive and absolute ! Definitive and absolute ! Definitive and absolute !	hence, Under the penalty to see confiscated All your own private fortune. Doge That last clause, I am proud to say, would not enrich the treasury. Chief of the Ten. Your answer, Duke ! Lor. Your answer, Francis Foscari ! Doge. If I could have foreseen that my old age Was prejudical to the state, the chief Of the republic never would have shown 180 Himself so far ungrateful, as to place His own high dignity before his country; But this life having been so many years Not useless to that country, I would fain Have consecrated my last moments to her. But the decree being render'd, I obey Chief of the Ten If you would have the three days named extended, We willingly will lengthen them to eight, As sign of our esteem. Doge. Not eight hours, signor, Nor even eight minutes — There's the ducal ring, [Taking of his ring and cap. And there the ducal diadem. And so ry: The Adriatic's free to wed another. Chief of the Ten. Yet go not forth so quuckly. Doge. I am old, sir, And even to move but slowly must begin To move betimes. Methunks I see amongst you A face I know not — Senator ! your name, You, by your garb, Chief of the Forty ! Mem. Signor, I am the son of Marco Memmo. Doge. Ah ! Your father was my friend. — But sons and fathers ! — What, ho ! my servants there ! Atten My prince ! Doge. No prince —
Chief of the Ten. Hear you then the last decree,What, ho! my servants there !Definitive and absolute ! Doge.My prince !Definitive and absolute ! Doge.No prince !Doge.To the pointTo the point !1 know of old the forms of office,There are the princes of the prince ! Doge.And gentle preludes to strong acts Go on ! Chief of the Ten. You are no longer Doge; you are releasedTo part from hence upon the instant. Chi f of the TenChief of the Ten. You are no longer Doge; you are releasedChi f of the TenYour ducal robes must be put off; but for Your services, the state allots the appanageIt is your province Sirs, bestir your- selves:	I pray ye be not hasty. [Aloud to the others Bar. But be human ! 160 Lor. See, the Duke comes ! Enter the Doge Doge. I have obey'd your summons Chief of the Ten. We come once more to urge our past request. Doge. And I to answer. Chief of the Ten. What?	quickly. Doge. I am old, sır, And even to move but slowly must begin To move betimes. Methinks I see amongst you A face I know not — Senator ! your name, You, by your garb, Chief of the Forty ! Mem. Signor, I am the son of Marco Memmo. Doge. Ah !
	 Chief of the Ten. Hear you then the last decree, Definitive and absolute ! Doge. To the point — To the point ! 1 know of old the forms of office, And gentle preludes to strong acts — Go on ! Chief of the Ten. You are no longer Doge; you are released From your imperial oath as sovereign; 169 Your ducal robes must be put off; but for Your services, the state allots the appanage 	What, ho ! my servants there ! Atten My prince ! Doge. No prince — There are the princes of the prince ! [Pointing to the Ten's Deputation] — Prepare 201 To part from hence upon the instant. 201 Chi f of the Ten Why So rashly ? 't will give scandal Doge. It is your province. Sirs, bestir your-selves:

He means

With care, although 't is past all farther harm -But I will look to that myself.

Bar.

The body of his son.

And call Marina, Doge. My daughter !

Enter MARINA.

Get thee ready; we must mourn Doge. Elsewhere

Mar. And every where.

True; but in freedom, 210 Doge. Without these jealous spies upon the great. Signors, you may depart: what would you more?

We are going: do you fear that we shall bear The palace with us? Its old walls, ten times

As old as I am, and I'm very old,

Have served you, so have I, and I and they Could tell a tale; but I invoke them not To fall upon you ! else they would, as erst

The pillars of stone Dagon's temple on

The Israelite and his Philistine foes. 220

Such power I do believe there might exist In such a curse as mine, provoked by such

As you; but I curse not. Adieu, good signors !

May the next duke be better than the present.

- Lor. The present duke is Paschal Malipiero.
- Doge. Not till I pass the threshold of these doors.
- Lor. Saint Mark's great bell is soon about to toll

For his inauguration.

Earth and heaven ! Doge. Ye will reverberate this peal; and I

Live to hear this ! - the first doge who e'er heard 230

Such sound for his successor ! Happier he,

My attained predecessor, stern Faliero ----This insult at the least was spared him.

What ! Lor.

Do you regret a traitor? No-I merely Doge. Envy the dead.

Chief of the Ten. My lord, if you indeed Are bent upon this rash abandonment

Of the state's palace, at the least retire

By the private staircase, which conducts you towards

The landing-place of the canal.

No. I Doge. Will now descend the stairs by which I mounted

To sovereignty - the Giants' Stairs, on whose

Broad eminence I was invested duke.

My services have called me up those steps, The malice of my foes will drive me down them.

- There five and thirty years ago was I
- Install'd, and traversed these same halls, from which
- I never thought to be divorced except
- A corse a corse, it might be, fighting for them -
- But not push'd hence by fellow-citizens.
- But come; my son and I will go together -

He to his grave, and I to pray for mine. Chief of the Ten. What ! thus in public? Doge. I was publicly Elected, and so will I be deposed.

Marina! art thou willing

Mar. Here's my arm ! Doge. And here my staff: thus propp'd will I go forth.

Chief of the Ten. It must not be - the people will perceive it

Doge. The people ! - There's no people, you well know it,

Else you dare not deal thus by them or me. There is a populace, perhaps, whose looks

May shame you; but they dare not groan nor curse you, 260

Save with their hearts and eyes.

- Chief of the Ten. You speak in passion Else -
 - Doge. You have reason. I have spoken much
- More than my wont: it is a foible which

Was not of mine, but more excuses you,

Inasmuch as it shows that I approach

A dotage which may justify this deed Of yours, although the law does not, nor will.

Farewell, sirs !

You shall not depart without Bar. An escort fitting past and present rank We will accompany, with due respect, 270 The Doge unto his private palace. Say! My brethren, will we not?

Ay! - Ay!Different voices. You shall not Doge. Stir - in my train at least. I enter'd here As sovereign - I go out as citizen

By the same portals, but as citizen.	Doge. The bell tolls on ! - let 's hence -
All these vam ceremonies are base insults, Which only ulcerate the heart the more,	my bram s on fire ' Bar. I do beseech you, lean upon us !
Applying poisons there as antidotes.	Doge. No!
Pomp is for princes — I am none ! — That's false,	A sovereign should die standing. My poor boy !
1 am, but only to these gates. — Ah !	Off with your arms ! - That bell !
Lor. Hark!	[The DOGE drops down and dres.
[The great bell of St Mark's tolls Bar. The bell!	Mar. My God! My God!
Chief of the Ten St. Mark's, which tolls	Bar. (to Lor.). Behold, your work 's com- pleted !
for the election 281	Chief of the Ten. Is there then
Of Malipiero	No aid? Call in assistance !
Doge. Well I recognise	Att. 'T is all over.
The sound ! I heard it once, but once be- fore,	Chief of the Ten. If it be so, at least his obseques 310
And that is five and thirty years ago !	Shall be such as befits his name and nation,
Even then I was not young. Bar. Sit down, my lord !	His rank and his devotion to the duties
You tremble	Of the realm, while his age permitted him To do himself and them full justice. Bre-
Doge. 'T is the knell of my poor boy !	thren,
My heart aches bitterly.	Say, shall it not be so?
Bar. I pray you sit.	Bar. He has not had
Doge. No; my seat here has been a throne till now.	The misery to die a subject where
Marina, let us go.	He reign'd: then let his funeral rites be princely.
Mar. Most readily.	Chief of the Ten. We are agreed, then?
Doge (walks a few steps, then stops) I	All, except Lor., answer, Yes.
feel athirst — will no one bring me	Chief of the Ten. Heaven's peace be here 290	with him !
A cup of water ? Bar I—	Mar. Signors, your pardon: this is mock-
Mar. And I—	ery. Juggle no more with that poor remnant,
Lor. And I —	which, 320
[The DOGE takes a goblet from the hand of LOREDANO	A moment since, while yet it had a soul
Doge. I take yours, Loredano, from the hand	(A soul by whom you have increased your empire,
Most fit for such an hour as this.	And made your power as proud as was his Lor Why so ? Doge. 'T is said that our Venetian crystal	glory), You banish'd from his palace and tore down has	From his high place with such relentless
Such pure antipathy to poisons as	coldness;
To burst, if aught of venom touches it.	And now, when he can neither know these
You bore this goblet, and it is not broken.	honours,
Lor. Well, sir ! Doge. Then it is false, or you	Nor would accept them if he could, you, signors, are true.	Purpose with idle and superfluous pomp
For my own part, I credit neither; 't is	To make a pageant over what you tram-
An idle legend.	pled. 329
Mar. You talk wildly, and $_{300}$	A princely funeral will be your reproach,
Had better now be seated, nor as yet	And not his honour.
Depart Ah! now you look as look'd my husband '	Chief of the Ten Lady, we revoke not Our purposes so readily.
Bar. He sinks ! support him ! quick	Mo ⁻ I know it,
- a chair - support him !	As far as touches torturing the living.

I thought the dead had been beyond even non. Though (some, no doubt,) consign'd to powers which may Resemble that you exercise on earth. Leave hun to me; you would have done so for His dregs of life, which you have kindly shorten'd: It is my last of duties, and may prove A dreary comfort in my desolation. 340 Grief is fantastical, and loves the dead, And the apparel of the grave. Do you Chief of the Ten. Pretend still to this office ? Mar. I do. signor. Though his possessions have been all consumed In the state's service, I have still my dowry, Which shall be consecrated to his rites, And those of -She slops with agitation Chief of the Ten. Best retain it for your children. Mar. Ay, they are fatherless ! I thank you. Chief of the Ten. We Cannot comply with your request. His relics Shall be exposed with wonted pomp, and follow'd Unto their home by the new Doge, not clad As Doge, but simply as a senator. Mar. I have heard of murderers, who have interr'd Their victims; but ne'er heard, until this hour. Of so much splendour in hypocrisy O'er those they slew. I've heard of widows' tears ~ Alas ! I have shed some - always thanks to you ! I've heard of heirs in sables - you have left none To the deceased, so you would act the part Of such. Well, sirs, your will be done ! as one day, 360 I trust, Heaven's will be done too ! Chief of the Ten. Know you, lady, To whom ye speak, and perils of such speech ? Mar. I know the former better than yourselves; The latter - like yourselves; and can face both.

Wish you more funerals?

Bar. Heed not her rash words, Her circumstances must excuse her bearing. Chief of the Ten. We will not note them down. Bar. (turning to Lor., who is writing upon

- his tablets) What art thou writing,
- With such an earnest brow, upon thy tablets?
 - Lor. (pointing to the Doge's body). That he has paid me!
 - Chief of the Ten. What debt did he owe you?

Lor. A long and just one; Nature's debt and mine. [Curtain falls.

CAIN

A MYSTERY

'Now the Serpent was more subtil than any beast of the field which the Lord God had made '- Gen ch. in. v. 1.

то

SIR WALTER SCOTT, BART. THIS MYSTERY OF CAIN IS INSCRIBED, BY HIS OBLIGED FRIEND, AND FAITHFUL SERVANT, THE AUTHOR.

PREFACE

The following scenes are entitled 'A Mys. tery,' in conformity with the ancient title annexed to dramas upon similar subjects, which were styled 'Mysteries, or Moralities' The author has by zo means taken the same liberties with his subject which were common, formerly, as may be seen by any reader curious enough to refer to those very profane productions, whether in English, French, Italian, or Spanish. The author has endeavoured to preserve the language adapted to his characters, and where it is (and this is but rarely) taken from actual Scripture, he has made as little alteration, even of words, as the rhythm would permit. The reader will recollect that the book of Genesis does not state that Eve was tempted by a demon, but by 'the Serpent, and that only because he was 'the most subtil of all the beasts of the field 'Whatever interpretation the Rabbins and the Fathers may have put upon this, I take the words as I find them, and reply, with Bishop Watson upon similar occasions, when the Fathers were quoted to him, as Moderator in the schools of Cambridge, 'Behold the Book '' - holding up the Scripture It is to be recollected that my present subject has nothing to do with the New Testament, to which no reference can be here made without anachronism With the poems upon similar topics, I have not been recently familiar. Since I was twenty I have never read Milton, but I had read him so frequently before, that this may make httle difference. Gesner's Death of Abel I have never read since I was eight years of age. The general impression of my at Aberdeen recollection is delight, but of the contents I remember only that Cain's wife was called Mahala, and Abel's Thırza in the following pages I have called them 'Adah' and 'Zillah,' the earliest female names which occur in Genesis, they were those of Lamech's wives those of Cain and Abel are not called by their names. Whether, then, a councidence of subject may have caused the same in expression, I know nothing, and care as little

The reader will please to bear in mind (what few choose to recollect), that there is no allusion to a future state in any of the books of Moses, nor indeed in the Old Testament. For a reason for this extraordinary omnssion he may consult Warburton's Divine Legation; whether satisfactory or not, no better has yet been assigned I have therefore supposed it new to Cain, without, I hope, any perversion of Holy Writ.

With regard to the language of Lucifer, it was difficult for me to make him talk like a clergyman upon the same subjects, but I have done what I could to restrain him within the bounds of spiritual politeness. If he disclaims having tempted Eve in the shape of the Serpent, it is only because the book of Genesis has not the most distant allusion to any thing of the kind, but merely to the Serpent in his serpentine capacity

Note - The reader will perceive that the author has partly adopted in this poem the notion of Cuvier, that the world had been destroyed several times before the creation of This speculation, derived from the difman ferent strata and the bones of enormous and unknown animals found in them, is not contrary to the Mosaic account, but rather confirms it, as no human bones have yet been discovered in those strata, although those of many known animals are found near the remains of the unknown. The assertion of Lucifer, that the pre-Adamite world was also peopled by rational beings much more intelligent than man, and proportionably powerful to the mammoth, etc., etc , 18, of course, a poetical fiction to help him to make out his case.

I ought to add, that there is a 'tramelo-gedia' of Alfieri, called Abele. — I have never read that, nor any other of the posthumous works of the writer, except his Life RATENA. Sect 20. 1821

DRAMATIS PERSONÆ

MEN { Adam Cain Abel SPIRITS { Angel of the Lord Lucifer WOMEN { Eve Adam Zillar

ACT I

SCFNE I

The Land without Paradise - Time, Sunrise

- ADAM, EVE, CAIN, ABEL, ADAH, ZILLAH, offering c. Sacrifice
- Adam. God, the Eternal ! Infinite ! Ali wise ! --

Who out of darkness on the deep didst make Light on the waters with a word — all hal! Jehovah, with returning light, all hal!

- Eve. God ! who didst name the day, and separate
- Morning from night, till then divided never.
- Who didst divide the wave from wave, and call
- Part of thy work the firmament all hail ! .4 bel. God ! who didst call the elements into

Earth, ocean, air, and fire, and with the day And night, and worlds which these illuminate

- Or shadow, madest beings to enjoy them, And love both them and thee — all hail! all hail !
 - Adah God, the Eternal! Parent of all things!
- Who didst create these best and beauteous beings.
- To be beloved more than all save thee —
- Let me love thee and them all hail ! all hail !
 - Zillah Oh, God ! who loving, making, blessing all,

Yet didst permit the Serpent to creep in, 19 And drive my father forth from Paradise,

Keep us from further evil:-Hail ! all hail ! Adam. Son Cain, my first-born, wherefore art thou silent?

Cain. Why should I speak? To pray. Adam. Have ye not pray'd? Cain. Adam. We have, most fervently. And loudly: I Cain. Have heard you. So will God, I trust. A dam.Amen! Abel. Adam. But thou, my eldest born, art silent still. Cain. 'T is better I should be so Wherefore so? Adam Cain I have nought to ask Nor aught to thank for? Adam. Cain No Adam. Dost thou not live? Must I not die? Cain. Eve.Alas! The fruit of our forbidden tree begins 30 To fall. Adam And we must gather it agam. Oh, God ! why didst thou plant the tree of knowledge ? Can. And wherefore pluck'd ye not the tree of life? Ye might have then defied him Adam.Oh! my son, Blaspheme not. these are serpent's words Why not? Cain. The snake spoke truth \cdot it was the tree of knowledge; It was the tree of life · knowledge is good, And life is good; and how can both be evil? Eve My boy ! thou speakest as I spoke, in sın. Before thy birth: let me not see renew'd 40 My misery in thine. I have repented Let me not see my offspring fall into The snares beyond the walls of Paradise, Which e'en in Paradise destroy'd his parents Content thee with what is. Had we been so. Thou now hadst been contented. — Oh, my son! Adam. Our orisons completed, let us hence, Each to his task of toil - not heavy, though Needful: the earth is young, and yields us kindly Her fruits with little labour. EveCam, my son, Behold thy father cheerful and resign'd, 51 And do as he doth. [Excunt ADAM and EVE.

Wilt thou not, my brother? Zıllah. Abel Why wilt thou wear this gloom upon thy brow, Which can avail thee nothing, save to rouse The Eternal anger? My belovèd Cain, A dah.Wilt thou frown even on me? Cain. No, Adah! no; I fam would be alone a little while Abel, I'm sick at heart · but it will pass. Precede me, brother - I will follow shortly. And you, too, sisters, tarry not behind; 60 Your gentleness must not be harshly met. I'll follow you anon Adah. If not, I will Return to seek you here Abel The peace of God Be on your spirit, brother ! [Excunt ABEL, ZILLAH, and ADAH Cain (solus) And this is Life - Toil ! and wherefore should I toil ? - because My father could not keep his place in Eden. What had I done in this ? - I was unborn. I sought not to be born; nor love the state To which that birth has brought me. Why dıd he Yield to the serpent and the woman? or, Yielding, why suffer? What was there in this? 71 The tree was planted, and why not for him? If not, why place him near it, where it grew, The fairest in the centre ? They have but One answer to all questions, "T was his will, And he is good.' How know I that? Because He is all-powerful, must all-good, too, follow ? I judge but by the fruits — and they are bitter ---Which I must feed on for a fault not mine Whom have we here 9 — A shape like to the angels, Yet of a sterner and a sadder aspect Of spiritual essence: why do I quake? Why should I fear him more than other spirits, Whom I see daily wave their fiery swords Before the gates round which I linger oft, In twilight's hour, to catch a glimpse of those

Gardens which are my just inheritance, Lucifer. Ere the night closes o'er the inhibited walls Cain. And ve ?And the immortal trees which overtop Lucifer. The cherubim-defended battlements ? Cain. If I shrink not from these, the fire-arm'd Lucifer. We are mighty. angels. Cain. Why should I quail from him who now Lucifer. approaches? Yet he seems mightier far than them, nor Lucifer. less Beauteous, and yet not all as beautiful Thou ! As he hath been, and might be: sorrow seems might, what art thou? Half of his immortality And is it So? and can aught grieve save humanity? made thee, and He cometh. Enter LUCIFER Cain. Lucifer. Mortal! Thou look'st almost a god; and -Cain Spirit, who art thou ? Lucifer. Lucifer. Master of spirits. Cain. And being so, canst thou Save what I am. He conquer'd; let him Leave them, and walk with dust? reign! Lucifer. I know the thoughts 100 Cain. Who? Of dust, and feel for it, and with you. Cain. How ! Cain. You know my thoughts? They are the thoughts of all His seraphs sing; and so my father saith. Lucifer. Worthy of thought; — 't is your immortal part and say on pain Which speaks within you. Cain. What immortal part? Of spirits and of men. This has not been reveal'd the tree of life Cain. Was withheld from us by my father's folly, While that of knowledge, by my mother's tality haste, Was pluck'd too soon; and all the fruit is in death ! Lucifer They have deceived thee; thou shalt hve Cain. I live, lieve -But live to die: and, living, see no thing 110 We are immortal !- nay, he'd have us so, To make death hateful, save an innate clinging, A loathsome, and yet all invincible great -Instinct of life, which I abhor, as I Despise myself, yet cannot overcome ---And so I live Would I had never lived ! make Lucifer. Thou livest, and must live for ever · think not let him The earth, which is thine outward cov'ring, Creating worlds, to make eternity is

- Existence it will cease, and thou wilt be No less than thou art now. ence
- Cain No less ' and why 119 No more?

It may be thou shalt be as we.

- Are everlasting.
- Are ye happy?

Are ye happy?

No; art thou?

- Cain. How should I be so? Look on me! Poor clay !
- And thou pretendest to be wretched !
 - Cain. I am: and thou, with all thy
 - Lucifer. One who aspired to be what
- Would not have made thee what thou art. Ah !
- I am none:
- And having fail'd to be one, would be nought
 - 130

Lucifer. Thy sire's Maker and the earth's. And heaven's,

- And all that in them is. So I have heard
- Lucifer They say what they must sing

Of being that which I am - and thou art -

- And what is that? Lucifer Souls who dare use their immor-
- Souls who dare look the Omnipotent tyrant

His everlasting face, and tell him that

His evil is not good ! If he has made, 140 As he saith - which I know not, nor be-

But, if he made us — he cannot unmake:

- That he may torture: let him! He is
- But, in his greatness, is no happier than
- We in our conflict! Goodness would not
- Evil; and what else hath he made? But

Sit on his vast and solitary throne,

Less burthensome to his immense exist-150

And unparticipated solitude;

Let him crowd orb on orb: he is alone

Indefinite, indissoluble tyrant; Save with the truth was not the tree, the Could he but crush himself, 't were the best tree Of knowledge ? and was not the tree of life boon Still fruitful? Did I bid her pluck them He ever granted: but let hun reign on, And multiply himself in misery ' not? Spirits and men, at least we sympathise --Did I plant things prohibited within And, suffering in concert, make our pangs, The reach of beings innocent, and curious Innumerable, more endurable, By their own innocence? I would have By the unbounded sympathy of all made ve T60 With all! But He / so wretched in his Gods; and even He who thrust ye forth, height, so thrust ye Because 'ye should not eat the fruits of So restless in his wretchedness, must still Create, and re-create lıfe, Cain. Thou speak'st to me of things And become gods as we.' Were those his words ? which long have swum In visions through my thought: I never Cain. They were, as I have heard from those who heard them, could Reconcile what I saw with what I heard. In thunder. My father and my mother talk to me Lucifer Then who was the demon? He Who would not let ye live, or he who would Of serpents, and of fruits and trees: I see Have made ye live for ever in the joy The gates of what they call their Paradise Guarded by fiery-sworded cherubim, And power of knowledge? 170 Which shut them out, and me: I feel the Cain. Would they had snatch'd both The fruits, or neither ! weight Of daily toil and constant thought: I look Lucifer. One is yours already: Around a world where I seem nothing, with The other may be still. Thoughts which arise within me, as if they Cain. How so? Lucifer. Could master all things: - but I thought alone Yourselves, in your resistance. This misery was mine. — My father is Tamed down; my mother has forgot the Quench the mind, if the mind will be itself mind And centre of surrounding things - 't is Which made her thirst for knowledge at made To sway the risk Of an eternal curse; my brother is Cain But didst thou tempt my parents? A watching shepherd boy, who offers up Lucifer. Poor clay ! what should I tempt them for, The firstlings of the flock to him who bids or how? 181 Cam. They say the serpent was a spirit. The earth yield nothing to us without sweat: Lucifer. Saith that? It is not written so on high: My sister Zillah sings an earlier hymn Than the birds' matins; and my Adah, my The proud One will not so far falsify, Own and beloved, she, too, understands not Though man's vast fears and little vanity The mind which overwhelms me: never till Would make him cast upon the spiritual Now met I aught to sympathise with me. nature 'T is well - I rather would consort with His own low failing. The snake was the spirits. snake -Lucifer. And hadst thou not been fit by No more; and yet not less than those he thine own soul tempted, For such companionship, I would not now In nature being earth also - more in wisdom, Since he could overcome them, and fore-Have stood before thee as I am: a serpentknew Had been enough to charm ye, as before. The knowledge fatal to their narrow joys. Think'st thou I'd take the shape of things Cain. Ah ! didst thou tempt my mother? Lucifer. I tempt none, that die?

By being

Nothing

I?

Who

Cain. But the thing had a demon?

Lucifer. He but woke one In those he spake to with his forky tongue.

I tell thee that the serpent was no more Than a mere serpent: ask the cherubim

- Who guard the tempting tree. When thousand ages 230
- Have roll'd o'er your dead ashes, and your seed's,
- The seed of the then world may thus array
- Their earliest fault in fable, and attribute To them a shape I scorn, as I scorn all
- That bows to him who made things but to bend

Before his sullen, sole eternity;

- But we, who see the truth, must speak it. Thy
- Fond parents listen'd to a creeping thing,
- And fell. For what should spirits tempt them? What

Was there to envy in the narrow bounds

Of Paradise, that spirits who pervade 241

Space — but I speak to thee of what thou know'st not,

With all thy tree of knowledge.

- Cain. But thou canst not Speak aught of knowledge which I would
- not know, And do not thirst to know, and bear a mind To know.

Lucifer. And heart to look on ?

Can. Be it proved. Lucifer. Darest thou to look on Death? Can He has not yet Been seen.

Lucifer. But must be undergone.

Cain. My father

- Says he is something dreadful, and my mother
- Weeps when he 's named; and Abel lifts his eyes 250
- To heaven, and Zillah casts hers to the earth,

And sighs a prayer; and Adah looks on me, And speaks not.

Lucifer. And thou?

Cain. Thoughts unspeakable Crowd in my breast to burning, when I hear Of this almighty Death, who is, it seems,

Inevitable. Could I wrestle with him?

I wrestled with the lion, when a boy,

In play, till he ran roaring from my gripe Lucifer It has no shape; but will absorb all things

That bear the form of earth-born being

Cain

I thought it was a being: who could do 261 Such evil things to beings save a being?

Lucifer Ask the Destroyer.

Cain Who?

- Lucifer. The Maker call him Which name thou wilt. he makes but to destroy
 - Cain I knew not that, yet thought it, since I heard

Of death; although I know not what it is, Yet it seems horrible I have look'd out In the vast desolate night in search of him; And when I saw gigantic shadows in 269 The umbrage of the walls of Eden, chequer'd By the far-flashing of the cherubs' swords,

- I watch'd for what I thought his coming, for With fear rose longing in my heart to know What 't was which shook us all -- but no-
- thing came And then I turn'd my weary eyes from off

Our native and forbidden Paradise,

- Up to the lights above us, in the azure,
- Which are so beautiful: shall they, too, due?
 - Lucifer. Perhaps but long outlive both thine and thee
 - Can I'm glad of that: I would not have them die - 280
- They are so lovely. What is death? I fear,
- I feel, it is a dreadful thing; but what,
- I cannot compass: 't is denounced against us.
- Both them who sunn'd and sinn'd not, as an ill ---
- What Ill?

Lucifer To be resolved into the earth. Cain. But shall I know it?

Lucifer. As I know not death, I cannot answer.

Cain Were I quiet earth

That were no evil: would I ne'er had been Aught else but dust '

- Lucifer. That is a grovelling wish, Less than thy father's, for he wish'd to
- know. 290 Com But not to live or wherefore

Cain But not to live, or wherefore pluck'd he not

The life-tree ?

Lucifer He was hinder'd

- Cam. Deadly error ! Not to snatch first that fruit: — but ere he pluck'd
- The knowledge, he was ignorant of death

Lucifer.

Alas! I scarcely now know what it is, And yet I fear it - fear I know not what ! Lucifer. And I, who know all things, fear nothing. see What is true knowledge. Wilt thou teach me all? Cain Lucifer. Ay, upon one condition Name it Cain. That Lucıfer Thou dost fall down and worship me - thy Lord. 300 Cain. Thou art not the Lord my father worships. Lucifer No. Cain. His equal? Lucifer No; - I have nought in common with him ! Nor would · I would be aught above --beneath -Aught save a sharer or a servant of His power. I dwell apart; but I am great · ---Many there are who worship me, and more Who shall - be thou amongst the first Cain. I never As yet have bow'd unto my father's God, Although my brother Abel oft implores 309 Why should I bow to thee? Lucifer. Hast thou ne'er bow'd To him? Cain. Have I not said it? - need I say it? Could not thy mighty knowledge teach thee that? Lucifer. He who bows not to him has bow'd to me ! Cain. But I will bend to neither. Ne'er the less, Lucifer. Thou art my worshipper: not worshipping Him makes thee mine the same. Cain And what is that? Lucifer Thou'lt know here - and hereafter. Cain. Let me but Be taught the mystery of my being. Follow Lucifer Where I will lead thee But I must retire 320 Cain. To till the earth - for I had promised -What? Lucifer. Cain. To cull some first-fruits. Why? Lucifer. Cain To offer up With Abel on an altar.

thee? Cain. Yes -But Abel's earnest prayer has wrought upon me; The offering is more his than mine — and Adah-Lucifer Why dost thou hesitate? Cain. She is my sister, Born on the same day, of the same womb; and She wrung from me, with tears, this promise; and Rather than see her weep, I would, methinks, 330 Bear all - and worship aught. Then follow me ! Lucifer Cain. I will. Enter ADAH Adah. My brother, I have come for thee: It is our hour of rest and joy — and we Have less without thee. Thou hast labour'd not This morn; but I have done thy task: the fruts Are ripe, and glowing as the light which ripens. Come away Cain. Seest thou not? A dahI see an angel, We have seen many: will he share our hour Of rest ? - he is welcome Cain. But he is not like The angels we have seen Are there, then, others ? Adah But he is welcome, as they were: they deıgn'd 34I To be our guests — will he? Cain (to Lucifer). Wilt thou ? Lucifer. I ask Thee to be mine. Cain. I must away with him. Adah And leave us? Ay Cain. Adah. And me? Belovèd Adah! Cain. Adah. Let me go with thee. Lucifer No, she must not. Adah Who Art thou that steppest between heart and heart? Cam He is a god. Adah How know'st thou?

Saidst thou not

Thou ne'er hadst bent to him who made

Adal. So dul the serpent, and it hed Lucyfer Thon errest, Adah !- was not the tree that Lucyfer Thon errest, Adah !- was not the tree that $Lucyfer Thon errest, Adah !- was not the tree that Lucyfer And yet that grief is knowledge so he lied not so he lied not$	Cam. A god.	He speaks like	Or virtue? — if it doth, we are the slaves
Lucyfer Thou errest, Adah !- was not the tree that the ere that Of knowledge? Adah. Ay to our eternal sorrow. Lucyfer And yet that grief is knowledge so he lied not: Sadah. But all we know of it has gather'd Wide comet not. Cain ! walk not with this spirit. Bear with what we have borne, and love me -I Lucyfer. More than thy mother and thy sire? Adah. Oh, my mother: Lucyfer. More than thy mother and thy sire? Lucyfer. Not as thou loves Cain. Adah. Oh, my mother: Lucyfer. Not as that a sin, too? Lucyfer. Not as thou loves Cain. Adah. Oh, my mother ! thou that love Out of thes love? have they not drawn their milk Out of the solor? have they not drawn their milk Tore? The sin 1 speak of is not of ours. Lucyfer. The sin 1 speak of is not of my making, Adad. What is the sin which is not Mortaitty. Adad. What is the sin which is not Mortaity. Adad. What is the sin which is not Mortaity. Ad		e servent, and it lied	Of — Lucifer Higher things than we are slaves:
the tree that Of knowledge? Adah. Ay to our eternal sorrow. Lucy'er And yet that grief is knowledge — so he lied not: — so he lied not:	Lucifer Thou errest, Adah !- was not
Of knowledge ?notAdah.Ay - to our eternal sorrow, Lucyfer And yet that grief is knowledge — so he lied not:not
Lucyfer And yet that grief is knowledge — so he lied not: — so he l	Of knowledge?
$\begin{array}{c} - \text{ so he lied not:} & 331\\ \text{ And if hed deletay you, 't was with truth;}\\ \text{ And truth m its own essence cannot be}\\ \text{ But good.} & 321\\ \hline & 321\$		- to our eternal sorrow.
And if he did betray you, 't was with truth; And truth m its own essence cannot be but good. Adah. But all we know of it has gather'd Evil on ill. expulsion from our home, And dread, and toil, and sweat, and heavi- ness; Remorse of that which was — and hope of that this spirit. Bear with what we have borne, and love me — I Love thee. Lucyfer. More than thy mother and thy sure? Adah. I do Is that a sm, too? Lucyfer. More than thy mother and thy sure? Adah. I do Is that a sm, too? Lucyfer. Not as thou lovest Cain. Adah. Oh, my God! Shall they not love and bring forth things that love Out of ther love? have they not ther as that love Out of ther love? have they not ther as that love Out of ther love? have they not ther as that love Out of ther love? have they not ther as that love Out of ther love? have they not ther as that love Out of ther love? have they not ther as that love Out of ther love? have they not ther as that love Core thes. Lucyfer. Not as I love thee, my Cain' go Thoms which will love each other? and In multiplying our being multiply 377 Them? — And as I love thee, my Cain' go not Forth with this spirit; he is not of ours. Lucyfer. The sin I speak of is not of my making, And cannot be a sin in you — whate'er It seem in those who will replace ye m Mortalty. Adah. What is the sin which is not Mortalty. Adah. What is the sin which is not Mortalty. Adah. What is the sin which is not More and hee seraphs; he looks not The clerubs and the seraphs; he looks not	Lucifer And ye	t that grief is knowledge
And truth m its own essence cannot be But good. Adah. But all we know of it has gather'd adah. But all we know of it has gather'd adah. To that which is ommpotent, and not from love, But terror and self-hope Adah. We it is omnipotente. Adah. The answer is some of that which was — and hope of that Which cometh not. Cain ! walk not with this spirit. Bear with what we have borne, and love me - I Love thee. Adah. To that which is omnipotent, because Lucyter. Was it so in Eden ? Adah. Fiend ! tempt me not with beauty; that our farrer Than was the serpent, and as false Lucyter. More than thy mother and thy sure ? Adah I do Is that a sm, too ? Lucyter. Nore than thy mother and thy sure ? Adah I do Is that a sm, too ? Lucyter. Nore than thy mother and thy sure ? Adah. On, my mother ! thou Adah. On, my mother ! thou Hast pluck'd a truit more fatal to thine off- spring Than to thyself ; thou at the least hast pass'd Thy yout in Paradise, m innocent Adah. On, my God ! Shall they not love and bring forth things that love Out of the slowen ? was not he, their father, hour With me ? did we not love each other ? and hour With me ? did we not love each other? and Lucyter. The sm I speak of is not of ours. Lucyter. The sm I speak of is not of ours. Lucyter. The sm I speak of is not of my making, And cannot be a sin in you — whate'er It seem in those who will replace ye m Mortality. Adah. What is the sin which is not
But good. Adah. But all we know of it has gather'd Evil on il. expulsion from our home, And dread, and toil, and sweat, and heavi- ness; Remorse of that which was — and hope of that But terror and self-hope Adah. Onumipotence Must be all goodness. Lucyfer. Was it so in Eden ? Adah. Fiend ' tempt me not with beauty; thou art farer Than was the serpent, and as false Lucyfer. More than thy mother and thy sure ? Adah. The in the same to be as min you — whate'er It one day while be in your children. Adah. Oh, my mother ' thou sure ? Adah. Oh, my mother ' thou Hast pluek'd a fruit more fatal to thine off- spring Than to thy self ; thou at the least hast pass'd Lucyfer. Not as thou lovest Cain. Adah. Oh, my daghter love her brother Enoch ? Lucyfer. Not as thou lovest Cain. Adah. Oh, my God ' Shall they not love and bring forth things that love Out of the same sole womb, in the same hour With me ? did we not love each other ? and In multiplying our being multiply 377 Thems which will love each other as we love Forth with this spirit; he is not of ours. Lucyfer The sain 1 speak of is not of my making, And cannot be a sin in you — whate'er It seem in those who will replace ye m Mortalty. Adah. What is the sin which is not	And truth in its or	ay you, t was with truth;
dada. But all we know of it has gather'd gather'dBut terror and self-hope $dada$. Omnipotence $Adat$. Evel on ill. expulsion from our home, And dread, and toil, and sweat, and heavi- ness; $Adat$. What is the sin which is notAnd dread, and toil, and sweat, and heavi- ness; $Adat$. Such as to in Eden ? $Adah$. Fiend 'tempt me not with beauty; thou at fairer Than was the serpent, and as false Lucyfer. More than thy mother and thy sire ? $Adah$ I do Is that a sin, too ? Lucyfer. More than thy mother and thy sire ? $Adah$ I do Is that a sin, too ? Lucyfer. Not as thou lovest Cain. $Adah$. Oh, my God!Mast be all goodness. Lucyfer. More than thy mother and thy sire ? $Adah$ I do Is that a sin, too ? Lucyfer. Not as thou lovest Cain. $Adah$. Oh, my God!Oh, my God! Than to thyself ; thou at the least hast pass'd Thy youth in Paradise, in innocent And happy intercourse with happy spirits: But we, thy children, ignorant of Eden, Are girt about by demons, who assume The words of God and tempt us with our ownOut of ther love? have they not drawn hourOut of ther love? have they not drawn their milkMit hee each other as we hourWith me? did we not love each other as we loveJooJooThem? — And as I love thee, my Cain 'go notJooJooThem? — And as I love thee, my Cain 'go making, Adah. What is the sin which is not odtJooJooMach. What is the sin which is not dah.JooJooAdah.Nearer, and nearer: — Cain — Cain — save me from him: in his eye And keedles, harmless wand yed ? This is no notJooMust dreads my Adah? This is no ut making, Ada		wir essence cannot be gather'd Evil on ill. expulsion from our home, And dread, and toil, and sweat, and heavi- ness; Remorse of that which was — and hope of that Which cometh not. Cain ! walk not with this spirit. Bear with what we have borne, and love me — I Love thee. Lucifer. More than thy mother and thy sire ? Adah I do Is that a sin, too ? Lucifer. I tone day will be in your children. Adah. Mast be all goodness. Lucifer. Must be all goodness. Lucifer. Must may state serpent, and as false Lucifer. Lucifer. I tone day will be in your children. Adah. Must be all goodness. Lucifer. Must may state serpent, and as false Lucifer. Lucifer. No, not yet: It one day will be in your children. Adah. Must be all goodness. Lucifer. Must may state serpent, and as false Lucifer. Maka. Must be all goodness. Lucifer. Must have serpent, and as false Lucifer. Adah. Must be serpent, and as false Lucifer. Mast pluck'd a fruit more fatal to thine off- spring Than to thyself; thou at the least hast pass'd Thy youth in Paradise, in innocent Adah. Must be all goodness. Lucifer. Must be all goodness. Lucifer. Must he show of your mother: bears she not the spring Than to thyself; thou at the least hast mass the verify of God and tempt us with our own Out of their love? There vas for God and tempt us with our own Nearer. Must happy intercourse with happy spirits: But we, thy children, ignorant of Eden, Are gurt about by demons, who assume The work'd on by the snake in thy most fush'd I wok upon him with a pleasing fear, And yet I fly not from him:: in his eye There is a fastening attraction which Fixes my futtering eyes on his; my heart Beats quick; he awes me, and yet draws me near, Mat dreads my Adah ? This is no ull spirit. Adah. What is the sin which is not Must be all goodness. Adah. The low so dow on the seraphs; he looks not		Il we know of it has Evil on ill. expulsion from our home, And dread, and toil, and sweat, and heavi- neess; Remorse of that which was — and hope of that Which cometh not. Cain ! walk not with this spirit. Bear with what we have borne, and love me — I Love thee. Love thee.
ness; Remorse of that which was — and hope of that $Adah$. Fiend 't tempt me not with beauty; thou art farerRemorse of that which was — and hope of that $Adah$. Fiend 't tempt me not with beauty; thou art farerWhich cometh not. Cain ! walk not with ths spurit. $Adah$. The may as the serpent, and as false Love thee.Bear with what we have borne, and love me — I $Adah$. The may as the serpent, and as false Love thee.Love thee. $Adah$. I do Is that a sin, too ? stre?Love free. $adah$. The first function of the same sole work children. Adah.AdahWhat !Must not my daughter love her brother Ehcoch ? Mah . What !Madh. Son of yeas that loveMy God !Shall they not love and bring forth things that love Mah . Why fur me ? did we not love each other ? and hourWith me ? did we not love each other ? and In multiplying our being multiply tove Them? — And as I love thee, my Cain ! ow there? $Adah$. What is the sin which is notProrth with this spirit; he is not of ours. Lucyfer The sun I speak of is not of making, Adah. What is the sin which is not $Adah$. He is not God — nor God's. I have beeled The cherubs and the seraphs; he looks not		sion from our home,
Remores of that which was — and hope of thatthatthust	And dread, and to	oil, and sweat, and heavi-thatThan was the serpent, and as falseWhich cometh not. Cain ! walk not with this spirt.Than was the serpent, and as falseBear with what we have borne, and love $me - I$ As true.Bear with what we have borne, and love $me - I$ As true.Bear with what we have borne, and love $me - I$ As true.Bear with what we have borne, and love $me - I$ As true.Bear with what we have borne, and love $me - I$ As true.Bear with what we have borne, and love $me - I$ As true.Love fer.More than thy mother and thy sure ?SofAdahIdo Is that as in, too ?Adah.Lucyfer.Not as thou love children. $Adah$.Oh, my God !Must not my daughter love her brother Enoch?What !Must not my daughter love her brother that loveOh, my God !Shall they not love and bring forth things that loveOh, my God !Out of these soen ? was not he, their father, Born of the same sole womb, m the same hourAnd heedless, harmless wantonness of bliss. I cannot answer this immortal thing Which stands before me; I cannot abhor him.With me ? did we not love each other as we loveJoveThem ? — And as I love thee, my Cain 'go notJoveThe word is a sin in you — whate'er It seem in those who will replace ye in Mortality.JowAdah.What is the sin which is notMathat.What is the sin which is notHore chalts at the seraphs; he looks not Which cometh not. Cain ! walk not with this spirit. $Loutfer$ As true.Bear with what we have borne, and love me — I $Loutfer$ $Loutfer$ As true.Bear with what we have borne, and love me — I $Loutfer$ $Loutfer$ $Loutfer$ $Loutfer$ LoutferMore than thy mother and thy sure ? 360 $Adah$ $Oh, my mother ! thouLoutferNor that a sm, too ?LoutferAdahAoh, not yet:It one day will be in your children.AdahWhat !Hast pluck'd a fruit more fatal to thine off-springMust not my daughter love her brotherEnoch ?Than to thyself ; thou at the least hastpass'dMust not my daughter love her brotherEnoch ?That loveOut of their love ?Nh, my God'Shall they not love and bring forth thingsthat loveOut of the same sole womb, m the samehourOut of the same sole womb, m the samehourNonWith me ? did we not love each other ? andln multiplying our being multiplymot370Them ? — And as I love thee, my Cain 'gonotI love thee, my Cain 'gonotThem ? — And as I love thee, my Cain 'gomaking,I love thee, my Cain 'gonotForth with this spirit; he is not of ours.Loutfer The sun I speak of is not of mymaking,I love the is not of ours.Loutfer The sun I speak of is not of mymaking,And cannot be a sin in you — whate'erIt seem in those who will replace ye unMortality.Mat. He is not God — nor God's. I havebeheldMat. What is the sin which is notThe cherubs and the seraphs; he looks not$		vhich was — and hope of this spirit. Bear with what we have borne, and love me - I Love thee. Lucyfer. More than thy mother and thy sure? Adah I do Is that a sm, too? Lucyfer No, not yet: It one day will be in your children. Adah Verter It one day will be in your children. Adah What I do Is that a sm, too? Lucyfer No, not yet: It one day will be in your children. Adah Verter It we they holdren, Isoration of Eden, Are girt about by demons, who assume The words of God and tempt us with our own Shall they not love and bring forth things that love Out of their nore? Not not this bosom ? was not he, their father, Born of the same sole womb, in the same hour With me? did we not love each other as we love Them? — And as I love thee, my Cain 'go not Forth with this spirit; he is not of ours. Lucyfer The sun I speak of is not of my making, And cannot be a sin in you — whate'er It seem in those who will replace ye un Mortality. Adah. What is the sin which is not		ot Coin I walk not with Bear with what we have borne, and love me — IKnowledge391Love thee.JadahOh, my mother ' thouLucyfer.More than thy mother and thy sure ?JadahOh, my mother ' thouAdahI do Is that a sm, too ?Jadah.Oh, ny mother ' thouLucyferNo, not yet:It one day will be in your children.Adah.Oh, my mother ' thouAdahWhat !Must not my daughter love her brother Encoch ?What !Thay youth in Paradise, m innocentAdah.Oh, my God 'Shall they not love and bring forth things that loveOut of ther love ? have they not drawn their milkOut of the same sole womb, m the same hourJose and the same sole womb, m the same hourJose and as I love thee, my Cain ' go notJose and as I love thee, my Cain ' go notJook upon him with a pleasing fear, And yet I fly not from hm: in his eye There is a fastening attraction which Fixes my fluttering eyes on his; my heart Beats guuck; he awes me, and yet draws me near, Nearer, and nearer: — Cain — Cain — save me from hm!Nearer, and nearer: — Cain — Cain — save me from hm!Nearer, and cannot be a sin in you — whate'er It seem in those who will replace ye m Mortality. Adah.Must is the sin which is notHeerbes and the seraphs; he looks not		M. Calli : Walk not with me — I Love thee. Love thee. Lucifer. More than thy mother and thy sure? Adah I do Is that a sin, too? Adah I do Is that a sin, too? Adah I do Is that a sin, too? Lucifer Not as thou love children. Adah What ! Must not my daughter love her brother Enoch? Lucifer. Not as thou lovest Cain. Adah. Oh, my God ! Shall they not love and bring forth things that love Out of their love? have they not drawn their milk Out of this bosom? was not he, their father, Born of the same sole womb, in the same hour With me? did we not love each other ? and In multiplying our being multiply 370 Thems? — And as I love thee, my Cain ' go not Forth with this spirit; he is not of ours. Lucifer The sm I speak of is not of making, And cannot be a sin in you — whate'er It seem in those who will replace ye m Mortality. Adah. What is the sin which is not Of good and evil? Adah Genneta as the sin which is not Matah. What is the sin which is not Of good and evil? Adah (annot be a sin in you — whate'er It seem in those who will replace ye m Mortality. Adah. What is the sin which is not Of good and evil? Adah. What is the sin which is not Of good and evil? Adah (annot be a sin in you — whate'er It seem in those who will replace ye m Mortality. Adah. What is the sin which is not Of good and evil? Adah. What is the sin which is not On the same sole work which is not Out of the sole as in in you — whate'er It seem in those who will replace ye m Mortality. Adah. What is the sin which is not Out of the sole as in in you — whate'er It seem in those who will replace ye m Mortality. Adah. What is the sin which is not Out of the so		we have borne, and love	1
Lucifer.More than thy mother and thy sure?Hast pluck'd a fruit more fatal to thine off- springAdah I do Is that a sin, too?JooLuciferNo, not yet:It one day will be in your children.AdahAdahWhat !Must not my daughter love her brother Enoch?That to thyself; thou at the least hast pass'dLucifer.Not as thou lovest Cain.Adah.Oh, my God !Shall they not love and bring forth things that loveOut of their love? have they not drawn their milkOut of the some sole womb, in the same hourOut of the same sole womb, in the same hourWith me? did we not love each other ? and In multiplying our being multiply notJooThem? — And as I love thee, my Cain ' go notJoo this sprint; he is not of ours. Lucifer The sin I speak of is not of my making,Joo this is not do use andAdah.What is the sin which is notJooForth with this spirit; he is not of ours. Lucifer The sin I speak of is not of my making,Joo this so to God — nor God's. I have beheldAdah.What is the sin which is notJoo		·····, ·····
 sure? Adah I do Is that a sin, too? Lucifer No, not yet: It one day will be in your children. Adah What ! Must not my daughter love her brother Enoch? Lucifer. Not as thou lovest Cain. Adah Oh, my God ! Shall they not love and bring forth things that love Out of their love? have they not drawn their milk Out of the same sole womb, in the same hour With me? did we not love each other? and In multiplying our being multiply 370 Them? — And as I love thee, my Cain ! go not Forth with this spirit; he is not of ours. Lucifer The sin I speak of is not of my making, And cannot be a sin in you — whate'er It seem in those who will replace ye m Mortality. Adah. What is the sin which is not 	Love thee.
AdahI doIs that a sin, too ?LuciferNo, not yet:It one day will be in your children.MadahAdahWhat !Must not my daughter love her brotherEnoch ?Lucifer.Not as thou lovest Cain.Adah.Oh, my God !Shall they not love and bring forth thingsthat loveOut of their milkOut of their milkOut of the same sole womb, m the samehourWith me ? did we not love each other ? andIn multiplying our being multiplyThem ? — And as I love thee, my Cain 'Them ? — And as I love thee, my Cain 'Them ? — And as I love thee, my Cain 'Them ? — And as I love thee, my Cain 'Them ? — And as I love thee, my Cain 'Them ? — And as I love thee, my Cain 'Them ? — And as I love thee, my Cain 'Mortality.Adah.Adah.Adah.Mortality.Adah.Adah.Mortality.Adah.Adah.Mortality.		than thy mother and thy	-
LuctferNo, not yetIt one day will be in your children.AdahAdahWhat !Must not my daughter love her brother Enoch?And happy intercourse with happy spirits: But we, thy children, ignorant of Eden, Are girt about by demons, who assumeLuctfer. Not as thou lovest Cain.Adah.Adah.Oh, my God !Shall they not love and bring forth things that loveDissatisfied and currous thoughts — as thou wer work'd on by the snake in thy most flush'dOut of their love? have they not drawn their milkJointOut of thes bosom? was not he, their father, hourI cannot answer this immortal thing Whith me ? did we not love each other ? and In multiplying our being multiply motWith me ? did we not love each other ? and In multiplying our being multiply mot370Them? — And as I love thee, my Cain 'go motIook upon him with a pleasing fear, And cannot be a sin in you — whate'er It seem in those who will replace ye m Mortality.Iook won him earer: — Cain — Cain — save me from him !Madah.What is the sin which is not		360
It one day will be in your children. Adah What! Must not my daughter love her brother Enoch? Lucyfer. Not as thou lovest Cain. Adah. Oh, my God! Shall they not love and bring forth things that love Out of their love? have they not drawn their milk Out of this bosom? was not he, their father, Born of the same sole womb, in the same hour With me? did we not love each other? and In multiplying our being multiply Things which will love each other? and In multiplying our being multiply The ? — And as I love thee, my Cain 'go not Forth with this spirit; he is not of ours. Lucyfer The sin I speak of is not of my making, And cannot be a sin in you — whate'er It seem in those who will replace ye m Mortality. Adah. What is the sin which is not AdahWhat !Must not my daughter love her brother Enoch?And happy intercourse with happy spirits: But we, thy children, ignorant of Eden, Are girt about by demons, who assumeMust not my daughter love her brother Enoch?But we, thy children, ignorant of Eden, Are girt about by demons, who assumeLucifer. Not as thou lovest Cain. Adah.Oh, my God !Shall they not love and bring forth things that loveThe words of God and tempt us with our ownOut of their love? have they not drawn their milkDissatisfied and curious thoughts — as thou Wert work'd on by the snake in thy most flush'dOut of this bosom? was not he, their father, Born of the same sole womb, in the same hourAnd heedless, harmless wantonness of bliss.With me? did we not love each other ? and In multiplying our being multiply 2001000Things which will love each other as we love11 look upon him with a pleasing fear, And yet I fly not from him: in his eye Thire is a fastening attraction which Fixes my fluttering eyes on his; my heart Beats quick; he awes me, and yet draws me near,Forth with this spirit; he is not of ours. Lucifer The sin I speak of is not of my making,Nearer, and nearer: — Cain — Cain — save me from him !Adah. What is the sin which is notAdah. What is the sin which is not
Must not my daughter love her brother Enoch?But we, thy children, ignorant of Eden, Are girt about by demons, who assumeLucifer. Not as thou lovest Cain. Adah.Oh, my God!Shall they not love and bring forth things that loveOut of their love? have they not drawn their milkOut of their love? have they not drawn their milkDissatisfied and curnous thoughts — as thou Wert work'd on by the snake in thy most flush'dOut of the some sole womb, in the same hourAnd heedless, harmless wantonness of bliss.With me? did we not love each other ? and In multiplying our being multiply tove370Them? — And as I love thee, my Cain ! go not100Forth with this spirit; he is not of ours. Lucifer The sin I speak of is not of my making,100And cannot be a sin in you — whate'er It seem in those who will replace ye in Mortality.100Adah.What is the sin which is not		What !
 Lucifer. Not as thou lovest Cain. Adah. Oh, my God ' Shall they not love and bring forth things that love Out of their love? have they not drawn their milk Out of this bosom ? was not he, their father, Born of the same sole womb, in the same hour With me ? did we not love each other ? and In multiplying our being multiply 370 Things which will love each other as we love With ms spirit; he is not of ours. Lucifer The sin I speak of is not of my making, And cannot be a sin in you — whate'er It seem in those who will replace ye m Mortality. Madah. What is the sin which is not The words of God and tempt us with our own Dissatisfied and curious thoughts — as thou Wert work'd on by the snake in thy most flush'd 401 Wert work and curious thoughts — as thou Wert work'd on by the snake in thy most flush'd 401 Wert work and curious thoughts — as thou Wert work do no the snake in thy most flush'd 401 Mortality. Mortality. Adah. What is the sin which is not Adah.Oh, my God 'Shall they not love and bring forth things that loveownOut of their love ? have they not drawn their milkDissatisfied and curnous thoughts — as thon Wert work'd on by the snake in thy most flush'dOut of this bosom ? was not he, their father, Born of the same sole womb, in the same hourOut of this bosom ? was not he, their father, Born of the same sole womb, in the same hourOut of this bosom ? was not he, their father, Born of the same sole womb, in the same hourOut of this bosom ? was not he, their father, Born of the same sole womb, in the same hourOut of this bosom ? was not he, their father, Born of the same sole womb, in the same hourOut of this bosom ? was not he, their father, Born of the same sole womb, in the same hourOut of this bosom ? was not he, their father, Born of the same sole womb, in the same hourOut of this bosom ? was not he, their father, Born of the same sole womb, in the same hourOut of this bosom ? was not he, their father, Born of the same sole womb, in the same hourI conto the same sole womb, in the same sole up to firm, the same sole womb, is multiply grootThem? — And as I love thee, my Cain ' go notThe sin I speak of is not of ours. Lucufer The sin I speak of is not of my making, And cannot be a sin in you — whate'er It seem in those who will replace ye in Mortality. Adah.Nearer, and nearer: — Cain — Cain — save me from him ! Adah. He is not God — nor God's. I have beheldMortality. Adah.Mat is the sin which is notThe cherubs and the seraphs; he looks not Shall they not love and bring forth things that love Out of ther love? have they not drawn their milk Out of the sosom? was not he, their father, Born of the same sole womb, in the same hour With me? did we not love each other? and In multiplying our being multiply 370 Things which will love each other as we love Them? — And as I love thee, my Cain ' go not Forth with this spirit; he is not of ours. Lucifer The sin I speak of is not of my making, And cannot be a sin in you — whate'er It seem in those who will replace ye in Mortality. Adah. What is the sin which is not Dissatisfied and curious thoughts — as thou Wert work'd on by the snake in thy most flush'd 401 Adah. What is the sin which is not 			- that love that love Out of their love? have they not drawn their milk Out of this bosom? was not he, their father, Born of the same sole womb, in the same hour With me? did we not love each other? and In multiplying our being multiply 370 Things which will love each other as we love Them? — And as I love thee, my Cain ' go not Forth with this spirit; he is not of ours. Lucifer The sin I speak of is not of my making, And cannot be a sin in you — whate'er It seem in those who will replace ye m Mortality. Madah. What is the sin which is not Wert work'd on by the snake in thy most flush'd 401 And heedless, harmless wantonness of blass. I cannot answer this immortal thing Which stands before me; I cannot abhor him, I look upon him with a pleasing fear, And yet I fly not from him: in his eye There is a fastening attraction which Fixes my fluttering eyes on his; my heart Beats quick; he awes me, and yet draws me near, Nearer, and nearer: — Cain — Cain — save me from him ! Adah. He is not God — nor God's. I have beheld The cherubs and the seraphs; he looks not 		Oh, my God '
Out of their love? have they not drawn their milk401Out of the love? have they not drawn their milk401Out of this bosom? was not he, their father, Born of the same sole womb, in the same hour1 cannot answer this immortal thing Which stands before me; I cannot abhor him,And heedless, harmless wantonness of bliss.With me? did we not love each other? and In multiplying our being multiply tove370I look upon him with a pleasing fear, And yet I fly not from him: in his eye There is a fastening attraction which Fixes my fluttering eyes on his; my heart Beats quick; he awes me, and yet draws me near,Forth with this spirit; he is not of ours. Luctfer It seem in those who will replace ye in Mortality.Nearer, and nearer: — Cain — Cain — Save me from him !Mortality. Adah.Adah.He is not God — nor God's. I have beheld		e and bring forth things their milk Out of this bosom ? was not he, their father, Born of the same sole womb, in the same hour With me ? did we not love each other ? and In multiplying our being multiply 370 Things which will love each other as we love The ? — And as I love thee, my Cain 'go not Forth with this spirit; he is not of ours. Lucifer The sm I speak of is not of my making, And cannot be a sin in you — whate'er It seem in those who will replace ye m Mortality. Adah. What is the sin which is not 		? have they not drawn
 Out of this bosom ? was not he, their father, Born of the same sole womb, in the same hour With me ? did we not love each other ? and In multiplying our being multiply 370 Things which will love each other as we love Them? — And as I love thee, my Cain ' go not Forth with this spirit; he is not of ours. Lucifer The sin I speak of is not of my making, And cannot be a sin in you — whate'er It seem in those who will replace ye in Mortality. Adah. What is the sin which is not I cannot answer this immortal thing Which stands before me; I cannot abhor him, Which stands before me; I cannot abhor him, I look upon him with a pleasing fear, And yet I fly not from him: in his eye There is a fastening attraction which Fixes my fluttering eyes on his; my heart Beats quick; he awes me, and yet draws me near, Nearer, and nearer: — Cain — Cain — save me from him ! Adah. He is not God — nor God's. I have beheld The cherubs and the seraphs; he looks not hour With me ⁹ did we not love each other ? and In multiplying our being multiply 370 Things which will love each other as we love Them? — And as I love thee, my Cain ' go not Forth with this spirit; he is not of ours. Lucifer The sin I speak of is not of my making, And yet I fly not from him: in his eye There is a fastening attraction which Fixes my fluttering eyes on his; my heart Beats quick; he awes me, and yet draws me near, Nearer, and nearer: — Cain — Cain — save me from him ! Adah. What is the sin which is not him, I look upon him with a pleasing fear, And yet I fly not from him: in his eye There is a fastening attraction which Fixes my fluttering eyes on his; my heart Beats quick; he awes me, and yet draws me near, Nearer, and nearer: — Cain — Cain — save me from him ! Adah. He is not God — nor God's. I have beheld The cherubs and the seraphs; he looks not		⁹ was not he, their father,
 With me? did we not love each other ? and In multiplying our being multiply 370 Things which will love each other as we love Then? — And as I love thee, my Cain 'go not Forth with this spirit; he is not of ours. Luctfer The sin I speak of is not of my making, And cannot be a sin in you — whate'er It seem in those who will replace ye m Mortality. Adah. What is the sin which is not I look upon him with a pleasing fear, And yet I fly not from him: in his eye There is a fastening attraction which Fixes my fluttering eyes on his; my heart Beats quick; he awes me, and yet draws me near, Nearer, and nearer: — Cain — Cain — Save me from him ! Adah. He is not God — nor God's. I have beheld The cherubs and the seraphs; he looks not 		sole womb, in the same
 In multiplying our being multiply 370 Things which will love each other as we love Thene? — And as I love thee, my Cain 'go not Forth with this spirit; he is not of ours. Lucifer The sm I speak of is not of my making, And cannot be a sin in you — whate'er It seem in those who will replace ye m Mortality. Adah. What is the sin which is not And yet I fly not from him: in his eye There is a fastening attraction which Fixes my fluttering eyes on his; my heart Beats quick; he awes me, and yet draws me near, Nearer, and nearer: — Cain — Cain — Save me from him ! Adah. He is not God — nor God's. I have beheld The cherubs and the seraphs; he looks not Things which will love each other as we love Then? — And as I love thee, my Cain ' go not Forth with this spirit; he is not of ours. Lucifer The sin I speak of is not of my making, And cannot be a sin in you — whate'er It seem in those who will replace ye m Mortality. Adah. What is the sin which is not love Them? — And as I love thee, my Cain 'go not Forth with this spirit; he is not of ours. Lucifer The sin I speak of is not of my making, And cannot be a sin in you — whate'er It seem in those who will replace ye in Mortality. A dah. What is the sin which is not Fixes my fluttering eyes on his; my heart Beats quick; he awes me, and yet draws me near. Nearer, and nearer: — Cain — Cain — save me from him ! Adah. What is the sin which is not
Them? — And as I love thee, my Cain ' go notBeats quick; he awes me, and yet draws me near,Forth with this spirit; he is not of ours. Lucifer The sm I speak of is not of my making, And cannot be a sin in you — whate'er It seem in those who will replace ye in Mortality. A dah. What is the sin which is notBeats quick; he awes me, and yet draws me near, Nearer, and nearer: — Cain — Cain — save me from him ! Adah. What is the sin which is not		I love each other as we not Forth with this spirit; he is not of ours. Lucifer The sin I speak of is not of my making, And cannot be a sin in you — whate'er It seem in those who will replace ye in Mortality. Adah. What is the sin which is not Mearr, Nearer, and nearer: — Cain — Cain — save me from him ! Cain What dreads my Adah? This is no ill spirit. Adah. He is not God — nor God's. I have beheld The cherubs and the seraphs; he looks not		I love thee, my Cain ' go LuciferThe sin I speak of is not of my making,me from him !410And cannot be a sin in you — whate'er It seem in those who will replace ye m Mortality.me from him !410Mortality. Adah.What is the sin which is notadah.This is not ull spirit.adah.		, , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , ,
making,CainWhat dreads my Adah? This is noAnd cannot be a sin in you — whate'erIll spirit.It seem in those who will replace ye inAdah. He is not God — nor God's. I have beheldMortality.DeheldAdah.The cherubs and the seraphs; he looks not	Forth with this sp	pirit; he is not of ours.	Nearer, and nearer: — Cain — Cain — save
And cannot be a sin in you — whate'er It seem in those who will replace ye in Mortality. Adah. What is the sin which is notill spirit. Adah. He is not God — nor God's. I have beheld The cherubs and the seraphs; he looks not		n I speak of is not of my
It seem in those who will replace ye in Mortality.Adah. He is not God — nor God's. I have beheldAdah.What is the sin which is notThe cherubs and the seraphs; he looks not
Mortality.beheld $A dah.$ What is the sin which is notThe cherubs and the seraphs; he looks not	It seem in those s	who will replace ve m
Adah. What is the sin which is not The cherubs and the seraphs; he looks not		and will replace he m is the sin which is not

Lucifer. Ask of your sire, the exile fresh	Thou seem'st unhappy: do not make us so, from Eden;	And I will weep for thee Lucifer. Alas! those tears:
Or of his first-boin son: ask your own heart; 480	Couldst thou but know what oceans will be
It is not tranguil.	shed —
Adah. Alas, no ! and you -	Adah By me?
Are you of heaven?	Lucifer. By all.
Lucifer. If I am not, enquire	Adah. What all?
The cause of this all-spreading happiness	Lucifer. The million millions —
(Which you proclaim) of the all-great and good	The myriad myriads — the all-peopled earth —
Maker of life and living things; it is	The unpeopled earth — and the o'erpeopled
His secret, and he keeps it. We must bear,	Hell, 520
And some of us resist, and both in vain,	Of which thy bosom is the germ.
His seraphs say; but it is worth the trial,	Adah. O Cain!
Since better may not be without. There is	This spirit curseth us.
A wisdom in the spirit, which directs 490	Cain Let him say on;
To right, as in the dim blue air the eye	Him will I follow.
Of you, young mortals, lights at once upon	Adah Whither?
The star which watches, welcoming the	Lucifer To a place morn.	Whence he shall come back to thee in an
Adah. It is a beautiful star; I love it for	hour; But in that hour see things of many days.
Its beauty.	Adah. How can that be?
Lucifer. And why not adore ? Adah. Our father	Lucifer. Did not your Maker make
Adores the Invisible only.	Out of old worlds this new one in few
Lucifer. But the symbols	days?
Of the Invisible are the loveliest	And cannot I, who aided in this work,
Of what is visible; and yon bright star	Show in an hour what he hath made in
Is leader of the host of heaven.	many,
Adah. Our father	Or hath destroy'd in few?
Saith that he has beheld the God himself 500	Cain. Lead on
Who made him and our mother	Aduh Will he, 530
Lucifer. Hast thou seen him ?	In sooth, return within an hour?
Adah. Yes — in his works	Lucifer He shall.
Lucifer. But in his being?	With us acts are exempt from time, and we
Adah. No-	Can crowd eternity into an hour,
Save in my father, who is God's own image;	Or stretch an hour into eternity
Or in his angels, who are like to thee —	We breathe not by a mortal measure- ment —
And brighter, yet less beautiful and power-	But that's a mystery. Cain, come on with ful	me.
In seeming: as the silent sunny noon, All light they look upon us; but thou	Adah. Will he return?
seem'st	Lucifer. Ay, woman! he alone
Like an ethereal night, where long white clouds	Of mortals from that place (the first and last Who shall return, save ONE) shall come
Streak the deep purple, and unnumber'd	back to thee,
stars	To make that silent and expectant world
Spangle the wonderful mysterious vault	As populous as this: at present there 540
With things that look as if they would be	Are few inhabitants
suns; 5 ^{II}	Adah. Where dwellest thou?
So beautiful, unnumber'd, and endearing,	Lucifer. Throughout all space. Where
Not dazzling, and yet drawing us to them,	should I dwell? Where are
They fill my eyes with tears, and so dost	Thy God or Gods — there am I: all things thou.	are

Eternity - and heaven and earth - and that Which is not heaven nor earth, but peopled with Those who once peopled or shall people both — These are my realms! So that I do divide His, and possess a kingdom which is not His. If I were not that which I have said. Could I stand here? His angels are within Your vision. Adah. So they were when the fair serpentSpoke with our mother first. Cain ! thou hast heard Lucifer. If thou dost long for knowledge, I can satiate That thirst; nor ask thee to partake of fruits Which shall deprive thee of a single good The conqueror has left thee Follow me Cain. Spirit, I have said it [Escunt LUCIFER and CAIN Adah (follows, exclaiming). Cam! my brother ! Cam ! ACT II SCENE I The Abyss of Space

Divided with me; life and death - and Cain. I tread on air, and sink not; yet I fear

To sink.

Lucifer Have faith in me, and thou shalt be

- Borne on the air, of which I am the prince. Cain. Can I do so without implety?
 - Lucifer Believe and sink not ' doubt — and perish ' thus

Would run the edict of the other God,

Who names me demon to his angels; they Echo the sound to miserable things,

- Which, knowing nought beyond their shallow senses,
- Worship the word which strikes their ear, and deem 10

Evil or good what is proclaim'd to them In their abasement. I will have none such: Worship or worship not, thou shalt behold The worlds beyond thy little world, nor be Amerced for doubts beyond thy little life,

- With torture of my dooming There will come
- An hour, when, toss'd upon some waterdrops,

A man shall say to a man, 'Believe in me, And walk the waters;' and the man shall walk

The billows and be safe. I will not say, 20 Believe in me, as a conditional creed

- To save thee; but fly with me o'er the gulf
- Of space an equal flight, and I will show
- What thou dar'st not deny, the history
- Of past, and present, and of future worlds. Cain. Oh, god, or demon, or whate'er thou art.

Is you our earth ?

Lucifer. Dost thou not recognise The dust which form'd your father ?

Can t be?

Yon small blue circle, swinging in far ether,

With an inferior circlet near it still, 30

Which looks like that which lit our earthly night?

Is this our Paradise? Where are its walls, And they who guard them ?

Lucifer. Point me out the site Of Paradise

Cam. How should I? As we move Like sunbeams onward, it grows small and smaller,

And as it waxes little, and then less,

Gathers a halo round it, like the light

- Which shone the roundest of the stars, when I
- Beheld them from the skirts of Paradise.
- Methinks they both, as we recede from them, 40
- Appear to join the innumerable stars

Which are around us; and, as we move on, Increase their myriads

Lucifer. And if there should be Worlds greater than thine own, inhabited

- By greater things, and they themselves far more
- In number than the dust of thy dull earth,
- Though multiplied to animated atoms,

All living, and all doom'd to death, and wretched,

What wouldst thou think ?

Cain. I should be proud of thought Which knew such things

Lucifer. But if that high thought were 636

time -

Link'd to a servile mass of matter, and, 51 Cain. Thou hast said, I must be 90 Knowing such things, aspiring to such Immortal in despite of me. I knew not things, This until lately — but since it must be, And science still beyond them, were chain'd Let me, or happy or unhappy, learn down To anticipate my immortality. To the most gross and petty paltry wants, Lucifer. Thou didst before I came upon All foul and fulsome, and the very best thee. Of thme enjoyments a sweet degradation, Cain. How? A most enervating and filthy cheat Lucifer. By suffering. To lure thee on to the renewal of Cain. And must torture be immortal? Lucifer. We and thy sons will try. But Fresh souls and bodies, all foredoom'd to be now, behold ! As frail and few so happy -----Is it not glorious? Cain. Spirit! I 60 Cain Oh, thou beautiful Know nought of death, save as a dreadful And unimaginable ether ! and Ye multiplying masses of increased thing 100 Of which I have heard my parents speak, And still increasing lights! what are ye? as of what A hideous heritage I owe to them Is this blue wilderness of interminable No less than life; a heritage not happy, Air, where ye roll along, as I have seen If I may judge, till now. But, spirit ! if The leaves along the limpid streams of It be as thou hast said (and I within Eden? Is your course measured for ye? Or do ye Feel the prophetic torture of its truth), Here let me die: for to give birth to those Sweep on in your unbounded revelry Who can but suffer many years, and die, Through an aerial universe of endless Methinks is merely propagating death, Expansion — at which my soul aches to 70 And multiplying murder. think ----Intoxicated with eternity ? Lucifer. Thou canst not All die — there is what must survive Oh God ! Oh Gods ! or whatsoe'er ye are ! 110 Cain. The Other How beautiful ye are ! how beautiful Your works, or accidents, or whatsoe'er Spake not of this unto my father, when They may be ! Let me die as atoms die He shut him forth from Paradise, with death (If that they die), or know ye in your might And knowledge! My thoughts are not in Written upon his forehead. But at least Let what is mortal of me perish, that this hour Unworthy what I see, though my dust is; -I may be in the rest as angels are Lucifer. I am angelic. wouldst thou be Spirit ! let me expire, or see them nearer. as I am? Lucifer. Art thou not nearer ? look back Cain. I know not what thou art. I see to thine earth! Cain Where is it ? I see nothing save a thy power, And see thou show'st me things beyond mass Of most innumerable lights my power, Look there ! 120 Beyond all power of my born faculties, Lucifer Cain. I cannot see it. Although inferior still to my desires Yet it sparkles still. And my conceptions Lucifer. Cain That ! - yonder ! Lucifer. What are they which dwell Lucifer. Yea So humbly in their pride as to sojourn With worms in clay ? And wilt thou tell me so? Cain. Why, I have seen the fire-flies and fire-Cain. And what art thou who dwellest So haughtily in spirit, and canst range worms Nature and immortality - and yet Sprinkle the dusky groves and the green Seem'st sorrowful ? banks I seem that which I am; In the dim twilight, brighter than yon Lucifer. And therefore do I ask of thee, if thou world Which bears them. Wouldst be immortal?

Thou hast seen both worms and Lucifer. worlds, Each bright and sparkling - what dost think of them ? Cain. That they are beautiful in their own sphere, And that the night, which makes both beautiful. The little shining fire-fly in its flight, 130 And the immortal star in its great course, Must both be guided Lucifer. But by whom or what? Cain. Show me. Lucifer. Dar'st thou behold? How know I what Cain. I dare behold? As yet, thou hast shown nought I dare not gaze on further. Lucifer. On, then, with me Wouldst thou behold things mortal or mmortal? Cain. Why, what are things? Lucifer. Both partly; but what doth Sit next thy heart? Cain. The things I see. But what Lucifer. Sate nearest it? The things I have not seen, Cain Nor ever shall — the mysteries of death. Lucifer. What, if I show to thee things which have died, ILI As I have shown thee much which cannot die? Cam. Do so. Lucifer. Away, then, on our mighty wings ! Cain. Oh, how we cleave the blue ! The stars fade from us ! The earth ! where is my earth ? Let me look on it, For I was made of it 'T is now beyond thee, Lucifer. Less, in the universe, than thou in it; Yet deem not that thou canst escape it; thou Shalt soon return to earth and all its dust: "T is part of thy eternity, and mine. Cain. Where dost thou lead me? To what was before thee ! Lucifer. The phantasm of the world; of which thy world Is but the wreck. What ' is it not then new? Cain. Lucifer. No more than life is; and that was ere thou Or I were, or the things which seem to us

Greater than either. Many things will have No end; and some, which would pretend to have Had no beginning, have had one as mean As thou, and mightier things have been extinct To make way for much meaner than we can Surmise; for moments only and the space Have been and must be all unchangeable. But changes make not death, except to clay; But thou art clay, and canst but comprehend That which was clay, and such thou shalt behold. Cain. Clay, spirit ! what thou wilt, I can survey. Lucifer. Away, then ! Cain. But the lights fade from me fast, And some till now grew larger as we approach'd And wore the look of worlds. Lucifer And such they are. Cain. And Edens in them? Lucifer. It may be. Cain. And men? 176 Lucifer. Yea, or things higher. Ay, and serpents too? Cain. Lucifer. Wouldst thou have men without them? must no reptiles Breathe save the erect ones ? Cain How the lights recede ! Where fly we? Lucifer. To the world of phantoms, which Are beings past, and shadows still to come. Cam. But it grows dark and dark — the stars are gone ! Lucifer. And yet thou seest. 'T is a fearful light ! Cain. No sun, no moon, no lights innumerable -The very blue of the empurpled night Fades to a dreary twilight, yet I see Huge dusky masses: but unlike the worlds We were approaching, which, begirt with light, Seem'd full of life even when their atmosphere Of light gave way, and show 'd them taking shapes Unequal, of deep valleys and vast mountains; And some emitting sparks, and some displaying Enormous liquid plains, and some begirt With luminous belts, and floating moons, which took

Like them the features of fair earth:	Rather than life itself. But here, all is instead,	So shadowy and so full of twilight, that
All here seems dark and dreadful.	It speaks of a day past.
Lucifer But distinct.	Lucifer. It is the realm
Thou seekest to behold death and dead	Of death — Wouldst have it present?
things? 191	Cain. Till I know
Cain. I seek it not; but as I know there are	That which it really is, I cannot answer. 220
Such, and that my sire's sin makes him and	But if it be as I have heard my father me,	Deal out in his long homilies, 't is a thing — Oh God ! I dare not think on 't ! Cursèd be
And all that we inherit, hable	He who invented life that leads to death !
To such, I would behold at once what I	Or the dull mass of life, that, being life,
Must one day see perforce	Could not retain, but needs must forfeit it
Lucifer. Behold !	Even for the innocent !
Cain. 'T is darkness.	Lucifer Dost thou curse thy father ?
Lucifer. And so it shall be ever; but we	Cain. Cursed he not me in giving me my will	birth ?
Unfold its gates !	Cursed he not me before my birth, in daring
Cain. Enormous vapours roll	To pluck the fruit forbidden ?
Apart — what 's this ?	Lucifer. Thou say'st well:
Lucifer. Enter!	The curse is mutual 'twixt thy sire and
Cain. Can I return?	thee — 231
Lucifer. Return! be sure · how else should	But for thy sons and brother ? Cain. Let them share it death be peopled ? 200 Its present realm is thun to what it will be,	Cain. Let them share it With me, their sire and brother! What
Through thee and thine.	else is
Cain. The clouds still open wide	Bequeath'd to me? I leave them my inherit-
And wider, and make widening circles	ance.
round us	Oh, ye interminable gloomy realms
Lucifer Advance !	Of swimming shadows and enormous shapes,
Cain And thou?	Some fully shown, some indistinct, and all
Lucifer. Fear not — without me thou	Mighty and melancholy — what are ye?
Couldst not have gone beyond thy world.	Live ye, or have ye lived?
On! on!	Lucifer Somewhat of both.
[They disappear through the clouds.	Cain Then what is death?
Scene II	Lucifer . What? Hath not he who made ye Said 't is another life ?
	Cain. Till now he hath 241
Hades	Said nothing, save that all shall die.
Enter LUCIFER and CAIN	Lucifer. Perhaps
Cain. How silent and how vast are these	He one day will unfold that further secret.
dim worlds !	Cain. Happy the day '
For they seem more than one, and yet more	Cam. Happy the day ' Lucifer. Yes; happy ! when unfolded, peopled	Through agomes unspeakable, and clogg d
Than the huge brilliant luminous orbs which	With agomes eternal, to innumerable swung	Yet unborn myriads of unconscious atoms,
So thickly in the upper air, that I	All to be animated for this only !
Had deem'd them rather the bright popu- lace 210	Can. What are these mighty plantoms which I see
Of some all unimaginable heaven	Floating around me? — They wear not the
Than things to be inhabited themselves,	form 250
But that on drawing near them I beheld	Of the intelligences I have seen
Their swelling into palpable immensity	Round our regretted and unenter'd Eden,
Of matter, which seem'd made for life to	Nor wear the form of man as I have view'd dwell on,	it

And yet they have an aspect, which, though not	Lucifer. By a most crushing and inexor- able Destruction and disorder of the elements, dren's: And yet they have an aspect, which, though not
And yet they have an aspect, which, though not not	Which struck a world to chaos, as a chaos
	~
	Subsiding has struck out a world: such
Of men nor angels, looks like something	things,
which,	Though rare in time, are frequent in eter-
If not the last, rose higher than the first,	mty. —
Haughty, and high, and beautiful, and full	Pass on, and gaze upon the past.
Of seeming strength, but of inexplicable 260	Cain 'T is awful !
Shape; for I never saw such. They bear	Lucifer. And true. Behold these phan-not	toms ! they were once 291
	Material as thou art.
8 1	Cain. And must 1 be
Nor form of mightiest brute, nor aught that Like them?
Now breathing; mighty yet and beautiful	Lucifer. Let He who made thee answer
As the most beautiful and mighty which	that
Live, and yet so unlike them, that I scarce	I show thee what thy predecessors are,
Can call them living.	And what they were thou feelest, in degree
	Inferior as thy petty feelings and Thy pettier portion of the immortal part
	Of high intelligence and earthly strength
	What ye in common have with what they
Cain. When?	had
Lucifer. On what thou callest earth	Is life, and what ye shall have — death : the
They did inhabit	rest 300
	Of your poor attributes is such as suits
	Reptiles engender'd out of the subsiding
	Slime of a mighty universe, crush'd into
The last of these.	A scarcely-yet shaped planet, peopled with Things whose enjoyment was to be in Lucifer. That which	blindness —
Thou shalt be.	A Paradise of Ignorance, from which
Cain. But what were they?	Knowledge was barr'd as poison. But be-
Lucifer. Living, high,	hold
Intelligent, good, great, and glorious things,	What these superior beings are or were;
	Or, if it irk thee, turn thee back and till
	The earth, thy task - I'll waft thee there
The sixty-thousandth generation shall be,
	m salety. 310 Cain. No; I'll stay here
In its dull damp degeneracy, to Thee and thy son; — and how weak they	Lucifer. How long?
are, judge	Cam. For ever ! Since
By thy own flesh.	1 must one day return here from the earth,
Cain. Ah me ! and did they perish?	I rather would remain; I am suck of all
Lucifer. Yes, from their earth, as thou	That dust has shown me let me dwell in wilt fade from thine. 280	shadows
Cam. But was mine theirs?	Lucifer. It cannot be: thou now beholdest as
_
Cain. But not as now.	A vision that which is reality.
It is too little and too lowly to	To make thyself fit for this dwelling, thou
Sustain such creatures	Must pass through what the things thou
Lucifer. True, it was more glorious.	seest have pass'd —
Cain. And wherefore did it fall?	The gates of death —
Lucifer. Ask him who fells.	Cain. By what gate have we enter'd
Cain. But how?	Even now?

640

Lucifer. By mine ! But, plighted to re-	With them would render the curse on it turn, 320 My spirit buoys thee up to breathe m regions	useless — 'T would be destroy'd so early. Can. But why war '
Where all is breathless save thyself Gaze	Lucifer. You have forgotten the denun-
on; But do not think to dwell here till thine	Cuation Which drove your race from Eden — war hour Is come.	with all things, And death to all things, and disease to most Cain. And these, too; can they ne'er repass	things, And pangs, and bitterness; these were the
To earth again ? Lucifer. Their earth is gone for ever —	fruits Of the forbidden tree
So changed by its convulsion, they would	Cain But animals — not Be conscious to a single present spot	Did they, too, eat of it, that they must die? Luci/er Your Maker told ye, they were
Of its new scarcely harden'd surface -	made for you, As you for him You would not have their
't was — Oh, what a beautiful world it was !	doom 360
$\begin{array}{ll} Cann & \text{And is} \\ \text{It is not with the earth, though I must till} \end{array}$	Superior to your own? Had Adam not Fallen, all had stood.
1t, 330	Cain. Alas, the hopeless wretches ! They too must share my sire's fate, like his
I feel at war, but that I may not profit By what it bears of beautiful, untoiling,	sons;
Nor gratify my thousand swelling thoughts With knowledge, nor allay my thousand	Like them, too, without having shared the apple;
fears	Like them, too, without the so dear-bought knouledge '
Of death and life. Lucifer. What thy world is, thou seest,	It was a lying tree — for we know no-
But canst not comprehend the shadow of That which it was.	At least it promised knowledge at the price
Cam. And those enormous creatures,	Of death — but knowledge still but what knows man?
Phantoms inferior in intelligence (At least so seeming) to the things we have	Lucifer. It may be death leads to the pass'd, Resembling somewhat the wild habitants 340	highest knowledge; And being of all things the sole thing cer-
Of the deep woods of earth, the hugest	tain, 370 At least leads to the surest science. there-
which Roar nightly in the forest, but ten-fold	fore
In magnitude and terror; taller than The cherub-guarded walls of Eden, with	The tree was true, though deadly. Cain. These dim realms ?
Eyes flashing like the fiery swords which	I see them, but I know them not Lucifer. Because fence them, And tusks projecting like the trees stripp'd of	Thy hour is yet afar, and matter cannot Comprehend spirit wholly — but 't is some-
Their bark and branches — what were they?	thing To know there are such realms
Lucifer. That which The Mammoth is in thy world; — but these	Cain. We knew already That there was death he	Lucifer. But not what was beyond it. Cain. Nor know I now
By myriads underneath its surface Cam But	Lucifer. Thou knowest that there is None on it? Lucifer No; for thy frail race to	A state, and many states beyond thine own-war 350

Cain But all 380	Cain. Thy precept comes too late. there
Seems dum and shadowy.	is no more
Lucifer. Be content; it will	For serpents to tempt woman to.
Seem clearer to thine immortality.	Lucifer. But there
Cain. And you in measurable liquid space	Are some things still which woman may
Of glorious azure which floats on beyond us,	tempt man to,
Which looks like water, and which 1 should	And man tempt woman. — let thy sons deem The summer which flows out of Poredico	look to it ! My counsel is a kind oney for it is even
The river which flows out of Paradise	My counsel is a kind one; for 't is even Given chiefly at my own expense. 't is true,
Past my own dwelling, but that it is bank- less	'T will not be follow'd, so there 's little lost.
And boundless, and of an ethereal hue —	Cain. I understand not this
What is it ?	Lucifer The happier thou —
Lucifer. There is still some such on earth,	Thy world and thou are still too young !
Although inferior, and thy children shall 390	Thou thinkest 421
Dwell near it - 't is the phantasm of an	Thyself most wicked and unhappy: is it ocean.	Not so?
Cam. 'T is like another world, a liquid	Cain For crime, I know not; but for sun —	pam,
And those inordinate creatures sporting o'er	I have felt much
Its shining surface ?	Lucifer. First-born of the first man !
Lucifer. Are its babitants,	Thy present state of sin — and thou art
The past leviathans.	evil,
Cain. And yon immense	Of sorrow — and thou sufferest, are both Eden
Serpent, which rears his dripping mane and vasty	In all its innocence compared to what
Head ten times higher than the haughtiest	Thou shortly may'st be; and that state again,
cedar	In its redoubled wretchedness, a Paradise
Forth from the abyss, looking as he could	To what thy sons' sons' sons, accumulat-
coil	ing 430
Himself around the orbs we lately look'd	In generations like to dust (which they on	In fact but add to), shall endure and do —
Is he not of the kind which bask'd be-	Now let us back to earth!
neath 400	Cam. And wherefore didst thou
The tree in Eden?	Lead me only to inform me this?
Lucifer. Eve, thy mother, best	Lucifer Was not thy quest for know-
Can tell what shape of serpent tempted her.	ledge ?
Cain This seems too terrible. No doubt the other	Cain. Yes, as being
Had more of beauty.	The road to happiness. Lucifer. If truth be so,
Lucifer. Hast thou ne'er beheld him ?	Thou hast it
Cain. Many of the same kind (at least	Cain. Then my father's God did well so call'd),	When he prolibited the fatal tree.
But never that precisely which persuaded	Lucifer. But had done better in not plant-
The fatal fruit, nor even of the same aspect.	ing it
Lucifer. Your father saw him not?	But ignorance of evil doth not save 440
Cain. No; 't was my mother	From evil; it must still roll on the same,
Who tempted him — she tempted by the	A part of all things.
serpent	Cain. Not of all things No;
Lucifer. Good man, whene'er thy wife, or	I'll not believe it — for I thirst for good thy sons' wives, 410	Lucifer. And who and what doth not?
Tempt thee or them to aught that's new or strange,	Who covets evil For its own bitter sake? None-nothing!
Be sure thou seest first who hath tempted	'tis
them.	The leaven of all life, and lifelessness.

The leaven of all life, and lifelessness.

Cam. Within those glorious orbs which	Being beyond all beauty in thine eyes,
we beheld,	Why art thou wretched ?
Distant, and dazzling, and innumerable,	Cam. Why do I exist ?
Ere we came down into this phantom realm,	Why art thou wretched ? why are all thungs
Ill cannot come. they are too beautiful 450	so ?
Lucifer. Thou hast seen them from afar.	Ev'n he who made us must be, as the maker
Cain. And what of that?	Of things unhappy! To produce destruc-
Distance can but diminish glory — they,	tion
When nearer, must be more ineffable.	Can surely never be the task of joy,
Lucifer. Approach the things of earth	And yet my sire says he's omnipotent: 489
most beautiful,	Then why is evil — he being good? I ask'd
And judge their beauty near.	This question of my father; and he said,
Can. I have done this —	Because this evil only was the path
The loveliest thing I know is loveliest	To good. Strange good, that must arise nearest.	from out
Lucufer. Then there must be delusion. —	Its deadly opposite. I lately saw
What is that,	A lamb stung by a reptile: the poor suckling
Which being nearest to thine eyes is still	Lay foaming on the earth, beneath the vain remote ? Cam. My sister Adah. — All the stars of	And piteous bleating of its restless dam; My father pluck'd some herbs, and laid them to heaven,	The wound: and by degrees the helpless
The deep blue noon of night, lit by an orb	wretch 499
Which looks a spirit, or a spirit's world —	Resumed its careless life, and rose to drain
The hues of twilight — the sun's gorgeous	The mother's milk, who o'er it tremulous coming —	Stood licking its reviving limbs with joy.
His setting indescribable, which fills	Behold, my son ! said Adam, how from evil
My eyes with pleasant tears as I behold	Springs good !
Him sink, and feel my heart float softly	Lucifer . What didst thou answer ?
with him	Cain Nothing; for Along that western paradise of clouds — The forest shade — the green bough — the	He is my father; but I thought, that 't were A better portion for the animal Never to have been stung at all, than to bird's voice, The vesper bird's which seems to sing of love,	Purchase renewal of its little life With agonies unutterable, though
And mingles with the song of cherubim, 470	Dispell'd by antidotes
As the day closes over Eden's walls; —	Lucifer. But as thou saidst
All these are nothing, to my eyes and heart,	Of all beloved things thou lovest her 511
Like Adah's face: I turn from earth and	Who shared thy mother's milk, and giveth heaven	hers
To gaze on it.	Unto thy children
Lucifer. 'T is fair as frail mortality,	Cain. Most assuredly:
In the first dawn and bloom of young	What should I be without her?
creation,	Lucifer. What am I?
And earliest embraces of earth's parents	Cain. Dost thou love nothing?
Can make its offspring; still it is delusion.	Lucifer What does thy God love?
Cam . You think so, being not her brother	Cain. All things, my father ways; but I
Lucifer. Mortal !	confess
My brotherhood 's with those who have no	I see it not in their allotment here children	Lucifer. And, therefore, thou canst not
Can. Then thou canst have no fellowship	see if I love with us. 4^{80}	Or no, except some vast and general pur-
Lucifer. It may be that thine own shall	pose,
be for me.	To which particular things must melt like
But if thou dost possess a beautiful	snows. 520

Cain. Snows ! what are they ? Lucifer. Be happier in not knowing What thy remoter offspring must encounter; But bask beneath the clime which knows no winter ! Cain. But dost thou not love something like thyself ?	LuciferBut you have seen his angels.CainRarely.LuciferButSufficiently to see they love your brother:His sacrifices are acceptable.Cain. So be they ! wherefore speak to me of this ?
Lucifer. And dost thou love thyself?	Lucifer Because thou hast thought of this
Cain. Yes, but love more What makes my feelings more endurable,	ere now. Cain And if 560
And is more than my elf because I love it. Lucifer. Thou lovest it, because 't is beau- tiful,	I have thought, why recall a thought that — (he pauses, as agutated) — Spirit ! Here we are in thy world; speak not of mine.
As was the apple in thy mother's eye; And when it ceases to be so, thy love 530	Thou hast shown me wonders; thou hast shown me those
Will cease, like any other appetite.	Mighty pre-Adamites who walk'd the earth
Cain. Cease to be beautiful! how can	Of which ours is the wreck; thou hast that be?	pointed out
Lucifer. With time	Myriads of starry worlds, of which our
Cain. But time has past, and hitherto	own
Even Adam and my mother both are fair:	Is the dim and remote companion, in
Not like fair Adah and the seraphim —	Infinity of life; thou hast shown me shadows
But very fair	Of that existence with the dreaded name
Lucifer. All that must pass away	Which my sire brought us - Death; thou
In them and her	hast shown me much — 570
Cann. I'm sorry for it; but	But not all: show me where Jehovah
Cannot conceive my love for her the less. And when her beauty disappears, methinks	dwells, In his especial Paradise, — or thine :
He who creates all beauty will lose more	Where is it?
Than me in seeing perish such a work 541	Lucifer. Here, and o'er all space.
Lucifer I pity thee who lovest what must	Cain. But ye perish	Have some allotted dwelling - as all things
Cain. And I thee who lov'st nothing	Clay has its earth, and other worlds their
Lucifer. And thy brother —	tenants;
Sits he not near thy heart?	All temporary breathing creatures their
Cain Why should he not?	Peculiar element; and things which have
Lucifer Thy father loves him well — so does thy God	Long ceased to breathe our breath, have theirs, thou say'st;
Cam. And so do I.	And the Jehovah and thyself have thine
Lucifer. 'T is well and meekly done	Ye do not dwell together?
Cam. Meekly	Lucifer No, we reign 580
Lucifer He is the second born of flesh,	Together; but our dwellings are asunder
And is his mother's favourite	Cain. Would there were only one of ye !
Cain. Let him keep	perchance
Her favour, since the serpent was the first To win it	An unity of purpose might make union
Lucifer. And his father's?	In elements which seem now jarr'd in storms.
Cam What is that 550	How came ye, being spirits wise and infi-
To me? should I not love that which all love?	nute,
Luciter And the Jehovah — the indul-	To separate? Are ye not as brethren in gent Lord	Your essence, and your nature, and your
And bounteous planter of barr'd Paradise	glory ?
He, too, looks smilingly on Abel.	Lucifer. Art thou not Abel's brother ?
Cain. I	Cain. We are brethren,
Ne'er saw him, and I know not if he smiles.	And so we shall remain; but were it not so.

- - -

Is spirit like to flesh ? can it fall out - 590	Lucifer. And now
Infinity with Immortality?	thy world,
Jarring and turning space to misery — For what ?	Where thou shalt
Lucifer. To reign	Adam,
Cain. Did ye not tell me that	Eat, drink, toil, trem
Ye are both eternal?	and die
Lucifer. Yea!	Cain. And to what these things
Cain. And what I have seen,	Which thou hast sho
Yon blue immensity, is boundless?	Lucifer.
Lucifer. Av.	Knowledge? And
Cain And cannot ye both reign then? -	show'd,
is there not	Taught thee to know
Enough? — why should ye differ?	Cain.
Luifer. We both reign. Cain. But one of you makes evil.	Nothing
Lucifer. Which ?	Lucifer And this sum
Cam. Thou! for	Of knowledge, to 1
If thou canst do man good, why dost thou	nothingness:
not?	Bequeath that science
Lucifer. And why not he who made? I	'T will spare them m
made ye not; 600	Cain
Ye are his creatures, and not mine.	Thou speak'st it]
Cain. Then leave us	though proud,
His creatures, as thou say'st we are, or show me	Hast a superior. Lucifer. No !
Thy dwelling, or his dwelling.	Holds, and the abyss
Lucifer I could show thee	Of worlds and life, w
Both; but the time will come thou shalt see	No !
Dota, but the time will come thou shall see	INO 1
one	I have a victor — tru
one Of them for evermore.
one Of them for evermore. Can. And why not now?	I have a victor — tru Homage he has from me:
one Of them for evermore. Cain. And why not now? Lucifer. Thy human mind hath scarcely	I have a victor — tru Homage he has from me: I battle it against him one Of them for evermore. Cain. And why not now? Lucifer. Thy human mind hath scarcely grasp to gather	I have a victor — tru Homage he has from me: I battle it against him In highest heaven.
one Of them for evermore. Cam. And why not now? Lucifer. Thy human mind hath scarcely grasp to gather The little I have shown thee into calm	I have a victor — tru Homage he has fro me: I battle it against hin In highest heaven. And the unfathomab
one Of them for evermore. Can. And why not now? Lucifer. Thy human mind hath scarcely grasp to gather The little I have shown thee into calm And clear thought; and thou wouldst go on	I have a victor — tru Homage he has fro me: I battle it against hin In highest heaven. And the unfathomab And the interminable
one Of them for evermore. Cam. And why not now? Lucifer. Thy human mind hath scarcely grasp to gather The little I have shown thee into calm	I have a victor — tru Homage he has fro me: I battle it against hin In highest heaven. And the unfathomab And the infinity of ei
one Of them for evermore. Can. And why not now? Lucifer. Thy human mind hath scarcely grasp to gather The little I have shown thee into calm And clear thought; and thou wouldst go on aspiring	I have a victor — tru Homage he has fro me: I battle it against hin In highest heaven. And the unfathomab And the interminable
one Of them for evermore. Cam. And why not now? Lucifer. Thy human mind hath scarcely grasp to gather The little I have shown thee into calm And clear thought; and thou wouldst go on aspiring To the great double Mysteries! the two Principles ' And gaze upon them on their secret thrones!	I have a victor — tru Homage he has fro me: I battle it against hin In highest heaven. And the unfathomab And the infinity of et All, all, will I disp world, And star by star,
one Of them for evermore. Cam. And why not now? Lucifer. Thy human mind hath scarcely grasp to gather The little I have shown thee into calm And clear thought; and thou wouldst go on aspiring To the great double Mysteries! the two Principles ' And gaze upon them on their secret thrones! Dust! limit thy ambition; for to see 611	I have a victor — tru Homage he has fro me: I battle it against hin In highest heaven. And the unfathomab And the infinity of e All, all, will I disp world, And star by star, verse,
one Of them for evermore. Can. And why not now? Lucifer. Thy human mind hath scarcely grasp to gather The little I have shown thee into calm And clear thought; and thou wouldst go on aspiring To the great double Mysteries! the two Principles ' And gaze upon them on their secret thrones! Dust! limit thy ambition; for to see 611 Either of these, would be for thee to per-	I have a victor — tru Homage he has fro me: I battle it against hin In highest heaven. And the unfathomab And the infinity of ex All, all, will I disp world, And star by star, verse, Shall tremble in the one Of them for evermore. Can. And why not now? Lucifer. Thy human mind hath scarcely grasp to gather The little I have shown thee into calm And clear thought; and thou wouldst go on aspiring To the great double Mysteries! the two Principles ' And gaze upon them on their secret thrones! Dust! limit thy ambition; for to see 611 Either of these, would be for thee to per- ish!	I have a victor — tru Homage he has fro me: I battle it against hin In highest heaven. And the unfathomab And the infinity of e: All, all, will I disp world, And star by star, verse, Shall tremble in the Conflict shall cease,
one Of them for evermore. Cam. And why not now? Lucifer. Thy human mind hath scarcely grasp to gather The little I have shown thee into calm And clear thought; and thou wouldst go on aspiring To the great double Mysteries! the two Principles ' And gaze upon them on their secret thrones! Dust! limit thy ambiton; for to see 611 Either of these, would be for thee to per- ish! Cam. And let me perish, so I see them !	I have a victor — tru Homage he has fro me: I battle it against hin In highest heaven. And the unfathomab And the infinity of et All, all, will I disp world, And star by star, verse, Shall tremble in the Conflict shall cease, Which it ne'er sha
one Of them for evermore. Cam. And why not now? Lucifer. Thy human mind hath scarcely grasp to gather The little I have shown thee into calm And clear thought; and thou wouldst go on aspiring To the great double Mysteries! the two Principles ' And gaze upon them on their secret thrones! Dust! limit thy ambition; for to see 611 Either of these, would be for thee to per- ish! Cam. And let me perish, so I see them ! Lucifer. There	I have a victor — tru Homage he has fro me: I battle it against hin In highest heaven. And the unfathomab And the infinity of e All, all, will I disp world, And star by star, verse, Shall tremble in the Conflict shall cease, Which it ne'er sha quench'd !
one Of them for evermore. Cam. And why not now? Lucifer. Thy human mind hath scarcely grasp to gather The little I have shown thee into calm And clear thought; and thou wouldst go on aspiring To the great double Mysteries! the two Principles ' And gaze upon them on their secret thrones! Dust! limit thy ambiton; for to see 611 Either of these, would be for thee to per- ish! Cam. And let me perish, so I see them !	I have a victor — tru Homage he has fro me: I battle it against hin In highest heaven. And the unfathomab And the infinity of et All, all, will I disp world, And star by star, verse, Shall tremble in the Conflict shall cease, Which it ne'er sha
one Of them for evermore. Cam. And why not now ? Lucifer. Thy human mind hath scarcely grasp to gather The little I have shown thee into calm And clear thought; and thou wouldst go on aspiring To the great double Mysteries ! the two Principles ' And gaze upon them on their secret thrones ! Dust ! limit thy ambiton; for to see 611 Either of these, would be for thee to per- ish ! Cam. And let me perish, so I see them ! Lucifer. There The son of her who snatch'd the apple	I have a victor — tru Homage he has fro me: I battle it against hin In highest heaven. And the unfathomab And the infinity of e All, all, will I disp world, And star by star, verse, Shall tremble in the Conflict shall cease, Which it ne'er shi quench'd ! And what can quenc
one Of them for evermore. Can. And why not now ? Lucifer. Thy human mind hath scarcely grasp to gather The little I have shown thee into calm And clear thought; and thou wouldst go on aspiring To the great double Mysteries ! the two Principles / And gaze upon them on their secret thrones ! Dust ! limit thy ambition; for to see 611 Either of these, would be for thee to per- ish ! Cam. And let me perish, so I see them ! Lucifer. There The son of her who snatch'd the apple spake ! But thou wouldst only perish, and not see them;	I have a victor — tru Homage he has from me: I battle it against him In highest heaven. And the unfathomab And the infinity of ex All, all, will I disp world, And star by star, verse, Shall tremble in the Conflict shall cease, Which it ne'er sha quench'd ! And what can quenc Or mutual and irrev He as a conqueror w Evul; but what will
one Of them for evermore. Cam. And why not now ? Lucifer. Thy human mind hath scarcely grasp to gather The little I have shown thee into calm And clear thought; and thou wouldst go on aspiring To the great double Mysteries ! the two Prunciples ' And gaze upon them on their secret thrones ! Dust ! limit thy ambiton; for to see 611 Either of these, would be for thee to per- ish ! Cam. And let me perish, so I see them ! Lucifer. There The son of her who snatch'd the apple spake ! But thou wouldst only perish, and not see them; That sight is for the other state.	I have a victor — tru Homage he has from me: I battle it against him In highest heaven. And the unfathomab And the infinity of ex All, all, will I disp world, And star by star, verse, Shall tremble in the Conflict shall cease, Which it ne'er sha quench'd ! And what can quenc Or mutual and irrev He as a conqueror w Evul; but what will Were I the victor,
one Of them for evermore. Cam. And why not now ? Lucifer. Thy human mind hath scarcely grasp to gather The little I have shown thee into calm And clear thought; and thou wouldst go on aspiring To the great double Mysteries ! the two Principles ' And gaze upon them on their secret thrones ! Dust ! limit thy ambiton; for to see 611 Either of these, would be for thee to per- ish ! Cam. And let me perish, so I see them ! Lucifer. There The son of her who snatch'd the apple spake ! But thou wouldst only perish, and not see them; That sight is for the other state. Cam. Of death ?	I have a victor — tru Homage he has fromme: I battle it against him In highest heaven. And the unfathomab And the infinity of et All, all, will I disp world, And star by star, verse, Shall tremble in the Conflict shall cease, Which it ne'er shi quench'd ! And what can quenc Or mutual and irrev He as a conqueror w Evul ; but what will Were I the victor, deem'd
one Of them for evermore. Cam. And why not now ? Lucifer. Thy human mind hath scarcely grasp to gather The little I have shown thee into calm And clear thought; and thou wouldst go on aspiring To the great double Mysteries ! the two Principles ' And gaze upon them on their secret thrones ! Dust ! limit thy ambiton; for to see 6n Either of these, would be for thee to per- ish ! Cam. And let me perish, so I see them ! Lucifer. There The son of her who snatch'd the apple spake ! But thou wouldst only perish, and not see them; That sight is for the other state. Cam. Of death ? Lucifer. That is the prelude	I have a victor — tru Homage he has from me: I battle it against him In highest heaven. And the unfathomable And the infinity of et All, all, will I disp world, And star by star, verse, Shall tremble in the Conflict shall cease, if Which it ne'er shift quench'd ! And what can quene Or mutual and irrev He as a conqueror w Evil ; but what will Were I the victor, deem'd The only evil ones.
one Of them for evermore. Cam. And why not now ? Lucifer. Thy human mind hath scarcely grasp to gather The little I have shown thee into calm And clear thought; and thou wouldst go on aspiring To the great double Mysteries ! the two Principles ' And gaze upon them on their secret thrones ! Dust ! limit thy ambiton; for to see 611 Either of these, would be for thee to per- ish ! Cam. And let me perish, so I see them ! Lucifer. There The son of her who snatch'd the apple spake ! But thou wouldst only perish, and not see them; That sight is for the other state. Cam. Of death ? Lucifer. That is the prelude Cain. Then I dread it less,	I have a victor — tru Homage he has from me: I battle it against him In highest heaven. And the unfathomable And the infinity of ex- And the infinity of ex- And, all, will I disp world, And star by star, verse, Shall tremble in the Conflict shall cease, is Which it ne'er shan quench'd ! And what can quene Or mutual and irrev He as a conqueror w Evil; but what will Were I the victor, deem'd The only evil ones. And scarce-born mod
one Of them for evermore. Cam. And why not now ? Lucifer. Thy human mind hath scarcely grasp to gather The little I have shown thee into calm And clear thought; and thou wouldst go on aspiring To the great double Mysteries ! the two Principles ' And gaze upon them on their secret thrones ! Dust ! limit thy ambition; for to see 611 Either of these, would be for thee to per- ish ! Cam. And let me perish, so I see them ! Lucifer. There The son of her who snatch'd the apple spake ! But thou wouldst only perish, and not see them; That sight is for the other state. Cam. Cof death ? Lucifer. That is the prelude Cain. Then I dread it less, Now that I know it leads to something def-	I have a victor — tru Homage he has from me: I battle it against him In highest heaven. And the unfathomab And the infinity of et All, all, will I disp world, And star by star, verse, Shall tremble in the Conflict shall cease, Which it ne'er sha quench'd ! And what can quene Or mutual and irrev He as a conqueror w Evul; but what will Were I the victor, deem'd The only evil ones. And scarce-born mon his gifts
one Of them for evermore. Cam. And why not now ? Lucifer. Thy human mind hath scarcely grasp to gather The little I have shown thee into calm And clear thought; and thou wouldst go on aspiring To the great double Mysteries ! the two Principles ' And gaze upon them on their secret thrones ! Dust ! limit thy ambiton; for to see 611 Either of these, would be for thee to per- ish ! Cam. And let me perish, so I see them ! Lucifer. There The son of her who snatch'd the apple spake ! But thou wouldst only perish, and not see them; That sight is for the other state. Cam. Of death ? Lucifer. That is the prelude Cain. Then I dread it less,	I have a victor — tru Homage he has from me: I battle it against him In highest heaven. And the unfathomab And the infinity of ex- And, all, will I disp world, And star by star, verse, Shall tremble in the Conflict shall cease, is Which it ne'er shan quench'd ! And what can quene Or mutual and irrev He as a conqueror w Evil; but what will Were I the victor, deem'd The only evil ones. And scarce-born mod

- multiply the race of 620
- ble, laugh, weep, sleep,
 - at end have I beheld wn me?

- Didst thou not require have I not, in what I
- thyself?
- Alas! I seem
- should be the human
- know mortal nature's
- e to thy children, and any tortures
- Haughty spirit ! proudly, but thyself,
- 630
- by Heaven, which He , and the immensity
- hich I hold with him -
- e; but no superior
- m all but none from
- m. as I battled
- Through all eternity,
- le gulfs of Hades,
- e realms of space,
- ndless ages,
- 640 oute! And world by
- and universe by uni-
- balance, till the great f ever it shall cease,
- all, till he or I be
- h our inimortality,
- ocable hate?
- ull call the conquer'd
 - be the good he gives?
- his works would be 650
- And you, ye new
- rtals, what have been
- our little world ?

Cain. But few ! and some of those but bitter.

Lucifer. Back

- With me, then, to thine earth, and try the rest
- Of his celestial boons to you and yours.
- Evil and good are things in their own essence,
- And not made good or evil by the giver;
- But if he gives you good so call him . if
- Evil springs from him, do not name it mine,
- Till ye know better its true fount; and Judge 66 τ
- Not by words, though of spirits, but the fruits
- Of your existence, such as it must be.
- One good gift has the fatal apple given -
- Your reason let it not be over-sway'd
- By tyrannous threats to force you into faith
- 'Gainst all external sense and inward feelmg:
- Think and endure, and form an inner world
- In your own bosom where the outward fails;

So shall you nearer be the spiritual

670 Nature, and war triumphant with your own. [They disappear

ACT III

SCENE I

The Earth near Eden, as in Act I.

Enter CAIN and ADAH

Adah. Hush ! tread softly, Cain.

- Cain. I will; but wherefore? Adah Our little Enoch sleeps upon yon bed
- Of leaves, beneath the cypress

Cain. Cypress ' 't is A gloomy tree, which looks as if it mourn'd

O'er what it shadows; wherefore didst thou choose it

For our child's canopy ?

A dah.Because its branches Shut out the sun like night, and therefore seem'd

Fitting to shadow slumber.

Ay, the last -Cain. And longest; but no matter - lead me to him [They go up to the child How lovely he appears ! his little cheeks, In their pure incarnation, vying with 11 The rose leaves strewn beneath them.

Adah. And his lips, too, How beautifully parted ! No; you shall not Kiss him, at least not now. he will awake soon,

His hour of mid-day rest is nearly over;

But it were pity to disturb him till

'T is closed.

Cain. You have said well; I will contain My heart till then He smiles and sleeps ! -Sleep on

And smile, thou little, young inheritor

- Of a world scarce less young · sleep on, and smile !
- Thine are the hours and days when both are cheering
- And mnocent! thou hast not pluck'd the fruit-

Thou know'st not that thou art naked ! Must the time

Come thou shalt be amerced for sins unknown,

Which were not thine nor mine? But now sleep on !

His cheeks are reddening into deeper smiles,

And shining lids are trenibling o'er his long Lashes, dark as the cypress which waves

o'er them; Half open, from beneath them the clear blue

Laughs out, although in slumber. He must dream ~

- Of what? Of Paradise !- Ay ! dream of it.
- My disinherited boy ! 'T is but a dream;
- For never more thyself, thy sons, nor fathers.
- Shall walk in that forbidden place of joy ! Adah. Dear Cain! Nay, do not whisper o'er our son

Such melancholy yearnings o'er the past:

Why wilt thou always mourn for Paradise? Can we not make another?

Where? Cam.

Here, or Adah. Where'er thou wilt: where'er thou art, I feel not

The want of this so much regretted Eden.

Have I not thee, our boy, our sire, and brother,

And Zillah - our sweet sister, and our Eve,

- To whom we owe so much besides our birth? Cam. Yes - death, too, is amongst the debts we owe her.
 - Adah Cain ! that proud spirit who withdrew thee hence,

Hath sadden'd thine still deeper. I had Cain. Why, so say I - provided that one hoped victim The promised wonders which thou hast Might satiate the insatiable of life, beheld, And that our little rosy sleeper there Visions, thou say'st, of past and present Might never taste of death nor human sorworlds, row, Would have composed thy mind into the Nor hand it down to those who spring from calm him. Of a contented knowledge; but I see Adah. How know we that some such Thy guide hath done thee evil: still I thank atonement one day him, May not redeem our race ? And can forgive him all, that he so soon Cain. By sacrificing Hath given thee back to us. The harmless for the guilty? what atone-Cain. So soon? mentAdah. Were there? Why, we are innocent: what 'T is scarcely Two hours since ye departed: two long have we hours Done, that we must be victims for a deed Before our birth, or need have victims to 90 To me, but only hours upon the sun. Cain. And yet I have approach'd that Atone for this mysterious, nameless sm — If it be such a sin to seek for knowledge? sun, and seen Worlds which he once shone on, and never Adah. Alas! thou sinnest now, my Cain. thy words more Sound impious in mine ears. Shall light; and worlds he never lit: methought Cain. Then leave me! Years had roll'd o'er my absence. Adah. Never, Hardly hours. Adah Though thy God left thee. Cain. The mind then hath capacity of Cain. Say, what have we here? Adah. Two altars, which our brother Abel timeAnd measures it by that which it beholds, made Pleasing or painful, little or almighty. During thine absence, whereupon to offer I had beheld the immemorial works A sacrifice to God on thy return Of endless beings; skirr'd extinguish'd Cain. And how knew he, that I would be worlds: so ready With the burnt offerings, which he daily And, gazing on eternity, methought I had borrowed more by a few drops of ages brings From its immensity; but now I feel With a meek brow, whose base humility Well said the spirit, Shows more of fear than worship, as a bribe My littleness again. To the Creator? That I was nothing ! Wherefore said he so? Adah Adah Surely, 't is well done. Jehovah said not that. Cain. One altar may suffice; I have no No; he contents him 70 Cain offering. With making us the nothing which we are; Adah The fruits of the earth, the early And after flattering dust with glimpses of beautiful Eden and Immortality, resolves Blossom and bud, and bloom of flowers and It back to dust again - for what? fruits, Thou know'st ---These are a goodly offering to the Lord. Adah Even for our parents' error. Given with a gentle and a contrite spirit Cain. What is that Cain. I have toil'd, and till'd, and sweaten To us ? they sinn'd, then let them die ! in the sun According to the curse: - must I do more ? Adah. Thou hast not spoken well, nor is For what should I be gentle ? for a war that thought Thy own, but of the spirit who was with With all the elements ere they will yield The bread we eat? For what must I be thee. grateful? Would I could die for them, so they might For being dust, and grovelling in the dust, live !

Till I return to dust ? If I am nothing -And opens wide his blue eyes upon thine, 150 For nothing shall I be an hypocrite, To hail his father; while his little form And seem well-pleased with pain? For Flutters as wing'd with joy Talk not of what should I pain ! The childless cherubs well might envy thee Be contrite? for my father's sin, already Explate with what we all have undergone, The pleasures of a parent ! Bless him, Cain ! And to be more than expiated by As yet he hath no words to thank thee, 120 The ages prophesied, upon our seed. but His heart will, and thine own too. Little deems our young blooming sleeper there. Cain Bless thee, boy ! The germs of an eternal misery If that a mortal blessing may avail thee, To myriads is within him ' better 't were To save thee from the serpent's curse ! I snatch'd him in his sleep, and dash'd him Adah. It shall. gainst Surely a father's blessing may avert The rocks, than let him live to -A reptile's subtlety. Oh, my God ! Of that I doubt: 160 Cain. Adah. Touch not the child - my child ! thy child ! But bless him ne'er the less. Adah. Our brother comes. Oh, Cam[†] Cann. Fear not ! for all the stars, and all Cain Thy brother Abel. the power Enter ABEL. Which sways them, I would not accost you Welcome, Cain ! My brother, infant Abel. With ruder greeting than a father's kiss 130 The peace of God be on thee ! Adah. Then, why so awful in thy speech? Cain. Abel, hail ! Cain I said, Abel. Our sister tells me that thou hast been wandering, "T were better that he ceased to live, than In high communion with a spirit, far give Beyond our wonted range. Was he of Life to so much of sorrow as he must Endure, and, harder still, bequeath; but those We have seen and spoken with, like to our since father? That saying jars you, let us only say ---"T were better that he never had been born. Cain. No Adah. Oh, do not say so ! Where were Abel. Why then commune with him? then the joys, he may be A foe to the Most High. The mother's joys of watching, nourishing, Cain And friend to man. And loving him ? Soft ! he awakes. Sweet Has the Most High been so - if so you term him? Enoch ! [She goes to the child Abel. Term him ! your words are strange Oh Cain! look on him; see how full of to-day, my brother. hfe. 140 Of strength, of bloom, of beauty, and of My sister Adah, leave us for awhile ---We mean to sacrifice. joy, How like to me - how like to thee, when Adah. Farewell, my Cain; gentle, But first embrace thy son. May his soft For then we are all alike; is 't not so, Cain ? spirit, And Abel's pious ministry, recall thee Mother, and sire, and son, our features are Reflected in each other; as they are To peace and holiness ! In the clear waters, when they are gentle, Exit ADAH, with her child and Abel. Where hast thou been? Cain. I know not. When thou art gentle Love us, then, my Abel. Cain : Nor what thou hast seen ? And love thyself for our sakes, for we love Cain. The dead. The immortal, the unbounded, the omnipothee. Look ! how he laughs and stretches out his tent, arms, The overpowering mysteries of space ---

- The innumerable worlds that were and are ---180
- A whirlwind of such overwhelming things, Suns, moons, and earths, upon their loudvoiced spheres
- Singing in thunder round me, as have made \mathbf{me}
- Unfit for mortal converse. leave me, Abel. Abel Thine eyes are flashing with unnatural light,
- Thy cheek is flush'd with an unnatural hue,
- Thy words are fraught with an unnatural sound -
- What may this mean ?
 - It means I pray thee, leave Cain.
 - Abel. Not till we have pray'd and sacrificed together.
- Cain. Abel, I pray thee, sacrifice alone ---Jehovah loves thee well.
 - Both well, I hope Abel. Cain. But thee the better \cdot I care not for that;
- Thou art fitter for his worship than I am;

Revere him, then - but let it be alone -At least, without me.

- Abel. Brother, I should ill Deserve the name of our great father's son,
- If, as my elder, I revered thee not,
- And in the worship of our God call'd not
- On thee to join me, and precede me in 199
- Our priesthood 't is thy place.
- But I have ne'er Cain. Asserted it.
- Abel. The more my grief; I pray thee To do so now thy soul seems labouring in
- Some strong delusion; it will calm thee. Cain. No;
- Nothing can calm me more. Calm ' say I ? Never
- Knew I what calm was in the soul, although
- I have seen the elements still'd. My Abel, leave me !
- Or let me leave thee to thy pious purpose Abel. Neither; we must perform our task together.
- Spurn me not.
- Cain. If it must be so — well, then, What shall I do?
 - Abel. Choose one of those two altars Cam. Choose for me: they to me are so much turf 211
- And stone.
 - Choose thou ! A bel.
 - Cain. I have chosen.

- 'T is the highest, A belAnd suits thee, as the elder Now prepare Thme offerings Cain.
 - Where are thine?
- Abel Behold them here, The firstlings of the flock, and fat thereof -A shepherd's humble offering.
- I have no flocks; Cain. I am a tiller of the ground, and must
- Yield what it yieldeth to my toil its fruit: [He gathers fruits.
- Behold them in their various bloom and ripeness
- [They dress their altars, and kindle a flame upon them Abel. My brother, as the elder, offer first 220
- Thy prayer and thanksgiving with sacrifice. Cain. No - I am new to this, lead thou the way,
- And I will follow as I may.
- Oh God ! Abel (kneeling). Who made us, and who breathed the breath
- of life Within our nostrils, who liath blessed us,
- And spared, despite our father's sin, to make
- His children all lost, as they might have been,
- Had not thy justice been so temper'd with The mercy which is thy delight as to
- Accord a pardon like a Paradise
- 230 Compared with our great crimes: - Sole Lord of light
- Of good, and glory, and eternity;
- Without whom all were evil, and with whom Nothing can err, except to some good end Of thine ommpotent benevolence -
- Inscrutable, but still to be fulfill'd ---
- Accept from out thy humble first of shepherd's
- First of the first-born flocks an offering, In itself nothing — as what offering can be Aught unto thee ? but yet accept it for '40 The thanksgiving of him who spreads it in The face of thy high heaven, bowing his own
- Even to the dust, of which he is, in honour Of thee, and of thy name, for evermore !
 - Cain (standing erect during this speech). Spirit! whate'er or whosoe'er thou art,
- Ommpotent, it may be and, if good,
- Shown in the exemption of thy deeds from evil;
- Jehovah upon earth ! and God in heaven !

Their seed will bear fresh fruit there ere And it may be with other names, because Thine attributes seem many, as thy works -If thou must be propitiated with prayers, 251 Take them ! If thou must be induced with altars. And soften'd with a sacrifice, receive them ! Two beings here erect them unto thee. If thou lov'st blood, the shepherd's shrine, which smokes On my right hand, hath shed it for thy ser-Cain vice In the first of his flock whose lumbs now reek In sangumary incense to thy skies: Or it the sweet and blooming truits of earth And milder seasons, which the unstam'd turf I spread them on now offers in the face Of the broad sun which upen'd them, may seem Good to thee, inasmuch as they have not Suffer'd m limb or life, and rather form now A sample of thy works than supplication To look on ours ! If a shrine without vic-Cann. tun. And altar without gore, may win thy favour, Look on it ! and for hun who dresseth it, in He is - such as thou mad'st hum; and seeks nothing Which must be won by kneeling; if he's evil. 270 Strike him ! thou art omnipotent and may'st -For what can he oppose? If he be good, Strike him, or spare him, as thou wilt ! since a]] Rests upon thee; and good and evil seem To have no power themselves, save in thy will; And whether that be good or ill I know not. Not being ommipotent, nor fit to judge Omnipotence, but merely to endure Its mandate; which thus far I have endured [The fire upon the alter of ABEL kundles into a column of the brughlest flame, and ascends to heaven; while a whirlwind the ows down the alter of CAIN, and scatters the fruits abroad upon the earth Abel. Cain. Abel (kneeling). Oh, brother, pray! Jehovah's wroth with thee. 280 Cain. Why so ? Abel. Thy fruits are scatter'd on the Abel. earth. Cain. From earth they came, to earth let them return; Cain.

the summer: Thy burnt flesh-off'ring prospers better; see How heav'n licks up the flames when thick with blood ! Abel. Think not upon my offering's acceptance. But make another of thine own before It is too late. I will build no more altars, Nor suffer any. Abel (rising). Cam ! what meanest thou? Cam To cast down you vile flatt'rer of the clouds. 200 The smoky harbinger of thy dull pray'rs -Thine altar, with its blood of lambs and kids. Which fed on milk, to be destroy'd in blood Abel (opposing him). Thou shalt not: add not impious works to impious Words ! let that altar stand - 't is hallow'd By the unmortal pleasure of Jehovah. In his acceptance of the victims His ! His pleasure ! what was his high pleasure The fumes of scorching flesh and smoking blood. To the pain of the bleating mothers which Still yearn for their dead offspring? or the pangs Of the sad ignorant victims underneath Thy pious knife? Give way ! this bloody record Shall not stand in the sun, to shame creation ! Abel. Brother, give back ! thou shalt not touch my altar With violence: if that thou wilt adopt it, To try another sacrifice, 't is thine. Cain. Another sacrifice ! Give way, or else That sacrifice may be ---What mean'st thou? Give -Give way ! - thy God loves blood ! - then look to it: 310 Give way, ere he hath more ! In his great name, I stand between thee and the shrine which hath Had his acceptance. If thou lov'st thyself

- Stand back till I have strew'd this turf along
- Its native soil: else -
- Abel (opposing him) I love God far more Than life
 - Cain (striking him with a brand, on the temples, which he snatches from the altur). Then take thy life unto thy God,
- Since he loves lives
- Abel (falls). What hast thou done, my brother?
 - Cain. Brother !
- Abel. Oh, God ! receive thy servant, and
- Forgive his slayer, for he knew not what
- He did Cain, give me give me thy hand; and tell 320 Poor Zillah -
- Cain (after a moment's stupefaction). My hand ! 't is all red, and with -
- What? [A long pause - Looking slowly round. Where am I? alone ! Where 's Abel? where
- Cain? Can it be that I am he? My brother,
- Awake ! why liest thou so on the green earth?
- 'T is not the hour of slumber: why so pale?
- What hast thou ! thou wert full of life this morn !
- Abel ! I pray thee, mock me not ! I smote Too fiercely, but not fatally Ah, why
- Wouldst thou oppose me ? This is mockery;
- And only done to daunt me: 't was a blow -
- And but a blow. Stir stir nay, only stir!
- Why, so that's well thou breath'st ! breathe upon me !
- Oh God! Oh God!
 - Abel (very faintly) What's he who speaks of God?
- Cain. Thy murderer. Abel. Then may God forgive him! Cain,
- Comfort poor Zillah: she has but one brother
- Now. [ABEL dies. Cain And I none! — Who makes me brotherless?
- His eyes are open ! then he is not dead !
- Death is like sleep, and sleep shuts down our hds
- His lips, too, are apart; why then he breathes!
- And yet I feel it not. His heart ! his heart ! 340

- Let me see, doth it beat? methinks No ! - no !
- This is a vision, else I am become
- The native of another and worse world.
- The earth swims round me. what is this? — 't is wet;
- [Puts his hand to his brow, and then looks at it. And yet there are no dews ! 'T is blood ---my blood -
- My brother's and my own, and shed by me! Then what have I further to do with life,
- Since I have taken life from my own flesh? But he cannot be dead ! - Is silence death ?
- No; he will wake; then let me watch by him.
- Life cannot be so slight, as to be quench'd Thus quickly ! - he hath spoken to me since -
- What shall I say to him ? My brother ! No:
- He will not answer to that name; for brethren
- Smite not each other. Yet yet speak to me.
- Oh, for a word more of that gentle voice,
- That I may bear to hear my own again !

Enter ZILLAH

- Zillah. I heard a heavy sound; what can it be?
- 'T is Cain; and watching by my husband. What
- Dost thou there, brother? Doth he sleep? Oh, heav'n !
- What means this paleness, and yon stream? — No, no !
- It is not blood; for who would shed his blood?
- Abel! what's this ? who hath done this? He moves not:
- He breathes not; and his hands drop down from mine
- With stony lifelessness ! Ah, cruel Cain ! Why cam'st thou not in time to save him
- from This violence? Whatever hath assail'd hım,
- Thou wert the stronger, and shouldst have stepp'd in
- Between him and aggression! Father!-Eve !-
- Adah !- come hither ! Death is in the world !

Cam (solus). And who hath brought him	Adah. Hold !
there ? - I - who abhor	Curse him not, mother, for he is thy son —
The name of Death so deeply, that the thought	Curse him not, mother, for he is my bro- ther,
Empoison'd all my life before I knew	And my betroth'd.
His aspect — I have led hun here, and giv'n	Eve. He hath left thee no brother —
My brother to his cold and still embrace,	Zillah no husband — me no son ! — for thus
As if he would not have asserted his Inexorable claim without my aid	I curse him from my sight for evermore ! All bonds I break between us, as he broke
I am awake at last — a dreary dream	That of his nature, in yon - Oh death !
Had madden'd me; — but he shall ne'er	death ! 411
awake!	Why didst thou not take me , who first in- curr'd thee ?
Enter ADAM, EVE, ADAH, and ZILLAH	Why dost thou not so now?
Adam A voice of woe from Zillah brings	Adam. Eve ! let not this,
me here. 380	Thy natural grief, lead to impiety !
What do I see? — 'T is true! — My son! niy son!	A heavy doom was long forespoken to us; And now that it begins, let it be borne
Woman, behold the serpent's work, and	In such sort as may show our God that we thine !	Are faithful servants to his holy will.
Eve. Oh! speak not of it now; the ser-	Eve (pointing to Cain) His will the pent's fangs Are in my heart. My best beloved, Abel !	will of yon incarnate spirit Of death, whom I have brought upon the
Jehovah! this is punishment beyond	earth 420
A mother's sin, to take him from me!	To strew it with the dead. May all the
A dam Who, Or what hath done this deed?—speak,	curses Of life be on him ! and his agonies
Cain, since thou	Drive him forth o'er the wilderness, like
Wert present; was it some more hostile angel, Who walks not with Jehovah? or some wild	As he did by his brother ! May the swords
Brute of the forest?	And wings of fiery cherubim pursue him
Eve. Ah! a livid light 390	By day and night — snakes spring up in his Breaks through, as from a thunder-cloud !	path — Forth's fruits he ashes in his mouth the yon brand, Massy and bloody ! snatch'd from off the	Earth's fruits be ashes in his mouth — the leaves altar,	On which he lays his head to sleep be
And black with smoke, and red with —	Strew'd With accord New his dreams he of his
Adam. Speak, my son ! Speak, and assure us, wretched as we are,	With scorpions ! May his dreams be of his victum ! 430
That we are not more miserable still.	His waking a continual dread of death !
Adah. Speak, Cain! and say it was not	May the clear rivers turn to blood as he thou ! Eve. It was,	Stoops down to stain them with his raging hp !
I see it now — he hangs his guilty head,	May every element shun or change to
And covers his ferocious eye with hands	him!
Incarnadine. Adah. Mother, thou dost him wrong —	May he live in the pangs which others die with !
Cain! clear thee from this horrible ac-	And death itself wax something worse than cusal, 400	death
Which grief wrings from our parent. Eve. Hear, Jehovah !	To him who first acquainted him with man ! Hence, fratricide ! henceforth that word is
May the eternal serpent's curse be on him !	Cain,
For he was fitter for his seed than ours.	Through all the coming myriads of man-
May all his days be desolate! May	l kind,

Who shall abhor thee though thou wert Am I then Cain their sire ! My brother's keeper? Cain! what hast thou done? May the grass wither from thy feet ! the Angel. The voice of thy slain brother's blood cries woods Deny thee shelter ! earth a home ! the dust out. A grave ! the sun his light ! and heaven her Even from the ground, unto the Lord !--Now art thou God ! [Exit Eve Adam. Cain! get thee forth: we dwell Cursed from the earth, which open'd late no more together. her mouth To drink thy brother's blood from thy rash Depart and leave the dead to me - I am Henceforth alone - we never must meet hand. Henceforth, when thou shalt till the ground, more. Adah. Oh, part not with him thus, my it shall not father: do not Yield thee her strength; a fugitive shalt Add thy deep curse to Eve's upon his head ! thouBe from this day, and vagabond on earth ! Adam. I curse him not: his spirit be his Adah This punishment is more than he curse. Come, Zillah ! can bear. Behold, thou drivest him from the face of Zıllah. I must watch my husband's earth. corse. And from the face of God shall he be hid. Adam. We will return again, when he is A fugitive and vagabond on earth, gone 'T will come to pass, that whose findeth him Who hath provided for us this dread office. Come, Zillah ! Shall slay him. Would they could ! but Zıllah. Yet one kiss on yon pale clay, Cain. And those lips once so warm - my heart ! who are they Where are these on the Shall slay me? my heart ! lone earth [Exeunt ADAM and ZILLAH, weeping Adah. Cain! thou hast heard, we must As yet unpeopled ? go forth. I am ready, Angel Thou hast slain thy brother, And who shall warrant thee against thy So shall our children be. I will bear Enoch, And you his sister. Ere the sun declines son? Adah. Angel of Light ! be merciful, nor Let us depart, nor walk the wilderness Under the cloud of night - Nay, speak to say That this poor aching breast now nourme, ishes To me — thine own. A murderer in my boy, and of his father Cain. Leave me ! Angel Then he would but be what his Adah Why, all have left thee. Cam And wherefore lingerest thou? father is. Did not the milk of Eve give nutriment 490 Dost thou not fear To dwell with one who hath done this ? To him thou now see'st so besmear'd with blood? A dah.I fear The fratricide might well engender parri-Nothing except to leave thee, much as I Shrink from the deed which leaves thee cides -But it shall not be so — the Lord thy God brotherless And mine commandeth me to set his seal I must not speak of this — it is between On Cain, so that he may go forth in safety thee Who slayeth Cain, a sevenfold vengeance And the great God A Voice from within exclaims, Cain ! Cain ! shall Be taken on his head. Come hither ! Hear'st thou that voice? Adah. The Voice within. Cain ! Cain ! Cain. Adah. It soundeth like an angel's tone. Wouldst thou with me? Angel. To mark upon thy brow Enter the ANGEL of the Lord Exemption from such deeds as thou hast Angel. Where is thy brother Abel? done.

What

I think thou wilt forgive him, whom his Cain. No, let me die ! It must not be. Angel God [The Angel sets the mark on Cain's brow Can ne'er forgive, nor his own soul. - Fare-Cain. It burns well! My brow, but nought to that which is within I must not, dare not touch what I have made it. thee. Is there more ? let me meet it as I may I, who sprung from the same womb with Angel. Stern hast thou been and stubborn thee, dram'd The same breast, clasp'd thee often to my from the womb, As the ground thou must henceforth till; own, but he In fondness brotherly and boyish, I Thou slew'st was gentle as the flocks he Can never meet thee more, nor even dare tended. To do that for thee, which thou shouldst Cain After the fall too soon was I behave done gotten: For me - compose thy limbs into their Ere yet my mother's mind subsided from grave ---The serpent, and my sire still mourn'd for The first grave yet dug for mortality. Ēden But who hath dug that grave? Oh, earth ! That which I am, I am; I did not seek Oh, earth ' For life, nor did I make myself; but could I For all the fruits thou hast render'd to me, I With my own death redeem him from the Give thee back this - Now for the wilderdust ness. And why not so ? let him return to-day, [ADAH stoops down and hisses the body of ABEL. And I lie ghastly ! so shall be restored Adah. A dreary, and an early doom, my By God the life to him he loved; and taken brother, From me a being I ne'er loved to bear. Has been thy lot ! Of all who mourn for Angel. Who shall heal murder ? what is thee. done is done; I alone must not weep. My office is Go forth ! fulfil thy days ! and be thy deeds Henceforth to dry up tears, and not to shed Unlike the last ! [The ANGEL disappears them. He's gone, let us go forth; But yet, of all who mourn, none mourn like Adah. I hear our little Enoch cry within me, Our bower. Not only for thyself, but him who slew Cain. Ah, little knows he what he weeps thee. Now, Cain ! I will divide thy burden with for ! And I who have shed blood cannot shed thee. tears ! Cain. Eastward from Eden will we take But the four rivers would not cleanse my our way; 'T is the most desolate, and suits my steps. soul. Think'st thou my boy will bear to look on Adah. Lead ! thou shalt be my guide, and me? may our God Be thine ! Now let us carry forth our chil-Adah. If I thought that he would not, I would dren. Cain. And he who heth there was child-Cain (interrupting her). No, No more of threats: we have had too many less. I Have dried the fountain of a gentle race, of them. Go to our children; I will follow thee. Which might have graced his recent mar-Adah. I will not leave thee lonely with riage couch, the dead; And might have temper'd this stern blood Let us depart together. of mine, Uniting with our children Abel's offspring ! Cain. Oh, thou dead And everlasting witness ! whose unsinking O Abel! Blood darkens earth and heaven! what thou Adah. Peace be with him ! But with me ! now art Cain. 530 I know not! but if thou see'st what I am. Exeunt.

FOUNDED ON THE FOLLOWING PASSAGE IN GENESIS, CHAP VI

'And it came to pass . . that the sons of God saw the daughters of men that they were fair; and they took them wives of all which they chose.'

> ' And woman wailing for her demon lover ' COLERIDGE.

DRAMATIS PERSONÆ

ANGELS (SAMIASA. AZAZIEL. RAPHAEL, the Archangel MEN { NOAH and his Sons (JAPHET

WOMEN ANAH Chorus of Spurits of the Earth - Chorus of Mortals.

PART I

SCENE I

A woody and mountainous district near Mount Ararat - Tune, midnight

Enter ANAH and AHOLIBAMAH.

- Anah. Our father sleeps. it is the hour when they
- Who love us are accustom'd to descend
- Through the deep clouds o'er rocky Ara-

rat. ---

How my heart beats !

- Aho Let us proceed upon Our invocation.
- Anah. But the stars are hidden. í tremble.

So do I, but not with fear Aho. Of aught save their delay.

- My sister, though Anah.
- I love Azaziel more than oh, too much ' What was I going to say ? my heart grows
- impious

Aho. And where is the impiety of loving Celestial natures ? Anah.

But, Aholibamah,

- I love our God less since his angel loved me:
- This cannot be of good: and though I know not
- That I do wrong, I feel a thousand fears Which are not ommous of right.

Then wed thee Unto some son of clay, and toil and spin ! There's Japhet loves thee well, hath loved thee long.

Marry, and bring forth dust !

I should have loved Anah. Azaziel not less, were he mortal, yet

I am glad he is not. I can not outlive him

And when I think that his immortal wings Will one day hover o'er the sepulchre

Of the poor child of clay which so adored hım,

As he adores the Highest, death becomes Less terrible; but yet I pity him:

- His grief will be of ages, or at least
- Mine would be such for him, were I the seraph,
- And he the perishable.
- Aho. Rather say,
- That he will single forth some other daugh- ter
- Of Earth, and love her as he once loved Anah.
 - Anah And if it should be so, and she loved him,
- Better thus than that he should weep for me

Aho. If I thought thus of Samiasa's love, All seraph as he is, I'd spurn him from me

But to our invocation ! - 'T is the hour. Seraph ! Anah.

From thy sphere !

Whatever star contain thy glory: In the eternal depths of heaven

Albeit thou watchest with ' the seven,'

- Though through space infinite and hoary Before thy bright wings worlds be
 - driven

Yet hear !

- Oh ! think of her who holds thee dear ! And though she nothing is to thee,
- Yet think that thou art all to her. Thou canst not tell, - and never be Such pangs decreed to aught save me, -

The bitterness of tears Eternity is in thine years, Unborn, undying beauty in thine eyes;

50

With me thou canst not sympathise,

Except in love, and there thou must Acknowledge that more loving dust Ne'er wept beneath the skies

Thou walk'st thy many worlds, thou seest The face of him who made thee great,

Thine immortality can not repay As he hath made me of the least Of those cast out from Eden's gate. With love more warm than mine Yet, Seraph dear ! My love. There is a ray 60 In me, which, though forbidden yet to Oh hear ! For thou hast loved me, and I would not shine, I feel was lighted at thy God's and thine. die Until I know what I must die in know-It may be hidden long: death and decay Our mother Eve bequeath'd us - but my ing, That thou forget'st in thine eternity heart Her whose heart death could not keep Defies it: though this life must pass away, from overflowing Is that a cause for thee and me to For thee, immortal essence as thou art ! part? Great is their love who love in sin and fear; Thou art immortal — so am I. I feel — 110 I feel my immortality o'ersweep And such, I feel, are waging in my heart All pains, all tears, all fears, and peal, A war unworthy: to an Adamite Forgive, my Seraph! that such thoughts Like the eternal thunders of the deep, Into my ears this truth - 'Thou liv'st for appear, 70 For sorrow is our element; ever!' But if it be in joy Delight An Eden kept afar from sight, I know not, nor would know; Though sometimes with our visions That secret rests with the Almighty giver blent Who folds in clouds the fonts of bliss and The hour is near woe. Which tells me we are not abandon'd But thee and me he never can destroy; Change us he may, but not o'erwhelm; we quite. -Appear ! Appear ! are Seraph ! Of as eternal essence, and must war My own Azaziel! be but here, With him if he will war with us with thee And leave the stars to their own light. so I can share all things, even immortal Aho. Samiasa ! sorrow: Wheresoe'er For thou hast ventured to share life with Thou rulest in the upper air ----And shall I shrink from thine eternity? Or warring with the spirits who may dare No! though the serpent's sting should Dispute with him pierce me thorough, Who made all empires, empire; or re-And thou thyself wert like the serpent, coil calling Around me still ! and I will smile, Some wandering star, which shoots through And curse thee not; but hold Thee in as warm a fold the abyss, Whose tenants dying, while their world As - but descend, and prove is falling. A mortal's love Share the dim destiny of clay in this; For an immortal. If the skies contain Or joining with the inferior cherubim, 90 More joy than thou canst give and take, Thou deignest to partake their hymn ---remain! Samiasa ! Anah. Sister ! sister ! I view them wing-I call thee, I await thee, and I love thee. ing Many may worship thee, that will I Their bright way through the parted night. Aho. The clouds from off their pinions not; If that thy spirit down to mine may flinging, As though they bore to-morrow's light move thee, Anah. But if our father see the sight ! Descend and share my lot ! Though I be form'd of clay, Aho. He would but deem it was the And thou of beams moon More bright than those of day Rising unto some sorcerer's tune On Eden's streams,

An hour too soon. 100

130

140

Anah. They come ! he comes ! - Azaziel !	Japh Anah!
Aho. Haste	Irad. No; her sister.
To meet them ! Oh, for wings to bear	Japh. What other?
My spirit, while they hover there,	Irad. That I know not; but her air,
To Samiasa's breast (If not her words, tells me she loves an-
Anah. Lo! they have kindled all the	other. 180
west, Like a returning sunset; — lo !	Japh. Ay, but not Anah: she but loves her God.
On Ararat's late secret crest	Irad. Whate'er she loveth, so she loves
A mild and many-colour'd bow, 150	thee not,
The remnant of their flashing path,	What can it profit thee ?
Now shines ! and now, behold ! it hath	Japh. True, nothing; but
Return'd to night, as rippling foam,	I love.
Which the leviathan hath lash'd	Irad. And so did I.
From his unfathomable home	Japh. And now thou lov'st not,
When sporting on the face of the calm deep,	Or think'st thou lov'st not, art thou hap-
Subsides soon after he again hath dash'd	pier?
Down, down, to where the ocean's fountains	Irad. Yes.
sleep	Japh. I pity thee.
Aho. They have touch'd earth ! Samiasa ! Anah. My Azaziel !	Irad. Me! why? Japh. For being happy,
Anah. My Azaziel !	Deprived of that which makes my misery.
Scene II	Irad. I take thy taunt as part of thy distemper,
Enter IRAD and JAPHET.	And would not feel as thou dost for more
Irad. Despond not: wherefore wilt thou	shekels wander thus 160	Than all our father's herds would bring if
To add thy silence to the silent night,	weigh'd 190
And lift thy tearful eye unto the stars?	Against the metal of the sons of Cain —
They cannot aid thee $Japh$. But they soothe me — now	The yellow dust they try to barter with
Japh. But they soothe me — now Perhaps she looks upon them as I look.	us, As if such useless and discolour'd trash,
Methinks a being that is beautiful	The refuse of the earth, could be received
Becometh more so as it looks on beauty,	For milk, and wool, and flesh, and fruits,
The eternal beauty of undying things.	and all
Oh, Anah !	Our flocks and wilderness afford Go,
Irad. But she loves thee not.	Japhet,
Japh. Alas!	Sigh to the stars, as wolves howl to the Irad. And proud Aholibamah spurns me	moon —
also. 169	I must back to my rest.
Japh. I feel for thee too. Irad. Let her keep her pride,	Japh And so would I If I could rest.
Mine hath enabled me to bear her scorn:	Irad. Thou wilt not to our tents then?
It may be, time too will avenge it	Japh. No, Irad; I will to the cavern,
Japh. Canst thou	whose 200
Find joy in such a thought ?	Mouth they say opens from the internal
Irad. Nor joy, nor sorrow.	world
I loved her well; I would have loved her	To let the inner spirits of the earth better,	Forth when they walk its surface
Had love been met with love: as 't is, I	Irad Wherefore so?
leave her To brighton dostinion if so she dooms them	What wouldst thou there?
To brighter destinies, if so she deems them. Japh What destinies?	Japh. Soothe further my sad spirit With gloom as sad \cdot it is a hopeless spot,
Irad I have some cause to think	And I am hopeless.
She loves another.	Irad But 't is dangerous;

Strange sounds and sights have peopled it with terrors. I must go with thee JaphIrad, no; believe me I feel no evil thought, and fear no evil Irad. But evil things will be thy foe the more 210 As not being of them: turn thy steps aside, Or let mine be with thine No, neither, Irad; Japh. I must proceed alone. Irad. Then peace be with thee ! [Exit IRAD Japh. (solus). Peace ! I have sought it where it should be found, In love — with love, too, which perhaps deserved it; And in its stead a heaviness of heart, A weakness of the spirit, listless days, And nights inexorable to sweet sleep, Have come upon me. Peace ! what peace ? the calm Of desolation, and the stillness of 220 The untrodden forest, only broken by The sweeping tempest through its groaning boughs; Such is the sullen or the fitful state Of my mind overworn The earth 's grown wicked, And many signs and portents have proclaim'd A change at hand, and an o'erwhelming doom To perishable beings. Oh, my Anah! When the dread hour denounced shall open wide The fountains of the deep, how mightest thou Have lain within this bosom, folded from 230 The elements; this bosom, which m vain Hath beat for thee, and then will beat more vainly, While thine - Oh, God ! at least remit to her Thy wrath ! for she is pure amidst the failing As a star in the clouds, which cannot quench, Although they obscure it for an hour. My Anah! How would I have adored thee, but thou wouldst not; And still would I redeem thee - see thee live When ocean is earth's grave, and, unopposed

By rock or shallow, the leviathan, 2,0 Lord of the shoreless sea and watery world, Shall wonder at his boundlessness of realm. [Exit JAPHET

Enter NOAH and SHEM

Noah. Where is thy brother Japhet?

Shem. He went forth,

According to his wont, to meet with Irad,

He said; but, as I fear, to bend his steps

Towards Anah's tents, round which he hovers nightly,

Like a dove round and round its pillaged nest;

Or else he walks the wild up to the cavern Which opens to the heart of Ararat.

Noah. What doth he there? It is an evil spot 250

Upon an earth all evil; for things worse

Than even wicked men resort there: he Still loves this daughter of a fated race,

- Although he could not wed her if she loved him,
- And that she doth not. Oh, the unhappy hearts
- Of men! that one of my blood, knowing well

The destiny and evil of these days,

And that the hour approacheth, should indulge

In such forbidden yearnings ! Lead the way; 259

He must be sought for !

Shem. Go not forward, father: I will seek Japhet

Noah. Do not fear for me:

All evil things are powerless on the man

Selected by Jehovah. - Let us on.

Shem. To the tents of the father of the sisters?

Noah. No; to the cavern of the Caucasus. [Execution Noah and Shem

SCFNE III

The mountains - A cavern, and the rocks of Caucasus.

Japh. (solus). Ye wilds, that look eternal; and thou cave,

Which seem'st unfathomable; and ye mountains,

So varied and so terrible in beauty;

Here, in your rugged majesty of rocks

And toppling trees that twine their roots with stone 270

In perpendicular places, where the foot

б58

Of man would tremble, could he reach them - yes,	The salt morass subside into a sphere Beneath the sun, and be the monument,
Ye look eternal! Yet, in a few days, Perhaps even hours, ye will be changed,	The sole and undistinguish'd sepulchre, 310 Of yet quick myriads of all life? How rent, hurl'd	much
Before the mass of waters; and yon cave,	Breath will be still'd at once ! All beau-
Which seems to lead into a lower world, Shall have its depths search'd by the sweep-	teous world ! So young, so mark'd out for destruction, I
ing wave,	With a cleft heart look on thee day by day,
And dolphins gambol in the lion's den ! And man — Oh, men! my fellow-beings!	And night by night, thy number'd days and nights.
Who	I cannot save thee, cannot save even her Shall weep above your universal grave, 280 Save I? Who shall be left to weep? My	Whose love had made me love thee more but as kinsmen, Alas! what am I better than ye are,	A portion of thy dust, I cannot think That I must five beyond ye? Where shall be	Upon thy coming doom without a feeling Such as — Oh God ! and canst thou —
The pleasant places where I thought of	[He purses] A rushing sound from the cavern is heard, and shouls of
Anah	laughter — afterwards a Spirit passes
While I had hope? or the more savage	Japh. In the name 320 haunts, Seenee less beloved where I deenew'd for	Of the Most High, what art thou?
Scarce less beloved, where I despair'd for her?	Spirit (laughs). Ha! ha! Japh. By all that earth holds holiest,
And can it be ! - Shall yon exulting peak,	speak!
Whose glittering top 1s like a distant star,	Spirit (laughs) Ha! ha!
Lie low beneath the boiling of the deep?	Japh By the approaching deluge! by the earth
No more to have the morning sun break forth, 290	Which will be strangled by the ocean ! by
And scatter back the mists in floating folds	The deep which will lay open all her foun-
From its tremendous brow? no more to	tams!
have Day's broad orb drop behind its head at	The heaven which will convert her clouds
even,	And the Omnipotent who makes and
Leaving it with a crown of many hues?	crushes !
No more to be the beacon of the world,	Thou unknown, terrible, and indistinct,
For angels to alight on, as the spot	Yet awful Thing of Shadows, speak to me !
Nearest the stars? And can those words 'no more'	Why dost thou laugh that horrid laugh? Spirit. Why weep'st thou? 330
Be meant for thee, for all things, save for us,	Japh. For earth and all her children.
And the predestined creeping things re-	Spirit. Ha! ha! ha! [Spirit vanishes served	Japh. How the fiend mocks the tortures
By my sure to Jehovah's bidding? May $_{300}$ He preserve them, and I not have the power	of a world, The coming desolation of an orb,
To snatch the lovehest of earth's daughters from	On which the sun shall rise and warm no life!
A doom which even some serpent, with his	How the earth sleeps ! and all that in it is mate, Shall 'scape to save his kind to be pro-	Sleep too upon the very eve of death ! Why should they wake to meet it? What long'd, To hiss and sting through some emerging	are here, Which look like death in life, and speak world, Reeking and dank from out the slume,	like things Born ere this dying world? They come whose ooze	like clouds !
Shall slumber o'er the wreck of this until	[Various Spirits pass from the cavern

Rejoice ! Spirit. 340 The abhorred race Which could not keep in Eden their high place, But listen'd to the voice Of knowledge without power, Are nigh the hour Of death ! Not slow, not single, not by sword, nor sorrow, Nor years, nor heart-break, nor time's sapping motion, Shall they drop off. Behold their last tomorrow ! Earth shall be ocean ! 350 And no breath. Save of the winds, be on the unbounded wave ! Angels shall tire their wings, but find no spot: Not even a rock from out the liquid grave Shall lift its point to save, Or show the place where strong Despair hath died, After long looking o'er the ocean wide For the expected ebb which cometh not: All shall be void, Destroy'd! 360 Another element shall be the lord Of life, and the abhorr'd Children of dust be quench'd; and of each hue Of earth nought left but the unbroken blue; And of the variegated mountain Shall nought remain Unchanged, or of the level plain; Cedar and pine shall lift their tops in vain: All merged within the universal fountain, Man, earth, and fire, shall die, 370 And sea and sky Look vast and lifeless in the eternal eye Upon the foam Who shall erect a home? Japh. (coming forward). My sire! Earth's seed shall not expire; Only the evil shall be put away From day. Avaunt! ye exulting demons of the waste ! Who howl your hideous joy 380 When God destroys whom you dare not destroy; Hence ! haste !

Back to your inner caves ! Until the waves Shall search you in your secret place And drive your sullen race Forth, to be roll'd upon the tossing winds In restless wretchedness along all space ! Son of the saved ! Spirit. When thou and thine have braved 390 The wide and warring element; When the great barrier of the deep is reni, Shall thou and thine be good or happy? ----No ! Thy new world and new race shall be of woe -Less goodly in their aspect, in their years Less than the glorious giants, who Yet walk the world in pride, The Sons of Heaven by many a mortal bride Thine shall be nothing of the past, save tears. And art thou not ashamed 400 Thus to survive, And eat, and drink, and wive ? With a base heart so far subdued and tamed, As even to hear this wide destruction named, Without such grief and courage, as should rather Bid thee await the world-dissolving wave, Than seek a shelter with thy favour'd father. And build thy city o'er the drown'd earth's grave ? Who would outlive their kind, Except the base and blind? 410 Mine Hateth thine As of a different order in the sphere, But not our own There is not one who hath not left a throne Vacant in heaven to dwell in darkness here. Rather than see his mates endure alone. Go, wretch ! and give A life like thine to other wretches — live ! And when the annihilating waters roar 425 Above what they have done, Envy the giant patriarchs then no more, And scorn thy sire as the surviving one! Thyself for being his son !

Chorus of Spirits issuing from the cavern.	Where man no more can fall as once he fell,
Rejoice !	And even the very demons shall do
No more the human voice	well !
Shall vex our joys in middle air	Spirits. And when shall take effect this
With prayer;	wondrous spell? 470
No more	Japh. When the Redeemer cometh; first
Shall they adore; 430	in pain.
And we, who ne'er for ages have adored	And then in glory
The prayer-exacting Lord,	Spirit. Meantime still struggle in the
To whom the omission of a sacrifice	mortal chain,
Is vice;	Till earth wax hoary;
We, we shall view the deep's salt sources	War with yourselves, and hell, and heaven,
pour'd	in vain,
Until one element shall do the work	Until the clouds look gory
Of all in chaos; until they,	With the blood reeking from each battle
The creatures proud of their poor clay,	plam.
Shall perish, and their bleached bones shall	New times, new climes, new arts, new men;
lurk	but still,
In caves, in dens, in clefts of mountains,	The same old tears, old crimes, and oldest where 440	ill,
The deep shall follow to their latest lair;	Shall be amongst your race in different
Where even the brutes, in their de-	forms; 480
spair,	But the same moral storms
Shall cease to prey on man and on each	Shall oversweep the future, as the waves other,	In a few hours the glorious giants' graves.
And the striped tiger shall lie down to die
Beside the lamb, as though he were his	Chorus of Spirits
brother:	Brethren, rejoice !
Till all things shall be as they were,	Mortal, farewell !
Silent and uncreated, save the sky:	Hark ! hark ! already we can hear the voice
While a brief truce	Of growing ocean's gloomy swell;
Is made with Death, who shall forbear	The winds, too, plume their piercing
The little remnant of the past creation, 450	wings;
To generate new nations for his use:	The clouds have nearly fill'd their
This remnant, floating o'er the undulation	springs;
Of the subsiding deluge, from its slime,	The fountains of the great deep shall be
When the hot sun hath baked the reek-	broken, 49º
ing soil	And heaven set wide her windows; while
Into a world, shall give again to Time	mankind
New beings — years — diseases — sor-	View, unacknowledged, each tremendous row crime	token —
With all companionship of hate and toil,	Still, as they were from the beginning,
Until —	blind
Japh. (interrupting them). The eternal	We hear the sound they cannot hear, will	The mustering thunders of the threat-
Shall deign to expound this dream 460	ening sphere,
Of good and evil; and redeem	Yet a few hours their coming is de-
Unto himself all times, all things;	lav'd:
And, gather'd under his almighty	Their flashing banners, folded still on wings,	high,
Abolish hell !	Yet undisplay'd,
And to the explated Earth	Save to the Spirit's all-pervading eye.
Restore the beauty of her birth,	Howl!howl!oh Earth 500
Her Eden in an endless paradise,	Thy death is nearer than thy recent birth:

Tremble, ye mountains, soon to shrink below And yet men listen'd not, nor listen; but Walk darkling to their doom; which, though The ocean's overflow ! so nigh, The wave shall break upon your cliffs; and shells, Shakes them no more in their dim disbelief. Than their last cries shall shake the Al-The little shells of ocean's least things ha mighty purpose, Or deaf obedient ocean which fulfils it. Deposed where now the eagle's offspring No sign yet hangs its banner in the air; dwells -The clouds are few, and of their wonted How shall he shriek o'er the remorseless sea 1 texture; The sun will rise upon the earth's last day And call his nestlings up with fruitless yell, Unanswer'd save by the enroaching swell; As on the fourth day of creation, when God said unto him, 'Shine !' and he broke While man shall long in vain for his broad forth wings, The wings which could not save. --Into the dawn, which lighted not the yet Unform'd forefather of mankind - but Where could he rest them, while the whole roused space brings Nought to his eye beyond the deep, his Before the human orison the earlier Made and far sweeter voices of the birds. grave ? Which in the open firmament of heaven Brethren, rejoice ! And loudly lift each superhuman voice -Have wings like angels, and like them salute All die. Save the slight remnant of Seth's seed -Heaven first each day before the Adamites. Their matins now draw nigh - the east is The seed of Seth, Exempt for future sorrow's sake from kindling ---And they will sing ! and day will break ! death. But of the sons of Cain Both near. 520 None shall remain; So near the awful close ! For these must And all his goodly daughters drop Must lie beneath the desolating waters; Their outworn pinions on the deep; and Or, floating upward, with their long hair laid day, After the bright course of a few brief mor-Along the wave, the cruel heaven upbraid, Which would not spare rows. Ay, day will rise; but upon what? - a Beings even in death so fair. chaos It is decreed, All die ! Which was ere day, and which, renew'd, And to the universal human cry makes time 530 The universal silence shall succeed ! Nothing ! for, without life, what are the Fly, brethren, fly ! hours ? But still rejoice ! No more to dust than is eternity Unto Jehovah, who created both. We fell ! They fall ! Without him, even eternity would be So perish all A void: without man, time, as made for These petty foes of Heaven who shrink man, Dies with man, and is swallow'd in that from hell! [The Spirits disappear, soaring upwards deep Japh. (solus). God hath proclaim'd the Which has no fountain; as his race will be destiny of earth; Devour'd by that which drowns his infant My father's ark of safety hath announced world. -What have we here? Shapes of both earth it; The very demons shriek it from their caves; and air? The scroll of Enoch prophesied it long 541 No — all of heaven, they are so beautiful. In silent books, which, in their silence, say I cannot trace then features; but their More to the mind than thunder to the forms, How lovelily they move along the side 579 ear:

570

Of the grey mountain, scattering its mist ! And after the swart savage spirits, whose Infernal immortality pour'd forth Their impious hymn of triumph, they shall be Welcome as Eden. It may be they come To tell me the reprieve of our young world, For which I have so often pray'd. — They come ! Anah ! oh, God ! and with her — Enter SAMISA, AZAZIEL, ANAH, and AHOLIBAMAH Anah. Japhet ! Sam. Lo, A son of Adam ! Aza. What doth the earth-born here, While all his race are slumbering ? Japh. Angel ! what Dost thou on earth when thou shoulds the on high ? 590 Aza. Know'st thou not, or forget'st thou, that a part Of our great function is to guard thme earth ? Japh. But all good angels have forsaken earth, Which is condemn'd; nay, even the evil fly The approaching chaos. Anah ! Anah ! my In vain, and long, and still to be beloved ! Why walk'st thou with this spirit, in those hours When no good spirit longer lights below ? Anah. Japhet, I cannot answer thee; yet, yet Forgive me — Japh May the Heaven, which soon no more 600 Will pardon, do so ! for thou art greatly tempted. Aho. Back to thy tents, insulting son of Noah ! We know thee not. Japh. The hour may come when thou May'st know me better; and thy sister know Me still the same which I have ever been. Sam. Son of the patriarch, who hath ever been Upright before his God, whate'er thy gifts, And thy words seem of sorrow unix'd with wrath,	Say'st well, though she be dust, I dıd not, could not, Deserve her. Farewell, Anah ! I have said That word so often, but now say it ne'er To be repeated. Angel ! or whate'er Thou art, or must be soon, hast thou the power To save this beautiful — these beautiful Children of Cam ? Aza. From what ? Japh. And is it so, That ye too know not ? Angels ! angels ! ye Have shared man's sin, and, it may be, now must 619 Partake his punishment; or, at the least, My sorrow. Sam. Sorrow ! I ne'er thought till now To hear an Adamite speak riddles to me. Japh. And hath not the Most High ex- pounded them ? Then ye are lost, as they are lost. Aho. So be it ! If they love as they are loved, they will not shrink More to be mortal, than I would to dare An amortality of agonies With Samiasa ! Anah. Sister ! sister ! speak not Thus. Aza. Fearest thou, my Anah ? Anah. Yes, for thee: I would resign the greater remnant of 630 This little life of mine, before one hour Of thine eternity should know a pang. Japh It is for him, then ! for the seraph thou Hast left me ! That is nothing, if thou hast not Left thy God too ! for unions like to these, Between a mortal and an immortal, cannot Be happy or be hallow'd We are sent Upon the earth to toil and die; and they Are made to minister on high unto The Highest. but if he can save thee, soon The hour will come in which celestial aid 641 Alone can do so. Anah Ah ! he speaks of death. Sam. Of death to us ! and those who are with us ! But that the man seems full of sorrow, I Could evel.
been Upright before his God, whate'er thy gifts,	Sam. Of death to us ! and those who are
And thy words seem of sorrow mix'd with wrath.	with us !
How have Azaziel, or myself, brought on	Could smile.
thee Wrong ?	I am safe, not for my own deserts, but
Japh. Wrong! the greatest of all wrongs; but thou 610	those Of a well-doing sire, who hath been found

- Righteous enough to save his children. Would
- His power was greater of redemption ! or
- That by exchanging my own life for hers, Who could alone have made mine happy,
- she, ⁶⁵¹ The last and loveliest of Cain's race, could share
- The ark which shall receive a remnant of The seed of Seth !
- Aho And dost thou think that we, With Cain's, the eldest born of Adam's, blood
- Warm in our veins, strong Cain ! who was begotten
- In Paradise, would mingle with Seth's children?
- Seth, the last offspring of old Adam's dotage?

No, not to save all earth, were earth in peril ! Our race hath always dwelt apart from thine From the beginning, and shall do so ever. 661

Japh I did not speak to thee, Aholibamah! Too much of the forefather whom thou

- vauntest Has come down in that haughty blood which
- springs
- From him who shed the first, and that a brother's !
- But thou, my Anah ! let me call thee mine,
- Albeit thou art not; 't is a word I cannot
- Part with, although I must from thee. My Anah!
- Thou who dost rather make me dream that Abel 669
- Had left a daughter, whose pure pious race Survived in thee, so much unlike thou art
- The rest of the stern Camites, save in beauty,
- For all of them are fairest in their favour Aho. (interrupting him) And wouldst
- thou have her like our father's foe
- In mind, in soul? If I partook thy thought, And dream'd that aught of Abel was in her! ---
- Get thee hence, son of Noah; thou makest strife.
 - Japh. Offspring of Cain, thy father did so' Aho But
- He slew not Seth: and what hast thou to do
- With other deeds between his God and him? Japh. Thou speakest well: his God hath
- judged him, and 631 I had not named his deed, but that thyself

Didst seem to glory in him, nor to shrink From what he had done. Aho He was our father's father: The eldest born of man, the strongest, bravest.

And most enduring: — Shall I blush for him From whom we had our being ? Look upon Our race; behold their stature and their beauty,

Their courage, strength, and length of days ---

Japh. They are number'd.

- Aho Be it so! but while yet their hours endure, 690
- I glory in my brethren and our fathers. Japh. My sire and race but glory in their God
- Anah! and thou? ----

Anah. Whate'er our God decrees, The God of Seth as Cain, I must obey,

- And will endeavour patiently to obey.
- But could I dare to pray in his dread hour
- Of universal vengeance (if such should be),
- It would not be to live, alone exempt
- Of all my house. My sister ! oh, my sister ! What were the world, or other worlds, or
- all 700 The brighest future, without the sweet past —
- Thy love my father's all the life, and all
- The things which sprang up with me, like the stars,
- Making my dim existence radiant with
- Soft lights which were not mine? Aholibamah !
- Oh! if there should be mercy—seek it, find it:
- I abhor death, because that thou must die
- Aho. What, hath this dreamer, with his father's ark,
- The bugbear he hath built to scare the world, 709
- Shaken my sister? Are we not the loved
- Of seraphs ? and if we were not, must we
- Cling to a son of Noah for our lives?
- Rather than thus But the enthusiast dreams
- The worst of dreams, the fantasies engender'd
- By hopeless love and heated vigils. Who
- Shall shake these solid mountains, this firm earth,
- And bid those clouds and waters take a shape .
- Distinct from that which we and all our sures

665

Have seen them wear on their eternal But man, and was not made to judge manway? kind. Who shall do this ? Far less the sons of God; but as our God Japh. He whose one word Has deign'd to commune with me, and produced them reveal 720 Aho. Who heard that word? His judgments, I reply, that the descent 750 Japh.The universe, which leap'd Of seraphs from their everlasting seat To life before it. Ah ! smilest thou still Unto a perishable and perishing, in scorn? Even on the very eve of perishing, world, Turn to thy seraphs: if they attest it not, Cannot be good. What ' though it were to save? They are none Aza. Sam. Aholibamah, own thy God ! Noah Not ye in all your glory can re-Aho I have ever hail'd our Maker, deem Samiasa. What he who made you glorious hath con-As thine, and mine: a God of love, not demn'd. Were your immortal mission safety, 't would sorrow. Japh. Alas! what else is love but sor-Be general, not for two, though beautiful; row? Even And beautiful they are, but not the less He who made earth in love had soon to Condemn'd. grieve Japh. Oh, father ! say it not. Above its first and best inhabitants Son ! son : Noah. A ho. 'T is said so. If that thou wouldst avoid their doom, Japh. It is even so. forget 761 That they exist: they soon shall cease to be; Enter NOAH and SHEM While thou shalt be the sire of a new Noah. Japhet ! What world, Dost thou here with these children of the And better. wicked ? Japh. Let me die with this, and them ! Noah Thou shouldst for such a thought, Dread'st thou not to partake their coming but shalt not; he doom? Japh. Father, it cannot be a sin to Who can redeems thee. Sam. And why him and thee, seek To save an earth-born being; and behold, More than what he, thy son, prefers to both ? These are not of the sinful, since they have Noah. Ask him who made thee greater The fellowship of angels. Noah.These are they, then, than myself And mine, but not less subject to his own Who leave the throne of God, to take them Almightiness And lo ' his mildest and 770 wives From out the race of Cain; the sons of Least to be tempted messenger appears ! heaven, Enter RAPHAEL the Archangel. seek earth's daughters for their Who Raph beauty? Spirits ' Patriarch ! Whose seat is near the throne, Aza.Thou hast said it. What do ye here? Noah. Woe, woe, woe to such Is thus a seraph's duty to be shown, communion ! Now that the hour is near When earth must be alone? Has not God made a barrier between earth And heaven, and lumited each, kind to kind ? Return ! Adore and burn Sam. Was not man made in high Jehovah's image? In glorious homage with the elected Did God not love what he had made? And 'seven: 780 what Your place is heaven.

Do we but imitate and emulate

I am

His love unto created love?

Noah.

- Sam Raphael!
 - The first and fairest of the sons of God, How long hath this been law.

That earth by angels must be left un-Her race, return'd into her womb, must wither. trod ? Earth ' which oft saw And much which she inherits: but oh ! Jehovah's footsteps not disdain her sod ! why The world he loved, and made Cannot this earth be made, or be destroy'd, For love; and oft have we obey'd Without involving ever some vast void His frequent mission with delighted pinions: In the immortal ranks? immoital still 830 Adoring him in his least works dis-In their immeasurable forfeiture. play'd: Our brother Satan fell; his burning will Watching this youngest star of his domin-Rather than longer worship dared enions: dure ! And, as the latest birth of his great But ye who still are pure ! Seraphs ' less mighty than that mightiest word, Eager to keep it worthy of our Lord. one, Think how he was undone ! Why is thy brow severe ? And wherefore speak'st thou of destruction And think if tempting man can compensate near? For heaven desired too late? Had Samiasa and Azaziel been Raph.Long have I warr'd, In their true place, with the angelic chorr, Long must I war Written in fire With him who deem'd it hard They would have seen To be created, and to acknowledge him 800 Jehovah's late decree, Who midst the cherubim And not enquired their Maker's breath of Made him as suns to a dependent star, Leaving the archangels at his right hand me But ignorance must ever be dim. I loved him — beautiful he was: oh A part of sm; And even the spirits' knowledge shall grow heaven ! less Save his who made, what beauty and what As they wax proud within; power For Blindness is the first-born of Excess. Was ever like to Satan's! Would the hour In which he fell could ever be forgiven ! When all good angels left the world, ye stay'd, The wish is impious. but, oh ye ! Stung with strange passions, and debased Yet undestroy'd, be warn'd ! Eternity By mortal feelings for a mortal maid · 810 With hun, or with his God, is in your But ye are pardon'd thus far, and replaced choice With your pure equals. Hence ! away ! He hath not tempted you; he cannot tempt away! The angels, from his further snares exempt: But man hath listen'd to his voice, Or stay, And lose eternity by that delay ! And ye to woman's — beautiful she is, Aza. And thou! if earth be thus for-The serpent's voice less subtle than her bidden kiss -The snake but vanquish'd dust; but she In the decree To us until this moment hidden, will draw Dost thou not err as we A second host from heaven, to break heaven's In being here? law. Raph. I came to call ye back to your fit Yet, yet, oh fly ! sphere, Ye cannot die; 820 In the great name and at the word of But they God, Shall pass away, Dear, dearest in themselves, and scarce less While ye shall fill with shricks the upper dear skv That which I came to do: till now we trod For perishable clay, Together the eternal space; together Whose memory in your immortality

Let us still walk the stars. True, earth must die !

Shall long outlast the sun which gave them day,

840

850

860

Think how your essence differeth from	And as your pinions bear ye back to theirs	heaven, 910
In all but suffering ! why partake	Think that my love still mounts with thee
The agony to which they must be heirs —	on high,
Born to be plough'd with years, and sown	Samiasa !
with cares, 871	And if I look up with a tearless eye,
And reap'd by Death, lord of the human	'T is that an angel's bride disdams to weep, - soil?	Farewell! Now rise, inexorable deep!
Even had their days been left to toil their	Anah. And must we die ?
path	And must I lose thee too,
Through time to dust, unshorten'd by God's	Azaziel ?
wrath,	Oh my heart! my heart!
Still they are Evil's prey and Sorrow's spoil.	Thy prophecies were true ! 920
	And yet thou wert so happy too!
	The blow, though not unlook'd for, falls as I hear the voice which says that all must die	new:
Sooner than our white-bearded patriarchs	But yet depart!
died;	Ah! why? Not let us not not in the firs!
And that on high	Yet let me not retain thee — fly !
An ocean is prepared, 880	My pangs can be but brief; but thine would
While from below	be
The deep shall rise to meet heaven's over-	Eternal, if repulsed from heaven for me.
flow.	Too much already hast thou deign'd
Few shall be spared,	To one of Adam's race !
It seems; and, of that few, the race of	Our doom is sorrow: not to us alone, 930
Cain	But to the spirits who have not disdain'd
Must lift their eyes to Adam's God in vain.	To love us, cometh anguish with disgrace.
Sister ! since it is so,	The first who taught us knowledge hath
And the eternal Lord	been hurl'd
In van would be implored	From his once archangelic throne
For the remission of one hour of woe,	Into some unknown world
	And thou, Azaziel! No
Let us resign even what we have adored,	Thou shalt not suffer woe
And meet the wave, as we would meet the sword, 891	For me. Away ! nor weep !
If not unmoved, yet undismay'd,	Thou canst not weep; but yet
And wailing less for us than those who	May'st suffer more, not weeping: then shall	forget 940
Survive m mortal or immortal thrall,	Her, whom the surges of the all-strangling
And, when the fatal waters are allay'd,	deep
Weep for the myriads who can weep no	Can bring no pang like this. Fly! fly!
more.	Being gone, 't will be less difficult to die.
Fly, seraphs ! to your own eternal shore,	Japh. Oh say not so !
Where winds nor howl nor waters roar.	Father ! and thou, archangel, thou !
Our portion is to die,	Surely celestial mercy lurks below
And yours to live for ever: 900	That pure severe serenity of brow:
But which is best, a dead eternity,	Let them not meet this sea without a shore
Or living, is but known to the great Giver.	Save in our ark, or let me be no more !
Obey hun, as we shall obey;	Noah. Peace, child of passion, peace! 950
I would not keep this life of mine in	If not within thy heart, yet with thy tongue clay	Do God no wrong !
	Live as he wills it — die, when he ordains,
An hour beyond his will;	A righteous death, unlike the seed of Cam's.
Nor see ye lose a portion of his grace,	Cease, or be sorrowful in silence; cease
For all the mercy which Seth's race	'To weary Heaven's ear with thy selfish Find still.
Fly !	plaint.

Wouldst thou have God commit a sin for thee? Such would it be To alter his intent For a mere mortal sorrow. Be a man! 960 And bear what Adam's race must bear, and can Japh. Ay, father! but when they are gone, And we are alone, Floating upon the azure desert, and The depth beneath us hides our own dear land, And dearer, silent friends and brethren, all Buried in its immeasurable breast, Who, who, our tears, our shrieks, shall then command? Can we in desolation's peace have rest? Oh God! be thou a God, and spare 970 Yet while 't is time ! Renew not Adam's fall: Mankind were then but twain, But they are numerous now as are the waves And the tremendous ram, Whose drops shall be less thick than would their graves, Were graves permitted to the seed of Cam Noah. Silence, vam boy ! each word of thine 's a crime Angel ! forgive this stripling's fond despair. Raph Seraphs ! these mortals speak in passion · Ye ! ٥80 Who are, or should be, passionless and pure, May now return with me. It may not be: Sam. We have chosen, and will endure. Raph. Say'st thou? Aza. He hath said it, and I say, Amen! Raph.Agam! Then from this hour, Shorn as ye are of all celestial power, And aliens from your God, Farewell ! Alas ' where shall they dwell? Japh. Hark, hark ! Deep sounds, and deeper still, Are howling from the mountain's bosom There's not a breath of wind upon the hill, Yet quivers every leaf, and drops each blossom Earth groans as if beneath a heavy load. Noah. Hark, hark! the sea-birds cry! In clouds they overspread the lurid sky, And hover round the mountain, where before

Never a white wing, wetted by the wave, Yet dared to soar. Even when the waters wax'd too fierce to brave. 1000 Soon it shall be their only shore, And then, no more ! Japh. The sun! the sun! He riseth, but his better light is gone; And a black circle, bound His glaring disk around, Proclaims earth's last of summer days hath shone ! The clouds return into the hues of night, Save where their brazen-colour'd edges streak The verge where brighter morns were wont to break. 1010 Noah. And lo ! yon flash of light, The distant thunder's harbinger, appears ! It cometh ! hence, away ! Leave to the elements their evil prey ! Hence to where our all-hallow'd ark uprears Its safe and wreckless sides ! Japh Oh, father, stay ! Leave not my Anah to the swallowing tides ! Noah Must we not leave all life to such? Begone ! Not I. Japh.1020 Then die Noah.With them ! How darest thou look on that prophetic sky, And seek to save what all things now condemn, In overwhelming unison With just Jehovah's wrath! Japh. Can rage and justice join in the same path? Noah. Blasphemer ! darest thou murmur even now? Raph. Patriarch, be still a father ' smooth thy brow. Thy son, despite his folly, shall not sink: He knows not what he says, yet shall not drink 1031 With sobs the salt foam of the swelling waters; But be, when passion passeth, good as thou, Nor perish like heaven's children with man's daughters. Aho. The tempest cometh; heaven and earth unite For the annihilation of all life.

Unequal is the strife

Between our strength and the Eternal Might!

Sam. But ours is with thee ; we will bear ye far

- To some untroubled star,
- Where thou, and Anah, shalt partake our lot

And if thou dost not weep for thy lost earth,

- Our forfeit heaven shall also be forgot.
 - Anah. Oh! my dear father's tents, my place of birth,
- And mountains, land, and woods ! when ye are not,
- Who shall dry up my tears?

Aza. Thy spirit-lord.

Fear not; though we are shut from heaven,

- Yet much is ours, whence we cannot be driven.
 - Raph. Rebel! thy words are wicked, as thy deeds
- Shall henceforth be but weak: the flaming sword, 1050
- Which chased the first-born out of Paradise, Still flashes in the angelic hands.

Aza. It cannot slay us. threaten dust with death,

And talk of weapons unto that which bleeds. What are thy swords in our immortal eyes ?

Raph. The moment cometh to approve thy strength;

And learn at length

How vain to war with what thy God commands:

Thy former force was in thy faith.

Enter Mortals, flying for refuge.

Chorus of Mortals

The heavens and earth are mingling — God ! ro60

What have we done? Yet spare !

- Hark ! even the forest beasts howl forth
 - their prayer !

The dragon crawls from out his den,

To herd, in terror, innocent with men;

And the birds scream their agony through air.

Yet, yet, Jehovah! yet withdraw thy rod

- Of wrath, and pity thine own world's despair !
- Hear not man only but all nature plead ! Raph. Farewell, thou earth ! ye wretched sons of clay, 1069
- I cannot, must not, aid you. 'T is decreed '
 - Japh. Some clouds sweep on as vultures for their prey,

While others, fix'd as rocks, await the word At which their wrathful vials shall be pour'd

No azure more shall robe the firmament,

Nor spangled stars be glorious: Death hatl risen:

In the sun's place a pale and ghastly glare Hath wound itself around the dying air

Aza. Come, Anah! quit this chaosfounded prison,

To which the elements again repair,

- To turn it into what it was: beneath 1080 The shelter of these wings thou shalt be safe, As was the eagle's nesting once within
- Its mother's. Let the coming chaos chafe With all its elements ' Heed not their din !
- A brighter world than this, where thou shalt breathe

Ethereal life, will we explore:

- These darken'd clouds are not the only skies.
- [AZAZIEL and SAMIASA fly off, and disappear with ANAH and Aholibamah
 - Japh. They are gone ! They have disappear'd amidst the roar

Of the forsaken world; and never more, Whether they live, or die with all earth's life, Now near its last, can aught restore 1097 Anah unto these eyes.

Chorus of Mortals.

Oh son of Noah! mercy on thy kind!

What ' wilt thou leave us all — all — all behind?

While safe amidst the elemental strife,

- Thou sitt'st within thy guarded ark?
 - A Mother (offering her infant to JAPHET) Oh let this child embark !
 - I brought him forth in woe,

But thought it joy

To see him to my bosom clinging so. 1100 Why was he born?

What hath he done — My unwean'd son —

Tabarrah's arresth on seam

To move Jehovah's wrath or scorn?

- What is there in this milk of mine, that death
- Should stir all heaven and earth up to destroy

My boy,

And roll the waters o'er his placid breath ? Save him, thou seed of Seth !

Or cursèd be — with him who made TITE Thee and thy race, for which we are betray'd !

throne

Japh. Peace ! 't is no hour for curses, but for prayer ! Chorus of Mortals. For prayer !!! And where Shall prayer ascend, When the swoln clouds unto the mountains bend And burst, And gushing oceans every barrier rend, Until the very deserts know no thirst? Accursed 1120 Be he who made thee and thy sire ! We deem our curses vain; we must expire; But as we know the worst, Why should our hymn be raised, our knees be bent Before the implacable Omnipotent, Since we must fall the same? If he hath made earth, let it be his shame, To make a world for torture. - Lo! they come, The loathsome waters, in their rage ! And with their roar make wholesome nature dumb ! 1 130 The forest's trees (coeval with the hour When Paradise upsprung, Ere Eve gave Adam knowledge for her dower, Or Adam his first hymn of slavery sung), So massy, vast, yet green in their old age, Are overtopp'd, Their summer blossoms by the surges lopp'd, Which rise, and rise, and rise. Vainly we look up to the lowering skies -They meet the seas, 1140 And shut out God from our beseeching eyes. Fly, son of Noah, fly ! and take thine ease In thine allotted ocean-tent; And view, all floating o'er the element, The corpses of the world of thy young days: Then to Jehovah raise Thy song of praise ! A Mortal. Blessed are the dead Who die in the Lord ! And though the waters be o'er earth outspread, 1150 Yet, as his word, Be the decree adored ! He gave me life - he taketh but The breath which is his own: And though these eyes should be for ever shut.

Still blessed be the Lord, For what is past, For that which is: 1160 For all are his. From first to last -Time - space - eternity - life - death -The vast known and immeasurable unknown He made and can unmake, And shall I, for a little gasp of breath, Blaspheme and groan? No; let me die, as I have lived, in faith, Nor quiver, though the universe may quake! Chorus of Mortals. Where shall we fly? 1170 Not to the mountains high; For now their torrents rush, with double roar. To meet the ocean, which, advancing still, Already grasps each drowning hill, Nor leaves an unsearch'd cave. Enter a Woman. Woman. Oh, save me, save ! Our valley is no more: My father and my father's tent, My brethren and my brethren's herds, The pleasant trees that o'er our noonday bent 1180 And sent forth evening songs from sweetest birds. The little rivulet which freshen'd all Our pastures green, No more are to be seen When to the mountain cliff I climb'd this morn. I turn'd to bless the spot, And not a leaf appear'd about to fall; -And now they are not ! -Why was I born ? Japh. To die ! in youth to die; 1190 And happier in that doom, Than to behold the universal tomb

Nor longer this weak voice before his

Be heard in supplicating tone,

Which I

Am thus condemn'd to weep above in vain. Why, when all perish, why must I remain ?

[The waters rise Men fly in every direction, many the overtaken by the waves, the Chorus of Mortal's disperses in search of safety up the mountains; Japhet remains upon a rock, while the Ark floats towards him in the dista

WERNER; OR, THE INHERITANCE

A TRAGEDY

то

THE ILLUSTRIOUS GOETHE,

BY ONE OF HIS HUMBLEST ADMIRERS, THIS TRAGEDY IS DEDICATED.

PREFACE

The following drama is taken entirely from the German's Tale, Kruitzner, published many years ago in Lee's Canterbury Tales; written (I believe) by two sisters, of whom one furnished only this story and another, both of which are considered superior to the remainder of the collection I have adopted the characters, plan, and even the language, of many parts of this story Some of the characters are modified or altered, a few of the names changed, and one character (Ida of Stralenheim) added by myself, but in the rest the original is chiefly followed. When I was young (about fourteen, I think) I first read this tale, which made a deep impression upon me; and may, indeed, be said to contain the germ of much that I have since written I am not sure that it ever was very popular, or, at any rate, its popularity has since been eclipsed by that of other great writers in the same department But I have generally found that those who had read it, agreed with me in their estimate of the singular power of mind and conception which it develops. I should also add conception, rather than execution; for the story might, perhaps, have been developed with greater advantage. Amongst those whose opinions agreed with mine upon this story, I could mention some very high names but it is not necessary, nor indeed of any use; for every one must judge according to his own feelings I merely refer the reader to the original story, that he may see to what extent I have borrowed from it; and am not unwilling that he should find much greater pleasure in perusing it than the drama which is founded upon its contents.

I had begun a drama upon this tale so far back as 1815 (the first I ever attempted, except one at thirteen years old, called Ulric and Ilvina, which I had sense enough to burn), and had nearly completed an act, when I was interrupted by circumstances. This is somewhere amongst my papers in England; but as it has not been found, I have rewritten the first, and added the subsequent acts.

The whole is neither intended, nor in any shape adapted, for the stage.

PISA, February, 1822.

DRAMATIS PERSONÆ

MEN

RICK
o
HEIM
STER
OLPH.
WIG

IDA STRALENHEIM.

Scene — partly on the frontier of Silesia, and partly in Siegendorf Castle, near Prague

Time - the Close of the Thirty Years' War.

ACT I

Scene I

The Hall of a decayed Palace near a small Town on the Northern Frontier of Silesia—the Night tempestuous

WERNER and JOSEPHINE his wife

Jos. My love, be calmer !

JOSEPHINE

Wer.	•	•	I an	ı calm.
Jos				То

To me —

Yes, but not to thyself: thy pace is hurried, And no one walks a chamber like to ours

- With steps like thine when his heart is at rest
- Were it a garden, I should deem thee happy, And stepping with the bee from flower to flower;

But here !

Wer.

Wer. 'T is chill; the tapestry lets through The wind to which it waves: my blood is frozen

Jos. Ah, no !

Wer. (smiling). Why ! wouldst thou have it so?

Jos I would

Have it a healthful current.

- Wer Let it flow to Until 't is spilt or check'd—how soon, I care not
 - Jos And am I nothing in thy heart?

- Jos Then canst thou wish for that which must break mine ?
- Wer. (approaching her slowly). But for thee I had been — no matter what,
- But much of good and evil; what I am
- Thou knowest; what I might or should have been,
- Thou knowest not: but still I love thee, nor Shall aught divide us.

[WERNER walks on abruptly, and then approaches Jo SEPHINE.

The storm of the night	Seized me upon this desolate frontier, and $_{50}$
Perhaps affects me; I am a thing of feel- ings,	Hath wasted, not alone my strength, but means,
And have of late been sickly, as, alas ! 20 Thou know'st by sufferings more than	And leaves us — no ! this is beyond me ! — but mine, my love,	For this I had been happy - thou been
In watching me Jos. To see thee well is much —	happy, The splendour of my rank sustain'd, my
To see thee happy — Wer. Where hast thou seen such?	name My father's name been still upheld; and,
Let me be wretched with the rest! Jos. But think	more Than those —
How many in this hour of tempest shiver Beneath the biting wind and heavy rain,	Jos. (abruptly). My son — our son — our Ulric,
Whose every drop bows them down nearer earth	Been clasp'd again in these long-empty arms, And all a mother's hunger satisfied
Which hath no chamber for them save be- neath	Twelve years! he was but eight then: — beautiful
Her surface	He was, and beautiful he must be now, 60
Wer. And that's not the worst: who cares	My Ulric ' my adored ! I have been full oft
For chambers? rest is all. The wretches whom 30	The chase of Fortune; now she hath o'er- taken
Thou namest — ay, the wind howls round them, and	My spirit where it cannot turn at bay, — Sick, poor, and lonely.
The dull and dropping rain saps in their bones	Jos. Lonely ! my dear husband ? Wer. Or worse — involving all I love, in
The creeping marrow. I have been a soldier,	this Far worse than solitude. A lone , I had died,
A hunter, and a traveller, and am A beggar, and should know the thing thou	And all been over in a nameless grave.
talk'st of.	Jos. And I had not outlived thee; but pray take
Jos. And art thou not now shelter'd from them all?	Comfort! We have struggled long; and they who strive
Wer. Yes. And from these alone. Jos. And that is something	With Fortune win or weary her at last, 70 So that they find the goal or cease to feel
Wer. True — to a peasant Jos. Should the nobly born	Further. Take comfort, — we shall find our boy.
Be thankless for that refuge which their habits	Wer We were in sight of him, of every thing
Of early delicacy render more 4° Needful than to the peasant, when the ebb	Which could bring compensation for past sorrow—
Of fortune leaves them on the shoals of life?	And to be baffled thus ! Jos. We are not baffled
Wer. It is not that, thou know'st it is	Wer. Are we not penniless?
not; we Have borne all this, I'll not say patiently,	Jos. We ne'er were wealthy. Wer. But I was born to wealth, and rank,
Except in thee — but we have borne it. Jos. Well?	and power; Enjoy'd them, loved them, and, alas ! abused
Wer. Something beyond our outward sufferings (though	And forfeited them by my father's wrath,
These were enough to gnaw into our souls) Hath stung me oft, and, more than ever, now.	In my o'er-fervent youth; but for the abuse so
When, but for this untoward sickness, which	Long sufferings have atoned. My father's death

- Left the path open, yet not without snares. My Werner, when you deign'd to choose for This cold and creeping kinsman, who so bride long The foreign daughter of a wandering exile. Kept his eye on me, as the snake upon Wer. An exile's daughter with an outcast The fluttering bird, hath ere this time outson stept me, Were a fit marriage; but I still had hopes Become the master of my rights, and lord To hft thee to the state we both were born Of that which lifts him up to princes in for. Dominion and domain. Your father's house was noble, though de-Jos Who knows? our son cav'd: May have return'd back to his grandsure, and And worthy by its birth to match with ours. Even now uphold thy rights for thee? Jos. Your father did not think so, though 'T is hopeless. 90 Wer. 't was noble; Since his strange disappearance from my But had my birth been all my claim to father's, match 120 Entailing, as it were, my sins upon With thee, I should have deem'd it what Himself, no tidings have reveal'd his course. it is. I parted with him to his grandsire, on Wer. And what is that in thine eyes? The promise that his anger would stop short Jos. All which it Of the third generation; but Heaven seems Has done in our behalf, - nothing Wer. How, — nothing? To claim her stern prerogative, and visit Upon my boy his father's faults and follies Jos Or worse; for it has been a canker in Thy heart from the beginning . but for this, Jos. I must hope better still, — at least We had not felt our poverty but as we have yet Millions of myriads feel it, cheerfully; Baffled the long pursuit of Stralenheim. 100 Wer. We should have done, but for this But for these phantoms of thy feudal fafatal sickness thers. More fatal than a mortal malady, Thou mightst have earn'd thy bread, as Because it takes not life, but life's sole thousands earn it; Or, if that seem too humble, tried by comsolace Even now I feel my spirit girt about merce. 140 By the snares of this avaricious fiend; -Or other civic means, to amend thy fortunes How do I know he hath not track'd us here? Wer (ironically). And been an Hanseatic burgher? Excellent ! Jos He does not know thy person; and his spies, Jos. Whate'er thou mightst have been, to Who so long watch'd thee, have been left at me thou art Hamburgh What no state high or low can ever change, My heart's first choice; which chose thee, Our unexpected journey, and this change Of name, leaves all discovery far behind: knowing neither None hold us here for aught save what we Thy birth, thy hopes, thy pride; nought save thy sorrows: seem. While they last, let me comfort or divide Wer. Save what we seem ! save what we are - sick beggars, them: Even to our very hopes. - Ha ! ha ! When they end, let mine end with them, or thee ! Jos. Alas! That bitter laugh ! Wer My better angel ! such I have ever $\overline{W}ho$ would read in this form Wer. found thee; The high soul of the son of a long line? This rashness, or this weakness of my tem-
 - Ne'er raised a thought to injure thee or
 - Thou didst not mar my fortunes my own
 - In youth was such as to unmake an empire.

Who, in this garb, the heir of princely lands?

- Who, in this sunken, sickly eye, the pride Of rank and ancestry ? in this worn cheek
- And famine-hollow'd brow, the lord of halls Which daily feast a thousand vassals?

Jos. You 120

- Ponder'd not thus upon these worldly things,
- per, 150
- thme.
 - nature

 Had such been my inheritance; but now, Chasten'd, subdued, out-worn, and taught to know Myself, - to lose this for our son and thee ! Trust me, when, in my two-and-twentieth spring, My father barr'd me from my father's house, The last sole scion of a thousand sires 159 (For I was then the last), it hurt me less Than to behold my boy and my boy's mother Excluded in their innocence from what My faults deserved — exclusion; although then My passions were all living serpents, and 	I say you have been our lodger, and as yet We do not know your name Wer. My name is Werner Iden. A goodly name, a very worthy name, As e'er was gilt upon a trader's board: I have a cousin in the lazaretto Of Hamburgh, who has got a wife who bore The same. He is an officer of trust, 190 Surgeon's assistant (hoping to be surgeon), And has done miracles i' the way of busi- ness Perhaps you are related to my relative ? Wer. To yours ? Jos. Oh, yes; we are, but distantly.
Twined like the gorgon's round me. [A loud knockng is heard Jos. Hark ! Wer. A knockng !	[.1side to WEENER Cannot you humour the dull gossip till
Jos. Who can it be at this lone hour? We have Few visitors	We learn his purpose? Iden Well, I'm glad of that; I thought so all along, such natural yearn- mgs
Save those who come to make it poorer still.	Play'd round my heart: blood is not water, cousin; And so let's have some wine, and drink
Well, I am prepared.	unto Our better acquaintance, relatives should
[Werner puts his hand into his bosom, as if to search for some weapon	be 200
Jos. Oh ! do not look so. I 169 Will to the door. It cannot be of import In this lone spot of wintry desolation: — The new decent serves man from man.	Friends. Wer You appear to have drunk enough already; And if you had not, I've no wine to offer,
The very desert saves man from man- kind. [She goes to the door	Else it were yours, but this you know, or should know:
Enter Idenstein. Iden. A fair good evening to my fairer	You see I am poor and sick, and will not see hostess	That I would be alone; but to your busi-
And worthy — What's your name, my friend?	ness ! What brings you here ?
Wer. Are you Not afraid to demand it? Iden. Not afraid?	Iden. Why, what should bring me here? Wer. I know not, though I think that I could guess
Egad ! I am afraid. You look as if I ask'd for something better than your	That which will send you hence. Jos. (aside) Patience, dear Werner!
name, By the face you put on it. Wer . Better, sir !	Iden. You don't know what has hap- pen'd, then? Jos. How should we?
Iden. Better or worse, like matrimony:	Iden. The river has o'erflow'd. Jos. Alas ! we have known 210
what Shall I say more? You have been a guest this month ¹⁸⁰	That to our sorrow for these five days; since
Here in the prince's palace (to be sure, His highness had resign'd it to the ghosts And rats these twelve years — but 't is still	It keeps us here. Iden. But what you don't know is, That a great personage, who fain would a palace) —	Cross

Against the stream and three postillions' wishes,	This is the palace; this a stranger like Yourself; I pray you make yourself at
Is drown'd below the ford, with five post- horses,	home. But where 's his excellency? and how fares
	he?
A monkey, and a mastiff, and a valet.
Jos. Poor creatures ' are you sure?	Gab. Wetly and wearily, but out of peril:
Iden. Yes, of the monkey,	He paused to change his garments in a cot-
And the valet, and the cattle; but as yet	tage
We know not if his excellency 's dead	(Where I doff'd mine for these, and came
Or no; your noblemen are hard to drown, 220	on hither),
As it is fit that men in office should be.	And has almost recover'd from his drench-
But what is certain is, that he has swallow'd	ing.
Enough of the Oder to have burst two	He will be here anon.
peasants;	Iden. What ho, there ! bustle !
And now a Saxon and Hungarian traveller,	Without there, Herman, Weilburg, Peter,
Who at their proper peril snatch'd him from	Conrad ! 259
The whirling river, have sent on to crave	[Gives directions to different servants who enter
A lodging, or a grave, according as	A nobleman sleeps here to-night — see that
It may turn out with the live or dead body.	All is m order in the damask chamber -
Jos And where will you receive him?	Keep up the stove - I will myself to the here, I hope.	cellar —
If we can be of service — say the word. 230	And Madame Idenstein (my consort,
Iden. Here ? no; but in the prince's own	stranger)
apartment,	Shall furnish forth the bed-apparel; for,
As fits a noble guest: 't is damp, no doubt,	To say the truth, they are marvellous scar.
Not having been inhabited these twelve	of this
-	Within the palace precincts, since his high-
years; But then he comes from a much damper	ness Left it some dozen years ago And then place,	His excellency will sup, doubtless ?
So scarcely will catch cold in 't, if he be	Gab. Faith !
Still liable to cold — and if not, why
He'll be worse lodged to-morrow: ne'er-	I cannot tell; but I should think the pillow
theless	Would please him better than the table
I have order'd fire and all appliances
To be got ready for the worst — that is,	His soaking in your river but for fear
In case he should survive	Your viands should be thrown away, I mean
Jos. Poor gentleman ! 240	To sup myself, and have a friend without
1 hope he will, with all my heart.	Who will do honour to your good cheer with
Wer. Intendant,	A traveller's appetite.
Have you not learn'd his name? - My	Iden. But are you sure
Josephine, [Aside to his wife	His excellency — But his name: what is
Retire; I'll sift this fool.	it?
Iden. His name ? oh Lord !	Gab. I do not know.
Who knows if he hath now a name or no?	Iden. And yet you saved his life.
'T is time enough to ask it when he 's able	Gab. I help'd my friend to do so
To give an answer; or if not, to put	Iden. Well, that 's strange,
His heir's upon his epitaph Methought	To save a man's life whom you do not know.
Just now you child me for demanding	Gab. Not so; for there are some 1 know names?	so well, 280
Wer. True, true, I did so; you say well	I scarce should give myself the trouble and wisely.	Iden. Pray,
Futan C	Good friend, and who may you be?
Enter GABOR	Gab. By my family,
Gab. If I intrude, I crave —	Hungarian.
Iden Oh, no intrusion ! 250	I Iden Which is call'd?

It matters little. Gab. And that 's the reason I would have Gab. Iden. (asids). I think that all the world us less so · I thought our bustling host without had are grown anonymous, Since no one cares to tell me what he's call'd! said You were a chance and passing guest, the Pray, has his excellency a large suite? Gab. Sufficient. counterpart Iden. How many? Of me and my companions. I did not count them. Wer. Very true. 320 Gab. Gab. Then, as we never met before, and We came up by mere accident, and just In time to drag him through his carriage never. It may be, may again encounter, why, window. Iden. Well, what would I give to save a I thought to cheer up this old dungeon here great man ! (At least to me) by asking you to share 200 No doubt you'll have a swingeing sum as The fare of my companions and myself. recompense. Wer. Pray, pardon me; my health -Gab. Perhaps. Even as you please. Gab. Iden. Now, how much do you reckon on? I have been a soldier, and perhaps am blunt Gab. I have not yet put up myself to sale. In bearing. In the mean time, my best reward would be Wer. I have also served, and can A glass of your Hockcheimer -a green Requite a soldier's greeting. glass, In what service? Gab. Wreath'd with rich grapes and Bacchanal The Imperial? Wer. (quickly, and then interrupting himdevices, O'erflowing with the oldest of your vintage; self). I commanded — no — I mean I served ; but it is many years ago, For which I promise you, in case you e'er 331 Run hazard of being drown'd (although I When first Bohemia raised her banner 'gainst own It seems, of all deaths, the least likely for The Austrian. vou), Gab. Well, that 's over now, and peace 200 I'll pull you out for nothing Quick, my Has turn'd some thousand gallant hearts friend, adrift To hve as they best may; and, to say truth, And think, for every bumper I shall quaff, Some take the shortest A wave the less may roll above your head. What is that ? Wer. Iden. (aside). I don't much like this fellow - close and dry Gab Whate'er They lay their hands on. All Silesia and He seems, two things which suit me not; Lusatia's woods are tenanted by bands however. Of the late troops, who levy on the country Wine he shall have; if that unlocks him not, I shall not sleep to-night for curiosity. Their maintenance: the Chatelains must keep Exit Idenstein 340 Their castle walls — beyond them 't is but Gab. (to WERNER). This master of the doubtful ceremonies is The intendant of the palace, I presume. 309 Travel for your rich count or full-blown 'T is a fine building, but decay'd baron. My comfort is that, wander where I may, Wer The apartment Design'd for him you rescued will be found I've little left to lose now. Wer. And I — nothing. In fitter order for a sickly guest. Gab. That's harder still You say you Gab. I wonder then you occupied it not, were a soldier. For you seem delicate in health Wer I was. Gab You look one still. All soldiers are Wer. (quickly). Sir ! Pray, Gab. Excuse me have I said aught to offend Or should be comrades, even though eneyou? mies. Wer. Nothing : but we are strangers to Our swords when drawn must cross, our each other. engines aim

(While levell'd) at each other's hearts ; but when	Which still improves the one, should spoil
A truce, a peace, or what you will, remits	the other 380 Fill full — Here's to our hostess! — your
The steel into its scabbard, and lets sleep	fair wife ! [Takes the glass
The spark which lights the matchlock, we	Iden. Fair !- Well, I trust your taste in are brethren.	wine is equal
You are poor and sickly - I am not rich,	To that you show for beauty; but I pledge but healthy;	you
I want for nothing which I cannot want;	Nevertheless.
You seem devoid of this - wilt share it?	Gab. Is not the lovely woman
[GABOR, pulls out his purse	I met in the adjacent hall, who, with
Wer. Who	An air and port and eye, which would have
Told you I was a beggar ?	better
Gab. You yourself,	Beseem'd this palace in its brightest days
In saying you were a soldier during peace-	(Though in a garb adapted to its present time.	Abandonment), return'd my salutation —
Wer. (looking at him with suspicion). You	Is not the same your spouse ?
know me not?	Iden. I would she were! 390
Gab. I know no man, not even	But you're mistaken
Myself: how should I then know one I ne'er	ger's wife. Gab. And by her aspect she might be a prince's:
Beheld till half an hour since ? Wer. Sir, I thank you. 360	Though time hath touch'd her too, she still
Your offer's noble were it to a friend,	retains
And not unkind as to an unknown stranger,	Much beauty, and more majesty.
Though scarcely prudent; but no less I	Iden. And that thank you.	Is more than I can say for Madame Iden-
I am a beggar in all save his trade;	stein,
And when I beg of any one, it shall be	At least m beauty: as for majesty,
Of him who was the first to offer what	She has some of its properties which might
Few can obtain by asking. Pardon me.	Be spared — but never mind !
[Exit WER	Gab. I don't. But who
Gab. (solus). A goodly fellow by his	May be this stranger? He too hath a looks, though worn,	bearing Above his outward fortunes.
As most good fellows are, by pain or pleas-	Iden. There I differ. 400
Which tear life out of us before our time;	He's poor as Job, and not so patient; but
I scarce know which most quickly; but he	Who he may be, or what, or aught of seems 371	him,
To have seen better days, as who has not	Except his name (and that I only learn'd
Who has seen yesterday? - But here ap-	To-night), I know not.
proaches	Gab But how came he here?
Our sage intendant, with the wine: how-	Iden. In a most miserable old caleche, ever,	About a month since, and immediately
For the cup's sake I'll bear the cupbearer.	Fell sick, almost to death. He should have
Enter Idenstein	died.
	Gab. Tender and true ' — but why? Iden. Why, what is life
Iden. 'T is here ! the supernaculum !	Without a living? He has not a stiver twenty years	Gab. In that case, I much wonder that a
Of age, if 't is a day. Gab Which epoch makes	person 410
Gab Which epoch makes Young women and old wine; and 'tis great	Of your apparent prudence should admit pity,	Guests so forlorn into this noble mansion.
Of two such excellent things, increase of	Iden. That's true; but pity, as you know,
years,	does make

 One's heart commit these follies; and besides, They had some valuables left at that time, Which paid their way up to the present hour; And so I thought they might as well be lodged Here as at the small tavern, and I gave them The run of some of the oldest palace rooms. They served to air them, at the least as long As they could pay for fire-wood. Gab. Poor souls ! Iden. Ay, 421 Exceeding poor. Gab. And yet unused to poverty, If I mistake not. Whither were they going? Iden. Oh ! Heaven knows where, unless to heaven itself. Some days ago that look'd the likeliest journey For Werner. Gab. Werner ! I have heard the name: But hark ! a noise of wheels and voices, and A blaze of torches from without. As sure As destiny, his excellency 's come. 430 I must be at my post: will you not join me, To help him from his carriage, and present Your humble duty at the door ? Gab. I dragg'd him From out that carriage when he would have given His barony or county to repel The rushing river from his gurgling throat. He has valets now enough: they stood aloof then, Shaking their dripping ears upon the shore, All roaring ' Help !' but offering none; and as 439 For duty (as you call it) — I did mine then, Now do yours. Hence, and bow and cringe him here ! Iden. I cringe !— but I shall lose the opportunity— Plague take it ! he'll be here, and I not there ! [Exit IDENS hastily 	A spy of my pursuer's ? His frank offer So suddenly, and to a stranger, wore The aspect of a secret enemy; For friends are slow at such Gab. Sir, you seem rapt; And yet the time is not akin to thought. 450 These old walls will be noisy soon. The baron, Or count (or whatsoe'er this half-drown'd noble May be), for whom this desolate village and Its lone inhabitants show more respect Than did the elements, is come Iden (without). This way — This way, your excellency — have a care, The starcase is a little gloomy, and Somewhat decay'd · but if we had expected So high a guest — Pray take my arm, my lord ! 459 Enter STRALENHEM, IDENSTEIN, and Attendants — partly has own, and partly Retainers of the Domain of which IDENSTEIN & I ill rest me here a moment Iden. (to the servants) Ho ! a chair ! Instantly, knaves ! [STRALENHEM sid down Wer (aside). 'T is he ! Stral. I 'll rest me here a moment Iden. These strangers? Iden. Please you, my good lord, One says he is no stranger. Wer. (aloud and hastily). Who says that? [They look at hum with supprese Iden Why, no one spoke of you, or to you / — but Here 's one his excellency may be pleased To recognise. [Poming to GABOR Gab. I seek not to disturb His noble memory. Stral. I seek not to disturb His noble memory. Stral. I was succour'd must excuss My uncertainty to whom I owe so much. Iden. He !— no, my lord, he rather want for rescue Than can afford it. 'T is a poor sick man, Travel-tired, and lately risen from a bed From whence he never dream'd to rise Stral. Methough That there were two.
opportunity — Plague take it! he'll be here, and I not	Than can afford it. 'T is a poor sick man, Travel-tired, and lately risen from a bed
	Gab. There were, in company
Wer. (to himself). I heard a noise of
Wer. (to himself). I heard a noise of wheels and voices. How	But, in the service render'd to your lord ship,

The chief part of whatever aid was ren- der'd	And devilish damp, but fine enough by torch-
Was his: it was his fortune to be first.	And that's enough for your right noble
My will was not inferior, but his strength	blood
And youth outstripp'd me; therefore do not	Of twenty quarterings upon a hatchment;
waste	So let their bearer sleep 'neath something
Your thanks on me. I was but a glad	like one second	Now, as he one day will forever he.
Unto a nobler principal.
	Stral. (rising and turning to GABOR).
	Good-night, good people ! Sir, I trust
An Atten. My lord, he tarried in the cot-	to-morrow
tage where	Will find me apter to requite your service.
Your excellency rested for an hour,	In the meantime I crave your company 521
And said he would be here to-morrow.	A moment in my chamber.
Stral. Till	Gab. I attend you.
That hour arrives, I can but offer thanks,	Stral. (after a few steps, pauses, and calls
And then —	WERNER). Friend !
Gab. I seek no more, and scarce	Wer. Sir!
donomio	Iden. Sır! Lord
	- oh Lord ! Why don't you say
So much. My comrade may speak for himself.	His lordship, or his excellency ? Pray,
Stral. (fixing his eyes upon WERNER; then	My lord, excuse this poor man's want of aside). It cannot be! and yet he	breeding:
must be look'd to.	He hath not been accustom'd to admission
'T is twenty years since I beheld him with	To such a presence.
These eyes; and, though my agents still have	Stral. (to IDENSTEIN). Peace, intendant!
kept	Iden. Oh!
Theirs on him, policy has held aloof	I am dumb.
My own from his, not to alarm him into	Stral. (to WERNER) Have you been long
Suspicion of my plan. Why did I leave	here?
At Hamburgh those who would have made	Wer. Long?
5	Stral. I sought assurance
If this be he or no? I thought, ere now, 499	An answer, not an echo.
To have been lord of Siegendorf, and parted	Wer. You may seek
In haste, though even the elements appear	Both from the walls. I am not used to
To fight against me, and this sudden flood	answer 530
May keep me prisoner here till —	Those whom I know not
[He pauses, and looks at WERNER, then resumes	Stral. Indeed ! Ne'er the less,
This man must	You might reply with courtesy to what
Be watch'd. If it is he, he is so changed,	Is ask'd in kindness.
His father, rising from his grave again,	Wer. When I know it such,
Would pass him by unknown. I must be	I will requite — that is, reply — in unison.
wary:	Stral. The intendant said, you had been
An error would spoil all.	detain'd by sickness;
Iden. Your lordship seems	If I could aid you — journeying the same
Pensive. Will it not please you to pass on?	way?
Stral. 'T is past fatigue which gives my	Wer. (quickly). I am not journeying the weigh'd-down spirit	same way !
An outward show of thought. I will to	Stral. How know ye rest 510	That, ere you know my route?
Iden. The prince's chamber is prepared,	Wer. Because there is with all	But one way that the rich and poor must
The very furniture the prince used when	tread
Last here, in its full splendour	Together. You diverged from that dread
(Aside.) Somewhat tatter'd,	path 540
·

Some hours ago, and I some days. hence-	Had baffled the slow hounds in their pur- suit. 570
forth Our roads must lie asunder, though they tend	What's to be done? He knows me not by person;
All to one home.	Nor could aught, save the eye of apprehen-
Stral. Your language is above	sion,
Your station.	Have recognised him after twenty years,
Wer. (butterly). Is it?	We met so rarely and so coldly in
Stral. Or, at least, beyond	Our youth. But those about him ! Now I
Your garb.	can
Wer. 'T is well that it is not beneath it,	Divine the frankness of the Hungarian,
As sometimes happens to the better clad	who
But, in a word, what would you with me?	No doubt is a mere tool and spy of Stralen-
Stral. (startled) I?	heim's,
Wer. Yes — you! You know me not, and	To sound and to secure me. Without question me,	means !
And wonder that I answer not — not know-	Sick, poor — begint too with the flooding
ing	rivers,
My inquisitor. Explain what you would	Impassable even to the wealthy with 580
have, 550	All the apphances which purchase modes
And then I'll satisfy yourself, or me	Of overpowering peril with men's lives, —
Stral. I knew not that you had reasons	How can I hope ! An hour ago methought for reserve.	My state beyond despair; and now, 't is
Wer. Many have such: — Have you none? Stral. None which can Interest a mere stranger.	such, The past seems paradise Another day, And I'm detected, — on the very eve Of honours, rights, and my inheritance, When a few drops of gold might save me
Wer. Then forgive The same unknown and humble stranger, if	still In favouring an escape
He wishes to remain so to the man Who can have nought in common with	Enter Idenstein and Fritz in conversation
him.	Fritz. Immediately.
Stral. Sir,	Iden. I tell you't is impossible.
I will not balk your humour, though un-	Fritz It must 550
toward.	Bo tried however, and if one arrange
I only meant you service — but good night ! Intendant, show the way ! (to GABOR). Sir, you will with me? 560	Be tried, however; and if one express Fail, you must send on others, till the answer Arrives from Frankfort, from the comman-
[Ezeuni Stralenheim and attendanis, Idenstein and	dant.
GABOR	Iden. I will do what I can.
Wer. (solus). 'T is he! I am taken in	Fritz. And recollect
the toils. Before	To spare no trouble; you will be repaid
I quitted Hamburgh, Giulio, his late	Tenfold.
steward,	Iden. The baron is retired to rest?
Inform'd me, that he had obtain'd an order	Fritz. He hath thrown himself into an
From Brandenburg's elector, for the arrest	easy chair
Of Kruitzner (such the name I then bore),	Beside the fire, and slumbers; and has when	order'd
I came upon the frontier; the free city	He may not be disturb'd until eleven,
Alone preserved my freedom — till I left	When he will take himself to bed.
Its walls — fool that I was to quit them !	Iden. Before 6∞
But	An hour is past I'll do my best to serve
I deem'd this humble garb, and route ob-	him.
scure,	Fritz. Remember ! [Ext Farrz.

68o

Iden. The devil take these g men! they Think all things made for them. Now must 1 Rouse up some half a dozen shivering	vas- To see if still be unexplored the passage
sals	$I \text{ wot of } \cdot \text{ it will serve me as a den} \qquad 64c$
From their scant pallets, and, at peril	of Of secrecy for some hours, at the worst.
Their lives, despatch them o'er the r towards	[WEBNER draws a panel, and exit, closing it after him.
Frankfort. Methinks the baron's own perience Some hours ago might teach him fel	low- Gab. Where is your husband? Jos. Here , I thought: I left him feeling :	Not long since in his chamber. But these
But no, 'it must ,' and there 's an end.	How rooms
now ? Are you there, Mynheer Werner ?	Have many outlets, and he may be gone To accompany the intendant
Wer. You have left	610 Gab. Baron Stralenheim
Your noble guest right quickly. Iden. Yes — he 's do	Put many questions to the intendant on zing, The subject of your lord, and, to be plain,
And seems to like that none should s
besides.	Jos. Alas!
Here is a packet for the commandant Of Frankfort, at all risks and all expe	mses: What can there be in common with the proud
But I must not lose time: Good-night	! And wealthy baron, and the unknown Wer-
[Exit Wer. 'To Frankfo
So, so, it thickens ! Ay, 'the command	ant.' Jos. Or, if it were so, how
This tallies well with all the prior step
Of this cool, calculating fiend, who was Between me and my father's house.
doubt	Gab. I help'd to save him, as in peril; but
He writes for a detachment to convey m Into some secret fortress. — Sooner th
This —	Their thousand modes of trampling on the
[WERNER looks around, and snatches up a knife ly a table in a recess	I have proved them; and my spirit boils up
Now I am master of myself at lea	st. when
Hark, — footsteps! How do I know Stralenheim	that I find them practising against the weak: — This is my only motive.
Will wait for even the show of that auth	ority Jos. It would be 660
Which is to overshadow usurpation? That he suspects me's certain I'm a	Not easy to persuade my consort of lone; Vour good intentions.
He with a numerous train : I weak	; he Gab. Is he so suspicious?
strong In gold, in numbers, rank, authority:	Jos. He was not once; but time and troubles have
I nameless, or involving in my name	Made him what you beheld
Destruction, till I reach my own domain
He full-blown with his titles, which in Still further on these obscure petty bury 0	ark! protects.
nearer still ! I'll to the secret passage, which com	Good night ! I trust to meet with him at nuni- daybreak [Ent GABOR
cates	Re-enter Idenstein and some Peasants Josephing re
With the — No! all is silent — 't wa fancy ! —	s my trees up the Hall First Peasant. But if I 'm drown'd?

Iden. Why, you will be well paid for 't,	I cannot aid, and will not witness such 709
And have risk'd more than drowning for as	Even here, in this remote, unnamed, dull
much,	spot,
I doubt not	The dimmest in the district's map, exist
Second Peasant. But our wives and fam-	The insolence of wealth in poverty ilies? 670	O'er something poorer still — the pride of Iden. Cannot be worse off than they are,	rank and may	In servitude, o'er something still more
Be better.	servile;
Third Peasant. I have neither, and will	And vice in misery affecting still venture	A tatter'd splendour What a state of Iden. That's right A gallant carle, and	being !
fit to be	In Tuscany, my own dear sunny land,
A soldier. I'll promote you to the ranks	Our nobles were but citizens and mer-
In the prince's body-guard - if you suc-	chants, ceed;	Like Cosmo. We had evils, but not such
And you shall have besides, in sparkling	As these; and our all-ripe and gushing
com,	valleys 711
Two thalers.	Made poverty more cheerful, where each
Third Peasant. No more !	herb
Iden. Out upon your avarice!	Was in itself a meal, and every vine
Can that low vice alloy so much ambition?	Rain'd, as it were, the beverage which
I tell thee, fellow, that two thalers in	makes glad
Small change will subdivide into a trea-	The heart of man; and the ne'er unfelt sure. 680 Do not five hundred thousand heroes daily	Sun (But repair clouded and when clouded Risk lives and souls for the tithe of one	(But rarely clouded, and when clouded, leaving thaler?	His warmth behind in memory of his beams)
When had you half the sum?	Makes the worn mantle, and the thin robe,
Third Peasant. Never — but ne'er	less
The less I must have three.	Oppressive than an emperor's jewell'd
Iden. Have you forgot	purple.
Whose vassal you were born, knave?	But, here ! the despots of the north appear
Third Peasant. No - the prince's,	To imitate the ice-wind of their clime, 721
And not the stranger's.	Searching the shivering vassal through his
Iden. Sirrah ' in the prince's	rags,
Absence, I'm sovereign; and the baron is	To wring his soul — as the bleak elements
My intimate connexion; - 'Cousin Iden-	His form And 't is to be amongst these stein!	sovereigns
(Quoth he) you'll order out a dozen vil-	My husband pants ! and such his pride of lains'	birth,
And so, you villams! troop - march -	That twenty years of usage, such as no Father born in a humble state could nerve march, I say; 690
And if a single dog's-ear of this packet Be sprinkled by the Oder — look to it !	His soul to persecute a son withal, Hath changed no atom of his early na-
For every page of paper, shall a hide	ture;
Of yours be stretch'd as parchment on a	But I, born nobly also, from my father's drum,	Kindness was taught a different lesson
Like Ziska's skin, to beat alarm to all	Father! 731
Refractory vassals, who can not effect	May thy long-tried and now rewarded
Impossibilities — Away, ye earth-worms !	spirit
[Exit, driving them out	Look down on us and our so long desired
Jos. (coming forward). I fain would	Ulric! I love my son, as thou didst me !
shun these scenes, too oft repeated,	Wha''s that? Thou, Werner! can it be?
Of feudal tyranny o'er petty vict's;	and thus?

Enter WERNER hastily, with the knife in his hand, by the secret panel, which he closes hurriedly after him	Fritz. Well, but now to discover the de- linquent:
Wer. (not at first recognising her). Dis-	The baron is determined not to lose cover'd ! then I'll stab (recognis-	This sum without a search.
ing her.) Ah ! Josephine,	Iden. And so am I. 10
Why art thou not at rest?	Fritz. But whom do you suspect?
Jos. What rest? My God !	Iden. Suspect ' all people
What doth this mean?	Without - within - above - below - Hea-
Wer (showing a rouleau). Here's gold	ven help me !
-gold, Josephine,	Fruz. Is there no other entrance to the
Will rescue us from this detested dungeon.	chamber ?
Jos. And how obtain'd ? — that knife!	Iden. None whatsoever.
	Fritz Are you sure of that?
	Iden. Certain I have lived and served
Away — we must to our chamber.	here since my birth,
Jos. But whence comest thou?	And if there were such, must have heard of Wer. Ask not! but let us think where we shall go —	such,
This — this will make us way (showing the	Or seen it gold) — I'll fit them now.	Fritz. Then it must be some one who
Jos. I dare not think thee guilty of dis-	Had access to the antechamber.
honour	Iden. Doubtless
Wer. Dishonour !	Fritz The man call'd Werner's poor!
Jos. I have said it.	Iden. Poor as a miser;
Wer. Let us hence.	But lodged so far off, in the other wing, 20
"T is the last night, I trust, that we need	By which there 's no communication with pass here	The baion's chamber, that it can't be he
Jos. And not the worst, I hope.	Besides, I bade him 'good night' in the hall,
Wer. Hope ! I make sure.	Almost a mile off, and which only leads
But let us to our chamber.	To his own apartment, about the same time
Jos. Yet one question —	When this burglarious, larcenous felony
What hast thou done?	Appears to have been committed
Wer. (fiercely). Left one thing undone	Fritz There's another, which 749	The stranger —
Had made all well: let me not think of it !	Iden. The Hungarian?
Away!	Fritz. He who help'd
Jos. Alas, that I should doubt of thee !	To fish the baron from the Oder.
[Exeunt.	Iden. Not
	Unlikely. But, hold — might it not have
ACT II	been 3¢
Conun I	One of the suite?
SCENE I	Fritz How? We, sir !
A Hall in the same Palace	Iden No-not you,
	But some of the inferior knaves. You say
Enter Idenstein and Others	The baron was asleep in the great chair —
Iden. Fine doings ! goodly doings ! honest	The velvet chair — in his embroider'd nightdoings !	gown;
A baron pillaged in a prince's palace !	His toilet spread before him, and upon it
Where, till this hour, such a sin ne'er was	A cabinet with letters, papers, and heard of	Several rouleaux of gold; of which one only Fruz. It hardly could, unless the rats	Has disappear'd; — the door unbolted, with despoil'd	No difficult access to any.
The mice of a few shreds of tapestry	Fritz. Good sir,
Iden Oh! that I e'er should live to see	Be not so quick; the honour of the corps 40
this day !	Which forms the baron's household 's unim-
The honour of our city's gone for ever.	peach'd.
~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~

From steward to scullion, save in the fair way	Fritz. In a most immense inheritance. The late Count Siegendorf, his distant
Of peculation; such as in accompts, Weights, measures, larder, cellar, buttery,	kınsman, Is dead near Prague, in hıs castle, and my
Where all men take their prey; as also in Postage of letters, gathering of rents	lord 80 Is on his way to take possession.
Postage of letters, gathering of rents, Purveying feasts, and understanding with	Iden. Was there
The honest trades who furnish noble mas-	No heir?
ters: But for your petty, picking, downright	Fruz. Oh, yes; but he has disappear'd Long from the world's eye, and perhaps the thievery, We scorn it as we do board-wages. Then 50 Had one of our folks done it, he would not	world. A prodigal son, beneath his father's ban For the last twenty years; for whom his
Have been so poor a spirit as to hazard	sire
His neck for one rouleau, but have swoop'd all;	Refused to kill the fatted calf; and, there- fore,
Also the cabinet, if portable.	If living he must chew the husks still. But
Iden. There is some sense in that — Fritz. No, sir, be sure	The baron would find means to silence him, Were he to re-appear: he's politic,
'T was none of our corps; but some petty, trivial	And has much influence with a certain court. 90
Picker and stealer, without art or genus.	Iden. He's fortunate.
The only question is — Who else could have Access, save the Hungarian and yourself?	Fritz 'T is true, there is a grandson, Whom the late count reclaim'd from his
Iden. You don't mean me?	son's hands,
Fritz. No, sir; I honour more 60	And educated as his heir; but then
Your talents — Iden. And my principles, I hope.	His birth is doubtful Iden. How so?
Iden. And my principles, I hope. Fritz. Of course But to the point:	Fritz. His sire made
What 's to be done?	A left-hand, love, imprudent sort of mar-
Iden. Nothing — but there 's a good deal	riage, With on Italian avilate dark and development to be said. We'll offer a reward; move heaven and	With an Italian exile's dark-eyed daughter: Noble, they say, too; but no match for such earth,	A house as Siegendorf's The grandsire ill
And the police (though there's none nearer than	Could brook the alliance; and could ne'er be brought Frankfort); post notices in manuscript	To see the parents, though he took the
(For we've no printer); and set by my	son. 100
clerk	Iden If he 's a lad of mettle, he may yet
To read them (for few can, save he and 1). We'll send out villains to strip beggars, and	Dispute your claim, and weave a web that may
Search empty pockets; also, to arrest 70	Puzzle your baron to unravel.
All gipsies, and ill-clothed and sallow	Fruiz. Why, people. Prisoners we'll have at least, if not the culprit;	For mettle, he has quite enough. they say, He forms a happy mixture of his sire And grandsire's qualities, — impetuous as
And for the baron's gold — if 't is not	The former, and deep as the latter; but found, At least he shall have the full satisfaction	The strangest is, that he too disappear'd Some months ago
Of melting twice its substance in the rais-	Iden. The devil he did !
ing The chest of this realizer. Here's alcherer	Fritz. Why, yes:
The ghost of this rouleau. Here's alchymy For your lord's losses!	It must have been at his suggestion, at 110 An hour so critical as was the eve
Fritz. He hath fo d a better.	Of the old man's death, whose heart was broken by it.

	•
Iden. Was there no cause assign'd? Frutz. Plenty, no doubt,	Inadequate thanks, you almost check even them, 150
And none perhaps the true one. Some averr'd	Making me feel the worthlessness of words,
It was to seek his parents; some because	And blush at my own barren gratitude,
The old man held his spirit in so strictly	They seem so niggardly, compared with what
(But that could scarce be, for he doted on	Your courteous courage did in my behalf him); A third believed he wish'd to serve in war,	Ulr. I pray you press the theme no further.
But, peace being made soon after his de-	Stral. But parture,	Can I not serve you? You are young, and of
He might have since return'd were that the motive; 120	That mould which throws out heroes; fair in favour;
A fourth set charitably have surmised,	Brave, I know, by my living now to say so;
As there was something strange and mystic in him,	And doubtlessly, with such a form and heart,
That in the wild exuberance of his nature	Would look into the fiery eyes of war, 160
He had join'd the black bands, who lay waste Lusatia,	As ardently for glory as you dared An obscure death to save an unknown
The mountains of Bohemia and Sılesia,	stranger
Since the last years of war had dwindled into	In an as perilous, but opposite, element.
A kind of general condottiero system	You are made for the service: I have
Of bandit warfare; each troop with its chief,	served;
And all against mankind.	Have rank by birth and soldiership, and
Iden. That cannot be.	friends
A young heir, bred to wealth and luxury, 130 To risk his life and honours with disbanded	Who shall be yours. 'T is true this pause of peace
Soldiers and desperadoes !	Favours such views at present scantily;
Fritz. Heaven best knows!	But 't will not last, men's spirits are too
But there are human natures so allied	stirring;
Unto the savage love of enterprise,	And, after thirty years of conflict, peace
That they will seek for peril as a pleasure	Is but a petty war, as the times show us 170
I've heard that nothing can reclaim your Indian,	In every forest, or a mere arm'd truce. War will reclaim his own; and, in the
Or tame the tiger, though their infancy Ware fed on mills and hener. After all	You might obtain a post which would on.
Were fed on milk and honey. After all, Your Wallenstein, your Tilly and Gustavus,	You might obtain a post, which would en- sure
Your Bannier, and your Torstenson and Weimar, 140	A higher soon, and, by my influence, fail not
Were but the same thing upon a grand scale,	To rise. I speak of Brandenburg, wherein I stand well with the elector; in Bohemia,
And now that they are gone, and peace pro- claum'd,	Like you, I am a stranger, and we are now Upon its frontier.
They who would follow the same pastime	Ulr. You perceive my garb
Pursue it on their own account. Here	Is Saxon, and of course my service due To my own sovereign. If I must decline 180 comes The baren and the Series strenger who	Your offer, 't is with the same feeling which
The baron, and the Saxon stranger, who	Induced it. Stral Why, this is mere usury!
Was his chief aid in yesterday's escape, But did not leave the cottoge by the Oder	Stral Why, this is mere usury! I owe my life to you, and you refuse
But did not leave the cottage by the Oder Until this morning.	The acquittance of the interest of the debt,
	To heap more obligations on me till
Enter Stralenheim and Ulric	I bow beneath them.
Stral. Since you have refused	Ulr. You shall say so when
All compensation, gentle stranger, save	I claim the payment.

Stral. Well, sir, since you will not -Through my attendants, and so many You are nobly born? peopled 220 And lighted chambers, on my rest, and I have heard my kinsmen say so. Ulr Stral. Your actions show it. Might I ask snatch your name? The gold before my scarce-closed eyes, Ulr. Ulric. would soon Stral. Your house's? Leave bare your borough, Sir Intendant ' Ulr. When I'm worthy of it, 190 Iden. True; I'll answer you. If there were aught to carry off, my lord. Stral. (aside). Most probably an Austrian, Ulr. What is all this? Whom these unsettled times forbid to boast Stral You join'd us but this morning, His lineage on these wild and dangerous And have not heard that I was robb'd last frontiers, night Where the name of his country is abhorr'd. Ulr. Some rumour of it reach'd me as I [Aloud to FRITZ and IDENSTEIN pass'd So, sirs ! how have ye sped in your re-The outer chambers of the palace, but searches? I know no further. Iden. Indifferent well, your excellency. Stral. It is a strange business; 220 The intendant can inform you of the facts. Iden. Most willingly. You see — Stral. Then I am to deem the plunderer is caught? Iden. Humph ! - not exactly. Stral. (impatiently). Defer your tale, Stral. Or at least suspected? Till certain of the hearer's patience. Iden. Oh! for that matter, very much Iden. That suspected. Can only be approved by proofs. You see — Stral. Who may he be? Stral. (again interrupting him, and ad-Iden. Why, don't you know, my lord? 200 dressing ULRIC). In short, I was Stral. How should I? I was fast asleep. asleep upon a chair, My cabinet before me with some gold Iden. And so Was I, and that 's the cause I know no more Upon it (more than I much like to lose, Though in part only): some ingenious per-Than does your excellency. Dolt! Stral. son Why, if Contrived to glide through all my own atlden. Your lordship, being robb'd, don't recognise tendants, The rogue; how should I, not being robb'd, Besides those of the place, and bore away A hundred golden ducats, which to find 240 identify The thief among so many? In the crowd, I would be fain, and there's an end. Per-May it please your excellency, your thief haps looks You (as I still am rather faint) would add To yesterday's great obligation, this, Exactly like the rest, or rather better: 'T is only at the bar and in the dungeon Though slighter, yet not slight, to aid these That wise men know your felon by his men (Who seem but lukewarm) in recovering features; 210 But I'll engage, that if seen there but once, 1t ? Ulr. Most willingly, and without loss of Whether he be found criminal or no. His face shall be so. time -Stral. (to FRITZ). Prithee, Fritz, inform (To IDENSTEIN.) Come hither, mynheer ! Iden. But so much haste bodes me Right little speed, and What hath been done to trace the fellow? Fritz. Faith ! Ulr. Standing motionless My lord, not much as yet, except conjecture. None; so let's march: we'll talk as we go on. Stral. Besides the loss (which, I must Iden. Butown, affects me Ulr. Show the spot, and then I'll answer Just now materially), I needs would find you The villain out of public motives; for Fritz. I will, sir, with his excellency's leave.

o dexterous a spoiler, who could creep

Stral. Do so, and take yon old ass with Within a dungeon, where he may avouch you. Fritz. Hence ! harm done. Ulr. Come on, old oracle, expound thy Should he prove other than I deem. This riddle ! [Exit with Idenstein and FRITZ. robberv Stral. (solus). A stalwart, active, soldier-(Save for the actual loss) is lucky also: looking stripling, He 's poor, and that 's suspicious - he 's un-Handsome as Hercules ere his first labour, known. And with a brow of thought beyond his And that 's defenceless. - True, we have no vears proofs When in repose, till his eye kindles up Of guilt, - but what hath he of innocence? In answering yours. I wish I could engage him; In other bearings, I should rather lay I have need of some such spirits near me The inculpation on the Hungarian, who now. For this inheritance is worth a struggle. 260 Of all around, except the intendant and And though I am not the man to yield without one, ingress Neither are they who now rise up between Familiar to the chamber. me And my desire. The boy, they say, 's a Enter GABOR. bold one: But he hath play'd the truant in some hour Of freakish folly, leaving fortune to when they Champion his claims. That's well The Have supp'd and slumber'd, no great matfather whom ter how ---For years I 've track'd, as does the blood-And you, my lord? hound, never Stral. Better in rest than purse: In sight, but constantly in scent, had put me Mme mn is like to cost me dear. To fault; but here I have him, and that 's Gab. I heard better. Of your late loss; but 't is a trifle to It must be he! All circumstance proclaims One of your order it: Stral. You would hardly think so, And careless voices, knowing not the cause Were the loss yours. Of my inquiries, still confirm it - Yes ! Gab. I never had so much The man, his bearing, and the mystery Of his arrival, and the time; the account, am not too, The intendant gave (for I have not beheld her) stripp'd them, Of his wife's dignified but foreign aspect; In my return. Besides the antipathy with which we met, Stral. You !- Why? As snakes and lions shrink back from each Gab I went at daybreak, 319 other

By secret instinct that both must be foes

Deadly, without being natural prey to either;

All — all — confirm it to my mind However.

We'll grapple, ne'er the less In a few hours

- The order comes from Frankfort, if these waters
- Rise not the higher (and the weather favours

Their quick abatement), and I 'll have him safe

His real estate and name; and there's no

- 200

Were he a man indifferent to my prospects,

Hath something which I like not; and alone

The prince's household and my own, had

Friend, how fare you?

Gab. As those who fare well everywhere,

(At once) in my whole life, and therefore

Fit to decide. But I came here to seek you. Your couriers are turn'd back — I have out-

To watch for the abatement of the river,

As being anxious to resume my journey.

Your messengers were all check'd like myself;

And, seeing the case hopeless, I await The current's pleasure.

Stral Would the dogs were in it ! Why did they not, at least, attempt the passage ?

I order'd this at all risks.

Gab Could you order The Oder to divide, as Moses did

The Red Sea (scarcely redder than the flood Of the swoln stream), and be obey'd, per- haps 320 They might have ventured. Stral. I must see to it: The knaves ! the slaves ! — but they shall smart for this. [Exid STRALENMERS. Gab. (solus) There goes my noble, feu- dal, self-will'd baron ! Epitomè of what brave chivalry The preux chevaliers of the good old times Have left us. Yesterday he would have given His lands (if he hath any), and, still dearer, His sixteen quarterings, for as much fresh air As would have fill'd a bladder, while he lay Gurgling and foaming half way through the window 330 Of his o'erset and water-logg'd conveyance; And now he storms at half a dozen wretches, Because they love their lives too ! Yet, he 's right: 'T is strange they should, when such as he may put them To hazard at his pleasure Oh, thou world ! Thou art indeed a melancholy jest !	But cannot think of sorrow now, and doubt If I e'er felt it, 't is so dazzled from 351 My memory by this oblivious transport! — My son! Enter WEENER Wer. What have we here, — more strangers? Jos. No' Look upon him ! What do you see? Wer. A stripling, For the first time — Ulr (kneeling) For twelve long years, my father ! Wer. Oh, God ! Jos. He faints ! Wer. No — I am better now — Ulrie! (Embraces him) Ulr My father, Siegendorf ! Wer. (starting). Hush ! boy — The walls may hear that name ! Ulr What then ? Wer. Why, then — But we will talk of that anon Remember, I must be known here but as Werner. Come ! 360 Come to my arms again ! Why, thou look'st all
[Ext GABOR	I should have been, and was not. Jose- phine,
SCENE II	Sure 't is no father's fondness dazzles me;
The Apariment of WERNER, in the Palace	But, had I seen that form amid ten thou-
Enter JOSEPHINE and ULBIC	Sand Youth of the choicest, my heart would have
Jos. Stand back, and let me look on thee	chosen again ! My Ulric ! — my beloved ! — can it be — After twelve years ? Uir. My dearest mother ! Jos. Yes ! My dream is realised — how beautiful ! — How more than all I sigh'd for ! Heaven receive 341 A mother's thanks ! — a mother's tears of joy! This is indeed thy work ! — At such an hour, too, He comes not only as a son, but saviour Ulr. If such a joy await me, it must double What I now feel, and lighten from my heart A part of the long debt of duty, not Of love (for that was ne'er withheld) — forgive me ! This long delay was not my fault.	This for my son !UlrAnd yet you knew me not !Wer. Alas ' I have had that upon my soulWhich makes me look on all men with aneyeThat only knows the evil at first glanceUlr. My memory served me far morefondly: I370Have not forgotten aught; and oft-times mThe proud and princely halls of (I 'll notname them,As you say that 't is perilous) — but 'i thepompOf your sire's feudal mansion, I look'd backTo the Bohemian mountains many a sunset,And wept to see another day go downO'er thee and me, with those huge hills be-tween us.They shall not part us more.Wer.I know not that.

Ulr. Oh, heavens! I left him in a green	(Excuse me for the phrase); but Stralen-
old age, 380 And looking like the oak, worn, but still steady	heim Is not what you prejudge him, or, if so, He owes me something both for past and
Amidst the elements, whilst younger trees	present.
Fell fast around him. 'T was scarce three	I saved his life, he therefore trusts in me.
months since.	He hath been plunder'd too, since he came
Wer. Why did you leave him?	hither:
Jos. (embracing ULRIC). Can you ask	Is sick; a stranger; and as such not now that question?	Able to trace the villam who hath robb'd
Is he not here?	him. 420
Wer. True : he hath sought his parents,	I have pledged myself to do so; and the
And found them; but, oh! how, and in what	business
state !	Which brought me here was chiefly that.
Ulr. All shall be better'd. What we	but I have to do	Have found, in searching for another's
Is to proceed, and to assert our rights,	dross,
Or rather yours ; for I waive all, unless	My own whole treasure - you, my par-
Your father has disposed in such a sort 390	ents!
Of his broad lands as to make mine the	Wer (aguatedly). Who foremost,	Taught you to mouth that name of 'vil-
So that I must prefer my claim for form:	lam'?
But I trust better, and that all is yours	Ulr. What
Wer. Have you not heard of Stralen-	More noble name belongs to common heim?	thieves?
Ulr. I saved	Wer. Who taught you thus to brand an
His life but yesterday: he 's here.	unknown being
Wer. You saved	With an infernal stigma?
The serpent who will sting us all !	Ulr My own feelings
Ulr. You speak	Taught me to name a ruffian from his
Riddles: what is this Stralenheim to us?	deeds
Wer Every thing. One who claims our	Wer. Who taught you, long-sought and fathers' lands;	ill-found boy! that 430
Our distant kinsman, and our nearest foe.	It would be safe for my own son to insult
Ulr I never heard his name till now.	me?
The count, $4\infty$	Ulr I named a villam. What is there
Indeed, spoke sometimes of a kinsman, who,	in common
If his own line should fail, might be re-	With such a being and my father?
motely	Wer. Every thing !
Involved in the succession; but his titles	That ruffian is thy father !
Were never named before me — and what	Jos Oh, my son !
then?	Believe him not - and yet! - (her voice
His right must yield to ours.	falters).
Wer Ay, if at Prague	Ulr. (starts, looks earnestly at WERNER,
But here he is all-powerful; and has spread	and then says slowly) And you avow it?
Snares for thy father, which, if hitherto
He hath escaped them, is by fortune, not	Wer Ulric, before you dare despise your father,
By favour. Ulr. Doth he personally know you?	Learn to divine and judge his actions.
Wer. No; but he guesses shrewdly at	Young,
my person, 410	Rash, new to life, and rear'd in luxury's lap,
As he betray'd last night; and I, perhaps,	Is it for you to measure passion's force,
But owe my temporary liberty	Or misery's temptation? Wait (not long,
To his uncertainty.	It cometh like the night, and quickly) —
Ulr. I think you wrong him	Wait ! 441 jot
	•

Wait till, like me, your hopes are blighted,	He hath not lured you here to end you? or Sorrow and shame are handmaids of your	To plunge you, with your parents, in a dungeon? [He pauses cabin;	Ulr. Proceed — proceed '
Famine and poverty your guests at table;	Wer. Me he hath ever known,
Despair your bed-fellow — then rise, but	And hunted through each change of time,
not	name, fortune —
From sleep, and judge! Should that day	And why not you? Are you more versed e'er arrive —	in men?
Should you see then the serpent, who hath coil'd	He wound snares round me; flung along my path
Himself around all that is dear and noble	Reptiles, whom in my youth I would have
Of you and yours, he slumbering in your	spurn'd 480
path,	Even from my presence; but, in spurning
With but his folds between your steps and	now, Fill only with fresh venom. Will you be happiness, 450 When he, who lives but to tear from you name,	More patient? Ulric! — Ulric! — there are crimes
Lands, life itself, lies at your mercy, with	Made venial by the occasion, and tempta-
Chance your conductor; midnight for your	tions
mantle;	Which nature cannot master or forbear.
The bare knife in your hand, and earth asleep,	Ulr (looks first at him, and then ut Jo- SEPHINE).
Even to your deadliest foe; and he, as	My mother !
't were	Wer. Ay! I thought so you have now
Inviting death, by looking like it, while	Only one parent. I have lost alike
His death alone can save you.—Thank	Father and son, and stand alone.
your God !	Ulr. But stay !
If then, like me, content with petty plun-	[WERNER rushes out of the chumber
If then, like me, content with petty plun-	[WERNER rushes out of the chamber
der,	Jos (to Ulric) Follow him not, until
If then, like me, content with petty plun-	[WERNER rushes out of the chumber
der,	Jos (to Ulric) Follow him not, until
You turn aside — I did so	this storm of passion
If then, like me, content with petty plun- der,	[WERNER rushes out of the chamber Jos (to Ulruc) Follow him not, until this storm of passion Abates. Think'st thou, that were it well
If then, like me, content with petty plun-	[WERNER rushes out of the chamber
der,	Jos (to Ulric) Follow him not, until
You turn aside — I did so	this storm of passion
Ulr. But —	Abates. Think'st thou, that were it well
Wer (abruptly) Hear me !	for him, 490
I will not brook a human voice — scarce	I had not follow'd ?
If then, like me, content with petty plun-	[WERNER rushes out of the chamber
der,	Jos (to Ulruc) Follow hum not, until
You turn aside — I did so	this storm of passion
Ulr. But —	Abates. Think'st thou, that were it well
Wer (abruptly) Hear me !	for hum, 490
I will not brook a human voice — scarce	I had not follow'd ?
dare	Ulr. I obey you, mother,
If then, like me, content with petty plun-	[WERNER rushes out of the chamber
der,	Jos (to Ulruc) Follow hum not, until
You turn aside — I did so	this storm of passion
Ulr. But —	Abates. Think'st thou, that were it well
Wer (abruptly) Hear me !	for hum, 490
I will not brook a human voice — scarce	I had not follow'd ?
dare 4 ⁶⁰	Ulr. I obey you, mother,
Listen to my own (if that be human still) —	Although reluctantly. My first act shall
If then, like me, content with petty plun-	[WERNER rushes out of the chamber
der,	Jos (to Ulruc) Follow hum not, until
You turn aside — I did so	this storm of passion
Ulr. But —	Abates. Think'st thou, that were it well
Wer (abruptly) Hear me !	for hum, 490
I will not brook a human voice — scarce	I had not follow'd ?
dare	Ulr. I obey you, mother,
If then, like me, content with petty plun-	[WERNER rushes out of the chamber
der,	Jos (to Ulruc) Follow him not, until
You turn aside — I did so	this storm of passion
Ulr. But —	Abates. Think'st thou, that were it well
Wer (alruptly) Hear me!	for him, 490
I will not brook a human voice — scarce	I had not follow'd ?
dare 460	Ulr. I obey you, mother,
Listen to my own (if that be human still) —	Although reluctantly. My first act shall
Hear me! you do not know this man —	not
I do.	Be one of disobedience.
He's mean, deceitful, avaricious You	Jos. Oh, he is good !
If then, like me, content with petty plun-	[WERNER rushes out of the chamber
der,	Jos (to Ulruc) Follow him not, until
You turn aside — I did so	this storm of passion
Ulr. But —	Abates. Think'st thou, that were it well
Wer (abruptly) Hear me !	for him, 490
I will not brook a human voice — scarce	I had not follow'd ?
dare 460	Ulr. I obey you, mother,
Listen to my own (if that be human still) —	Although reluctantly. My first act shall
Hear me ! you do not know this man —	not
I do.	Be one of disobedience.
He's mean, deceitful, avaricious You	Jos. Oh, he is good !
Deem yourself safe, as young and brave;	Condemn him not from his own mouth, but
If then, like me, content with petty plun- der, You turn aside — I did so Ulr. But — Wer (alruptly) Hear me! I will not brook a human voice — scarce dare 460 Listen to my own (if that be human still) — Hear me! you do not know this man — I do. He's mean, deceitful, avaricious You	[WERNER rushes out of the chamber Jos (to Ulruc) Follow him not, until this storm of passion Abates. Think'st thou, that were it well for him, 490 I had not follow'd ? Ulr. I obey you, mother, Although reluctantly. My first act shall not Be one of disobedience. Jos. Oh, he is good ! Condemn him not from his own mouth, but trust
If then, like me, content with petty plun-	[WERNER rushes out of the chamber
der,	Jos (to Ulruc) Follow him not, until
You turn aside — I did so	this storm of passion
Ulr. But —	Abates. Think'st thou, that were it well
Wer (abruptly) Hear me !	for him, 490
I will not brook a human voice — scarce	I had not follow'd ?
dare 4 ⁶⁰	Ulr. I obey you, mother,
Listen to my own (if that be human still) —	Although reluctantly. My first act shall
Hear me ! you do not know this man —	not
I do.	Be one of disobedience.
He's mean, deceitful, avaricious You	Jos. Oh, he is good !
Deem yourself safe, as young and brave;	Condemn him not from his own mouth, but
but learn	trust
None are secure from desperation, few	To me, who have borne so much with him,
From subtlty. My worst foe, Stralenheim,	and for him,
If then, like me, content with petty plun-	[WERNER rushes out of the chamber
der,	Jos (to Ulruc) Follow him not, until
You turn aside — I did so	this storm of passion
Ulr. But —	Abates. Think'st thou, that were it well
Wer (abruptly) Hear me !	for him, 490
I will not brook a human voice — scarce	I had not follow'd ?
dare 4 ⁶⁰	Ulr. I obey you, mother,
Listen to my own (if that be human still) —	Although reluctantly. My first act shall
Hear me ! you do not know this man —	not
I do.	Be one of disobedience.
He's mean, deceitful, avaricious You	Jos. Oh, he is good !
Deem yourself safe, as young and brave;	Condemn him not from his own mouth, but
but learn	trust
None are secure from desperation, few	To me, who have borne so much with him,
From subtlty. My worst foe, Stralenheim,	and for him,
Housed in a prince's palace, couch'd within	That this is but the surface of his soul,
If then, like me, content with petty plun-	[WERNER rushes out of the chamber
der,	Jos (to Ulruc) Follow him not, until
You turn aside — I did so	this storm of passion
Ulr. But —	Abates. Think'st thou, that were it well
Wer (abruptly) Hear me !	for him, 490
I will not brook a human voice — scarce	I had not follow'd ?
dare 460	Ulr. I obey you, mother,
Listen to my own (if that be human still) —	Although reluctantly. My first act shall
Hear me ! you do not know this man —	not
I do.	Be one of disobedience.
He's mean, deceitful, avaricious You	Jos. Oh, he is good !
Deem yourself safe, as young and brave;	Condemn him not from his own mouth, but
but learn	trust
None are secure from desperation, few	To me, who have borne so much with him,
From subtly. My worst foe, Stralenheim,	and for him,
Housed in a prince's palace, couch'd within	That this is but the surface of his soul,
A prince's chamber, lay below my knife !	And that the depth is rich in better things
If then, like me, content with petty plun-	[WERNER rushes out of the chamber
der,	Jos (to Ulruc) Follow him not, until
You turn aside — I did so	this storm of passion
Ulr. But —	Abates. Think'st thou, that were it well
Wer (abruptly) Hear me !	for him, 490
I will not brook a human voice — scarce	I had not follow'd ?
dare 460	Ulr. I obey you, mother,
Listen to my own (if that be human still) —	Although reluctantly. My first act shall
Hear me ! you do not know this man —	not
I do.	Be one of disobedience.
He's mean, deceitful, avaricious You	Jos. Oh, he is good !
Deem yourself safe, as young and brave;	Condemn him not from his own mouth, but
but learn	trust
None are secure from desperation, few	To me, who have borne so much with him,
From subtlty. My worst foe, Stralenheim,	and for him,
Housed in a prince's palace, couch'd within	That this is but the surface of his soul,
A prince's chamber, lay below my knife !	And that the depth is rich in better things
An instant — a mere motion — the least	Ulr These then are but my father's
If then, like me, content with petty plun-	[WERNER rushes out of the chamber
der,	Jos (to Ulruc) Follow him not, until
You turn aside — I did so	this storm of passion
Ulr. But —	Abates. Think'st thou, that were it well
Wer (abruptly) Hear me !	for him, 490
I will not brook a human voice — scarce	I had not follow'd ?
dare 4 ⁶⁰	Ulr. I obey you, mother,
Listen to my own (if that be human still) —	Although reluctantly. My first act shall
Hear me ! you do not know this man —	not
I do.	Be one of disobedience.
He's mean, deceitful, avaricious You	Jos. Oh, he is good !
Deem yourself safe, as young and brave;	Condemn him not from his own mouth, but
but learn	trust
None are secure from desperation, few	To me, who have borne so much with him,
From subtly. My worst foe, Stralenheim,	and for him,
Housed in a prince's palace, couch'd within	That this is but the surface of his soul,
A prince's chamber, lay below my knife !	And that the depth is rich in better things
If then, like me, content with petty plun-	[WERNER rushes out of the chamber
der,	Jos (to Ulruc) Follow him not, until
You turn aside — I did so	this storm of passion
Ulr. But —	Abates. Think'st thou, that were it well
Wer (abruptly) Hear me !	for him, 490
I will not brook a human voice — scarce	I had not follow'd ?
dare 4 ⁶⁰	Ulr. I obey you, mother,
Listen to my own (if that be human still) —	Although reluctantly. My first act shall
Hear me ! you do not know this man —	not
I do.	Be one of disobedience.
He's mean, deceitful, avaricious You	Jos. Oh, he is good !
Deem yourself safe, as young and brave;	Condemn him not from his own mouth, but
but learn	trust
None are secure from desperation, few	To me, who have borne so much with him,
From subtlty. My worst foe, Stralenheim,	and for him,
Housed in a prince's palace, couch'd within	That this is but the surface of his soul,
A prince's chamber, lay below my knife !	And that the depth is rich in better things
An instant — a mere motion — the least	Ulr These then are but my father's impulse —	principles ?
Had swept him and all fears of mine from	My mother thinks not with him ?
earth 470	Jos. Nor doth he
If then, like me, content with petty plun-	[WERNER rushes out of the chamber
der,	Jos (to Ulruc) Follow him not, until
You turn aside — I did so	this storm of passion
Ulr. But —	Abates. Think'st thou, that were it well
Wer (abruptly) Hear me !	for him, 490
I will not brook a human voice — scarce	I had not follow'd ?
dare 4 ⁶⁰	Ulr. I obey you, mother,
Listen to my own (if that be human still) —	Although reluctantly. My first act shall
Hear me ! you do not know this man —	not
I do.	Be one of disobedience.
He's mean, deceitful, avaricious You	Jos. Oh, he is good !
Deem yourself safe, as young and brave;	Condemn him not from his own mouth, but
but learn	trust
None are secure from desperation, few	To me, who have borne so much with him,
From subtly. My worst foe, Stralenheim,	and for him,
Housed in a prince's palace, couch'd within	That this is but the surface of his soul,
A prince's chamber, lay below my knife !	And that the depth is rich in better things
An instant — a mere motion — the least	Ulr These then are but my father's impulse —	principles ?
Had swept him and all fears of mine from	My mother thinks not with him ?
earth 4 ⁷⁰	Jos. Nor doth he
He was within my power — my knife was	Think as he speaks. Alas ! long years of
If then, like me, content with petty plun-	[WERNER rushes out of the chamber
der,	Jos (to Ulruc) Follow him not, until
You turn aside — I did so	this storm of passion
Ulr. But—	Abates. Think'st thou, that were it well
Wer (abruptly) Hear me !	for him, 490
I will not brook a human voice — scarce	I had not follow'd ?
dare 460	Ulr. I obey you, mother,
Listen to my own (if that be human still) —	Although reluctantly. My first act shall
Hear me ! you do not know this man —	not
I do.	Be one of disobedience.
He's mean, deceitful, avaricious You	Jos. Oh, he is good !
Deem yourself safe, as young and brave;	Condemn him not from his own mouth, but
but learn	trust
None are secure from desperation, few	To me, who have borne so much with him,
From subtilty. My worst foe, Stralenheim,	and for him,
Housed in a prince's palace, couch'd within	That this is but the surface of his soul,
A prince's chamber, lay below my knife !	And that the depth is rich in better things
An instant — a mere motion — the least	Ulr These then are but my father's impulse —	principles ?
Had swept him and all fears of mine from	My mother thinks not with him ?
earth 470	Jos. Nor doth he
He was within my power — my knife was	Think as he speaks. Alas ! long years of raised —	grief 500
Withdrawn — and I'm in his: — are you	Have made him sometimes thus.
If then, like me, content with petty plun-	[WERNER rushes out of the chamber
der,	Jos (to Ulruc) Follow him not, until
You turn aside — I did so	this storm of passion
Ulr. But—	Abates. Think'st thou, that were it well
Wer (alruptly) Hear me !	for him, 490
I will not brook a human voice — scarce	I had not follow'd ?
dare 460	Ulr. I obey you, mother,
Listen to my own (if that be human still) —	Although reluctantly. My first act shall
Hear me ! you do not know this man —	not
I do.	Be one of disobedience.
He's mean, deceitful, avaricious You	Jos. Oh, he is good !
Deem yourself safe, as young and brave;	Condemn him not from his own mouth, but
but learn	trust
None are secure from desperation, few	To me, who have borne so much with him,
From subtly. My worst foe, Stralenheim,	and for him,
Housed in a prince's palace, couch'd within	That this is but the surface of his soul,
A prince's chamber, lay below my knife !	And that the depth is rich in better things
An instant — a mere motion — the least	Ulr These then are but my father's impulse —	principles ?
Had swept him and all fears of mine from	My mother thinks not with him ?
earth 470	Jos. Nor doth he
He was within my power — my knife was	Think as he speaks. Alas ! long years of raised —	grief 500

690

That, when I see the subject in its bearings, I may prepare to face him, or at least To extricate you from your present perils I pledge myself to accomplish this — but would	Than you shall do, if there be judge or judgment In Germany. The baron shall decide ! Gab. Does he abet you in your accusa- tion?
1 had arrived a few hours sooner !	Iden. Does he not ?
Jos. Ay ! Hadst thou but done so !	Gab. Then next time let hun go sink Ere $T$ go hang for snatching him from
Enter GABOR and IDENSTEIN with Attendants	drowning But here he comes !
Gab. (to Ulric). I have sought you, com-
Gab. (to Ulruc). I have sought you, com- rade.         So this is my reward ! $Ulr.$ What do you mean ?         Gab. 'Sdeath ! have I lived to these years, and for this !       510         (To IDENSTEIN.) But for your age and folly I would —       1         Iden.       Help !         Hands off ! Touch an intendant !       Gab.         Gab.       Do not think         I'll honour you so much as save your throat         From the Ravenstone by choking you my- self.         Iden. I thank you for the respite but there are         Those who have greater need of it than me. Ulr Unriddle this vile wrangling, or — Gab.         At once, then,         The baron has been robb'd, and upon me         This worthy personage has deign'd to fix         His kind suspicions — me ! whom he ne'er saw         Saw         Size         Till yester' evening.         Iden.       Wouldst have me suspect         My own acquantances ? You have to learn         That I keep better company         Gab.       You shall         Keep the best shortly, and the last for all men,         The worms ! you hound of malice !         [Gabos serzes on ham	Enter STRALEMBENS         Gab. (goes up to him) My noble lord, I'm here !         Stral. Well, sir !         Gab       Have you aught with me ?         Stral       What should I         Have with you ?       What should I         Gab.       You know best, if yesterday's         Flood has not wash'd away your memory;       But that's a trifle I stand here accused, 540         In phrases not equivocal, by yon       Intendant, of the pillage of your person         Or chamber.— is the charge you! own or       his?         Stral. I accuse no man       Gab.         Gab.       Then you acquit me, baron ?         Stral. I accuse no man       Gab         Gab       But you at least         Should know whom not to suspect I am insulted —       Oppress'd here by these menials, and I look         To you for remedy — teach them their duty !       To look for thieves at home were part of it, If duly taught; but, in one word, if I sist         Have an accuser, let it be a man       Worthy to be so of a man like me.         I am your equal.       You !
Ulr. (interfering). Nay, no violence:	Gab. Ay, sir; and, for
He 's old, unarm'd — be temperate, Gabor ! Gab. (letting go IDENSTEIN). True	Aught that you know, superior; but pro- ceed —
I am a fool to lose myself because Fools deem me knave it 1s their homage Ulr. (to IDENSTEIN). How	I do not ask for hints, and surmises, And circumstance, and proofs; I know enough
Fare you ?	Of what I have done for you, and what you
Ulr. I have help'd you Iden. Kill hun ! then	owe me, To have at least waited your payment rather Than paid myself, had I been eager of 560
I'll say so Gab. I am calm — live on ! Iden. That's more 530	Your gold I also know, that were I even The villain I am deem'd, the service ren- der'd

So recently would not permit you to Pursue me to the death, except through shame, Such as would leave your scutcheon but a blank. But this is nothing: I demand of you Justice upon your unjust servants, and From your own lips a disavowal of All sanction of their insolence; thus much You owe to the unknown, who asks no more. 570 And never thought to have ask'd so much Stral. This tone May be of innocence. Gab 'Sdeath ! who dare doubt it. Except such villains as ne'er had it? Stral. You Are hot, sir ! Gab. Must I turn an icicle Before the breath of menuals, and their master? Stral Ulrie ! you know this man; I found him m Your company. We found you in the Oder; Gab. Would we had left you there! Stral. I give you thanks, sir Gab. I've earn'd them; but might have earn'd more from others, Perchance, if I had left you to your fate. 580 Strol. Ulrie! you know this man? Gab. No more than you do, If he avouches not my honour. Ulr. Can youch your courage, and, as far as my Own brief connection led me, honour Then Stral I'm satisfied. Gab (ironically). Right easily, methinks. What is the spell in his asseveration More than in mine? Stral I merely said that I Was satisfied - not that you are absolved. Gab Again! Am I accused or no? Stral Go to ' You wax too insolent If circumstance 590 And general suspicion be against you, Is the fault mine ? Is't not enough that I Decline all question of your guilt or innocence? Gab My lord, my lord, this is mere cozenage, A vile equivocation; you well know Your doubts are certainties to all around vou —

Your looks a voice - your frowns a sentence; you Are practising your power on me, because You have it; but beware ' you know not whom You strive to tread on. Threat'st thou ? Stral. Gab Not so much 600 As you accuse. You hint the basest injury, And I retort it with an open warning. Stral. As you have said, 't is true I owe you something, For which you seem disposed to pay yourself. Gab. Not with your gold With bootless insolence Stral. To his Attendants and IDENSTEIN You need not further to molest this man, But let him go his way. Ulric, good morrow! [Exit STRALENHEIM, IDENSTEIN, and Attendants. Gab. (following) I'll after him and — Ulr. (stopping him). Not a step. Gab.Who shall Oppose me? Ūlr Your own reason, with a moment's Thought. Must I bear this? Gab. Ulr.Pshaw! we all must bear 610 The arrogance of something higher than Ourselves — the highest cannot temper Satan, Nor the lowest his vicegerents upon earth. 1 've seen you brave the elements, and bear Things which had made this silkworm cast his skın -And shrink you from a few sharp sneers and words? Gab. Must I bear to be deem'd a thief? If 't were A bandit of the woods, I could have borne 1t ---There's something daring in it; - but to steal The moneys of a slumbering man !---Ulr.It seems, then, 620 You are not guilty? Gab. Do I hear aright? You too ! Ulr. I merely ask'd a simple question. Gab. If the judge ask'd me, I would answer 'No'-To you I answer thus (He draws) Ulr. (drawing). With all my heart !

Jos. Without there ! Ho ! help ! help ! Oh, God ! here 's murder !	He shall be sent to Frankfort with an escort
[Exit JOSEPHINE shricking [GABOB and ULEIC fight GABOE is disarmed just as STEALENHEIM, JOSEPHINE, IDENSTEIN, etc., re-enter	The instant that the waters have abated Iden. Secure him! He hath got his
Jos. Oh, glorious heaven! He's safe!	sword again — And seems to know the use on 't; 't is his
Stral. (to Josephine). Who's safe?	trade,
Jos. My-	Belike; — I'm a civilian.
Ulr. (interrupting her with a stern look,	Stral. Fool! are not and turning afterwards to STRALEN-	Yon score of vassals dogging at your heels
HEIM). Both !	Enough to seize a dozen such? Hence!
Here's no great harm done.	after him !
Stral. What hath caused all this?	Ulr Baron, I do beseech you !
Ulr. You, baron, I believe; but as the effect
Is harmless, let it not disturb you	Obey'd. No words!
Gabor!	Iden. Well, if it must be so —
	March, vassals! I'm your leader, and
There is your sword; and when you bare it	will bring next, 630	The rear up a wise general never should
Let it not be against your friends .	Expose his precious life - on which all
[ULRIC pronounces the last words slowly and emphati-	rests.
cally in a low voice to GABOR.	I like that article of war.
Gab. I thank you	[Exit Idensiein and Attendants
Less for my life than for your counsel	Stral Come hither,
Stral. These	Ulric: what does that woman here? Oh !
Brawls must end here.	now
Gab. (taking his sword). They shall. You	I recognise her, 't is the stranger's wife have wrong'd me, Ulric,	Whom they name 'Werner.'
	Ulr 'T is his name.
More with your unkind thoughts than sword I would	Stral. Indeed !
The last were in my bosom rather than
The first in yours. I could have borne yon	Is not your husband visible, fair dame? — Jos. Who seeks him?
noble's
Absurd insinuations — ignorance	Stral No one — for the present but 670
And dull quanicion and a mant of his	I fain would parley, Ulric, with yourself
And dull suspicion are a part of his	Alone.
Entail will last him longer than his lands.	Ulr I will retire with you.
But I may fit him yet. — you have van-	Jos Not so:
quish'd me. 640	You are the latest stranger, and command
I was the fool of passion to conceive	All places here.
That I could cope with you, whom I had	(Aside to ULRIC, as she goes out.) O Ulric!
seen	have a care —
Already proved by greater perils than Rest in this arm. We may meet by and by,	Remember what depends on a rash word !
Rest in this arm. We may meet by and by,	Ulr (to JOSEPHINE) Fear not!
However — but in friendship. [Exit GABOR	[Exit JOSEPHINE
Stral I will brook	Stral Ulric,
No more! This outrage following up his	I think that I may trust you:
msults,	You saved my life - and acts like these
Perhaps his guilt, has cancell'd all the little	beget
I owed him heretofore for the so-vaunted	Unbounded confidence.
Aid which he added to your abler succour.	Ulr. Say on.
Ulric, you are not hurt ?	Stral. Mysterious
Ulr. Not even by a scratch 65c	And long-engender'd circumstances (not
Stral (to IDENSTEIN). Intendant ! take	To be now fully enter'd on) have made 68
your measures to secure	This man obnoxious - perhaps fatal to me
Yon fellow: I revoke my former lenity.	Ulr. Who? Gabor, the Hungarian?
in a reveal my tormer tentby.	Con the Cabor, the rungarial :

Stral. No - this 'Werner'-Stral. Then claim a recompense from it With the false name and habit. and me, Such as both may make worthy your ac-How can this be? Ulr. He is the poorest of the poor - and yellow ceptance And services to me and mine for ever. Sickness sits cavern'd in his hollow eye: The man is helpless Ulr. And this sole, sick, and miserable wretch-Stral He is — 't is no matter; This way-worn stranger - stands between But if he be the man I deem (and that He is so, all around us here — and much you and This Paraduse ? - (As Adam did between That is not here - confirm my apprehen-The devil and his) - [Aside.] sion) He must be made secure ere twelve hours Stral. He doth. further. UlrHath he no right? Ulr. And what have I to do with this? Stral. Right! none. A disinherited I have sent prodigal, Stral To Frankfort, to the governor, my friend Who for these twenty years disgraced his (I have the authority to do so by lineage An order of the house of Brandenburg), In all his acts - but chiefly by his marriage, For a fit escort — but this cursed flood And living amidst commerce-fetching Bars all access, and may do for some hours. burghers, Ulr It is abating And dabbling merchants, in a mart of Jews. That is well. Stral Ulr. He has a wife, then? Ulr. But how Stral. You'd be sorry to Am I concern'd? Call such your mother. You have seen the Stral As one who did so much woman 730 For me, you cannot be indifferent to He calls his wife. That which is of more import to me than 700 Ulr. Is she not so ? The life you rescued — Keep your eye on Stral No more Than he's your father; - an Italian girl, him ! The man avoids me, knows that I now The daughter of a banish'd man, who lives know hun. On love and poverty with this same Werner. Watch hun! — as you would watch the Ulr. They are childless, then? wild boar when Stral. There is or was a bastard. He makes against you in the hunter's gap ---Whom the old man — the grandsire (as old Like him he must be spear'd. age Ulr. Is ever doting) took to warm his bosom, Why so? Stral. He stands As it went chilly downward to the grave: Between me and a brave inheritance ! But the imp stands not in my path - he Oh, could you see it! But you shall. has fled, I hope so No one knows whither; and if he had not, 740 Ulr. Stral. It is the richest of the rich His claums alone were too contemptible Bohemia, To stand. — Why do you smile? Unscathed by scorching war. It lies so near Ulr. At your vain fears: A poor man almost in his grasp, a child The strongest city, Prague, that fire and sword Of doubtful birth, can startle a grandee! 710 Have skimm'd it lightly: so that now, be-Stral. All's to be fear'd, where all is to sides be gain'd. Its own exuberance, it bears double value, Ulr. True; and aught done to save or to Confronted with whole realms far and near obtain it. Made deserts. Stral You have harp'd the very string Illr. You describe it faithfully. next to my heart. Stral. Ay - could you see it, you would I may depend upon you? Ūľr. 'T were too late sav so - but. As I have said, you shall. To doubt it. Ulr. I accept the omen. Stral. Let no foolish pity shake

Your bosom (for the appearance of the man	If it be so, being much disposed to do ¹⁰
Is pitiful) — he is a wretch, as likely 751	The same myself But will you shelter me?
To have robb'd me as the fellow more sus-	I am oppress'd like you, and poor like you,
pected,	Disgraced —
Except that circumstance is less against him;	Wer (abruptly) Who told you that I was
He being lodged far off, and in a chamber	disgraced?
Without approach to mine. And, to say truth,	Gab. No one; nor did I say you were so:
I think too well of blood allied to mine,	with
To deem he would descend to such an act	Your poverty my likeness ended; but
Besides, he was a soldier, and a brave one	I said $I$ was so — and would add, with truth,
Ulr. Once — though too rash.	As undeservedly as you.
Ulr. And they, my lord, we know	Wer Again !
By our experience, never plunder till 760	As $I^{?}$
They knock the brains out first — which	Gub Or any other honest man makes them heirs, Not thieves. The dead, who feel nought,	What the devil would you have? You don't believe me can lose nothing,	Guilty of this base theft?
Nor e'er be robb'd : their spoils are a be-	Wer No, no — I cannot 20
quest —	Gab. Why, that's my heart of honour!
No more.	yon young gallant,
Stral. Go to ! you are a wag. But say	Your miserly intendant, and dense noble,
I may be sure you'll keep an eye on this man,	All — all suspected me, and why? because
And let me know his slightest movement	I am the worst-clothed and least named towards	amongst them;
Concealment or escape ?	Although, were Momus' lattice m your
Ulr. You may be sure	breasts,
You yourself could not watch him more	My soul might brook to open it more widely than I	Than theirs but thus it is — you poor and
Will be his sentinel	helpless,
Stral. By this you make me	Both still more than myself
Yours, and for ever	Wer. How know you that?
Ulr. Such is my intention. 770	Gab You're right: I ask for shelter at
[Exeunt	the hand Which I call helpless; if you now deny it, 30
ACT III	L were well paid But you, who seem to have proved
Scene I	The wholesome bitterness of life, know well, By sympathy, that all the outspread gold
A Hall in the same Palace, 11 om whence the secret Pas-	Of the New World the Spaniard boasts saye leads	about
Enter WERNER and GABOR Gab. Sir, I have told my tale if it so	Could never tempt the man who knows its worth,
please you	Weigh'd at its proper value in the balance,
To give me refuge for a few hours, well — If not, I 'll try my fortune elsewhere.	Save in such guise (and there 1 grant its power,
Wer. How	Because I feel it) as may leave no night-
Can I, so wretched, give to Misery	mare
A shelter ? — wanting such myself as much	Upon his heart o' nights.
As e'er the hunted deer a covert —	Wer What do you mean?
Gab Or The wounded lion his cool cave. Methinks	Gab. Just what I say; I thought my speech was plan. 40
You rather look like one would turn at bay,	You are no thief, nor I; and, as true men, Should aid each other.
And rip the hunter's entrails. Wer. Ah !	Wer. It is a damn'd world, sir.
Gab. I care not	Gab So is the nearest of the two next, as

And a second	······································
The priests say (and no doubt they should	Gab. Not I ! and if know best);	I were, what is there to espy in you?
Therefore I'll stick by this, as being loth	Although, I recollect, his frequent question
To suffer martyrdom, at least with such	About you and your spouse might lead to
An epitaph as larceny upon my tomb.	some
It is but a night's lodging which I crave;	Suspicion; but you best know - what -
To-morrow I will try the waters as	and why.
The dove did, trusting that they have	I am his deadliest foe.
abated. 50	Wer. You?
Wer. Abated ? Is there hope of that ?	Gab. After such
Gab. There was	A treatment for the service which in part 80
At noontide.	I render'd him, I am his enemy $\cdot$
Wer. Then we may be safe.	If you are not his friend, you will assist me.
Gab. Are you	Wer. I will.
In peril?	Gab But how ?
$\tilde{W}er.$ Poverty is ever so.	Wer. (showing the panel). There is a se-
Gab. That I know by long practice. Will	cret spring:
you not	Remember, I discover'd it by chance,
Promise to make mine less?	And used it but for safety.
Wer. Your poverty?	Gab. Open 1t,
Gab. No, you don't look a leech for that	And I will use it for the same.
disorder;	Wer. I found it,
I meant my peril only . you 've a roof,	As I have said: it leads through winding
And I have none, 1 merely seek a covert	walls
Wer Rightly; for how should such a	(So thick as to bear paths within their ribs.
wretch as 1	Yet lose no jot of strength or statelmess),
Have gold ?	And hollow cells, and obscure niches, to 90
Gab. Scarce honestly, to say the truth	I know not whither; you must not advance.
on't, 60	Give me your word
Although I almost wish you had the baron's.	Gab. It is unnecessary
Wer. Dare you insinuate?	How should I make my way in darkness
Gab. What?	through
Wer Are you aware	A Gothic labyrinth of unknown windings?
To whom you speak?	Wer. Yes, but who knows to what place
Gab. No; and I am not used	it may lead?
Greatly to care. (A noise heard without.)	I know not (mark you !) — but who knows
But hark! they come !	it might not
Wer. Who come?	Lead even into the chamber of your foe?
Gab. The intendant and his man-hounds after me :	So strangely were contrived these galleries By our Teutonic fathers in old days, 99
	When man built less against the elements
I'd face them — but it were in vain to ex-	Then his next neighbour You must not
Justice at hands like theirs. Where shall	advance
I go?	Beyond the two first windings; if you do
But show me any place. I do assure you,	(Albert I never pass'd them), I'll not answer
If there be faith in man, I am most guilt-	For what you may be led to.
less :	Gab. But I will
Think if it were your own case !	A thousand thanks !
Wer (aside). Oh, just God ' 70	Wer. You'll find the spring
Thy hell is not hereafter ! Am I dust still?	more obvious
Gab. I see you're moved; and it shows	On the other side; and, when you would well in you :	return,
I may live to requite it.	It yields to the least touch.
Wer. Are you not	Gab. I'll in - farewell !
A spy of Stralenheim's?	[GABOB goes in by the secret panel.
	· · · ·

Wer. (solus). What have I done ? Alas ! In good sooth, if you really are the man what had I done That Stralenheun's in quest of. Before to make this fearful? Let it be Wer. Insolent ! 140 Still some atonement that I save the man Said you not that he was not here? Whose sacrifice had saved perhaps my Iden. Yes. one: own — But there's another whom he tracks more 111 They come ! to seek elsewhere what 1s bekeenly. fore them ! And soon, it may be, with authority Both paramount to his and mine. But Enter IDENSTEIN and Others come ! Iden. Is he not here ? He must have van-Bustle, my boys ! we are at fault. ish'd then [Exit IDENSTEIN and Attendants Through the dim Gothic glass by pious aid Wer. In what Of pictured saints upon the red and yellow A maze hath my dim destiny involved me ! Casements, through which the sunset And one base sin hath done me less ill than streams like sunrise The leaving undone one far greater. Down, On long pearl-colour'd beards and crimson Thou busy devil, rising in my heart ! Thou art too late ! I'll nought to do with crosses, And gilded crosiers, and cross'd arms, and blood 150 cowls. Enler ULRIC. And helms, and twisted armour, and long swords, Ulr I sought you, father All the fantastic furniture of windows 120 Wer Is 't not dangerous . Dim with brave knights and holy hermits, Ulr. No; Stralenheim is ignorant of all whose Or any of the ties between us; more -Likeness and fame alike rest in some panes He sends me here a spy upon your actions, Of crystal which each rattling wind pro-Deeming me wholly his. claims Wer I cannot think it: As frail as any other life or glory. 'T is but a snare he winds about us both, He's gone, however To swoop the sire and son at once Wer. Whom do you seek? UlrI can not Iden A villain Pause in each petty fear, and stumble at The doubts that rise like briers in our path, Wer. Why need you come so far, then? Iden In the search But must break through them, as an un-Of him who robb'd the baron. arm'd carle 160 Wer. Would, though with naked limbs, were the Are you sure You have divined the man? wolf rustling In the same thicket where he hew'd for Iden. As sure as you Stand there: but where 's he gone ? bread. Wer Who? Nets are for thrushes, eagles are not caught Iden. He we sought. 50: Wer You see he is not here We'll overfly or rend them And yet we traced him 130 Wer. Show me how? Iden Up to this hall. Are you accomplices? Ulr. Can you not guess? Wer.Or deal you in the black art? I cannot Wer I deal plainly, Ulr.That is strange. To many men the blackest. Came the thought ne'er into your mind Iden. It may be last night? I have a question or two for yourself Wer I understand you not. Then we shall never Hereafter; but we must continue now UlrMore understand each other. But to change Our search for t' other Wer You had best begin The topic -Your inquisition now. I may not be Wer. You mean to pursue it, as 'T is of our safety. So patient always Ulr.

Īden I should like to know. Right; I stand corrected. 170

- -

. .

I see the subject now more clearly, and Our general situation in its bearings The waters are abating; a few hours Will bring his summon'd myrmidons from Frankfort, When you will be a prisoner, perhaps	No jewel: therefore it could not be his; And then the man who was possest of this Can hardly be suspected of abstracting The baron's coin, when he could thus con- vert 210 This ring to more than Stralenheim has lost
worse, And I an outcast, bastardised by practice Of this same baron to make way for him. Wer. And now your remedy ! I thought to escape By means of this accursed gold; but now I dare not use it, show it, scarce look on it. 180 Methinks it wears upon its face my guilt For motto, not the mintage of the state; And, for the sovereign's head, my own be- girt With hissing snakes, which curl around my temples And cry to all beholders, Lo ! a yillam !	lostBy his last night's slumber. Be not over timidIn your address, nor yet too arrogant, And Ideustein will serve you. $Wer$ I will followIn all things your direction $Ulr$ .Ulr.I would haveSpared you the trouble; but had I appear'd To take an interest in you, and still more By dabbing with a jewel in your favour, All had been known at once $Wer$ .My guardian angel ! This overpays the pastDutyLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLostLost
Ulr You must not use it, at least now; but take This ring. [He gives WERNER a jewel Wer. A gem ! It was my father's ! Ulr. And As such is now your own. With this you must Bribe the intendant for his old caleche And horses to pursue your route at sun- rise, 190 Together with my mother. Wer And leave you, So lately found, in peril too ? Ulr. Fear nothing ! The only fear were if we fled together, For that would make our ties beyond all doubt.	Fare m our absence ? $Ulr.$ Stralenheim knows nothingOf me as aught of kindred with yourself.I will but wait a day or two with himTo lull all doubts, and then rejoin my father. $Wer.$ To part no more ! $Ulr.$ I know not that; but atThe least we 'll meet again once more. $Wer$ My boy 'My friend ' my only child, and sole preserver !Oh, do not hate me ' $Ulr.$ Hate my father ' $Wer.$ Ay,My father hated meWhy not my son ? $Uh.$ Your father knew you not as I do. $Wer$ Scorpions 230
<ul> <li>The waters only lie in flood between</li> <li>This burgh and Frankfort; so far's in our favour</li> <li>The route on to Bohemia, though encumber'd,</li> <li>Is not impassable; and when you gain</li> <li>A few hours' start, the difficulties will be</li> <li>The same to your pursuers Once beyond</li> <li>The frontier, and you're safe</li> <li>Wer. My noble boy ' 201</li> <li>Ulr. Hush ! hush ! no transports: we'll indulge in them</li> <li>In Castle Siegendorf ' Display no gold:</li> <li>Show Idenstein the gem (I know the man, And have look'd through him). it will answer thus</li> <li>A double purpose. Stralenheim lost gold —</li> </ul>	Are in thy words ! Thou know me? in this guise Thou canst not know me. I am not myself; Yet (hate me not) I will be soon. Ulr. I'll wat! In the mean time be sure that all a son Can do for parents shall be done for mine. Wer I see it, and I feel it; yet I feel Further — that you despise me Ulr. Wherefore should I? Wer. Must I repeat my humiliation? Ulr. No ! I have fathom'd it and you. But let us talk Of this no more. Or if it must be ever, 240 Not now Your error has redoubled all The present difficulties of our house, At secret war with that of Stralenheim.

All we have now to think of 1s to baffle	Enter Idenstein
HIM. I have shown one way.	Master Idenstein,
Wer. The only one,	How fare you in your purpose ? Have you
And I embrace it, as I did my son	caught
Who show'd himself and father's safety in One day.	The rogue? Iden. No. faith !
Ulr. You shall be safe: let that suffice.	Iden. No, faith ! Ulr. Well, there are plenty more: 280
Would Stralenheim's appearance in Bo-	You may have better luck another chase.
hemia	Where is the baron?
Disturb your right, or mine, if once we	Iden. Gone back to his chamber:
Were 250	And now I think on 't, asking after you
Admitted to our lands? Wer Assuredly.	With nobly-born impatience.
Wer Assuredly, Situate as we are now, although the first	Ulr. Your great men Must be answer'd on the instant, as the Possessor might, as usual, prove the strong-	bound
est,	Of the stung steed replies unto the spur:
Especially the next in blood	'T is well they have horses, too; for if they
Ulr. Blood ' 't is	had not,
A word of many meanings, in the vens,	I fear that men must draw their chariots, as
And out of them, it is a different thing — And so it should be, when the same in blood	They say kings did Sesostris. Iden. Who was he?
(As it is call'd) are aliens to each other,	Ulr. An old Bohemian — an imperial
Like Theban brethren: when a part is bad,	g1psy. 290
A few spilt ounces purify the rest. 260	Iden. A gipsy or Bohemman, 't is the same,
Wer. I do not apprehend you.	For they pass by both names And was he
Ulr. That may be —	one?
And should, perhaps — and yet — but get ye ready;	Ulr. 1 've heard so; but I must take leave. Intendant,
You and my mother must away to-night	Your servant! — Werner (to WERNER
Here comes the intendant: sound him with	slightly), if that be your name,
the gem;	Yours [E cit ULRIC
'T will sink into his venal soul like lead	Iden. A well-spoken, pretty-faced young
Into the deep, and bring up slime and mud,	man!
And ooze too, from the bottom, as the lead doth	And prettily behaved ! He knows his sta- tion,
With its greased understratum; but no	You see, sir how he gave to each his due less	Precedence !
Will serve to warn our vessels through	Wer I perceived it, and applaud
these shoals	His just discernment and your own
The freight is rich, so heave the line in time ! 270	Iden. That 's well — That 's very well You also know your Farewell ! I scarce have time, but yet your	place, too; 300 hand,	And yet I don't know that I know your
My father !—	place
Wer. Let me embrace thee !	Wer (showing the ring). Would this assist
Ulr. We may be	your knowledge ? Iden How!What!Eh!
Observed subdue your nature to the hour ! Keep off from me as from your foe !	A jewel! $1000 - 0000000000000000000000000000000$
Wer. Accursed	Wen 'T is your own on one condition.
Be he who is the stifling cause which smoth-	Iden. Mine ! - Name it !
ers	Wer That hereafter you permit me
The best and sweetest feeling of our hearts;	At thrice its value to redeem it: 't is
At such an hour too !	A family ring Iden A family '- yours ! - a gem '
Ulr. Yes, curse — it will ease you ! Here is the intendant.	I 'm breathless !
ward of other treastered the Wer. Wer. You must also furnish me You may yet know me by a loftier title An hour ere daybreak with all means to quit This place. Iden. But is it real? Let me look on it: spirit Diamond, by all that's glorious ' Come, I'll trust you: 310 garb -Wer. You have guess'd, no doubt, that I was born above free My present seeming. Iden. I can't say I did, Though this looks like it: this is the true jewel !) breeding Of gentle blood ! means Wer. I have important reasons For wishing to continue privily I have a foster-brother in the mart My journey hence Iden. So then you are the man Whom Stralenheim's in quest of? How many I am not; Wer. But being taken for him might conduct will wing thee. So much embarrassment to me just now, And to the baron's self hereafter --- 't is 320 SCENE II To spare both that I would avoid all bustle. STRALENHEIM'S Chamber. Iden. Be you the man or no, 't is not my STRALENHEIM and FRITZ. busmess; Fritz. All 's ready, my good lord ! Besides, I never should obtain the half From this proud, niggardly noble, who would Stral. And yet I must to bed; I fain would say raise The country for some missing bits of coin, To rest, but something heavy on my spirit, And never offer a precise reward slumber, But this ' — another look ! Sits on me as a cloud along the sky, Wer Gaze on it freely; At day-dawn it is yours Iden Oh, thou sweet sparkler ! nor yet Descend in rain and end, but spreads itself Thou more than stone of the philosopher ! Twixt earth and heaven, like envy between Thou touchstone of Philosophy herself ! 330 Thou bright eye of the Mine ! thou loadman star of The soul ' the true magnetic Pole to which Unto my pillow. All hearts point duly north, like trembling Fritz. needles! Thou flaming Spirit of the Earth ! which, Fritz. sitting High on the monarch's diadem, attractest fear more, More worship than the majesty who sweats Beneath the crown which makes his head ache, like Millions of hearts which bleed to lend it night's lustre! Adventure makes it needful. Shalt thou be mine ? I am, methinks, al-Fritz. ready A little king, a lucky alchymist ! 340 A wise magician, who has bound the devil Saxon Without the forfest of his soul. But come, ' Ulric.' Werner, or what else?

- Call me Werner still:
- Iden. I do believe in thee ! thou art the
- Of whom I long have dream'd in a low
- But come, I'll serve thee ; thou shalt be as
- As air, despite the waters ; let us hence :
- I'll show thee I am honest (oh, thou
- Thou shalt be furnish'd, Werner, with such

Of flight, that if thou wert a snail, not birds

Should overtake thee. - Let me gaze again !

Of Hamburgh skill'd in precious stones

Carats may it weigh ? -- Come, Werner, I Excunt.

I am not sleepy.

- Too dull for wakefulness, too quick for
- 360
- Which will not let the sunbeams through,

And man, an everlasting mist; - I will

May you rest there well ! Stral. I feel, and fear I shall

And wherefore fear? Stral I know not why, and therefore do

Because an undescribable — but 't is

- All folly Were the locks (as I desired)
- Changed, to-day, of this chamber? for last 370

Certainly,

According to your order, and beneath

The inspection of myself and the young

Who saved your life. I think they call him

Stral. You think ! you supercisious slave! A distant lamp-light is an incident what right Have you to tax your memory, which should me he Quick, proud, and happy to retain the name Heaven and me Of him who saved your master, as a litany Whose daily repetition marks your duty. Were it the star of Lucifer himself, Get hence ! 'You think' ! indeed ! you Or he himself girt with its beams, I could who stood still 380 Howling and drupping on the bank, whilst I right! it draws Lay dying, and the stranger dash'd aside The roaring torrent, and restored me to Thank him — and despise you ' You think' ! and scarce it leads Can recollect his name ! I will not waste More words on you Call me betimes Fritz. Good night ! I trust to-morrow will restore your lordship To renovated strength and temper. dagger, [The scene closes still SCENE III The secret Passage. fatuus ! Four -Gab. (solus).

Five — six hours have I counted, like the guard

Of outposts on the never-merry clock: 390 That hollow tongue of time, which, even when

It sounds for joy, takes something from enjoyment

With every clang. 'T is a perpetual knell,

Though for a marriage-feast it rings : each stroke

Peals for a hope the less; the funeral note

Of Love deep-buried without resurrection In the grave of Possession; while the knoll

Of long-lived parents finds a jovial echo

To triple Time in the son's ear.

I'm cold —

410

I'm dark; I've blown my fingers --- number'd o'er

And o'er my steps — and knock'd my head against

Some fifty buttresses — and roused the rats

And bats in general insurrection, till

Their cursed pattering feet and whirling wings

Leave me scarce hearing for another sound. A light! It is at distance (if I can Measure in darkness distance); but it blinks

As through a crevice or a key-hole in

The inhibited direction. I must on,

Nevertheless, from curiosity.

In such a den as this. Pray Heaven it lead

To nothing that may tempt me! Else -

To obtain or to escape it ! Shining still !

Contain no longer. Softly ! mighty well ! That corner's turn'd — so — ah ! no ! —

Nearer, Here is a darksome angle - so,

That's weather'd. Let me pause. Suppose

Into some greater danger than that which I have escaped — no matter, 't is a new one; And novel perils, like fresh mistresses,

Wear more magnetic aspects: I will on,

And be it where it may - I have my

- Which may protect me at a pinch. Burn
- Thou little light! Thou art my ignis

My stationary Will-o'-the-wisp! So! so! He hears my invocation, and fails not.

[The scene closes.

SCENE IV

A Garden.

Enter WERNER

Wer. I could not sleep - and now the hour's at hand;

All's ready. Idenstein has kept his word; And station'd in the outskirts of the town, Upon the forest's edge, the vehicle

Awaits us. Now the dwindling stars begin To pale in heaven; and for the last time I Look on these horrible walls. Oh, never, never Shall I forget them ! Here I came most poor,

But not dishonour'd: and I leave them with

A stain, — if not upon my name, yet m

My heart ! - a never-dying canker-worm 440

Which all the coming splendour of the lands,

And rights, and sovereignty of Siegendorf Can scarcely lull a moment. I must find

- Some means of restitution, which would ease
- My soul in part; but how without dis covery ? ---

It must be done, however; and I'll pause Upon the method the first hour of safety The madness of my misery led to thus Base mfamy; repentance must retrieve it. I will have nought of Stralenheim's upon 450 My spirit, though he would grasp all of mine,	May heaven be shut forever from my hopes As from mine eyes ! Ulr. But Stralenheim is dead. Wer. 'T is horrible ! 't is hideous, as 't is hateful ! But what have I to do with this ? Ulr. No bolt 480
Lands, freedom, life, — and yet he sleeps as soundly,	Is forced; no violence can be detected, Save on his body Part of his own house-
Perhaps, as infancy, with gorgeous curtains Spread for his canopy, o'er silken pillows, Such as when — Hark ! what noise is that ? Again ! The branches shake, and some loose stones have fallen	hold Have been alarm'd; but as the intendant is Absent, I took upon myself the care Of mustering the police. His chamber has, Past doubt, been enter'd secretly Excuse me,
From yonder terrace	If nature —
[ULRIC leaps down from the terrace Ulric ! ever welcome ! Thrice welcome now ! this filial —	Wer. Oh, my boy ' what unknown woes Of dark fatality, like clouds, are gathering Above our house !
Ulr. Stop! Before	Ulr. My father ! I acquit you !
We approach, tell me -	But will the world do so? will even the
Wer. Why look you so?	judge, 490
Ulr. Do I	If — But you must away this instant.
Behold my father, or — Wer. What?	Wer No! I'll face it. Who shall dare suspect me?
Ulr. An assassin ? 460	Ulr Yet
Wer. Insane or insolent !	You had no guests - no visitors - no life
Ulr. Reply, sir, as	Breathing around you, save my mother's?
You prize your life, or mine !	Wer Ah!
Wer To what must I	The Hungarian!
Answer?	Ulr. He is gone ! he disappear'd
Ulr. Are you or are you not the assassm Of Stralenheim ?	Ere sunset Wer No; I hid him in that very
Wer. I never was as yet	Conceal'd and fatal gallery.
The murderer of any man. What mean	Ulr. There I'll find him.
you?	[ULRIC 18 going
Ulr. Did not you this night (as the night	Wer. It is too late he had left the pal-
before) Retrace the secret passage? Did you not	ace ere I quitted it I found the secret panel
Again revisit Stralenheim's chamber?	Open, and the doors which lead from that and — [ULRIC pauses	hall 500
Wer. Proceed.	Which masks it I but thought he had
Ulr. Died he not by your hand?	snatch'd the silent
Wer. Great God !	And favourable moment to escape
Ulr. You are innocent, then ! my father's innocent ! 470	The myrmidons of Idenstein, who were Dogging him yester-even.
Embrace me ! Yes, — your tone — your	Ulr You reclosed
look — yes, yes, —	The panel?
Yet say so.	Wer. Yes; and not without reproach
Wcr. If I e'er, in heart or mind,	(And inner trembling for the avoided peril)
Conceived deliberately such a thought,	At his dull heedlessness, in leaving thus
But rather strove to trample back to hell	His shelterer's asylum to the risk
Such thoughts — if e'er they glared a mo- ment through	Of a discovery Ulr. You are sure you closed it?
The irritation of my oppressed spirit —	Wer Certain
J FF

n
<ul> <li>Ulr. That's well; but had been better, if You ne'er had turn'd it to a den for — [He pases</li> <li>Wer. Theves ! 511</li> <li>Thou wouldst say: I must bear it and deserve it;</li> <li>But not — Ulr. No, father; do not speak of this:</li> <li>This is no hour to thmk of petty ernnes,</li> <li>But to prevent the consequence of great ones.</li> <li>Why would you shelter this man? Wer. Could I shun it?</li> <li>A man pursued by my chief foe; dusgraced</li> <li>For my own crime; a victim to my safety,</li> <li>Imploring a few hours' concealment from</li> <li>The very wretch who was the cause he needed size</li> <li>Such refuge. Had he been a wolf I could not</li> <li>Have in such circumstances thrust him forth.</li> <li>Ulr. And like the wolf he hath repaid you. But</li> <li>It is too late to ponder thus: — you must</li> <li>Set out ere dawn. I will remain here to</li> <li>Trace the murderer, if 't is possible.</li> <li>Wer. But this my sudden flight will give the Moloch</li> <li>Suspicion two new victums in the lieu</li> <li>Of one, if I remain. The fled Hungarian,</li> <li>Who seems the culprit, and — Ulr. And do you doubt of him,</li> <li>The fugitive?</li> <li>Wer. Boy ! since I fell into</li> <li>The fugitive?</li> <li>Wer. Boy ! since I fell into</li> <li>The fugitive?</li> <li>Wer. Boy ! since I fell into</li> <li>The fugitive?</li> <li>Wer. Mot J, though not of such crime), I,</li> <li>Having seen the innocent oppress'd for me,</li> <li>May doubt even of the guilty's guilt. Your heart</li> <li>Is free, and quick with virtuous wrath to accuse</li> <li>Appearances; and views a criminal In Innocence's shadow, it may be,</li> <li>Because 't is dusky.</li> <li>Ulr. And if I do so, 540</li> </ul>	Is all he 'll have, or wants If I discover The assassin, 't will be well — if not, believe me, None else, though all the full-fed train of
Because 't is dusky.	The assassin, 't will be well — if not, believe me,
	None else, though all the full-fed train of menials
But to oppress? You must not stand the hazard.	May howl above his ashes (as they did Around him in his danger on the Oder),

The old count loved not Will no more stir a finger now than then. Hen. Hence ! hence ! I must not hear your an-The roar of revel: are you sure that this does? swer - Look ! 580 The stars are almost faded, and the grey Eric As yet he hath been courteous as Begins to grizzle the black hair of night. he's bounteous, And we all love him. You shall not answer — Pardon me that I Am peremptory; 't is your son that speaks, Hen.His reign is as yet Hardly a year o'erpast its honeymoon, Your long-lost, late-found son. - Let's call And the first year of sovereigns is bridal: my mother ! Anon, we shall perceive his real sway Softly and swiftly step, and leave the rest To me. I'll answer for the event as far And moods of mind As regards you, and that is the chief point, Eric Pray Heaven he keep the pre-As my first duty which shall be observed. sent! Then his brave son, Count Ulric - there's We'll meet in Castle Siegendorf - once a knight ! more Pity the wars are o'er ! Our banners shall be glorious! Think of Hen. Why so ? thatEric. Alone, and leave all other thoughts to me. Look on him ! And answer that yourself. Whose youth may better battle with them. -Hence! HenHe's very youthful, And strong and beautiful as a young tiger. And may your age be happy !- I will kiss My mother once more, then Heaven's speed Eric. That's not a faithful vassal's likebe with you ! ness. Hen. But. Wer. This counsel's safe - but is it honourable? Perhaps a true one Ulr. To save a father is a child's chief Erc.Pity, as I said, The wars are over: in the hall, who like honour. Exeunt Count Ulric for a well-supported pride, Which awes, but yet offends not? in the ACT IV field. Who like him with his spear in hand, when, SCENE I gnashmg His tusks and ripping up from right to left A Gothic Hall in the Castle of Siegendorf, near Prague The howling hounds, the boar makes for Enter ERIC and HENRICK, Retainers of the Count the thicket? Errc. So better times are come at last: to Who backs a horse, or bears a hawk, or these wears Old walls new masters and high wassail, A sword hke him? Whose plume nods both knighther? A long desideratum. Hen. No one's, I grant you. Do not Hen. Yes, for masters, fear, if war It might be unto those who long for novelty, Be long in coming, he is of that kind Though made by a new grave: but as for Will make it for himself, if he hath not wassail. Already done as much. Methinks the old Count Siegendorf main-What do you mean? Enc.tain'd Hen. You can't deny his train of followers His feudal hospitality as high As e'er another prince of the empire. (But few our native fellow vassals born 40 Eric. Why, On the domain) are such a sort of knaves As — (Pauses.) For the mere cup and trencher, we no doubt Eric. Fared passing well; but as for merriment What? Hen. And sport, without which salt and sauces The war (you season love so much) leaves living. The cheer but scantily, our sizings were Like other parents, she spoils her worst Even of the narrowest. children.

Eric. Nonsense! they are all brave iron-	Eric. The dogs are order'd
visaged fellows,	Down to the forest, and the vassals out
Such as old Tilly loved	To beat the bushes, and the day looks pro-
Hen. And who loved Tilly?	mising Shall I call forth your orgallongy's suite?
Ask that at Magdebourg or for that	Shall I call forth your excellency's suite?
matter	What courser will you please to mount?
Wallenstein either; - they are gone to -	Ulr. The dun,
Eric. Rest;	Walstein
But what beyond 't is not ours to pronounce.	Eric. I fear he scarcely has recover'd 80
Hen. I wish they had left us something	The toils of Monday: 't was a noble chase:
	You spear'd four with your own hand.
of their rest:	The True good Frie:
The country (nominally now at peace) 50	Ulr True, good Eric;
Is over-run with — God knows who: they fly	I had forgotten — let it be the grey, then,
By night, and disappear with sunrise; but	Old Ziska: he has not been out this fort-
Leave us no less desolation, nay, even more,	night
Than the most open warfare.	Eric. He shall be straight caparison'd.
Eric. But Count Ulric -	How many
What has all this to do with him?	Of your immediate retainers shall
Hen. With him !	Escort you?
He — might prevent it. As you say he's	Ulr. I leave that to Weilburg, our fond	Master of the horse. [Exit Ente
Of war, why makes he it not on those ma-	Rodolph !
rauders ?	Rod My lord !
Eric. You'd better ask himself.	Ulr. The news
Hen. I would as soon	Is awkward from the (RODOLPH points to HENRICK )
Ask the lion why he laps not milk	How now, Henrick? why
Eric. And here he comes!	Tester man home?
Hen. The devil!	Lotter you here?
you'll hold your tongue? 60	Hen For your commands, my lord 90
Eric. Why do you turn so pale?	Ulr. Go to my father, and present my
Hen. 'T is nothing - but	duty,
Be silent.	And learn if he would aught with me before
Eric I will, upon what you have said.	I mount [East HENRICE
How I occurre you I meant nothing - a	Rodolph, our friends have had a check
Hen I assure you I meant nothing, — a	Upon the frontiers of Franconia, and mere sport	'T is rumour d that the column sent against
Of words, no more ; besides, had it been otherwise,	them
He is to espouse the gentle Baroness,	Is to be strengthen'd. I must join them
Ida of Stralenheim, the late baron's heiress:	soon
And she, no doubt, will soften whatsoever	Rod Best wait for further and more sure
Of fierceness the late long intestine wars	advices.
Have given all natures, and most unto those	Ulr. I mean it — and mdeed it could not
Whe man have in them and bred up	well
Who were born in them, and bred up	Have fallen out at a time more opposite upon ⁷⁰
The knees of Homicide; sprinkled, as it	To all my plans. Rod. It will be difficult 100 were,	Rod. It will be difficult 100
With blood even at their baptism. Prithee,	To excuse your absence to the count your peace	father.
On all that I have said !	Ulr Yes, but the unsettled state of our domain
Enter ULRIC and RODOLPH	In high Silesia will permit and cover
Good morrow, count.	are
Ulr. Good morrow, worthy Henrick.	Engaged in the chase, draw off the eighty Eric, is
All ready for the chase?	men ,
-

Whom Wolffe leads - keep the forests on Your father to send up to Konigsberg For this fair orphan of the baron, and your route: To hail her as his daughter You know it well? As well as on that night UlrWondrous kind ! 140 Rod. When we -Especially as little kindness till We will not speak of that until Then grew between them Ulr. We can repeat the same with like suc-RodThe late baron died Of a fever, did he not? cess. And when you have join'd, give Rosenberg Ulr.How should I know ? Rod I have heard it wissper'd there was this letter [Gives a letter Add further, that I have sent this slight something strange addition About his death — and even the place of it τιι To our force with you and Wolffe, as her-Is scarcely known ald of Ulr. Some obscure village on The Saxon or Silesian frontier My commg, though I could but spare them ıll RodHe At this time, as my father loves to keep Has left no testament - no fare well words? Full numbers of retainers round the cas-Ulr I am neither confessor nor notary, So cannot say tle, Until this marriage and its feasts and fool-Rod Ah! here's the lady Ida. 150 eries Enter IDA STRALENHEIM Are rung out with its peal of nuptial non-Ulr You are early, my sweet cousin ! sense. Rod. I thought you loved the lady Ida? Ida Not too early. Why, Dear Ulric, if I do not interrupt you Ulr. I do so — but it follows not from that Why do you call me 'cousin'? I would bind in my youth and glorious Ulr. (smiling) Are we not so? Ida. Yes, but I do not like the name; years, methinks So brief and burning, with a lady's zone, Although 't were that of Venus; - but I It sounds so cold, as if you thought upon Our pedigree, and only weigh'd our blood. love her, As woman should be loved, fairly and solely. Ulr. (starting). Blood ! 1da. Why does yours Rod. And constantly? start from your cheeks? Ulr. I think so; for I love Ay! doth it? Nought else - But I have not the time to Ulr.Ida It doth - but no! it rushes like a pause Upon these gewgaws of the heart torrent Great Even to your brow again things Ulr (recovering himself). And if it Hed, We have to do ere long Speed ! speed ! good Rodolph ! It only was because your presence sent Rod On my return, however, I shall find it 160 The Baroness Ida lost in Countess Siegen-Back to my heart, which beats for you, dorf ? sweet cousm ! Ida. 'Cousin' again. Ulr. Perhaps; my father wishes it, and Nay, then I'll call you sister. Ulrsooth 130 'T is no bad policy this union with Ida I like that name still worse.-The last bud of the rival branch at once Would we had ne'er Unites the future and destroys the past Been aught of kindred ! Rod. Adieu Ulr (gloomily). Would we never had ! Ulr. Yet hold - we had better keep to-Ida Oh heavens ! and can you wish that? gether UlrDearest Ida ! Until the chase begins; then draw thou off, Did I not echo your own wish ? And do as I have said. Ida. Yes, Ulric, But then I wish'd it not with such a glance,  $R_{\mathcal{M}}$ I will Rut to Return — 't was a most kind act in the count And scarce knew what I said; but let me be

Sister, or cousin, what you will, so that I still to you am something Ulr. You shall be 170 All — all — Ida. And you to me are so already; But I can wait! Ulr. Dear Ida ! Ida. Call me Ida, Your Ida, for I would be yours, none else's — Indeed I have none else left, since my poor father — [She pauses. Ulr. You have mine — you have me Ida. Dear Ulric, how I wish My father could but view my happiness, Which wants but this ! Ulr. Indeed ! Ida. You would have loved him, He you; for the brave ever love each other. His manner was a little cold, his spirit Proud (as is birth's prerogative); but under This grave exterior — Would you had known each other !	Ulr.Why do you ask ?Ida.Because you look as if you saw a murderer!Ulr. (agitatedly).Ida, this is mere child- ishness; your weakness200Infects me, to my shame: but as all feel- ingsOf yours are common to me, it affects me.Prithee, sweet child, change — IdaIdaChild, indeed ! I haveFull fifteen summers.[A bugle sounds Rod.Rod.Hark, my lord, the bugle !Ida (peevishly to RODOLPH)Why need you tell him that ? Can he not hear itWithout your echo ? RodPardon me, fair baroness !Ida.I will not pardon you, unless you earn itBy aiding me in my dissuasion of Count Ulric from the chase to-day. Rod.You will not,Lady, need aid of mine. UlrI must not now 210Forego it.I da. Ida.Ida.Shall !Ulr.Shall !Ulr.You yield to meIn this, for this one day · the day looks heavy,And you are turn'd so pale and ill. UlrTruly,My lord, within this quarter of an hour You have changeTruly,My lord, within this quarter of an hour You have change200In years Ulr. 'T is nothing; but if 't were, the ain Would soon restore me. not hand live but on the atmosphere ; your feasts220In castle halls, and social banquets, nurse not220My spirit ; I 'm a forester and breather Of the steep mountain-tops, where I love all The eagle loves.220
Ulr. All dreams are false. Ida. And yet I see him as I see you. Ulr. Where? Ida. In sleep — I see him he	not My spirit ; I 'm a forester and breather Of the steep mountam-tops, where I love all
Pale, bleeding, and a man with a raised knife Beside him. Ulr. But you do not see his face? Ida (looking at him). No ! Oh, my God ! do you?	Ulr Sweet Ida, wish me a fair chase,

Ida. And will you not stay, then? You	Ida. And so shall not go !	You yield at once to him what I for hours
Come! I will sing to you.	Might supplicate in vain
Ulr. Ida, you scarcely	Sieg. (smiling). You are not jealous
Will make a soldier's wife.	Of me, I trust, my pretty rebel, who 260
Ida. I do not wish 229	Would sanction disobedience against all
To be so; for I trust these wars are over,	Except thyself? But fear not; thou shalt rule him
And you will live in peace on your domains.
Enter Werner as Count Siegendorf	Hereafter with a fonder sway and firmer.
	Ida But I should like to govern now.
Ulr. My father, I salute you, and it	Sieg. You shall;
grieves me	Your harp, which by the way awaits you
With such brief greeting. You have heard	with our bugle;	The countess in her chamber. — She com-
The vassals wait.	plains
Sieg. So let them. — You forget	That you are a sad truant to your music:
To-morrow is the appointed festival	She attends you.
In Prague for peace restored. You are apt	Ida. Then good morrow, my kind kins-
to follow	men
The chase with such an ardour as will	Ulric, you'll come and hear me?
scarce	Ulr. By and by.
Permit you to return to-day, or if	Ida. Be sure I'll sound it better than
Return'd, too much fatigued to join to-	your bugles; 270
morrow	Then pray you be as punctual to its notes:
The nobles in our marshall'd ranks.	I'll play you King Gustavus' march.
Ulr. You, count, 240	Ulr. And why not
Will well supply the place of both $-1$ am	Old Tilly's?
not	Ida. Not that monster's! I should think
A lover of these pageantries.	My harp-strings rang with groans, and not
Sieg. No, Ulric :	with music,
It were not well that you alone of all	Could aught of his sound on it. — but come
Our young nobility	quickly;
Ida And far the noblest	Your mother will be eager to receive you.
In aspect and demeanour.	[Ext IDA.
Sieg. (to IDA). True, dear child,	Sieg. Ulric, I wish to speak with you
Though somewhat frankly said for a fair	alone.
damsel. —	Ulr My time's your vassal. —
But, Ulric, recollect too our position,	(Aside to RODOLPH) Rodolph, hence ! and
So lately reinstated in our honours.	do
Believe me. 't would be mark'd in any house,	As I directed: and by his best speed
But most in ours , that ONE should be found	And readiest means let Rosenberg reply. 280
wanting 250	Rod Count Siegendorf, command you
At such a time and place. Besides, the	aught? I am bound
Heaven	Upon a journey past the frontier.
Which gave us back our own, in the same	Sieg. (starts). Ab!-
moment	Where? on what frontier?
It spread its peace o'er all, hath double	Rod The Silesian, on claims	My way — (Aside to ULRIC) Where shall
On us for thanks giving: first, for our country;	I say?
And next, that we are here to share its	Ulr. (aside to RODOLPH). To Ham-blessings	burgh.
Ulr. (aside). Devout, too ! Well, sir, I	(Aside to himself.) That obey at once. (Then aloud to a Servant)	Word will, I think, put a firm padlock on
Ludwig, dismiss the train without !	His further inquisition.
[Exit Loowig.
Laure Lobald.	, Loss. County to Maniburgh

Sieg. (agutated). Hamburgh! No, I have nought to do there, nor Am aught connected with that city. Then God speed you ! Rod. Fare ye well, Count Siegendorf ! [Ezut Roportr Sieg. Ulric, this man, who has just de- parted, is 200 One of those strange companions whom I fain Would reason with you on. Ulr My lord, he is Noble by birth, of one of the first houses In Saxony. Sieg I talk not of his birth, But of his bearing. Men speak lightly of him. Ulr. So they will do of most men. Even the monarch Is not fenced from his chamberlain's slan- der, or The sneer of the last courtier whom he has made Great and ungrateful. Sieg. If I must be plain, The world speaks more than lightly of this Rodolph : 300 They say he is leagued with the 'black bands' who still Ravage the frontier. Ulr. And will you believe The world ? Sieg. In this case — yes. Ulr. In any case, I thought you knew it better than to take An accusation for a sentence. Sieg. Son ! I understand you ; you refer to — but My Destiny has so involved about me Her spider web, that I can only flutter Like the poor fly, but break it not. Take heed, Ulric ; you have seen to what the passions led me · 310 Twenty long years of misery and famine Quench'd them not — twenty thousand more perchance, Hereafter (or even here in moments which Might date for years, did Anguish make the dial), May not obliterate or expiate The madness and dishonour of an instant. Ulric, be warn'd by a father ! — I was not By mine, and you behold me !	The prosperous and belovèd Siegendorf, Lord of a prime's appanage, and hon- our'd 320 By those he rules and those he ranks with. Sieg. Ah 1 Why wilt thou call me prosperous, while I fear For thee? Belovèd, when thou lovest me not' All hearts but one may beat in kindness for me — But if my son is cold !— UIr. Who dare say that? Sieg. None else but I, who see it — feel it — keener Than would your adversary, who dared say so, Your sabre in his heart! But mine sur- vives The wound UIr. You err. My nature is not given To outward fondling. how should it be so After twelve years' divorcement from my parents? 331 Sieg. And did not I too pass those twelve torn years In a like absence? But 't is vain to urge you— Nature was never call'd back by remon- strance. Let 's change the theme. I wish you to con- sider That these young violent nobles of high name, But dark deeds (ay, the darkest, if all Ru- mour Reports be true), with whom thou consort est, Will lead thee — Ulr. (impatiently). I 'll be led by no man. Sieg. Nor 339 Be leader of such, I would hope. At once To wean thee from the perils of thy youth And haughty spirit, I have thought it well That thou shouldst wed the lady Ida — more As thou appear'st to love her Ulr. I have said I will obey your orders, were they to Unite with Hecate; can a son say more ? Sieg. He says too much in saying this It is not The nature of thine age, nor of thy blood, Nor of thy temperament, to talk so coolly, Or act so carelessly, in that which is 350
Ulric, be warn'd by a father ! - I was not	Nor of thy temperament, to talk so coolly,

(For Glory's pillow is but restless if Love lay not down his cheek there): some strong bias, Some master fiend is in thy service to Misrule the mortal who believes him slave, And makes his every thought subservient; else Thou 'dst say at once - 'I love young Ida, and Will wed her:' or, 'I love her not, and all The powers of earth shall never make me.' - So Would I have answer'd. Sir, you wed for love. 360 Ulr. Sieg. I did, and it has been my only refuge In many miseries. Ulr.Which miseries Had never been but for this love-match. Sieg. Still Against your age and nature! Who at twenty E'er answer'd thus till now ? Ulr Did you not warn me Against your own example? Sieg. Boyish sophist ! In a word, do you love, or love not, Ida? Ulr. What matters it, if I am ready to Obey you in espousing her? Sieg. As far As you feel, nothing, but all life for her She's young - all beautiful - adores you — is 371 Endow'd with qualities to give happiness, Such as rounds common life into a dream Of something which your poets cannot paint, And (if it were not wisdom to love virtue) For which Philosophy might barter Wisdom; And giving so much happiness, deserve A little in return I would not have her Break her heart for a man who has none to break: Or wither on her stalk like some pale rose Deserted by the bird she thought a nightingale, According to the Orient tale. She is -Ulr. The daughter of dead Stralenheim, your foe: 1'll wed her, ne'ertheless: though, to say truth. Just now I am not violently transported In favour of such unions. Sieg. But she loves you.

Ulr. And I love her, and therefore would think twice. Sieg. Alas! Love never did so Then 't is time Ulr.He should begin, and take the bandage from His eyes, and look before he leaps: till now He hath ta'en a jump i' the dark. But you consent? 391 Sieg. Ulr. I did, and do. Sieg. Then fix the day. Ulr. 'T is usual. And certes courteous, to leave that to the lady. Sieg. I will engage for her. So will not 1 Ulr. For any woman; and as what I fix, I fain would see unshaken, when she gives Her answer, I'll give mine. But 't is your office Sieg To woo. Ulr. Count, 't is a marriage of your making, So be it of your wooing; but to please you I will now pay my duty to my mother, 400 With whom, you know, the lady Ida is. What would you have? You have forbid my stirring For manly sports beyond the castle walls, And I obey; you bid me turn a chamberer, To pick up gloves, and fans, and knittingneedles. And list to songs and tunes, and watch for smiles, And smile at pretty prattle, and look into The eyes of feminine, as though they were The stars receding early to our wish 409 Upon the dawn of a world-winning battle — What can a son or man do more ? Exit ULRIC. Sieg. (solus). Too much ! Too much of duty, and too little love ! He pays me in the coin he owes me not: For such hath been my wayward fate, I could not Fulfil a parent's duties by his side Till now; but love he owes me, for my thoughts Ne'er left him, nor my eyes long'd without tears To see my child again, and now I have found him ! But how ! - obedient, but with coldness; duteous

In my sight, but with carelessness; mysterious. 426

- Abstracted, distant, much given to long absence.
- And where none know in league with the most riotous
- Of our young nobles; though, to do him justice,
- He never stoops down to their vulgar pleasures;
- Yet there's some tie between them which I cannot Unravel. They look up to him, consult him,

Throng round him as a leader: but with me

He hath no confidence ! Ah ! can I hope it After - what ! doth my father's curse de-

- scend Even to my child? Or is the Hungarian near
- To shed more blood? or Oh! if it should be !
- Spirit of Stralenheim, dost thou walk these walls
- To wither him and his, who, though they slew not,
- Unlatch'd the door of death for thee? 'T was not

Our fault, nor is our sin: thou wert our foe.

And yet I spared thee when my own destruction Slept with thee, to awake with thine awakening ! And only took - Accursed gold ! thou liest

- Like poison in my hands; I dare not use thee,
- Nor part from thee; thou camest in such a guise,
- Methinks thou wouldst contaminate all hands
- Like mine. Yet I have done, to atone for thee.

Thou villainous gold, and thy dead master's doom,

Though he died not by me or mine, as much As if he were my brother ! I have ta'en His orphan Ida — cherish'd her as one Who will be mine.

Enter an ATTENDANT.

Atten. The abbot, if it please Your excellency, whom you sent for, waits Upon you. Exit ATTENDANT

Enter the PRIOR ALBERT

Peace be with these walls, and Prior. all

Within them !

Welcome, welcome, holy father ! Sieg And may thy prayer be heard ! All men have need 451 Of such, and I-

Prior. Have the first claim to all The prayers of our community. Our convent, Erected by your ancestors, is still Protected by their children.

- Sieq. Yes, good father; Continue daily orisons for us
- In these dim days of heresies and blood,
- Though the schismatic Swede, Gustavus, is Gone home.
  - To the endless home of unbe-Prior. lievers.

Where there is everlasting wail and woe, ...60 Gnashing of teeth, and tears of blood, and fire

Eternal, and the worm which dieth not !

- Sieg True, father: and to avert those pangs from one,
- Who, though of our most faultless holy church.
- Yet died without its last and dearest offices Which smooth the soul through purgatorial pains,
- I have to offer humbly this donation In masses for his spirit.

Prior

Prior

[SIEGENDORF offers the gold which he had taken from STRALENHEIM

Count, if I

Receive it, 't is because I know too well Refusal would offend you Be assured 47c

The largess shall be only dealt in alms,

And every mass no less sung for the dead. Our house needs no donations, thanks to yours,

Which has of old endow'd it; but from you And yours in all meet things 't is fit we obey. For whom shall mass be said?

- Sieg. (faltering). For for the dead. Prior His name? Sieg. 'T is from a soul, and not a name,
- I would avert perdition.

I meant not

To pry into your secret. We will pray

- For one unknown, the same as for the proudest
  - Sieg Secret ! I have none : but, father, he who's gone
- Might have one; or, in short, he did bequeath -

No, not bequeath — but I bestow this s For pious purposes.

A proper deed Sieg. No! by the God who sees and Prior. In the behalf of our departed friends. strikes! Prior. Steq But he who's gone was not my Nor know you Who slew him ? friend, but foe, Sieg. I could only guess at one, The deadlest and the stanchest. Better still ! And he to me a stranger, unconnected, Prior. To employ our means to obtain heaven for As unemploy'd. Except by one day's knowthe souls ledge, Of our dead enemies is worthy those I never saw the man who was suspected. Prior. Then you are free from guilt. Sieg (eagerly) Oh, am I? — say! Who can forgive them living. But I did not 490 Sieq Forgive this man. I loathed him to the Prior. You have said so, and know best. Father! I have spoken 520 last. Sieq. As he did me. I do not love him now. The truth, and nought but truth, if not the But whole: Prior Best of all! for this is pure re-Yet say I am not guilty ! for the blood ligion ! Of this man weighs on me, as if I shed it, Though, by the Power who abhorreth hu-You fain would rescue him you hate from hell man blood, An evangelical compassion - with I did not !- nav, once spared it, when I Your own gold too! might Sieg Father, 't is not my gold. Prior Whose then? You said it was no And could — ay, perhaps, should (if our self-safety Be e'er excusable in such defences legacy Sieg No matter whose - of this be sure, Against the attacks of over-potent foes). that he But pray for him, for me, and all my Who own'd it never more will need it, save house: For. as I said, though I be innocent, In that which it may purchase from your 530 I know not why, a like remorse is on me, altars 500 'T is yours, or theirs. As if he had fallen by me or mine Pray Is there no blood upon it? Prior. for me, Sieg. No; but there 's worse than blood Father ! I have pray'd myself in vain. - eternal shame ! Prior. I will. Prior. Did he who own'd it die in his Be comforted ! You are innocent, and bed ? should Siea. Alas! Be calm as unocence. But calmness is not He did. Sieg. Prior Son ! you relapse into revenge, Always the attribute of innocence. I feel it is not If you regret your enemy's bloodless death. Prior. But it will be so, Sieg. His death was fathomlessly deep in blood. When the mind gathers up its truth within Prior You said he died in his bed, not it. battle Remember the great festival to-morrow, Sieg. He In which you rank amidst our chiefest no-Died, I scarce know - but - he was stabb'd bles. i' the dark. As well as your brave son; and smooth And now you have it - perish'd on his pilyour aspect; Nor in the general orison of thanks low By a cut-throat! Ay !- you may look For bloodshed stopt, let blood you shed not upon me ! rise I am not the man.I'll meet your eye on A cloud upon your thoughts. This were to be that point, As I can one day God's. Too sensitive. Take comfort, and forget Nor did he die Such things, and leave remorse unto the Prior. By means, or men, or instrument of yours? Exeunt. guilty.

ACT V

SCENE I

- A large and magnificent Gothic Hall in the Castle of Siegendorf, decorated with Trophies, Banners, and Arms of that Family
- Enter ARNHEIM and MEISTER, attendants of Count SIEGENDORF
  - Arn. Be quick ! the count will soon return: the ladies

Already are at the portal. Have you sent

- The messengers in search of him he seeks for?
  - Mers. I have, in all directions, over Prague,

As far as the man's dress and figure could

- By your description track him The devil
- take These revels and processions! All the
- pleasure
- (If such there be) must fall to the spectators.
- I'm sure none doth to us who make the show
  - Arn. Go to! my lady countess comes
- I'd rather 10 Mers Ride a day's hunting on an outworn jade,

Than follow in the train of a great man

- In these dull pageantries.
- Begone ! and rail Arn. Withm. [Exeunt
- Enter the Countess Josephine Siegendorf and IDA STRALENHEIM
- Jos. Well, Heaven be praised, the show is over !
- Ida How can you say so! never have I dreamt
- Of aught so beautiful. The flowers, the boughs,
- The banners, and the nobles, and the knights.
- The gems, the robes, the plumes, the happy faces,
- The coursers, and the incense, and the sun
- Streaming through the stain'd windows, even the tombs
- Which look'd so calm, and the celestial hymns.
- Which seem'd as if they rather came from heaven
- Than mounted there, the bursting organ's peal
- Rolling on high like an harmonious thunder.
- The white robes and the lifted eyes, the world

At peace ! and all at peace with one another ! Oh, my sweet mother ! [Embracing JOSEPHINE My beloved child ! Jos.

- For such, I trust, thou shalt be shortly. Oh ! Ida.
- I am so already. Feel how my heart beats ! Jos. It does, my love; and never may it throb 20
- With aught more bitter.
- Ida. Never shall it do so ! How should it? What should make us grieve ? I hate

To hear of sorrow: how can we be sad,

- Who love each other so entirely? You,
- The count, and Ulric, and your daughter Ida.
  - Jos. Poor child !
  - Ida. Do you pity me?
- Jos. No; I but envy. And that in sorrow, not in the world's sense Of the universal vice, if one vice be
- More general than another.
- I'll not hear Ida. A word against a world which still contains 40
- You and my Ulric. Did you ever see
- Aught like him? How he tower'd amongst them all !
- How all eyes follow'd him ! The flowers fell faster -
- Rain'd from each lattice at his feet, methought -
- Than before all the rest; and where he trod I dare be sworn that they grow still, nor e'er
- Will wither

Jos.

- You will spoil him, little flatterer. Jos If he should hear you.
- But he never will. Ida. I dare not say so much to him - I fear him.

Jos. Why so? he loves you well.

- But I can never 50 Ida Shape my thoughts of him into words to him
- Besides, he sometimes frightens me
  - How so? Ida. A cloud comes o'er his blue eyes
  - suddenly.
- Yet he says nothing. Jos
- It is nothing · all men, Especially in these dark troublous times, Have much to think of.
- Ida. But I ca ot think Of aught save him.

	and the second se
Jos. Yet there are other men,	Ulr. Whom ? Where ?
In the world's eye, as goodly. There's, for	Sieg. The Hungarian, instance,	who slew Stralenheim.
The young Count Waldorf, who scarce once	Ulr. You dream.
withdrew	Sug. I live ! and as I live, I saw him —
His eyes from yours to-day.	Heard him! he dared to utter even my name.
I did not see him, 60	Ulr What name?
But Ulric. Did you not see at the moment	Sug. Werner ! 't was mine.
When all knelt, and I wept? and yet me-	Ulr It must be so thought,	No more: forget it.
Through my fast tears, though they were	Sueg. Never ! never ! all thick and warm,	My destinies were woven in that name: 90
I saw him smiling on me.	It will not be engraved upon my tomb,
Jos I could not	But it may lead me there.
See aught save heaven, to which my eyes	Ulr. To the point—the Hungarian?
were raised	Sieg Listen!—The church was throng'd;
Together with the people's.	the hymn was raised;
Ida. I thought too	Te Deum ' peal'd from nations, rather than
Of heaven, although I look'd on Ulric.	From choirs, in one great cry of 'God be
Jos. Come, Let us retire; they will be here anon	From choirs, in one great cry of "God be praised' For one day's peace, after thrice ten dread
Expectant of the banquet. We will lay	years,
Aside these nodding plumes and dragging	Each bloodier than the former. I arose, trains. 70	With all the nobles, and as I look'd down
Ida And, above all, these stiff and heavy	Along the lines of lifted faces, from jewels	Our banner'd and escutcheon'd gallery, I
Which make my head and heart ache, as	Saw, like a flash of lightning (for I saw 101
both throb	A moment and no more), what struck me
Beneath their glitter o'er my brow and zone.	sightless To all else — the Hungarian's face! I grew
Dear mother, I am with you. Enter COUNT STEERNDORF, in full dress, from the solemnity, and LUDWIG	Sick; and when I recover'd from the mist Which curl'd about my senses, and again
Sieg. Is he not found ?	Look'd down, I saw him not. The thanks- giving Was over, and we march'd back in proces-
Lud. Strict search is making everywhere; and if The man be in Prague, be sure he will be	sion. Ulr. Continue found.	Sieg When we reach'd the
Sieg. Where 's Ulric ?	Muldau's bridge,
Lud. He rode round the other way With some young nobles; but he left them	The joyous crowd above, the numberless Barks mann'd with revellers in their best garbs,
soon;	Which shot along the glancing tide below,
And, if I err not, not a minute since	The decorated street, the long array,
I heard his excellency, with his train, 80	The clashing music, and the thundering
Gallop o'er the west drawbridge.	Of far artillery which seem'd to bid
Enter ULEIC, splendidly dressed.	A long and loud farewell to its great do-
Sieg (to LUDWIG). See they cease not	ings,
Their quest of him I have described. [Ext LUDWIG	The standards o'er me, and the tramplings round,
Oh, Ulric!	The roar of rushing thousands, — all — all
How have I long'd for thee!	could not
Ulr. Your wish is granted —	Chase this man from my mind, although
Behold me !	my senses
Sug. I have seen the murderer.	No longer held him palpable.

Ulr. You saw him	Sieg. (haughtily). The same you knew,
No more, then ?	sir, by that name; and you / 150
Sieg. I look'd, as a dying soldier 120	Gab. (looking round). I recognize you
Looks at a draught of water, for this man :	both : father and son,
But still I saw him not; but in his stead	It seems Count, I have heard that you,
Ulr. What in his stead?	or yours,
Sieg. My eye for ever fell	Have lately been in search of me : I am
Upon your dancing crest; the loftiest,	here
As on the loftiest and the loveliest head	Sieg. I have sought you, and have found
It rose the highest of the stream of plumes	you : you are charged
Which overflow'd the glittering streets of	(Your own heart may inform you why) with such
Prague.	A crime as — [He pauses
Ulr. What's this to the Hungarian?	Gab. Give it utterance, and then
Sieg. Much; for I	I'll meet the consequences.
Had almost then forgot him in my son;
When just as the artillery ceased, and paused 130	Unless —
The music, and the crowd embraced in lieu	Gab. First, who accuses me?
Of shouting, I heard in a deep, low voice,	Sieg. All things,
Distinct and keener far upon my ear	If not all men : the universal rumour,
Than the late cannon's volume, this word —	My own presence on the spot, the place, the
'Werner ''	time, 16a
Ulr. Utter'd by	And every speck of circumstance unite
Sieg. HIM! I turn'd — and saw — and fell	To fix the blot on you.
Ulr. And wherefore? Were you seen?	Gab And on me only ²
Sieg. The officious care	Pause ere you answer is no other name,
Of those around me dragg'd me from the	Save mine, stain'd in this business?
spot,	Sieg. Triffing villain
Seeing my faintness, ignorant of the cause;	Who play'st with thine own guilt! Of all
You, too, were too remote in the procession	that breathe
(The old nobles being divided from their	Thou best dost know the unnocence of him children) 140	'Gainst whom thy breath would blow thy
To aid me.	bloody slander.
Ulr. But I'll aid you now.	But I will talk no further with a wretch,
Sieg. In what?	Further than justice asks. Answer at once,
Ulr. In searching for this man, or -	And without quibbling, to my charge.
When he 's found	Gab. 'T is false ! 170
What shall we do with him?	Sieg Who says so?
Sieg. I know not that.	Gab. I.
Ulr. Then wherefore seek ?	Sieg. And how disprove it?
Sieg. Because I cannot rest	Gab. By
Till he is found. His fate, and Stralen-	The presence of the murderer.
heim's,	Sieg. Name him !
And ours, seem intertwisted ! nor can be	Gab. He Unravell'd till—	May have more names than one. Your lordship had so
Enter an ATTENDANT.	Once on a time.
Atten. A stranger to wait on	Sieg. If you mean me, I dare
Your excellency.	Your utmost.
Sieg Who?	Gab. You may do so, and in safety ;
Atten. He gave no name	I know the assassin.
Sieg Admit him, ne'ertheless	Sieg. Where is he?
The ATTENDANT infroduces GABOR, and afterwards	Gab. (pointing to ULRIC) Beside you !
exit Ah!	[ULRIC rushes forward to attack GABOR, SIEGENDORF
Gab. 'T is, then, Werner !	unterposes

Sieg Liar and fiend ! but you shall not	Gab. I am unarm'd, count ; bid your son be slain; These walls are mine, and you are safe within them. [He turns to ULERO.]	lay down His sabre. Ulr. (offers it to him contemptuously).
Within them. [He turns to ULEIO.] Ulric, repel this calumny, as I	Take it.
Will do I avow it is a growth so mon-	Gab. No, sir, 't is enough strous, 180	That we are both unarm'd; I would not
I could not deem it earth-born but be calm;	choose
It will refute itself. But touch him not. [ULRIC endeavours to compose himself.	To wear a steel which may be stain'd with more
Gab. Look at $him$ , count, and then hear me.	Blood than came there in battle.
Sieg. (first to GABOR, and then looking at	Ulr. (casts the sabre from him in contempt).
ULRIC) I hear thee.	It — or some
My God ! you look — Ulr. How?	Such other weapon in my hands — spared
Sug. As on that dread night	yours Once when disarm'd and at my mercy.
When we met in the garden.	Gab. True
Ulr. (composes himself). It is nothing.	I have not forgotten it: you spared me for
Gab. Count, you are bound to hear me.	Your own especial purpose, to sustain
I came hither Not seeking you, but sought. When I	An ignominy not my own Ulr. Proceed
Not seeking you, but sought. When I knelt down	The tale is doubtless worthy the relater.
Amidst the people in the church, I dream'd	But is it of my father to hear further?
not	[To Siegendorf
To find the beggar'd Werner in the seat Of senators and princes; but you have call'd	Sieg. (takes his son by the hand). My son, me, 190	1 know my own innocence, and doubt not
And we have met.	Of yours, but I have promised this man
Sieg. Go on, sir.	patience; 220
Gab. Ere I do so,	Let him continue. Gab. I will not detain you
Allow me to inquire who profited By Stralenheim's death? Was't I—as	By speaking of myself much: I began poor as ever;	Life early, and am what the world has
And poorer by suspicion on my name	made me.
The baron lost in that last outrage neither	At Frankfort on the Oder, where I pass'd
Jewels nor gold; his life alone was sought, A life which stood between the claims of	A winter in obscurity, it was My chance at several places of resort others	(Which I frequented sometimes, but not To honours and estates scarce less than	often) princely.	To hear related a strange circumstance In February last. A martial force,
Sieg These hints, as vague as vain, at- tach no less	Sent by the state, had, after strong resist-
To me than to my son.	ance, 230
Gab. I can't help that. 200	Secured a band of desperate men, sup-
But let the consequence alight on him Who feels himself the guilty one amongst us.	posed Marauders from the hostile camp. They
I speak to you, Count Siegendorf, because	proved,
I know you innocent, and deem you just.	However, not to be so, but banditti,
But ere I can proceed — dare you protect me?	Whom either accident or enterprise
Dare you command me?	Had carried from their usual haunt — the forests
[SIEGENDORF first lools at the Hungarian, and then at ULRIC, who has unbuckled his sabre, and is drawing lines with it on the floor —still in its sheath	Which skirt Bohemia — even into Lusatia.
lines with it on the floor — still in its sheath	Many amongst them were reported of
Ulr. (looks at his father and says)	High rank; and martial law slept for a
Let the man go on !	l time.

At last they were escorted o'er the frontiers.

And placed beneath the civil jurisdiction 240 wrong. Of the free town of Frankfort. Of their Sieg. And may not be right now. I follow'd him, fate Gab. Solicited his notice, and obtain'd it, I know no more. Though not his friendship It was his in-Sieg. And what is this to Ulrue? Gab. Amongst them there was said to be tention To leave the city privately: we left it one man Of wonderful endowments: birth and for-Together, and together we arrived In the poor town where Werner was contune. Youth, strength, and beauty, almost superceal'd. And Stralenheim was succour'd - Now we human, And courage as unrivall'd, were proclaim'd are on The verge — dare you hear further ? His by the public rumour; and his sway, Not only over his associates, but I must do so-Siea. Or I have heard too much. His judges, was attributed to witchcraft, Such was his influence. I have no great Gab. A man above his station; and if not faith 250 So high, as now I find you, in my then In any magic save that of the mine; Conceptions, 't was that I had rarely seen I therefore deem'd him wealthy. But my Men such as you appear'd in height of mind soul In the most high of worldly rank; you Was roused with various feelings to seek were out Poor, even to all save rags: I would have This prodigy, if only to behold him. shared Sieg. And did you so? My purse, though slender, with you - you Gab. You'll hear. Chance favour'd me: refused it. Sieg. Doth my refusal make a debt to A popular affray in the public square Drew crowds together. It was one of you, That thus you urge it? those Still you owe me something, Occasions where men's souls look out of Gab. Though not for that; and I owed you my them, And show them as they are - even in their safety, At least my seeming safety, when the faces: The moment my eye met his, I exclaim'd, slaves Of Stralenheim pursued me on the grounds 'This is the man!' though he was then, That I had robb'd him. as since. 261 I conceal'd you - I, With the nobles of the city I felt sure Sieg. Whom and whose house you arraign, reviv-I had not err'd, and watch'd him long and ing viper ! nearly: Gab. I accuse no man, save in my de-I noted down his form, his gesture, features, fence. Stature, and bearing; and amidst them all, You, count, have made yourself accuser -Midst every natural and acquired distincjudge: tion. Your hall's my court, your heart is my tri-I could discern, methought, the assassin's bunal. Be just and I'll be merciful ! And gladiator's heart. The tale sounds well. Šiea. Ulr. (smiling). You ! Base calumniator ! Gab. And may sound better. - He ap-I. 'T will rest Gab. pear'd to me With me at last to be so. You conceal'd me One of those beings to whom Fortune bends In secret passages known to yourself, As she doth to the daring, and on whom 271 The fates of others oft depend; besides, You said, and to none else. At dead of An indescribable sensation drew me night,

280

300

You merciful !

I saw in you

Near to this man, as if my point of fortune Was to be fix'd by him. - There I was

Weary with watching in the dark, and dubious	When I first charged him with the crime - so lately.
Of tracing back my way, I saw a glimmer, Through distant crannies, of a twinkling	Sieg. This is so — Gab (interrupting him). Nay, but hear light.	me to the end !
I follow'd it, and reach'd a door — a secret	Now you must do so. I conceived myself
Portal — which open'd to the chamber,	Betray'd by you and him (for now I saw where, 311	There was some tie between you) into this
With cautious hand and slow, having first	Pretended den of refuge, to become
	The matim of your guilt, and not first undone	The victim of your guilt; and my first
As much as made a crevice of the fastening,	thought
I look'd through and beheld a purple bed,	Was vengeance. But though arm'd with a
And on it Stralenheim ! —	short poniard
Sieg. Asleep! And yet	(Having left my sword without), I was no
You slew him ! Wretch !	match
	For him at any time, as had been proved
And bleeding like a sacrifice. My own	That morning — either in address or force.
Blood became ice.	I turn'd, and fied — 1' the dark: chance
Sieg But he was all alone !	rather than 351
You saw none else? You did not see the	Skill made me gain the secret door of the
[He pauses fiom agriation	hall,
Gab. No,	And thence the chamber where you slept.
He , whom you dare not name, nor even $I_{320}$
Scarce dare to recollect, was not then in	Had found you waking, Heaven alone can
The chamber	tell
Sieg. (to ULRIC). Then, my boy! thou	What vengeance and suspicion might have art guiltless still:	prompted;
Thou bad'st me say I was so once - Oh!	But ne'er slept guilt as Werner slept that
•
now	night.
Do thou as much !	Sieg. And yet I had horrid dreams! and
Gab. Be patient ! I can not	such brief sleep,
Recede now, though it shake the very walls	The stars had not gone down when I awoke.
Which frown above us. You remember,	Why didst thou spare me? I dreamt of my
— or	father —
If not, your son does, - that the locks were	And now my dream is out !
changed	Gab 'T is not my fault, 360
Beneath his chief inspection on the morn	If I have read it. Well! I fled and hid me.
Which led to this same night: how he had	Chance led me here after so many moons,
enter'd	And show'd me Werner in Count Siegen-
He best knows; but within an antechamber,	dorf!
The door of which was half ajar, I saw 331	Werner, whom I had sought in huts in vain,
A man who wash'd his bloody hands, and	Inhabited the palace of a sovereign !
oft
	You sought me and have found me - now
With stern and anxious glance gazed back	you know upon	My secret, and may weigh its worth.
The bleeding body — but it moved no more.	Sieg. (after a pause). Indeed!
Sieg. Oh! God of fathers!	Gab. Is it revenge or justice which m-
Gab. I beheld his features	spires
As I see yours; but yours they were not,	Your meditation ?
though Becambling them habeld them in Count	Sieg. Neither I was weighing
Resembling them - behold them in Count	The value of your secret.
Ulric's '	Gab. You shall know it 370
Distinct as I beheld them, though the ex-	At once: — when you were poor, and L,
pression	though poor,
Is not now what it then was; but it was so	Rich enough to relieve such poverty

<ul> <li>As might have envied mine, I offer'd you My purse—you would not share it: I'll be franker</li> <li>With you, you are wealthy, noble, trusted by</li> <li>The imperial powers — you understand me? Sieg. Yes. Gab. Not quite You think me venal, and scarce true:</li> <li>'T is no less true, however, that my for- tunes</li> <li>Have made me both at present. You shall aid me;</li> <li>I would have aided you, and also have 380 Been somewhat damaged in my name to save</li> <li>Yours and your son's. Weigh well what I have said.</li> </ul>	Ulr. His tale is true. Sieg. True, monster ! Ulr Most true, father ! And you did well to listen to it: what We know, we can provide against. He must Be sulenced. Sieg. Ay, with half of my domains; And with the other half, could he and thou Unsay this villany. Ulr. It is no time For trifling or dissembling. I have said His story's true; and he too must be silenced. Sieg. How so? Ulr. As Stralenheim is. Are you so dull As never to have hit on this before? 410 When we met in the garden, what except <ul> <li>Sieg. Dare you await the event of a few minutes'</li> <li>Deliberation ?</li> <li>Gab. (casts his eyes on ULRIC, who is leaning against a pillar). If I should do so?</li> <li>Sieg. I pledge my life for yours. Withdraw into</li> <li>This tower. [Opens a turret door Gab. (hesitatingly). This is the second safe asylum</li> <li>You have offer'd me.</li> <li>Sieg. And was not the first so? Gab. I know not that even now — but will approve</li> <li>The second. I have still a further shield: Idid not enter Praguealone; and should I 390 Be put to rest with Stralenheim, there are Some tongues without will wag in my behalf.</li> <li>Be brief m your decision 'Sieg. I will be so.</li> <li>My word is sacred and irrevocable</li> <li>Within these walls, but it extends no further. Gab. I 'Il take it for so much. Sieg. (points to Ulric's salve still upon the ground). Take also that — I saw you eye it eagerly, and him Distrustfully.</li> <li>Gab (takes up the sabre) 1 will; and so provide</li> <li>To sell my life — not cheaply.</li> <li>[GABOR goes into the turiet, which STEGENDORF closes Steg. (advances to ULRIC). Now, Count Ulric !</li> <li>For son I dare not call thee — What say'st thou ? 400</li> </ul>

Ashes are feeble foes : it is more easy No more to learn or hide : I know no fear. To baffle such, than countermine a mole And have within these very walls men who Which winds its blind but living path be-(Although you know them not) dare venneath you ture all things. Yet hear me still ! - if you condemn me, You stand high with the state; what passes here vet Will not excite her too great curiosity: Remember who hath taught me once too often Keep your own secret, keep a steady eye, Who proclaim'd to me To listen to him ! Stir not, and speak not; - leave the rest to That there were crimes made venial by the me. occasion? We must have no third babblers thrust be-That passion was our nature? that the tween us. Ext ULRIC goods Sieg. (solus) Am I awake? are these Of Heaven waited on the goods of formy father's halls? tune? And you - my son? My son! mine ' who M'ho show'd me his humanity secured have ever 480 Abhorr'd both mystery and blood, and yet By his nerves only? Who deprived me of Am plunged into the deepest hell of both ! All power to vindicate myself and race In open day, by his disgrace which stamp'd I must be speedy, or more will be shed -(It might be) bastardy on me, and on Himself — a felon's brand? The man who The Hungarian's ! - Ulric - he hath partisans, 18 It seems : I might have guess'd as much. At once both warm and weak invites to Oh fool! Wolves prowl in company. He hath the deeds He longs to do, but dare not. Is it strange kev That I should act what you could think? (As I too) of the opposite door which leads We have done Into the turret Now then ! or once more With right and wrong; and now must only To be the father of fresh crimes, no less ponder Than of the criminal! Ho! Gabor! Ga-Upon effects, not causes Stralenheim, bor! 400 Whose life I saved from impulse, as, un-[Exit into the turret, closing the door after hum. known, SCENE II I would have saved a peasant's or a dog's, I slew The Interior of the Turret Known as our foe - but not from ven-GABOR and SIEGENDORF. geance. He Was a rock in our way which I cut through, Gab Who calls? As doth the bolt, because it stood between Sieg. I - Siegendorf! Take these, and fly ! ns And our true destination — but not idly. Lose not a moment! As stranger I preserved him, and he owed [Tears off a dramond star and other jewels, and thrusts them into GABOR'S hand me What am I to do His life : when due, I but resumed the debt. GahWith these ? He, you, and I stood o'er a gulf wherein I have plunged our enemy. You kindled Whate'er you will: sell them, Sieg. or hoard, first And prosper; but delay not, or you are The torch, you show'd the path; now trace me that lost! Gab. You pledged your honour for my Of safety, or let me ! I have done with life! safety ! Sieq. Ulr. Let us have done with that which Sieg And Must thus redeem it. Fly ! I am not mascankers life. Familiar feuds and vain recriminations ter. Of things which cannot be undone. We It seems, of my own castle - of my own have Retainers — nay, even of these very walls, 470

Oh, great God ! 550 Ida. And I have loved this man!

LIDA falls senseless, JOSEPHINE stands speechless with hoiror

Sieq. The wretch hath slam Them both !- My Josephme ! we are now alone!

Would we had ever been so ! - All is over For me! Now open wide, my sire, thy grave;

Thy curse hath dug it deeper for thy son In mine ! The race of Siegendorf is past.

THE DEFORMED TRANSFORMED

A DRAMA

ADVERTISEMENT

This production is founded partly on the story of a novel called The Three Brothers, published many years ago, from which M G Lewis's Wood Demon was also taken — and partly on the Faust of the great Goethe The present publication contains the two first Parts only, and the opening chorus of the third The rest may, perhaps, appear hereafter.

DRAMATIS PERSONÆ

STRANGER,	afterward CESAR
ARNOLD	PHILIBERT
BOURBON	CELLINI.

BESTHA OLIMPIA Spirits, Soldiers, Citizens of Rome, Pricsts, Peasants, etc

PART I

SCENE I

A Forest

Enter ARNOLD and his mother BERTHA

Bert. OUT, hunchback !

- Arn. I was born so, mother ! Bert. Out,
- Thou incubus ! Thou nightmare ! Of seven sons,

The sole abortion !

- Would that I had been so, Arn. And never seen the light!
- Bert. I would so too! But as thou hast - hence, hence - and do thy best !

- That back of thine may bear its burthen . 't 15 More high, if not so broad as that of others.
- Arn It bears its burthen; but my heart! Will it

Sustain that which you lay upon it, mother? I love, or, at the least, I loved you: nothing

Save you, in nature, can love aught like me. You nursed me - do not kill me !

- Yes I nursed thee. Bert. Because thou wert my first-born, and I knew not
- If there would be another unlike thee,
- That monstrous sport of nature. But get hence,

And gather wood !

I will: but when I bring it, Arn. Speak to me kindly. Though my brothers are

So beautiful and lusty, and as free

As the free chase they follow, do not spurn me

Our milk has been the same.

Bert. As is the hedgehog's 20 Which sucks at midnight from the wholesome dam

Of the young bull, until the milkmaid finds The nipple next day sore and udder dry.

Call not thy brothers brethren! Call ma not

Mother; for if I brought thee forth, it was As foolish hens at times hatch vipers, by

- Sitting upon strange eggs Out, urchin, out ! [Exu BERTHA
  - Arn (solus). Oh, mother ! She is gone, and I must do

Her bidding; wearily but willingly I would fulfil it, could I only hope

A kind word in return. What shall I do?

[ARNOLD begins to cut wood in doing this he wounds one of his hands

My labour for the day is over now

Accursed be this blood that flows so fast;

For double curses will be my meed now

- At home What home? I have no home, no kin,
- No kind not made line other creatures, or To share their sports or pleasures. Must I bleed too
- Like them ? Oh that each drop which falls to earth
- Would rise a snake to sting them, as they have stung me !
- Or that the devil, to whom they liken me, 40

Would aid his likeness! If I must partake Of the near fountain my sole elegy. His form, why not his power? Is it be-Now, knife, stand firmly, as I fain would cause fall ! I have not his will too? For one kind word [As he rushes to throw himself upon the knife, his eye is suddenly caught by the jountain, which seems in mo-From her who bore me would still recontion cile me The fountain moves without a wind: but Even to this hateful aspect. Let me wash shall The wound. The rupple of a spring change my resolve? No. Yet it moves again ' The waters stir. [ABNOLD goes to a spring, and stoops to wash his hand. he starts back Not as with air, but by some subterrane They are right; and Nature's And rocking power of the internal world. 8c mirror shows me What's here? A mist! No more?-What she hath made me. I will not look [A cloud comes from the fountann He stands gazing upon it, it is dispelled, and a tail black man comes towards him on it Again, and scarce dare think on 't. Hideous wretch Arn. What would you? Speak! • That I am ! The very waters mock me Spirit or man? with Stran. As man is both, why not Say both in one? My horrid shadow — like a demon placed 50 Deep in the fountain to scare back the cattle Your form is man's, and yet Arn. You may be devil From drinking therein. [He pauses And shall I live on, Stran. So many men are that A burden to the earth, myself, and shame Which is so call'd or thought, that you may Unto what brought me into life? Thou add me To which you please, without much wrong blood Which flowest so freely from a scratch, let to either. But come: you wish to kill yourself; me pursue Try if thou wilt not in a fuller stream Pour forth my woes forever with thyself Your purpose. On earth, to which I will restore at once You have interrupted me Arn. Stran. What is that resolution which can This hateful compound of her atoms, and Resolve back to her elements, and take 60 e'er The shape of any reptile save myself, Be interrupted ? If I be the devil 00 And make a world for myriads of new You deem, a single moment would have worms! made you This knife ! now let me prove if it will sever Mine, and for ever, by your suicide ; This wither'd slip of nature's nightshade ----And yet my coming saves you. Arn. I said not mv You were the demon, but that your approach Vile form — from the creation, as it hath The green bough from the forest Was like one. Stran. Unless you keep company [ARNOLD places the knife in the ground, with the point unwards With him (and you seem scarce used to Now 't is set, such high And I can fall upon it. Yet one glance Society) you can't tell how he approaches; And for his aspect, look upon the fountain, On the fair day, which sees no foul thing And then on me, and judge which of us lıke Myself, and the sweet sun which warm'd twain me, but Looks likest what the boors believe to be 100 The birds - how joyously they Their cloven-footed terror. In vam. sing! Arn Do you — dare you So let them, for I would not be lamented. To taunt me with my born deformity? But let their mernest notes be Arnold's Stran. Were I to taunt a buffalo with knell. this Cloven foot of thine, or the swift drome-The fallen leaves my monument, the murdarv mnr

<ul> <li>With thy sublime of humps, the animals Would revel m the compliment. And yet Both beings are more swift, more strong, more mighty</li> <li>In action and endurance than thyself, and all the farce and far of the same kind with thee. Thy form is natural: 't was only on the grifts which are of others upon man. Are, Give me the strength then of the buffle's foot, Mature's mistaken largests to bestow The grifts which are of others upon man. Are, Give me the strength then of the buffle's foot, Stran. The reliablest dromedary !</li></ul>
And all the ferce and farr of the same kind With thee. Thy form is natural: 't was onlypauseWath thee. Thy form is natural: 't was onlyTo wear the form of heroes. Arn. With which are of others upon man. Arn. Give me the strength then of the buffalo's foot,No; I will not.Mature's mistaken largess to bestow The grifts which are of others upon man. Arn. Give me the strength then of the buffalo's foot,No; I will not.Men be spurns high the dust, beholding his Near enemy, or let me have the long And patent swiftness of the desert-ship, The helmless dromedary ! and I 'll bear fran. I will.Stran. To is an aspiring one, whate'er the tenementArn. The is malodged. But name your compact:Worth naming so, would dwell in such a earcass'?Arra. Thoi mockest me Stran. Perhaps. Would you aight else? Arn. Tho mockest me Stran. Not I. Why should I mock is to talk to thee in human language (for Thou canst not yet speak mine), the fores- tre ro wolf, or link, leave once a year Their walls, to fill their household caldrons withNot in woil withe stranger approaches the fountain and turns to these, Arn. The meanest gibe at thee,I take thee at thy word Stran. To mingle with the magic of the waters, Arn. What wilt thou do for me? Stran. Arn. What wilt thou do for me? Stran. The nue spours in the depth of this fountain, Arn won too seasily recall'd to do Good service.Change Arn. The waster hot it all stran von two so easily recall'd to do Good service. Arn. The our eyes may behold The model in ar Or the torm I will mould, Bright as the linisSurgat lese would wittingly wear mine. StranI'll show thee the brightest which the word e's the prisen	Would revel in the compliment. And yet Both beings are more swift, more strong, more mighty	Stran. There's a question ! An hour ago you would have given your soul 140
<ul> <li>The grifs which are of others upon man. Arn. Give me the strength then of the bufalo's foot,</li> <li>When he spurns high the dust, beholding his</li> <li>Near enemy, or let me have the loong</li> <li>And pathent swiftness of the desert-ship,</li> <li>The fieldsh sarcasm with a saintly patience.</li> <li>Stran. I will.</li> <li>Arn. Thu mockest me</li> <li>Stran. Not I. Why should I mock no</li> <li>What all are mocking? That's poor sport,</li> <li>methinks.</li> <li>To talk to the in human language (for</li> <li>Thou canst not yet speak mune), the forester</li> <li>Hunts not the wretched coney, but the boar,</li> <li>To petty burghers, who leave once a year</li> <li>Their walls, to fill their household caldrons with</li> <li>Such scullion prey. The meanest gibe at thee, —</li> <li>Now I can mock the mightest.</li> <li>Arn. Then waste not</li> <li>Thy france i feek thee not</li> <li>Mran. Wost with thou do for me?</li> <li>Stran. What wilt thou do for me?</li> <li>Stran. Mot now. A few drops will suffice for thus</li> <li>Stran. Shadows of power !</li> <li>Rise to your duty —</li> <li>The stran state not in ar</li> <li>The brightest which the world e're bore, and give thee</li> </ul>	And all the fierce and fair of the same kind With thee. Thy form is natural: 't was only	pause To wear the form of heroes. Arn. No; I will not.
<ul> <li>Near enemy, or let me have the long And patient swiftness of the desert-ship, The helmless dromedary ! - and I 'll bear</li> <li>Thy fiendish sarcasm with a saintly pa- tience.</li> <li>Stran. I will.</li> <li>Arn. (with surprise) Thou canst ?</li> <li>Stran. Thou mockest me Stran. Not I. Why should J mock tao What all are mocking ? That's poor sport, methinks.</li> <li>To talk to the en human language (for Thou canst not yet speak mune), the fores- ter</li> <li>Hunts not the wretched coney, but the boar, Or wolf, or lion, leaving paltry game To petty burghers, who leave once a year Their walls, to fill ther household caldrons with</li> <li>Such scullion prey. The meanest gibe at thee, -</li> <li>Now I can mock the mightnest.</li> <li>Arn. Mot new the inghtnest.</li> <li>Arn. Thou mock the mightnest.</li> <li>Arn. What wilt thou do for me?</li> <li>Stran. I what wilt thou do for me?</li> <li>Stran. I then you are indeed the de- mon, for</li> <li>Nougi t else would wittingly wear mine.</li> <li>Stran I'll show thee</li> <li>The brightest which the world e'er bore, and give thee</li> </ul>	The gifts which are of others upon man. Arn. Give me the strength then of the buffalo's foot,	Stran What soul, Worth naming so, would dwell in such a carcass '
<ul> <li>tience.</li> <li>Stran. I will.</li> <li>Arn. (with surpr.se) Thou canst?</li> <li>Arn. (with surpr.se) Thou canst?</li> <li>Stran. Not I. Why should you aught else?</li> <li>Arn. Thou mockest me</li> <li>Stran. Not I. Why should I mock 120</li> <li>What all are mocking? That's poor sport, methinks.</li> <li>To talk to the munan language (for Thou canst not yet speak mue), the forester</li> <li>Hunts not the wretched coney, but the boar, for voil, or lion, leaving paltry game</li> <li>To petty burghers, who leave once a year Their walls, to fill their household caldrons with</li> <li>Such scullion prey. The meanest gibe at thee, —</li> <li>Now I can mock the mightest.</li> <li>Arn. Then waste not Thy time on me : I seek thee not Mtran. Your thoughts 130</li> <li>Are not far from me. Do not send me back :</li> <li>I am not so easily recall'd to do Good service.</li> <li>Arn. What wilt thou do for me? Stran. I '11 show thee The brightest which the world e're bore, and give thee</li> <li>Stran I'll show thee</li> <li>Stran I'll show thee</li> <li>Stran I'll show thee</li> </ul>	Near enemy, or let me have the long And patient swiftness of the desert-ship, The helmless dromedary ! — and I 'll bear	tenement In which it is mislodged. But name your compact :
<ul> <li>Stran. Perhaps. Would you aught else? Arn. Thou mockest me</li> <li>Stran. Not I. Why should I mock 1200</li> <li>What all are mocking? That's poor sport, methinks.</li> <li>To talk to the m human language (for Thou canst not yet speak mme), the forester</li> <li>Hunts not the wretched coney, but the boar, Or wolf, or lion, leaving paltry game</li> <li>To petty burghers, who leaving paltry game</li> <li>Their walls, to fill their household caldrons with</li> <li>Such scullion prey. The meanest gibe at the e, —</li> <li>Now I can mock the mightiest.</li> <li>Arn. Thou make the entightest.</li> <li>Arn. The waste not far from me. Do not send me back:</li> <li>I am not so easily recall'd to do</li> <li>Good service.</li> <li>Arn. What wilt thou do for me?</li> <li>Stran. The you are indeed the demon, for</li> <li>Nought else would wittingly wear mine. Stran I 'll show thee</li> <li>The brightest which the world e'er bore, and give thee</li> </ul>	tience. Stran. I will.	Stran. Not in your own. Arn. Whose blood then?
<ul> <li>What all are mocking? That's poor sport, methinks.</li> <li>To talk to the in human language (for Thou canst not yet speak mine), the forester</li> <li>Hunts not the wretched coney, but the boar, Or wolf, or lion, leaving paltry game</li> <li>Hunts not the wretched coney, but the boar, Or wolf, or lion, leaving paltry game</li> <li>To petty burghers, who leave once a year Their walls, to fill their household caldrons with</li> <li>Such scullion prey. The meanest gibe at thee, -</li> <li>Now I can mock the mightest.</li> <li>Arn.</li> <li>Arn.</li> <li>Arn. Then waste not Thy time on me : I seek thee not stran.</li> <li>Are not far froin me. Do not send me back :</li> <li>I am not so easily recall'd to do Good service.</li> <li>Arn.</li> <li>Mand, ard custs it unto the fountain</li> <li>Stran.</li> <li>Or form you to your wish in any shape Arn. Oh ! then you are indeed the demon, for</li> <li>Nought else would wittingly wear mine. Stran I 'll show thee</li> <li>The brightest which the world e'er bore, and give thee</li> </ul>	Stran. Perhaps. Would you aught else? Arn. Thou mockest me Stran. Not I. Why should I mock 120	But I'll be moderate with you, for I see Great things within you You shall have ter Hunts not the wretched coney, but the boar, Or wolf, or lion, leaving paltry game To petty burghers, who leave once a year Their walls, to fill their household caldrons with Such scullion prey. The meanest gibe at thee, - Now I can mock the mightiest. Arn. Then waste not Thy time on me : I seek thee not Mran. Your thoughts 130 Are not far from me. Do not send me back : I am not so easily recall'd to do Good service. Arn. What wilt thou do for me? Stran. Change Shapes with you, if you will, since yours so irks you ; Or form you to your wish in any shape Arn Oh ! then you are indeed the de- mon, for Nought else would wittingly wear mine. Stran I 'll show thee The brightest which the world e'er bore, and give thee	What all are mocking? That's poor sport, methinks. To talk to thee in human language (for	deeds Are you content?
<ul> <li>Their walls, to fill their household caldrons with</li> <li>Such scullion prey. The meanest gibe at thee, —</li> <li>Now I can mock the mightest.</li> <li>Arn. Then waste not</li> <li>Thy time on me : I seek thee not stran. Your thoughts 130</li> <li>Are not far from me. Do not send me back :</li> <li>I am not so easily recall'd to do Good service.</li> <li>Arn. What wilt thou do for me? Stran. Change</li> <li>Shapes with vou, if you will, since yours so irks you ;</li> <li>Or form you to your wish in any shape Arn Oh ! then you are indeed the demon, for</li> <li>Nought else would wittingly wear mine. Stran I 'll show thee</li> <li>The brightest which the world e'er bore, and give thee</li> </ul>	ter Hunts not the wretched coney, but the boar, Or wolf, or lion, leaving paltry game	Stran Now then ! — [The Stranger approaches the fountain and turns to ARNOLD
<ul> <li>thee, —</li> <li>Now I can mock the mightest.</li> <li>Arn. Then waste not</li> <li>Thy time on me: I seek thee not</li> <li>Stran. Your thoughts 130</li> <li>Are not far from me. Do not send me back:</li> <li>I am not so easily recall'd to do</li> <li>Good service.</li> <li>Arn. What wilt thou do for me?</li> <li>Stran. What wilt thou do for me?</li> <li>Stran. What wilt thou do for me?</li> <li>Stran. Change</li> <li>Shapes with you, if you will, since yours so irks you;</li> <li>Or form you to your wish in any shape</li> <li>Arn Oh ! then you are indeed the demon, for</li> <li>Nought else would wittingly wear mine.</li> <li>Stran I 'Il show thee</li> <li>The brightest which the world e'er bore, and give thee</li> </ul>	Their walls, to fill their household caldrons with	Arn. For what? Stran 'To mingle with the magic of the
Are not far from me. Do not send me back:for thusI am not so easily recall'd to do Good service.The Stranger tales some of Annotne's blood on has hand, and custs it into the fountainArn.What wilt thou do for me? Stran.Stran.Arn.What wilt thou do for me? Stran.Stran.ChangeShadows of power !Shapes with you, if you will, since yours so irks you;This is the hour !or form you to your wish in any shape Arn Oh ! then you are indeed the de- mon, forThe model in airNought else would wittingly wear mine. StranI'll show theeStranI'll show the eand give thee	thee, $-$ Now I can mock the mightiest. Arn. Then waste not	Arn. (holding out his wounded arm) Take it all
<ul> <li>I am not so easily recall'd to do Good service.</li> <li>Arn. What wilt thou do for me? Stran. Change</li> <li>Shadows of beauty ! Shadows of power ! Rise to your duty — This is the hour ! réc</li> <li>Walk lovely and pliant</li> <li>From the depth of this fountain. As the cloud-shapen giant</li> <li>As the cloud-shapen giant</li> <li>Bestrides the Hartz Mountain. Come as ye were,</li> <li>Nought else would wittingly wear mine. Stran I 'll show thee</li> <li>The brightest which the world e'er bore, and give thee</li> </ul>	Stran. Your thoughts 130 Are not far from me. Do not send me	for this [The Shanger tales some of ABNOLD'S blood in his
Shapes with vou, if you will, since yours so irks you;Walk lovely and pliant From the depth of this fountain.Or form you to your wish in any shape Arn Oh! then you are indeed the de- mon, forKought else would wittingly wear mine. I'll show thee The brightest which the world e'er bore, and give theeWalk lovely and pliant From the depth of this fountain. Come as ye were, That our eyes may behold The model in air Of the form I will mould, Bright as the Iris	I am not so easily recall'd to do Good service. Arn. What wilt thou do for me?	Shadows of power ! Rise to your duty —
Arn Oh! then you are indeed the de- mon, forBestrides the Hartz Mountain. Come as ye were, That our eyes may beholdNought else would wittingly wear mine. StranI'll show thee The model in air Of the form I will mould, Bright as the Iris	Shapes with you, if you will, since yours so irks you ;	Walk lovely and pliant From the depth of this fountain.
Stran I'll show thee The brightest which the world e'er bore, and give thee The model in air Of the form I will mould, Bright as the Iris	Arn Oh! then you are indeed the de- mon, for	Bestrides the Hartz Mountain. Come as ye were,
Inv choice I when ether is spann'd; 17c	Stran I'll show thee The brightest which the world e'er bore, and give thee	The model in air Of the form I will mould, Bright as the Iris
	TUA GUOIG6	i vynen einer is spignin a; - 170

Such his desire is, [Point ng to ARNOLD Such my command !	Arn. Who is he? Stran. He was the fairest and the bravest
Demons heroic —	of 210
Demons who wore	Athenians Look upon him well.
The form of the store	Arn He is
Or sophist of yore —	More lovely than the last. How beautiful!
Or the shape of each victor, From Macedon's boy	Stian Such was the curled son of Clinias; — wouldst thou
To each high Roman's picture,	Invest thee with his form ?
Who breathed to destroy — 180	Arn. Would that I had Shadows of beauty !	Been born with it ! But since I may choose
Shadows of power !	further,
Up to your duty —	I will look further.
This is the hour !	[The shade of Alcubiades disappears. Stran. Lo! behold again!
[Various Phantoms arise from the waters, and pass in succession before the Stranger and Abnold.	Arn. What! that low, swarthy, short-
Arn. What do I see?	nosed, round-eyed satyr,
Stran. The black-eyed Roman, with	With the wide nostrils and Silenus' aspect,
The eagle's beak between those eyes which	The splay feet and low stature! I had ne'er	better Demois that which I are Beheld a conqueror, or look'd along The land he made not Rome's, while Rome	Remain that which 1 am. Stran. And yet he was 220
became	The earth's perfection of all mental beauty,
His, and all theirs who heir'd his very name.	And personification of all virtue.
Arn. The phantom's bald; my quest is	But you reject him?
beauty. Could I 190	Arn. If his form could bring me
Inherit but his fame with his defects !	That which redeem'd it — no Stran I have no power
Stran His brow was girt with laurels more than hairs.	Stran I have no power To promise that; but you may try, and find
You see his aspect — choose it, or reject	it
I can but promise you his form; his fame	Easier in such a form, or in your own
Must be long sought and fought for	Arn. No. I was not born for philosophy,
Arn. I will fight too,	Though I have that about me which has
But not as a mock Cæsar. Let him pass; His aspect may be fair, but suits me not.	need on 't. Let him fleet on Stran. Then you are far more difficult to	Stran. Be air, thou hemlock-drinker !
please	[The shadow of Socrates disappears another rises
Than Cato's sister, or than Brutus' mother,	Arn. What's here? whose broad brow
Or Cleopatra at sixteen — an age 200	and whose curly beard 230
When love is not less in the eye than heart. But be it so ! Shadow, pass on !	And manly aspect look like Hercules, Save that his jocund eye hath more of Bac-
[The phantom of Julius Cæsar disappears	chus
Arn. And can it	Than the sad purger of the infernal world,
Be, that the man who shook the earth is	Leaning dejected on his club of conquest, gone,	As if he knew the worthlessness of those
And left no footstep?	For whom he had fought Stran. It was the man who lost
Stran. There you err. His substance Left graves enough, and woes enough, and	The ancient world for love.
fame	Arn. I cannot blame him,
More than enough to track his memory;	Since I have risk'd my soul because I find
But for his shadow, 'tis no more than	not yours, Except a little langer and loss enabled	That which he exchanged the earth for. Stran. Since so far
Except a little longer and less crook'd I' the sun. Behold another !	You seem congenial, will you wear his fea-
[A second phantom passes.	tures? 24

Arn. No. As you leave me choice, I am difficult,	The altar, gazing on his Trojan bride, With some remorse within for Hector slain
If but to see the heroes I should ne'er	And Priam weeping, mingled with deep
Have seen else on this side of the dim shore	passion
Whence they float back before us	For the sweet downcast virgin whose young
Stran Hence, triumvir!	hand
Thy Cleopatra's waiting.	Trembled in $h$ who slew her brother. So
[The shude of Antony disappears another rises.	He stood i' the temple ! Look upon him as
Arn Who is this?	Greece look'd her last upon her best, the
Who truly looketh like a demigod,	instant 281
Blooming and bright, with golden hair, and	Ere Paris' arrow flew.
stature,	Arn. I gaze upon him
If not more high than mortal, yet immortal	As if I were his soul, whose form shall
In all that nameless bearing of his limbs,	soon Envelope mine
Which he wears as the sun his rays $-a$	Envelope mine. Stran You have done well. The something 250
Which shines from him, and yet is but the	greatest Deformity should only barter with flashing	The extremest beauty, if the proverb's true
Emanation of a thing more glorious still.	Of mortals, that extremes meet.
Was he e'er human only? Stran. Let the earth speak,	Arn. Come ! Be quick !
If there be atoms of hun left, or even	I am impatient.
Of the more solid gold that form'd his urn.	Stran As a youthful beauty
Arn. Who was this glory of mankind?	Before her glass. You both see what is not.
Stran. The shame	But dream it is what must be.
Of Greece in peace, her thunderbolt in	Arn Must I wait? 290
war	Stran. No; that were a pity. But a word
Demetrius the Macedonian, and	or two:
Taker of cities.	His stature is twelve cubits; would you so
Arn. Yet one shadow more.	far
Stran. (addressing the shadow). Get thee	Outstep these times, and be a Titan? Or to Lamia's lap !	(To talk canonically) wax a son
[The shade of Demetrus Poliorcetes vanishes another	Of Anak?
rises.	Arn. Why not?
I'll fit you still, 260	Stran. Glorious ambition!
Fear not, my hunchback: if the shadows of	I love thee most in dwarfs! A mortal of
That which existed please not your nice	Philistine stature would have gladly pared taste,	His own Goliath down to a slight David:
I'll animate the ideal marble, till	But thou, my manikin, wouldst soar a show
Your soul be reconciled to her new gar-	Rather than hero. Thou shalt be indulged,
ment	If such be thy desire; and yet, by being 301
Arn. Content! I will fix here. Stran I must commend	A little less removed from present men In figure, thou canst sway them more; for Stran I must commend Your choice. The godlike son of the sea-	all goddess,	Would rise against thee now, as if to hunt
The unshorn boy of Peleus, with his locks	A new-found mammoth; and their cursed
As beautiful and clear as the amber waves	engines,
Of rich Pactolus, roll'd o'er sands of gold,	Their culverins, and so forth, would find
Soften'd by intervening crystal, and 270	way
Rippled like flowing waters by the wind,	Through our friend's armour there, with
All vow'd to Sperchius as they were - be-	greater ease hold them !	Than the adulterer's arrow through his
And him — as he stood by Polixena,	heel
With sanction'd and with soften'd love, be-	Which Thetis had forgotten to baptize fore	In Styx.

Arn. Then let it be as thou deem'st best. Stran. Thou shalt be beauteous as the thing thou seest,

- And strong as what it was, and Arn. I ask not
- For valour, since deformity is daring
- It is its essence to o'ertake mankind
- By heart and soul, and make itself the equal ---
- Ay, the superior of the rest. There is
- A spur in its halt movements, to become
- All that the others cannot, in such things

As still are free to both, to compensate

- For stepdame Nature's avaruce at first. 320 They woo with fearless deeds the smiles of fortune.
- And oft, like Timour the lame Tartar, win them.
- Stran. Well spoken ! And thou doubtless wilt remain
- Form'd as thou art. I may dismiss the mould
- Of shadow, which must turn to flesh to incase
- This daring soul which could achieve no less

Without it. Arn. Had no power presented me

- The possibility of change, I would
- Have done the best which spirit may to make
- Its way with all deformity's dull, deadly, 330
- Discouraging weight upon me, like a mountain,
- In feeling, on my heart as on my shoulders —

A hateful and unsightly molehill to

The eyes of happier men. I would have look'd

On beauty in that sex which is the type

- Of all we know or dream of beautiful
- Beyond the world they brighten, with a sigh —
- Not of love, but despair; nor sought to win,
- Though to a heart all love, what could not love me
- In turn, because of this vile crooked clog 340
- Which makes me lonely. Nay, I could have borne
- It all, had not my mother spurn'd me from her.

The she-bear licks her cubs into a sort

Of shape; — my dam beheld my shape was hopeless Had she exposed me, like the Spartan ere

I knew the passionate part of life, I had

- Been a clod of the valley, happier nothing
- Than what I am. But even thus, the lowest,
- Ugliest, and meanest of mankind, what courage
- And perseverance could have done, perchance 350
- Had made me something as it has made heroes
- Of the same mould as mine. You lately saw me

Master of my own life, and quick to quit it; And he who is so is the master of Whatever dreads to die.

- Stran. Decide between
- What you have been, or will be. Arn. I have done so.
- Arn. I have done so. You have open'd brighter prospects to my eves.
- And sweeter to my heart. As I am now,
- I might be fear'd, admired, respected, loved

Of all save those next to me, of whom I  $_{360}$  Would be beloved. As thou showest me

A choice of forms, I take the one I view.

Haste ! haste !

Stran. And what shall I wear?

- Arn Surely, he Who can command all forms will choose the highest.
- Something superior even to that which was Pelides now before us. Perhaps his

- Who slew him, that of Paris: or still higher —
- The poet's god, clothed in such limbs as are Themselves a poetry.

- Stran. Less will content me; For I, too, love a change.
- Arn Your aspect 18 370 Dusky, but not uncomely.

Stran. If I chose,

I might be whiter; but I have a penchant

For black — it is so honest, and besides

Can neither blush with shame nor pale with fear:

But I have worn it long enough of late,

And now I'll take your figure.

Arn. Mine ' Stran. Yes. You Shall change with Thetis' son, and I with Stran. Stop! What shall become of your abandon'd gar-Bertha Your mother's offspring. People have their ment, Yon hump, and lump, and clog of ugliness. tastes; Which late you wore, or were? You have yours -- I mme. Who cares ? Let wolves Arn. Despatch ! despatch ! ArnStran Even so. And vultures take it, if they will. Stran. And if [The Stranger takes some earth and moulds it along the turf, and then addresses the phantom of Achilles They do, and are not scared by it, you'll say Beautiful shadow 380 It must be peace-time, and no better fare Of Thetis's boy ' Abroad i' the fields. Who sleeps in the meadow Arn. Let us but leave it there; Whose grass grows o'er Troy: No matter what becomes on 't. From the red earth, like Adam, Stran. That's ungracious, Thy likeness I shape, If not ungrateful Whatsoe'er it be, 430 As the being who made him, It hath sustain'd your soul full many a day. Whose actions I ape Arn. Ay, as the dunghill may conceal a Thou clay, be all glowing, gem Till the rose in his cheek Which is now set in gold, as jewels should Be as fair as, when blowing, 390 Stran. But if I give another form, it must It wears its first streak ! Ye violets, I scatter, he Now turn into eyes ! By fair exchange, not robbery. For they And thou, sunshiny water, Who make men without women's aid have Of blood take the guise ! long Let these hyacinth boughs Had patents for the same, and do not love Be his long flowing hair, Your interlopers. The devil may take men, Not make them, - though he reap the ben-And wave o'er his brows, As thou wavest in air ! efit Let his heart be this marble Of the original workmanship: and there-400 I tear from the rock ! fore Some one must be found to assume the shape But his voice as the warble You have quitted. Of birds on yon oak! Let his flesh be the purest ArnWho would do so? Of mould, in which grew Stran. That I know not, The lily-root surest, And therefore I must. You ! And drank the best dew ! Arn. Let his limbs be the lightest Stran. I said it ere Which clay can compound, You inhabited your present dome of beauty. And his aspect the brightest Arn. True. I forget all things in the 410 On earth to be found ! new joy Of this immortal change Elements, near me, Be mingled and stirr'd, Stran. In a few moment Know me, and hear me, I will be as you were, and you shall see Yourself for ever by you, as your shadow. And leap to my word! Sunbeams, awaken Ain. I would be spared this. This earth's animation ! S'ran But it cannot be. What ! shrink already, being what you are. 'T is done ! He hath taken His stand in creation ! From seeing what you were? [ABNOLD fails senseless, his coul passes into the shape of Achiles, which rives from the ground, while the phan-tom his disappeared, part by part, as the figure was formed from the casth ArnDo as thou wilt. 451 Stran. (to the late form of ARNOLD, extended on the earth). (in his new form). I love, and I Clay ! not dead, but soul-less ! Arn shall be beloved ! Oh, life ! Though no man would choose thee. 420 At last I feel thee ! Glorious spirit ! An immortal no less Deigns not to refuse thee. Is thickest, that I may behold it in Clay thou art ; and unto spirit Its workings. All clay is of equal merit That 's to say, where there is war Stran Fire ! without which nought can live ; And woman in activity. Let's see ! Fire ! but in which nought can live, Spain — Italy — the new Atlantic world — Save the fabled salamander, 400 Afric, with all its Moors. In very truth, Or immortal souls, which wander, There is small choice: the whole race are Praying what doth not forgive, just now Howling for a drop of water, Tugging as usual at each other's hearts. 500 Burning in a quenchless lot : Arn. I have heard great things of Rome. Fire ! the only element Stran. A goodly choice -Where nor fish, beast, bird, nor worm, And scarce a better to be found on earth, Save the worm which dieth not, Since Sodom was put out. The field is wide Can preserve a moment's form, too ; But must with thyself be blent. For now the Frank, and Hun, and Spanish Fire ' man's safeguard and his slaughter: 470 scion Fire! Creation's first-born daughter, Of the old Vandals are at play along And Destruction's threaten'd son The sunny shores of the world's garden. When heaven with the world hath done : Arn. How Fire ! assist me to renew Shall we proceed ? Life in what lies in my view Like gallants, on good coursers. Stran. Stiff and cold ! What ho! my chargers! Never yet were His resurrection rests with me and you ! better, One little, marshy spark of flame – Since Phaeton was upset into the Po. And he again shall seem the same; Our pages too ! But I his spirit's place shall hold ! 480 Enter two Pages, with four coal-black horses [An ignis-fatuus fits through the wood and rests on the brow of the body. The Stranger disappears the body ArnA noble sight ! mses Stran. And of 510 Arn. (in his new form) Oh ' horrible ! A nobler breed Match me in Barbary, Stran. (in ARNOLD'S late shape). What! Or your Kochlun race of Araby, tremblest thou ? With these ! Arn. Not so -Arn The mighty steam, which vol-I merely shudder. Where is fled the shape umes high Thou lately worest? From their proud nostrils, burns the very air; And sparks of flame, like dancing fire-flies, Stran. To the world of shadows. But let us thread the present. Whither wheel wilt thou ? Around their manes, as common insects Arn. Must thou be my companion? swarm Stran. Wherefore not? Round common steeds towards sunset Your betters keep worse company Stran Mount, my lord: Arn. My betters ! They and I are your servitors. Stran Oh ' you wax proud, I see, of your And these Arn. new form . Our dark-eyed pages — what may be their I'm glad of that. Ungrateful too! That's names? well; Stran You shall baptize them What! in holy water ? 520 You improve apace; — two changes in an Arn Stran. Why not? The deeper sinner, instant, And you are old in the world's ways already. better saint. But bear with me : indeed you'll find me Arn. They are beautiful, and cannot, sure, useful be demons. Upon your pilgrimage. But come, pro-Stran. True; the devil's always ugly; and your beauty nounce Where shall we now be errant? Is never diabolical. Where the world I'll call him Arn. Arn.

Who bears the golden horn, and wears such ground ! bright And blooming aspect, Huon, for he looks Like to the lovely boy lost in the forest, flv ! And never found till now. And for the other an eye. And darker, and more thoughtful, who smiles not, But looks as serious though serene as night, He shall be Memnon, from the Ethiop king Whose statue turns a harper once a day. And you? I have ten thousand names, and Stran. twice Arn. As many attributes; but as I wear A human shape, will take a human name. Of blood. Arn. More human than the shape (though Cæs. it was mine once) Why ! I trust. Stran. Then call me Cæsar. Why, that name ArnBelongs to empires, and has been but borne By the world's lords. lord And therefore fittest for Stran. The devil in disguise - since so you deem me. 540 Unless you call me pope instead. Arn. Well, then, New worlds? ArnCæsar thou shalt be. For myself, my name shortly, Shall be plain Arnold still We'll add a title — Cces. 'Count Arnold:' it hath no ungracious sound. new one, And will look well upon a billet-doux. Arn Or m an order for a battle-field. Cæs. (sings). To horse! to horse! my coal-black steed Cæs. Paws the ground and snuffs the air ! There's not a foal of Arab's breed More knows whom he must bear; 550 Arn. Dog! On the hill he will not tire, Cæs Swifter as it waxes higher; Arn. In the marsh he will not slacken, Cæs. On the plain be overtaken; In the wave he will not sink, me on, Nor pause at the brook's side to drink; In the race he will not pant, here. In the combat he 'll not faint; On the stones he will not stumble, Arn. Time nor toil shall make him humble; 560 In the stall he will not stiffen. But be winged as a griffin, Only flying with his feet. And will not such a voyage be sweet? Merrily ! merrily ! never unsound,

Shall our bonny black horses skim over the

From the Alps to the Caucasus ride we, or

For we'll leave them behind in the glance of

[They mount their horses, and disappear

SCENE II

A Camp before the Walls of Rome

ARNOLD and CASAR

Cas. You are well enter'd now.

Ay; but my path Has been o'er carcasses: mine eyes are full

Then wipe them, and see clearly.

Thou art a conqueror; the chosen knight

And free companion of the gallant Bourbon,

Late constable of France: and now to be Lord of the city which hath been earth's

Under its emperors, and — changing sex,

Not sceptre, an hermaphrodite of empire -Lady of the old world.

How old ? What ! are there

Cies. To you You 'll find there are such

By its rich harvests, new disease, and gold; From one half of the world named a whole

Because you know no better than the dull

And dubious notice of your eyes and ears.

Arn. I'll trust them.

Do! They will deceive you sweetly,

And that is better than the bitter truth.

Man!

Devil !

Your obedient humble servant.

Arn. Say master rather. Thou hast lured

Through scenes of blood and lust, till I am

 $C\alpha$ s. And where wouldst thou be?

Oh, at peace — in peace ! Coss. And where is that which is so?

From the star To the winding worm, all life 1s motion; and In life commotion is the extremest point

Of life. The planet wheels till it becomes A comet, and destroying as it sweeps

The stars, goes out. The poor worm winds	Both them and me.
its way,	Arn. To-morrow sounds the assault
Living upon the death of other things,	With the first cock-crow.
But still, like them, must live and die, the	Cass. Which, if it end with subject	The evening's first nightingale, will be
Of something which has made it live and	Something new in the annals of great die You must obey what all obey, the rule	sieges; For men must have their prey after long toil.
Of fix'd necessity: against her edict 600	Arn. The sun goes down as calmly, and
Rebellion prospers not.	perhaps
Arn And when it prospers —	More beautifully, than he did on Rome
Cæs. 'T is no rebellion	On the day Remus leapt her wall.
Arn. Will it prosper now?	Cæs. I saw him. 640
$C \alpha s$ . The Bourbon hath given orders for	Arn. You!
the assault,	Cces. Yes, sir You forget I am or was
And by the dawn there will be work.	Spirit, till I took up with your cast shape
Arn. Alas!	And a worse name. I'm Cæsar and a hunch-back
And shall the city yield ? I see the giant Abode of the true God, and his true saint,	Now. Well! the first of Cæsars was a
Saint Peter, rear its dome and cross into	bald-head,
That sky whence Christ ascended from the	And loved his laurels better as a wig cross,	(So history says) than as a glory. Thus
Which his blood made a badge of glory and	The world runs on, but we'll be merry still.
Of joy (as once of torture unto him, 610	I saw your Romulus (simple as I am)
God and God's Son, man's sole and only	Slay his own twin, quick-born of the same refuge).	womb, Recourse he least a ditch ('t was than no
Cas. 'T is there, and shall be. Arn. What?	Because he leapt a ditch ('t was then no wall, 650
Arn. What? Cas. The crucifix	Whate'er it now be); and Rome's earliest
Above, and many altar shrines below.	cement
Also some culverins upon the walls,	Was brother's blood; and if its native blood
And harquebusses, and what not; besides	Be spilt till the choked Tiber be as red
The men who are to kindle them to death	As e'er 't was yellow, it will never wear
Of other men	The deep hue of the ocean and the earth,
Arn. And those scarce mortal arches,	Which the great robber sons of fratricide
Pile above pile of everlasting wall,	Have made their never-ceasing scene of
The theatre where emperors and their sub-	slaughter For ages.
jects (Those subjects Romans ) stood at gaze	Arn. But what have these done, their far upon 620	Remote descendants, who have lived in
The battles of the monarchs of the wild	peace,
And wood, the hon and his tusky rebels	The peace of heaven, and in her sunshine of
Of the then untamed desert, brought to	Piety ?
joust	Cæs. And what had they done, whom
In the arena (as right well they might,	the old 66r
When they had left no human foe uncon-	Romans o'erswept ? — Hark ! Arn They are soldiers singing quer'd); Made even the forest pay its tribute of	A reckless roundelay, upon the eve
Life to their amphitheatre, as well	Of many deaths, it may be of their own.
As Dacia men to die the eternal death	Coes. And why should they not sing as
For a sole instant's pastime, and 'Pass on	well as swans?
To a new gladiator '' - Must it fall? 630	They are black ones, to be sure.
Cas. The city, or the amphitheatre?	Arn. So, you are learn'd.
The church, or one, or all? for you con-	I see, too? Cæs. In my grammar, certes. I found	$C \alpha s.$ In my grammar, certes. 1

Was educated for a monk of all times,	The wall : on the ladder
And once I was well versed in the forgot-	As mounts each firm foot,
ten 669	Our shout shall grow gladder,
Etruscan letters, and — were I so minded —	And death only be mute. 710
Could make their hieroglyphics plamer than	With the Bourbon we'll mount o'er
Your alphabet.	The walls of old Rome,
Arn. And wherefore do you not?	And who then shall count o'er
Cas. It answers better to resolve the al-	The spoils of each dome ?
phabet	Up ! up with the luly !
Back into hieroglyphics. Like your states-	And down with the keys!
man,	In old Rome, the seven-hilly,
And prophet, pontiff, doctor, alchymist,	We'll revel at ease.
Philosopher, and what not, they have built	Her streets shall be gory,
More Babels, without new dispersion, than	Her Tiber all red, 72.
The stammering young ones of the flood's	And her temples so hoary dull ooze,	Shall clang with our tread.
Who fail'd and fled each other. Why?	Oh, the Bourbon ! the Bourbon !
why, marry,	The Bourbon for aye !
Because no man could understand his neigh-	Of our song bear the burden !
bour. 680	And fire, fire away !
They are wiser now, and will not separate	With Spain for the vanguard,
For nonsense Nay, it is their brotherhood,	Our varied host comes;
Their Shibboleth, their Koran, Talmud,	And next to the Spaniard
their	Beat Germany's drums; 730
Cabala; their best brick-work, wherewithal	And Italy's lances
They build more —	Are couch'd at their mother;
Arn. (interrupting him). Oh, thou ever-	But our leader from France is,
lasting sneerer !	Who warr'd with his brother.
Be silent ' How the soldiers' rough strain	Oh, the Bourbon ! the Bourbon !
seems	Sans country or home,
Soften'd by distance to a hymn-like ca-	We'll follow the Bourbon,
dence !	To plunder old Rome.
Listen !	Cæs. An indifferent song
Cæs. Yes. I have heard the angels sing.	For those within the walls, methinks, to
Arn. And demons howl	hear. 740
Coes. And man too Let us listen:	Arn. Yes, if they keep to their chorus.
I love all music. 690	But here comes
Song of the Soldiers within.	The general with his chiefs and men of
The black bands came over	trust.
The Alps and their snow;	A goodly rebel!
With Bourbon, the rover,	Enter the Constable BOURBON 'cum suis,' etc etc
They pass'd the broad Po.	Phil. How now, noble prince,
We have beaten all foemen,	You are not cheerful?
We have captured a king,	Bourb. Why should I be so?
We have turn'd back on no men,	Phil. Upon the eve of conquest such as
And so let us sing !	ours,
Here's the Bourbon for ever!	Most men would be so.
Though pennyless all, 700	Bourb. If I were secure !
We'll have one more endeavour	Phil. Doubt not our soldiers. Were the
At yonder old wall.	walls of adamant,
With the Bourbon we'll gather	They'd crack them. Hunger is a sharp
At day-dawn before	artillery.
The gates, and together	Bourb That they will falter is my least
Or break or clumb o'er	of fears.

That they will be repulsed, with Bourbon	The walls for which he conquer'd and be for 750	greater !
Their chief, and all their kindled appetites	Bourb. True : so I will, or perish.
To marshal them on — were those hoary	Phil. You can not.
walls	In such an enterprise to die 15 rather
Mountains, and those who guard them like	The dawn of an eternal day, than death.
the gods	[Count ARNOLD and CESAR advance
Of the old fables, I would trust my Ti-	Cæs. And the mere men — do they too tans;—	sweat beneath
But now —	The noon of this same ever-scorching glory?
Phil. They are but men who war with	Bourb. Ah!
mortals.	Welcome the bitter hunchback! and his
Bourb. True: but those walls have girded	master, in great ages,	The beauty of our host, and brave as beau-
And sent forth mighty spirits. The past	teous, earth	And generous as lovely. We shall find
And present phantom of imperious Rome	Work for you both ere morning.
Is peopled with those warriors, and me-	Cæs. You will find, 790 thinks	So please your highness, no less for your-
They flit along the eternal city's rampart, 760	self.
And stretch their glorious, gory, shadowy	Bourb. And if I do, there will not be a hands,	labourer
And beckon me away !	More forward, hunchback !
Phil. So let them ! Wilt thou	Cæs. You may well say so,
Turn back from shadowy menaces of	For you have seen that back — as general, shadows?	Placed m the rear m action — but your Bourb. They do not menace me. I could	foes have faced,	Have never seen it
Methinks, a Sylla's menace ; but they clasp,	Bourb. That's a fair retort,
And raise, and wring their dim and death- like hands,	For I provoked it: — but the Bourbon's breast Has been, and ever shall be, far advanced
And with their thin aspen faces and fix'd eyes Fascinate mine. Look there !	In danger's face as yours, were you the devil.
Phil. I look upon	Cas. And if I were, I might have saved
A lofty battlement.	myself 800
Bourb. And there !	The toil of coming here.
Phil. Not even 769	Phil. Why so ?
A guard in sight ; they wisely keep below,	Cæs. One half
Shelter'd by the gray parapet from some	Of your brave bands of their own bold ac-
Stray bullet of our lansquenets, who might	cord
Practise in the cool twilight	Will go to him, the other half be sent,
Bourb You are blind.	More swiftly, not less surely Phil If seeing nothing more than may	Bourb. Arnold, your be seen	Slight crooked friend's as snake-like in his
Be so	words
Bourb. A thousand years have mann'd	As in his deeds.
the walls	Cas Your highness much mistakes me
With all their heroes, — the last Cato	The first snake was a flatterer — I am none;
stands	And for my deeds, I only sting when stung.
And tears his bowels, rather than survive	Bourb You are brave, and that 's enough
The liberty of that I would enslave.	for me; and quick
And the first Cæsar with his triumphs flits	In speech as sharp in action — and that's
From battlement to battlement	more 81c
Phil. Then conquer 780	I am not alone a soldier, but the soldiers'

Comrade.

- They are but bad company, your Cæs. highness;
- And worse even for their friends than foes, as being
- More permanent acquaintance.
- Phil. How now, fellow !
- Thou waxest insolent, beyond the privilege Of a buffoon.
- You mean I speak the truth Cæs. I'll lie — it is as easy: then you'll praise me

For calling you a hero.

Philibert ! Bourb.

- Let him alone; he's brave, and ever has
- Been first, with that swart face and mountain shoulder, 820
- In field or storm, and patient in starvation;
- And for his tongue, the camp is full of licence,

And the sharp stinging of a lively rogue Is, to my mind, far preferable to

The gross, dull, heavy, gloomy execration

- Of a mere famish'd, sullen, grumbling slave, Whom nothing can convince save a full meal.
- And wine, and sleep, and a few maravedis, With which he deems him rich
- It would be well Cæs. If the earth's princes ask'd no more.
  - Bourb. Be silent ! 830 Coss. Ay, but not idle. Work yourself with words!

You have few to speak.

Phil. What means the audacious prater? Cas. To prate, like other prophets.

- Philibert ! Bourb. Why will you vex him? Have we not
- enough Arnold ! I will lead the at-To think on? tack

To-morrow.

- I have heard as much, my lord Arn. Bourb. And you will follow?
- Since I must not lead. Arn. Bourb. 'T is necessary for the further daring
- Of our too needy army, that their chief
- Plant the first foot upon the foremost ladder's 840

First step. Cæs. Upon its topmost, let us hope So shall he have his full deserts.

- Bourb The world's
- Great capital perchance is ours to-morrow.

- Through every change the seven-hill'd city hath
- Retain'd her sway o'er nations, and the Cæsars
- But yielded to the Alarics, the Alarics
- Unto the pontiffs. Roman, Goth, or priest, Still the world's masters! Civilised, bar-
- barian.
- Or samtly, still the walls of Romulus
- Have been the circus of an empire. Well ! 'T was their turn - now 't is ours; and let us hope 851
- That we will fight as well, and rule much better.
- Cas. No doubt, the camp 's the school of civic rights.

What would you make of Rome?

That which it was. Bourb. Cæs. In Alaric's time?

- Bourb. No, slave ! in the first Cæsar's, Whose name you bear like other curs-
- Cæs. And kings! 'T is a great name for blood-hounds.
- Bourb. There 's a demon In that fierce rattlesnake thy tongue Wilt never

Be serious?

- Cæs. On the eve of battle, no; --
- That were not soldier-like 'T is for the general 860
- To be more pensive: we adventurers
- Must be more cheerful. Wherefore should we think ?
- Our tutelar deity, in a leader's shape,
- Takes care of us Keep thought aloof from hosts !
- If the knaves take to thinking, you will have To crack those walls alone
- Bourb. You may sneer, since 'T is lucky for you that you fight no worse for 't.
- Cæs. I thank you for the freedom; 't is the only
- Pay I have taken in your highness' service. Bourb. Well, sir, to-morrow you shall pay yourself. 870
- Look on those towers; they hold my treasury:

But, Philibert, we'll in to council. Arnold, We would request your presence.

- Prince ! my service Arn. Is yours, as in the field.
- In both we prize it, Bourb. And yours will be a post of trust at daybreak.

Cas. And mine ? Bourb. To follow glory with the Bourbon. Good night ! Arn. (to CÆSAR) Prepare our armour for the assault,	And revive the heroic ashes Round which yellow Tiber dashes. Oh ye seven hills ! awaken, Ere your very base be shaken !	10
<ul> <li>And wait within my tent [Excunt BOURBON, ARNOLD, PERLEBERT, &amp;c.</li> <li>Cæs. (solus). Within thy tent!</li> <li>Think'st thou that I pass from thee with my presence?</li> <li>Or that this crooked coffer, which contain'd</li> <li>Thy principle of life, is aught to me 8si</li> <li>Except a mask? And these are men, for- sooth !</li> <li>Heroes and chiefs, the flower of Adam's bastards !</li> <li>This is the consequence of giving matter</li> <li>The power of thought. It is a stubborn substance,</li> <li>And thinks chaotically, as it acts,</li> </ul>	2 Hearken to the steady stamp ! Mars is in their every tramp ! Not a step is out of time, As the tides obey the moon ! On they march, though to self-slaughter, Regular as rolling water, Whose high waves o'ersweep the border Of huge moles, but keep their order, Breaking only rank by rank. Hearken to the armour's clank ! Look down o'er each frowning warrior, How he glares upon the barrier: Look on each step of each ladder, As the stripes that streak an adder.	20
Ever relapsing into its first elements. Well ! I must play with these poor puppets: 't is The spirit's pastime in his idler hours. When I grow weary of it, I have business Amongst the stars, which these poor cre- tures deem 857 Were made for them to look at. 'T were a jest now To bring one down amongst them, and set fire Unto their anthil how the pismires then Would scamper o'er the scalding soil, and, ceasing From tearing down each other's nests, pipe forth	Lit match, bell-mouth'd musquetoon, Gaping to be murderous soon. All the warlike gear of old, Mux'd with what we now behold, In this strife, 'twixt old and new, Gather like a locusts' crew. Shade of Remus! 't is a time Awful as thy brother's crime ! Christians war against Christ's shrine: —	30
One universal orison ! Ha ! ha ! [Exit CESAR. PART II SCENE I Before the Walls of Rome - The assault the army in motion, with ladders to scale the walls, BOURBON, with a white scarf over his armout, foremost Chorus of Spirits in the air. I 'T is the morn, but dim and dark. Whither flies the silent lark ? Whither flies the silent lark ? Whither shrinks the clouded sun ? Is the day indeed begun ? Nature's eye is melancholy O'er the city high and holy: But without there is a din Should arouse the saints within,	4 Near — and near — and nearer still, As the earthquake saps the hill, First with trembling, hollow motion, Like a scarce-awaken'd ocean, Then with stronger shock and louder, Till the rocks are crush'd to powder, — Onward sweeps the rolling host! Heroes of the immortal boast! Mighty chiefs ! eternal shadows ! First flowers of the bloody meadows Which encompass Rome, the mother Of a people without brother ! Will you sleep when nations' quarrels Plough the root up of your laurels ? Ye who weep o'er Carthage burning, Weep not — strike ! for Rome is mour ing !	5 0 n

5

Onward sweep the varied nations ! Famine long hath dealt their rations. To the wall with hate and hunger, Numerous as wolves, and stronger, 60 On they sweep. Oh, glorious city ! Must thou be a theme for pity? Fight, like your first sire, each Roman ! Alaric was a gentle foeman, Match'd with Bourbon's black banditti ! Rouse thee, thou eternal city; Rouse thee! Rather give the torch With thy own hand to thy porch, Than behold such hosts pollute Your worst dwelling with their foot. 70

6

Ah ! behold yon bleeding spectre ! Ilion's children find no Hector; Priam's offspring loved their brother; Rome's great sire forgot his mother, When he slew his gallant twin, With inexpiable sin. See the giant shadow stride O'er the ramparts high and wide ! When the first o'erleapt thy wall, Its foundation mourn'd thy fall. Now, though towering like a Babel, Who to stop his steps are able ? Stalking o'er thy highest dome, Remus claims his vengeance, Rome !

7

Now they reach thee in their anger: Fire and smoke and hellish clangour Are around thee, thou world's wonder ! Death is in thy walls and under. Now the meeting steel first clashes, Downward then the ladder crashes, 90 With its iron load all gleaming, Lying at its foot blaspheming ! Up again ! for every warrior Slain, another climbs the barrier. Thicker grows the strife · thy ditches Europe's mingling gore enriches Rome ! although thy wall may perish, Such manure thy fields will cherish, Making gay the harvest-home ; But thy hearths, alas ! oh, Rome !- 100 Yet be Rome amidst thine anguish, Fight as thou wast wont to vanquish.

8

Yet once more, ye old Penates ! Let not your quench'd hearths be Até's ! Yet again, ye shadowy heroes, Yield not to these stranger Neros! Though the son who slew his mother Shed Rome's blood, he was your brother : 'T was the Roman curb'd the Roman ;-Brennus was a baffled foeman. 110 Yet again, ye saints and martyrs, Rise ! for yours are holier charters ! Mighty gods of temples falling, Yet in rum still appalling ! Mightier founders of those altars, True and Christian, - strike the assaulters ! Tiber ! Tiber ! let thy torrent Show even nature's self abhorrent. Let each breathing heart dilated Turn, as doth the lion baited ! 120 Rome be crush'd to one wide tomb, But be still the Roman's Rome! BOURBON, ARNOLD, CÆSAR, and others arrive at the foot of the wall ARNOLD is about to plant his ladder Bourb. Hold, Arnold ! I am first. ArnNot so, my lord. Bourb. Hold, sir, I charge you ! Follow ! I am proud Of such a follower, but will brook no leader. [BOURBON plants his ladder, and begins to mount Now, boys! On ! on ! [A shot strikes him, and BOURBON falls. Cæs. And off ! Arn. Eternal powers! The host will be appall'd, - but vengeance ! vengeance ! Bourb. 'T is nothing — lend me your hand. [BOURBON takes ARNOLD by the hand, and ruses, but as he puts his foot on the step, falls again. Arnold ! I am sped. Conceal my fall - all will go well - conceal it! Fling my cloak o'er what will be dust anon; Let not the soldiers see it. You must be 131 Arn. Removed; the aid of -Bourb. No, my gallant boy; Death is upon me. But what is one life? The Bourbon's spirit shall command them still. Keep them yet ignorant that I am but clay, Till they are conquerors — then do as you may. Cæs. Would not your highness choose to kiss the cross? We have no priest here, but the hilt of sword May serve instead: it did the same for Bay d.

Bourb. Thou bitter slave ! to name him at this time ! 140

- But I deserve it Arn. (to CÆSAR). Villain, hold your peace!
  - Cces. What, when a Christian dies? Shall I not offer
- A Christian 'Vade in pace'?
- Arn. Silence ' Oh ! Those eyes are glazing which o'erlook'd the world,

And saw no equal.

- Bourb. Arnold, shouldst thou see France — But hark! hark! the assault grows warmer — Oh !
- For but an hour, a minute more of life
- To die within the wall ! Hence, Arnold, hence !
- You lose time they will conquer Rome without thee.

Arn. And without thee !

- Bourb Not so; I'll lead them still 150 In spirit. Cover up my dust, and breathe
- not That I have ceased to breathe. Away! and
- be Victorious !

- Arn. But I must not leave thee thus. Bourb You must — farewell — Up ! up ! the world is winning. [BOURBON dies
- Cas. (to ARNOLD) Come, count, to business.
- Arn. True. I'll weep hereafter [ARNOLD covers BOURBON'S body with a manile, and
- mounts the ladder, crying
- The Bourbon ! Bourbon ! On, boys ! Rome is ours !
  - Cæs. Good night, lord constable ! thou wert a man.
- [CEESAR follows ARNOLD, they reach the battlement, ARNOLD and CEESAR are struch down
  - Cæs. A precious somerset! Is your countship injured ?
  - Arn. No. [Remounts the ladder Cces. A rare blood-hound, when his own is heated !
- And 't is no boy's play. Now he strikes them down ! 160
- His hand is on the battlement he grasps it

As though it were an altar; now his foot

- Is on it, and What have we here? a Roman? [A man falls
- The first bird of the covey ! he has fallen | And know thys
- On the outside of the nest Why, how now, fellow ?

Wounded Man. A drop of water ! Cas. Blood 's the only liquid

- Nearer than Tiber. Wounded Man. I have died for Rome
  - [Dres
  - Cæs. And so did Bourbon, in another sense
- Oh these immortal men! and their great motives!
- But I must after my young charge. He 18 170
- By this time i' the forum. Charge ! charge ! [CESAR mounts the ladder, the scene closes.

SCENE II

The Cuty — Combats between the Besurgers and Besurged in the streets Inhabitants flying in conjusion.

Enter Cæsar

Cas. I cannot find my hero; he is mix'd With the heroic crowd that now pursue The fugitives, or battle with the desperate. What have we here? A cardinal or two That do not seem in love with martyrdom.

- How the old red-shanks scamper! Could they doff
- Their hose as they have doff'd their hats, 't would be

A blessing, as a mark the less for plunder.

- But let them fly; the crimson kennels now Will not much stam their stockings, since the mire 181
- Is of the self-same purple hue
- Enter a party fighting ARNOLD at the head of the Bestegers

He comes,

Hand in hand with the mild twins - Gore and Glory

Holla ! hold, count !

- Arn. Away! they must not rall^r Cos. I tell thee, be not rash; a golden bridge
- Is for a flying enemy. I gave thee

A form of beauty, and an

- Exemption from some maladies of body,
- But not of mind, which is not mine to give.
- But though I gave the form of Thetis' son, 190
- I dipt thee not in Styx; and 'gainst a foe I would not warrant thy chivalric heart
- More than Pelides' heel ; why then, be cautious,

And know thyself a mortal still

Arn And who With aught of soul would combat if he were

The dice thereon. But I lose time in prat-Invulnerable? That were pretty sport Think'st thou I beat for hares when hons ing; [CESAR binds on the scarf roar? [ARNOLD rushes into the combat Prithee be quick Cæs. A precious sample of humanity ! And what dost thou so idly? Well, his blood's up; and if a little's Why dost not strike ? shed, Čæs Your old philosophers 'T will serve to curb his fever. Beheld mankind, as mere spectators of The Olympic games. When I behold a [ARNOLD engages with a Roman, who retues towards a portico prize Yield thee, slave ! 200 Worth wrestling for, I may be found a Arn. Milo I promise quarter. That's soon said Arn. Ay, 'gainst an oak. Rom.A forest, when it suits me, Arn. And done — Cæs My word is known. I combat with a mass, or not at all. 231 Meantime, pursue thy sport as I do mine ; Rom. So shall be my deeds. Which is just now to gaze, since all these [They re-engage CASAR comes forward. Cass. Why, Arnold ! hold thine own : labourers thou hast in hand Will reap my harvest gratis. Thou art still A famous artisan, a cunning sculptor; Arn. Also a dealer in the sword and dagger. A fiend ! Cæs And thou - a man. Not so, my musqueteer ; 't was he who slew Arn Why, such I fain would show me. The Bourbon from the wall. Ay, did he so? True - as men are. Cæs Arn. Then he hath carved his monument. Arn And what is that? Rom. I yet Cors. Thou feelest and thou seest. [Exit ARNOLD, joining in the combat which still con-tinues between detuched parties The scene closes May live to carve your betters'. Cas. Well said, my man of marble! Benvenuto. SCENE III Thou hast some practice in both ways; and St Peter's — The Internor of the Church — The Pope at the Altar — Priests, etc crowding in confusion, and Cutizens flying for refuge, pursued by Soldiery. he Who slays Cellini will have work'd as hard As e'er thou didst upon Carrara's blocks. Enter CÆSAR [ARNOLD disarms and wounds CELLINI, but slightly the latter draws a pistol, and fires, then retures, and disappears through the portico. A Spanish Soldier. Down with them, comrades ! sieze upon those lamps ! Cæs. How farest thou? Cleave you bald-pated shaveling to the Thou hast a chine ! taste, methinks, 239 Of red Bellona's banquet. His rosary's of gold! Arn. (staggers). 'T is a scratch. Lutheran Soldier. Revenge ! revenge ! Lend me thy scarf. He shall not 'scape Plunder hereafter, but for vengeance now me thus. Yonder stands Anti-Christ! Coes. Where is it? Cass (interposing). How now, Arn. In the shoulder, not schismatic ? the sword arm – What wouldst thou? And that's enough. I am thirsty : would Luth. Sold. In the holy name of Christ, Destroy proud Anti-Christ. I am a Chris-I had A helm of water ! tian Cces Yea, a disciple that would make That's a liquid now Cæs. In requisition, but by no means easiest 220 the founder Of your belief renounce it, could he see To come at. Such proselytes. But stint thyself to plun-Arn. And my thirst increases - but I'll find a way to quench it. der Or be guench'd Luth. Sold. I say he is the devil Cæs. Hush ! keep that secret, Thyself? Cæs. Arn. The chance is even ; we will throw Lest he should recognise you for his own.

Luth. Sold Why would you save him?	Demand some in return; no, no, he must
I repeat he is 250 The devil, or the devil's vicar upon earth. Cies And that's the reason: would you	not Fall;— and besides, his now escape may furnish make a quarrel With your best friends ? You had far best	A future muracle, in future proof Of his infallibility. [To the Spanish Soldiery.
be quiet;	Well, cut-throats ! 280
His hour is not yet come Luth. Sold. That shall be seen.	What do you pause for? If you make not haste,
[The Lutheran Soldier rushes forward, a shot strikes him from one of the Pope's Guards, and he falls at the foot of the Allar.	There will not be a link of pious gold left. And you, too, catholics! Would ye return From such a pilgrimage without a relic?
Cæs. (to the Lutheran). I told you so. Luth. Sold. And will you not avenge me?	The very Lutherans have more true devo- tion:
Cæs. Not I! You know that 'Vengeance is the Lord's '	See how they strip the shrines ! Soldiers. By holy Peter !
You see he loves no interlopers. Luth. Sold. Oh!	He speaks the truth; the heretics will bear The best away.
Had I but slain him, I had gone on high, Crown'd with eternal glory ! Heaven, for-	Cas. And that were shame ! Go to ! Assist in their conversion give My feebleness of arm that reach'd him	[The Soldiers disperse; many quit the Church, others enter not, 260	Cæs. They are gone,
And take thy servant to thy mercy. 'T is A glorious triumph still ; proud Babylon's	And others come: so flows the wave on wave 200
No more ; the Harlot of the Seven Hills	Of what these creatures call eternity,
Hath changed her scarlet raiment for sack- cloth	Deeming themselves the breakers of the ocean,
And ashes ! [The Lutheran dres	While they are but its bubbles, ignorant
Cas. Yes, thine own amidst the rest. Well done, old Babel !	That foam is their foundation. So, another !
	Enter OLIMPIA, flying from the pursuit She springs upon the Altar
[The Guards defend themselves desperately, while the Pontiff escapes, by a private passage, to the Vatican and the Castle of Saint Angelo	Sold. She's mine ! Another Sold (opposing the former). You
Cces. Ha! right nobly battled!	lie, I track'd her first; and were she
Now, priest ! now, soldier ! the two great professions,	The Pope's niece, I'll not yield her. [They fight.
Together by the ears and hearts ! I have not	3d Sold. (advancing toward OLIMPIA). You may settle
Seen a more comic pantomime since Titus Took Jewry; but the Romans had the best	Your claims; I'll make mine good Olimp Infernal slave !
then; 270	You touch me not alive.
Now they must take their turn. Soldiers He hath escaped !	3d Sold. Alive or dead ! Olimp. (embracing a massive crucifix).
Follow ! Another Sold. They have barr'd the nar-	Respect your God ! 3d Sold. Yes, when he shines in gold.
row passage up,	Girl, you but grasp your dowry.
And it is clogg'd with dead even to the door. Cæs. I am glad he hath escaped: he may	[As he advances, OLIMPIA, with a strong and sudden effort, casts down the crucifix · it strikes the Soldier, who falls
thank me for 't	3d Sold. Oh, great God ! 300
In part. I would not have his bulls abol- ish'd	Olimp Ah, now you recognise him ! 3d Sold. My brain 's crush'd !
'T were worth one half our empire: his indulgences	Comrades, help, ho! All's darkness! [He dues

Other Soldiers (coming up) Slay her, although she had a thousand lives : She hath kill'd our comrade.

Olimp. Welcome such a death ! You have no life to give, which the worst slave Would take. Great God ! through thy redeeming Son,

And thy Son's Mother, now receive me as I would approach thee, worthy her, and him, And thee !

Enter ABNOLD

Arn. What do I see? Accursèd jackals' Forbear !

Cæs. (aside and laughing). Ha! ha! here's equity! The dogs 310

Have as much right as he. But to the issue' Soldiers. Count, she hath slain our comrade.

Arn. With what weapon?

Sold. The cross, beneath which he is crush'd; behold hum

Lie there, more like a worm than man; she cast it

Upon his head.

Arn. Even so; there is a woman Worthy a brave man's liking. Were ye such,

- Ye would have honour'd her But get ye hence,
- And thank your meanness, other God you have none,
- For your existence. Had you touch'd a hair
- Of those dishevell'd locks, I would have thinn'd 320

Your ranks more than the enemy. Away !

Ye jackals ! gnaw the bones the lion leaves, But not even these till he permits.

A Sold. (murmuring) The lion Might conquer for himself then

Arn. (cuts him down) Mutineer ! Rebel in hell — you shall obey on earth !

- [The Soldiers assault ARNOLD Arn. Come on ! I'm glad on 't ! I will show you, slaves,
- How you should be commanded, and who led you

First o'er the wall you were so shy to scale, Until I waved my banners from its height, As you are bold within it.

[ABNOLD mows down the foremost, the rest throw down their arms.

Soldiers. Mercy ! mercy ! 330

Arn. Then learn to grant it! Have I taught you who Led you o'er Rome's eternal battlements? Solduers. We saw it, and we know it; yet forgive

A moment's error in the heat of conquest — The conquest which you led to.

- Arn. Get you hence ! Hence to your quarters ! you will find them fix'd
- In the Colonna palace.

Olimp. (aside). In my father's House !

- Arn. (to the Soldiers) Leave your arms; ye have no further need
- Of such: the city's render'd. And mark well
- You keep your hands clean, or I 'll find out a stream 340
- As red as Tiber now runs, for your baptism. Soldiers (deposing their arms and departing). We obey !
  - Arn. (to OLIMPIA). Lady, you are safe. Olimp. I should be so,

Had I a knife even; but it matters not -

Death hath a thousand gates; and on the marble,

Even at the altar foot, whence I look down Upon destruction, shall my head be dash'd, Ere thou ascend it. God forgive thee, man!

Arn. I wish to merit his forgiveness, and Thine own, although I have not injured thee.

- Olimp. No! Thou hast only sack'd my native land, — 350
- No injury ! and made my father's house A den of thieves ! No injury ! — this
- temple —

Shppery with Roman and with holy gore ! No injury ! And now thou wouldst preserve me,

To be - but that shall never be !

[She raises her eyes to Heaven, folds her robe round her, and prepares to dash herself down on the side of the Altar opposite to that where ARNOLD stands

Arn. I swear.

Hold! hold !

- Olimp Spare thine already forfeit soul
- A perjury for which even hell would loathe thee.

I know thee.

Arn. No, thou know'st me not; I am not Of these men, though —

Olump. I judge thee by thy mates; It is for God to judge thee as thou art. 360 I see thee purple with the blood of Rome;

Take mine, 'tis all thou e'er shalt have of me,	But somewhat late 1' the day. Where shall we bear her?
And here, upon the marble of this temple,	I say she lives
	Arn. And will she live?
Where the baptismal font baptized me God's,	Cæs. As much
I offer him a blood less holy But not loss nume (nume as it left me then	As dust can.
But not less pure (pure as it left me then,
A redeem'd infant) than the holy water	Arn. Then she is dead ' Cces. Bah! bah! You are so
The saints have sanctified !	And do not know it. She will come to life -
[OLIMPIA waves her hand to ARNOLD with disdain, and dashes herself on the pavement from the Altar.	Such as you think so, such as you now are,
	But we must work by human means.
I feel thee now! Help! help! She's gone.	Arn. We will Convey her unto the Colonna palace,
Cces. (approaches). I am here.	Where I have pitch'd my banner
Arn. Thou ! but, oh, save her !	Cas. Come then ! raise her up !
Cæs. (assisting him to raise OLIMPIA) She hath done it well! 370	Arn. Softly !
	Cas. As softly as they bear the dead,
The leap was serious. Arn. Oh, she is lifeless '	Perhaps because they cannot feel the jolt-
Cas. If	mg. 401
She be so, I have nought to do with that;	Arn. But doth she live indeed?
The resurrection is beyond me.	Cæs. Nay, never fear !
Arn. Slave!	But, if you rue it after, blame not me.
Cas. Ay, slave or master, 't is all one:	Arn. Let her but hve !
methinks	Cas The spirit of her life
Good words, however, are as well at times	Is yet within her breast, and may revive.
Arn. Words !- Canst thou aid her?	Count! count! I am your servant in all
Cas. I will try A sprinkling	things,
Of that same holy water may be useful	And this is a new office : — 't is not oft
[He brings some in his helmet from the font	I am employ'd in such; but you perceive
Arn 'T is mix'd with blood.	How stanch a friend is what you call a fiend.
Cres. There is no cleaner now	On earth you have often only fiends tor
In Rome.	friends; 410
Arn. How pale ! how beautiful ! how	Now I desert not mine. Soft! bear her lifeless ¹	hence,
Alive or dead, thou essence of all beauty,	The beautiful half-clay, and nearly spirit !
I love but thee !	I am almost enamour'd of her, as
Cæs Even so Achilles loved 381	Of old the angels of her earliest sex.
Penthesilea $\cdot$ with his form it seems	Arn. Thou !
You have his heart, and yet it was no soft one.	Cas. I! But fear not. I'll not
Arn. She breathes! But no, 't was no-	be your rival !
thing, or the last	Arn. Rival!
Faint flutter life disputes with death.	$C \alpha s.$ I could be one right formidable;
Cæs. She breathes	But since I slew the seven husbands of
Arn. Thou say'st it? Then 't is truth.	Tobias' future bride (and after all
Cæs. You do me right —	Was smoked out by some incense), I have
The devil speaks truth much oftener than	laid 419
he 's deem'd:	Aside intrigue: 't is rarely worth the trouble
He hath an ignorant audience	Of gaining, or — what is more difficult — Getting rid of your prize again: for there's
Arn. (without attending to him). Yes! her	The rub! at least to mortals.
heart beats	Arn. Prithee, peace !
Alas! that the first beat of the only heart	Softly ! methinks her lips move, her eyes
I ever wish'd to beat with mine should	open ' vibrate 399 To an assassin's pulse.	Cas. Like stars, no doubt; for that's a
Cos. A sage reflection,	metaphor

For Lucifer and Venus. Arn. To the palace Colonna, as I told you ! Cas. Oh ! I know My way through Rome. Arn. Now onward, onward ! Gently !

[Execut, bearing Olimpia. The scene closes.

PART III

SCENE I

A Castle in the Apennines, surrounded by a unld but smiling country. Chorus of Peasants singing before the Gates.

CHORUS

I

The wars are over, The spring is come; The bride and her lover Have sought their home: They are happy, we rejoice; Let their hearts have an echo in every voice !

2

The spring is come; the violet's gone, The first-born child of the early sun: With us she is but a winter's flower, The snow on the hills cannot blast her bower,

And she lifts up her dewy eye of blue To the youngest sky of the self-same hue.

3

And when the spring comes with her host Of flowers, that flower beloved the most Shrinks from the crowd that may confuse Her heavenly odour and virgin hues

4

Pluck the others, but still remember Their herald out of dim December — The morning star of all the flowers, The pledge of daylight's lengthen'd hours; Nor, midst the roses, e'er forget 21 The virgin, virgin violet.

Enter CESAR

Cccs. (singing). The wars are all over, Our swords are all idle, The steed bites the bridle, The casque's on the wall There's rest for the rover; But his armour is rusty, And the veteran grows crusty,

- As he yawns in the hall. He drinks — but what 's drinking? A mere pause from thinking!
- No bugle awakes him with life-anddeath call.

CHORUS

But the hound bayeth loudly, The boar's in the wood, And the falcon longs proudly To spring from her hood: On the wrist of the noble She sits like a crest, And the air is in trouble With birds from their nest Cas Oh ! shadow of glory ! Dim image of war ! But the chase hath no story, Her hero no star, Since Nimrod, the founder Of empire and chase, Whe woode the model arender

Who made the woods wonder And quake for their race.

- When the lion was young, In the pride of his might, Then 't was sport for the strong
- To embrace him in fight; To go forth, with a pine
- For a spear, 'gainst the mammoth,
- Or strike through the ravine At the foaming behemoth;
- While man was in stature
- As towers in our time, The first-born of Nature, And, like her, sublime !

CHORUS

But the wars are over, The spring 18 come; The bride and her lover

Have sought their home:

They are happy, and we rejoice;

Let their hearts have an echo from every voice ! [Exeant the Peasantry, singing.

[FRAGMENT of the third part of *The De*formed Transformed First published in the edition of 1901.]

CHORUS

When the merry bells are ringing, And the peasant girls are singing, And the early flowers are flinging Their odours in the air;

742

40

50

60

70

······································
And the honey bee is clinging To the buds; and birds are winging Their way, pair by pair Then the earth looks free from trouble With the brightness of a bubble; Though I did not make it, I could breathe on and break it; But too much I scorn it, Or else I would mourn it, So To see despots and slaves Playing o'er their own graves. Enter COUNT ARNOLD Mem Jealous—Arnold of Cæsar Olympia at first not liking Cæsar — then? — Arnold jealous of himself under his former figure, owing to the power of intellect, etc., etc. Arnold. You are merry, Sir — what? singing too? Cæsar It is The land of Song — and Canticles you know Were once my avocation Arn. Nothing moves you; You scoff even at your own calamity — And such calamity ! how wert thou fallen Son of the Morning ! and yet Lucifer Cas. His shape can — would you have ne weep, In the fair form I wear, to please you? Arn. Ah ! 90 Cæs. How mortals lie by instinct ! If you ask A disappointed courtier — What's the mat- ter? 'Nothing' — an outshone Beauty what has made Her smooth brow crisp — 'Oh, nothing !' — a young heir When his Sire has recover'd from the Gout, What ails him? 'Nothing !' or a Monarch who Has heard the truth, and looks imperial on it — What clouds his royal aspect? 'Nothing,' 'Nothing !' Nothing - fitese noth-	<ul> <li>And they themselves alone the real 'Nothings'</li> <li>Your present Nothing, too, is something to you —</li> <li>What is it?</li> <li>Arn. Know you not?</li> <li>Cas. I only know</li> <li>What I desire to know! and will not waste</li> <li>Omniscience upon phantoms. Out with it!</li> <li>If you seek and from me — or else be silent,</li> <li>And eat your thoughts — till they breed snakes within you.</li> <li>Arn. Olimpia!</li> <li>Cas. I thought as much — go on.</li> <li>Arn. I thought she had loved me.</li> <li>Cas. Blessings on your Creed! rie</li> <li>What a good Christian you were found to be!</li> <li>But what cold Sceptic hath appall'd your faith</li> <li>And transubstantiated to crumbs again</li> <li>The body of your Credence?</li> <li>Arn. No, she is calm, and meek, and silent with me,</li> <li>And coldly dutiful, and proudly patient — Endures my Love — not meets it Cas. That seems strange.</li> <li>You are beautiful and brave! the first is much</li> <li>For passion — and the rest for Vanity</li> <li>Arn. I saved her life, too; and her Father's life,</li> <li>And Father's house from ashes</li> <li>Cas. You cannot find what is not.</li> <li>But found would it content you? would you owe</li> <li>You seek for Gratitude — the Philosopher's stone.</li> <li>Arn. And find it not.</li> <li>Cas. You cannot find what is not.</li> <li>But found would it content you? would you owe</li> <li>You seek for Gratitude — the Philosopher's stone.</li> <li>Arn. And find it not.</li> <li>Cas. You cannot find what is not.</li> </ul>
	No! No! you would be loved - what you
On It	all loved
What clouds his royal aspect? Nothing,	all loved for nonrealf for noither
'Nothing !'
Nothing - eternal nothing - of these noth-	health.
	Nor wealth, nor youth, nor power, nor rank, ings	nor beauty — 130
All are a lie — for all to them are much !	. Hor beauty - 150

- For these you may be stript of but beloved As an abstraction — for — you know not what ! These are the wishes of a moderate lover -And so you love. Arn. Ah! could I be beloved, Would I ask wherefore? Cæs. Yes! and not believe Cæs. The answer - You are jealous. Arn. And of whom? Cas. It may be of yourself, for Jealousy Is as a shadow of the Sun. The Orb Is mighty — as you mortals deem — and to Slave. Your little Universe seems universal; 140 But, great as He appears, and is to you, The smallest cloud - the slightest vapour of Cæs. Leave her. Your humid earth enables you to look Arn. Upon a Sky which you revile as dull, Though your eyes dare not gaze on it when cloudless. Nothing can blund a mortal like to light. Now Love in you is as the Sun - a thing Beyond you - and your Jealousy's of quit Earth -A cloud of your own raising. Not so always ! Arn. There is a cause at times
- Cæs. Oh, yes ! when atoms jostle, 150 The System is in peril. But I speak

- Of things you know not. Well, to earth again!
- This precious thing of dust this bright Olimpia -

This marvellous Virgin, is a marble maid -An Idol, but a cold one to your heat

Promethean, and unkindled by your torch. Arn. Slave !

In the victor's Chariot, when Rome triumph'd,

- There was a Slave of yore to tell him truth !
- You are a Conqueror command your
  - Arn. Teach me the way to win the woman's love. 160
  - Were that the path --I'd not pursue it.
  - Cass. No doubt ' for if you did, the remedy
- Would be for a disease already cured
- Arn. All wretched as I am, I would not
- My unrequited love, for all that's happy. Cæs. You have possess'd the womanstill possess.

What need you more?

Arn. To be myself possess'd -To be her heart as she is mine.

DON JUAN

[The composition of Don Juan began in the autumn of 1818 and extended, with intermissions, until a few months before Byron's death. The fragment of the seventeenth Canto, which is here reproduced from the new Murray edition, was actually carried with him to Greece. The dates of composition and publication are as follows Canto I was written in September, 1818; Canto II in December, 1818, and January, 1819, Cantos I. and II were published July 15, 1819; Cantos III and IV were written in the following winter; Cantos I. in October and November of 1820; Cantos III, IV, and V. were published August 8, 1821, Cantos VI to XVI. were written between June, 1822, and March, 1823, Cantos VI., VII., VIII were published July 15, 1823, Cantos IX., X, XI, August 29, 1823; Cantos XII., XIII., XIV., December 17, 1823; Cantos XV., XVI., March 26, 1824. The first five cantos were issued by Murray without name of either author or publisher — and wisely, for the storm of obloquy roused by their mingled voluptuousness and scepticism was tremendous Naturally the authorship was an open secret, for who but Byron could have written them? The remaining cantos were prudently declined by Mr. Murray, and were finally brought out by John Hunt. — Byron shows no particular knowledge of the Don Juan story as treated by earlier poets, and the subject was manifestly a mere pretext in his hands for writing indiscriminately on whatever came into his mind, He speaks somewhere as intending to follow the regular epic tradition, with a picture of hell and the like; but it is hard to see how any miraculous conclusion could have been tacked on to the plot as it was progressing in the six-teenth and seventeenth cantos. Were this the proper place for such a discussion, it might be argued that Don Juan, in its actual form, was the only epic manner left for a poet of the nineteenth century to adopt with power of conviction. In one sense Don Juan is a satire, to many critics the greatest satire ever written; but it is something still more than that. It is the epic of_ modern life.]

744

Difficile est proprie communia dicere. - Hon.

'Dost thou think, because thou art virtuous, there shall be no more cakes and ale '-- Yes, by Saint Anne, and ginger shall be hot i' the mouth, too!'--SHAKSPEARE, Twelfth Night, or What You Will.

FRAGMENT

On the back of the Poet's MS of Canto I

I would to heaven that I were so much clay, As I am blood, bone, marrow. passion, feeling — Because at least the past were pass'd away — And for the future — (but I write this reeling, Having got drunk exceedingly to-day, So that I seem to stand upon the celling) I say — the future is a serious matter — And so — for God's sake — hock and soda-water '

DEDICATION

I

BOB SOUTHEY! You're a poet-Poetlaureate,

And representative of all the race,

- Although 't is true that you turn'd out a Tory at
  - Last, yours has lately been a common case;
- And now, my Epic Renegade ' what are ye at ?

With all the Lakers, in and out of place? A nest of tuneful persons, to my eye

Like 'four and twenty Blackbirds in a pye;'

1

- 'Which pye being open'd they began to sing'
- (This old song and new simile holds good), 10

'A dainty dish to set before the King,'

- Or Regent, who admires such kind of food; --
- And Coleridge, too, has lately taken wing, But like a hawk_encumber'd with his hood,—

Explaining metaphysics to the nation-

I wish he would explain his Explanation.

III

- You, Bob! are rather insolent, you know, At being disappointed in your wish
- To supersede all warblers here below, And be the only Blackbird in the dish;
- And then you overstrain yourself, or so, 21
- And tumble downward like the flying fish

- Gasping on deck, because you soar too high, Bob,
- And fall, for lack of moisture, quite a-dry, Bob!

IV

- And Wordsworth, in a rather long Excursion
- (I think the quarto holds five hundred pages),
- Has given a sample from the vasty version Of his new system to perplex the sages; 'T is poetry — at least by his assertion,
  - And may appear so when the dog-star rages — 30
- And he who understands it would be able To add a story to the Tower of Babel

v

- You Gentlemen ! by dint of long seclusion
- From better company, have kept your own
- At Keswick, and, through still continued fusion
  - Of one another's munds, at last have grown

To deem as a most logical conclusion,

- That Poesy has wreaths for you alone :
- There is a narrowness in such a notion,
- Which makes me wish you'd change your lakes for ocean 40

VI

I would not imitate the petty thought,

Nor com my self-love to so base a vice, For all the glory your conversion brought,

- Since gold alone should not have been its price
- You have your salary; was't for that you wrought?
  - And Wordsworth has his place in the Excise.
- You're shabby fellows true but poets still,
- And duly seated on the immortal hill.

VII

Your bays may hide the baldness of your brows —

Perhaps some virtuous blushes; — let them go — 50

To you I envy neither fruit nor boughs — And for the fame you would engross below, The field is universal, and allows

Scope to all such as feel the inherent glow: Rogers, Campbell, Moore, and Scott, Crabbe will try

'Gainst you the question with posterity.

VIII

- For me, who, wandering with pedestrian Muses.
  - Contend not with you on the winged steed,
- I wish your fate may yield ye, when she chooses,
  - The fame you envy and the skill you need: 60

And recollect a poet nothing loses

In giving to his brethren their full meed Of merit, and complaint of present days Is not the certain path to future praise.

IX

He that reserves his laurels for posterity (Who does not often claim the bright reversion)

Has generally no great crop to spare it, he Being only injured by his own assertion;

- And although here and there some glorious rarity
  - Arise like Titan from the sea's immersion,
- The major part of such appellants go To God knows where for no one else can know.

x

If, fallen in evil days on evil tongues

Milton appeal'd to the Avenger, Time,

- If Time, the Avenger, execrates his wrongs, And makes the word 'Miltonic' mean 'sublime,
- He deign'd not to belie his soul in songs, Nor turn his very talent to a crime,
- He did not loathe the Sire to laud the Son, ut closed the tyrant-hater he begun. 80

XI

- Think'st thou, could he the blind Old Man — arise
  - Like Samuel from the grave, to freeze once more
- The blood of monarchs with his prophecies, Or be alive again - again all hoar
- With time and trials, and those helpless eyes,

And heartless daughters - worn - and pale - and poor;

Would he adore a sultan? he obey

The intellectual eunuch Castlereagh?

XII

- Cold-blooded, smooth-faced, placid miscreant !
  - Dabbling its sleek young hands in Erin's gore,
- And thus for wider carnage taught to pant, Transferr'd to gorge upon a sister shore.
- The vulgarest tool that Tyranny could want,
  - With just enough of talent, and no more,
- To lengthen fetters by another fix'd.
- And offer poison long already mix'd.

XIII

- An orator of such set trash of phrase Ineffably - legitimately vile,
- That even its grossest flatterers dare not praise,
  - Nor foes all nations condescend to smile, -
- Not even a sprightly blunder's spark can blaze
  - From that Ixion grindstone's ceaseless toil,
- That turns and turns to give the world a notion
- Of endless torments and perpetual motion.

XIV

- A bungler even in its disgusting trade,
- And botching, patching, leaving still behmd
- Something of which its masters are afraid, States to be curb'd and thoughts to be confined,
- Conspiracy or Congress to be made -
- Cobbling at manacles for all mankind -A tinkering slave-maker, who mends old
- chains, TIT With God and man's abhorrence for its gains.

χv

- If we may judge of matter by the mind, Emasculated to the marrow It
- Hath but two objects, how to serve and bind,
- Deeming the chain it wears even men may fit,

Eutropius of its many masters, - blind

To worth as freedom, wisdom as to wit, Fearless — because no feeling dwells in ice, Its very courage stagnates to a vice. 120

XVI

- Where shall I turn me not to view its bonds, For I will never feel them ? — Italy !
- Thy late reviving Roman soul desponds Beneath the lie this State-thing breathed
- o'er thee -Thy clanking chain, and Erin's yet green
- wounds. Have voices, tongues to cry aloud for me.
- Europe has slaves, allies, kings, armies still.
- And Southey lives to sing them very ill.

XVIII

- Meantime, Sir Laureate, I proceed to dedi-~ cate,
- In honest simple verse, this song to you
- And, if in flattering strams I do not predicate,
  - 'T is that I still retain my 'buff and blue;

My politics as yet are all to educate: Apostasy's so fashionable, too,

To keep one creed's a task grown quite Herculean;

Is it not so, my Tory, ultra-Julian? VENICE, September 16, 1818.

CANTO THE FIRST τ

I WANT a hero · an uncommon want,

When every year and month sends forth a new one,

Till, after cloying the gazettes with cant, The age discovers he is not the true one;

Of such as these I should not care to vaunt. I'll therefore take our ancient friend Don Juan -

We all have seen him, in the pantomime, Sent to the devil somewhat ere his time.

TT

- Vernon, the butcher Cumberland, Wolfe, Hawke,
  - Prince Ferdinand, Granby, Burgoyne, Keppel, Howe,
- Evil and good, have had their tithe of talk, And fill'd their sign posts then, like Wellesley now;

- Each in their turn like Banquo's monarchs stalk,
  - Followers of fame, 'nine farrow' of that sow:
- France, too, had Buonaparté and Dumourier

Recorded in the Moniteur and Courier.

111

Barnave, Brissot, Condorcet, Mırabeau,

- Petion, Clootz, Danton, Marat, La Fayette,
- Were French, and famous people, as we  $\operatorname{know}$ :
- And there were others, scarce forgotten vet
- Joubert, Hoche, Marceau, Lannes, Desaix, Moreau,

With many of the military set,

Exceedingly remarkable at times,

But not at all adapted to my rhymes.

τv

- Nelson was once Britannia's god of war,
- And still should be so, but the tide is turn'd;

There's no more to be said of Trafalgar, 'T is with our hero quietly inurn'd;

Because the army 's grown more popular, 29 At which the naval people are concern'd;

Besides, the prince is all for the land-service, Forgetting Duncan, Nelson, Howe, and Jervis.

Brave men were living before Agamemnon

And since, exceeding valorous and sage, A good deal like him too, though quite the

- same none;
- But then they shone not on the poet's page,
- And so have been forgotten: I condemn none,

But can't find any in the present age

Fit for my poem (that is, for my new one); So, as I said, I'll take my friend Don Juan.

VT

- Most epic poets plunge 'in medias res' 41 (Horace makes this the heroic turnpike road),
- And then your hero tells, whene'er you please,
  - What went before by way of episode,

While seated after dinner at his ease.

Beside his mistress in some soft abode, Palace, or garden, paradise, or cavern,

Which serves the happy couple for a tayern.

VII

That is the usual method, but not mine -My way is to begin with the beginning; 50

The regularity of my design Forbids all wandering as the worst of sunning,

And therefore I shall open with a line

(Although it cost me half an hour m spinning)

Narrating somewhat of Don Juan's father, And also of his mother, if you'd rather.

VIII

In Seville was he born, a pleasant city, Famous for oranges and women — he

Who has not seen it will be much to pity,

- So says the proverb and I quite agree; Of all the Spanish towns is none more pretty,
- 61 Cadiz perhaps - but that you soon may see:

Don Juan's parents lived beside the river, A noble stream, and call'd the Guadalquivir.

IX

His father's name was José - Don, of course, ~

A true Hidalgo, free from every stain

- Of Moor or Hebrew blood, he traced his source
  - Through the most Gothic gentlemen of Spain;

A better cavalier ne'er mounted horse.

Or, being mounted, e'er got down again,

Than José, who begot our hero, who 71 Begot — but that's to come — Well, to renew:

x

His mother was a learned lady, famed

For every branch of every science known In every Christian language ever named,

With virtues equall'd by her wit alone,

- She made the cleverest people quite ashamed,
- And even the good with inward envy groan,
- Finding themselves so very much exceeded In their own way by all the things that she did. 80

хī

Her memory was a mine: she knew by heart All Calderon and greater part of Lopé,

So that if any actor miss'd his part

She could have served him for the prompter's copy;

For her Feinagle's were an useless art,

And he himself obliged to shut up shop — he Could never make a memory so fine as

That which adorn'd the brain of Donna Inez.

хII

Her favourite science was the mathematical, Her noblest virtue was her magnanimity,

- Her wit (she sometimes tried at wit) was Attic all,
  - Her serious sayings darken'd to sublimitv:
- In short, in all things she was fairly what I call
  - A prodigy --- her morning dress was dimity,
- Her evening silk, or, in the summer, muslın.
- And other stuffs, with which I won't stay puzzling

XIII

- She knew the Latin that is, 'the Lord's prayer,
  - And Greek the alphabet I'm nearly sure;
- She read some French romances here and there,
  - Although her mode of speaking was not pure 100
- For native Spanish she had no great care, At least her conversation was obscure;
- Her thoughts were theorems, her words a problem,
- As if she deem'd that mystery would ennoble 'em.

XIV

She liked the English and the Hebrew tongue,

And said there was analogy between 'em; She proved it somehow out of sacred song,

- But I must leave the proofs to those who've seen 'em;
- But this I heard her say, and can't be wrong,

And all may think which way their judgments lean 'em, 110

"T is strange — the Hebrew noun which means "I am," The English always use to govern dn.'	Don José, like a lineal son of Eve, Went plucking various fruit without her leave.
xv	XIX
Some women use their tongues — she look'd a lecture, Each eye a sermon, and her brow a hom- ily, An all-in-all sufficient self-director, Like the lamented late Sir Samuel Ro-	He was a mortal of the careless kind, With no great love for learning, or the learn'd, Who chose to go where'er he had a mind, And never dream'd his lady was con- cern'd;
milly, The Law's expounder, and the State's cor- rector, Whose suicide was almost an anomaly — One sad example more, that 'All is van-	The world, as usual, wickedly inclined To see a kingdom or a house o'erturn'd, Whisper'd he had a mistress, some said two — 151 But for domestic quarrels one will do.
ity'
(The jury brought their verdict in 'In- sanity'). 220 XVI	XX Now Donna Inez had, with all her merit, A great opinion of her own good quali- ties;
In short, she was a walking calculation, Miss Edgeworth's novels stepping from their covers,	Neglect, indeed, requires a saint to bear it, And such, indeed, she was in her morali- ties;
Or Mrs. Trimmer's books on education, Or 'Cœlebs' Wife' set out in quest of lovers,	But then she had a devil of a spirit, And sometimes mix'd up fancies with realities,
Morality's prim personification, In which not Envy's self a flaw discov- ers;	And let few opportunities escape Of getting her liege lord into a scrape. 160
To others' share let 'female errors fall,'	XXI
For she had not even one — the worst of all.	This was an easy matter with a man Oft in the wrong, and never on his
XVII Oh taha maafaat aaatall mamallal	guard; And even the wisest, do the best they can,
Oh ! she was perfect past all parallel — 129 Of any modern female saint's comparison; So far above the cunning powers of hell,	Have moments, hours, and days, so un- prepared,
Her guardian angel had given up his gar- rison;	That you might 'brain them with their lady's fan;'
Even her minutest motions went as well. As those of the best time-piece made by Harrison:	And sometimes ladies hit exceeding hard, And fans turn into falchions in fair hands, And why and wherefore no one under-
In virtues nothing earthly could surpass her, Save thine 'incomparable oil,' Macassar!	stands. XXII
XVIII	'T is pity learned virgins ever wed
Perfect she was, but as perfection is Insipid in this naughty world of ours, Where our first parents never learn'd to kiss	With persons of no sort of education, 170 Or gentlemen, who, though well born and bred,
Till they were exiled from their earlier bowers, ¹⁴⁹	Grow tired of scientific conversation: I don't choose to say much upon this head, I'm a plain man, and in a single station,
Where all was peace , and i ocence, and bliss (I wonder how they got through the twelve hours),	But — Oh ! ye lords of ladies intellectual, Inform us truly, have they not hen-peck'd you all?

xxm

Don José and his lady quarrell'd — why, Not any of the many could divine,

- Though several thousand people chose to try, 'T was surely no concern of theirs nor mine:
- I loathe that low vice curiosity;

But if there's anything in which I shine, 'T is in arranging all my friends' affairs, Not having of my own domestic cares.

XXIV

- And so I interfered, and with the best Intentions, but their treatment was not kind;
- I think the foolish people were possess'd, For neither of them could I ever find,
- Although their porter afterwards confess'd—
  - But that's no matter, and the worst's behind,
- For little Juan o'er me threw, down stairs, A pail of housemaid's water unawares.

xxv

A little curly-headed, good-for-nothing, And mischief-making monkey from his birth:

His parents ne'er agreed except in doting Upon the most unquiet imp on earth;

- Instead of quarrelling, had they been but both in
  - Their senses, they'd have sent young master forth

To school, or had him soundly whipp'd at home.

To teach him manners for the time to come.

XXVI

Don José and the Donna Inez led

For some time an unhappy sort of life, Wishing each other, not divorced, but dead;

They lived respectably as man and wife, Their conduct was exceedingly well-bred,

- And gave no outward signs of inward strife,
- Until at length the smother'd fire broke out,

And put the business past all kind of doubt.

XXVII

- For Inez call'd some druggists and physicians,
  - And tried to prove her loving lord was mad; 210

But as he had some lucid intermissions, She next decided he was only bad.

- Yet when they ask'd her for her depositions.
- No sort of explanation could be had.

Save that her duty both to man and God

Required this conduct — which seem'd very odd.

XXVIII

- She kept a journal, where his faults were noted,
- And open'd certain trunks of books and letters,
- All which might, if occasion served, be quoted;

And then she had all Seville for abettors, 220

- Besides her good old grandmother (who doted);
  - The hearers of her case became repeaters,
- Then advocates, inquisitors, and judges,
- Some for amusement, others for old grudges

XXIX

- And then this best and weakest woman bore
- With such serenity her husband's woes,
- Just as the Spartan ladies did of yore,
- Who saw their spouses kill'd, and nobly chose
- Never to say a word about them more Calmly she heard each calumny that rose. 220
- And saw his agonies with such sublimity.
- That all the world exclaim'd, 'What magnanimity !'

XXX

No doubt this patience, when the world is damning us,

Is philosophic in our former friends;

- 'T is also pleasant to be deem'd magnanimous,
  - The more so in obtaining our own ends;
- And what the lawyers call a 'malus animus'

Conduct like this by no means comprehends;

Revenge in person's certainly no virtue,

But then 't is not my fault, if others hurt you. 240 XXXI

- And if your quarrels should rip up old stories,
- And help them with a lie or two additional,
- I'm not to blame, as you well know no more is
  - Any one else they were become traditional;
- Besides, their resurrection aids our glories By contrast, which is what we just were wishing all:

And science profits by this resurrection -

Dead scandals form good subjects for dissection.

XXXII

- Their friends had tried at reconciliation, Then their relations, who made matters worse. 250
- ('T were hard to tell upon a like occasion
- To whom it may be best to have recourse ---
- I can't say much for friend or yet relation): The lawyers did their utmost for divorce,
- But scarce a fee was paid on either side Before, unluckily, Don José died.

XXXIII

- He died: and most unluckily, because, According to all hints I could collect
- From counsel learned in those kinds of laws (Although their talk's obscure and cir-
- cumspect), 260 His death contrived to spoil a charming cause; A thousand pities also with respect To public feeling, which on this occasion Was manifested in a great sensation.

XXXIV

But, ah ! he died; and buried with him lay The public feeling and the lawyers' fees:

- His house was sold, his servants sent away, A Jew took one of his two mistresses,
- A priest the other at least so they say:

I ask'd the doctors after his disease — He died of the slow fever call'd the tertian, And left his widow to her own aversion.

XXXV

Yet José was an honourable man, That I must say who knew him very well;

Therefore his fiailties I'll no further scan

Indeed there were not many more to tell;

And if his passions now and then outran

- Discretion, and were not so peaceable As Numa's (who was also named Pompilus),
- He had been ill brought up, and was born bilious. 280

XXXVI

- Whate'er might be his worthlessness or worth,
- Poor fellow! he had many things to wound him.
- Let's own—since it can do no good on earth—
  - It was a trying moment that which found him
- Standing alone beside his desolate hearth,
  - Where all his household gods lay shiver'd round him:
- No choice was left his feelings or his pride, Save death or Doctors' Commons — so he died.

XXXVII

- Dying intestate, Juan was sole heir
- To a chancery suit, and messuages, and lands, 290 Which, with a long minority and care,
- Promised to turn out well in proper hands:
- Inez became sole guardian, which was fair, And answer'd but to nature's just demands;
- An only son left with an only mother
- Is brought up much more wisely than another.

XXXVIII

- Sagest of women, even of widows, she
  - Resolved that Juan should be quite a paragon,
- And worthy of the noblest pedigree
- (His sire was of Castile, his dam from Aragon): 300
- Then for accomplishments of chivalry, In case our lord the king should go to war again,
- He learn'd the arts of riding, fencing, gunnery,

And how to scale a fortress - or a nunnery.

λXXIX

- But that which Donna Inez most desired,
- And saw into herself each day before all

The learned tutors whom for him she hired, Was, that his breeding should be strictly moral:

Much into all his studies she inquired,

- And so they were submitted first to her, all, 310
- Arts, sciences, no branch was made a mystery

To Juan's eyes, excepting natural history.

XL

The languages, especially the dead,

The sciences, and most of all the abstruse, The arts, at least all such as could be said

- To be the most remote from common use, In all these he was much and deeply read;
- But not a page of any thing that 's loose, Or hints continuation of the species,
- Was ever suffer'd, lest he should grow vicious. 320

XLI

His classic studies made a little puzzle,

Because of filthy loves of gods and goddesses,

Who in the earlier ages raised a bustle,

But never put on pantaloons or bodices;

- His reverend tutors had at times a tussle, And for their Æneids, Iliads, and Odysseys,
- Were forced to make an odd sort of apol-
- For Donna Inez dreaded the Mythology.

XLII

Ovid's a rake, as half his verses show him, Anacreon's morals are a still worse sample, 330

Catullus scarcely has a decent poem,

- I don't think Sappho's Ode a good example, Although Longinus tells us there is no hymn
- Where the sublime soars forth on wings more ample:
- But Virgil's songs are pure, except that horrid one
- Beginning with 'Formosum Pastor Corydon.'

XLIII

Lucretius' irreligion is too strong,

- For early stomachs, to prove wholesome food;
- I can't help thinking Juvenal was wrong, Although no doubt his real intent was good, 340

For speaking out so plainly in his song,

So much indeed as to be downright rude; And then what proper person can be partial To all those nauseous epigrams of Martial?

XLIV

Juan was taught from out the best edition, Expurgated by learned men, who place,

- Judiciously, from out the schoolboy's vision,
- The grosser parts; but, fearful to deface Too much their modest bard by this omission,

And pitying sore his mutilated case, 350 They only add them all in an appendix,

Which saves, in fact, the trouble of an index;

XLV

- For there we have them all 'at one fell swoop,'
  - Instead of being scatter'd through the pages;
- They stand forth marshall'd in a handsome troop,
  - To meet the ingenuous youth of future ages,
- Till some less rigid editor shall stoop
  - To call them back into their separate cages,

Instead of standing staring all together,

Like garden gods — and not so decent either. 360

XLVI

- The Missal too (it was the family Missal) Was ornamented in a sort of way
- Which ancient mass-books often are, and this all
- Kinds of grotesques illumined; and how they,
- Who saw those figures on the margin kiss all,
- Could turn their optics to the text and pray,
- Is more than I know But Don Juan's mother
- Kept this herself, and gave her son another.

XLVII

- Sermons he read, and lectures he endured,
- And homilies, and lives of all the saints; To Jerome and to Chrysostom inured, 37^x
- He did not take such studies for restraints;

But how faith is acquired, and then en-

So well not one of the aforesaid paints As Saint Augustine in his fine Confessions,

Which make the reader envy his transgressions.

XLVIII

- This, too, was a seal'd book to little Juan I can't but say that his mamma was right, If such an education was the true one
- She scarcely trusted him from out her sight; 380
- Her maids were old, and if she took a new one,
  - You might be sure she was a perfect fright;
- She did this during even her husband's life —
- 1 recommend as much to every wife.

XLIX

Young Juan wax'd in goodliness and grace; At six a charming child, and at eleven

- With all the promise of as fine a face As e'er to man's maturer growth was
- given.
- He studied steadily, and grew apace,
- And seem'd, at least, in the right road to heaven, 390
- For half his days were pass'd at church, the other
- Between his tutors, confessor, and mother.

L

- At six, I said, he was a charming child, At twelve he was a fine, but quiet boy;
- Although in infancy a little wild, They tamed him down amongst them: to destrov

His natural spirit not in vain they toil'd.

- At least it seem'd so; and his mother's joy
- Was to declare how sage, and still, and steady, 399
- Her young philosopher was grown already.

LI

- I had my doubts, perhaps I have them still, But what I say is neither here nor there:
- I knew his father well, and have some skill
- In character but it would not be fair From sire to son to augur good or ill:

He and his wife were an ill-sorted pair -

But scandal's my aversion — I protest Against all evil speaking, even in jest.

LII

- For my part I say nothing nothing but
  - This I will say my reasons are my own - 410
- That if I had an only son to put To school (as God be praised that I have
  - none),
- 'T is not with Donna Inez I would shut
- Hum up to learn his catechism alone,
- No no I'd send him out betimes to college,
- For there it was I pick'd up my own knowledge.

LIII

- For there one learns 't is not for me to boast,
  - Though I acquired but I pass over that,
- As well as all the Greek I since have lost: I say that there's the place — but 'Verbum sat.' 420
- I think I pick'd up too, as well as most, Knowledge of matters — but no matter what —
- I never married but, I think, I know That sons should not be educated so

LIV

- Young Juan now was sixteen years of age,
  - Tall, handsome, slender, but well knit: he seem'd
- Active, though not so sprightly, as a page; And everybody but his mother deem'd
- Him almost man; but she flew in a rage And bit her lips (for else she might have
  - scream'd) 430
- If any said so, for to be precocious Was in her eyes a thing the most atrocious.

LV

Amongst her numerous acquaintance, all Selected for discretion and devotion,

- There was the Donna Julia, whom to call Pretty were but to give a feeble notion
- Of many charms in her as natural As sweetness to the flower, or salt to ocean.

Her zone to Venus, or his bow to Cupid (But this last simile is trite and stupid). 44 I

lvi

The darkness of her Oriental eye Accorded with her Moorish origin

(Her blood was not all Spanish, by the by;

In Spain, you know, this is a sort of sin); When proud Granada fell, and, forced to fly, Boabdıl wept, of Donna Julia's kin Some went to Africa, some stay'd in Spain, Her great-great-grandmamma chose to remam.

LVII

She married (I forget the pedigree)

- With an Hidalgo, who transmitted down His blood less noble than such blood should be:
- At such alliances his sires would frown, In that point so precise in each degree
- That they bred in and in, as might be shown,
- Marrying their cousins nay, their aunts, and nieces,
- Which always spoils the breed, if it increases.

LVIII

- This heathenish cross restored the breed again,
  - Ruin'd its blood, but much improved its flesh;

For from a root the ugliest in Old Spain

Sprung up a branch as beautiful as fresh; The sons no more were short, the daughters

- plain. 461 But there 's a rumour which I fain would
- hush,

'T is said that Donna Julia's grandmamma

Produced her Don more heirs at love than law.

LIX

However this might be, the race went on Improving still through every generation, Until it centred in an only son,

Who left an only daughter; my narration May have suggested that this single one 469

Could be but Julia (whom on this occasion I shall have much to speak about), and she Was married, charming, chaste, and twenty-three.

$\mathbf{L}\mathbf{X}$

Her eye (I'm very fond of handsome eyes) Was large and dark, suppressing half its fire Until she spoke, then through its soft disguise

Flash'd an expression more of pride than ure,

- And love than either; and there would arise
  - A something in them which was not desire,
- But would have been, perhaps, but for the soul
- Which struggled through and chasten'd down the whole. 480

LXI

- Her glossy hair was cluster'd o'er a brow
- Bright with intelligence, and fair, and smooth;
- Her eyebrow's shape was like th'aerial bow, Her cheek all purple with the beam of youth,

Mounting at times to a transparent glow,

- As if her veins ran lightning; she, in sooth,
- Possess'd an air and grace by no means common:
- Her stature tall I hate a dumpy woman.

LXII

Wedded she was some years, and to a man Of fifty, and such husbands are in plenty;

And yet, I think, instead of such a ONE 497 'T were better to have TWO of five-and-

- twenty,
- Especially in countries near the sun:
  - And now I think on't, 'mi vien in mente,'
- Ladies even of the most uneasy virtue
- Prefer a spouse whose age is short of thirty.

LXIII

'T is a sad thing, I cannot choose but say, And all the fault of that indecent sun,

- Who cannot leave alone our helpless clay, But will keep baking, broiling, burning on, 500
- That howsoever people fast and pray, The flesh is frail, and so the soul undone.

What men call gallantry, and gods adultery, -Is much more common where the climate's_ sultry.

LXIV

Happy the nations of the moral North ! Where all 1s virtue, and the winter season

- Sends sin, without a rag on, shivering forth ('T was snow that brought St Anthony to reason);
- Where juries cast up what a wife is worth, By laying whate'er sum in mulct they please on 510

The lover, who must pay a handsome price, Because it is a marketable vice.

LXV

Alfonso was the name of Julia's lord,

- A man well looking for his years, and who
- Was neither much beloved nor yet abhorr'd. They lived together, as most people do,
- Suffering each other's foibles by accord, And not exactly either one or two,
- Yet he was jealous, though he did not show it, 519
- For jealousy dislikes the world to know it

lxvi

- Julia was yet I never could see why With Donna Inez quite a favourite friend;
- Between their tastes there was small sympathy,

For not a line had Julia ever penn'd.

Some people whisper (but no doubt they lie,

For malice still imputes some private end) That Inez had, ere Don Alfonso's marriage, Forgot with him her very prudent carriage;

LXVII

- And that still keeping up the old connection, Which time had lately render'd much more chaste, 530
- She took his lady also in affection, And certainly this course was much the best
- She flatter'd Julia with her sage protection, And complimented Don Alfonso's taste;
- And if she could not (who can?) silence scandal,
- At least she left it a more slender handle.

LXVIII

- I can't tell whether Julia saw the affair With other people's eyes, or if her own
- Discoveries made, but none could be aware Of this, at least no symptom e'er was shown; 540
- Perhaps she did not know, or did not care, Indifferent from the first or callous grown:

I'm really puzzled what to think or say, She kept her counsel in so close a way.

LXIX

- Juan she saw, and, as a pretty child,
- Caress'd him often such a thing might be
- Quite innocently done, and harmless styled, When she had twenty years, and thirteen he;
- But I am not so sure I should have smiled When he was sixteen, Julia twenty-
- three; 550 These few short years make wondrous
- alterations,

Particularly amongst sun-burnt nations.

LXX

- Whate'er the cause might be, they had become
  - Changed; for the dame grew distant, the youth shy,
- Their looks cast down, their greetings almost dumb,

And much embarrassment in either eye; There surely will be little doubt with some

That Donna Julia knew the reason why, But as for Juan, he had no more notion 559 Than he who never saw the sea of ocean.

LXXI

Yet Julia's very coldness still was kind, And tremulously gentle her small hand

Withdrew itself from his, but left behind A little pressure, thrilling, and so bland

- And slight, so very slight, that to the mind
  - 'T was but a doubt ; but ne'er magician's wand

Wrought change with all Armida's fairy art Like what this light touch left on Juan's heart

LXXII

- And if she met him, though she smiled no more,
- She look'd a sadness sweeter than her smile, 570
- As if her heart had deeper thoughts in store
  - She must not own, but cherish'd more the while

For that compression in its burning core; Even innocence itself has many a wile,

And will not dare to trust itself with truth, And love is taught hypocrisy from youth.

LXXIII

But passion most dissembles, yet betrays Even by its darkness; as the blackest sky Foretells the heaviest tempest, it displays Its workings through the vainly guarded eye, 580 And in whatever aspect 1t arrays

Itself, 't is still the same hypocrisy; Coldness or anger, even disdam or hate,

Are masks it often wears, and still too late.

LXXIV

Then there were sighs, the deeper for suppression,

And stolen glances, sweeter for the theft, And burning blushes, though for no transgression,

Tremblings when met, and restlessness when left;

- All these are little preludes to possession,
- Of which young passion cannot be bereft, 590
- And merely tend to show how greatly love is

Embarrass'd at first starting with a novice.

LXXV

Poor Julia's heart was in an awkward state; She felt it going, and resolved to make

- The noblest efforts for herself and mate, For honour's, pride's, religion's, virtue's
  - sake;

Her resolutions were most truly great,

And almost might have made a Tarquin quake:

She pray'd the Virgin Mary for her grace, As being the best judge of a lady's case. 600

LXXVI

She vow'd she never would see Juan more, And next day paid a visit to his mother,

- And look'd extremely at the opening door, Which, by the Virgin's grace, let in another;
- Grateful she was, and yet a little sore Again it opens, it can be no other,

'T is surely Juan now - No! I'm afraid

That night the Virgin was no further pray'd

LXXVII

- She now determined that a virtuous woman
  - Should rather face and overcome temptation, 610

That flight was base and dastardly, and no man

- Should ever give her heart the least sensation;
- That is to say, a thought beyond the common Preference, that we must feel upon occasion

For people who are pleasanter than others, But then they only seem so many brothers.

LXXVIII

- And even if by chance and who can tell? The devil's so very sly — she should discover
- That all within was not so very well,
- And, if still free, that such or such a lover 620
- Might please perhaps, a virtuous wife can quell
  - Such thoughts, and be the better when they 're over;
- And if the man should ask, 't is but denial:

I recommend young ladies to make trial.

LXXIX

And then there are such things as love divine,

Bught and immaculate, unmix'd and pure, Such as the angels think so very fine,

- And matrons who would be no less secure,
- Platonic, perfect, 'just such love as mine;' Thus Julia said — and thought so, to be sure; 630

And so I'd have her think, were I the man On whom her reveries celestial ran.

LXXX

Such love is innocent, and may exist

Between young persons without any danger.

- A hand may first, and then a lup be kist;
- For my part, to such doings I 'm a stranger,
- But hear these freedoms form the utmost list
  - Of all o'er which such love may be a ranger:

If people go beyond, 't is quite a crime, 639 But not my fault — I tell them all in time.

LXXXI

Love, then, but love within its proper limits, Was Julia's innocent determination

In young Don Juan's favour, and to him its Exertion might be useful on occasion;

- And, lighted at too pure a shrine to dim its Ethereal lustre, with what sweet persuasion
- He might be taught, by love and her together —
- I really don't know what, nor Julia either.

LXXXII

- Fraught with this fine intention, and well fenced 649
- In mail of proof her purity of soul She, for the future of her strength convinced,
- And that her honour was a rock, or mole, Exceeding sagely from that hour dispensed
- With any kind of troublesome control;
- But whether Julia to the task was equal
- Is that which must be mention'd in the sequel.

LXXXIII

- Her plan she deem'd both innocent and feasible,
- And, surely, with a stripling of sixteen
- Not scandal's fangs could fix on much that 's seizable,
- Or if they did so, satisfied to mean 660 Nothing but what was good, her breast was
- peaceable A quiet conscience makes one so serene ! Christians have burnt each other, quite per-
- suaded
- That all the Apostles would have done as they did

LXXXIV

- And if in the mean time her husband died, But Heaven forbid that such a thought should cross
- Her brain, though in a dream ! (and then she sigh'd)
  - Never could she survive that common loss;
- But just suppose that moment should betide, I only say suppose it — inter nos. 670
- This should be entre nous, for Julia thought
- In French, but then the rhyme would go for naught )

LXXXV

- I only say suppose this supposition:
- Juan being then grown up to man's estate
- Would fully suit a widow of condition, Even seven years hence it would not be
  - too late;

And in the interim (to pursue this vision) The misch ef, after all, could not be great, For he would learn the rudiments of love, I mean the seraph way of those above. 680

LXXXVI

- So much for Julia. Now we'll turn to Juan. Poor little fellow! he had no idea
- Of his own case, and never hit the true one; In feelings quick as Ovid's Miss Medea,
- He puzzled over what he found a new one, But not as yet imagined it could be a
- Thing quite in course, and not at all alarming,
- Which, with a little patience, might grow charming.

LXXXVII

Silent and pensive, idle, restless, slow, 689 His home deserted for the lonely wood,

Tormented with a wound he could not know, His, like all deep grief, plunged in solitude:

- I'm fond myself of solitude or so,
- But then, I beg it may be understood,
- By solitude I mean a sultan's, not A hermit's, with a haram for a grot.

LXXXVIII

'Oh Love' in such a wilderness as this, Where transport and security entwine,

- Here is the empire of thy perfect bliss, 699 And here thou art a god indeed divine.
- The bard I quote from does not sing amiss, With the exception of the second line,
- For that same twining 'transport and security '
- Are twisted to a phrase of some obscurity.

LXXXIX

The poet meant, no doubt, and thus appeals To the good sense and senses of mankind, The very thing which every body feels,

- As all have found on trial, or may find,
- That no one likes to be disturb'd at meals Or love — I won't say more about 'en-
- twined ' 710 Or 'transport,' as we knew all that before, But beg 'Security' will bolt the door.

xc

- Young Juan wander'd by the glassy brooks. Thinking unutterable things; he threw
- Himself at length within the leafy nooks
  - Where the wild branch of the cork forest grew:

There poets find materials for their books, And every now and then we read them through,

So that their plan and prosody are eligible, Unless, like Wordsworth, they prove unimtelligible 720

XCI

He, Juan (and not Wordsworth), so pursued His self-communion with his own high soul,

Until his mighty heart, in its great mood, Had mitigated part, though not the whole

Of its disease; he did the best he could

With things not very subject to control, And turn'd, without perceiving his condition, Like Coleridge, into a metaphysician.

XCII

He thought about himself, and the whole earth,

Of man the wonderful. and of the stars,

- And how the deuce they ever could have birth; 73¹
- And then he thought of earthquakes, and of wars,
- How many miles the moon might have in girth,

Of air-balloons, and of the many bars

To perfect knowledge of the boundless skies; ---

And then he thought of Donna Julia's eyes.

XCIII

In thoughts like these true wisdom may discern

Longings sublime, and aspirations high,

Which some are born with, but the most part learn

- To plague themselves withal, they know not why. 740
- 'T was strange that one so young should thus concern

His bram about the action of the sky;

If you think 't was philosophy that this did,

I can't help thinking puberty assisted.

XCIV

He pored upon the leaves, and on the flowers, And heard a voice in all the winds; and then

He thought of wood-nymphs and immortal bowers,

And how the goddesses came down to men:

- He miss'd the pathway, he forgot the hours, And when he look'd upon his watch again, 750
- He found how much old Time had been a winner ---
- He also found that he had lost his dinner.

XCV

Sometimes he turn'd to gaze upon his book, Boscan, or Garcilasso; — by the wind

Even as the page is rustled while we look, So by the poesy of his own mind

- Over the mystic leaf his soul was shook,
- As if 't were one whereon magicians bind Their spells, and give them to the passing
- gale,

According to some good old woman's tale

XCVI

Thus would he while his lonely hours away Dissatisfied, nor knowing what he wanted;

- Nor glowing reverie, nor poet's lay, Could yield his spirit that for which it
- panted,

A bosom whereon he his head might lay, And hear the heart beat with the love it granted,

With — several other things, which I forget, Or which, at least, I need not mention yet.

XCVII

Those lonely walks, and lengthening reveries, 769

Could not escape the gentle Julia's eyes; She saw that Juan was not at his ease;

But that which chiefly may, and must surprise,

Is, that the Donna Inez did not tease

Her only son with question or surmise:

Whether it was she did not see, or would not,

Or, like all very clever people, could not.

XCVIII

- This may seem strange, but yet 't is very common;
- For instance gentlemen, whose ladies take
- Leave to o'erstep the written rights of woman,
- And break the Which commandment 1s't they break? 780
- (I have forgot the number, and think no man
- Should rashly quote, for fear of a mistake.)

- I say, when these same gentlemen are jealous.
- They make some blunder, which their ladies tell us.

XCIX

- A real husband always is suspicious, But still no less suspects in the wrong place,
- Jealous of some one who had no such wishes,

Or pandering blindly to his own disgrace,

- By harbouring some dear friend extremely
- vicious The last indeed 's infallibly the case: 790 And when the spouse and friend are gone
- off wholly,
- He wonders at their vice, and not his folly

- Thus parents also are at times short-sighted; Though watchful as the lynx, they ne'er discover,
- The while the wicked world beholds delighted,
  - Young Hopeful's mistress, or Miss Fanny's lover,
- Till some confounded escapade has blighted The plan of twenty years, and all is over;
- And then the mother cries, the father swears,
- And wonders why the devil he got heirs. 800

CI

But Inez was so anxious, and so clear

- Of sight, that I must think, on this occasion,
- She had some other motive much more near
- For leaving Juan to this new temptation; But what that motive was, I sha'n't say here; Perhaps to finish Juan's education,

- Perhaps to open Don Alfonso's eyes, In case he thought his wife too great a
- prize.

CII

- It was upon a day, a summer's day; ---Summer's indeed a very dangerous sea-810 son.
- And so is spring about the end of May; The sun, no doubt, is the prevailing reason;

- But whatsoe'er the cause is, one may say, And stand convicted of more truth than treason,
- That there are months which nature grows more merry in, -
- March has its hares, and May must have its heroine

CIII

- 'T was on a summer's day the sixth of June: -
- I like to be particular in dates,
- Not only of the age, and year, but moon; They are a sort of post-house, where the Fates
- Change horses, making history change its tune,
- Then spur away o'er empires and o'er states,

Leaving at last not much besides chronology, Excepting the post-obits of theology.

CIV

- 'T was on the sixth of June, about the hour Of half-past six — perhaps still nearer seven -
- When Julia sate within as pretty a bower
- As e'er held houri in that heathemsh heaven
- Described by Mahomet, and Anacreon Moore,
  - To whom the lyre and laurels have been given, 830
- With all the trophies of triumphant song He won them well, and may he wear them long!

CV

- She sate, but not alone; I know not well How this same interview had taken place,
- And even if I knew, I should not tell –
- People should hold their tongues in any case;
- No matter how or why the thing befell,
  - But there were she and Juan, face to face –
- When two such faces are so, 't would be wise,
- But very difficult, to shut their eyes. 840

CVI

- How beautiful she look'd ! her conscious heart
- Glow'd in her cheek, and yet she felt ut wrong.

Oh Love ! how perfect is thy mystic art, Strengthening the weak, and trampling on the strong,

How self-deceitful is the sagest part Of mortals whom thy lure hath led along -The precipice she stood on was immense,

So was her creed in her own innocence.

CVII

She thought of her own strength, and Juan's youth,

And of the folly of all prudish fears, 850 Victorious virtue, and domestic truth,

- And then of Don Alfonso's fifty years: I wish these last had not occurr'd, in sooth, Because that number rarely much endears,
- And through all clunes, the snowy and the sunny,

Sounds ill in love, whate'er it may in money.

CVIII

When people say, 'I've told you fifty times,' They mean to scold, and very often do;

- When poets say, 'I've written fifty rhymes,' They make you dread that they 'll recite them too;
- In gangs of fifty, thieves commit their crimes;

At fifty love for love is rare, 't is true,

But then, no doubt, it equally as true is,

A good deal may be bought for fifty Louis.

CIX

Julia had honour, virtue, truth, and love, For Don Alfonso; and she mly swore,

By all the vows below to powers above,

- She never would disgrace the ring she wore,
- Nor leave a wish which wisdom might reprove;
  - And while she ponder'd this, besides much more, 870

One hand on Juan's carelessly was thrown, Quite by mistake — she thought it was her own;

CX

Unconsciously she lean'd upon the other,

- Which play'd within the tangles of her hair:
- And to contend with thoughts she could not smother

She seem'd by the distraction of her air.

- 'T was surely very wrong in Juan's mother
- To leave together this imprudent pair,
- She who for many years had watch'd her son SO -
- I'm very certain mine would not have done so. 880

CXI

The hand which still held Juan's, by degrees

Gently, but palpably confirm'd its grasp, As if it said, ' Detain me, if you please;'

- Yet there 's no doubt she only meant to clasp
- His fingers with a pure Platonic squeeze:
- She would have shrunk as from a toad, or asp,
- Had she imagined such a thing could rouse A feeling dangerous to a prudent spouse.

CXII

- I cannot know what Juan thought of this, But what he did, is much what you would do;
- His young lip thank'd it with a grateful kiss.
  - And then, abash'd at its own joy, withdrew
- In deep despair, lest he had done amiss, ---Love is so very timid when 't is new:
- She blush'd, and frown'd not, but she strove to speak,
- And held her tongue, her voice was grown so weak.

CXIII

- The sun set, and up rose the yellow moon: The devil's in the moon for mischief; thev
- Who call'd her CHASTE, methinks, began too soon
- Their nomenclature; there is not a day,
- The longest, not the twenty-first of June, Sees half the business in a wicked way
- On which three single hours of moonshine smile —

And then she looks so modest all the while.

CXIV

- There is a dangerous silence in that hour, A stillness, which leaves room for the full soul
- To open all itself, without the power Of calling wholly back its self-control;

The silver light which, hallowing tree and tower,

Sheds beauty and deep softness o'er the whole, 910

Breathes also to the heart, and o'er it throws A loving languor, which is not repose.

cxv

And Julia sate with Juan, half embraced

- And half retiring from the glowing arm, Which trembled like the bosom where 't was placed;
- Yet still she must have thought there was no harm,
- Or else 't were easy to withdraw her waist; But then the situation had its charm,
- And then God knows what next I can't go on;
- I'm almost sorry that I e'er begun. 920

CXVI

Oh Plato ! Plato ! you have paved the way, With your confounded fantasies, to more

- Immoral conduct by the fancied sway Your system feigns o'er the controulless
  - core
- Of human hearts, than all the long array

Of poets and romancers: — You're a bore, A charlatan, a coxcomb — and have been,

At best, no better than a go-between.

CXVII

- And Julia's voice was lost, except in sighs, Until too late for useful conversation; 930
- The tears were gushing from her gentle eyes,
- I wish indeed they had not had occasion,
- But who, alas ! can love, and then be wise ? Not that remorse did not oppose temptation:
- A little still she strove, and much repented,

CXVIII

'T is said that Xerxes offer'd a reward To those who could invent him a new pleasure

Methinks the requisition 's rather hard,

- And must have cost his majesty a treasure: 940
- For my part, I'm a moderate-minded bard, Fond of a little love (which I call lessure);
- I care not for new pleasures, as the old
- Are quite enough for me, so they but hold.

CXIX

- Oh Pleasure' you are indeed a pleasant thing,
  - Although one must be damn'd for you, no doubt.
- I make a resolution every spring
- Of reformation, ere the year run out,
- But somehow, this my vestal vow takes wing,
- Yet still, I trust it may be kept throughout: 950
- I'm very sorry, very much ashamed,
- And mean, next winter, to be quite reclaim'd.

$\mathbf{C}\mathbf{X}\mathbf{X}$

- Here my chaste Muse a liberty must take Start not! still chaster reader — she'll be nice hence-
- Forward, and there is no great cause to quake;
- This liberty is a poetic licence,
- Which some irregularity may make
- In the design, and as I have a high sense Of Aristotle and the Rules, 't is fit
- To beg his pardon when I err a bit 960

CXXI

- This licence is to hope the reader will
  - Suppose from June the sixth (the fatal day,
- Without whose epoch my poetic skill
- For want of facts would all be thrown away),
- But keeping Julia and Don Juan still In sight, that several months have pass'd;
- we'll say
- T was in November, but I 'm not so sure
- About the day the era's more obscure.

CXXII

- We'll talk of that anon 'T is sweet to hear
- At midnight on the blue and moonlit deep 970
- The song and oar of Adria's gondolier, By distance mellow'd, o'er the waters
- sweep; 'T is sweet to see the evening star appear;
- 'T is sweet to listen as the night-winds creep
- From leaf to leaf; 't is sweet to view on ______high
- The rainbow, based on ocean, span the sky.

cialifi u.

CXXIII

- 'T is sweet to hear the watch-dog's honest back
  - Bay deep-month'd welcome as we draw near home;
- 'T is sweet to know there is an eye will mark Our coming, and look brighter when we come; 980

"I is sweet to be awaken'd by the lark,

Or hull'd by falling waters, sweet the hum Of bees, the voice of girls, the song of birds, The hsp of children, and their earliest words.

CXXIV

Sweet is the vintage, when the showering grapes

In Bacchanal profusion reel to earth,

Purple and gushing. sweet are our escapes From civic revelry to rural mirth;

Sweet to the miser are his glittering heaps, Sweet to the father is his first-born's birth, 990

Sweet is revenge — especially to women, Pillage to soldiers, prize-money to seamen.

CXXV

Sweet is a legacy, and passing sweet

The unexpected death of some old lady Or gentleman of seventy years complete,

Who've made 'us youth' wait too - too long already

For an estate, or cash, or country seat,

Still breaking, but with stamina so steady That all the Israelites are fit to mob its Next owner for their double-damn'd postobits.

CXXVI

'T is sweet to win, no matter how, one's laurels,

By blood or ink; 't is sweet to put an end To strife; 't is sometimes sweet to have our guarrels.

Particularly with a tiresome friend:

Sweet is old wine in bottles, ale in barrels; Dear is the helpless creature we defend

Against the world; and dear the schoolboy spot

We ne'er forget, though there we are forgot.

CXXVII

- But sweeter still than this, than these, than all,
  - Is first and passionate love it stands alone, 1910

- Like Adam's recollection of his fall;
- The tree of knowledge has been pluck'd — all's known —
- And life yields nothing further to recall. Worthy of this ambrosial sin, so shown,
- No doubt in fable, as the unforgiven

Fire which Prometheus filch'd for us from heaven.

CXXVIII

Man's a strange animal, and makes strange use

Of his own nature. and the various arts, And likes particularly to produce

- Some new experiment to show his parts; This is the age of oddities let loose,
- Where different talents find their different marts;
- You'd best begin with truth, and when you've lost your
- Labour, there 's a sure market for imposture.

CXXIX

What opposite discoveries we have seen ! (Signs of true genius, and of empty pockets.)

One makes new noses, one a guillotine, One breaks your bones, one sets them in their sockets;

But vaccination certainly has been 1029 A kind antithesis to Congreve's rockets, With which the Doctor paid off an old pox,

By borrowing a new one from an ox

CXXX

- Bread has been made (mdifferent) from potatoes;
  - And galvanism has set some corpses grinning,

But has not answer'd like the apparatus Of the Humane Society's beginning

By which men are unsuffocated gratis:

What wondrous new machines have late been spinning ' 1038

I said the small-pox has gone out of late; Perhaps it may be follow'd by the great.

CXXXI

- 'T is said the great came from America; Perhaps it may set out on its return, -
- The population there so spreads, they say 'T is grown high time to thin it in it's turn,
- With war, or plague, or famine, any way, So that civilisation they may learn;

- And which in ravage the more loathsome evil is ---
- Their real lues, or our pseudo-syphilis?

CXXXII

- This is the patent-age of new inventions 1049 For killing bodies, and for saving souls,
- All propagated with the best intentions; Sir Humphry Davy's lantern, by which coals
- Are safely mined for in the mode he mentions.

Tombuctoo travels, voyages to the Poles, Are ways to benefit mankind, as true, Perhaps, as shooting them at Waterloo.

CXXXIII

- Man's a phenomenon, one knows not what, And wonderful beyond all wondrous measure;
- 'T is pity though, in this sublime world, that Pleasure 's a sin, and sometimes sin 's a pleasure;
- Few mortals know what end they would be at.
  - But whether glory, power, or love, or treasure,
- The path is through perplexing ways, and when
- The goal is gain'd, we die, you know and then —

CXXXIV

- What then ? I do not know, no more do you --
  - And so good night. Return we to our story:
- 'T was in November, when fine days are few,
- And the far mountains wax a little hoary,
- And clap a white cape on their mantles blue;
  - And the sea dashes round the promontory, 1070
- And the loud breaker boils against the rock,
- And sober suns must set at five o'clock.

CXXXV

- 'T was, as the watchmen say, a cloudy night;
  - No moon, no stars, the wind was low or loud
- By gusts, and many a sparkling hearth was bright

- With the piled wood, round which the family crowd;
- There's something cheerful in that sort of light,
  - Even as a summer sky's without a cloud.
- I'm fond of fire, and crickets, and all that,
- A lobster salad, and champagne, and chat.

CXXXVI

- 'T was midnight Donna Julia was in bed,
  - Sleeping, most probably, when at her door
- Arose a clatter might awake the dead,
- If they had never been awoke before, And that they have been so we all have
- read, And are to be so, at the least, once
- more, —
- The door was fasten'd, but with voice and fist
- First knocks were heard, then 'Madam Madam — hist !

CXXXVII

- 'For God's sake, Madam Madam here's my master,
- With more than half the city at his back — 1090
- Was ever heard of such a curst disaster ! 'T is not my fault — I kept good watch — Alack !
- Do pray undo the bolt a little faster -
- They're on the stair just now, and in a crack
- Will all be here; perhaps he yet may fly ---
- Surely the window's not so very high !'

CXXXVIII

- By this time Don Alfonso was arrived,
- With torches, friends, and servants in great number;
- The major part of them had long been wived,
  - And therefore paused not to disturb the slumber
- Of any wicked woman, who contrived By stealth her husband's temples to encumber:

Examples of this kind are so contagious,

Were one not punish'd, all would be outrageous.

CXXXIX

I can't tell how, or why, or what suspicion Could enter into Don Alfonso's head;

But for a cavaher of his condition

It surely was exceedingly ill-bred, Without a word of previous admonition,

- To hold a levee round his lady's bed, 1110
- And summon lackeys, aim'd with fire and sword,
- To prove himself the thing he most abhorr'd.

CXL

Poor Donna Julia, starting as from sleep (Mind — that 1 do not say — she had not slept),

Began at once to scream, and yawn, and weep;

Her maid Antonia, who was an adept,

Contrived to fling the bed-clothes in a heap, As if she had just now from out them crept:

- I can't tell why she should take all this trouble
- To prove her mistress had been sleeping double. 1120

CXLI

But Julia mistress, and Antonia maid,

Appear'd like two poor harmless women, who

Of goblins, but still more of men afraid,

- Had thought one man might be deterr'd by two,
- And therefore side by side were gently laid,

Until the hours of absence should run through

And truant husband should return, and say,

'My dear, I was the first who came away.'

CXLII

- Now Julia found at length a voice, and cried,
  - 'In heaven's name, Don Alfonso, what d'ye mean? 1130
- Has madness seized you? would that I had died

Ere such a monster's victim I had been! What may this midnight violence betrde,

A sudden fit of drunkenness or spleen?

- Dare you suspect me, whom the thought would kill?
- Search, then, the room !' Alfonso said, 'I will.'

CXLIII

- He search'd, they search'd, and rummaged everywhere,
  - Closet and clothes' press, chest and window-seat,

And found much linen, lace, and several pair Of stockings, slippers, brushes, combs, complete, 1140

With other articles of ladies fair,

- To keep them beautiful, or leave them neat:
- Arras they prick'd and curtains with their swords,
- And wounded several shutters, and some boards.

CXLIV

- Under the bed they search'd, and there they found
  - No matter what it was not that they sought;
- They open⁵d windows, gazing if the ground Had signs or footmarks, but the earth said nought;
- And then they stared each other's faces round:
  - 'T is odd, not one of all these seekers thought, 2150

And seems to me almost a sort of blunder, Of looking in the bed as well as under.

CXLV

During this inquisition, Julia's tongue Was not asleep — 'Yes, search and search,' she cried,

'Insult on insult heap, and wrong on wrong! It was for this that I became a bride!

For this in silence I have suffer'd long A husband like Alfonso at my side; 1158

But now I'll bear no more, nor here remain, If there be law or lawyers in all Spain.

CXLVI

- 'Yes, Don Alfonso ! husband now no more, If ever you indeed deserved the name,
- Is't worthy of your years? you have threescore —

Fifty, or sixty, it is all the same --

- Is 't wise or fitting, causeless to explore For facts against a virtuous woman's fame ?
- Ungrateful, perjured, barbarous Don Alfonso,
- How dare you think your lady would go on so?

CXLVII

- 'Is it for this I have disdain'd to hold
- The common privileges of my sex? 1170 That I have chosen a confessor so old
- And deaf, that any other it would vex, And never once he has had cause to scold,
- But found my very innocence perplex So much, he always doubted I was mar-
- ried How sorry you will be when I've miscarried !

CXLVIII

- "Was it for this that no Cortejo e'er I yet have chosen from out the youth of Seville ?
- Is it for this I scarce went anywhere, Except to bull-fights, mass, play, rout, and revel?
- Is it for this, whate'er my suitors were, I favor'd none — nay, was almost uncivil?
- Is it for this that General Count O'Reilly,
- Who tools Alariana declared I wood him
- Who took Algiers, declares I used him vilely?

CXLIX

'Did not the Italian Musico Cazzani

- Sing at my heart six months at least in vain?
- Did not his countryman, Count Corniani, Call me the only virtuous wife in Spain?
- Were there not also Russians, English, many?

The Count Strongstroganoff I put in pain, And Lord Mount Coffeehouse, the Irish peer, Who kill'd himself for love (with wine) last year.

- CI • Have I not had two bishops at my fest,
- The Duke of Ichar, and Don Fernan Nunez?
- And is it thus a faithful wife you treat? I wonder in what quarter now the moon is:
- I praise your vast forbearance not to beat Me also, since the time so opportune is —
- Oh, valiant man ! with sword drawn and cock'd trigger,
- Now, tell me, don't you cut a pretty figure? 1200

CLI

-Was it for this you took your sudden journey,

Under pretence of business indispensable

- With that sublime of rascals your attorney,
- Whom I see standing there, and looking sensible
- Of having play'd the fool ? though both I spurn, he
  - Deserves the worst, his conduct's less defensible,
- Because, no doubt, 't was for his dirty fee, And not from any love to you nor me

CLII

- 'If he comes here to take a deposition,
- By all means let the gentleman proceed; x210
- You 've made the apartment in a fit condition.
  - There's pen and ink for you, sir, when you need --
- Let every thing be noted with precision,
- I would not you for nothing should be fee'd —
- But, as my maid's undrest, pray turn your spies out.'
- 'Oh!' sobb'd Antonia, 'I could tear their eyes out.'

CLIII

- 'There is the closet, there the toilet, there The antechamber — search them under, over;
- There is the sofa, there the great arm-chair, The chimney — which would really hold a lover.
- I wish to sleep, and beg you will take care And make no further noise, till you discover

The secret cavern of this lurking treasure — And when 't is found, let me, too, have that pleasure

CLIV

'And now, Hidalgo ! now that you have thrown

Doubt upon me, confusion over all,

- Pray have the courtesy to make it known
- Who is the man you search for ? how d'ye call
- Him ? what's his lineage ? let him but be shown
  - I hope he's young and handsome is he tall? 1230
- Tell me and be assured, that since you stain
- My honour thus, it shall not be in vain.

• At least, perhaps, he has not sixty years, At that age he would be too old for slaughter,

Or for so young a husband's jealous fears (Antonia ! let me have a glass of water)

- I am ashamed of having shed these tears, They are unworthy of my father's
- daughter; My mother dream'd not in my natal hour

That I should fall into a monster's power

CLVI

- Perhaps 't is of Antonia you are jealous, You saw that she was sleeping by my side 1242
- When you broke in upon us with your fellows.
  - Look where you please we 've nothing, sır, to hide;

Only another time, I trust, you 'll tell us, Or for the sake of decency abide

A moment at the door, that we may be Drest to receive so much good company

CLVII

'And now, sir, I have done, and say no more;

The little I have said may serve to show The guileless heart in silence may grieve o'er The wrongs to whose exposure it is slow: I leave you to your conscience as before,

- 'T will one day ask you why you used me so?
- God grant you feel not then the bitterest grief !---
- Antonia ! where 's my pocket-handkerchief ? '

CLVIII

- She ceased, and turn'd upon her pillow; pale She lay, her dark eyes flashing through their tears,
- Like skies that rain and lighten; as a veil, Waved and o'ershading her wan cheek, appears 1260
- Her streaming hair; the black curls strive, but fail,

To hide the glossy shoulder, which uprears Its snow through all; — her soft hps lie apart,

And louder than her breathing beats her heart.

CLIX

- The Senhor Don Alfonso stood confused; Antonia bustled round the ransack'd room,
- And, turning up her nose, with looks abused Her master and his myrmidons, of whom
- Not one, except the attorney, was amused; He, hke Achates, faithful to the tomb,
- So there were quarrels, cared not for the cause,
- Knowing they must be settled by the laws.

CLX

With prying snub-nose, and small eyes, he stood,

Following Antonia's motions here and there,

With much suspicion in his attitude; For reputations he had httle care;

So that a suit or action were made good.

Small pity had he for the young and fair, And ne'er believed in negatives, till these

Were proved by competent false witnesses

CLXI

- But Don Alfonso stood with downcast looks, 1281
- And, truth to say, he made a foolish figure; When, after searching in five hundred nooks,

And treating a young wife with so much rigour,

He gain'd no point, except some selfrebukes,

Added to those his lady with such vigour

Had pour'd upon him for the last half-hour, Quick, thick, and heavy — as a thundershower.

CLXII

At first he tried to hammer an excuse,

- To which the sole reply was tears and sobs, 1290
- And inducations of hysterics, whose Prologue 18 always certain throes, and
- throbs, Gasps, and whatever else the owners choose:
- Alfonso saw his wife, and thought of Job's;

He saw too, in perspective, her relations,

And then he tried to muster all his patience.

CLXIII

He stood in act to speak, or rather stammer,

But sage Antonia cut him short before 766

- The anvil of his speech received the hammer,
- With 'Pray, sır, leave the room, and say no more, 1300
- Or madam dies.' Alfonso mutter'd, 'D-n her,'
  - But nothing else, the time of words was o'er;

He cast a rueful look or two, and did,

He knew not wherefore, that which he was bid.

CLXIV

- With him retired his 'posse comutatus,' The attorney last, who linger'd near the
- door Reluctantly, still tarrying there as late as Antonia let him — not a little sore
- At this most strange and unexplain'd 'hratus'
- In Don Alfonso's facts, which just now wore 1310

An awkward look; as he revolved the case, The door was fasten'd in his legal face.

CLXV

No sooner was it bolted, than - Oh shame !

Oh sin! Oh sorrow ! and oh womankind !

- How can you do such things and keep your fame,
  - Unless this world, and t'other too, be blind?
- Nothing so dear as an unfilch'd good name ' But to proceed — for there is more behind:
- With much heartfelt reluctance be it said,
- Young Juan shpp'd half-smother'd, from
- the bed 1320

CLXVI

- He had been hid I don't pretend to say How, nor can I indeed describe the where —
- Young, slender, and pack'd easily, he lay,
- No doubt, in httle compass, round or square;
- But pity him I neither must nor may
- His suffocation by that pretty pair;
- 'T were better, sure, to die so, than be shut With maudlin Clarence in his Malmsey Dutt.

CLXVII

And, secondly, I pity not, because

He had no business to commit a sin, 1330

Forbid by heavenly, fined by human laws, At least 't was rather early to begin;

- But at sixteen the conscience rarely gnaws So much as when we call our old debts in
- At sixty years, and draw the accompts of evil,
- And find a deucèd balance with the devil.

CLXVIII

Of his position I can give no notion.

'T is written in the Hebrew Chronicle, How the physicians, leaving pill and potion,

- Prescribed, by way of blister, a young belle, 1340
- When old King David's blood grew dull in motion,
  - And that the medicine answer'd very well;

Perhaps 't was in a different way applied,

For David lived, but Juan nearly died.

CLXIX

- What's to be done? Alfonso will be back The moment he has sent his fools away.
- Antonia's skill was put upon the rack, But no device could be brought into
- And how to parry the renew'd attack?
- Besides, it wanted but few hours of day: Antonia puzzled; Julia did not speak, 1351 But press'd her bloodless lip to Juan's cheek.

CLXX

- He turn'd his lip to hers, and with his hand Call'd back the tangles of her wandering hair;
- Even then their love they could not all command,

And half forgot their danger and despair: Antoma's patience now was at a stand —

- 'Come, come, 't is no time now for fooling there,'
- She whisper'd, in great wrath 'I must deposit
- This pretty gentleman within the closet:

CLXXI

- Pray, keep your nonsense for some luckier night — 1361
  - Who can have put my master in this mood?
- What will become on 't I'm in such a fright,
  - The devil's in the urchin, and no good -

- Is this a time for giggling? this a plight? Why, don't you know that it may end in blood ?
- You'll lose your life, and I shall lose my place,

My mistress all, for that half-girlish face.

CLXXII

• Had it but been for a stout cavalier

- Of twenty-five or thirty (come, make haste) 1370
- But for a child, what piece of work is here ! I really, madam, wonder at your taste
- (Come, sir, get in) my master must be near:
  - There, for the present, at the least, he's fast,

And if we can but till the morning keep

Our counsel - (Juan, mind, you must not sleep.)'

CLXXIII

Now, Don Alfonso entering, but alone,

- Closed the oration of the trusty maid: She loster'd, and he told her to be gone,
- An order somewhat sullenly obey'd; 1380 However, present remedy was none,
- And no great good seem'd answer'd if she staid
- Regarding both with slow and sidelong view.
- She snuff'd the candle, curtsied, and withdrew.

CLXXIV

Alfonso paused a minute — then begun

Some strange excuses for his late proceeding;

He would not justify what he had done,

- To say the best, it was extreme illbreeding;
- But there were ample reasons for it, none Of which he specified in this his pleading:

His speech was a fine sample, on the whole,

Of rhetoric, which the learn'd call ' rigmarole.

CLXXV

- Julia said nought; though all the while there rose
  - A ready answer, which at once enables
- A matron, who her husband's foible knows, By a few timely words to turn the tables,

- Which, if it does not silence, still must pose,
- Even if it should comprise a pack of fables;
- 'T is to retort with firmness, and when he
- Suspects with one, do you reproach with three. 1400

CLXXVI

- Julia, in fact, had tolerable grounds, -
- Alfonso's loves with Inez were well known, But whether 't was that one's own guilt
- confounds -
- But that can't be, as has been often shown, A lady with apologies abounds; ----

It might be that her silence sprang alone From delicacy to Don Juan's ear.

To whom she knew his mother's fame was dear.

CLXXVII

There might be one more motive, which makes two;

Alfonso ne'er to Juan had alluded, - 1410 Mention'd his jealousy, but never who

- Had been the happy lover, he concluded, Conceal'd amongst his premises; 't is true,
- His mind the more o'er this its mystery brooded;

To speak of Inez now were, one may say,

Like throwing Juan in Alfonso's way.

CLXXVIII

A hint, in tender cases, is enough;

- Silence is best, besides there is a tact
- (That modern phrase appears to me sad stuff,
- But it will serve to keep my verse compact) -1420
- Which keeps, when push'd by questions rather rough,

A lady always distant from the fact:

- The charming creatures he with such a grace,
- There's nothing so becoming to the face.

CLXXIX

- They blush, and we believe them; at least I Have always done so; 't is of no great use,
- In any case, attempting a reply,
- For then their eloquence grows quite profuse;

And when at length they 're out of breath, they sigh, And cast their languid eyes down, and let loose ¹⁴³⁰ A tear or two, and then we make it up; And then — and then — and then — sit down and sup. CLXXX	Of all experience 't is the usual price, A sort of mcome-tax laid on by fate: 1460 Juan had reach'd the room-door in a trice, And might have done so by the garden- gate, But met Alfonso in his dressing-gown, Who threaten'd death — so Juan knock'd him down.
Alfonso closed his speech, and begg'd her	CLXXXIV
<ul> <li>pardon,</li> <li>Which Julia half withheld, and then half granted,</li> <li>And laid conditions he thought very hard on,</li> <li>Denying several little things he wanted:</li> <li>He stood like Adam lingering near his garden,</li> <li>With useless penitence perplex'd and haunted,</li> <li>Beseeching she no further would refuse,</li> <li>When, lo ! he stumbled o'er a pair of shoes.</li> </ul>	Dire was the scuffle, and out went the light; Antonia cried out 'Rape!' and Julia 'Fire!' But not a servant sturr'd to aid the fight. Alfonso, pommell'd to his heart's de- sire, Swore lustly he'd be revenged this night; And Juan, too, blasphemed an octave higher; His blood was up. though young, he was a Tartar, And not at all disposed to prove a martyr.
CLXXXI	CLXXXV
A pair of shoes ! - what then ? not much, if they	Alfonso's sword had dropp'd ere he could draw it,
Are such as fit with ladies' feet, but these	And they continued battling hand to hand,

(No one can tell how much I grieve to say)

Was but a moment's act. - Ah! well-a-

Alfonso first examined well their fashion,

CLXXXII

He left the room for his relinquish'd sword, And Julia instant to the closet flew. 1450

'Fly, Juan, fly ! for heaven's sake - not a

The passage you so often have explored -

Haste — haste ! I hear Alfonso's hurrying

Day has not broke --- there's no one in the

CLXXXIII

None can say that this was not good advice,

The only mischief was, it came too late;

The door is open - you may yet slip

Here is the garden-key - Fly - fly -

And then flew out into another passion.

day !

freeze -

word -

through

Adieu!

feet -

street.'

Were masculine; to see them, and to seize,

My teeth begin to chatter, my veins

And they continued battling hand to hand, For Juan very luckily ne'er saw it;

His temper not being under great command,

769

- If at that moment he had chanced to claw it,
- Alfonso's days had not been in the land
- Much longer Think of husbands', lovers' lives !

And how ye may be doubly widows - wives!

CLXXXVI

Alfonso grappled to detain the foe, 1481 And Juan throttled him to get away,

- And blood ('t was from the nose) began to flow;
  - At last, as they more faintly wrestling lay,
- Juan contrived to give an awkward blow,
- And then his only garment quite gave way;

He fled, like Joseph, leaving it; but there, I doubt, all likeness ends between the pair.

CLXXXVII

Lights came at length, and men, and maids, who found

An awkward spectacle their eyes before;

1491

Antonia in hysterics, Julia swoon'd,

- Alfonso leaning, breathless, by the door; Some half-torn drapery scatter'd on the ground,
  - Some blood, and several footsteps, but no more

Juan the gate gam'd, turn'd the key about, And liking not the inside, lock'd the out

CLXXXVIII

Here ends this canto — Need I sing, or say, How Juan naked, favour'd by the night,

- Who favours what she should not, found his way,
  - And reach'd his home in an unseemly plight?
- The pleasant scandal which arose next day, The nine days' wonder which was brought to light,

And how Alfonso sued for a divorce,

Were in the English newspapers, of course.

CLXXXIX

If you would like to see the whole proceedings,

The depositions, and the cause at full,

The names of all the witnesses, the pleadings

Of counsel to nonsuit, or to annul,

- There's more than one edition, and the readings
  - Are various, but they none of them are dull;
- The best is that in short-hand ta'en by Gurnev.

Who to Madrid on purpose made a journey.

cxc

But Donna Inez, to divert the train

Of one of the most circulating scandals

- That had for centuries been known in Spain, At least since the retirement of the Vandals,
- First vow'd (and never had she vow'd in vain)
  - To Virgin Mary several pounds of candles;

And then, by the advice of some old ladies,

She sent her son to be shipp'd off from Cadiz 1520

CXCI

- She had resolved that he should travel through
  - All European climes, by land or sea,

- To mend his former morals, and get new, Especially in France and Italy
- (At least this is the thing most people do). Julia was sent into a convent. she
- Grieved, but, perhaps, her feelings may be better
- Shown in the following copy of her Letter. —

CXCII

- 'They tell me 't is decided ; you depart-'T is wise — 't is well, but not the less a pain; ¹⁵³⁰
- I have no further claim on your young heart. Mme is the victim, and would be again ;
- To love too much has been the only art I used; — I write in haste, and if a stain
- Be on this sheet, 't is not what it appears,
- My eyeballs burn and throb, but have no tears.

CXCIII

- 'I loved, I love you, for this love have lost
  - State, station, heaven, mankınd's, my own esteem,
- And yet can not regret what it hath cost,
- So dear is still the memory of that dream; Yet, if I name my guilt, 't is not to boast,
- None can deem harshlier of me than I deem.
- I trace this scrawl because I cannot rest –
- I 've nothing to reproach, or to request.

CXCIV

- ' Man's love is of man's life a thing apart,
- 'T is woman's whole existence; man may range
- The court, camp, church, the vessel, and the mart;
- Sword, gown, gain, glory, offer in exchange
- Pride, fame, ambition, to fill up his heart, And few there are whom these cannot
- estrange; ¹⁵⁵⁰ Men have all these resources, we but one,
- To love again, and be again undone

CXCV

'You will proceed in pleasure, and in pude,

Beloved and loving many; all is o'er

For me on earth, except some years to hide My shame and sorrow deep in my heart's core;

These I could bear, but cannot cast aside	сс
The passion which still rages as before — And so farewell — forgive me, love me — No.	My poem's epic, and is meant to be Divided in twelve books; each book con
That word is idle now — but let it go. $_{1560}$	taming, With love, and war, a heavy gale at sea, A list of ships, and captains, and king
CXCVI	reigning,
<ul> <li>⁹ My breast has been all weakness, 1s so yet; But still I think I can collect my mind; My blood still rushes where my spirit's set, As roll the waves before the settled wind;</li> </ul>	New characters; the episodes are three: A panoramic view of hell's in training, After the style of Virgil and of Homer, So that my name of Epic's no misnomer. 1600
My heart is feminine, nor can forget —	CCI
To all, except one image, madly blind; So shakes the needle, and so stands the pole, As vibrates my fond heart to my fix'd soul.	All these things will be specified in time, With strict regard to Aristotle's rules, The Vade Mecum of the true sublime, Which makes so many poets, and some
CXCVII	fools:
I have no more to say, but linger still, And dare not set my seal upon this sheet, And yet I may as well the task fulfil, 1571 My misery can scarce be more complete: I had not lived till now, could sorrow kill;	Prose poets like blank-verse, I'm fond or rhyme, Good workmen never quarrel with their tools;
Death shuns the wretch who fain the blow would meet,	I 've got new mythological machinery, And very handsome supernatural scenery.
And I must even survive this last adieu,	CCII
And bear with life, to love and pray for you !'	There's only one slight difference be tween 160
	Me and my epic brethren gone before,
CXCVIII	And here the advantage 15 my own, I ween
This note was written upon gilt-edged paper With a neat little crow-quill, slight and	(Not that I have not several merit more,
new:	But this will more peculiarly be seen);
Her small white hand could hardly reach the taper,	They so embellish, that 't is quite a bor Their labyrinth of fables to thread through
It trembled as magnetic needles do, 1580	Whereas this story 's actually true.
And yet she did not let one tear escape her; The seal a sun-flower; ' Elle vous suit	CCIII
partout,'	If any person doubt it, I appeal
The motto aut upon a white connelian:	To history tradition and to facts

The motto cut upon a white cornelian The wax was superfine, its hue vermilion.

CXCIX

This was Don Juan's earliest scrape; but whether

I shall proceed with his adventures is Dependent on the public altogether;

- We'll see, however, what they say to this:
- Their favour in an author's cap 's a feather, And no great mischief's done by their caprice; 1590

And if their approbation we experience,

Perhaps they'll have some more about a vear hence

- 9
- o
  - Э
- f
  - r
- 9
- n s

To history, tradition, and to facts,

To newspapers, whose truth all know and feel,

To plays in five, and operas in three acts; All these confirm my statement a good deal, 1621

But that which more completely faith exacts

Is that myself, and several now in Seville, Saw Juan's last elopement with the devil.

CCIV

If ever I should condescend to prose,

I'll write poetical commandments, which Shall supersede beyond all doubt all those

That went before; in these I shall enrich

My text with many things that no one knows, 1629

And carry precept to the highest pitch: I'll call the work 'Longinus o'er a Bottle, Or, Every Poet his own Aristotle.'

CCV

- Thou shalt believe in Milton, Dryden, Pope; Thou shalt not set up Wordsworth, Coleridge, Southey;
- Because the first is crazed beyond all hope, The second drunk, the third so quaint and mouthy:

With Crabbe it may be difficult to cope,

- And Campbell's Hippocrene is somewhat drouthy
- Thou shalt not steal from Samuel Rogers, nor
- Commit flirtation with the muse of Moore. 1640

CCVI

Thou shalt not covet Mr Sotheby's Muse,

His Pegasus, nor anything that's his;

Thou shalt not bear false witness like 'the Blues'

(There's one, at least, is very fond of this);

Thou shalt not write, in short, but what I choose.

This is true criticism, and you may kiss — Exactly as you please, or not, — the rod; But if you don't, I'll lay it on, by G—d!

CCVII

If any person should presume to assert This story is not moral, first, I pray,

That they will not cry out before they 're hurt, 1651

Then that they 'll read it o'er again, and say

(But, doubtless, nobody will be so pert)

That this is not a moral tale, though gay;

Besides, in Canto Twelfth, I mean to show The very place where wicked people go.

CCVIII

If, after all, there should be some so blind To their own good this warning to despise,

- Led by some tortuosity of mind, Not to believe my verse and their own
- eyes, And cry that they 'the moral cannot find,' I tell him, if a clergyman, he lies;

Should captains the remark, or critics, make, They also lie too — under a mistake.

CCIX

The public approbation I expect,

- And beg they 'll take my word about the moral,
- Which I with their amusement will connect (So children cutting teeth receive a coral);
- Meantime, they'll doubtless please to recollect

My epical pretensions to the laurel: 1670

- For fear some prudish readers should grow skittish,
- I've bribed my grandmother's review the British.

ccx

I sent it in a letter to the Editor, Who thank'd me duly by return of post —

- I'm for a handsome article his creditor;
- Yet, if my gentle Muse he please to roast,
- And break a promise after having made it her,

Denying the receipt of what it cost,

And smear his page with gall instead of honey, 1679

All I can say is — that he had the money.

CCXI

I think that with this holy new alliance I may ensure the public, and defy

- All other magazines of art or science, Daily, or monthly, or three monthly; 1
- Have not essay'd to multiply their clients, Because they tell me 't were in van to try,
- And that the Edinburgh Review and Quarterly
- Treat a dissenting author very martyrly.

CCXII

'Non ego hoc ferrem calidâ juventâ

- Consule Planco,' Horace said, and so 1690 Say I; by which quotation there is meant a
- Hint that some six or seven good years ago
- (Long ere I dreamt of dating from the Brenta)

I was most ready to return a blow,

- And would not brook at all this sort of thing
- In my hot youth when George the Third was King.

CCXIII

- But now at thirty years my hair is grey (I wonder what it will be like at forty?
- I thought of a peruke the other day) -
- My heart is not much greener; and, in short, I
- Have squander'd my whole summer while 't was May,

And feel no more the spirit to retort; I

- Have spent my life, both interest and principal,
- And deem not, what I deem'd, my soul invincible.

CCXIV

- No more no more Oh ! never more on me
- The freshness of the heart can fall like dew,
- Which out of all the lovely things we see Extracts emotions beautiful and new.
- Hived in our bosoms like the bag o' the bee:
  - Think'st thou the honey with those objects grew?
- Alas! 't was not in them, but in thy power
- To double even the sweetness of a flower.

CCXV

- No more no more Oh ! never more, my heart,
  - Canst thou be my sole world, my universe !
- Once all in all, but now a thing apart, Thou canst not be my blessing or my curse:
- The illusion's gone for ever, and thou art Insensible, I trust, but none the worse,
- And in thy stead I've got a deal of judgment,
- Though heaven knows how it ever found a lodgment. 1720

CCXVI

- My days of love are over; me no more The charms of maid, wife, and still less
- of widow,
- Can make the fool of which they made before, —
  - In short, I must not lead the life I did do;
- The coredulous hope of mutual minds is o'er, The copious use of claret is forbid too,
- So for a good old-gentlemanly vice,
- I think I must take up with avarice.

CCXVII

- Ambition was my idol, which was broken
  - Before the shrines of Sorrow, and of Pleasure; 1730
- And the two last have left me many a token O'er which reflection may be made at leisure:
- Now, like Friar Bacon's brazen head, I 've spoken,
- 'Time is, Time was, Time's past:'-a chymic treasure
- Is glittering youth, which I have spent betimes —
- My heart in passion, and my head on rhymes.

CCXVIII

What is the end of Fame? 't is but to fill A certain portion of uncertain paper:

Some liken it to climbing up a hill,

- Whose summit, like all hills, is lost in vapour;
- For this men write, speak, preach, and heroes kill,
  - And bards burn what they call their 'midnight taper,'
- To have, when the original is dust,
- A name, a wretched picture, and worse bust.

CCXIX

What are the hopes of man? Old Egypt's King

Cheops erected the first pyramid

And largest, thinking it was just the thing To keep his memory whole, and mummy hid;

But somebody or other rummaging,

Burglatiously broke his coffin's lid. 1750 Let not a monument give you or me hopes, Since not a pinch of dust remains of Cheops.

CCXX

- But I being fond of true philosophy,
- Say very often to myself, 'Alas !
- All things that have been born were born to die,
- And flesh (which Death mows down to hay) is grass,
- You've pass'd your youth not so unpleasantly,
- And if you had it o'er again 't would pass —
- So thank your stars that matters are no worse,
- And read your Bible, sir, and mind your purse.' 1760

CCXXI

But for the present, gentle reader ! and Still gentler purchaser ! the bard — that 's I —

- Must, with permission, shake you by the hand,
  - And so 'Your humble servant, and goodb'ye !'

We meet again, if we should understand Each other; and if not, I shall not try

- Your patience further than by this short sample —
- 'T were well if others follow'd my example.

CCXXII

'Go, little book, from this my solitude !

- I cast thee on the waters go thy ways! 1770
- And if, as I believe, thy vein be good,
- The world will find thee after many days.'
- When Southey's read, and Wordsworth understood,
  - I can't help putting in my claim to praise —
- The four first rhymes are Southey's every line:
- For God's sake, reader ! take them not for mine.

CANTO THE SECOND

I

- OH ye! who teach the ingenuous youth of nations,
  - Holland, France, England, Germany, or Spain,

I pray ye flog them upon all occasions,

It mends their morals, never mind the pain:

The best of mothers and of educations

- In Juan's case were but employ'd in vain,
- Since, in a way that's rather of the oddest, he
- Became divested of his native modesty.

11

Had he but been placed at a public school, In the third form, or even in the fourth,

His daily task had kept his fancy cool, in At least, had he been nurtured in the north;

- Spain may prove an exception to the rule, But then exceptions always prove its worth —
- A lad of sixteen causing a divorce
- Puzzled his tutors very much, of course.

III

- I can't say that it puzzles me at all,
- If all things be consider'd. first, there was His lady-mother, mathematical,
- A never mind; his tutor, an old ass; A pretty woman (that's quite natural,
- Or else the thing had hardly come to pass);
- A husband rather old, not much in unity
- With his young wife a time, and opportunity.

IV

- Well well, the world must turn upon its axis,
  - And all mankind turn with it, heads or tails,
- And live and die, make love and pay our taxes,
  - And as the veering wind shifts, shift our sails;
- The king commands us, and the doctor quacks us,

The priest instructs, and so our life exhales, 30

A little breath, love, wine, ambition, fame, Fighting, devotion, dust, — perhaps a name.

v

- I said that Juan had been sent to Cadiz A pretty town, I recollect it well —
- 'T is there the mart of the colonial trade is (Or was, before Peru learn'd to rebel),
- And such sweet girls I mean, such graceful ladies,

Their very walk would make your bosom swell;

I can't describe it, though so much it strike, Nor liken it — I never saw the like. 40

VI

An Arab horse, a stately stag, a barb

- New broke, a cameleopard, a gazelle,
- No none of these will do; and then their garb !
- Their veil and petticoat Alas ! to dwell Upon such things would very near absorb

Thank fleaven I ve got no metaphor quite	Dunces were whipt, or set upon a stor
ready	The great success of Juan's education,
(And so, my sober Muse - come, let's be	Spurr'd her to teach another generation.
steady -
	XI
VII	Juan embark'd — the ship got under wa
Chaste Muse ! - well, if you must, you	The wind was fair, the water pass must) — the veil	rough.
Thrown back a moment with the glanc-	A devil of a sea rolls in that bay,
ing hand, 50	As I, who've cross'd it oft, know w
While the o'erpowering eye, that turns you	enough;
pale,	And, standing upon deck, the dashing spra
Flasher into the bearty All commer land	Fling in one's face and makes it weath

- Flashes into the heart: All sunny land Of love ! when I forget you, may I fail
  - To-say my prayers but never was there plann'd
- A dress through which the eyes give such a volley,

Excepting the Venetian Fazzioli.

VIII

But to our tale: the Donna Inez sent Her son to Cadiz only to embark;

- To stay there had not answer'd her intent.
- But why? we leave the reader in the dark -
- 'T was for a voyage that the young man was meant.

As if a Spanish ship were Noah's ark,

To wean him from the wickedness of earth, And send him like a dove of promise forth.

IX

- Don Juan bade his valet pack his things According to direction, then received
- A lecture and some money: for four springs
  - He was to travel; and though Inez grieved
- (As every kind of parting has its stings), She hoped he would improve - perhaps believed.

A letter, too, she gave (he never read it)

Of good advice - and two or three of credit.

х

- In the mean time, to pass her hours away, Brave Inez now set up a Sunday school
- For naughty children, who would rather play
  - (Like truant rogues) the devil, or the fool;
- Infants of three years old were taught that day,

1: 80

- - -

- v. ing
- rell
- ay Flies in one's face, and makes it weathertough
- And there he stood to take, and take agam,
- His first perhaps his last farewell of Spain

XII

I can't but say it is an awkward sight 80

To see one's native land receding through The growing waters; it unmans one quite,

- Especially when life is rather new:
- I recollect Great Britain's coast looks white.

But almost every other country's blue,

- When gazing on them, mystified by distance,
- We enter on our nautical existence.

XIII

- So Juan stood, bewilder'd on the deck:
  - The wind sung, cordage strain'd, and sailors swore,
- And the ship creak'd, the town became a speck,
- From which away so fair and fast they bore

The best of remedies is a beef-steak Against sea-sickness: try it, sir, before

You sneer, and I assure you this is true, For I have found it answer — so may you

XIV

Don Juan stood, and, gazing from the stern, Beheld his native Spain receding far:

First partings form a lesson hard to learn, Even nations feel this when they go to war;

There is a sort of unexprest concern,

A kind of shock that sets one's heart ajar:

At leaving even the most unpleasant people And places, one keeps looking at the steeple But Juan had go' many things to leave,

- His mother, and a mistress, and no wife,
- So that he had much better cause to grieve Than many persons more advanced in life;
- And if we now and then a sigh must heave At quitting even those we quit in strife,
- No doubt we weep for those the heart endears —

That is, till deeper griefs congeal our tears.

XVI

So Juan wept, as wept the captive Jews

- By Babel's waters, still remembering Sion:
- I'd weep, but mine is not a weeping Muse,
  - And such light griefs are not a thing to die on;
- Young men should travel, if but to amuse Themselves; and the next time their servants tie on
- Behind their carriages their new portmanteau,

Perhaps it may be lined with this my canto.

XVII

- And Juan wept, and much he sigh'd and thought,
  - While his salt tears dropp'd into the salt sea, 130
- 'Sweets to the sweet' (I like so much to quote;
  - You must excuse this extract, 't is where she.

The Queen of Denmark, for Ophelia brought Flowers to the grave); and, sobbing often, he

Reflected on his present situation,

And seriously resolved on reformation.

XVIII

'Farewell, my Spain ! a long farewell !' he cried,

'Perhaps I may revisit thee no more,

But die, as many an exiled heart hath died, Of its own thirst to see again thy shore:

- Farewell, where Guadalquivir's waters glide ! 141
  - Farewell, my mother ! and, since all is o'er,
- Farewell, too, dearest Julia ! -- (Here he drew

Her letter out again, and read it through.)

XIX

Sooner shall earth resolve itself to sea, Than I resign thine image, oh, my fair !

Or think of any thing excepting thee; 150 A mind diseased no remedy can physic (Here the ship gave a lurch, and he grew sea-sick).

XX

Sooner shall heaven kiss earth (here he fell sicker),

Oh, Julia ! what is every other wo?

- (For God's sake let me have a glass of liquor;
- Pedro, Battista, help me down below.)
- Julia, my love! (you rascal, Pedro, quicker) —
  - Oh, Julia! (this curst vessel pitches so) —
- Beloved Julia, hear me still beseeching !'
- (Here he grew inarticulate with retching.)

XXI

He felt that chilling heaviness of heart, 161 Or rather stomach, which, alas ! attends,

- Beyond the best apothecary's art,
- The loss of love, the treachery of friends, Or death of those we dote on, when a part
- Of us dies with them as each fond hope ends:
- No doubt he would have been much more pathetic,

But the sea acted as a strong emetic.

XXII

Love's a capricious power: I've known it hold

Out through a fever caused by its own heat, 170

But be much puzzled by a cough and cold, And find a quinsy very hard to treat;

Against all noble maladies he's bold,

But vulgar illnesses don't like to meet, Nor that a sneeze should interrupt his sigh, Nor inflammations redden his blind eye.

XXIII

- But worst of all is nausea, or a pain About the lower region of the bowels;
- Love, who heroically breathes a vein, Shrinks from the application of hot towels,

- And purgatives are dangerous to his reign, Sea-sickness death. his love was perfect, how else
- Could Juan's passion, while the billows roar, Resist his stomach, ne'er at sea before ?

XXIV

- The ship, call'd the most holy 'Trinidada,' Was steering duly for the port Leghorn;
- For there the Spanish family Moncada
- Were settled long ere Juan's sire was born:
- They were relations, and for them he had a Letter of introduction, which the morn
- Of his departure had been sent him by 191
- His Spanish friends for those in Italy.

XXV

- His suite consisted of three servants and A tutor, the licentiate Pedrillo,
- Who several languages did understand, But now lay sick and speechless on his pillow,
- And rocking in his hammock, long'd for land,
  - His headache being increased by every billow;
- And the waves oozing through the port-hole made
- His berth a little damp, and him afraid. 200

XXVI

- T was not without some reason, for the wind
- Increased at night, until it blew a gale; And though 't was not much to a naval
- mınd, Some landsmen would have look'd a little
- pale, For sailors are, in fact, a different kind: At sunset they began to take in sail,
- For the sky show'd it would come on to blow,
- And carry away, perhaps, a mast or so.

XXVII

- At one o'clock the wind with sudden shift Threw the ship right into the trough of
- the sea, 210 Which struck her aft, and made an awkward rift.
- Started the stern-post, also shatter'd the Whole of her stern-frame, and, ere she
- could lift
  - Herself from out her present jeop dy,

The rudder tore away: 't was time to sound The pumps, and there were four feet water found.

XXVIII

One gang of people instantly was put Upon the pumps and the remainder set

To get up part of the cargo, and what not; But they could not come at the leak as yet; 220

At last they did get at it really, but

- Still their salvation was an even bet:
- The water rush'd through in a way quite puzzling,
- While they thrust sheets, shirts, jackets, bales of muslin,

XXIX

- Into the opening; but all such ingredients Would have been vain, and they must have gone down,
- Despite of all their efforts and expedients,
- But for the pumps: I'm glad to make them known
- To all the brother tars who may have need hence,

For fifty tons of water were upthrown

- By them per hour, and they had all been undone, 231
- But for the maker, Mr. Mann, of London.

XXX

- As day advanced the weather seem'd to abate,
- And then the leak they reckon'd to reduce,
- And keep the ship afloat, though three feet yet

Kept two hand and one chain-pump still in use.

- The wind blew fresh again. as it grew late A squall came on, and while some guns broke loose,
- A gust which all descriptive power transcends —
- Laid with one blast the ship on her beam ends. 240

XXXI

- There she lay motionless, and seem'd upset; The water left the hold, and wash'd the decks,
- And made a scene men do not soon forget; For they remember battles, fires, and wrecks,

Or any other thing that brings regret, Or breaks their hopes, or hearts, or heads, or necks: Thus drownings are much talk'd of by the divers,

And swimmers, who may chance to be survivors.

XXXII

Immediately the masts were cut away,

Both mam and mizen; first the mizen went, 250

The main-mast follow'd but the ship still lay

Like a mere log, and baffled our mtent. Foremast and bowsprit were cut down, and they Eased her at last (although we never meant

To part with all till every hope was blighted), And then with violence the old ship righted.

XXXIII

It may be easily supposed, while this

Was going on, some people were unquiet, That passengers would find it much amiss

To lose their lives, as well as spoil their diet; 260

That even the able seaman, deeming his Days nearly o'er, might be disposed to riot,

As upon such occasions tars will ask

For grog, and sometimes drink rum from the cask.

XXXIV

There's nought, no doubt, so much the spirit calms

As run and true religion: thus it was,

Some plunder'd, some drank spirits, some sung psalms,

The high wind made the treble, and as bass The hoarse harsh waves kept time; fright

- cured the qualms Of all the luckless landsmen's sea-sick
- maws. 270

Strange sounds of wailing, blasphemy, devotion,

Clamour'd in chorus to the roaring ocean.

XXXV

Perhaps more muschief had been done, but for

Our Juan, who, with sense beyond his years,

Got to the spirit-room, and stood before

It with a pair of pistols; and their fears, As if Death were more dreadful by his door

Of fire than water, spite of oaths and tears, Kept still aloof the crew, who, ere they sunk, Thought it would be becoming to die drunk

XXXVI

'Give us more grog,' they cried, 'for it will be 281

All one an hour hence.' Juan answer'd, 'No!

"T is true that death awaits both you and me, But let us die like men, not sink below

Like brutes;' — and thus his dangerous post kept he,

And none liked to anticipate the blow; And even Pedrillo, his most reverend tutor, Was for some rum a disappointed suitor.

XXXVII

The good old gentleman was quite aghast, And made a loud and prous lamentation.

Repented all his sins, and made a last 291 Irrevocable vow of reformation;

Nothing should tempt him more (this peril past)

To quit his academic occupation,

In cloisters of the classic Salamanca,

To follow Juan's wake, like Sancho Panca.

XXXVIII

- But now there came a flash of hope once more;
  - Day broke, and the wind lull'd. the masts were gone,
- The leak increased; shoals round her, but no shore,
- The vessel swam, yet still she held her own. 300
- They tried the pumps again, and though before
  - Their desperate efforts seem'd all useless grown,
- A glimpse of sunshine set some hands to bale —
- The stronger pump'd, the weaker thrumm'd a sail.

XXXIX

Under the vessel's keel the sail was past,

And for the moment it had some effect; But with a leak, and not a stick of mast,

Nor rag of canvas, what could they expect?

- But still 't is best to struggle to the last, 'T is never too late to be wholly wreck'd:
- And though 't is true that man can only die once, 311
- 'T is not so pleasant in the Gulf of Lyons.

XL

- There winds and waves had hurl'd them, and from thence,
- Without their will, they carried them away;
- For they were forced with steering to dispense,

And never had as yet a quiet day

On which they might repose, or even commence

A jurymast or rudder, or could say

- The ship would swim an hour, which, by good luck, 319
- Still swam though not exactly like aduck.

XLI

- The wind, in fact, perhaps was rather less, But the ship labour'd so, they scarce could hope
- To weather out much longer; the distress Was also great with which they had to cope

For want of water, and their solid mess

- Was scant enough: in vain the telescope Was used — nor sail nor shore appear'd in sight.
- Nought but the heavy sea, and coming might.

XLII

Again the weather threaten'd, — again blew A gale, and in the fore and after hold 330

- Water appear'd; yet, though the people knew
  - All this, the most were patient, and some bold,
- Until the chains and leathers were worn through
  - Of all our pumps a wreck complete she roll'd,

At mercy of the waves, whose mercies are Like human beings during civil war.

XLIII

- Then came the carpenter, at last, with tears In his rough eyes, and told the captain he
- Could do no more he was a man in years, And long had voyaged through many a stormy sea, 340

- And if he wept at length, they were not fears
- That made his eyelids as a woman's be, But he, poor fellow, had a wife and children.—
- Two things for dying people quite bewildering.

XLIV

The ship was evidently settling now

- Fast by the head; and, all distinction gone, Some went to prayers again, and made a
  - Of candles to their saints but there were none
- To pay them with; and some look'd o'er the bow;
  - Some hoisted out the boats; and there was one 350

That begg'd Pedrillo for an absolution,

Who told him to be damn'd — in his confusion.

XLV

- Some lash'd them in their hammocks; some put on
- Their best clothes, as if going to a fair; Some cursed the day on which they saw the sun.
  - And gnash'd their teeth, and, howling, tore their hair;
- And others went on as they had begun,
- Getting the boats out, being well aware That a tight boat will live in a rough sea,
- Unless with breakers close beneath her lee.

XLVI

- The worst of all was, that in their condition, 361
  - Having been several days in great distress,
- 'T was difficult to get out such provision
- As now might render their long suffering less:
- Men, even when dying, dislike inanition;
- Their stock was damaged by the weather's stress:
- Two casks of biscuit and a keg of butter
- Were all that could be thrown into the cutter.

XLVII

But in the long-boat they contrived to stow Some pounds of bread, though injured by the wet; 370 Water, a twenty-gallon cask or so;

Six flasks of wine; and they contrived to get

A portion of their beef up from below,

- And with a piece of pork, moreover, met,
- But scarce enough to serve them for a luncheon —
- Th.n there was rum, eight gallons in a puncheon.

XLVIII

The other boats, the yawl and pinnace, had Been stove in the beginning of the gale;

- And the long-boat's condition was but bad,
  - As there were but two blankets for a sail,
- And one oar for a mast, which a young lad
  - Threw in by good luck over the ship's rail;
- And two boats could not hold, far less be stored,

To save one half the people then on board.

XLIX

'T was twilight, and the sunless day went down

Over the waste of waters; like a veil,

- Which, if withdrawn, would but disclose the frown
  - Of one whose hate is mask'd but to assail,
- Thus to their hopeless eyes the night was shown,
  - And grimly darkled o'er the faces pale,
- And the dim desolate deep: twelve days had Fear 391
- Been their familiar, and now Death was here.

L

Some trial had been making at a raft, With little hope in such a rolling sea,

A sort of thing at which one would have laugh'd,

If any laughter at such times could be,

- Unless with people who too much have quaff'd,
  - And have a kind of wild and horrid glee,
- Half epileptical and half hysterical: ---
- Their preservation would have been a miracle. 400

- At half-past eight o'clock, booms, hencoops, spars,
- And all things, for a chance, had been cast loose,
- That still could keep afloat the struggling tars,
- For yet they strove, although of no great use
- There was no light in heaven but a few stars,
  - The boats put off o'ercrowded with their crews;

She gave a heel, and then a lurch to port,

And, going down head foremost -- sunk, in short.

LII

- Then rose from sea to sky the wild farewell ---
  - Then shrick'd the timid, and stood still the brave,
- Then some leap'd overboard with dreadful yell,
- As eager to anticipate their grave;
- And the sea yawn'd around her like a hell, And down she suck'd with her the whirling wave,
- Like one who grapples with his enemy,
- And strives to strangle him before he die.

LIII

- And first one universal shriek there rush'd, Louder than the loud ocean, like a crash
- Of echoing thunder; and then all was hush'd,
  - Save the wild wind and the remorseless dash 420
- Of billows; but at intervals there gush'd, Accompanied with a convulsive splash,
- A solitary shriek, the bubbling cry
- Of some strong swimmer in his agony.

LIV

- The boats, as stated, had got off before,
- And in them crowded several of the crew;
- And yet their present hope was hardly more
- Than what it had been, for so strong it blew
- There was slight chance of reaching any shore;

And then they were too many, though so few --- 430 Nine in the cutter, thirty in the boat, Were counted in them when they got afloat.

LV

- All the rest perish'd; near two hundred souls
- Had left their bodies; and what's worse, alas!
- When over Catholics the ocean rolls,
- They must wait several weeks before a mass

Takes off one peck of purgatorial coals,

- Because, till people know what's come to pass,
- They won't lay out their money on the dead —
- It costs three francs for every mass that's said. 440

LVI

- Juan got into the long-boat, and there
- Contrived to help Pedrillo to a place; It seem'd as if they had exchanged their care.
- For Juan wore the magisterial face Which courage gives, while poor Pedrillo's
- pair
- Of eyes were crying for their owner's case:
- Battista, though (a name call'd shortly Tita),
- Was lost by getting at some aqua-vita.

LVII

Pedro, his valet, too, he tried to save,

But the same cause, conducive to his loss, 450

Left him so drunk, he jump'd into the wave As o'er the cutter's edge he trued to cross,

And so he found a wine-and-watery grave; They could not rescue him although so close,

Because the sea ran higher every minute,

And for the boat — the crew kept crowding in it.

LVIII

- A small old spaniel, which had been Don José's,
  - His father's, whom he loved, as ye may think,
- For on such things the memory reposes
- With tenderness stood howling on the brink, 460

Knowing (dogs have such intellectual noses !),

No doubt, the vessel was about to sink; And Juan caught him up, and ere he stepp'd Off, threw him in, then after him he leap'd.

LIX

- He also stuff'd his money where he could About his person, and Pedrillo's too,
- Who let him do, in fact, whate'er he would, Not knowing what himself to say, or do,
- As every rising wave his dread renew'd; But Juan, trusting they might still get
- through, 470 And deeming there were remedies for any ill.

Thus re-embark'd his tutor and his spaniel.

LX

- 'T was a rough night, and blew so stiffly yet, That the sail was becalm'd between the seas,
- Though on the wave's high top too much to set,

They dared not take it in for all the breeze:

Each sea curl'd o'er the stern, and kept them wet.

And made them bale without a moment's ease,

- So that themselves as well as hopes were damp'd,
- And the poor little cutter quickly swamp'd.

LXI

Nine souls more went in her: the long-boat still 481

Kept above water, with an oar for mast, Two blankets stitch'd together, answering ill

Instead of sail, were to the oar made fast: Though every wave roll'd menacing to fill,

- And present peril all before surpass'd, They grieved for those who perish'd with
- the cutter, And also for the biscuit-casks and butter.

LXII

The sun rose red and fiery, a sure sign Of the continuance of the gale: to run 490

- Before the sea until it should grow fine
- Was all that for the present could be done:
- A few tea-spoonfuls of their rum and wine Were served out to the people, who begun

To faint, and damaged bread wet through the bags,

And most of them had little clothes but rags.

LXIII

They counted thirty, crowded in a space Which left scarce room for motion or exertion;

They did their best to modify their case,

- One half sate up, though numb'd with the immersion, 500
- While t'other half were laid down in their place
  - At watch and watch; thus, shivering like the tertian

Ague in its cold fit, they fill'd their boat,

With nothing but the sky for a great coat.

LXIV

'T is very certain the desire of life

Prolongs it this is obvious to physicians,

When patients, neither plagued with friends nor wife,

- Survive through very desperate conditions,
- Because they still can hope, nor shines the knife 509

Nor shears of Atropos before their visions: Despair of all recovery spoils longevity,

And makes men's miseries of alarming brevity.

LXV

'T is said that persons living on annuities

- Are longer lived than others, God knows why,
- Unless to plague the grantors, yet so true it is,

That some, I really think, do never die; Of any creditors the worst a Jew it is,

- And that's their mode of furnishing supply:
- In my young days they lent me cash that way,
- Which I found very troublesome to pay. 520

LXVI

'T is thus with people in an open boat,

- They live upon the love of life, and bear More than can be believed, or even thought,
- And stand like rocks the tempest's wear and tear;
- And hardship still has been the sailor's lot, Since Noah's ark went cruising here and there;

She had a curious crew as well as cargo, Like the first old Greek privateer, the Argo.

LXVII

But man is a carnivorous production,

- And must have meals, at least one meal a day; 530
- He cannot live, hke woodcocks, upon suction,
  - But, like the shark and tiger, must have prey;

Although his anatomical construction

- Bears vegetables, in a grumbling way,
- Your labouring people think beyond all question,

Beef, veal, and mutton, better for digestion.

LXVIII

- And thus it was with this our hapless crew; For on the third day there came on a calm,
- And though at first their strength it might renew, 539
- And lying on their weariness like balm, Lull'd them like turtles sleeping on the blue
- Of ocean, when they woke they felt a qualm,

And fell all ravenously on their provision, Instead of hoarding it with due precision.

LXIX

- The consequence was easily foreseen They ate up all they had, and drank their wine,
- In spite of all remonstrances, and then On what, in fact, next day were they to dine?
- They hoped the wind would rise, these foolish men '
  - And carry them to shore; these hopes were fine, 550
- But as they had but one oar, and that brittle.
- It would have been more wise to save their victual.

LXX

- The fourth day came, but not a breath of air,
- And Ocean slumber'd like an unwean'd child:
- The fifth day, and their boat lay floating there,
  - The sea and sky were blue, and clear, and mild —

- With their one oar (I wish they had had a pair)
  - What could they do? and hunger's rage grew wild:
- So Juan's spaniel, spite of his entreating,
- Was kill'd and portion'd out for present eating. 560

LXXI

On the sixth day they fed upon his hide, And Juan, who had still refused, because

The creature was his father's dog that died, Now feeling all the vulture in his jaws,

- With some remorse received (though first denied)
- As a great favour one of the fore-paws, Which he divided with Pedrillo, who Devour'd it, longing for the other too.

LXXII

The seventh day, and no wind — the burning sun

Blister'd and scorch'd, and, stagnant on the sea, 570

They lay like carcasses; and hope was none, Save in the breeze that came not; savagely

They glared upon each other — all was done, Water, and wme, and food, — and you might see

The longings of the cannibal arise

(Although they spoke not) in their wolfish eyes.

LXXIII

At length one whisper'd his companion, who Whisper'd another, and thus it went round,

And then into a hoarser murmur grew, An ominous, and wild, and desperate

- sound; 580 And when his comrade's thought each suf-
- ferer knew,
  - 'T was but his own, suppress'd till now, he found:
- And out they spoke of lots for flesh and blood,
- And who should die to be his fellow's food.

LXXIV

- But ere they came to this, they that day shared
  - Some leathern caps, and what remain'd of shoes;
- And then they look'd around them and despair'd,

And none to be the sacrifice would choose;

- At length the lots were torn up, and prepared,
- But of materials that much shock the Muse — 590

Having no paper, for the want of better, They took by force from Juan Julia's letter.

LXXV

The lots were made, and mark'd, and mix'd, and handed,

In silent horror, and their distribution

- Lull'd even the savage hunger which demanded,
  - Like the Promethean vulture, this pollution;
- None in particular had sought or plann'd it,
  - 'T was nature gnaw'd them to this resolution,
- By which none were permitted to be neuter —
- And the lot fell on Juan's luckless tutor.

LXXVI

He but requested to be bled to death: 601 The surgeon had his instruments, and bled

- Pedrillo, and so gently ebb'd his breath, You hardly could perceive when he was
- dead He died as born, a Catholic in faith,
  - Like most in the belief in which they 're bred,
- And first a little crucifix he kiss'd,
- And then held out his jugular and wrist.

LXXVII

- The surgeon, as there was no other fee, Had his first choice of morsels for his pains; 610
- But being thirstiest at the moment, he Preferr'd a draught from the fast-flow-
- ing veins: Part was divided, part thrown in the sea, And such things as the entrails and the
- brains Regaled two sharks, who follow'd o'er the
- billow —
- The sailors ate the rest of poor Pedrillo.

LXXVIII

- The sailors ate him, all save three or four, Who were not quite so fond of animal food;
- To these was added Juan, who, before 619 Refusing his own spaniel, hardly could

Feel now his appetite increased much more; 'T was not to be expected that he should, Even in extremity of their disaster,

Dine with them on his pastor and his master.

LXXIX

- 'T was better that he did not; for, in fact, The consequence was awful in the extreme:
- For they, who were most ravenous in the act,
  - Went raging mad Lord ! how they did blaspheme !
- And foam and roll, with strange convulsions rack'd,
- Drinking salt-water like a mountainstream, 630
- Tearing, and grinning, howling, screeching, swearing,

And, with hyæna-laughter, died despairing.

LXXX

Their numbers were much thinn'd by this infliction,

And all the rest were thin enough, Heaven knows;

And some of them had lost their recollection,

- Happier than they who still perceived their woes;
- But others ponder'd on a new dissection,

As if not warn'd sufficiently by those Who had already perish'd, suffering madly,

For having used their appetites so sadly.

LXXXI

And next they thought upon the master's mate, 64r

As fattest; but he saved himself, because, Besides being much averse from such a fate,

There were some other reasons: the first was,

He had been rather indisposed of late;

And that which chiefly proved his saving clause

Was a small present made to him at Cadiz, By general subscription of the ladies.

LXXXII

- Of poor Pedrillo something still remain'd, But was used sparingly, — some were afraid, 650
- And others still their appetites constrain'd, Or but at times a little supper made;

- All except Juan, who throughout abstain'd, Chewing a piece of bamboo and some lead:
- At length they caught two boobies d a noddy,
- And then they left off eating the dead body.

LXXXIII

And if Pedrillo's fate should shocking be, Remember Ugolino condescends

To eat the head of his arch-enemy

The moment after he politely ends 660 His tale: if foes be food in hell, at sea

- 'T is surely fair to dine upon our friends, When shipwreck's short allowance grows too scanty,
- Without being much more horrible than Dante.

LXXXIV

- And the same night there fell a shower of rain, For which their mouths gaped, like the cracks of earth
- When dried to summer dust; till taught by pain
- Men really know not what good water's worth;

If you had been in Turkey or in Spain,

Or with a famish'd boat's-crew had your berth, 670

Or in the desert heard the camel's bell,

You'd wish yourself where Truth is — in a well.

LXXXV

It pour'd down torrents, but they were no richer

Until they found a ragged piece of sheet,

- Which served them as a sort of spongy pitcher,
  - And when they deem'd its moisture was complete
- They wrung it out, and though a thirsty ditcher
- Might not have thought the scanty draught so sweet
- As a full pot of porter, to their thinking

They ne'er till now had known the joys of drinking. 680

LXXXVI

- And their baked lips, with many a bloody crack,
- Suck'd in the moist e, which like nectar stream'd,

- Their throats were ovens, their swoln tongues were black,
  - As the rich man's in hell, who vainly scream'd
- To beg the beggar, who could not rain back A drop of dew, when every drop had seem'd

To taste of heaven — If this be true, indeed Some Christians have a comfortable creed.

LXXXVII

There were two fathers in this ghastly crew, And with them their two sons, of whom the one 690

Was more robust and hardy to the view, But he died early; and when he was gone,

- His nearest messmate told his sire, who threw
  - One glance at him, and said, 'Heaven's will be done !

I can do nothing,' and he saw him thrown Into the deep without a tear or groan.

LXXXVIII

The other father had a weaklier child, Of a soft cheek and aspect delicate;

But the boy bore up long, and with a mild And patient spirit held aloof his fate; 700

Little he said, and now and then he smiled, As if to win a part from off the weight

He saw increasing on his father's heart,

With the deep deadly thought that they must part.

LXXXIX

- And o'er him bent his sire, and never raised His eyes from off his face, but wiped the foam
- From his pale lips, and ever on him gazed, And when the wish'd-for shower at length was come,
- And the boy's eyes, which the dull film half glazed,

Brighten'd, and for a moment seem'd to roam, 710

- He squeezed from out a rag some drops of rain
- Into his dying child's mouth but in vain.

xc

- The boy expired the father held the clay, And look'd upon it long, and when at last
- Death left no doubt, and the dead burthen lay

- Stiff on his heart, and pulse and hope were past,
- He watch'd it wistfully, until away
  - 'T was borne by the rude wave wherein 't was cast;
- Then he himself sunk down all dumb and shivering,
- And gave no sign of life, save his limbs quivering. 720

XCI

- Now overhead a rainbow, bursting through The scattering clouds, shone, spanning the dark sea,
- Resting its bright base on the quivering blue;

And all within its arch appear'd to be

- Clearer than that without, and its wide hue Wax'd broad and waving, like a banner free,
- Then changed like to a bow that's bent, and then
- Forsook the dum eyes of these shipwreck'd men.

XCII

It changed, of course; a heavenly chameleon,

The airy child of vapour and the sun, 730 Brought forth in number gradled in ver-

- Brought forth in purple, cradled in vermilion,
  - Baptized in molten gold, and swathed in dun,
- Glittering like crescents o'er a Turk's pavilion,

And blending every colour into one,

Just like a black eye in a recent scuffle

(For sometimes we must box without the muffle).

XCIII

Our shipwreck'd seamen thought it a good omen—

It is as well to think so, now and then;

- 'T was an old custom of the Greek and Roman,
  - And may become of great advantage when 7^{-c}
- Folks are discouraged; and most surely no men
  - Had greater need to nerve themselves again
- Than these, and so this rainbow look'd like hope —
- Quite a celestial kaleidoscope.

XCIV

About this time a beautiful white bird,

Webfooted, not unlike a dove in size

- And plumage (probably it might have err'd Upon its course), pass'd oft before their eyes.
- And tried to perch, although it saw and heard
- The men within the boat, and in this guise 750

It came and went, and flutter'd round them till

Night fell: this seem'd a better omen still.

xcv

But in this case I also must remark,

'T was well this bird of promise did not perch,

Because the tackle of our shatter'd bark

- Was not so safe for roosting as a church;
- And had it been the dove from Noah's ark, Returning there from her successful search,
- Which m their way that moment chanced to fall,
- They would have eat her, olive-branch and all. 760

XCVI

With twilight it again came on to blow,

- But not with violence; the stars shone out,
- The boat made way; yet now they were so low,
  - They knew not where nor what they were about;
- Some fancied they saw land, and some said 'No !'
  - The frequent fog-banks gave them cause to doubt —
- Some swore that they heard breakers, others guns,
- And all mistook about the latter once.

XCVII

- As morning broke, the light wind died away, When he who had the watch sung out
- and swore, 770 If 't was not land that rose with the sun's
- ray, He wish'd that land he never might see
  - more;
- And the rest rubb'd their eyes and saw a bay, Or thought they saw, and shaped their course for shore;

For shore it was, and gradually grew Distinct, and high, and palpable to view.

XCVIII

- And then of these some part burst into tears,
- And others, looking with a stupid stare,
- Could not yet separate their hopes from fears,
  - And seem'd as if they had no further care; 78c
- While a few pray'd (the first time for some years) —
- And at the bottom of the boat three were Asleep: they shook them by the hand and head,
- And tried to awaken them, but found them dead.

XCIX

- The day before, fast sleeping on the water They found a turtle of the hawk's-bulk kind,
- And by good fortune, gliding softly, caught her,
  - Which yielded a day's life, and to their mind
- Proved even still a more nutritious matter, Because it left encouragement behind:
- They thought that in such perils, more than chance
- Had sent them this for their deliverance.

.

The land appear'd a high and rocky coast,

- And higher grew the mountains as they drew,
- Set by a current, toward it they were lost In various conjectures, for none knew
- To what part of the earth they had been tost,
  - So changeable had been the winds that blew;
- Some thought it was Mount Ætna, some the highlands, 799
- Of Candia, Cyprus, Rhodes, or other islands.

CI

- Meantime the current, with a rising gale, Still set them onwards to the welcome
  - shore,
- Like Charon's bark of spectres, dull and pale
  - Their living freight was now reduced to four,

And three dead, whom their strength could not avail	And having learnt to swim in that sweet
To heave into the deep with those be- fore,	river, Had often turn'd the art to some account:
	A better swimmer you could scarce see
Though the two sharks still follow'd them,	ever,
and dash'd	He could, perhaps, have pass'd the
The spray into their faces as they splash'd.	Hellespont,
СП	As once (a feat on which ourselves we prided)
Famine, despair, cold, thirst, and heat, had done	Leander, Mr. Ekenhead, and I did. 840
Their work on them by turns, and thinn'd	CVI
them to 810	So here, though faint, emaciated, and stark,
Such things a mother had not known her	He buoy'd his boyish limbs, and strove to son	ply
Amidst the skeletons of that gaunt crew;	With the quick wave, and gain, ere it was
By night chill'd, by day scorch'd, thus one	dark.
by one	The beach which lay before hun, high
They perish'd, until wither'd to these	and dry:
few,	The greatest danger here was from a shark,
But chiefly by a species of self-slaughter,	That carried off his neighbour by the
In washing down Pedrillo with salt water.	thigh;
In washing down rearring with sait water.	As for the other two, they could not swm,
CIII	So nobody arrived on shore but him.
As they drew nigh the land, which now was	So hobody arrived on shore but min.
	CVII
seen Theoryal in its canoot have and there
Unequal in its aspect here and there,	Nor yet had he arrived but for the oar,
They felt the freshness of its growing green,	Which, providentially for him, was
That waved in forest-tops, and smooth'd	wash'd 850
the air, 820	Just as his feeble arms could strike no
And fell upon their glazed eyes like a screen	more,
From glistening waves, and skies so hot	And the hard wave o'erwhelm'd him as and bare —	't was dash'd
Lovely seem'd any object that should sweep	Within his grasp; he clung to it, and sore
Away the vast, salt, dread, eternal deep.	The waters beat while he thereto was
CIV	lash'd;
	At last, with swimming, wading, scrambling,
The shore look'd wild, without a trace of man,	Roll'd on the beach, half-senseless, from the
And girt by formidable waves; but they	sea:
Were mad for land, and thus their course	CVIII
they ran,
Though right ahead the roaring breakers	There, breathless, with his digging nails he lay:	clung
A reef between them also now began	Fast to the sand, lest the returning wave,
To show its boiling surf and bounding	From whose reluctant roar his life he spray, 830	wrung,
But finding no place for their landing better,	Should suck him back to her insatiate
They ran the boat for shore, — and over-	grave: 860 set her.	And there he lay, full length, where he was flung,
CV	Before the entrance of a cliff-worn cave,
But in his native stream, the Guadalquivir,	With just enough of life to feel its pain,
7 n to lave his youthful limbs was	And deem that it was saved, perhaps in wont;	vain.

With slow and staggering effort he arose, But sunk again upon his bleeding knee

- And quivering hand; and then he look'd for those
  - Who long had been his mates upon the sea;
- But none of them appear'd to share his woes,
  - Save one, a corpse, from out the famish'd three, 870
- Who died two days before, and now had found

An unknown barren beach for burial ground.

сх

And as he gazed, his dizzy brain spun fast, And down he sunk; and as he sunk, the

- sand
- Swam round and round, and all his senses pass'd:
  - He fell upon his side, and his stretch'd hand
- Droop'd dripping on the oar (their jurymast),
- And, like a wither'd lily, on the land

His slender frame and pallid aspect lay,

As fair a thing as e'er was form'd of clay.

CXI

- How long in his damp trance young Juan lay 881
  - He knew not, for the earth was gone for him,
- And Time had nothing more of night nor day

For his congealing blood, and senses dum; And how this heavy faintness pass'd away

- He knew not, till each painful pulse and limb,
- And tingling vein, seem'd throbbing back to life,
- For Death, though vanquish'd, still retired with strife.

CXII

His eyes he open'd, shut, again unclosed,

- For all was doubt and dizziness; he thought 890
- He still was in the boat and had but dozed, And felt again with his despair o'erwrought,
- And wish'd it death in which he had reposed; And then once more his feelings back were brought,

And slowly by his swimming eyes was seen A lovely female face of seventeen.

CXIII

- 'T was bending close o'er his, and the small mouth
- Seem'd almost prying into his for breath; And chafing him, the soft warm hand of
- youth Bogoll'd his answaring apinits hash from
- Recall'd his answering spirits back from death, 900
- And, bathing his chill temples, tried to soothe

Each pulse to animation, till beneath

Its gentle touch and trembling care, a sigh

To these kind efforts made a low reply.

CXIV

- Then was the cordial pour'd, and mantle flung
  - Around his scarce-clad limbs; and the fair arm
- Raised higher the faint head which o'er it hung;
  - And her transparent cheek, all pure and warm,
- Pillow'd his death-like forehead; then she wrung
  - His dewy curls, long drench'd by every storm;
- And watch'd with eagerness each throb that drew
- A sigh from his heaved bosom and hers, too.

CXV

And lifting him with care into the cave,

The gentle girl and her attendant, — one Young, yet her elder, and of brow less grave,

And more robust of figure, — then begun

To kindle fire, and as the new flames gave Light to the rocks that roof'd them, which the sun

Had never seen, the maid, or whatsoe'er 919 She was, appear'd distinct, and tall, and fair.

CXVII

- Her brow was overhung with coins of gold, That sparkled o'er the auburn of her hair —
- Her clustering hair, whose longer locks were roll'd
  - In braids behind; and though her stature were

- Even of the highest for a female mould, They nearly reach'd her heel; and in her air
- There was a something which bespoke command,
- As one who was a lady in the land.

CXVII

- Her hair, I said, was auburn; but her eyes Were black as death, their lashes the same hue,
- Of downcast length, in whose silk shadow lies
- Deepest attraction; for when to the view Forth from its raven fringe the full glance
  - flies, Ne'er with such force the swiftest arrow
  - flew;
- 'T is as the snake late coil'd, who pours his length,

And hurls at once his venom and his strength.

CXVIII

- Her brow was white and low, her cheek's pure dye
- Like twilight rosy still with the set sun; Short upper hp — sweet lips ! that make us
- sigh Ever to have seen such; for she was one Fit for the model of a statuary 941
  - (A race of mere impostors, when all's done -
- I 've seen much finer women, ripe and real, Than all the nonsense of their stone ideal).

CXIX

- I'll tell you why I say so, for 't is just
- One should not rail without a decent cause: There was an Irish lady, to whose bust
- I ne'er saw justice done, and yet she was A frequent model; and if e'er she must
- Yield to stern Time and Nature's wrinkling laws, 950
- They will destroy a face which mortal thought
- Ne'er compass'd, nor less mortal chisel wrought.

CXX

- And such was she, the lady of the cave: Her dress was very different from the
- Spanish, Simpler, and yet of colours not so grave;
- For, as you know, the Spanish women banish

- Bright hues when out of doors, and yet, while wave
- Around them (what I hope will never vanish)

The basquina and the mantilla, they 959 Seem at the same time mystical and gay.

CXXI

- But with our damsel this was not the case: Her dress was many-colour'd, finely spun;
- Her locks curl'd negligently round her face, But through them gold and gems pro-
- fusely shone: Her girdle sparkled, and the richest lace
- Flow'd in her veil, and many a precious stone
- Flash'd on her little hand; but, what was shocking,
- Her small snow feet had slippers, but no stocking.

CXXII

The other female's dress was not unlike, But of inferior materials she 970

- Had not so many ornaments to strike,
- Her hair had silver only, bound to be Her dowry; and her veil, in form alike,
  - Was coarser; and her air, though firm, less free;

Her hair was thicker, but less long; her eyes As black, but quicker, and of smaller size.

CXXIII

- And these two tended him, and cheer'd him both
  - With food and raiment, and those soft attentions,
- Which are (as I must own) of female growth,
  - And have ten thousand delicate inventions: 980
- They made a most superior mess of broth, A thing which poesy but seldom mentions,
- But the best dish that e'er was cook'd since Homer's
- Achilles ordered dinner for new comers.

CXXIV

- I'll tell you who they were, this female pair,
  - Lest they should seem princesses in disguise;
- Besides, I hate all mystery, and that air
  - Of clap-trap which your recent poets prize;

- And so, in short, the girls they really were They shall appear before your curious eyes,
- Mistress and maid; the first was only daughter
- Of an old man who lived upon the water.

CXXV

A fisherman he had been in his youth, And still a sort of fisherman was he:

But other speculations were, in sooth, Added to his connection with the sea.

Perhaps not so respectable, in truth:

A little smuggling, and some piracy, Left him, at last, the sole of many masters Of an ill-gotten million of plastres.

CXXVI

A fisher, therefore, was he, — though of men.

Like Peter the Apostle, — and he fish'd

- For wandering merchant-vessels, now and then,
  - And sometimes caught as many as he wish'd;

The cargoes he confiscated, and gain

He sought in the slave-market too, and dish'd

Full many a morsel for that Turkish trade,

By which, no doubt, a good deal may be made.

CXXVII

He was a Greek, and on his isle had built (One of the wild and smaller Cyclades)

A very handsome house from out his guilt,

And there he lived exceedingly at ease; Heaven knows what cash he got or blood he spilt,

A sad old fellow was he, if you please;

- But this I know, it was a spacious building,
- Full of barbaric carving, paint, and gilding.

CXXVIII

He had an only daughter, call'd Haidee,

- The greatest heiress of the Eastern Isles; Besides, so very beautiful was she, 1019
- Her dowry was as nothing to her smiles: Still in her teens, and like a lovely tree
- She grew to womanhood, and between whiles
- Rejected several suitors, just to learn How to accept a better in his turn.

CXXIX

And walking out upon the beach, below

- The cliff, towards sunset, on that day she found,
- Insensible, not dead, but nearly so, Don Juan, almost famish'd, and half
- drown'd;
- But being naked, she was shock'd, you know,
- Yet deem'd herself in common pity bound, 1030
- As far as in her lay, 'to take him in,
- A stranger' dying, with so white a skin.

CXXX

But taking him into her father's house Was not exactly the best way to save.

- But like conveying to the cat the mouse, Or people in a trance into their grave,
- Because the good old man had so much 'vous.'
- Unlike the honest Arab thieves so brave,
- He would have hospitably cured the stranger,

And sold him instantly when out of danger.

CXXXI

- And therefore, with her maid, she thought it best 1041
- (A virgin always on her maid relies)
- To place him in the cave for present rest: And when, at last, he open'd his black eves.
- Their charity increased about their guest;
- And their compassion grew to such a size,

It open'd half the turnpike-gates to heaven (St. Paul says, 't is the toll which must be given).

CXXXII

- They made a fire, but such a fire as they
  - Upon the moment could contrive with such ro50
- Materials as were cast up round the bay,-Some broken planks, and oars, that to the touch
- Were nearly tinder, since so long they lay

A mast was almost crumbled to a crutch; But, by God's grace, here wrecks were in

- such plenty,
- That there was fuel to have furnish'd twenty.

CXXXIII

- He had a bed of furs, and a pelisse, For Haidée stripped her sables off to make
- His couch; and, that he might be more at ease,
  - And warm, in case by chance he should awake, 1060
- They also gave a petticoat apiece, She and her maid — and promised by
- daybreak

To pay him a fresh visit, with a dish

For breakfast, of eggs, coffee, bread, and fish.

CXXXIV

And thus they left him to his lone repose: Juan slept like a top, or like the dead,

- Who sleep at last, perhaps (God only knows),
- Just for the present; and in his lull'd head

Not even a vision of his former woes

Throbb'd in accursèd dreams, which sometimes spread 1070

Unwelcome visions of our former years,

Till the eye, cheated, opens thick with tears.

CXXXV

- Young Juan slept all dreamless: --- but the maid,
  - Who smooth'd his pillow, as she left the den
- Look'd back upon him, and a moment stay'd,

And turn'd, believing that he call'd again.

- He slumber'd; yet she thought, at least she said
  - (The heart will slip, even as the tongue and pen),
- He had pronounced her name but she forgot
- That at this moment Juan knew it not.

CXXXVI

And pensive to her father's house she went,

Enjoining silence strict to Zoe, who

Better than her knew what, in fact, she meant,

She being wiser by a year or two:

A year or two's an age when rightly spent, And Zoe spent hers, as most women do, In gaining all that useful sort of knowledge

Which is acquired in Nature's good old college.

CXXXVII

- The morn broke, and found Juan slumbering still
  - Fast in his cave, and nothing clash'd upon 1090
- His rest; the rushing of the neighbouring rill,
  - And the young beams of the excluded sun,
- Troubled hum not, and he might sleep his fill;
- And need he had of slumber yet, for none
- Had suffer'd more his hardships were comparative
- To those related in my grand-dad's 'Narrative.'

CXXXVIII

- Not so Haidée. she sadly toss'd and tumbled,
- And started from her sleep, and, turning o'er
- Dream'd of a thousand wrecks, o'er which she stumbled,
- And handsome corpses strew'd upon the shore;
- And woke her maid so early that she grumbled,
  - And call'd her father's old slaves up, who swore
- In several oaths Armenian, Turk, and Greek —
- They knew not what to think of such a freak.

CXXXIX

- But up she got, and up she made them get, With some pretence about the sun, that makes
- Sweet skies just when he rises, or is set;
- And 't is, no doubt, a sight to see when breaks
- Bright Phœbus, while the mountains still are wet
  - With mist, and every bird with him awakes, 1110
- And night is flung off like a mourning suit Worn for a husband, — or some other brute.

CXL

I say, the sun is a most glorious sight,

I⁵ve seen him rise full oft, indeed of late I have sat up on purpose all the night,

- Which hastens, as physicians say, one's fate;
- And so all ye, who would be in the right In health and purse, begin your day to
- date From daybreak, and when coffin'd at four-
- score, 1119

Engrave upon the plate, you rose at four.

CXLI

- And Haidée met the morning face to face; Her own was freshest, though a feverish flush
- Had dyed it with the headlong blood, whose race
  - From heart to cheek is curb'd into a blush,
- Like to a torrent which a mountain's base,
- That overpowers some Alpine river's rush, Checks to a lake, whose waves in circles spread;

Or the Red Sea - but the sea is not red.

CXLII

And down the cliff the island virgin came, And near the cave her quick light foot-

- steps drew, While the sun smiled on her with his first
  - flame, And young Aurora kiss'd her lips with dew,
- Taking her for a sister; just the same
- Mistake you would have made on seeing the two,
- Although the mortal, quite as fresh and fair,

Had all the advantage, too, of not being air.

CXLIII

And when into the cavern Haidée stepp'd All timidly, yet rapidly, she saw

That like an infant Juan sweetly slept;

- And then she stopp'd, and stood as if in awe
- (For sleep is awful), and on tiptoe crept And wrapt him closer, lest the air, too raw.
- Should reach his blood, then o'er him still as death
- Bent with hush'd lips, that drank his scarcedrawn breath.

CXLIV

- And thus like to an angel o'er the dying Who due in righteousness, she lean'd; and there
- All tranquilly the shipwreck'd boy was lying,
- As o'er him lay the calm and stirless air:
- But Zoe the meantime some eggs was frying, Since, after all, no doubt the youthful pair
- Must breakfast and betimes, lest they should ask it,
- She drew out her provision from the basket.

CXLV

- She knew that the best feelings must have victual,
  - And that a shipwreck'd youth would hungry be;
- Besides, being less in love, she yawn'd a little,
  - And felt her veins chill'd by the neighbouring sea;
- And so, she cook'd their breakfast to a tittle; I can't say that she gave them any tea,
- But there were eggs, fruit, coffee, bread, fish, honey,
- With Scio wine, and all for love, not money. 1160

CXLVI

- And Zoe, when the eggs were ready, and The coffee made, would fam have waken'd Juan;
- But Haidée stopp'd her with her quick small hand,
- And without word, a sign her finger drew on
- Her lip, which Zoe needs must understand; And, the first breakfast spoilt, prepared a new one,
- Because her mistress would not let her break That sleep which seem d as it would ne'er awake.

CXLVII

- For still he lay, and on his thin worn cheek 1169
- A purple hectic play'd like dying day On the snow-tops of distant hills; the streak
- Of sufferance yet upon his forehead lay, Where the blue veins look'd shadowy. shrunk, and weak;
  - And his black curls were dewy with the spray,

- Which weigh'd upon them yet, all damp and salt,
- Mix'd with the stony vapours of the vault.

CXLVIII

- And she bent o'er him, and he lay beneath, Hush'd as the babe upon its mother's breast.
- Droop'd as the willow when no winds can breathe.

Lull'd like the depth of ocean when at rest, 1180

Fair as the crowning rose of the whole wreath,

Soft as the callow cygnet in its nest;

In short, he was a very pretty fellow,

Although his woes had turn'd him rather yellow

CXLIX

- He woke and gazed, and would have slept again,
- But the fair face which met his eyes forbade -
- Those eyes to close, though weariness and pain
  - Had further sleep a further pleasure made:
- For woman's face was never form'd in vain

For Juan, so that even when he pray'd

- He turn'd from grisly saints, and martyrs hairy,
- To the sweet portraits of the Virgin Mary.

CL

And thus upon his elbow he arose,

And look'd upon the lady, in whose cheek The pale contended with the purple rose,

As with an effort she began to speak;

- Her eyes were eloquent, her words would pose,
  - Although she told him, in good modern Greek,

With an Ionian accent, low and sweet,

That he was faint, and must not talk, but eat. 1200

CLI

Now Juan could not understand a word, Being no Grecian; but he had an ear,

And her voice was the warble of a bird, So soft, so sweet, so delicately clear,

That finer, simpler music ne'er was heard; The sort of sound we echo with a tear, Without knowing why — an overpowering tone,

Whence Melody descends as from a throne.

CLII

And Juan gazed as one who is awoke 1209 By a distant organ, doubting if he be

Not yet a dreamer, till the spell is broke By the watchman, or some such reality,

Or by one's early valet's cursed knock; At least it is a heavy sound to me,

Who like a morning slumber — for the night

Shows stars and women in a better light.

CLIII

- And Juan, too, was help'd out from his dream.
  - Or sleep, or whatsoe'er it was, by feel-
- A most prodigious appetite: the steam Of Zoe's cookery no doubt was steal-
- Upon his senses, and the kindling beam Of the new fire, which Zoe kept up, kneeling

To stir her viands, made him quite awake And long for food, but chiefly a beef-steak.

CLIV

But beef is rare within these oxless isles; Goat's flesh there is, no doubt, and kid, and mutton:

And, when a holiday upon them smiles,

- A joint upon their barbarous spits they put on:
- But this occurs but seldom, between whiles, For some of these are rocks with scarce a hut on; 1230

Others are fair and fertile, among which

This, though not large, was one of the most rich

CLV

I say that beef is rare, and can't help think-

That the old fable of the Minotaur -

- From which our modern morals rightly shrinking
- Condemn the royal lady's taste who wore A cow's shape for a mask — was only (sinking

The allegory) a mere type, no more,

- That Pasiphae promoted breeding cattle,
- To make the Cretans bloodier in battle. 1240

CLVI

- For we all know that English people are Fed upon beef — I won't say much of beer.
- Because 't is liquor only, and being far
- From this my subject, has no business here;
- We know, too, they are very fond of war, A pleasure — like all pleasures — rather dear;

So were the Cretans — from which I infer

That beef and battles both were owing to her.

CLVII

But to resume. The languid Juan raised His head upon his elbow, and he saw 1250

- A sight on which he had not lately gazed, As all his latter meals had been quite raw,
- Three or four things, for which the Lord he praised,
  - And, feeling still the famish'd vulture gnaw,
- He fell upon whate'er was offer'd, like
- A priest, a shark, an alderman, or pike.

CLVIII

He ate, and he was well supplied: and she, Who watch'd him like a mother, would

- have fed Him past all bounds, because she smiled to see
- Such appetite in one she had deem'd dead; 1260

But Zoe, being older than Haidée,

- Knew (by tradition, for she ne'er had read)
- That famish'd people must be slowly nurst,
- And fed by spoonfuls, else they always burst.

CLIX

And so she took the liberty to state,

- Rather by deeds than words, because the case
- Was urgent, that the gentleman, whose fate Had made her mistress quit her bed to trace
- The sea-shore at this hour, must leave his plate,
- Unless he wish'd to die upon the place She snatch'd it, and refused another mor-
- sel, 1271 Saying, he had gorged enough to make a
- horse ill.

- Next they he being naked, save a tatter'd
  - Pair of scarce decent trowsers went to work,
- And in the fire his recent rags they scatter'd,
- And dress'd him, for the present, like a Turk,
- Or Greek that is, although it not much matter'd,

Omitting turban, slippers, pistols, dirk, —

- They furnish'd him, entire, except some stitches,
- With a clean shirt, and very spacious breeches. 1280

CLXI

- And then fair Haidée tried her tongue at speaking,
- But not a word could Juan comprehend, Although he listen'd so that the young
- Greek in Her earnestness would ne'er have made
- an end;
- And, as he interrupted not, went eking

Her speech out to her protégé and friend, Till pausing at the last her breath to take, She saw he did not understand Romaic.

CLXII

- And then she had recourse to nods, and signs,
- And smiles, and sparkles of the speaking eve.
- And read (the only book she could) the lines

Of his fair face, and found, by sympathy, The answer eloquent, where the soul shines

- And darts in one quick glance a long reply; And thus in every look she saw exprest
- A world of words, and things at which she guess'd.

CLXIII

- And now, by dint of fingers and of eyes, And words repeated after her, he took
- A lesson in her tongue; but by surmise, No doubt, less of her language than her look.
- As he who studies fervently the skies Turns oftener to the stars than to his book,

Thus Juan learn'd his alpha beta better From Haidée's glance than any graven letter CLXIV

- 'T is pleasing to be school'd in a strange tongue
- By female lips and eyes that is, I mean, When both the teacher and the taught are
- young, As was the case, at least, where I have
- been;
- They smile so when one's right, and when one's wrong
- They smile still more, and then there intervene 1310
- Pressure of hands, perhaps even a chaste kiss; ---
- I learn'd the little that I know by this:

CLXV

That is, some words of Spanish, Turk, and Greek,

Italian not at all, having no teachers;

- Much English I cannot pretend to speak, Learning that language chiefly from its preachers,
- Barrow, South, Tillotson, whom every week I study, also Blair, the highest reachers
- Of eloquence in piety and prose --
- I hate your poets, so read none of those. 1320

CLXVI

- As for the ladies, I have nought to say, A wanderer from the British world of
- fashion,
- Where I, like other 'dogs, have had my day,'

Like other men, too, may have had my

- But that, like other things, has pass'd away,
  - And all her fools whom I could lay the lash on:
- $\underline{\underline{F}}$ oes, friends, men, women, now are nought to me
- But dreams of what has been, no more to be.

CLXVII

- Return we to Don Juan. He begun To hear new words, and to repeat them; but
- Some feelings, universal as the sun,
  - Were such as could not in his breast be shut
- More than within the bosom of a nun :
  - He was in love, as you would be, no doubt,

With a young benefactress, — so was she, Just in the way we very often see.

CLXVIII

- And every day by daybreak rather early For Juan, who was somewhat fond of rest —
- She came into the cave, but it was merely To see her bird reposing in his nest; 1340
- And she would softly stir his locks so curly, Without disturbing her yet slumbering guest,
- Breathing all gently o'er his cheek and mouth,
- As o'er a bed of roses the sweet south.

CLXIX

- And every morn his colour freshlier came, And every day help'd on his convalescence ;
- T was well, because health in the human frame
  - Is pleasant, besides being true love's essence,
- For health and idleness to passion's flame
  - Are oil and gunpowder; and some good lessons
- Are also learnt from Ceres and from Bacchus,
- Without whom Venus will not long attack us.

CLXX

- While Venus fills the heart (without heart really
- Love, though good always, is not quite so good),
- Ceres presents a plate of vermicelli, -
- For love must be sustain'd like flesh and blood, ---
- While Bacchus pours out wine, or hands a jelly :

Eggs, oysters, too, are amatory food ;

- But who is their purveyor from above
- Heaven knows, it may be Neptune, Pan, or Jove. 1360

CLXXI

- When Juan woke he found some good things ready,
- A bath, a breakfast, and the finest eyes That ever made a youthful heart less steady,
- Besides her maid's as pretty for their size;

But I have spoken of all this already — And repetition's tiresome and unwise, —

Well — Juan, after bathing in the sea, Came always back to coffee and Haidée.

CLXXII

- Both were so young, and one so innocent, That bathing pass'd for nothing ; Juan seem'd 1370
- To her, as 'twere, the kind of being sent, Of whom these two years she had nightly dream'd,
- A something to be loved, a creature meant To be her happiness, and whom she deem'd
- To render happy ; all who joy would win
- Must share it, Happiness was born a twin.

CLXXIII

- It was such pleasure to behold him, such Enlargement of existence to partake
- Nature with him, to thrill beneath his touch,
  - To watch him slumbering, and to see him wake. 1380
- To live with him forever were too much; But then the thought of parting made her quake;

He was her own, her ocean-treasure, cast

Like a rich wreck — her first love, and her last.

CLXXIV

And thus a moon roll'd on, and fair Haidée

Paid daily visits to her boy, and took Such plentiful precautions, that still he

Remain'd unknown within his craggy nook;

At last her father's prows put out to sea

For certain merchantmen upon the look, Not as of yore to carry off an Io, But three Ragusan vessels, bound for Scio.

CLXXV

Then came her freedom, for she had no mother,

So that, her father being at sea, she was Free as a married woman, or such other

- Female, as where she likes may freely pass,
- Without even the incumbrance of a brother, The freest she that ever gazed on glass;

I speak of Christian lands in this comparison,

Where wives, at least, are seldom kept in garrison. 1400

CLXXVI

Now she prolong'd her visits and her talk (For they must talk), and he had learnt to say

So much as to propose to take a walk, ---

- For little had he wander'd since the day
- On which, like a young flower snapp'd from the stalk,
  - Drooping and dewy on the beach he lay, -
- And thus they walk'd out in the afternoon,
- And saw the sun set opposite the moon.

CLXXVII

- It was a wild and breaker-beaten coast, With cliffs above, and a broad sandy shore,
- Guarded by shoals and rocks as by an host, With here and there a creek, whose aspect wore
- A better welcome to the tempest-tost;
- And rarely ceased the haughty billow's roar,
- Save on the dead long summer days, which make
- The outstretch'd ocean glitter like a lake.

CLXXVIII

- And the small ripple spilt upon the beach
- Scarcely o'erpass'd the cream of your champagne,
- When o'er the brim the sparkling bumpers reach,
  - That spring-dew of the spirit ! the heart's rain ! 1420
- Few things surpass old wine; and they may preach
  - Who please, the more because they preach in vain, —
- Let us have wine and women, mirth and laughter,

Sermons and soda-water the day after.

CLXXIX

- Man, being reasonable, must get drunk;
- The best of life is but intoxication: Glory, the grape, love, gold, in these are sunk
  - The hopes of all men, and of every nation;

- Without their sap, how branchless were the trunk
  - Of life's strange tree, so fruitful on occasion 1430
- But to return, Get very drunk; and when You wake with headache, you shall see what then.

CLXXX

- Ring for your valet bid him quickly bring Some hock and soda-water, then you'll know
- A pleasure worthy Xerxes the great king; For not the bless'd sherbet, sublimed with snow,
- Nor the first sparkle of the desert-spring, Nor Burgundy in all its sunset glow,
- After long travel, ennui, love, or slaughter,
- Vie with that draught of hock and sodawater.

CLXXXI

The coast — I think it was the coast that I Was just describing — Yes, it was the coast —

Lay at this period quiet as the sky,

- The sands untumbled, the blue waves untost,
- And all was stillness, save the sea-bird's cry, And dolphin's leap, and httle billow crost
- By some low rock or shelve, that made it fret

Against the boundary it scarcely wet.

CLXXXII

And forth they wander'd, her sire being gone.

As I have said, upon an expedition; 1450

And mother, brother, guardian, she had none,

Save Zoe, who, although with due pre-

She waited on her lady with the sun,

- Thought daily service was her only mission,
- Bringing warm water, wreathing her long tresses,
- And asking now and then for cast-off dresses.

CLXXXIII

- It was the cooling hour, just when the rounded
  - Red sun sinks down behind the azure hill,

Which then seems as if the whole earth it bounded,

- Circling all nature, hush'd, and dim, and still, 1460
- With the far mountain-crescent half surrounded
  - On one side, and the deep sea calm and chill
- Upon the other, and the rosy sky,
- With one star sparkling through it like an eye.

CLXXXIV

And thus they wander'd forth, and hand • hand,

Over the shining pebbles and the shells,

- Glided along the smooth and harden'd sand, And in the worn and wild receptacles
- Work'd by the storms, yet work'd as it were plann'd,
  - In hollow halls, with sparry roofs and cells, 1470
- They turn'd to rest; and, each clasp'd by an arm,

Yielded to the deep twilight's purple charm.

CLXXXV

- They look'd up to the sky, whose floating glow
- Spread like a rosy ocean, vast and bright; They gazed upon the glittering sea below.
  - Whence the broad moon rose circling into sight;
- They heard the wave's splash, and the wind so low,
  - And saw each other's dark eyes darting light

Into each other — and, beholding this,

Their lips drew near, and clung into a kiss; 1480

CLXXXVI

- A long, long kiss, a kiss of youth, and love,
- And beauty, all concentrating like rays
- Into one focus, kindled from above;

Such kisses as belong to early days,

- Where heart, and soul, and sense, in concert move,
- And the blood's lava, and the pulse a blaze,
- Each kiss a heart-quake, for a kiss's strength,
- I think, it must be reckon'd by its length.

CLXXXVII

- By length I mean duration; theirs endured Heaven knows how long — no doubt they never reckon'd; 1490
- And if they had, they could not have secured
- The sum of their sensations to a second:
- They had not spoken; but they felt allured, As if their souls and lps each other
- beckon'd,
- Which, being join'd, like swarming bees they clung --
- Their hearts the flowers from whence the honey sprung.

CLXXXVIII

They were alone, but not alone as they

Who shut in chambers think it loneliness; The silent ocean, and the starlight bay,

- The twilight glow which momently grew less, 1500
- The voiceless sands and dropping caves, that lay
  - Around them, made them to each other press,
- As if there were no life beneath the sky

Save theirs, and that their life could never die.

CLXXXIX

- They fear'd no eyes nor ears on that lone beach,
  - They felt no terrors from the night, they were
- All in all to each other: though their speech
  - Was broken words, they thought a language there,—
- And all the burning tongues the passions teach 1509

Found in one sigh the best interpreter

Of nature's oracle — first love, — that all

Which Eve has left her daughters since her fall.

CXC

Haidée spoke not of scruples, ask'd no vows, Nor offer'd any; she had never heard

Of plight and promises to be a spouse,

Or perils by a loving maid incurr'd; She was all which pure ignorance allows,

And flew to her young mate like a young bird;

And, never having dreamt of falsehood, she Had not one word to say of constancy. 152C

CXCI

- She loved, and was beloved she adored, And she was worshipp'd; after nature's fashion,
- Their intense souls, into each other pour'd,
- If souls could die, had perish'd in that passion, --

But by degrees their senses were restored, Again to be o'ercome, again to dash on;

And, beating 'gainst his bosom, Haidée's heart

Felt as if never more to beat apart. 1528

CXCII

Alas ! they were so young, so beautiful, So lonely, loving, helpless, and the hour

Was that in which the heart is always full, And, having o'er itself no further power,

Prompts deeds eternity can not annul, But pays off moments in an endless shower

Of hell-fire — all prepared for people giving Pleasure or pain to one another living.

CXCIII

Alas! for Juan and Haidée! they were

So loving and so lovely — till then never, Excepting our first parents, such a pair

Had run the risk of being damn'd for ever; 1540

And Haidée, being devout as well as fair, Had, doubtless, heard about the Stygian river,

And hell and purgatory - but forgot

Just in the very crisis she should not.

CXCIV

They look upon each other, and their eyes Gleam in the moonlight; and her white arm clasps

Round Juan's head, and his around her hes Half buried in the tresses which it grasps;

She sits upon his knee, and drinks his sighs, He hers, until they end in broken gasps;

And thus they form a group that's quite antique,

Half naked, loving, natural, and Greek.

CXCV

And when those deep and burning moments pass'd,

And Juan sunk to sleep within her arms,

She slept not, but all tenderly, though fast, Sustain'd his head upon her bosom's charms:

- And now and then her eye to heaven is cast,
  - And then on the pale cheek her breast now warms,
- Pillow'd on her o'erflowing heart, which pants
- With all it granted, and with all it grants.

CXCVI

- An infant when it gazes on a light, A child the moment when it drains the breast,
- A devotee when soars the Host in sight, An Arab with a stranger for a guest,
- A sailor when the prize has struck in fight,
- A miser filling his most hoarded chest,
- Feel rapture; but not such true joy are reaping
- As they who watch o'er what they love while sleeping.

CXCVII

For there it lies so tranquil, so beloved, 1669 All that it hath of life with us is living;

- So gentle, stirless, helpless, and unmoved, And all unconscious of the joy 't is giving;
- All it hath felt, inflicted, pass'd, and proved, Hush'd into depths beyond the watcher's diving:
- There lies the thing we love with all its errors
- And all its charms, like death without its terrors.

CXCVIII

- The lady watch'd her lover and that hour
  - Of Love's, and Night's, and Ocean's solitude,
- O'erflow'd her soul with their united power; Amidst the barren sand and rocks so rude
- She and her wave-worn love had made their bower,

Where nought upon their passion could intrude,

- And all the stars that crowded the blue space
- Saw nothing happier than her glowing face.

CXCIX

Alas! the love of women! it is known To be a lovely and a fearful thing; For all of theirs upon that die is thrown, And if 't is lost, life hath no more to bring

To them but mockeries of the past alone,

- And their revenge is as the tiger's spring, Deadly, and quick, and crushing; yet, as
- real 1591 Torture is theirs, what they inflict they
- feel.

сс

They are right; for man, to man so oft unjust,

Is always so to women, one sole bond

Awaits them, treachery is all their trust; Taught to conceal, their bursting hearts despond

Over their idol, till some wealthier lust

- Buys them in marriage and what rests beyond ?
- A thankless husband, next a faithless lover, Then dressing, nursing, praying, and all's over.

CCI

- Some take a lover, some take drams or prayers,
- Some mind their household, others dissipation,
- Some run away, and but exchange their cares,
  - Losing the advantage of a virtuous station;
- Few changes e'er can better their affairs, Theirs being an unnatural situation,

From the dull palace to the dirty hovel:

Some play the devil, and then write a novel.

CCII

- Haidée was Nature's bride, and knew not this;
  - Haidée was Passion's child, born where the sun 1610
- Showers triple light, and scorches even the kiss
- Of his gazelle-eyed daughters; she was one
- Made but to love, to feel that she was his
  - Who was her chosen: what was said or done
- Elsewhere was nothing. She had naught to fear,
- Hope, care, nor love, beyond, her heart beat here.

CCIII

- And oh ! that quickening of the heart, that beat !
  - How much it costs us ' yet each rising throb
- Is in its cause as its effect so sweet,
- That Wisdom, ever on the watch to rob Joy of its alchymy, and to repeat 1621
- Fine truths; even Conscience, too, has a tough job
- To make us understand each good old maxim,
- So good I wonder Castlereagh don't tax 'em.

CCIV

- And now 't was done on the lone shore were plighted
  - Their hearts; the stars, their nuptial torches, shed
- Beauty upon the beautiful they lighted:
- Ocean their witness, and the cave their bed,
- By their own feelings hallow'd and united, Their priest was Solitude, and they were wed:
- And they were happy, for to their young eyes
- Each was an angel, and earth paradise.

CCV

Oh, Love! of whom great Cæsar was the suitor,

Titus the master, Antony the slave,

Horace, Catullus, scholars, Ovid tutor,

- Sappho the sage blue-stocking, in whose grave
- All those may leap who rather would be neuter
  - (Leucadia's rock still overlooks the wave) —

Oh, Love ! thou art the very god of evil,

For, after all, we cannot call thee devil.

CCVI

- Thou mak'st the chaste connubial state precarious, 1641
  - And jestest with the brows of mightiest men:

Cæsar and Pompey, Mahomet, Belisarius,

- Have much employ'd the muse of history's pen;
- Their lives and fortunes were extremely various,

Such worthies Time will never see again;

- Yet to these four in three things the same luck holds,
- They all were heroes, conquerors, and cuckolds.

CCVII

Thou mak'st philosophers; there's Epicurus

And Aristippus, a material crew ! 1650 Who to immoral courses would allure us By theories quite practicable too;

- If only from the devil they would insure us, How pleasant were the maxim (not quite new),
- 'Eat, drink, and love, what can the rest avail us?'
- So said the royal sage Sardanapalus.

CCVIII

- But Juan! had he quite forgotten Julia? And should he have forgotten her so soon?
- I can't but say it seems to me most truly a Perplexing question; but, no doubt, the moon 1660
- Does these things for us, and whenever newly a
  - Strong palpitation rises, 't is her boon,
- Else how the devil 1s it that fresh features Have such a charm for us poor human creatures?

CCIX

- I hate inconstancy I loathe, detest, Abhor, condemn, abjure the mortal made
- Of such quicksilver clay that in his breast No permanent foundation can be laid;
- Love, constant love, has been my constant guest,
  - And yet last night, being at a masquerade, 1670
- I saw the prettiest creature, fresh from Mılan,
- Which gave me some sensations like a villain.

CCX

- But soon Philosophy came to my aid, And whisper'd, 'Think of every sacred tie !'
- 'I will, my dear Philosophy !' I said,
  - 'But then her teeth, and then, oh, Heaven ! her eye !
- I'll just inquire if she be wife or maid, Or neither — out of curiosity.'

- -Stop!' cried Philosophy, with air so Grecian
- (Though she was masqued then as a fair Venetian); 1680

CCXI

'Stop !' so I stopp'd. - But to return: that which

Men call inconstancy is nothing more Than admiration due where nature's rich

Profusion with young beauty covers o'er Some favour'd object; and as in the niche

A lovely statue we almost adore, This sort of adoration of the real

a but a baintation of the character

Is but a heightening of the 'beau ideal.'

CCXII

- 'T is the perception of the beautiful, A fine extension of the faculties,
- A fine extension of the faculties, 1690 Platonic, universal, wonderful,
  - Drawn from the stars, and filter'd through the skies,
- Without which life would be extremely dull;

In short, it is the use of our own eyes, With one or two small senses added, just To hint that flesh is form'd of flery dust.

CCXIII

- Yet 't is a painful feeling, and unwilling, For surely if we always could perceive
- In the same object graces quite as killing As when she rose upon us like an Eve, 1700
- 'T would save us many a heartache, many a shilling
  - (For we must get them any how or grieve),

Whereas if one sole lady pleased for ever, How pleasant for the heart as well as liver !

CCXIV

- The heart is like the sky, a part of heaven, But changes night and day, too, like the sky;
- Now o'er it clouds and thunder must be driven,

And darkness and destruction as on high: But when it hath been scorch'd, and pierced,

- and riven,
  - Its storms expire in water-drops; the eye 1710
- Pours forth at last the heart's blood turn'd to tears,
- Which make the English climate of our years.

CCXV

The liver is the lazaret of bile,

But very rarely executes its function,

- For the first passion stays there such a while, That all the rest creep in and form a junction,
- Life knots of vipers on a dunghill's soil, Rage, fear, hate, jealousy, revenge, compunction, —
- So that all mischiefs spring up from this entrail,
- Like earthquakes from the hidden fire call'd central,' 1720

CCXVI

- In the mean time, without proceeding more In this anatomy, I 've finish'd now
- Two hundred and odd stanzas as before, That being about the number I 'll allow
- Each canto of the twelve, or twenty-four; And, laying down my pen, I make my
- bow, Leaving Don Juan and Haidée to plead
- For them and theirs with all who deign to read.

CANTO THE THIRD

1

HAIL, Muse! et cetera. — We left Juan sleeping,

Pillow'd upon a fair and happy breast,

- And watch'd by eyes that never yet knew weeping,
- And loved by a young heart, too deeply blest
- To feel the poison through her spirit creeping,

Or know who rested there, a foe to rest, Had soil'd the current of her sinless years, And turn'd her pure beart's purest blood to tears!

II

- Oh, Love ! what is it in this world of ours Which makes it fatal to be loved ? Ah, why
- With cypress branches hast thou wreathed thy bowers,

And made thy best interpreter a sigh ?

- As those who dote on odours pluck the flowers,
  - And place them on their breast but place to die —

Thus the frail beings we would fondly cherish

Are laid within our bosoms but to perish.

In her first passion woman loves her lover, In all the others all she loves 1s love,

Which grows a habit she can ne'er get over,

- And fits her loosely like an easy glove, As you may find, whene'er you like to prove her: 21
  - One man alone at first her heart can move;

She then prefers him in the plural number, Not finding that the additions much encumber.

IV

- ( know not if the fault be men's or theirs; But one thing's pretty sure; a woman
- planted (Unless at once she plunge for life in
- prayers)

After a decent time must be gallanted; Although, no doubt, her first of love affairs

- Is that to which her heart is wholly granted; 30
- Yet there are some, they say, who have had none,
- But those who have ne'er end with only one.

v

"T is melancholy, and a fearful sign

Of human frailty, folly, also crime,

- That love and marriage rarely can combine, Although they both are born in the same clime;
- Marriage from love, like vinegar from wine ---

A sad, sour, sober beverage — by time Is sharpen'd from its high celestial flavour Down to a very homely household savour 40

VI

There's something of antipathy, as 't were, Between their present and their future state;

A kind of flattery that's hardly fair

Is used until the truth arrives too late -

- Yet what can people do, except despair?
- The same things change their names at such a rate;

For instance — passion in a lover's glorious, But in a husband is pronounced uxorious.

- Men grow ashamed of being so very fond;
- They sometimes also get a little tired 50 (But that, of course, 15 rare), and then despond:
  - The same things cannot always be admired,

Yet 't is 'so nominated in the bond,'

- That both are tied till one shall have expired.
- Sad thought! to lose the spouse that was adorning
- Our days, and put one's servants into mourning.

VIII

- There's doubtless something in domestic doings
  - Which forms, in fact, true love's antithesis;
- Romances paint at full length people's wooings,
- But only give a bust of marriages; 60 For no one cares for matrimonial cooings,
- There's nothing wrong in a connubial kiss:
- Think you, if Laura had been Petrarch's_wife,
- He would have written sonnets all his life?

IX

All tragedies are finish'd by a death,

All comedies are ended by a marriage;

- The future states of both are left to faith, For authors fear description might dis-
- parage
- The worlds to come of both, or fall beneath,
  - And then both worlds would punish their miscarriage; 70
- So leaving each their priest and prayerbook ready,
- They say no more of Death or of the Lady.

х

The only two that in my recollection

- Have sung of heaven and hell, or marriage, are
- Dante and Milton, and of both the affection
  - Was hapless in their nuptials, for some bar
- Of fault or temper run'd the connection (Such things, in fact, it don't ask much to mar):

802

Were not drawn from their spouses, you conceive. 80 tant captures; хı Some persons say that Dante meant themam'd, ology By Beatrice, and not a mistress - I. raptures. Although my opinion may require apology, Deem this a commentator's fantasy, chain'd Unless indeed it was from his own know-His prisoners, dividing them like chapledge he ters Decided thus, and show'd good reason In number'd lots: they all had cuffs and why collars, I think that Dante's more abstruse ecstatics And averaged each from ten to a hundred Meant to personify the mathematics. dollars XII XVI Haidée and Juan were not married, but Some he disposed of off Cape Matapan, The fault was theirs, not mine; it is not fair. sold

Chaste reader, then, in any way to put The blame on me, unless you wish they were;

But Dante's Beatrice and Milton's Eve

- Then if you'd have them wedded, please to shut
- The book which treats of this erroneous pair,
- Before the consequences grow too awful;
- 'T is dangerous to read of loves unlawful.

$\mathbf{X}\mathbf{III}$

- Yet they were happy, happy in the illicit Indulgence of their innocent desires;
- But more imprudent grown with every visit, Haidée forgot the island was her sire's;
- When we have what we like, 't is hard to miss it,

At least in the beginning, ere one tires; Thus she came often, not a moment losing, Whilst her piratical papa was cruising.

XIV

- Let not his mode of raising cash seem strange,
  - Although he fleeced the flags of every nation,

For into a prime minister but change

His title, and 't is nothing but taxation;

- But he, more modest, took an humbler range
- Of life, and in an honester vocation 110 Pursued o'er the high seas his watery jour-
- ney,
- And merely practised as a sea-attorney.

xv

- The good old gentleman had been detain'd By winds and waves, and some impor-
- And, in the hope of more, at sea re-
  - Although a squall or two had damp'd his
- By swamping one of the prizes; he had

- 120

- Among his friends the Mainots; some he
- To his Tunis correspondents, save one man Toss'd overboard unsaleable (being old);
- The rest save here and there some richer one,
- Reserved for future ransom in the hold Were link'd alike, as for the common people he
- Had a large order from the Dey of Tripoli.

XVII

- The merchandise was served in the same way,
  - Pieced out for different marts in the Levant:
- Except some certain portions of the prey, Light classic articles of female want,
- French stuffs, lace, tweezers, toothpicks, teapot, tray,
- Guitars and castanets from Alicant,
- All which selected from the spoil he gathers.
- Robb'd for his daughter by the best of fathers.

XVIII

- A monkey, a Dutch mastiff, a mackaw,
  - Two parrots, with a Persian cat and kittens,
- He chose from several animals he saw ----
  - A terrier, too, which once had been a Briton's, 140
- Who dying on the coast of Ithaca,
  - The peasants gave the poor dumb thing a pittance;

These to secure in this strong blowing weather,

He caged in one huge hamper altogether.

XIX

Then having settled his marine affairs,

- Despatching single crusiers here and there,
- His vessel having need of some repairs, He shaped his course to where his daughter fair

Continued still her hospitable cares;

- But that part of the coast being shoal and bare, 150
- And rough with reefs which ran out many a mile,

His port lay on the other side o' the isle.

XX

And there he went ashore without delay,

Having no custom-house nor quarantine

- To ask him awkward questions on the way
  - About the time and place where he had been:
- He left his ship to be hove down next day, With orders to the people to careen;
- So that all hands were busy beyond measure, In getting out goods, ballast, guns, and treasure 160

XXI

Arriving at the summit of a hill

Which overlook'd the white walls of his home,

He stopp'd. - What singular emotions fill

- Their bosoms who have been induced to roam !
- With fluttering doubts if all be well or ill With love for many, and with fears for some;
- All feelings which o'erleap the years long lost,
- And bring our hearts back to their startingpost.

XXII

The approach of home to husbands and to sires, 169

After long travelling by land or water, Most naturally some small doubt inspires —

A female family 's a serious matter

(None trusts the sev more, or so much admires —

But they hate flattery, so I never flatter);

- Wives in their husbands' absences grow subtler,
- And daughters sometimes run off with the butler.

$\mathbf{X}\mathbf{X}\mathbf{I}\mathbf{I}\mathbf{I}$

An honest gentleman at his return

- May not have the good fortune of Ulysses; Not all lone matrons for their husbands mourn.
- Or show the same dislike to suitors' kisses;
- The odds are that he finds a handsome urn To his memory — and two or three young misses
- Born to some friend, who holds his wife and riches, ---
- And that his Argus bites him by the breeches.

XXIV

If single, probably his plighted fair

- Has in his absence wedded some rich miser;
- But all the better, for the happy pair

May quarrel, and the lady growing wiser, He may resume his amatory care

As cavalier servente, or despise her; 190 And that his sorrow may not be a dumb one, Write odes on the Inconstancy of Woman.

XXV

And oh ! ye gentlemen who have already Some chaste liaison of the kind — I mean

An honest friendship with a married lady — The only thing of this sort ever seen

To last — of all connections the most steady, And the true Hymen (the first's but a screen) —

- Yet for all that keep not too long away,
- I 've known the absent wrong'd four times a day. 200

XXVI

- Lambro, our sea-solicitor, who had Much less experience of dry land than ocean,
- On seeing his own chimney-smoke, felt glad; But not knowing metaphysics, had no notion
- Of the true reason of his not being sad,

Or that of any other strong emotion:

He loved his child, and would have wept the loss of her,

But knew the cause no more than a philosopher.

804

XXVII

- He saw his white walls shining in the sun, His garden trees all shadowy and green;
- He heard his rivulet's light bubbling run, 211 The distant dog-bark; and perceived between
- The umbrage of the wood so cool and dun The moving figures, and the sparkling sheen
- Of arms (in the East all arm) and various dves

Of colour'd garbs, as bright as butterflies

XXVIIII

- And as the spot where they appear he nears, Surprised at these unwonted signs of idling,
- He hears alas ! no music of the spheres, But an unhallow'd, earthly sound of fiddling ! 220
- A melody which made him doubt his ears, The cause being past his guessing or unriddling;

A pipe, too, and a drum, and shortly after, A most unoriental roar of laughter.

XXIX

- And still more nearly to the place advancing,
- Descending rather quickly the declivity, Through the waved branches o'er the green-
- sward glancing,
- 'Midst other indications of festivity,
- Seeing a troop of his domestics dancing Like dervises, who turn as on a pivot,
- he 230 Perceived it was the Pyrrhic dance so mar-
- tial,
- To which the Levantines are very partial.

XXX

- And further on a group of Grecian girls, The first and tallest her white kerchief waving,
- Were strung together like a row of pearls, Link'd hand in hand, and dancing; each too having
- Down her white neck long floating auburn curls
  - (The least of which would set ten poets raving);
- Their leader sang and bounded to her song,
- With choral step and voice, the virgin throng. 240

XXXI

And here, assembled cross-legg'd round their trays,

Small social parties just begun to dine;

- Pilaus and meats of all sorts met the gaze, And flasks of Samian and of Chian wine,
- And sherbet cooling in the porous vase; Above them their dessert grew on its vine,
- The orange and pomegranate nodding o'er Dropp'd m their laps, scarce pluck'd, their mellow store.

XXXII

- A band of children, round a snow-white ram, There wreathe his venerable horns with flowers: 250
- While peaceful as if still an unwean'd lamb, The patriarch of the flock all gently cowers

His sober head, majestically tame,

Or eats from out the palm, or playful lowers

His brow, as if in act to butt, and then

Yielding to their small hands, draws back again.

XXXIII

- Their classical profiles, and glittering dresses,
  - Their large black eyes, and soft seraphic cheeks,
- Crimson as cleft pomegranates, their long tresses,
- The gesture which enchants, the eye that speaks, 260
- The innocence which happy childhood blesses,
  - Made quite a picture of these little Greeks;

So that the philosophical beholder

Sigh'd for their sakes — that they should e'er grow older.

XXXIV

Afar, a dwarf buffoon stood telling tales To a sedate grey circle of old smokers,

- Of secret treasures found m hidden vales, Of wonderful replies from Arab jokers,
- Of charms to make good gold and cure bad ails,
  - Of rocks bewitch'd that open to the knockers, 270
- Of magic ladies who, by one sole act,
- Transform'd their lords to beasts (but that 's a fact).

XXXV

Here was no lack of innocent diversion For the imagination or the senses,

Song, dance, wine, music, stories from the Persian,

All pretty pastimes in which no offence is; But Lambro saw all these things with aversion.

Perceiving in his absence such expenses, Dreading that climax of all human ills,

The inflammation of his weekly bills. 280

XXXVI

Ah! what is man? what perils still environ The happiest moitals even after dinner — A day of gold from out an age of iron

Is all that life allows the luckiest sinner;

Pleasure (whene'er she sings, at least)'s a siren,

That lures, to flay alive, the young beginner;

Lambro's reception at his people's banquet Was such as fire accords to a wet blanket.

XXXVII

He - being a man who seldom used a word

- Too much, and wishing gladly to surprise (In general he surprised men with the
  - sword) 291 His daughter — had not sent before to advise

Of his arrival, so that no one stirr'd;

And long he paused to re-assure his eyes In fact much more astonish'd than delighted, To find so much good company invited.

XXXVIII

He did not know (alas ' how men will lie) That a report (especially the Greeks)

- Avouch'd his death (such people never die), And put his house in mourning several weeks.— 300
- But now their eyes and also lips were dry;
  - The bloom, too, had return'd to Haidée's cheeks
- Her tears, too, being return'd into their fount,

She now kept house upon her own account.

XXXIX

- Hence all this rice, meat, dancing, wine, and fidlling,
  - Which turn'd the isle into a place of pleasure;

The servants all were getting drunk or idling, A life which made them happy beyond measure.

Her father's hospitality seem'd middling,

Compared with what Haidée did with his treasure; 310

- 'T was wonderful how things went on improving,
- While she had not one hour to spare from loving

XL

Perhaps you think in stumbling on this feast He flew into a passion, and in fact

There was no mighty reason to be pleased; Perhaps you prophesy some sudden act,

The whip, the rack, or dungeon at the least, To teach his people to be more exact,

And that, proceeding at a very high rate, He show'd the royal penchants of a pirate.

XLI

You're wrong. — He was the mildest manner'd man 321

That ever scuttled ship or cut a throat: With such true breeding of a gentleman,

You never could divine his real thought; No countier could, and scarcely woman can

Gird more deceit within a petticoat; Pity he loved adventurous life's variety,

He was so great a loss to good society.

XLII

Advancing to the nearest dinner tray, 329 Tapping the shoulder of the nighest guest,

With a peculiar smile, which, by the way, Boded no good, whatever it express'd,

He ask'd the meaning of this holday; The vinous Greek to whom he had address'd

His question, much too merry to divine The questioner, fill'd up a glass of wine,

XLIII

And without turning his facetious head, Over his shoulder, with a Bacchant air,

Presented the o'erflowing cup, and said,

- 'Talking's dry work, I have no time to spare' 340
- A second hiccup'd, 'Our old master's dead, You'd better ask our mistress who's his heir.'
- 'Our mistress !' quoth a thurd · 'Our mistress !- pooh !--

You mean our master - not the old, but new.'

XLIV

- These rascals, being new comers, knew not whom
  - They thus address'd and Lambro's visage fell —
- And o'er his eye a momentary gloom
- Pass'd, but he strove quite courteously to quell
- The expression, and endeavouring to resume His smile, requested one of them to tell

The name and quality of his new patron,

Who seem'd to have turn'd Haide into a matron,

XLV

- 'I know not,' quoth the fellow, 'who or what
  - He is, nor whence he came and little care;
- But this I know, that this roast capon's fat, And that good wine ne'er wash'd down better fare;

And if you are not satisfied with that,

Direct your questions to my neighbour there;

He 'll answer all for better or for worse,

For none likes more to hear himself converse' 360

XLVI

- I said that Lambro was a man of patience, And certainly he show'd the best of breeding,
- Which scarce even France, the paragon of nations,

E'er saw her most polite of sons exceeding,

He bore these sneers against his near relations,

His own anxiety, his heart, too, bleeding, The insults, too, of every servile glutton, Who all the time was eating up his mutton.

XLVII

- Now in a person used to much command To bid men come, and go, and come again — 370
- To see his orders done, too, out of hand Whether the word was death, or but the chain —
- It may seem strange to find his manners bland;
  - Yet such things are, which I can not explain,

Though doubtless he who can command humself

Is good to govern — almost as a Guelf

XLVIII

Not that he was not sometimes rash or so,

- But never in his real and serious mood; Then calm, concentrated, and still, and slow,
- He lay coul'd like the boa in the wood;
- With him it never was a word and blow, His angry word once o'er, he shed no blood,

But in his silence there was much to rue, And his one blow left little work for two.

XLIX

He ask'd no further questions, and proceeded

On to the house, but by a private way,

- So that the few who met him hardly heeded, So little they expected him that day;
- If love paternal in his bosom pleaded For Haidée's sake, is more than I can
- say, But certainly to one deem'd dead, returning,
- This revel seem'd a curious mode of mourning.

L

- If all the dead could now return to life (Which God forbid !) or some, or a great
- many, For instance, if a husband or his wife

(Nuptial examples are as good as any),

- No doubt whate'er might be their former strife,
- The present weather would be much more rainy —
- Tears shed into the grave of the connection Would share most probably its resurrection. 400

LI

He enter'd in the house no more his home, A thing to human feelings the most trying,

And harder for the heart to overcome,

- Perhaps, than even the mental pangs of dying;
- To find our hearthstone turn'd into a tomb, And round its once warm precincts palely lying

The ashes of our hopes, is a deep grief, Beyond a single gentleman's belief. LII

- He enter'd in the house his home no more,
- For without hearts there is no home; and felt 410
- The solitude of passing his own door Without a welcome; there he long had
- dwelt,
- There his few peaceful days Time had swept o'er,
  - There his worn bosom and keen eye would melt
- Over the innocence of that sweet child,

His only shrine of feelings undefiled.

LIII

- He was a man of a strange temperament,
  - Of mild demeanour though of savage mood,

Moderate in all his habits, and content

With temperance in pleasure, as in food,

Quick to perceive, and strong to bear, and meant 421

For something better, if not wholly good; His country's wrongs and his despair to saveher

Had stung him from a slave to an enslaver

LIV

- The love of power, and rapid gain of gold,
- The hardness by long habitude produced, The dangerous life in which he had grown
- old, The mercy he had granted oft abused,

The sights he was accustom'd to behold,

- The wild seas, and wild men with whom he cruised, 430
- Had cost his enemies a long repentance,
- And made him a good friend, but bad acquaintance.

LV

But something of the spirit of old Greece Flash'd o'er his soul a few heroic rays,

- Such as lit onward to the Golden Fleece His predecessors in the Colchian days;
- 'T is true he had no ardent love for peace -
- Alas! his country show'd no path to praise:
- Hate to the world and war with every nation
- He waged, in vengeance of her degradation. 440

LVI

Still o'er his mind the influence of the clime

Shed its Ionian elegance, which show'd Its power unconsciously full many a time, ____

A taste seen in the choice of his abode, A love of music and of scenes sublime.

A pleasure in the gentle stream that flow'd Past him in crystal, and a joy in flowers, Bedew'd his spirit in his calmer hours.

LVII

But whatsoe'er he had of love reposed

- On that beloved daughter; she had been The only thing which kept his heart un
  - closed 451 Amidst the savage deeds he had done and seen;

A lonely pure affection unopposed:

There wanted but the loss of this to wean His feelings from all milk of human kindness,

And turn him like the Cyclops mad with blindness.

lviii

The cubless tigress in her jungle raging

Is dreadful to the shepherd and the flock; The ocean when its yeasty war is waging

Is awful to the vessel near the rock; 460 But violent things will sooner bear assua-ging, Their fury being spent by its own shock.

Than the stern, single, deep, and wordless ire

Of a strong human heart, and in a sire.

LIX

It is a hard although a common case

- To find our children running restive they
- In whom our brightest days we would retrace,

Our little selves re-form'd in finer clay, Just as old age is creeping on apace,

- And clouds come o'er the sunset of our day, 470
- They kindly leave us, though not quite alone,

But in good company — the gout or stone.

LX

Yet a fine family is a fine thing

(Provided they don't come in after di ner);

- 'T is beautiful to see a matron bring Her children up (if nursing them don't thun her);
- Like cherubs round an altar-piece they cling

To the fire-side (a sight to touch a sinner). A lady with her daughters or her nieces

- Shines like a guinea and seven-shilling
- pieces. 480

LXI

Old Lambro pass'd unseen a private gate, And stood within his hall at eventide;

Meantime the lady and her lover sate At wassail in their beauty and their pride.

An ivory inlaid table spread with state Before them, and fair slaves on every side;

- Gems, gold, and silver, form'd the service mostly,
- Mother of pearl and coral the less costly.

LXII

The dinner made about a hundred dishes; Lamb and pistachio nuts — in short, all

- meats, 490 And saffron soups, and sweetbreads; and the fishes
  - Were of the finest that e'er flounced in nets,
- Drest to a Sybarite's most pamper'd wishes; The beverage was various sherbets

Of raism, orange, and pomegranate juice,

Squeezed through the rind, which makes it best for use.

LXIII

- These were ranged round, each in its crystal ewer,
  - And fruits, and date-bread loaves closed the repast,

And Mocha's berry, from Arabia pure,

- In small fine China cups, came in at last; 500
- Gold cups of filigree made to secure The hand from burning underneath them
- placed, Cloves, cinnamon, and saffron too were boil'd
- Up with the coffee, which (I think) they spoil'd.

LXIV

- The hangings of the room were tapestry, made
  - Of velvet pa ls, each of different hue,

And thick with damask flowers of silk inlaid;

And round them ran a yellow border too; The upper border, richly wrought, display'd, Embroider'd delicately o'er with blue,

Soft Persian sentences, in lilac letters, 511 From poets, or the moralists their betters.

LXV

- These Oriental writings on the wall,
  - Quite common in those countries, are a kind
- Of monitors adapted to recall,
  - Like skulls at Memphian banquets, to the mind
- The words which shook Belshazzar in his hall,
  - And took his kingdom from him: You will find,
- Though sages may pour out their wisdom's treasure,

There is no sterner moralist than Pleasure.

LXVI

A beauty at the season's close grown hectic, 521

A genius who has drunk himself to death, A rake turn'd methodistic, or Eclectic

- (For that's the name they like to pray beneath) —
- But most, an alderman struck apoplectic,
  - Are things that really take away the breath, ---
- And show that late hours, wine, and love are able
- To do not much less damage than the table

LXVII

Haidée and Juan carpeted their feet

- On crimson satın, border'd with pale blue; 530
- Their sofa occupied three parts complete Of the apartment — and appear'd quite new;
- The velvet cushions (for a throne more meet)
  - Were scarlet, from whose glowing centre grew

A sun emboss'd in gold, whose rays of tissue. Meridian-like, were seen all light to issue.

LXVIII

Crystal and marble, plate and porcelain, Had done their work of splendour; Indian mats And Persian carpets, which the heart bled to stain,

Over the floors were spread; gazelles and cats, 540

- And dwarfs and blacks, and such like things, that gain
  - Their bread as ministers and favourites (that's
- To say, by degradation) mingled there
- As plentiful as in a court, or fair.

LXIX

There was no want of lofty mirrors, and The tables, most of ebony inlaid

- With mother of pearl or ivory, stood at hand, Or were of tortoise-shell or rare woods made,
- Fretted with gold or silver: by command, The greater part of these were ready spread 550
- spread 550 With viands and sherbets in ice — and wine —

Kept for all comers at all hours to dine.

LXX

Of all the dresses I select Haidée's:

She wore two jelicks — one was of pale yellow;

- Of azure, pmk, and white was her chemise 'Neath which her breast heaved like a little billow;
- With buttons form'd of pearls as large as peas,
  - All gold and crimson shone her jelick's fellow,
- And the striped white gauze baracan that bound her,

Like fleecy clouds about the moon, flow'd round her. 560

LXXI

One large gold bracelet clasp'd each lovely arm,

Lockless — so pliable from the pure gold That the hand stretch'd and shut it without harm,

The limb which it adorn'd its only mould; So beautiful — its very shape would charm;

- And, clunging as if loath to lose its hold, The purest ore enclosed the whitest skin
- That e'er by precious metal was held in.

LXXII

Around, as princess of her father's land, A like gold bar above her instep roll'd

- Announced her rank; twelve rings were on her hand;
  - Her hair was starr'd with gems; her veil's fine fold
- Below her breast was fasten'd with a band Of lavish pearls, whose worth could scarce be told;

Her orange silk full Turkish trousers furl'd About the prettiest ankle in the world.

LXXIII

- Her hair's long auburn waves down to her heel
  - Flow'd like an Alpine torrent which the sun
- Dyes with his morning light, and would conceal

Her person if allow'd at large to run,

- And still they seem resentfully to feel  $_{58r}$ The silken fillet's curb, and sought to shun
- Their bonds whene'er some Zephyr caught began
- To offer his young pinion as her fan.

LXXIV

Round her she made an atmosphere of life, The very air seem'd lighter from her eyes,

They were so soft and beautiful, and rife

With all we can imagine of the skies, And pure as Pysche ere she grew a wife —

Too pure even for the purest human ties; Her overpowering presence made you feel It would not be idolatry to kneel. 592

LXXV

- Her eyelashes, though dark as night, were tinged
- (It is the country's custom), but in vain; For those large black eyes were so blackly fringed,

The glossy rebels mock'd the jetty stain, And in their native beauty stood avenged

- Her nails were touch'd with henna; but again
- The power of art was turn'd to nothing, for They could not look more rosy than before.

LXXVI

- The henna should be deeply dyed to make The skin relieved appear more fairly fair; 602
- She had no need of this, day ne'er will break On mountain tops more heavenly white than her:

810

- The eye might doubt if it were well awake, She was so like a vision; I might err, But Shakspeare also says, 't is very silly
- 'To gild refined gold, or paint the lily.'

LXXVII

- Juan had on a shawl of black d gold,
- But a white baracan, and so transparent The sparkling gems beneath you might be-
- hold, 611 Like small stars through the milky way
- apparent; His turban, furl'd m many a graceful fold, An emerald aigrette with Haidée's hair in 't
- Surmounted its clasp a glowing crescent,
- Whose rays shone ever trembling, but incessant.

LXXVIII

- And now they were diverted by their suite, Dwarfs, dancing girls, black eunuchs, and a poet.
- Which made their new establishment complete;
  - The last was of great fame, and liked to show it: 620

His verses rarely wanted their due feet; And for his theme — he seldom sung be

And for his theme — he seldom sung below it,

He being paid to satirize or flatter,

As the psalm says, 'inditing a good matter.'

LXXIX

He praised the present, and abused the past,

Reversing the good custom of old days, An Eastern anti-jacobin at last

- He turn'd, preferring pudding to no praise —
- For some few years his lot had been o'ercast 629

By his seeming independent in his lays,

But now he sung the Sultan and the Pacha

With truth like Southey, and with verse like Crashaw.

LXXX

- He was a man who had seen many changes, And always changed as true as any needle;
- His polar star being one which rather ranges, And not the fix'd — he knew the way to wheedle:

- So vile he 'scaped the doom which oft avenges;
  - And being fluent (save indeed when fee'd ill),
- He hed with such a fervour of intention There was no doubt he earn'd his laureate pension. 640

LXXXI

But he had genius, — when a turncoat has it, The 'Vates irritabilis' takes care

- That without notice few full moons shall pass it;
- Even good men like to make the public stare. ---
- But to my subject let me see what was it ?
  - Oh !-- the third canto -- and the pretty pair --
- Their loves, and feasts, and house, and dress, and mode

Of living in their insular abode.

LXXXII

Their poet, a sad trimmer, but no less

In company a very pleasant fellow, 650

- Had been the favourite of full many a mess Of men, and made them speeches when half mellow:
- And though his meaning they could rarely guess,
  - Yet still they deign'd to hiccup or to bellow

The glorious meed of popular applause,

Of which the first ne'er knows the second cause.

LXXXIII

But now being lifted into high society,

- And having pick'd up several odds and ends
- Of free thoughts in his travels for variety, He deem'd, being in a lone isle, among friends, 660
- That, without any danger of a riot, he Might for long lying make himself
- amends; And, singing as he sung in his warm youth,

Agree to a short armistice with truth.

LXXXIV

- He had travell'd 'mongst the Arabs, Turks, and Franks,
  - And knew the self-loves of the different nations;

- And having lived with people of all ranks, Had something ready upon most occasions -
- Which got him a few presents and some thanks.

He varied with some skill his adulations;

To 'do at Rome as Romans do,' a piece 671

Of conduct was which he observed in Greece.

LXXXV

Thus, usually, when he was ask'd to sing,

- He gave the different nations something national;
- 'T was all the same to him 'God save the king,

Or ' Ca ira,' according to the fashion all: His muse made increment of any thing,

- From the high lyric down to the low rational:
- If Pindar sang horse-races, what should hinder

Himself from being as pliable as Pindar?

LXXXVI

- In France, for instance, he would write a chanson;
  - In England a six canto quarto tale;
- In Spain, he'd make a ballad or romance
  - The last war much the same in Portugal;
- In Germany, the Pegasus he'd prance on Would be old Goethe's (see what says De Stael);
- In Italy he 'd ape the 'Trecentisti;'
- In Greece, he'd sing some sort of hymn like this t' ye:

The isles of Greece, the Isles of Greece ! Where burning Sappho loved and sung, 690 Where grew the arts of war and peace, Where Delos rose, and Phœbus sprung! Eternal summer gilds them yet, But all, except their sun, is set.

The Scian and the Teian muse The hero's harp, the lover's lute, Have found the fame your shores refuse; Their place of birth alone is mute To sounds which echo further west Than your sires' 'Islands of the Blest.' 700

The mountains look on Marathon ---And Marathon looks on the sea;

And musing there an hour alone, I dream'd that Greece might still be free; For standing on the Persians' grave, I could not deem myself a slave.

A king sate on the rocky brow Which looks o'er sea-born Salamis;

And ships, by thousands, lay below And men in nations ; — all were his! 710 He counted them at break of day

And when the sun set where were they?

And where are they ? and where art thou, My country? On thy voiceless shore The heroic lay is tuneless now -

The heroic bosom beats no more ! And must thy lyre, so long divine, Degenerate into hands like mine?

'T is something, in the dearth of fame, Though link'd among a fetter'd race, 720 To feel at least a patriot's shame, Even as I sing, suffuse my face ; For what is left the poet here?

For Greeks a blush - for Greece a tear.

Must we but weep o'er days more blest? Must we but blush? — Our fathers bled. Earth! render back from out thy breast A remnant of our Spartan dead ! Of the three hundred grant but three, To make a new Thermopylæ!

What, silent still? and silent all? Ah! no, - the voices of the dead Sound like a distant torrent's fall, And answer, 'Let one living head, But one arise, - we come, we come !' 'T is but the living who are dumb.

In vain — in vain strike other chords; Fill high the cup with Samian wine ! Leave battles to the Turkish hordes, And shed the blood of Scio's vine! Hark ! rising to the ignoble call -How answers each bold Bacchanal!

10

You have the Pyrrhic dance as yet, Where is the Pyrrhic phalanx gone? Of two such lessons, why forget The nobler and the manlier one? You have the letters Cadmus gave -Think ye he meant them for a slave ?

II

Fill high the bowl with Samian wine ! We will not think of themes like these ! 75° It made Anacreon's song divine.

He served - but served Polycrates -

73C

740

760

A tyrant ; but our masters then Were still, at least, our countrymen.

The tyrant of the Chersonese Was freedom's best and bravest friend, That tyrant was Miltiades !

Oh ! that the present hour would lend Another despot of the kind ! Such chains as his were sure to bind.

13

Fill high the bowl with Samian wine ! On Suh's rock, and Parga's shore, Exists the remnant of a line

Such as the Doric mothers bore ; And there, perhaps, some seed is sown, The Heracleidan blood might own.

14

Trust not for freedom to the Franks-They have a king who buys and sells: In native swords, and native ranks,

The only hope of courage dwells; But Turkish force, and Latin fraud. 770 Would break your shield, however broad.

15

Fill high the bowl with Samian wine ! Our virgins dance beneath the shade -I see their glorious black eyes shine ; But gazing on each glowing maid, My own the burning tear-drop laves. To think such breasts must suckle slaves.

16

Place me on Sumum's marbled steep Where nothing, save the waves and I, 780

May hear our mutual murmurs sweep;

There, swan-like, let me sing and die.

A land of slaves shall ne'er be mine -

Dash down yon cup of Samian wine!

LXXXVII

Thus sung, or would, or could, or should have sung

The modern Greek, in tolerable verse;

- If not like Orpheus quite, when Greece was voung,
  - Yet in these times he might have done much worse:
- His strain display'd some feeling right or wrong;

And feeling, in a poet, is the source 790

- Of others' feeling; but they are such liars,
- And take all colours like the hands of dyers.

LXXXVIII

But words are things, and a small drop of ink, Falling like dew, upon a thought, produces

- That which makes thousands, perhaps milhons, think;
  - 'T is strange, the shortest letter which man uses
- Instead of speech, may form a lasting link Of ages; to what straits old Time reduces
- Frail man, when paper even a rag like this,
- Survives himself, his tomb, and all that's his. 800

LXXXIX

And when his bones are dust, his grave a blank,

His station, generation, even his nation, Become a thing, or nothing, save to rank

- In chronological commemoration, Some dull MS. oblivion long has sank,
- Or graven stone found in a barrack's station
- In digging the foundation of a closet, May turn his name up, as a rare deposit.

- And glory long has made the sages smile; 'T is something, nothing, words, illusion, wind —
- Depending more upon the historian's style Than on the name a person leaves behınd
- Troy owes to Homer what whist owes to Hoyle

The present century was growing blind

To the great Marlborough's skill in giving knocks,

Until his late Life by Archdeacon Coxe.

XCI

- Milton's the prince of poets so we say; A little heavy, but no less divine:
- An independent being in his day -
- Learn'd, pious, temperate in love and wine;
- But, his life falling into Johnson's way, We're told this great high priest of all the Nine
- Was whipt at college a harsh sire odd spouse,
- For the first Mrs. Milton left his house.

XCII

All these are, certes, entertaining facts, Like Shakspeare's stealing deer, Lor Bacon's bribes;

- Like Titus' youth, and Cæsar's earliest acts; Like Burns (whom Doctor Currie well describes);
- Like Cromwell's pranks; but although truth exacts
  - These amiable descriptions from the scribes, 830
- As most essential to their hero's story,

They do not much contribute to his glory.

XCIII

All are not moralists, like Southey, when

- He prated to the world of 'Pantisocracy;'
- Or Wordsworth unexcised, unhired, who then

Season'd his pedlar poems with democracy;

Or Coleridge, long before his flighty pen

Let to the Morning Post its aristocracy; When he and Southey, following the same path, 839 Espoused two partners (milliners of Bath).

XCIV

Such names at present cut a convict figure, The very Botany Bay in moral geography;

Their loyal treason, renegado rigour,

- Are good manure for their more bare biography.
- Wordsworth's last quarto, by the way, is bigger
  - Than any since the birthday of typography;

A drowsy frowzy poem, call'd the 'Excur-

Writ in a manner which is my aversion.

xcv

He there builds up a formidable dyke

Between his own and others' intellect; But Wordsworth's poem, and his followers, like 851

Joanna Southcote's Shiloh, and her sect, Are things which in this century don't strike

The public mind, — so few are the elect; And the new births of both their stale virginities

Have proved but dropsies, taken for divinities.

XCVI

But let me to my story: I must own, If I have any fault, it is digression —

- Leaving my people to proceed alone, 859 While I soluloquize beyond expression;
- But these are my addresses from the throne, Which put off business to the ensuing session:
- Forgetting each omission is a loss to

The world, not quite so great as Ariosto.

XCVII

I know that what our neighbours call 'longueurs'

(We've not so good a word, but have the thing

In that complete perfection which ensures An epic from Bob Southey every spring),

Form not the true temptation which allures The reader; but 't would not be hard to bring 870

Some fine examples of the epopée,

To prove its grand ingredient is ennui.

XCVIII

- We learn from Horace, 'Homer sometimes sleeps;'
  - We feel without him, Wordsworth sometimes wakes, --
- To show with what complacency he creeps, With his dear 'Waggoners,' around his lakes.
- He wishes for 'a boat' to sail the deeps Of ocean? — No, of air; and then he makes
- Another outcry for 'a little boat,'
- And drivels seas to set it well affoat. 880

XCIX

- If he must fain sweep o'er the ethereal plain, And Pegasus runs restive in his 'Waggon,'
- Could he not beg the loan of Charles's Wain?

Or pray Medea for a single dragon?

Or if, too classic for his vulgar brain,

- He fear'd his neck to venture such a nag on,
- And he must needs mount nearer to the moon,

Could not the blockhead ask for a balloon?

С

'Pedlars,' and 'Boats,' and 'Waggo !' Oh ! ye shades

Of Pope and Dryden, are we come to this?

- That trash of such sort not alone evades Contempt, but from the bathos' vast abyss
- Floats scumlike uppermost, and these Jack Cades
  - Of sense and song above your graves may hiss —

The 'little boatman' and his 'Peter Bell'

Can sneer at him who drew 'Achitophel'!

CI

- T' our tale. The feast was over, the slaves gone,
- The dwarfs and dancing girls had all retured;
- The Arab lore and poet's song were done, And every sound of revelry expired; 900
- The lady and her lover, left alone,
- The rosy flood of twilight's sky admired; --

Ave Maria ! o'er the earth and sea,

That heavenliest hour of Heaven is worthiest thee !

CII

- Ave Maria ! blessèd be the hour ! The time, the clime, the spot, where I so oft
- Have felt that moment in its fullest power Sink o'er the earth so beautiful and soft.
- While swung the deep bell in the distant tower,
- Or the faint dying day-hymn stole aloft, And not a breath crept through the rosy
- air, And yet the forest leaves seem'd stirr'd
- with prayer

CIII

Ave Maria ! 't is the hour of prayer !

- Ave Maria ! 't is the hour of love ! Ave Maria ! may our spirits dare
- Look up to thine and to thy Son's above ! Ave Maria ! oh that face so fair !
- Those downcast eyes beneath the Almighty dove —
- What though 't is but a pictured image ? strike —

That painting is no idol, - 't is too like 920

CIV

Some kinder casuists are pleased to say, In nameless print — that I have no devotion;

- But set those persons down with me to pray,
  - And you shall see who has the properest notion
- Of getting into heaven the shortest way;
  - My altars are the mountains and the ocean,
- Earth, air, stars, all that springs from the great Whole,
- Who hath produced, and will receive the soul.

cv

- Sweet hour of twilight ! in the solitude Of the pine forest, and the sılent shore
- Which bounds Ravenna's immemorial wood, Rooted where once the Adrian wave flow'd o'er, 932
- To where the last Cæsarean fortress stood, Evergreen forest! which Boccaccio's lore
- And Dryden's lay made haunted ground to me,
- How have I loved the twilight hour and thee!

CVI

- The shrill cicalas, people of the pine,
- Making their summer lives one ceaseless song,
- Were the sole echoes, save my steed's and mine,
- And vesper bell's that rose the bought along; 940
- The spectre huntsman of Onesti's line, His hell-dogs, and their chase, and the
- fair throng Which learn'd from this example not to fly From a true lover, — shadow'd my mind's eye.

CVII

Oh, Hesperus ! thou bringest all good things —

Home to the weary, to the hungry cheer, To the young bird the parent's brooding wings,

- The welcome stall to the o'erlabour'd steer:
- Whate'er of peace about our hearthstone clings,
  - Whate'er our household gods protect of dear, 950
- Are gather'd round us by thy look of rest; Thou bring'st the child, too to the mother's breast.

CVIII

- Soft hour ! which wakes the wish and melts the heart
  - Of those who sail the seas, on the first day
- When they from their sweet friends are torn apart;
  - Or fills with love the pilgrim on his way
- As the far bell of vesper makes him start,

Seeming to weep the dying day's decay; Is this a fancy which our reason scorns?

Ah! surely nothing dies but something mourns ' 960

CIX

When Nero perish'd by the justest doom

Which ever the destroyer yet destroy'd, Amidst the roar of liberated Rome,

- Of nations freed, and the world overjoy'd,
- Some hands unseen strew'd flowers upon his tomb
  - Perhaps the weakness of a heart not void
- Of feeling for some kindness done, when power

Had left the wretch an uncorrupted hour.

сx

But I 'm digressing; what on earth has Nero,

Or any such like sovereign buffoons, 970 To do with the transactions of my hero,

More than such madmen's fellow man the moon's?

Sure my invention must be down at zero,

- And I grown one of many 'wooden spoons'
- Of verse (the name with which we Cantabs please

To dub the last of honours in degrees).

CXI

I feel this tediousness will never do -

- 'T is being too epic, and I must cut down (In copying) this long canto into two; 979 They 'll never find it out, unless I own
- The fact, excepting some experienced few;
- And then as an improvement 't will be shown:
- I'll prove that such the opinion of the critic is
- From Aristotle passim. See nointikns.

CANTO THE FOURTH

NOTHING so difficult as a beginning

In poesy, unless perhaps the end;

- For oftentimes when Pegasus seems winning
  - The race, he sprains a wing, and down we tend,
- Like Lucifer when hurl'd from heaven for sinning;
  - Our sin the same, and hard as his to mend,
- Being pride, which leads the mind to soar too far,

Till our own weakness shows us what we are.

11

But Time, which brings all beings to their level,

And sharp Adversity, will teach at last 10

- Man, and, as we would hope, perhaps the devil,
  - That neither of their intellects are vast:
- While youth's hot wishes in our red veins revel,
  - We know not this the blood flows on too fast;
- But as the torrent widens towards the ocean,
- We ponder deeply on each past emotion.

III ·

- As boy, I thought myself a clever fellow,
- And wish'd that others held the same opinion;
- They took it up when my days grew more mellow,
- And other minds acknowledged my dominion: 20
- Now my sere fancy 'falls into the yellow Leaf,' and Imagination droops her pinion,
- And the sad truth which hovers o'er my desk
- Turns what was once romantic to burlesque.

IV

- And if I laugh at any mortal thing,
- 'T is that I may not weep; and if I weep, 'T is that our nature cannot always bring
- Itself to apathy, for we must steep Our hearts first in the depths of Lethe's
- spring, Ere what we least wish to behold will
  - Ere what we least wish to behold will sleep: 30

....1

40

Thetis baptized her mortal son in Styx; A mortal mother would on Lethe fix.

7

Some have accused me of a strange design Against the creed and morals of the land,

And trace it in this poem every line: I don't pretend that I quite understand My own meaning when I would be very fine;

But the fact is that I have nothing plann'd, Unless it were to be a moment merry,

A novel word in my vocabulary.

vı

To the kind reader of our sober clime This way of writing will appear exotic;

- Pulci was sire of the half-serious rhyme, Who sang when chivalry was more Quixotic.
- And revell'd in the fancies of the time, True knights, chaste dames, huge giants, kings despotic;
- But all these, save the last, being obsolete,
- I chose a modern subject as more meet.

VII

- How I have treated it, I do not know; Perhaps no better than they have treated me
- Who have imputed such designs as show Not what they saw, but what they wish'd to see:
- But if it gives them pleasure, be it so; This is a liberal age, and thoughts are free:
- Meantime Apollo plucks me by the ear,

And tells me to resume my story here.

VIII

Young Juan and his lady-love were left To their own hearts' most sweet society;

- Even Time the pitless in sorrow cleft With his rude scythe such gentle bosoms; he 60
- Sigh'd to behold them of their hours bereft, Though foe to love; and yet they could not be

Meant to grow old, but die in happy spring, Before one charm or hope had taken wing.

IX

- Their faces were not made for wrinkles, their
  - Pure blood to stagnate, their great hearts to fail;

- The blank grey was not made to blast their hair,
  - But like the climes that know nor snow nor hail
- They were all summer: lightning might assail

And shiver them to ashes, but to trail 70 A long and snake-like life of dull decay

Was not for them — they had too little clay.

х

- They were alone once more; for them to be Thus was another Eden; they were never
- Weary, unless when separate. the tree Cut from its forest root of years — the river
- Damm'd from its fountain the child from the knee
  - And breast maternal wean'd at once for ever, ---
- Would wither less than these two torn apart;
- Alas ! there is no instinct like the heart -

XI

- The heart which may be broken happy they ' SI
  - Thrice fortunate! who of that fragile mould,

The precious porcelain of human clay,

- Break with the first fall they can ne'er behold
- The long year link'd with heavy day on day, And all which must be borne, and never told;
- While life's strange principle will often lie
- Deepest in those who long the most to die.

XII

Whom the gods love die young,' was said of yore,

And many deaths do they escape by this: The death of friends, and that which slays

- even more 9^r The death of friendship, love, youth, all that is.
- Except mere breath; and since the silent shore
  - Awaits at last even those who longest miss
- The old archer's shafts, perhaps the early grave
- Which men weep over may be meant to save.

Haidée and Juan thought not of the dead — The heavens, and earth, and air, seem'd made for them.

They found no fault with Time, save that he fled;

They saw not in themselves aught to condemn: 100

Each was the other's mirror, and but read

Joy sparkling in their dark eyes like a gem,

And knew such brightness was but the reflection

Of their exchanging glances of affection.

XIV

The gentle pressure, and the thrilling touch, The least glance better understood than words,

Which still said all, and ne'er could say too much;

A language, too, but like to that of birds, Known but to them, at least appearing such

As but to lovers a true sense affords; 110 Sweet playful phrases, which would seem

- absurd To those who have ceased to hear such, or
- ne'er heard, —

xv

- All these were theirs, for they were children still,
  - And children still they should have ever been;
- They were not made in the real world to fill

A busy character in the dull scene,

But like two beings born from out a rill, A nymph and her belovèd, all unseen

To pass their lives in fountains and on flowers.

And never know the weight of human hours.

XVI

- Moons changing had roll'd on, and changeless found 121
  - Those their bright rise had lighted to such joys
- As rarely they beheld throughout their round;
  - And these were not of the vain kind which cloys,

For theirs were buoyant spirits, never bound By the mere senses; and that which deatroys Most love, possession, unto them appear'd A thing which each endearment more endear'd.

xvii

- Oh beautiful ! and rare as beautiful !
- But theirs was love in which the mind delights 130
- To lose itself when the old world grows dull, And we are sick of its hack sounds and sights,
- Intrigues, adventures of the common school, Its petty passions, marriages, and flights.
- Where Hymen's torch but brands one strumpet more,
- Whose husband only knows her not a wh-re.

XVIII

- Hard words; harsh truth; a truth which many know.
  - Enough. The faithful and the fairy pair,
- Who never found a single hour too slow,
- What was it made them thus exempt from care?
- Young mnate feelings all have felt below, Which perish in the rest, but in them were Inherent — what we mortals call romantic,

And always envy, though we deem it frantic.

XIX

This is in others a factitious state,

- An opium dream of too much youth and reading,
- But was in them their nature or their fate: No novels e'er had set their young hearts bleeding,
- For Haidée's knowledge was by no means great,
  - And Juan was a boy of saintly breeding; 150
- So that there was no reason for their loves More than for those of nightingales or
- doves.

$\mathbf{x}\mathbf{x}$

- They gazed upon the sunset; 't is an hour Dear unto all, but dearest to their eyes,
- For it had made them what they were: the power
  - Of love had first o'erwhelm'd them from such skies,

	•••
When happiness had been their only dower, And twilight saw them link'd in passion's ties; Charm'd with each other, all things charm'd that brought	And then dismiss'd the omen from her breast, Defying augury with that fond kiss; And no donbt of all methods 't is the best: Some people prefer wme — 't is no
The past still welcome as the present thought. 160	amiss; I have tried both; so those who would a part take
XXI	May choose between the headache and the
I know not why, but in that hour to-night, Even as they gazed, a sudden tremor came,	heartache.
And swept, as 't were, across their hearts'	XXV
delight, Like the wind o'er a harp-string, or a flame,	One of the two, according to your choice, Woman or wine, you 'll have to undergo Both maladies are taxes on our joys:
When one is shook in sound, and one in sight; And thus some boding flash'd through either frame,	But which to choose, I really hardly know; And if I had to give a casting voice, For both sides I could many reason
And call'd from Juan's breast a faint low sigh, While one new tear arose in Haidée's eye.	And then decide, without great wrong to either,
XXII	It were much better to have both than neither. 200
That large black prophet eye seem'd to dilate	XXVI
And follow far the disappearing sun, 170 As if their last day of a happy date With his broad, bright, and dropping orb were gone;	Juan and Haidée gazed upon each other With swimming looks of speechless ten derness, Which mix'd all feelings, friend, child
Juan gazed on her as to ask his fate — He felt a grief, but knowing cause for	lover, brother, All that the best can mingle and ex
none.	press

- His glance inquired of hers for some excuse
- For feelings causeless, or at least abstruse.

XXIII

She turn'd to him, and smiled, but in that sort

Which makes not others smile; then turn'd aside

- Whatever feeling shook her, it seem'd short, And master'd by her wisdom or her pride;
- When Juan spoke, too it might be in sport -
  - Of this their mutual feeling, she replied -

'If it should be so, - but - it cannot be -

Or I at least shall not survive to see'

XXIV

Juan would question further, but she press'd His lip to hers, and silenced him with this,

- t o
- S,
- :
- þ

- When two pure hearts are pour'd in one another,
- And love too much, and yet can not love less;

But almost sanctify the sweet excess

By the immortal wish and power to bless.

XXVII

Mix'd in each other's arms, and heart in heart,

Why did they not then die ? - they had lived too long

- Should an hour come to bid them breathe apart;
  - Years could but bring them cruel things or wrong;
- The world was not for them, nor the world's art

For beings passionate as Sappho's song;

Love was born with them, in them, so intense,

It was their very spirit - not a sense

XXVIII

- They should have lived together deep m woods,
  - Unseen as sings the nightingale; they were
- Unfit to mix in these thick solitudes
- Call'd social, haunts of Hate, and Vice, and Care 220
- How lonely every freeborn creature broods ! The sweetest song-birds nestle in a pair;
- The eagle soars alone; the gull and crow
- Flock o'er their carrion, just like men below.

XXIX

Now pillow'd cheek to cheek, in loving sleep,

Haidée and Juan their siesta took,

A gentle slumber, but it was not deep,

For ever and anon a something shook

- Juan, and shuddering o'er his frame would creep;
  - And Haidée's sweet lips murmur'd like a brook 230

A wordless music, and her face so fair

Stirr'd with her dream, as rose-leaves with the air.

XXX

Or as the stirring of a deep clear stream

- Within an Alpine hollow, when the wind Walks o'er it, was she shaken by the dream,
- The mystical usurper of the mind -
- O'erpowering us to be whate'er may seem Good to the soul which we no more can bind;

Strange state of being ! (for 't is still to be)

Senseless to feel, and with seal'd eyes to see.

XXXI

- She dream'd of being alone on the sea-shore, Chain'd to a rock; she knew not how, but stir
- She could not from the spot, and the loud roar
  - Grew, and each wave rose roughly, threatening her;
- And o'er her upper lip they seem'd to pour, Until she sobb'd for breath, and soon they were
- Foaming o'er her lone head, so fierce and high ---
- Each broke to drown her, yet she could not die.

XXXII

- Anon she was released, and then she stray'd
- O'er the sharp shingles with her bleeding feet, 250
- And stumbled almost every step she made; And something roll'd before her in a sheet.
- Which she must still pursue howe'er afraid: 'T was white and indistinct, nor stopp'd to meet
- Her glance nor grasp, for still she gazed, and grasp'd,

And ran, but it escaped her as she clasp'd.

XXXIII

The dream changed. — in a cave she stood, its walls

Were hung with marble icicles, the work Of ages on its water-fretted halls,

- Where waves might wash, and seals might breed and lurk; 260
- Her hair was dripping, and the very balls Of her black eyes seem'd turn'd to tears, and mirk
- The sharp rocks look'd below each drop they caught,
- Which froze to marble as it fell, she thought.

XXXIV

- And wet, and cold, and lifeless at her feet, Pale as the foam that froth'd on his dead brow,
- Which she essay'd in vain to clear (how sweet
  - Were once her cares, how idle seem'd they now !),
- Lay Juan, nor could aught renew the beat Of his quench'd heart; and the sea dirges low 270
- Rang in her sad ears like a mermaid's song, And that brief dream appear'd a life too long.

XXXV

And gazing on the dead, she thought his face

Faded, or alter'd into something new-

- Like to her father's features, till each trace More hke and hke to Lambro's aspect grew—
- With all his keen worn look and Grecian grace;
  - And starting, she awoke, and what to view?

- Oh! Powers of Heaven! what dark eye meets she there?
- 'T is 't is her father's fix'd upon the pair ! 280

XXXVI

- Then shrieking, she arose, and shrieking fell,
  - With joy and sorrow, hope and fear, to see
- Him whom she deem'd a habitant where dwell
- The ocean-buried, risen from death, to be
- Perchance the death of one she loved too well:
- Dear as her father had been to Haidée, It was a moment of that awful kind —
- I have seen such—but must not call to mind

XXXVII

- Up Juan sprung to Haidée's bitter shriek, And caught her falling, and from off the wall
- Snatch'd down his sabre, in hot haste to wreak
  - Vengeance on him who was the cause of all:
- Then Lambro, who till now forbore to speak,
- Smiled scornfully, and said, 'Within my call.
- A thousand scimitars await the word;
- Put up, young man, put up your silly sword.'

XXXVIII

- And Haidée clung around him; 'Juan, 't 15 ---
  - "T is Lambro 't is my father ! Kneel with me —
- He will forgive us yes it must be yes.

Oh! dearest father, in this agony 300

- Of pleasure and of pain even while I kiss Thy garment's hem with transport, can
- it be That doubt should mingle with my filial joy?
- Deal with me as thou wilt, but spare this boy.'

XXXIX

High and inscrutable the old man stood, Calm in his voice, and calm withm his eye —

- Not always signs with him of calmest mood: He look'd upon her, but gave no reply;
- Then turn'd to Juan, in whose cheek the blood
  - Oft came and went, as there resolved to die; 310
- In arms, at least, he stood, in act to spring On the first foe whom Lambro's call might bring.

XL

- 'Young man, your sword;' so Lambro once more said .
- Juan replied, 'Not while this arm is free.'
- The old man's cheek grew pale, but not with dread,
- And drawing from his belt a pistol, he Replied, Your blood be then on your own head.'
- Then look'd close at the flint, as if to see 'T was fresh — for he had lately used the lock —
- And next proceeded quietly to cock. 32c

XLI

- It has a strange quick jar upon the ear,
- That cocking of a pistol, when you know A moment more will bring the sight to
  - bear Upon your person, twelve yards off, or
  - so; A gentlemanly distance, not too near,
    - If you have got a former friend for foe;
  - But after being fired at once or twice,
  - The ear becomes more Irish, and less nice.

XLII

- Lambro presented, and one instant more
  - Had stopp'd this Canto, and Don Juan's breath, 330
- When Haidée threw herself her boy before; Stern as her sire. 'On me,' she cried, 'let death
- Descend the fault is mine; this fatal shore
- He found but sought not I have pledged my faith;
- I love him I will die with  $him \cdot I$  knew
- Your nature's firmness know your daughter's too.'

ХLIII

A minute past, and she had been all tears, And tenderness, and infancy; but now She stood as one who champion'd human fears —

Pale, statue-like, and stern, she woo'd the blow; 340

And tall beyond her sex, and their compeers, She drew up to her height, as if to show

A fairer mark; and with a fix'd eye scann'd Her father's face — but never stopp'd his hand.

XLIV

He gazed on her, and she on him; 't was strange

How like they look'd ! the expression was the same;

Serenely savage, with a little change

In the large dark eye's mutual-darted flame;

For she, too, was as one who could avenge, If cause should be — a honess, though tame.

Her father's blood before her father's face Boil'd up, and proved her truly of his race.

XLV

I said they were alike, their features and Their stature, differing but in sex and years;

Even to the delicacy of their hand

There was resemblance, such as true blood wears;

And now to see them, thus divided, stand In fix'd ferocity, when joyous tears

- And sweet sensations should have welcomed both,
- Show what the passions are in their full growth. 360

XLVI

- The father paused a moment, then withdrew His weapon, and replaced it; but stood stull,
- And looking on her, as to look her through, 'Not I,' he said, 'have sought this stranger's ill;
- Not I have made this desolation: few
- Would bear such outrage, and forbear to kill;

But I must do my duty — how thou hast

Done thine, the present vouches for the past.

XLVII

Let him disarm; or, by my father's head, His own shall roll before you like a ball !'

- He raised his whistle, as the word he said, And blew; another answer'd to the call,
- And rushing in disorderly, though led, And arm'd from boot to turban, one and all, Some twenty of his train came, rank on rank;

He gave the word, — 'Arrest or slay the Frank.'

XLVIII

- Then, with a sudden movement, he withdrew
  - His daughter; while compress'd within his clasp,
- 'Twixt her and Juan interposed the crew;
- His arms were like a serpent's coil: then flew
  - Upon their prey, as darts an angry asp,

The file of pirates; save the foremost, who

Had fallen, with his right shoulder half cut through.

XLIX

The second had his cheek laid open; but

The third, a wary, cool old sworder, took The blows upon his cutlass, and then put

His own well in; so well, ere you could look,

His man was floor'd, and helpless at his foot,

With the blood running like a little brook From two smart sabre gashes, deep and red —

One on the arm, the other on the head.

L

And then they bound him where he fell, and bore

Juan from the apartment. with a sign

- Old Lambro bade them take him to the shore,
  - Where lay some ships which were to sail at nine.
- They laid him in a boat, and plied the oar Until they reach'd some galliots, placed in line;

On board of one of these, and under hatches,

They stow'd him, with strict orders to the watches 400

LI

The world is full of strange vicissitudes, And here was one exceedingly unpleasant:

- A gentleman so rich in the world's goods, Handsome and young, enjoying all the present,
- Just at the very time when he least broods On such a thing is suddenly to sea sent,
- Wounded and chain'd, so that he cannot move,

And all because a lady fell in love.

11

- Here I must leave him, for I grow pathetic, Moved by the Chinese nymph of tears, green tea !
- green tea ! 410 Than whom Cassandra was not more prophetic:
- For if my pure libations exceed three,
- I feel my heart become so sympathetic, That I must have recourse to black
- Bohea:

'T is pity wine should be so deleterious,

For tea and coffee leave us much more serious,

LIII

Unless when qualified with thee, Cogniac ! Sweet Natad of the Phlegethontic rill !

Ah ! why the liver wilt thou thus attack,

And make, like other nymphs, thy lovers 111? 420

I would take refuge in weak punch, but rack (In each sense of the word), whene'er I fill

- My mild and midnight beakers to the brim,
- Wakes me next morning with its synonym

LIV

- Not sound, poor fellow, but severely wounded;
- Yet could his corporal pangs amount to half Of those with which his Haidée's bosom bounded ?
- She was not one to weep, and rave, and chafe,
  - And then give way, subdued because surrounded; 430

Her mother was a Moorish maid, from Fez,

Where all is Eden, or a wilderness.

LV

- There the large olive rains its amber store In marble fonts; there grain, and flower, and fruit,
- Gush from the earth until the land runs o'er; But there, too, many a poison-tree has root,

And midnight listens to the lion's roar,

And long, long deserts scorch the camel's foot,

Or heaving whelm the helpless caravan;

And as the soil is, so the heart of man. 440

LVI

Afric 1s all the sun's, and as her earth

Her human clay is kindled; full of power For good or evil, burning from its birth,

- The Moorish blood partakes the planet's hour,
- And like the soil beneath it will bring forth: Beauty and love were Haidée's mother's dower;
- But her large dark eye show'd deep Passion's force,

Though sleeping like a hon near a source.

LVII

- Her daughter, temper'd with a milder ray, Like summer clouds all silvery, smooth, and fair,
- Till slowly charged with thunder they display

Terror to earth, and tempest to the air,

- Had held till now her soft and milky way; But overwrought with passion and despair,
- The fire burst forth from her Numidian veins,
- Even as the Simoom sweeps the blasted plans.

LVIII

- The last sight which she saw was Juan's gore,
  - And he himself o'ermaster'd and cut down;

His blood was running on the very floor

Where late he trod, her beautiful, her own;

- Thus much she view'd an instant and no more, —
- Her struggles ceased with one convulsive groan;
- On her sire's arm, which until now scarce held
- Her writhing, fell she like a cedar fell'd.

LIX

- A vein had burst, and her sweet lips' pure dyes
  - Were dabbled with the deep blood which ran o'er;

And her head droop'd as when the lily lies O'ercharged with rain: her summon'd handmaids bore

Their lady to her couch with gushing eyes; Of herbs and cordials they produced their store, 470

But she defied all means they could employ,

Like one life could not hold, nor death destroy.

LX

- Days lay she in that state unchanged, though chill
  - With nothing livid, still her hips were red;
- She had no pulse, but death seem'd absent still;
  - No hideous sign proclaim'd her surely dead;
- Corruption came not in each mind to kill
- All hope; to look upon her sweet face bred
- New thoughts of life, for it seem'd full of soul —
- She had so much, earth could not claim the whole 480

LXI

- The ruling passion, such as marble shows When exquisitely chisell'd, still lay there,
- But fix'd as marble's unchanged aspect throws
  - O'er the fair Venus, but for ever fair;
- O'er the Laocoon's all eternal throes,

And ever-dying Gladiator's air, same.

Their energy like life forms all their fame, Yet looks not life, for they are still the

LXII

- She woke at length, but not as sleepers wake,
  - Rather the dead, for life seem'd something new, 490
- A strange sensation which she must partake

Perforce, since whatsoever met her view Struck not on memory, though a heavy

- ache Lay at her heart, whose earliest beat still
- true Brought back the sense of pain without the cause.

For, for a while, the furies made a pause.

LXIII

She look'd on many a face with vacant eye, On many a token without knowing what:

- She saw them watch her without asking why,
- And reck'd not who around her pillow sat; 500
- Not speechless, though she spoke not; not a sigh
  - Relieved her thoughts; dull silence and quick chat
- Were tried in vain by those who served; she gave
- No sign, save breath, of having left the grave.

LXIV

Her handmaids tended, but she heeded not; Her father watch'd, she turn'd her eyes away;

- She recognized no being, and no spot,
- However dear or cherish'd in their day; They changed from room to room — but all forgot —

Gentle, but without memory she lay; 510 At length those eyes, which they would fain be weaning

Back to old thoughts, wax'd full of fearful meaning.

LXV

And then a slave bethought her of a harp; The harper came, and tuned his instrument;

At the first notes, irregular and sharp,

On him her flashing eyes a moment bent, Then to the wall she turn'd as if to warp

- Her thoughts from sorrow through her heart re-sent;
- And he begun a long low island song 519

Of ancient days, ere tyranny grew strong.

LXVI

- Anon her thin wan fingers beat the wall
- In time to his old tune; he changed the theme,
- And sung of love; the fierce name struck through all

Her recollection; on her flash'd the dream Of what she was, and is, if ye could call

- To be so being; in a gushing stream
- The tears rush'd forth from her o'erclouded brain,
- Like mountain mists at length dissolved in rain

LXVII

- Short solace, vain relief !--- thought came too quick,
  - And whirl'd her brain to madness; she arose 530
- As one who ne'er had dwelt among the sick, And flew at all she met, as on her foes;
- But no one ever heard her speak or shriek, Although her paroxysm drew towards its close:—

Hers was a phrensy which disdain'd to rave,

Even when they smote her, in the hope to save

LXVIII

- Yet she betray'd at times a gleam of sense; Nothing could make her meet her father's face,
- Though on all other things with looks intense

She gazed, but none she ever could retrace; 540

- Food she refused, and raiment; no pretence Avail'd for either; neither change of place,
- Nor time, nor skill, nor remedy, could give her
- Senses to sleep the power seem'd gone for ever.

LXIX

- Twelve days and nights she wither'd thus; at last,
  - Without a groan, or sigh, or glance, to show

A parting pang, the spirit from her past:

- And they who watch'd her nearest could not know
- The very instant, till the change that cast Her sweet face into shadow, dulland slow,
- Glazed o'er her eyes the beautiful, the black — 551
- Oh ! to possess such lustre and then lack !

LXX

She died, but not alone; she held within A second principle of life, which might

- Have dawn'd a fair and sinless child of sin; But closed its little being without light,
- And went down to the grave unborn, wherein Blossom and bough he wither'd with one blight;
- In vain the dews of Heaven descend above Che bleeding flower and blasted fruit of
- love. 560

LXXI

- Thus lived thus died she; never more on her
  - Shall sorrow light, or shame. She was not made
- Through years or moons the inner weight to bear,
  - Which colder hearts endure till they are laid
- By age in earth: her days and pleasures were
- Brief, but delightful such as had not staid
- Long with her destiny; but she sleeps well By the sea-shore, whereon she loved to dwell

LXXII

That isle is now all desolate and bare,

- Its dwellings down, its tenants pass'd away; Number and fotbaria amagina
- None but her own and father's grave is there,

And nothing outward tells of human clay;

- Ye could not know where lies a thing so fair,
- No stone is there to show, no tongue to say
- What was; no dirge, except the hollow sea's,
- Mourns o'er the beauty of the Cyclades.

LXXIII

But many a Greek maid in a loving song

- Sighs o'er her name; and many an islander
- With her sire's story makes the night less long;
  - Valour was his, and beauty dwelt with her: 580
- If she loved rashly, her life paid for wrong —

A heavy price must all pay who thus err, In some shape; let none think to fly the danger,

For soon or late Love is his own avenger.

LXXIV

- But let me change this theme which grows too sad,
- And lay this sheet of sorrows on the shelf;
- I don't much like describing people mad,
- For fear of seeming rather touch'd myself —

Besides, I've no more on this head to add; And as my Muse is a capricious elf, 590

We'll put about, and try another tack With Juan, left half-kill'd some stanzas back.

LXXV

- Wounded and fetter'd, 'cabin'd, cribb'd, confined,'
  - Some days and nights elapsed before that he
- Could altogether call the past to mind;
- And when he did, he found himself at sea,
- Sailing six knots an hour before the wind; The shores of Ilion lay beneath their lee —
- Another time he might have liked to see 'em,
- But now was not much pleased with Cape Sigæum 600

LXXVI

- There, on the green and village-cotted hill, is
  - (Flank'd by the Hellespont and by the sea)
- Entomb'd the bravest of the brave, Achilles; They say so (Bryant says the contrary)
- And further downward, tall and towering still, 18
  - The tumulus of whom ? Heaven knows' 't may be
- Patroclus, Ajax, or Protesilaus -
- All heroes, who if living still would slay us

LXXVII

- High barrows, without marble or a name,
- A vast, untill'd, and mountam-skirted plain, 610
- And Ida in the distance, still the same, And old Scamander (if 't is he) remain;
- The situation seems still form'd for fame -
- A hundred thousand men might fight again
- With ease; but where I sought for Ilion's walls,
- The quiet sheep feeds, and the tortoise crawls;

LXXVIII

Troops of untended horses; here and there Some little hamlets, with new names uncouth;

- Some shepherds (unlike Paris) led to stare
- A moment at the European youth 620 Whom to the spot their school-boy feelings bear;
  - A Turk, with beads in hand and pipe in mouth,
- Extremely taken with his own religion,
- Are what I found there but the devil a Phrygian.

LXXIX

- Don Juan, here permitted to emerge
- From his dull cabin, found hunself a slave;
- Forlorn, and gazing on the deep blue surge, O'ershadow'd there by many a hero's grave;
- Weak still with loss of blood, he scarce could urge
- A few brief questions; and the answers gave 630
- No very satisfactory information

About his past or present situation.

LXXX

- He saw some fellow captives, who appear'd To be Italians, as they were in fact;
- From them, at least, their destury he heard, Which was an odd one; a troop going to act

In Sicily (all singers, duly rear'd

In their vocation) had not been attack'd In sailing from Livorno by the pirate, 639 But sold by the impresario at no high rate.

LXXXI

- By one of these, the buffo of the party,
- Juan was told about their curious case;
- For although destined to the Turkish mart, he
- Still kept his spirits up at least his face;
- The little fellow really look'd quite hearty, And bore him with some gaiety and grace,
- Showing a much more reconciled demeanour,

Than did the prima donna and the tenor.

LXXXII

- In a few words he told their hapless story, Saying, 'Our Machiavelian impresario,
- Making a signal off some promontory, 651 Hail'd a strange brig — Corpo di Caio Mario!

- We were transferr'd on board her in a hurry,
- Without a single scudo of salario; But if the Sultan has a taste for song,

We will revive our fortunes before long.

LXXXIII

The prima donna, though a little old, And haggard with a dissipated life,

- And subject, when the house is thin, to cold,
- Has some good notes; and then the tenor's wife, 660

With no great voice, is pleasing to behold; Last carnival she made a deal of strife

- By carrying off Count Cesare Cicogna
- From an old Roman princess at Bologna.

LXXXIV

'And then there are the dancers; there's the Nini,

With more than one profession, gains by all;

Then there's that laughing slut the Pelegrini,

She, too, was fortunate last carnival,

- And made at least five hundred good zecchini,
  - But spends so fast, she has not now a paul; 670
- And then there's the Grotesca such a dancer!
- Where men have souls or bodies she must answer

LXXXV

'As for the figuranti, they are like

The rest of all that tribe; with here and there

A pretty person, which perhaps may strike, The rest are hardly fitted for a fair;

There's one, though tall and stiffer than a pike,

Yet has a sentimental kind of air

- Which might go far, but she don't dance with vigour;
- The more's the pity, with her face and figure. 680

LXXXVI

'As for the men, they are a middling set;

The musico is but a crack'd old basin, But being qualified in one way yet,

May the seraglio do to set his face in,

- And as a servant some preferment get;
- His singing I no further trust can place
- From all the Pope makes yearly 't would perplex
- To find three perfect pipes of the third sex.

LXXXVII

- 'The tenor's voice is spoilt by affectation, And for the bass, the beast can only bel-
- low; 690 In fact, he had no singing education, An ignorant, noteless, timeless, tuneless
- An ignorant, noteless, timeless, tuneless fellow;
- But being the prima donna's near relation, Who swore his voice was very rich and mellow,
- They hired him, though to hear him you'd believe
- An ass was practising recitative.

LXXXVIII

- 'T would not become myself to dwell upon My own merits, and though young - I see, Sir - you
- Have got a travell'd air, which speaks you one

To whom the opera is by no means new: You've heard of Raucocanti? — I'm the

- man; 701 The time may come when you may hear
- The time may come when you may hear me too;
- You was not last year at the fair of Lugo, But next, when I'm engaged to sing there — do go

LXXXIX

'Our baritone I almost had forgot,

A pretty lad, but bursting with conceit; With graceful action, science not a jot,

A voice of no great compass, and not sweet,

He always is complaining of his lot,

Forsooth, scarce fit for ballads in the street; 710

In lovers' parts his passion more to breathe, Having no heart to show, he shows his teeth'

xc

Here Raucocanti's eloquent recital Was interrupted by the pirate crew,

- Who came at stated moments to invite all
- The captives back to their sad berths; each threw

- A rueful glance upon the waves (which bright all
  - From the blue skies derived a double blue,

Dancing all free and happy in the sun),

And then went down the hatchway one by one. 720

They heard next day — that in the Dardanelles,

Waiting for his Sublimity's firman,

The most imperative of sovereign spells, Which every body does without who can,

More to secure them in their naval cells, Lady to lady, well as man to man,

Were to be chain'd and lotted out per couple,

For the slave market of Constantinople.

XCII

It seems when this allotment was made out, There chanced to be an odd male, and

- odd female, 730 Who (after some discussion and some
- doubt, If the soprano might be deem'd to be
- male,
- They placed him o'er the women as a scout)
  - Were link'd together, and it happen'd the male
- Was Juan, who, an awkward thing at his age,

Pair'd off with a Bacchante blooming visage.

XCIII

With Raucocanti lucklessly was cham'd

- The tenor; these two hated with a hate Found only on the stage, and each more pain d
  - With this his tuneful neighbour than his fate; 740
- Sad strife arose, for they were so crossgrain'd,

Instead of bearing up without debate,

That each pull'd different ways with many an oath,

'Arcades ambo,' id est — blackguards both.

XCIV

Juan's companion was a Romagnole, But bred within the March of old Ancona, With eyes that look'd into the very soul (And other chief points of a 'bella donna'),

- Bright and as black and burning as a coal;
  - And through her clear brunette complexion shone a 750
- Great wish to please a most attractive dower,

Especially when added to the power.

xcv

But all that power was wasted upon him,

- For sorrow o'er each sense held stern command;
- Her eye might flash on his, but found it dim;
  - And though thus chain'd, as natural her hand
- Touch'd his, nor that nor any handsome limb

(And she had some not easy to withstand)

- Could stir his pulse, or make his faith feel brittle;
- Perhaps his recent wounds might help a little. 760

XCVI

- No matter; we should ne'er too much enquire,
  - But facts are facts: no knight could be more true,
- And firmer faith no ladye-love desire;
- We will omit the proofs, save one or two: "T is said no one in hand 'can hold a fire
- By thought of frosty Caucasus;' but few, I really think; yet Juan's then ordeal
- Was more triumphant, and not much less real.

XCVII

- Here I might enter on a chaste description, Having withstood temptation in my youth, 77°
- But hear that several people take exception
  - At the first two books having too much truth;
- Therefore I'll make Don Juan leave the ship soon,
- Because the publisher declares, in sooth,
- Through needles' eyes it easier for the camel is
- To pass, than those two c tos into famihes.

XCI

XCVIII

- 'T is all the same to me; I 'm fond of yielding,
- And therefore leave them to the purer page
- Of Smollett, Prior, Ariosto, Fielding,
- Who say strange things for so correct an age; 780
- I once had great alacrity in wielding My pen, and liked poetic war to wage,
- And recollect the time when all this cant
- Would have provoked remarks which now it shan't.

XCIX

- As boys love rows, my boyhood liked a squabble;
- But at this hour I wish to part in peace, Leaving such to the literary rabble:
  - Whether my verse's fame be doom'd to cease
- While the right hand which wrote it still is able,

Or of some centuries to take a lease, 790 The grass upon my grave will grow as long,

And sigh to midnight winds, but not to song.

С

- Of poets who come down to us through distance
  - Of time and tongues, the foster-babes of Fame,
- Life seems the smallest portion of existence; Where twenty ages gather o'er a name,
- 'T is as a snowball which derives assistance From every flake, and yet rolls on the same.
- Even till an iceberg it may chance to grow; But, after all, 't is nothing but cold snow.

CI

And so great names are nothing more than nominal, 801

And love of glory's but an airy lust, Too often in its fury overcoming all

Who would as 't were identify their dust

- From out the wide destruction, which, entombing all,
  - Leaves nothing till 'the coming of the just'-
- Save change: I've stood upon Achilles' tomb,
- And heard Troy doubted; time will doubt of Rome.

CII

The very generations of the dead

Are swept away, and tomb inherits tomb,

Until the memory of an age is fled, SII And, burned, sinks beneath its offspring's doom:

Where are the epitaphs our fathers read?

- Save a few glean'd from the sepulchral gloom
- Which once-named myriads nameless lie beneath,

And lose their own in universal death.

III

I canter by the spot each afternoon

- Where perish'd in his fame the heroboy,
- Who lived too long for men, but died too soon
- For human vanity, the young De Foix !
- A broken pillar, not uncouthly hewn, 821
- But which neglect is hastening to destroy,
- Records Ravenna's carnage on its face,
- While weeds and ordure rankle round the base.

CIV

I pass each day where Dante's bones are laid:

A little cupola, more neat than solemn,

- Protects his dust, but reverence here is paid
  - To the bard's tomb, and not the warrior's column.
- The time must come, when both alike decay'd,
- The chieftain's trophy, and the poet's volume, 830
- Will sink where lie the songs and wars of earth.

Before Pelides' death, or Homer's birth.

cv

With human blood that column was comented,

With human filth that column is defiled,

- As if the peasant's coarse contempt were vented
- To show his loathing of the spot he soil'd: Thus is the trophy used, and thus lamented
  - Should ever be those blood-hounds, from whose wild

Instinct of gore and glory earth has known Those sufferings Dante saw in hell alone.

ed «

- Yet there will still be bards: though fame is smoke, 841
  - Its fumes are frankincense to human thought;
- And the unquiet feelings, which first woke Song in the world, will seek what then they sought;

As on the beach the waves at last are broke,

- Thus to their extreme verge the passions brought
- Dash into poetry, which is but passion,

Or at least was so ere it grew a fashion.

CVII

If in the course of such a life as was 849 At once adventurous and contemplative,

Men, who partake all passions as they pass, Acquire the deep and bitter power to give

Their images again as in a glass,

And in such colours that they seem to live; You may do right forbidding them to show 'em,

But spoil (I think) a very pretty poem.

CVIII

Oh! ye, who make the fortunes of all books!

Benign Ceruleans of the second sex !

Who advertise new poems by your looks, Your 'imprimatur' will ye not annex?

What ! must I go to the oblivious cooks,

Those Cornish plunderers of Parnassian wrecks? 862

Ah ! must I then the only minstrel be,

Proscribed from tasting your Castalian tea!

CIX

What! can I prove 'a lion' then no more? A ball-room bard, a foolscap, hot-press darling?

To bear the compliments of many a bore,

- And sigh, 'I can't get out,' like Yorick's starling;
- Why then I 'll swear, as poet Wordy swore (Because the world won't read him, always snarling), 870
- That taste is gone, that fame is but a lottery,

Drawn by the blue-coat misses of a coterie

сх

Oh! 'darkly, deeply, beautifully blue,'

As some one somewhere sings about the sky,

- And I, ye learned ladies, say of you;
- They say your stockings are so (Heaven knows why,
- I have examined few pair of that hue); Blue as the garters which serenely he
- Round the Patrician left-legs, which adorn
- The festal midnight, and the levee morn.

CXI

- Yet some of you are most seraphic crea-
  - But times are alter'd since, a rhyming lover,
- You read my stanzas, and I read your features:
  - And but no matter, all those things are over;
- Still I have no dislike to learned natures,
  - For sometimes such a world of virtues cover;
- I knew one woman of that purple school,

The loveliest, chastest, best, but — quite a fool.

CXII

Humboldt, 'the first of travellers,' but not The last, if late accounts be accurate, 890

Invented, by some name I have forgot, As well as the sublime discovery's date.

An airy instrument, with which he sought To ascertam the atmospheric state,

By measuring ' the intensity of blue : '

Oh, Lady Daphne ! let me measure you !

CXIII

But to the narrative: --- The vessel bound With slaves to sell off in the capital,

- After the usual process, might be found At anchor under the seraglio wall;
- At anchor under the seraglio wall; 900 Her cargo, from the plague being safe and sound,

Were landed in the market, one and all, And there with Georgians, Russians, and Circassians, Bought up for different purposes and passions.

CXIV

- Some went off dearly; fifteen hundred dollars
  - For one Circassian, a sweet girl, were given,
- Warranted virgin; beauty's brightest colours Had deck'd her out in all the hues of heaven:

- The greater their success the worse it Her sale sent home some disappointed hawlers. proves. Who bade on till the hundreds reach'd As Ovid's verse may give to understand; eleven: 010 But when the offer went beyond, they knew severity. 'T was for the Sultan, and at once withdrew. Is the Platonic pimp of all posterity. CXV I therefore do denounce all amorous writ-Twelve negresses from Nubia brought a price Except in such a way as not to attract; 10 Which the West Indian market scarce Plam-simple-short, and by no means would bring: Though Wilberforce, at last, has made it myiting. But with a moral to each error tack'd, twice What 't was ere Abolition; and the thing Need not seem very wonderful, for vice ing, And with all passions in their turn at-Is always much more splendid than a king: The virtues, even the most exalted, Charity, tack'd: Now, if my Pegasus should not be shod ill, Are saving - vice spares nothing for a This poem will become a moral model. rarity. 020 CXVI III The European with the Asian shore But for the destiny of this young troop. How some were bought by pachas, some Sprinkled with palaces; the ocean stream by Jews, How some to burdens were obliged to stoop, Sophia's cupola with golden gleam; And others rose to the command of crews As renegadoes; while in hapless group, hoar: Hoping no very old vizier might choose, The females stood, as one by one they could dream. Far less describe, present the very view Which charm'd the charming Mary Monpick'd 'em, To make a mistress, or fourth wife, or victim: tagu. IV CXVII I have a passion for the name of 'Mary,' All this must be reserved for further song; For once it was a magic sound to me; Also our hero's lot, howe'er unpleasant (Because this Canto has become too long), Where I beheld what never was to be;
  - All feelings changed, but this was last to
    - quite free:

But I grow sad - and let a tale grow cold, Which must not be pathetically told.

- The wind swept down the Euxine, and the wave
  - Broke foaming o'er the blue Symplegades;
- 'T is a grand sight from off 'the Giant's Grave
  - To watch the progress of those rolling seas

Must be postponed discreetly for the present; 932

I'm sensible redundancy is wrong,

But could not for the muse of me put less in 't.

And now delay the progress of Don Juan, Till what is call'd in Ossian the fifth Duan.

CANTO THE FIFTH

WHEN amatory poets sing their loves In liquid lines mellifluously bland,

And pair their rhymes as Venus yokes her doves.

They little think what mischief is in hand;

- Even Petrarch's self, if judged with due

- Form'd rather for instructing than delight-

Here and there studded with a seventy-four:

- The cypress groves ; Olympus high and
  - The twelve isles, and the more than I

And still it half calls up the realms of fairy,

- vary
- A spell from which even yet I am not 831

- Between the Bosphorus, as they lash and lave
- Europe and Asia, you being quite at ease; There's not a sea the passenger e'er pukes in,
- Turns up more dangerous breakers than the Euxine. 40

VI

- 'T was a raw day of Autumn's bleak beginning,
- When nights are equal, but not so the days;
- The Parcæ then cut short the further spinning
  - Of seamen's fates, and the loud tempests raise
- The waters, and repentance for past sunning In all, who o'er the great deep take their ways
- They vow to amend their lives, and yet they don't;
- Because if drown'd, they can't if spared, they won't

VII

A crowd of shivering slaves of every nation,

- And age, and sex, were in the market ranged; 50
- Each bevy with the merchant in his station: Poor creatures ' their good looks were sadly changed.
- All save the blacks seem'd jaded with vexation,
  - From friends, and home, and freedom far estranged;

The negroes more philosophy display'd, — Used to it, no doubt, as eels are to be flay'd.

VIII

Juan was juvenile, and thus was full,

- As most at his age are, of hope and health;
- Yet I must own he looked a little dull,
- And now and then a tear stole down by stealth;
- Perhaps his recent loss of blood might pull His spirit down; and then the loss of wealth,

A mistress, and such comfortable quarters, To be put up for auction amongst Tartars,

IX

Were things to shake a stoic; ne'ertheless, Upon the whole his carriage was serene:

- His figure, and the splendour of his dress, Of which some gilded remnants still were seen.
- Drew all eyes on him, giving them to guess He was above the vulgar by his mien; 70
- And then, though pale, he was so very handsome;

And then - they calculated on his ransom.

х

- Like a backgammon board the place was dotted
  - With whites and blacks, in groups on show for sale,
- Though rather more irregularly spotted:
- Some bought the jet, while others chose the pale
- It chanced amongst the other people lotted, A man of thirty rather stout and hale,
- With resolution in his dark grey eye,
- Next Juan stood, till some might choose to buy. 80

XI

- He had an English look; that is, was square In make, of a complexion white and ruddy.
- Good teeth, with curling rather dark brown hair,
  - And, it might be from thought or toil or study,
- An open brow a little mark'd with care:
- One arm had on a bandage rather bloody; And there he stood with such sang-froid,
- that greater Could scarce be shown even by a mere spectator.

хп

- But seeing at his elbow a mere lad,
- Of a high spirit evidently, though
- At present weigh'd down by a doom which had
  - O'erthrown even men, he soon began to show
- A kind of blunt compassion for the sad Lot of so young a partner in the woe,
- Which for himself he seem'd to deem no worse
- Than any other scrape, a thing of course.

XIII

'My boy !'said he, 'amidst this motley crew Of Georgians, Russians, Nubians, and what not,

832

- All ragamuffins differing but in hue,
- With whom it is our luck to east our lot,
- The only gentlemen seem I and you; So let us be acquanted, as we ought:
- If I could yield you any consolation,
- 'T would give me pleasure. Pray, what is your nation?'

XIV

- When Juan answer'd ' Spanish !' he replied,
- 'I thought, in fact, you could not be a Greek;
- Those servile dogs are not so proudly eyed. Fortune has play'd you here a pretty freak,
- But that's her way with all men, till they're tried;
- But never mind, she'll turn, perhaps, next week;
- She has served me also much the same as you,
- Except that I have found it nothing new.'

xv

- 'Pray, sir,' said Juan, 'if I may presume, What brought you here ?'.... 'Oh! nothing very rare ....
- Six Tartars and a drag-chain.' 'To this doom
- But what conducted, if the question's fair,
- Is that which I would learn. 'I served for some
  - Months with the Russian army here and there,

And taking lately, by Suwarrow's bidding,

A town, was ta'en myself instead of Widdin' 120

XVI

- •Have you no friends ?'- •I had but, by God's blessing,
  - Have not been troubled with them lately Now
- I have answer'd all your questions without pressing,

And you an equal courtesy should show.'

- 'Alas!' said Juan, ''t were a tale distressing,
  - And long besides '--- 'Oh ! if 't is really
- You 're right on both accounts to hold your tongue:
- A sad tale saddens doubly, when 't is long

XVII

- 'But droop not' Fortune at your time of life,
- Although a female moderately fickle, 130 Will hardly leave you (as she's not your wife)

For any length of days in such a pickle.

- To strive, too, with our fate were such a strife
  - As if the corn-sheaf should oppose the sickle:
- Men are the sport of circumstances, when The circumstances seem the sport of men.'

XVIII

- 'T is not,' said Juan, 'for my present doom
  - I mourn, but for the past; I loved a maid: '---
- He paused, and his dark eye grew full of gloom;
- A single tear upon his eyelash staid 140 A moment, and then dropp'd; 'but to resume,

'T is not my present lot, as I have said,

- Which I deplore so much; for I have borne
- Hardships which have the hardiest overworn,

XIX

- 'On the rough deep. But this last blow —' and here
  - He stopp'd again, and turn'd away his face
- 'Ay,' quoth his friend, 'I thought it would appear

That there had been a lady in the case;

- And these are things which ask a tender tear,
- Such as I, too, would shed if in your place: 150

I cried upon my first wife's dying day, And also when my second ran away

XX

- ' My third ' ' Your third !' quoth Juan, turning round;
  - 'You scarcely can be thirty. have you three?'
- 'No only two at present above ground: Surely 't is nothing wonderful to see
- One person thrice in holy wedlock bound !'
  - 'Well, then, your third,' said Juan: 'what did she ?

She did not run away, too, - did she, sir ?'

'No, faith.'-'What then?'-'I ran away from her' 160

XXI

'You take things coolly, sir,' said Juan 'Why,'

Replied the other, 'what can a man do? There still are many rambows in your sky,

- But mine have vanish'd. All, when life is new,
- Commence with feelings warm, and prospects high;

- But time strips our illusions of their hue,

And one by one in turn, some grand mistake

Casts off its bright skin yearly like the snake.

XXII

"T is true, it gets another bright and fresh, Or fresher, brighter; but the year gone through,

This skin must go the way, too, of all flesh, Or sometimes only wear a week or two:

- Love's the first net which spreads its deadly mesh;
  - Ambition, Avarice, Vengeance, Glory, glue

The glittering lime-twigs of our latter days, Where still we flutter on for pence or praise.'

XXIII

'All this is very fine, and may be true,'

Said Juan; 'but I really don't see how

- It betters present times with me or you' 'No ?' quoth the other; 'yet you will
- allow
- By setting things in their right point of view,

Knowledge, at least, is gain'd; for instance, now,

We know what slavery 1s, and our disasters

May teach us better to behave when masters.

XXIV

- 'Would we were masters now, if but to try Their present lessons on our Pagan friends here,'
- Said Juan, swallowing a heart-burning sigh.
  - 'Heaven help the scholar whom his fortune sends here !'

- 'Perhaps we shall be one day, by and Ъy,
- Rejoin'd the other, 'when our bad luck mends here;
- Meantime (you old black eunuch seems to eve us)
- I wish to G-d that somebody would buy us!

XXV

- 'But after all, what is our present state?
- 'T is bad, and may be better all men's lot:
- Most men are slaves, none more so than the great,
- To their own whims and passions, and what not;
- Society itself, which should create
- Kindness, destroys what little we had got: To feel for none is the true social art
- Of the world's stores men without a heart.' 200

XXVI

Just now a black old neutral personage

- Of the third sex stept up, and peering over
- The captives, seem'd to mark their looks and age,
- And capabilities, as to discover

If they were fitted for the purposed cage: No lady e'er 1s ogled by a lover,

Horse by a blackleg, broadcloth by a cailor, Fee by a counsel, felon by a jailor,

XXVII

- As is a slave by his intended bidder.
- 'T is pleasant purchasing our fellowcreatures; 210
- And all are to be sold, if you consider Their passions, and are dext'rous; some by features
- Are bought up, others by a warlike leader,
- Some by a place as tend their years or natures;
- The most by ready cash but all have prices,
- From crowns to kicks, according to their vices

XXVIII

- The eunuch, having eyed them o'er with
  - Turn'd to the merchant, and begun to bid

- First but for one, and after for the pair; They haggled, wrangled, swore, too - so back'd. they did ! 220 As though they were in a mere Christian fair Cheapening an ox, an ass, a lamb, or kid; nse So that their bargain sounded like a battle For this superior yoke of human cattle. XXXIII XXIX At last they settled into simple grumbling, And pulling out reluctant purses, and Turning each piece of silver o'er, and tumbling table, Some down, and weighing others in their past hand. And by mistake sequins with paras jum-I found the military commandant bling, Until the sum was accurately scann'd, 230 And then the merchant giving change, and pant. signing XXXIV Receipts in full, began to think of dining. Poor fellow ! for some reason, surely bad, XXX left him there I wonder if his appetite was good? Or, if it were, if also his digestion? Methinks at meals some odd thoughts might intrude. should I add And conscience ask a curious sort of question,
- About the right divine how far we should Sell flesh and blood. When dinner has opprest one,
- I think it is perhaps the gloomiest hour

Which turns up out of the sad twenty-four.

XXXI

Voltaire says 'No:' he tells you that Candide 24 I

Found life most tolerable after meals;

He's wrong — unless man were a pig, indeed.

Repletion rather adds to what he feels,

Unless he's drunk, and then no doubt he's freed

From his own brain's oppression while it reels.

Of food I think with Philip's son, or rather Ammon's (ill pleased with one world and # one father);

XXXII

I think with Alexander, that the act Of eating, with another act or two, 250

Makes us feel our mortality in fact Redoubled; when a roast and a ragout, And fish, and soup, by some side dishes

Can give us either pam or pleasure, who Would pique hunself on intellects, whose Depends so much upon the gastric juice ?

The other evening ('t was on Friday last) -This is a fact and no poetic fable -

- Just as my great coat was about me cast,
- My hat and gloves still lying on the 260
- I heard a shot 't was eight o'clock scarce
- And, running out as fast as I was able,

Stretch'd in the street, and able scarce to

They had slam hun with five slugs; and

To perish on the pavement so I had

Him borne into the house and up the stair, And stripp'd and look'd to - But why

260 More circumstances? vain was every care; The man was gone. in some Italian quarrel Kill'd by five bullets from an old gun-barrel

XXXV

I gazed upon him, for I knew him well;

And though I have seen many corpses, never Saw one, whom such an accident befell,

- So calm; though pierced through stomach, heart, and liver,
- He seem'd to sleep, for you could scarcely tell

(As he bled inwardly, no hideous river

- Of gore divulged the cause) that he was dead:
- So as I gazed on him, I thought or said --

XXXVI

- 'Can this be death ? then what is life or death ? 281
  - Speak !' but he spoke not: 'Wake !' but still he slept :-
- ' But yesterday and who had mightier breath?
  - A thousand warriors by his word were kept

- In awe  $\cdot$  he said, as the centurion saith,
- "Go," and he goeth; "come," and forth he stepp'd.
- The trump and bugle till he spake were dumb --
- And now nought left him but the muffled drum '

XXXVII

- And they who waited once and worshipp'd they
  - With their rough faces throng'd about the bed
- To gaze once more on the commanding clay
  - Which for the last, though not the first, time bled:
- And such an end ! that he who many a day Had faced Napoleon's foes until they fled.—

The foremost in the charge or in the sally, Should now be butcher'd in a civic alley.

XXXVIII

- The scars of his old wounds were near his new,
  - Those honourable scars which brought him fame;
- And hornd was the contrast to the view But let me quit the theme; as such
- things claim Perhaps even more attention than is due
- From me · I gazed (as oft I have gazed the same)
- To try if I could wrench aught out of death
- Which should confirm, or shake, or make a faith;

XXXIX

- But it was all a mystery. Here we are, And there we go: — but where ? five bits of lead,
- Or three, or two, or one, send very far !
- And is this blood, then, form'd but to be shed?
- Can every element our elements mar?
- And air earth water fire live and we dead?
- We whose minds comprehend all things? No more ;
- But let us to the story as before.

XL

The purchaser of Juan and acquaintance Bore off his bargains to a gilded boat,

- Embark'd himself and them, and off they went thence
- As fast as oars could pull and water float;
- They look'd like persons being led to sentence,

Wondering what next, till the carque was brought

- Up in a little creek below a wall
- O'ertopp'd with cypresses, dark-green and tall. 320

XLI

Here their conductor tapping at the wicket Of a small iron door, 't was open'd, and

- He led them onward, first through a low thicket
  - Flank'd by large groves, which tower'd on either hand:
- They almost lost their way, and had to pick it —
- For night was closing ere they came to land
- The eunuch made a sign to those on board,

Who row'd off, leaving them without a word.

XLII

- As they were plodding on their winding way
  - Through orange bowers, and jasmine, and so forth 330
- (Of which I might have a good deal to say, There being no such profusion in the North

Of oriental plants, 'et cetera,'

- But that of late your scribblers think it worth
- Their while to rear whole hotbeds in ther works
- Because one poet travell'd 'mongst the Turks) —

XLIII

- As they were threading on their way, there came
  - Into Don Juan's head a thought, which he
- Whisper'd to his companion: 't was the same

Which might have then occurr'd to you or me. 340

- 'Methinks,' said he, 'it would be no great shame
  - If we should strike a stroke to set us free;

- Let's knock that old black fellow on the head,
- And march away 't were easier done than said.'

XLIV

- 'Yes,' said the other, 'and when done, what then?
- How get out? how the devil got we in?
- And when we once were fairly out, and when
  - From Saint Bartholomew we have saved our skin,
- To-morrow'd see us in some other den,
- And worse off than we hitherto have been; 350
- Besides, I'm hungry, and just now would take,
- Like Esau, for my birthright a beef-steak.

XLV

'We must be near some place of man's abode; ---

For the old negro's confidence in creeping,

- With his two captives, by so queer a road, Shows that he thinks his friends have not been sleeping;
- A single cry would bring them all abroad: 'T is therefore better looking before leaping —
- And there, you see, this turn has brought us through,
- By Jove, a noble palace ! lighted too.' 360

XLVI

- It was indeed a wide extensive building Which open'd on their view, and o'er the
- front There seem'd to be besprent a deal of gild
  - ing And various hues, as is the Turkish wont.—
- A gaudy taste ; for they are little skill'd in The arts of which these lands were once the font :
- Each villa on the Bosphorus looks a screen New painted, or a pretty opera-scene.

XLVII

- And nearer as they came, a genial savour Of certain stews, and roast-meats, and pilaus, 370
- Things which in hungry mortals' eyes find favour,

Made Juan in his harsh intentions pause,

- And put himself upon his good behaviour: His friend, too, adding a new saving clause.
- Said, 'In Heaven's name let's get some supper now,
- And then I'm with you, if you're for a row'

XLVIII

Some talk of an appeal unto some passion,

- Some to men's feelings, others to their reason;
- The last of these was never much the fash-
- For reason thinks all reasoning out of season. 380
- Some speakers whine, and others lay the lash on,

But more or less continue still to tease on, With arguments according to their 'forte;' But no one dreams of ever being short —

XLIX

But I digress : of all appeals, - although

- I grant the power of pathos, and of gold, Of beauty, flattery, threats, a shilling, — no Method's more sure at moments to take
- hold Of the best feelings of mankind, which grow

More tender, as we every day behold, 390 Than that all-softening, overpowering knell, The tocsin of the soul — the dinner-bell.

L

Turkey contains no bells, and yet men dine: And Juan and his friend, albeit they heard

No Christian knoll to table, saw no line

- Of lackeys usher to the feast prepared,
- Yet smelt roast-meat, beheld a huge fire shine,
  - And cooks in motion with their clean arms bared,
- And gazed around them to the left and right
- With the prophetic eye of appetite. 400

LI

- And giving up all notions of resistance,
- They follow'd close behind their sable guide,
- Who little thought that his own crack'd existence
  - Was on the point of being set aside .

- He motion'd them to stop at some small distance,
  - And knocking at the gate, 't was open'd wide,
- And a magnificent large hall display'd

The Asian pomp of Ottoman parade.

LII

- I won't describe ; description is my forte, But every fool describes in these bright days 410
- His wondrous journey to some foreign court,
  - And spawns his quarto, and demands your praise —
- Death to his publisher, to him 't is sport ; While Nature, tortured twenty thousand ways,

Resigns herself with exemplary patience

To guide-books, rhymes, tours, sketches, illustrations.

LIII

Along this hall, and up and down, some, squatted

Upon their hams, were occupied at chess; Others in monosyllable talk chatted,

- And some seem'd much in love with their own dress 420
- And divers smoked superb pipes decorated With amber mouths of greater price or less;

And several strutted, others slept, and some Prepared for supper with a glass of rum.

LIV

As the black eunuch enter'd with his brace Of purchased Infidels, some raised their eves

- A moment without slackening from their pace;
  - But those who sate ne'er stirr'd in anywise :

One or two stared the captives in the face, Just as one views a horse to guess his price; 430

Some nodded to the negro from their station,

But no one troubled him with conversation.

LV

- He leads them through the hall, and, without stopping,
  - On through a farther range of goodly rooms,

- Splendid but silent, save in one, where, dropping,
- A marble fountain echoes through the glooms
- Of night which robe the chamber, or where popping
  - Some female head most curiously presumes
- To thrust its black eyes through the door or lattice,
- As wondering what the devil a noise that is.

LVI

- Some faint lamps gleaming from the lofty walls 441
  - Gave light enough to hint their farther way,

But not enough to show the imperial halls, In all the flashing of their full array;

Perhaps there's nothing — I'll not say appals, But saddens more by night as well as day,

Than an enormous room without a soul

To break the lifeless splendour of the whole.

LVII

- Two or three seem so little, one seems nothing:
  - In deserts, forests, crowds, or by the shore, 450
- There solitude, we know, has her full growth in
  - The spots which were her realms for evermore;
- But in a mighty hall or gallery, both in
- More modern buildings and those built of yore,
- A kind of death comes o'er us all alone,

Seeing what's meant for many with but one.

LVIII

A neat, snug study on a winter's night, A book, friend, single lady, or a glass

- Of claret, sandwich, and an appetite,
- Are things which make an English evening pass; 460
- Though certes by no means so grand a sight As is a theatre lit up by gas

I pass my evenings in long galleries solely, And that's the reason I'm so melancholy

LIX

- Alas! man makes that great which makes him little:
  - I grant you in a church 't is very well:

What speaks of Heaven should by no means be brittle,

But strong and lasting, till no tongue can tell

- Their names who rear'd it; but huge houses fit ill ---
- And huge tombs worse mankind, since Adam fell: 470

Methinks the story of the tower of Babel

Might teach them this much better than I'm able.

LX

- Babel was Nimrod's hunting-box, and then A town of gardens, walls, and wealth amazing,
- Where Nabuchadonosor, king of men,
- Reign'd, till one summer's day he took to grazing,
- And Daniel tamed the lions in their den, The people's awe and admiration raising;
- T was famous, too, for Thisbe and for Pyramus,

And the calumniated queen Semiramis. 480

LXI

- That injured Queen by chroniclers so coarse Has been accused (I doubt not by conspiracy)
- Of an improper friendship for her horse
- (Love, like religion, sometimes runs to heresy):
- This monstrous tale had probably its source (For such exaggerations here and there I see)
- In writing 'Courser' by mistake for 'Courser'
- I wish the case could come before a jury here.

LXII

- But to resume, should there be (what may not
  - Be in these days?) some infidels, who don't, 490
- Because they can't find out the very spot
- Of that same Babel, or because they won't
- (Though Claudius Rich, Esquire, some bricks has got,

And written lately two memoirs upon't), Believe the Jews, those unbehevers, who

Must be believed, though they believe not you,

LXIII

Yet let them think that Horace has exprest

Shortly and sweetly the masome folly

- Of those, forgetting the great place of rest,
- Who give themselves to architecture wholly; 500
- We know where things and men must end at best.

A moral (like all morals) melancholy,

And 'Et sepulchri immemor struis domos'

Shows that we build when we should but entomb us.

LXIV

- At last they reach'd a quarter most retired, Where echo woke as if from a long slumber;
- Though full of all things which could be desired,
  - One wonder'd what to do with such a number

Of articles which nobody required;

- Here wealth had done its utmost to encumber 510
- With furniture an exquisite apartment,
- Which puzzled Nature much to know what Art meant.

LXV

It seem'd, however, but to open on

- A range or suite of further chambers, which
- Might lead to heaven knows where; but in this one

The movables were prodigally rich: Sofas 't was half a sin to sit upon,

So costly were they; carpets every stitch

Of workmanship so rare, they made you wish

You could glide o'er them like a golden fish.

LXVI

- The black, however, without hardly deign-
  - A glance at that which wrapt the slaves in wonder,
- Trampled what they scarce trod for fear of staining,

As if the milky way their feet was under With all its stars, and with a stratch at

- With all its stars, and with a stretch attaining
  - A certain press or cupboard niched in yonder —

In that remote recess which you may see — Or if you don't the fault is not in me, —

LXVII

I wish to be perspicuous; and the black, I say, unlocking the recess, pull'd forth

- A quantity of clothes fit for the back 531 Of any Mussulman, whate'er his worth;
- And of variety there was no lack -
- And yet, though I have said there was no dearth,
- He chose himself to point out what he thought
- Most proper for the Christians he had bought

LXVIII

The suit he thought most suitable to each Was, for the elder and the stouter, first

- A Candiote cloak, which to the knee might reach.
  - And trousers not so tight that they would burst, 540
- But such as fit an Asiatic breech;
  - A shawl, whose folds in Cashmire had been nurst.
- Slippers of saffron, dagger rich and handy;
- In short, all things which form a Turkish Dandy.

LXIX

While he was dressing, Baba, their black friend,

Hinted the vast advantages which they

- Might probably attain both in the end, If they would but pursue the proper way
- Which fortune plainly seem'd to recommend;
- And then he added, that he needs must say, 550
- "T would greatly tend to better their condition,
- If they would condescend to circumcision.

LXX

'For his own part, he really should rejoice

To see them true believers, but no less Would leave his proposition to their choice.'

- The other, thanking him for this excess Of goodness, in thus leaving them a voice
- In such a trifle, scarcely could express 'Sufficiently' (he said) 'his approbation

Of all the customs of this polish'd nation. 560

- 'For his own share he saw but small objection
- To so respectable an ancient rite:
- And, after swallowing down a slight refection,
- For which he own'd a present appetite,
- He doubted not a few hours of reflection
  - Would reconcile him to the business quite.'
- 'Will it?' said Juan, sharply: 'Strike me dead,
- But they as soon shall circumcise my head !

LXXII

'Cut off a thousand heads, before —' —'Now, pray,'

Replied the other, 'do not interrupt: 570 You put me out in what I had to say.

- Sir! as I said, as soon as I have supt, I shall perpend if your proposal may
- Be such as I can properly accept; Provided always your great goodness still

Remits the matter to our own free-will.'

LXXIII

- Baba eyed Juan, and said, 'Be so good As dress yourself — ' and pointed out a suit
- In which a Princess with great pleasure would
  - Array her limbs; but Juan standing mute,
- As not being in a masquerading mood, 5³¹ Gave it a slight kick with his Christian foot:
- And when the old negro told him to 'Get ready.'

Replied, 'Old gentleman, I'm not a lady.'

LXXIV

'What you may be, I neither know nor care,'

Said Baba; 'but pray do as I desire:

- I have no more time nor many words to spare.'
- 'At least,' said Juan, 'sure I may enquire
- The cause of this odd travesty ? '-- ' Forbear.'

Said Baba, 'to be curious; 't will transpire, 590

- No doubt, in proper place, and time, and season.
- I have no authority to tell the reason.'

LXXV

- 'Then if I do,' said Juan, 'I'll be --' -- 'Hold !'
  - Rejoin'd the negro, ' pray be not provoking;
- This spirit's well, but it may wax too bold, And you will find us not too fond of joking.'
- 'What, sir !' said Juan, 'shall it e'er be told
  - That I unsex'd my dress ?' But Baba, stroking
- The things down, said, 'Incense me, and I call

Those who will leave you of no sex at all.

LXXVI

- I offer you a handsome suit of clothes: 601 A woman's, true; but then there is a cause
- Why you should wear them.' 'What, though my soul loathes
  - The effeminate garb?'-thus, after a short pause,
- Sigh'd Juan, muttering also some slight oaths,
  - 'What the devil shall I do with all this gauze?'

Thus he profanely term'd the finest lace

Which e'er set off a marriage-morning face

LXXVII

And then he swore; and, sighing, on he slipp'd 609

A pair of trousers of flesh-colour'd silk;

Next with a virgin zone he was equipp'd, Which girt a slight chemise as white as milk;

But tugging on his petticoat, he tripp'd,

- Which as we say or, as the Scotch say, whilk
- (The rhyme obliges me to this; sometimes Monarchs are less imperative than
- Monarchs are less imperative the rhymes) —

LXXVIII

- Whilk, which (or what you please), was owing to
  - His garment's novelty, and his being awkward:
- And yet at last he managed to get through His toilet, though no doubt a little backward: 620

The negro Baba help'd a little too,

When some untoward part of raiment stuck hard;

And, wrestling both his arms into a gown, He paused, and took a survey up and down.

LXXIX

- One difficulty still remain'd his hair Was hardly long enough; but Baba found
- So many false long tresses all to spare, That soon his head was most completely crown'd,
- After the manner then in fashion there;
- And this addition with such gems was bound 630 As suited the ensemble of his toilet,
- As suited the ensemble of his tonet,
- While Baba made him comb his head and oil it.

LXXX

And now being femminely all array'd,

- With some small aid from scissors, paint, and tweezers,
- He look'd in almost all respects a maid,
- And Baba smilingly exclaim'd, 'You see, sirs,
- A perfect transformation here display'd;
- And now, then, you must come along with me, sırs,
- That is the Lady: ' clapping his hands twice,
- Four blacks were at his elbow in a trice 640

LXXXI

- You, sir,' said Baba, nodding to the one,
   'Will please to accompany those gentlemen
- To supper; but you, worthy Christian nun, Will follow me: no trifling, sir; for when
- I say a thing, it must at once be done.
  - What fear you? think you this a lion's den?

Why, 't is a palace, where the truly wise Anticipate the Prophet's paradise.

LXXXII

- 'You fool! I tell you no one means you harm'
- 'So much the better,' Juan said, 'for them;
- Else they shall feel the weight of this my arm,
  - Which is not quite so light as you may deem
- I yield thus far, but soon will break the charm
  - If any take me for that which I seem :

So that I trust for everybody's sake,

That this disguise may lead to no mistake.'

LXXXIII

Blockhead ! come on, and see,' quoth Baba; while

Don Juan, turning to his comrade, who Though somewhat grieved, could scarce forbear a smile

- Upon the metamorphosis in view, 660 'Farewell !' they mutually exclam'd' 'this soil
  - Seems fertile in adventures strange and new :

One's turn'd half Mussulman, and one a maid,

By this old black enchanter's unsought aid.'

LXXXIV

- 'Farewell '' said Juan. 'should we meet no more,
  - I wish you a good appetite.' --- 'Farewell!'
- Replied the other; 'though it grieves me sore;
  - When we next meet we'll have a tale to tell.
- We needs must follow when Fate puts from shore
- Keep your good name ; though Eve herself once fell.' 670
- 'Nay,' quoth the maid, 'the Sultan's self shan't carry me,
- Unless his highness promises to marry me.'

LXXXV

And thus they parted, each by separate doors;

Baba led Juan onward room by room

Through glittering galleries and o'er marble floors,

Till a gigantic portal through the gloom, Haughty and huge, along the distance lowers;

And wafted far arose a rich perfume:

It seem'd as though they came upon a shrine, For all was vast, still, fragrant, and divine.

LXXXVI

- The giant door was broad, and bright, and high, 681
  - Of gilded bronze, and carved in curious guise;
- Warriors thereon were battling furiously; Here stalks the victor, there the vanquish'd lies;

- There captives led in triumph droop the eye,
- And in perspective many a squadron flies: It seems the work of times before the
- line
- Of Rome transplanted fell with Constantine.

LXXXVII

This massy portal stood at the wide close Of a huge hall, and on its either side 600

- Two little dwarfs, the least you could suppose,
  - Were sate, like ugly imps, as if allied
- In mockery to the enormous gate which rose
  - O'er them in almost pyramidic pride:
- The gate so splendid was in all its features,
- You never thought about those little creatures,

LXXXVIII

Until you nearly trod on them, and then You started back in horror to survey

- The wondrous hideousness of those small men,
  - Whose colour was not black, nor white, nor grey, 700
- But an extraneous mixture, which no pen Can trace, although perhaps the pencil may;
- They were mis-shapen pigmies, deaf and dumb-
- Monsters, who cost a no less monstrous sum.

LXXXIX

- Their duty was for they were strong, and though
  - They look'd so little, did strong things at times —
- To ope this door, which they could really do,
  - The hunges being as smooth as Rogers' rhymes;
- And now and then, with tough strings of the bow,

As is the custom of those Eastern climes, To give some rebel Pacha a cravat; 7¹¹ For mutes are generally used for that.

xc

They spoke by signs — that is, not spoke at all;

And looking like two incubi, they glared

- As Baba with his fingers made them fall To heaving back the portal folds: it scared
- Juan a moment, as this pair so small
  - With shrinking serpent optics on him stared;
- It was as if their little looks could poison
- Or fascinate whome'er they fix'd their eyes on. 720

XCI

Before they enter'd, Baba paused to hint To Juan some slight lessons as his guide

- 'If you could just contrive,' he said, 'to stint
- That somewhat manly majesty of stride, 'T would be as well, and (though there's
- not much in 't) To swing a little less from side to side,
- Which has at times an aspect of the oddest:-

And also could you look a little modest,

XCII

- "T would be convenient; for these mutes have eves
  - Like needles, which may pierce those petticoats; 730
- And if they should discover your disguise, You know how near us the deep Bosphorus floats;
- And you and I may chance, ere morning rise,
  - To find our way to Marmora without boats,

Stitch'd up in sacks — a mode of navigation

A good deal practised here upon occasion'

XCIII

- With this encouragement, he led the way Into a room still nobler than the last;
- A rich confusion form'd a disarray
- In such sort, that the eye along it cast Could hardly carry anything away, 7
- Object on object flash'd so bright and fast;
- A dazzling mass of gems, and gold, and glitter,

Magnificently mingled in a litter.

XCIV

Wealth had done wonders - taste not much; such things

Occur in Orient palaces, and even

- In the more chasten'd domes of Western kings
  - (Of which I have also seen some six or seven),
- Where I can't say or gold or diamond flings Great lustre, there is much to be forgiven; 750
- Groups of bad statues, tables, chairs, and pictures,
- On which I cannot pause to make my strictures.

YCA

In this imperial hall, at distance lay Under a canopy, and there reclined

Quite m a confidential queenly way,

- A lady, Baba stopp d, and kneeling sign'd
- To Juan, who though not much used to pray,
  - Knelt down by mstinct, wondering in his mind,
- What all this meant: while Baba bow'd and bended
- His head, until the ceremony ended. 76-

XCVI

The lady rising up with such an air

- As Venus rose with from the wave, on them
- Bent like an antelope a Paphian pair
  - Of eyes, which put out each surrounding gem,
- And raising up an arm as moonlight fair,
- She sıgıı'd to Baba, who first kiss'd the hem
- Of her deep purple robe, and speaking low, Pointed to Juan who remain'd below

XCVII

- Her presence was as lofty as her state; 769 Her beauty of that overpowering kind,
- Whose force description only would abate: I'd rather leave it much to your own mind,

Than lessen it by what I could relate

Of forms and features; it would strike you blind

Could I do justice to the full detail;

So. luckily for both, my phrases fail.

XCVIII

Thus much however I may add, — her years Were ripe, they might make six-andtwenty springs, But there are forms which Time to touch for bears,

And turns aside his scythe to vulgar things, 780

- Such as was Mary's Queen of Scots; true tears
  - And love destroy; and sapping sorrow wrings
- Charms from the charmer, yet some never grow
- Ugly; for instance Nmon de l'Enclos.

XCIX

She spake some words to her attendants, who

Composed a choir of girls, ten or a dozen, And were all clad alike, like Juan, too,

- Who wore then uniform, by Baba chosen; They form'd a very nymph-like looking
  - crew, Which might have call'd Diana's chorus 'cousin,' 790
- As far as outward show may correspond;

I won't be bail for anything beyond.

- С
- They bow'd obeisance and withdrew. returing,
  - But not by the same door through which came in
- Baba and Juan, which last stood admiring, At some small distance, all he saw within
- This strange saloon, much fitted for mspirmg
  - Marvel and praise; for both or none things win;

And I must say, I ne'er could see the very Great happiness of the 'Nil Admirari' 800

CI

'Not to admire is all the art I know

- (Plain truth, dear Murray, needs few flowers of speech)
- To make men happy, or to keep them so' (So take it in the very words of Creech) ----
- Thus Horace wrote we all know long ago;
- And thus Pope quotes the precept to re-teach
- From his translation; but had none admired, Would Pope have sung, or Horace been inspired ?

CII

Baba, when all the damsels were withdrawn, Motion'd to Juan to approach, and then

- A second time desired him to kneel down, And kiss the lady's toot; which maxim when
- He heard repeated, Juan with a frown Drew himself up to his full height again,
- And said, 'It grieved him, but he could not stoop
- To any shoe, unless it shod the Pope.'

CIII

- Baba, indignant at this ill-timed pride, Made fierce remonstrances, and then a threat
- He mutter'd (but the last was given aside) About a bow-string — quite in vain; not yet 829
- Would Juan bend, though 't were to Mahomet's bride.
  - There's nothing in the world like etiquette
- In kingly chambers or imperial halls,
- As also at the race and county balls.

CIV

- He stood like Atlas, with a world of words About his ears, and nathless would not bend.
- The blood of all his line's Castilian lords Boil'd in his veins, and rather than de-
- scend To stain his pedigree a thousand swords
- A thousand times of him had made an end; 830
- At length perceiving the 'foot' could not stand,

Baba proposed that he should kiss the hand.

cv

Here was an honourable compromise,

A half-way house of diplomatic rest,

- Where they might meet in much more peaceful guise,
  - And Juan now his willingness exprest

To use all fit and proper courtesies,

- Adding, that this was commonest and best,
- For through the South the custom still commands

The gentleman to kiss the lady's hands. 840

CVI

- And he advanced, though with but a bad grace,
  - Though on more thorough-bred or fairer fingers

No lips e'er left their transitory trace;

On such as these the lip too fondly lmgers,

- And for one kiss would fain imprint a brace,
  - As you will see, if she you love shall bring hers
- In contact; and sometimes even a fair stranger's
- An almost twelvemonth's constancy endangers.

CVII

The lady eyed him o'er and o'er, and bade Baba reture, which he obey'd in style,

As if well used to the retreating trade; 85. And taking hints in good part all the while,

He whisper'd Juan not to be afraid,

And looking on him with a sort of smile, Took leave, with such a face of satisfaction As good men wear who have done a virtuous action.

CVIII

- When he was gone, there was a sudden change:
  - I know not what might be the lady's thought,
- But o'er her bright brow flash'd a tumult strange,
  - And into her clear cheek the blood was brought, 860
- Blood-red as sunset summer clouds which range
  - The verge of Heaven; and in her large eyes wrought,

A mixture of sensations might be scann'd,

Of half voluptuousness and half command.

CIX

- Her form had all the softness of her sex,
- Her features all the sweetness of the devil,
- When he put on the cherub to perplex Eve, and paved (God knows how) the
- road to evil; The sun himself was scarce more free from
- The sun himself was scarce more free from specks

Than she from aught at which the eye could cavil; 870

- Yet, somehow, there was something somewhere wanting,
- As if she rather order'd than was granting.

сx

Something imperial, or imperious, threw

A chain o'er all she did; that is, a chain Was thrown as 't were about the neck of

- you, And rapture's self will seem almost a pain
- With aught which looks like despotism in view.
- Our souls at least are free, and 't is in vam
- We would against them make the flesh obey-

The spirit in the end will have its way. 880

CXI

Her very smile was haughty, though so sweet;

Her very nod was not an inclination;

- There was a self-will even in her small feet, As though they were quite conscious of her station —
- They trod as upon necks; and to complete Her state (it is the custom of her nation),
- A pomard deck'd her girdle, as the sign
- She was a sultan's bride (thank Heaven, not mine!).

CXII

'To hear and to obey' had been from birth The law of all around her; to fulfil soo

All phantasies which yielded joy or mirth, Had been her slaves' chief pleasure, as

- her will; Her blood was high, her beauty scarce of earth.
  - Judge, then, if her caprices e'er stood still;

Had she but been a Christian, I 've a notion We should have found out the 'perpetual motion.'

$\mathbf{CXIII}$

Whate'er she saw and coveted was brought; Whate'er she did not see, if she supposed

It might be seen, with diligence was sought, And when 't was found straightway the

- bargam closed; 900 There was no end unto the things she bought,
  - Nor to the trouble which her fancies caused;

Yet even her tyranny had such a grace,

The women pardon'd all except her face.

Juan, the latest of her whims, had caught Her eye in passing on his way to sale;

She order'd him directly to be bought,

And Baba, who had ne'er been known to fail

In any kind of mischief to be wrought, 909 At all such auctions knew how to preval: She had no prudence, but he had; and this Explains the garb which Juan took amiss.

CXV

His youth and features favour'd the disguise,

And, should you ask how she, a sultan's bride,

Could risk or compass such strange phantasies,

This I must leave sultanas to decide :

Emperors are only husbands in wives' eyes, And kings and consorts oft are mystified,

As we may ascertain with due precision,

Some by experience, others by tradition. 920

CXVI

But to the main point, where we have been tending. —

She now concerved all difficulties past,

And deem'd herself extremely condescending

When, being made her property at last,

- Without more preface, in her blue eyes blending
  - Passion and power, a glance on him she cast,
- And merely saying, 'Christian, canst thou love ?'

Conceived that phrase was quite enough to move.

CXVII

And so it was, in proper time and place;

But Juan, who had still his mind o'erflowing 930

With Haidée's isle and soft Ionian face,

- Felt the warm blood, which in his face was glowing,
- Rush back upon his heart, which fill'd apace,
- And left his cheeks as pale as snowdrops blowing;
- These words went through his soul like Arab-spears,

So that he spoke not, but burst into tears.

- For women shed and use them at their liking;
- But there is something when man's eye appears

Wet, still more disagreeable and striking;

- A woman's tear-drop melts, a man's half sears.
  - Like molten lead, as if you thrust a pike

His heart to force it out, for (to be shorter) To them 't is a relief, to us a torture.

CXIX

And she would have consoled, but knew not how:

Having no equals, nothing which had e'er Infected her with sympathy till now,

- And never having dreamt what 't was to bear
- Aught of a serious, sorrowing kind, although There might arise some pouting petty care
- To cross her brow, she wonder'd how so near

Her eyes another's eye could shed a tear.

CXX

- But nature teaches more than power can spoil,
  - And, when a strong although a strange sensation
- Moves female hearts are such a genial soil
- For kinder feelings, whatsoe'er their nation,

They naturally pour the 'wine and oil,'

Samaritans in every situation;

- And thus Gulbeyaz, though she knew not why,
- Felt an odd glistening moisture in her eye.

CXXI

- But tears must stop like all things else; and soon 961
- Juan, who for an instant had been moved To such a sorrow by the intrusive tone
- Of one who dared to ask if 'he had loved,'
- Call'd back the stoic to his eyes, which shone
  - Bright with the very weakness he reproved;

She was a good deal shock'd; not shock'd at tears,

And although sensitive to beauty, he Felt most indignant still at not being free.

CXXII

- Gulbeyaz, for the first time in her days, Was much embarrass'd, never having met
- In all her life with aught save prayers and praise;
- And as she also risk'd her life to get Him whom she meant to tutor in love's
  - ways

Into a comfortable tête-à-tête.

To lose the hour would make her quite a martyr,

And they had wasted now almost a quarter.

CXXIII

- I also would suggest the fitting time To gentlemen in any such like case,
- That is to say in a meridian clime -
- With us there is more law given to the chase, 980
- But here a small delay forms a great crime: So recollect that the extremest grace

Is just two minutes for your declaration -

A moment more would hurt your reputation.

CXXIV

Juan's was good; and might have been still better.

But he had got Haidée into his head.

- However strange, he could not yet forget her.
  - Which made him seem exceedingly illbred
- Gulbevaz, who look'd on him as her debtor For having had him to her palace led, 990
- Began to blush up to the eyes, and then Grow deadly pale, and then blush back
  - again.

CXXV

At length, in an imperial way, she laid Her hand on his, and bending on him eyes Which needed not an empire to persuade,

- Look'd into his for love, where none replies:
- Her brow grew black, but she would not upbraid,
  - That being the last thing a proud woman tries;
- She rose, and pausing one chaste moment, threw

Herself upon his breast, and there she grew.

CXXVI

- This was an awkward test, as Juan found, But he was steel'd by sorrow, wrath, and pride:
- With gentle force her white arms he unwound,

And seated her all drooping by his side, Then rising haughtily he glanced around,

And looking coldly in her face, he cried, 'The prison'd eagle will not pair, nor I Serve a Sultana's sensual phantasy.

CXXVII

'Thou ask'st if I can love ? be this the proof How much I have loved — that I love not thee !

In this vile garb, the distaff, web, and woof, Were fitter for me: Love is for the free !

I am not dazzled by this splendid roof,

- Whate'er thy power, and great it seems to be;
- Heads bow, knees bend, eyes watch around a throne.
- And hands obey our hearts are still our own.'

CXXVIII

This was a truth to us extremely trite;

- Not so to her, who ne'er had heard such things
- She deem'd her least command must yield delight,
  - Earth being only made for queens and kings 1020

If hearts lay on the left side or the right She hardly knew, to such perfection brings

Legitimacy its born votaries, when

Aware of their due royal rights o'er men.

CXXIX

Besides, as has been said, she was so fair As even in a much humbler lot had made

A kingdom or confusion anywhere,

- And also, as may be presumed, she laid Some stress on charms, which seldom are, if e'er,
- By their possessors thrown into the shade: She thought hers gave a double 'right
- divine: 1031 And half of that opinion 's also mine.

CXXX

Remember, or (if you can not) imagine, Ye, who have kept your chastity when young,

- While some more desperate dowager has been waging
  - Love with you, and been in the dog-days stung

By your refusal, recollect her raging !

- Or recollect all that was said or sung 1038
- On such a subject; then suppose the face
- Of a young downright beauty in this case.

CXXXI

Suppose, — but you already have supposed, The spouse of Potiphar, the Lady Booby,

- Phædra, and all which story has disclosed Of good examples; pity that so few by
- Poets and private tutors are exposed,
- To educate ye youth of Europe you by !
- But when you have supposed the few we know,

You can't suppose Gulbeyaz' angry brow.

CXXXII

A tigress robb'd of young, a honess,

- Or any interesting beast of prey, 1050 Are similes at hand for the distress
- Of ladies who can not have their own way;
- But though my turn will not be served with less,
  - These don't express one half what I should say.
- For what is stealing young ones, few or many,
- To cutting short their hopes of having any?

CXXXIII

The love of offspring 's nature's general law, From tigresses and cubs to ducks and ducklings;

- There's nothing whets the beak, or arms the claw
  - Like an invasion of their babes and sucklings; rofo
- And all who have seen a human nursery, saw
  - How mothers love their children's squalls and chucklings;

This strong extreme effect (to tire no longer

Your patience) shows the cause must still be stronger.

CXXXIV

If I said fire flash'd from Gulbeyaz' eyes, 'T were nothing — for her eyes flash'd always fire;

- Or said her cheeks assumed the deepest dyes, I should but bring disgrace upon the dyer,
- So supernatural was her passion's rise;

For ne'er till now she knew a check'd desire:

- Even ye who know what a check'd woman is
- (Enough, God knows!) would much fall short of this.

CXXXV

- Her rage was but a minute's, and 't was well---
  - A moment's more had slain her; but the while
- It lasted 't was like a short glumpse of hell: Nought's more sublume than energetic bile,

Though horrible to see yet grand to tell,

Like ocean warring 'gainst a locky isle; And the deep passions flashing through her form

Made her a beautiful embodied storm. 1080

CXXXVI

A vulgar tempest 't were to a typhoon

To match a common fury with her rage,

- And yet she did not want to reach the moon, Like moderate Hotspur on the immortal page;
- Her anger pitch'd into a lower tune,
- Perhaps the fault of her soft sex and age ---
- Her wish was but to 'kill, kill, kill,' like Lear's,
- And then her thirst of blood was quench'd in tears.

CXXXVII

- A storm it raged, and like the storm it pass'd, Pass'd without words — in fact she could not speak;
- And then her sex's shame broke in at last, A sentiment till then in her but weak,
- But now it flow'd in natural and fast,

As water through an unexpected leak; For she felt humbled — and humiliation

Is sometimes good for people in her station.

CXXXVIII

- It teaches them that they are flesh and blood,
  - It also gently hints to them that others,

- Although of clay, are yet not quite of mud; That urns and pipkins are but fragile brothers,
- And works of the same pottery, bad or good, Though not all born of the same sires and mothers:
- It teaches Heaven knows only what it teaches,
- But sometimes it may mend, and often reaches.

CXXXIX

- Her first thought was to cut off Juan's head; Her second, to cut only his — acquaintance;
- Her third, to ask him where he had been bred;

Her fourth, to rally him into repentance;

Her fifth, to call her maids and go to bed; Her sixth, to stab herself; her seventh, to sentence

The lash to Baba · - but her grand resource

Was to sit down again, and cry of course.

CXL

She thought to stab herself, but then she had

The dagger close at hand, which made it awkward;

- For Eastern stays are little made to pad, So that a pomard pierces if 't is stuck
- hard: She thought of killing Juan — but, poor lad!
  - Though he deserved it well for being so backward, 1118

The cutting off his head was not the art

Most likely to attain her aim - his heart.

CXLI

Juan was moved; he had made up his mind To be impaled, or quarter'd as a dish

For dogs, or to be slain with pangs refined, Or thrown to lions, or made baits for fish,

And thus heroically stood resign'd,

- Rather than sin—except to his own wish: But all his great preparatives for dying
- Dissolved like snow before a woman crying.

CXLII

As through his palms Bob Acres' valour oozed,

So Juan's virtue ebb'd, I know not how;

- And first he wonder'd why he had refused;
- And then, if matters could be made up now;
- And next his savage virtue he accused, Just as a friar may accuse his vow,
- Or as a dame repents her of her oath,
- Which mostly ends in some small breach of both.

CXLIII

So he began to stammer some excuses;

- But words are not enough in such a matter,
- Although you borrow'd all that e'er the muses
  - Have sung. or even a Dandy's dandiest chatter, 1140
- Or all the figures Castlereagh abuses;
- Just as a languid smile began to flatter
- His peace was making, but before he ventured

Further, old Baba rather briskly enter'd.

CXLIV

- 'Bride of the Sun! and Sister of the Moon!' ('T was thus he spake) 'and Empress of the Earth!
- Whose frown would put the spheres all out of tune,
  - Whose smile makes all the planets dance with murth,
- Your slave brings tidings he hopes not too soon —

The Sun himself has sent me like a ray, To hint that he is coming up this way.'

CXLV

- 'Is it,' exclaim'd Gulbeyaz, 'as you say ? I wish to heaven he would not shine till morning !
- But bid my women form the milky way.
  - Hence, my old comet ! give the stars due warning --
- And, Christian ! mingle with them as you may,
  - And as you'd have me pardon your past scorning — '
- Here they were interrupted by a humming
- Sound, and then by a cry, 'The Sultan's coming !'

CXLVI

First came her damsels, a decorous file, And then his Highness' eunuchs, black and white;

The train might reach a quarter of a mile: His majesty was always so polite

As to announce his visits a long while Before he came, especially at night;

For being the last wife of the Emperour, She was of course the favorite of the four.

CXLVII

- His Highness was a man of solemn port, Shawl'd to the nose, and bearded to the eyes, 1170
- Snatch'd from a prison to preside at court, His lately bowstrung brother caused his rise;

He was as good a sovereign of the sort As any mention'd in the histories

Of Cantemir, or Knolles, where few shine Save Solyman, the glory of their line.

CXLVIII

He went to mosque in state, and said his prayers

With more than 'Oriental scrupulosity;' He left to his vizier all state affairs,

And show'd but little royal curiosity:

I know not if he had domestic cares - 1181

_ No process proved connubial animosity;

Four wives and twice five hundred maids, unseen,

Were ruled as calmly as a Christian queen

CXLIX

If now and then there happen'd a slight slip, Little was heard of criminal or crime;

The story scarcely pass'd a single lip -

The sack and sea had settled all in time, From which the secret nobody could rip:

The Public knew no more than does this rhyme; 1190

No scandals made the daily press a curse — Morals were better, and the fish no worse.

CL

He saw with his own eyes the moon was round,

Was also certain that the earth was square, Because he had journey'd fifty miles, and found

No sign that it was circular anywhere; His empire also was without a bound:

'T is true, a little troubled here and there,

By rebel pachas, and encroaching glaours, But then they never came to 'the Seven Towers;'

CLI

- Except in shape of envoys, who were sent To lodge there when a war broke out.
- according To the true law of nations, which ne'er meant Those scoundrels, who have never had a sword in

Their dirty diplomatic hands, to vent

- Their spleen in making strife, and safely wording
- Their lies, yclep'd despatches, without risk or
- The singeing of a single inky whisker.

CLII

- He had fifty daughters and four dozen sons, Of whom all such as came of age were stow'd,
- The former in a palace, where like nuns They lived till some Bashaw was sent abroad,
- When she, whose turn it was, was wed at once,
  - Sometimes at six years old though it seems odd,

'T is true; the reason is, that the Bashaw

Must make a present to his sire in law.

CLIII

- His sons were kept in prison, till they grew Of years to fill a bowstring or the throne,
- Cne or the other, but which of the two 1219 Could yet be known unto the fates alone;
- Meantime the education they went through Was princely, as the proofs have always shown:
- So that the beir apparent still was found

No less deserving to be hang'd than crown'd.

CLIV

His majesty saluted his fourth spouse With all the ceremonies of his rank,

- Who clear'd her sparkling eyes and smooth'd her brows,
- As suits a matron who has play'd a prank;
- These must seem doubly mindful of their vows,
  - To save the credit of their breaking bank: 1230

To no men are such cordial greetings given As those whose wives have made them fit for heaven.

CLV

- His Highness cast around his great black eyes,
  - And looking, as he always look'd, perceived

Juan amongst the damsels in disguise,

At which he seem'd no whit surprised nor grieved

- But just remark'd with air sedate and wise,
- While still a fluttering sigh Gulbeyaz heaved,
- 'I see you've bought another girl; 't is pity
- That a mere Christian should be half so pretty.' 1240

CLVI

- This compliment, which drew all eyes upon The new-bought virgin, made her blush and shake.
- Her comrades, also, thought themselves undone:
  - Oh! Mahomet! that his majesty should take
- Such notice of a giaour, while scarce to one

Of them his lips imperial ever spake !

There was a general whisper, toss, and wriggle,

But etiquette forbade them all to giggle.

CLVII

The Turks do well to shut — at least, sometimes —

The women up, because, in sad reality, Their chastity in these unhappy climes 1251

Is not a thing of that astringent quality Which in the North prevents precocious crimes,

And makes our snow less pure than our morality;

The sun, which yearly melts the polar ice, Has quite the contrary effect on vice

CLVIII

Thus in the East they are extremely strict, And Wedlock and a Padlock mean the same; 1258

Excepting only when the former 's pick'd It ne'er can be replaced in proper frame; Spoilt, as a pipe of claret is when prick'd: But then their own Polygamy's to blame;

Why don't they knead two virtuous souls for life

Into that moral centaur, man and wife?

CLIX

Thus fai our chronicle; and now we rause, Though not for want of matter; but 't is time

According to the ancient epic laws,

- To slacken sail, and anchor with our rhyme.
- Let this fifth canto meet with due applause, The sixth shall have a touch of the sublime; 1270
- Meanwhile, as Homer sometimes sleeps, perhaps
- You 'll pardon to my muse a few short naps.

PREFACE

TO CANIOS VI, VII, AND VIII

The details of the siege of Ismail in two of the following cantos ( $i \in i$  the seventh and eighth) are taken from a French Work, entitled Histore de la Nouvelle Russie Some of the incidents attributed to Don Juan really occurred, particularly the circumstance of his saving the infant, which was the actual case of the late Due de Richelieu, then a young volunteer in the Russian service, and afterward the founder and benefactor of Odessa, where his name and memory can never cease to be regarded with reverence.

In the course of these cantos, a stanza or two will be found relative to the late Marquis of Londonderry, but written some time before his Had that person's oligarchy died decease with him, they would have been suppressed; as it is, I am aware of nothing in the manner of his death or of his life to prevent the free expression of the opinions of all whom his whole existence was consumed in endeavouring That he was an amiable man in to enslave private life, may or may not be true but with this the public have nothing to do, and as to lamenting his death, it will be time enough when Ireland has ceased to mourn for his birth As a minister, I, for one of millions, looked upon him as the most despotic in intention, and the weakest in intellect that ever tyrannised over a country It is the first time mdeed since the Normans that England has been insulted by a minister (at least) who could not speak English, and that parliament permitted itself to be dictated to in the language of Mrs Malaprop.

Of the manner of his death little need be said, except that if a poor radical, such as Waddington or Watson, had cut his throat, he would have been buried in a cross-road, with the usual appurtenances of the stake and mallet. But the minister was an elegant lunatic -a sentimental suicide - he merely cut the 'carotid artery' (blessings on their learning!) and lo! the pageant and the Abbey! and 'the syllables of dolour yelled forth' by the newspapers - and the harangue of the Coroner in a eulogy over the bleeding body of the deceased (an Anthony worthy of such a Cæsar) - and the nauseous and atrocious cant of a degraded crew of conspirators against all that is sincere and honourable In his death he was necessarily one of two things by the  $law^1 - a$ felon or a madman — and in either case no great subject for panegyric. In his life he was - what all the world knows, and halt of it will feel for years to come, unless his death prove a 'moral lesson' to the surviving Sejani² of Europe It may at least serve as some consolation to the nations, that their oppressors are not happy, and in some instances judge so justly of their own actions as to anticipate the sentence of mankind - Let us hear no more of this man, and let Ireland remove the ashes of her Grattan from the sanctuary of West-Shall the patriot of humanity repose minster by the Werther of politics !!!

With regard to the objections which have been made on another score to the already published cantos of this poem, I shall content myself with two quotations from Voltaue — 'La pudeur s'est enfuite des cœurs, et s'est refugiée sur les lèvres'... 'Plus les mœurs sont dépravés, plus les expressions deviennent mesurées; on croit reggner en langage ce qu'on a perdu en vertu.'

This is the real fact, as applicable to the degraded and hypocritical mass which leavens the present English generation, and is the only answer they deserve. The hackneyed and lavished title of Blasphemer — which, with Radical, Liberal, Jacobin, Reformer, etc, are the changes which the hirelings are daily ringing in the ears of those who will listen — should be welcome to all who recollect on uhom it was originally bestowed Socrates and Jesus Christ

¹ I say by the law of the land — the laws of humanity judge more gently, but as the legitimates have always the law in their mouths, let them here make the most of it

^a From this number must be excepted Canning Canning is a genius, almost a universal one an orator, a wit, a poet, a statesman, and no man of ta'ont can long pursue the path of his late predecessor, Lord C If ever man saved his country, Canning can, but will he? I, for ona, hope so were put to death publicly as blasphemers, and so have been and may be many who dare to oppose the most notorious abuses of the name of God and the mind of man. But persecution is not refutition, nor even triumph the wretched infidel,' as he is called, is probably happier in his prison than the proudest of his assailants. With his opinions I have nothing to do - they may be right or wrong - but he has suffered for them, and that very suffering for conscience' sake will make more proselytes to deism than the example of heterodox¹ Prelates to Christianity, suicide statesmen to oppression, or over-pensioned homicides to the impious alliance which insults the world with the name of 'Holy'' I have no wish to trample on the dishonoured or the dead; but it would be well if the adherents to the classes from whence those persons sprung should abate a little of the cant which is the crying sin of this double-dealing and false-speaking time of selfish spoilers, and - but enough for the present.

PISA, July, 1822.

CANTO THE SIXTH

1

'There is a tide in the affairs of men

- Which, taken at the flood,' you know the rest,
- And most of us have found it now and then; At least we think so, though but few have guess'd
- The moment, till too late to come again.
- But no doubt every thing is for the best Of which the surest sign is in the end:
- When things are at the worst they sometimes mend.

п

- There is a tide in the affairs of women
  - Which, taken at the flood, leads -- God knows where: 10
- Those navigators must be able seamen Whose charts lay down its current to a hair:
- Not all the reveries of Jacob Behmen
- With its strange whirls and eddies can compare:

¹ When Lord Sandwich said 'he did not know the difference between orthodoxy and heterodoxy,' Warburton, the bishop, replied, 'Orthodoxy, my lord, is my doxy, and heterodoxy is another man's doxy' A prelate of the present day has discovered, it seems, a thus kind of doxy, which has not greatly exalted in the ey's of the elect that which Bentham calls 'Church-of-Evg landism.'

- Men with their heads reflect on this and that --
- But women with their hearts on heaven knows what !

III

- And yet a headlong, headstrong, downright she,
- Young, beautiful, and daring who would risk
- A throne, the world, the universe, to be Beloved in her own way, and rather whisk 20
- The stars from out the sky, than not be free
  - As are the billows when the breeze is brisk —
- Though such a she's a devil (if that there be one),
- Yet she would make full many a Manichean

IV

- Thrones, worlds, et cetera, are so oft upset By commonest ambition, that when passion
- O'erthrows the same, we readily forget, Or at the least forgive, the loving rash one.
- If Anthony be well remember'd yet,
  - 'T is not his conquests keep his name in fashion, 30
- But Actium, lost for Cleopatra's eyes,
- Outbalances all Cæsar's victories.

v

- He died at fifty for a queen of forty;
- I wish their years had been fifteen and twenty,
- For then wealth, kingdoms, worlds are but a sport — I
- Remember when, though I had no great plenty
- Of worlds to lose, yet still, to pay my court, I
- Gave what I had a heart: as the world went, I
- Gave what was worth a world; for worlds could never
- Restore me those pure feelings, gone forever. 40

vı

'T was the boy's 'mite,' and, like the 'widow's,' may

Perhaps be weigh'd hereafter, if not now;

- But whether such things do or do not weigh, All who have loved, or love, will still allow
- Life has nought hke it God is love, they say,

And Love's a god, or was before the brow Of earth was winkled by the sins and tears Of — but Chronology best knows the years.

VII

- We left our hero and third heroine in A kind of state more awkward than un-
- common, 50 For gentlemen must sometimes risk their
  - skm
- For that sad tempter, a forbidden woman. Sultans too much abhor this sort of sm,
- And don't agree at all with the wise Roman,
- Heroic, stoic Cato, the sententious,

Who lent his lady to his friend Hortensius

$\mathbf{VIII}$

- I know Gulbeyaz was extremely wrong; I own it, I deplore 1t, I condemn it;
- But I detest all fiction even in song,
  - And so must tell the truth, howe'er you blame it 60
- Her reason being weak, her passions strong, She thought that her lord's heart (even could she claum it)
- Was scarce enough, for he had fifty-nine Years, and a fifteen-hundredth concubine

IX

I am not, like Cassio, 'an arithmetician,' But by 'the bookish theorie 'it appears,

If 't is summ'd up with femmine precision, That, adding to the account his Highness' years,

The fair Sultana err'd from manition;

- For, were the Sultan just to all his dears, She could but claim the fifteen-hundredth part 7¹
- Of what should be monopoly the heart.

х

- It is observed that ladies are litigious Upon all legal objects of possession,
- And not the least so when they are religious, Which doubles what they think of the transgression:
- With suits and prosecutions they besiege us, As the tribunals show through many a session,

- When they suspect that any one goes shares
- In that to which the law makes them sole heirs. 80

XI

- Now, if this holds good in a Christian land, The heathen also, though with lesser latitude.
- Are apt to carry things with a high hand,
- And take what kings call 'an imposing attitude,'
- And for their rights connubial make a stand, When their liege husbands treat them with ingratitude:
- And as four wives must have quadruple claims,

The Tigris hath its jealousies like Thames.

XII

Gulbeyaz was the fourth, and (as I said)

- The favourite; but what 's favour amongst four? 90
- Polygamy may well be held in dread, Not only as a sin, but as a bore:
- Most wise men, with one moderate woman wed.

Will scarcely find philosophy for more; And all (except Mahometans) forbear

To make the nuptial couch a 'Bed of Ware.'

XIII

His Highness, the sublimest of mankind, — So styled according to the usual forms

Of every monarch, till they are consign'd

- To those sad hungry jacobins the worms, Who on the very loftiest kings have dined, — 101
  - His Highness gazed upon Gulbeyaz' charms,

Expecting all the welcome of a lover

(A' Highland welcome' all the wide world over).

XIV

- Now here we should distinguish; for howe'er
  - Kisses, sweet words, embraces, and all that,
- May look like what is neither here nor there,
- They are put on as easily as a hat,
- Or rather bonnet, which the fair sex wear, Trimm'd either heads or hearts to decorate,

Which form an ornament, but no more part Of heads, than their caresses of the heart.

xv

- A slight blush, a soft tremor, a calm kind Of gentle feminine delight, and shown
- More in the eyelids than the eyes, resign'd Rather to hide what pleases most unknown,
- Are the best tokens (to a modest mind)
- Of love, when seated on his loveliest throne,

A sincere woman's breast, — for over-warm Or over-cold annihilates the charm. 120

XVI

- For over-warmth, if false, is worse than truth;
- If true, 'tis no great lease of its own fire;

For no one, save in very early youth,

- Would like (I think) to trust all to desire,
- Which is but a precarious bond, in sooth, And apt to be transferr'd to the first
- buyer
- At a sad discount: while your over chilly
- Women, on t'other hand, seem somewhat silly.

XVII

That is, we cannot pardon their bad taste, For so it seems to lovers swift or slow,

- Who fain would have a mutual flame confess'd, 131
- And see a sentimental passion glow, Even were St. Francis' paramour their
- guest,

In his monastic concubine of snow; — In short, the maxim for the amorous tribe is Horatian, 'Medio tu tutissimus ibis.'

XVIII

- The 'tu' 's too much, but let it stand, the verse
  - Requires it, that 's to say, the English rhyme,
- And not the pink of old hexameters;
  - But, after all, there's neither tune nor time 140
- In the last line, which cannot well be worse, And was thrust in to close the octave's chime:
- I own no prosody can ever rate it
- As a rule, but truth may, if you translate it

854

XIX

If fair Gulbeyaz overdid her part,

I know not — it succeeded, and success Is much in most things, not less m the heart

- Than other articles of female dress. Self-love in man, too, beats all female art;
- They lie, we lie, all lie, but love no less; And no one virtue yet, except starvation, 151 Could stop that worst of vices — propagation.

XX

We leave this royal couple to repose:

A bed is not a throne, and they may sleep, Whate'er their dreams be, if of joys or woes

Yet disappointed joys are woes as deep As any man's clay mixture undergoes.

Our least of sorrows are such as we weep; 'T is the vile daily drop on drop which wears The soul out (like the stone) with petty cares.

XXI

- A scolding wife, a sullen son, a bill To pay, unpaid, protested, or discounted
- At a per-centage; a child cross, dog ill,
- A favourite horse fallen lame just as he 's mounted,
- A bad old woman making a worse will, Which leaves you minus of the cash you
- counted As certam;—these are paltry things, and vet
- I 've rarely seen the man they did not fret.

XXII

I'm a philosopher; confound them all! Bills, beasts, and men, and - no! not womankind !

With one good hearty curse I vent my gall, And then my stoicism leaves nought behind

Which it can either pain or evil call,

And I can give my whole soul up to mind; Though what is soul or mind, their birth or growth, Is more than I know — the deuce take them both !

XXIII

So now all things are d-n'd one feels at ease,

As after reading Athanasius' curse,

Which doth your true believer so much please

I doubt if any now could make it worse O'er his worst enemy when at his knees, 181

'T is so sententious, positive, and terse, And decorates the book of Common Prayer, As doth a rainbow the just clearing air.

XXIV

Gulbeyaz and her lord were sleeping, or At least one of them '- Oh, the heavy night, When wicked wives, who love some bachelor, Lie down in dudgeon to sigh for the light

- Of the gray morning, and look vainly for Its twinkle through the lattice dusky
- quite 190 To toss, to tumble, doze, revive, and quake

Lest their too lawful bed-fellow should wake !

XXV

These are beneath the canopy of heaven, Also beneath the canopy of beds

- Four-posted and silk curtam'd, which are given
  - For rich men and their brides to lay their heads
- Upon, in sheets white as what bards call 'driven
  - Snow.' Well ! 't is all hap-hazard when one weds.

Gulbeyaz was an empress, but had been

Perhaps as wretched if a peasant's quean. 200

XXVI

Don Juan in his feminine disguise,

With all the damsels in their long array, Had bow'd themselves before th' imperial eyes, And at the usual signal ta'en their way Back to their chambers, those long galleries

In the seraglio, where the ladies lay

- Their delicate limbs; a thousand bosoms there
- Beating for love, as the caged bird's for air.

XXVII

- I love the sex, and sometimes would reverse
  - The tyrant's wish, 'that mankind only had 210
- One neck, which he with one fell stroke might pierce:'

My wish is quite as wide, but not so bad, And much more tender on the whole than fierce; It being (not now, but only while a lad) That womankind had but one rosy mouth, To kiss them all at once from North to South.

XXVIII

Oh, enviable Briareus ! with thy hands

And heads, if thou hadst all things multiplied

In such proportion !--- But my Muse withstands

The giant thought of being a Titan's bride, 220

Or travelling in Patagonian lands; So let us back to Lilliput, and guide

Our hero through the labyrinth of love

In which we left him several lines above.

XXIX

He went forth with the lovely Odalisques, At the given signal join'd to their array;

- And though he certainly ran many risks, Yet he could not at times keep, by the
- (Although the consequences of such frisks

Are worse than the worst damages men pay 230

In moral England, where the thing's a tax), From ogling all their charms from breasts to backs

XXX

Still he forgot not his disguise: - along

The galleries from room to room they walk'd,

A virgin-like and edifying throng,

- By eunuchs flank'd; while at their head there stalk'd
- A dame who kept up discipline among
- The female ranks, so that none sturr'd or talk'd

Without her sanction on their she-parades: Her title was 'the Mother of the Maids.' 240

XXXI

Whether she was a 'mother,' I know not, Or whether they were 'maids 'who call'd her mother;

But this is her seraglio title, got

I know not how. but good as any other; So Cantemir can tell you, or De Tott:

- Her office was to keep aloof or smother All bad propensities in fifteen hundred
- Young women, and correct them when they blunder'd.

XXXII

- A goodly sinecure, no doubt ! but made More easy by the absence of all men ---
- Except his majesty, who, with her aid, 251 And guards, and bolts, and walls, and now and then

A slight example, just to cast a shade

- Along the rest, contrived to keep this den Of beauties cool as an Italian convent,
- Where all the passions have, alas ! but one vent.

XXXIII

- And what is that? Devotion, doubtless how
  - Could you ask such a question? but we will Continue. As I said, this goodly row

Of ladies of all countries at the will 260 Of one good man, with stately march and slow,

Like water-lilies floating down a rill --

Or rather lake, for rills do not run slowly — Paced on most maiden-like and melancholy.

XXXIV

- But when they reach'd their own apartments, there,
  - Like birds, or boys, or bedlamites broke loose,
- Waves at spring-tide, or women anywhere When freed from bonds (which are of no great use

After all), or like Irish at a fair,

Their guards being gone, and as it were a truce 270

Establish'd between them and bondage, they Began to sing, dance, chatter, smile, an' play.

XXXV

- Their talk, of course, ran most on the new comer;
  - Her shape, her hair, her air, her everything:
- Some thought her dress did not so much become her,

Or wonder'd at her ears without a ring,

Some said her years were getting nigh then summer,

Others contended they were but in spring;

Some thought her rather masculine in height,

While others wish'd that she had been so quite 280

- But no one doubted on the whole, that she Was what her dress bespoke, a damsel fair,
- And fresh, and 'beautiful exceedingly,'
- Who with the brightest Georgians might compare:
- They wonder'd how Gulbeyaz, too, could be

So silly as to buy slaves who might share

(If that his Highness wearied of his bride)

Her throne and power, and every thing beside.

XXXVII

- But what was strangest in this virgin crew, Although her beauty was enough to vex,
- After the first investigating view, 291 They all found out as few, or fewer, specks
- In the fair form of their companion new, Than is the custom of the gentle sex,
- When they survey, with Christian eyes or Heathen,
- In a new face 'the ugliest creature breathing.'

XXXVIII

- And yet they had their little jealousies, Like all the rest; but upon this occasion,
- Whether there are such things as sympathies
  - Without our knowledge or our approbation, 300
- Although they could not see through his disguise,

All felt a soft kind of concatenation,

Like magnetism, or devilism, or what

You please — we will not quarrel about that.

XXXIX

- But certain 't is they all felt for their new Companion something newer still, as 't were
- A sentimental friendship through and through,
  - Extremely pure, which made them all concur
- In wishing her their sister, save a few Who wish'd they had a brother just like her,
- Whom, if they were at home in sweet Circassin,
- They would prefer to Padisha or Pacha.

 $\mathbf{x}$ L

Of those who had most genius for this sort Of sentimental friendship, there were three,

Lolah, Katınka, and Dudù; in short

- (To save description), fair as fair can be Were they, according to the best report,
- Though differing in stature and degree, And clime and time, and country and com-
- plexion; They all alike admired their new connection. 320

XLI

Lolah was dusk as India and as warm:

Katınka was a Georgian, white and red,

- With great blue eyes, a lovely hand and arm,
- And feet so small they scarce seem'd made to tread,
- But rather skim the earth; while Dudù's form

Look'd more adapted to be put to bed,

- Being somewhat large, and languishing, and lazy,
- Yet of a beauty that would drive you crazy.

XLII

A kind of sleepy Venus seem'd Dudù,

- Yet very fit to 'murder sleep' in those
- Who gazed upon her cheek's transcendent hue,
- Her Attic forehead, and her Phudian nose:
- Few angles were there in her form, 't is true,
  - Thinner she might have been, and yet scarce lose;
- Yet, after all, 't would puzzle to say where It would not spoil some separate charm to pare

XLIII

She was not violently lively, but

- Stole on your spirit like a May-day breaking;
- Her eyes were not too sparkling, yet, halfshut,

They put beholders in a tender taking;

- She look'd (this simile's quite new) just cut 341
- From marble, like Pygmalion's statue waking,

The mortal and the marble still at strife, And timidly expanding into life.

XLIV

Lolah demanded the new damsel's name -

'Juanna.' -- Well, a pretty name enough. Katinka ask'd her also whence she came -

- 'From Spain.' 'But where is Spain?'-' Don't ask such stuff,
- Nor show your Georgian ignorance for shame !'

Said Lolah, with an accent rather rough, To poor Katinka. 'Spain's an island near Morocco, betwixt Egypt and Tangier.'

XLV

Dudù said nothing, but sat down beside Juanna, playing with her veil or hair;

- And looking at her steadfastly, she sigh'd, As if she pitied her for being there,
- A pretty stranger without friend or guide,

And all abash'd, too, at the general stare

- Which welcomes hapless strangers in all places,
- With kind remarks upon their mien and faces 360

XLVI

But here the Mother of the Maids drew near,

With, 'Ladies, it is time to go to rest. I'm puzzled what to do with you, my dear,'

She added to Juanna, their new guest: 'Your coming has been unexpected here.

And every couch is occupied; you had best

Partake of mine; but by to-morrow early We will have all things settled for you fairly.'

XLVII

- Here Lolah interposed 'Mamma, you know
  - You don't sleep soundly, and I cannot bear 370
- That anybody should disturb you so;

I'll take Juanna; we're a slenderer pair Than you would make the half of; - don't

- say no; And I of your young charge will take
- due care.'
- But here Katinka interfered, and said,

'She also had compassion and a bed.

XLVIII

- 'Besides, I hate to sleep alone,' quoth she. The matron frown'd: 'Why so?'-'For fear of ghosts,'
- Replied Katınka; 'I am sure I see

A phantom upon each of the four posts;

- And then I have the worst dreams that can be, 381
- Of Guebres, Giaours, and Ginns, and Gouls in hosts.
- The dame replied, 'Between your dreams and you,
- I fear Juanna's dreams would be but few.

XLIX

- 'You, Lolah, must continue still to lie Alone, for reasons which don't matter; you
- The same, Katinka, until by and by: And I shall place Juanna with Dudù,
- Who's quiet, inoffensive, silent, shy,
- And will not toss and chatter the night through
- What say you, child?' Dudù said nothing, as
- Her talents were of the more silent class; τ.

- But she rose up, and kiss'd the matron's brow
  - Between the eyes, and Lolah on both cheeks,
- Katinka, too; and with a gentle bow
  - (Curt'sies are neither used by Turks nor Greeks)
- She took Juanna by the hand to show
- Their place of rest, and left to both their piques,
- The others pouting at the matron's preference
- Of Dudù, though they held their tongues from deference. 400

- It was a spacious chamber (Oda is
- The Turkish title), and ranged round the wall
- Were couches, toilets and much more than this

I might describe, as I have seen it all,

- But it suffices little was amiss;
- 'T was on the whole a nobly furnish'd hall,
- With all things ladies want, save one or two, And even those were nearer than they knew.

LII

- Dudú, as has been said, was a sweet creature.
  - Not very dashing, but extremely winning, 410

- With the most regulated charms of feature, Which painters cannot catch like faces sinning
- Against proportion the wild strokes of nature
- Which they hit off at once in the beginning, Full of expression, right or wrong, that ## strike, And pleasing or unpleasing, still are like.

LIII

- But she was a soft landscape of mild earth, Where all was harmony, and calm, and quiet,
- Luxuriant, budding; cheerful without mirth, Which, if not happiness, is much more nigh it
- Than are your mighty passions and so forth, Which some call 'the sublime:' I wish they 'd try it:
- I've seen your stormy seas and stormy women,
- And pity lovers rather more than seamen.

LIV

- But she was pensive more than melancholy, And serious more than pensive, and serene,
- It may be, more than either not unholy Her thoughts, at least till now, appear to have been.
- The strangest thing was, beauteous, she was wholly Unconscious, albeit turn'd of quick seventeen, 430

That she was fair, or dark, or short, or tall; She never thought about herself at all.

LV

- And therefore was she kind and gentle as The Age of Gold (when gold was yet unknown,
- By which its nomenclature came to pass; Thus most appropriately has been shown
- 'Lucus à non lucendo,' not what was, But what was not, a sort of style that's
- grown

Extremely common in this age, whose metal The devil may decompose, but never settle.

LVI

I think it may be of 'Corinthian Brass,' 441 Which was a mixture of all metals, but

The brazen uppermost). Kind reader! pass This long parenthesis: I could not shut

- It sooner for the soul of me, and class My faults even with your own! which meaneth, Put
- A kind construction upon them and me.
- But that you won't then don't 1 ar not less free.

LVII

'T is time we should return to plain narration,

And thus my narrative proceeds - Dudù,

- With every kindness short of ostentation, 45r Show'd Juan, or Juanna, through and through
- This labyrinth of females, and each station Described — what's strange — in words extremely few:

I have but one simile, and that's a blunder, For wordless woman, which is silent thunder.

LVIII

And next she gave her (I say her, because The gender still was epicene, at least

In outward show, which is a saving clause) An outline of the customs of the East, 460

With all their chaste integrity of laws, By which the more a haram is increased, The structer doubtless grow the vestal duties Of any supernumerary beauties.

LIX

And then she gave Juanna a chaste kiss Dudù was fond of kissing — which I'm sure

That nobody can ever take amiss,

Because 't is pleasant, so that it be pure,

And between females means no more than this —

That they have nothing better near, or newer. 47°

'Kiss' rhymes to 'blss' in fact as well as verse —

I wish it never led to something worse.

$\mathbf{L}\mathbf{X}$

- In perfect innocence she then unmade Her toilet, which cost little, for she was
- A child of Nature, carelessly array'd.
- If fond of a chance ogle at her glass, 'T was like the fawn, which, in the lake display'd,
- Beholds her own shy, shadowy image pass, When first she starts, and then returns to peep,
- Admiring this new native of the deep. 480

And one by one her articles of dress

Were laid aside; but not before she offer'd

Her aid to fair Juanna, whose excess

- Of modesty declined the assistance proffer'd:
- Which pass'd well off as she could do no less;
  - Though by this politesse she rather suffer'd,

Pricking her fingers with those cursed pins,

Which surely were invented for our sins, -

LXII

Making a woman like a porcupine,

- Not to be rashly touch'd. But still more dread.
- Oh ye! whose fate it is, as once 't was mme,
- In early youth, to turn a lady's maid; I did my very boyish best to shine

In tricking her out for a masquerade; The pins were placed sufficiently, but not Stuck all exactly in the proper spot.

LXIII

- But these are foolish things to all the wise, And I love wisdom more than she loves me:
- My tendency is to philosophise
- On most things, from a tyrant to a tree; 500
- But still the spouseless virgin Knowledge flies.
  - What are we? and whence came we? what shall be

Our ultimate existence? what's our present?

Are questions answerless, and yet incessant

LXIV

- There was deep silence in the chamber:
  - And distant from each other burn'd the lights,

And slumber hover'd o'er each lovely limb Of the fair occupants. if there be sprites,

- They should have walk'd there in their sprightliest trim,
  - By way of change from their sepulchral sites, 510
- And shown themselves as ghosts of better taste

Than haunting some old ruin or wild waste.

Many and beautiful lay those around,

- Like flowers of different hue, and clime, and root,
- In some exotic garden sometimes found,
- With cost, and care, and warmth induced to shoot.
- One with her auburn tresses lightly bound, And fair brows gently drooping, as the fruit
- Nods from the tree, was slumbering with soft breath,
- And lips apart, which show'd the pearls beneath. 520

LXVI

- One with her flush'd cheek laid on her white arm,
  - And raven ringlets gather'd in dark crowd
- Above her brow, lay dreaming soft and warm;
  - And smiling through her dream, as through a cloud
- The moon breaks, half unveil'd each further charm,

As, slightly sturring in her snowy shroud,

- Her beauties seized the unconscious hour of night
- All bashfully to struggle into light.

LXVII

- This is no bull, although it sounds so; for 'T was night, but there were lamps, as hath been said. 530
- A third's all rallid aspect offer'd more The traits of sleeping sorrow, and betray'd
- Through the heaved breast the dream of some far shore
  - Belovèd and deplored; while slowly stray'd
- (As night-dew, on a cypress glittering, tuges
- The black bough) tear-drops through her eyes' dark fringes.

LXVIII

- A fourth as marble, statue-like and still,
- Lay in a breathless, hush'd, and stony sleep;
- White, cold, and pure, as looks a frozen rill,
  - Or the snow minaret on an Alpine steep, 540

- Or Lot's wife done in salt, or what you will; -
- My similes are gather'd in a heap,
- So pick and choose perhaps you'll be content
- With a carved lady on a monument.

LXIX

And lo! a fifth appears; — and what is she? A lady of a 'certain age,' which means

- Certainly aged what her years might be I know not, never counting past their teens,
- But there she slept, not quite so fair to see,

As ere that awful period intervenes 550

- Which lays both men and women on the shelf,
- To meditate upon their sins and self.

LXX

- But all this time how slept, or dream'd, Dudù '
- With strict inquiry I could ne'er discover, And scorn to add a syllable untrue;
- But ere the middle watch was hardly over,
- Just when the fading lamps waned dim and blue,
  - And phantoms hover'd, or might seem to hover,
- To those who like their company, about
- The apartment, on a sudden she scream'd out: 560

LXXI

And that so loudly, that upstarted all The Oda, in a general commotion:

- Matron and maids, and those whom you may call
  - Neither, came crowding like the waves of ocean,
- One on the other, throughout the whole hall,
  - All trembling, wondering, without the least notion
- More than I have myself of what could make
- The calm Dudù so turbulently wake.

LXXII

- But wide awake she was, and round her bed.
  - With floating draperies and with flying hair, 570

- With eager eyes, and light but hurried tread, And bosoms, arms, and ankles glancing bare,
- And bright as any meteor ever bred
- By the North Pole, they sought her cause of care,
- For she seem'd agitated, flush'd, and frighten'd,
- Her eye dilated and her colour heighten'd.

LXXIII

But what was strange — and a strong proof how great

A blessing is sound sleep — Juanna lay As fast as ever husband by his mate

In holy matrimony snores away.

- Not all the clamour broke her happy state Of slumber, ere they shook her, — so they say
- At least, and then she, too, unclosed her eyes,
- And yawn'd a good deal with discreet surprise.

LXXIV

- And now commenced a strict investigation, Which, as all spoke at once and more than once,
- Conjecturing, wondering, asking a narration,
- Alike might puzzle either wit or dunce To answer in a very clear oration

Dudù had never pass'd for wanting sense, But, being 'no orator as Brutus is,' 591 Could not at first expound what was amiss.

LXXV

- At length she said, that in a slumber sound She dream'd a dream, of walking in a wood —
- A 'wood obscure,' like that where Dante found
  - Himself m at the age when all grow good,
- Life's half-way house, where dames with virtue crown'd

Run much less risk of lovers turning rude;

- And that this wood was full of pleasant fruits,
- And trees of goodly growth and spreading roots, 600

LXXVI

And in the midst a golden apple grew, — A most prodigious pippin, — but it hung

580

- Rather too high and distant; that she threw Her glances on it, and then, longing, flung
- Stones and whatever she could pick up, to Bring down the fruit, which still per-
- versely clung To its own bough, and dangled yet in sight,

But always at a most provoking height; -

LXXVII

That on a sudden, when she least had hope,

It fell down of its own accord before 610 Her feet; that her first movement was to stoop

And pick it up, and bite it to the core; That just as her young hp began to ope

Upon the golden fruit the vision bore,

A bee flew out and stung her to the heart,

And so — she awoke with a great scream and start.

LXXVIII

All this she told with some confusion and Dismay, the usual consequence of dreams

- Of the unpleasant kind, with none at hand To expound their vain and visionary gleams. 620
- I've known some odd ones which seem'd really plann'd

Prophetically, or that which one deems

A 'strange coincidence,' to use a phrase

By which such things are settled now-adays.

LXXIX

The damsels, who had thoughts of some great harm,

Began, as is the consequence of fear,

To scold a little at the false alarm

That broke for nothing on their sleeping ear

- The matron, too, was wroth to leave her warm
  - Bed for the dream she had been obliged to hear, 630

And chafed at poor Dudù, who only sigh'd, And said that she was sorry she had cried.

LXXX

'I 've heard of stories of a cock and bull; But visions of an apple and a bee,

To take us from our natural rest, and pull The whole Oda from their beds at halfpast three,

- Would make us think the moon is at its full.
  - You surely are unwell, child ! we must see,
- To-morrow, what his Highness's physician
- Will say to this hysteric of a vision. 640

LXXXI

'And poor Juanna, too — the child's first night

Within these walls to be broke in upon

- With such a clamour! I had thought it right
  - That the young stranger should not lie alone,

And, as the quietest of all, she might

With you, Dudù, a good night's rest have known;

But now I must transfer her to the charge Of Lolah — though her couch is not so large'

LXXXII

Lolah's eyes sparkled at the proposition;

- But poor Dudù, with large drops in her own, 650
- Resulting from the scolding or the vision, Implored that present pardon might be shown
- For this first fault, and that on no condition (She added in a soft and piteous tone)
- Juanna should be taken from her, and
- Her future dreams should all be kept in hand

LXXXIII

- She promised never more to have a dream, At least to dream so loudly as just now;
- She wonder'd at herself how she could scream
  - 'T was foolish, nervous, as she must allow, 660
- A fond hallucination, and a theme
- For laughter but she felt her spirits low,
- And begg'd they would excuse her; she'd get over

This weakness in a few hours, and recover.

LXXXIV

- And here Juanna kindly interposed,
- And said she felt herself extremely well Where she then was, as her sound sleep disclosed
  - When all around rang like a tocsin bell:

She did not find herself the least disposed To quit her gentle partner, and to dwell

Apart from one who had no sin to show, 671 Save that of dreaming once 'mal-à-propos.'

LXXXV

- As thus Juanna spoke, Dudù turn'd round And hid her face within Juanna's breast:
- Her neck alone was seen, but that was found The colour of a budding rose's crest.
- I can't tell why she blush'd, nor can expound

The mystery of this rupture of their rest; All that I know is, that the facts I state

Are true as truth has ever been of late.  $68_{\circ}$

LXXXVI

- And so good night to them, or, if you will, Good morrow — for the cock had crown, and light
- Began to clothe each Asiatic hill,
- And the mosque crescent struggled into sight
- Of the long caravan, which in the chill Of dewy dawn wound slowly round each
- height That stretches to the stony belt, which girds
- Asia, where Kaff looks down upon the Kurds.

LXXXVII

- With the first ray, or rather grey of morn, Gulbeyaz rose from restlessness; and pale
- As passion rises, with its bosom worn, 691 Array'd herself with mantle, gem, and veil.
- The nightingale that sings with the deep thorn,

Which fable places in her breast of wail, Is lighter far of heart and voice than those Whose headlong passions form their proper woes.

LXXXVIII

- And that 's the moral of this composition, If people would but see its real drift;-
- But that they will not do without suspicion, Because all gentle readers have the gift
- Of closing 'gainst the light their orbs of vision; 701
- While gentle writers also love to lift
- Their voices 'gainst each other, which is natural,
- The numbers are too great for them to flatter all

LXXXIX

Rose the sultana from a bed of splendour, Softer than the soft Sybarite's, who cried Aloud because his feelings were too tender

To brook a ruffled rose-leaf by his side, — So beautiful that art could little mend her,

- Though pale with conflicts between love and pride; — 710
- So agitated was she with her error, She did not even look into the mirror.

 $\mathbf{x}\mathbf{c}$

Also arose about the self-same time, Perhaps a httle later, her great lord, Master of thirty kingdoms so sublime,

- And of a wife by whom he was abhorr'd; A thing of much less import in that clime —
- At least to those of incomes which afford The filling up their whole connubial cargo —
- Than where two wives are under an embargo. 720

XCI

He did not think much on the matter, nor Indeed on any other as a man

He liked to have a handsome paramour At hand, as one may like to have a fan,

And therefore of Circassians had good store, As an amusement after the Divan;

- Though an unusual fit of love, or duty,
- Had made him lately bask in his bride's beauty

XCII

And now he rose; and after due ablutions Exacted by the customs of the East, 730

- And prayers and other pious evolutions, He drank six cups of coffee at the least,
- And then withdrew to hear about the Russians,

Whose victories had recently increased

- In Catherine's reign, whom glory still adores,
- As greatest of all sovereigns and w----s.

XCIII

- But oh, thou grand legitimate Alexander ! Her son's son, let not this last phrase offend
- Thine ear, if it should reach and now rhymes wander

Almost as far as Petersburgh and lend 740 A dreadful impulse to each loud meander

Of murmuring Liberty's wide waves, which blend Their roar even with the Baltic's—so you be

Your father's son, 't is quite enough for me.

XCIV

To call men love-begotten or proclaim

- Their mothers as the antipodes of Timon,
- That hater of mankind, would be a shame, A libel, or whate'er you please to rhyme on:
- But people's ancestors are history's game; And if one lady's slip could leave a crime on 750
- All generations, I should like to know
- What pedigree the best would have to show?

xcv

- Had Catherine and the sultan understood Their own true interests, which kings rarely know
- Until 't is taught by lessons rather rude,
- There was a way to end their strife, although
- Perhaps precarrous, had they but thought good,

Without the aid of prince or plenipo:

She to dismiss her guards and he his haram,

And for their other matters, meet and share 'em. 760

XCVI

But as it was, his Highness had to hold His daily council upon ways and means

How to encounter with this martial scold,

This modern Amazon and queen of queans; And the perplexity could not be told

Of all the pillars of the state, which leans Sometimes a little heavy on the backs Of those who cannot lay on a new tax.

XCVII

Meantime Gulbeyaz, when her king was gone,

Retired into her boudoir, a sweet place

- For love or breakfast; private, pleasing, lone, 771
  - And rich with all contrivances which grace
- Those gay recesses: many a precious stone

Sparkled along its roof, and many a vase

Of porcelain held in the fetter'd flowers,

Those captive soothers of a captive's hours.

XCVIII

Mother of pearl, and porphyry, and marble, Vied with each other on this costly spot;

- And singing birds without were heard to warble;
  - And the stain'd glass which lighted this fair grot 780
- Varied each ray; but all descriptions garble

The true effect, and so we had better not Be too minute; an outline is the best, — A lively reader's fancy does the rest.

XCIX

And here she summon'd Baba, and required Don Juan at his hands, and information

- Of what had pass'd since all the slaves retired,
  - And whether he had occupied their station;
- If matters had been managed as desired,

And his disguise with due consideration

Kept up; and above all, the where and how He had pass'd the night, was what she wish'd to know. 792

С

Baba, with some embarrassment, replied

- To this long catechism of questions, ask'd More easily than answer'd, — that he had tried
  - His best to obey in what he had been task'd;
- But there seem'd something that he wish'd to hide,
  - Which hesitation more betray'd than mask'd;

He scratch'd his ear, the infallible resource To which embarrass'd people have recourse.

CΙ

Gulbeyaz was no model of true patience,

- Nor much disposed to wait in word or deed; 802
- She liked quick answers in all conversations; And when she saw him stumbling like a steed
- In his replies, she puzzled him for fresh ones;
  - And as his speech grew still more brokenkneed,
- Her cheek began to flush, her eyes to sparkle,
- And her proud brow's blue veins to swell and darkle.

CII

- When Baba saw these symptoms, which he knew
- To bode him no great good, he deprecated Her anger, and beseech'd she'd hear him
- through bir He could not help the thing which he
- related:
- Then out it came at length, that to Dudù Juan was given in charge, as hath been stated;
- But not by Baba's fault, he said, and swore on The holy camel's hump, besides the Koran.

CIII

- The chief dame of the Oda, upon whom The discipline of the whole haram bore,
- As soon as they re-enter'd their own room, For Baba's function stopt short at the door, 820
- Had settled all; nor could he then presume (The aforesaid Baba) just then to do more,

Without exciting such suspicion as Might make the matter still worse than it was.

CIV

- He hoped, indeed he thought, he could be sure
- Juan had not betray'd himself; in fact
- 'T was certain that his conduct had been pure,

Because a foolish or imprudent act

- Would not alone have made him insecure, But ended in his being found out and sack'd,
- And thrown into the sea. Thus Baba spoke 831
- Of all save Dudù's dream, which was no joke.

cv

This he discreetly kept in the background, And talk'd away — and might have talk'd till now,

For any further answer that he found,

- So deep an anguish wrung Gulbeyaz' brow:
- Her cheek turn'd ashes, ears rung, brain whirl'd round,

As if she had received a sudden blow,

- And the heart's dew of pain sprang fast and chilly 839
- O'er her fair front, like Morning's on a lily.

CVI

- Although she was not of the fainting sort, Baba thought she would faint, but there he enr'd —
- It was but a convulsion, which though short
  - Can never be described; we all have heard,
- And some of us have felt thus 'all amort,' When things beyond the common have occurr'd; --

Gulbeyaz proved in that brief agony

What she could ne'er express — then how should I?

CVII

She stood a moment as a Pythoness Stands on her tripod, agoinsed, and full

- Of inspiration gather'd from distress, 851
  - When all the heart-strings like wild hoises pull
- The heart asunder ; -- then, as more or less Their speed abated or their strength grew dull,
- She sunk down on her seat by slow degrees, And bow'd her throbbing head o'er tremblung knees.

CVIII

Her face declined and was unseen; her hair Fell in long tresses like the weeping willow,

Sweeping the marble underneath her chair, Or rather sofa (for it was all pillow, 860

- A low soft ottoman), and black despair Stirr'd up and down her bosom like a billow.
- Which rushes to some shore whose shingles check
- Its farther course, but must receive its wreck

CIX

- Her head hung down, and her long hair in stooping
- Conceal'd her features better than a veil; And one hand o'er the ottoman lay drooping,

White, waxen, and as alabaster pale :

Would that I were a painter ' to be grouping All that a poet drags into detail ! 870

- Oh that my words were colours! but their tints
- May serve perhaps as outlines or slight hints.

- Baba, who knew by experience when to talk
  - And when to hold his tongue, now held it till
- This passion might blow o'er, nor dared to balk
- Gulbevaz' taciturn or speaking will.

At length she rose up, and began to walk

Slowly along the 100m, but silent still,

- And her brow clear'd, but not her troubled eye;
- The wind was down, but still the sea ran high. 880

CXI

- She stopp'd, and raised her head to speak but paused,
  - And then moved on again with rapid bace;
- Then slacken'd it, which is the march most caused
  - By deep emotion: you may sometimes trace
- A feeling in each footstep, as disclosed
- By Sallust in his Catiline, who, chased

By all the demons of all passions, show'd

Their work even by the way in which he trode.

CXII

- Gulbeyaz stopp'd and beckon'd Baba: --'Slave !
  - Bring the two slaves !' she said in a low tone,

But one which Baba did not like to brave, And yet he shudder'd, and seem'd rather

- prone To prove reluctant, and begg'd leave to
- crave (Though he well knew the meaning) to
- be shown What slaves her highness wish'd to indicate.
- For fear of any error, like the late.

CXIII

- 'The Georgian and her paramour,' replied The imperial bride - and added, 'Let the boat
- Be ready by the secret portal's side You know the rest ' The words stuck in her throat,
- Despite her injured love and fiery pride; And of this Baba willingly took note,

And begg'd by every hair of Mahomet's beard.

She would revoke the order he had heard.

CXIV

'To hear 1s to obey,' he said; 'but still, Sultana, think upon the consequence:

It is not that I shall not all fulfil

Your orders, even in their severest sense: But such precipitation may end ill,

Even at your own imperative expense: I do not mean destruction and exposure, In case of any premature disclosure;

CXV

'But your own feelings. Even should all the rest

Be hidden by the rolling waves, which hide Already many a once love-beaten breast

Deep in the caverns of the deadly tide -You love this boyish, new, seraglio guest,

And if this violent remedy be tried -

Excuse my freedom, when I here assure you, That killing him is not the way to cure you 920

CXVI

- 'What dost thou know of love or feeling? -Wretch !
  - Begone !' she cried, with kindling eyes —'and do
- My bidding !' Baba vanish'd, for to stretch His own remonstrance further he well knew
- Might end in acting as his own 'Jack Ketch;
  - And though he wish'd extremely to get through
- This awkward business without harm to others,
- He still preferr'd his own neck to another's.

CXVII

- Away he went then upon his commission,
  - Growling and grumbling in good Turkish phrase 930
- Against all women of whate'er condition, Especially sultanas and their ways;
- Their obstinacy, pride, and indecision,
- Their never knowing their own mind two days,
- The trouble that they gave, their mmorality,
- Which made him daily bless his own nev trality.

866

CXVIII

- And then he call'd his brethren to his aid, And sent one on a summons to the pair, That they must instantly be well array'd,
- And above all be comb'd even to a hair,
- And brought before the empress, who had made 941
- Inquiries after them with kindest care: At which Dudù look'd strange, and Juan silly;

CXIX

- And here I leave them at their preparation For the imperial presence, wherein whether
- Gulbeyaz show'd them both commiseration, Or got rid of the parties altogether,
- Like other angry ladies of her nation, -
- Are things the turning of a hair or feather 950
- May settle; but far be't from me to anticipate

In what way feminine caprice may dissipate.

CXX

- I leave them for the present with good wishes.
  - Though doubts of their well doing, to arrange
- Another part of history; for the dishes
  - Of this our banquet we must sometimes change;
- And trusting Juan may escape the fishes,
- Although his situation now seems strange And scarce secure, as such digressions are fair, The Muse will take a little touch at warfare. 960

CANTO THE SEVENTH

1

O LOVE ! O Glory ! what are ye who fly Around us ever, rarely to alight?

- There's not a meteor in the polar sky Of such transcendent and more fleeting flight.
- Chill, and cham'd to cold earth, we lift on high

Our eyes in search of either lovely light; A thousand and a thousand colours they Assume, then leave us on our freezing way. 11

- And such as they are, such my present tale is,
- A non-descript and ever-varying rhyme, A versified Aurora Borealis,
- Which flashes o'er a waste and icy clime.
- When we know what all are, we must bewail us,

But ne'ertheless I hope it is no crime

To laugh at all things — for I wish to know What, after all, are all things — but a show?

III

- They accuse me Me the present writer of
  - The present poem of I know not what -
- A tendency to under-rate and scoff 19 At human power and virtue, and all that;
- And this they say in language rather rough. Good God ! I wonder what they would be at !
- I say no more than hath been said in Danté's Verse, and by Solomon and by Cervantes;

7

By Swift, by Machiavel, by Rochefoucault, By Fénelon, by Luther, and by Plato; By Tillotson, and Wesley, and Rousseau,

- Who knew this life was not worth a potato.
- 'T is not their fault, nor mine, if this be so —

For my part, I pretend not to be Cato, 30 Nor even Diogenes — We live and die, But which is best, you know no more than I.

7

Socrates said, our only knowledge was

- 'To know that nothing could be known;' a pleasant
- Science enough, which levels to an ass
- Each man of wisdom, future, past, or present.
- Newton (that proverb of the mind), alas ! Declared, with all his grand discoveries recent,
- That he himself felt only 'like a youth
- Picking up shells by the great ocean Truth.' 40

vī

- Ecclesiastes said, 'that all is vanity'-
- Most modern preachers say the same, or show it
- By their examples of true Christianity:

In short, all know, or very soon may know it;

- And in this scene of all-confess'd inanity, By saint, by sage, by preacher, and by poet,
- Must I restrain me, through the fear of strife,
- From holding up the nothingness of hife?

VII

Dogs, or men ! — for I flatter you in saying That ye are dogs — your betters far — ye may 50

Read, or read not, what I am now essaying To show ye what ye are in every way

- As little as the moon stops for the baying Of wolves, will the bright muse withdraw one ray
- From out her skies then howl your idle wrath !
- While she still silvers o'er your gloomy path.

VIII

- 'Fierce loves and faithless wars '—I am not sure
  - If this be the right reading 't is no matter;
- The fact's about the same, I am secure; 59 I sing them both, and am about to batter
- A town which did a famous siege endure, And was beleaguer'd both by land and water

By Souvaroff, or Anglicè Suwarrow,

Who loved blood as an alderman loves marrow.

IX

The fortress is call'd Ismail, and is placed Upon the Danube's left branch and left bank,

With buildings in the Oriental taste,

- But still a fortress of the foremost rank, Or was at least, unless 't is since defaced,
- Which with your conquerors is a common prank: 70
- It stands some eighty versts from the high sea,
- And measures round of toises thousands three.

х

Within the extent of this fortification

A borough is comprised along the height Upon the left, which from its loftier station

Commands the city, and upon its site

A Greek had raised around this elevation A quantity of palsades upright, So placed as to impede the fire of those Who held the place, and to assist the foe's.

XI

- This circumstance may serve to give a notion 81
- Of the high talents of this new Vauban. But the town ditch below was deep as ocean,
  - The rampart higher than you'd wish to hang:
- But then there was a great want of precaution
- (Prithee, excuse this engineering slang),
- Nor work advanced, nor cover'd way was there,
- To hint at least 'Here is no thoroughfare.'

XII

- But a stone bastion, with a narrow gorge, And walls as thick as most skulls born as
  - yet;
- Two batteries, cap-à-pie, as our St. George, Case-mated one, and t'other 'à barbette,'
- Of Danube's bank took formidable charge; While two and twenty cannon duly set
- Rose over the town's right side, in bristling tier,
- Forty feet high, upon a cavalier.

XIII

- But from the river the town's open quite, Because the Turks could never be persuaded
- A Russian vessel e'er would heave in sight; And such their creed was, till they were invaded,
- When it grew rather late to set things right.
  - But as the Danube could not well be waded,
- They look'd upon the Muscovite flotilla,
- And only shouted, 'Allah!' and 'Bis Millah!'

XIV

The Russians now were ready to attack:

- But oh, ye goddesses of war and glory ! How shall I spell the name of each Cossacque
  - Who were immortal, could one tell their story ?
- Alas! what to their memory can lack?
  - Achilles' self was not more grim and gory

- Than thousands of this new and polish'd nation.
- Whose names want nothing but pronunciation.

xv

- Still I'll record a few, if but to increase Our euphony: there was Strongenoff, and Strokonoff,
- Meknop, Serge Lwow, Arsniew of modern Greece,
- And Tschitsshakoff, and Roguenoff, and Chokenoff,
- And others of twelve consonants apiece; And more might be found out, if I could poke enough
- gazettes; but Fame (capricious Into strumpet),
- It seems, has got an ear as well as trumpet, 120

XVI

- And cannot tune those discords of narration.
  - Which may be names at Moscow, into rhyme;
- Yet there were several worth commemoration,
- As e'er was virgin of a nuptial chime; Soft words, too, fitted for the peroration
- Of Londonderry drawling against time, Ending in 'ischskin,' 'ousekin,' 'iffskehy,'
- ouski, Of whom we can insert but Rousamouski,

XVII

- Scherematoff and Chrematoff, Koklophti, Koclobski, Kourakin, and Mouskin Pouskin,
- All proper men of weapons, as e'er scoff'à high
  - Against a foe, or ran a sabre through skm:
- Little cared they for Mahomet or Mufti,
  - Unless to make their kettle-drums a new skin
- Out of their hides, if parchment had grown dear.
- And no more handy substitute been near.

XVIII

- Then there were foreigners of much renown, Of various nations, and all volunteers;
- Not fighting for their country or its crown, But wishing to be one day brigadiers; 140

- Also to have the sacking of a town, -
- A pleasant thing to young men at their years
- 'Mongst them were several Englishmen of pith,
- Sixteen call'd Thomson, and nineteen named Smith.

XIX

- Jack Thomson and Bill Thomson; all the rest
  - Had been call'd 'Jemmy,' after the great bard;
- I don't know whether they had arms or crest,

But such a godfather 's as good a card.

- Three of the Smiths were Peters; but the best
  - Amongst them all, hard blows to inflict or ward,
- Was he, since so renown'd 'in country quarters
- At Halifax;' but now he served the Tartars.

XX

- The rest were Jacks and Gills and Wills and Bills.
  - But when I 've added that the elder Jack Smith
- Was born in Cumberland among the hills, And that his father was an honest black. smith,
- I've said all I know of a name that fills Three lines of the despatch in taking
  - 'Schmacksmith,'
- A village of Moldavia's waste, wherein He fell, immortal in a bulletin.
- 160

XXI

- I wonder (although Mars no doubt's a god I Praise) if a man's name in a bulletin
- May make up for a bullet in his body? I hope this little question is no sin,
- Because, though I am but a simple noddy. I think one Shakspeare puts the same
- thought in The mouth of some one in his plays so
- doting,
- Which many people pass for wits by quoting

XXII

Then there were Frenchmen, gallant, young, and gay:

But I 'in too great a patriot to record 175

Their Gallic names upon a glorious day;

I'd rather tell ten lies than say a word Of truth; — such truths are treason; they betray Their country; and as traitors are abhorr'd

- Who name the French in English, save to show
- How Peace should make John Bull the Frenchman's foe.

XXIII

The Russians, having built two batteries on An isle near Ismail, had two ends in view:

- The first was to bombard it, and knock down
  - The public buildings and the private too, 180
- No matter what poor souls might be undone.

The city's shape suggested this, 't is true; Form'd like an amphtheatre, each dwelling

Presented a fine mark to throw a shell in

XXIV

The second object was to profit by

- The moment of the general consternation,
- To attack the Turk's flotilla, which lay nigh
  - Extremely tranquil, anchor'd at its station:

But a third motive was as probably

To frighten them into capitulation; 190 A phantasy which sometimes seizes warriors.

Unless they are game as bull-dogs and foxterriers.

XXV

A habit rather blamable, which is

That of despising those we combat with, Common in many cases, was in this

- The cause of killing Tchitchitzkoff and Smith;
- One of the valorous 'Smiths' whom we shall miss
  - Out of those nineteen who late rhymed to 'pith;'
- But 't is a name so spread o'er 'Sir' and 'Madam,'
- That one would think the first who bore it 'Adam.' 200

The Russian batteries were incomplete,

- Because they were constructed in a hurry; Thus the same cause which makes a verse want feet,
  - And throws a cloud o'er Longman and John Murray,
- When the sale of new books is not so fleet As they who print them think is necessary,
- May likewise put off for a time what story Sometimes calls 'murder,' and at others 'glory'

XXVII

Whether it was their engineer's stupidity, Their haste, or waste, I neither know nor care,

- Or some contractor's personal cupidity,
- Saving his soul by cheating in the ware Of homicide, but there was no solidity
- In the new batternes erected there;
- They either miss'd, or they were never miss'd,
- And added greatly to the missing list

XXVIII

A sad miscalculation about distance

- Made all their naval matters incorrect;
- Three fireships lost their amiable existence Before they reach'd a spot to take effect:
- The ruatch was ht too soon, and no assistance
- Could remedy this lubberly defect;
- They blew up in the middle of the river,

While, though 't was dawn, the Turks slept fast as ever.

XXIX

At seven they rose, however, and survey'd The Russ flotilla getting under way;

- 'T was nine, when still advancing undismay'd,
- Within a cable's length their vessels lay Off Ismail, and commenced a cannonade,
- Which was return'd with interest, I may say, 230
- And by a fire of musketry and grape,
- And shells and shot of every size and shape.

XXX

For six hours bore they without intermission The Turkish fire, and aided by their own

- Land batteries, work'd their guns with great precision: Ligne At length they found mere cannonade alone screen By no means would produce the town's XXXIV submission,
  - And made a signal to retreat at one.
- One bark blew up, a second near the works Running aground, was taken by the Turks. 240

XXXI

The Moslem, too, had lost both ships and men;

But when they saw the enemy retire,

- Their Delhis mann'd some boats, and sail'd again,
  - And gall'd the Russians with a heavy fire,
- And tried to make a landing on the main; But here the effect fell short of their desire:

Count Damas drove them back into the water

Pell-mell, and with a whole gazette of slaughter.

XXXII

- "I could says the historian here) 'I could report
- All that the Russians did upon this day, 250 I think that several volumes would fall
- short, And I should still have many things to
  - say;
- And so he says no more but pays his court

To some distinguish'd strangers in that fray;

- The Prince de Ligne, and Langeron, and Damas,
- Names great as any that the roll of Fame has.

XXXIII

This being the case, may show us what Fame is .

For out of these three 'preux Chevaliers,' how

Many of common readers give a guess

- That such existed ? (and they may live now
- For aught we know.) Renown 's all hit or miss:
  - There's fortune even in fame, we must allow.

- 'T is true the Memoirs of the Prince de
- Have half withdrawn from him oblivion's
- But here are men who fought in gallant actions

As gallantly as ever heroes fought,

- But buried in the heap of such transactions Their names are rarely found, nor often sought.
- Thus even good fame may suffer sad contractions,
  - And is extinguish'd sooner than she ought: 270

Of all our modern battles, I will bet

You can't repeat nine names from each Gazette.

XXXV

- In short, this last attack, though rich in glory,
  - Show'd that somewhere, somehow, there was a fault,
- And Admiral Ribas (known in Russian story)
  - Most strongly recommended an assault;
- In which he was opposed by young and hoary,
  - Which made a long debate; but I must halt.

For if I wrote down every warrior's speech, I doubt few readers e'er would mount the breach. 280

XXXVI

- There was a man, if that he was a man,
- Not that his manhood could be call'd in question,

For had he not been Hercules, his span

- Had been as short in youth as indigestion Made his last illness, when, all worn and wan.
- He died beneath a tree, as much unblest on
- The soil of the green province he had wasted.

As e'er was locust on the land it blasted.

XXXVII

- This was Potemkin a great thing in days When homicide and harlotry made great:
- If stars and titles could entail long praise, His glory might half equal his estate. 292

This fellow, being six foot high, could raise A kind of phantasy proportionate

In the then sovereign of the Russian people, Who measured men as you would do a steeple.

XXXVIII

While things were in abeyance, Ribas sent A courier to the prince, and he succeeded

In ordering matters after his own bent; I cannot tell the way in which he pleaded,

But shortly he had cause to be content. 301

- In the mean time, the batternes proceeded, And fourscore cannon on the Danube's border
- Were briskly fired and answer'd in due order.

XXXIX

But on the thirteenth, when already part Of the troops were embark'd, the siege to raise, A courier on the spur inspired new heart

Into all panters for newspaper plaise,

As well as dilettanti in war's art,

By his despatches couch'd in pithy phrase; Announcing the appointment of that lover of Battles to the command, Field-Marshal Souvaroff.

XL

The letter of the prince to the same marshal Was worthy of a Spartan, had the cause

Been one to which a good heart could be partial ---

Defence of freedom, country, or of laws; But as it was mere lust of power to o'er-arch all With its proud brow, it merits slight applause, Save for its style, which said, all in a trice,

'You will take Ismail at whatever price.'

XLI

- 'Let there be light! said God, and there was light!' 321
  - 'Let there be blood !' says man, and there 's a sea !

The fiat of this spoil'd child of the Night

(For Day ne'er saw his merits) could decree

More evil in an hour, than thirty bright

Summers could renovate, though they should be

Lovely as those which ripen'd Eden's frut, For war cuts up not only branch, but root.

XLII

Our friends the Turks, who with loud 'Allahs' now

Began to signalise the Russ retreat, 330 Were damnably mistaken; few are slow

- In thinking that their enemy is beat
- (Or beaten, if you insist on grammar, though I never think about it in a heat),
- But here I say the Turks were much miss taken,
- Who hating hogs, yet wish'd to save their bacon.

XLIII

For, on the sixteenth, at full gallop, drew

- In sight two horsemen, who were deem'd Cossacques
- For some time, till they came in nearer view.
- They had but little baggage at their backs, 340
- For there were but three shirts between the two;

But on they rode upon two Ukraine hacks,

Till, in approaching, were at length descried In this plain pair, Suwarrow and his guide.

XLIV

- 'Great joy to London now!' says some great fool,
- When London had a grand illumination, Which to that bottle-conjurer, John Bull,

Is of all dreams the first hallucination;

- So that the streets of colour'd lamps are full,
  - That Sage (said John) surrenders at discretion 350
- His purse, his soul, his sense, and even his nonsense,
- To gratify, like a huge moth, this one sense.

XLV

- 'T is strange that he should farther 'damn his eyes,'
  - For they are damn'd; that once all-famous oath

Is to the devil now no farther prize,

- Since John has lately lost the use of both. Debt he calls wealth, and taxes Paradise;
- And Famine, with her gaunt and bony growth,

- Which stare him in the face, he won't examine.
- Or swears that Ceres hath begotten Famine. 360

YT WT

- But to the tale: great joy unto the camp ! To Russian, Tartar, English, French, Cossacque.
- O'er whom Suwarrow shone like a gas lamp, Presaging a most luminous attack.

Or like a wisp along the marsh so damp.

- Which leads beholders on a boggy walk, He flitted to and fro a dancing light,
- Which all who saw it follow'd, wrong or right.

XL.VII

- But certes matters took a different face; There was enthusiasm and much ap-
- plause. 370 The fleet and camp saluted with great grace.
  - And all presaged good fortune to their cause.
- Within a cannon-shot length of the place They drew, constructed ladders, repair'd flaws
- In former works, made new, prepared fascines.
- And all kinds of benevolent machines.

XLVIII

'T is thus the spirit of a single mind

- Makes that of multitudes take one direction.
- As roll the waters to the breathing wind, Or roams the herd beneath the bull's protection;
- Or as a little dog will lead the blind,
- Or a bell-wether form the flock's connection
- By tinkling sounds, when they go forth to victual;
- Such is the sway of your great men o'er little.

XLIX

- The whole camp rung with joy; you would have thought
  - That they were going to a marriage feast
- (This metaphor, I think, holds good as aught,
  - Since there is discord after both at least):

- There was not now a luggage boy but sought Danger and spoil with ardour much increased.
- And why? because a little odd old man.
- Stript to his shirt, was come to lead the van.

But so it was; and every preparation Was made with all alacrity, the first

- Detachment of three columns took its station.
- And waited but the signal's voice to burs. Upon the foe the second's ordination
- Was also in three columns, with a thirst For glory gaping o'er a sea of slaughter.
- The third, in columns two, attack'd by water 400

TT New batteries were erected, and was held

- A general council, in which unanimity.
- That stranger to most councils, here prevaıl'd
  - As sometimes happens in a great extremity;

And every difficulty being dispell'd.

- Glory began to dawn with due sublimity. While Souvaroff, determined to obtain it.
- Was teaching his recruits to use the bayonet.

T.TT

- It is an actual fact, that he, commander In chief, in proper person deign'd to drill
- The awkward squad, and could afford to squander

His time, a corporal's duty to fulfil:

- Just as you'd break a sucking salamander To swallow flame, and never take it ill:
- He show'd them how to mount a ladder (which
- Was not like Jacob's) or to cross a ditch.

T.TIT

- Also he dress'd up, for the nonce, fascines Like men with turbans, scimitars, and dirks,
- And made them charge with bayonet these machines,
- By way of lesson against actual Turks.
- And when well practised in these mimic scenes.
  - He judged them proper to assail the works;

At which your wise men sneer'd in phrases witty:	And that beneath each Turkish-fashion'd vest
He made no answer; but he took the city.	Lurk'd Christianity; which sometimes barters
LIV	Her inward grace for outward show, and
Most things were in this posture on the eve	makes
Of the assault, and all the camp was in	It difficult to shun some strange mistakes
A stern repose; which you would scarce con- ceive;	LVIII
Yet men resolved to dash through thick	Suwarrow, who was standing in his shirt and thin	Before a company of Calmucks, drilling,
Are very silent when they once beheve That all is settled: — there was little din,	Exclaiming, fooling, swearing at the inert, And lecturing on the noble art of kill-
For some were thinking of their home and	ing, 460
friends,	For deeming human clay but common dirt,
And others of themselves and latter ends.	This great philosopher was thus instilling
LV	His maxims, which to martial comprehen- sion
Suwarrow chiefly was on the alert,	Proved death in battle equal to a pension; -
Surveying, drilling, ordering, jesting, pon-	LIX
dering; For the man was, we safely may assert,	Suwarrow, when he saw this company
A thing to wonder at beyond most won-	Of Cossacques and their prey, turn'd
dering;	round and cast
Hero, buffoon, half-demon, and half-dirt, Praying, instructing, desolating, plunder-	Upon them his slow brow and piercing eye —
ing;	'Whence come ye?'-'From Constanti-
Now Mars, now Momus; and when bent to	nople last.
storm A fortress, Harlequin in uniform. 440	Captives just now escaped,' was the reply 'What are ye?'-'What you see us.'
· •	Briefly pass'd 470
	This dialogue; for he who answer'd knew
The day before the assault, while upon drill — For this great conqueror play'd the cor-	To whom he spoke, and made his words but few.
poral	but icm.
Some Cossacques, hovering like hawks	LX
round a hill, Had met a party towards the twilight's	'Your names?'-'Mme's Johnson, and my comrade's Juan;
fall,	The other two are women, and the third
One of whom spoke their tongue - or well	Is neither man nor woman.' The chief or ill, 'T was much that he was understood at all;	threw on The party a slight glance, then said, 'I
But whether from his voice, or speech, or	have heard manner,	Your name before, the second is a new one:
They found that he had fought beneath	To bring the other three here was absurd:
their banner.	But let that pass.—I think I have heard your name
LVII	In the Nikolaiew regiment?''The
Whereon immediately at his request	same.' 480
They brought him and his comrades to head-quarters; 450	LXI
Their dress was Moslem, but you might	'You served at Widdin?' - 'Yes.' - 'You have guess'd	led the attack ?'
That these were merely masquerading Tartars,	'I did.' 'What next?' 'I really hardly know.'

874

- You were the first i' the breach ? '-- ' I was not slack
- At least to follow those who might be so.' 'What follow'd ?'—'A shot laid me on my back,
- And I became a prisoner to the foe.'
- 'You shall have vengeance, for the town surrounded
- Is twice as strong as that where you were wounded.

LXII

"Where will you serve ?' — 'Where'er you please.' — 'I know

You like to be the hope of the forlorn,

- And doubtless would be foremost on the foe 491
- After the hardships you 've already borne.
- And this young fellow say what can he do?
  - He with the beardless chin and garments torn?'

'Why, general, if he hath no greater fault

In war than love, he had better lead the assault.'

LXIII

- 'He shall if that he dare.' Here Juan bow'd
  - Low as the compliment deserved. Suwarrow
- Continued: 'Your old regiment's allow'd, By special providence, to lead to-morrow,
- Or it may be to-night, the assault: I have vow'd
  - To several saints, that shortly plough or harrow

Shall pass o'er what was Ismail, and its tusk Be unimpeded by the proudest mosque.

LXIV

- 'So now, my lads, for glory !' Here he turn'd
  - And drill'd away in the most classic Russian,

Until each high, heroic bosom burn'd

- For cash and conquest, as if from a cushion
- A preacher had held forth (who nobly spurn'd
  - All earthly goods save tithes) and bade them push on 570

To slay the Pagans who resisted, battering The armies of the Christian Empress Catherine. LXV

- Johnson, who knew by this long colloquy Himself a favourite, ventured to address
- Suwarrow, though engaged with accents high
- In his resumed amusement. 'I confess My debt in being thus allow'd to die
  - Among the foremost; but if you'd express
- Explicitly our several posts, my friend 519 And self would know what duty to attend.'

LXVI

- 'Right ! I was busy, and forgot. Why, you Will join your former regiment, which should be
- Now under arms. Ho ! Katskoff, take him to (Here he call'd up a Polish orderly)

- His post, I mean the regiment Nikolaiew:
- The stranger stripling may remain with me;
- He's a fine boy. The women may be sent
- To the other baggage, or to the sick tent.'

LXVII

- But here a sort of scene began to ensue: The ladies, — who by no means had been
- bred To be disposed of in a way so new,

Although their haram education led

- Doubtless to that of doctrines the most true,
  - Passive obedience, now raised up the head.
- With flashing eyes and starting tears, and flung
- Their arms, as hens their wings about their young,

LXVIII

O'er the promoted couple of brave men

Who were thus honour'd by the greatest chief

That ever peopled hell with heroes slain,

- Or plunged a province or a realm in grief. Oh, foolish mortals! Always taught in
- vain ' 541 Oh, glorious laurel ! since for one sole leat
- Of thine imaginary deathless tree,
- Of blood and tears must flow the unebbing sea

530

LXIX

- Suwarrow, who had small regard for tears, And not much sympathy for blood, survey'd
- The women with their hair about their ears
- And natural agomes, with a slight shade Of feeling: for however habit sears
- Men's hearts against whole millions, when their trade 550
- Is butchery, sometimes a single sorrow
- Will touch even heroes and such was Suwarrow.

LXX

- He said, and in the kindest Calmuck tone, —
- 'Why, Johnson, what the devil do you mean
- By bringing women here? They shall be shown
  - All the attention possible, and seen
- In safety to the waggons, where alone
- In fact they can be safe. You should have been Aware this kind of baggage never thrives:

Save wed a year, I hate recruits with wives.' 560

LXXI

- 'May it please your excellency,' thus replied
  - Our British friend, 'these are the wives of others,
- And not our own. I am too qualified

By service with my military brothers

- To break the rules by bringing one's own bride
  - Into a camp: I know that nought so bothers
- The hearts of the heroic on a charge,
- As leaving a small family at large.

LXXII

*But these are but two Turkish ladies, who

With their attendant aided our escape, 570 And afterwards accompanied us through

- A thousand perils in this dubious shape. To me this kind of life is not so new;
- To them, poor things, it is an awkward scrape.
- I therefore, if you wish me to fight freely, Request that they may both be used genteelly.'

LXXIII

Meantime these two poor girls, with swimming eyes,

Look'd on as if in doubt if they could trust Their own protectors; nor was their surprise

- Less than their grief (and truly not less just) 580
- To see an old man, rather wild than wise In aspect, plainly clad, besmear'd with dust,
- Stript to his waistcoat, and that not too clean, More fear'd than all the sultans ever seen.

LXXIV

- For every thing seem'd resting on his nod, As they could read in all eyes. Now to
  - them,
- Who were accustom'd, as a sort of god, To see the sultan, rich in many a gem,
- Like an imperial peacock stalk abroad 589 (That royal bird, whose tail's a diadem),
- With all the pomp of power, it was a doubt How power could condescend to do without.

LXXV

- John Johnson, seeing their extreme dismay, Though little versed in feelings oriental,
- Suggested some slight comfort in his way:
  - Don Juan, who was much more sentimental,
- Swore they should see him by the dawn of day,
  - Or that the Russianarmy should repentall:
- And, strange to say, they found some consolation
- In this for females like exaggeration. 600

LXXVI

- And then with tears, and sighs, and some slight kisses,
- They parted for the present these to await,
- According to the artillery's hits or misses, What sages call Chance, Providence, or Fate
- (Uncertainty is one of many blisses,
- A mortgage on Humanity's estate) —
- While their beloved friends began to arm,
- To burn a town which never did them harm.

LXXVII

Suwarrow, --- who but saw things in the gross,

Being much too gross to see them in detail, 610

- Who calculated life as so much dross, And as the wind a widow'd nation's wail,
- And cared as little for his army's loss (So that their efforts should at length
- prevail) As wife and friends did for the boils of
- Job, What was 't to him to hear two women sob ?
- What was 't to nim to near two women sob ?

LXXVIII

Nothing. — The work of glory still went on In preparations for a cannonade

As terrible as that of Ilion,

- If Homer had found mortars ready made; But now, instead of slaying Priam's son, 621
- We only can but talk of escalade, Bombs, drums, guns, bastions, batteries,
- bayonets, bullets, Hard words, which stick in the soft Muses' gullets.

LXXIX

- Oh, thou eternal Homer! who couldst charm
  - All ears, though long; all ages, though so short,

By merely wielding with poetic arm

- Arms to which men will never more resort,
- Unless gunpowder should be found to harm Much less than is the hope of every court,

Which now is leagued young Freedom to annoy; 631

But they will not find Liberty a Troy: ---

LXXX

Oh, thou eternal Homer ! I have now

- To paint a siege, wherein more men were slain,
- With deadlier engines and a speedier blow, Than in thy Greek gazette of that cam-. paign;

And yet, like all men else, I must allow,

To vie with thee would be about as vain

As for a brook to cope with ocean's flood; But still we moderns equal you in blood; 640

LXXXI

If not in poetry, at least in fact;

- And fact is truth, the grand desideratum ! Of which, howe'er the Muse describes each
  - act, There should be ne'ertheless a slight substratum

- But now the town is going to be attack'd; Great deeds are doing — how shall I relate 'em ?
- Souls of immortal generals! Phœbus watches
- To colour up his rays from your despatches.

LXXXII

- Oh, ye great bulletins of Bonaparte!
- Oh, ye less grand long lists of kill'd and wounded ! 650 Shade of Leonidas, who fought so hearty,
- When my poor Greece was once, as now, surrounded !
- Oh, Cæsar's Commentaries ! now impart, ye Shadows of glory ! (lest I be confounded)
- A portion of your fading twilight hues,
- So beautiful, so fleeting, to the Muse.

LXXXIII

When I call 'fading' martial immortality, I mean, that every age and every year,

- And almost every day, in sad reality, 659 Some sucking hero is compell'd to rear,
- Who, when we come to sum up the totality Of deeds to human happiness most dear,
- Turns out to be a butcher in great business,
- Afflicting young folks with a sort of dizziness.

LXXXIV

- Medals, rank, ribands, lace, embroidery, scarlet,
- Are things immortal to immortal man, As purple to the Babylonian harlot:
- An uniform to boys is like a fan
- To women; there is scarce a crimson varlet But deems himself the first in Glory's
- van. 670 But Glory's glory; and if you would find
- What that is ask the pig who sees the wind !

LXXXV

- At least he feels u, and some say he sees, Because he runs before it like a pig;
- Or, if that simple sentence should displease, Say, that he scuds before it like a brig,
- A schooner, or but it is time to ease
- This Canto, ere my Muse perceives fatigue.
- The next shall ring a peal to shake all people,
- Like a bob-major from a village steeple.

LXXXVI

- Hark ! through the silence of the cold, dull night, 681 The hum of armies gathering rank on
- rank ! Lo! dusky masses steal in dubious sight
- Along the leaguer'd wall and bristling bank
- Of the arm'd river, while with straggling light
  - The stars peep through the vapours dim and dank,
- Which curl in curious wreaths how soon the smoke

Of Hell shall pall them in a deeper cloak !

LXXXVII

- Here pause we for the present as even then
- That awful pause, dividing life from death, 690
- Struck for an instant on the hearts of men,
  - Thousands of whom were drawing their last breath !
- A moment and all will be life again !
- The march ! the charge ! the shouts of either faith !
- Hurra ! and Allah ! and one moment more,

The death-cry drowning in the battle's roar.

CANTO THE EIGHTH

I

- OH blood and thunder ! and oh blood and wounds !
  - These are but vulgar oaths, as you may deem,
- Too gentle reader ! and most shocking sounds:
  - And so they are; yet thus is Glory's dream
- Unriddled, and as my true Muse expounds At present such things, since they are her theme,
- So be they her inspirers ! Call them Mars,
- Bellona, what you will they mean but wars.

11

- All was prepared the fire, the sword, the men
  - To wield them in their terrible array. 10

The army, like a lion from his den,

- March'd forth with nerve and sinews bent to slay, —
- A human Hydra, issuing from its fen
- To breathe destruction on its winding way,
- Whose heads were heroes, which cut off in vain
- Immediately in others grew again.

III

- History can only take things in the gross; But could we know them in detail, perchance
- In balancing the profit and the loss,
- War's merit it by no means might enhance, 20
- To waste so much gold for a little dross, As hath been done, mere conquest to advance.
- The drying up a single tear has more
- Of honest fame, than shedding seas of gore.

I۱

And why ? — because it brings self-approbation;

Whereas the other, after all its glare,

Shouts, bridges, arches, pensions from a nation,

Which (it may be) has not much left to spare,

- A higher title, or a loftier station,
  - Though they may make Corruption gape or stare, 30
- Yet, in the end, except in Freedom's battles,
- Are nothing but a child of Murder's rattles.

v

And such they are — and such they will be found:

Not so Leonidas and Washington,

- Whose every battle-field is holy ground,
- Which breathes of nations saved, not worlds undone
- How sweetly on the ear such echoes sound ! While the mere victor's may appal or stun
- The servile and the vain, such names will be A watchword till the future shall be free.

VI

- The night was dark, and the thick mist allow'd 4^{II}
  - Nought to be seen save the artillery's flame,

- Which arch'd the horizon like a fiery cloud, And in the Danube's waters shone the same —
- A mirror'd hell! the volleying roar, and loud
  - Long booming of each peal on peal, o'ercame
- The ear far more than thunder; for Heaven's flashes
- Spare, or smite rarely man's make millions ashes !

VII

- The column order'd on the assault scarce pass'd 49
- Beyond the Russian batteries a few toises, When up the bristling Moslem rose at last,
  - Answering the Christian thunders with like voices:
- Then one vast fire, air, earth, and stream embraced,
  - Which rock'd as 't were beneath the mighty noises;
- While the whole rampart blazed like Etna, when
- The restless Titan hiccups in his den.

VIII

- And one enormous shout of 'Allah !' rose In the same moment, loud as even the roar
- Of war's most mortal engines, to their foes Hurling defiance: city, stream, and shore
- Resounded 'Allah !' and the clouds which close 6r
- With thick'ning canopy the conflict o'er, Vibrate to the Eternal name. Hark! through

All sounds it pierceth 'Allah ! Allah ! Hu !'

IX

- I he columns were in movement one and all,
  - But of the portion which attack'd by water,
- Thicker than leaves the lives began to fall,
  - Though led by Arseniew, that great son of slaughter,
- As brave as ever faced both bomb and ball. 'Carnage' (so Wordsworth tells you)'is God's daughter:' 70

If he speak truth, she is Christ's sister, and Just now behaved as in the Holy Land

- The Prince de Ligne was wounded in the knee;
- Count Chapeau-Bras, too, had a ball be-
- His cap and head, which proves the head to be

Aristocratic as was ever seen,

- Because it then received no injury
- More than the cap; in fact, the ball could mean
- No harm unto a right legitimate head:
- 'Ashes to ashes' why not lead to lead?

XI

- Also the General Markow, Brigadier, St Insisting on removal of the prince
- Amidst some groaning thousands dying near, ---
  - All common fellows, who might writhe and wince,
- And shriek for water into a deaf ear, -
- The General Markow, who could thus evince
- His sympathy for rank, by the same token.
- To teach him greater, had his own leg broken.

XII

- Three hundred cannon threw up their emetic,
  - And thirty thousand muskets flung their pills 90
- Like hail, to make a bloody diuretic.
- Mortality ! thou hast thy monthly bills ; Thy plagues, thy famines, thy physicians, yet tick,
- Like the death-watch, within our ears the ills
- Past, present, and to come ; but all may yield
- To the true portrait of one battle-field.

XIII

- There the still varying pangs, which multiply
  - Until their very number makes men hard

By the infinities of agony,

- Which meet the gaze whate'er it may regard — 100
- The groan, the roll in dust, the all-white eve
  - Turn'd back within its socket, --- these reward

Your rank and file by thousands, while the rest

May win perhaps a riband at the breast !

XIV

Yet I love glory; — glory 's a great thing: — Think what it is to be in your old age

- Maintain'd at the expense of your good king:
  - A moderate pension shakes full many a sage,
- And heroes are but made for bards to sing, Which is still better; thus in verse to wage
- Your wars eternally, besides enjoying
- Half-pay for life, make mankind worth destroying.

xv

The troops, already disembark'd, push'd on To take a battery on the right; the others,

Who landed lower down, their landing done, Had set to work as briskly as their brothers:

- Being grenadiers, they mounted one by one,
  - Cheerful as children climb the breasts of mothers.

O'er the entrenchment and the palisade,

Quite orderly, as if upon parade. 120

XVI

And this was admirable; for so hot

The fire was, that were red Vesuvius loaded,

Besides its lava, with all sorts of shot

And shells or hells, it could not more have goaded.

Of officers a third fell on the spot,

A thing which victory by no means boded

To gentlemen engaged in the assault:

Hounds, when the huntsman tumbles, are at fault.

XVII

But here I leave the general concern, To track our hero on his path of fame:

He must his laurels separately earn; 131 For fifty thousand heroes, name by name,

Though all deserving equally to turn A couplet, or an elegy to claim,

Would form a lengthy lexicon of glory,

And what is worse still, a much longer story:

XVIII

- And therefore we must give the greater number
- To the Gazette which doubtless fairly dealt
- By the deceased, who he in famous slumber
  - In ditches, fields, or wheresoe'er they felt
- Their clay for the last time their souls encumber; — 141

Thrice happy he whose name has been well spelt

In the despatch: I knew a man whose loss

Was printed Grove, although his name was Grose

XIX

Juan and Johnson join'd a certain corps,

- And fought away with might and main, not knowing
- The way which they had never trod before,
  - And still less guessing where they might be going;
- But on they march'd, dead bodies trampling o'er,
  - Firing, and thrusting, slashing, sweating, glowing, 150

But fighting thoughtlessly enough to win,

To their two selves, one whole bright bulletin.

XX

- Thus on they wallow'd in the bloody mire Of dead and dying thousands, - some-
- times gaining A yard or two of ground, which brought them nigher
  - To some odd angle for which all were straining;
- At other times, repulsed by the close fire,
- Which really pour'd as if all hell were raining
- Instead of heaven, they stumbled backwards o'er
- A wounded comrade, sprawling in his gore.

XXI

- Though 't was Don Juan's first of fields, and though 161
- The nightly muster and the silent march In the chill dark, when courage does not glow

So much as under a triumphal arch,

880

- Perhaps might make him shiver, yawn, or throw
  - A glance on the dull clouds (as thick as starch,
- Which stiffen'd heaven) as if he wish'd for day; ---
- Yet for all this he did not run away.

XXII

- Indeed he could not. But what if he had? There have been and are heroes who begun
- With something not much better, or as bad:
  - Frederic the Great from Molwitz deign'd to run,

For the first and last time; for, like a pad, Or hawk, or bride, most mortals after one

Warm boat are broken into their new tricks, And fight like fiends for pay or politics.

XXIII

He was what Erin calls, in her sublime Old Erse or Irish, or it may be Punic

(The antiquarians who can settle time,

- Which settles all things, Roman, Greek, or Runic, 180
- Swear that Pat's language sprung from the same clume
  - With Hannibal, and wears the Tyrian tunic

Of Dido's alphabet; and this is rational

As any other notion, and not national); -

XXIV

- But Juan was quite 'a broth of a boy,' A thing of impulse and a child of song;
- Now swimming in the sentiment of joy, Or the sensation (if that phrase seem
  - wrong),

And afterward, if he must needs destroy, In such good company as always throng

- To battles, sugges, and that kind of pleasure,
- No less delighted to employ his leisure;

xxv

- But always without malice · if he warr'd Or loved, it was with what we call 'the best
- Intentions,' which form all mankind's trump card,
  - To be produced when brought up to the test.
- The statesman, hero, harlot, lawyer ward Off each attack, when people are in quest

Of their designs, by saying they meant well; 'T is pity 'that such meaning should pave hell.' 200

XXVI

- I almost lately have begun to doubt
- Whether hell's pavement if it be so paved —
- Must not have latterly been quite worn out, Not by the numbers good intent hath saved,
- But by the mass who go below without
- Those ancient good intentions, which once shaved
- And smooth'd the brimstone of that street of hell
- Which bears the greatest likeness to Pall Mall.

XXVII

- Juan, by some strange chance, which oft divides
  - Warrior from warrior in their grim career, 210
- Like chastest wives from constant husbands' sides
- Just at the close of the first bridal year, By one of those odd turns of Fortune's tides,
- Was on a sudden rather puzzled here,
- When, after a good deal of heavy firing,
- He found himself alone, and friends retiring.

XXVIII

- I don't know how the thing occurr'd it might
  - Be that the greater part were kill'd or wounded,
- And that the rest had faced unto the right About; a circumstance which has confounded 220
- Cæsar himself, who, in the very sight
  - Of his whole army, which so much abounded

In courage, was obliged to snatch a shield, And rally back his Romans to the field.

XXIX

- Juan, who had no shield to snatch, and was
- No Cæsar, but a fine young lad, who fought
- He knew not why, arriving at this pass,
  - Stopp'd for a minute, as perhaps he ought

- For a much longer time; then, like an ass
  - (Start not, kmd reader; since great Homer thought 230

This simile enough for Ajax, Juan

Perhaps may find it better than a new one) —

XXX

- Then, like an ass, he went upon his way, And, what was stranger, never look'd behind;
- But seeing, flashing forward, like the day Over the hills, a fire enough to blind

Those who dislike to look upon a fray,

- He stumbled on, to try if he could find A path, to add his own slight arm and
- forces
- To corps, the greater part of which were corses. 240

XXXI

Perceiving then no more the commandant

- Of his own corps, nor even the corps, which had
- Quite disappear'd the gods know how ! (I can't
  - Account for every thing which may look bad

In history; but we at least may grant

It was not marvellous that a mere lad,

In search of glory, should look on before, Nor care a pinch of snuff about his corps): —

XXXII

- Perceiving nor commander nor commanded, And left at large, like a young heir, to make 250
- His way to where he knew not single handed;
- As travellers follow over bog and brake An 'ignus fatuus;' or as sailors stranded

Unto the nearest hut themselves betake; So Juan, following honour and his nose,

Rush'd where the thickest fire announced most foes.

XXXIII

He knew not where he was, nor greatly cared,

For he was dizzy, busy, and his veins

- Fill'd as with lightning for his spirit shared
  - The hour, as is the case with lively brains; 260

- And where the hottest fire was seen and heard,
  - And the loud cannon peal'd his hoarsest strains,
- He rush'd, while earth and air were sadly shaken
- By thy humane discovery, Friar Bacon !

XXXIV

And as he rush'd along, it came to pass he Fell in with what was late the second column,

Under the orders of the General Lascy, But now reduced, as is a bulky volume

- Into an elegant extract (much less massy) Of heroism, and took his place with sol-
- emn 270 Aır 'midst the rest, who kept their valiant faces
- And levell'd weapons still against the glacis.

XXXV

- Just at this crisis up came Johnson too,
  - Who had 'retreated,' as the phrase is when
- Men run away much rather than go through Destruction's jaws into the devil's den;
- But Johnson was a clever fellow, who
- Knew when and how 'to cut and come again,'
- And never ran away, except when running
- Was nothing but a valorous kind of cunning. 280

XXXVI

And so, when all his corps were dead or dying,

Except Don Juan, a mere novice, whose More virgin valour never dreamt of flying

From ignorance of danger, which indues Its votaries, like innocence relying

On its own strength, with careless nerves and thews, —

Johnson retired a little, just to rally

Those who catch cold in 'shadows of Death's valley.'

XXXVII

- And there, a little shelter'd from the shot, Which rain'd from bastion, battery, para-
- pet, 290 Rampart, wall, casement, house, — for there was not

In this extensive city, sore beset

- By Christian soldiery, a single spot Which did not combat like the devil, as
- yet, He found a number of Chasseurs, all scatter'd
- By the resistance of the chase they batter'd.

XXXVIII

And these he call'd on; and, what 's strange, they came

Unto his call, unlike 'the spirits from

- The vasty deep,' to whom you may exclaim, Says Hotspur, long ere they will leave their home. 300
- Their reasons were uncertainty, or shame At shrinking from a bullet or a bomb,
- And that odd impulse, which in wars or creeds
- Makes men, like cattle, follow him who leads.

XXXIX

- By Jove! he was a noble fellow, Johnson, And though his name, than Ajax or Achilles,
- Sounds less harmonious, underneath the sun soon
  - We shall not see his likeness. he could kill his
- Man quite as quietly as blows the monsoon Her steady breath (which some months the same still is). 310

Seldom he varied feature, hue, or muscle,

And could be very busy without bustle;

XL

And therefore, when he ran away, he did so Upon reflection, knowing that behind

He would find others who would fain be rid so Of idle apprehensions, which like wind

- Trouble heroic stomachs. Though their hds
  - Oft are soon closed, all heroes are not blind,

But when they light upon immediate death, Retire a little, mercly to take breath. 320

XLI

But Johnson only ran off, to return

- With many other warriors, as we said, Unto that rather somewhat misty bourn,
- Which Hamlet tells us is a pass of dread.
- To Jack howe'er this gave but slight con-
  - His soul (like galvanism upon the dead)

Acted upon the living as on wire,

And led them back into the heaviest fire.

XLII

- Egad ! they found the second time what they
  - The first time thought quite terrible enough 330
- To fly from, malgré all which people say Of glory, and all that immortal stuff

Which fills a regiment (besides their pay,

- That daily shilling which makes warriors tough) —
- They found on their return the self-same welcome,
- Which made some think, and others know, a hell come.

XLIII

- They fell as thick as harvests beneath hail,
  - Grass before scythes, or corn below the sickle,
- Proving that trite old truth, that life's as frail

As any other boon for which men stickle.

- The Turkish batteries thrash'd them like a flail, 341
- Or a good boxer, into a sad pickle Putting the very bravest, who were knock'd Upon the head, before their guns were cock'd

XLIV

The Turks, behind the traverses and flanks Of the next bastion, fired away like devils.

- And swept, as gales sweep foam away, whole ranks
  - However, Heaven knows how, the Fate who levels
- Towns, nations, worlds, in her revolving pranks,
  - So order'd it, amidst these sulphury revels, 359
- That Johnson and some few who had not scamper'd,
- Reach'd the interior talus of the rampart.

ЛГA

- First one or two, then five, six, and a dozen, Came mounting quickly up, for it was now
- All neck or nothing, as, like pitch or rosin, Flame was shower'd forth above, as well's below,

So that you scarce could say who best had chosen,

The gentlemen that were the first to show Their martial faces on the parapet,

Or those who thought it brave to wait as yet. 360

XLVI

But those who scaled, found out that their advance

Was favour'd by an accident or blunder: The Greek or Turkish Cohorn's ignorance

Had palisado'd in a way you 'd wonder

To see in forts of Netherlands or France

(Though these to our Gıbraltar must knock under)—

Right in the middle of the parapet

Just named, these palisades were primly set:

XLVII

So that on either side some nine or ten Paces were left, whereon you could contrive

- To march; a great convenience to our men, At least to all those who were left alive,
- Who thus could form a lune and fight again; And that which farther aided them to strive
- Was, that they could kick down the palisades,
- Which scarcely rose much higher than grass blades

XLVIII

- Among the first, I will not say the first, For such precedence upon such occasions
- Will oftentimes make deadly quarrels burst Out between friends as well as allied nations: 380
- The Briton must be bold who really durst Put to such trial John Bull's partial patience,
- As say that Wellington at Waterloo
- Was beaten though the Prussians say so too; —

XLIX

And that if Blucher, Bulow, Gneisenau,

- And God knows who besides in 'au' and 'ow,'
- Had not come up in time to cast an awe Into the hearts of those who fought till now

As tigers combat with an empty craw,

- The Duke of Wellington had ceased to show 390
- His orders, also to receive his pensions, Which are the heaviest that our history mentions.

L

- But never mind;—'God save the king!' and kings!
  - For if he don't, I doubt if men will longer —
- I think I hear a little bird, who sings
- The people by and by will be the stronger: The veriest jade will wince whose harness wrings

So much into the raw as quite to wrong her Beyond the rules of posting, — and the mob At last fall sick of imitating Job.  $_{400}$

LI

- At first it grumbles, then it swears, and then, Like David, flings smooth pebbles 'gainst a giant;
- At last it takes to weapons such as men
- Snatch when despair makes human hearts less phant.
- Then comes 'the tug of war;' --- 't will come again,
- I rather doubt; and I would fain say 'fie on 't,'
- If I had not perceived that revolution
- Alone can save the earth from hell's pollution.

LII

- But to continue: I say not the first,
- But of the first, our little friend Don Juan 410
- Walk'd o'er the walls of Ismail, as if nursed Amidst such scenes — though this was quite a new one
- To hun, and I should hope to most The thirst
  - Of glory, which so pierces through and through one,
- Pervaded him although a generous creature,

As warm in heart as feminine in feature.

$\mathbf{LIII}$

- And here he was --- who upon woman's breast,
  - Even from a child, felt like a child; howe'er

- The man in all the rest might be confest,
- To him it was Elysum to be there; 420 And he could even withstand that awkward test
  - Which Rousseau points out to the dubious fair.
- 'Observe your lover when he leaves your arms;'
- But Juan never left them, while they had charms,

LIV

- Unless compell'd by fate, or wave, or wind,
  - Or near relations, who are much the same
- But here he was ! where each tie that can bind
- Humanity must yield to steel and flame. And he whose very body was all mind,
  - Flung here by fate or circumstance, which tame 430

The loftiest, hurried by the time and place.

Dash'd on like a spurr'd blood-horse m a race.

LV

So was his blood stirr'd while he found resistance,

As is the hunter's at the five-bar gate,

- Or double post and rail, where the existence
  - Of Britain's youth depends upon their weight,
- The lightest being the safest: at a distance He hated cruelty, as all men hate
- Blood, until heated and even then his own
- At times would curdle o'er some heavy groan. 440

lVI

The General Lascy, who had been hard press'd,

Seeing arrive an aid so opportune

- As were some hundred youngsters all abreast,
  - Who came as if just dropp'd down from the moon,
- To Juan, who was nearest him, address'd H₁₅ thanks, and hopes to take the city soon,
- Not reckoning him to be a 'base Bezonian'
- (As Pistol calls it), but a young Livonian.

lvii

Juan, to whom he spoke in German, knew As much of German as of Sanscrit, and 450

In answer made an inclination to

- The general who held him in command; For seeing one with ribands, black and blue.
- Stars, medals, and a bloody sword in hand,
- Addressing him in tones which seem'd to thank,
- He recognised an officer of rank.

lviii

- Short speeches pass between two men who speak
  - No common language; and besides, in time
- Of war and taking towns, when many a shriek
- Rings o'er the dialogue, and many a crime 460
- Is perpetrated ere a word can break Upon the ear, and sounds of horror chime
- In like church-bells, with sigh, howl, groan, vell. praver.
- There cannot be much conversation there.

LIX

- And therefore all we have related in
- Two long octaves, pass'd in a little minute;
- But in the same small minute, every sin Contrived to get itself comprised within it.
- The very cannon, deafen'd by the din,
- Grew dumb, for you might almost hear a linnet, 470 As soon as thunder, 'midst the general
- noise
- Of human nature's agonising voice !

LX

- The town was enter'd. Oh eternity ! --
- 'God made the country and man made the town,'
- So Cowper says and I begin to be Of his opinion, when I see cast down
- Rome, Babylon, Tyre, Carthage, Nineveh, All walls men know, and many never known;
- And pondering on the present and the past, To deem the woods shall be our home at last. 430

- Of all men, saving Sylla the man-slayer, Who passes for in life and death most
- lucky, Of the great names which in our faces stare,
  - The General Boon, back-woodsman of Kentucky,
- Was happiest amongst mortals anywhere; For killing nothing but a bear or buck,
- he Enjoy'd the lonely, vigorous, harmless days
- Of his old age in wilds of deepest maze.

LXII

- Crime came not near him she is not the child
  - Of solitude; Health shrank not from him --- for 490
- Her home is in the rarely trodden wild, Where if men seek her not, and death be more
- Their choice than life, forgive them, as beguiled
- By habit to what their own hearts abhor —
- In cities caged. The present case in point I
- Cite is, that Boon lived hunting up to ninety;

LXIII

- And what's still stranger, left behind a name For which men vainly decimate the throng,
- Not only famous, but of that good fame,
- Simple, serene, the antipodes of shame, Which hate nor envy e'er could tinge with wrong;
- An active hermit, even in age the child
- Of Nature, or the man of Ross run wild.

LXIV

- 'T is true he shrank from men even of his nation,
  - When they built up unto his darling trees, —
- He moved some hundred miles off, for a station
  - Where there were fewer houses and more ease;
- The inconvenience of civilisation
- Is, that you neither can be pleased nor please; 510

But where he met the individual man, He show'd himself as kind as mortal can.

LXV

- He was not all alone: around him grew A sylvan tribe of children of the chase,
- Whose young, unwaken'd world was ever new,
  - Nor sword nor sorrow yet had left a trace
- On her unwrinkled brow, nor could you view
- A frown on Nature's or on human face;
- The free-born forest found and kept them free,
- And fresh as is a torrent or a tree. 520

LXVI

- And tall, and strong, and swift of foot were they,
  - Beyond the dwarfing city's pale abortions,
- Because their thoughts had never been the prey
  - Of care or gain: the green woods were their portions;
- No sinking spirits told them they grew grey, No fashion made them apes of her distortions;
- Simple they were, not savage; and their rifles,
- Though very true, were not yet used for truffles.

LXVII

- Motion was in their days, rest in their slumbers,
  - And cheerfulness the handmaid of their toil; 539
- Nor yet too many nor too few their numbers;
  - Corruption could not make their hearts her soil;
- The lust which stings, the splendour which encumbers,

With the free foresters divide no spoil;

- Serene, not sullen, were the solutudes
- Of this unsighing people of the woods.

LXVIII

- So much for Nature: ----by way of variety, Now back to thy great joys, Civilisation !
- And the sweet consequence of large society, War, pestilence, the despot's desolation, 540

- The kingly scourge, the lust of notoriety, The millions slain by soldiers for their ration,
- The scenes like Catherine's boudoir at threescore,
- With Ismail's storm to soften it the more.

LXIX

The town was enter'd first one column made

Its sangumary way good — then another; The reeking bayonet and the flashing blade

- Clash'd 'gainst the scimitar, and babe and mother
- With distant shrieks were heard Heaven to upbraid:
  - Still closer sulphury clouds began to smother 550
- The breath of morn and man, where foot by foot
- The madden'd Turks their city still dispute.

LXX

Koutousow, he who afterward beat back (With some assistance from the frost and snow)

Napoleon on his bold and bloody track,

- It happen'd was himself beat back just now,
- He was a jolly fellow, and could crack His jest alike in face of friend or foe,
- Though life, and death, and victory were at stake;
- But here it seem'd his jokes had ceased to take. 560

LXXI

For having thrown himself into a ditch,

Follow'd in haste by various grenadiers,

Whose blood the puddle greatly did enrich,

He climb'd to where the parapet appears; But there his project reach'd its utmost pitch ('Mongst other deaths the General Ribaupierre's

Was much regretted), for the Moslem men Threw them all down into the ditch agam.

LXXII

- And had it not been for some stray troops landing
  - They knew not where, being carried by the stream 570

- To some spot, where they lost their understanding,
- And wander'd up and down as in a dream, Until they reach'd, as daybreak was expanding,
  - That which a portal to their eyes did seem, ---
- The great and gay Koutousow might have lam
- Where three parts of his column yet reman

LXXIII

And scrambling round the rampart, these same troops,

After the taking of the 'Cavaher,'

- Just as Koutousow's most 'forlorn' of 'hopes'
  - Took like chameleons some slight tinge of fear, 580

Open'd the gate call'd 'Kılia', to the groups Of baffled heroes, who stood shyly near,

- Sliding knee-deep in lately frozen mud,
- Now thaw'd into a marsh of human blood.

LXXIV

- The Kozacks, or, if so you please, Cossacques
  - (I don't much pique myself upon orthography,
- So that I do not grossly err in facts,
  - Statistics, tactics, politics, and geography) —
- Having been used to serve on horses' backs, And no great dilettanti m topography 590
- Of fortresses, but fighting where it pleases Their chiefs to order, — were all cut to pleces

LXXV

- Their column, though the Turkish batteries thunder'd
  - Upon them, ne'ertheless had reach'd the rampart,
- And naturally thought they could have plunder'd
- The city, without being farther hamper'd; But as it happens to brave men, they
  - blunder'd---The Turks at first pretended to have
  - scamper'd,
- Only to draw them 'twixt two bastion corners,
- From whence they salled on those Chustian scorners. 600

LXXVI

Then being taken by the tail — a taking Fatal to bishops as to soldiers — these

- Cossacques were all cut off as day was breaking,
  - And found their lives were let at a short lease —
- But perish'd without shivering or shaking, Leaving as ladders their heap'd carcasses,

O'er which Lieutenant-Colonel Yesouskoi

March'd with the brave battalion of Pelouzki: ---

LXXVII

- This valuant man kill'd all the Turks he met,
  - But could not cat them, being in his turn 610
- Slain by some Mussulmans, who would not yet,

Without resistance, see their city burn.

- The walls were won, but 't was an even bet Which of the armies would have cause to mourn:
- 'T was blow for blow, disputing inch by inch.
- For one would not retreat, nor t'other flinch.

LXXVIII

- And here we may remark with the historian,
- You should but give few cartridges to such Troops as are meant to march with greatest glory on 620
- When matters must be carried by the touch Of the bright bayonet, and they all should hurry on,
- They sometimes, with a hankering for existence.
- Keep merely firing at a foolish distance.

LXXIX

A junction of the General Meknop's men (Without the General, who had fallen some time

Before, being badly seconded just then)

- Was made at length with those who dared to climb
- The death-disgorging rampart once again; And though the Turk's resistance was sublime. 630

They took the bastion, which the Seraskier Defended at a price extremely dear.

LXXX

- Juan and Johnson, and some volunteers,
  - Among the foremost, offer'd hum good quarter,
- A word which little suits with Seraskiers,
- Or at least suited not this valiant Tartar.
- He died, deserving well his country's tears,
- A savage sort of military martyr.
- An English naval officer, who wish'd
- To make him prisoner, was also dish'd: 640

LXXXI

- For all the answer to his proposition
- Was from a pistol-shot that laid him dead;
- On which the rest, without more intermission,
- Began to lay about with steel and lead The prous metals most in requisition
- On such occasions: not a single head
- Was spared; three thousand Moslems perish'd here,
- And sixteen bayonets pierced the Seraskier.

LXXXII

- The city's taken only part by part And death is drunk with gore: there's not a street 650
- Where fights not to the last some desperate heart
  - For those for whom it soon shall cease to beat.
- Here War forgot his own destructive art
- In more destroying Nature; and the heat
- Of carnage, like the Nile's sun-sodden slime,
- Engender'd monstrous shapes of every crime.

LXXXIII

- A Russian officer, in martial tread
  - Over a heap of bodies, felt his heel
- Seized fast, as if 't were by the serpent's head
  - Whose fangs Eve taught her human seed to feel: 660
- In vain he kick'd, and swore, and writhed, and bled,
  - And howl'd for help as wolves do for a meal —

The teeth still kept their gratifying hold, As do the subtle snakes described of old.

LXXXIV

- A dying Moslem, who had felt the foot Of a foe o'er him, snatch'd at it, and bit
- The very tendon which is most acute (That which some ancient Muse or mod-
- ern wit Named after thee, Achilles), and quite through 't
  - He made the teeth meet, nor relinquish'd it
- Even with his life for (but they lie) 't is said

To the live leg still clung the sever'd head.

LXXXV

- However this may be, 't is pretty sure
- The Russian officer for life was lamed, For the Turk's teeth stuck faster than a skewer,
  - And left him 'midst the invalid and maim'd.
- The regimental surgeon could not cure
- His patient, and perhaps was to be blamed

More than the head of the inveterate foe,

Which was cut off, and scarce even then let go. 680

LXXXVI

But then the fact's a fact — and 't is the part

Of a true poet to escape from fiction

- Whene'er he can; for there is little art
- In leaving verse more free from the restriction
- Of truth than prose, unless to suit the mart For what is sometimes called poetic diction,

And that outrageous appetite for lies

Which Satan angles with for souls, like flies.

LXXXVII

- The city 's taken, but not render'd ! No ! There 's not a Moslem that hath yielded sword:
- The blood may gush out, as the Danube's flow
- Rolls by the city wall; but deed nor word
- Acknowledge aught of dread of death or foe:
  - In vain the yell of victory is roar'd
- By the advancing Muscovite the groan
- Of the last foe is echoed by his own.

LXXXVIII

The bayonet pierces and the sabre cleaves,

- And human lives are lavish'd everywhere, As the year closing whirls the scarlet leaves
  - When the stripp'd forest bows to the bleak air, 700
- And groans; and thus the peopled city grieves,
- Shorn of its best and loveliest, and left bare;
- But still it falls in vast and awful splinters, As oaks blown down with all their thousand winters.

LXXXIX

- It is an awful topic but 't is not
- My cue for any time to be terrific.
- For checker'd as is seen our human lot
- With good, and bad, and worse, alike prolific
- Of melancholy merriment, to quote
- Too much of one sort would be soporific, -- 710
- Without, or with, offence to friends or foes,
- I sketch your world exactly as it goes.

xc

- And one good action in the midst of crimes Is 'quite refreshing,' in the affected phrase
- Of these ambrosial, Pharisaic times,
- With all their pretty milk-and-water ways,
- And may serve therefore to bedew these rhymes,
  - A little scorch'd at present with the blaze
- Of conquest and its consequences, which
- Make epic poesy so rare and rich. 720

XCI

- Upon a taken bastion, where there lay
  - Thousands of slaughter'd men, a yet warm group
- Of murder'd women, who had found their way
  - To this vain refuge, made the good heart droop
- And shudder; while, as beautiful as May, A female child of ten years tried to stoop

And hide her little palpitating breast

Amidst the bodies full'd in bloody rest.

XCII

Two villanous Cossacques pursued the child With flashing eyes and weapons. match'd with them, 730

The rudest brute that roams Siberna's wild Has feelings pure and polish'd as a gem, —

The bear is civilised, the wolf is mild;

- And whom for this at last must we condemn?
- Their natures ? or their sovereigns, who employ

All arts to teach their subjects to destroy ?

XCIII

Their sabres glitter'd o'er her little head,

- Whence her fair hair rose twining with affright,
- Her hidden face was plunged amidst the dead.
  - When Juan caught a glimpse of this sad sight, 740
- I shall not say exactly what he said,

Because it might not solace 'ears polite;'

- But what he did, was to lay on their backs,
- The readiest way of reasoning with Cossacques.

XCIV

- One's hip he slash'd, and spht the other's shoulder,
  - And drove them with their brutal yells to seek
- If there might be chirurgeons who could solder
  - The wounds they richly merited, and shriek
- Their baffled rage and pain; while waxing colder
- As he turn'd o'er each pale and gory cheek, 750

Don Juan raised his little captive from

The heap a moment more had made her tomb.

xcv

- And she was chill as they, and on her face A slender streak of blood announced how near
- Her fate had been to that of all her race; For the same blow which laid her mother
- here Had scarr'd her brow, and left its crimson trace,

As the last link with all she had held dear;

But else unhurt, she open'd her large eyes, And gazed on Juan with a wild surprise

XCVI

- Just at this instant, while their eyes were fix'd 761
  - Upon each other, with dilated glance,
- In Juan's look, pain, pleasure, hope, fear, mix'd
  - With joy to save, and dread of some mischance
- Unto his protégée; while hers, transfix'd
- With infant terrors, glared as from a trance,

A pure, transparent, pale, yet radiant face, Like to a lighted alabaster vase; —

XCVII

- Up came John Johnson (I will not say 'Jack,'
  - For that were vulgar, cold, and commonplace 770
- On great occasions, such as an attack On cities, as hath been the present case).
- Up Johnson came, with hundreds at his back,

Exclaiming; - 'Juan ! Juan ! On, boy ! brace

Your arm, and I'll bet Moscow to a dollar

That you and I will win St. George's collar.

XCVIII

- 'The Seraskier is knock'd upon the head, But the stone bastion still remains, wherein
- The old Pacha sits among some hundreds dead,
- Smoking his pipe quite calmly 'midst the din 780
- Of our artillery and his own 't is said Our kill'd, already piled up to the chin,

Lie round the battery; but still it batters.

And grape in volleys, like a vineyard, scatters.

XCIX

- 'Then up with me !' But Juan answer'd, 'Look
- Upon this child I saved her must not leave
- Her life to chance; but point me out some nook
  - Of safety, where she less may shrink and grieve,

CANTO THE EIGHTH 891
And I am with you' — Whereon Johnson took A glance around — and shrugg'd — and twitch'd his sleeve 790 And black silk neckcloth — and rephed, 'You're right, Poor thing ! what's to be done? I'm puzzled quite' C Said Juan: 'Whatsoever is to be	Juan consented to march on through thunder, Which thuni'd at every step their ranks of men 820 And yet the rest rush'd eagerly — no wonder, For they were heated by the hope of gam, A thing which happens everywhere each day — No hero trusteth wholly to half pay.
Done, I'll not quit her till she seems secure Of present life a good deal more than we.' Quoth Johnson: ' Neuther will I quite ensure:	CIV And such is victory, and such is man ! At least nine tenths of what we call so; — God
But at the least you may die gloriously.' Juan replied: 'At least I will endure Whate'er is to be borne — but not resign This child, who is parentless, and therefore mine' 800 CI Johnson said: 'Juan, we've no time to	May have another name for half we scan As human beings, or his ways are odd. But to our subject: a brave Tartar khan — Or 'sultan,' as the author (to whose nod In prose I bend my humble verse) doth call 831 This chieftam — somehow would not yield at all.
lose; The child's a pretty child — a very	CV
pretty — I never saw such eyes — but hark! now choose Between your fame and feelings, pride and pity; — Hark! how the roar increases! — no excuse	But flank'd by five brave sons (such is poly- gamy, That she spawns warriors by the score, where none Are prosecuted for that false crime bigamy), He never would believe the city won
Will serve when there is plunder in a city; —	While courage clung but to a single twig. — Am I
I should be loth to march without you, but, By God ' we'll be too late for the first cut'	Describing Priam's, Peleus', or Jove's son? Neither — but a good, plain, old, temperate
CII	man,
But Juan was immoveable; until Johnson, who really loved him in his way, Pick'd out amongst his followers with some skill 811	Who fought with his five children in the van. 840 CVI
Such as he thought the least given up to prey;	To take him was the point. The truly brave, When they behold the brave oppress'd with olds

That they should all be shot on the next

But if she were deliver'd safe and sound,

They should at least have fifty rubles

CIII

In fair proportion with their comrades;-

And all allowances besides of plunder

day;

round,

then

- Are touch'd with a desire to shield and save; ---
  - A mixture of wild beasts and demigods
- Are they now furious as the sweeping wave,
  - Now moved with pity: even as sometimes nods

The rugged tree unto the summer wind,

Compassion breathes along the savage mind.

CVII But he would not be taken, and replied

- To all the propositions of surrender 850
- By mowing Christians down on every side, As obstinate as Swedish Charles at Bender.
- His five brave boys no less the foe defied;
- Whereon the Russian pathos grew less tender.

As being a virtue, like terrestrial patience, Apt to wear out on triffing provocations.

CVIII

And spite of Johnson and of Juan, who

- Expended all their Eastern phraseology In begging him, for God's sake, just to show
- So much less fight as might form an apology 860
- For them in saving such a desperate foe -He hew'd away, like doctors of theology
- When they dispute with sceptics; and with curses
- Struck at his friends, as babies beat their nurses.

CIX

Nay, he had wounded, though but slightly, both

Juan and Johnson; whereupon they fell, The first with sighs, the second with an oath, Upon his angry sultanship, pell-mell,

And all around were grown exceeding wroth

At such a pertinacious infidel, And pour'd upon him and his sons like rain,

Which they resisted like a sandy plain

CX

That drinks and still is dry. At last they perish'd -

His second son was levell'd by a shot;

His third was sabred; and the fourth, most cherish'd

Of all the five, on bayonets met his lot;

The fifth, who, by a Christian mother nourish'd,

Had been neglected, ill-used, and what not,

- Because deform'd, yet died all game and bottom,
- To save a sire who blush'd that he begot him 880

CXI

The eldest was a true and tameless Tartar, As great a scorner of the Nazarene

- As ever Mahomet pick'd out for a martyr, Who only saw the black-eyed girls in green,
- Who make the beds of those who won't take quarter
  - On earth, in Paradise; and when once seen,
- Those hours, like all other pretty creatures,

Do just whate'er they please, by dint of features

CXII

- And what they pleased to do with the young khan
  - In heaven I know not, nor pretend to guess ; 800
- But doubtless they prefer a fine young man To tough old heroes, and can do no less;
- And that's the cause no doubt why, if we scan
  - A field of battle's ghastly wilderness,
- For one rough, weather-beaten, veteran body,
- You'll find ten thousand handsome coxcombs bloody.

CXIII

Your houris also have a natural pleasure

In lopping off your lately married men,

- Before the bridal hours have danced their measure
  - And the sad, second moon grows dim again, 000
- Or dull repentance hath had dreary lessure To wish him back a bachelor now and then.
- And thus your houri (it may be) disputes
- Of these brief blossoms the immediate fruits

CXIV

- Thus the young khan, with houris in his sight,
  - Thought not upon the charms of four young brides,
- But bravely rush'd on his first heavenly night.

In short, howe'er our better faith derides,

- These black-eyed virgins make the Moslems fight,
- As though there were one heaven and none besides, ---910

Whereas, if all be true we hear of heaven

And hell, there must at least be six or seven.

CXV

- So fully flash'd the phantom on his eyes, That when the very lance was in his heart,
- He shouted 'Allah '' and saw Paradise
- With all its veil of mystery drawn apart, And bright eternity without disguise
- On his soul, like a ceaseless sunrise, dart:—
- With prophets, houris, angels, saints, descried
- In one voluptuous blaze, and then he died, 920

CXVI

- But with a heavenly rapture on his face
- The good old khan, who long had ceased to see
- Houris, or aught except his florid race
- Who grew like cedars round him gloriously — When he beheld his latest hero grace
- The earth, which he became like a fell'd tree.
- Paused for a moment, from the fight, and cast
- A glance on that slain son, his first and last.

CXVII

- The soldiers, who beheld him drop his point,
  - Stopp'd as if once more willing to concede
- Quarter, in case he bade them not 'aroynt !' As he before had done He did not heed
- Their pause nor signs : his heart was out of joint,
  - And shook (till now unshaken) like a reed,
- As he look'd down upon his children gone,
- And felt though done with life he was alone.

CXVIII

- But 't was a tr sient tremor : with a spring
  - Upon the Russian steel his breast he flung,
- As carelessly as hurls the moth her wing Against the light wherein she dies : he clung 940
- Closer, that all the deadlier they might wring,
  - Unto the bayonets which had pierced his young;

And throwing back a dim look on his sons, In one wide wound pour'd forth his soul at once.

CXIX

- 'T is strange enough the rough, tough soldiers, who
- Spared neither sex nor age in their career Of carnage, when this old man was pierced through,
- And lay before them with his children near,
- Touch'd by the heroism of him they slew, Were melted for a moment : though no tear 950
- Flow'd from their bloodshot eyes, all red with strife,
- They honour'd such determined scorn of life.

CXX

- But the stone bastion still kept up its fire, Where the chief pacha calmly held his
- post: Some twenty times he made the Russ re-
- tire,

And baffled the assaults of all their host; At length he condescended to inquire

If yet the city's rest were won or lost; And being told the latter, sent a bey

- The answer Biber' manual to bey
- To answer Ribas' summons to give way. 960

CXXI

- In the mean time, cross-legg'd, with great sang-froid,
  - Among the scorching ruins he sat smoking
- Tobacco on a little carpet; -- Troy
  - Saw nothing like the scene around: yet looking
- With martial stoicism, nought seem'd to annoy
  - His stern philosophy; but gently stroking
- His beard, he puff'd his pipe's ambrosial gales,
- As if he had three lives, as well as tails.

CXXII

- The town was taken whether he might yield 969
- Himself or bastion, little matter'd now : His stubborn valour was no future shield.
  - Ismail's no more ! The crescent's silver bow

- Sunk, and the crimson cross glared o'er the field,
- But red with no redeeming gore: the glow Of burning streets, like moonlight on the water.
- Was imaged back in blood, the sea of slaughter.

CXXIII

All that the mind would shrink from of excesses;

All that the body perpetrates of bad;

- All that we read, hear, dream, of man's distresses;
  - All that the devil would do if run stark mad; 980
- All that defies the worst which pen expresses;

All by which hell is peopled, or as sad

- As hell mere mortals who their power abuse —
- Was here (as heretofore and since) let loose.

CXXIV

- If here and there some transient trait of pity Was shown, and some more noble heart broke through
- Its bloody bond, and saved perhaps some pretty

Child, or an aged, helpless man or two — What's this in one annihilated city,

Where thousand loves, and ties, and duties grew?

Cockneys of London ! Muscadins of Paris ! Just ponder what a pious pastime war is

CXXV

Think how the joys of reading a Gazette

Are purchased by all agomes and crimes:

- Or if these do not move you, don't forget Such doom may be your own in aftertimes.
- Meantime the Taxes, Castlereagh, and Debt,
  - Are hints as good as sermons, or as rhymes.
- Read your own hearts and Ireland's present story,
- Then feed her famine fat with Wellesley's glory.

CXXVI

But still there is unto a patriot nation, Which loves so well its country and its king, A subject of sublimest exultation -

Bear it, ye Muses, on your brightest wing ! Howe'er the mighty locust, Desolation,

- Strip your green fields, and to your harvests cling,
- Gaunt famine never shall approach the throne —
- Though Ireland starve, great George weighs twenty stone.

CXXVII

- But let me put an end unto my theme:
  - There was an end of Ismail hapless town !
- Far flash'd her burning towers o'er Danube's stream,
- And redly ran his blushing waters down.
- The horrid war-whoop and the shriller scream
  - Rose still, but fainter were the thunders grown:

Of forty thousand who had mann'd the wall, Some hundreds breathed — the rest were silent all !

CXXVIII

- In one thing ne'ertheless 't is fit to praise The Russian army upon this occasion,
- A virtue much in fashion now-a-days, 1019 And therefore worthy of commemoration.
- The topic 's tender, so shall be my phrase Perhaps the season's chill, and their long station
- In winter's depth, or want of rest and victual,
- Had made them chaste; they ravish'd very little.

CXXIX

- Much did they slay, more plunder, and no less
- Might here and there occur some violation
- In the other line; but not to such excess As when the French, that dissipated nation,
- Take towns by storm: no causes can I guess, Except cold weather and commiseration;
- But all the ladies, save some twenty score, Were almost as much virgins as before.

CXXX

- Some odd mistakes, too, happen'd in the dark,
  - Which show'd a want of lanterns, or of taste ---

- Indeed the smoke was such they scarce could mark
  - Their friends from foes, besides such things from haste
- Occur, though rarely, when there is a spark Of light to save the venerably chaste.
- But six old damsels, each of seventy years, Were all deflower'd by different grenadiers

CXXXI

But on the whole their continence was great; So that some disappointment there ensued

- To those who had felt the inconvenient state Of 'single blessedness,' and thought it good
- (Since it was not their fault, but only fate, To bear these crosses) for each waning prude

To make a Roman sort of Sabine wedding, Without the expense and the suspense of bedding

CXXXII

Some voices of the buxom middle-aged

- Were also heard to wonder in the din 1050 (Widows of forty were these birds long caged)
- 'Wherefore the ravishing did not begin !' But while the thirst for gore and plunder raged,

There was small leisure for superfluous sm; But whether they escaped or no, lies hid In darkness — I can only hope they did.

CXXXIII

Suwarrow now was conqueror — a match For Timour or for Zinghis in his trade.

- While mosques and streets, beneath his eyes, like thatch
  - Blazed, and the cannon's roar was scarce allay'd, 1060
- With bloody hands he wrote his first despatch;

And here exactly follows what he said: — 'Glory to God and to the Empress!'

- (Powers
- Eternal'! such names mingled ') 'Ismail's ours.'

CXXXIV

- Methinks these are the most tremendous words,
  - Since 'Menè, Menè, Tekel,' and 'Upharsin,'

- Which hands or pens have ever traced of swords.
  - Heaven help me ' I'm but little of a parson.
- What Daniel read was short-hand of the Lord's,
- Severe, sublime; the prophet wrote no farce on 1070
- The fate of nations; but this Russ so witty
- Could rhyme, like Nero, o'er a burning city.

CXXXV

He wrote this Polar melody, and set it,

- Duly accompanied by shrieks and groans, Which few will sing, I trust, but none forget it —
  - For I will teach, if possible, the stones
- To rise against earth's tyrants. Never let it
  - Be said that we still truckle unto thrones; ---
- But ye our children's children ! think how we
- Show'd what things were before the world was free ! 1080

CXXXVI

That hour is not for us, but 't is for you:

- And as, in the great joy of your millennium,
- You hardly will believe such things were true
  - As now occur, I thought that I would pen you 'em;
- - dam you 'em
- More than you scorn the savages of yore,
- Who painted their bare limbs, but not with gore.

CXXXVII

- And when you hear historians talk of thrones,
- And those that sate upon them, let it be 1090
- As we now gaze upon the mammoth's bones,
  - And wonder what old world such things could see,
- Or hieroglyphics on Egyptian stones, The pleasant riddles of futurity —
- Guessing at what shall happily be hid, As the real purpose of a pyramid.

- Reader ! I have kept my word, at least so far
  - As the first Canto promised. You have now

Had sketches of love, tempest, travel, war — All very accurate, you must allow, 1100

- And epic, if plain truth should prove no bar;
  - For I have drawn much less with a long bow

Than my forerunners Carelessly I sing,

But Phœbus lends me now and then a string,

CXXXIX

With which I still can harp, and carp, and fiddle

What farther hath befallen or may befall The hero of this grand poetic riddle,

I by and by may tell you, if at all:

- But now I choose to break off in the middle,
  - Worn out with battering Ismail's stubborn wall, 1110

While Juan is sent off with the despatch,

For which all Petersburgh is on the watch.

CXL

- This special honour was conferr'd, because He had behaved with courage and humanity —
- Which last men like, when they have time to pause

From their ferocities produced by vanity His little captive gain'd him some applause

For saving her amidst the wild insanity Of carnage, — and I think he was more glad in her Safety, than his new order of St. Vladimir.

CXLI

- The Moslem orphan went with her protector, 1121
  - For she was homeless, houseless, helpless; all

Her friends, like the sad family of Hector, Had perish'd in the field or by the wall:

- Her very place of birth was but a spectre Of what it had been; there the Muezzin's call
- To prayer was heard no more ! and Juan wept,
- And made a vow to shield her, which he kept.

CANTO THE NINTH

т

OH, Wellington! (or 'Villamton'-for Fame

Sounds the heroic syllables both ways;

- France could not even conquer your great name,
  - But punn'd it down to this facetious phrase —
- Beating or beaten she will laugh the same), You have obtain'd great pensions and much praise

Glory like yours should any dare gainsay,

Humanity would rise, and thunder 'Nay !'

11

- I don't think that you used Kinnaird quite well
  - In Marinèt's affair in fact, 't was shabby, ¹⁰
- And like some other things won't do to tell Upon your tomb in Westminster's old abbey.
- Upon the rest 't is not worth while to dwell, Such tales being for the tea-hours of some tabby;
- But though your years as man tend fast to zero,
- In fact your grace is still but a young hero.

III

- Though Britain owes (and pays you too) so much,
  - Yet Europe doubtless owes you greatly more.
- You have repair'd Legitimacy's crutch,
- A prop not quite so certain as before: 20 The Spanish, and the French, as well as Dutch,

Have seen, and felt, how strongly you restore;

- And Waterloo has made the world your debtor
- (I wish your bards would sing it rather better).

IV

- You are 'the best of cut-throats:'- do not start ;
  - The phrase is Shakspeare's, and not misapplied:
- War's a brain-spattering, windpipe-slitting art,

Unless her cause by right be sanctified.

CANTO THE NINTH 8
If you have acted once a generous part, The world, not the world's masters, will decide, And I shall be delighted to learn who, Save you and yours, have gain'd by Water-	Not leaving even his funeral expenses: George Washington had thanks a nought beside, Except the all-cloudless glory (which for men's is)
100?	To free his country: Pitt too had l pride,
v I am no flatterer — you've supp'd full of	And as a high-soul'd minister of state is Renown'd for running Great Britain grat flattery: They say you like it too — 't is no great	IX wonder. He whose whole life has been assault and battery, At last may get a little tired of thunder;	Never had mortal man such opportunity, Except Napoleon, or abused it more: You might have freed fallen Europe fro the unity
And swallowing eulogy much more than satire, he	Of tyrants, and been blest from shore shore:
May like being praised for every lucky blunder,	And now — what is your fame? Shall t Muse tune it ye?
Call'd 'Saviour of the Nations' - not yet saved,	Now — that the rabble's first vain show are o'er?
And 'Europe's Liberator' — still enslaved.	Go! hear it in your famish'd countr
VI I've done. Now go and dune from off the	Behold the world ' and curse your v tories !
plate 41	tories :
Presented by the Prince of the Brazils,	x
And send the sentinel before your gate A slice or two from your luxurious meals:	As these new cantos touch on warlike fea To you the unflattering Muse deigns inscribe
He fought, but has not fed so well of late Some hunger, too, they say the people feels.—	Truths, that you will not read in the ( zettes,
There is no doubt that you deserve your ration,	But which 't is time to teach the hirel: tribe
But pray give back a little to the nation.	Who fatten on their country's gore, a debts,
VII	Must be recited, and — without a brib
I don't mean to reflect — a man so great as You, my lord duke ! is far above reflec-	You did great things; but not being gr in mind,
The high Roman fashion, too, of Cincin- natus,	Have left undone the greatest — and m kind.
With modern history has but small con-	XI
nection	Death laughs - Go ponder o'er the sk
Though as an Irishman you love potatoes, You need not take them under your di-	eton With which men image out the unkno

- rection;
- And half a million for your Sabine farm Is rather dear !--- I'm sure I mean no
  - harm.

VIII

- Great men have always scorn'd great recompenses:
  - Epaminondas saved his Thebes, and died,

- nd 60
- ew
  - his

tis.

- $\mathbf{m}$
- to
- he
  - uts
- 7° y's
- -217
  - ts, to
- 3a-
- ing
- nd

- eat
- an-80
- cel-
- wr thing
- That hides the past world, like to a set sun
- Which still elsewhere may rouse a brighter spring — Death laughs at all you weep for: — look
  - upon
  - This hourly dread of all ! whose threaten'd sting

- Turns life to terror, even though in its sheath:
- Mark how its lipless mouth grins without breath :

XII

- Mark how it laughs and scorns at all you are!
- And yet was what you are from ear to ear 90
- It laughs not there is now no fleshy bar So call'd; the Antic long hath ceased to hear,
- But still he smiles; and whether near or far,
  - He strips from man that mantle (far more dear

Than even the tailor's), his incarnate skin,

White, black, or copper — the dead bones will grin

XIII

And thus Death laughs, — it is sad meriiment,

But still it is so; and with such example Why should not Life be equally content

- With his superior, in a smile to trample 100
- Upon the nothings which are daily spent Like bubbles on an ocean much less ample

Than the eternal deluge, which devours

Suns as rays — worlds like atoms — years like hours?

XIV

- 'To be, or not to be ? that is the question,' Says Shakspeare, who just now is much m fashion.
- 1 am neither Alexander nor Hephæstion,
- Nor ever had for abstract fame much passion;
- But would much rather have 2 sound digestion
  - Than Buonaparte's cancer could I dash on
- Through fifty victories to shame or fame -
- Without a stomach what were a good name?

XV

•0 dura ilia messorum !'--'Oh

Ye rigid guts of reapers !' I translate For the great benefit of those who know

What indigestion is - that inward fate

- Which makes all Styx through one small hver flow.
- A peasant's sweat is worth his lord's estate:
- Let this one toil for bread that rack for rent,
- He who sleeps best may be the most con tent. 120

XVI

- ' To be, or not to be?' Ere I decide,
- I should be glad to know that which is being?
- 'T is true we speculate both far and wide, And deem, because we see, we are allseeing
- For my part, I'll enlist on neither side,

Until I see both sides for once agreemg For me, I sometimes think that life is death, Rather than life a mere affair of breath

XVII

'Que scais-je?' was the motto of Montaigne,

As also of the first academicians 130 That all is dubious which man may attain,

- Was one of their most favourite positions There's no such thing as certainty, that's
- plain
- As any of Mortality's conditions;
- So little do we know what we're about in
- This world, I doubt if doubt itself be doubting.

XVIII

- It is a pleasant voyage perhaps to float, Like Pyrrho, on a sea of speculation;
- But what if carrying sail capsize the boat? Your wise men don't know much of navigation;
- And swimming long in the abyss of thought Is apt to tire: a calm and shallow station
- Well nigh the shore, where one stoops down and gathers
- Some pretty shell, is best for moderate bathers.

XIX

- 'But heaven,' as Cassio says, ' is above all No more of this, then, — let us pray !' We have
- Souls to save, since Eve's slip and Adam's fall,
  - Which tumbled all mankind into the grave,

Besides fish, beasts, and birds. 'The spar- row's fall	Much flattery — even Voltaire's, and that's a pity.
Is special providence,' though how it gave	For me, I deem an absolute autocrat Not a barbarian, but much worse than that
Offence, we know not; probably it perch'd	XXIV
Upon the tree which Eve so fondly search'd. xx	And I will war, at least in words (and — should Oh, ye immortal gods ! what is theogony ? Oh, thou too, mortal man ! what is	My chance so happen — deeds), with all who war philanthropy ? Oh, world ! which was and is, what is cos- mogony ?	With Thought; — and of Thought's foes by far most rude, Tyrants and sycophants have been and are.
Some people have accused me of misan- thropy;	I know not who may conquer : if I could Have such a prescience, it should be no
And yet I know no more than the mahogany That forms this desk, of what they mean; lykanthropy	bar 190 To this my plain, sworn, downright detes- tation
I comprehend, for without transformation Men become wolves on any slight occasion.	Of every depotism in every nation.
How become were on any might coordinate	XXV
XXI	It is not that I adulate the people:
But I, the mildest, meekest of mankind, 161 Like Moses, or Melancthon, who have ne'er	Without me, there are demagogues enough, And infidels, to pull down every steeple,
Done anything exceedingly unkind, — And (though I could not now and then	And set up in their stead some proper stuff
forbear	Whether they may sow scepticism to reap

Following the bent of body or of mind)

Have always had a tendency to spare, Why do they call me misanthrope? Because They hate me, not 1 them  $\cdot$  — and here we'll pause.

XXII

'T is time we should proceed with our good poem,-

For I maintain that it is really good, 170 Not only in the body but the proem,

However little both are understood

Just now, - but by and by the Truth will show 'em

Herself in her sublimest attitude:

And till she doth, I fain must be content To share her beauty and her banishment.

XXIII

- Our hero (and, I trust, kind reader, yours)
- Was left upon his way to the chief city Of the unmortal Peter's polish'd boors
  - Who still have shown themselves more brave than witty. 180
- I know its mighty empire now allures

they may sow scepticism to reap hell.

As is the Christian dogma rather rough, I do not know; - I wish men to be free

As much from mobs as kings — from you as me. 200

XXVI

The consequence is, being of no party,

- I shall offend all parties: never mind !
- My words, at least, are more sincere and hearty

Than if I sought to sail before the wind. He who has nought to gain can have small art: he Who neither wishes to be bound nor bind, May still expatiate freely, as will I,

Nor give my voice to slavery's jackal cry.

XXVII

- That's an appropriate simile, that jackal ; ---I've heard them in the Ephesian ruins howl
- By night, as do that mercenary pack all, Power's base purveyors, who for pickings prowl,
- And scent the prey their masters would attack all.

However, the poor jackals are less foul (As being the brave hons' keen providers) Than human insects, catering for spiders.

XXVIII

- Raise but an arm ! 't will brush their web away,
  - And without that, their poison and their claws
- Are useless. Mind, good people! what I say
  - (Or rather peoples) go on without pause ! _____220

The web of these tarantulas each day

Increases, till you shall make common cause

None, save the Spanish fly and Attic bee, As yet are strongly stinging to be free.

XXIX

- Don Juan, who had shone in the late slaughter,
- Was left upon his way with the despatch, Where blood was talk'd of as we would of water;
- And carcasses that lay as thick as thatch
- O'er silenced cities, merely served to flatter Fair Catherine's pastime — who look'd
- on the match 230 Between these nations as a main of cocks,
- Wherein she liked her own to stand like rocks.

XXX

And there in a kibitka he roll'd on

- (A cursed sort of carriage without springs,
- Which on rough roads leaves scarcely a whole bone),

Pondering on glory, chivalry, and kings,

And orders, and on all that he had done — And wishing that post-horses had the wings

Of Pegasus, or at the least post-chaises

Had feathers, when a traveller on deep ways is. 240

XXXI

At every jolt — and they were many — still He turn'd his eyes upon his little charge,

- As if he wish'd that she should fare less ill Than he, in these sad highways left at large
- To ruts, and flints, and lovely Nature's skill, Who is no paviour, nor admits a barge

On her canals, where God takes sea and land,

Fishery and farm, both into his own hand.

XXXII

- At least he pays no rent, and has best right To be the first of what we used to call
- 'Gentlemen farmers'— a race worn out quite, 251
  - Since lately there have been no rents at all,
- And 'gentlemen' are in a piteous plight,
- And 'farmers' can't raise Ceres from her fall:
- She fell with Buonaparte What strange thoughts
- Arise, when we see emperors fall with oats !

XXXIII

- But Juan turn'd his eyes on the sweet child Whom he had saved from slaughter what a trophy !
- Oh ! ye who build up monuments, defiled
- With gore, like Nadir Shah, that costive sophy, 260
- Who, after leaving Hindostan a wild, And scarce to the Mogul a cup of coffee
- To soothe his woes withal, was slain, the sinner!
- Because he could no more digest his dinner; —

XXXIV

Oh ye ! or we ! or he ! or she ! reflect,

- That one life saved, especially if young Or pretty, is a thing to recollect
- Far sweeter than the greenest laurels sprung
- From the manure of human clay, though deck'd

With all the praises ever said or sung: 270 Though hymn'd by every harp, unless within

Your heart joins chorus, Fame is but a din.

XXXV

- Oh ' ye great authors luminous, voluminous !
  - Ye twice ten hundred thousand daily scribes!
- Whose pamphlets, volumes, newspapers, illumine us !
  - Whether you're paid by government in bribes,

- To prove the public debt is not consuming us —
  - Or, roughly treading on the 'courtier's kibes'
- With clownish heel, your popular circulation
- Feeds you by printing half the realm's starvation; — 280

XXXVI

Oh, ye great authors! — 'Apropos des bottes,' —

I have forgotten what I meant to say,

As sometimes have been greater sages' lots;

'T was something calculated to allay

- All wrath in barracks, palaces, or cots:
- Certes it would have been but thrown away,

And that's one comfort for my lost advice, Although no doubt it was beyond all price.

XXXVII

- But let it go: it will one day be found With other relics of 'a former world,'
- When this world shall be former, underground, 291
  - Thrown topsy-turvy, twisted, crisp'd, and curl'd,
- Baked, fried, or burnt, turn'd inside-out, or drown'd,
  - Like all the worlds before, which have been hurl'd

First out of, and then back again to chaos, The superstratum which will overlay us.

XXXVIII

So Cuvier says; — and then shall come again

Unto the new creation, rising out

- From our old crash, some mystic, ancient strain
  - Of things destroy'd and left in airy doubt: 300
- Like to the notions we now entertain Of Titans, guants, fellows of about
- Some hundred feet in height, not to say miles.
- And mammoths, and your winged crocodiles.

XXXIX

- Think if then George the Fourth should be dug up !
  - How the new worldlings of the then new East

- Will wonder where such animals could sup!
  - (For they themselves will be but of the least:
- Even worlds miscarry, when too oft they pup, 309

And every new creation hath decreased

In size, from overworking the material — Men are but maggots of some huge Earth's burial.)

XL

- How will to these young people, just thrust out
  - From some fresh Paradise, and set to plough,
- And dig, and sweat, and turn themselves about,
  - And plant, and reap, and spin, and grind, and sow,
- Till all the arts at length are brought about,
  - Especially of war and taxing, how,
- I say, will these great relics, when they see 'em,
- Look like the monsters of a new museum?

XLI

- But I am apt to grow too metaphysical: 327 'The time is out of joint,' — and so am I;
- I quite forget this poem's merely quizzical,
- And deviate into matters rather dry.
- I ne'er decide what I shall say, and this I call
- Much too poetical: men should know why
- They write, and for what end; but, note or text,
- I never know the word which will come next.

XLII

- So on I ramble, now and then narrating, Now pondering — it is time we should
- narrate. 330 I left Don Juan with his horses baiting —
  - Now we'll get o'er the ground at a great rate.
- I shall not be particular in stating His journey, we've so many tours of late:
- Suppose him then at Petersburgh; suppose That pleasant capital of painted snows;

XLIII

Suppose him in a handsome uniform, --A scarlet coat, black facings, a long plume,

Waving, like sails new shiver'd in a storm, Over a cock'd hat in a crowded room, 340

- And brilliant breeches, bright as a Cairn Gorme,
- Of yellow casimere we may presume,
- White stocking drawn uncurdled as new milk
- O'er limbs whose symmetry set off the silk;

XLIV

- Suppose him sword by side, and hat in hand,
  - Made up by youth, fame, and an army tailor -
- That great enchanter, at whose rod's command
  - Beauty springs forth, and Nature's self turns paler,
- Seeing how Art can make her work more grand
  - (When she don't pin men's limbs in like a gaoler),-
- Behold him placed as if upon a pillar! He
- Seems Love turn'd a lieutenant of artillery. ---

XLV

- His bandage slipp'd down into a cravat;
- His wings subdued to epaulettes; his quiver
- Shrunk to a scabbard, with his arrows at
- His side as a small sword, but sharp as ever;
- His bow converted into a cock'd hat;
- But still so like, that Psyche were more clever
- Than some wives (who make blunders no less stupid)
- If she had not mistaken him for Cupid. 360

XLVI

- The courtiers stared, the ladies whisper'd, and
  - The empress smiled: the reigning favourite frown'd -
- I quite forget which of them was in hand Just then; as they are rather numerous found,
- Who took by turns that difficult command Since first her majesty was singly crown'd:

But they were mostly nervous six-foot fel lows,

All fit to make a Patagonian jealous.

XLVII

- Juan was none of these, but slight and slim, Blushing and beardless; and yet ne'er-
- theless 370 There was a something in his turn of limb, And still more in his eye, which seem'd
- to express, That though he look'd one of the seraphim,
- There lurk'd a man beneath the spirit's dress
- Besides, the empress sometimes liked a boy,
- And had just buried the fair-faced Lanskoi.

XLVIII

No wonder then that Yermoloff, or Momonoff,

Or Scherbatoff, or any other off

Or on, might dread her majesty had not room enough

Within her bosom (which was not too tough) 380

- For a new flame; a thought to cast of gloom enough
  - Along the aspect, whether smooth or rough,
- Of him who, in the language of his station, Then held that 'high official situation.'

XLIX

- O, gentle ladies ! should you seek to know The import of this diplomatic phrase,
- Bid Ireland's Londonderry's Marquess show His parts of speech; and in the strange displays
- Of that odd string of words, all in a row,
- Which none divine, and every one obeys, Perhaps you may pick out some queer no meaning,
  - 301
- Of that weak wordy harvest the sole gleaning.

L

- I think I can explain myself without That sad inexplicable beast of prey --
- That Sphinx, whose words would ever be a doubt,
  - Did not his deeds unriddle them each day -

That monstrous hieroglyphic — that long spout

Of blood and water, leaden Castlereagh ! And here I must an anecdote relate, But luckily of no great length or weight.

11

- An English lady ask'd of an Italian, 401 What were the actual and official duties
- Of the strange thing some women set a value on,
  - Which hovers oft about some married beauties,
- Called 'Cavalier servente?' a Pygmalion Whose statues warm (I fear, alas ! too true 't is)
- Beneath his art. The dame, press'd to disclose them,
- Said 'Lady, I beseech you to suppose them.'

LII

And thus I supplicate your supposition,

- And mildest, matron-like interpretation, Of the imperial favourite's condition. 411 'T was a high place, the highest in the nation
- In fact, if not in rank; and the suspicion Of any one's attaining to his station,
- No doubt gave pain, where each new pair of shoulders,
- If rather broad, made stocks rise and their holders.

LIII

- Juan, I said, was a most beauteous boy, And had retain'd his boyish look beyond
- The usual hirsute seasons which destroy, With beards and whiskers, and the like, the fond
- Parisian aspect which upset old Troy
- And founded Doctors' Commons: -- I have conn'd
- The history of divorces, which, though chequer'd,
- Calls Ilion's the first damages on record

LIV

- And Catherine, who loved all things (save her lord,
- Who was gone to his place), and pass'd for much
- Admiring those (by dainty dames abhorr'd) Gigantic gentlemen, yet had a touch

Of sentiment; and he she most adored

Was the lamented Lanskoi, who was such A lover as had cost her many a tear, 431 And yet but made a middling grenadier.

LV

- Oh thou 'teterrima causa' of all 'belli'— Thou gate of life and death—thou nondescript!
- Whence is our exit and our entrance, well I
  - May pause in pondering how all souls are dipt
- In thy perennial fountain: how man fell I Know not, since knowledge saw her branches stript
- Of her first frunt; but how he falls and rises
- Since, thou hast settled beyond all surmises. 440

LVI

Some call thee 'the worst cause of war,' but I

Maintam thou art the best: for after all From thee we come, to thee we go, and why

To get at thee not batter down a wall,

- Or waste a world ? since no one can deny
  - Thou dost replenish worlds both great and small:
- With, or without thee, all things at a stand Are, or would be, thou sea of life's dry land !

LVII

- Catherine, who was the grand epitome
- Of that great cause of war, or peace, or what 450
- You please (it causes all the things which be, So you may take your choice of this or that) —

Catherine, I say, was very glad to see

- The handsome herald, on whose plumage sat
- Victory; and pausing as she saw him kneel With his despatch, forgot to break the seal.

LVIII

- Then recollecting the whole empress, nor
  - Forgetting quite the woman (which composed
- At least three parts of this great whole), she tore
  - The letter open with an air which posed

The court, that watch'd each look her visage wore, 461

Until a royal smile at length disclosed

Fair weather for the day. Though rather spacious,

Her face was noble, her eyes fine, mouth gracious.

LIX

Great joy was hers, or rather joys: the first Was a ta'en city, thirty thousand slain.

Glory and triumph o'er her aspect burst, As an East Indian sunrise on the main.

- These quench'd a moment her ambition's thirst -
- So Arab deserts drink in summer's rain: In vain !-- As fall the dews on guenchless
- sands,
- Blood only serves to wash Ambition's hands !

$\mathbf{L}\mathbf{X}$

Her next amusement was more fanciful;

She smiled at mad Suwarrow's rhymes, who threw

Into a Russian couplet rather dull

The whole gazette of thousands whom he slew.

- Her third was feminine enough to annul
- The shudder which runs naturally through
- Our veins, when things call'd sovereigns think it best
- To kill, and generals turn it into jest. 480

LXI

The two first feelings ran their course complete,

And lighted first her eye, and then her mouth:

- The whole court look'd immediately most sweet,
  - Like flowers well water'd after a long drouth

But when on the lieutenant at her feet

Her majesty, who liked to gaze on youth Almost as much as on a new despatch,

Glanced mildly, all the world was on the watch.

LXII

- Though somewhat large, exuberant, and truculent,
  - When wroth while pleased, she was as fue a figure 490

As those who like things rosy, ripe, and succulent,

Would wish to look on, while they are in vigour

- She could repay each amatory look you lent
  - With interest, and in turn was wont with rigour

To exact of Cupid's bills the full amount

At sight, nor would permit you to discount.

LXIII

With her the latter, though at times convenient,

Was not so necessary; for they tell

That she was handsome, and though fierce look'd lenient,

And always used her favourites too well.

- If once beyond her boudour's precincts in ye went, 501
- Your 'fortune' was in a fair way 'to swell A man' (as Giles says); for though she would widow all

Nations, she liked man as an individual.

LXIV

What a strange thing is man! and what a stranger

Is woman! What a whirlwind is her head,

- And what a whirlpool full of depth and danger
- Is all the rest about her ! Whether wed Or widow, maid or mother, she can change her
  - Mind like the wind: whatever she has said

Or done, is light to what she 'll say or do; -

The oldest thing on record, and yet new!

LXV

Oh Catherine ! (for of all interjections,

- To thee both oh! and ah! belong of right
- In love and war) how odd are the connections
  - Of human thoughts, which jostle in their flight !
- Just now yours were cut out in different sections.

First Ismail's capture caught your fancy quite;

- Next of new knights, the fresh and glorious batch;
- And thirdly he who brought you the despatch ! 520

LXVI

- Shakspeare talks of 'the herald Mercury New lighted on a heaven-kissing hill,'
- And some such visions cross'd her majesty, While her young herald knelt before her
- still. 'T is very true the hill seem'd rather high,
- For a lieutenant to climb up; but skill Smooth'd even the Simplon's steep, and by
- God's blessing With youth and health all kisses are 'heaven-kissing'

LXVII

- Her majesty look'd down, the youth look'd
  - And so they fell in love; she with his face.
- His grace, his God-knows-what: for Cupid's cup

With the first draught intoxicates apace,

A quintessential laudanum or 'black drop,' Which makes one drunk at once, without the base

Expedient of full bumpers; for the eye

In love drunks all life's fountains (save tears) dry.

LXVIII

fle, on the other hand, if not in love,

- Fell into that no less imperious passion, Self-love — which, when some sort of thing
- above Ourselves, a singer, dancer, much in fash-
- 10n, 540
- Or duchess, princess, empress, 'deigns to prove'
  - ('T is Pope's phrase) a great longing, though a rash one,

For one especial person out of many,

Makes us believe ourselves as good as any

LXIX

Besides, he was of that delighted age

- Which makes all female ages equal when
- We don't much care with whom we may engage,

As bold as Daniel in the lion's den,

- So that we can our native sun assuage
- In the next ocean, which may flow just then, 550
- To make a twilight in, just as Sol's heat is Quench'd in the lap of the salt sea, or Thetis.

LXX

- And Catherine (we must say thus much for Catherine),
- Though bold and bloody, was the kind of thing
- Whose temporary passion was quite flattering,

Because each lover look'd a sort of king, Made up upon an amatory pattern,

A royal husband in all save the ring -

- Which, being the damn'dest part of matrimony,
- Seem'd taking out the sting to leave the honey. 560

LXXI

- And when you add to this, her womanhood In its meridian, her blue eyes or gray
- (The last, if they have soul, are quite as good,
- Or better, as the best examples say:
- Napoleon's, Mary's (queen of Scotland), should Lend to that colour a transcendent ray; And Pallas also sanctions the same hue, Too wise to look through optics black or blue) ---

LXXII

- Her sweet smile, and her then majestic figure,
  - Her plumpness, her imperial condescension, 570
- Her preference of a boy to men much bygger
- (Fellows whom Messalina's self would pension),
- Her prime of life, just now in juicy vigour With other extras, which we need not mention. —

All these, or any one of these, explain Enough to make a stripling very vain.

LXXIII

And that's enough, for love is vanity, Selfish in its beginning as its end.

Except where 't is a mere insanity,

A maddening spirit which would strive to blend 580

Itself with beauty's frail inanity,

On which the passion's self seems to depend.

And hence some heathenish philosophers

Make love the main spring of the universe.

LXXIV

Besides Platonic love, besides the love

- Of God, the love of sentiment, the loving Of faithful pairs (I needs must rhyme with dove,
  - That good old steam-boat which keeps verses moving
- 'Gainst reason Reason ne'er was handand-glove
  - With rhyme, but always leant less to improving 590

The sound than sense) — beside all these pretences

To love, there are those things which words name senses;

LXXV

Those movements, those improvements in our bodies

Which make all bodies anxious to get out Of their own sand-pits, to mix with a goddess, For such all women are at first no doubt

How beautiful that moment ! and how odd is

That fever which precedes the languid rout

Of our sensations ! What a curious way 599 The whole thing is of clothing souls in clay !

LXXVI

The noblest kind of love is love Platonical, To end or to begin with; the next grand

Is that which may be christen'd love canonical,

Because the clergy take the thing in hand; The third sort to be noted in our chronicle

As flourishing in every Christian land, Is when chaste matrons to their other ties Add what may be call'd marriage in disguise.

LXXVII

Well, we won't analyse — our story must Tell for itself: the sovereign was smitten,

- Juan much flatter'd by her love, or lust; I cannot stop to alter words once writ-
- ten, ⁶¹² And the two are so mix'd with human
- dust,
- That he who names one, both perchance may hit on:
- But in such matters Russia's mighty empress
- Behaved no better than a common sempstress.

LXXVIII

The whole court melted into one wide whisper,

And all lips were applied unto all ears !

- The elder ladies' wrinkles curl'd much crisper
- As they beheld; the younger cast some leers 620
- On one another, and each lovely lisper Smiled as she talk'd the matter o'er; but
- tears

Of rivalship rose in each clouded eye

Of all the standing army who stood by.

LXXIX

All the ambassadors of all the powers

- Enquired, Who was this very new young man,
- Who promised to be great in some few hours?
  - Which is full soon though life is but a span.
- Already they beheld the silver showers

Of rubles rain, as fast as specie can, 630 Upon his cabinet, besides the presents

Of several ribands, and some thousand peasants.

LXXX

- Catherine was generous, all such ladies are:
  - Love, that great opener of the heart and all
- The ways that lead there, be they near or far,
- Above, below, by turnpikes great or small, --
- Love (though she had a cursed taste for war,

And was not the best wife, unless we call

- Such Clytemnestra, though perhaps 't is better
- That one should die, than two drag on the fetter) 640

LXXXI

- Love had made Catherine make each lover's fortune,
- Unlike our own half-chaste Elizabeth,
- Whose avarice all disbursements did importune,
- If history, the grand liar, ever saith
- The truth; and though griet her old age might shorten,

Because she put a favourite to death,

v

- We left our hero, Juan, in the bloom
  - Of favouritism, but not yet in the blush;
- And far be it from my Muses to presume (For I have more than one Muse at a push)
- To follow him beyond the drawing-room:
- It is enough that Fortune found him flush
- Of youth, and vigour, beauty, and those things
- Which for an instant clip enjoyment's wings. 40

VI

- But soon they grow again and leave their nest.
- 'Oh!' saith the Psalmist, 'that I had a dove's
- Pinions to flee away, and be at rest !'
- And who that recollects young years and loves, —
- Though hoary now, and with a withering breast,

And palsied fancy, which no longer roves Beyond its dimm'd eye's sphere, — but would much rather

Sigh like his son, than cough like his grandfather?

VII

But sighs subside, and tears (even widows') shrink, 49

Like Arno in the summer, to a shallow,

- So narrow as to shame their wintry brink, Which threatens inundations deep and yellow!
- Such difference doth a few months make. You'd think
  - Grief a rich field which never would lie fallow;
- No more it doth, its ploughs but change their boys,
- Who furrow some new soil to sow for joys.

VIII

But coughs will come when sighs depart — and now

- And then before sighs cease; for oft the one
- Will bring the other, ere the lake-like brow Is ruffled by a wrinkle, or the sun 60
- Of life reach'd ten o'clock: and while a glow,

Hectic and brief as summer's day mgh done,

- O'erspreads the cheek which seems too pure for clay,
- Thousands blaze, love, hope, die, how happy they !

IX

But Juan was not meant to die so soon. We left him in the focus of such glory

- As may be won by favour of the moon Or ladies' fancies — rather transitory
- Perhaps; but who would scorn the month of June.
- Because December, with his breath so hoary, 70 Must come? Much rather should he court
- Must come? Much rather should he court the ray,
- To hoard up warmth against a wintry day.

х

Besides, he had some qualities which fix

- Middle-aged ladies even more than young:
- The former know what's what; while newfledged chicks
  - Know little more of love than what is sung
- In rhymes, or dreamt (for fancy will play tricks)
  - In visions of those skies from whence Love sprung.
- Some reckon women by their suns or years,
- I rather think the moon should date the dears. 80

XI

And why? because she's changeable and chaste.

I know no other reason, whatsoe'er

- Suspicious people, who find fault in haste, May choose to tax me with; which is not fair,
- Nor flattering to 'their temper or their taste,'
  - As my friend Jeffrey writes with such an air:

However, I forgive him, and I trust

XII

Old enemies who have become new friends Should so continue — 't is a point or honour; 90

- And I know nothing which could make amends
- For a return to hatred. I would shun her Like garlic, howsoever she extends
- Her hundred arms and legs, and fain outrun her.
- Old flames, new wives, become our bitterest foes —
- Converted foes should scorn to join with those.

XIII

- This were the worst desertion. renegadoes,
- Even shuffling Southey, that incarnate lie,
- Would scarcely join again the 'reformadoes,' Whom he forsook to fill the laureate's sty:
- And honest men from Iceland to Barbadoes, Whether in Caledon or Italy,
- Should not veer round with every breath, nor seize
- To pain, the moment when you cease to please.

XIV

- The lawyer and the critic but behold
- The baser sides of literature and life, And nought remains unseen, but much un-
- told,
  - By those who scour those double vales of strife.
- While common men grow ignorantly old, The lawyer's brief 1s like the surgeon's knife,
- Dissecting the whole inside of a question,
- And with it all the process of digestion.

xv

- A legal broom's a moral chimney-sweeper, And that's the reason he himself's so durty;
- The endless soot bestows a tint far deeper Than can be hid by altering his shirt; he
- Retains the sable stains of the dark creeper, At least some twenty-nine do out of thirty,

In all their habits; — not so you, I own;

As Cæsar wore his robe you wear your gown. 120

xvi

And all our little feuds, at least all mine, Dear Jeffrey, once my most redoubted foe

(As far as rhyme and criticism combine

To make such puppets of us things below),

- Are over: Here's a health to 'Auld Lang Syne!'
- I do not know you, and may never know Your face — but you have acted on the whole

Most nobly, and I own it from my soul.

XVII

- And when I use the phrase of 'Auld Lang Syne !'
  - 'T is not address'd to you the more's the pity 130
- For me, for I would rather take my wine With you, than aught (save Scott) in your proud city.
- But somehow, it may seem a schoolboy's whine,
  - And yet I seek not to be grand nor witty,
- But I am half a Scot by birth, and bred
- A whole one, and my heart flies to my head, —

XVIII

As 'Auld Lang Syne' brings Scotland, one and all,

Scotch plauds, Scotch snoods, the blue hills, and clear streams,

- The Dee, the Don, Balgoume's brig's black wall,
- All my boy feelings, all my gentler dreams 140
- Of what I then dreamt, clothed in their own pall,
  - Like Banquo's offspring; floating past me seems
- My childhood in this childishness of mine:
- I care not—'t is a glimpse of 'Auld Lang Syne.'

XIX

- And though, as you remember, in a fit
- Of wrath and rhyme, when juvenile and curly,
- I rail'd at Scots to show my wrath and wit,
  - Which must be own'd was sensitive and surly,
- Yet 't is in vain such sallies to permit,
- They cannot quench young feelings fresh and early. 150
- I 'scotch'd not kill'd' the Scotchman in my blood,
- And love the land of 'mountain and of flood.'

Don Juan, who was real, or ideal, -

- For both are much the same, since what men think
- Exists when the once thinkers are less real Than what they thought, for mind can never sink,
- And 'gainst the body makes a strong appeal; And yet 't is very puzzling on the brink
- Of what is call'd eternity, to stare,
- And know no more of what is here, than there; — 160

XXI

- Don Juan grew a very polish'd Russian How we won't mention, why we need not say:
- Few youthful minds can stand the strong concussion
  - Of any slight temptation in their way;
- But his just now were spread as is a cushion Smooth'd for a monarch's seat of honour; gay

Damsels, and dances, revels, ready money, Made ice seem paradise, and winter sunny.

XXII

The favour of the empress was agreeable;

- And though the duty wax'd a little hard, Young people at his time of hife should be
- able 171 To come off handsomely in that regard.
- He was now growing up like a green tree, able

For love, war, or ambition, which reward Their luckier votaries, till old age's tedium Make some prefer the circulating medium.

XXIII

- About this time, as might have been anticipated,
  - Seduced by youth and dangerous examples,
- Don Juan grew, I fear, a little dissipated; Which is a sad thing, and not only
- tramples 180 On our fresh feelings, but — as being par-
- ticipated
- With all kinds of incorrigible samples

Of frail humanity — must make us selfish, And shut our souls up in us like a shell-fish.

XXIV

This we pass over. We will also pass The usual progress of intrigues between Unequal matches, such as are, alas !

- A young heutenant's with a not old queen, But one who is not so youthful as she was
- In all the royalty of sweet seventeen. 190 Sovereigns may sway materials, but not matter,
- And wrinkles, the d-----d democrats, won't flatter

XXV

- And Death, the sovereign's sovereign, though the great
- Gracchus of all mortality, who levels
- With his Agrarian laws the high estate
- Of him who feasts, and fights, and roars, and revels,
- To one small grass-grown patch (which must await
  - Corruption for its crop) with the poor devils
- Who never had a foot of land till now, —

Death's a reformer, all men must allow. 200

XXVI

- He lived (not Death, but Juan) in a hurry Of waste, and haste, and glare, and gloss, and glutter,
- In this gay clime of bear-skins black and furry
  - Which (though I hate to say a thing that's bitter)
- Peep out sometimes, when things are in a flurry,
  - Through all the 'purple and fine linen,' fitter

For Babylon's than Russia's royal harlot — And neutralize her outward show of scarlet.

XXVII

- And this same state we won't describe: we would
  - Perhaps from hearsay, or from recollection; 210
- But getting nigh grim Dante's 'obscure wood,'
- That horrid equinox, that hateful section
- Of human years, that half-way house, that rude
- Hut, whence wise travellers drive with circumspection
- Life's sad post-horses o'er the dreary frontier
- Of age, and looking back to youth, give one tear; ---

- I won't describe, that is, if I can help Description; and I won't reflect, — that is,
- If I can stave off thought, which as a whelp
  - Clings to its teat sticks to me through the abyss 220
- Of this odd labyrinth; or as the kelp Holds by the rock; or as a lover's kiss
- Drains its first draught of lips: but, as I said,
- 1 won't philosophise, and will be read

XXIX

- Juan, instead of courting courts, was courted,
  - A thing which happens rarely. this he owed
- Much to his youth, and much to his reported Valour; much also to the blood he show'd,
- Like a race-horse; much to each dress he sported,
  - Which set the beauty off in which he glow'd, 230
- As purple clouds befringe the sun; but most
- He owed to an old woman and his post.

XXX

He wrote to Spain: — and all his near relations,

Perceiving he was in a handsome way

- Of getting on himself, and finding stations For cousins also, answer'd the same day.
- Several prepared themselves for emigrations;

_ And eating ices, were o'erheard to say,

That with the addition of a slight pelisse,

Madrid's and Moscow's climes were of a piece. 240

XXXI

His mother, Donna Inez, finding, too,

That in the heu of drawing on his banker, Where his assets were waxing rather few,

- He had brought his spending to a handsome anchor, —
- Replied, 'that she was glad to see him through
  - Those pleasures after which wild youth will hanker;

As the sole sign of man's being in his senses Is, learning to reduce his past expenses. XXXII

- 'She also recommended him to God,
- And no less to God's Son, as well as Mother, 250
- Warn'd him against Greek worship, which looks odd
  - In Catholic eyes; but told him, too, to smother
- Outward dishke, which don't look well abroad;

Inform'd him that he had a little brother Born in a second wedlock; and above

All, praised the empress's maternal love.

XXXIII

- 'She could not too much give her approbation Unto an empress, who preferr'd young men
- Whose age, and what was better still, whose nation

And climate, stopp'd all scandal (now and then): --- 260

- At home it might have given her some vexation;
- But where thermometers sunk down to ten,

Or five, or one, or zero, she could never

Believe that virtue thaw'd before the 11ve1 '

XXXIV

Oh for a forty-parson power to chant

Thy praise, Hypocrisy ! Oh for a hymn

- Loud as the vurtues thou dost loudly vaunt, Not practise ! Oh for trumps of cheru-
- bim '

Or the ear-trumpet of my good old aunt,

Who, though her spectacles at last grew dim, 270

Drew quiet consolation through its hint,

When she no more could read the pious print.

XXXV

She was no hypocrite at least, poor soul, But went to heaven in as sincere a way

As any body on the elected roll,

- Which portions out upon the judgment day
- Heaven's freeholds, in a sort of doomsday scroll,
  - Such as the conqueror William did repay
- His knights with, lotting others' properties Into some sixty thousand new knights' fees. 240

XXXVI

I can't complain, whose ancestors are there, Erneis, Radulphus — eight-and-forty manors

(If that my memory doth not greatly err)

- Were their reward for following Billy's banners:
- And though I can't help thinking 't was scarce fair
  - To strip the Saxons of their hydes, like tanners;
- Yet as they founded churches with the produce,
- You'll deem, no doubt, they put it to a good use.

XXXVII

The gentle Juan flourish'd, though at times He felt like other plants called sensitive,

- Which shrunk from touch, as monarchs do from rhymes, 291
- Save such as Southey can afford to give.
- Perhaps he long'd in bitter frosts for climes In which the Neva's ice would cease to live

Before May-day: perhaps, despite his duty, In royalty's vast arms he sigh'd for beauty:

XXXVIII

- Perhaps but, sans perhaps, we need not seek
  - For causes young or old the cankerworm
- Will feed upon the fairest, freshest cheek,
- As well as further drain the wither'd form: 300

Care, like a housekeeper, brings every week His bills in, and however we may storm,

They must be paid: though six days smoothly run,

The seventh will bring blue devils or a dun.

XXXIX

- I don't know how it was, but he grew sick: The empress was alarm'd, and her physician
- (The same who physick'd Peter) found the tick

Of his fierce pulse betoken a condition

Which augur'd of the dead, however quick Itself, and show'd a feverish disposition;

- At which the whole court was extremely troubled, 311
- The sovereign shock'd, and all his medicines doubled.

- Low were the whispers, manifold the rumours:
- Some said he had been poison'd by Potemkin;
- Others talk'd learnedly of certain tumours,
- Exhaustion, or disorders of the same kin; Some said 't was a concoction of the hu-
- mours,
  - Which with the blood too readily will claim kin;
- Others again were ready to maintain,
- "T was only the fatigue of last campaign." 320

XLI

- But here is one prescription out of many:
- 'Sodæ sulphat 3 vj. 3 fs Mannæ optim.
- Aq fervent. f. 3 ifs. 3 ij. tinct Sennæ
  - Haustus' (And here the surgeon came and cupp'd him)
- 'B Pulv Com. gr. ij. Ipecacuanhæ'
- (With more beside if Juan had not stopp'd 'em).
- 'Bolus Potassæ Sulphuret. sumendus,

Et haustus ter in die capiendus.'

XLII

This is the way physicians mend or end us,

Secundum artem: but although we sneer In health — when ill, we call them to at-

- tend us, Without the least propensity to jeer:
- While that 'hatus maxime deflendus'
- To be fill'd up by spade or mattock's near,

Instead of gliding graciously down Lethe, We tease mild Baillie, or soft Abernethy.

XLIII

- Juan demurr'd at this first notice to
- Quit; and though death had threaten'd an ejection,
- His youth and constitution bore him through,
  - And sent the doctors in a new direction. 340
- But still his state was delicate: the hue

Of health but flicker'd with a faint reflection

- Along his wasted cheek, and seem'd to gravel
- The faculty who said that he must travel.

XLIV

The climate was too cold, they said, for hım,

Meridian-born, to bloom in. This opinion Made the chaste Catherine look a httle grim,

- Who did not like at first to lose her min-1011
- But when she saw his dazzling eye wax dim, And drooping like an eagle's with clipt pinion, 350

She then resolved to send him on a mission, But in a style becoming his condition.

XI.V

There was just then a kind of a discussion, A sort of treaty or negotiation

Between the British cabinet and Russian,

- Maintain'd with all the due prevarication With which great states such things are apt to push on;
- Something about the Baltic's navigation, Hides, train-oil, tallow, and the rights of

Thetis,

Which Britons deem their ' uti possidetis.'

XLVI

So Catherine, who had a handsome way Of fitting out her favourites, conferr'd

This secret charge on Juan, to display

At once her royal splendour, and reward His services. He kiss'd hands the next day,

Received instructions how to play his card, Was laden with all kinds of gifts and honours. Which show'd what great discernment was the donor's.

XLVII

But she was lucky, and luck's all. Your queens

Are generally prosperous in reigning; 370 Which puzzles us to know what Fortune means.

But to continue: though her years were waning

Her climacteric teased her like her teens; And though her dignity brook'd no complaining,

So much did Juan's setting off distress her, She could not find at first a fit successor.

XLVIII

But time, the comforter, will come at last; And four-and-twenty hours, and twice that number

Of candidates requesting to be placed,

Made Catherine taste next night a quiet slumber: ---

Not that she meant to fix again in haste, Nor did she find the quantity encumber,

But always choosing with deliberation, Kept the place open for their emulation.

XLIX

While this high post of honour 's in abeyance, For one or two days, reader, we request

- You 'll mount with our young hero the conveyance
  - Which wafted him from Petersburgh: the best
- Barouche, which had the glory to display once

The fair czarma's autocratic crest, 390 When, a new Iphigene, she went to Tauris, Was given to her favourite, and now bore hıs

Τ.

- A bull-dog, and a bullfinch, and an ermine, All private favourites of Don Juan; for
- (Let deeper sages the true cause determine) He had a kind of inclination, or
- Weakness, for what most people deem mere vermin,
- Live animals: an old maid of threescore For cats and birds more penchant ne'er display'd.
- Although he was not old, nor even a maid; -400

LI

The animals aforesaid occupied

Their station. there were valets, secretaries,

In other vehicles; but at his side

- Sat little Leila, who survived the parries He made 'gainst Cossacque sabres, in the wide
  - Slaughter of Ismail. Though my wild Muse varies

Her note, she don't forget the infant girl

Whom he preserved, a pure and living pearl.

LII

- Poor little thing ! She was as fair as docile, And with that gentle, serious character,
- As rare in living beings as a fossile 411 Man, 'midst thy mouldy mammoths, 'grand Cuvier!'

Ill fitted was her ignorance to jostle

- With this o'erwhelming world, where all must err:
- But she was yet but ten years old, and therefore
- Was tranquil, though she knew not why or wherefore.

LIII

Don Juan loved her, and she loved him, as Nor brother, father, sister, daughter love.

I cannot tell exactly what it was; 419

- He was not yet quite old enough to prove Parental feelings, and the other class,
- Call'd brotherly affection, could not move His bosom, — for he never had a sister:
- Ah! if he had, how much he would have miss'd her!

LIV

And still less was it sensual; for besides That he was not an ancient debauchee

- (Who hke sour fruit, to stir their veins' salt tides,
  - As acids rouse a dormant alkali),
- Although ('t will happen as our planet guides)
  - His youth was not the chastest that might be, 430
- There was the purest Platonism at bottom
- Of all his feelings only he forgot 'em.

LV

Just now there was no peril of temptation;

He loved the infant orphan he had saved, As patriots (now and then) may love a

- nation;
- His pride, too, felt that she was not enslaved

Owing to him; — as also her salvation

- Through his means and the church's might be paved.
- But one thing's odd, which here must be inserted,
- The little Turk refused to be converted. 440

LVI

- 'T was strange enough she should retain the impression
  - Through such a scene of change, and dread, and slaughter;
- But though three bishops told her the transgression,

She show'd a great dislike to holy water:

She also had no passion for confession;

- Perhaps she had nothing to confess -no matter,
- Whate'er the cause, the church made little of it —
- She still held out that Mahomet was a prophet.

LVII

- In fact, the only Christian she could bear Was Juan; whom she seem'd to have selected
- In place of what her home and friends once were.
  - He naturally loved what he protected:
- And thus they form'd a rather curious pair,
  - A guardian green in years, a ward connected
- In neither clime, time, blood, with her defender;
- And yet this want of thes made theirs more tender

LVIII

- They journey'd on through Poland and through Warsaw,
- Famous for mines of salt and yokes of iron:
- Through Courland also, which that famous farce saw
  - Which gave her dukes the graceless name of 'Biron.' 460
- 'T is the same landscape which the modern Mars saw,
  - Who march'd to Moscow, led by Fame, the siren !
- To lose by one month's frost some twenty years

Of conquest, and his guard of grenadiers.

$\mathbf{LIX}$

- Let this not seem an anti-climax: 'Oh!
  - My guard ! my old guard !' exclaim'd that god of clay.
- Think of the Thunderer's falling down below

Carotid-artery-cutting Castlereagh !

- Alas, that glory should be chill'd by snow ! But should we wish to warm us on our way 470
- Through Poland, there is Kosciusko's name Might scatter fire through ice, hke Hccla's flame.

- Fiom Poland they came on through Prussia Proper,
- And Konigsberg the capital, whose vaunt, Besides some veins of iron, lead, or copper,
  - Has lately been the great Professor Kant.
- Juan, who cared not a tobacco-stopper About philosophy, pursued his jaunt
- To Germany, whose somewhat tardy mil-
- Have princes who spur more than their postilions. 480

LXI

- And thence through Berlin, Dresden, and the like,
- Until he reach'd the castellated Rhine: Ye glorious Gothic scenes! how much ye
- strike All phantasies, not even excepting mine;
- A grey wall, a green run, rusty pike,
- Make my soul pass the equinoctial line Between the present and past worlds, and hover
- Upon their airy confine, half-seas-over.

LXII

- But Juan posted on through Manheim, Bonn,
  - Which Drachenfels frowns over like a spectre 499
- Of the good feudal times forever gone, On which I have not time just now to lecture.
- From thence he was drawn onwards to Cologne,

A city which presents to the inspector

Eleven thousand maidenheads of bone,

The greatest number flesh hath ever known.

LXIII

- From thence to Holland's Hague and Helvoetsluys,
  - That water-land of Dutchmen and of ditches,

Where juniper expresses its best juice,

- The poor man's sparkling substitute for riches. 500
- Senates and sages have condemn'd its use But to deny the mob a cordial, which is Too often all the clothing, meat, or fuel, Good government has left them, seems but cruel.

LXIV

Here he emback'd, and with a flowing sail Went bounding for the island of the free

- Towards which the impatient wind blew halt a gale;
  - High dash'd the spray, the bows dipp'd in the sea,
- And sea-sick passengers turn'd somewhat nale:
- But Juan, season'd, as he well might be, By former voyages, stood to watch the skiffs
- Which pass'd, or catch the first glimpse of the cliffs.

LXV

- At length they rose, like a white wall along The blue sea's border; and Don Juan felt —
- What even young strangers feel a little strong
  - At the first sight of Albion's chalky belt —
- A kind of pride that he should be among
  - Those haughty shopkeepers, who sternly dealt
- Their goods and edicts out from pole to pole, And made the very billows pay them toll. 520

LXVI

I've no great cause to love that spot of earth, Which holds what might have been the noblest nation,

But though I owe it httle but my birth, I feel a mix'd regret and veneration

- For its decaying fame and former worth.
- Seven years (the usual term of transportation)

Of absence lay one's old resentments level, When a man's country 's going to the devil

LXVII

Alas! could she but fully, truly, know

- How her great name is now throughout abhoir'd 530
- How eager all the earth is for the blow Which shall lay bare her bosom to the sword:
- How all the nations deem her their worst foe,
  - That worse than worst of foes, the once adored
- False friend, who held out freedom to man kind,
- And now would chain them, to the very mind .---

LXVIII

Would she be proud, or boast herself the free,

Who is but first of slaves? The nations are

In prison, — but the gaoler, what is he?

No less a victim to the bolt and bar. 540 Is the poor privilege to turn the key

Upon the captive, freedom? He's as far

From the enjoyment of the earth and air

Who watches o'er the chain, as they who wear.

LXIX

Don Juan now saw Albion's earliest beauties,

Thy cliffs, dear Dover! harbour, and hotel; Thy custom-house, with all its delicate duties;

Thy waiters running mucks at every bell;

Thy packets, all whose passengers are booties

To those who upon land or water dwell; And last, not least, to strangers unmstructed, 551 Thy long, long bills, whence nothing is deducted.

LXX

- Juan, though careless, young, and magnifique,
  - And rich in rubles, diamonds, cash, and credit,
- Who did not limit much his bills per week, Yet stared at this a little, though he paid it
- (His Maggior Duomo, a smart, subtle Greek,
  - Before him summ'd the awful scroll and read it);
- But doubtless as the air, though seldom sunny,
- Is free, the respiration's worth the money.

LXXI

- On with the horses! Off to Canterbury! 567 Tramp, tramp o'er pebble, and splash, splash through puddle;
- Hurrah! how swiftly speeds the post so merry!
  - Not like slow Germany, wherein they muddle
- Along the road, as if they went to bury
- Their fare; and also pause besides, to fuddle

With 'schnapps' — sad dogs! whom 'Hundsfot,' or ' Verflucter,'

Affect no more than lightning a conductor.

LXXII

- Now there is nothing gives a man such spirits,
  - Leavening his blood as cayenne doth a curry, 570
- As going at full speed no matter where its
- Direction be, so 't is but in a hurry,
- And merely for the sake of its own merits;
- For the less cause there is for all this flurry,

The greater is the pleasure in arriving

At the great end of travel — which is driving.

LXXIII

They saw at Canterbury the cathedral;

- Black Edward's helm, and Becket's bloody stone,
- Were pointed out as usual by the bedral,
- In the same quaint, uninterested tone. There's glory again for you, gentle reader! All 681

Ends in a rusty casque and dubious bone,

- Half-solved into these sodas or magnesias;
- Which form that bitter draught, the human species.

LXXIV

- The effect on Juan was of course sublime: He breathed a thousand Cressys, as he saw
- That casque, which never stoop'd except to Time.
- Even the bold Churchman's tomb excited awe,
- Who died in the then great attempt to climb O'er kings, who now at least must talk of law 590

Before they butcher. Little Leila gazed,

And ask'd why such a structure had been raised:

LXXV

- And being told it was 'God's house,' she said
- He was well lodged, but only wonder'd how

He suffer'd Infidels in his homestead,

The cruel Nazarenes, who had laid low

- His holy temples in the lands which bred The True Behevers.—and her infant brow Was bent with grief that Mahomet should resign
- A mosque so noble, flung like pearls to swme. 600

LXXVI

- On! on! through meadows managed like a garden,
- A paradise of hops and high production; For after years of travel by a bard in
- Countries of greater heat, but lesser suction,
- A green field is a sight which makes him pardon
  - The absence of that more sublime construction,
- Which mixes up vines, olives, precipices, Glaciers, volcanos, oranges, and ices.
- Glaciers, voicanos, oranges, and ices.

LXXVII

- And when I think upon a pot of beer But I won't weep! — and so drive on,
- postilions! 610 As the smart boys spurr'd fast in their ca-
- reer, Juan admired these highways of free mil-
- lions; A country in all senses the most dear
- To foreigner or native, save some silly ones,
- Who 'kick against the pricks' just at this juncture,
- And for their pains get only a fresh puncture.

LXXVIII

- What a delightful thing 's a turnpike road ! So smooth, so level, such a mode of shaving
- The earth, as scarce the eagle in the broad Air can accomplish, with his wide wings waving. 620
- Had such been cut in Phaeton's time, the god
- Had told his son to satisfy his craving
- With the York mail; but onward as we roll,
- 'Surgit amari aliquid '— the toll !

LXXIX

Alas, how deeply painful is all payment ! Take lives, take wives, take aught except men's purses:

- As Machavel shows those in purple raiment,
  - Such is the shortest way to general curses
- They hate a murderer much less than a claimant
  - On that sweet ore which every body nurses;— 630
- Kill a man's family, and he may brook it,
- But keep your hands out of his breeches' pocket.

LXXX

So said the Florentine: ye monarchs, hearken To your instructor. Juan now was borne,

- Just as the day began to wane and darken, O'er the high hill, which looks with pride or scorn
- Toward the great city. Ye who have a spark in
  - Your veins of Cockney spirit, smile or mourn
- According as you take things well or ill; Bold Britons, we are now on Shooter's Hill '

LXXXI

- The sun went down, the smoke rose up, as from 641
- A half-unquench'd volcano, o'er a space Which well beseem'd the 'Devil's drawing
  - room,' As some have qualified that wondrous place.
- But Juan felt, though not approaching home.
  - As one who, though he were not of the race,
- Revered the soil, of those true sons the mother,
- Who butcher'd half the earth, and bullied t' other.

LXXXII

A mighty mass of brick, and smoke, and shipping,

Dirty and dusky, but as wide as eye 650 Could reach, with here and there a sail

- just skipping In sight, then lost amidst the forestry
- Of masts; a wilderness of steeples peep-
- ing
- On tiptoe through their sea-coal canopy; A huge, dun cupola, like a foolscap crown
- On a fool's head and there is London Town !

LXXXIII

- But Juan saw not this: each wreath of smoke
- Appear'd to him but as the magic vapour Of some alchymic furnace, from whence broke
  - The wealth of worlds (a wealth of tax 660 and paper):
- The gloomy clouds, which o'er it as a yoke Are bow'd, and put the sun out like a taper,
- Were nothing but the natural atmosphere,
- Extremely wholesome, though but rarely clear.

LXXXIV

He paused — and so will I; as doth a crew Before they give their broadside. By and by,

My gentle countrymen, we will renew

- Our old acquaintance; and at least I'll try
- To tell you truths you will not take as true, Because they are so; -a male Mrs. Fry, 670

With a soft besom will I sweep your halls,

And brush a web or two from off the walls.

LXXXV

- Oh Mrs Fry! Why go to Newgate? Why Preach to poor rogues? And wherefore not begin
- With Carlton, or with other houses? Try Your head at harden'd and imperial sm.
- To mend the people 's an absurdity,

A jargon, a mere philanthropic din,

- Unless you make their betters better: -Fv!
- I thought you had more religion, Mrs. Fry. 68o

LXXXVI

- Teach them the decencies of good threescore;
  - Cure them of tours, hussar and highland dresses:
- Tell them that youth once gone returns no more,
- That hired huzzas redeem no land's distresses;

Tell them Sir William Curtis is a bore,

Too dull even for the dullest of excesses, The witless Falstaff of a hoary Hal,

- A fool whose bells have ceased to ring at all.

LXXXVII

Tell them, though it may be perhaps too late.

On life's worn confine, jaded, bloated, sated, 690

To set up vain pretence of being great, "T is not so to be good; and be it stated,

The worthest kings have ever loved least state;

And tell them - But you won't, and I have prated

Just now enough; but by and by I'll prattle Like Roland's horn in Roncesvalles' battle.

CANTO THE ELEVENTH

WHEN Bishop Berkeley said 'there was no matter,'

And proved it - 't was no matter what he said:

They say his system 't is in vain to batter, Too subtle for the arriest human head;

And yet who can believe it? I would shatter Gladly all matters down to stone or lead,

Or adamant, to find the world a spirit, And wear my head, denying that I wear it.

п What a sublime discovery 't was to make the Universe universal egotism, 10

- That all's ideal all ourselves: I'll stake the
- World (be it what you will) that that's no schism.
- Oh Doubt ! --- if thou be'st Doubt, for which some take thee,
- But which I doubt extremely thou sole prism
- Of the Truth's rays, spoil not my draught of spirit!
- Heaven's brandy, though our brain can hardly bear it.

III

- For ever and anon comes Indigestion,
- (Not the most 'dainty Ariel') and perplexes

Our soarings with another sort of question: And that which after all my spirit vexes,

Is, that I find no spot where man can rest eye on,

Without confusion of the sorts and sexes,

Of beings, stars, and this unruddled wonder, The world, which at the worst's a glorious blunder —

IV

- If it be chance; or if it be according
- To the old text, still better .- lest it should
- Turn out so, we'll say nothing 'gainst the wording,
  - As several people think such hazards rude.
- They 're right; our days are too brief for affording
- Space to dispute what no one ever could

Decide, and every body one day will 31

Know very clearly - or at least lie still.

v

- And therefore will I leave off metaphysical Discussion, which is neither here nor there.
- If I agree that what is, is; then this I call Being quite perspicuous and extremely fair;
- The truth is, I've grown lately rather phthisical:

I don't know what the reason is — the air Perhaps; but as I suffer from the shocks Of illness, I grow much more orthodox. 40

VI

- The first attack at once proved the Divinity (But that I never doubted, nor the Devil);
- The next, the Virgin's mystical virginity; The third, the usual Origin of Evil;
- The fourth at once establish'd the whole Trinity

On so uncontrove tible a level,

That I devoutly wish'd the three were four,

On purpose to believe so much the more.

VII

- To our theme. The man w² o has stood on the Acropolis,
- And look'd down over .tica; or he 50 Who has sail'd where picturesque Constantmople is,

Or seen Timbuctoo, or hath taken tea

In small-eyed China's crockery-ware metropolis,

Or sat amidst the bricks of Nineveh,

- May not think much of London's first appearance —
- But ask him what he thinks of it a year hence?

VIII

- Don Juan had got out on Shooter's Hill; Sunset the time, the place the same dechvity
- Which looks along that vale of good and ill Where London streets ferment in full activity; 60
- While every thing around was calm and still,
  - Except the creak of wheels, which on their pivot he
- Heard, and that bee-like, bubbling, busy hum
- Of cities, that boil over with their scum:-

$\mathbf{IX}$

I say, Don Juan, wrapt in contemplation, Walk'd on behind his carriage, o'er the summit,

And lost in wonder of so great a nation,

- Gave way to 't, since he could not overcome it.
- 'And here,' he cried, 'is Freedom's chosen station;
- Here peals the people's voice, nor car entomb it 74
- Racks, prisons, inquisitions; resurrection Awaits it, each new meeting or election

х

- 'Here are chaste wives, pure lives; here people pay
  - But what they please; and if that things be dear,
- 'T is only that they love to throw away
- Their cash, to show how much they have a-year.
- Here laws are all inviolate; none lay
- Traps for the traveller; every highway's clear.
- Here -' he was interrupted by a knife,
- With, 'Damn your eyes ! your money or your life !' Sc

XI

These freeborn sounds proceeded from four pads

In ambush laid, who had perceived him lotter

Behind his carriage; and, like handy lads,

Had seized the lucky hour to reconnoitre, In which the heedless gentleman who gads

Upon the road, unless he prove a fighter, May find himself within that isle of riches Exposed to lose his life as well as breeches. Juan, who did not understand a word Of English, save their shibboleth, 'God damn !' 90 And even that he had so rarely heard,

- He sometimes thought 't was only their 'Salām,'
- Or 'God be with you!' and 't is not absurd

To think so: for half English as I am

(To my misfortune), never can I say

I heard them wish 'God with you,' save that way;—

XIII

Juan yet quickly understood their gesture,

And being somewhat choleric and sudden,

Drew forth a pocket pistol from his vesture, And fired it into one assailant's pudding — 100

Who fell, as rolls an ox o'er in his pasture, And roar'd out, as he writhed his native mud m,

- Unto his nearest follower or henchman,
- 'Oh Jack! I 'm floor'd by that 'ere bloody Frenchman!'

xiv

- On which Jack and his train set off at speed,
  - And Juan's suite, late scatter'd at a distance,

Came up, all marvelling at such a deed,

And offering, as usual, late assistance.

- Juan, who saw the moon's late minion bleed
- As if his veins would pour out his existence, 110

Stood calling out for bandages and lint, And wish'd he had been less hasty with his fint.

xv

"Perhaps,' thought he, 'it is the country's wont

To welcome foreigners in this way: now I recollect some innkeepers who don't Differ, except in robbing with a bow, In lieu of a bare blade and brazen front.

- But what is to be done? I can't allow
- The fellow to he groaning on the road.
- So take him up; I'll help you with the load.' 120

- But ere they could perform this pious duty, The dying man crued, 'Hold! I've got my gruel!
- Oh for a glass of max ' We 've miss'd our booty;
  - Let me due where I am !' And as the fuel
- Of life shrunk in his heart, and thick and sooty
- The drops fell from his death-wound, and he drew ill
- His breath, he from his swelling throat untied
- A kerchief, crying, 'Give Sal that !'-- and died.

XVII

- The cravat stam'd with bloody drops fell down
  - Before Don Juan's feet. he could not tell 130
- Exactly why it was before him thrown,
  - Nor what the meaning of the man's farewell.
  - Poor Tom was once a kiddy upon town,
  - A thorough varmint, and a real swell,
  - Full flash, all fancy, until fairly diddled,
  - His pockets first and then his body riddled.

XVIII

Don Juan, having done the best he could In all the circumstances of the case,

- As soon as 'Crowner's quest ' allow'd, pursued
- His travels to the capital apace ; 140 Esteeming it a little hard he should
- In twelve hours' time, and very little space,
- Have been obliged to slay a freeborn native
- In self-defence: this made him meditative.

XIX

He from the world had cut off a great man,

Who in his time had made heroic bustle.

- Who in a row like Tom could lead the van,
  - Booze in the ken, or at the spellken hustle?
- Who queer a flat? Who (spite of Bowstreet's ban)
- On the high toby-spice so flash the muzzle?

- Who on a lark, with black-eyed Sal (his blowing),
- So prime, so swell, so nutty, and so knowing?

XX

- But Tom's no more and so no more of Tom.
  - Heroes must die; and by God's blessing 't is - Not long before the most of them go home. Hail! Thamis, hail! Upon thy verge it is
- That Juan's chariot, rolling like a drum
- In thunder, holds the way it can't well miss,
- Through Kennington and all the other 'tons,'
- Which makes us wish ourselves in town at once; — 160

XXI

- Through Groves, so call'd as being void of trees
  - (Like lucus from no light); through prospects named
- Mount Pleasant, as containing nought to please,
  - Nor much to climb; through little boxes framed
- Of bricks, to let the dust in at your ease, With 'To be let' upon their doors proclaim'd;
- Through 'Rows' most modestly call'd 'Paradise,'
- Which Eve might quit without much sacrifice; ---

XXII

- Through coaches, drays, choked turnpikes, and a whirl
  - Of wheels, and roar of voices, and confusion; 70
- Here taverns wooing to a pint of 'purl,' There mails fast flying off like a delusion;
- There barbers' blocks with periwigs in curl In windows; here the lamplighter's infusion

Slowly distill'd into the glimmering glass

(For in those days we had not got to gas);--

XXIII

- Through this, and much, and more, is the approach
  - Of travellers to mighty Babylon:

- Whether they come by horse, or chaise, or coach,
  - With slight exceptions, all the ways seem one. 180
- I could say more, but do not choose to encroach
- Upon the Guide-book's privilege. The sun Had set some time, and night was on the ridge

Of twilight, as the party cross'd the bridge, ---

XXIV

- That's rather fine. The gentle sound of Thamis
  - Who vindicates a moment, too, his stream,
- Though hardly heard through multifarious 'damme's'-
  - The lamps of Westminster's more regular gleam,
- The breadth of pavement, and yon shrine where fame is
- A spectral resident whose pallid beam In shape of moonshine hovers o'er the
  - pile 192
- Make this a sacred part of Albion's isle.

$\mathbf{x}\mathbf{x}\mathbf{v}$

- The Druids' groves are gone so much the better:
  - Stone-Henge is not but what the devil 1s it? —

But Bedlam still exists with its sage fetter, That madmen may not bite you on a visit;

- The Bench too seats or suits full many a debtor;
  - The Mansion House too (though some people quiz it)

To me appears a stiff yet grand erection;

But then the Abbey's worth the whole collection. 200

XXVI

The line of lights too up to Charing Cross, Pall Mall, and so forth, have a coruscation

Like gold as in comparison to dross,

- Match'd with the Continent's illumination, Whose cities Night by no means deigns to gloss.
  - The French were not yet a lamp-lighting nation,
- And when they grew so on their newfound lantern,
- Instead of wicks, they made a wicked man turn

XXVII

A row of gentlemen along the streets

Suspended may illuminate mankind, 210 As also bonfires made of country seats;

But the old way is best for the purblind: The other looks like phosphorus on sheets,

A sort of 1gnis fatuus to the mind,

Which, though 't is certain to perplex and frighten,

Must burn more mildly ere it can enlighten.

XXVIII

- But London's so well ht, that if Diogenes Could recommence to hunt his honest man.
- And found him not amidst the various progenies

Of this enormous city's spreading span,

- 'T were not for want of lamps to aid his dodging his 221
- Yet undiscover'd treasure. What I can, I 've done to find the same throughout life's
- journey,

But see the world is only one attorney.

XXIX

Over the stones still rattling up Pall Mall,

- Through crowds and carriages, but waxing thinner
- As thunder'd knockers broke the long seal'd spell
  - Of doors 'gainst duns, and to an early dinner

Admitted a small party as night fell, --

Don Juan, our young diplomatic sinner, Pursued his path, and drove past some hotels, 231

St. James's Palace and St. James's 'Hells.'

XXX

They reach'd the hotel. forth stream'd from the front door

A tide of well-clad waiters, and around The mob stood, and as usual several score

Of those pedestrian Paphians who abound

- In decent London when the daylight 's o'er; Commodious but immoral, they are found
- Useful, like Malthus, in promoting marriage. —

But Juan now is stepping from his carriage

XXXI

Into one of the sweetest of hotels, Especially for foreigners — and mostly For those whom favour or whom fortune swells,

And cannot find a bill's small items costly. There many an envoy either dwelt or dwells

(The den of many a diplomatic lost lie),

Until to some conspicuous square they pass, And blazon o'er the door their names in brass.

XXXII

Juan, whose was a delicate commission,

- Private, though publicly important, bore No title to point out with due precision 251
- The exact affair on which he was sent o'er.
- 'T was merely known, that on a secret mission

A foreigner of rank had graced our shore,

Young, handsome, and accomplish'd, who was said

(In whispers) to have turn'd his sovereign's head.

XXXIII

- Some rumour also of some strange adventures
  - Had goue before him, and his wars and loves;
- And as romantic heads are pretty painters, And, above all, an Englishwoman's roves

Into the excursive, breaking the indentures Of sober reason wheresoe'er it moves, 262

He found himself extremely in the fashion,

Which serves our thinking people for a passion.

XXXIV

I don't mean that they are passionless, but quite

The contrary; but then 't is in the head; Yet as the consequences are as bright

As if they acted with the heart instead, What after all can signify the site

Of ladies' lucubrations? So they lead 270 In safety to the place for which you start,

What matters if the road be head or heart?

xxxv

- Juan presented in the proper place,
- To proper placemen, every Russ credential;
- And was received with all the due grimace By those who govern in the mood potential,

- Who, seeing a handsome stripling with smooth face,
- Thought (what in state affairs is most essential)
- That they as easily might do the youngster, As hawks may pounce upon a woodland
  - songster. 280

XXXVI

They err'd, as aged men will do; but by And by we'll talk of that; and it we don't,

'T will be because our notion is not high Of politicians and their double front,

Or can't do otherwise than he, but do it So well, the very truth seems falsehood to it.

XXXVII

And, after all, what is a he? 'T is but The truth in masquerade, and I defy 200

- Historians, heroes, lawyers, priests, to put A fact without some leaven of a he.
- The very shadow of true Truth would shut Up annals, revelations, poesy,

And prophecy — except it should be dated Some years before the incidents related.

XXXVIII

- Praised be all liars and all lies ! Who now Can tax my mild Muse with misanthropy?
- She rings the world's 'Te Deum,' and her brow
- Blushes for those who will not: but to sigh

Is idle; let us like most others bow,

Kiss hands, feet, any part of majesty,

After the good example of 'Green Erin,'

Whose shamrock now seems rather worse for wearing

XXXIX

Don Juan was presented, and his dress And mien excited general admiration -

- I don't know which was more admired or less:
  - One monstrous diamond drew much observation, 308
- Which Catherine in a moment of 'ivresse' (In love or brandy's fervent fermentation)

Bestow'd upon him, as the public learn'd; And, to say truth, it had been fairly earn'd XL

Besides the ministers and underlings, Who must be courteous to the accredited

- Diplomatists of rather waveling kings, Until their royal riddle 's fully read,
- The very clerks, those somewhat dirty springs
- Of office, or the house of office, fed
- By foul corruption into streams, even they
- Were hardly rude enough to earn their pay. 320

XLI

- And insolence no doubt is what they are
  - Employ'd for, since it is their daily labour,

In the dear offices of peace or war,

- And should you doubt, pray ask of your next neighbour,
- When for a passport, or some other bar
  - To freedom, he applied (a grief and ā bore),

If he found not his spawn of taxborn riches, Like lap-dogs, the least civil sons of b—s.

XLII

- But Juan was received with much 'empressement: '---
  - These phrases of refinement I must borrow 330
- From our next neighbours' land, where, like a chessman,
  - There is a move set down for joy or sorrow
- Not only in mere talking, but the press. Man
  - In islands 1s, it seems, downright and thorough,

More than on continents — as if the sea

(See Billingsgate) made even the tongue more free

XLIII

- And yet the British 'Damme''s rather Attic
  - Your continental oaths are but incontinent,

And turn on things which no aristocratic

- Spirit would name, and therefore even I won't anent 340
- This subject quote; as it would be schismatic
  - In politesse, and have a sound affronting m't:---

But 'Damme''s quite ethereal, though too daring —

Platonic blasphemy, the soul of swearing.

XLIV

- For downright rudeness, ye may stay at home;
  - For true or false politeness (and scarce that
- Now) you may cross the blue deep and white foam
  - The first the emblem (rarely though) of what
- You leave behind, the next of much you come

To meet. However, 't is no time to chat On general topics poems must confine 35^I Themselves to unity, like this of mine.

XLV

In the great world, — which, being interpreted,

Meaneth the west or worst end of a city, And about twice two thousand people bred

- By no means to be very wise or witty, But to sit up while others lie in bed,
- And look down on the universe with pity, ---

Juan, as an inveterate patrician,

Was well received by persons of condition. 360

XLVI

He was a bachelor, which is a matter Of import both to virgin and to bride,

- The former's hymeneal hopes to flatter; And (should she not hold fast by love or pride)
- 'T is also of some moment to the latter:
- A rib 's a thorn in a wed gallant's side,

Requires decorum, and is apt to double

The horrid sin — and what's still worse, the trouble.

XLVII

But Juan was a bachelor — of arts,

And parts, and hearts: he danced and sung, and had 370

An air as sentimental as Mozart's Softest of melodies; and could be sad

- Or cheerful, without any 'flaws or starts,' Just at the proper time; and though a lad,
- Had seen the world which is a curious sight,

And very much unlike what people write.

XLVIII

Fair virgins blush'd upon him; wedded dames Bloom'd also in less transitory hues;

- For both commodities dwell by the Thames, The painting and the painted; youth, ceruse, 380
- Against his heart preferr'd their usual claums,

Such as no gentleman can quite refuse:

Daughters admired his dress, and pious mothers

Inquired his income, and if he had brothers.

XLIX

The milliners who furnish ' drapery Misses ' Throughout the season, upon speculation

Of payment ere the honey-moon's last kisses Have waned into a crescent's coruscation.

Thought such an opportunity as this is,

Of a rich foreigner's initiation, 390 Not to be overlook'd — and gave such credit, That future bridegrooms swore, and sigh'd, and paid it.

L

The Blues, that tender tribe who sigh o'er sonnets,

And with the pages of the last Review

Line the interior of their heads or bonnets, Advanced in all their azure's highest hue:

- They talk'd bad French or Spanish, and upon its
- Late authors ask'd him for a hint or two; And which was softest, Russian or Castilian?

And whether in his travels he saw Ilion?

LI

Juan, who was a little superficial, 401 And not in literature a great Drawcansir,

Examined by this learned and especial

Jury of matrons, scarce knew what to answer:

His duties warlike, loving or official,

His steady application as a dancer,

Had kept him from the brink of Hippocrene,

Which now he found was blue instead of green.

LII

However, he replied at hazard, with 409 A modest confidence and calm assurance, Which lent his learned lucubrations pith.

And pass'd for arguments of good endurance. That prodigy, Miss Araminta Smith

- (Who at sixteen translated 'Hercules Furens'
- Into as furious English), with her best look,
- Set down his sayings in her common-place

LIII

- Juan knew several languages as well He might — and brought them up with
- skill, in time To save his fame with each accomplish'd belle,

Who still regretted that he did not rhyme.

- There wanted but this requisite to swell 421 His qualities (with them) into sublime:
- Lady Fitz-Frisky, and Miss Mævia Mannish,
- Both long'd extremely to be sung in Spanish.

LIV

However, he did pretty well, and was Admitted as an aspirant to all

- The coteries, and, as in Banquo's glass, At great assemblies or in parties small,
- He saw ten thousand living authors pass, That being about their average numeral;
- Also the eighty 'greatest living poets,' 431 As every paltry magazine can show its.

LV

In twice five years the 'greatest living poet,'

Like to the champion in the fisty ring,

- Is call'd on to support his claim, or show it, Although 't is an imaginary thing.
- Even I albeit I'm sure I did not know it, Nor sought of foolscap subjects to be king —

Was reckon'd a considerable time,

The grand Napoleon of the realms of rhyme. 440

LVI

- But Juan was my Moscow, and Faliero My Leipsic, and my Mount Saint Jean seems Cain:
- 'La Belle Alliance' of dunces down at zero, Now that the Lion's fall'n, may rise again.

But I will fall at least as fell my hero;

- Nor reign at all, or as a monarch reign;
- Or to some lonely isle of gaolers go,
- With turncoat Southey for my turnkey Lowe.

LVII

- Sir Walter reign'd before me; Moore and Campbell
  - Before and after; but now grown more holy, 450
- The Muses upon Sion's hill must ramble With poets almost clergymen, or wholly;
- And Pegasus hath a psalmodic amble Beneath the very Reverend Rowley Powley,
- Who shoes the glorious animal with stilts,
- A modern Ancient Pistol by the hilts !

LVIII

Then there's my gentle Euphues, who, they say,

Sets up for being a sort of moral me,

- He'll find it rather difficult some day
- To turn out both, or either, it may be. 460 Some persons think that Coleridge hath the sway;
  - And Wordsworth has supporters, two or three;
- And that deep-mouth'd Bœotian 'Savage Landor'
- Has taken for a swan rogue Southey's gander.

LIX

- John Keats, who was kill'd off by one critique,
  - Just as he really promised something great,

If not intelligible, without Greek

- Contrived to talk about the gods of late, Much as they might have been supposed to speak.
- Poor fellow ! His was an untoward fate; 'T is strange the mind, that very fiery
- particle, Should let itself be snuff'd out by an article.

$\mathbf{L}\mathbf{X}$

- The list grows long of live and dead pretenders
- To that which none will gain or none will know
- The conqueror at least; who, ere Time renders
  - His last award, will have the long grass grow
- Above his burnt-out brain, and sapless cinders.
  - If I might augur, I should rate but low

- Their chances; they 're too numerous, like the thirty
- Mock tyrants, when Rome's annals wax'd but dirty. 480

LXI

This is the literary lower empire,

- Where the prætorian bands take up the matter; -
- A 'dreadful trade,' like his who 'gathers samphire,
  - The insolent soldiery to soothe and flatter.
- With the same feelings as you'd coax a vampire.
  - Now, were I once at home, and in good satire.
- I'd try conclusions with those Janizaries,

And show them what an intellectual war is.

LXII

- I think I know a truck or two, would turn Their flanks; - but it is hardly worth my while 490
- With such small gear to give myself concern.

Indeed I 've not the necessary bile:

- My natural temper's really aught but stern, And even my Muse's worst reproof 's a
- smile; And then she drops a brief and modern curtsy,
- And glides away, assured she never hurts ye.

LXIII

My Juan, whom I left in deadly peril

- Amongst live poets and blue ladies, past With some small profit through that field so sterile,
  - Being tired in time, and, neither least nor Ìast,
- Left it before he had been treated very ill; And henceforth found himself more gaily class'd
- Amongst the higher spirits of the day,
- The sun's true son, no vapour, but a ray.

LXIV

- His morns he pass'd in business which, dissected.
- Was like all business a laborious nothing
- That leads to lassitude, the most infected
  - And Centaur Nessus garb of mortal clothing,

And on our sofas makes us he dejected.

- And talk in tender horrors of our loathıng
- All kinds of toil, save for our country's good -
- Which grows no better, though 't is time it should

TYV

- His afternoons he pass'd in visits, luncheons, Lounging and boxing; and the twilight hour
- In riding round those vegetable puncheons Call'd 'Parks,' where there is neither fruit nor flower
- Enough to gratify a bee's slight munchings, But after all it is the only ' bower'
- (In Moore's phrase), where the fashionable fair
- Can form a slight acquaintance with fresh air. 520

LXVI

- Then dress, then dinner, then awakes the world !
- Then glare the lamps, then whirl the wheels, then roar
- Through street and square fast flashing chariots hurl'd
  - Like harness'd meteors; then along the floor
- Chalk mumics painting; then festoons are twurl'd;

Then roll the brazen thunders of the door, Which opens to the thousand happy few An earthly paradise of 'Or Molu.'

LXVII

- There stands the noble hostess, nor shall sink
- With the three-thousandth curtsy: there the waltz,
- The only dance which teaches girls to think Makes one in love even with its very faults
- Saloon, room, hall, o'erflow beyond their brink.
  - And long the latest of arrivals halts,
- 'Midst royal dukes and dames condemn'd to climb,

And gain an inch of staircase at a time.

LXVIII

Thrice happy he who, after a survey

Of the good company, can win a corner,

- A door that's m or boudoir out of the way, Where he may fix himself like small 'Jack Horner,'
- And let the Babel round run as it may,
- And look on as a mourner, or a scorner, Or an approver, or a mere spectator,
- Verming a little on the night means h
- Yawning a little as the night grows later

LXIX

- But this won't do, save by and by; and he Who, like Don Juan, takes an active share,
- Must steer with care through all that glittering sea
  - Of gems and plumes and pearls and silks, to where
- He deems it is his proper place to be; 549 Dissolving in the waltz to some soft air,

Or proudher prancing with mercurial skill

Where Science marshals forth her own quadrille.

LXX

Or, if he dance not, but hath higher views Upon an heress or his neighbour's bride,

Let him take care that that which he pur-

Is not at once too palpably descried.

- Full many an eager gentleman oft rues
  - His haste: impatience is a blundering guide,
- Amongst a people famous for reflection,
- Who like to play the fool with circumspection 560

LXXI

- But, if you can contrive, get next at supper; Or, if forestalled, get opposite and ogle:---
- Oh, ye ambrosial moments ! always upper In mind, a sort of sentimental bogle,
- Which sits for ever upon memory's crupper, The ghost of vanish'd pleasures once in vogue ! Ill

Can tender souls relate the rise and fall

Of hopes and fears which shake a single ball.

LXXII

But these precautionary hints can touch

Only the common run, who must pursue, And watch, and ward; whose plans a word too much 57¹

Or little overturns; and not the few

Or many (for the number's sometimes such) Whom a good mien, especially if new,

- Or fame, or name, for wit, war, sense, or nonsense,
- Permits whate'er they please, or did not long since.

LXXIII

Our hero, as a hero, young and handsome, Noble, rich, celebrated, and a stranger,

- Like other slaves of course must pay his ransom,
- Before he can escape from so much danger 580
- As will environ a conspicuous man. Some Talk about poetry, and 'rack and manger,'

And uglmess, disease, as toil and trouble; — I wish they knew the life of a young noble.

LXXIV

- They are young, but know not youth it is anticipated,
- Handsome but wasted, rich without a sou; Their vigour in a thousand arms is dissipated;
  - Their cash comes from, their wealth goes to a Jew;
- Both senates see their nightly votes participated
  - Between the tyrant's and the tribunes' crew;
- And having voted, dined, drunk, gamed, and whored,
- The family vault receives another lord.

LXXV

- 'Where is the world?' cries Young, at eighty — 'Where
  - The world in which a man was born?' Alas!
- Where is the world of eight years past? 'T was there —
- I look for it 't is gone, a globe of glass! Crack'd, shiver'd, vanish'd, scarcely gazed on, ere
  - A silent change dissolves the glittering mass.
- Statesmen, chiefs, orators, queens, patriots, kings,
- And dandies, all are gone on the wind's wings. 600

LXXVI

Where is Napoleon the Grand ? God knows Where little Castlereagh ? The devil can tell.

- Where Grattan, Curran, Sheridan, all those Who bound the bar or senate in their spell?
- Where is the unhappy Queen, with all her woes?
  - And where the Daughter, whom the Isles loved well?
- Where are those martyr'd saints the Five per Cents ?
- And where oh, where the devil are the rents?

LXXVII

- Where 's Brummel? Dish'd Where 's Long Pole Wellesley? Diddled.
- Where's Whitbread? Romilly? Where's George the Third? 610
- Where is his will? (That's not so soon unriddled.)
  - And where is 'Fum' the Fourth, our 'royal bird?'
- Gone down, it seems, to Scotland to be fiddled

Unto by Sawney's violin, we have heard:

- ' Caw me, caw thee' --- for six months hath been hatching
- This scene of royal itch and loyal scratching.

LXXVIII

Where is Lord This? And where my Lady That?

The Honourable Mistresses and Misses? Some laid aside like an old Opera hat, Married, unmarried, and remarried (this is 620

An evolution oft performed of late).

- Where are the Dublin shouts and London hisses?
- Where are the Grenvilles? Turn'd as usual Where
- My friends the Whigs? Exactly where they were.

LXXIX

- Where are the Lady Carolines and Franceses?
- Divorced or doing thereanent. Ye annals So brilliant, where the list of routs and
- dances is, Thou Morning Post, sole record of the
- panels
- Broken in carriages, and all the phantasies Of fashion, — say what streams now fill those channels? 630

- Some die, some fly, some languish on the Continent,
- Because the times have hardly left them one tenant

LXXX

- Some who once set their caps at cautious dukes,
  - Have taken up at length with younger brothers:
- Some heresses have bit at sharpers' hooks: Some maids have been made wives, some merely mothers;
- Others have lost their fresh and fairy looks: In short, the list of alterations bothers.
- There's little strange in this, but something strange is
- The unusual quickness of these common changes. 640

LXXXI

- Talk not of seventy years as age; in seven I have seen more changes, down from monarchs to
- The humblest individual under heaven,
- Than might suffice a moderate century through
- I knew that nought was lasting, but now even
  - Change grows too changeable, without being new:
- Nought's permanent among the human race,
- Except the Whigs not getting into place.

LXXXII

- I have seen Napoleon, who seem'd quite a Jupiter,
  - Shrink to a Saturn. I have seen a Duke 650
- (No matter which) turn politician stupider, If that can well be, than his wooden look.
- But it is time that I should hoist my 'blue Peter,'
  - And sail for a new theme. I have seen — and shook
- To see it the king hiss'd, and then caress'd;
- But don't pretend to settle which was best.

LXXXIII

- I have seen the Landholders without a rap
  - I have seen Joanna Southcote I have seen —

- The House of Commons turn'd to a taxtrap —
- I have seen that sad affair of the late Queen-
- I have seen crowns worn instead of a fool's cap —
  - I have seen a Congress doing all that's mean -
- I have seen some nations like o'erloaded asses
- Kick off their burthens, meaning the high classes.

LXXXIV

I have seen small poets, and great prosers, and

Interminable - not eternal - speakers -

- I have seen the funds at war with house and land -
  - I have seen the country gentlemen turn squeakers -
- I have seen the people ridden o'er like sand By slaves on horseback - I have seen malt liquors
- Exchanged for "thin potations' by John Bull -
- 1 have seen John half detect himself a fool. ----

LXXXV

- But 'carpe diem,' Juan, 'carpe, carpe !' To-morrow sees another race as gay
- And transient, and devour'd by the same harpy.
- 'Life's a poor player,' then 'play out the play,
- Ye villams!' and above all keep a sharp eye Much less on what you do than what you sav:

Be hypocritical, be cautious, be

Not what you seem, but always what you see. 680

LXXXVI

But how shall I relate in other cantos Of what befell our hero in the land,

- Which 't is the common cry and lie to vaunt as
  - A moral country? But I hold my hand-

For I disdain to write an Atalantis;

- But 't is as well at once to understand,
- You are not a moral people, and you know it
- Without the aid of too succere a poet.

LXXXVII

- What Juan saw and underwent shall be My topic, with of course the due restriction 600
- Which is required by proper courtesy; And recollect the work is only fiction,
- And that I sing of neither mine nor me,
- Though every scribe, in some slight turo of diction.
- Ne'er Will hint allusions never meant. doubt
- This when I speak, I don't hint, but speak out.

LXXXVIII

- Whether he married with the third or fourth
  - Offspring of some sage husband-hunting countess.
- Or whether with some virgin of more worth (I mean in Fortune's matrimonial bounties)
- He took to regularly peopling Earth, Of which your lawful awful wedlock fount 1s. -
- Or whether he was taken in for damages,
- For being too excursive in his homages, -

LXXXIX

Is yet within the unread events of time.

- Thus far, go forth, thou lay, which I will back
- Against the same given quantity of rhyme, For being as much the subject of attack

As ever yet was any work sublime,

By those who love to say that white is black

So much the better ! - I may stand alone,

But would not change my free thoughts for a throne.

CANTO THE TWELFTH ĩ

OF all the barbarous middle ages, that

- Which is most barbarous is the middle age
- Of man; it is I really scarce know what; But when we hover between fool and sage.
- And don't know justly what we would be at -
  - A period something like a printed page,

Black letter upon foolscap, while our hair Grows grizzled, and we are not what we were, —

11

- Too old for youth, --- too young, at thirtyfive,
  - To herd with boys, or hoard with good threescore, — 10

I wonder people should be left alive;

- But since they are, that epoch is a bore: Love lingers still, although 't were late to wive:
- And as for other love, the illusion's o'er; And money, that most pure imagination,
- Gleams only through the dawn of its creation.

ш

- O Gold ! Why call we misers miserable ? Theirs is the pleasure that can never pall;
- Theirs is the best bower anchor, the chain cable
  - Which holds fast other pleasures great and small. 20
- Ye who but see the saving man at table,
- And scorn his temperate board, as none at all,

And wonder how the wealthy can be sparing,

Know not what visions spring from each cheese-paring.

IV

- Love or lust makes man sick, and wine much sicker;
  - Ambition rends, and gaming gains a loss;
- But making money, slowly first, then quicker,
  - And adding still a little through each cross
- [Which will come over things), beats love or liquor,
  - The gamester's counter, or the statesman's dross. 30
- O Gold ! I still prefer thee unto paper,
- Which makes bank credit like a bank of vapour.

- Who hold the balance of the world? Who reign
  - O'er congress, whether royalist or liberal?

- Who rouse the shirtless patriots of Spain? (That make old Europe's journals squeak and gibber all )
- Who keep the world, both old and new, m pain
  - Or pleasure? Who make politics run glibber all?
- The shade of Buonaparte's noble daring?-
- Jew Rothschild, and his fellow-Christian, Baring. 40

VI

- Those, and the truly liberal Lafitte, Are the true lords of Europe Every loan
- Is not a merely speculative hit, But seats a nation or upsets a throne.
- Republics also get involved a bit;
  - Columbia's stock hath holders not unknown
- On 'Change; and even thy silver soil, Peru,
- Must get itself discounted by a Jew

VII

- Why call the miser miserable? as
- I said before: the frugal life is his, 50 Which in a saint or cynic ever was
- The theme of praise. a hermit would not miss
- Canonization for the self-same cause,
  - And wherefore blame gaunt wealth's austernities?
- Because, you'll say, nought calls for such a trial; ---
- Then there's more merit in his self-denial.

VIII

He is your only poet; - passion, pure

And sparkling on from heap to heap, displays,

- Possess'd, the ore, of which mere hopes allure
  - Nations athwart the deep the golden rays 60
- Flash up in ingots from the mine obscure;
- On him the diamond pours its brilliant blaze,
- While the mild emerald's beam shades down the dies

Of other stones, to soothe the miser's eyes

IX

The lands on either side are his; the ship From Ceylon, Inde, or far Cathay, unloads

v

- For him the fragrant produce of each trip; Beneath his cars of Ceres groan the roads,
- And the vine blushes like Aurora's lip;

His very cellars might be kings' abodes; While he, despising every sensual call, 71 Commands - the intellectual lord of all.

- Perhaps he hath great projects in his mind. To build a college, or to found a race.
- A hospital, a church, and leave behind Some dome surmounted by his meagre face
- Perhaps he fain would liberate mankind Even with the very ore which makes
- them base: Perhaps he would be wealthiest of his na-
- tion. So
- Or revel in the joys of calculation.

хī

But whether all, or each, or none of these May be the hoarder's principle of action,

- The fool will call such mania a disease: ----What is his own? Go-look at each transaction,
- Wars, revels, loves do these bring men more ease
  - Than the mere plodding through each 'vulgar fraction ?'
- Or do they benefit mankind? Lean miser!
- Let spendthrifts' heirs enquire of yours ---who's wiser?

XII

- How beauteous are rouleaus ! how charming chests
- Containing ingots, bags of dollars, coins (Not of old victors, all whose heads and
- crests Weigh not the thin ore where their visage shines,
- But) of fine unclipt gold, where dully rests Some likeness, which the glittering
- cirque confines, Of modern, reigning, sterling, stupid stamp: -
- Yes! ready money is Aladdin's lamp.

XIII

- ⁴Love rules the camp, the court, the grove,'- 'for love
  - Is heaven, and heaven is love:'-so sings the bard;

Which it were rather difficult to prove

- (A thing with poetry in general hard). 100 Perhaps there may be something in 'the grove,'
  - At least it rhymes to 'love;' but I'm prepared
- To doubt (no less than landlords of their rental)
- If 'courts' and 'camps' be quite so sentimental.

XIV

- But if Love don't, Cash does, and Cash alone.
  - Cash rules the grove, and fells it too besides;
- Without cash, camps were thin, and courts were none:
  - Without cash, Malthus tells you ' take no brides.'
- So Cash rules Love the ruler, on his own
- High ground, as virgin Cynthia sways the tides:
- And as for 'Heaven being Love,' why not say honey
- Is wax? Heaven is not Love, 't is Matrimony.

xv

Is not all love prohibited whatever,

- Excepting marriage? which is love, no doubt,
- After a sort; but somehow people never
  - With the same thought the two words have help'd out.
- Love may exist with marriage, and should ever,

And marriage also may exist without;

But love sans bans is both a sin and shame, And ought to go by quite another name. 120

XVI

- Now if the 'court,' and 'camp,' and 'grove,' be not
- Recruited all with constant married men, Who never coveted their neighbour's lot,
- I say that line 's a lapsus of the pen; -Strange too in my 'buon camerado' Scott,
- So celebrated for his morals, when
- My Jeffrey held him up as an example
- To me; of whom these morals are a sample

xvn

Well, if I don't succeed, I have succeeded. And that's enough; succeeded in my youth, 130

- The only time when much success is needed: And my success produced what I, m sooth.
- Cared most about; it need not now be pleaded -
  - Whate'er it was, 't was mine; I' ve paid, in truth,

Of late the penalty of such success,

But have not learn'd to wish it any less.

XVIII

That suit in Chancery, — which some persons plead

In an appeal to the unborn, whom they, In the faith of their procreative creed,

Baptize posterity, or future clay, — 140 To me seems but a dubious kind of reed

To lean on for support in any way;

Since odds are that posterity will know No more of them, than they of her, I trow.

XIX

Why, I'm posterity - and so are you;

- And whom do we remember? Not a hundred.
- Were every memory written down all true,
  - The tenth or twentieth name would be but blunder'd;
- Even Plutarch's Lives have but pick'd out a few,
  - And 'gainst those few your annalists have thunder'd;

And Mitford in the nineteenth century

Gives, with Greek truth, the good old Greek the lie.

XX

Good people all, of every degree,

Ye gentle readers and ungentle writers,

- In this twelfth Canto 't is my wish to be As serious as if 1 had for inditers
- Malthus and Wilberforce: the last set free
  - The Negroes, and is worth a million fighters;
- While Wellington has but enslaved the Whites,
- And Malthus does the thing 'gainst which he writes. 160

XXI

I'm serious — so are all men upon paper; And why should I not form my speculation,

- And hold up to the sun my little taper?
- Mankind just now seem wrapt in mediation
- On constitutions and steam-boats of vapour;

While sages write against all procreation, Unless a man can calculate his means

Of feeding brats the moment his wife weans

XXII

- That's noble ! That's romantic ! For my part,
  - I think that ' Philo-genitiveness ' is 170
- (Now here's a word quite after my own heart.
  - Though there's a shorter a good deal than this,
- If that politeness set it not apart;
  - But I'm resolved to say nought that 's amiss) —
- I say, methinks that 'Philo-genitiveness'
- Might meet from men a little more forgiveness.

XXIII

- And now to business O my gentle Juan, Thou art in London - in that pleasant place,
- Where every kind of mischief's daily brewing,
  - Which can await warm youth in its wild race

'T is true, that thy career is not a new one; Thou art no novice in the headlong chase Of early life; but this is a new land,

Which foreigners can never understand.

XXIV

- What with a small diversity of climate,
- Of hot or cold, mercurial or sedate,
- I could send forth my mandate like a primate

Upon the rest of Europe's social state;

But thou art the most difficult to rhyme at, Great Britain, which the Muse may penetrate.

100

All countries have their 'Lions,' but in thee There is but one superb menagerie.

XXV

But I am sick of politics Begin,

'Paulo Majora.' Juan, undecided

Amongst the paths of being 'taken in,' Above the ice had like a skater glided: When tired of play, he flirted without sin With some of those fair creatures who have prided

Themselves on innocent tantalisation,

And hate all vice except its reputation. 200

XXVI

- But these are few, and in the end they make Some devilish escapade or stir, which shows
- That even the purest people may mistake Their way through virtue's primrose paths of snows;
- And then men stare, as if a new ass spake To Balaam, and from tongue to ear o'erflows
- Quicksilver small talk, ending (if you note 1t)
- With the kind world's amen 'Who would have thought it ?'

XXVII

The little Leila, with her orient eyes,

And taciturn Asiatic disposition 210 (Which saw all western things with small surprise,

To the surprise of people of condition, Who think that novelties are butterflies

To be pursued as food for manition), Her charming figure and romantic history Became a kind of fashionable mystery.

XXVIII

The women much divided — as is usual Amongst the sex in little things or great.

- Think not, fair creatures, that I mean to abuse you all — 219
  - I have always liked you better than I state:
- Since I've grown moral, still I must accuse you all

Of being apt to talk at a great rate; And now there was a general sensation Amongst you, about Leila's education.

XXIX

- In one point only were you settled and You had reason; 't was that a young child of grace,
- As beautiful as her own native land,
- And far away, the last bud of her race,
- Howe'er our friend Don Juan might command
  - Himself for five, four, three, or two years' space, 230

Would be much better taught beneath the eye

Of peeresses whose follies had run dry.

XXX

So first there was a generous emulation, And then there was a general competition,

To undertake the orphan's education. As Juan was a person of condition,

- It had been an affront on this occasion To talk of a subscription or petition;
- But sixteen dowagers, ten unwed she sages, Whose tale belongs to 'Hallam's Middle Ages,' 240

XXXI

- And one or two sad, separate wives, without A fruit to bloom upon their withering
- bough Begg'd to bring up the httle girl and 'out,' — For that's the phrase that settles all things now,
- Meaning a virgin's first blush at a rout,
- And all her points as thorough-bred to show.
- And I assure you, that like virgin honey
- Tastes their first season (mostly if they have money).

XXXII

- How all the needy honourable misters, Each out-at-elbow peer, or desperate
- dandy, 250 The watchful mothers, and the careful sisters
  - (Who, by the by, when clever, are more handy
- At making matches, where ''t is gold that glisters,'
  - Than their he relatives), like flies o'er candy
- Buzz round 'the Fortune' with their busy battery,
- To turn her head with waltzing and with flattery !

XXXIII

- Each aunt, each cousin, hath her speculation;
  - Nay, married dames will now and then discover
- Such pure disinterestedness of passion,
- I've known them court an heiress for their lover. 260

'Tantæne!' Such the virtues of high sta-

Even in the hopeful Isle, whose outlet's 'Dover!'

While the poor rich wretch, object of these cares,

Has cause to wish her sire had had male heirs

XXXIV

Some are soon bagg'd, and some reject three dozen

'T is fine to see them scattering refusals And wild dismay o'er every angry cousin

(Friends of the party), who begin accusals, Such as — 'Unless Miss (Blank) meant to

- have chosen
  - Poor Frederick, why did she accord perusals 270
- To his billets? Why waltz with him? Why, I pray,

Look yes last night, and yet say no to-day?

XXXV

• Why ? — Why ? — Besides, Fred really was attach'd;

'T was not her fortune — he has enough without:

The time will come she'll wish that she had snatch'd

So good an opportunity, no doubt: -

But the old marchioness some plan had hatch'd,

As I'll tell Aurea at to-morrow's rout

- And after all poor Frederick may do better — 279
- Pray did you see her answer to his letter?'

XXXVI

Smart uniforms and sparkling coronets Are spurn'd in turn, until her turn arrives,

- After male loss of time, and hearts, and bets Upon the sweepstakes for substantial
- wives; And when at last the pretty creature gets
- Some gentleman, who fights, or writes, or drives,
- It soothes the awkward squad of the rejected

To find how very badly she selected.

XXXVII

For sometimes they accept some long pursuer,

Worn out with importunity; or fall 290

- (But here perhaps the instances are fewer) To the lot of him who scarce pursued at all
- A hazy widower turn'd of forty's sure (If 't is not vam examples to recall)
- To`draw a high prize now, howe'er he got her, I
- See nought more strange in this than t' other lottery.

XXXVIII

- I, for my part (one 'modern instance' moie,
- 'True, 't is a pity pity 't is, 't is true '), Was chosen from out an amatory score,
- Albeit my years were less discreet than few; 300
- But though I also had reform'd before Those became one who soon were to be
- I'll not gainsay the generous public's voice,
- That the young lady made a monstrous choice

XXXIX

Oh, pardon my digression - or at least

- Peruse ! 'T is always with a moral end That I dissert, like grace before a feast:
- For like an aged aunt, or tiresome friend, A rigid guardian, or a zealous priest, 309
- My Muse by exhortation means to mend All people, at all times, and in most places, Which puts my Pegasus to these grave paces.

$\mathbf{XL}$

But now I'm going to be immoral; now

I mean to show things really as they are, Not as they ought to be: for I avow,

That till we see what's what in fact, we're far

- From much improvement with that virtuous plough
  - Which skims the surface, leaving scarce a scar
- Upon the black loam long manured by Vice, Only to keep its corn at the old price. 320

XLI

But first of little Leila we'll dispose;

- For like a day-dawn she was young and pure,
- Or like the old comparison of snows,
  - Which are more pure than pleasant to be sure.

Like many people everybody knows,

- Don Juan was delighted to secure
- A goodly guardian for his infant charge,
- Who might not profit much by being at large.

XLII

- Besides, he had found out he was no tutor (I wish that others would find out the same): 330
- And rather wish'd in such things to stand neuter,
  - For silly wards will bring their guardians blame:
- So when he saw each ancient dame a suitor To make his little wild Asiatic tame,
- Consulting 'the Society for Vice
- Suppression,' Lady Pinchbeck was his
  - choice

XLIII

- Olden she was but had been very young; Virtuous she was — and had been, I believe;
- Although the world has such an evil tongue
  - That but my chaster ear will not receive 340
- An echo of a syllable that 's wrong.
  - In fact, there's nothing makes me so much grieve,

As that abominable tittle-tattle,

Which is the cud eschew'd by human cattle.

XLIV

Moreover I've remark'd (and I was once A slight observer in a modest way),

And so may every one except a dunce,

That ladies in their youth a little gay,

Besides their knowledge of the world, and sense

Of the sad consequence of going astray, 350 Are wiser in their warnings 'gainst the

Which the mere passionless can never know.

XLV

- While the harsh prude indemnifies her virtue
  - By railing at the unknown and envied passion,
- Seeking far less to save you than to hurt you,
  - Or, what's still worse, to put you out of fashion, —

- The kinder veteran with calm words will court you,
  - Entreating you to pause before you dash on;

Expounding and illustrating the riddle 359 Of epic Love's beginning, end, and middle.

XLVI

Now whether it be thus, or that they are stricter,

As better knowing why they should be so,

- I think you'll find from many a family picture,
  - That daughters of such mothers as may know
- The world by experience rather than by lecture,
  - Turn out much better for the Smithfield Show

Of vestals brought into the marriage mart, Than those bred up by prudes without a heart.

XLVII

- I said that Lady Pinchbeck had been talk'd about
  - As who has not, if female, young, and pretty? 370
- But now no more the ghost of Scandal stalk'd about;
  - She merely was deem'd amiable and witty,
- And several of her best bon-mots were hawk'd about :

Then she was given to charity and puv, And pass'd (at least the latter years of life) For being a most exemplary wife

XLVIII

High in high circles, gentle in her own,

- She was the mild reprover of the young, Whenever — which means every day —
- they 'd shown An awkward inclination to go wrong 380
- The quantity of good she did 's unknown, Or at the least would lengthen out my
  - song.
- In brief, the little orphan of the East
- Had raised an interest in her, which increased.

XLIX

Juan, too, was a sort of favourite with her, Because she thought him a good heart at bottom.

- A little spoil'd, but not so altogether; Which was a wonder, if you think who got him,
- And how he had been toss'd, he scarce knew whither:
  - Though this might ruin others, it did not him, 390
- At least entirely for he had seen too many Changes in youth, to be surprised at any.

L

And these vicissitudes tell best in youth; For when they happen at a riper age,

People are apt to blame the Fates, forsooth, And wonder Providence is not more sage.

- Adversity is the first path to truth.
- He who hath proved war, storm, or woman's rage,

Whether his winters be eighteen or eighty, Hath won the experience which is deem'd so weighty. 400

LI

How far it profits is another matter. --

Our hero gladly saw his little charge

Safe with a lady, whose last grown-up daughter

Being long married, and thus set at large, Had left all the accomplishments she taught her To be transmitted, like the Lord Mayor's barge.

To the next comer; or -as it will tell

More Muse-like — like to Cytherea's shell.

LII

I call such things transmission; for there is A floating balance of accomplishment 410

- Which forms a pedigree from M1ss to M1ss, According as their minds or backs are bent.
- Some waltz; some draw; some fathom the abyss

Of metaphysics; others are content

With music; the most moderate shine as wits;

While others have a genius turn'd for fits.

LIII

But whether fits, or wits, or harpsichords, Theology, fine arts, or finer stays,

- May be the baits for gentlemen or lords With regular descent, in these our
  - days, 420

The last year to the new transfers its hoards;

New vestals claim men's eyes with the same praise

- Of 'elegant' et cætera, in fresh batches -
- All matchless creatures, and yet bent on matches.

LIV

But now I will begin my poem. 'T is

- Perhaps a little strange, if not quite new, That from the first of Cantos up to this
  - I've not begun what we have to go through
- These first twelve books are merely flourishes,

Preludios, trying just a string or two 430 Upon my lyre, or making the pegs sure; And when so, you shall have the overture

LV

- My Muses do not care a pinch of rosin
- About what's call'd success, or not succeeding:
- Such thoughts are quite below the strain they have chosen;
  - 'T is a 'great moral lesson' they are reading.
- I thought, at setting off, about two dozen Cantos would do; but at Apollo's pleading,
- If that my Pegasus should not be founder'd.
- I think to canter gently through a hundred. 440

LVI

Don Juan saw that microcosm on stilts,

- Yclept the Great World; for it is the least,
- Although the highest: but as swords have hilts
  - By which their power of mischief is increased,

When man in battle or in quarrel tilts,

- Thus the low world, north, south, or west, or east,
- Must still obey the high which is their handle,
- Their moon, their sun, their gas, their farthing candle.

LVII

- He had many friends who had many wives, and was
- Well look'd upon by both, to that extent 450

Of friendship which you may accept or pass,

It does nor good nor harm; being merely meant

- To keep the wheels going of the higher class,
  - And draw them nightly when a ticket's sent.
- And what with masquerades, and fêtes, and balls,
- For the first season such a life scarce palls.

LVIII

A young unmarried man, with a good name And fortune, has an awkward part to play;

For good society is but a game,

- 'The royal game of Goose,' as I may say, 460
- Where every body has some separate aim, An end to answer, or a plan to lay —

The single ladies wishing to be double,

The married ones to save the virgins trouble.

LIX

- I don't mean this as general, but particular Examples may be found of such pursuits
- Though several also keep their perpendicular

Like poplars, with good principles for roots;

- Yet many have a method more reticular 'Fishers for men,' like sirens with soft
- lutes. 470 For talk six times with the same single lady.
- And you may get the wedding dresses ready.

LX

- Perhaps you'll have a letter from the mother,
- To say her daughter's feelings are trepann'd;
- Perhaps you'll have a visit from the brother, All strut, and stays, and whiskers, to demand
- What 'your intentions are ?'—One way or other
  - It seems the virgin's heart expects your hand:

And between pity for her case and yours,

You'll add to Matrimony's list of cures. 480

LXI

- I've known a dozen weddings made even. thus,
  - And some of them high names: I have also known
- Young men who though they hated to discuss
  - Pretensions which they never dream'd to have shown —

Yet neither frighten'd by a female fuss,

- Nor by mustachios moved, were let alone,
- And lived, as did the broken-hearted ______fair,
- In happier plight than if they form'd a pair.

LXII

There's also nightly, to the unmitiated,

- A peril not indeed like love or marriage, 490
- But not the less for this to be depreciated.
- It is I meant and mean not to disparage
- The show of virtue even in the vitiated It adds an outward grace unto their carriage —
- But to denounce the amphibious sort of harlot,
- 'Couleur de rose,' who 's neither white nor scarlet

LXIII

- Such is your cold coquette, who can't say 'No,'
- And won't say 'Yes,' and keeps you on and off-ing

On a lee-shore, till it begins to blow --

- Then sees your heart wreck'd, with an inward scoffing 500
- This works a world of sentimental woe, And sends new Werters yearly to their coffin;
- But yet is merely unocent flirtation,

Not quite adultery, but adulteration.

LXIV

- 'Ye gods, I grow a talker !' Let us prate. The next of perils, though I place it sternest,
- Is when, without regard to 'church or state,'
  - A wife makes or takes love in upright earnest.

Abroad, such things decide few women's fate —

(Such, early traveller ! is the truth thou learnest) -

But in old England, when a young bride errs,

Poor thing ! Eve's was a trifling case to hers.

LXV

For 't is a low, newspaper, humdrum, law-

Country, where a young couple of the same ages

Can't form a friendship, but the world o'erawes it.

Then there's the vulgar trick of those d—d damages!

A verdict - grievous foe to those who cause 1t!-

Forms a sad climax to romantic homages;

Besides those soothing speeches of the pleaders,

And evidences which regale all readers. 520

LXVI

But they who blunder thus are raw beginners;

A little genial sprinkling of hypocrisy

Has saved the fame of thousand splendid sinners,

The loveliest oligarchs of our gynocracy; You may see such at all the balls and dinners.

Among the proudest of our aristocracy, So gentle, charming, charitable, chaste -And all by having tact as well as taste.

LXVII

- Juan, who did not stand in the predicament Of a mere novice, had one safeguard more;
- For he was sick ——no, 't was not the word sick I meant -
  - But he had seen so much good love before,
- I meant
  - But thus much, and no sneer against the shore
- Of white cliffs, white necks, blue eyes, bluer stockings,
- Tithes, taxes, duns, and doors with double knockings.

LXVIII

- But coming young from lands and scenes romantic,
  - Where lives, not lawsuits, must be risk'd for Passion,
- And Passion's self must have a spice of frantic,

Into a country where 't is half a fashion,

- Seem'd to him half commercial, half pedantic,
  - Howe'er he might esteem this moral nation:

Besides (alas! his taste - forgive and pity!) At first he did not think the women pretty.

LXIX

I say at first — for he found out at last,

- But by degrees, that they were fairer far Than the more glowing dames whose lot is cast
  - Beneath the influence of the eastern star
- A further proof we should not judge in haste;

Yet inexperience could not be his bar 55c

- To taste: the truth is, if men would confess,
- That novelties please less than they unpress.

LXX

- Though travell'd, I have never had the luck to
  - Trace up those shuffing negroes, Nile or Nıger,
- To that impracticable place, Timbuctoo,

Where Geography finds no one to oblige her

With such a chart as may be safely stuck to -

For Europe ploughs in Afric like 'bos piger:' But if I had been at Timbuctoo, there

- No doubt I should be told that black is fair. 560

LXXI

- It is. I will not swear that black is white; But I suspect in fact that white is
- black, And the whole matter rests upon eyesight.
  - Ask a blind man, the best judge. You 'll attack
- Perhaps this new position but I'm right; Or if I'm wrong, I'll not be ta'en aback: -

He hath no morn nor night, but all 1s dark Within; and what seest thou? A dubious spark.

LXXII

- But I'm relapsing into metaphysics,
- That labyrinth, whose clue is of the same
- Construction as your cures for hectic phthisics,
  - Those bright moths fluttering round a dying flame;
- And this reflection brings me to plam physics,

And to the beauties of a foreign dame,

- Compared with those of our pure pearls of price,
- Those polar summers, all sun, and some ice.

L/XIII

Or say they are like virtuous mermaids, whose

Beginnings are fair faces, ends mere fishes; ---

- Not that there's not a quantity of those Who have a due respect for their own
- wishes. 580
- Like Russians rushing from hot baths to snows
  - Are they, at bottom virtuous even when vicious.
- They warm into a scrape, but keep of course,
- As a reserve, a plunge into remorse.

LXXIV

- But this has nought to do with their outsides
  - I said that Juan did not think them pretty

At the first blush; for a fair Briton hides

- Half her attractions probably from pity —
- And rather calmly into the heart glides,
- Than storms it as a foe would take a city; 590 But once there (if you doubt this, prithee
- try)
- She keeps it for you like a true ally.

LXXV

She cannot step as does an Arab barb,

Or Andalusian girl from mass returning,

- Nor wear as gracefully as Gauls her garb, Nor m her eye Ausoma's glance is burning;
- Her voice, though sweet, is not so fit to warble those bravuras (which I still am learning
- To like, though I have been seven years in Italy,
- And have, or had, an ear that served me prettily); — 600

LXXVI

- She cannot do these things, nor one or two Others, in that off-hand and dashing style
- Which takes so much to give the devil his due;

Nor is she quite so ready with her smile, Nor settles all things in one interview

- (A thing approved as saving time and toil); --
- But though the soil may give you time and trouble,

Well cultivated, it will render double

LXXVII

And if in fact she takes to a 'grande passion,'

It is a very serious thing indeed. 610

Nine times in ten 't is but caprice or fashion,

Coquetry, or a wish to take the lead,

- The pride of a mere child with a new sash on,
- Or wish to make a rival's bosom bleed:

But the tenth instance will be a tornado,

For there's no saying what they will or may do.

LXXVIII

The reason's obvious; if there's an eclat,

They lose their caste at once, as do the Parias;

And when the delicacies of the law

Have fill'd their papers with their comments various, 620

Society, that china without flaw

(The hypocrite !), will banish them like Marus,

To sit amidst the ruins of their guilt:

For Fame's a Carthage not so soon rebuilt.

LXXIX

- Perhaps this is as it should be; it is A comment on the Gospel's 'Sin no
  - more.

- And be thy sins forgiven: '--- but upon this
  - I leave the saints to settle their own score.
- Abroad, though doubtless they do much amiss,
- An erring woman finds an opener door 630
- For her return to Virtue as they call
- That lady, who should be at home to all.

LXXX

For me, I leave the matter where I find it, Knowing that such uneasy virtue leads

- People some ten times less in fact to mind
  - It, And care but for discoveries and not deeds.
- And as for chastity, you 'll never bind it
- By all the laws the strictest lawyer pleads,
- But aggravate the crime you have not prevented,
- By rendering desperate those who had else repented. 640

LXXXI

But Juan was no casuist, nor had ponder'd Upon the moral lessons of mankind.

- Besides, he had not seen of several hundred A lady altogether to his mind.
- A little 'blase' 't is not to be wonder'd At, that his heart had got a tougher rind:

And though not vainer from his past success, No doubt his sensibilities were less.

LXXXII

He also had been busy seeing sights ---

- The Parliament and all the other houses; Had sat beneath the gallery at nights, 651
- To heat debates whose thunder roused (not rouses)
- The world to gaze upon those northern lights
  - Which flash'd as far as where the muskbull browses;
- He had also stood at times behind the throne —
- But Grey was not arrived, and Chatham gone.

LXXXIII

He saw, however, at the closing session, That noble sight, when really free the nation.

- A king in constitutional possession
- Of such a throne as is the proudest station, 660
- Though despots know it not till the progression
  - Of freedom shall complete their education.
- 'T is not mere splendour makes the show august
- To eye or heart it is the people's trust.

LXXXIV

- There, too, he saw (whate'er he may be now)
- A Prince, the prince of princes at the time,
- With fascination in his very bow,
- And full of promise, as the spring of prime.
- Though royalty was written on his brow,
- He had then the grace, too, rare in every clime, 670
- Of being, without alloy of fop or beau,
- A finish'd gentleman from top to toe.

LXXXV

- And Juan was received, as hath been said, Into the best society: and there
- Occurr'd what often happens, I'm afraid, However disciplined and debonnaire. —
- The talent and good humour he display'd, Besides the mark'd distinction of his air,
- Exposed him, as was natural, to temptation,
- Even though himself avoided the occasion. 680

LXXXVI

- But what, and where, with whom, and when, and why,
- Is not to be put hastily together;
- And as my object is morality
  - (Whatever people say), I don't know whether
- I'll leave a single reader's eyelid dry,
  - But harrow up his feelings till they wither,

And hew out a huge monument of pathos,

As Philip's son proposed to do with Athos.

LXXXVII

- Here the twelfth Canto of our introduction
  - Ends. When the body of the book's beg, 690

94°

- You 'll find it of a different construction From what some people say 't will be when done:
- The plan at present's simply in concoction, I can't oblige you, reader, to read on;
- That's your affair, not mine: a real spirit
- Should neither court neglect, nor dread to bear it.

10.

LXXXVIII

And if my thunderbolt not always rattles, Remember, reader ! you have had before

- The worst of tempests and the best of battles
  - That e'er were brew'd from elements or gore, 700
- Besides the most sublime of -- Heaven knows what else.
  - An usurer could scarce expect much more —

But my best canto, save one on astronomy, Will turn upon 'political economy.'

LXXXIX

That is your present theme for popularity Now that the public hedge hath scarce a stake,

It grows an act of patriotic charity,

- To show the people the best way to break.  $My \ plan$  (but I, if but for singularity,
- Reserve it) will be very sure to take. 710 Meantme, read all the national debt-sinkers, And tell me what you think of your great thinkers.

CANTO THE THIRTEENTH

Ι

- I now mean to be serious; it is time, Since laughter now-a-days is deem'd too serious.
- A jest at Vice by Virtue 's call'd a crime, And critically held as deleterious
- Besides, the sad 's a source of the sublime, Although when long a little apt to weary us:
- And therefore shall my lay soar high and solemn,
- As an old temple dwindled to a col n.

II

The Lady Adeline Amundeville

('T is an old Norman name, and to be found ¹⁰

- In pedigrees, by those who wander still
- Along the last fields of that Gothic ground)
- Was high-born, wealthy by her father's will, And beauteous, even where beauties most abound,
- In Britain which of course true patriots find

The goodliest soil of body and of mind.

III

I'll not gainsay them; it is not my cue;

- I'll leave them to their taste, no doubt the best
- An eye's an eye, and whether black or blue,
- Is no great matter, so 't is in request, 20 'T is nonsense to dispute about a hue —

The kindest may be taken as a test.

- The fair sex should be always fair; and no man,
- Till thirty, should perceive there 's a plain woman.

IV

- And after that serene and somewhat dull Epoch, that awkward corner turn'd for days
- More quiet, when our moon's no more at full,
- We may presume to criticise or praise; Because indifference begins to lull
  - Our passions, and we walk in wisdom's ways; 30
- Also because the figure and the face
- Hint, that 't is time to give the younger place.

v

I know that some would fain postpone this era,

Reluctant as all placemen to resign

- Their post; but theirs is merely a chimera For they have pass'd life's equinoctial line:
- But then they have their claret and Madeira To irrigate the dryness of decline;
- And county meetings, and the parliament,
- And debt, and what not, for their solace sent. 40

VI

And is there not religion, and reform,

Peace, war, the taxes, and what's call'd the 'Nation'? The struggle to be pilots in a storm?

The landed and the momed speculation " The joys of mutual hate to keep them warm, Instead of love, that mere hallucination? Now hatred is by far the longest pleasure;

Men love in haste, but they detest at lessure.

VII

- Rough Johnson, the great moralist, profess'd,
  - Right honestly, 'he liked an honest hater!'--- 50

The only truth that yet has been confest

Within these latest thousand years or later.

Perhaps the fine old fellow spoke in jest: — For my part, I am but a mere spectator,

And gaze where'er the palace or the hovel 1s,

Much in the mode of Goethe's Mephistopheles;

VIII

But neither love nor hate in much excess; Though 't was not once so. If I sneer sometimes,

It is because I cannot well do less,

And now and then it also suits my rhymes. 60

I should be very willing to redress

- Men's wrongs, and rather check than punish crimes,
- Had not Cervantes, in that too true tale
- Of Quixote, shown how all such efforts fail.

IX

- Of all tales 't is the saddest and more sad, Because it makes us smile: his hero's right,
- And still pursues the right; to curb the bad

His only object, and 'gainst odds to fight His guerdon: 't is his virtue makes him mad !

But his adventures form a sorry sight;

A sorrier still is the great moral taught 71

By that real epic unto all who have thought.

х

Redressing injury, revenging wrong,

- To aid the damsel and destroy the caitiff; Opposing singly the united strong,
  - From foreign yoke to free the helpless tive: —

- Alas ! must noblest views, like an old song, Be for mere fancy 's sport a theme crea tive,
- A jest, a riddle, Fame through thin and thick sought !
- And Socrates hunself but Wisdom's Quixote? 80

XI

Cervantes smiled Spain's chivalry away;

A single laugh demolish'd the light arm

- Of his own country; seldom since that day
  - Has Spam had heroes While Romance could charm,
- The world gave ground before her bright array;
  - And therefore have his volumes done such harm,

That all their glory, as a composition,

Was dearly purchased by his land's perdition.

XII

I'm 'at my old lunes' — digression, and forget

The Lady Adeline Amundeville; 90 The fair most fatal Juan ever met,

Although she was not evil nor meant ill; But Destiny and Passion spread the net

(Fate is a good excuse for our own will), And caught them; — what do they not catch, methinks? But I'm not Œdipus, and life's a Sphinx.

it I in not courpus, and me s a spining

XIII

I tell the tale as it is told, nor dare To venture a solution. 'Davus sum !'

And now I will proceed upon the pair Sweet Adeline, amidst the gay world's

- hum,
- Was the Queen-Bee, the glass of all that's fair;

Whose charms made all men speak, and women dumb.

The last 's a miracle, and such was reckon'd,

And since that time there has not been a second.

XIV

- Chaste was she, to detraction's desperation, And wedded unto one she had loved well —
- A man known in the councils of the nation, Cool, and quite English, imperturbable.

942

- Though apt to act with fire upon occasion, Proud of himself and her: the world could tell
- Nought against either, and both seem'd secure ---

She in her virtue, he in his hauteur.

xv

- It chanced some diplomatical relations, Arising out of business, often brought
- Humself and Juan in their mutual stations Into close contact. Though reserved, nor
- caught By specious seeming, Juan's youth, and patience.
- And talent, on his haughty spirit wrought, And form'd a basis of esteem, which ends

In making men what courtesy calls friends

XVI

And thus Lord Henry, who was cautious as 121

Reserve and pride could make him, and full slow

In judging men — when once his judgment was Determined, right or wrong, on friend or foe,

Had all the pertinacity pride has,

Which knows no ebb to its imperious flow,

And loves or hates, disdaining to be guided,

Because its own good pleasure hath decided.

XVII

His friendships, therefore, and no less aversions.

Though oft well founded, which confirm'd but more 130

His prepossessions, like the laws of Persians

And Medes, would ne'er revoke what went before.

- His feelings had not those strange fits, like tertians,
  - Of common likings, which make some deplore
- What they should laugh at the mere ague still
- Of men's regard, the fever or the chill.

XVIII

"T is not in mortals to command success." But do you more, Sempronius — don't deserve it,"

- And take my word, you won't have any less.
  - Be wary, watch the time, and always serve it; ¹⁴⁰
- Give gently way, when there's too great a press;
  - And for your conscience, only learn to nerve it,

For, like a racer, or a boxer training,

'T will make, if proved, vast efforts without pammg.

XIX

Lord Henry also liked to be superior,

As most men do, the little or the great, The very lowest find out an inferior,

At least they think so, to exert their state Upon: for there are very few things wearier

Than solitary Pride's oppressive weight, Which mortals generously would divide, 151 By bidding others carry while they ride.

$\mathbf{X}\mathbf{X}$

In birth, in rank, in fortune likewise equal, O'er Juan he could no distinction claim;

- In years he had the advantage of time's sequel;
  - And, as he thought, in country much the same —
- Because bold Britons have a tongue and free quill,
  - At which all modern nations vainly aim:

And the Lord Henry was a great debater,

So that few members kept the house up later. 160

XXI

- These were advantages: and then he thought
  - It was his foible, but by no means sinister —
- That few or none more than himself had caught
  - Court mysteries, having been himself a minister
- He liked to teach that which he had been taught,
  - And greatly shone whenever there had been a stir;
- And reconciled all qualities which grace man,
- Always a patriot, and sometimes a placeman.

He liked the gentle Spaniard for his grav-

He almost honour'd him for his doculity; Because, though young, he acquiesced with

Or contradicted but with proud humility. He knew the world, and would not see depravity In faults which sometimes show the soil's fertility, If that the weeds o'erlive not the first crop-

For then they are very difficult to stop.

XXIII

And then he talk'd with him about Madrid.

Constantinople, and such distant places;

- Where people always did as they were bid.
- Or did what they should not with foreign graces.

Of coursers also spake they: Henry rid

Well, like most Englishmen, and loved the races:

And Juan, like a true-born Andalusian,

Could back a horse, as despots ride a Russian.

XXIV

And thus acquaintance grew, at noble routs, And diplomatic dinners, or at other ---

For Juan stood well both with Ins and Outs. As in freemasonry a higher brother.

Upon his talent Henry had no doubts;

His manner show'd him sprung from a high mother;

And all men like to show their hospitality

To him whose breeding matches with his quality.

XXV

- At Blank-Blank Square; for we will break no squares
- By naming streets: since men are so censorious,

And apt to sow an author's wheat with tares,

Reaping allusions private and inglorious, Where none were dreamt of, unto love's affairs,

Which were, or are, or are to be notorious, That therefore do I previously declare

Lord Henry's mansion was in Blank-Blank Square. 200 Also there bin another pious reason For making squares and streets anony-

- mous:
- Which is, that there is scarce a single season
  - Which doth not shake some very splendid house
- With some slight heart-quake of domestic treason

A topic scandal doth delight to rouse:

Such I might stumble over unawares.

Unless I knew the very chastest squares.

XXVII

- 'Tis true, I might have chosen Piccadilly,
  - A place where peccadillos are unknown;

But I have motives, whether wise or silly. For letting that pure sanctuary alone.

- Therefore I name not square, street, place, untıl I
  - Find one where nothing naughty can be shown.

A vestal shrine of innocence of heart.

Such are — but I have lost the London Chart.

XXVIII

At Henry's mansion then, in Blank-Blank Square,

Was Juan a recherché, welcome guest,

As many other noble scions were;

- And some who had but talent for their crest; 220
- Or wealth, which is a passport every where:
  - Or even mere fashion, which indeed 's the hest

Recommendation: and to be well drest Will very often supersede the rest.

XXIX

And since ' there 's safety in a multitude Of counsellors,' as Solomon has said,

Or some one for him, in some sage, grave mood; -

Indeed we see the daily proof display'd In senates, at the bar, in wordy feud,

Where'er collective wisdom can parade, Which is the only cause that we can

- guess
- Of Britain's present wealth and happiness: ---

suavity,

XXVI

CANTO THE	INIKILENIN 945
XXX	XXXIV
t as 'there's safety' grafted in the number Of counsellors' for men, thus for the sex large acquaintance lets not Virtue slum-	There also was of course in Adeline That calm patrician polish in the address; Which ne'er can pass the equinoctial line Of any thing which nature would ex- press;
ber; Or should it shake, the choice will more	Just as a mandarin finds nothing fine, — At least his manner suffers not to guess
perplex — riety itself will more encumber. Midst many rocks we guard more against wrecks;	That any thing he views can greatly please. Perhaps we have borrow'd this from the Chinese — 272
d thus with women: howsoe'er it shocks	XXXV
some's lf-love, there 's safety in a crowd of cox- combs. 240	Perhaps from Horace: his ' Nıl admirari ' Was what he call'd the 'Art of Happi- ness;'
XXXI	An art on which the artists greatly vary, And have not yet attain'd to much success.
t Adeline had not the least occasion For such a shield, which leaves but httle merit ovirtue proper, or good education. Her chief resource was in her own high spirit,	However, 't is expedient to be wary: Indifference certes don't produce distress; And rash enthusiasm in good society Were nothing but a moral mebriety. 280 XXXVI
hich judged mankind at their due estima- tion; And for coquetry, she disdain'd to wear it:	But Adeline was not indifferent: for (Now for a common-place !) beneath the snow, cure of admiration, its impression as faint, as of an every-day possession.	As a volcano holds the lava more Within — et cætera . Shall I go on ? — No! I hate to hunt down a tired metaphor, So let the often-used volcano go
XXXII	Poor thing ! How frequently, by me and all she was polite without parade; To some she show'd attention of that kind	others, It hath been sturr'd up till its smoke quite smothers !

What say you to a bottle of champagne?

- Frozen into a very vinous ice, Which leaves few drops of that immortal ram,
- Yet in the very centre, past all price, About a liquid glassful will remain;

And this is stronger than the strongest grape Could e'er express in its expanded shape:

XXXVIII

- "T is the whole spirit brought to a quintessence;
  - And thus the chilliest aspects may concentre
- A hidden nectar under a cold presence.
- And such are many though I only meant her 300

- Bu
- A
- Va
- An
- Se
- Bu

To

- W

Se

- To
- Which flatters, but is flattery convey'd 251 In such a sort as cannot leave behind

A trace unworthy either wife or maid; -A gentle, genial courtesy of mind,

- To those who were, or pass'd for meritorious,
- Just to console sad glory for being glorious;

XXXIII

vy hich is in all respects, save now and then,

A dull and desolate appendage. Gaze

- Upon the shades of those distinguish'd men Who were or are the puppet-shows of praise, 260
- The praise of persecution; gaze again On the most favour'd; and amidst the blaze
- Of sunset halos o'er the laurel-brow'd,
- What c ye recognise ? a gilded cloud.

- ess. e
- ex-
- ss se.
- the 272
- ;, pi-

- the
- No!
- ınd

XXXVII

I'll have another figure in a trice: ----

- From whom I now deduce these moral lessons
  - On which the Muse has always sought to enter.

And your cold people are beyond all price, When once you have broken their confounded ice.

XXXIX

But after all they are a North-West Passage Unto the glowing India of the soul;

And as the good ships sent upon that message Have not exactly ascertain'd the Pole

(Though Parry's efforts look a lucky presage),

Thus gentlemen may run upon a shoal;

- For if the Pole's not open, but all frost 311
- (A chance still), 't is a voyage or vessel lost.

XI.

- And young beginners may as well commence
  - With quiet cruising o'er the ocean woman:
- While those who are not beginners should have sense
  - Enough to make for port, ere time shall summon
- With his grey signal-flag; and the past tense.

The dreary ' Fuimus' of all things human. Must be declined, while life's thin thread 's spun out

Between the gaping heir and gnawing gout.

XLI

- But heaven must be diverted; its diversion
- Is sometimes truculent --- but never mind: The world upon the whole is worth the as
  - sertion (If but for comfort) that all things are
  - kind.
- And that same devilish doctrine of the Persian.
- Of the two principles, but leaves behind As many doubts as any other doctrine
- Has ever puzzled Faith withal, or yoked her in.

XLII

The English winter - ending in July,

To recommence in August - now was done. 330

- 'T is the postilion's paradise: wheels fly;
- On roads, east, south, north, west, there 1s a run

But for post-horses who finds sympathy? Man's pity's for himself, or for his son,

Always premising that said son at college Has not contracted much more debt than knowledge.

XLIII

Sometimes a little later. I don't err

- In this : whatever other blunders he
- Upon my shoulders, here 1 must aver 340 My Muse a glass of weatherology;
- For parliament is our barometer:
- Let radicals its other acts attack,
- Its sessions form our only almanack.

XLIV

- When its quicksilver's down at zero, lo Coach, chariot, luggage, baggage, equi page!
- Wheels whirl from Carlton palace to Soho And happiest they who horses can engage
- The turnpikes glow with dust; and Rotter Row
  - Sleeps from the chivalry of this bright
- And tradesmen, with long bills and longe faces.
- Sigh as the postboys fasten on the traces

XI.V

- They and their bills, 'Arcadians both,' are left
- To the Greek kalends of another session.
- Alas! to them of ready cash bereft,
- What hope remains? Of hope the full possession,
- Or generous draft, conceded as a gift,

At a long date — till they can get a fresh one-

Hawk'd about at a discount, small or large;

Also the solace of an overcharge. 360

XL.VI

But these are trifles. Downward flies my lord,

Nodding beside my lady in his carriage.

- Away! away! 'Fresh horses!' are the word.
  - And changed as quickly as hearts after marriage;

- The obsequious landlord hath the change restored;
- The postboys have no reason to disparage Their fee; but ere the water'd wheels may hiss hence,
- The ostler pleads too for a reminiscence.

XLVII

'T is granted; and the valet mounts the dickey —

That gentleman of lords and gentlemen; Also my lady's gentlewoman, tricky, 37¹⁷

Trick'd out, but modest more than poet's pen

Can paint, — ' Cosi viaggino i Ricchi !'

- (Excuse a foreign slipslop now and then,
- If but to show I 've travell'd; and what's travel,
- Unless it teaches one to quote and cavil?)

XLVIII

- The London winter and the country summer Were well nigh over 'T is perhaps a pity,
- When nature wears the gown that doth become her,
  - To lose those best months in a sweaty city, 350
- And wait until the nightingale grows dumber,

Listening debates not very wise or witty,

- Ere patriots their true country can remember; —
- But there's no shooting (save grouse) till September

XLIX

- I've done with my tirade. The world was gone;
  - The twice two thousand, for whom earth was made,
- Were vanish'd to be what they call alone That is, with thirty servants for parade,
- As many guests, or more; before whom groan

As many covers, duly, daily, laid. 390 Let none accuse Old England's hospitality --

Its quantity is but condensed to quality.

L

- Lord Henry and the Lady Adeline
- Departed like the rest of their compeers, The peerage, to a mansion very fine;

The Gothic Babel of a thousand years.

- None than themselves could boast a longer line,
  - Where time through heroes and through beauties steers;
- And oaks as olden as their pedigree

Told of their sires, a tomb in every tree.

LI

- A paragraph in every paper told 401 Of their departure: such is modern fame
- 'T is pity that it takes no farther hold
- Than an advertisement, or much the same;
- When, ere the mk be dry, the sound grows cold.
  - The Morning Post was foremost to proproclaim —

Departure, for his country seat, to-day,

Lord H Amundeville and Lady A

LII

• We understand the splendid host intends To entertain, this autumin, a select 410

- And numerous party of his noble friends; Midst whom we have heard, from sources
- quite correct, The Duke of D—— the shooting season spends,
  - With many more by rank and fashion deck'd;

Also a foreigner of high condition,

The envoy of the secret Russian mission.'

LIII

And thus we see — who doubts the Morning Post?

(Whose articles are like the 'Thirty-nine,'

- Which those most swear to who believe them most) ---
  - Our gav Russ Spaniard was ordain'd to shine, 420
- Deck'd by the rays reflected from his host, With those who, Pope says, 'greatly daring dime'
- 'T is odd, but true, last war the News abounded
- More with these dinners than the kill'd or wounded; ---

LIV

- As thus ' On Thursday there was a grand dinner;
  - Present, Lords A. B. C ' Earls, dukes, by name

Announced with no less pomp than victory's winner:

- Then underneath, and in the very same Column; date, 'Falmouth There has lately been here
  - The Slap-dash regiment, so well known to fame,

Whose loss in the late action we regret: The vacancies are fill'd up - see Gazette.'

L.V

To Norman Abbey whirl'd the noble pair, -An old, old monastery once, and now

Still older mansion; of a rich and rare

Mix'd Gothic, such as artists all allow Few specimens yet left us can compare

Withal, it lies perhaps a little low, Because the monks preferr'd a hill behind, To shelter their devotion from the wind.

LVI

It stood embosom'd in a happy valley, 44I Crown'd by high woodlands, where the Druid oak

Stood like Caractacus in act to rally

- His host, with broad arms 'gainst the thunderstroke;
- And from beneath his boughs were seen to sally

The dappled foresters — as day awoke,

- The branching stag swept down with all his herd,
- To quaff a brook which murmur'd like a bird.

LVII

Before the mansion lay a lucid lake,

- Broad as transparent, deep, and freshly fed
- By a river, which its soften'd way did take
  - In currents through the calmer water spread

Around the wildfowl nestled in the brake And sedges, brooding in their liquid bed.

The woods sloped downwards to its brink, and stood

With their green faces fix'd upon the flood.

LVIII

Its outlet dash'd into a deep cascade,

Sparkling with foam, until again subsidıng,

Its shriller echoes — like an infant made Quiet — sank into softer ripples, gliding Into a rivulet; and thus allay'd,

- 461 Pursued its course, now gleaming, and now hiding
- Its windings through the woods; now clear, now blue,
- According as the skies their shadows threw.

LIX

A glorious remnant of the Gothic pile (While yet the church was Rome's) stood half apart

- In a grand arch, which once screen'd many an aisle.
  - These last had disappear'd a loss to art:
- The first yet frown'd superbly o'er the soil, And kindled feelings in the roughest heart, 470
- Which mourn'd the power of time's or tempest's march,

In gazing on that venerable arch.

LX

Within a niche, nigh to its pinnacle,

- Twelve saints had once stood sanctified in stone;
- But these had fallen, not when the friars fell.
  - But in the war which struck Charles from his throne,

When each house was a fortalice, as tell

The annals of full many a line undone, ----

The gallant cavaliers, who fought in vam

For those who knew not to resign or reign.

LXI

- But in a higher niche, alone, but crown'd, The Virgin Mother of the God-born
- Child, ₄82 With her Son in her blessed arms, look'd round,
  - Spared by some chance when all beside was spoil'd;

She made the earth below seem holy ground. This may be superstition, weak or wild,

- But even the faintest relics of a shrine
- Of any worship wake some thoughts divine.

LXII

A mighty window, hollow in the centre, wings,

- Shorn of its glass of thousand colourings, Through which the deepen'd glories once
  - could enter, Streaming from off the s like seraph's

- Now yawns all desolate now loud, now fainter,
  - The gale sweeps through its fretwork, and oft sings
- The owl his anthem, where the silenced quire
- Lie with their hallelujahs quench'd like fire.

LXIII

- But in the noontide of the moon, and when The wind is winged from one point of heaven,
- There moans a strange unearthly sound, which then

Is musical — a dying accent driven 500

Through the huge arch, which soars and sinks again.

Some deem it but the distant echo given

Back to the night wind by the waterfall,

And harmonised by the old choral wall:

LXIV

- Others, that some original shape, or form Shaped by decay perchance, hath given the power
- (Though less than that of Memnon's statue, warm
- In Egypt's rays, to harp at a fix'd hour) To this grey ruin, with a voice to charm.
- Sad, but serene, it sweeps o'er tree or tower; 510
- The cause I know not, nor can solve; but such
- The fact: I've heard it once perhaps too much.

LXV

- Amidst the court a Gothic fountain play'd, Symmetrical, but deck'd with carvings
- quaint —
- Strange faces, like to men in masquerade, And here perhaps a monster, there a saint:
- The spring gush'd through grim mouths of granite made,
- And sparkled into basins, where it spent Its little torrent in a thousand bubbles,
- Like man's vain glory, and his vainer troubles. 520

LXVI

- The mansion's self was v t d venerable,
  - With more of the mo stic than has been

Elsewhere preserved : the cloisters still were stable,

The cells, too, and refectory, I ween. An exquisite small chapel had been able,

- Still unimpair'd, to decorate the scene;
- The rest had been reform'd, replaced, or sunk,
- And spoke more of the baron than the monk.

LXVII

- Huge halls, long galleries, spacious chambers, join'd
- By no quite lawful marriage of the arts, Might shock a connoisseur; but when combined, 531
- Form'd a whole which, irregular in parts, Yet left a grand impression on the mind,
  - At least of those whose eyes are in their hearts.

We gaze upon a giant for his stature,

Nor judge at first if all be true to nature.

LXVIII

Steel barons, molten the next generation

- To silken rows of gay and garter'd earls, Glanced from the walls in goodly preserva-
- tion; And Lady Marys blooming into gırls, 540
- With fair long locks, had also kept their station;
  - And countesses mature in robes and pearls.

Also some beauties of Sir Peter Lely,

Whose drapery hints we may admire them freely.

LXIX

- Judges in very formidable ermine
- Were there, with brows that did not much invite
- The accused to think their lordships would determine
  - His cause by leaning much from might to right
- Bishops, who had not left a single sermon:
- Attorneys-general, awful to the sight, 550 As hinting more (unless our judgments warp us)
- Of the 'Star Chamber' than of 'Habe Corpus.'

LXX

Generals, some all in armour, of the old And iron time, ere lead had ta'en the lead; Others in wigs of Marlborough's martial fold,

Huger than twelve of our degenerate breed.

Lordlings, with staves of white or keys of gold:

Nimrods, whose canvass scarce contain'd the steed:

And here and there some stern high patriot stood,

Who could not get the place for which he sued. 560

LXXI

But ever and anon, to soothe your vision, Fatigued with these hereditary glories,

There rose a Carlo Dolce or a Titian,

- Or wilder group of savage Salvatore's; Here danced Albano's boys, and here the
- sea shone In Vernet's ocean lights; and there the
- stories

Of martyrs awed, as Spagnoletto tainted

His brush with all the blood of all the samted.

LXXII

- Here sweetly spread a landscape of Lorraine;
  - There Rembrandt made his darkness equal light, 570
- Or gloomy Caravaggio's gloomier stain Bronzed o'er some lean and stoic anchorite: —

But, lo ! a Teniers woos, and not in vain,

Your eyes to revel in a livelier sight.

His bell-mouth'd goblet makes me feel quite Danish

Or Dutch with thirst — What, ho ! a flask of Rhenish.

LXXIII

- O reader ! if that thou canst read, and know,
  - 'T is not enough to spell, or even to read,

To constitute a reader; there must go

- Virtues of which both you and I have need; ________580
- Firstly, begin with the beginning (though That clause is hard); and secondly, proceed;
- Thirdly, commence not with the end or, sinning

In this sort, end at least with the beginning.

LXXIV

- But, reader, thou hast patient been of late, While I, without remorse of rhyme, or fear,
- Have built and laid out ground at such a rate,
- Dan Phœbus takes me for an auctioneer. That poets were so from their earliest date.
- By Homer's 'Catalogue of ships' is clear; 590
- I spare you then the furniture and plate.

LXXV

- The mellow autumn came, and with it came _____The promised party, to enjoy its sweets.
- The corn is cut, the manor full of game;
- The pointer ranges, and the sportsman beats
- In russet jacket: lynx-like is his aim;
- Full grows his bag, and wonderful his feats.
- Ah, nut-brown partridges! Ah, brilliant pheasants!
- And ah, ye poachers ! 'T is no sport for peasants. 600

LXXVI

- An English autumn, though it hath no vines,
- Blushing with Bacchant coronals along
- The paths, o'er which the far festoon entwines
  - The red grape in the sunny lands of song,
- Hath yet a purchased choice of choicest wines;

The claret light, and the Madeira strong.

- If Britam mourn her bleakness, we can tell her,
- The very best of vineyards is the cellar.

LXXVII

- Then, if she hath not that serene decline
- Which makes the southern autumn's day appear 610
- As if 't would to a second spring resign The season, rather than to winter drear,
- Of in-door comforts still she hath a mme, The sea-coal fires the 'earliest of the year;'
- Without doors, too, she may compete in mellow,
- As what is lost in green is gain'd in yellow.

LXXVIII

- And for the effeminate villeggiatura Rife with more horns than hounds — she hath the chase,
- So animated that it might allure a game.

- Saint from his beads to join the jocund race; 620
- Even Nimrod's self might leave the plains of Dura,

And wear the Melton jacket for a space:

If she hath no wild boars, she hath a tame Preserve of bores, who ought to be made

LXXIX

- The noble guests, assembled at the Abbey,
- Consisted of we give the sex the pas The Duchess of Fitz-Fulke, the Countess
- Crabby;
- The Ladies Scilly, Busey; Miss Eclat, Miss Bombazeen, Miss Mackstav, Miss
- O'Tabby, And Mrs. Babbi the rich harbor's
  - And Mrs. Rabbi, the rich banker's squaw; 630

Also the honourable Mrs. Sleep,

Who look'd a white lamb, yet was a black sheep.

LXXX

- With other Countesses of Blank—but rank;
  - At once the 'lie' and the 'ehte' of crowds;
- Who pass like water filter'd in a tank,
- All purged and pious from their native clouds;

Or paper turn'd to money by the Bank:

- No matter how or why, the passport shrouds
- The 'passée' and the past; for good society
- Is no less famed for tolerance than piety, — 640

LXXXI

That is, up to a certain point; which point Forms the most difficult in punctuation.

Appearances appear to form the joint

- On which it hinges in a higher station; And so that no explosion cry 'Aroint
- Thee, witch !' or each Medea has her Jason;
- Or (to the point with Horace and with Pulci)
- ⁶ Omne tulit punctum, quæ miscuit utile dulci.⁹

LXXXII

- I can't exactly trace their rule of right, 645 Which hath a little leaning to a lottery
- I've seen a virtuous woman put down quite By the mere combination of a coterie;
- Also a so-so matron boldly fight
- Her way back to the world by dint of plottery,

And shine the very Suria of the spheres,

Escaping with a few slight, scarless sneers

LXXXIII

I have seen more than I'll say — but we will see

How our villeggiatura will get on

The party might consist of thirty-three

- Of highest caste the Brahmins of the ton 660
- I have named a few, not foremost in degree,
  - But ta'en at hazard as the rhyme may run.
- By way of sprinkling, scatter'd amongst these,
- There also were some Irish absentees.

LXXXIV

There was Parolles, too, the legal bully, Who limits all his battles to the bar

- And senate: when invited elsewhere, truly, He shows more appetite for words than war
- There was the young bard Racki hyme, who had newly
- Come out and glimmer'd as a six weeks' star 670
- There was Lord Pyrrho, too, the great freethinker;
- And Sır John Pottledeep, the mighty drmker.

LXXXV

- There was the Duke of Dash, who was a duke,
  - 'Ay, every inch a' duke; there were twelve peers
- Like Charlemagne's and all such peers in look

And intellect, that neither eyes nor ears For commoners had ever them mistook

- There were the six Miss Rawbolds pretty dears !
- All song and sentiment; whose hearts were set
- Less on a convent than a coronet. 380

LXXXVI

- There were four Honourable Misters, whose Honour was more before their names than after;
- There was the preux Chevaher de la Ruse, Whom France and Fortune lately deign'd to waft here,
- Whose chiefly harmless talent was to amuse; But the clubs found it rather serious laughter,
- Because such was his magic power to please —
- The dice seem'd charm'd, too, with his repartees.

LXXXVII

There was Dick Dubious, the metaphysician,

Who loved philosophy and a good dinner;

- Angle, the soi-disant mathematician; 691
- Sir Henry Silvercup, the great racewinner.
- There was the Reverend Rodomont Precisian,
  - Who did not hate so much the sin as sinner;
- And Lord Augustus Fitz-Plantagenet,
- Good at all things, but better at a bet.

LXXXVIII

- There was Jack Jargon, the gigantic guardsman;
  - And General Fireface, famous in the field,
- A great tactician, and no less a swordsman, Who ate, last war, more Yankees than he kill'd. 700
- There was the waggish Welsh Judge, Jefferies Hardsman,

In his grave office so completely skill'd, That when a culprit came for condemnation, He had his judge's joke for consolation.

LXXXIX

- Good company's a chess-board there are kings,
  - Queens, bishops, knights, rooks, pawns; the world's a game;
- Save that the puppets pull at their own strings,
  - Methinks gay Punch hatb something of the same.
- My Muse, the butterfly hath but her wings, Not stings, and flits through ether without a , 710

- Alighting rarely: --- were she but a hornet,
- Perhaps there might be vices which would mourn it.

xc

- I had forgotten but must not forget An orator, the latest of the session,
- Who had deliver'd well a very set
- Smooth speech, his first and maidenly trangression
- Upon debate: the papers echoed yet
- With his debut, which made a strong impression,
- And rank'd with what is every day display'd —
- 'The best first speech that ever yet was made.' 720

ХСI

- Proud of his 'Hear hims!' proud, too, of his vote
  - And lost virginity of oratory,
- Proud of his learning (just enough to quote),
- He revell'd in his Ciceronian glory:

With memory excellent to get by rote,

- With wit to hatch a pun or tell a story,
- Graced with some merit, and with more effrontery,
- 'His country's pride,' he came down to the country.

XCII

- There also were two wits by acclamation, Longbow from Ireland, Strongbow from
- the Tweed, 730 Both lawyers and both men of educa-
- tion;
- But Strongbow's wit was of more polish'd breed:
- Longbow was rich in an imagination As beautiful and bounding as a steed,
- But sometimes stumbling over a potato, -
- While Strongbow's best things might have come from Cato.

XCIII

- Strongbow was like a new-tuned harpsichord;
- But Longbow wild as an Æolian harp,
- With which the winds of heaven can claim accord,
  - And make a music, whether flat or sharp. 749

- Of Strongbow's talk you would not change a word
  - At Longbow's phrases you might sometimes carp:
- Both wits one born so, and the other bred —
- This by his heart, his rival by his head.

XCIV

- If all these seem a heterogeneous mass To be assembled at a country seat,
- Yet think, a specimen of every class Is better than a humdrum tête-à-tête.
- The days of Comedy are gone, alas !
- When Congreve's fool could vie with Molière's bête: 750

Society is smooth'd to that excess,

That manners hardly differ more than dress.

xcv

- Our ridicules are kept in the back-ground Ridiculous enough, but also dull;
- Professions, too, are no more to be found Professional; and there is nought to cull
- Of folly's fruit; for though your fools abound,
  - They're barren, and not worth the pains to pull.

Society is now one polish'd horde,

Form'd of two mighty tribes, the Bores and Bored. 760

XCVI

- But from being farmers, we turn gleaners, gleaning
  - The scanty but right-well thresh'd ears of truth;
- And, gentle reader ! when you gather meaning,

You may be Boaz, and I — modest Ruth. Farther I 'd quote, but Scripture intervening

Forbids. A great impression in my youth Was made by Mrs. Adams, where she cries,

' That Scriptures out of church are blasphemies.'

XCVII

- But what we can we glean in this vile age Of chaff, although our gleanings be not grist. 770
- I must not quite omit the talking sage, Kıt-Cat, the famous Conversationist,
- Who, in his common-place book, had a page
  - Prepared each morn for evenings. 'List, oh, list!'—

- 'Alas, poor ghost!'- What unexpected woes
- Await those who have studied their bonmots !

XCVIII

- Firstly, they must allure the conversation By many windings to their clever clinch; And secondly, must let slip no occasion,
  - Nor bate (abate) their hearers of an unch.
- nch, 750 But take an ell — and make a great sensation,

If possible; and thirdly, never flinch

- When some smart talker puts them to the test,
- But seize the last word, which no doubt's the best

XCIX

- Lord Henry and his lady were the hosts; The party we have touch'd on were the guests
- Their table was a board to tempt even ghosts
  - To pass the Styx for more substantial feasts
- I will not dwell upon ragoûts or roasts,
- Albeit all human history attests 790 That happiness for man—the hungry sumer!—
- Since Eve ate apples, much depends on dinner

С

Witness the lands which 'flow'd with milk and honey,'

Held out unto the hungry Israelites;

- To this we have added since, the love of money,
- The only sort of pleasure which requites. Youth fades, and leaves our days no longer
- sunny;

We tire of mistresses and parasites;

- But oh, ambrosial cash ! Ah ! who would lose thee ?
- When we no more can use, or even abuse thee ! 800

CI

The gentlemen got up betimes to shoot,

- Or hunt: the young, because they liked the sport —
- The first thing boys like after play and fruit;

The middle-aged to make the day more short;

- For ennul is a growth of English root,
- Though nameless in our language: we ietort
- The fact for words, and let the French translate
- That awful yawn which sleep can not abate.

CII

The elderly walk'd through the library,

- And tumbled books, or criticised the pictures, 810
- Or saunter'd through the gardens piteously, And made upon the hot-house several strictures,
- Or rode a nag which trotted not too high, Or on the morning papers read their
- lectures,
- Or on the watch their longing eyes would fix,

Longing at sixty for the hour of six.

CIII

But none were 'gêné'' the great hour of union

Was rung by dinner's knell; till then all were

- Masters of their own time or in communion,
- Or solitary, as they chose to bear 820
- The hours, which how to pass is but to few known.
- Each rose up at his own, and had to spare
- What time he chose for dress, and broke his fast
- When, where, and how he chose for that repast

CIV

- The ladies some rouged, some a little pale
  - Met the morn as they might If fine, they rode,
- Or walk'd; if foul, they read, or told a tale,
  - Sung, or rehearsed the last dance from abroad;
- Discuss'd the fashion which might next prevail,
- And settled bonnets by the newest code, Or cramm'd twelve sheets into one little
- letter, 831 To make each correspondent a new debtor.

CV

For some had absent lovers, all had friends The earth has nothing like a she epistle.

- And hardly heaven because it never ends I love the mystery of a female missal,
- Which, like a creed, ne'er says all it intends, But full of cuming as Ulysses' whistle,
- When he allured poor Dolon: you had better

Take care what you reply to such a letter.

cvi

- Then there were billiards; cards, too, but no dice; — 841
- Save in the clubs no man of honour plays; —
- Boats when 't was water, skating when 't was ice,
- And the hard frost destroy'd the scenting days:

And angling, too, that solitary vice,

- Whatever Izaak Walton sings or says; The quaint, old, cruel coxcomb, in his gullet.
- Should have a hook, and a small trout to pull it.

CVII

- With evening came the banquet and the wine;
- The conversazione; the duet, 850 Attuned by voices more or less divine
- (My heart or head aches with the memory yet).
- The four Miss Rawbolds in a glee would shine;
- But the two youngest loved more to be set
- Down to the harp because to music's charms
- They added graceful necks, white hands and arms.

CVIII

- Sometimes a dance (though rarely on field days,
  - For then the gentlemen were rather tured)
- Dısplay'd some sylph-like figures in its maze;

Then there was small-talk ready when required; 860

Flirtation — but decorous; the mere praise Of charms that should or should not be admired.

- The hunters fought their fox-hunt o'er again,
- And then retreated soberly at ten.

CIX

- The politicians, in a nook apart,
  - Discuss'd the world, and settled all the spheres;
- The wits watch'd every loophole for their art,

To introduce a bon-mot head and ears;

- Small is the rest of those who would be smart,
  - A moment's good thing may have cost them years 570

Before they find an hour to introduce it;

And then, even then, some bore may make them lose it

$\mathbf{C}\mathbf{X}$

- But all was gentle and aristocratic In this our party; polish'd, smooth, and
- cold,
- As Phidian forms cut out of marble Attic.
  - There now are no Squire Westerns as of old;

And our Sophias are not so emphatic, But fair as then, or fairer to behold.

- We have no accomplish'd blackguards, like Tom Jones.
- But gentlemen in stays, as stiff as stones.

CXI

- They separated at an early hour; sst That is, ere midnight — which is London's noon:
- But in the country ladies seek their bower A little earlier than the waning moon
- Peace to the slumbers of each folded flower —

May the rose call back its true colour soon !

- Good hours of fair cheeks are the fairest tinters.
- And lower the price of rouge at least some winters.

CANTO THE FOURTEENTH

IF from great nature's or our own abyss Of thought we could but snatch a certainty,

- Perhaps mankind might find the path they miss
  - But then 't would spoil much good philosophy

One system eats another up, and this

_ Much as old Saturn ate his progeny;

For when his pious consort gave him stones. In heu of sons, of these he made no bones.

II

- But System doth reverse the Titar s breakfast,
  - And eats her parents, albeit the digestion 10
- Is difficult. Pray tell me, can you make fast,
  - After due search, your faith to any question ?
- Look back o'er ages, ere unto the stake fast

You bind yourself, and call some mode the best one

- Nothing more true than not to trust your senses;
- And yet what are your other evidences?

III

- For me, I know nought; nothing I deny, Admit, reject, contemn; and what know you,
- Except perhaps that you were born to die ? And both may after all turn out untrue
- An age may come, Font of Eternity, 21 When nothing shall be either old or new.
- Death, so call'd, is a thing which makes men weep,

And yet a third of life is pass'd in sleep

IV

A sleep without dreams, after a rough day Of toil, is what we covet most; and yet

How clay shrinks back from more quiescent clay !

The very Suicide that pays his debt At once without instalments (an old way

- Of paying debts, which creditors regret) Lets out impatiently his rushing breath, 31
- Less from disgust of life than dread of death

v

- 'T is round him, near him, here, there, every where;
  - And there's a courage which grows cut of fear,

Perhaps of all most desperate, which will And mine's a bubble, not blown up for praise. dare But just to play with, as an infant plays The worst to know it : - when the mountains rear IX Their peaks beneath your human foot, and The world is all before me - or behind; there You look down o'er the precipice, and For I have seen a portion of that same, drear And quite enough for me to keep in mind: -The gulf of rock yawns, - you can't gaze Of passions, too, I have proved enough to a minute blame, Without an awful wish to plunge within it. To the great pleasure of our friends, mankind, vτ Who like to mix some slight alloy with 'T is true, you don't — but, pale and struck fame; 70 with terror, For I was rather famous in my time, Retire: but look into your past impres-Until I fairly knock'd it up with rhyme. sion ! And you will find, though shuddering at the x mirror I have brought this world about my ears. Of your own thoughts, in all their selfand eke confession, The other; that's to say, the clergy, The lurking bias, be it truth or error, who To the unknown; a secret prepossession, Upon my head have bid their thunders To plunge with all your fears — but where? break You know not, In pious libels by no means a few. And that's the reason why you do - or do And yet I can't help scribbling once a not. week, Tiring old readers, nor discovering new. VII In youth I wrote because my mind was But what's this to the purpose? you will full, And now because I feel it growing dull. 80 say. Gent. reader, nothing; a mere specula-XI tion. For which my sole excuse is - 't is my But 'why then publish?' - There are no rewards way; Sometimes with and sometimes without Of fame or profit when the world grows occasion weary. I write what 's uppermost, without delay: I ask in turn, - Why do you play at cards? Why drink? Why read? - To make This narrative is not meant for narration, But a mere airy and fantastic basis, some hour less dreary. To build up common things with common It occupies me to turn back regards On what I've seen or ponder'd, sad or places. cheery; VIII And what I write I cast upon the stream, To swim or sink - I have had at least my You know, or don't know, that great Bacon saith. dream. 'Fling up a straw, 't will show the way XII the wind blows;' And such a straw, borne on by human I think that were I certain of success, breath, Is poesy, according as the mind glows;

- A paper kite which flies 'twixt life and death.
  - A shadow which the onward soul behind throws

- I hardly could compose another line: 90 So long I've battled either more or less,
- That no defeat can drive me from the Nine.
- This feeling 't is not easy to express, And yet 't is not affected, I opine.

956

- In play, there are two pleasures for your choosing —
- The one is winning, and the other losing.

XIII

- Besides, my Muse by no means deals in fiction:
  - She gathers a repertory of facts,
- Of course with some reserve and slight restriction,
  - But mostly sings of human things and acts — 100
- And that's one cause she meets with contradiction;
  - For too much truth, at first sight, ne'er attracts;
- And were her object only what's call'd glory,
- With more ease too she'd tell a different story.

XIV

Love, war, a tempest — surely there's variety;

Also a seasoning slight of lucubration;

- A bird's-eye view, too, of that wild, Society; A slight glance thrown on men of every station.
- If you have nought else, here's at least satiety
  - Both in performance and in preparation; 110
- And though these lines should only line portmanteaus,
- Trade will be all the better for these Cantos.

xv

- The portion of this world which I at present Have taken up to fill the following sermon.
- Is one of which there's no description recent.
- The reason why is easy to determine:
- Although it seems both prominent and pleasant,
  - There is a sameness in its gems and ermine,
- A dull and family likeness through all ages,
- Of no great promise for poetic pages. 120

XVI

- With much to excite, there's little to exalt;
  - Nothing that speaks to all men and all times;

- A sort of varnish over every fault;
- A kind of common-place, even in their crimes,
- Factitious passions, wit without much salt, A want of that true nature which sublimes
- Whate'er it shows with truth; a smooth monotony
- Of character, in those at least who have got any.

XVII

- Sometimes, indeed, like soldiers off parade, They break their ranks and gladly leave
- the drill; 130 But then the roll-call draws them back afraid,
  - And they must be or seem what they were still
- Doubtless it is a brilliant masquerade;
- But when of the first sight you have had your fill,
- It palls at least it did so upon me,

This paradise of pleasure and ennui.

XVIII

- When we have made our love, and gamed our gaming,
- Drest, voted, shone, and, may be, something more;
- With dandies dined; heard senators declaiming;
- Seen beauties brought to market by the score, 140
- Sad rakes to sadder husbands chastely taming;
  - There's little left but to be bored or bore.
- Witness those 'ci-devant jeunes hommes' who stem
- The stream, nor leave the world which leaveth them.

XIX

'T is said — indeed a general complaint — That no one has succeeded in describing

- The monde, exactly as they ought to paint: Some say, that authors only snatch, by bribing
- The porter, some slight scandals strange and quaint,

To furnish matter for their moral gibing;

- And that their books have but one style in common — 151
- My lady's prattle, filter'd through her woman.

XX

- But this can't well be true, just now; for writers
  - Are grown of the beau monde a part potential:
- I've seen them balance even the scale with fighters,
  - Especially when young, for that's essential.
- Why do their sketches fail them as inditers
  - Of what they deem themselves most consequential,
- The real portrait of the highest tribe?
- 'T is that, in fact, there 's little to describe.

XXI

- 'Haud ignara loquor,' these are Nugæ, 'quarum 161
- Pars parva fun,' but still art and part.
- Now I could much more easily sketch a harem,
- A battle, wreck, or history of the heart,
- Than these things; and besides, I wish to spare 'em,
- For reasons which I choose to keep apart. Vetabo Cereris sacrum qui vulgarit'—
- Which means that vulgar people must not share it.

XXII

- And therefore what I throw off is ideal Lower'd, leaven'd, like a history of free-
- masons; Which bears the same relation to the real, As Captam Parry's voyage may do to
- Jason's. The grand arcanum's not for men to see
- all;
- My music has some mystic diapasons;
- And there is much which could not be appreciated
- In any manner by the uninitiated.

XXIII

- Alas! worlds fall and woman, since she fell'd
  - The world (as, since that history less polite
- Than true, hath been a creed so strictly held) 179
- Has not yet given up the practice quite
- Poor thing of usages ! coerced, compell'd, Victim when wrong, and martyr oft when right,

Condemn'd to child-bed, as men for their sins

Have shaving too entail'd upon their chins, --

XXIV

- A daily plague, which in the aggregate
- May average on the whole with parturition
- But as to women, who can penetrate
- The real sufferings of their she condition?
- Man's very sympathy with their estate Has much of selfishness, and more suspicion.
- Their love, their virtue, beauty, education, But form good housekeepers, to breed a
- nation.

XXV

- All this were very well, and can't be better;
- But even this is difficult, Heaven knows,
- So many troubles from her birth beset her, Such small distinction between friends and foes,
- The gilding wears so soon from off her fetter,
  - That but ask any woman if she'd choose
- (Take her at thirty, that is) to have been
- Female or male? a schoolboy or a queen?

XXVI

- 'Petticoat influence' is a great reproach,
  - Which even those who obey would fain be thought 202
- To fly from, as from hungry pikes a roach; But since beneath it upon earth we are brought,
- By various joltings of life's hackney coach, I for one venerate a petticoat —
- A garment of a mystical sublimity,
- No matter whether russet, silk, or dimity.

XXVII

- Much I respect, and much I have adored,
- In my young days, that chaste and goodly veil, 210
- Which holds a treasure, like a miser's hoard,
  - And more attracts by all it doth conceal —
- A golden scabbard on a Damasque sword, A loving letter with a mystic seal,

A cure for grief — for what can ever rankle Before a petticoat and peeping ankle?

XXVIII

And when upon a silent, sullen day,

- With a surocco, for example, blowing, When even the sea looks dim with all its
- spray, 219 And sulkily the river's ripple 's flowing,

And the sky shows that very ancient gray,

- The sober, sad antithesis to glowing, 'T is pleasant, if then any thing is pleasant, To catch a glimpse even of a pretty peasant.
- to catch a grimpse even of a pretty peasant

XXIX

We left our heroes and our heromes

- In that fair clime which don't depend on climate,
- Quite independent of the Zodiac's signs, Though certainly more difficult to rhyme
- Because the sun, and stars, and aught that shines.
  - Mountains, and all we can be most sublime at, 230

Are there oft dull and dreary as a dun -

Whether a sky's or tradesman's 1s all one

XXX

An in-door life is less poetical;

- And out of door hath showers, and mists, and sleet,
- With which I could not brew a pastoral. But be it as it may, a bard must meet
- All difficulties, whether great or small,
- To spoil his undertaking or complete,
- And work away like spirit upon matter,
- Embarrass'd somewhat both with fire and water. 240

XXXI

Juan — in this respect, at least, like saints — Was all things unto people of all sorts,

And lived contentedly, without complaints,

- In camps, in ships, in cottages, or courts Born with that happy soul which seldom
- faints, And mingling modestly in toils or sports He likewise could be most things to all women,

Without the coxcombry of certain she men

XXXII

A fox-hunt to a foreigner is strange; 'T is also subject to the double danger 250

- Of tumbling first, and having in exchange Some pleasant jesting at the awkward stranger
- But Juan had been early taught to range The wilds, as doth an Arab turn'd avenger,

So that his horse, or charger, hunter, hack, Knew that he had a rider on his back.

XXXIII

- And now m this new field, with some applause,
  - He clear'd hedge, ditch, and double post, and rail,
- And never craned, and made but few 'faux pas,'
  - And only fretted when the scent 'gan fail. 260
- He broke, 't is true, some statutes of the laws
  - Of hunting for the sagest youth is frail;
- Rode o'er the hounds, it may be, now and then,
- And once o'er several country gentlemen.

XXXIV

- But on the whole, to general admiration He acquitted both himself and horse the squires
- Marvell'd at merit of another nation;
- The boors cried 'Dang it ' who'd have thought it?'-Sires,
- The Nestors of the sporting generation, Swore praises, and recall'd their former fires; 270
- The huntsman's self releated to a grin, And rated him almost a whipper-in.

xxxv

- Such were his trophies not of spear and shield,
  - But leaps, and bursts, and sometimes foxes' brushes;
- Yet I must own, although in this I yield

To patriot sympathy a Briton's blushes,-

- He thought at heart like courtly Chesterfield,
  - Who, after a long chase o'er hills, dales, bushes,
- And what not, though he rode beyond all price,
- Ask'd next day, 'If men ever hunted twice ?' 280

900 DON JUAN
XXXVI He also had a quality uncommon To early risers after a long chase, Who wake in winter ere the cock can sum- mon December's drowsy day to his dull race, — A quality agreeable to woman,	Such classic pas — sans flaws — set off our hero, He glanced like a personified Bolero; XL Or, like a flying Hour before Aurora, In Guido's famous fresco which alone Is worth a tour to Rome, although no more a
When her soft, liquid words run on apace, Who likes a listener, whether saint or sinner, — He did not fall asleep just after dinner; XXXVII But, light and airy, stood on the alert,	Remnant were there of the old world's sole throne. The 'tout ensemble' of his movements wore a Grace of the soft ideal, seldom shown, And ne'er to be described; for to the dolour Of bards and prosers, words are void of colour.
And shone in the best part of dialogue, By humouring always what they might assert, 201 And histening to the topics most in vogue; Now grave, now gay, but never dull or pert; And smiling but in secret — cunning rogue! He ne'er presumed to make an error clearer; — In short, there never was a better hearer.	XLI No marvel then he was a favourite; A full-grown Cupid, very much admired; A little spoilt, but by no means so quite; At least he kept his vanity retired. Such was his tact, he could alike delight The chaste, and those who are not so much inspired. The Duchess of Fitz-Fulke, who loved 'tracasserie,' Began to treat him with some small 'agacerie.'
XXXVIII And then he danced; — all foreigners excel The serious Angles in the eloquence Of pantomime; — he danced, I say, right well, With emphasis, and also with good sense — 300 A thing in footing indispensable; He danced without theatrical pretence, Not like a ballet-master in the van Of his drill'd nymphs, but like a gentle- man. XXXIX	XLII She was a fine and somewhat full-blown blonde, Desirable, distinguish'd, celebrated 330 For several winters in the grand, grand monde I'd rather not say what might be re- lated Of her exploits, for this were ticklish ground; Besides there might be falsehood in what's stated: Her late performance had been a dead set At Lord Augustus Fitz-Plantagenet.
<ul> <li>Chaste were his steps, each kept within due bound,</li> <li>And elegance was sprinkled o'er his figure;</li> <li>Like swift Camilla, he scarce skimm'd the ground,</li> <li>And rather held in than put forth his vigour;</li> <li>And then he had an ear for music's sound,</li> <li>Which might defy a crotchet critic's rigo . 310</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>XLIII</li> <li>This noble personage began to look</li> <li>A little black upon this new flirtation;</li> <li>But such small locnces must lovers brook,</li> <li>Mere freedoms of the female corpo - tion. 340</li> <li>Woe to the man who ventures a rebuke ! 'T will but precipitate a situation</li> <li>Extremely disagreeable, but common</li> <li>To calculators when they count on woman.</li> </ul>

XLIV

- The circle smiled, then whisper'd, and then sneer'd;
  - The Misses bridled, and the matrons frown'd;
- Some hoped things might not turn out as they fear'd;
  - Some would not deem such women could be found;
- Some ne'er believed one half of what they heard;
  - Some look'd perplex'd, and others look'd profound; 350
- And several pitied with sincere regret
- Poor Lord Augustus Fitz-Plantagenet.

XLV

- But what is odd, none ever named the duke, Who, one might think, was something in
- the affair: True, he was absent, and, 't was rumour'd,
  - took But small concern about the when, or where,
- Or what his consort did · if he could brook Her galeties, none had a right to stare:
- Theirs was that best of unions, past all doubt,
- Which never meets, and therefore can't fall out.

XLVI

But, oh ' that I should ever pen so sad a line '

Fired with an abstract love of virtue, she, My Dian of the Ephesians, Lady Adeline,

- Began to think the duchess' conduct free;
- Regretting much that she had chosen so bad a line,

And waxing chiller in her courtesy,

- Look'd grave and pale to see her friend's fragility,
- For which most friends reserve their sensibility.

XLVII

There's nought in this bad world like sympathy:

'T is so becoming to the soul and face,

- Sets to soft music the harmonious sigh, 371 And robes sweet friendship in a Brussels lace.
- Without a friend, what were humanity, To hunt our errors up with a good grace?

Consoling us with - 'Would you had thought twice !

Ah, if you had but follow'd my advice !'

XLVIII

O Job ! you had two friends: one's quite enough,

Especially when we are ill at ease;

They are but bad pilots when the weather 's rough,

Doctors less famous for their cures th fees.

- Let no man grumble when his friends fall off,
  - As they will do like leaves at the first breeze:
- When your affairs come round, one way or t'other,
- Go to the coffee-house, and take another.

XLIX

- But this is not my maxim. had it been,
- Some heart-aches had been spared me: yet I care not —
- I would not be a tortoise in his screen
  - Of stubborn shell, which waves and weather wear not.
- 'T is better on the whole to have felt and seen
  - That which humanity may bear, or beau not: 39
- 'T will teach discernment to the sensi tive,
- And not to pour their ocean in a sieve.

- Of all the horrid, hideous notes of woe, Sadder than owl-songs or the midnigh blast,
- Is that portentous phrase, 'I told you so.'
  - Utter'd by friends, those prophets of the past,
- Who, 'stead of saying what you now should do,
  - Own they foresaw that you would fall at last,
- And solace your slight lapse 'gainst ' bonos mores,'

With a long memorandum of old stories.

LI

The Lady Adeline's serene severity 401 Was not confined to feeling for her friend,

- Whose fame she rather doubted with posterity,
- Unless her habits should begin to mend: But Juan also shared in her austerity,
- But mix'd with pity, pure as e'er was penn'd:
- His mexperience moved her gentle ruth,
- And (as her junior by six weeks) his youth.

LII

- These forty days' advantage of her years And hers were those which can face calculation, 410
- Boldly referring to the list of peers
- And noble births, nor dread the enumeration —

Gave her a right to have maternal fears

- For a young gentleman's fit education, Though she was far from that leap year, whose leap,
- In female dates, strikes Time all of a heap.

LIII

This may be fix'd at somewhere before thirty --

Say seven-and-twenty; for I never knew The strictest in chronology and virtue

- Advance beyond, while they could pass for new. 420
- O Time ! why dost not pause ? Thy scythe, so dirty
  - With rust, should surely cease to hack and hew.

Reset it; shave more smoothly, also slower, If but to keep thy credit as a mower.

LIV

But Adeline was far from that ripe age,

- Whose ripeness is but bitter at the best: 'T was rather her experience made her
- sage, For she had seen the world and stood its test,

As I have said in - I forget what page;

- My Muse despises reference, as you have guess'd 430
- By this time; but strike six from sevenand-twenty,
- And you will find her sum of years in plenty.

LV

At sixteen she came out; presented, vaunted, She put all coronets into commotion: At seventeen, too, the world was still enchanted

With the new Venus of their brilliant ocean:

- At eighteen, though below her feet still panted
  - A hecatomb of suitors with devotion,
- She had consented to create again
- That Adam, call'd ' The happiest of men.'

LVI

- Since then she had sparkled through three glowing winters, 441
  - Admired, adored; but also so correct,
- That she had puzzled all the acutest hinters, Without the apparel of being circumspect.
- They could not even glean the slightest splinters

From off the marble, which had no defect.

- She had also snatch'd a moment since her marriage
- To bear a son and heir and one miscarriage

LVII

- Fondly the wheeling fire-flies flew around her,
  - Those little glitterers of the London mght, 450
- But none of these possess'd a sting to wound her —
  - She was a pitch beyond a coxcomb's flight.
- Perhaps she wish'd an aspirant profounder; But whatsoe'er she wish'd, she acted right;
- And whether coldness, pride, or virtue dignify
- A woman, so she's good, what does it signify?

LVIII

- I hate a motive, like a lingering bottle
  - Which with the landlord makes too long a stand,
- Leaving all-claretless the unmoisten'd throttle,
- Especially with politics on hand; 460 I hate it, as I hate a drove of cattle,
- Who whirl the dust as simooms whirl the sand;
- I hate it, as I hate an argument,
- A laureate's ode, or servile peer's 'coutent.'

- 'T is sad to hack into the roots of things, They are so much intertwisted with the earth;
- So that the branch a goodly verdure flings, I reck not if an acorn gave it birth.
- To trace all actions to their secret springs Would make indeed some melancholy mirth; 470
- But this is not at present my concern,
- And I refer you to wise Oxenstiern.

LX

- With the kind view of saving an éclat, Both to the duchess and diplomatist,
- The Lady Adeline, as soon's she saw That Juan was unlikely to resist
- (For foreigners don't know that a faux pas In England ranks quite on a different list
- From those of other lands unblest with juries,

LXI

The Lady Adeline resolved to take

- Such measures as she thought might best impede
- The farther progress of this sad mistake She thought with some simplicity indeed;
- But innocence is bold even at the stake, And simple in the world, and doth not need
- Nor use those palisades by dames erected, Whose virtue lies in never being detected

LXII

- It was not that she fear'd the very worst: His Grace was an enduring, married man,
- And was not likely all at once to burst Into a scene, and swell the clients' clan
- Of Doctors' Commons: but she dreaded first
- The magic of her Grace's talisman, And next a quarrel (as he seem'd to fret)
- With Lord Augustus Fitz-Plantagenet.

LXIII

- Her Grace, too, pass'd for being an intrigante,
- And somewhat méchante in her amorous sphere;
- One of those pretty, precious plagues, which haunt
  - A lover with caprices soft and dear, 500

- That like to make a quarrel, when they can't
- Find one, each day of the delightful year; Bewitching, torturing, as they freeze or glow,
- And what is worst of all won't let you go:

LXIV

The sort of thing to turn a young man's head,

Or make a Werter of him in the end.

- No wonder then a purer soul should dread This sort of chaste hasson for a friend;
- It were much better to be wed or dead, Than wear a heart a woman loves to
- rend. 510
- 'T is best to pause, and think, ere you rush on,
- If that a 'bonne fortune' be really 'bonne.'

LXV

- And first, in the o'erflowing of her heart, Which really knew or thought it knew
- no guile, She call'd her husband now and then apart,
- And bade him counsel Juan. With a smile
- Lord Henry heard her plans of artless art
- To wean Don Juan from the siren's wile; And answer'd, hke a statesman or a pro-
- phet, In such guise that she could make nothing of it 520

LXVI

- Firstly, he said, 'he never interfered
- In any body's business but the king's ' Next, that 'he never judged from what appear'd,
  - Without strong reason, of those sort of things:'
- Thirdly, that 'Juan had more brain than beard,
  - And was not to be held in leading strings;'
- And fourthly, what need hardly be said twice.
- 'That good but rarely came from good advice.'

LXVII

- And, therefore, doubtless to approve the truth
  - Of the last axiom, he advised his spouse

- At least as far as bienséance allows: That time would temper Juan's faults of youth;
  - That young men rarely made monastic vows;

That opposition only more attaches -

But here a messenger brought in despatches:

LXVIII

And being of the council call'd 'the Privy,' Lord Henry walk'd into his cabinet,

To furnish matter for some future Livy 539 To tell how he reduced the nation's debt;

- And if their full contents I do not give ye, It is because I do not know them yet;
- But I shall add them in a brief appendix,

To come between mine epic and its index.

LXIX

But ere he went, he added a slight hint, Another gentle common-place or two,

Such as are coin'd in conversation's mint,

- And pass, for want of better, though not new.
- Then broke his packet, to see what was in 't,

And having casually glanced it through,

Retired; and, as went out, calmly kiss'd her.

Less like a young wife than an aged sister.

LXX

He was a cold, good, honourable man,

Proud of his birth, and proud of every thing;

A goodly spirit for a state divan,

A figure fit to walk before a king;

- Tall, stately, form'd to lead the courtly van On birthdays, glorious with a star and string;
- The very model of a chamberlain -
- And such I mean to make him when I reign.

LXXI

- But there was something wanting on the whole — 5^{6r}
- I don't know what, d therefore cannot tell —
- Which pretty women the sweet souls ! — call soul.
  - Certes it was not body; he was well

Proportion'd, as a poplar or a pole,

A handsome man, that human miracle; And in each circumstance of love or war Had still preserved his perpendicular

LXXII

- Still there was something wanting, as I've said --
  - That undefinable 'Je ne scais quoi,' 570
- Which, for what I know, may of yore have led
- To Homer's Iliad, since it drew to Troy
- The Greek Eve, Helen, from the Spartan's bed;
  - Though on the whole, no doubt, the Dardan boy
- Was much inferior to King Menelaus : --

But thus it is some women will betray us.

LXXIII

There is an awkward thing which much perplexes,

Unless like wise Tiresias we had proved

- By turns the difference of the several sexes; Neither can show quite how they would be loved. 580
- The sensual for a short time but connects us, The sentimental boasts to be unmoved;
- But both together form a kind of centaur,

Upon whose back 't is better not to venture.

LXXIV

- A something all-sufficient for the heart Is that for which the sex are always seeking:
- But how to fill up that same vacant part? There lies the rub—and this they are but weak in.
- Frail mariners afloat without a chart,
- They run before the wind through high seas breaking; 590
- And when they have made the shore through every shock,
- 'T is odd, or odds, it may turn out a rock.

I.XXV

- There is a flower call'd ' Love in Idleness,' For which see Shakspeare's ever blooming garden; —
- I will not make his great description less, And beg his British godship's humble pardon,
- If in my extremity of rhyme's distress,
- I touch a single leaf where he is warden: ---

- But though the flower is different, with the French
- Or Swiss Rousseau, cry 'Voilà la Pervenche!'

LXXVI

- Eureka! I have found it ! What I mean To say is, not that love is idleness,
- But that in love such idleness has been
- An accessory, as I have cause to guess. Hard labour's an indifferent go-between;
- Your men of business are not apt to express
- Much passion, since the merchant-ship, the Argo,
- Convey'd Medea as her supercargo.

LXXVII

- "Beatus ille procul!' from 'negotus,' Saith Horace; the great httle poet's wrong;
- His other maxim, 'Noscitur à socus,' Is much more to the purpose of his song;
- Though even that were sometimes too ferocious,

Unless good company be kept too long;

- But, in his teeth, whate'er their state or station,
- Thrice happy they who have an occupation!

LXXVIII

Adam exchanged his Paradise for ploughing,

Eve made up millinery with fig leaves -

- The earliest knowledge from the tree so knowing,
  - knowing, As far as I know, that the church receives: 620
- And since that time it need not cost much showing,
  - That many of the ills o'er which man grieves,
- And still more women, spring from not employing
- Some hours to make the remnant worth enjoying.

LXXIX

- And hence high life is oft a dreary void, A rack of pleasures, where we must
- invent
- A something where withal to be annoy'd. Bards may sing what they please about Content:

Contented, when translated, means but cloy'd;

And hence arise the woes of sentiment,

- Blue devils, and blue-stockings, and romances
- Reduced to practice, and perform'd like dances.

LXXX

- I do declare, upon an affidavit,
- Romances I ne'er read like those I have seen;
- Nor, if unto the world I ever gave it,
  - Would some believe that such a tale had been:
- But such intent I never had, nor have it; Some truths are better kept behind a screen,
- Especially when they would look like lies;
- I therefore deal in generalities. 640

LXXXI

- 'An oyster may be cross'd in love,' and why?
- Because he mopeth idly in his shell,
- And heaves a lonely subterraqueous sigh. Much as a monk may do within his cell
- And à-propos of monks, their piety With sloth hath found it difficult to dwell;

Those vegetables of the Catholic creed Are apt exceedingly to run to seed.

LXXXII

- O Wilberforce ! thou man of black renown, Whose merit none enough can sing or
- say, 650 Thou hast struck one immense Colossus down,

Thou moral Washington of Africa!

- But there 's another little thing, I own,
  - Which you should perpetrate some summer's day,
- And set the other half of earth to rights;
- You have freed the blacks now pray shut up the whites.

LXXXIII

- Shut up the bald-coot bully Alexander! Ship off the Holy Three to Senegal;
- Teach them that 'sauce for goose is sauce for gander,'
  - And ask them how they like to be in thrall? 660

Shut up each high heroic salamander,

Who eats fire gratis (since the pay's but small);

Shut up - no, not the King, but the Pavil-

Or else 't will cost us all another million.

LXXXIV

Shut up the world at large, let Bedlam out; And you will be perhaps surprised to find

- All things pursue exactly the same route,
- As now with those of soi-disant sound mind.
- This I could prove beyond a single doubt, Were there a jot of sense among mankind; 670
- But till that point d'appur is found, alas ! Like Archimedes, I leave earth as 't was.

LXXXV

Our gentle Adeline had one defect -

Her heart was vacant, though a splendid mansion;

Her conduct had been perfectly correct,

- As she had seen nought claiming its expansion.
- A wavering spirit may be easier wreck'd, Because 't is frailer, doubtless, than a stanch one;

But when the latter works its own undoing, Its inner crash is like an earthquake's run

LXXXVI

She loved her lord, or thought so; but that love 681

Cost her an effort, which is a sad toil,

The stone of Sysiphus, if once we move

- Our feelings 'gainst the nature of the soil.
- She had nothing to complain of, or reprove,

No bickerings, no connubial turmoil: Their union was a model to behold,

Serene and noble, -- conjugal, but cold.

LXXXVII

There was no great disparity of years,

- Though much in temper; but they never clash'd: 690
- They moved like stars united in their spheres,
  - Or like the Rhone by Leman's waters wash'd,

Where mingled and yet separate appears The river from the lake, all bluely dash'd Through the serene and placid glassy deep, Which fain would lull its river-child to sleep

LXXXVIII

- Now when she once had ta'en an interest In any thing, however she might flatter
- Herself that her intentions were the best,
  - Intense intentions are a dangerous matter: 700
- Impressions were much stronger than she guess'd,
  - And gather'd as they run like growing water
- Upon her mind; the more so, as her breast Was not at first too readily impress'd.

LXXXIX

- But when it was, she had that lurking demon
  - Of double nature, and thus doubly named —
- Firmness yclept in heroes, kings, and seamen,
  - That is, when they succeed; but greatly blamed
- As obstinacy, both in men and women,
  - Whene'er their triumph pales, or star is tamed: — 710
- And 't will perplex the casuist in morality
- To fix the due bounds of this dangerous quality.

xc

Had Buonaparte won at Waterloo,

- It had been firmness; now 't is pertinacity.
- Must the event decide between the two?
- I leave it to your people of sagacity
- To draw the line between the false and true,
  - If such can e'er be drawn by man's capacity:
- My business is with Lady Adeline,
- Who in her way too was a heroine. 720

XCI

- She knew not her own heart; then how should I?
- I think not she was then in love with Juan.
- If so, she would have had the strength to fly
  - The wild sensation, unto her a new one:

She merely felt a common sympathy

- (I will not say it was a false or true one) In him, because she thought he was in danger, ---
- Her husband's friend, her own, young, and a stranger,

XCII

- She was, or thought she was, his friend and this
  - Without the farce of friendship, or romance 730
- Of Platonism, which leads so oft amiss Ladies who have studied friendship but in France,
- Or Germany, where people purely kiss.
- To thus much Adeline would not advance;
- But of such friendship as man's may to man be
- She was as capable as woman can be.

XCIII

No doubt the secret influence of the sex Will there, as also in the ties of blood.

An innocent predominance annex,

And tune the concord to a finer mood. If free from passion, which all friendship checks, 741

And your true feelings fully understood, No friend like to a woman earth discovers, So that you have not been nor will be lovers.

XCIV

- Love bears within its breast the very germ Of change; and how should this be otherwise ?
- That violent things more quickly find a term
  - Is shown through nature's whole analogies:
- And how should the most fierce of all be firm?
  - Would you have endless lightning in the skies? 750

Methinks Love's very title says enough:

How should 'the tender passion' e'er be tough?

xcv

Alas ! by all experience, seldom yet

- (I merely quote what I have heard from many)
- Had lovers not some reason to regret The passion which made Solomon a zany.

I 've also seen some wives (not to forget The marriage state, the best or worst of any)

Who were the very paragons of wives,

Yet made the misery of at least two lives.

XCVI

- I've also seen some female friends ('t is odd, 761
  - But true as, if expedient, I could prove)
- That faithful were through thick and thin, abroad,
  - At home, far more than ever yet was Love —
- Who did not quit me when Oppression trod
  - Upon me; whom no scandal could remove;
- Who fought, and fight, in absence, too, my battles,
- Despite the snake Society's loud rattles

XCVII

Whether Don Juan and chaste Adeline

- Grew friends in this or any other sense, Will be discuss'd hereafter, I opine. 771
- At present I am glad of a pretence To leave them hovering, as the effect is fine.
  - And keeps the atrocious reader in suspense;
- The surest way for ladies and for books
- To bait their tender, or their tenter, hooks.

XCVIII

Whether they rode, or walk'd, or studied Spanish

To read Don Quixote in the original,

- A pleasure before which all others vanish; Whether their talk was of the kind
- call'd 'small,' 780 Or serious, are the topics I must banish
  - To the next Canto; where perhaps 1 shall
- Say something to the purpose, and display Considerable talent in my way.

XCIX

Above all, I beg all men to forbear

- Anticipating aught about the matter: They'll only make mistakes about the fair,
- And Juan too, especially the latter. And I shall take a much more serious air
  - Than I have yet done, in this epic satire

It is not clear that Adeline and Juan 791 Will fall; but if they do, 't will be their run. C But great things spring from little — Would you think, That in our youth, as dangerous a pas- sion	As a-propos of hope or retrospection, As though the lurking thought had fol- low'd free. All present life is but an interjection, An 'Oh !' or 'Ah !' of joy or misery, Or a 'Ha ! ha !' or 'Bah !' — a yawn, or 'Pooh !' Of which perhaps the latter is most true.
As e'er brought man and woman to the brink Of ruin, rose from such a slight occasion, As few would ever dream could form the link Of such a sentimental situation ? You'll never guess, I'll bet you millions, milliards — It all sprung from a harmless game at bil- liards. 800	II But, more or less, the whole's a syncopé Or a singultus — emblems of emotion, 10 The grand antithesis to great ennui, Wherewith we break our bubbles on the ocean, — That watery outline of eternity, Or miniature at least, as is my notion, Which ministers unto the soul's delight, In seeing matters which are out of sight.
or.	0
CI "T is strange, — but true; for truth is al- ways strange; Stranger than fiction; if it could be told, How much would novels gain by the ex- change ' How differently the world would men behold ! How oft would vice and virtue places change ! The new world would be nothing to the old, frame Columbus of the morel sees	III But all are better than the sigh supprest, Corroding in the cavern of the heart, Making the countenance a masque of rest, And turning human nature to an art. 20 Few men dare show their thoughts of worst or best; Dissimulation always sets apart A corner for herself; and therefore fiction Is that which passes with least contradiction. IV Ah! who can tell? Or rather, who can not
If some Columbus of the moral seas Would show mankind their souls' antipodes.	Remember, without telling, passion's errors?
CII What 'antres vast and deserts idle' then Would be discover'd in the human soul! What icebergs in the hearts of mighty men, 811 With self-love in the centre as their pole! What Anthropophagi are nine of ten Of those who hold the kingdoms in con- trol! Were things but only call'd by their right name,	The drainer of oblivion, even the sot, Hath got blue devils for his morning mirrors: What though on Lethe's stream he seem to float, He cannot sink his tremors or his terrors; 30 The ruby glass that shakes within his hand Leaves a sad sediment of Time's worst sand.
Cæsar himself would be ashamed of fame.	And as for love — O love ! — We will pro-
CANTO THE FIFTEENTH I An !— What should follow slips from my reflection; Whatever follows ne'ertheless may be	ceed The Lady Adeline Amundeville, A pretty name as one would wish to read, Must perch harmonious on my tuneful quill. There's music in the sighing of a reed; There's music in the gushing of a rill;

There's music in all things, if men had Gaunt Gourmand ! with whole nations for ears: your booty, Their earth 1s but an echo of the spheres. 40 You should be civil in a modest way: 70 Suppress, then, some slight feminine diseases, The Lady Adeline, right honourable, And take as many heroes as Heaven And honour'd, ran a risk of growing less pleases. so: For few of the soft sex are very stable In their resolves -- alas! that I should Fair Adeline, the more ingenuous sav so! Where she was interested (as was said), They differ as wine differs from its label, Because she was not apt, like some of us, When once decanted; - I presume to To like too readily, or too high bred guess so, To show it (points we need not now dis-But will not swear: yet both upon occasion, cuss) Till old, may undergo adulteration. Would give up artlessly both heart and head Unto such feelings as seem'd innocent, But Adeline was of the purest vintage, For objects worthy of the sentiment. 80 The unmingled essence of the grape; and XI vet Bright as a new Napoleon from its mint-Some parts of Juan's history, which Rumour, age, Or glorious as a diamond richly set; That live gazette, had scatter'd to dis-A page where Time should hesitate to print figure, She had heard; but women hear with more age, And for which Nature might forego her good humour debt -Such aberrations than we men of rig-Sole creditor whose process doth involve our: in 't Besides, his conduct, since in England, grew The luck of finding every body solvent. more Strict, and his mind assumed a manlier VIII vigour; O Death! thou dunnest of all duns! thou Because he had, like Alcibiades, dailv The art of living in all climes with ease. Knockest at doors, at first with modest XII tap, Like a meek tradesman when, approaching His manner was perhaps the more seducpalely, tive, Some splendid debtor he would take by Because he ne'er seem'd anxious to seduce: sap But oft denied, as patience 'gins to fail, he Nothing affected, studied, or constructive Advances with exasperated rap, Of coxcombry or conquest. no abuse And (if let in) insists, in terms unhandsome, Of his attractions marr'd the fair perspec-On ready money, or 'a draft on Ransom.' tive, To indicate a Cupidon broke loose, ĭΧ And seem to say, 'Resist us if you can' -Which makes a dandy while it spoils a Whate'er thou takest, spare a while poor Beauty ! man. She is so rare, and thou hast so much XIII prey. What though she now and then may slip They are wrong - that's not the way to set from duty, about it: The more's the r son why you ought to As, if they told the t th, could well be stay. shown.

But, right or wrong, Don Juan was without it;

In fact, his manner was his own alone; Sincere he was — at least you could not doubt it,

In listening merely to his voice's tone. The devil hath not in all his quiver's choice An arrow for the heart like a sweet voice.

$\mathbf{XIV}$

By nature soft, his whole address held off Suspicion: though not timid, his regard

- Was such as rather seem'd to keep aloof, To shield himself than put you on your guard:
- Perhaps 't was hardly quite assured enough, But modesty's at times its own reward, 110

Like virtue, and the absence of pretension Will go much farther than there's need to mention.

xv

Sevene, accomplish'd, cheerful but not loud; Insinuating without insinuation;

Observant of the foibles of the crowd,

- Yet ne'er betraying this in conversation; Proud with the proud, yet courteously
  - proud, So as to make them feel he knew his sta-
- tion And theirs: — without a struggle for priority,

He neither brook'd nor claim'd superiority.

XVI

- That is, with men: with women he was what 121
  - They pleased to make or take him for; and their

Imagination's quite enough for that:

So that the outline 's tolerably fair,

They fill the canvass up — and 'verbum sat.'

If once their phantasies be brought to bear

Upon an object, whether sad or playful,

They can transfigure brighter than a Raphael.

XVII

Adeline, no deep judge of character,

- Was apt to add a colouring from her own:
- 'T is thus the good will amiably err, r₃₁ And eke the wise, as has been often shown.

Experience is the chief philosopher,

But saddest when his science is well known:

And persecuted sages teach the schools Their folly in forgetting there are fools.

XVIII

- Was it not so, great Locke? and greater Bacon?
- Great Socrates? And thou, Diviner still, Whose lot it is by man to be mistaken,
  - And thy pure creed made sanction of all ill?
- Redeeming worlds to be by bigots shaken, How was thy toil rewarded? We might fill

Volumes with similar sad illustrations,

But leave them to the conscience of the nations.

XIX

I perch upon an humbler promontory, Amudst life's infinite variety:

With no great care for what is nick med glory,

But speculating as I cast mine eye

- On what may suit or may not suit my story, And never straining hard to versify, 150
  - rattle on exactly as I 'd talk
- With any body in a ride or walk.

XХ

I don't know that there may be much abil ity

Shown in this sort of desultory rhyme;

- But there's a conversational facility,
  - Which may round off an hour upon a time.
- Of this I'm sure at least, there's no servil ity

In mine irregularity of chime,

- Which rungs what's uppermost of new or hoary,
- Just as I feel the 'Improvvisatore.' 160

XXI

- 'Omnia vult belle Matho dicere dic alıquando
- Et bene, dic neutrum, dic aliquando male.
- The first is rather more than mortal can do;

The second may be sadly done or gaily;

The third is still more difficult to stand to; The fourth we hear, and see, and say too. daily.

The whole together is what I could wish To serve in this conundrum of a dish.

XXII

- A modest hope but modesty 's my forte, And pride my feeble: — let us ramble on.
- I meant to make this poem very short, But now I can't tell where it may not run.
- No doubt, if I had wish'd to pay my court To critics, or to hail the setting sun

Of tyranny of all kinds, my concision

Were more; — but I was born for opposition.

XXIII

But then 't is mostly on the weaker side; So that I verily believe if they

- Who now are basking in their full-blown pride
- Were shaken down, and 'dogs had had their day,' 180
- Though at the first I might perchance deride
  - Their tumble, I should turn the other way,

And wax an ultra-royalist in loyalty,

Because I hate even democratic royalty.

XXIV

- I think I should have made a decent spouse, If I had never proved the soft condition;
- I think I should have made monastic vows, But for my own peculiar superstition:
- 'Gainst rhyme I never should have knock'd my brows,
  - Nor broken my own head, nor that of Priscian, 190

Nor worn the motley mantle of a poet, If some one had not told me to forego it.

$\mathbf{x}\mathbf{x}\mathbf{v}$

- But 'laissez aller' knights and dames I sing,
  - Such as the times may furnish. 'T is a flight
- Which seems at first to need no lofty wing, Plumed by Longinus or the Stagyrite.
- The difficulty lies in colouring
  - (Keeping the due proportions still in sight)
- With nature manners which are artificial,
- And rend'ring general that which is especial. 200

XXVI

- The difference is, that in the days of old Men made the manners; manners now make men —
- Pinn'd like a flock, and fleeced too in their fold.
- At least nine, and a ninth beside of ten. Now this at all events must render cold
- Your writers, who must either draw again Days better drawn before, or else assume
- The present, with their common-place costume.

XXVII

- We'll do our best to make the best on 't: ----March !
  - March, my Muse ! If you cannot fly, yet flutter; 210
- And when you may not be sublime, be arch, Or starch, as are the edicts statesmen utter.
- We surely may find something worth research:

Columbus found a new world in a cutter, Or brigantine, or pink, of no great tonnage, While yet America was in her non-age

XXVIII

When Adeline, in all her growing sense Of Juan's merits and his situation,

- Felt on the whole an interest intense, -
- Partly perhaps because a fresh sensation, Or that he had an air of innocence, 221
  - Which is for innocence a sad temptation, —

As women hate half measures, on the whole, She 'gan to ponder how to save his soul.

XXIX

She had a good opinion of advice,

- Like all who give and eke receive it gratis,
- For which small thanks are still the market price,
- Even where the article at highest rate is. She thought upon the subject twice or thrice,
  - And morally decided, the best state is
- For morals, marriage; and this question carried, 231

She seriously advised him to get married

XXX

Juan replied, with all becoming deference, He had a predilection for that tie; But that, at present, with immediate reference

To his own circumstances, there might lie Some difficulties, as in his own preference,

Or that of her to whom he might apply: That still he 'd wed with such or such a lady, If that they were not married all already.

XXXI

Next to the making matches for herself,

- And daughters, brothers, sisters, kith or kin, 242
- Arranging them like books on the same shelf,

There's nothing women love to dabble in More (like a stock-holder in growing pelf)

Than match-making in general. 't is no sin

Certes, but a preventative, and therefore

That is, no doubt, the only reason wherefore.

XXXII

But never yet (except of course a miss

Unwed, or mistress never to be wed, 250 Or wed already, who object to this)

Was there chaste dame who had not in her head

Some drama of the marriage unities,

Observed as strictly both at board and bed

As those of Aristotle, though sometimes

They turn out melodrames or pantomimes.

XXXIII

They generally have some only son,

Some heir to a large property, some friend

Of an old family, some gay Sir John,

Or grave Lord George, with whom perhaps might end 260

A line, and leave posterity undone,

Unless a marriage was applied to mend The prospect and their morals: and besides, They have at hand a blooming glut of brides.

XXXIV

From these they will be careful to select, For this an heiress, and for that a beauty;

For one a songstress who hath no defect, For t' other one who promises much duty;

- For this a lady no one can reject,
- Whose sole accomplishments were quite a booty; 270

A second for her excellent connections;

A third, because there can be no objections.

- When Rapp the Harmonist embargo'd marriage
- In his harmonious settlement (which flourishes
- Strangely enough as yet without miscarriage,
  - Because it breeds no more mouths than it nourishes,
- Without those sad expenses which disparage
- What Nature naturally most encourages) ----
- Why call'd he ' Harmony ' a state sans wedlock ?

Now here I've got the preacher at a dead lock. 280

XXXVI

- Because he either meant to sneer at harmony
  - Or marriage, by divorcing them thus oddly
- But whether reverend Rapp learn'd this in Germany

Or no, 't is said his sect is rich and godly,

Pious and pure, beyond what I can term any

- Of ours, although they propagate more broadly.
- My objection's to his title, not his ritual,

Although I wonder how it grew habitual.

XXXVII

- But Rapp is the reverse of zealous matrons,
  - Who favour, malgré Malthus, generation — 290

Professors of that genial art, and patrons Of all the modest part of propagation;

Which after all at such a desperate rate runs,

That half its produce tends to emigration,

That sad result of passions and potatoes — Two weeds which pose our economic Catos.

XXXVIII

- Had Adeline read Malthus? I can't tell;
- I wish she had his book's the eleventh commandment,
- Which says, 'Thou shalt not marry,' unless well:
  - This he (as far as I can understand) meant. 300

- "T is not my purpose on his views to dwell Nor canvass what so 'emment a hand' meant;
- But certes it conducts to lives ascetic, Or turning marriage into arithmetic.

XXXIX

- But Adeline, who probably presumed
- That Juan had enough of maintenance, Or separate maintenance, in case 't was
- doom'd ____
- As on the whole it is an even chance
- That bridegrooms, after they are fairly groom'd,
- May retrograde a little in the dance 310 Of marriage (which might form a painter's fame,
- Like Holbein's 'Dance of Death'-but 't is the same); -

XL

- But Adeline determined Juan's wedding In her own mind, and that 's enough for woman:
- But then, with whom? There was the sage Miss Reading,
  - Miss Raw, Miss Flaw, Miss Showman, and Miss Knowman,
- And the two fair co-heiresses Giltbedding. She deem'd his merits something more than common:

All these were unobjectionable matches,

And might go on, if well wound up, like watches. 320

XLI

There was Miss Millpond, smooth as summer's sea,

That usual paragon, an only daughter,

- Who seem'd the cream of equanimity
- Till skimm'd and then there was some milk and water,
- With a slight shade of blue too, it might be, Beneath the surface; but what did it matter?
- Love's riotous, but marriage should have quiet.
- And being consumptive, live on a milk diet

XLII

- And then there was the Miss Audacia Shoestring,
- A dashing demoiselle of good estate, 330 Whose heart was fix'd upon a star or blue
- string;

- But whether English dukes grew rare of late,
- Or that she had not harp'd upon the true string,
  - By which such sirens can attract our great,
- She took up with some foreign younger brother,
- A Russ or Turk the one's as good as t'other.

XLIII

- And then there was but why should I go on,
  - Unless the ladies should go off ? there was Indeed a certain fair and fairy one,

- Of the best class, and better than her class, — 340
- Aurora Raby, a young star who shone O'er hfe, too sweet an image for such glass,
- A lovely being, scarcely form'd or moulded,
- A rose with all its sweetest leaves yet folded;

XLIV

Rich, noble, but an orphan; left an only

- Child to the care of guardians good and kind;
- But still her aspect had an air so lonely !
- Blood is not water; and where shall we find
- Feelings of youth like those which overthrown lie
  - By death, when we are left, alas ! behind, 350

To feel, in friendless palaces, a home Is wanting, and our best ties in the tomb?

XLV

Early in years, and yet more infantine

- In figure, she had something of sublime
- In eyes which sadly shone, as seraphs' shine.
  - All youth but with an aspect beyond time;
- Radiant and grave as pitying man's decline,
  - Mournful but mournful of another's crime,

She look'd as if she sat by Eden's door.

And grieved for those who could return no more. 369

XLVI

She was a Catholic, too, sincere, austere,

- As far as her own gentle heart allow'd, And deem'd that fallen worship far more
- dear
  - Perhaps because 't was fallen her sires were proud
- Of deeds and days when they had fill'd the ear

Of nations, and had never bent or bow'd To novel power; and as she was the last,

She held their old faith and old feelings fast. 368

LXVII

She gazed upon a world she scarcely knew, As seeking not to know it; silent, lone,

- As grows a flower, thus quietly she grew,
- And kept her heart serene within its zone. There was awe in the homage which she drew;

Her spirit seem'd as seated on a throne

Apart from the surrounding world, and strong

In its own strength — most strange in one so young !

XLVIII

Now it so happen'd, in the catalogue Of Adeline, Aurora was omitted,

- Although her birth and wealth had given her vogue
  - Beyond the charmers we have already cited; 380

Her beauty also seem'd to form no clog

Against her being mention'd as well fitted, By many virtues, to be worth the trouble

Of single gentlemen who would be double.

XLIX

And this omission, like that of the bust Of Brutus at the pageant of Tiberius,

- Made Juan wonder, as no doubt he must. This he express'd half smiling and half
- serious; When Adelme replied with some disgust, And with an air, to say the least, imperious. 300

She marvell'd 'what he saw in such a baby As that prim, silent, cold Aurora Raby?'

L

Juan rejoin'd - 'She was a Catholic,

And therefore fittest, as of his persuasion;

- Since he was sure his mother would fall sick,
  - And the Pope thunder excommunication.
- If ' But here Adeline, who seem'd to
- Herself extremely on the moculation
- Of others with her own opinions, stated As usual — the same reason which she late
- did. 400

LI

- And wherefore not? A reasonable reason, If good, is none the worse for repetition:
- If bad, the best way's certainly to tease on, And amplify: you lose much by concision,
- Whereas insisting in or out of season
  - Convinces all men, even a politician;
- Or what is just the same it wearies out. So the end's gain'd, what signifies the route?

LII

Why Adeline had this slight prejudice — For prejudice it was — against a creature

- As pure as sanctity itself from vice, 411 With all the added charm of form and feature,
- For me appears a question far too nice, Since Adeline was liberal by nature;
- But nature's nature, and has more caprices Than I have time, or will, to take to pieces.

LIII

- Perhaps she did not like the quiet way
  - With which Aurora on those baubles look'd,
- Which charm most people in their earlier day:
  - For there are few things by mankind less brook'd, 420
- And womankind too, if we so may say, Than finding thus their genius stand rebuked, Like 'Anthony's by Cæsar,' by the few

Who look upon them as they ought to do.

LIV

- It was not envy Adeline had none;
- Her place was far beyond it, and her mind.
- It was not scorn which could not light on one
  - Whose greatest fault was leaving few to find.

It was not jealousy, I think: but shun Following the 'ignes fatui' of mankind. It was not — but 't is easier far, alas '431 To say what it was not than what it was.

LV

- Little Aurora deem'd she was the theme
  - Of such discussion. She was there a guest;
- A beauteous ripple of the brilliant stream Of rank and youth, though purer than the rest,
- Which flow'd on for a moment in the beam Time sheds a moment o'er each sparkling crest.
- Had she known this, she would have calmly smiled —
- She had so much, or little, of the child. 440

LVI

The dashing and proud air of Adelme

Imposed not upon her: she saw her blaze Much as she would have seen a glow-worm shine.

Then turn'd unto the stars for loftier rays.

Juan was something she could not divine, Being no sibyl in the new world's ways;

Yet she was nothing dazzled by the meteor, Because she did not pin her faith on feature.

LVII

His fame too, -- for he had that kind of fame

Which sometimes plays the deuce with womankind, 450

A heterogeneous mass of glorious blame, Half virtues and whole vices being combined:

Faults which attract because they are not tame;

Follies trick'd out so brightly that they blind:---

- These seals upon her wax made no impression.
- Such was her coldness or her self-possession.

LVIII

Juan knew nought of such a character — High, yet resembling not his lost Haidée;

- Yet each was radiant in her proper sphere: The island girl, bred up by the lone sea, 460
- More warm, as lovely, and not less sincere, Was Nature's all: Aurora could not be,

Nor would be thus: — the difference in them Was such as lies between a flower and gem.

LIX

- Having wound up with this sublime comparison,
  - Methinks we may proceed upon our narrative,
- And, as my friend Scott says, 'I sound my warison;'

Scott, the superlative of my comparative —

- Scott, who can paint your Christian knight or Saracen,
  - Serf, lord, man, with such skill as none would share it, if 470
- There had not been one Shakspeare and Voltaire,
- Of one or both of whom he seems the heir.

$\mathbf{L}\mathbf{X}$

I say, in my slight way I may proceed

To play upon the surface of humanity

I write the world, nor care if the world read,

At least for this I cannot spare its vanity

- My Muse hath bred, and still perhaps may breed
  - More foes by this same scroll: when 1 began it, I
- Thought that it might turn out so now 1 know it,
- But still I am, or was, a pretty poet. 480

LXI

The conference or congress (for it ended

- As congresses of late do) of the Lady
- Adeline and Don Juan rather blended
- Some acids with the sweets for she was heady;
- But, ere the matter could be marr'd or mended,
  - The silvery bell rang, not for 'dinner ready,'
- But for that hour, call'd half-hour, given to dress,
- Though ladies' robes seem scant enough for less.

LXII

- Great things were now to be achieved at table,
  - With massy plate for armour, knives and forks 490

For weapons; but what Muse since Homer's able

(His feasts are not the worst part of his works)

To draw up in array a single day-bill Of modern dinners? where more mystery lurks,

In soups or sauces, or a sole ragoût,

Than witches, b-ches, or physicians brew.

LXIII

- There was a goodly 'soupe à la bonne femme,
  - Though God knows whence it came from; there was, too,

A turbot for relief of those who cram, 499 Relieved with ' dindon à la Parigeux;'

- There also was —— the sinner that I am ! How shall I get this gourmand stanza through ?-
- 'Soupe à la Beauveau,' whose relief was dory,

Relieved itself by pork, for greater glory.

LXIV

But I must crowd all into one grand mess

Or mass; for should I stretch into detail,

- My Muse would run much more into excess,
  - Than when some squeamish people deem her frail.
- But though a 'bonne vivante,' I must confess
  - Her stomach's not her peccant part; this tale 510

However doth require some slight refection,

Just to relieve her spirits from dejection.

LXV

Fowls 'à la Condé,' slices eke of salmon,

- With 'sauces Génévoises,' and haunch of venison;
- Wines too, which might again have slain young Ammon -
  - A man like whom I hope we shan't see many soon;
- They also set a glazed Westphalian ham on, Whereon Apicius would bestow his benison
- And then there was champagne with foaming whirls,

As white as Cleopatra's melted pearls. 520

- Then there was God knows what 'a l'Allemande.'
  - 'A l'Espagnole,' 'timballe,' and 'salpi con'-
- With things I can't withstand or understand,
  - Though swallow'd with much zest upon the whole;
- And 'entremets' to piddle with at hand.
- Gently to lull down the subsiding soul;
- While great Lucullus' Robe triumphal muffles
- (There's fame) young partridge fillets, deck'd with truffles.

LXVII

- What are the fillets on the victor's brow To these? They are rags or dust.
  - Where is the arch
- Which nodded to the nation's spoils below? Where the triumphal chariots' haughty march?
- Gone to where victories must like dinners
- Farther I shall not follow the research:
- But oh ! ye modern heroes with your cartridges,
- When will your names lend lustre e'en to partridges?

LXVIII

- Those truffles too are no bad accessaries.
  - Follow'd by 'petits puits d'amour'-a dısh
- Of which perhaps the cookery rather varies, So every one may dress it to his wish, 540 According to the best of dictionaries,

Which encyclopedize both flesh and fish: But even sans 'confitures,' it no less true is, There's pretty picking in those 'petits puits.'

LXIX

- The mind is lost in mighty contemplation Of intellect expanded on two courses;
- And indigestion's grand multiplication Requires arithmetic beyond my forces
- Who would suppose, from Adam's simple ration,
- That cookery could have call'd forth such resources, 550

As form a science and a nomenclature From out the commonest demands of nat e?

LXX

- The glasses jungled, and the palates tungled; The diners of celebrity duned well;
- The ladies with more moderation mingled In the feast, pecking less than I can tell;
- Also the younger men too for a springald Can't, like ripe age, in gormandize excel,
- But thinks less of good eating than the whisper
- (When seated next hum) of some pretty lisper. 560

LXXI

- Alas! I must leave undescribed the gibier, The salmi, the consommé, the purée,
- All which I use to make my rhymes run glubber
  - Than could roast beef in our rough John Bull way.
- I must not introduce even a spare rib here, 'Bubble and squeak' would spoil my liquid lay:

But I have dined, and must forego, alas '

The chaste description even of a 'bécasse;'

LXXII

- And fruits, and ice, and all that art refines From nature for the service of the goût — 570
- Taste or the gout, pronounce it as inclines Your stomach! Ere you dine, the French will do:
- But after, there are sometimes certain signs Which prove plain English truer of the two.
- Hast ever had the gout ? I have not had it -
- But I may have, and you too, reader, dread it.

LXXIII

- The simple olives, best allies of wine, Must I pass over in my bill of fare?
- I must, although a favourite 'plat' of mine In Spain, and Lucca, Athens, every
- where: 580 On them d bread 't was oft my luck to dine.

The grass my table-cloth, in open-air,

On Sunium or Hymettus, like Diogenes,

Of whom half my philosophy the progeny

LXXIV

Amidst this tumult of fish, flesh, and fowl, And vegetables, all in masquerade,

- The guests were placed according to their roll,
  - But various as the various meats display'd:

Don Juan sat next an 'à l'Espagnole '-

No damsel, but a dish, as hath been said; But so far like a lady, that 't was drest 597 Superbly, and contain'd a world of zest.

LXXV

By some odd chance too, he was placed between

Aurora and the Lady Adeline ---

- A situation difficult, I ween,
  - For man therein, with eyes and heart, to dine.
- Also the conference which we have seen
- Was not such as to encourage him to shine; For Adeline, addressing few words to him,
- With two transcendent eyes seem'd to look through him. 600

LXXVI

- I sometimes almost think that eyes have ears:
  - This much is sure, that, out of earshot, things
- Are somehow echoed to the pretty dears,
- Of which I can't tell whence their knowledge springs.
- Like that same mystic music of the spheres, Which no one hears, so loudly though it rings,
- 'T is wonderful how oft the sex have heard Long dialogues — which pass'd without a word !

LXXVII

- Aurora sat with that indifference
- Which piques a preux chevalier as it ought: 610
- Of all offences that 's the worst offence, Which seems to hint you are not worth a thought.
- Now Juan, though no coxcomb in pretence, Was not exactly pleased to be so caught; Like a good ship entangled among ice,
- And after so much excellent advice.

LXXVIII

- To his gay nothings, nothing was replied, Or something which was nothing, as urbanity
- Required Aurora scarcely look'd aside, Nor even smiled enough for any vanity.

The devil was in the girl! Could it be pride? 621

Or modesty, or absence, or manity? Heaven knows! But Adeline's malicious

- eyes
- Sparkled with her successful prophecies,

LXXIX

And look'd as much as if to say, 'I said it;'

- A kind of triumph I'll not recommend, Because it sometimes, as I have seen or read it.
- Both in the case of lover and of friend,
- Will pique a gentleman, for his own credit, To bring what was a jest to a serious end: 630
- For all men prophesy what us or was,
- And hate those who won't let them come to pass.

LXXX

- Juan was drawn thus into some attentions, Slight but select, and just enough to express,
- To females of perspicuous comprehensions, That he would rather make them more than less.
- Aurora at the last (so history mentions,
- Though probably much less a fact than guess)
- So far relax'd her thoughts from their sweet prison,
- As once or twice to smile, if not to listen.

LXXXI

- From answering she began to question; this 641
- With her was rare: and Adeline, who as yet
- Thought her predictions went not much amiss,
  - Began to dread she'd thaw to a coquette —
- So very difficult, they say, it is
  - To keep extremes from meeting, when once set
- In motion; but she here too much refined Aurora's spirit was not of that kind.

LXXXII

But Juan had a sort of winning way,

- A proud humility, if such there be, 650 Which show'd such deference to what
  - females say, As if each charming word were a decree

- His tact, too, temper'd him from grave to gay,
  - And taught him when to be reserved or free.
- He had the art of drawing people out,
- Without their seeing what he was about.

LXXXIII

- Aurora, who in her indifference
  - Confounded bim in common with the crowd
- Of flatterers, though she deem'd he had more sense
  - Than whispering foplings, or than witlings loud — 660
- Commenced (from such slight things will great commence)
  - To feel that flattery which attracts the proud
- Rather by deference than compliment,

And wins even by a delicate dissent.

LXXXIV

- And then he had good looks; that point was carried
  - Nem. con amongst the women, which I grieve
- To say leads oft to crim. con. with the married
  - A case which to the juries we may leave,
- Since with digressions we too long have tarried.
  - Now though we know of old that looks deceive, 670
- And always have done, somehow these good looks
- Make more impression than the best of books.

LXXXV

- Aurora, who look'd more on books than faces,
- Was very young, although so very sage,
- Admiring more Minerva than the Graces,
  - Especially upon a printed page.
- But Virtue's self, with all her tightest laces, Has not the natural stays of strict old age;
- And Socrates, that model of all duty,
- Own'd to a penchant, though discreet, for beauty. 680

LXXXVI

And girls of sixteen are thus far Socratic, But innocently so, as Socrates;

- And really, if the sage sublime and Attic At seventy years had phantasies like these,
- Which Plato in his dialogues dramatic
  - Has shown, I know not why they should displease
- In virgins always in a modest way,
- Observe; for that with me 's a ' sine quâ '

LXXXVII

- Also observe, that, like the great Lord Coke
- (See Littleton), whene'er I have express'd 690
- Opinions two, which at first sight may look Twin opposites, the second is the best

Perhaps I have a third, too, in a nook,

Or none at all — which seems a sorry jest

But if a writer should be quite consistent, How could he possibly show things existent?

LXXXVIII

If people contradict themselves, can I

- Help contradicting them, and every body, Even my veracious self? — But that's a a lie:
  - I never did so, never will how should I?
- He who doubts all things nothing can deny. Truth's fountains may be clear -- her streams are muddy.
- And cut through such canals of contraduction,
- That she must often navigate o'er fiction.

LXXXIX

Apologue, fable, poesy, and parable,

Are false, but may be render'd also true, By those who sow them in a land that's arable.

'T is wonderful what fable will not do ! 'T is said it makes reality more bearable.

But what's reality? Who has its clue? Philosophy? No: she too much rejects. 711 Religion? Yes; but which of all her sects?

xc

Some millions must be wrong, that 's pretty clear;

Perhaps it may turn out that all were right.

God help us! Since we have need on our career

To keep our holy beacons always bright,

'T is time that some new prophet should appear,

Or old indulge man with a second sight. Opinions wear out in some thousand years, Without a small refreshment from the spheres. 7²⁶

XCI

- But here again, why will I thus entangle Myself with metaphysics? None can hate
- So much as I do any kind of wrangle; And yet, such is my folly, or my fate,
- I always knock my head against some angle

About the present, past, or future state. Yet I wish well to Trojan and to Tyrian, For I was bred a moderate Presbyterian.

XCII

But though I am a temperate theologian, And also meek as a metaphysician, 730

- Impartial between Tyrian and Trojan, As Eldon on a lunatic commission, --
- In politics my duty is to show John
- Bull something of the lower world's condition
- It makes my blood boil like the springs of Hecla,
- To see men let these scoundrel sovereigns break law.

XCIII

- But politics, and policy, and piety,
- Are topics which I sometimes introduce,

Not only for the sake of their variety,

- But as subservient to a moral use; 74G Because my business is to dress society,
- And stuff with sage that very verdant goose.
- And now, that we may furnish with some matter all
- Tastes, we are going to try the supernatural.

XCIV

And now I will give up all argument;

- And positively henceforth no temptation

Indeed, I never knew what people meant

By deeming that my Muse's conversation 750

- Was dangerous; I think she is as harmless
- As some who labour more and yet may charm less.

xcv

Grim reader ! did you ever see a ghost ?

- No; but you have heard I understand — be dumb !
- And don't regret the time you may have lost,
  - For you have got that pleasure still to come:

And do not think I mean to sneer at most

Of these things, or by ridicule benumb That source of the sublime and the mysterious. —

For certain reasons my belief is serious. 760

XCVI

Serious ? You laugh; — you may: that will I not;

My smiles must be sincere or not at all. I say I do believe a haunted spot

Exists — and where? That shall I not recall,

Because I 'd rather it should be forgot,

- 'Shadows the soul of Richard 'may appal. In short, upon that subject I've some
- qualms very Like those of the philosopher of Malms-
- bury.

XCVII

The night (I sing by night — sometimes an owl, 769

And now and then a nightingale) is dim, And the loud shriek of sage Minerva's fowl

- Rattles around me her discordant hymn. Old portraits from old walls upon me
  - scowl I wish to heaven they would not look so grum;

The dying embers dwindle in the grate — I think too that I have sate up too late:

XCVIII

- And therefore, though 't is by no means my way
  - To rhyme at noon when I have other things

To think of, if I ever think — I say

I feel some chilly midnight shudderings, And prudently postpone, until mid-day, 781

Treating a topic which, alas ! but brings

Shadows; — but you must be in my condition

Before you learn to call this superstition.

XCIX

- Between two worlds life hovers like a star, 'Twixt night and morn, upon the horizon's verge.
- How little do we know that which we are ! How less what we may be ! The eternal surge
- Of time and tide rolls on, and bears afar
- Our bubbles; as the old burst, new emerge, 790
- Lash'd from the foam of ages; while the graves
- Of empires heave but like some passing waves.

CANTO THE SIXTEENTH

Ι

- THE antique Persians taught three useful things,
  - To draw the bow, to ride, and speak the truth.
- This was the mode of Cyrus, best of kings A mode adopted since by modern youth.
- Bows have they, generally with two strings; Horses they ride without remorse or ruth;
- At speaking truth perhaps they are less clever,
- But draw the long bow better now than ever.

II

- The cause of this effect, or this defect,
  - 'For this effect defective comes by cause,' — 10
- Is what I have not leisure to inspect;

But this I must say in my own appla e, Of all the Muses that I recollect,

Whate'er may be her follies or her flaws In some things, mine 's beyond all contradiction

The most sincere that ever dealt in fiction.

III

- And as she treats all things, and ne'er retreats
- From any thing, this epic will contain
- A wilderness of the most rare conceits,
  - Which you might elsewhere hope to find in vain.

- "T is true there be some bitters with the sweets.
  - Yet mix'd so slightly, that you can't complam,
- But wonder they so few are, since my tale is 'De rebus cunctis et quibusdam alus '

IV

But of all truths which she has told, the most

True is that which she is about to tell.

- I said it was a story of a ghost What then ? I only know it so befell.
- Have you explored the limits of the coast, Where all the dwellers of the earth must dwell? 30
- 'T is time to strike such puny doubters dumb as
- The sceptics who would not believe Columhus

77

- Some people would impose now with authority,
  - Turpin's or Monmouth Geoffry's Chronicle;
- Men whose historical superiority
- Is always greatest at a miracle
- But Saint Augustine has the great priority, Who bids all men believe the impossible,
- Because 't is so. Who nibble, scribble, quibble, he
- Quiets at once with 'quia impossibile.' 40

vr

And therefore, mortals, cavil not at all; Believe: — if 't is improbable you must,

And if it is impossible, you shall :

'T is always best to take things upon trust.

I do not speak profanely, to recall

- Those holier mysteries which the wise and just
- Receive as gospel, and which grow more rooted,
- As all truths must, the more they are disputed:

VII

- I merely mean to say what Johnson said, That in the course of some six thousand vears,
- All nations have believed that from the dead
  - A visitant at intervals appears;

And what is strangest upon this strange head,

Is, that whatever bar the reason rears

- 'Gamst such behef, there's something stronger still
- In its behalf, let those deny who will.

VIII

- The dinner and the source too were done, The supper too discuss'd, the dames ad-
- mired, The banqueteers had dropp'd off one by one
  - The song was silent, and the dance expired
- The last thin petticoats were vanish'd, gone Like fleecy clouds into the sky retired,
- And nothing brighter gleam'd through the saloon

Than dying tapers — and the peeping moon.

IX

The evaporation of a joyous day

Is like the last glass of champagne, without

- The foam which made its virgin bumper gay;
- Or like a system coupled with a doubt; Or like a soda bottle when its spray

Has sparkled and let half its spirit out; Or like a billow left by storms behind, 71 Without the animation of the wind;

- Or like an opiate, which brings troubled rest.
- Or none; or like like nothing that I know

Except itself; — such is the human breast; A thing, of which similitudes can show

No real likeness, - like the old Tyrian vest Dyed purple, none at present can tell how.

If from a shell-fish or from cochineal

So perish every tyrant's robe piece-meal! So

XI

But next to dressing for a rout or ball,

- Undressing is a woe, our robe de chambre May sit like that of Nessus, and recall
  - Thoughts quite as yellow, but less clear than amber.
- Titus exclaim'd, 'I've lost a day '' Of all The nights and days most people can remember

- (I have had of both, some not to be disdam'd),
- I wish they'd state how many they have gain'd.

XII

And Juan, on returnig for the night,

- Felt restless, and perplex'd, and compromised: 90
- He thought Aurora Raby's eyes more bright

Than Adeline (such 1s advice) advised; If he had known exactly his own plight,

He probably would have philosophised: A great resource to all, and ne'er denied

Till wanted; therefore Juan only sigh'd.

XIII

He sigh'd; — the next resource is the full moon,

Where all sighs are deposited; and now It happen'd luckily, the chaste orb shone

As clear as such a climate will allow; 100 And Juan's mind was in the proper tone

- To hail her with the apostrophe 'O thou!'
- Of amatory egotism the Tuism,

Which further to explain would be a truism.

XIV

But lover, poet, or astronomer,

- Shepherd, or swain, whoever may behold,
- Feel some abstraction when they gaze on her:

Great thoughts we catch from thence (besides a cold

Sometimes, unless my feelings rather err); Deep secrets to her rolling light are told;

The ocean's tides and mortals' brains she sways,

And also hearts, if there be truth in lays

xv

Juan felt somewhat pensive, and disposed

- For contemplation rather than his pillow:
- The Gothic chamber, where he was enclosed,
- Let in the rippling sound of the lake's billow,
- With all the mystery by midnight caused; Below his window waved (of course) a willow;

And he stood gazing out on the cascade That flash'd and after darken'd in the shade

XVI

Upon his table or his toilet, - which Of these is not exactly ascertain'd

- (I state this, for I am cautious to a pitch Of nicety, where a fact is to be gain'd), ---
- A lamp burn'd high, while he leant from a niche,
  - Where many a Gothic ornament remain'd,

In chusell'd stone and painted glass, and all That time has left our fathers of their hall

XVII

- Then, as the night was clear though cold, he threw
  - His chamber door wide open and went forth
- Into a gallery, of a sombre hue,

Long, furnish d with old pictures of great worth,

- Of knights and dames heroic and chaste too, As doubtless should be people of high birth.
- But by dim lights the portraits of the dead Have something ghastly, desolate, and dread.

XVIII

The forms of the grim knight and pictured saint

Look living in the moon; and as you turn Backward and forward to the echoes faint

Of your own footsteps --- voices from the

Appear to wake, and shadows wild and guaint

Start from the frames which fence their aspects stern,

- As if to ask how you can dare to keep
- A vigil there, where all but death should sleep.

XIX

- And the pale smile of beauties in the grave, The charms of other days, in starlight gleams,
- Glimmer on high; their buried locks still wave
  - Along the canvass; their eyes glance like dreams

- On ours, or spars within some dusky cave, But death is imaged in their shadowy beams.
- A picture is the past; even ere its frame
- Be gilt, who sate hath ceased to be the

XX

As Juan mused on mutability,

Or on his mistress — terms synonymous — No sound except the echo of his sigh

- Or step ran sadly through that antique house;
- When suddenly he heard, or thought so, nigh,

A supernatural agent — or a mouse,

- Whose little nibbling rustle will embarrass
- Most people as it plays along the arras 160

XXI

- It was no mouse, but lo' a monk, array'd
- In cowl and beads and dusky garb, appear'd,
- Now in the moonlight, and now lapsed in shade,
  - With steps that trod as heavy, yet unheard;
- His garments only a slight murmur made; He moved as shadowy as the sisters weird.

But slowly; and as he pass'd Juan by,

Glanced, without pausing, on him a bright eye

XXII

Juan was petrified; he had heard a hint Of such a spirit in these halls of old, 170

- But thought, like most men, there was nothing in 't
  - Beyond the rumour which such spots unfold,
- Coin'd from surviving superstition's mint,
- Which passes ghosts in currency like gold,
- But rarely seen, like gold compared with paper.
- And did he see this? or was it a vapour?

XXIII

- Once, twice, thrice pass'd, repass'd the thing of air,
- Or earth beneath, or heaven, or t' other place;

And Juan gazed upon it with a stare,

- Yet could not speak or move; but, on its base 189
- As stands a statue, stood he felt his hair Twine like a knot of snakes around his face;
- He tax'd his tongue for words, which were not granted,
- To ask the reverend person what he wanted.

XMV

The third tume, after a still longer pause,

- The shadow pass'd away but where? the hall
- Was long, and thus far there was no great cause

To think his vanishing unnatural:

Doors there were many, through which, by the laws 189

Of physics, bodies whether short or tall Might come or go; but Juan could not state Through which the spectre seem'd to evaporate.

XXV

- He stood how long he knew not, but it seem'd
  - An age expectant, powerless, with his eyes
- Stram'd on the spot where first the figure gleam'd;

Then by degrees recall'd his energies,

- And would have pass'd the whole off as a dream,
  - But could not wake; he was, he did surmise,

Waking already, and return'd at length

Back to his chamber, shorn of half his strength 200

XXVI

All there was as he left it: still his taper

Burnt, and not blue, as modest tapers use, Receiving sprites with sympathetic vapour;

- He rubb'd his eyes, and they did not refuse
- Their office, he took up an old newspaper; The paper was right easy to peruse;

He read an article the king attacking, And a long eulogy of ' patent blacking

XXVII

- - He shut his door, and after having read

A paragraph, I think about Horne Tooke, Undrest, and rather slowly went to bed.

- There, couch'd all snugly on his pillow's nook,
  - With what he had seen his phantasy he fed;

And though it was no opiate, slumber crept Upon him by degrees, and so he slept.

XXVIII

He woke betimes; and, as may be supposed, Ponder'd upon his visitant or vision,

- And whether it ought not to be disclosed, At risk of being quizz'd for superstition.
- The more he thought, the more his mind was posed
  - In the mean time, his valet, whose precision
- Was great, because his master brook'd no less.
- Knock'd to inform him it was time to dress.

XXIX

He dress'd; and like young people he was wont

To take some trouble with his toilet, but This morning rather spent less time upon 't;

- Aside his very mirror soon was put; His curls fell negligently o'er his front,
- His clothes were not curb'd to their usual cut, 230
- His very neckcloth's Gordian knot was tied
- Almost an hair's breadth too much on one side.

XXX

And when he walk'd down into the saloon, He sate him pensive o'er a dish of tea,

- Which he perhaps had not discover'd soon,
- Had it not happen'd scalding hot to be, Which made him have recourse unto his
- spoon; So much distrait he was, that all could
- see That something was the matter — Adeline
- The first but what she could not well divine.

240

XXXI

- She look'd, and saw him pale, and turn'd as pale
  - Herself; then hastily look'd down, and mutter'd

- Something, but what's not stated in my tale.
  - Lord Henry said his muffin was ill butter'd;
- The Duchess of Fitz-Fulke play'd with her veil,
- And look'd at Juan hard, but nothing utter'd.
- Aurora Raby with her large dark eyes
- Survey'd him with a kind of calm surprise.

XXXII

- But seeing him all cold and silent still, 249 And everybody wondering more or less.
- Fair Adeline enquired, 'If he were ill?'
- He started, and said, 'Yes no rather - yes'
- The family physician had great skill,
  - And being present, now began to express
- His readiness to feel his pulse and tell
- The cause, but Juan said, 'He was quite well.'

XXXIII

- 'Quite well; yes, no.' These answers were mysterious,
- And yet his looks appear'd to sanction both,
- However they might savour of delirious; Something like illness of a sudden
- growth 260 Weigh'd on his spirit though by no moone
- Weigh'd on his spirit, though by no means serious:
  - But for the rest, as he himself seem'd loth
- To state the case, it might be ta'en for granted
- It was not the physician that he wanted.

XXXIV

- Lord Henry, who had now discuss'd his chocolate,
  - Also the muffin whereof he complain'd,
- Said, Juan had not got his usual look elate,
  - At which he marvell'd, since it had not rain'd;
- Then ask'd her Grace what news were of the duke of late?

Her Grace replied, his Grace was rather pain'd 270

With some slight, light, hereditary twinges Of gout, which rusts aristocratic hinges.

XXXV

- Then Henry turn'd to Juan, and address'd A few words of condolence on his state
- 'You look,' quoth he, 'as if you had had your rest
- Broke in upon by the Black Friar of late.' 'What friar?' said Juan; and he did his best
- To put the question with an air sedate,
- Or careless; but the effort was not valid
- To hinder him from growing still more pallid. 280

XXXVI

- 'Oh! have you never heard of the Black Friar?
  - The spirit of these walls?'-'In truth not I.'
- 'Why Fame but Fame you know's sometimes a har -

Tells an odd story, of which by and by:

- Whether with time the spectre has grown shyer,
- Or that our sures had a more gifted eve For such sights, though the tale is half believed.

The friar of late has not been oft perceived.

XXXVII

- 'The last time was ----'-'I prav,' said Adeline
  - (Who watch'd the changes of Don Juan's brow,
- And from its context thought she could divine

Connexions stronger then he chose to avow

- With this same legend) 'if you but design
  - To jest, you'll choose some other theme just now,

Because the present tale has oft been told. And is not much improved by growing old.

XXXVIII

'Jest!' quoth Milor: 'why, Adeline, you know

That we ourselves - 'twas in the honey moon -

- -'--'Well, no matter, 't was so Sawlong ago;
- But, come, I'll set your story to a tune. Graceful as Dian, when she draws her bow,
- She seized her harp, whose strings were kindled soon

As touch'd, and plaintively began to play The air of 'T was a Friar of Orders Gray.'

XXXIX

'But add the words,' cried Henry, 'which you made;

For Adelme is half a poetess,'

- Turning round to the rest, he smiling said. Of course the others could not but express
- In courtesy their wish to see display'd
- By one three talents, for there were no less -
- The voice, the words, the harper's skill, at once

Could hardly be united by a dunce.

XL

After some fascinating hesitation, --

The charming of these charmers, who seem bound,

I can't tell why, to this dissimulation, -Fair Adeline, with eyes fix'd on the ground

At first, then kindling into animation,

Added her sweet voice to the lyric sound, And sang with much simplicity, - a merit Not the less precious, that we seldom hear ιt. 320

Beware! beware! of the Black Friar,

Who sitteth by Norman stone,

For he mutters his prayer in the midnight air, And his mass of the days that are gone

τ

When the Lord of the Hill, Amundeville,

Made Norman Church his prey, And expell'd the friars, one friar still Would not be driven away.

Though he came in his might, with King Henry's right. 330

To turn church lands to lay. With sword in hand, and torch to light

Their walls, if they said nay, A monk remain'd, unchased, unchain'd,

And he did not seem form'd of clay,

For he's seen in the porch, and he's seen in the church.

Though he is not seen by day.

And whether for good, or whether for ill, It is not mine to say; But still with the house of Amundeville

He abideth night and day. 340

- By the marriage-bed of their lords, 't is said. He flits on the bridal eve
- And 't is held as faith, to their bed of death He comes - but not to grieve.

350

360

When an heir is born, he's heard to mourn, And when aught is to befall That ancient line, in the pale moonshine He walks from hall to hall. His form you may trace, but not his face, 'T is shadow'd by his cowl; But his eyes may be seen from the folds between. And they seem of a parted soul.

But beware ! beware ! of the Black Friar, He still retains his sway For he is yet the church's heir Whoever may be the lay. Amundeville is lord by day, But the monk is lord by night; Nor wine nor wassail could raise a vassal To question that friar's right.

Say nought to him as he walks the hall, And he 'll say nought to you ;

He sweeps along in his dusky pall,

As o'er the grass the dew

Then grammercy ! for the Black Friar, Heaven sam him, fair or foul !

And whatsoe'er may be his prayer,

Let ours be for his soul.

XLI

- The lady's voice ceased, and the thrilling wires
  - Died from the touch that kindled them to sound;
- And the pause follow'd, which when song expires
  - Pervades a moment those who listen round:

And then of course the circle much admires, Nor less applauds, as in politeness bound,

The tones, the feeling, and the execution, To the performer's diffident confusion.

XLII

Fair Adeline, though in a careless way, As if she rated such accomplishment

As the mere pastime of an idle day,

Pursued an instant for her own content, Would now and then as 't were without display,

Yet with display in fact, at times relent To such performances with haughty smile,

To show she could, if it were worth her while.

XLIII

Now this (but we will whisper it aside) Was - pardon the pedantic illustration -

Trampling on Plato's pride with greater pride,

As did the Cynic on some like occasion : Deeming the sage would be much mortified,

Or thrown into a philosophic passion, 390 For a spoil'd carpet - but the 'Attic Bee' Was much consoled by his own repartee.

XLIV

Thus Adelme would throw into the shade (By doing easily, whene'er she chose,

What dilettanti do with vast parade) Their sort of half profession, for it grows

- To something like this when too oft display'd;
  - And that it is so everybody knows
- Who have heard Miss That or This, or Lady T'other,
- Show off to please their company or mother.

XLV

Oh ! the long evenings of duets and trios ! The admirations and the speculations;

The 'Mamma Mia's !' and the 'Amor M10's !'

The 'Tanti palpiti's ' on such occasions:

- The 'Lasciami's,' and quavering 'Addio's ! '
  - Amongst our own most musical of nations;
- With 'Tu mi chamas's ' from Portingale,

To soothe our ears, lest Italy should fail.

XLVI

- In Babylon's bravuras as the home Heart-ballads of Green Erin or Gray Highlands,
- That bring Lochaber back to eyes that roam O'er far Atlantic continents or islands,
- The calentures of music which o'ercome

All mountaineers with dreams that they are nigh lands,

No more to be beheld but in such visions — Was Adeline well versed, as compositions.

XLVII

- She also had a twilight tinge of 'Blue,'
- Could write rhymes, and compose more than she wrote,

Made epigrams occasionally too

- Upon her friends, as everybody ought.
- But still from that sublimer azure hue, 421 So much the present dye, she was remote;

- Was weak enough to deem Pope a great poet,
- And what was worse, was not ashamed to show it

XLVIII

Aurora — since we are touching upon taste, Which now-a-days is the thermometer

- By whose degrees all characters arc class'd --
- Was more Shakspearian, if I do not err The worlds beyond this world's perplexing waste

Had more of her existence, for in her 430 There was a depth of feeling to embrace

Thoughts, boundless, deep, but silent too as

Space.

XLIX

- Not so her gracious, graceful, graceless Grace,
  - The full-grown Hebe of Fitz-Fulke, whose mind,

If she had any, was upon her face,

- And that was of a fascinating kind.
- A little turn for mischief you might trace Also thereon, — but that 's not much; we find
- Few females without some such gentle leaven,
- For fear we should suppose us quite in heaven. 440

L

I have not heard she was at all poetic,

- Though once she was seen reading the 'Bath Guide,'
- And 'Hayley's Triumphs,' which she deem'd pathetic,
  - Because she said her temper had been tried
- So much, the bard had really been prophetic
  - Of what she had gone through with since a bride
- But of all verse, what most ensured her praise

Were sonnets to herself, or ' bouts rimés.'

LI

- 'T were difficult to say what was the object Of Adeline, in bringing this same lay 450
- To bear on what appear'd to her the subject
  - Of Juan's nervous feelings on that day.

- Perhaps she merely had the sumple project To laugh him out of his supposed dismay;
- Perhaps she might wish to confirm him in it, Though why I cannot say — at least this minute

LII

But so far the immediate effect

Was to restore him to his self-propriety, A thing quite necessary to the elect.

- Who wish to take the tone of their society: 460
- In which you caunot be too circumspect, Whether the mode be persuffage or piety,
- But wear the newest mantle of hypocrisy, On pam of much displeasing the gynocracy.

LIII

And therefore Juan now began to rally His spirits, and without more explanation

- To jest upon such themes in many a sally. Her Grace, too, also seized the same occasion,
- With various similar remarks to tally
- But wish'd for a still more detail'd narration 470
- Of this same mystic friar's curious doings, About the present family's deaths and wooings.

LIV

- Of these few could say more than has been said;
  - They pass'd as such things do, for superstition
- With some, while others, who had more in dread
  - The theme, half credited the strange tradition;
- And much was talk'd on all sides on that head:
  - But Juan, when cross-question'd on the vision,
- Which some supposed (though he had not avow'd it)
- Had stirr'd him, answer'd in a way to cloud it. 480

LV

- And then, the mid-day having worn to one, The company prepared to separate;
- Some to their several pastimes, or to none, Some wondering 't was so early, some so late

- There was a goodly match too, to be run Between some greyhounds on my lord's estate.
- And a young race-horse of old pedigree
- Match'd for the spring, whom several went to see.

LVI

There was a picture-dealer who had brought A special Titian, warranted original, 490

So precious that it was not to be bought,

- Though princes the possessor were besleging all.
- The king himself had cheapen'd it, but thought
  - The civil list he deigns to accept (obliging all

His subjects by his gracious acceptation)

Too scanty, in these times of low taxation.

LVII

- But as Lord Henry was a connoisseur, The friend of artists, if not arts, — the owner.
- With motives the most classical and pure, So that he would have been the very donor.
- Rather than seller, had his wants been fewer,
  - So much he deem'd his patronage an honour,

Had brought the capo d'opera, not for sale,

But for his judgment — never known to fail.

LVIII

There was a modern Goth, I mean a Gothic

- Bricklayer of Babel, call'd an architect, Brought to survey these grey walls, which though so thick,
  - Might have from time acquired some slight defect;
- Who after rummaging the Abbey through thick
  - And thin, produced a plan whereby to erect 510

New buildings of correctest conformation,

And throw down old — which he call'd restoration.

LIX

The cost would be a trifle — an 'old song,' Set to some thousands ('t is the usual burden

- Of that same tune, when people hum it long) ---
- The price would speedily repay its worth m
- An edifice no less sublime than strong,
  - By which Lord Henry's good taste would go forth m
- Its glory, through all ages shining sunny,
- For Gothic daring shown in English money.

LX

There were two lawyers busy on a mortgage 521

Lord Henry wish'd to raise for a new purchase;

Also a lawsuit upon tenures burgage,

- And one on tithes, which sure are Discord's torches,
- Kindling Religion till she throws down her gage,
  - 'Untying' squires 'to fight against the churches;'
- There was a prize ox, a prize pig, and ploughman,
- For Henry was a sort of Sabine showman.

LXI

- There were two poachers caught in a steel trap,
  - Ready for gaol, their place of convalescence; 530
- There was a country girl in a close cap And scarlet cloak (I hate the sight to
- see, since Since — since — in youth, I had the sad mishap —
  - But luckily I have paid few parish fees since):
- That scarlet cloak, alas ! unclosed with rigour,
- Presents the problem of a double figure.

LXII

A reel within a bottle is a mystery,

- One can't tell how it e'er got in or out; Therefore the present piece of natural his-
- tory I leave to those who are fond of solving doubt; 540
- And merely state, though not for the consistory,

Lord Henry was a justice, and that Scout The constable, beneath a warrant's banner, Had bagg'd this poacher upon Nature's manor. LXIII

Now justices of peace must judge all pieces

- Of mischief of all kinds, and keep the game
- And morals of the country from caprices Of those who have not a license for the
- same; And of all things, excepting tithes and
- leases, 549
- Perhaps these are most difficult to tame: Preserving partridges and pretty wenches

Are puzzles to the most precautious benches.

LXIV

- The present culprit was extremely pale,
- Pale as if painted so; her check being red
- By nature, as in higher dames less hale 'T is white, at least when they just rise from bed.
- Perhaps she was ashamed of seeming frail, Poor soul! for she was country born and bred,
- And knew no better in her immorality
- Than to wax white for blushes are for quality. 560

LXV

- Her black, bright, downcast, yet espiègle eye,
- Had gather'd a large tear into its corner,
- Which the poor thing at times essay'd to dry,

For she was not a sentimental mourner Parading all her sensibility,

Nor insolent enough to scorn the scorner, But stood in trembling, patient tribulation, To be call'd up for her examination.

LXVI

Of course these groups were scatter'd here and there,

Not nigh the gay saloon of ladies gent The lawyers in the study; and in air 571

- The prize pig, ploughman, poachers; the men sent
- From town, viz, architect and dealer, were Both busy (as a general in his tent
- Writing despatches) in their several stations,
- Exulting in their brilliant lucubrations.

LXVII

- But this poor girl was left in the great hall.
  - While Scout, the parish guardian of the frail,
- Discuss'd (he hated beer yclept the 'small') A mighty mug of moral double ale. 580 She waited until Justice could recall
- Its kind attentions to their proper pale,
- To name a thing in nomenclature rather
- Perplexing for most virgins a child's father.

LXVIII

You see here was enough of occupation

- For the Lord Henry, lnk'd with dogs and horses.
- There was much bustle too, and preparation
  - Below stairs on the score of second courses;
- Because, as suits their rank and situation, Those who in counties have great land
- resources 590 Have 'public days,' when all men may
- carouse, Though not exactly what's call'd 'open house.'

LXIX

But once a week or fortnight, uninvited

- (Thus we translate a general invitation)
- All country gentlemen, esquired or knighted,
  - May drop in without cards, and take their station
- At the full board, and sit alike delighted
  - With fashionable wines and conversation;
- And, as the isthmus of the grand connection,
- Talk o'er themselves the past and next election. 604

LXX

Lord Henry was a great electioneerer,

- Burrowing for boroughs like a rat or rabbit;
- But county contests cost him rather dearer, Because the neighbouring Scotch Earl of Giftgabbit
- Had English influence in the self-same sphere here;
  - His son, the Honourable Dick Dicedrabbit,

Was member for the 'other interest' (meaning

The same self-interest, with a different leaning).

lxxi

- Courteous and cautious therefore in his county,
  - He was all things to all men, and dispensed 610

To some civility, to others bounty,

- And promises to all which last commenced
- To gather to a somewhat large amount, he Not calculating how much they condensed;
- But what with keeping some, and breaking others,

His word had the same value as another's

LXXII

A friend to freedom and freeholders — yet No less a friend to government — he held,

That he exactly the just medium hit

- 'Twixt place and patriotism albeit compell'd, 620
- Such was his sovereign's pleasure (though unfit,

He added modestly, when rebels rail'd),

To hold some sinecures he wish'd abolish'd,

But that with them all law would be demolish'd.

LXXIII

- He was 'free to confess' (whence comes this phrase ?
  - Is 't English? No 't is only parliamentary)

That mnovation's spirit now-a-days

- Had made more progress than for the last century.
- He would not tread a factious path to praise,
  - Though for the public weal disposed to venture high; 630
- As for his place, he could but say this of it,

That the fatigue was greater than the profit.

LXXIV

- Heaven, and his friends, knew that a private life
- Had ever been his sole and whole ambition;

But could he quit his king in times of strife,

Which threaten'd the whole country with perdution?

- When demagogues would with a butcher's knife
  - Cut through and through (oh ! damnable incision !)
- The Gordian or the Geordi-an knot, whose strings
- Have tied together commons, lords, and kmgs. 640

LXXV

Sooner 'come place into the civil list

- And champion hum to the utmost '- he would keep it,
- Till duly disappointed or dismiss'd:
- Profit he cared not for, let others reap it;
- But should the day come when place ceased to exist,
- The country would have far more cause to weep it

For how could it go on? Explain who can ! He gloried in the name of Englishman

LXXVI

He was as independent — ay, much more — Than those who were not paid for independence, 650

- As common soldiers, or a common shore,
  - Have in their several arts or parts ascendance
- O'er the irregulars in lust or gore,
- Who do not give professional attendance. Thus on the mob all statesmen are as eager
- To prove their pride, as footmen to ε beggar

LXXVII

- All this (save the last stanza) Henry said, And thought. I say no more — I've said too much;
- For all of us have either heard or read Off — or upon the hustings — some slight such
- Hints from the independent heart or head Of the official candidate. I'll touch
- No more on this the dinner-bell hath rung,
- And grace is said; the grace I should have sung —

LXXVIII

- But I'm too late, and therefore must make play.
  - 'T was a great banquet, such as Albion old
- Was wont to boast as if a glutton's tray
- Were something very glorious to behold. But 't was a public feast and public day, —
- Quite full, right dull, guests hot, and dishes cold, 670
- Great plenty, much formality, small cheer, And every body out of their own sphere.

LXXIX

- The squires familiarly formal, and My lords and ladies proudly condescend-
- ing; The very servants puzzling how to hand
- Their plates without it might be too much bending
- From their high places by the sideboard's stand
  - Yet, like their masters, fearful of offending
- For any deviation from the graces
- Might cost both man and master too their places. 680

LXXX

- There were some hunters bold, and coursers keen,
  - Whose hounds ne'er err'd, nor greyhounds deign'd to lurch;

Some deadly shots too, Septembrizers, seen Earliest to rise, and last to quit the search

- Of the poor partridge through his stubble screen
  - There were some massy members of the church,
- Takers of tithes, and makers of good matches,
- And several who sung fewer psalms than catches.

LXXXI

- There were some country wags too and, alas:
  - Some exiles from the town, who had been driven 690
- To gaze, instead of pavement, upon grass, And rise at nine in heu of long eleven.
- And lo: upon that day it came to pass,
  - I sate next that o'erwhelming son of heaven,

The very powerful parson, Peter Pith, The loudest wit I e'er was deafen'd with.

LXXXII

- I knew him in his livelier London days,
  - A brilliant dimer out, though but a curate;
- And not a joke he cut but earn'd its praise,
  - Until preferment, coming at a sure rate
- (O Providence ! how wondrous are thy ways ! 701
  - Who would suppose thy gifts sometimes obdurate?),
- Gave him, to lay the devil who looks o'er Lincoln,
- A fat fen vicarage, and nought to think on.

LXXXIII

- His jokes were sermons, and his sermons jokes;
  - But both were thrown away amongst the fens;
- For wit hath no great friend in aguish folks No longer ready ears and short-hand pens
- Imbibed the gay bon mot, or happy hoax:
- The poor priest was reduced to common sense, 710
- Or to coarse efforts very loud and long,
- To hammer a horse laugh from the thick throng.

LXXXIV

There is a difference, says the song, 'between

A beggar and a queen,' or was (of late

The latter worse used of the two we've seen ---

But we'll say nothing of affrirs of state); A difference ''twixt a bishop and a dean,'

- A difference between crockery ware and plate,
- As between English beef and Spartan broth—
- And yet great heroes have been bred by both. 720

LXXXV

But of all nature's discrepancies, uone

- Upon the whole is greater than the difference
- Beheld between the country and the town, Of which the latter merits every prefer-

- From those who have few resources of their own,
  - And only think, or act, or feel, with reference
- To some small plan of interest or ambition —
- Both which are limited to no condition

LXXXVI

- But 'en avant !' The light loves languish o'er
  - Long banquets and too many guests, although 730
- A slight repast makes people love much more,
  - Bacchus and Ceres being, as we know
- Even from our grammar upwards, friends of yore
- With vivifying Venus, who doth owe
- To these the invention of champagne and truffles:
- Temperance delights her, but long fasting ruffles.

LXXXVII

Dully past o'er the dinner of the day;

- And Juan took his place, he knew not where,
- Confused, in the confusion, and distrait,
- And sitting as if nail'd upon his chair.
- Though knives and forks clank'd round as in a fray, 741
- He seem'd unconscious of all passing there,
- Till some one, with a groan, exprest a wish
- (Unheeded twice) to have a fin of fish.

LXXXVIII

On which, at the third asking of the bans,

He started; and perceiving smiles around Broadening to grins, he colour'd more than once,

And hastily — as nothing can confound

A wise man more than laughter from a dunce —

Inflicted on the dish a deadly wound, 750

- And with such hurry, that ere he could curb it
- He had paid his neighbour's prayer with half a turbot.

LXXXIX

This was no bad mistake, as it occurr'd, The supplicator being an amateur;

- But others, who were left with scarce a thurd,
- Were angry as they well might, to be sure.

They wonder'd how a young man so absurd Lord Henry at his table should endure;

- And this, and his not knowing how much oats
- Had fallen last market, cost his host three votes. 760

xc

They little knew, or might have sympathused,

That he the night before had seen a ghost, A prologue which but slightly harmonised

- With the substantial company engross'd By matter, and so much materialised,
  - That one scarce knew at what to marve) most
- Of two things how (the question rather odd is)
- Such bodies could have souls, or souls such bodies.

XCI

- But what confused him more than smile or stare
  - From all the 'squires and 'squiresses around, 770

Who wonder'd at the abstraction of his air, Especially as he had been renown'd

For some vivacity among the fair,

Even in the country circle's narrow bound (For little things upon my lord's estate

Were good small talk for others still less great) ---

XCII

- Was, that he caught Aurora's eye on his,
- And something like a smile upon her cheek.
- Now this he really rather took amiss:
  - In those who rarely smile, their smiles bespeak 780
- A strong external motive; and in this Smile of Aurora's there was nought to pique
- Or hope, or love, with any of the wiles
- Which some pretend to trace in ladies' smiles.

XCIII

'T was a mere quiet smile of contemplation, Indicative of some surprise and pity;

- And Juan grew carnation with vexation, Which was not very wise, and still less witty,
- Since he had gain'd at least her observation,
- A most important outwork of the city -
- As Juan should have known, had not his senses 791
- By last night's ghost been driven from their defences.

xciv

- But what was bad, she did not blush in turn,
- Nor seem embarrass'd quite the contrary;
- Her aspect was as usual, still not stern And she withdrew, but cast not down, her eye,
- Yet grew a little pale with what? concern?
  - I know not; but her colour ne'er was high —
- Though sometimes faintly flush'd and always clear,

As deep seas in a sunny atmosphere. 800

XCV

- But Adeline was occupied by fame This day; and watching, witching, con-
- descending To the consumers of fish, fowl, and game,
- And dignity with courtesy so blending,
- As all must blend whose part it is to aim (Especially as the sixth year is ending)
- At their lord's, son's, or similar connection's Safe conduct through the rocks of re-elections.

XCVI

Though this was most expedient on the whole, 809

And usual — Juan, when he cast a glance On Adelme while playing her grand rôle,

- Which she went through as though it were a dance,
- Betraying only now and then her soul

By a look scarce perceptibly askance

- (Of weariness or scorn), began to feel
- Some doubt how much of Adeline was real;

XCVII

So well she acted all and every part By turns — with that vivacious versatility,

- Which many people take for want of heart. They err—'t is merely what is call'd mobility, 820
- A thing of temperament and not of art, Though seeming so, from its supposed facility:
- And false though true; for surely they 're sincerest
- Who are strongly acted on by what is nearest.

XCVIII

- This makes your actors, artists, and romancers,
- But speakers, bards, diplomatists, and dancers,
  - Little that's great, but much of what is clever;

Most orators, but very few financiers,

- Though all Exchequer chancellors endeavour, 830
- Of late years, to dispense with Cocker's rigours,

And grow quite figurative with their figures.

XCIX

The poets of arithmetic are they

- Who, though they prove not two and two to be
- Five, as they might do in a modest way,
- Have plainly made it out that four are three,
- Judging by what they take, and what they pay.

The Sinking Fund's unfathomable sea,

That most unliquidating liquid, leaves

The debt unsunk, yet sinks all it receives. 840

- While Adeline dispensed her airs and graces,
  - The fair Fitz-Fulke seem'd very much at ease;
- Though too well bred to quiz men to their faces,
  - Her laughing blue eyes with a glance could seize

The ridicules of people in all places ----

- That honey of your fashionable bees -
- And store it up for mischievous enjoyment;
- And this at present was her kind employment.

CI

However, the day closed, as days must close;

The evening also waned — and coffee came. 850

- Each carriage was announced, and ladies rose,
  - And curtsying off, as curtsies country dame,

Retired  $\cdot$  with most unfashionable bows

Their docile esquires also did the same, Delighted with their dinner and their host, But with the Lady Adeline the most.

CII

- Some praised her beauty; others her great grace;
  - The warmth of her politeness, whose sincerity
- Was obvious in each feature of her face, Whose traits were radiant with the rays
- of verity. 860 Yes; she was truly worthy her high place !
- No one could envy her deserved prosperity.
- And then her dress --- what beautiful simplicity
- Diaperied her form with curious felicity !

CIII

Meanwhile sweet Adeline deserved their praises,

By an impartial indemnification

- For all her past exertion and soft phrases, In a most edifying conversation,
- Which turn'd upon their late guests' miens and faces,

And families, even to the last relation; 870 Their hideous wives, their horrid selves and dresses.

And truculent distortion of their tresses.

CIV

True, she said little — 't was the rest that broke

Forth into universal epigram;

- But then 't was to the purpose what she spoke:
  - Like Addison's 'faint praise,' so wont to damn,

Her own but served to set off every joke, As music chimes in with a melodrame.

How sweet the task to shield an absent friend !

I ask but this of mine, to - not defend. 880

There were but two exceptions to this keen. Skirmish of wits o'er the departed; one

Aurora, with her pure and placid mien, And Juan, too, in general behind none

CV

In gay remark on what he had heard or seen,

Sate silent now, his usual spirits gone: In vain he heard the others rail or rally, He would not join them in a single sally.

CVI

'T is true he saw Aurora look as though She approved his silence; she perhaps mistook 890

Its motive for that charity we owe

- But seldoni pay the absent, nor would look
- Farther it might or might not be so But Juan, sitting silent in his nook,

Observing little in his reverie,

Yet saw this much, which he was glad to see.

CVII

The ghost at least had done him this much good,

In making him as silent as a ghost,

If in the circumstances which ensued

He gain'd esteem where it was worth the most. 900

And certainly Aurora had renew'd

In him some feelings he had lately lost,

Or harden'd; feelings which, perhaps ideal, Are so divine, that I must deem them real:—

CVIII

- The love of higher things and better days; The unbounded hope, and heavenly ignorance
- Of what is call'd the world, and the world's ways;
- The moments when we gather from a glance
- More joy than from all future pride or praise,

Which kindle manhood, but can ne'er entrance 910

The heart in an existence of its own,

Of which another's bosom is the zone.

CIX

Who would not sigh AI aI Tav Kuthpeiav,

That hath a memory. or that had a heart?

- Alas! her star must fade like that of Dian
- Ray fades on ray, as years on years depart.
- Anacreon only had the soul to the an Unwithering myrtle round the unblunted dart
- Of Eros: but though thou hast play'd us many tricks,
- Still we respect thee, 'Alma Venus Genetrix !'

$\mathbf{c}\mathbf{x}$

- And full of sentiments, sublime as billows Heaving between this world and worlds beyond,
- Don Juan, when the midnight hour of pillows

Arrived, retired to his; but to despond

Rather than rest. Instead of poppies, willows

Waved o'er his couch; he meditated, fond

- Of those sweet bitter thoughts which banish sleep,
- And make the worldling sneer, the younghng weep.

CXI

- The night was as before he was undrest, Saving his night-gown, which is an un-
- dress; 930 Completely 'sans culotte,' and without vest; In short, he hardly could be clothed with less.

But apprehensive of his spectral guest,

- He sate with feelings awkward to express
- (By those who have not had such visitations),
- Expectant of the ghost's fresh operations

CXII

- And not in vain he listen'd; Hush ! what's that?
  - I see I see Ah, no ! 't is not yet 't is —
- Ye powers ! it is the the the Pooh ! the cat !
  - The devil may take that stealthy pace of his! 940

So like a spiritual pit-a-pat,

- Or tiptoe of an amatory Miss,
- Gliding the first time to a rendezvous,
- And dreading the chaste echoes of her shoe.

CXIII

Again — what is 't? The wind? No, no — this time

It is the sable friar as before,

- With awful footsteps regular as rhyme,
  - Or (as rhymes may be in these days) much more.
- Again through shadows of the night sublune,
- When deep sleep fell on men, and the world wore 959
- The starry darkness round her like a girdle Spangled with gems — the monk made his blood curdle.

CXIV

- A noise like to wet fingers drawn on glass, Which sets the teeth on edge; and a
  - slight clatter,
- Like showers which on the midnight gusts will pass,

Sounding like very supernatural water,

- Came over Juan's ear, which throbb'd, alas: For immaterialism's a serious matter;
- So that even those whose faith is the most great

In souls immortal, shun them tête-à-tête

CXV

- Were his eyes open? Yes ! and his mouth too.
  - Surprise has this effect to make one dumb,
- Yet leave the gate which eloquence slips through

As wide as if a long speech were to come. Nigh and more nigh the awful echoes drew,

Tremendous to a mortal tympanum:

His eyes were open, and (as was before

CXVI

It open'd with a most infernal creak,

- Like that of hell. 'Lascrate ogni speranza 970
- Voi che entrate!' The hinge seem'd to speak,

Dreadful as Dante's rhima, or this stanza; Or — but all words upon such themes are

- weak: A single shade's sufficient to entrance a
- Hero for what is substance to a spirit?
- Or how is 't matter trembles to come near it?

С	х	v	I	I

- The door flew wide, not swiftly, but, as fly
  - The sea-gulls, with a steady, sober flight, ---
- And then swung back; nor close but stood awry,
  - Half letting in long shadows on the light, 980
- Which still in Juan's candlesticks burn'd high,
- For he had two, both tolerably bright,
- And in the door-way, darkening darkness, stood
- The sable friar in his solemn hood.

CXVIII

- Don Juan shook, as erst he had been shaken The night before; but being sick of shaking,
- He first inclined to think he had been mistaken:
  - And then to be ashamed of such mistaking;
- His own internal ghost began to awaken Within him, and to quell his corporal quaking — 990

Hinting that soul and body on the whole

Were odds against a disembodied soul.

CXIX

- And then his dread grew wrath, and his wrath fierce,
  - And he arose, advanced the shade retreated;

But Juan, eager now the truth to pierce,

- Follow'd, his veins no longer cold, but heated,
- Resolved to thrust the mystery carte and tierce,

At whatsoever risk of being defeated:

- The ghost stopp'd, menaced, then retired, until
- He reach'd the ancient wall, then stood stone still.

CXX

Juan put forth one arm — Eternal powers ' It touch'd no soul, nor body, but the wall,

On which the moonbeams fell in silvery showers,

Chequer'd with all the tracery of the hall;

He shudder'd, as no doubt the bravest cowers When he can't tell what 't is that doth appal. How odd, a single hobgoblin's non-entity Should cause more fear than a whole host's identity.

CXXI

- But still the shade remain'd: the blue eyes glared,
- And rather variably for stony death: 1010 Yet one thing rather good the grave had spared,
  - The ghost had a remarkably sweet breath
- A straggling curl show'd he had been fairhair'd;
- A red lip, with two rows of pearls beneath, Gleam'd forth, as through the casement's
  - ivy shroud
- The moon peep'd, just escaped from a grey cloud.

CXXII

- And Juan, puzzled, but still curious, thrust His other arm forth — Wonder upon wonder !
- It press'd upon a hard but glowing bust, Which beat as if there was a warm heart under.
- He found, as people on most trials must, That he had made at first a silly blunder,

And that in his confusion he had caught Only the wall, instead of what he sought.

CXXIII

- The ghost, if ghost it were, seem'd a sweet soul
  - As ever lurk'd beneath a holy hood:
- A dimpled chin, a neck of ivory, stole
- Forth into something much like fiesh and blood;
- Back fell the sable frock and dreary cowl, And they reveal'd — alas ! that e'er they should !
- In full, voluptuous, but not o'ergrown bulk,
- The phantom of her frolic Grace Fitz-Fulke !

CANTO THE SEVENTEENTH

[First printed in the edition of 1903 from a manuscript in the possession of Lady Dorchester, the daughter of John Cam Hobhouse.]

THE world is full of orphans: firstly, those Who are so in the strict sense of the phrase;

- But many a lonely tree the loftier grows Than others crowded in the Forest's
- The next are such as are not doomed to lose

Their tender parents in their budding days, But, merely, their parental tenderness,

Which leaves them orphans of the heart no less.

- The next are 'only Children,' as they are styled,
  - Who grow up Children only, since th' old saw 10
- Pronounces that an 'only's 'a spoilt child But not to go too far, I hold it law,
- That where their education, harsh or mild, Transgresses the great bounds of love or awe.
- The sufferers be't in heart or intellect -
- Whate'er the cause, are orphans in effect.

III

But to return unto the stricter rule -

- As far as words make rules our common notion
- Of orphan paints at once a parish school, A half-starved babe, a wreck upon Life's ocean, 20
- A human (what the Italians nickname) 'Mule'!
- A theme for Pity or some worse emotion;
- Yet, if examined, it might be admitted
- The wealthiest orphans are to be more pitied.

IV

- Too soon they are Parents to themselves. for what
  - Are Tutors, Guardians, and so forth, compared
- With Nature's genial Genitors ? so that
- A child of Chancery, that Star-Chamber ward
- (I'll take the likeness I can first come at), Is like — a duckling by Dame Partlett rear'd, 30

And frights — especially if 't is a daughter,

Th' old Hen — by running headlong to the water.

v

There is a common-place book argument, Which glibly glides from every tongue;

When any dare a new light to present,

'If you are right, then everybody's wrong'!

Suppose the converse of this precedent So often urged, so loudly and so long;

'If you are wrong, then everybody 's right'!

Was ever everybody yet so quite ? 40

VI

Therefore I would solicit free discussion Upon all points — no matter what, or whose —

Because as Ages upon Ages push on, The last is apt the former to accuse

Of pillowing its head on a pin-cushion,

- Heedless of pricks because it was obtuse: What was a paradox becomes a truth or
- A something like it witness Luther !

VII

- The Sacraments have been reduced to two, And Witches unto none, though somewhat late 50
- Since burning aged women (save a few Not witches only b——ches — who create
- Mischief in families, as some know or knew,
  - Should still be singed, but lightly, let me state)

Has been declared an act of murbanity

Malgié Sir Matthew Hales's great humanity

VIII

- Great Galileo was debarr'd the Sun, Because he fix'd it; and, to stop his talk-
- ing, How Earth could round the solar orbit run,

Found his own legs embargo'd from mere walking: 60

- The man was well-nigh dead, ere men begun
  - To think his skull had not some need of caulking,
- But now, it seems, he 's right his notion just:

No doubt a consolation to his dust.

IX

Pythagoras, Locke, Socrates - but pages

- Might be fill'd up, as vainly as before, With the sad usage of all sorts of sages,
- Who, in his life-time, each, was deem'd a Bore !

- The loftiest minds outrun their tardy ages: This they must bear with and, perhaps, much more; 70
- The wise man's sure when he no more can share it, he
- Will have a firm Post Obit on posterity.

х

If such doom waits each intellectual Giant, We little people in our lesser way,

- In Life's small rubs should surely be more pliant,
- And so for one will I as well I may —
- Would that I were less bilious but, oh, fie on 't !
- Just as I make my mind up every day, To be a 'totus, teres,' Stoic, Sage,
- The wind shifts and I fly into a rage. &

XI

Temperate I am — yet never had a temper;

- Modest I am yet with some slight assurance;
- Changeable too yet somehow 'Idem semper,'
- Patient but not enamour'd of endurance;
- Cheerful but, sometimes, rather apt to whimper;
  - Mild but at times a sort of 'Hercules furens;'
- So that I almost think that the same skin
- For one without has two or three within

XII

Our Hero was, in Canto the Sixteenth,

Left in a tender moonlight situation, 90

- Such as enables Man to show his strength Moral or physical. on this occasion
- Whether his virtue triumph'd or, at length,
- His vice for he was of a kindling nation —
- Is more than I shall venture to describe; ---
- Unless some Beauty with a kiss should bribe.

XIII

- I leave the thing a problem, like all things: ---
  - The morning came and breakfast, tea and toast,
- Of which most men partake, but no one sings.
- The company whose birth, wealth, worth, has cost
- My trembling Lyre already several strings, Assembled with our hostess, and mine host;
- The guests dropp'd in the last but one, Her Grace,
- The latest, Juan, with his virgin face.

XIV

- Which best it is to encounter Ghost, or none,
- 'T were difficult to say; but Juan look'd As if he had combated with more than one,
- Being wan and worn, with eyes that hardly brook'd
- The light that through the Gothic window shone
  - Her Grace, too, had a sort of air rebuked — 110

Seem'd pale and shiver'd, as if she had kept

A vigil, or dreamt rather more than slept.

He

NOTES

NOTES

Page 1. Le Cosmopolite. [By Fougeret de Monbron. Byron elsewhere speaks of the book as a 'great favourite.']

Page 2. Dr Beattre makes the following observation. [In a letter to Blacklock, September 22, 1766.]

Page 2. Sainte-Palaye. [Mémoines sur l'Ancienne Chevalerie, by De la Curne de Sainte-Palaye, Paris, 1781.] Page 2. Roland. [Recherches sur les Préroga-

Page 2. Roland. [Recherches sur les Prérogatives des Dames chez les Gaulois sur les Cours d'Amours, by le President Rolland, Paris, 1787[•]]

d'Amours, by le President Rolland, Paris, 1787] Page 2 No water, but a knight templar. The Rovers, or the Double Arrangement. [By Hockham Frere m the Anti-Jacobin.]

Page 2 A modern Timon. [Byron had already compared himself with the Athenian Misanthrope in his early verses, Childish Recollections ]

lections ] Page 2. A poetical Zeluco. [It was Dr. John Moore's object in his romance entitled Zeluco to trace the fatal effects of a mother's fond compliance with the humors of an only child.]

comphance with the humors of an only child.] Page 2 TO IANTHE [The Lady Charlotte Harley, second daughter of Edward fifth Earl of Oxford, in the autumn of 1812, when these lines were addressed to her, had not completed her eleventh year. Mr. Westall's portrait of the juvenile beauty was painted at Lord Byron's request.]

Page 5, line 117 Thus to the elements he pour'd his last 'Good Night.' [See Lord Maxwell's Good Night, in Scott's Border Minstrelsy .-

' Adieu, madame, my mother dear ']

Line 134. Come hither, hither, my little page ! [This 'little page' was Robert Rushton, the son of one of Lord Byron's tenants. 'I take Robert with me,' says the poet in a letter to his mother, June 22, 1309, 'lilke him, because, like myself, he seems a friendless animal.'— Seeing that the boy was 'sorrowful' at the separation from his parents, Lord Byron, on reaching Gibraltar, sent him back to England ] _Page 6, line 157. Mine own would not be dry.

[Here follows in the original MS. -

My Mother is a high-born dame, And much mishketh me, She saith my riot bringeth shame On all my ancestry I had a sister once I ween, Whose tears perhaps will flow; But her far face I have not seen For three long years and moe.]

Line 158. Come hither, hither, my staunch yeoman. [William Fletcher, the faithful valet, who, after a service of twenty years, received the 'Pilgrim's' last words at Missolonghi.] Line 189. He'd tear me where he stands [Here follows in the original MS.:-

> Methinks it would my boson glad, To change my proud estate, And be again a laughing lad With one beloved playmate Since youth I scarce have pass'd an hour Without disgust or pain, Except sometimes in Lady's bower, Or when the bowl I drain ]

Line 197. My native land — Good Night! [Originally, the 'little page' and the 'yeoman' were introduced in the following stanzas —

And of his train there was a henchman page, A peasant boy, who served his master well, And often would his pranksome prate engage Childe Harold's ear, when his pi oud heart did swell With sable thoughts that he disdam'd to tell Then would he smile on him, and Alwin smiled, When aught that from his young hips archly fell The gloomy film from Harold's eye beguiled, And pleased for a gimpse appear'd the woeful Childe:

Him and one yeoman only did he take To travel eastward to a far countrie, And, though the boy was grieved to leave the lake On whose far banks he grew from infency, Eftseons his little heart beat merrily With hope of foreign nations to behold, And many things right marvellous to see, Of which our vaunting voyagers oft have told, In many a tome as true as Mandeville's of old ]

Page 7, line 255 And rest ye at 'Our Lady's house of woe.' The convent of 'Our Lady of Punshment,' Nossa Señora de Pena, on the summit of the rock. Below, at some distance, is the Cork Convent, where St Honorus dug his den, over which is his epitaph. From the hills, the sea adds to the beauty of the view — Note to First Edution. —Since the publication of this poem, I have been informed of the misapprehension of the term Nossa Señora de Peña. It was owing to the want of the tilde or mark over the n, which alters the signification of the word with it, Peña signifies a rock; without it necessary to alter the passage; as, though the common acception affixed to it is, 'Our Lady of the Rock,' I may well assume the other sense from the seventies practised there. — Note to Second Edution.

Lone 275. There thou too, Vathek! England's weakharst son. [William Beckford (1759-1844), who inherited from his father large estates in the West Indies, resided at Cintra for two years. Vathek, his principal work, Byron says, was one of the tales I had a very early admiration of. For correctness of costume, beauty of description, and power of imagination, it far surpasses all European imitations, and bears such marks of originality, that those who have visited the East will find some difficulty in believing it to be more than a translation. As an neving it to be more that a transition. As an eastern tale, even Rasselas must bow before it; his "happy valley" will not bear a comparison with the 'Hall of Eblis" Page 8, line 285 Behold the hall where chiefs were late convened ! The Convention of Cintra was signed in the palace of the Marchese Marialva. ['The armistice, the negotiations, the convention itself, and the execution of its provisions, were all commenced, conducted, and concluded, at the distance of thirty miles from Cintra, with which place they had not the slightest connection, political, military, or local; yet Loid Byron has gravely asserted, in prose and verse, that the convention was signed at the Marques of Marialva's house at Cintra, and the author of The Diary of an Invalid, improving upon the poet's discovery, detected the stams of the ink spilt by Junot upon the occasion '-Napier's History of the Peninsular War, 1. 1(1. The definitive convention for the evacuation of Portugal by the British army is dated 'Head Quarters, Lisbon, August 30, 1808.' Byron was not a regular student, but his memory was prodigious and he carried with him highly a store of historical and classical allusions To annotate this part of Childe Harold adequately would require large drafts from the history of the Peninsular War.] Line 296. Whereat the Urchin points, and laughs with all his soul. [The passage stood dif-ferently in the original MS The following stanzas were struck out at the suggestion of Byron's friend Dallas. -

In golden characters right well design'd, In goude characters right wen design a, First on the last appeareth one ' Junot,' Then certain other glorious names we find, Which ihyme compelleth me to place below, Dull victors ' baffied by a vanquish'd foe, Wheedled by conyinge tongues of laurels due, Stand, worthy of each other, in a row — Sir Arthur, Harry, and the dizzard Hew alrymple, seely wight, sore dupe of t' other tew.

Convention is the dwarfish demon styled That foil'd the knights in Marialva's dome Of brains (if brains they had) he them beguiled, And turn'd a nation's shallow joy to gloom For well I wot, when first the news did come, That Vimiera's field by Gaul was lost, For paragraph ne paper scarce had room Such Pæans teem'd for our triumphant host In Courses, Chronicle, and eke in Morning Post

But when Convention sent his handy-work, Pens, tongues, feet, hands, combined in wild uproar, Mayor, aldermen, laud down the uplitted fork, The Bench of Bishops half forgot to snore, Stern Cobbett, who for one whole week forbore To question aught, once more with transport leapt, And bit his devilish quill agen, and swore With foe such treaty never should be kept.

Then burst the blatant beast, and roar'd, and raged, and - slept !

Thus unto Heaven appeal'd the people Heaven, Which loves the leges of our gracious King, Decreed, that, ere our generals were forgiven, Inquiry should be held about the thing.

But Mercy cloak'd the babes beneath her wing , And as they spared our foes, so spared we them (Where was the pity of our sires ion Byng °), Yet knaves, not idiots, should the law condemn

Then live, ye gallant Frights ' and bless your judges' phlegm []

Line 334. Where dwelt of yore the Lusians' luckless queen. [Maria Francesca. 'Her luckless Majesty went subsequently mad, and Dr Wil-hs, who so dexterously cudgelled kingly pencraniums, could make nothing of heis.'-Byron MS She died in Brazil in 1810. About ten miles to the right of Cintra,' says Lord Byron in a letter to his niother, 'is the palace of Mafra, the boast of Portugal as it might be of any country, in point of magnificence, without ele-gance There is a convent annexed the monks. who possess large revenues, are courteous enough, and understand Latin; so that we had a long conversation. They have a large library, and asked me if the English had any books in their country '] Page 9, line 389 When Cava's traitor-sire first call'd the band. [In revenge for the violation of hus daughter Cava, or Florinda, by King Rod-erick, Count Juhan, one of the Gothic monarch's heutenants, summoned the Moors to Spain. Pelagio, or Pelayo, whose standard was an oaken cross, resisted most successfully the Moorish invasion of grief ! [This stanza is not in the original MS It was written at Newstead, in August, 1811, shortly after the battle of Albuera, May 16, in which Lord Beresford, with great loss to the English, defeated Soult.]

Page 10, line 430 For on this morn three po-tent Nations meet. [The battle of Talavera.] Page 11, line 459. Oh, Allwera, glorious field

Line 508. No' as he speeds, he chants 'Vivā el Rey '' 'Vivā el Rey Fernando!' Long live King Ferdinand' is the chorus of most of the Spanish patriotic songs. They are chiefly in dispraise of the old king Charles, the Queen, and the Prince of Peace I have heard many of them, some of the airs are beautiful. Don Manual Godoy, the Principe de la Paz, of an ancient but decayed family, was born at Badajoz, on the frontiers of Portugal, and was originally in the ranks of the Spanish guards, till his person attracted the queen's eyes, and raised him to the dukedom of Alcudia, etc., etc. It is to this man that the Spaniards universally is to this man that the Spaniards universally impute the run of their country. Page 12, line 523 Bears in his cap the badge of crimson hue. The red cockade, with 'Fer-nando VII.' in the centre Line 558 Is ut for this the Spanish maid, aroused. The Maid of Saragoza, who by her valour elevated herself to the highest rank of heremose When the author word to be will change heromes. When the author was at Seville, she walked daily on the Prado, decorated with medals and orders, by command of the Junta [The exploits of Augustina, the famous become of both the sieges of Saragoza, are recorded at length in Southey's History of the Peninsular War. At the time when she first attracted notice, by mounting a battery where her lover had fallen, and working a gun in his room, she was in her twenty-second year, exceedingly pretty, and in a soft feminine style of beauty. Line 560. The anlace hath espoused

[Anlace A short two-edged knife or dagger, broad at the hilt, and tapering to the point, formerly worn at the girdle. — New Eng. Dict.] Page 13, line 594. The seal Love's dimpling finger hath impress'd. 'Sigilla in mento im-pressa Amoris digitulo Vestigio demonstrant mollitudinem.' — AUL. GEL.

Line 603. Match me, ye climes which poets love to laud. This stanza was written in Turkey. [The scene of the poem shifts abruptly for a few stanzas from Spain to Greece.]

Line 612. Oh, thou Parnassus whom I now survey! These stanzas were written in Castri (Del-phi), at the foot of Parnassus. ['Upon Parnassus, going to the fountain of Delphi (Castri), in 1809, I saw a flight of twelve eagles (Hobhouse says they were vultures - at least in conversation), and I seized the omen. On the day before, I composed the lines to Parnassus (m Childe Harold), and on beholding the birds, had a hope that Apollo had accepted my homage. I have at least had the name and fame of a poet, during the poetical period of life (from twenty to thirty); — whether it will last is another matter but I have been a votary of the deity and the place, and am grateful for what he has done in my behalf, leaving the fu-ture in his hands, as I left the past.' - B. Diary, 1821 ]

Page 14, line 679. Tread on each other's kibes. [However loose he may be in construction, Byron is generally accurate in his use of words. But inseveral places he employs kibes (i e. chil-blains) for heels, being apparently misled by the passage in Hamlet (V. i. 150). In stanza kxx. he uses the expression the seventh day, really the Jewish Sabbath, for the Christian Sunday ]

Page 15, line 706. Ask ye, Baotian shades. This was written at Thebes, and consequently in the best situation for asking and answering such a question Line 707. 'T is to the worship of the solemn Horn. [Lord Byron alludes to a ridiculous custom which formerly prevailed at the publichouses in Highgate, of administering a burlesque oath to all travelers of the middling rank who stopped there. The party was sworn on a pair of horns, fastened, 'never to kiss the maid when he could the mistress; never to eat brown bread when he could get white; never to drink small beer when he could get strong,' with many other injunctions of the like kind, - to all which was added the saving clause, less you like it best.']

Page 16, line 760. With well-timed croupe. The croupe [croupade] is a particular leap taught in the manège

Page 17, line 817. Full from the fount of Joy's delicious springs

[Meclo de fonte leporum

Surgit amari aliquid qued ... veis floribus angat LUCRETIUS, IV. 1133 ]

Page 17. To INEZ. [This song was written at Athens, January 25, 1810. In the original draught of the Canto the following stanzas stood in its place

Oh never talk again to me

- Of northern climes and British ladies ; It has not been your lot to see, Like me, the lovely girl of Cadiz.
- Although her eye be not of blue
- Nor fair her locks, like English lasses, How far its own expressive hue The languid azure eye surpasses !

- Prometheus-like, from heaven she stole The fire, that through those silken lashes In dankest glances seems to roll,
- From eyes that cannot hide their flashes And as along her bosom steal
- In lengthen'd flow her raven tresses You 'd swear each clustering lock could feel,
- And curl'd to give her neck caresses

Our English maids are long to woo, And frigid even in possession .

- And if their charms be fair to view. Their hps are slow at love's confession ;
- But, born beneath a brighter sun, For love ordain'd the Spanish maid is,

And who — when fondly, fairly won — Enchants you like the girl of Cadiz?

The Spanish maid is no coquette Nor joys to see a lover tremble, And if she love, or if she hate,

Alike she knows not to dissemble

- Her heart can ne'er be bought or sold -
- Howe'er it beats, it beats sincerely, And, though it will not bend to gold,
- 'T will love you long and love you dearly. The Spanish girl that meets your love
- Ne'er taunts you with a mock denial, For every thought is bent to prove
- Her passion in the hour of trial

When thronging foemen menace Spain, She dares the deed and shares the danger , And should her lover press the plain,

She hurls the spear, her love's avenger

And when, beneath the evening star,

She mingles in the gay bolero, Or sings to her attuned guitar Of Christian knight or Moorish hero,

Or counts her beads with fairy hand Beneath the twinking rays of Hesper, Or joins Devotion's choral band,

To chaunt the sweet and hallow'd vesper . -

In each her charms the heart must move Of all who venture to behold her,

Then let not maids less fair reprove Because her bosom is not colder

Through many a clime 't is mine to roam Where many a soft and melting maid is,

But none abroad, and few at home

May match the dark-eyed girl of Cadiz ]

Page 18, line 879. A trattor only fell beneath the feud. Alluding to the conduct and death of Solano, the governor of Cadiz, in May, 1809. [He was ignominiously killed by the populace in 1808, for favoring Godoy and the French.] Line 890 War, war is still the cry, 'War even to the knife!' 'War to the knife.' Palar fox's answer to the French general at the siege of Saragoza.

Line 899. So may such foes deserve the most re-morseless deed ! [The Canto in the original MS. closes with the following stanzas

Ye, who would more of Spain and Spannards know, Sights, Saints, Antiques, Arts, Anecdotes, and War, Go' he ye hence to Paternoster Row— Are they not written in the Book of Carr, Green Eim's Knight, and Europe's wandering star ' Then listen, Readers, to the Man of Ink, Hear what he did, and sought, and wrote afar, All these are coon'd within one Church's burght All these are coop'd within one Quarto's brink, This boriow, steal, - don't buy, - and tell us what you think

There may you read, with spectacles on eyes, How many Wellesleys did embark for Spain, As if therein they meant to colonize, How many troops y-cross'd the laughing main That ne'er beheld the said ieturn again How many buildings are in such a place How many leagues from this to yonder plain, How many relics each cathedral grace, And where Giralda stands on her gigantic base.

There may you read (Oh, Phœbus, save Sır John ! That these my words prophetic may not eir), All the uses and, or sung, or lost, or won, By wanting Wellesley or by blundering Free, He that wrote half the Needy Knife-Gruder Thus poesy the way to grandeur paves ____ Who would not such diplomatists prefer? But cease, my Muse, thy speed some respite craves; Leave Legates to their house, and armies to their graves.

Yet here of Vulpes mention may be made, Who for the Junta modell'd supert laws, Taught the the to govern ers they were obey'd: Certes, fit teacher to command, because His soul Socratic no Xantippe awes, Blest with a dame in Virtue's bosom nurst, —

On such unshaken fame let Sature do its worst ]

Page 19, line 927. And thou, my friend, since unavailing woe. The Honourable John Wingfield of the Guards, who died of a fever at Coimbra. I had known him ten years, the better half of his life, and the happiest part of mine. In the short space of one month I have lost her who gave me being, and most of those who had made that being tolerable. To me the lines of Young are no fiction

'Insatiate archer ! could not one suffice ?

Thy shaft flew thrice, and thrice my peace was slain, And thrice ere thrice yon moon had fill'd her horn '

[This and the following stanzas were added in Angust, 1811.

Line 4. And is, despite of war and wasting fire. Part of the Acropolis was destroyed by the explosion of a magazine during the Venetian siege. [The desolation of the Athenian Acropolis affected Byron strongly, and he refers to it several times. Compare The Curse of Minerva ]

Line 19, Son of the morning, rise' approach you here! [Rolfe, in his note on this line, quotes as follows from Tozer. 'The poet supposes humself to be standing amid the ruins of the temple of Zeus Olympius by the Ilissus (10. 3) with the Acropolis full in view, in front of him lies a broken sepulchral urn, and not far off is a skull from some neighbouring burial-ground (5.7), then, as he is proceeding to moralise on human vicissitude, he summons as audience a native (Son of the morning, 1 e an Oriental), who is supposed to be standing near. For a similar instance in Byron of summoning an audience, cf. The Graour . -

"Approach, thou craven crouching slave Say, is not this Thermopyle ?" ']

Page 20, line 72. The Bactrian, Samian sage, and all who taught the right! [Zoroaster and Pythagoras - In the original MS., for this stanza, we find what follows

Frown not upon me, churlish Priest ' that I Look not for life, where life may never be, I am no smearer at thy phantasy, Thou pitiest me, — alas ' I envy thee, Thou bold discoverer in an unknown sea Of happy isles and happier tenants there, I ask thee not to prove a Sadducee . Still dream of Paradise thou know'st not where.

But lov'st too well to bid thine erring brother share ]

Line 81. For me't were bliss enough to know thy spirit blest / [In a letter to Dallas, dated Octo-ber 14, 1811, Byron says ' I think it proper to state to you, that this stanza alludes to an event which has taken place since my arrival liere (Newstead Abbey), and not to the death of any male triend.']

Page 21, line 84. Here, son of Saturn, was thy favirute throne. The temple of Jupiter Olymplus, of which sixteen columns, entirely of puns, of which sixteen columns, entirely of marble, yet survive. Line 91 But who, of all the plunderers of yon fane. [Byron refers to the marbles of the Par-thenon taken to England by Lord Elgun, a Scotchman. Compare The Curse of Minerva.] Line 117 Which envious Eld forbore, and ty-rants left to stand [After stanza xnn, the ori-ginal MS has the following '-

Come, then, ye classic Thanes of each degree, Dark Hamilton and sullen Aberdeen, Come pilfer all the Pilgrim loves to see All that yet consecrates the fading scene Oh ' better were it ye had never been, Nor ye, nor Elgm, not that lesser wight, The victim sad of vase-collecting spleen, House-furnisher withal, one Thomas hight

Than ye should bear one stone from wrong'd Athena's site

Or will the gentle Dilettanti crew Now delegate the task to digging Gell. That mighty limner of a birds'-eye view, How like to Nature let his volumes tell, Who can with him the folio's limits swell With all the Author saw, or said he saw 2 Who can topographise or delve so well? No boaster he, nor impudent and raw.

His pencil, pen, and shade, alike without a flaw ]

Line 118. Where was thine Ægis, Pallas, they appall'd According to Zosimus, Minerva and Achilles frightened Alaric from the Acropolis;

but others relate that the Gothic king was nearly as mischievous as the Scottish peer

Page 22, hne 145. The dark blue sea [These words occur a number of times in Byron and have the effect of an Homeric epithet ]

Line 155. The well-reeved guns, the netted canopy To prevent blocks or splinters from falling on deck during action.

Line 190. Through Calpe's straits survey the steepy shore. [Calpe, the Greek name of Gibraltar.]

Page 23, line 253. But not in silence pass Calypso's isles. Goza is said to have been the island of Calypso. [Goza is near Malta. The real island, Ogygia, of the Odyssey, is of course mythical. In the T(lémaque of Fénelon, Mentor and Telemachus visit the island, and Mentor pushes the youth from a cliff into the sea to save him from the seductive charms of Calypso, who was thus bereft of both Odysseus and his son.]

Page 24, line 266 Sweet Florence, could another ever share. [Mrs. Spencer Smith, whose acquaintance the poet formed at Malta, — see Miscellaneous Poems, September, 1809, To Florence, p. 157. 'In one so imaginative as Lord Byron, who, while he infused so much of his life into his poetry, mingled also not a little of poetry with his life, it is difficult,' says Moore, 'in unravelling the texture of his feelings, to distinguish at all times between the fanciful and the real. His description here, for instance, of the unmoved and "loveless heart," with which he contemplated even the charms of this attractive person, is wholly at variance with the statements in many of his letters, and, above all, with one of the most graceful of his lesser poems, addressed to this same lady, during a thunder-storm on his road to Zitza ']

Line 291. Was not unskilful in the spoiler's art. It is common to quote in extenuation of this line Byron's statement to Dallas in 1821 · 'I am not a Joseph, nor a Scipio, but I can safely affirm, that I never in my life seduced any woman."

Line 307. 'T is an old lesson; Time approves it true. [It is interesting to compare with this stanza Shakespeare's Sonnet 129, 'The expense of spirit in a waste of shame '] Page 25, line 334. Land of Albania, where Iskander rose. [Iskander is the Turkish word for Alexander; and the celebrated Scanderbeg (Lord Alexander) is alluded to in the third and fourth lines of the stanza Line 344. Where sad Penelope o'erlook'd the wave Ithaca. [The lover's refuge is the rock of Leucadia from which Sappho is fabled to have thrown herself. Sappho is called dark in accordance with the description of Ovid, Candida si non sum (Her. xv. 35)] Page 26, line 397. Ambracia's gulf behold. [Here was fought the battle of Actium where Mark Antony lost the world to follow Cleopatra. Nicopolis was built by Augustus opposite to Actium as a trophy of the victory ]

Line 415. Acherusia's lake. According to Ponqueville, the lake of Yanina. but Ponque-ville is always out. [The lake of Yanina, or

Janina, is not the Acherusian lake. - The primal city is Yanina. - Albania's chief is Ali Pacha.]

Line 424. Monastic Zitza. The convent and village of Zitza are four hours' journey trom Joannina, or Yanma, the capital of the Pachalick. In the valley the river Kalamas (once the Acheron) flows, and, not far from Zitza, forms a fine cataract. The situation 18 perhaps the finest in Greece.

Page 27, line 438. Here dwells the caloyer. The Greek monks are so called. [καλόγερος, good old man ]

Line 488. Laos wide and fierce [A mistake for Aous, the modern V1088 ]

Page 28, line 498, Survey'd the dwelling of this chief of power. ['He (All Pacha) had heard that an Englishman of rank was in his domin-ions, and left orders in Yanina, with the com-mandant, to provide a house, and supply me with every kind of necessary, gratis. . . . I rode out on the vizier's horses, and saw the palaces of humself and grandsons. . . I shall never forget the singular scene on entering Tepaleen, at five in the afternoon, as the sun was going down. It brought to my mind (with some change of dress, however) Scott's description of Branksome Castle in his Lay, and the feudal system. The Albanians in their dresses (the most magnificent in the world, consisting of a long white kilt, gold-worked cloak, crimson velvet gold-laced jacket and waistcoat, silver-mounted pistols and daggers); the Tartars, with their high caps; the Turks in their vast pelisses and turbans; the soldiers and black slaves with the horses, the former in groups, in an immense large open gallery in front of the palace, the latter placed in a kind of cloister below it ; two hundred steeds ready caparisoned to move in a moment; couriers entering or passing out with despatches; the kettle-drums beating; boys calling the hour from the minaret of the mosque; altogether, with the singular appearance of the building itself, formed a new and delightful spectacle to a stranger.' — Byron in a letter to his mother, November 12, 1800 ] Line 532. Ramazani's fast. [The Turkish lent.

Compare FitzGerald'sstanza in the Rubawat :-

As under cover of departing Day Slunk hunger-stricken Ramazan away ']

Page 29, line 593. And fellow-countrymen have stood aloof. Alluding to the wreckers of Cornwall.

Page 30, line 632. The red wine circling fast. The Albanian Mussulmans do not abstain from wine, and, indeed, very few of the others. Line 637. Each Palikar. 'Palikar,' a soldier.

Line 649. Tambourgi A drummer. - These stanzas are partly taken from different Albanese songs, as far as I was able to make them out by the exposition of the Albanese in Romaic and Italian.

Page 31, line 686 Let the yellow-hair'd Giaours. Yellow is the epithet given to the Russians. Horsetail, the insignia of a Pacha. - Delhis. horsemen, answering to our forlorn hope. - Selictar, sword-bearer.

Line 702. Spirit of freedom ! when on Phyle's brow Phyle, which commands a beautiful view of Athens, has still considerable remains, it was seized by Thrasybulus, previous to the expulsion of the Thirty.

Line 729 The city won for Allah from the Giaour. [Constantinople. It was taken by the Franks in the crusade of 1204 — Wahab (d 1787) introduced a stricter observance of the faith, his followers captured Mecca and Medina.]

Page 33, line 810. Save where some solitary column mourns. Of Mount Pentelicus, from whence the marble was dug that constructed the public edifices of Athens. The modern name is Mount Mendeli. An immense cave formed by the quarries still remains, and will, till the end of time. Line 812. Save where Trutoma's airy shrine.

Line 812. Save where Tritonia's airy shrine. [The temple of Athena on Cape Sumum, or Colonna.]

Line 843. When Marathon became a magic word. 'Siste Viator – heroa calcas'' was the epitaph on the famous Count Merci; – what then must be our feelings when standing on the tumulus of the two hundred (Greeks) who fell on Marathon? The principal barrow has recently been opened by Fauvel; few or no relics, as vases, etc., were found by the excavator The plain of Marathon was offered to me for sale at the sum of sixteen thousand plastres, about nne hundred pounds! Alas! – 'Expende, – quot libras in duce summo – invenies!' – was the dust of Miltiades worth no more? It could scarcely have fetched less if sold by weight.

Fage 34, line 872. Or gazing o'er the plains where Greek and Persian died. [The original MS. closes with this stanza. The rest was added while the cento was passing through the press.]

while the canto was passing through the press.] Line 891. Thou too art gone. [See note to stanza ix. page 20.]

Page 38, line 155. In 'pride of place' here last the eagle flew. 'Pride of place' is a term of falconry, and means the highest pitch of flight. See Macbeth: --

'An eagle towering in his pride of p'ace '

[Byron quotes from memory, and, as often, not quite correctly.]

Line 180. Such as Harmodius drew on Athens' lyrant lord. [Harmodius and Aristogiton delivered Athens from the tyranny of Hippias and Hipparchus, the sons of Pisistratus. A famous skolion, or banquet-song, celebrated the slaying of Hipparchus. The first stanza is thus translated by Denman.—

> 'I'll wreathe my sword in myrtle bough, The sword that laid the tyrant low, When patriots, burning to be free, To Athens gave equality ']

Line 181. There was a sound of revely by night. 'The Duchess of Richmond's ball, June 15, 1815, the evening before Waterloo. The superb use of contrast in these stanzas can only be parallelled in the corresponding scene of Vanity Fair.

Line 200. Brunswick's fated chieftain. [The father of the Duke of Brunswick, who fell at Quatre-Bras, received his death-wound at Jena]

Page 39, Ime 234. And Evan's, Donald's fame rings in each clansman's fars? Sir Evan Cameron, and his descendant Donald, the gentle Lochiel' [of Campbell's ballad] of the 'fortyfive'

Line 235. And Ardennes vaues above them her green leaves. The wood of Sorgnes is supposed to be a iemnant of the 'torest of Ardennes,' famous in Boiardo's Orlando, and immortal in Shakspeare's As you like it. It is also celebrated in Tacitus as being the spot of successful defence by the Germans against the Roman encroachments. I have ventured to adopt the name connected with nobler associations than those of mere slaughter.

Line 261. Young, gallant Howard [Byron had written against his father, the Earl of Carhisle, in English Bards]

Page 40, line 270 I turn'd from all she brought My guide from Mont St. Jean over the field, seemed intelligent and accurate. The place where Major Howard fell was not far from two tall and solitary trees (there was a third cut down, or shivered in the battle) which stand a few yards from each other at a pathway's side. Beneath these he died and was buried. The body has since been removed to England. A small holl, w for the present marks where it lay, but will probably soon be effaced ; the plough has been upon it, and the grain is Line 303 Like to the apples on the Dead Sea's the Line 303 Like to the apples on the Dead Sea's shore The (fabled) apples on the brink of the lake Asphaltes were said to be fair without, and within ashes. — Vide Tactus, Histor, v. 7.

Take Aspnartes were said to be rar within at aspnartes were said to be rar within ashes. — Vide Tactus, Histor, v. 7. Page 41, lune 369. For sceptred cymcs earth were far too wide a den. The great error of Napoleon, 'if we have writ our annals true,' was a continued obtrusion on mankind of his want of all community of feeling for or with them; perhaps more offensive to human vanity than the active cruelty of more trembling and suspicious tyranny. Such were his speeches to public assemblies as well as individuals; and the single expression which he is said to have used on returning to Paris after the Russian winter had destroyed his army, rubbing his hands over a fire, 'This is pleasanter than Moscow,' would probably alienate more favour from his cause than the destruction and reverses which led to the remark.

Page 42, Ine 429. What want these outlaws conquerors should have.

'What wants that knave That a king should have?'

was King James's question on meeting Johnny Armstrong and his followers in full accoutrements. [See English and Scottish Popular Ballads, Cambridge Ed. p. 417.]

lads, Cambridge Ed. p. 417.] Page 43, line 496. The castled crag of Drackenfels. [These verses were written on the banks of the Rhine in May. 1816. They are addressed to his half-sister.]

Page 44, line 537. There is a small and simple pyramid. The monument of the young and lamented General Marceau (killed by a rifle-ball at Alterkirchen on the last day of the fourth year of the French republic) still remains as described. The inscriptions on his monument are rather too long, and not required , his name was enough; France adored, and her enemies ad-mired; both wept over hm. His funeral was attended by the generals and detachments from both armies. In the same grave General Hoche is interred.

Page 45, line 601. Morat ! the proud, the patriot field ! [Here in 1476 the Swiss defeated the Duke of Burgundy with great slaughter. Byron found there a small pyramid of bones only, the mortuary chapel, which had contained them, having been destroyed in 1798.]

Line 625. Levell'd_Aventicum. Aventicum, near Morat, was the Roman capital of Helvetia, where Avenches now stands. [A solitary Co-rinthian column, the remnant of a temple of Apollo, stands near the town.] Line 627. Julia, the daughter, the devoted. Julia Alpinula, a young Aventian priestess, died soon after a vain endeavour to save her father, condemned to death as a traitor by Aulus Cacina. Her epitaph was discovered many years ago; — it is thus. 'Julia Alpinula: Hie jaceo. Infelieis patris infelix proles. Deæ Aventae Sacerdos. Exorare patris necem non potui Male mori in fatis ille erat. Vixi annos XXIII.' I know of no human composition so affecting as this, nor a history of deeper interest. These are the names and actions which ought not to perish, and to which we turn with a true and healthy tenderness, from the wretched and glittering detail of a confused mass of conquests and battles, with which the mind is roused for a time to a false and feverish sympathy, from whence it recurs at length with all the nausea consequent on such intoxication. [It must be added that the inscription 1s really a forgery of a certain Paulus Guilelmus of the sixteenth century.] Line 642. Like yonder Alpine snow. This is written in the eye of Mont Blanc (June 3, 1816), the distinct reflection of Mont Blanc and Mont Argentière in the calm of the lake, while I was crossing in my boat; the distance of these mountains from their mirror is sixty miles.

Page 46, line 673. By the blue rushing of the arrowy thone. The colour of the Rhone at Ge-neva is blue, to a depth of tint which I have never seen equalled in water, salt or fresh, except in the Mediterranean and Archipelago

Lines 633, 694 Remount at last with a fresh pinion. [Compare the similar metaphor in Plato's Phædrus; also Horace, Od. iii. 2, 24 and

n. 20, 9.] Page 47, line 725. Here the self-torturing so-phist, wild Rousseau. ['I have traversed all Roussean's ground with the Héloise before me, and am struck to a degree, with the force and accuracy of his descriptions, and the beauty of their reality. Meillerie, Clarens, and Vevay. and the Château de Chillon, are places of which I shall say little, because all I could say must fall short of the impressions they stamp.' — B. Letter to Murray, June 27, 1816. This whole passage is a masterpiece of psychological criticism.]

Line 743. This breathed itself to life in Julie. The heroine of Rousseau's Héloise.

Line 745. The memorable kiss. This refers to the account in his Confessions of his passion for the Comtesse d'Houdetot (the mistress of St. Lambert), and his long walk every morning, for the sake of the single kiss which was the common salutation of French acquaintance. Page 49, line 860. The sky is changed ! — and such a change ! The thunder-storm to which these lines refer occurred on the 13th of June, 1816, at midnight. I have seen, among the Acroceraunian mountains of Chimari, several

Interest and the international and the inter

Love' It would be difficult to see Clarens (with the scenes around it, Vevay, Chillon, Boveret, St. Gingo, Meillerie, Eivan, and the entrances of the Rhone), without being forcibly struck with its peculiar adaptation to the persons and events with which it has been peopled. But this is not all. the feeling with which all around Clarens, and the opposite rocks of Meillerie, is invested, is of a still higher and more comprehensive order than the mere sympathy with individual passion; it is a sense of the existence of love in its most extended and sublime capacity, and of our own participation of its good and of its glory . it is the great principle of the universe, which is there more condensed, but not less manifested; and of which, though knowing ourselves a part, we lose our individuality, and mingle in the beauty of the whole. If Rousseau had never written, nor lived, the same associations would not less have belonged to such scenes. He has added to the interest of his works by their adoption , he has shown his sense of their beauty by the selection; but they have done that for him which no human being could do for them. [Byron's note quotes at length from Rousseau, Heloise, Part iv. Lettre 17, and

Les Confessions, iv p 306 ] Page 51, line 959 He who hath loved not, here would learn that lore. [Compare the refram of the Pervigilium Veneris . Cras amet qui nun-

quam amavit, quique amavit cras amet qui nun-Line 978 Of names which unto you bequeath  $\vec{a}$ a name. Voltaire and Gibbon Deno line 100 June 201 a name. Voltaire and Gibbon Page 52, line 1057. Had I not filed my mind. [Defiled. Compare Macbeth, III. 1 64] Page 53, line 1064. O'er others' griefs that some sincerely grieve. It is said by Rochefoucault, that there is always something in the misfortunes of men's best friends not displeasing to them.

2008

Page 55, line 1. I stood in Venice on the Bridge of Sighs. The communication between the ducal palace and the pusons of Venice is by a gloomy bridge, or covered gallery, high above the water. Line 10. She looks a sea Cybele. [Byron notes that the metaphor is drawn from Sabellicus. Cybele (properly accented on the first syllable) was regularly pictured with a tiara of towers ]

Line 19 In Venice Tasso's echoes are no more. The well-known song of the gondoliers, of al-ternate stanzas from Tasso's Jerusalem, has died with the independence of Venice. Editions of the poem, with the original on one column, and the Venetian variations on the other, as sung by the boatmen, were once common, and are still to be found.

Page 56, line 57. Are now but so. [Are now but dreams ] Lane 86. Sparta hath many a worthier son than he.' The answer of the mother of Biasidas, the Lacedæmonian general, to the strangers who praised the memory of her son.

Line 93. The Bucentaur lies rotting unrestored. [The famous galley from which the Doge every Year dropped a rung into the sea, with the words. 'We wed thee with this ing in token of our true and perpetual sovereignity.' The Bucen-taur was finally burned by the French in 1797.] Line 95 St. Mark yet sees his lion. [The winged Lion of St. Mark stands on a column orayboking the Pizzo di San Marco. Here in overlooking the Plazzo di San Marco. Here m 1177 the Suabian Emperor Babarossa submitted to Pope Alexander III.]

Page 57, line 106. Like lauwine. [German for avalanche ]

Line 107. Oh, for one hour of blind old Danaolo. The reader will recollect the exclamation of the highlander, Oh for one hour of Dundee! Henry Dandolo, when elected Doge, in 1192, was eighty-five years of age. When he commanded the Venetians at the taking of Constantinople, he was consequently ninety-seven years old. At this age he annexed the fourth and a half of the whole empire of Romania, for so the Roman empire was then called, to the title and to the territories of the Venetian Doge.

Line 111. But is not Doria's menace come to pass? [After the loss of the battle of Pola, and bass / [Arter the loss of the outle of the Venetians sued for peace and received this reply from Peter Doria, the Genoese commander. 'On God's faith, gentlemen of Venice, ye shall have no peace from the Signor of Padua, nor from our commune of Genoa, until we have first put a rein upon those unbridled horses of yours, that are upon the porch of your evangelist St. Mark. When we have bridled them, we shall keep you quiet.']

Line 120. The 'Planter of the Lion.' That is, the Lion of St. Mark, the standard of the republic, which is the origin of the word Pan-taloon — Piantaleone, Pantaleon, Pantaloon. [This etymology is of course purely fantastic.]

Line 138. Redemption rose up in the Attic Muse. The story is told in Plutarch's Life of Nicias. [Some of the prisoners, it is stated, won the good will of their masters by reciting Eu ripides to them ]

Page 58, Inte 158. And Otway, Radcluffe, Schiller, Shakspeare's art. [Byron names in a note] Venice Preserved; Mysteries of Udolpho; The Ghost Seer, or Armenian; The Merchant of Venice; Othello.

Line 172. Will the tannen grow. [German for firs.]

Page 59, line 243. An island of the blest! The above description may seem fantastical or exaggerated to those who have never seen an Oriental or Italian sky, yet is but a literal and hardly sufficient delineation of an August evening (the eighteenth), as contemplated in one of many rides along the banks of the Brenta, near La Mira.

Line 262. There is a tomb in Arqua. [Petrarch spent the last years of his life in the village of Arqua, and was buried there.]

Page 60, line 298. Or, it may be, with demons. The struggle is to the full as likely to be with demons as with our better thoughts. Satan chose the wilderness for the temptation of our Saviour And our unsullied John Locke preferred the presence of a child to complete solitude.

Line 307. Ferrara. [The seat of the house of Este. It is a common tradition that Tasso was impuisoned as a madman by Alfonso II because of the poet's unfortunate love for the duke's sister. — Tasso's works were severely criticised by the Florentine Accademia della Crusca, and by Boileau. Byron quotes, in a note, and com-ments on a couplet of Boileau's. -

A Malheibe, à Racan, préfère Théophile, Et le chnquant du Tasse a tout l'or de Virgile ]

Page 61, line 354. The Bards of Hell and Chivalry. [Dante and Ariosto. - The last line of the stanza is from the opening line of the Orlando]

Line 361. The lightning rent from Ariosto's bust. Before the remains of Allosto were removed from the Benedictine church to the library of Ferrara, his bust, which surmounted the tomb, was struck by lightning, and a crown of iron laurels melted away. [The laurel was deemed safe from lightning by the ancients.] Line 387. Victor or vanquish'd, thou the slace of friend or foe. The two stanzas xlin. and xlin. are, with the exception of a line or two, a translation of the famous sonnet of Filicaja -

Italia, Italia, O tu cui feo la sorte !

Line 388. Wandering in youth, I traced the The celebrated letter of Servins path of him. The celebrated letter of Servius Sulpicius to Cicero on the death of his daughter describes as it then was, and now is, a path which I often traced in Greece, both by sea and land, in different journeys and voyages. On my return from Asia. as I was sailing from Ægina towards Megara, I began to contemplate the prospect of the countries around me: Ægina was behind, Megara before me; Piræus on the right, Corinth on the left; all which towns, once famous and flourishing, now lie overturned and buried in their ruins. Upon this sight, I could not but think presently within myself, Alas! how do we poor mortals fret and vex ourselves if any of our friends happen to die or to be killed, whose hfe is yet so short, when the carcasses of so many noble cuties he here exposed before me in one view.'

-See Middleton's Cicero, n 371. Page 62, hue 413. The skeleton of her Titanic form. It is Poggio who, looking from the Capitoline hill upon ruined Rome, breaks forth into the exclamation, 'Ut nunc omni decore nudata, prostrata jacet, instar gigantei cadaveris corrupti atque undique exesi.' Line 4.33. There, too, the Goddess loves in stone. [The Venus de' Medici] Line 454. Thy own vanquish'd Lord of War.

[The scene is an imitation of Lucretrus, 1.33 ss] Page 63, line 505. Dante sleeps afar. [Dante was buried in Ravenna.] The elder Scipio Africanus had a tomb if he was not buried at Liternum, whither he had retired to voluntary banishment

Lines 510, 511 The crown Which Petrarch's laureat brow supremely wore [He was crowned with the laurel-wreath at Rome in 1341. His grave was iifled in 1630.]

Lines 514, 515. Boccaccio to his parent earth bequeath'd His dust Boccaccio was buried in the church of St Michael and St James, at Certaldo, a small town in the Valdelsa, which was by some supposed the place of his birth. There he passed the latter part of his hife m a course of laborious study, which shortened his existence, and there might his ashes have been secure, if not of honour, at least of repose But the 'hyæna bigots' of Certaldo tore up the tombstone of Boccaccio, and ejected it from the holy precincts of St Michael and St. James. Page 64, lue 525. Cæsar's pageant, shorn of Brutus' bust. [The busts of Brutus and Cassius were not carried in the funeral procession of Junia, who was the sister of the former and wife of the latter. 'They were conspicuous by their absence '- TACITUS, Ann. m. 76.]

Line 551. Thrasmene's lake. [Lake Trasi-menus. Here in 217 B. o the Romans were overwhelmed by Hannibal. The incident of the earthquake is recorded by Livy ]

Page 65, lnc 586, But thou, Clitumnus. [A river of Umbria springing from a rock, where stands a temple to the god Clitumnus.]

Line 590 The milk-white steer. [Compare Virgil, Geor. 11. 146 Hine albi, Chtumne, greges.]

Page 66, line 653. The thundering louwine. In the greater part of Switzerland, the avalanches are known by the name of lauwine. Line 665 The lone Soracte's height. [A mountain visible from the city of Rome. Hor-ace (Od. i. 9) speaks of it as standing white with deep snow

Lune 707. The Scipios' tomb contains no ashes now. [The tomb of the Scipios was discovered and rifled in 1780.]

Page 67, line 731 The trebly hundred triumphs! Orosius gives 320 for the number of triumphs.

He is followed by Panvinius; and Panvinius by Mr. Gibbon and the modern writers

Line 740. Triumphant Sylla! [In 86 B C Cinna and Marius, his enemies, were appointed Consuls, but Sulla brought his eastern cam-paign to a close before returning to Rome. In 79 B C he resigned the dictatorship]

Line 764. His day of double victory and death. On the third of September, Cromwell gained the victory of Dunbar, a year afterwards he obtained 'his crowning mercy' of Worcester, and a tew years after, on the same day, which he had ever esteemed the most fortunate for hım, dıed.

Page 68, hne 784 The thunder stricken nurse of Rome! [The bronze statue of the wolf which nursed Romulus and Remus was according to Cicero struck by lightning The present statue is of doubtful origin.]

Line 809. Alcides with the distaff. [Hercules, who spun wool for Omphale while serving her as a slave.] Page 69, line 883. There is a stern round tower of other days Alluding to the tomb of Ceculia Metella, called Capo di Bove, in the Appian Way [The tomb was built in honor of the daughter of Metellus Creticus (not Ceculia Metella), and daughter-in-law of Crassus, the richest of the Romans. In the Middle Ages the tomb was used as a fortress Page 71, line 990. To crush the imperial urn. The column of Trajan is surmounted by St.

Peter, that of Aurelius by St Paul. Page 72, hne 1036. The mosses of thy fountain still are sprinkled [The grotto where tradition locates the secret meetings of Numa and Egeria. is on the Appian Way not far from Rome The

runed shrine is in reality of rather a late period.] Page 74, line 1181 Left the unbalanced scale

[Grammar requires left'st ] Page 75, line 1224. Deal round to happy fools its speechless obloguy. [Between stanzas cxxxv. and cxxxvi. we find in the original MS. the following .

If to forgive be heaping coals of fire — As God hath spoken — on the heads of foes,

Mine should be a volcano, and rise higher Than, o'er the Titans crush'd, Olympus rose,

True, they who stung were creeping things , but what Than serpents' teeth inflicts with deadlier throes ?

The Lion may be goaded by the Gnat — Who sucks the slumberer's blood ?— The Eagle ?— No the Bat ]

Page 76, line 1252. I see before me the Gladiator lie. [The well-known statue, now taken to be a dying Gaul ]

Line 1293. Like laurels on the bald first Cæsar's head Suetonius informs us that Juhus Cæsar was particularly gratified by that decree of the senate which enabled him to wear a wreath of laurel on all occasions. He was anxious, not to show that he was the conqueror of the world, but to hide that he was bald. A stranger at Rome would hardly have guessed at the motive, nor should we without the help of the historian.

Line 1297. While stands the Coliseum, Rome shall stand. This is quoted in the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, as a proof that the Coliseum was entire when seen by the Anglo-Saxon pilgrims at the end of the seventh, or the beginning of the eighth century Page 77, line 1324. There is a dungeon. This and the three next stanzas allude to the story of the Roman daughter, which is recalled to the traveller by the site, or pretended site, of that adventure, now shown at the church of St Nicholas in Carcere. [The story is related by Festus (De Verb, Sign xx.) and others.] Page 78, line 1360. The Mole which Hadrian rear'd. The castle of St. Angelo.

Line 1369 The vast and wondrous dome. The church of St. Peter's [Diana's marvel is the temple of Diana at Ephesus.]

Page 80, line 1495. Hark ! forth from the abyss a voice proceeds. [The six following stanzas refer to the death of the Princess Charlotte, the only daughter of George IV. She died in childbirth November 6, 1817, universally lamented.] Lines 1536, 1537. The strange fate Which tumbles mightiest sovereigns Mary died on the scaftold, Elizabeth of a broken heart; Charles V. a hermit, Louis XIV. a bankrupt in means and glory, Cromwell of anxiety; and, 'the greatest is behind,' Napoleon lives a prisoner. To these sovereigns a long but superfluous list might be added of names equally illustrious and unhappy.

Page 81, line 1549 Lo, Nemi ' navell'd in the woody hills The village of Nemi was near the Arician retreat of Egeria, and from the shades which embosomed the temple of Diana, has preserved to this day its distinctive appellation of The Grove. Line 1566 The Sabine farm. [The retreat of use of lay has caused considerable comment. Byron, whether carelessly or intentionally, employs lay several times in his poems as an intransitive verb. He might find authority for this confusion of lie and lay in writers of the Middle English period ; but it must be confessed that no great poet of the language is so careless of his grammar as Byron ] Page 86, line 11. John of Horistan. Horistan Castle, in Derbyshure, an ancient seat of the Byron family. [There is no record of any of Lord Byron's ancestors having engaged in the Holy Wars.] Page 86. LETTERS TO AN ITALIAN NUN, etc. ['A second edition of this work was pub-La second edition of this work was published in London, in 1784. It is, probably, a literary forgery '- Note by E. H. Coleridge]

Horace.] Page 82, line 1620. There let him lay. [This

 Page 93 To THE DUKE OF DORSET.
 [George John Frederick, fourth Duke of Dor-

Bage 94, hne 68. And call'd, proud boast ! the British drama forth. ['Thomas Sackville, Lord Buckhurst, was born in 1527 While a student of the Inner Temple, he wrote his tragedy of Gorboduc, which was played before Queen Elizabeth at Whitehall, in 1561 '- CAMPBELL ]

Line 69. Another view, not less renown'd for wit Charles Sackville, Earl of Dorset, was born in 1637, and died in 1706. He was esteemed the most accomplished man of his day, and alike distinguished in the voluptuous court of Charles

PAGES 76-120

II. and the gloomy one of William III. Page 95, line 1. Le Sage's demon's gift. The Diable Boileux of Le Sage, where Asmo-deus, the demon, places Don Cleofas on an elevated situation, and unroofs the houses for inspection

Line 67. A numerous crowd, arfay'd in white. On a saint's day the students wear surplices in chapel

Page 96, line 20. Mossop himself was outshone. [Henry] Mossop, a contemporary of Garrick, famous for his performance of Zanga [in Young's The Revenge.] Page 102, line 42. The pibroch raised its pierc-ing note. [The pibroch is properly the tune, not the instrument ] Page 104, line 220. Thy Beltane yet may burn.

Beltane Tree, a Highland festival on the first of May, held near fires lighted for the occasion.

Page 111, line 2. Magnus. No reflection is here intended against the person mentioned under the name of Magnus He is merely represented as performing an unavoidable function of his office. [Dr William Mansel was, in 1798, appointed to the headship of Trinity College, by Mr. Pitt.

Page 117, line 25 Ill-starr'd, though brave. I allude here to my maternal ancestors, 'the Gordons,' many of whom fought for the unfor-tunate Prince Charles, better known by the name of the Pretender This branch was nearly allied by blood, as well as attachment, to the Stuarts.

Page 118, line 1. Becher. [The Rev. John Becher, prebendary of Southwell, in whom the youthful poet found not only an honest and judicious critic, but a sincere friend To his care the superintendence of the second edition of Hours of Idleness, during its progress through a country press, was intrinsted.] Page 119, line 2. Repentant HENRY'S pride! Henry II. founded Newstead soon after the murder of Thomas à Becket. Line 10. The crimison cross demand. The badge of the crusaders.

Page 120, line 43. Another HENRY the kind gift recalls. At the dissolution of the monas teries, Henry VIII. bestowed Newstead Abbe, on Sir John Byron.

Line 57 A regal fortress now. Newstead sustained a considerable siege in the war between Charles I and his parliament

Line 73. She snatch'd him from th' unequal strife. Lord Byron, and his brother Sir William, held high commands in the royal army. The former was general in chef in Ireland, lieuten-ant of the Tower, and governor to James, Duke of York, afterwards the unhappy James II.; the latter had a principal share in many actions.

Line 76. Where godiike F.ILKLAND fell. Lucius Carey, Viscoupt Falkland, the most accomplished man of his age, was killed at the battle of Newbury, charging in the ranks of Lond Byron's regiment of cavalry.

Page 121, line 108. Loathing the offering of so dark a death. This is an historical fact. A violent tempest occurred immediately subsequent to the death or interment of Cromwell, which occasioned many disputes between his partisans and the cavaliers. both interpreted the circumstance into divine interposition.

Page 123, line 90. Pomposus. [See the poem On a Change of Masters. Page 93.] Page 125, line 243. Alonzo. [John Wingfield, who died at Coimbra, in 1811.] Line 266. Davus. [The Rev. John Cecil Tat-

tersall, who died in 1812.]

Page 126, lnc 274. The rustic's musket aim'a against my life. [The 'factious strife' here recorded was accidentally brought on by the breaking up of school, and the dismissal of some volunteers from drill, both happening at the same hour. On this occasion, it appears, the butt-end of a musket was aimed at Byron's head, and would have felled him to the ground, but for the interposition of Tattersall ]

Lune 287. Lycus [John Fitzgibbon, second Earl of Clare. His father, whom he succeeded Jan. 28, 1802, was for nearly twelve years Lord Chancellor of Ireland ] Lune 301. Example:

Line 301 Euryalus Earl of Delawarr ] [George John, fifth

Earl of Delawarr 1 Line 326 Cleon [Edward Noel Long, Esq ] Page 127, line 351. When my first harangue received applause ['My qualities were much more oratorical than poetical, and Dr. Drury, my grand patron, had a notion that I should turn out an orator from my fluency, my turbulence, my voice, my copiousness of declamation, and my action '- Byron Diary ] Page 132, line 41. Seat of my youth ' [Harrow.]

Lane 51 Lycus. [The Earl of Clare.] Page 133. To EDWARD NOEL LONG This young gentleman, who was with Lord Byron both at Harrow and Cambridge, afterwards entered the Guards, and served with distinction in the expedition to Copenhagen He was drowned early in 1809, when on his way to join the army in the Peninsula, the transport in which he sailed being run foul of in the night by another of the convoy. 'Long's father,' says Lord Byron, 'wrote to me to write his son's epitaph. I promised - but I had not the heart to complete it. He was such a good, amiable being as rarely remains long in this world; with talent and accomplishments, too, to make him the more regretted.' - Byron Diary, 1821.

Page 137, line 43. Poor LITTLE ' sweet, melo-dious bard ' These stanzas were written soon after the appearance of a severe critique, in a northern review, on a new publication of the British Anacreon. [Thomas Little, the pen name of Moore.]

Page 138. LINES WRITTEN BENEATH AN ELM IN THE CHURCHYARD OF HARROW. On losing his natural daughter, Allegra, in April, 1822, Lord Byron sent her remains to be buried at Harrow, 'where,' he says in a letter to Murray, April 22, 'I once hoped to have laid my own.' 'There is,' he adds, in a later letter, my own.' 'There is,' he adds, in a later letter, May 26, 'a spot in the church-yard, near the foot-path, on the brow of the hill looking towards Windsor, and a tomb under a large tree (bearing the name of Peachie, or Peachey), where I used to sit for hours and hours when a boy; this was my favourite spot; but as I wish to erect a tablet to her memory, the body had better be deposited in the church; '-and it was so deposited accordingly.]

Page 141. TO A KNOT OF UNGENEROUS CRITICS. ['There can be httle doubt that these verses were called forth by the criticisms passed on the Fugitive Pieces by certain ladies of Southwell.' - E H. COLERIDGE.]

Southwell. - E H. COLERIDGE., Page 142, line 32. Wilmot's verse. [Poems published by John Wilmot in 1680.] Page 144, line 5. I've lived, as many other men live. [Murray prints. 'I've lived, as many in live. 'A converting a mismut so the others hve' - Apparently a misprint, as the rhyme demands the change here made.]

Page 145, line 41. Fields, which surround you rustic cot [Mrs. Piget's Cottage.] Page 146, line 55. Mary [Mary Duff, or, ac-cording to E H. Coleridge, Mary Chaworth ] Line 61. And thou, my Friend! [See the verses or The Corrector area 12.

on The Cornelian, page 113.] Page 149 TO AN OAK AT NEWSTEAD.

[Lord Byron, on his first arrival at Newstead, in 1798, planted an oak in the garden, and nourished the fancy, that as the tree flourished so should he. On revisiting the abbey, during Lord Grey de Ruthven's residence there, he found the oak choked up by weeds, and almost destroyed ; - hence these lines. Shortly after Colonel Wildman took possession, he one day noticed it, and said to the servant who was with him, Here is a fine young oak ; but it must be cut down, as it grows in an improper place,' - 'I hope not, sir,' replied the man, 'for it's the one that my lord was so fond of, because he set it himself.'] Page 150. ON REVISITING HARROW. Some years ago, when at Harrow, a friend of the author engraved on a particular spot the names of both, with a few additional words, as a memorial. Afterwards, on receiving some real or imagined injury, the author destroyed the frail record before he left Harrow. On revisiting the place in 1807, he wrote under it these stanzas. Page 150. To charm her ear while some remains. [So printed in Murray. 'Some' would appear

[So printed in Murray, Some would appear to be a wrong reading for 's sense.] Page 151. To HARRIET [The Harriet Maltby of the poem entitled To Marion. Page 100.] Page 154. INSCRIPTION ON THE MONUMENT OF A NEWFOUNDLAND DOG. [This monument is still a conspicuous ornament in the garden of Narwated. The following is the incompared by Newstead. The following is the inscription by which the verses are preceded : -

> Near this spot Are deposited the Remains of one Who possessed Beauty without Vanity, Strength without Insolence.

Courage without Ferocity.

And all the Virtues of Man without his Vices This Praise, which would be unmeaning Flattery If inscribed over human ashes,

Is but a just tribute to the Memory of BOATSWAIN, a Dog, Who was born at Newstead Abbey, Nov 18, 1803, And died at Newstead Abbey, Nov 18, 1808]

Page 157, line 49 Fletcher ! Murray ' Bob ! [Byron's three servants.]

Page 160. WRITTEN AFTER SWIMMING FROM SESTOS TO ABYDOS. On the 3d of May. 1810, while the Salsette (Captain Bathurst) was lying in the Dardanelles, Lieutenant Ekenhead of that frigate and the writer of these rhymes swam from the European shore to the Asiatic by the by, from Abydos to Sestos would have been more correct. The whole distance from the place whence we started to our landing on the other side, including the length we were carried by the current, was computed by those on board the frigate at upwards of four English miles ; though the actual breadth is barely one

Page 160. Maid of Athens [Mr Hugh Wil-liams in his Travels in Italy, Greece, etc., has the following 'Our servant, who had gone before to procure accommodation, met us at the gate, and conducted us to Theodore Macri, the Consulina's, where we at present live This lady is the widow of the consul, and has three lovely daughters; the eldest celebrated for her beauty, and said to be the "Maid of Athens" of Lord Byron. Their apartment is immediately op-posite to ours, and, if you could see them, as we do now, through the gently waving aromatic plants before our window, you would leave your heart in Athens ']

Page 160 Ζώη μοῦ, σás ἀγαπῶ Romaic expres-sion of tenderness. It means, 'My life, I love you ! '

Page 161. By all the token-flowers that tell. In the East (where ladies are not taught to write, lest they should scribble assignations) flowers, cinders, pebbles, etc., convey the sentiments of the parties by that universal deputy of Mercury -an old woman. A cinder says, 'I burn for thee,' a bunch of flowers tied with hair, 'Take me and fly;' but a pebble declares -what nothing else can.

Line 1. Sons of the Greeks, arise! The song was written by Riga, who perished in the at-tempt to revolutionise Greece. This translation is as literal as the author could make it in verse. It is of the same measure as that of the original.

Page 162, line 19 The seven-hill'd city Constantinople, 'Επτάλοφος' Line 1. I enter thy garden of roses.

The song from which this is taken is a great favourite with the young girls of Athens of all classes Their manner of singing it is by verses in rotation, the whole number present joining in the chorus. I have heard it frequently at our 'χόρος,' in the winter of 1810–11. The air is plaintive and pretty.

Page 163. JOSEPH BLACKET [A cobbler (1786-1810) who attained some celebrity as a poet. He was praised by Southey, and was patronized by the Milbanke family.]

Page 164. EPISTLE TO A FRIEND. [Rev. Francis Hodgson.]

Page 168. LINES TO A LADY WEEPING [This impromptu owed its bith to an on dit, that the Princess Charlotte of Wales burst into tears on hearing that the Whigs had found it impossible to put together a cabinet, at the period of Mr. Perceval's death. They were ap-pended to the first edition of The Corsair, and excited a sensation marvelously disproportionate to their length, - 01, we may add, their merit. The ministerial prints raved for two months on end, in the most foul-mouthed vituperation of the poet, and all that belonged to him—the Morning Post even announced a motion in the House of Lords—' and all this,' Byron writes to Moore, 'as Bedreddin in the Arabian Nights remarks, for making a cream tart with pepper how odd, that eight lines should have given birth, I really think, to eight thousand ' ']

O'er her Druid's tomb. [The reader Page 169. will recall Collins's exquisite lines on the tomb of Thomson 'In yonder grave a Druid hes, etc.] Page 170, line 61 And censure, wisely loud, be by the Committee.

Nay, lower still, the Drama yet deplores That late she deign'd to crawl upon all-fours When Richard roars in Bosworth for a horse, If you command, the steed must come in course If you decree, the stage must condescend To soothe the sickly taste we dare not mend Blame not our judgment should we acquiesce And gratify you more by showing less The past reproach let present scenes refute, Nor shift from man to babe, from babe to bute ]

Page 175 THE DEVIL'S DRIVE. [Of this rambling satire, filled with political allusions to Castlereagh and the politics of the day, the following stanzas were first published in the edition of 1904 from a manuscript in the possession of the Earl of Ilchester 6, 7, 9, 13-16, 19-27.] Page 180, line 26. Pagod [Pagoda, an idol] Line 29. The rapture of the strife 'Certa-muns gaudaa' — the expression of Attila in his harangue to his army, previous to the battle of Chalons, given in Cassiodorus Line 46. He who of old would rend the oak.

['Out of town six days On my return found ny poor little paged, Napoleon, puyched off his pedestal. It is his own fault. Like Milo, he would rend the oak, but it closed again, wedged his hands, and now the beasts — hon, bear, down to the dirtiest jackal — may all teat him That Muscovite winter wedged his arms.' — Byron's

Journal, April 8, 1814 ] Line 55. The Roman, when his burning heart. Sylla.

Line 64 The Spaniard, when the lust of sway. [The Emperor Charles V, who abducated in 1555 and retired to a monastery.]

Page 181, line 125. Corinth's pedagogue. [Dionysius II., on losing Syracuse, retired as a private man to Corinth, where he is said to have taught school.]

Line 127. Thou Timour. The cage of Bajazet, by order of Tameilane

Line 142. The very Frend's arch mock. [The edition of 1832 contained this note, of uncertain allusion 'We believe there is no doubt of the truth of the anecdote here alluded to - of Napoleon's having found lessure for an unworthy amour, the very evening of his arrival at Fontainebleau.'

Page 183, line 38. And wean from penury the soldier's her. [The edition of 1900 adds the following six lines from the manuscript: --

Or deem to living war-worn Valour just

Each wounded remnant — Albion's cherish'd trust — Warm his decline with those endearing rays,

Whose bounteous sunshine yet may gild his days -

So shall that Country — while he sinks to rest — His hand hath sought for — by his heart be blest!

Like most of these late accretions to Byron's acknowledged works they had better have been left to oblivion.]

Line 8. The thought of Brutus — for his was not there ' [See note on page 64, line 525] Page 187, line 8. Labedoyère. [An officer of Napoleon Despite many appeals to Louis XVIII, he was shot, August 19, 1815.] Line 18, Like the Wormwood Star foretold.

See Rev. chap. vni, v 7, &c Line 36. And thou, too, of the snow-white plume !

['Poor dear Murat, what an end! His white plume used to be a rallying point in battle, like Henry the Fourth's. He refused a confessor and a bandage, so would neither suffer his soul nor body to be bandaged.' — B. Letter to Moore. November 4, 1815.] Line 37 Whose realm refused thee ev'n a tomb.

Murat's remains are said to have been torn from the grave and burnt.

Page 188, line 21. Of three bright colours, each durne. The tricolour

Page 193, line 46 Till vanquish'd senates trem-bled as they praised. [February 7, 1787, Sheridan spoke for over five hours on the impeachment of Warren Hastings. Pitt thereupon moved the adjournment of the debate, on the ground that the minds of the members were too agitated to discuss the question with coolness ] Line 82. And stoop to strive with Misery at the door. [This was not fiction. Only a few days before his death, Sheridan wrote thus to Mr Rogers. 'I am absolutely undone and broken-hearted. They are going to put the carpets out of window, and break into Mrs. S's room and take me. 1501. will remove all difficulty. For God's sake let me see you !' Moore was the immediate bearer of the required sum. This was written on the 15th of May. On the 14th of July, Sheridan's remains were deposited in Westminster Abbey, — his pallbearers being the Duke of Bedford, the Earl of Lauderdale, Earl Mulgrave, the Lord Bishop of London,

Lord Holland, and Earl Spencer ] Page 194, line 103. The worthy rival of the won-drous Three! Fox - Pitt - Burke. Page 196. When that vast edifice display'd Looks with its venerable face. [So in the Murray edition. There would seem to be some error in the text Possibly a line has dropped out between the two here given.] Page 211, line 15. Reversed for him our grand-sire's fate of yore. [Admiral Byron was remarkable for never making a voyage without a temp-est. He was known to the sailors by the facetious name of 'Foul-weather Jack '] Page 212, line 73. I did remind thee of our own dear Lake. The lake of Newstead Abbey. Page 216, line 191. Like to the Pontic monarch. Mithridates

Page 226. Scurra - Mamurra. [Scurra, a wit. -Mamurra, the favorite of Cæsar savagely lampooned by Catullus.]

Page 227. Tom Sternhold. [Thomas Sternhold (1500-1549), author, with John Hopkins, of a metrical version of the Psalms.]

Page 227. Hetman. [A Cossack chief.] Page 230. 'I READ THE "CHRISTABEL."' [The Missionary was written by Mr. Bowles; Ilderim by Mr. Gally Knight, and Margaret of

Anjou by Miss Holford.] Page 230. Perry. [James Perry (1756-1821), editor and proprietor of the Morning Chronicle.] Page 231. 'DEAR DOCTOR, I HAVE READ YOUR PLAY.' [John William Polidori (1795-1821), physician and author. In 1816 he went as physician and secretary to Lord Byron, then departing on his exile from England. His whimsical and jealous temper led to a separation before Byron left Switzerland. His most noted work is the The Vampure, published in 1819, which he attributed to Byron. For the other names in this poem the reader is referred to the Dictionary of National Biography.] Page 241, line 1. Still must I hear?

Imu Semper ego auditor tantum ? nunquamne reponam.

Vexatus toties rauci Theseide Codri? Juv Sat I 1

Line 1. Hoarse Fitzgerald [For the long period of thirty-two years, William Thomas Fitzgerald, poetaster, was an attendant at the anniversary dumers of the Literary Fund, and constantly honored the constant it of the constantly honored the occasion with an ode, which he himself recited with most comical dignity of emphasis ]

Page 242, line 21. Like Hamet's, shall be free Cid Hamet Benengeli promises repose to his pen, in the last chapter of Don Quixote. Oh ! that our voluminous gentry would follow the example of Cid Hamet Benengeh! [Byron's text reads shall for shall.] Line 55 This Lambe must own. [George Lamb, the first cousin of Lady Byron, was the author of a farce, Whistle for It, which 'was damned with great expedition at Covent Gar-He also wrote for the Edinburgh Review.] den ³

Line 65 Hackney'd jokes from Miller [A pop-ular book of jests attributed to 'Joe' Miller.] Line 82 Jeffrey's heart or Lambe's Bœotian head. ['This was not just. Neither the heart head. [Inits was not just. Notifier the heart nor the head of these gentlemen are at all what they are here represented At the time thus was written, I was personally unacquainted with either.'  $\rightarrow$  B. 1816.] Page 243, line 87. While these are censors, 'twould be sin to spare.

Imu. Stulta est Clementia, cum tot ubique - occurras periturae parcere chartæ JUV. Sat I 17

Line 93. Then should you ask me.

Imit, Cur tamen hoc potius libeat decurrere campo Per quem magnus equos Auruncæ flexit alumnus Si vacat, et placidi rationem admittitis, edam

JUV. Sat I 19

Line 94. Gifford. [William Gifford (1756-1826), poet, editor, critic, was the author of several original satures, notably the Baviad and the Maeviad. Through his connection with Murray he had much to do with the punctuation and formation of Byron's text.] Line 100. Pye. [Henry James Pye was poet laureate from 1790 till 1813]

Line 103. Time was, ere yet in these degenerate days. [The first edition of the Sature opened with this line.]

Line 128. Little's lyrics. [Moore published his early poems under the name Thomas Little, Esq.]

Line 132. The cow-pox, tractors, galvanism, and gas. [Cow-pox, vaccination; tractors, a quack panacea of the day; gas, laughing gas.] Line 142. Stott. Stott, better known in the Morning Post by the name of Hafiz. This personage is at present the most profound explorer of the bathos. I remember, when the reigning family left Portugal, a special Ode of Master Stott's, beginning thus : - (Stott loquitur quoad Hibernia).

' Princely offspring of Braganza Erin greets thee with a stanza,' &c

Page 244, line 153. Lays of Minstrels. See the Lay of the Last Minstrel, passim. Never was any plan so incongruous and absurd as the groundwork of this production. The entrance of Thunder and Lightning, prologuising to Bayes' tragedy, unfortunately takes away the merit of originality from the dialogue between Marging the Single Bland and Ball with Messieurs the Spirits of Flood and Fell in the first canto. Then we have the amiable Wilham of Deloraine, 'a stark moss-trooper,' videlicet, a happy compound of poacher, sheep-stealer, and highwayman. The propriety of his magical lady's injunction not to read can only be equalled by his candid acknowledgment of his independence of the trammels of spelling, although to use his own elegant phrase, 'twas his neck-verse at Harribee,' 1. e. the gallows. — The biography of Gilpin Horner, and the marvellous pedestrian page, who travelled twice as fast as his matrix's her at the state of as fast as his master's horse, without the aid of seven-leagued boots, are chefs-d'œuvre in the improvement of taste. For incident we have the invisible, but by no means sparing box on the ear bestowed on the page, and the entrance of a knight and charger into the castle, under the very natural disguise of a wain of hay. Marwhere will an analysis of a wain of hay. Mar-mion, the hero of the latter romance, is exactly what William of Deloraine would have been, had he been able to read and write. The poem was manufactured for Messrs. Constable, Murray, and Miller, worshipful booksellers, in consideration of the receipt of a sum of money, and truly, considering the inspiration, it is a very creditable production. If Mr Scott will write for hire, let him do his best for his paymasters. but not disgrace his genius which is undoubtedly great, by a repetition of black-letter ballad imitations.

Line 184. 'Good night to Marmion' The pathetic and also prophetic exclamation of Henry Blount, Esquire, on the death of honest Marmion

Page 245, line 234. 'God help thee,' Southey The last line, 'God help thee,' is an evident plagiarism from the Anti-Jacobin to Mr Southey, on his Dactylics. [Gifford's parody on Southey's Dactylics, which ends thus ...

' Dactylics, call'st thou 'em '- "God help thee, silly one,' "]

Lune 240 'For fear of growing double.' Lyri-cal Ballads, p 4. — The Tables Turned, stanza 1. _Lune 250. Confounded night with day Mr.

W. in his preface labours hard to prove, that prose and verse are much the same, and certainly his precepts and practice are strictly conformable -

'And thus to Betty's questions he Made answer, like a traveller bold "The cock did crow, to-whoo, to-whoo,

And the sun did shine so cold ""

Lynical Ballads, p 179.

Line 260. Takes a pixy for a muse Cole-ridge's Poems, p. 11, Songs of the Pixies, 1. e. Devonshure fairies, p. 42, we have, Lines to a Young Lady, and, p. 52, Lines to a Young Ass. Line 265, Lewis. [Matthew Gregory Lewis]

M P. for Hindon, never distinguished himself in Parhament, but, mainly in consequence of the clever use he made of his knowledge of the German language, then a rare accomplishment, attracted much notice in the literary world, at a very early period of his life. His Tales of Terror, the drama of the Castle Spectre, and the novel of The Monk invested the name of Lewis with an extraordinary degree of celebrity.]

Page 246, line 297. Hiberman Strangford ! with thine eyes of blue The reader, who may wish for an explanation of this, may refer to Strangford's Camoens, p. 127, note to p 56, or to the last page of the Edinburgh Review of Strangford's Camoens

Line 310 Hayley [William Hayley (1745-1820), author of The Triumphs of Temper and The Triumph of Music, etc., is chiefly remem-bered as the friend and biographer of Cowper - Ye tarts, the pastry cook, like the trunkmaker, is supposed to preside over the limbo of defunct literature ]

Line 321. Grahame Mr. Grahame has Doured forth two volumes of cant, under the name of Sabbath Walks, and Biblical Pictures. Line 327 Hail, Sympathy thy soft idea brings.

[Immediately before this line, we find, in the original manuscript, the following, which Lord Byron good-naturedly consented to omit, at the request of Mr. Dallas, who was, no doubt, a triend of the scribbler they refer to

In verse most stale, unprofitable, flat -

Come, let us change the scene, and 'glean ' with Pratt , In him an author's luckless lot behold,

Condemn'd to make the books which once he sold Degraded man ' again resume thy trade -

The votaries of the Muse are ill repaid.

Though daily puffs once more invite to buy

A new edition of thy Sympathy

To which this note was appended: - 'Mr. Pratt. once a Bath bookseller, now a London author, has written as much, to as little purpose, as any of his scribbling cotemporaries. Mr. P's Sympathy is in rhyme, but his prose productions are the most voluminous ' The more popular of these last were entitled Gleanungs.] Line 351. 'Awake a louder and a lofter strain.' The first line in Bowles's Spirit of Discovery a very spirited and pretty dwarf Euc. Among other exquisite lines we have the following : -

-'A kiss Stole on the list'ning silence, never yet

Here heard, they trembled even as if the power,' &c , &c

That is, the woods of Madeira trembled to a kiss; very much astonished, as well they might be, at such a phenomenon. ['Misquoted and misunderstood by me, but not intentionally. It was not the "woods," but the people in them who trembled — why, Heaven only knows unluss they were overheard making this pro-digious smack.⁷ – B., 1816 ] Line 358 A gentle episode. The episode above alluded to is the story of 'Robert à Machin' and 'Anna d'Arfet.' a poir of constant hum.

'Anna d'Arfet,' a pair of constant lovers, who performed the kiss above mentioned, that startled the woods of Madeira

Line 372. Consult Lord Fanny and confide in Curll. Curll is one of the Heroes of the Dunciad, and was a bookseller Lord Fanny is the poetical name of Lord Hervey, author of Lines to the Imitator of Horace.

Page 247, line 378. What Mallet did for hire. Lord Bolingbroke hired Mallet to traduce Pope after his decease, because the poet had retained some copies of a work by Lord Bolingbroke the Patriot King - which that splendid, but malignant, genius had ordered to be destroyed. Lnne 380. To rave with Dennis, and with Ralph to rhyme. Dennis the critic, and Ralph the rhymester. -

'Silence, ye wolves ! while Ralph to Cynthia howls, Silence, ye wolves i while maph to Sympositive Making night hideous answer him, ye owls ''

Line 382. Not raised thy hoof against the lion dead. See Bowles's late edition of Pope's works, for which he received three hundred pounds. Thus Mr. B. has experienced how much easier it is to profit by the reputation of another than to elevate his own

Line 391. Fresh fish from Hippocrene. ['"Helicon" is a mountain, and not a fish-pond It should have been "Hippocrene" '-B, 1816. The text has read Helicon, Byron's correction is followed ]

Line 406. Cottle. Mr. Cottle, Amos, Joseph, I don't know which, but one or both, once sellers of books they did not write, and now writers of books they do not sell, have published a pair of Epics — Alfred (poor Alfred! Pye has been at hum too!) — Alfred and the Fall of Cambria. [Joseph Cottle is the author of these works.] Line 414. Maurice. Mr. Maurice [the Rev. Thomas Maurice, 1754-1824] hath manufactured the component parts of a main term.

the component parts of a ponderous quarto, upon the beauties of Richmond Hill, and the like: it also takes in a charming view of Turnham Green, Hammersmith, Brentford, Old and New, and the parts adjacent Line 424. Sheffield. Poor Montgomery, though praised by every English Review, has been bit-terly reviled by the Edinburgh Atter all, the bard of Sheffield is a man of considerable genius. His Wanderer of Switzerland is worth a thousand Lyrical Ballads, and at least fifty 'degraded epics.' [James Montgomery (1771-1854) edited a newspaper at Sheffield.] Page 248, hne 467. And Bowstreet myrmidons stood laughing by. In 1806, Messis, Jeffrey and Moore met at Chalk-Farm. The duel was pre-vented by the interference of the magistracy, and on examination, the balls of the pistols were found to have evaporated. This incident gave occasion to much waggery in the daily prints. [The above note was struck out of the fifth edition, and the following, after being submitted to Moore, substituted in its place — 'I am informed that Mr. Moore published at the time a disavowal of the statements in the newspapers, as far as regarded himself; and, in justice to him, I mention this circumstance. As I never heard of it before, I cannot state the particu-lars, and was only made acquainted with the fact very lately '- November 4, 1811 ] Line 472. Tweed ruffled half his waves. The Tweed here behaved with proper decorum; it would have been entirely reprehensible in the English half of the river to have shown the smallest symptom of apprehension.

Line 509. Athenian Aberdeen. His lordship has been much abroad, is a member of the Athenia Society, and reviewer of Gell's Topo-graphy of Troy [George Hamilton Gordon, fourth Earl of Aberdeen. In 1822, he published an Inquiry into the Principles of Beauty in Grecian Architecture ]

Line 510 Herbert. Mr. Herbert is a translator of Icelandic and other poetry. One of the principal pieces is a Song on the Recovery of Thor's Hammer the translation is a pleasant chant in the vulgar tongue, and endeth thus: -

> 'Instead of money and rings, I wot, The hammer's bruises were her lot, Thus Odin's son his hammer got '

[The Hon. William Herbert, brother to the Earl of Carnarvon. He also published, in 1811, Helga, a poem in seven cantos.] Line 512. Sydney. The Rev Sydney Smith, the reputed author of Peter Plymley's Letters. and sundry criticisms Line 515 Pillans. Pillans is a tutor at Eton.

James Pillans (1778-1864), Rector of the High School, and Professor of Humanity in the University, Edinburgh. Byron probably assumed that the review of Hodgson's Translation of Ju venal, in the Edinburgh Review, April, 1808, was by him.'- E. H. COLERIDGE.]

Line 516. Lambe. [See note on line 55 supra.] Line 524 Lest blundering Brougham destroy the sale. Mr. Brougham, in No. XXV. of the Edinburgh Review, throughout the article concerning Don Pedro de Cevallos, has displayed more pohtics than policy; many of the worthy burgesses of Edinburgh being so incensed at the infamous principles it evinces, as to have withdrawn their subscriptions

Page 249, line 535. That gilds its rear. See the colour of the back binding of the Edinburgh Review.

Line 542. Henry Petty. [The third Marquis of Lansdowne, a constant visitor at Holland House.]

Line 551. His lordship can at least translate Lord Holland has translated some specimens of Lope de Vega, inserted in his life of the author. Both are bepraised by his disinterested guests.

Both are bepraised by its discuterested guess. Line 557. My lady skims the cream of each critique. Certain it is, her ladyship is suspected of having displayed her matchless wit in the Edinburgh Review However that may be, we know, from good authority, that the manuscripts are submitted to her perusal - no doubt, for correction.

Line 560. Now to the Drama turn. [To save space the student desiring information on the obscurer names in this and the two following paragraphs must be referred to the Dictionary of National Biography.]

Line 562. A prince within a barrel pent. In the melo-drama of Tekeli [by Theodore Hook], that heroic prince is clapped into a bairel on the stage, a new asylum for distressed heroes.

Page 250, line 639. Greville and Argyle. To prevent any blunder, such as mistaking a street for a man, I beg leave to state, that it is the institution, and not the duke of that name, which is here alluded to. A gentleman, with whom I am slightly acquainted, lost in the Argyle Rooms several thousand pounds at backgam-mon. It is but justice to the manager in this instance to say, that some degree of disapprobation was manifested but why are the implements of gaming allowed in a place devoted to the society of both sexes. [The Argyle Insti-

the society of both sexes. [In Argyle Insti-tution was founded by Colonel Greville] Lnne 642. Petronius. Petronius, 'Arbiter elegantiarum' to Nero, 'and a very pretty fel-low in his day,' as Mr. Congreve's 'Old Bache-lor' saith of Hannibal. Page 251, line 686 To live like Clodius, and like Falkland fall. I knew the late Lord Falk-lord scill Or Sunder with L bached hum are land well. On Sunday night I beheld him presiding at his own table, in all the honest pride of hospitality, on Wednesday morning, at three o'clock, I saw stretched before me all that remained of courage, feeling, and a host of pas-sions. He was a gallant and successful officer, his faults were the faults of a sailor — as such, Britons will forgive them. He died like a brave man in a better cause; for had he fallen in like manner on the deck of the frigate to which he was just appointed, his last moments would have been held up by his countrymen as an example to succeeding heroes. [Lord Falkland was killed in a duel by Mr. Powell, in 1809 It was not by words only that Lord Byron gave proof of sym-pathy on the occasion. Though his own difficulties pressed on him at the time, he contrived to administer relief to the widow and children of his friend. The infamous Clodus intruded himself into Cæsar's house while the women were celebrating the mysteries of the Bona Dea. On his account Cæsar divorced his wife Pompeia ]

Line 717. Miles Andrews [Miles Peter An-drews, many years M P for Bewdley, Colonel of the Prince of Wales's Volunteers, proprie-tor of a gunpowder manufactory at Dartford, author of numerous prologues, epilogues, and farces, and one of the heroes of the Baviad.]

Line 722. Ah ' who would take their titles with their rhymes? [In the original manuscript we find these lines

In these, our times, with daily wonders big, A letter'd peel is like a letter'd pig, Both know their alphabet, but who, from thence,

Infers that peers or pigs have manly sense? Still less that such should woo the graceful Nine Parnassus was not made for lords and swine ]

Line 723 Roscommon [Wentworth Dillon, fourth Earl of Roscommon (1633-1685), attempted to found a literary academy.] Line 723. Sheffield. [John Sheffield, Duke of Buckingham (1649-1721), author of an Essay

 Dicking india (1057), autor of all Disking on Poetry, etc.]
 Line 726. Carlisle. [Frederick Howard, fifth Earl of Carlisle (1748-1825), Lord Byron's guar-dian, was author of Tragedies and Poems, etc.]
 The Earl of Carlisle has lately published an eighteen-penny pamphlet on the state of the trans of affect his view for hydroge a page stage, and offers his plan for building a new theatre. It is to be hoped his lordship will be permitted to bring forward anything for the stage - except his own tragedies.

'Doff that lion's hide, And hang a calf-skin on those recreant limbs ' Shak King John

Lord Carlisle's works, most resplendently bound, form a conspicuous ornament to his book-shelves: —

'The rest is all but leather and prunella.'

Line 745. 'All the talents.' All the Blocks, or an Antidote to 'All the Talents.' by Flagellum (W. H. Ireland), London, 1807. Page 252, Ine 748. Melville's Mantle. A par-ody on Elujah's Mantle, a poem. ['Elujah's Man-tle, being verses occasioned by the death of that illustrious statesman, the Right Hon W. Pitt, was written by James Sayer. Melville's Mantle was published by Budd, 1807.'-E. H. COLE-RIDGE.]

Line 756. Rosa's prose. This lovely little Jessica, the daughter of the noted Jew King, seems to be a follower of the Della Crusca school, and has published two volumes of very respectable absurdities in rhyme, as times go; besides sundry novels in the style of the first edition of The Monk. ['She since married the edition of The Monk. ['She since married the Morning Post — an exceeding good match, and is now dead — which is better,' — B. 1816.] Line 759. Crusca's bards. [The Della Crus-cans were a small clique of English writers hving at Florence, who published in a paper called The World. Mrs. Prozzi, Robert Merry (1755-1798), Mrs. Hannah Cowley ('Anna Ma-tilda,' 1743-1809), and other scribblers were con-nected with the circle 1 nected with the circle.] Line 764. Q, P, Q These are the signatures of various worthies who figure in the poetical departments of the newspapers.

Line 770. How ladies read, and literati laud! ['This was meant for poor Blackett, who was then patronsed by A. J. B.' (Lady Byron); 'but that I did not know, or this would not have been written, at least I think not.'—B. 1816. Joseph Blackett, the shoemaker. He died at Scalar in 1810. His poems years afterwards

Seaham, in 1810. His poems were afterwards collected by Pratt.] Line 774. Capel Loffi. Capel Lofft, Esq., the Mæcenas of shoemakers, and preface-writergeneral to distressed versemen; a kind of gratis accoucheur to those who wish to be delivered of rhyme, but do not know how to bring it forth. [He was the patron of Robert Bloomfield.]

Line 777. Bloomfield. [Robert Bloomfield, author of The Farmer Boy, etc. His brother Nathaniel was a tailor, his brother George a The former was likewise a poet in shoemaker a small way ] Line 795 Moorland weavers. [T. Bakewell published, in 1807, The Moorland Bard, or Poetrcal Recollections of a Weaver ] Lines 801, 803. Campbell - Rogers. It would be superfluous to recall to the mind of the reader the authors of The Pleasures of Memory and The Pleasures of Hope, the most beautiful didactic poems in our language, if we except Pope's Essay on Man . but so many poetasters have started up, that even the names of Campbell and Rogers are become strange. [Beneath this note Byron scribbled, in 1816, -

> Pretty Miss Jaqueline Had a nose aquiline, And would assert rude Things of Miss Gertrude, While Mr Marmion Led a great army on Making Kehama look Like a fierce Mameluke ]

Page 253, line 818. Sotheby, Macniel. Sotheby [William S., 1757-1833], translator of Wieland's Oberon and Virgil's Georgics, and author of Saul, an epic poem. - Macniel [Hector M, 1746-1816], whose poems are deservedly popular, particularly Scotland's Scath and the Woes of War, of which ten thousand copies were sold in one month.

Line 831. White. Henry Kirke White died at Cambridge, in October, 1806, in consequence of too much exertion in the pursuit of studies that would have matured a mind which disease and poverty could not impair, and which death itself destroyed rather than subdued. His poems abound in such beauties as must impress the reader with the liveliest regret that so short a period was allotted to talents which would have dignified even the sacred functions he was destined to assume.

time dto assume.
Line 857. Crabbe. ['I consider Crabbe and Colerdge as the first of these times, in point of power and genus.'— B. 1816.]
Line 859. Shee Mr. Shee, author of Rhymes on Art and Elements of Art. [Later Sir Martin Shee became President of the Royal Academy.]
Line 877. Wright. Mr. Wright [Walter Rod-well W.], late Consul-General for the Seven Is-lands is author of a very heantiful near ust lands, is author of a very beautiful poem, just published. it is entitled Horæ Ionicæ, and is descriptive of the isles and the adjacent coast of Greece.

Line 881. Associate bards. The translators of the Anthology [the Rev. Robert Bland (1779-1825) and John Herman Merivale (1731-1844)] have since published separate poems, which evince genius that only requires opportunity to attain eminence.

Page 254, line 902 False glare attracts, but more offends the eye. The neglect of The Botanic Garden is some proof of returning taste. The scenery is its sole recommendation

The scenery is its sole recommendation. Page 255, line 966. Hoare — Hoyle. [The Rev. Charles James Hoare published, in 1808, the Shipureck of St Paul, a Seatonian prize poem. The Rev. Charles Hoyle, author of Exodus, an epic in thirteen books, and several other Seatonian prize poems] The Games of Hoyle, well because to the rat unce of whist a base etc. well known to the votaries of whist, chess, etc , are not to be superseded by the vagaries of his poetical namesake, whose poem comprised, as expressly stated in the advertisement, all the 'plagues of Egypt.' Line 973, Clarke. This person, who has lately betrayed the most rabid symptoms of confirmed authorship, is writer of a poem denominated The Art of Pleasing, as hous a non lucendo,' containing little pleasantry and less poetry. He also acts as monthly stipendiary and col-lector of calumnies for the Saturist. If this unfortunate young man would exchange the magazines for the mathematics, and endeavour to take a decent degree in his university, it might eventually prove more serviceable than his present salary. [Hewson Clarke left the University of Cambridge without taking his degree. In the Saturist he reviewed Byron's early works with considerable severity.]

Line 981. Oh! dark asylum of a Vandal race. Into Cambridgeshire the Emperor Probus transborted a considerable body of Vandals. — Gib-bon's Decline and Fall, vol. ii, p. 83. There is no reason to doubt the truth of this assertion; the bread is still in high perfection. Line 983. Hodgson. This gentleman's name requires no praise the man who in translation displays unquestionable genius may be well ex-pected to excel in original composition, of which, it is to be hoped, we shall soon see a splen-did specimen. [Francis Hodgson (1781-1852). Byron's life-long friend, besides his transla tion of Juvenal, published several original works.]

Line 984. Hewson, Hewson Clarke, Esq., as it is written. Line 989. Richards. The Aboriginal Britons, an excellent poem, by Richards. [The Rev George Richards (1769-1835), Fellow of Oriel College.]

Line 1010. And urge thy bards to gain a name like thine. [With this verse the sature originally ended.]

Line 1016. Dame Portland. A friend of mine being asked, why his Grace of Portland was likened to an old woman, replied, 'he sup-posed it was because he was past bearing?' His Grace is now gathered to his grandmothers, where he sleeps as sound as ever; but even his sleep was better than his colleagues' waking. 1811. [William Henry Cavendish, third Duke of Portland (1738-1809).]

Of Fortiand (1750-1609).] Line 1021. Beauty's nature clime. Georgia. Line 1022. Kaff. Mount Caucasus. Line 1026, Carr. From the many tours he made, Sir John was called 'The Jaunting Car.' Page 256, line 1034. Gell Mr Gell's Topo-graphy of Troy and Ithaca cannot fail to ensure the approbation of every man possessed of classical taste, as well for the information Mr. Gell conveys to the mind of the reader, as for the ability and research the respective works display. ['Since seeing the plain of Troy, my opinions are somewhat changed as to the above note. Gell's survey was hasty and superficial.' - B. 1816.]

Line 1045 Line 1045 Melbourne house. ['Singular enough, and din enough, God knows.'-B. 1816.]

Line 1070. Yet rarely blames unjustly, now declare. ['The greater part of this sature I most sincerely wish had never been written, not only on account of the injustice of much of the critical and some of the personal part of it, but the tone and temper are such as I cannot approve.' — BYRON, July 14, 1816. Diodati, Geneva. — Subsequently Byron, in manuscript notes, letters, or elsewhere, did full justice to many of the persons satirized in this poem, notably to Scott, Wordsworth, Southey, Cole-ridge, Jeffrey, Holland, Lamb, Carlısle.] Page 256, line 7. Dubost In an English newspaper, which finds its way abroad wherever there are Englishmen, I read an account of this dirty dauber's caricature of Mr. H--- as a to be st, and the consequent action, etc. The ircumstance is, probably, too well known to require further comment. [The gentleman here alluded to was Thomas Hope, Esq., the author of Anastasus, and a munificent patron of art.] Having somehow offended an unprincipled French painter, by name Dubost, that adven-turer revenged himself by a picture called 'Beauty and the Beast,' in which Mr. Hope and his lady were represented according to the well-known fairy story.] Line 11. Moschus. [In the original MS., Hobhouse

Page 257, line 75. Putt has furnish'd us a word or two. Mr. Pitt was liberal in his additions to our parliamentary tongue: as may be seen in nany publications, particularly the Edinburgh Review [Query, what words? Byron, in notes to his own works, sometimes apologizes for the use of well-established words.]

The bott well-established words.] Page 258, line 132 Where angry Townly lifts his voice on high. [In Vanbrugh's comedy of The Provoked Husband.] Line 136, 'Hollowing Hotspur.' And in his eai I'll hollow, Mortimei !' -I Henry IV...,

3.

Page 259, line 164 Lying Valet [Garrick's comedy of that name.]

Line 166. A wandering ' Peregrine ' [A clar-

Line 173 Drawcansir. [A savage braggado-cio in Buckingham's The Rehearsal ]

Line 195 Awake a louder and a loftier strain [The first line of Bowles's A Spirit of Discovery by Sea ]

Line 226. Virgil's devilish verses. Harvey, the cuculator of the circulation of the blood, used to fling away Virgil in his ecstasy of admiration, and say, 'the book had a devil' Line 228. Tavell [The Rev. G F Tavell was a fellow and tutor of Timity College, Cambridge, during Lord Byron's residence, and owed this notice to the zeal with which he had protested against some juvenile vagaries.] Page 260, line 241 Hells and clubs 'Hell,' a gaming-house so-called, where you risk little, and are cheated a good deal. 'Club,' a pleasant purgatory, where you lose more, and are not supposed to be cheated at all

Line 281 A halter'd heroine Johnson sought to slay 'Irene had to speak two lines with the bowstring round her neck, but the audience cried out "Murder!" and she was obliged to go off the stage alve.' - BoswELL's Johnson. Line 290. Whose postscripts prote of dyeing 'heroines blue?' In the postscript to the Castle Spectre, Mr. Lewis tells us, that though blacks were unknown in England at the period of his action, yet he has made the anachronism to set off theseene, and if he could have produced the effect 'by making his heroine blue,'-I quote him, - 'blue he would have made her!'

Line 296 I loathe an opera u orse than Dennis did. [In 1706, Dennis, the critic, wrote an Essay on the Operas after the Italian manner, which are about to be established on the English stage; in which he endeavored to show, that it is a diversion of more pernicious consequence than the most licentious play that ever appeared upon the stage ]

Page 261, line 311 'Fop's Alley' [A meeting place at the Opera House for the beaux and fashionables of the day ]

Line 319. Ere scenes were play'd by many a reverend clerk 'The first theatrical representa-tions, entitled "Mysteries and Moralities," were generally enacted at Christmas, by monks (as the only persons who could read), and latterly by the clergy and students of the universities. The dramatis personæ were usually Adam, Pater Cælestis, Faith, Vice,' etc., etc. – See Warton's History of English Poetry.

Line 326. Benvolio suffers such a show. Ben-volio does not bet, but every man who maintams race-horses is a promoter of all the concomitant evils of the turf. [Benvolio, the second Earl Grosvenor, a patron of the turf, was originator of a motion in Parliament to suppress the Sunday newspapers ]

Line 330. Foote's fantasic time. [Samuel Foote (1720-1777), actor and playwright ] Line 339. 'Chrononhotonthologos.' [Chrononhotonthologos, 'the most tragical tragedy ever yet tragedised by any company of tragedians, by Henry Carey ]

Line 349. But find in thine, like pagan Plato's bid. Under Plato's pillow a volume of the Mimes of Sophor was found the day he died. Lune 352. Fetter'd by why Walpole. [In 1737 the manager of Goodman's Fields Theatre hav-ing brought to Sir Robert Walpole a farce called The Golden Rump, which had been proffered for exhibition, the minister paid the profits which might have accrued from the performance, and detained the copy. He then made extracts of the most exceptionable passages, abounding in profaneness, sedition, and blasphemy, read them to the house, and obtained leave to bring in a bill to limit the number of playhouses, to subject all dramatic writings to the inspection of the Lord Chamberlain; and to compel the proprietors to take out a license for every production before it could appear on the stage ] Line 355 Chesterfield. His speech on the Line 355 Chesterfield. His speech on the Licensing Act is one of his most eloquent efforts. Inne 361. 'Archer' - 'Sullen.' [Characters in Farquhar's The Beaux' Stratagem.] Line 362. 'Copper' spouse Michael Perez, the 'Copper Captain,' in [Fletcher's] Rule a Wife and Have a Wife Line 366. Wills' skill [The Rev. Dr. Francis Wills attended Covers 111] his fart status

Willis attended George III in his first attack of madness ]

Line 367. Macheath's example. [Dr. Johnson was of the like opinion. Of the Beggar's Opera he says, in his Life of Gay. 'The play, like many others, was plainly written only to divert, without any moral purpose, and is, therefore, not likely to do good; nor can it be conceived, without more speculation than life requires or admits, to be productive of much evil '] Line 369. Colher's curse. Jerry Colher's controversy with Congreve, etc., on the subject of the drama, is too well known to require further comment.

Page 262, line 382. And Simeon kicks, where Baxter only 'shores.' Mr Simeon is the very bully of behefs, and castigator of 'good works.' He is ably supported by John Stickles, a la-bourer in the same vineyard — but I say no more, for, according to Johnny in full congrega-tion, no hopes for them as laughs.' [The Rev. Charles Simeon, fellow of King's College, Cambridge,—a zealous Calvinist, who, in consequence of his zeal, was engaged in sundry warm disputations with other divines of the university.] Baxter's Shove to heavy-a-d Christians, the veritable title of a book once in good repute, and likely enough to be so again. [The author was really a certain William Bunyan.]

Line 402. Lopp'd two final feet. [He should have said two syllables, which, in iambic metre, form one foot. The ambic tetrameter is of much older use than Hudibras.]

Page 263, line 476. Blake As famous a tonsor as Licinus himself, and better paid, and may, like him, be one day a senator, having a better qualification than one half of the heads he crops, viz. - independence.

Line 480. Purge in spring-like Bayes. ['Bayes. Why, I'll tell you what I do. If I am to write familiar things, as sonnets to Armida, and the like, I make use of stewed prunes only, but when I have a grand design in hand. I ever take physic and let blood, for when you would have pure swiftness of thought, and fiery flights of fancy, you must have a care of the pensive part In fine, you must purge.' — Re-hearsal. — It is said that Dryden resorted to purging for inspiration, and Byron himself did, purging for inspiration, and Byron himself did, or pretended to do, the same.] Page 264, line 520. 'He'll swell my fifty thou-sand to a plum.' [Cant term for £100,000.] Line 530. Is poor as Irus, or an Irush mine. 'Iro pauperior.' this is the same beggar who boxed with Ulysses for a pound of kid's fry, which he lost, and half a dozen teeth besides —See Odyssey, b. 18.—The Irish gold mine of Wicklow, which yields just ore enough to swear by or rold a had e ruinea.

by, or gild a bad guinea. Line 365 Havard's fate. For the story of Billy Havard's tragedy, see Davies's Life of Garrick. I believe it is Regulus, or Charles the First The moment it was known to be his, the theatre thinned, and the book-seller refused to give the customary sum for the copyright. Page 265, line 588. Are damn'd alike by gods, and men, and columns. [In the original MS. this couplet followed -

Though what ' Gods, men, and columns ' interdict, The Devil and Jeffrey pardon — in a Pict ]

Line 593 Eclectics To the Eclectic or Christian Reviewers I have to return thanks for the fervour of that charity which, in 1809, induced them to express a hope that a thing then published by me might lead to certain consequences, which, although natural enough, surely came but rashly from reverend lips. Line 602. 'Strike at wretched kernes' [Macbeth, v. 7.] Line 613. No jest on 'minors.' [See the memorable critique of the Edinburgh Review on Hours of Idleness, vol. vii, p 188.] Line 620. From Corydon unkind Alexis turns.

Invenies alium, si te hic fastidit, Alezin

Line 638. Jackson. [John Jackson, champion of England from 1795 to 1803, was Byron's teacher in the art.] Page 266, line 717. Pollio play'd this prank. The MS, in Mr. Murray's possession reads Rogers for Pollio.] Page 267, line 737. There lives one druid. [Cf.

English Bards, v. 741, 742.-

'Ye Druids ' rich in native lead,

Who daily scribble for your daily bread ']

Line 762. There's plenty of the sort. Here will Mr. Gifford allow me to introduce once more to his notice the sole survivor, the 'ultimus Romanorum,' the last of the Cruscanti ! - ' Edwin ' having the 'profound,' by our Lady of Punishment! here he is, as lively as in the days of 'well said Baviad the Correct.' I thought Fitzgerald had been the tail of poesy; but, alas! he is only the penultimate.

A FAMILIAR EPISTLE TO THE EDITOR OF THE MORNING CHRONICLE

'WHAT reams of paper, floods of ink. Do some men spoil, who never think ' And so perhaps you 'll say of me, In which youi leaders may agree Still I write on, and tell you why Nothing 's so bad, you can't deny, But may instruct or entertain Without the risk of giving pain, etc , etc

ON SOME MODERN QUACKS AND REFORMISTS.

In tracing of the human mind

Through all its various courses, Though strange, 't is true, we often find It knows not its resources

And men through life assume a part For which no talents they possess, Yet wonder that, with all their art, They meet no better with success, etc., etc

Page 268, line 822. Budgell's story. [Eustace Budgell (1686-1737), the friend of Addison, drowned himself in the Thames.] On his table were found these words — What Cato did, and Addison approved, cannot be wrong.' Page 268, line 22. Their murder'd sage's latest day. Socrates drank the hemlock a short time before sunset.

Page 269, line 44. The gay krosk. The kiosk is a Turkish summer-house; the palm is with-out the present walls of Athens, not far from the temple of Theseus, between which and the tree the wall intervenes. Page 270, line 122. 'When Venus half avenged Minerva's shame.' His lordship's name, and that of one who no longer bears it, are carved conspicuously on the Parthenon; above, in a part not far distant, are the torn remnants of the basso-relievos, destroyed in a vain attempt to remove them. [Lord Elgin was divorced from his first wife.]

Line 178. And own himself an infant of four-ore Mr. West, on seeing the 'Elgin Collecscore Mr. West, on seeing the 'Elgin Collec-tion' (I suppose we shall hear of the 'Aber-shaw' and 'Jack Shephard' collection), declared limself 'a mere tyro' in art. Page 271, line 182. His lordship's 'stone shop.' Poor Cribb was sadly puzzled when the marbles were first exhibited at Elgin House he asked if it was not 'a stone shop?'- He was right, it is a shop.

Line 203 Eratostratus. [For notoriety he set fire to the temple of Artemis of the Ephesians ] Line 213. Look to the Baltic. [Copenhagen was bombarded by the English in September, 1807.7

Line 221. 'Look to the East.' [Rebellions occurred in India. in 1809 and 1810.

Line 231. Barossa. [At the battle of Barossa. March 5, 1811, the Spaniards gave no assistance to their English allies. The contingent of Portuguese, however, took part in the engagement.] Lane 245. 'Blest paper credit

'Blest paper credit ! last and best supply That lends Corruption lighter wings to fly !'

POPE.

Page 272, line 264. And purates barter all that's left behind. The Deal and Dover Traffickers in specie.

Page 273, line 1. Muse of the many-twinkling feet !

'Glance their many-twinkling feet '- GRAY.

Line 21. On Hounslow's heath to rival Welles-ley's fame. [In August, 1811, a duel was fought on Hounslow's heath between Lord Kilworth and Lord Mornington, a nephew of the Duke of Wellington. Rumor connected the quarrel

With Lord Mornington's skill in dancing.] Page 274, line 25 The flow of Busby or of Fitz [Among the addresses sent in to the Drury Lane Committee was one by Dr. Busby, which began by asking -

'When energising objects men pursue

What are the prodigies they cannot do ?'

Thomas Busby (1755-1838), author of The Age of Genius, A Sature, etc. — Futz, see English

Bards, v. 1, and note ] Line 60. From Hamburg's port [After the fall of Hamburg, in 1810, the northern mails came from Gothenberg or Heligoland. Byron was never tired of saturizing the military gazettes.]

Line 75 Meiner's four volumes upon woman-ind [History of the Female Sex, by Christokind [Histor pher Meiners]

Lines 77, 78. Brunck — Heyne. [Well-known classical scholars and editors] Page 275, line 127 Egypt's Almas. Dancing girls — who do for hire what Waltz doth gratis. Line 142. Goats in their visage. It cannot be complained now, as in the Lady Baussière's time, of the 'Sieur de la Croix,' that there be no whiskers;' but how far these are indications of valour in the field, or elsewhere, may still be questionable.

Line 151 Though gentle Genlis, in her strife with Stael. [Madame Genlis, commenting on the waltz, writes, 'as a foreigner, I shall not take the liberty to censure this kind of dance; but this I can say, that it appears intolerable to German writers of superior merits who are not accused of severity of manners '- Quoted by E. H. Coleridge

Page 276, line 162 The court, the Regent, like herself were new. An anachronism - Waltz and the battle of Austerlitz are before said to have opened the ball together the bard means, (if he means any thing,) Waltz was not so much in vogue till the Regent attained the acme of his popularity. Waltz, the comet, whiskers, and the new government illuminated heaven and earth, in all their glory, much about the same time; of these the counct only has disappeared; the other three continue to astonish us still — Printer's Devil.

Line 166. New coins. Amongst others a new ninepence - a creditable coin now forthcoming, worth a pound, in paper, at the fairest calculation.

Line 168. Jenky. [Robert Banks Jenkinson, second Earl of Liverpool, Secretary at War and tor the Colonies from 1809 to 1812.] Line 177. My ----, what say you? The gentle, or ferocious, reader may fill up the blank as he pleases — there are several dissyllable names at his service, (being already in the Regent's) it would not be fair to back any peculiar initial against the alphabet, as every month will add to the list now entered for the sweepstakes: - a distinguished consonant is said to be the favorite, much against the wishes of the knowing ones

Line 211. If ' nothing follows all this palming work?' In Turkey a pertinent, here an impertinent and superfluous, question - literally put, as in the text, by a Persian to Morier, on seeing a waltz in Peia – Vide Morier's Travels. Page 277, line 11. 'The Row' [Paternoster-row, celebrated for its booksellers ]

Line 25. 'Retreshing' [This can't phrase was first used in the Edinburgh Review - probably hrst used in the Lainburgh Review — probably by Mr. Jeffrey, says the early editor. — It is a perfectly legitimate use of the word ] Page 278, hne 68 If you and she marry you'll certainly urangle. [Lady Byron was a student of mathematics Compare Don Juan, I. xvi. ff.] Page 279, hne 123 Renegade's epics, and Botherby's plays. [Southey and Sotheby — Wil-ham Sotheby (1757-1833), author of Poems (1790). besides numerous tragedies and transla-(1790), besides numerous tragedies and transla-tions, was a prominent social figure and mem-ber of the Dilettante Society. Byron wrote of ber of the Dietcante Society. Byron wrote of hum that he 'has imitated everybody, and oc-casionally surpassed his models.'] Line 125. The Old Girl's Review. ['My Grandmother's Review, the British.'] Page 280, line 156. 'Sie me servavit Apollo.'

The closing words of Horace's Satire I ix. -Sotheby is a good man - rhymes well (if not wisely); but is a bore. He seizes you by the button. One night of a rout at Mrs. Hope's, he had fastened upon me-(something about Agamemnon, or Orestes, or some of his plays) notwithstanding my symptoms of manifest dis-tress (for I was in love, and just mcked a minute when neither mothers, nor husbands, who was beautiful as the statues of the gallery where we stood at the time ) — Sotheby, I say, had seized upon me by the button and the heart-strings, and spared neither William Spencer, who likes fun, and don't dislike mischief, saw my case, and coming up to us both, cnier, saw my case, and coming up to both, took me by the hand, and pathetically bade me farewell; "for," said he, "I see it is all over with you." Sotheby then went his way "sic me servavit Apollo." - BYRON Diary, 1821.] Page 281 line 59. 'I is one in 'the Stamps'

Wordsworth was collector of stamps for Cumberland and Westmoreland.]

Line 63. I can have them at Grange's. Grange is or was a famous pastry-cook in Piccadilly Line 77. That the taste of the actors at best is

So so. ['When I belonged to the Drury Lane Committee, the number of plays upon the shelves were about five hundred. Mr. Sotheby obligingly offered us ALL his tragedies, and I pledged myself, and -notwithstanding many squabbles with my committee brethren-did get Ivan accepted, read, and the parts distri-buted. But lo! in the very heart of the matter, upon some tepid-ness on the part of Kean, or warmth on that of the author, Sotheby with-warmth on that of the atthics, Sofield while drew his play, -- BYRON Diary, 1821] Page 282, line 80. 'And fear,' as the Greek says for 'purging the mind.' [Aristotle's fa-mous canon in the Poetics] Line 116 Sir George. [Sir George Beaumont, a constant friend of Mr Wordsworth]

Line 117. My Lord Seventy-four. [James, the first Earl of Lonsdale, offered to build, and completely furnish and man, a ship of seventyfour guns, towards the close of the American war.]

Line 119. The poet, who, singing of pedlers and asses. [Compare Don Juan,III c.]

Page 283, lines 144, 145. Sir Humphry - Duke Humphry. [Sir Humphry Davy ] Line 155. Miss Diddle [Miss Lydia White,

whose hospitable functions were open to the circle of London artists and literati The name in the text must have been suggested by the Junging resemblance it bears to Lydia.] Page 285, line 57. In the first year of freedom's second dawn [George III died the 29th of January, 1820, - a year in which the revolutionary spirit broke out all over the south of Europe.]

Page 286, hne 92 Unless he left a German will. [Byron alludes to an idle story about George III., that he had secreted and destroyed the testament of George II

Page 287, hne 157 St. Bartholomew. [Tradi-tion states that he was flayed alive and then crucified head downwards ]

Page 258, line 216. By Captain Parry's crew, in 'Melville's Sound ' [See Captain Edward Parry's Voyage, in 1819-20, for the Discovery of a northwest passage — 'I believe it is al-most impossible for words to give an idea of the beauty and variety which this magnificent phenomenon displayed. The luminous arch had broken into irregular masses, streaming with much rapidity in different directions, varying continually in shape and interest, and extending themselves from north, by the east, to north, etc.']

Line 224. Johanna Southcote [The aged luna-tic, who fancied herself, and was believed by many followers, to be with child of a new Messiah, died in 1815.]

Page 290, line 364 Apicius' board. [A noted epicure of the time of Augustus and Tiberius, and author of a cook book. Though very rich, he poisoned himself from fear of starving to death.]

Page 291, line 426 It being a sort of knighthood, or gilt key. [A gold or gilt key, peeping from below the skirts of the coat, marks a lord chamberlam.]

Line 440. If that the summer is not too severe. [An allusion to Horace Walpole's expression in a letter - ' the summer has set in with its usual severity.']

Page 294, line 609. Another, that he was a duke, or knight. [Among the various persons to whom the Letters of Junius have been attributed, we find the Duke of Portland, Lord George Sackville, Sir Philip Francis, Mr. Burke, Mr. Dunning, the Rev John Horne Tooke, Mr Hugh Boyd, Dr Wilmot, etc] Page 295, line 667. 'Nominis Umbra.' [The motto of Junius is, Stat nominis umbra ]

Line 685. Skiddaw [Southey's residence was on the shore of Derwentwater, near the mountam Skiddaw.]

Page 296, line 728. Non D1, non homines. [Non homines, non d1, HORACE, Ars Poet., 372, thus translated by Martin -

' But gods, and men, and booksellers refuse To countenance a mediocre Muse ']

Line 736. Pye come again [Henry James Pye, the predecessor of Southey in the poetlaureateship, died in 1813] Page 297, line 773. Pantisocracy. [The equal rule of all the well-known utopian govern-ment which Coleridge, Southey, and others

 Janned to establish in America.]
 Line 779. Reviewing 'the ungentle craft.' See Life of Henry Kirke White.
 Line 807. Like King Alfonso. [Alfonso X., 'The Wise' (1252-1254).] Alfonso, speaking of the Ptolomean system, said, that 'had he been consulted at the creation of the world, he would have spared the Maker some absurdates.' Line 816. Off from his, 'melodious twang,' See Albrey's account of the apparition which disappeared ' with a curious perfume and a most melodious twang.' [In 1696 John Aubrey published Miscellances, a collection of chost stories.] Page 298, lines 19, 20. A few feet Of sullen earth duvide. [The grave of Fox, in Westmuster Abbey, is within eighteen inches of that of Pitt.]

Line 31. Though Alexander's urn a show be grown [A sarcophagus, of breccia, supposed to have contained the dust of Alexander, which came into the possession of the English army, in consequence of the capitulation of Alexan-dra, m February, 1802, was presented by George III. to the British Museum ]

Page 299, line 64 A surgeon's statement and an earl's harangues ' [Mr Barry O'Meara was surgeon to Napoleon at St Helena. — The Earl of Bathurst defended the government in their treatment of Napoleon, which was assailed by Lord Holland in the House of Lords, in 1817.]

Line 65. A bust delay'd. [The bust of his son.] Line 69. The paltry gaoler [Sir Hudson Lowe.]

Line 70. The staring stranger with his note-book nigh [Captain Basil Hall's interesting account of his interview with the ex-emperor occurs in his Voyage to Loo-choo.]

Line 79. And the stiff surgeon, who maintain'd his cause. [O'Meara made charges that Sir Hudson Lowe had prompted him to poison Napoleon. Byron seems to have credited the accusation.]

Line SS. And higher worlds than this are his again. [Buonaparte died the 5th of May, 1821.]

Page 300, line 128. Like Gueschn's dust [Gueschn, constable of France, died in the midst of his triumphs, before Châteauneuf de Randon, in 1380. The English garrison, which had conditioned to surrender at a certain time, marched out the day after his death; and the commander respectfully laid the keys of the fortress on the bier, so that it might appear to have surrendered to his ashes.]

Line 130. Like Ziska's drum. [John Ziska (1360-1424), a distinguished leader of the Hussites. It is recorded of him, that, in dying, he ordered his skin to be made the covering of a drum ]

Line 145. While the dark shades of forty ages stood. [At the battle of the pyramids, in July, 1798, Buonaparte said, - 'Soldiers! from the summit of yonder pyramids forty ages behold you."

Line 169. Moscow's minarets. [Referring to the attempt of Charles XII., in 1709, to reach

Moscow.] Page 301, line 203. Lutzen, where fell the Swede of victory [Gustavus Adolphus fell at the battle of Lutzen, in 1632

Line 217. And thou Isle. [The Isle of Elba ] Line 227 Hear ! hear Prometheus. I refer the reader to the first address of Prometheus in Æschylus.

Line 248. Freedom and peace to that which boasts his birth [The celebrated motto on a French medal of Franklin was, — 'Emput celo fulmen, sceptrumque tyranni.'] Page 303, hne 359. 'Iago' and close Spain'' ['Santiago y serra España!' the old Spanish warcry.

Warcry.] Line 369. Waving her more than Amazonian blade. [See note on the Maid of Saragossa, page 12, line 558.] Line 378. But lo! a Congress! [The Con-the Structure of Brussia Australian]

Prussa, etc., which assembled at Verona, u the autumn of 1822]

Line 384 Henry. [Patrick Henry, of Virgima.]

Line 419. Whose old laurels yield to new [Ippolito Pindemonte ]

Line 422 Thy good cld man. [Claudian's famous old man of Verona, 'qui suburbium nunquam egressus est.']

Page 304, line 449 Pulks. [Lapland traveling sledges.] Line 461. Many an old woman, but no Catherine. [The dexterity of Catherine extricated Peter (called the Great by courtesy), when surrounded by the Mussulmans on the banks of the river Pruth.]

Line 464. Fatal to Goths are Xeres' sunny fields. At Xeres, in 711, Roderic, the last Gothic sovevery of Spain, was defeated by the Saracens.]

Line 481. His tub hath tougher walls than Sinope. [Smope, on the Euxine, the birthplace of the cynic Diogenes.)

the cynic Diogenes.] Lune 501. In saying eloquence meant 'Action, action !' [The word is  $i\pi\delta\kappa\mu\sigma\sigmas$ , and means rather all the art of the actor. — The story is told in Plutarch's Lives of the Ten Orators ] Page 305, line 514. Calm Hartwell's green abode. [Hartwell, in Buckinghamshire — the residence of Louis XVIII. during the latter years of the Emigration.] Lune 55. That nose the head where he summed a Lane 535. That nose, the hook where he suspends the world.

Naso suspendit adunco - HORACE, Satures

The Roman applies it to one who merely was imperious to his acquaintance. Line 540. 'Pilots who have weather'd every storm.' ['The Pilot that weather'd the storm' is the burthen of a song, in honor of Pitt, by Canning.]

Page 307, line 715. And subtle Greeks [Count Capo d'Istrias, afterwards President of Greece.]

Page 308, line 730. The young Astyanax of modern Troy [Napoleon François Charles Jo-seph, Duke of Reichstadt, died at the palace of Schonbrunn, July 22, 1832, having just attained his twenty-first year.] Line 741 The martial Argus. [Count Neip-

perg, chamberlain and second husband to Maria

Louisa, had but one eye.] Line 763 She caught Sir William Curtis in a kilt ' [George the Fourth is said to have been somewhat annoyed, on entering the levee room at Holyrood (August, 1822) in full Stuart tartan, as theyrood (August, 1822) in full Staart tartan, to see only one figure similarly attired (and of similar bulk) — that of Sir Wilham Curtis ] Page 310, line 3. That tomb which, gleaning o'er the cliff A tomb above the rocks on the promontory, by some supposed the sepulchre of Themistocles.

Line 22. Sultana of the nightingale. The attachment of the nightingale to the rose is a well-known Persian fable. If I mistake not, the 'Bulbul of a thousand tales' is one of his appellations.

Page 311, line 151. Slaves — nay, the bonds-men of a slave. Athens is the property of the Kislar Aga (the slave of the seraglio and guar-dian of the women), who appoints the Way-wode. A pander and enauch — these are not polite, yet true appellations - now governs the Governor of Athens!

Page 312, line 225. Topharke. Musket. -The Bairam is announced by the cannon at sunset; the illumination of the Mosques, and the firing of all kinds of small arms, loaded with ball, proclaim it during the night.

Line 238. Rhamazam. [A month of fasting, followed by the Bairam.] Line 251. Jerreed. Jerreed, or Djerrid, a blunted Turkish javelin, which is darted from horseback with great force and precision Page 313, line 355. Ataghan. The ataghan, a long dagger worn with pistols in the belt, in a metal scabbard, generally of silver; and, among the wealthier, gilt, or of gold.

Line 357. An Emir by his garb of green. Green is the privileged colour of the Prophet's numerous pretended descendants; with them, as here, faith (the family inheritance) is supposed to supersede the necessity of good works. they are the worst of a very indifferent brood Page 314, line 389. The insect-queen of eastern spring. The blue-winged butterfly of Kashmeer, the most rare and beautiful of the species.

Line 423 Is like the Scorpion girt by fire. Alluding to the dubious suicide of the scorpion, so placed for experiment by gentle philosophers. Some maintain that the position of the sting, when turned towards the head, is merely a couvulsive movement; but others have actually brought in the verdict 'Felo de se.' Page 315, hne 468. Phingari. The moon,

Line 479. Bright as the jewel of Gramschid. The celebrated tabulous ruby of Sultan Giamschid, the embellisher of Istakhar, from its splendour, named Schebgerag, 'the torch of night;' also 'the cup of the sun,' etc. [Com-pare the line in FitzGerald's Rubaiyat: 'And Jamshyd's Sev'n-ring'd Cup where no one knows

Line 483. Though on Al-Swat's arch I stood. Al-Sirat, the bridge of breadth, narrower than the thread of a famished spider, and sharper than the edge of a sword, over which the Mus-sulmans must skate into Paradise to which it is the only entrance, but this is not the worst, the river beneath being hell itself, into which, as may be expected, the unskilful and tender of foot contrive to tumble with a 'facilis descensus Averm' not very pleasing in prospect to the next passenger. There is a shorter cut downwards for the Jews and Christians.

Line 506. Franguestan! Circassia. Page 316, line 568. Bismillah! 'In the name of God; ' the commencement of all the chapters of the Koran but one, and of prayer and thanksgiving

Line 571. Chraus. [A Turkish messenger or interpreter.] Line 593 Then curl'd his very beard with ire phenomenon not uncommon with an angry Mussulman In 1809, the Capitan Pacha's whiskers at a diplomatic audience were no less lively with indignation than a tiger cat's, to the horror of all the dragomans. Line 603. The craven cry, Amaun! Quarter, pardon.

Line 666. Palampore. The flowered shawls

Dine 600. Tailampure. The however shaws generally worn by persons of rank. Page 317, line 717. Calpac. The solid cap or centre part of the head-dress; the shawl is wound round it, and forms the turban Line 734. 'Alla Hu!' The concluding words of the Muezzin's call to prayer from the highest gallery on the exterior of the Minaret.

Line 743. Their kerchiefs green they wave. The following is part of a battle-song of the Turks 'I see — I see a dark-eyed girl of Paradise, and she waves a handkerchief, a kerchief of green; and cries aloud, "Come, kiss me, for I love thee," 'etc.

Line 748. Monkur's scythe. Monkir and Nekir are the inquisitors of the dead, before whom the corpse undergoes a slight novitiate and preparatory training for dainnation. If the answers are none of the clearest, he is hauled up with a scythe and thumped down with a red-hot mace till properly seasoned, with a variety of subsidlary probations The office of these angels is no sinccure, there are but two, and the number of orthodox deceased being in a small proportion to the remainder, their hands are always full. Page 318, line 787. Caloyer. [A monk, from the new Greek καλόγερος, a good old man.]

Line 832 Dark and unearthly is the scowl. [The remaining lines, about five hundred in number, were, with the exception of the last sixteen, all added to the poem, either during its first progress through the press, or in subsequent editions ]

Page 322, line 1273 Symar. A shroud.

Page 323. Ine 1. Know ye the land where the cypress and myrtle [These opening lines are supposed to have been suggested by Goethe's song in Wilhelm Messter. Kennst du das Land wo die citronen bluhn.] Line 8 Gúl. The rose.

Page 324, line 72. With Mennoun's tale. Mennoun and Leila, the Romeo and Junet of the East.

Line 73 Tambour. Turkish drum, which sounds at sunrise, noon, and twilight.

Tage 325, hue 144 He is an Arab to my sight. The Turks abhor the Arabs (who return the sompliment a hundred-fold) even more than they hate the Christians_____

Page 326, line 201 The line of Carasman Carasman Oglou, or Kara Osman Oglou, is the principal landowner in Turkey, he governs Magnesia. those who, by a kind of feudal tenure, possess land on condition of service, are called Timariots they serve as Spahis, according to the extent of territory, and bring a certain number into the field, generally cavalry.

Line 213. And teach the messenger what fate. When a Pacha is sufficiently strong to resist, the single messenger, who is always the first bearer of the order for his death, is strangled instead, and sometimes five or six, one after the other, on the same errand, by command of the refractory patient, if, on the contrary, he is weak or loyal, he bows, kisses the Sultan's respectable signature, and is bow-strung with great complacency.

Line 233. Chibouque. The Turkish pipe, of which the amber month-piece, and sometimes the ball which contains the leaf, is adorned with precious stones, if in possession of the wealthier orders

Line 235. Maugrabee. Moorish mercenaries. Line 236. Delis. Bravos who form the forlorn hope of the cavalry, and always begin the action

Line 251. Ollahs. 'Ollahs,' Alla 1 Allah, the 'Leilies,' as the Spanish poets call them; the sound is Ollah; a cry of which the Turks, for a silent people, are somewhat profuse, particularly during the jerreed. or in the chase, but mostly in battle.

Page 327, line 358. Within the caves of Istakar. The treasures of the Pre-Adamite Sultans. See D'Herbelot, article Istakar.

Line 374. A Musselim's control. A governor, the next in rank atter a Pacha, a Waywode is the third; and then come the Agas. Line 375. Egripo. The Negropont. According to the proverb the Turks of Egripo, the Jews of Salonica, and the Greeks of Athens, are the worst of their respective races.

Page 328, line 449 Tchecadar. One of the attendants who precedes a man of authority.

Page 329, line 47. Which Ammon's son ran proudly round. [Before the invasion of Persia, Alexander, deeming himself a descendant of Achilles, placed garlands on the tomb of the latter, and ran naked around it.] Line 65. The fragrant beads of amber. When rubbed, the amber is susceptible of a perfume, rubbed, the amber is susceptible of a perfume, which is slight but not disagreeable. Inne 72 Comboloio A Turkush rosary. Page 330, line 150. Galiongée 'Galiongée' — or Galongi, a sailor, that is, a Turkush sailor; the Greeks navigate, the Turks work the guns. Page 331, line 220 Paswan's rebel hordes. Paswan Oglou, the rebel of Widhn, who, for the best work of hy. the act the whole works of the last years of his life, set the whole power of the Porte at defiance

Line 232. They gave their horse-tails to the wind. 'Horse-tail,' the standard of a Pacha. Page 333, line 350 Lamb 3's patriots. Lam-bro Canzani, a Greek, famous foi his efforts in 1789-90 for the independence of his country; abandoned by the Russians, he became a pirate, and the Archipelago was the scene of his enterprises. He and Riga are the two most celebrated of the Greek revolutionists

Line 384. Rayahs All who pay the capita-tion tax, called the 'Haratch'

Line 388 Let me like the ocean-Patriarch roam. [Noah]

Line 409. Aden. 'Jannat al Aden,' the perpetual abode, the Mussulman paradise.

Line 431. He makes a solitude, and calls it -peare ' [Translated from the famous words in Tacitus' Agricola.]

Page 335, line 618. And mourn'd above his turan stone. A turban is carved in stone above the graves of men only

Line 627. The loud Wul-wulleh The deathsong of the Turkish women The 'silent slaves ' are the men, whose notions of decorum forbid complaint in public

Page 336, line 712. Into Zulerka's name. 'And airy tongues that syllable men's names.'- MIL-TON [Comus]. For a belief that the souls of the dead inhabit the form of birds, we need not travel to the East. Lord Lyttleton's ghost story, the belief of the Duchess of Kendal, that George I. flew into her window in the shape of a raven (see Orford's Reminiscence), and many other instances, bring this superstition nearer home

Page 344, line 440. Of fair Olympia loved and left of old. Orlando Furioso, Canto x.

Page 347, line 33. The sober berry's juice. Coffee.

Line 35. Chibouque's dissolving cloud. Pipe. Line 36. Almas. Dancing girls. Page 348, line 68. Saick. [A Turkish or Grecian vessel.]

Page 349, line 160. Zatanai Satan.

Page 350, line 225. Gulnare. A female name; means, literally, the flower of the pomegranate.

Page 353, line 451, Till even the scaffold echoes with their jest ! In Sir Thomas More, for in-stance, on the scaffold, and Anne Boleyn, in the Tower, when grasping her neck, she remarked, that it 'was too slender to trouble the headsman much.' During one part of the French Revolution, it became a fashion to leave some 'mot' as a legacy; and the quantity of facetious last words spoken during that period would form a melancholy jest-book of a considerable size.

Page 355, line 1. Slow sinks, more lovely ere his race be run. The opening lines as far as section II. have, perhaps, little business here, and were annexed to an unpublished (though printed) poem, but they were written on the spot in the spring of 1811, and -I scarce know why - the reader must excuse their appearance here if he can. [Compare the beginning of The Curse of Minerva, which was published later than the present poem.]

Page 357, line 139. His only bends in seeming o'er his beads. The combolous, or Mohametan rosary, the beads are in number ninety-nine

Page 364, line 605 And the cold flowers her colder hand contain'd. In the Levant it is the custom to strew flowers on the bodies of the dead, and in the hands of young persons to place a nosegay.

Page 366, line 1. The Serfs are glad. The reader is apprised, that the name of Lara being Spanish, and no circumstance of local and natural description fixing the scene or hero of the poem to any country or age, the word 'Serf,' which could not be correctly applied to the lower classes in Spain, who were never vassals of the soil, has nevertheless been employed to designate the followers of our fictitious chief-Byron elsewhere intimates, that he tam meant Lara for a chief of the Morea.]

Page 385, line 77 Spahi's bands. [See note on The line of Carasman, page 326, line 201] Page 386, line 141. Coumourgi. Ali Con-

mourgi, the favourite of three sultans, and Grand Vizier to Achmet III. after recovering Peloponnesus from the Venetians in one campaign, was mortally wounded in the next, against the Germans, at the battle of Peter-waradim (in the plain of Carlowitz), in Hungary, endeavouring to rally his guards. He died of his wounds next day. His last order was the decapitation of General Breuner, and some other German prisoners ; and his last words, 'Oh, that I could thus serve all the Christian dogs !' a speech and act not unlike one of Caligula He was a young man of great ambition and unbounded presumption on being told that Prince Eugene, then opposed to him, 'was a great general,' he said, 'I shall become a greater, and at his expe

Page 389, line 460. And their white tusks crunch'd o'er the whiter skull. This spectacle I have seen, such as described, beneath the wall of the Seragho at Constantinople, in the little cavities worn by the Bosphorus in the rock, a narrow terrace of which projects between the wall and the water.

Line 469 And each scalp had a single long tuft of hair. This tuft, or long lock, is left from a superstition that Mahomet will draw them into Paradise by it.

Page 390, line 522. Sent that soft and tender moan. I must here acknowledge a close though unintentional resemblance in these twelve lines to a passage in an unpublished poem of Mr. Coleridge, called Christabel It was not till after these hnes were written that I heard that wild and singularly original and beautiful poem recited; and the MS. of that production I of Mr Coleridge himself, who, I hope, is convinced that I have not been a wilful plagiarist The original idea undoubtedly pertains to Mr Coleridge, whose poem has been composed above fourteen years. Let me conclude by a hope that he will not longer delay the publication of a production, to which I can only add my mite of approbation to the applause of far more competent judges. [The following are the lines in Christabel which Byron unintentionally imitated .

> 'The night is chill, the forest bare. Is it the wind that moaneth bleak? There is not wind enough in the air To move away the ringlet curl From the lovely lady's cheek -There is not wind enough to twirl The one red leaf, the last of its clan, That dances as often as dance it can, Hanging so light, and hanging so high On the topmost twig that looks at the sky ']

Page 391, line 643. There is a light cloud by the moon. I have been told that the idea expressed in this and the five following lines has been admired by those whose approbation is valuable. I am glad of it but it is not original at least not mine ; it may be found much better expressed in pages in 182-3-4 of the English version of Vathek (I forget the precise page of the French), a work to which I have before referred; and never recur to, or read, without a renewal of gratification The following is the passage: "Deluded prince!" said the Genius, address-ing the Caliph, "to whom Providence hath supfield the care of immership subjects: 18 ing the Canpa, to whom Providence have confided the care of innumerable subjects; is it thus that thou fulfillest thy mission? Thy crimes are already completed; and art thou now hastening to thy punishment? Thou knowest that beyond those mountains Eblis and his accursed dives hold their infernal empire; and, seduced by a malignant phantom, thou art proceeding to surrender thyself to them ' This moment is the last of grace allowed thee give back Nouronahar to her father, who still retains a few sparks of life destroy thy tower, with all its abominations. drive Carathis from thy councils: be just to thy subjects:

respect the ministers of the prophet compensate for thy impleties by an exemplary life, and, instead of squandering thy days in voluptuous indulgence, lament thy crimes on the sepulchres of thy ancestors Thou beholdest the clouds that obscure the sum at the instant he recovers his splendour, if thy heart be not changed, the time of mercy assigned thee will be past forever.¹¹⁷ [Byron was throughout his hife morbidly sensitive of any charge or suspicion of plagnarism.]

Page 392, line 688. The horsetails are pluck'd from the ground. The horsetails, fixed upon a lance, a pacha's standard.

Line 717. He who first downs with the red cross. ['What vulgarism is this !--

He who first lowers, - or plucks down,' etc. - GIFFORD.]

Page 393, line 805. And since the day, when in the strait. In the naval battle at the mouth of the Dardanelles, between the Venetians and Turks.

Page 396, hne 1069 The jackal's troop I believe I have taken a poetical license to transplant the jackal from Asia. In Greece I never saw nor heard these animals, but among the ruins of Ephesus I have heard them by hundreds. They haunt ruins, and follow armies

Line 14. As twilight melts beneath the moon away. The lines contained in this section were printed as set to music some time since, but belonged to the poem where they now appear, the greater part of which was composed prior to Lara.

Fage 402 THE PRISONER OF CHILLON. When this poem was composed, I was not sufficiently aware of the history of Bonnivard, or I should have endeavoured to dignify the subject by an attempt to celebrate his courage and his virtues. With some account of his life I have been furnished, by the kindness of a citizen of that republic, which is still proud of the memory of a man worthy of the best age of ancient freedom :-

of ancient freedom : — 'François de Bonnivard, fils de Louis de Bonnivard, originaire de Seyssel et Seigneur de Lanes, naquit en 1496. Il fit ses études à Turin en 1510 Jean Aimé de Bonnivard, son oncle, lui résigna le prieuré de St. Victor, qui aboutissait aux murs de Genève, et qui formait un bénéfice considérable.

'Ce grand homme —(Bonnivard mérite ce titre par la force de son âme, la droiture de son cœur, la noblesse de ses intentions, la sagesse de ses conseils, le courage de ses démarches, l'étendue de ses connaissances et la vivacité de son esprit), - ce grand homme, qui excitera l'admiration de tous ceux qu'une vertu héroique peut encore émouvoir, inspirera encore la plus vive reconnaissance dans les cœurs des Genevois qui aiment Genève. Bonnivard en fut toujours un des plus fermes appuis : pour assurer la liberté de notre république, il ne craignit pas de perdre souvent la sienne; il oublia son repos; il méprisa les richesses, il ne négligea rien pour affermir le bonheur d'une patrie qu'il honora de son ehox. dès ce moment il la chérit comme le plus zélé de ses citoyens, il la servit avec l'intrépi dité d'un héros, et il écrivit son Histoire avec la naiveté d'un philosophe et la chaleur d'un patriote.

patriote. 'Il dit daus le commencement de son Histoire de Genève, que des qu'il eut commencé de lire l'histoire des nations, il se sentit entrainé par son goît pour les républiques, dont il épousa toujours les intérêts; c'est ce goût pour la liberté qui lui fit sans doute adopter Genève pour sa patine

'Bonnivard, encore jeune, s'annonça hautement comme le défenseur de Genève contre le Duc de Savoye et l'Evêque.

En 1519, Bonnivard devint le martyr de sa patrie; le Duc de Savoye étant entré d'ins Genève avec cinq cents homines, Bonnivaid crangint le ressentiment du Duc, il voulut se retirier à Filbourg pour en éviter les suites; mais il fut trahi par deux hommes qui l'accompagnaient, et conduit par ordre du Frince à Grolée, cù d' resta prisonner pendant deux aus. Bonnivard était malheureux dans ses voyages comme ses malheurs n'avaient point ralenti son zèle pour Genève, il était tonjours un ennemi redoutable pour ceux qui la menaçaient, et par conséquent il devait être exposé à leurs coups. Il fut rencontré en 1530 sur le Jura par des voleurs, qui le dépoullèrent, et qui le inirent encore critre les mains du Duc de Savoye ce prince le fit enfermer dans le Château de Chillon, où il resta sans être interrogé jusque en 1526, il fut alors délivré par les Bernois, qui s'empatèrent du Pays de Vaud.

Bonnivard, en sortant de sa captivité, eut le plaisir de trouver Genève libre et réformée la république s'empressa de lui témoignor sa reconnaissance, et de le dédommager des maux qu'il avait soufferts, elle le reçut bourgeois de la ville au mois de juin, 1536; elle lui donna la maison habitée autrefois par le Vicaire-général, et elle lui assigna une pension de deux cents écus d'or tant qu'il séjournerait à Genève. Il fut admis dans le Conseil des Deux-Cents en 1537...

'Il parait que Bonnivard mourut en 1570; mais on ne peut l'assurer, parcequ'il y a une lacune dans le Nécrologe depuis le mois de juillet, 1570, jusqu'en 1571.' [SENEBIER, Histoire Luttéraire de Genève.]

Lines 2, 3. Nor grew it white In a single n-ght. Ludovico Sforza, and others The same is asserted of Marie Antoinette's, the wife of Louis XVI, though not in quite so short a period. Grief is said to have the same effect co such, and not to fear, this change in hers was to be attributed.

Page 403, line 111. Chillon's snow-white battlement. The Chateau de Chillon is situated between Clarens and Villeneuve, which last is at one extremity of the Lake of Geneva On its left are the entrances of the Rhone, and opposite are the heights of the Meillerie and the range of Alps above Boveret and St. Gingo. Near it, on a hill behind, is a torrent below it, washing its walls, the lake has been fathomed to the depth of 800 feet, French measure: within it are a range of dungeens, in which the PAGES 406-437 early reformers, and subsequently prisoners of state, were confined. Across one of the vaults is a beam black with age, on which we were informed that the condemned were formerly executed. In the cells are seven pillars, or, rather, eight, one being half merged in the wall; in some of these are rings for the fetters and the fettered in the pavement the steps of Bonnivard have left their traces. He was confined here several years. It is by this castle that Rousseau has fixed the catastrophe of his Héloise, in the rescue of one of her children by Julie from the water; the shock of which, and the illness produced by the immersion, is the cause of her death. The chateau is large, and seen along the lake for a great distance. The walls are white.

Page 406, line 341. And then there was a luttle isle. Between the entrances of the Rhone and Villeneuve, not far from Chillon, is a very small island; the only one I could perceive, in my voyage round and over the lake, within its circumference. It contains a few trees (I think not above three), and from its singleness and diminutive size has a peculiar effect upon the view.

Page 407, line 56. Hetman. [A Cossack chief.]

Page 408, line 129. John Casimir. [He was proclaimed king of Poland in 1649.]

Line 157. Rich as a salt or silver mine. This comparison of a 'salt mine' may, perhaps, be permitted to a Pole, as the wealth of the country consusts greatly in the salt mines.

permitted to a Pole, as the wealth of the country consists greatly in the salt mines. Page 417, line 101. 'Brandy for herces!' [It appears to have been Dr. Johnson who thus gave honour to Cognac. —' He was persuaded,' says Boswell, 'to take one glass of claret. He shock his head, and said, "Poor stuff! — No, Sir, claret is the liquor for boys; port for men; but he who aspires to be a hero (smiling) must drink brandy."' — CROKER'S Boswell, iv. 252.] Page 419, line 1. How pleasant were the songs of Toobonai. The first three sections are taken from an actual song of the Tonga Islanders, of which a prose translation is given in Mariner's

Page 419, line 1. How pleasant were the songs of Toobonal. The first three sections are taken from an actual song of the Tonga Islanders, of which a prose translation is given in Mariner's Account of the Tonga Islands. Toobona is not however one of them; but was one of those where Christian and the mutineers took refuge I have altered and added, but have retained as much as possible of the original.

much as possible of the original. Page 421, hne 182. The desert-ship. The Oriental figure for the camel or dromedary.

Line 193 Had form'd his glorious namesake's counterpart The consul Nero who made the unequalled march which deceived Hannibal, and defeated Hasdrubal.

Page 423, line 291. And Loch-na-gar with Ida look'd o'er Troy. When very young, about eight years of age, after an attack of the scalet fever at Aberdeen, I was removed by medical advice into the Highlands Here I passed occasionally some summers, and from this period I date my love of mountainous countries. I can never foryet the effect, a few years afterwards, in England, of the only thing I had long seen, even in miniature, of a mountain, in the Malvern Hills. After I returned to Cheltenham, I used to watch them every afternoon, at sunset, with a sensation which I cannot describe. This was boyish enough; but I was then only thirteen years of age, and it was in the holdays. [Compare the verses entitled Lachny y Gar., page 117.]

Page 424, line 407. Than breathes his mimic murmurer in the shell. [Byron alludes in a note to the celebrated passage on the sea-shell in Landor's Gebr.]

Page 425, line 447. Sailor or philosopher. Hobbes, the father of Locke's and other philosophy, was an inveterate smoker, — even to pipes beyond computation.

pipes beyond computation. Page 426, hne 531. 'That will do for the marines.' 'That will do for the marines, but the salors won't believe it,' is an old saying; and one of the few fragments of former jealousies which still survive (in jest only) between these galant services.

Page 427, hne 52. No less of human bravery than the brave ' Archidamus, king of Sparta, and son of Agesilaus, when he saw a machine invented for the casting of stones and darts, exclaimed that it was the 'grave of valour.' The same story has been told of some knights on the first application of gunpowder; but the original aneodote is in Plutarch.

Page 431, line 121. Around she pointed to a spacious cave. Of this cave (which is no fiction) the original will be found in the ninth chapter of Marner's Account of the Tonga Islands. I have taken the poetical liberty to transplant it to Toobonai, the last island where any distinct account is left of Christian and his comrades.

account is left of Christian and his comrades. Page 433, line 226. The kindling askes to his kindled breast. The tradition is attached to the story of Elosa, that when her body was lowered into the grave of Abelard (who had been buried twenty years), he opened his arms to receive her.

Page 434, line 334. He tore the topmost button from his vest. In Thibault's account of Frederic the Second of Prussia, there is a singular relation of a young Frenchman, who with his mistress appeared to be of some rank. He enlisted and deserted at Schweidnitz; and after a desperate resistance was retaken, having killed an officer, who attempted to seize him after he was wounded, by the discharge of his musket loaded with a button of his uniform. Some circumstances on his court-martial raised a great interest amongst his judges, who wished to dhscover his real situation in life, which he offered to disclose, but to the king only, to whom he requested permission to write This was refused, and Frederic was filled with the greatest indignation, from baffled curiosity, or some other motive, when he understood that his request had been denied.

Page 437, line 33. My pleasant task is done. [The Gerusalemme Liberata]

Line 49. Oh Leonora! wilt not thou reply ? [Leonora d'Este, sister of the sovereign who imprisoned him from 1579 to 1586. It is not now commonly beheved that Tasso suffered for this supposed love of the princess.] Page 444, line 291. A 'Cortejo.' Cortejo is pronounced Corteho, with an aspirate, according to the Arabesque guttural. It means what there is as yet no precise name for in England, though the practice is as common as in any tramontane country whatever. Page 445, line 363. Raphael, who died in thy embrace. [Raphael died in 1520, according to a tradition vagis amoribus delectatus.]

Page 446, line 368. While yet Canova can create below.

(In talking thus, the writer, more especially

Of women, would be understood to say,

He speaks as a spectator, not officially,

And always, reader, in a modest way

Perhaps, too, in no very great degree shall he Appear to have offended in this lay,

Since, as all know, without the sex, our sonnets

Would seem unfinish'd, like their untrimm'd bonnets ) (Signed) PRINTER'S DEVIL

Line 369. ' England ' with all thy faults I love thee still.' [Cowper, The Task, ii. 206] Line 401. Oh that I had the art of easy writing.

['But easy writing's curst hard reading.'-SHERIDAN.]

Page 449, line 575. No bustling Botherbys. [Compare the sature The Blues]

Page 454, lines 127, 128. Holland deigns to own A sceptre. [The Prince of Orange re-ceived the title of King of the Netherlands in 1814.]

Page 457, line 68. And doom this body forfeit to the fire. [On the 27th of January, 1302, Dante was mulcted eight thousand hre, and condemned to two years' banishment, and in case the fine was not paid, his goods were to be confiscated. On the 11th of March, the same year, he was sentenced to a punishment due decree, that he and his associates in exile should be burned, if they fell into the hands of their enemies, was first discovered, in 1772, by the Conte Ludovico Savioh ]

Page 458, line 172. And that fatal she. [Gemma, Dante's wife, by whom he had seven children, did not follow him into exile; but there is no sufficient reason to suppose she was anything but a faithful and good wife. One feels throughout the poem that Byron is thinking a little too much of himself and his own exile ]

Page 459, line 91. Nine moons shall rise o'er scenes like this. [Referring to this siege and capture of Rome by the Constable of Bourbon, who himself perished in the assault.]

Page 461, line 46. Conquerors on foreign shores and the far wave. Alexander of Parmea, Spinola, Pescara, Eugene of Savoy, Montecucco. Line 47. Discoverers of new worlds. Columbus, Americus Vespucius, Sebastian Cabot.

Line 80. He who once enters in a tyrant's hall. [Words from Sophocles quoted by Pompey on taking his last leave of his wife and son.]

Line 83 A captive, sees his half of manhood gone [Odyssey, xvn. 322.] Page 464, line 67. The stream of his great thoughts shall spring from me. [It is well known that Michael Angelo greatly admired Dante. His copy of Dante with illustrations on the broad margins was lost at sea.] Line 87. Her charms to pontiffs proud. See the treatment of Michael Angelo by Julius II., and his neglect by Leo X. Page 465, line 141. 'What have I done to thee. my people?' ['Popule mi, quid feci tibi?'the beginning of one of Dante's letters to the people of Florence.]

Page 466, line 34. If, like Pepin, Charles had had a writer. [Referring to Saint Boniface who upheld Pepin.

Line 48. Giusaffa's. [The Valley of Jehoshaphat.]

Page 468, line 130. He took Cortana, and ther took Rondell. [Cortana, his sword; Rondell, his horse.]

Page 470, line 278. Macon. Another form of Mahound, or Mahomet

Page 481, line 192. When the moon is on the wave. [These verses were written in Switzerland, in 1816, and transmitted to England for publication, with the third canto of Childe Harold. 'As they were written,' says Moore, 'immediately after the last fruitless attempt at reconciliation, it is needless to say who was in the poet's thoughts while he penned some of the opening stanzas."] Page 482, line 312. Mix'd with the sweet bells of the sauntering herd. [The germs of this, and of several other passages in Manfred, may be found in the Journal of his Swiss tour, which Lord Byron transmitted to his sister  $\cdot e g$ . 'Sept. 19. Arrived at a lake in the very bosom of the mountains; left our quadrupeds, and ascended further, came to some snow in patches, upon which my forehead's perspiration fell like rain, making the same dents as in a sieve; the chill of the wind and the snow turned me giddy, but I scrambled on and upwards. Hobhouse went to the highest pinnacle. The whole of the mountains superb. A shepherd on a steep and very high cliff playing upon his pipe; very dif-ferent from Arcadia. The music of the cows' bells (for their wealth, like the patriarchs', is cattle) in the pastures, which reach to a height far above any mountains in Britain, and the shepherds shouting to us from crag to crag, and playing on their reeds where the steeps appeared almost maccessible, with the surrounding scenery, realised all that I have ever heard or imagined of a pastoral existence - much more so than Greece or Asia Minor, for there we are a little too much of the sabre and musket order, and if there is a crook in one hand. you are sure to see a gun in the other. but this was pure and unmixed — solitary, savage, and patriarchal. As we went, they played "Ranz des Vaches" and other airs, by way of farewell.

I have lately repeopled my mind with nature." Page 485, lines 95, 96. The sunbow's rays still arch The torrent. This iris is formed by the rays of the sun over the lower part of the Alpine torrents. it is exactly like a rainbow come down to pay a visit, and so close that you may walk into it: this effect lasts till noon.

Page 486, lines 186, 187. He who from out their fountain dwellings raised Eros and Anteros. [While Jamblicus was bathing with his scholars in the hot baths of Gadara, he summoned up Eros and Anteros from two springs which bore

The names of these love gods.] Page 487, line 276. The Spartan Monarch drew. [The story is related in Plutarch's Life of Cimon. Pausanias murdered the virgin Cleonice by mistake in the night, thinking she was an enemy. He was haunted by her image until at Heraclea he invoked her spirit and ob-tained this information, that 'he would soon be delivered from all his troubles, after his return to Sparta.' The oracle was fulfilled by death.] Page 491. MANFRED, ACT III., SCENE I. [The third Act, as originally written, being shown to Mr. Gifford, he expressed his unfavorable opinion of it very distinctly; and Mr. Murray transmitted this opinion to Lord Byron. The result is told in the following extracts from his letters. 'Venice, April 14, 1817 — The third Act is certainly d-d bad, and, like the Archbishop of Grenada's homily (which savoured of the palsy), has the dregs of my fever, during which it was written. It must on no account be published in its present state. I will try and reform it, or re-write it altogether, but the impulse is gone, and I have no chance of making any thing out of it. The speech of Manfred to the Sun is the only part of this Act I thought good myself, the rest is certainly as bad as bad can be, and I wonder what the devil possessed me I am very glad indeed that you sent me Mr. Gifford's opinion without deduction Do you suppose me such a booby as not to be very much obliged to him? or that I was not, and am not, convinced and convicted in my conscience of this same overt act of norsense? I shall try at it again, in the mean time, lay it upon the shelf — the whole Drama I mean. — Recollect not to publish, upon pain of I know not what, until I have tried again at the third act. I am not sure that I shall try, and still less that I shall succeed if I do.' - ' Rome, May 5. -I have re-written the greater part, and returned what is not altered in the proof you sent me. The Abbot is become a good man, and the Spirits are brought in at the death You will find, I think, some good poetry in this new Act, here and there; and if so, print it, without sending me farther proofs, under Mr. Gifford's correction, if he will have the goodness to overlook it.'] Line 13. Line 13. The sought 'Kalon' found [The beautiful, the summum bonum of human existence.

Page 492, line 56 Against your ordinances? prove and punish' [Thus far the text stands as originally written. The sequel of the scene, as given in the first MS., 1s as follows -

Abbot Then, hear and tremble ' For the headstrong wretch

Who in the mail of innate hardihood Would shield himself, and battle for his sins,

There is the stake on earth, and beyond earth eternal -

Man. Charity, most reverend father,

Becomes thy lips so much more than this menace, That I would call thee back to it but say,

What wouldst thou with me?

Abbot It may be there are Things that would shake thee — but I keep them back. And give thee till to-morrow to repent

Then if thou dost not all devote thyself

To penance, and with gift of all thy lands

Man I understand thee, — well? Abbot Expect no mercy, I have warn'd thee. Man (opening the cashet) S

. Stop--

There is a gift for thee within this casket. [MANFRED opens the casket, strikes a light, and burns some incense

Ho ! Ashtaroth !

The DEMON ASHTABOTH appears, singing as follows : -

The raven sits

On the raven-stone,

And his black wing flits O'er the milk-white bone

To and fro, as the night-winds blow,

The carcass of the assassin swings,

And there alone, on the raven-stone, The raven flaps his dusky wings

The fetters creak - and his ebon beak

Croaks to the close of the hollow sound;

And this is the tune, by the light of the moon, To which the witches dance their round —

Merrily, merrily, cheerily, cheerily, Merrily, merrily, speeds the ball The dead in their shrouds, and the demons in clouds, Flock to the witches' carnival.

Abbot I fear thee not — hence — hence — Avaunt thee, evil one ' — help, ho ! without there ! Man Convey this man to the Shreckhorn — to its peak -

To its extremest peak — watch with him there Fiom now till sunrise; let him gaze, and know He ne'ei again will be so near to heaven.

But harm him not, and, when the morrow breaks, Set him down safe in his cell - away with him !

Ash Had I not better bring his brethren too, Convent and all, to bear him company?

Man No, this will serve for the present. Take him up Ash Come, friar ' now an exorcism or two, And we shall fly the lighter.

ASHTAROTH disappears with the ABBOT, singing as follons:

A produgal sor, and a maid undone, And a widow re-wedded within the year, And a worldly monk, and a pregnant nun, Are things which every day appear.

MANFRED alone

Man Why would this fool beak in on me, and force My art to pranks fantastical? — no matter, It was not of my seeking My heart sickens, And weighs a fix'd foreboding on my soul But it is caim — caim as a sullen sea After the hurricane, the winds are still, But the cold waves swell high and heavily, and there is danger in Withem Such a rest And there is danger in them Such a rest Is no repose My life hath been a combat And every thought a wound, till I am scarr'd In the immortal part of me — What now ?]

Line 88. When Rome's sixth emperor was near his last. [See Suctomus' Life of Nero, xlix.] Page 493, lines 176, 177. The grant sons Of the embrace of angels. Genesis, ch. vi, verses 2 and 4.

Page 494, line 248. The Lady Astarte, his. The drama originally proceeded thus ..

Look - look - the tower -Her. The tower's on fire Oh, heavens and earth ' what sound, What dreadful sound is that? [A crash like thunder. Manuel Help, help, there '- to the rescue of the Count, -

The Count's in danger, — what ho' there ! approach ! [The Servants, Vassals, and Peasantry approach, stupefied with terron.

If there be any of you who have heart,

And love of human kind, and will to aid

Those in distress — pause not — but follow me-The portal 's open, follow [MANUEL [MANUEL goes in Come - who follows? Her

What, none of ye? — ye recreants ! shiver then Without I will not see old Manuel risk

[HERMAN goes in. His few remaining years unaided. Hark !-Vassa

No — all is silent — not a breath — the flame Which shot forth such a blaze is also gone What may this mean? Let's enter!

Faith, not I, -Peasant

Not that, if one, or two, or more, will join, I then will stay behind, but, for my part,

I do not see precisely to what end Vassal. Cease your vain prating come Manuel (speaking within) 'T is all in vain -He's dead

Her (within) Not so - even now methought he moved.

But it is dark — so bear him gently out — Softly — how cold he is ! take care of his temples

In winding down the staircase

Re-enter MANUEL and HERMAN, bearing MANFRED in their arms

Manuel. Hie to the castle, some of ye, and bring What aid you can Saddle the barb, and speed For the leech to the otty — quick's ome water there! Her His check is black — but there is a faint beat

Still lingering about the heart Some water [They sprinkle MANFRED with water, after a pause, he gives some signs of life. Manuel. He seems to strive to speak — come — cheerly, Count!

He moves his lips — canst hear him? I am old, And cannot catch faint sounds

[HERMAN inclining his head and listening. I hear a word Her

Or two-but indistinctly - what is next?

What's to be done? let's bear him to the castle. [MANFRED motions with his hand not to remove him Manuel He disapproves - and 't were of no avail -He changes rapidly

Her 'T will soon be over. Manuel Oh what a death is this ' that I should live

To shake my grey hairs over the last chief Of the house of Sigismund ! — And such a death !

Alone — we know not how — unshrived — untended — With strange accompaniments and fearful signs — I shudder at the sight — but must not leave him

Man (speaking family and slowly). Old man ' 't is not so difficult to die.

[MANFRED, having said this, expires. Her His eyes are fix'd and lifeless - He is gone. Manuel Close them - My old hand quivers. - He

Page 500, line 31. The Avogadori. The

Avogadori were three in number they were the conductors of criminal prosecutions on the part of the state; and no act of the councils was valid, unless sanctioned by the presence of one of them.]

Page 501, line 91. The following words. ['Marino Faliero, della bella moglie — altri la gode, ed egli la mantiene.' (SANUTO.) — Meaning 'Marino Faliero, of the fair wife, another enjoys her, and he maintains her.

Page 502, Ine 201. Dandolo. [Enrico Dan-dolo, the great Doge, ruled from 1192 to 1205. When Constantinople was taken by the Crusaders, Dandolo might have been emperor in place of Baldwin of Flanders.] Page 505, line 379 The chief of the arsenal.

[This officer was chief of the artisans of the arsenal, and commanded the Bucentaur, for the safety of which, even if an accidental storm should arise, he was responsible with his life. He mounted guard at the ducal palace during an interregnum, and bore the red standard before the new Doge on his inauguration.]

Page 507, line 522. Saint Mark's shall strike that hour ! The bells of San Marco were never rung but by order of the Doge. One of the pretexts for ringing this alarm was to have been an announcement of the appearance of a Geno-

Lane 535. The Pozzi and the Prombi. [The 'wells' and 'leaden roofs' just referred to ] Page 508, line 601. Near to the church where sleep my stres. ['The Doges to were all buried in St. Mark's before Faliero. it is singular that when his immediate predecessor, Andrea Dandolo, died, the ten made a law that all the future doges should be buried with their families, in their own churches, - one would think by a kind of presentiment. So that all that is said of his Ancestral Doges, as buried at St. John's and St. Paul's, is altered from the fact, they being in St. Mark's. Make a note of this, and put Editor as the subscription to it. As I make such pretensions to accuracy, I should not like to be twitted even with such trifles on that score. Of the play they may say what they please, but not so of my costume and dram. pers. — they having been real existences. ray, October 12, 1820.] Does 509. line 59. The dying Roman said,

Page 509, line 59. The dying Roman said, ''t was but a name.' [The words of Brutus, ac cording to Dio Cassius.]

Page 520, lines 132, 133. They think them-selves Engaged in secret. An instorical fact. Page 533, line 352 San Polo. The Doge's family palace.

Page 538. BENINTENDE. ['In the notes to Marino Faliero, it may be as well to say that Benintende was not really of the Ten, but merely Grand Chancellor, a separate office, although an important it was an arbitrary alteration of mine.'- BYRON, Letter to Murray,

October 12, 1820.] Page 539, line 93. On festal Thursday. 'Giovedi grasso' - 'fat or greasy Thursday,' -which I cannot literally translate in the text, was the day

Line 102. Let their mouths be gagg'd. Historical fact.

Page 542, line 308. Conscript fathers. The Venetian senate took the same title as the Roman, of 'conscript fathers.' Page 544, lmes 450, 451. Like to the courte-san Who fired Persepolis. [At the instigation of Thais, Alexander set fire to Persepolis after a revel in 331 B. C.] Page 548, line 704. 'T is with age, then. This was the actual reply of Bailli [Jean Bailly, who was guillotined November 10, 1793], maire of Paris, to a Frenchman who made him the same reproach on his way to execution, in the earliest part of their revolution. I find in reading over (since the completion of this tragedy), for the first time these six years, Venice Preserved, a similar reply on a different occasion by Renault, and other coincidences arising from the subject. I need hardly remind the gentlest reader, that such coincidences must be acci-dental, from the very facility of their detection by reference to so popular a play on the stage and in the closet as Otway's chef-d'œuvre. _____Lne 754. When the Hebrew 's in thy palaces.

The chief palaces on the Brenta now belong to the Jews.

The dews. Page 549, line 794. Thou den of drunkards with the blood of princes! Of the first fifty Doges, five abdicated — five were banished with their eyes put out — five were MASSACRED — and nine deposed.

Page 550 SARDANAPALUS. [Byron based his drama on a passage in Diodorus Siculus ii., which reads as follows 'This prince surpassed all his predecessors in effeminacy, luxury, and cowardice. He never went out of his palace, but spent all his time among a company of women, dressed and painted like them, and employed like them at the distaff. He placed all his happiness and glory in the possession of immense treasures, in feasting and rioting, and indulging himself in all the most infamous and criminal pleasures. He ordered two verses to be put upon his tomb, signifying that he carried away with him all he had eaten, and all the pleasures he had enjoyed, but left everything else behind him - an epitaph, says Aristotle, fit for a hog. Arbaces, governor of Media, having found means to get into the palace, and having with his own eyes seen Sardanapalus in the midst of his infamous seraglio, enraged at such a spectacle, and not able to endure that so many brave men should be subject to a prince more soft and effeminate than the women themselves, immediately formed a conspiracy against him. Beleses, governor of Babylon, and several others, entered into it. On the first rumour of this revolt, the king hid himself in the inmost part of his palace. Being after-wards obliged to take the field with some forces which he had assembled, he at first gained three successive victories over the enemy, but was afterwards overcome, and pursued to the gates of Nineveh ; wherein he shut himself, in hopes the rebels would never be able to take a city so well fortified, and stored with provisions for a considerable time. The siege proved, indeed, of very great length. It had been de-clared by an ancient oracle that Nineveh could never be taken, unless the river became an enemy to the city. These words buoyed up Sardanapalus, because he looked upon the thing as impossible. But when he saw that the Tigris, by a violent inundation, had thrown down twenty stadia (two miles and a half) of the city wall, and by that means opened a passage to the enemy, he understood the meaning of the oracle, and thought himself lost. He resolved, however, to die in such a manner as, according to his opinion, should cover the infamy of his scandalous and effeminate life He ordered a pile of wood to be made in his palace, and setting fire to it, burnt himself, his eunuchs, his women, and his treasures.'] Page 555, line 299. 'Eat, drink, and love; the rest's not worth a fillup.' 'A monument representing Sardanapalus was found there [at Anchialus], warranted by an inscription in Assyrian characters, of course in the old Assyrian language, which the Greeks, whether well or ill, interpreted thus "Sardanapalus, son of Anacyndaraxes, in one day founded Anchialus and Tarsus. Eat, drunk, play. all other human joys are not worth a fillip." Supposing this version nearly exact (for Arrian says it was not quite so), whether the purpose has not been to invite to civil order a people disposed to turbulence, rather than to recommend immoderate luxury, may perhaps reasonably be questioned.'- MITFORD'S Greece, 1x. 311. Page 573, line 145. Bring the nurror. ['In the third act, when Sardanapalus calls for a mirror to look at himself in his armour, recollect to quote the Latin passage from Juvenal upon Otho (a similar character, who did the same thing).'-Byron, Letter to Murray, May 30, 1821.-The lines in the Second Satire are thus translated by Gifford : -

• This grasps a mirror — pathic Otho's boast (Auruncan Actor's spoil), where, while his host, With shouts, the signal of the fight required,

He view'd his mailed form , view'd, and admired !

Lo, a new subject for the historic page,

A MIRBOR, 'midst the arms of civil rage ! ']

Page 590, line 200. Some twenty stadia. About two miles and a half Page 595. THE TWO FOSCARI [A para-graph from W. R. Thayer's Short History of Vence will throw some both on the test. [A paraenice will throw some light on the state of affairs and on the particular events which underlie this play: 'We feel that the old Venice is pass-ing away. Instead of the sureness with which she had held aloof from foreign complications, there is now indecision. The old-time statesman was a helmsman, who knew every headland by day and the pilot stars by night. But the new statesmen were jugglers, each trying to keep a dozen balls in the air - so many were the interests and so swift the changes The spirit of the Renaissance also, that solvent of mediævalism, is working, and at Venice as elsewhere its first effect is to liberate the intellect without strengthening the morals. Political corruption, for which Foscari's election had set an ominous precedent, has grown common. In 1433 a ring, numbering more than fitty patricians, bent on securing offices for themselves and their friends, is discovered and smashed. Ten years later (1444), the Doge's own son, Jacopo, is convicted of taking bribes. The Council of Ten banshes him to Nauplia, but he has already fied to Trieste. In 1447 the Doge implores that his son may be permitted to re-turn, and the Ten consent, adding that the old man cannot properly attend to public affairs so long as his mind is distracted by worry for his son. Jacopo returns, but he falls under suspicion of abetting the assassination of one of the chiefs of the Ten, and although no direct evidence is recorded against him, he is ban-ished to Candia. There he intrigues with the Sultan to free him, 15 found out, and brought back to Venice for trial. He offers no defence, and the Ten, unwilling to execute the sentence of death which some of the court suggest, condemn him to perpetual banishment. In bidding farewell to his son, the Doge breaks down in agony, and this separation, which proved to be final (Jacopo died in 1457), leaves the aged Foscari a wreck. Enfeebled with years and stricken with grief, he neglects his ducal duties, and the Ten compel him, in spite of his protest, to abdicate. As he quits the Palace, they would alcate. As no quite the Later, and would screen him from the bitterness of facing the populace; but with unabated pride he replies: "No, no! I will go down by the stair by which I came up to my dogeship". Seven days later I came up to my dogeship'' Seven days later he died (November 1, 1457)'] Page 598, line 204. High-born dame! [She was Lucrezia Contarini -

"A daughter of the house that now among Its ancestors in monumental brass Numbers eight Doges '- ROGERS ]

Page 602, line 54. ' The Bridge of Sighs.' [An anachronism, the bridge was not built at this time.]

Page 610, lines 172, 173 That malady Which calls up green and native fields. The calenture.

[A distemper peculiar to sailors in hot climates.] Line 177. That melody, which out of tones and tunes [The Ranz des Vaches] Page 619, line 297. 'There often has been gues-tion about you.' An historical fact. Page 625. [The Doge drops down and dies.

[The death of the elder Foscari took place not at the Palace, but in his own house ; not immediately on his descent from the Giants' Stairs, but five days afterwards ]

Page 626, line 368. That he has pard me! 'L'ha pagata.' An historical fact. [Here the original MS. ends. The two hnes which follow were added by Gifford.]

Page 640, line 293. Let He. [Byron apparently had a genius for bad grammar. The curious thing is that Gifford and Murray should have let such solecisms slip through the press.]

Page 653. Enter the ANGEL of the Lord. 'If Carn be "blasphemous," Paradise Lost is blasphe us. . . . Cain is nothing more than is blasphe a drama, not a piece of argument. . . I have even avoided introducing the Deity, as in Scripture (though Milton does, and not very wisely either), but have adopted his Angel as sent to Cain instead, on purpose to avoid shock-ing any feelings on the subject by falling short of what all uninspired men must fall short in. viz., giving an adequate notion of the effect of the presence of Jehovah.' - BYRON, Letter to Murray, February 8, 1822. - A curious speci-men of Byron's reverence for sacred things ]

Page 655, line 40. Albeit thou watchest with the seven.' The archangels, said to be seven in number, and to occupy the eighth rank in the celestial hierarchy

Page 062, line 541. The scroll of Enoch. The book of Enoch, preserved by the Ethiopians, is said by them to be anterior to the flood.

Page 671. WERNER. [The Canterbury Tales, in five volumes (1797-1805), were by Harriet and Sophia Lee. The German's Tale appeared in the fourth volume, by Harriet ] Page 685, line 124. The black bands. [Bands of brigands made up of the remnants of the Swedish army after the evacuation of Bohemia, in 1649.]

Incode, J. Inne 139. Your Wallenstein, your Tilly, etc. [Commanders of the Imperial and Swedish Armies during the Thirty Years' War.] Page 691, line 514 The Ravenstone. The Ra-venstone, 'Rabenstein,' is the stone gibbet of Germany, and so called from the ravens perching on it. Page 699, line 259. Like Theban brethren. For the quarrel of Eteocles and Polymces, see Æschylus's Seven against Thebes.

Page 705, line 46 Ask that at Magdebourg. Soldiers and citizens of Magdeburg were ruthlessly slain by Tilly's men at the sege in 1631.] Page 708, line 236. In Prague for peace re-stored. [The Treaty of Prague, May 30, 1635.]

Page 722, line 1. Our, hunchback / [Byron evidently has in mind the taunts cast at him by his mother for his own deformity.]

Line 23 The nupple next day sore and udder dry. [A vulgar error For a very amusing contro-versy on the subject, see Gent. Mag. vols. lxxx. and Ixxxi.]

Page 726, line 267. The unshorn boy of Peleus. Achilles. For the allusion to the niver Sperchius (the accent should be on the penult), see Iliad, xxm. 141

Page 730, line 526. And blooming aspect, Huon. [Compare Sotheby's Oberon; or, Huon de Bordeaux.]

Line 573. Bourbon. [Charles of Bourbon was cousin to Frances I., and Constable of France. Being bitterly persecuted by the queen-mother for having declined the honor of her hand, and also by the king, he transferred his services to the Emperor Charles V. In 1527 he was at the head of the mixed army of Italians, Spaniards, and Germans which besieged and took Rome. He himself was killed by a shot, as told in the Play.] Page 735, line 55. Ye who weep o'er Carthage burning. Scipio, the second Africanus, is said to have repeated a verse of Homer, and wept over the burning of Carthage. He had better have granted it a capitulation.

Page 745. DEDICATION. ['As the Poem is to be published anonymously, omit the Dedication. I won't attack the dog in the dark. Such things are for scoundrels and renegadoes like himself.' - BYRON'S Revise.] Page 745, line 16. I wish he would explain his Explanation. [Coleridge's Biographia Litera-ria appeared in 1817.]

Line 46. And Wordsworth has his place in the Excise. Wordsworth's place may be in the Customs — it is, I think, in that or the Excise. -besides another at Lord Lonsdale's table, where this poetical charlatan and political parasite licks up the crumbs with a hardened alacrity; the converted Jacobin having long sub-sided into the clownish sycophant of the worst prejudices of the aristocracy.

Page 746, line 86. And heartless daughters — worn — and pale — and poor. 'Pale, but not cadaverous;' — Milton's two elder daughters are said to have robbed him of his books, besides cheating and plaguing him in the economy of his house, etc., etc. His feelings on such an outrage, both as a parent and a scholar, must have been singularly painful. Hayley compares him to Lear. See part third, Life of Multon, by W. Hayley (or Hailey, as spelt in the edition before me).

Line 88. The intellectual eunuch Castlereagh. 0r, -

Would he subside into a hackney Laureate -

A scribbling, self-sold, soul-hired, scorn'd Iscariot?

I doubt if 'Laureate' and 'Iscariot' be good rhymes, but must say, as Ben Jonson did to Sylvester, who challenged him to rhyme with -

'I John Sylvester,

Lay with your sister '

Jonson answered, 'I, Ben Jonson, lay with your wife.' Sylvester answered, 'That is not rhyme '-- 'No,' said Ben Jonson, 'but it is true.' [Viscount Castlereagh, Marquis of Londonderry, for a number of years leader of the ultra-tory party, and pursued by Byron with inveterate hatred as being the bitter and unscrupulous opponent of the revolutionary spirit. See Preface to Canto vi ]

Page 747, line 117. Eutropius of its many masters. For the character of Eutropius, the eunuch and minister at the court of Arcadius, see Gibbon. [Chap xxx1] Line 132. 'T is that I still retain my 'buff and blue' [Mr Fox and the Whig Club of his time adopted a uniform of blue and buff. hence the coverings of the Edinburgh Review, etc.]

Line 136 Is it not so, my Tory, ultra-Julian. I allude not to our friend Landor's hero, the arly yclept 'The Apostate.' Line 7. We all have seen him, in the panto-mime. [Byron alludes to the pantomime called Difference of the pantomime called Don Juan, or The Libertine Destroyed, adapted from Shadwell's Libertine ]

Page 748, line 85. For her Feinagle's were an useless art. [Professor Feinagle, of Baden, who, m 1812, under the especial patronage of the 'Blues,' delivered a course of lectures at the Royal Institution, on Mnemonics.]

Line 89. Her favourite science was the mathe-matical. [Byron said of Lady Byron that she had 'good ideas but could never express them; wrote poetry also, but it was only good by accident. Her letters were always engmatical, often unintelligible. She wasgoverned by what she called fixed rules and principles squared mathematically.'

Page 749, line 116. Sir Samuel Romilly. [This eminent Chancery lawyer lost his lady on the 29th of October, and committed sucide on the 2d of November, 1818. — 'But there will come a day of reckoning, even if I should not live to see it. I have at least seen Romilly shivered, When that man who was one of my assassins was doing his worst to uproot my whole family, tree, branch, and blossoms - when, after taking my retainer, he went over to them - when he was bringing desolation on my household gods-did he think that, in less than three vears, a natural event - a severe, domestic, but an expected and common calamity - would lay his carcass in a cross-road, or stamp his name in a verdict of lunacy !' - ΒΥRON, Letter to Murray, June 7, 1819] Lune 123. Mrs Trimmer's books. ['My Royal

Mistress was all condescension to me. She gave me Mrs. Trimmer's excellent book of the Eco-nomy of Charity' - FANNY BURNEY'S Diary, October, 1787.] Lane 124. Cælebs' Wife.' [By Hannah

More.]

Page 752, line 333. Although Longinus tells us there is no hymn. See Longinus, Section 10, ' ἶνα μή ἕν τι περι αὐτὴν πάθος φαίνηται, παθῶν δὲ σύνοδος ' [The first stanza of the hymn is thus translated by Gladstone: -

> ' Him rival to the gods I place, Him loftier yet, if loftier be, Who, Lesbia, sits 'efore thy face, Who listens and who looks on thee.']

Line 351. They only add them all in an appen-dix. Fact! There is, or was, such an edition, with all the obnoxious epigrams of Martial placed by themselves at the end

Page 753, line 375. As Saint Augustine in his fine Confessions. See his Confessions, 1 1. c ix. By the representation which St Augustine gives of himself in his youth, it is easy to see that he was what we should call a rake. He avoided the school as the plague; he loved nothing but gaming and public shows; he robbed his father of everything he could find; he invented a thousand lies to escape the rod, which they were obliged to make use of to punish his irregularities. Page 755, line 508. ('T was snow that brought Fage 755, line 505. (Twas show that orbugin St. Anthony to reason.) For the particulars of St. Anthony's recipe for hot blood in cold weather, see Mr. Alban Butler's Lives of the Saints.

Line 567. Armida's fairy art. [See the episode of Armida and Rinaldo in Tasso's Gerusalemme Liberata.

Page 757, line 701. The bard I quote from aces not sing amiss. Campbell's Gertrude of Wyoming—(I think)—the opening of Canto Second—but quote from memory. [ii. 1-4.] Page 762, line 1030. Congreve's rockets. [A kind of explosive shell invented by Sir William Congreve.]

Page 763, line 1089. 'For God's sake, Madam — Madam — here's my master' ['To-

Madam — Madam — here's my master' ['To-night, as Countess Guicciol observed me porng over Don Juan, she stumbled by mere chance on the 137th stanza of the First Canto, and ked me what it meant. I told her, "Nothing, — but your husband is coming." As I said this in Italian with some emphasis, she started up in a fright, and said, "Oh, my God, is he coming?" thinking it was her own. You may suppose we laughed when she found out the suppose we laughed when she found out the mistake. You will be amused, as I was; -it happened not three hours ago, -BYRON, Letter to Murray, November 8, 1819.] Page 765, line 1177. 'Was it for this that no Cortejo e'er.' The Spanish 'Cortejo' is much the same as the Italian 'Cavalier Servente.'

Line 1184. Who took Algiers, declares I used him vilely? Donna Julia here made a mis-take. Count O'Reilly did not take Algiers. but Algiers very nearly took him : he and his army and fleet retreated with great loss, and not much credit, from before that city, in the year 1775.

year 1775. Page 767, line 1328. With maudian Clarence in his Malmsey butt. [See Richard III. I. iv.] Page 770, line 1512. Who to Madrid on pur-pose made a journey. [Murray's edition of 1903 here gives from the MS. the following seven stanzas as first written by Byron: —

'T was a fine cause for those in law delighting — 'T is pity that they had no Brougham in Spain, Famous for always talking, and ne'er fighting, For calling names and taking them sgain, For blustering, bungling, trimming, wrangling, writ-ıng,

Groping all paths to power, and all in vain-Losing elections, character, and temper, A foolish, clever fellow — Idem semper '

II

Bully in Senates, skulker in the Field, The Adulterer's advocate when duly feed, The libeller's gratis Counsel, dirty shield Which Law affords to many a dirty deed; A wondrous Warnor against those who yield -A rod to Weakness, to the brave a reed — The Beneficie grazenbart the Brunesie fee

The People's sycophant, the Prince's foe,

And serving him the more by being so.

Tory by nurture, Whig by Circumstance, A Democrat some once or twice a year,

Whene'er it suits his purpose to advance His vain ambition in its vague career

A sort of Orator by sufferance,

Less for the comprehension than the ear . With all the arrogance of endless power, Without the sense to keep it for an hour

IV

Above him, hanging by a single hair, On each harangue depend some hostile Swords,

And deems he that we always will forbear "

Although Defiance oft declined affords A blotted shield no Shire's true knight would wear. Thersites of the House, Parolles of Law, The double Bobadill takes Scorn for Awe

How noble is his language - never pert -How grand his sentiments which ne'er run riot !

As when he swore 'by God he 'd sell his shirt To head the poll!' I wonder who would buy it,

The skin has passed through such a deal of dirt

In groveling on to power — such stains now dye it = So black the long-worn Lion's hide in hue, You 'd swear his very heart had sweated through

VI

Panting for power — as harts for cooling streams — Yet half afraid to venture for the draught,

A go-between, yet blundering in extremes, And tossed along the vessel fore and aft; Now shunking back, now midst the first he seems,

Patriot by force, and coultisan by craft, Quick without wit, and violent without strength ---A disappointed Lawyer, at full length.

A strange example of the force of Law.

And hasty temper on a kindling mind --Are these the dreams his young Ambition saw ? Poor fellow ' he had better fai been blind !

I'm sorry thus to probe a wound so raw

But, then, as Bard my duty to Mankind, For warning to the rest, compels these raps As Geographers lay down a Shoal in Maps ]

Page 772, lines 1689, 1690. 'Non ego hoc ferrem calidà juventà Consule Planco.' [ I should not have borne this in the heat of youth when Plan-Horace, Odes, III. xiv 27. cus was consul It should be calidus.]

Page 773, hne 1721. My days of love are over; me no more.

Me nec femina, nec puer

Jam, nec spes animi credula mutui,

Nec certare juvat mero, Nec vincire novis tempora floribus

[HOR Odes, IV i 29]

Page 774, line 1772. ' The world will find thee after many days.' [Southey, The Lay of the Laureate, L'Envoy.]

Page 775, line 56. Excepting the Venetian Fazzioli. Fazzioli – literally, little handker-chiefs – the veils most availing of St Mark.

chiefs — the vells most availing of St Mark. Page 777, line 185. The ship, call'd the most holy 'Trunulada.' ['In 1799, while Lord Byron was the pupil of Dr. Glennie, at Dulwich, among the books that lay accessible to the boys was a pamphlet, entitled. Narrative of the Shipur eck of the Juno on the Coast of Arracan, in the Year 1795. The pamphlet attracted but little public stitution but amount to sume the dust of Dul attention, but, among the young students of Dulwich Grove it was a favourite study; and the impression which it left on the retentive mind of Byron may have had some share, perhaps in suggesting that curious research through all the various accounts of Shipwrecks upon record.

by which he prepared himself to depict, with such power, a scene of the same description in Don Juan.' - MOORE.

'With regard to the charges about the Shipwreck, I think that I told you and Mr. Hobhouse, years ago, that there was not a circumstance of it not taken from fact; not, indeed, from any single shipwreck, but all from actual facts of different wrecks." — BYRON, Letter to Murray, August 23, 1821.] Page 784, lune 658. Remember Ugolino condescends.

Quandò ebbe detto ciò, con gli occhi torta Riprese il teschio misero co' denti, Che furo all' osso, come d' un can forti

[Thus translated by Wright -

'This said - aside his vengeful eyes were thrown, And with his teeth against the skull he tore, And with his teetn against one under the second sec

Page 791, line 1096. My grand-dad's ' Narratwe? [The account of a journey around the world written by Byron's grandfather and en-titled A Narrative of the Honourable John Byron.

Page 799, line 1608. Some play the devil, and then write a novel. [Alluding to Lady Caroline Lamb's Glenaryon, in which she pilloried Byron for his alleged desertion of her.

Page 800, line 1056. So said the royal sage Sar-danapalus. [Compare Byron's Sardanapalus, act I., scene 11. — Athenæus (vill. 14, Yonge's translation) quotes the epitaph thus

'Knowing that you as mortal, feed your soul

On barquets and delights, for in the grave There's no enjoyment left I now am dust

Who once was king of mighty Nineveh, The things which I did eat, the joys of love, The unsolent thoughts with which my wealth did fill me.

Are all I now have left , for all the power

And all the happiness is gone forever this is the only prudent rule of life, I never shall forget it, let who will

Hoard boundless treasures of uncounted gold >

Page 802, line 75. Dante and Milton. Dante calls his wife, in the Inferno, 'la fiera moglie.' - Milton's first wife ran away from him within the first month. If she had not, what would John Milton have done?

Page 803, line 88. Meant to personify the mathematics [The mathematical disposition of his wife seems to have haunted Byron like the memory of a nightmare. Why?] Page 807, line 360. 'For none likes more to bear himself converse.'

Rispone allor' Margutte, a dir tel tosto, Io non credo piu al nero ch' all' azzurro , Ma nel cappone, o lesso, o vuogli ai rosto, E credo alcuna volto anco nel burro . E credo tacina volo ancina vol

Page 809, line 505. The hangings of the room were tapestry. ['Almost all Don Juan is real life, either my own, or from people I knew.

By the way, much of the description of the furniture, in Canto 3d, is taken from Tully's Tripoli (Narrative of a Ten Years' Residence in Tripoli in Africa).' - BYRON, Letter to Mur-ray, August 23, 1821.] Page 810, line 568. That e'er by precious metal was hold in Thus dress is Mooriel, and the

This dress is Moorish, and the was held in bracelets and bar are worn in the manner de-scribed. The reader will perceive hereafter, that as the mother of Haidée was of Fez, her Line 570. A like gold bar above her instep roll'd. The bar of gold above the instep is a mark of sovereign rank in the women of the families of the deys, and is worn as such by their female relatives.

Line 580 Her person if allow'd at large to run. This is no exaggeration. they were four women whom I remember to have seen, who possessed their hair in this profusion, of these, three were English, the other was a Levantine. Their hair was of that length and quantity, that, when let down, it almost entirely shaded the person, so as nearly to render dress a superfluity Of these, only one had dark hair, the Oriental's had, perhaps, the lightest colour of the four

Page 812, line 695. The Scian and the Teian muse [Homer, 'the blind old bard of Scio's rocky isle,' and Anacreon of Teos.] Line 700 Than your sires' 'Islands of the Blest.' The viron µaxápow of the Greek poets were supposed to have been the Cape de Verd Islands or the Canaries Page 814 line 840. Empered two partners

Page 814, line 840 Espoused two partners (milliners of Bath) [Coleridge married Sarah Fricker, Southey married her sister Edith]

Line 852. Joanna Southcote's Shiloh, and her sect. [The followers of this fanatic are said to have amounted, at one time, to a hundred thousand. She amounced herselt as the mother of a second Shiloh, whose speedy advent she confidently predicted. A cradle of expensive materials was prepared for the expected pro-digy. Dr. Reece and another medical man attested her dropsy, and many were her dupes down to the moment of her death, in 1814.]

Line 880 And drivels seas to set it well afloat.

There's something in a flying hoise, There's something in a huge balloon , But through the clouds I'll never float Until I have a httle boat,' etc — WORDSWORTH, Peter Bell.

Page 815, line 896 Can sneer at him who drew 'Achitophel'' 'The verses of Diyden, once so highly celebrated, are forgotten.'-Mr. W. WORDSWORTH'S Preface [1815].

Line 9.35. And Dryden's lay made haunted ground. [Alluding to Dryden's Theodore and Honoria, which is based on Boccaccio.]

Line 945. Oh, Hesperus ' thou bringest all good things. [Compare the fragment of Sappho, féomepe, πάντα φέρων, κ. τ λ] Page 810, line 960. Ah! surely nothing dies but something mourns.

Era gia l' ora che volge disio,

A' naviganti, e 'ntenerisce il cuore

Lo di ch' han detto a' dolci amici a dio, E che lo nuovo peregiin' d' amore Punge, se ode Squilla di lontano, Che paia 'l giorno planger che si muore. DANTE, Purgatory, canto vin

This last line is the first of Gray's Elegy, taken by him without acknowledgment.

Line 965. Some hands unseen strew'd flowers upon his tomb. See Suetonius for this fact. Page 817, line 89. 'Whom the gods love die young,' was said of yore. See Herodotus. [The quotation is from Menander. Byron no doubt has in mind the famous story of Cleobis and Biton, Herodotus, 1. 31.]

Page 823, line 465. A vein had burst, and her sweet lips' pure dyes. This is no very uncom-mon effect of the violence of conflicting and different passions.

Page 826, line 604. (Bryant says the contrary.) [Dissertation concerning the War of Troy, by Jacob Bryant.]

Line 640. But sold by the impresario at no high rate. This is a fact. A few years ago a man engaged a company for some foreign theatre, embarked them at an Italian port, and carry-ing them to Algiers, sold them all. One of the women, returned from her captivity, I heard sing, by a strange coincidence, in Rossini's opera of L'Italiana in Algieri, in Venice, in the beginning of 1817.

Page 827, line 687. From all the Pope makes yearly 't would perplex. It is strange that it should be the Pope and the Sultan, who are the chief encouragers of this branch of trade women being prohibited as singers at St. Peter's, and not deemed trust-worthy as guardians of the harem.

Page 829, line 824. While weeds and ordure rankle round the base. The pillar which records the battle of Ravenna is about two miles from the city, on the opposite side of the river to the road towards Forli. Gaston de Foix, who gained Page 831, line 18. The ocean stream. 'Ωκεανδο if a stream of the str péoco. This expression of Homer has been much criticised. It hardly answers to our Atlantic ideas of the ocean, but is sufficiently applicable to the Hellespont and the Bosphorus, with the Egean intersected with islands Line 35. 'T is a grand sight from off 'the Giant's Grave.' The 'Giant's Grave' is a height on the Asiatic shore of the Bosphorus, much frequented by heliday parties, like Harrow and Highgate.

Page 835, line 247. Of food I think with Philip's son, or rather. See Plutarch in Alex., Q. Curt. Hist Alexand., and Sir Richard Clay-ton's Critical Inquiry into the Life of Alexander the Great.

Line 262. And, running out as fast as I was able. The assassination alluded to took place on the 8th of December, 1820, in the streets of Ravenna, not a hundred paces from the resi-dence of the writer. The circumstances were as described. [See Byron's Letter to Moore, Becember 9, 1820.] Page 836, lme 318. The carque. The light and elegant wherries plying about the quays of Constantinople are so called.

Page 837, line 348. From Saint Bartholomew we have saved our skin. [St. Bartholomew is said to have been flayed alive ]

Page 838, line 424. Prepared for supper with a glass of rum. In Turkey nothing is more common than for the Mussulmans to take several glasses of strong spirits by way of appetizer. I have seen them take as many as six of raki before dinner, and swear that they dined the better for it I tried the experiment, but fared like the Scotchman, who having heard that the birds called kittiwakes were admirable whets, ate six of them, and complained that 'he was no hungrier than when he be an.'

Line 435. Splendid but silent, save in one, where, dropping. A common furniture I recollect being received by Alı Pacha in a large room, paved with marble, containing a marble basin, and a fountain playing in the centre. etc., etc. Line 440. As wondering what the devil a noise that is. [An 'a' has been inserted in the present text before 'noise.' The scansion shows that the common text has some such omission.]

Page 839, line 480. And the calumniated queen Semiramis. Babylon was enlarged by Nimrod, strengthened and beautified by Nabuchadonosor, and rebuilt by Semiramis. Line 503. And 'Et sepulchri immemor struis domos.

[' But you, with thoughtless pride elate, Unconscious of impending fate.

Command the pillar'd dome to rise, When, lo ! the tomb forgotten lies.

HORACE, Od II xviii, translated by Francis ]

Page 842, line 695. The gate so splendid was in all its features. Features of a gate - a min-isterial metaphor: 'the feature upon which this question hinges' See the Fudge Family by Moorel, or hear Castlereagh. Page 843, line 736. 'A good deal practised here upon occasion' A few years ago the wife of Muchtar Pacha complained to his father of his son's supposed infidelity . he asked with whom, and she had the barbarity to give in a list of the twelve handsomest women in Yanina. They were seized, fastened up in sacks, and drowned in the lake the same night. One of the guards who was present informed me, that not one of the victims uttered a cry, or showed a symptom of terror at so sudden a 'wrench from all we know, from all we love.'

Page 844, hne 842. Though on more thorough-bred or fairer fingers. There is nothing, perhaps, more distinctive of birth than the hand. It is almost the only sign of blood which aristocracy can generate.

Page 850, line 1176. Save Solyman, the glory of their line. It may not be unworthy of remark, that Bacon, in his essay on Empire, hints that Solyman was the last of his line; on what authority, I know not. These are his words: 'The destruction of Mustaphor was so fatal to Solyman's line, as the succession of the Turks from Solyman, until this day, is suspected to be untrue, and of strange blood ; for that Selymus the second was thought to be suppositions.' But Bacon, in his historical authorities, is often inaccurate. I could give half a dozen instances from his Apothegms only.

Page 852, line 2. 'Which, - taken at the flood,' you know the rest. [See Julius Cæsar, IV.

iii.] Page 853, line 56. Who lent his lady to his friend Hortensius. Cato gave up his wife Martia to his friend Hortensius; but, on the death of the latter, took her back again. This conduct was ridiculed by the Romans, who ob-served, that Martia entered the house of Hor-Served, that marine entered the house of Hor-tensins very poor, but returned to the bed of Cato loaded with treasures. — PLUTARCH. Page 854, hne 96. A 'Bed of Ware.' [See Twelfth Night, III. ii.] Line 100. To those sad hungry jacobins the

'Your worm is your only emperor for worms. diet we fat all creatures else, to fat us; and we fat ourselves for maggots. Your fat king, and your lean beggar, is but variable service; two dishes but to one table. that's the end.' - Hamlet.

Line 104. (A 'Highland welcome' all the wrde world over.) See Waverley [chap. xx.]. Line 134. In his monastic concubine of snow.

'The blessed Francis, being strongly solicited one day by the emotions of the flesh, pulled off his clothes and scourged himself soundly being after this inflamed with a wonderful fervour of mind, he plunged his naked body into a great heap of snow. The devil, being overcome, re tired immediately, and the holy man returned victorious into his cell.' - See Butler's Lives of the Saints.

Line 336, 'Medio tu tutissimus ibis.' [The doctrine is sufficiently Horatian, but the words, minus the 'tu,' are in Ovid, Met. ii. 137.] Page 855, line 210. The tyrant's wish, 'that mankind only had.' Caligula - see Suetonius.

manking only had.' Cangua — see Subtomus. 'Being in a rage at the people, for favouring a party in the Circensian games in opposition to him, he cried out, ''I wish the Roman people had but one neck.''' Page 856, line 225. The lovely Odalisques. The ladies of the seragilo. Porce 857 line 312. They would order to Page 857, line 312. They would prefer to Padisha or Pacha Padisha is the Turkish title of the Grand Signior.

Page 861, line 595. A 'wood obscure,' like that where Dante found.

Nell, mezzo del' cammin' di nostra vita

Mi ritroval per una selva oscura, etc - Inferno.

Page 868, line 65. The fortress is call'd Ismail, and is placed [Byron's account of the capture of Ismail, in 1790, follows pretty closely the Histoire de la Nouvelle Russie.]

Line 96. Forty feet high, upon a cavalier.

[Casemate: A vault of stone or brickwork, usually built in the thickness of the rampart of a fortress, and pierced in front with embrasures. through which artillery may be fired — Century Dict. Barbette: The platform or breastwork of a fortification, from which cannon may be fired over the parapet instead of through embrasures.

over the parapet instead of through embrasures. - Ibid Cavalier: A raised work commonly situated within the bastion. - Ibid.] Page 871, line 243. Their Delhis mann'd some boats, and sail'd again. ['Properly madmen: a species of troops who, in the Turkish army, act as the forlorn hope.' - D'HERBELOT.] Page 873, line 408. Was teaching his recruits to use the bayonet. Fact Suwaroff did this in person.

Page 879, line 64. All sounds it pierceth Allah ' Allah ! Hu ! ' Allah Hu ! is properly the war cry of the Mussulmans, and they dwell on the last syllable, which gives it a wild and peculiar effect.

Line 70. 'Carnage' (so Wordsworth tells you) is God's daughter.

'But Thy 1 most dreaded instrument

In working out a pure intent, Is man array'd for mutual slaughter;

 Wea, Carnage is thy daughter ''
 WonDsworth's Thanksgiving Ode [ afterward omitted by Wordsworth ] Lines

Page 880, line 144. Was printed Grove, although his name was Grose. A fact. see the Waterloo As name as of our in that is the time to a friend · 'There is fame ' a man is killed, hus name is Grose, and they print it Grove ' I was at college with the deceased, who was a very amiable and clever man, and his society in great request for his wit, gaiety, and 'Chansons à boire.'

Page 881, line 179. (The antiquarians who can settle time.) See General Valancey and Sir Lawrence Parsons

Line 200. 'T is pity' that such meaning should pave hell.' The Portuguese proverb says that hell is paved with good intentions.' Page 882, line 264. By thy humane discovery, Friar Bacon. Gunpowder is said to have been discovered by this friar.

Page 890, line 776. That you and I will win St. George's collar. A Russian military order. Page 855, line 1064. 'Ismail's ours.' In the original Russian -

'Slava bogu ' slava vam ' Krepost Vzala y 1a tam , '

a kind of couplet; for he was a poet. Page 896, line 1. Oh, Wellington ! (or 'Villainton '-for Fame.)

[M de Villainton a tout pris, Point d'argent dans la ville de Paris, etc. DE BERANGER ] Line 8. Humanity would rise, and thunder 'Nay!' Query - Ney? - PRINTER'S DEVIL. Page 897, hne 40. And 'Europe's Liberator'

¹ To wit, the Deity's · this is perhaps as pretty a pedi-gree for murder as ever was found out by Garter King at Arms — What would have been said, had any freespoken people discovered such a lineage

-still enslaved. Vide Speeches in Parhament, after the battle of Waterloo.

Inne 44. A slice or two from your luxurious meals. I at this time got a post, being for ta-tigue, with four others. — We were sent to break biscuit, and make a mess for Lord Wellington's hounds. I was very hungry, and thought it a nounds. I was very nungry, and though the good job at the time, as we got our own fill while we broke the biscuit, — a thing I had not got for some days. When thus engaged, the Produgal Son was never once out of my mind; and I sighed, as I fed the dogs, over my humbled situation and my runed hopes.' - Journal of a Soldier of the 71st Regt. during the war in Spain.

Page 898, line 145. 'But heaven,' as Cassio 'is above all.' See Othello [II. 111. Loosely says, quoted as usual].

Page 899, line 210. I've heard them in the Ephesian ruins how!. In Greece I never saw or heard these animals; but among the ruins of Ephesus I have heard them by hundreds.

Page 900, line 264. Because he could no more digest his dinner. He was killed in a conspiracy, after his temper had been exasperated by his extreme costivity to a degree of insanity Page 902, line 376. And had just buried the fair-faced Lanskoi. He was the grande passion of the grand Catherine. See her Lives under the head of 'Lanskoi' Lane 387. Bid Ireland's Londonderry's Mar-quess show. This was written long before the suicide of that person.

Page 903, line 433. Oh thou 'teterrima causa' of all 'bella.' [Hor Sat. I. ni.] Page 904, line 503 'A man' (as Giles says), for though she would widow all. ['His fortune swells him, it is rank, he's married.' - Sir Giles Overreach ; MASSINGER'S New Way to pay old Debts

Page 906, line 632. Of several ribands, and some thousand peasants. A Russian estate is always valued by the number of the slaves upon it.

Page 909, line 99. The 'reformadoes.' 'Re-formers,' or rather 'Reformed' The Baron Bradwardine in Waverley is authority for the word.

Line 115. The endless soot bestows a tint far deeper. Query, suit ? - PRINTER'S DEVIL. Line 139. The Dee, the Don, Balgoune's brig's black wall. The brig of Don, near the 'and toun' of Aberdeen, with its one arch, and its black deep salmon stream below, is in my memory as yesterday. I still remember, though peihaps I may misquote, the awful proverb which made me pause to cross it, and yet lean over it with a childish delight, being an only son, at least by the mother's side The saying as recollected by me was this, but I have never heard or seen it since I was nine years of age . -

Brig of Balgounie black 's your wa'.

Wi' a wife's ae son, and a mear's ae foal, Doun ye shall fa'.

Page 910, line 195. With his Agrarian laws the high estate. Tiberius Gracchus, being tribune of the people, demanded in their name the execution of the Agrarian law; by which all persons possessing above a certain number of acres were to be deprived of the surplus for the benefit of the poor citizens.

Page 911, line 265 Oh for a forty-parson power to chant. A metaphor taken from the forty-horse power' of a steam-engine. That mad wag, the Reverend Sydney Smith, sitting by a brother clergyman at dinner, observed afterwards that his dull neighbour had a 'twelve-parson power' of conversation. Page 912, line 286 To strip the Saxons of their hydes, like tanners. I believe a hyde of land to be a legitimate word, and, as such, subject to the tax of a quibble.

Page 913, line 391. When, a new Iphigene, she went to Tauris. The empress went to the Crimea, accompanied by the Emperor Joseph, in the year - I forget which. [1787]

Page 914, hne 460. Which gave her dukes the graceless name of Biron.' In the Empress Anne's time, Biren, her tavourite, assumed the name and arms of the 'Birons' of France, which families are yet extant with that of England. There are still the daughters of Courland of that name; one of them I remember seeing in England in the blessed year of the Allies (1814)—the Duchess of S —to whom the English Duchess of Somerset presented me as a namesake.

Page 915, line 495. Eleven thousand maidenheads of bone. St. Ursula and her eleven thousand virgins were still extant in 1816, and may be so yet, as much as ever.

Page 918, line 670 A male Mrs Fry. [Elizabeth Fry, the Quaker lady, whose benevolent exertions effected so great a change in the condition of the female prisoners in Newgate ]

Page 920, Inc 100, Juan, who saw the moon's late minion bleed. ['Falstaff. Diana's foresters, gentlemen of the shade, minions of the moon. and let men say, we be men of good government; being governed as the sea is, by our noble and chaste mistress the moon, under whose coun-tenance we - steal.' - IV. Henry, I. ii ]

Line 123. Oh! for a glass of max! [Gin or Hollands.

Line 133. A kiddy upon town. ['A thief of the lower order, who, when he is breeched by a course of successful depredation, dresses in the extreme of vulgar gentility, and affects a knowingness in his air and conversation, which renders him in reality an object of ridicule.'-

VAUX, Vocabulary of the Flash Languages.] Page 921, line 152 So prime, so swell, so nutty, and so knowing. ['Ken, a house that harbours thieves. - Spellken, the play-house. bours threves.— Spelicen, the play-nouse.— Queer a flat, to puzzle or confound a gull, a silly fellow.— Toby-spice, etc., robbery on horse-back.—Lark, fun or sport of any kınd.— Blowing, a pick-pocket's trull.—Swell, gentle-manly.—Nutty: to be nuts upon, is, to be very much pleased or gratified with, anything; thus, a percent who conceives a strong redundion for a person who conceives a strong inclination for another of the opposite sex is said to be quite nutty upon him or her.' - VAUX ] The advance of science and of language has rendered it unnecessary to translate the above good and true English, spoken in its original purity by the se-lect mobility and their patrons The following is a stanza of a song which was very popular, at least in my early days ...

'On the high toby-spice flash the muzzle, In spite of each gallows old scout, If you at the spellken can't hustle, You'll be hobbled in making a Clout.

'Then your Blowing will wax gallows haughty, When she hears of your scaly mistake, She'll surely turn snitch for the forty — That her Jack may be regular weight '

If there be any gemman so ignorant as to re-quire a traduction, I refer him to my old friend and corporeal pastor and master, John Jackson, Esq., Professor of Pugilism; who, I trust, still retains the strength and symmetry of his model of a form, together with his good hu-mour, and athletic as well as mental accomplishments.

Page 922, line 232. St. James's Palace and St. James's 'Hells.' 'Hells,' gaming-houses What their number may now be in this life, I know not. Before I was of age I knew then pretty accurately, both 'gold' and 'silver' I was once nearly called out by an acquaintance, because when he asked me where I thought that his soul would be found hereafter, I an-swered, 'In Silver Hell.' Page 923, line 340 Anent. 'Anent' was a Scotch phrase meaning 'concerning' - ' with regard to ', it has been made English by the Scotch novels; and, as the Frenchman said, 'If it be not, ought to be English.' Page 924, line 385. The milliners who furnish 'drapery Misses.' This term is probably any thing now but a mystery It was, however, almost so to me when I first returned from the East in 1811-1812 It means a pretty, a highborn, a fashionable young female, well in-structed by her fuends, and furnished by her milliner with a wardrobe upon credit, to be re-paid, when married, by the husband. The riddle was first read to me by a young and pretty heiress, on my praising the 'drapery' of the 'untochered' but 'pretty virginities' (like Mrs. Anne Page) of the then day, which has now been some years yesterday : she assured me that the thing was common in London; and as her own thousands, and blooming looks, and rich simplicity of array, put any suspicion in her own case out of the question, I confess I gave come credit to the allegation. If necessary, authorities might be cited; in which case I could quote both 'drapery' and the wearers.

Let us hope, however, that it is now obsolete. Page 925, line 454. The very Reverend Rowley Powley. [George Croly, preacher and tragedian.]

Line 456. A modern Ancient Pistol - by the hilts. [The following stanza was afterwards added  $\cdot$  —

Still he excells that artificial hard

Labourer in the same vineyard, though the vine

Yields him but vinegar for his reward — That neutralized dull Dorus of the Nine, That swarthy Sporus, neither man nor bard, That ox of verse, who ploughs for every line · — Cambyses' loaring Romans beat at least The howing Habmers of Cybelet avior The howling Hebrews of Cybele's priest

The allusion is to H. H. Milman.]

Line 458. Sets up for being a sort of moral me. [Some reviewer had bestowed the title of a Moral Byron' on Mr. Bryan Procter, author of Dramatic Sketches, etc., etc., all published under the name of 'Bairy Cornwall']

Line 471. 'Tis strange the mind, that very fiery particle

Divinæ particulam auræ. [HORACE, Sat II. n. 79]

Page 926, line 508. And Centaur Nessus garb of mortal clothing.

> Illita Nesseo misi tibi texta veneno [OVID, Epist ix 163

I have sent thee a robe infected with the venom of Nessus.

Page 927, line 564. A sort of sentimental bogle. Scotch for goblin.

Page 928, hue 612. And where is 'Fum' the Fourth, our 'royal bird ?' [See Moore's Fum and Hum, the Two Birds of Royalty, appended to his Fudge Family ] Page 929, line 662. I have seen a Congress do-ing all that's mean. [The Congress at Verona, in 1822] Line 673 But 'carpe diem,' Juan, 'carpe, carpe!' ['Carpe diem, quàm minimum credula postero.' - HORACE, Od. I xi 8. - Snatch the day, and trust not in the morrow.]

Page 930, line 33. The shirtless patriots of Spain. The Descamisados.

Line 41. Liberal Lafitte. [Jacques Lafitte, Governor of the Bank of France.]

Page 932, line 151. And Mitford in the nine-teenth century. See Mitford's Greece 'Græcia ' Græcia Verax ' His great pleasure consists in praising tyrants, abusing Plutarch, spelling oddly, and writing quaintly, and what is strange, after all, his is the best modern history of Greece in any language, and he is perhaps the best of all modern historians whatsoever. Having named his sins, it is but fair to state his virtues learning, labour, research, wrath, and partiality. I call the latter virtues in a writer, because they make him write in earnest.

Page 934, line 293. A hazy widower turn'd of forty's sure This line may puzzle the commentators more than the present generation. Page 9.38, line 558. 'Bos piger' [Lazy ox.

Horace, Epist. I xiv. 43.] Page 93, line 581. Like Russians rushing from hot baths to snows The Russians, as is well known, run out from their hot baths to plunge into the Neva; a pleasant practical antithesis, which it seems does them no harm. Page 940, line 654 Which flash'd as far as where the musk-bull browses. For a description and print of this inhabitant of the polar region and native country of the Auroræ Boreales, see Pairy's Voyage in search of a North-west Pas Salae

Line 666. A Prince. [The Prince Regent, afterwards George IV.] Line 688. As Philip's son proposed to do with Athos. A sculptor projected to hew Mount Athos into a statue of Alexander, with a city in one hand, and, I believe, a river in his pocket, with various other similar devices. But Alexander's gone, and Athos remains, I trust ere long to look over a nation of freemen. Page 942, line 50 Right honestly, 'he liked an honest hater !' [Alluding to the well-known saying of Dr. Johnson's.] Line 98. To venture a solution: 'Davus sum!' ['Davus sum, non Cedipus 'I'm an ignorant slave, not Œdipus. — TERENCE, Andria, I. u ] Page 943, line 138. 'But do you more, Sem-pronius - don't deserve it.

[' 'T is not in mortals to command success

But we'll do more, Sempronius - we'll deserve it' ADDISON, Cato.]

Page 944, line 201. Also there bin another pious reason.

'With every thing that pretty bin, My lady, sweet, arise ' SHAKSPEARE [Cymbeline, II III]

Line 209. I might have chosen Piccadilly. [Byron himself lived here during the years 1815 and 1816.]

Page 946, line 353. 'Arcadians both.' 'Ar-cades ambo.' [Virgil, Ecl. vii. 4.] Page 947, line 373. 'Cosi viaggino i Ricchi!'

Page 947, line 373. Thus the rich travel."

Page 948, line 433. To Norman Abbey. [Here follows a description of Newstead Abbey.]

Page 950, line 564. Or wilder group of savage Salvatore's. Salvator Rosa. The wicked necessity of rhyming obliges me to adapt the name to the verse.

Line 575. Makes me feel quite Danish. If I err not, 'your Dane' is one of Iago's catalogue of nations 'exquisite in their drinking.'

Page 951, line 621. The plains of Dura. In Assyria.

Line 655. The very Siria of the spheres. Siria, i. e. bitch-star.

Page 952, line 730 Longbow from Ireland, Strongbow from the Tweed. [Curran and Erskine.

Page 953, line 768. 'That Scriptures out of church are blasphemies.' Mrs. Adams answered Mr. Adams, that it was blasphemous to talk of Scripture out of church.' This dogma was broached to her husband - the best Christian in any book. - See Joseph Andrews.

Page 954, line 848. Should have a hook, and a small trout to pull it. It would have taught him humanity at least. This sentimental savage, whom it is a mode to quote (amongst the novelists) to show their sympathy for innocent sports and old songs, teaches how to sew up frogs, and break their legs by way of experiment, in addition to the art of angling, — the cruelest, the coldest, and the stupidest of pretended sports. They may talk about the beauties of nature, but the angler merely thinks of his dish of fish, he has no leisure to take his eyes from off the streams, and a single bite is worth to him more than all the scenery around. Besides, some fish bite best on a rainy day. The whale, the shark, and the tunny fishery have somewhat of noble and perilous in them; even net fishing, traw-hing, etc. are more humane and useful. But angling! - No angler can be a good man. -'One of the best men I ever knew, - as humane, deheate-minded, generous, and excel-lent a creature as any in the world, — was an angler true, he angled with painted flies, and would have been incapable of the extravagancies of I. Walton.' The above-addition was made by a friend in reading over the MS. -Audi alteram partem.'- I leave it to counterbalance my own observation. Page 958, line 167. 'Vetabo Cereris sacrum qui vulgarıt.' [Horace, Od. III ii. 26. Byron quotes from memory and not with perfect accuracy. Gladstone thus translates.

One, Ceres, blabs thy sacred rite No common roof for him with me,

No common bark to tempt the sea ']

Page 959, line 259. And never craned. Cran-ing. - 'To crane' 18, or was, an expression used to denote a gentleman's stretching out his neck over a hedge, 'to look before he leaped;' — a pause in his 'vaulting ambition,' which in the field doth occasion some delay and execration in those who may be immediately behind the equestrian sceptic. Sr, if you don't choose to take the leap, let me'' — was a phrase which generally sent the aspirant on again; and to good purpose · for though ' the horse and rider might fall, they make a gap through which, and over him and his steed, the field might follow Line 280. Ask'd next day, ' If men ever hunted twice ?' See his Letters to his Son.

Page 961, line 384. Go to the coffee-house, and take another. In Swift's or Horace Walpole's letters I think it is mentioned that somebody, regretting the loss of a friend, was answered by an universal Pylades: When I lose one, I go to the Saint James's Coffee-house, and take another.' I recollect having heard an anecdote of the same kind. - Sir W. D. was a great gamester. Coming in one day to the club of which he was a member, he was observed to look melancholy. 'What is the matter, Sir William?' cried Hare, of facetous memory. 'Ah !' re-plied Sir W, 'I have just lost poor Lady D.'-Lost! What at? Quinze or Hazard?' was the consolatory rejoinder of the querist. Page 963, line 472 And I refer you to wise Oxenstiern. The famous Chancellor Oxenstiern [1583-1654] said to his son, on the latter expressing his surprise upon the great effects arising from petty causes in the presumed mystery of politics: 'You see by this, my son, with how httle wisdom the kingdoms of the world are governed.' [The true story is ; - young Oxenstiern, on being told he was to proceed on some diplomatic mission, expressed his doubts of his own fitness for such an office. The old Chancellor, laughing, answered, - 'Nescis, mi fili, quantulâ scientiă gubernatur mundus.'] Page 965, line 600. Or Swiss Rousseau, cry ·Voilà la Pervenche!' See La Nouvelle Hélorse.

Line 609. 'Beatus ille procul !' from 'nego-tiis.' Horace, Epod. ii. 1. ['Noscitur à socus' is not in Horace.]

Line 657. Shut up the bald-coot bully Alexander ! [The bald-coot is a small bird of prey in marshes. The Emperor Alexander was haldısh ]

Page 969, line 64. 'A draft on Ransom.' [Ransom, Kinnaird, and Co. were Lord Byron's bankers.] Page 970, line 138. Great Socrates? And thou, Diviner still. As it is necessary in these times to avoid ambiguity, I say that I mean, by 'Diviner still,' CHRIST. If ever God was man — or man God — he was both. I never arraigned his creed, but the use - or abuse -made of it. Mr Canning one day quoted Christianity to sanction negro slavery, and Mr. Wilberforce had little to say in reply. And was Christ crucified, that black men might be scourged? If so, he had better been born a Mulatto, to give both colours an equal chance of freedom, or at least salvation. Lune 161 'Omnia vult belle Matho dicere — dic aliquando.' [Martial, x 46. — Vult should be vis, Byron as usual quotes loosely. — Elphinstone thus translates. -

'Thou finely wouldst say all? Say something well Say something ill, if thou wouldst bear the bell ?]

Page 972, line 273. When Rapp the Harmo-nust embargo'd marriage. This extraordinary and flourishing German colony in America does not entirely exclude matrimony, as the 'Shakers' do; but lays such restrictions upon it as prevents more than a certain quantum of births prevents more than a certain quantum of births within a certain number of years, which births (as Mr. Hulme observes) generally arrive 'in a little flock like those of a farmer's lambs, all within the same month perhaps.' These Har-monists (so called from the name of ther settlement) are represented as a remarkably flourishing, pious, and quiet people. See the various recent writers on America Page 974, line 386. Of Brutus at the pageant of Tiberus. See Tacitus, b. vi. [From this passage is derived the common saying, conspicuous by his absence.]

Page 976, line 515. Wines too, which might again have slain young Ammon [Referring to the death of Alexander, reputed to be the son of Zeus Ammon ]

Line 527. While great Lucullus' Robe tri-umphal muffles. A dish 'à la Lucullus.' This hero, who conquered the East, has left his more extended celebrity to the transplantation of cherries (which he first brought into Europe), and the nomenclature of some very good dishes, - and I am not sure that (barring indigestion) he has not done more service to mankind by his cookery than by his conquests. A cherry-tree may weigh against a bloody laurel; besides, he has contrived to earn celebrity from both Line 544. There's pretty picking in those 'pe-its puts.' 'Petits puts d'amour garnis des confitures,'—a classical and well-known dish for part of the flank of a second course.

Page 979, Inc 722. As Eldon on a lunatic com-mission. [John Scott, Earl of Eldon, Chancel-lor of England (with the intermission of fourteen months) from 1801 to 1830.]

Page 980, line 768. The philosopher of Malms-bury. Hobbes: who, doubting of his own soul, paid that compliment to the souls of other people as to decline their visits, of which he had some apprehension. Line 2. To draw the bow, to ride, and speak the truth. [Xenophon gives an elaborate account of the education of the Persian youth, but the particular fact to which Byron here re-fers is from Herodotus, i 136.] Line 10. 'For this effect defective comes by cause.' Hamlet, Act II sc. in Page 981, hne 40. Quiets at once with 'quia impossible.' [The phrase is from Tertullian's Deformed and the second second second second second second become the second se

De Carne Christi.

Line 49 I merely mean to say what Johnson said. [That the dead are seen no more,' said Imlac, 'I will not undertake to maintain, against the concurrent and unvaried testimony of all ages, and of all nations. There is no people, rude or unlearned, among whom apparitions of the dead are not related and believed. This opinion, which prevails as far as human nature is diffused, could become universal only by its truth; those that never heard of one another would not have agreed in a tale which nothing but experience can make credible. That it is doubted by single cavillers, can very little weaken the general evidence; and some, who deny it with their tongues, confess it with their fears.'- Rasselas, chap. xx1 Line 85. Titus exclaim'd, 'I've lost a day!'

['Remembering once at dinner that during the whole day he had granted a favour to no one, whole day he had granted a tayour to no one, he uttered the memorable and deservedly praised words "Friends, I have lost a day." — SUETONIUS, Titus, vii.] Page 985, line 281. 'Oh! have you never heard of the Black Friar?' ['During a visit to New-stead, in 1814, Lord Byron actually fancied he saw the ghost of the Black Friar, which was supposed to have haunted the Abbey from the time of the dissolution of the monasteries.' -MOORE.]

Page 986, line 391. For a spoil'd carpet. I think it was a carpet on which Diogenes trod, with — 'Thus I trample on the pride of Plato!' — 'With greater pride,' as the other replied. But as carpets are meant to be trodden upon, my memory probably misgives me, and it might be a robe, or tapestry, or a table-cloth, or some other expensive and uncymcal piece of furniture.

Page 987, line 442. The 'Bath Guide.' [The famous New Bath Guide of Christopher Anstey.] Line 448. 'Bouts rimés.' [The last words or rhymes of a number of verses given to a poet to be filled up.]

Page 988, line 520. For Gothic daring shown in English money. 'Ausu Romano, zre Veneto' is the inscription (and well inscribed in this instance) on the sea walls between the Adriatic and Venice. The walls were a republican work of the Venetians, the inscription, I believe, Imperial, and inscribed by Napoleon the First. It is time to continue to him that title—there will be a second by and by, 'Spes altera mundi,' if he live; let him not deteat it like his father. But, in any case, he will be preferable to Imbeciles. There is a glorious field for him, if he know how to cultivate it.

field for him, if he know how to cultivate it. Line 526. 'Untying' squires ' to fight against the churches.'

> 'I conjure you, by that which you profess, (Howe'er you come to know it.) answer me Though ye unite the winds, and let them fight Against the churches '- Macbeth, IV 1

Page 990, line 642. 'And champion him to the utmost'

'Rather than so, come, fate, into the list, And champion me to the utterance ' Macbeth, III u

Page 991, line 695. The very powerful parson, Peter Pith. Query, Sidney Smith, author of Peter Plumley's Letters? - PRINTER'S DEVIL.

Page 993, line 820. What is call'd mobility. In French 'mobilité.' I am not sure that mobility is English; but it is expressive of a quality which rather belongs to other chmates, though it is sometimes seen to a great extent in our own It may be defined as an excessive susceptibility of immediate impressions — at the same time without losing the past, and is, though sometimes apparently useful to the possessor, a most painful and unhappy attribute possessor, a most paintul and unhappy attribute Page 994, line 913. Who would not sigh Ai ai τaν Kυθερειαν [Alas, Cytherea 1] Page 995, line 920. 'Alma Venus Genetrix !'

Page 995, line 920. 'Alma Venus Genetrix!' [From the famous opening of the De Rerum Natura.]

Line 970. Like that of hell. 'Lasciate ogni speranza.' ['Leave all hope behind, ye who enter here,' the inscription over the gate of hell in Dante ]

Page 997, line 21. 'Mule' The Italians, at least in some parts of Italy, call bastards and foundlings the mules — why, I cannot see, unless they mean to infer that the offspring of matrimony are asses.

[Here may be added three poems recently discovered and attributed to Byron with some show of reason. The first was published by H. Buxton Forman in a letter to the Athenaeum of June 11, 1904. It is addressed to Mary Chaworth (afterwards Mrs. Musters), and was written by Byron with a pencil on the last endpaper and paste-down of a book belonging to Miss Chaworth — the first volume of an English translation, in two volumes, of the Letters of Madame de Maintenon, published in London in 1772. It consists of three stanzas, as follows: —

> Ah memory torture me no more, The present 's all o'ercast

My hopes of future bliss are oer In Mercy veil the past

Why bring those Images to view I henceforth must resign Ah why those happy hours renew

That never can be mine

Past pleasure doubles present pain To Sorrow adds regret. Regret and hope are both in vain I ask but to Forget •

In the same letter to the Athenœum Mr. For man published the following stanzas, which were found written in Byron's hand on both sides of a single quarto leaf of paper They had been printed in Galignani's Paris edition of 1837, un der the head of "Attributed Poems" --

TO MY DEAR MARY ANNE

I

Adieu to sweet Mary forever From her I must quickly depart Though the fates us from each other Seve Still her Image will dwell in my Heart

11

The flame that within my breast burns, Is unlike what in Lovers hearts Glows The Love which for Mary I feel, Is far purer than Cupid bestows.

III

I wish not your peace to disturb, I wish not your Joys to molest;

Mistake not my passion for Love

'T is your friendship alone I request.

v

Not ten thousand Lovers could feel The friendship my bosom contains It will ever within my heart dwell While the warm blood flows through m Veins.

v

May the Ruler of Heaven look down, And my Mary from evil defend; May She neer know Adversity's Frown May her happiness neer have an end.

VI

Once more my sweet Girl Adien

Farewell I with anguish repeat,

Forever Ill think upon you

While this Heart In my bosom shall beat

A third poem was printed in two issues of Good Words, June and July, 1904, and is vouched for by the editor of that periodical. It is contained in three loose sheets of hand-made paper of the time, used for the rough draft of the composition and the jotting down of rhymes and ideas, and a small quarto copy-book (61 inches by 7¹/₄ inches) in which a fair transcription has been made of the finished stanzas, with gaps of one or more pages left between the stanzas, or groups of two or more stanzas, to be filled up as the poem progressed. The theme was evidently suggested by the Coronation of George IV, and the stanzas must have been written just before the proposed date of the ceremony, August 1, 1820, or the actual date, July 19, 1821. The completed stanzas with the comment in Good Words are as follows -----

THE KING OF THE HUMBUGS

The Coronation! Like a Lottery puff, I'll make the world stand forward as my text, 'T will catch the passer's eye, and that's enough I don't pretend that George the Fourth is fixed. (Who knows how soon her Majesty 'll be off? It may be this year, or perhaps the next.) I've not a word to say upon the matter, Either by way of gossip or of sature.

I leave the ceremonies in the Abbey To those who see them, which I never shall, (Some thought the Dean and Chapter's conduct shabby,

Who sold their Choir at so much every stall, A guinea an inch !) No, I 'm not such a baby. The Newspaper will tell it to us all. I never could, in spite of all the talk, Give much to see how men and women walk.

Then I 've no taste for sitting hugger mugger. We'll have a coronation of our own, You shall have tickets, we'll be vastly snugger, Step in and see - Here is a royal crown. But whether it is made of paste or sugar Or Diamonds is not easy to be known, But then in one respect we should prefer it Before all crowns ; it is adjudged to merit.

To merit ! What, the Congress takes no part? The Holy Alliance, has that nought to say? I thought I knew their principles by heart; Can they sit by and see crowns given away? Even so, Unless some one amongst them start To win the prize, as some of them well may, For 't is to-day the Humbugs have appointed To see their King elected and anointed.

Where are these Humbugs? O the search I 've made

To find their country! 'T was a tedious process.

I 've turned to every Atlas in the trade,

- Systems complete with all their texts and glosses.
- I 've called all Tours and Voyages to my aid Last, in despair, I turned to Captain Ross's,

Hoping to see their Kingdom marked perhaps Somewhere near Croker's Mountains on his maps.

V1

Poor Croker! It is very hard to lose One's Mountains! But a truce with maps and charts.

For some one whispers - (could it be my Muse ?) That Humbugs are found natives of all parts,

And scattered through all nations like the Jews,

- And have, like them, great skill in httle arts, Yet not, like them, held up to scorn and laughter,
- They 'ie feasted, listened to, and followed after.

VII

Then I have known some few - It is a sect Emoys so much beyond mere toleration (More even than the Catholics expect) There's scarce a post of honour in the nation, Never a star with which they 're not bedecked. To have a King then of their own creation Is but one step, nay scarce a step I doubt When Almack's tickets fly to find them out.

Here there occurs a hiatus in the finished copy, Byron evidently being unable to get the next stanza to his liking. In the draft, how-ever, there are a series of incomplete stanzas and half-worked-out ideas. He seems first to and nan-worked out ideas. He seems list to have contemplated describing the procession of Humbugs Then, breaking off for a time, he turns to the consideration of the question, who is most fit to be King of the Humburgs' The prosecution of this theme being probably for the time not congenial, Byron leaves it, to turn to the discussion of another point in his satire the place where the coronation, or the election, of the Humbug Monarch was to be held. In this direction he was for a brief period more successful, the next three stanzas having apparently been written at once into the copy-book, without any previous drafting, the se-quence of the rough copy going to prove that no part of it has been lost, and such alternative readings as have occurred to Byron being inserted in the fair copy.

VIII

Some thought no properer spot could be assigned

Than easy Holland's scribbler-sheltering roof,

For 't was a haunt familiar to their kind

Where they could creep and feed and strut and puff,

All had discoursed there, and some few had dined

But then my lord's consent was not enough , There was the Princess too of Madagascar -And no one had the courage e'en to ask her.

17

The number qualified was found prodigious, And all with very palpable pretensions

Both civil, military, and religious,

- Some there had patents, others stars and pensions,
- Half those who print, and with their thoughts oblige us,

The authors of all manners of inventions.

Oxford and Cambridge severally sent Messrs.... With very good degrees . . . and some professors.

There must be room to swagger and to bluster, To bustle and look big or all will fail,

Some of the places which have been discussed are Enough perhaps to lodge them in detail, And by instalments — But a general muster !

No house is sure of a sufficient scale,

No, not his gracious Majesty's pavilion

Though that is said to have cost him near a million.

Another break. That he endeavored to follow up his temporary success is evident from the rough draft, mainly composed of suggestions of various places where the ceremony should be held. At last he gets the idea of holding it in the now vacated booths of Smithfield fair, and goes ahead again .

XI

We all I think must own a happy hit owes

Much to the aptness of the opportunity. The Fair had ceased, and Brooks's and Polito's

Had summoned homeward their four-legged community

With Bears and Sloths with two toes and with three toes.

The Booths might now be entered with impunity,

And there they stood so handy and inviting

For all the Humbugs both to speak and write in.

It is interesting to trace the train of Byron's thought here. His first idea was to write 'Pid-cock's or Polito's,' but it then occurred to him that the satire would be more complete, if he coupled 'Brooks's' with the menagerie, treating the occupants of both as so many varieties of wild beasts.

XII

Why the Bonassus budged is still a question, Some blame him for not standing firm on ground.

And think that 't was a plausible suggestion To have him named a candidate and crowned.

Since there 's no clause that Humbugs must be Christian,

And though four legs has but an awkward sound, There is no act or statute old or new That ever has restricted Kings to two.

XIII

Nebuchadnezzar grazed and reigned on four-One Cæsar made a Consul of his horse -Far longer ears some Consuls since have wore, (So that the Cæsar might have chosen worse)

Whatever comes to their long ears, and more Our Consuls nowadays write home of course. O had Caligula preferred an ass, He might have found one Consul at Patras.

Byron was now tired of his task. A number of attempts that are little more than memoranda for rhymes are entered on the copy-book. But leaving the intermediate stanzas to take care of themselves for the time being, he resumes his theme at a later point with slightly better fortune.

XIV

- When Wood came forward all cried out 't is pity
- He don't try somewhere else. This won't do here
- Remember, Wood, that Smithfield 's in the city, You 're known You might get snuff-boxes elsewhere.

Some even boldly ventured to be witty

Upon his civic or political career,

While those who knew him better as a brewer

Wished that the ingredients of his beer were fewer.

xv

This was a sleeping deathblow to the hopes (Note. Some read hops)

Of all the orators of Common Council,

- Who came full charged with metaphors and tropes
- Though some wags whispered that they would pronounce ill.

See how dejected honest Waithman mopes,

Like one next morning after cheery bounce ill,

Squats him down quietly among the dumb ones And looks as small as in the House of Commons.

The MS., both rough draft and fair copy, becomes chaotic at this point, but the remaining two stanzas are perfect.

XVI

For suits and services, long, hard at work A Court of Claims has sat in solemn 'séance'

Holland provides the King a knife and fork, Burgess of sauces has the sole purveyance. To find him his first dish of tea Dow Cork And the Miss Berrys have it in abeyance, Hunt gives an ounce of imitative (?) coffee Worthy, he says, the Sultan or the Sophy.

XVII

Soaps (aye, if any he should chance to use) There are some fifty species to his hands-And all with names most classic and abstruse Blacking from Day and Martin's in the Strand -Waterproof coats, impenetrable shoes,

Anti-attrition if he post by land,

Or, if he prove a sailing King, air jackets

Much worn by those blown up in the steam packets 1

INDEXES

INDEX OF FIRST LINES

Absent or present, still to thee, 169.

- Adieu, adieu ! my native shore, 5. Adieu, thou Hill where early joy, 145.
- Adieu, ye joys of La Valette ! 163.
- Ægle, beauty and poet, has two little crimes, 237.
- Ah! gentle, fleeting, wav'ring sprite, 87.
- Ah, heedless girl ! why thus disclose, 146.
- Ah! Love was never yet without, 172. Ah! What should follow slips from my reflection, 968.
- And dost thou ask the reason of my sadness? 229.
- And thou art dead, as young and fair, 167.
- And thou wert sad yet I was not with thee, 212.
- And 'thy true faith can alter never ? ' 173.
- And wilt thou weep when I am low? 152.
- Anne's Eye is liken'd to the Sun, 143.
- A noble Lady of the Italian shore, 199. As by the fix'd decrees of Heaven, 140.
- As o'er the cold sepulchral stone, 157.
- A spirit pass'd before me I beheld, 222. As the Liberty lads o'er the sea, 229
- Away, away, ye notes of woe ! 165.
- Away, away, your flattering arts, 86. Away with your fictions of flimsy romance, 92. Away, ye gay landscapes, ye gardens of roses! 117.
- A year ago you swore, fond she ! 236.
- Behold the blessings of a lucky lot! 237.
- Belshazzar! from the banquet turn, 185.
- Beneath Blessington's eyes, 239. Beside the confines of the Ægean main, 161.
- Beware ! beware ! of the Black Friar, 285. Bob Southey ! You 're a poet - Poet-laureate, 745.
- Born in the garret, in the kitchen bred, 208. Brave Champions! go on with the farce! 237. Breeze of the night in gentler sighs, 150. Bright be the place of thy soul ! 151. But once I dared to lift my eyes, 205.
- Candour compels me, BECHER ! to commend, 118
- Chill and mirk is the nightly blast, 158.
- Come, blue-eyed maid of heaven! but thou, alas, 19.
- Could I remount the river of my years, 191.
- Could Love for ever, 199.
- Cruel Cernthus! does the fell disease, 87.
- Dear are the days of youth ! 129.
- Dear Becher, you tell me to mix with mankind, 128.
- Dear Doctor, I have read your play, 231.

Dear LONG, in this sequester'd scene, 133. Dear object of defeated care ! 161.

- Dear, simple girl, those flattering arts, 86.
- Doiset! whose early steps with mine have stray'd, 93.
- Doubtless, sweet girl ! the hissing lead, 99. Do you know Dr. Nott ? 238.

- Eliza, what fools are the Mussulman sect, 116. Equal to Jove that youth must be, 87. Ere the daughter of Brunswick is cold in her grave, 201. Eternal Spirit of the chainless Mind! 402.
- Fair Albion, smiling, sees her son depart, 162.
- Fame, wisdom, love, and power were mine, 219. Famed for contemptuous breach of sacred ties.
- 228. Famed for their civil and domestic quarrels,
- 228.
- Fare thee well ! and if for ever, 207.
- Farewell ! if ever fondest prayer, 151.
- Farewell to the Land where the gloom of my Glory, 186. Father of Light! great God of Heaven ! 132.
- Few years have pass'd since thou and I, 153.
- Fill the goblet again ' for I never before, 155. For Orford and for Waldegrave, 238.
- Friend of my youth ! when young we roved, 137
- From the last hill that looks on thy once holy dome, 221.
- From this emblem what variance your motto evinces, 228
- God maddens him whom 't is his will to lose, 230.
- God, the Eternal ! Infinite ! All-wise ! 627. Good plays are scarce, 225.
- Great Jove, to whose almighty throne, 89.
- Hail, Muse ! et cetera. We left Juan sleeping, 801.
- Harriet! To see such Circumspection, 151.
- He hath wrong'd his queen, but still he is her lord, 550.
- Here once engaged the stranger's view, 150. Here's a happy new year! but with reas
- 235.
- Here's to her who long, 228.
- He, unto whom thou art so partial, 239.
- He who sublime in epic numbers roll'd, 87.
- High in the midst, surrounded by his peers, 111.
- Hills of Annesley ! bleak and barren, 95.
- His father's sense, his mother's grace, 233. How came you in Hob's pound to cool, 235.
- How sweetly shines through azure skies, 101.

Maid of Athens, ere we part, 160. Hush'd are the winds, and still the evening Marion, why that pensive brow? 100. gloom, 84. Huzza ! Hodgson, we are going, 156. Mingle with the genial bowl, 139. Montgomery ! true, the common lot, 127. Mrs. Wilmot sate scribbling a play, 234. I cannot talk of Love to thee, 179. I enter thy garden of roses, 162. Muse of the many-twinkling feet! whose charms. If fate should seal my Death to-morrow, 144. 273. If for silver, or for gold, 234. Must thou go, my glorious Chief, 186. If from great nature's or our own abyss, 955. My boat ... on the shore, 230. My dear Mr. Murray, 232. If, in the month of dark December, 160. My hair is grey, but not with years, 402. My love, be calmer! 671. If sometimes in the haunts of men. 168. If that high world, which lies beyond, 217. I had a dream, which was not all a dream, 189. My sister ! my sweet sister ! if a name, 211. My soul is dark — Oh ! quickly string, 218. I heard thy fate without a tear, 186. 'I lay my branch of laurel down,' 227. Ill-fated Heart! and con it be, 168. In digging up your bones, Tom Paine, 235. Nay, smile not at my sullen brow, 17. Newstead ! fast-falling, once-resplendent dome ! In hearts like thine ne'er may I hold a place, 119. Nisus, the guardian of the portal, stood, 105. 227. In law an infant and in years a boy, 100. No breath of air to break the wave, 310. In moments to delight devoted, 175. In Nottingham county there lives at Swan No infant Sotheby, whose dauntless head, 231. Nose and chin would shame a knocker, 196. Green, 223. No specious splendour of this stone, 113. In one dread night our city saw, and sigh'd, 169. Nothing so difficult as a beginning, 816. In one who felt as once he felt, 143. I now mean to be serious; — it is time, 941. In the beginning was the Word next God, 466. Not in those climes where I have late been straying, 2. In the dome of my Sires as the clear moonbeam O'er the glad waters of the dark blue sea, 338. Of all the barbarous middle ages, that, 929. falls, 164. Of all the twice ten thousand bards, 233. In thee, I fondly hoped to clasp, 85. In the valley of waters we wept o'er the day, Of rhymes I printed seven volumes, 232. 223.Of two fair virgins, modest, though admired, In the year since Jesus died for men, 384. 195. In this beloved marble view, 229. Oh. Anne ' your offences to me have been griev-I read the Christabel, 230. ous, 147. 'Oh! banish care' — such ever be, 164. I saw thee weep — the big bright tear, 218. Is not the messenger return'd ? 499. Oh blood and thunder! and oh blood and I speak not, I trace not, I breathe not thy name, wounds ! 878. 182. Oh, Castlereagh! thou art a patriot now, 238. Oh! could Le Sage's demon's gift, 95. Is thy face like thy mother's, my fair child, 35. I stood beside the grave of him who blazed, 190. Oh ! did those eyes, instead of fire, 97. Oh factious viper ! whose envenom'd tooth, 114. I stood in Venice on the Bridge of Sighs, 55. It is the hour when from the boughs, 396. Oh, Friend, for ever loved, for ever dear! 85. I want a hero : an uncommon want, 747. Oh! had my fate been join'd with thine, 134. I watch'd thee when the foe was at our side, Oh how I wish that an embargo, 225 205. Oh Lady! when I left the shore, 157. I wish to tune my quivering lyre, 88. Oh, Mariamne! now for thee, 221. I would I were a careless child, 135. Oh ! inight I kiss those eyes of fire, 88. Oh !- my lonely-lonely-lonely-Pillow ! 204. I would to heaven that I were so much clay. Oh never talk again to me, 159. 745. Oh say not, sweet Anne, that the Fates have John Adams lies here, of the parish of Southdecreed, 147. Oh ! snatch'd away in beauty's bloom, 218. well, 224. Oh, talk not to me of a name great in story, Kind Reader ! take your choice to cry or laugh, 204. Oh, thou ! in Hellas deem'd of heavenly birth. 3. 161. Know ye the land where the cypress and myrtle, Oh! thou that roll'st above thy glorious Fire, 323.139. Oh Venice! Venice! when thy marble walls, Lady, accept the box a hero wore, 238. 452. Lady ! if for the cold and cloudy clime, 455. Oh! weep for those that wept by Babel's Lady ' in whose heroic port, 200. Lesbia ' since far from you I 've ranged, 98. stream, 217. Oh well done Lord E-n! and better done Let Folly smile, to view the names, 85. Long years !- It trues the thrilling frame to R----r ! 225. Oh ' well I know your subtle Sex, 143. Oh. Wellington ! (or 'Villainton' - for Fame. bear, 436. Lucietta, my deary, 239. 896.

- Oh yes, I will own we were dear to each other. 136.
- Oh ye! who teach the ingenuous youth of nations, 774.
- Oh you, who in all names can tickle the town, 226.
- O Love! O Glory! what are ye who fly, 867.
- Once fairly set out on his party of pleasure, 228. Once more, in man's frail world ! which I had
- left. 456.
- One struggle more, and I am free, 166.
- On Jordan's banks the Arab's camels stray, 217.
- O Thou ! who rollest in yon azure field, 140. O thou yclep'd by vulgar sons of Men, 224.
- Our father sleeps it is the hour when they, 655. Our life is twofold : Sleep hath its own world, 213.
- Our nation's foes lament on Fox's death, 114. Out, hunchback ! 722.

Parent of golden dreams, Romance ! 118. Posterity will ne'er survey, 235.

- Rail on, Rail on, ye heartless Crew! 141.
- Remember him whom passion's power, 174. Remember thee! remember thee! 171.
- Remind me not, remind me not, 152
- River, that rollest by the ancient walls, 198. Rousseau, Voltaire, our Gibbon, and De Staël,
- 192.
- Saint Peter sat by the celestial gate, 265. She walks in beauty, like the right, 216. Since now the hour is come at last, 89.

- Since our Country, our God Oh, my Sire! 218.
- Since the refinement of this polish'd age, 113. Slow sinks, more lovely ere his race be run, 268.
- So Castlereagh has cut his throat ! The worst, 238.
- So He has cut his throat at last !- He! Who? 238.
- Sons of the Greeks, arise! 161.
- So we'll go no more a roving, 229.
- Spot of my youth ! whose hoary branches sigh, 138.
- Star of the brave ! whose beam nath shed, 188.
- Start not nor deem my spirit fled, 154. Still must I hear? shall hoarse Fitzgerald bawl, 241.
- Strahan, Tonson, Lintot of the times, 234. Stranger' behold, interr'd together, 163.
- Sun of the sleepless ! melancholy star ! 220.
- Sweet girl! though only once we met, 112.
- Tambourgi! Tambourgi! thy 'larum afar, 30. The antique Persians taught three useful things, 980.
- The Assyrian came down like the wolf on the fold, 222.
- The braziers, it seems, are preparing to pass, 237.
- The castled crag of Drachenfels, 43.
- The chain I gave was fair to view, 168
- The dead have been awaken'd shall I sleep? 240.

- The Devil return'd to hell by two. 176.
- The Gods of old are silent on their shore, 205. The 'good old times' — all times when old are good, 298. The harp the monarch minstrel swept, 216.
- The isles of Greece, the Isles of Greece ! 812.
- The King was on his throne, 220.
- The kiss, dear maid! thy lip has left, 162.
- The lamp must be replenish'd, but even then, 478.
- The land where I was born sits by the seas, 476.
- The man of firm and noble soul, 88. The modest bard, like many a bard unknown, 162.
- The Moorish King rides up and down, 194. The Moralists tell us that Loving is Sinning,
- 145.
- The morning watch was come, the vessel lay, 415.
- The Night came on the Waters all was rest, 184.
- The 'Origin of Love !' Ah ! why, 173.
- There be none of Beauty's daughters, 188.
- There is a mystic thread of life, 143.
- There is a tear for all that die, 183.
- There is a tide in the affairs of men. 852.
- There is no more for me to hope, 174.
- There's not a joy the world can give like that there's not a joy the world can give in it takes away, 185. There's something in a stupid ass, 234. There was a time, I need not name, 152.

- The roses of love glad the garden of life, 99. The sacred song that on mine ear, 173. These locks, which fondly thus entwine, 101. The Serfs are glad through Lara's wide domain, 366.
- The Son of Love and Lord of War I sing, 239. The spell is broke, the charm is flown! 159.

- The wild gazelle on Judah's hills, 217. The world is a bundle of hay, 237. The world is full of orphans: firstly, those, 996.
- They say that Hope is happiness, 223. Thine eyes' blue tenderness, thy long fair hair, 175
- Think'st thou I saw thy beauteous eyes, 90.
- This Band, which bound thy yellow hair, 128.
- This day, of all our days, has done, 236. This faint resemblance of thy charms, 98.
- This votive pledge of fond esteem, 92.
- Those flaxen locks, those eyes of blue, 150. Thou art not false, but thou art fickle, 172. Though the day of my destiny 's over, 210
- Thou Power! who hast ruled me through infancy's days, 148.
- Thou whose spell can raise the dead, 219.
- Through cloudless skies, in silvery sheen, 159
- Through life's dull road, so dum and durty, 236.
- Through thy battlements, Newstead, the hol-
- low winds whistle, 86. Thy cheek is pale with thought, but not from
- woe, 175.
- Thy days are done, thy fame begun, 218. Thy verse is 'sad' enough, no doubt, 147.
- Time! on whose arbitrary wing, 171.
- 'T is done and shivering in the gale, 156. 'T is done but yesterday a King ! 180. 'T is done ! I saw it in mv dreams, 128.

- 'T is fifty years, and yet their fray, 197. 'T is known, at least it should be, that throughout, 440.
- 'T is midnight but it is not dark, 196 'T is time this heart should be unmoved, 206.
- Titan! to whose immortal eyes, 191.
- To be the father of the fatherless, 199.
- To hook the reader, you, John Murray, 230. 'T was after dread Pultowa's day, 407
- 'T was now the hour when Night had driven, 88.
- 'T was now the noon of night, and all was still, 142.
- Unhappy Dives! in an evil hour, 223.
- Up to battle ! Sons of Suli, 240.
- Warriors and chiefs! should the shaft or the sword, 219.
- We do not curse thee, Waterloo ! 187.
- Weep, daughter of a royal line, 168.
- Well! thou art happy, and I feel, 154
- Were Death an evil, would I let thee live? 237.
- Were my bosom as false as thou deem'st it to be, 221.
- We sate down and wept by the waters, 222
- What are to me those honours or renown, 206.
- What are you doing now, 220. What matter the pangs of a husband and
- father, 238.
- What news, what news? Queen Orraca, 225.
- What say  $I^{\circ}$ , not a syllable further in When a man hath no freedom to fight for at
- home, 236.
- When amatory poets sing their loves, 831.
- When Bishop Berkeley said 'there was no matter,' 918. When coldness wraps this suffering clay, 220.
- When Dryden's fool, 'unknowing what he sought,' 171. Whene'er I view those lips of thine, 90
- 'When energising objects men pursue,' 170.
- When fierce conflicting passions urge, 111. When Friendship or Love our sympathies move, 114.
- When, from the heart where Sorrow sits, 174. When I dream that you love me, you 'll surely forgive, 97.

- When I hear you express an affection so warm. 91.
- When I roved a young Highlander o'er the dark heath, 135.
- When Man, expell'd from Eden's bowers, 155.
- When Newton saw an apple tall, he found, 907. When slow Disease, with all her host of pains, 122.
- When some proud son of man returns to earth, 154.
- When the last sunshine of expiring day, 192.
- When the vain triumph of the imperial lord, 183.
- When Thurlow this damn'd nonsense sent, 226.
- When Time, or soon or late, shall bring, 166.
- When, to their arry hall, my fathers' voice, 85. When we two parted, 151.
- Where are those honours, Ida! once your own, 93
- Where is the prisoner ? 595.
- Who hath not glow'd above the page where fame, 182
- Who kill'd John Keats?' 237.
- Who would not laugh, if Lawrence, hired to grace, 256.
- Why, how now, saucy Tom, 237.
- Why, Pigot, complain of this damsel's disdain, 115.
- Why should my anxious breast repine, 131.
- With death doom'd to grapple, 235
- Without a stone to mark the spot, 165.
- Woman! experience might have told me, 97.
- Would you go to the House by the true gate. 236.
- Ye Cupids, droop each little head, 87.
- Ye scenes of my childhood, whose loved recollection, 96.

- Yes' wisdom shines in all his mien, 226. You ask for a ' Volume of Nonsense,' 236. You call me still your life. Oh! change the word, 175.
- You have ask'd for a verse the request, 205.
- Young Oak ! when I planted thee deep in the ground, 149.
- You 're too late, 277.
- Your pardon, my friend, if my rhymes did offend, 116.
- You say you love, and yet your eye, 90. Youth, Nature, and relenting Jove, 225.

INDEX OF TITLES

[The titles of major works and of general divisions are set in SMALL CAPITALS ]

Abydos, The Bride of, 323. Adams, John, of Southwell, Epitaph on, 224. Address intended to be recited at the Caledonian Meeting, 182. Address spoken at the Opening of Drury-Lane Theatre, 169. Adieu, The, 145. Adrena's Address to his Soul when Dying, 87. Æschylus, From the Prometheus Vinctus of, 89. Affection, Answer to —'s Professions of, 227. Age of Bronze, The; or, Carmen Seculare et Annus haud Mirabilis, 298. - H____, Miss, On the Eyes of, 143. Album, Lines written in, at Malta, 157. Alhama, A Very Mournful Ballad on the Siege and Conquest of, 194. 'All is vanity, saith the preacher,' 219. Ambracian Gulf, Stanzas written in Passing the, 159. Anacreon, From, 88. Anacreon, From, 88. Anacreon, Translation from, 139 'And dost thou ask the reason of my sadness?' 111. 229 'And thou art dead, as young and fair,' 167. 'And wilt thou weep when I am low?' 152. Anne, To, 147. Another Simple Ballat, 234. Answer to a Beautiful Poem, entitled 'The Common Lot,' 127. Answer to Some Elegant Verses, 118. Answer to ---- 's Professions of Affection, 227. Aristomenes, 205. 'A spirit pass'd before me,' 222. 'As the Liberty lads o'er the sea,' 229. Augusta, Epistle to, 210. Augusta, Stanzas to, 209. Augusta, Stanzas to, 210. 'Away, away, ye notes of woe !' 165. Babylon, By the Rivers of, we sat down and wept, 222. Ballad to the Tune of 'Sally in our Alley,' 233. Ballat, Another Simple, 234 Bacher, Rev. J. T., Lines addressed to the, 128. Belshazzar, To, 185. Belshazzar, Vision of, 220. Beppo, 440. Blacket, Joseph, Epitaph for, 163. 223Blessington, Countess of, To the, 205. Blues, The, 277. Bowles and Campbell, 237. 'Brave Champions ! go on with the farce,' 237. Bray, The New Vicar of, 238. Bride of Abydos, The, 323. 'Bright be the place of thy soul,' 151. Buonaparte, Napoleon, Ode to. 180.

Cadız, The Girl of, 159. Cain, 626. Cann,' Thoughts for a Speech of Lucifer, in the Tragedy of, 237. Caledonian Meeting, Address intended to be recited at the, 182 recited at the, 182. Calmar and Orla, The Death of, 129. Caroline, To, 90. Caroline, To, 91. Caroline, To, 91. Caroline, To, 91. 'Carthon,' Ossian's Address to the Sun in, 139. Catullus, Imitated from, 88. Catullus, Translation from, 87. Cephalonia, Journal in, 240. CHILDE HAROLD'S PLICHIMAGE, 1. Childiah Recollections. 122. Childish Recollections, 122. Chillon, Sonnet on, 402. Chillon, The Prisoner of, 402 Churchill's Grave, 190. Clare, Earl of, To the, 187. College Examination. Thoughts suggested by a. Common Lot, The,' Answer to a Beautiful Poem, entitled, 127 Condolatory Address, 183. Conquest, The, 239. Corinth, The Siege of, 384. Cornelian, The, 113. Cornelian Heart which was broken, On a, 168. Corsair, The, 337. Country, Soliloguy of a Bard in the, 142. Curse of Minerva, The, 268. D----, To, 85. Dallas, R C., 226. Damætas, 100. Dante, The Prophecy of, 455. Darkness, 189. Dear Doctor, I have read your play,' 231. Death of Calmar and Orla, The, 129. Death of Caimar and Oria, 1ne, 122. Deed of Separation, Endorsement to the, in the April of 1816, 236. Deformed Transformed, The, 722. Delawarr, George, Earl, To, 136. Destruction of Sepunacherib, The, 222. Devil's Drive, The, 175. Dives, To (William Beckford). A Fragment. DOMESTIC PIECES, 207. Don Juan, 744. Dorset, Duke of, To the, 93 DRAMAS, 477. Dream, The 213. Drury-Lane Theatre, Address spoken at the Opening of, 169.

Duel, The, 197.

·, To, 85. Egotism. A Letter to J. T. Becher, 144. Elegant Verses, Answer to Some, 118. Elegiac Stanzas on the Death of Sir Peter a. 93. Parker, Bart., 183. Elegy, 237. Elegy on Newstead Abbey, 119. Eliza, To, 116. Emma, To, 89. Endorsement to the Deed of Separation. in the April of 1816, 236, England, Stanzas to a Lady on Leaving, 156. English Bards and Scotch Reviewers, 241. E Nihlio Nihl; or an Epigram Bewitched, 232. EPHEMERAL VERSES, 223. Epigram on an Old Lady who had Some Curious Notions respecting the Soul, 223. Epirogue, 234. Episode of Nisus and Euryalus, The, 105. Epistle to Augusta, 210. Epistle to a Friend, 164. Epitaph for Joseph Blacket, 163. Epitaph on a Friend, 85. Epitaph on John Adams, of Southwell, 224. Epitaph on Virgil and Tibullus, Translation of the, 87. Epitaph, Substitute for an, 161. Euripides, Translation from the Medea of, 111. Euthanasia, 166. Ich dien, 228. Fan, On Finding a, 148. Fare thee well, 207. 'Farewell' if ever fondest prayer,' 151. Farewell Petition to J. C. H., Esq., 224. Farewell to Malta, 163. Farewell to the Muse, 148. 'Fill the goblet,' 155. First Kiss of Love, The, 92. Florence and Pisa, Stanzas written on the Road between, 204. Florence, To, 157. 'For Orford and for Waldegrave,' 238. Foscari, The Two, 595. Fox, Mr., On the Death of, 114. Fragment, A, 85. Fragment, A, 191. Fragment of an Epistle to Thomas Moore, 415. 227. Fragment from the 'Monk of Athos.' 161. Fragment written shortly after the Marriage of Miss Chaworth, 95. Frame Bill, An Ode to the Framers of the, 225. Francesca of Rimini, 476. Francesca of Kimini, 470. French, From the, 186. French, From the, 237. French, Ode from the, 187. Friend, Epistle to a, 164. From Anacreon, 88. From Anacreon, 88. 92From the Portuguese, 175. Gazelle, The Wild, 217. Giaour, The, 310. Girl of Cadiz, The, 159. God maddens him whom 't is his will to lose,' 230.

Good plays are scarce,' 225. Granta — A Medley, 95. Great Public School, On a Change of Masters at Greece, Last Words on. 206. Greek War Song, Δεῦνε παίδες τῶν Ἑλλήνων, Trans-lation of the Famous, 161. Hales-Owen, Verses found in a Summer-House at, 171. Harriet, To, 151. Harrow, Lines written beneath an Elm in the Churchyard of, 138. Harrow, On Revisiting, 150. Harrow on the Hill, On a Distant View of the Village and School of, 96. Heaven and Earth, 655 HEBREW MELODIES, 216. 'Here's a happy new year! but with reason,' 235. 'Here's to her who long,' 228. Herod's Lament for Mariamne, 221. Hindoo Air, Stanzas to a, 204. Hints from Horace, 256. Hodgson, Mr., Lines to, 156. Hoppner, John William Rizzo, On the Birth of, 233. Horace, Translation from, 88. HOURS OF IDLENESS, 83. If for silver, or for gold,' 234. 'If sometimes in the haunts of men,' 168. 'If that high world,' 217. Imitated from Catullus, 88. Imitation of Tibullus, 87. Impromptu, 239. Impromptu, in Reply to a Friend, 174. Inscription on the Monument of a Newfoundland Dog, 154. 'In the valley of waters,' 222. 'In this beloved marble view,' 229. 'I read the "Christabel,"' 230. Irish Avatar, The, 201. 'I saw thee weep, 218. Island, The; or, Christian and his Comrades, ITALIAN POEMS, 436. 'I would I were a careless child.' 135. J. C. H., Esq., Farewell Petition to, 224. Jephtha's Daughter, 218. Jerusalem, On the Day of the Destruction of, by Titus, 221. Jessy, Stanzas to, 143. Journal in Cephalonia, 240. Julian [A Fragment], 184. Lachin y Gair. 117. Lady, Stanzas to a, with the Poems of Camoëns,  $^{9/2}$  Lady, To a, 101. Lady, To a, 128. Lady, To a, 134. Lady, To a, 155. Lamb, Hon. Mrs. George, To the, 173. Lament of Tasso, The, 436. L'Amptré act l'Amour sang Ailes, 131. L'Amitié est l'Amour sans Ailes, 131.

- Lara, 366. Last Words on Greece, 206.
- Legion of Honour, The,' On the Star of, 188. Leman, Lake, Sonnet to, 192. Lesbia, To, 98. Lines addressed to the Rev. J. T. Becher, 128.

- Lines addressed to a Young Lady, 99,
- Lines inscribed upon a Cup formed from a
- Skull, 153. Lines on Hearing that Lady Byron was Ill, 212.

- Lines to Mr. Hodgson, 156. Lines to a Lady Weeping, 168. Lines written beneath an Elm in the Church-

- yard of Harrow, 138. Lines written beneath a Picture, 161. Lines written in an Album, at Malta, 157. Lunes written in 'Letters to an Italian Nun and an English Gentleman: by J. J. Rousseau:
- founded on Facts,' 86. Lines written in the Travellers' Book at Orchomenus, 162.
- Lines written on a Blank Leaf of the ' Pleasures of Memory,' 169. Long, Edward Noel, Esq., To, 133.
- Love and Death, 205.
- Love and Gold, 179.

- Love, The First Kiss of, 92. Love's Last Adieu, 99. Lucietta. A Fragment, 239.
- M-----, To, 97. 'Maid of Athens, ere we part,' 160.
- Malta, Farewell to, 163
- Manfred, 478.
- Mariamne, Herod's Lament for, 221. Marino Faliero, Doge of Venice, 497.
- Marion, To, 100. Martial. Lib. I. Epig. I., 239.
- Mary, To, on Receiving her Picture, 98.
- Mazeppa, 406. Minerva, The Curse of, 268.
- MISCELLANEOUS POEMS, 139. 'Monk of Athos,' Fragment from the, 161.
- Monody on the Death of the Right Hon. R. B. Sheridan, 192.
- Moore, Thomas, Fragment of an Epistle to, 227.

- Morgante Maggiore, The, 465. M. S. G., To, 90. M. S. G., To, 97. Muse, Farewell to the, 148.

- Music, Stanzas for, 182. Music, Stanzas for, 185. Music, Stanzas for, 188. Music, Stanzas for, 223.
- 'My boat is on the shore,' 230.
- ' My dear Mr. Murray,' 232. ' My soul is dark,' 218.
- Napoleon's Farewell, 186.
- Napoleon's Snuff-Box, 238. Nature, The Prayer of, 132.
- Newfoundland Dog, Inscription on the Monu-
- ment of a, 154. New Song to the Tune of 'Whare hae ye been a' day,' etc., 235. Newstead, To an Oak at, 149.

- Newstead Abbey, 164. Newstead Abbey, Elegy on, 119. Newstead Abbey, On Leaving, 86.
- New Vicar of Bray, The, 238.

- Nuhil, E Nihilo; or an Epigram Bewitched, 232. Nusus and Euryalus, The Episode of, 105. 'No infant Sotheby, whose dauntless head,' 231.
- Nuptuals of the Marquis Antonio Cavalli with the Countess Clelia Rasponi of Ravenna, Sonnet on the, 199.
- Ode from the French, 187.
- Ode on Venice, 452.
- Ode to a Lady whose Lover was killed by a Ball, which at the Same Time shivered a Por-trait next his Heart, 200.
- Ode to Naroleon Buoaparte, 180. Ode to the Framers of the Frame Bill, An, 225. 'Oh how I wish that an embargo,' 225. 'Oh ! such'd away in beauty's bloom,' 218. 'Oh ! weep for those,' 217.

- 'Oh you, who in all names can tickle the town,' 226.
- On a Change of Masters at a Great Public School, 93.
- On a Cornelian Heart which was broken, 168. On a Distant View of the Village and School of Harrow on the Hill, 96.
- On a Royal Visit to the Vaults, 228.
- On being asked what was the 'Origin of Love,' 173.
- 'Once fairly set out on his party of pleasure,' 228.
- 'One struggle more, and I am free,' 166. On Finding a Fan, 148.
- 'On Jordan's banks,' 217.
- On Parting, 162
- On Revisiting Harrow, 150.
- On Sam Rogers, 196. On the Birth of John William Rizzo Hoppner, 233.
- 233. On the Day of the Destruction of Jerusalem by Titus, 221. On the Death of a Young Lady, 84. On the Eyes of Miss A H , 143. On the Quotation, 'And my true faith can alter never,' etc., 173. On the Star of 'The Legion of Honour,' 188. On the Day L complete my Thirty-sixth Yaca

- On this Day I complete my Thirty-sixth Year. 206.
- Orchomenus, Lines written in the Travellers' Book at, 162. 'Origin of Love,' On being asked what w the,
- 173.
- Oscar of Alva, 101.
- Ossian's Address to the Sun in 'Carthon.' 139.
- Ossian's Address to the Sun, A Version of, 140.
- Parenthetical Address, by Dr. Plagiary, 170.
- Parisina, 396. Parker, Sir Peter, Bart., Elegiac Stanzas on the Death of, 183.
- Parting, On, 162. Penelope, To, January 2, 1821, 236. Picture, Lines written beneath a, 161.

Pignus Amoris, 140. Pigot, J. M. B., Esq., Reply to Some Verses of, on the Cruelty of his Mistress, 115. 'Pleasures of Memory,' Lines written on a Blank Pleasures of Memory, 'Lines written on a Blank Leaf of the, 169. Po, Stanzas to the, 198. Portuguese, From the, 175. Prince Regent, Sonnet to the, 199. Prisoncr of Chillon, The, 402. Prologue, An Occasional, 113. Prometheus, 191. Prometheus, 191. Prometheus of Eschylus, From the, 89. Prophecy of Dante, The, 455. Quaker, To a Beautiful, 112. Queries to Casuists, 145. Remember him whom passion's power,' 174. 'Remember thee! remember!' 171. Remembrance, 128. 'Remind me not, remind me not,' 152. Reply to Some Verses of J. M. B. Pigot, Esq., on the Cruelty of his Mistress, 115. Revanche, La. 174. Rogers, Sam, On, 196. Romaic Love Song, Translation of a, 172. Romaic Song, Μπένω μεσ' τὸ περιβόλι, 'Ωραιοτάτη Xaηδή, κ τ λ, Translation of the, 162. Romance, To, 118. Royal Visit to the Vaults, On a, 228. Same, To the, 147. Sardanapalus, 550. SATIRES, 240. Saul, 219. Saul before his Last Battle, Song of, 219. Sennacherb, The Destruction of, 222. Sestos to Abydos, Written after Swimming from, 160 Sheridan, Right Hon. R. B., Monody on the Death of the, 192. 'She walks in beauty,' 216 Shorter Poems, 83. Siege of Corinth, The, 384. Sighing Strephon, To the, 116. Sketch. A, 208. Skull, Lines inscribed upon a Cup formed from a, 153. Soliloguy of a Bard in the Country, 142. Son, To my, 150. Song. 'Breeze of the night in gentler sighs,' 150. Song of Saul before his Last Battle, 219. Song to the Suliotes, 240. Sonnet on Chillon, 402 Sonnet on the Nuptials of the Marquis Antonio Cavalli with the Countess Clelia Rasponi of Carvan with the Contress Cher Ravenna, 199. Sonnet, To Genevra, 175. Sonnet to Lake Leman, 192. Sonnet to Lake Leman, 192. Soul, Epigram on an Old Lady who had Some Curious Notions respecting the, 223. 'So we'll go no more a roving,' 229. Stanzas composed during a Thunder-Storm, 158. Stanzas. 'Could Love for ever,' 199.

Stanzas for Music, 182. Stanzas for Music, 185. Stanzas for Music, 188. Stanzas for Music, 223. Stanzas. 'I heard thy fate without a tear,' 186. Stanzas to Augusta, 209. Stanzas to Augusta, 210. Stanzas to a Hindoo Air, 204. Stanzas to Jessy, 143. St zas to a Lady on Leaving England, 156. Stanzas to a Lady, with the Poems of Camoens, 92.Stanzas to the Po, 198. Stanzas written in Passing the Ambracian Gulf. 159. Stanzas written on the Road between Florence and Pisa, 204. 'Strahan, Tonson, Lintot of the time,' 234. Substitute for an Epitaph, 161. Suliotes, Song to the, 240. Sun, A Version of Ossian's Address to the, 140. 'Sun of the sleepless,' 220. TALES, CHIEFLY ORIENTAL, 309. Tasso, The Lament of, 436. Tear, The, 114. 'The braziers, it seems, are preparing to pass,' 236'The chain I gave,' 168. 'The harp the monarch minstrel swept,' 216. There was a time, I need not name, 152. The spell is broke, the charm is flown, 159. 'The world is a bundle of hay,' 237. 'Thou art not false, but thou art fickle,' 172 Thoughts for a Speech of Lucifer, in the Tragedy of 'Cam,' 237. Thoughts suggested by a College Examination, 111. 'Through life's dull road, so dim and dirty,' 236. Thunder-Storm, Stanzas composed during a 158. Thurlow, Lord, To, 227. 'Thy days are done,' 218. Thyrza, To, 165. Tibullus, Imitation of, 87. Time, To, 171. Tc ____, 143. To ____, 205. To a Beautiful Quaker, 112. To a Knot of Ungenerous Critics, 141. To a Lady, 101. To a Lady, 128. To a Lady, 134. To a Lady, 155. To Anne, 147. To the Same, 147. To an Oak at Newstead, 149. To a Vain Lady, 146. To a Youthful Friend, 153. To Belshazzar, 185. To Caroline, 90. To Caroline, 90. To Caroline, 91. To Caroline, 91. To D-, 85.

To E---, 85.

To Edward Noel Long, Esq., 133. To Eliza, 116.	Ungenerous Critics, To a Knot of, 141.
To Emma, 89.	Vain Lady, To a, 146.
To Florence, 157.	Venice, 196.
To George, Earl Delawarr, 136.	Venice, Ode on, 452.
To Harriet, 151.	Verses found in a Summer-House at Hales-
'To hook the reader, you, John Murray,' 230.	Owen, 171
To Lesbia, 98.	Vision of Belshazzar, 220.
To Lord Thurlow, 227.	Vision of Judgment, The, 283.
To M, 97.	Vittorelli, Translation from, 195.
To Marion, 100.
To Mary, on Receiving her Picture, 98.	Waltz, The, 272.
To M. S. G., 90.	'Well' thou art happy,' 154.
To M. S. G., 97.	'Were my bosom as false as thou deem'st it to
To my Son, 150.	be,' 221
To Penelope, January 2, 1821, 236.	Werner, or, The Inheritance, 671.
To Romance, 118. To the Author of a Sonnet beginning, '"Sad is	'What are you doing now,' 229.
my verse," you say, "and yet no tear,"' 147.	'What matter the pangs of a husband and fa ther,' 238.
To the Countess of Blessington, 205.	'What news, what news? Queen Orraca,' 225.
To the Duke of Dorset, 93.	'When a man hath no freedom to fight for a
To the Earl of Clare, 137.	home,' 236.
To the Hon. Mrs George Lamb, 173.	'When coldness wraps this suffering clay,
To Thyrza, 165.	220.
To Time, 171.	'When I roved a young Highlander,' 135.
To Woman, 97.	'When Thurlow this damn'd nonsense sent
Translation from Anacreon, 139.	226.
Translation from Catullus, 87.	'When we two parted,' 151.
Tanslation from Catullus. Ad Lesbiam, 87.	'Who kill'd John Keats?' 237.
Translation from Horace, 88.	Windsor Poetics, 228.
Translation from the Medea of Euripides, 111.	Woman, To, 97.
Translation from Vittorelli, 195.	Would you go to the House by the true gate
Translation of a Romaic Love Song, 172. Translation of the Epitaph on Virgil and Tibul-	236.
	'You ask for a "Volume of Nonsense," '236
lus, 87. Translation of the Famous Greek War Song,	Youthful Friend, To a, 153
Δεῦτε παίδες τῶν Ἑλλήνων, 161.	'Youth, Nature, and relenting Jove,' 225.
Translation of the Romaic Song, Mnérw µer' rò	Young Lady, Lines addressed to a, 99.
περιβέλι, 'Ωραιοτάτη Χαηδή, κ τ. λ, 162.	Young Lady, On the Death of a, 84.